Judge threatens to pull plug on media

■ Judge in O.J. Simpson case to allow most evidence seized from car, mansion, complains of erroneous news leaks.

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — The judge in the O.J. Simpson case Friday angrily threatened to pull the plug on TV coverage of the trial, complaining of what he called erroneous news leaks.

Later in the hearing, Superior Court Judge Lance Ito said he would allow most of the evidence seized in a search of Simpson's car and mansion, including videos and a note from his ex-wife breaking off nearly all contact with him.

That was a blow to the defense, which wanted the evidence thrown out on the grounds it was beyond the scope of the search warrant.

The hearing began with Ito rebuking KNBC-TV for what he and the prosecution called an inaccurate report that DNA testing found Nicole Brown Simpson's blood on socks at Simpson's house.

"I am contemplating terminating the media coverage in this case," Ito said.

Later, after consulting with the judge for clarification, court spokeswoman Marcia Skolnick said his remarks were directed at all broadcast media, not just KNBC. The judge has the authority to ban television in his courtroom.

Ito scheduled a hearing for next week to decide on a broadcast ban.

The said the KNBC report could "pollute" the pool of prospective jurors.

Odessan gets 30-year term for attempted rape, burglary

By Gary Shanks
Staff Writer

A man convicted of breaking into a 32-year-old woman's house in north Midland and attempting to rape her in August 1992 was sentenced to 30 years in prison by 238th District Judge John Hyde.

David Paul Via, 31, of Odessa, had been living with his sister, the victim's next door neighbor, at the time of the crime.

Via maintained his innocence even after the jury convicted him on Sept. 16 after only 30 minutes of deliberation. He was found guilty of burglary of a habitation with intent to commit sexual assault.

When he took the stand before being sentenced, Via said he had turned down a plea bargain of 10 years in prison in favor of allowing a jury trial.

Via had elected to allow the judge to decide punishment instead of the jury.

"I believe, and she (the victim) believes, justice has been done," assistant District Attorney Teresa Clingman said after the trial.

No sentence, however, can restore the victim's loss, Ms. Clingman said.

During pre-sentencing testimony, Via's employer said he was an ideal em-

Dallas turns into cowtown after trailer overturns

By Pauline Arrillaga
Associated Press

DALLAS — Who says Dallas isn't a cowtown?

The city that has endeavored to be recognized for cattle drives as much as J.R. Ewing and oil may have gotten its wish.

Residents got a ringside — or in this case roadside — seat on Friday to a Dallas-style, rush-hour rodeo when nearly 100 cattle roamed downtown after a trailer overturned.

Sheriff's deputies on horseback and armed with lassos instead of guns were called out to round up the cattle, which roamed miles from the accident scene. Some were spotted near a downtown hospital. Others wandered into Fair Park, home of the State Fair of Texas.

One animal, cornered by sheriff's deputies at the Music Hall at Fair Park, burst through an 8-by-6-foot plate glass

U.S., Mexican courts to decide if baby boy was snatched from mother's womb

By Josh Lemieux
Associated Press

BROWNSVILLE — Laura Lugo was expecting a routine prenatal exam. Instead, she says the doctor drugged her and performed a Caesarean section.

"I heard the baby cry, but I never saw him," she said.

Ms. Lugo claims that two conniving sisters won her friendship, then lured her to a clinic just across the Mexican border and snatched her child from her uterus without her consent.

Two years later, Ms. Lugo is moving closer to gaining custody of the boy. But there is another woman who claims to be his biological mother: Paulyna Botello, who raised him until recently.

As U.S. and Mexican courts wade into a tale worthy of the biblical King Solomon, the boy remains in foster care. At issue is whether he was kidnapped or given away in an under-the-table adoption gone awry.

On Thursday, state Judge Robert F. Barnes declared Ms. Lugo the mother, based on DNA tests indicating a 99.11 per-

Bingo halls thrive amid IRA cease-fire

By James F. Clarity
N.Y. Times News Service

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Three weeks after the start of the Irish Republican Army cease-fire, the signs of peace in Belfast are as easy to find as the New Vic Bingo Hall downtown.

Vera Gormley, who sells betting cards there, says the cease-fire is encouraging more and more people to come into the bingo hall at night to improve their luck now that it seems unlikely that IRA bombs will still be exploding from time to time next door at the Grand Opera House.

"The old folks are coming out at night again," said Mrs. Gormley. "They wouldn't come when the bombs went off. They ran out of here. Now we're seeing faces we haven't seen in years."

The bingo surge is one of the early signs that the people of Belfast are adjusting well and quickly to the disappearance of IRA bombings and shootings.

The Protestant paramilitaries have continued sporadic attacks on Catholics in the predominantly Protestant British province of Ulster, but in Belfast, there is a palpable sense of relief.

Ordinary people wonder how peace will affect them, if a peace economy will hurt civilians who benefited from the guerrilla-war economy; politicians concentrate on the war of words instead of the daily atrocities of the sectarian guerrilla war that has killed 3,170 people since 1969.

Taxi drivers say they no longer sit idle on Saturdays, but are busy with shoppers coming to town on weekends for the first time in years. The fashionable Culloden Hotel, in the eastern suburbs, now permits cars and cabs to pull up to the front door, no longer stopping them outside a high steel gate.

Checkpoints with police and soldiers have virtually disappeared from the streets. The reduced number of soldiers on patrol now wear regimental berets and ribboned caps.

American troops fan out in streets of Port-au-Prince

■ Special Forces teams ride helicopters into Haitian countryside, Haitian soldiers worry about their leaders, future.

Associated Press

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — U.S. soldiers aboard machine-gun equipped Humvee jeeps moved Friday into the streets of Haiti's capital, where some American military police, in full combat gear, began directing traffic.

U.S. Special Forces teams headed into the countryside by helicopter.

The rapid consolidation of power by American forces has set off grumbling among lower-ranking Haitian troops who fear being abandoned by their leaders. In the four days since U.S. soldiers first landed in Haiti, they have seized Port-au-Prince's international airport, the seaport, the military airfield and the sole heavy weapons depot.

In keeping with an accord reached Sunday by Haitian army leader Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras and a U.S. delegation led by former President Jimmy Carter, Haitian forces relinquished the sites peacefully.

"What is Cedras doing to us," one soldier was heard asking another over an army radio frequency. "He gave them the airport, the port, the heavy weapons. What next?"

With the probability of losing their jobs — exiled President Jean-Bertrand Aristide has announced plans to reduce the army from 7,500 to 1,500 troops — and the possibility of being attacked by Haitians seeking vengeance after years of repression, Haitian soldiers are worried about their future.

Haitians opposed to their military dictators, on the other hand, are becoming bolder, heartened by the expanding presence of American soldiers. About 15,000 are expected to be here when the deployment is completed.

■ HAITI UPDATE: Call Cityline, 560-2400, enter 6201

The editor of Libete, Haiti's most influential newspaper and a defender of the poor, said it would resume publication after shutting down earlier this month because of death threats and other harassment. The Creole-language weekly is being prepared for the presses "even if there's still danger," editor Jean-Yves Urfie told The Associated Press.

Anticipating a U.S. invasion, which was called off at the last minute because of Sunday's accord, Haitian soldiers have stashed away thousands of assault rifles, pistols and grenades to be used in a terrorist war against American forces and pro-democracy Haitians, a source close to the Haitian military said Friday.

The plan has been put on hold, said the source, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

But there is no panic evident yet among the ranks. Some army-backed gunmen, known as attaches, said they were confident that Aristide wouldn't return to Haiti, despite President Clinton's pledge to restore him to power.

Aristide's supporters think otherwise.

In the north coast town of Cap-Haitien, a series of spontaneous pro-Aristide demonstrations broke out Friday. Hundreds, sometimes thousands of people sang and danced through the streets, chanting songs about how things will be better when Aristide, known affectionately as 'Titid,' is back.

"No more attaches, no more policemen beating us when Aristide returns," demonstrators chanted.

Morales calls on challenger to resign post as state judge

AUSTIN (AP) — State Attorney General Dan Morales called on GOP challenger Don Wittig to resign his post as a state judge Friday if he wants to continue the race, citing campaign contributions the Republican has received.

Morales, a Democrat, said in an interview with The Associated Press that more than half of Wittig's political donations have come from lawyers with active cases pending in his Houston court.

"I don't think it's appropriate for a judge to take money from lawyers who have cases in his court when he's trying to run for something else," Morales said. "I think that what the public sees is a judge shaking down the lawyers in his courtroom, and I really don't believe that Texans like that sort of thing going on.

"I believe that the judicial code of ethics require that Judge Wittig resign if he wants to continue this campaign," he said.

Wittig called Morales' suggestion that he resign "ridiculous" and said he has violated no ethical rules.

"I have never received one dollar of contributions when I had a decision pending," Wittig said. He said he didn't know the "exact figures" on his contributions from lawyers who practice before his court.

Wittig added that he got lawyers' approval as the preferred candidate in a Houston bar poll.

"I think this is the cry of a scared professional politician," Wittig said.

He also criticized Morales, saying the incumbent has received contributions from law firms that receive money from the state for assisting on cases.

CASE: Judge threatens to stop O.J. trial broadcast the prosecution, too, because it may raise expectations among prospective jurors that can't be met at trial.

The defense suggested the Police Department was releasing information to prevent a fair trial. Hours later, the LAPD announced it already was conducting an internal affairs investigation into possible leaks and has tightened controls on information in the case.

The report was first broadcast on Wednesday and was repeated on Thursday after the judge first rebuked the station. KNBC said in a statement Friday that it would take up the issue directly with the judge, adding, "We share Judge Ito's concern that the facts of this case be reported accurately."

Deputy District Attorney Marcia Clark denied the prosecution was responsible for the leak and said she shared Ito's outrage.

Simpson's lawyers suggested the Police Department was the source of what defense attorney Robert Shapiro called "a deliberate, calculated and manipulated" effort to deprive Simpson of a fair trial.

The LAPD said it began an internal investigation on Thursday to determine whether the news leak came from within the department.

All documents from outside laboratories conducting tests in the case will now be sent directly to Ito, and distribution of the reports will be at the judge's direction, the department said in a statement.

The trial begins Monday with jury selection. Opening statements probably won't begin until November.

Simpson, 47, is charged with murder in the June 12 stabbing deaths of Ms. Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman.

The case has set off a worldwide blitz of publicity, and the trial is expected to be one of the most-watched in U.S. history.

"Choking media coverage at this point will not end the flood of leaked information landing in the laps of reporters," said Reginald Stuart, president of the Society of Professional Journalists. "It would only hurt public confidence in the judicial process in general and this highly visible case specifically."

On the evidence, prosecutors won access to virtually everything they wanted, including a video of "Frogmen," a never-aired TV movie in which Simpson stars as a former Navy SEAL who turns to private security work.

Police said they seized the movie because they believed Simpson prepared for the role by learning how to kill with a knife.

The judge also allowed caps, shirts and photographs found in Simpson's bedroom as well as a note Ms. Simpson had given Simpson along with videos of their wedding and of the birth of their daughter.

Police said the note — in which Ms. Simpson told her ex-husband she didn't want to talk to him anymore except in an emergency — offered a possible motive for the slaying.

Ito also upheld the seizure of Simpson's Ford Bronco from a street outside his home. However, he has yet to rule on a challenge to later searches of the vehicle. The hearing on evidence is to resume Wednesday.

The only items Ito threw out from the June 28 search were Simpson's divorce papers, a notepad containing phone numbers and a video called "Ode to O.J.," on Simpson's football career.

Defense attorney Gerald Uelmen had claimed the search was overly broad, and therefore the evidence should not be allowed at trial. But Ito said the seizure of the items was justified by officers' knowledge of details of the case.

Earlier this week the judge allowed all items seized during the first search of Simpson's mansion, the day after the slayings. Those items included blood from the foyer and bathroom.

CUSTODY: Woman claims child was stolen at birth cent probability that the child is hers. Barnes also said Ms. Lugo can continue her weekly visits with the boy.

Barnes has yet to rule on Ms. Lugo's request for custody. He's waiting for results of more DNA tests demanded by Ms. Botello's lawyers.

Ms. Botello, 33, and her sister, Rosa, are wanted in Mexico on child abduction charges. They have not been charged in the United States. Paulyna Botello is in jail pending a Sept. 29 extradition hearing. U.S. authorities consider Rosa Botello a fugitive.

Ms. Lugo, 27, said she has seen her son just twice since his birth. She plans to rename him Jorge Daniel if she gains custody, and is preparing to explain the whole story to him someday.

"It's going to be difficult for him," she said. "Everybody will always be pointing fingers at him. Me being the kind of person I am, I will never hide it from him."

Ms. Lugo and Ms. Botello — Mexican citizens living legally in Brownsville — each claim they gave birth to the boy in September 1992.

Ms. Lugo said the Botello sisters befriended her during her pregnancy in order to steal her baby.

One day when she was near term, Ms. Lugo said, the sisters invited her to go with them to a clinic in Matamoros, across the Rio Grande from Brownsville. She agreed when they promised to stop at Wal-Mart on the way.

She thought that she and Paulyna Botello, who had been wearing maternity clothes for a few months, were going to get a checkup.

As she slipped into unconsciousness at the clinic, Ms. Lugo said, she realized that the doctor was preparing to perform a C-section.

Unable to resist, she awoke to find her abdomen scarred and her fetus gone. Nurses later told her that Rosa Botello had taken the baby, Ms. Lugo said.

The Botellos say Ms. Lugo is lying.

Paulyna Botello is the biological mother of the child now known as Rafael Olvera Jr., according to her lawyer, Felix Recio. He said Ms. Lugo traded her baby to Rosa Botello in exchange for payment of her bill at the clinic — then changed her mind about the swap later.

Extradition papers filed by the Mexican government include a consent form — signed by Ms. Lugo — giving Rosa Botello permission to take the baby from the clinic. Ms. Lugo says she was drugged when she signed it.

Nine days after her Caesarean, Ms. Lugo told police that the Botellos "misunderstood my intentions."

"I never said 'no' to them," she said, "but I never said 'yes' to them, either."

CATTLE: Dallas turns cowtown after trailer overturns window, skittered through the building, then jumped out another window before authorities lassoed it to the ground.

"As they were about to apprehend the cow, the cow started running left and then right real fast and hit his nose up against the glass, then took a few steps back and just dived through," said Tony Jackson, chief of security for the music hall, who was standing inside the building when the frightened animal made its entry.

"She came through the window — just leaped right through it — and then ran all the way through the music hall to the other entrance," said Jack Moore, music hall chef. "The first thing I thought was, I can see it on my buffet table."

John O'Brien, chief engineer for the building, summed up the wacky sight: "Only in Texas."

The wreck occurred about 4 a.m. near the merge of Interstate 35 and Interstate 30, said Sgt. Jeff Teurman of the Dallas County Sheriff's Department.

Teurman said it appeared the truck driver had gotten in the wrong lane at the highways' intersection, then overcompensated as he tried to change lanes.

The vehicle toppled over, sending 110 cattle sprawling into the highway. Sixteen cattle were killed in the truck, another two were hit by cars, and the rest escaped, Teurman said. The driver was not injured.

Authorities had captured all but about 20 cattle by Friday afternoon. They were held in pens at a sheriff's station while an insurance agent for MTB Trucking Lines inspected them. Teurman said the cattle would be released to continue their journey from Toyavale, in southwest Texas, to Ashdown, Ark.

Teurman did not know how many of the animals would have to be euthanized.

Rush-hour traffic was snarled as authorities closed off eastbound Interstate 30 for about half a mile from 4 a.m. until noon.

Authorities asked radio stations to broadcast warnings to motorists that "there are cattle all over downtown Dallas." No other accidents were reported because of the stampede.

The cattle spill was the second in two months in Dallas. On Aug. 11, a trailer carrying 75 cattle overturned during rush hour on a highway north of the city. Eleven of the animals died; the others were captured.

Friday's spill caused no permanent damage.

As for the music hall, O'Brien said the broken windows would be repaired on Friday in time for the next scheduled production — a performance by the Fort Worth Dallas Ballet on Sunday that includes a piece titled, "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue."

PRISON: Man receives 30 years for attempted rape

ployee and would hire him back at any time.

Other testimony indicates that since the incident, Via had stopped using alcohol and drugs and was awaiting the birth of his and his common-law wife's first child.

After hearing evidence presented by the prosecutor and defense attorney, Hyde believed an extended prison term was appropriate because of Via's extensive criminal history and the victim's testimony of the emotional impact the attack has made in her life.

"I don't work late . . . I no longer go anywhere and I've gained about 40 pounds," she said, testifying to lasting damage from the attempted rape.

She said she sits at home with the lights off much of the time, constantly checking doors to make sure they're locked.

"My son thinks I'm silly most of the time. He makes a lot of jokes about living in the dark and being a vampire," she said.

When a person no longer feels safe in their own home, she said, "you live in a state of being uncomfortable a lot of the time."

Via's family erupted emotionally, following the judge's pronouncement of sentence. Holding his highly overwrought wife, Via's father yelled at the victim, "You happy now!"

A court bailiff silenced the father and threatened to throw him out of court. The victim remained impassive during the outbursts.

The victim had testified during the trial that she spent a harrowing hour, trapped in her bedroom by Via, memorizing his features so she could positively identify him to the police.

TV news station stands by Simpson story

LOS ANGELES (NYT) — In the face of harsh criticism from the judge in the O.J. Simpson case, the news department at KNBC-TV (Channel 4) stood firm, refusing to back down from a story the judge and attorneys called false and irresponsible.

Judge Lance Ito upbraided the station Friday for the second day in a row over its report that DNA testing found Nicole Brown Simpson's blood on socks found at O.J. Simpson's home.

"I am very concerned because this news operation was put on notice yesterday that this was incorrect information," Ito said. "They have chosen not only to republish it but to embellish upon it, and this is fundamentally unfair. It is also fundamentally wrong."

The judge said he would conduct a hearing next week to determine whether KNBC reporters should be barred from the courthouse — and whether all camera coverage of court proceedings in the trial should be eliminated.

In a statement Friday afternoon, KNBC said it would be "responding directly to Judge Ito regarding the issues that he raised in court today."

"We share Judge Ito's concern that the facts of this case be reported accurately, and we have reported accurately the information our sources have told us, just as we have reported accurately what happened in court today. We will continue to follow this story," the statement said.

It took the better part of the day for the station to draft its statement, leading to several awkward moments on the air for reporters and anchors covering the Simpson story.

Houston grandmother says she holds $41.7 million lotto ticket

HOUSTON (AP) — A 64-year-old registered nurse says she's holding the only winning ticket from Wednesday's $41.7 million Texas Lotto drawing.

Lottery officials wouldn't confirm Friday that Jean Graham of Houston was the big winner.

But she says she picked the winning numbers — 7, 10, 16, 17, 23 and 47 — in Wednesday's drawing by picking family members' birthdays and the number of years she has been married, minus one.

Mrs. Graham says she isn't too worried about how to spend her loot. She's more concerned about collecting it.

"I'm thinking, 'Am I going to live to collect? I am so excited!'" she said.

If she does have the winning numbers, Mrs. Graham's $41.7 million would be the largest amount for one person since the game began nearly two years ago. The previous record was $41.5 million, paid to Houston bus driver Wanda Wilson after the Feb. 23 drawing.

But lottery officials must first confirm that Mrs. Graham purchased the winning ticket, which must be brought to the Austin Lotto office before officials will verify the winner's identity.

Lottery spokesman Keith Elkins said Friday that someone in Houston passed preliminary procedures for ticket verification, but wouldn't identify the person.

Elkins said he's been told that the person who passed the Houston procedures was on the way to Austin for final verification. If the ticket passes, lottery officials plan to announce the winner at a Monday news conference.

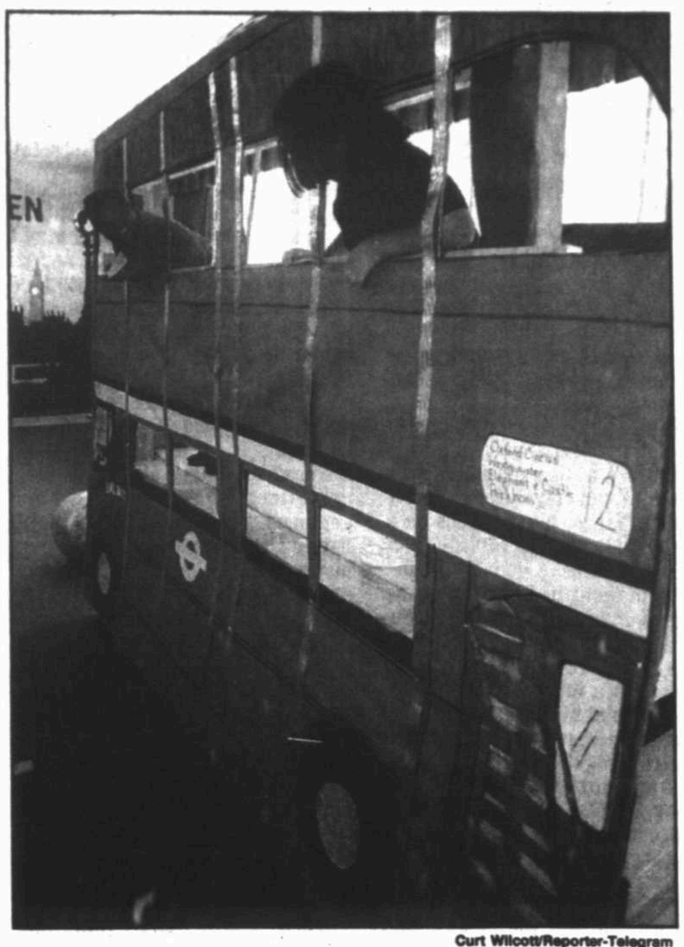

If she is the big winner, Mrs. Graham might be the luckiest Lotto player yet. She says she also picked five of six numbers correctly on a second ticket. That ticket, along with 300 others purchased for the drawing, is worth $1,722.

The grandmother of five said she plans to split her winnings with her daughter from Houston and a son in Minnesota. The three had a previous agreement that they would split the money evenly if any ever won.

"We can still count on winning the Minnesota lottery," Mrs. Graham said.

Mrs. Graham said she didn't even bothered to check the Lotto numbers before going to bed Wednesday night. After making breakfast for herself and her husband, Burnie, Thursday morning, she checked the newspaper.

"I said, 'Oh my God, Burnie, we won the lottery.' Needless to say, our breakfast went out to the dog," she said.

Average Haitians focus on trying to stay alive

By Mort Rosenblum
AP special correspondent

GONAIVES, Haiti — The kids in line at Bon Berger School are not thinking about U.S. troops or a president in waiting or generals who won't go. Clutching their enameled bowls, they want lunch.

In this falling-down port city at the heart of Haiti, and all across a destitute nation plumbing new depths of poverty after a three-year embargo, people focus on a single goal: staying alive.

Nixon Stetus, aged 3, is just about making it. Each noon, he toddles up to the black kettles under a banana tree for a dollop of thick gruel. He wolfs down most and saves a little for his family.

All around him, telltale carrot-colored hair and protruding bellies reveal deficiencies, parasites and diseases that cut short young lives. Sunken-cheeked adults look hardly better.

"For most, our feeding program provides the only meal they get," said Chris Sykes of CARE, which is the largest employer in a city of 70,000. Its payroll is only 400 people.

CARE reaches 300,000 children in Gonaives and elsewhere in Haiti's northwest. Since last year, new centers hand out emergency rations of grain and cooking oil to another 320,000 people.

Altogether, voluntary agencies feed 1 million of Haiti's 7 million inhabitants. U.S. officers list humanitarian aid as a main goal of Operation Uphold Democracy, but little has yet been planned.

"There is some confusion," said Tom Friedeberg, CARE director in Haiti, who began his first meetings with U.S. generals on Thursday. "I don't think anyone is quite sure of what should be done."

Gonaives, a crucible of political ferment since African slaves declared independence from France here in 1804, is where the insurrection against the Duvalier dynasty began a decade ago.

In April this year, soldiers surrounded the fetid slum of Raboteau and massacred at least 30 people believed loyal to exiled President Jean-Bertrand Aristide.

Today, Gonaives is a living ghost town, its spirit broken. Unemployment may be 95 percent, but no municipal workers are left to make an assessment. Business is done on rickety tables in the street.

When word came that the Americans might actually invade, the deputy commander of the region slipped into jeans and a sport shirt and exchanged the army tags on his jeep for civilian license plates.

Outside of town, the 400 kids at Bon Berger, aged 3 to 16, are a microcosm of Haiti's anguish.

Hutu army may regroup for new offensive, U.N. says

GOMA, Zaire (AP) — The United Nations believes the exiled Hutu army is planning an offensive into Rwanda before its soldiers are forced to move away from the Zairian border, U.N. sources say.

Hutu military leaders reportedly planned the limited military offensive after being pressured to move from the Mugunga refugee camp, 13 miles from the Zaire-Rwanda border, to a camp at least 100 miles inside Zaire.

The information, contained in a report to the U.N. headquarters in Geneva, was described to The Associated Press on Friday by sources familiar with the report.

The offensive, from both Zaire and Tanzania, could take place as early as the first week of October, according to the report.

U.N. sources said the evidence has raised serious concern of another round of bloodletting in Rwanda, where at least 500,000 people died in widespread massacres and civil war earlier this year. They did not describe the evidence of the impending attack.

Earlier this month, a U.N. report said the exiled Hutu leadership was making "classic preparations for guerrilla war."

"Military-aged males, along with large supplies of rations, water and arms have been observed coming across the borders of Zaire and Burundi," the earlier report said.

U.N. sources said they believe the exiled Hutu army smuggled arms and ammunition into Zaire after losing control of Rwanda to Tutsi-led rebels in July.

The Mugunga refugee camp, unofficial headquarters of the exiled Hutu military, is home to 230,000 Hutu refugees, including an estimated 20,000 to 30,000 Hutu soldiers and 50,000 Hutu militiamen.

Relief officials say Hutu soldiers are terrorizing refugees in the camps who talk of going home and have urged that the soldiers be moved to a new camp away from civilian refugees.

U.N. sources said the soldiers apparently want to carry out the attack before they are moved too far from the Rwandan border. They did not say how many soldiers they thought might be involved in a possible attack, but said some have already left the camps.

Paul Kagame, vice president and defense minister of the new Tutsi-led government in Rwanda, said there is evidence that fighters loyal to the defeated Hutu regime are crossing back into Rwanda. Hutu soldiers and militiamen "have been moving freely around" southwestern Rwanda, he said.

Singapore executes Dutch engineer on drug charges

SINGAPORE (NYT) — A Dutch-born engineer was hanged here Friday on narcotics charges, the first Westerner to be executed under Singapore's draconian drug laws.

The Singapore authorities carried out the execution of the engineer, Johannes Van Damme, 59, despite appeals from Queen Beatrix of the Netherlands and from the Dutch foreign ministry, and despite reports linking Van Damme to the Dutch intelligence agency.

In a statement Friday, the Dutch foreign ministry said the government was "greatly disappointed and appalled to learn of the execution."

The hanging, which took place at dawn at Changi prison, sent a chill through Singapore's large community of Western expatriates, many of whom were already alarmed by the recent caning of an American teenager and the arrest last month of an American businessman on assault charges.

Van Damme was arrested at Singapore airport in September 1991 after the police found 9.5 pounds of heroin hidden in his suitcase. He was taken into custody shortly after he arrived from Thailand, a major shipment point for narcotics, in transit to a flight to Athens.

Van Damme, a resident of Nigeria since 1976, said that he had been set up by a Nigerian criminal operation that he had exposed to the Dutch intelligence agency.

His assertion of innocence seemed to gain some credibility after the Dutch foreign ministry confirmed earlier this month that Van Damme had been in contact with the intelligence agency just before his arrest in Singapore.

The exact nature of those contacts was not disclosed, however, and Dutch officials said they did not directly involve the drug charges in Singapore.

Van Damme, who was married to a Nigerian, said that he had been carrying the bag for a Nigerian engineer, and that he had not known what was inside. Nigerian drug operations reportedly control much of the heroin trafficking in Southeast Asia.

Singapore has executed scores of people, including many foreigners from other Asian countries, under a 1975 drug law that mandates capital punishment for possession of as little as a half an ounce of heroin.

Van Damme was the first Westerner to be executed under the law, and the timing of his execution alarmed some Westerners here who worry that the Singapore government is on a vendetta against them.

Last May, an American teenager, Michael P. Fay, received four lashes with a bamboo cane after he confessed to charges of spray-painting cars. He later said he confessed under duress of nine days of police interrogation.

U.S. resumes nuclear talks with N. Korea

GENEVA (AP) — North Korea and the United States began anew Friday to thrash out an agreement to avert any nuclear weapons threat on the Korean peninsula.

American experts believe the communist nation already has produced at least one nuclear weapon. North Korea maintains its nuclear program is peaceful.

The discussions, scheduled to last about a week, are focused on whether North Korea will open two sites to international inspection. The West suspects they are nuclear waste dumps; the North claims they are military facilities.

The two sides decided after over six hours of talks in Geneva that they would continue discussions in a working group today. This indicated that they had found at least one issue on which they might be nearing agreement, said one official close to the talks.

American experts believe communist nation already has at least one nuclear weapon.

The official, who requested anonymity, said he was unable to say which issue had been identified.

North Korea served notice at the start of the talks that any attempt by the United States to push for international inspection of suspected nuclear sites would violate North Korea's sovereignty.

The official North Korean Central News Agency said such an inspection was "unthinkable" because the country "regards independence as its life and soul."

The question of international inspections to ensure that North Korea lives up to its avowed rejection of nuclear weapons is key in the talks.

In August, North Korea agreed to stay in the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty and to allow inspections of its nuclear facilities. But it has continued to balk at allowing inspections of two sites.

North Korea is allowing international inspectors access to its Yongbyon nuclear center to check on some aspects of its program, but it has consistently refused them access to a site the inspectors think may indicate the size of the country's weapons-grade plutonium stockpile.

Pyongyang also agreed in August to freeze its nuclear program. In return, the United States agreed to strengthen diplomatic links between the countries and help the North replace its graphite reactors with more modern light-water reactors, which produce less weapons-grade plutonium.

Yeltsin gives Gorbachev substantial raise in pay

■ Gorbachev's sudden new pension of 988,000 rubles is more than Yeltsin's own salary of about 646,000 rubles.

Associated Press

MOSCOW — Call it generosity. Call it a long-overdue correction. Just don't call Boris Yeltsin and Mikhail Gorbachev pals.

Without explanation or notification, Yeltsin raised his old rival's monthly pension 24,000 percent this week, hiking it from a ludicrous 4,000 rubles ($1.65) to 988,000 rubles ($409). The increase was disclosed Friday in the official Rossiiskaya Gazeta.

That's more than Yeltsin's own salary of about 646,000 rubles ($267). Could Yeltsin the president be thinking ahead to Yeltsin the pensioner?

Gorbachev's office suggests that may be so.

"This resolution is a sign of a rather delayed but conscious acknowledgment of a mistake," said Vladimir Tumarkin, a spokesman for the Gorbachev Foundation, a think-tank run by the former Soviet president. "Maybe the president is preparing the ground for his own retirement."

Gorbachev and Yeltsin may be linked forever in history as the leaders who managed the unthinkable — navigating Russia from totalitarianism to democracy. It was Gorbachev who brought Yeltsin to Moscow.

But ever since Yeltsin ripped Gorbachev for the pace of reforms and got tossed off the Soviet Politburo as a result, it's been seven years of feuding.

As the hero of resistance to the August 1991 coup attempt, Yeltsin temporarily saved Gorbachev's job. But he forced Gorbachev out of the Kremlin four months later.

He then made Gorbachev move out of his large apartment, confiscated his limousine and much of his office space, and forced him to trade in his old dacha, or country home, for a smaller one.

Gorbachev has lambasted Yeltsin's policies relentlessly. In July, he said his Kremlin successor had humiliated Russia by ordering the shelling of parliament last October and should have resigned.

Yeltsin wasn't responsible for fixing Gorbachev's pension.

A mother who's son has been infected with the highly infectious pneumonic plague waits outside a hospital before getting the boy admitted in Surat, India, just 160 miles north of the heavily populated city of Bombay Friday. Hundreds of people already have been hospitalized.

Mobs try to escape plague in India

■ Pneumonic plague is deadlier strain of 'Black Death' (bubonic plague) that ravaged 14th-century Europe.

By Sherwin Crasto
Associated Press

SURAT, India — Their faces wrapped in cloth to keep out the germs, hordes of panicked Indians mobbed bus and train stations in this western city Friday to escape a plague that has killed at least 24 people.

About 200,000 residents have fled Surat since the first plague death on Tuesday. The disease, the pneumonic plague, is a more deadly strain of the bubonic plague, or "Black Death," that ravaged 14th-century Europe.

The plague returned to India for the first time in 30 years last month when an outbreak of bubonic plague hit towns in the neighboring state of Maharashtra, spread by rats drawn by relief food sent after a 1993 earthquake.

In New Delhi, 730 miles northeast of Surat, Health Ministry officials said the pneumonic plague had killed 24 and they suspected another 20 have died of the disease. Newspaper reports Friday put the death toll as high as 70.

Newspapers reported Friday that bubonic plague had killed the first two people in Maharashtra this week. But A.N. Patil, the top official in the hard-hit Beed district, said there had been no deaths there so far.

In Surat, desperate men lit bonfires in the streets overnight to kill fleas that spread the dreaded disease from infected rats to humans. The streets were covered with white flea-killing powder.

Health workers distributed millions of antibiotic capsules and people besieged drug stores for scarce vaccines. Families carrying sick or dead relatives were showing up constantly at the city's largest hospital.

Bus and train stations were jammed with people trying to leave.

The outbreak also has worried Bombay, a city of 12.5 million people just 160 miles south of Surat. Authorities ordered all hospitals in Bombay and the four districts neighboring Surat to create wards for plague patients.

As reward, Security Council eases Yugoslavia sanctions

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council on Friday eased sanctions against Yugoslavia to reward it for shutting its border with Serb-held parts of Bosnia and imposed restrictions on Bosnian Serbs for rejecting a peace plan.

A third resolution, condemning Bosnian Serb ethnic purges against Muslim civilians, was also approved.

The vote on the 15-nation council to ease sanctions was 11-2, with 2 abstentions. The 'no' votes were cast by Djibouti and Pakistan, the abstentions by Nigeria and Rwanda. The vote on tightening sanctions was 14-0, with one abstention by China. The vote to condemn ethnic purges was unanimous.

The United Nations eased sanctions because Serbia, the dominant member of Yugoslavia, permitted border monitors to ensure that it has sealed its frontier to all but humanitarian aid and was no longer arming the Bosnian Serbs.

The resolution will not lift the full trade embargo against Belgrade, but will suspend certain sanctions for 100 days. It will permit resumption of civilian air traffic from Belgrade, the reopening of a river port and the resumption of international sporting and cultural contracts.

Trade sanctions were imposed against Yugoslavia in April 1993. An arms embargo against all the republics of former Yugoslavia was imposed earler.

Several ambassadors, speaking before the vote, said easing sanctions was sending the wrong message to the warring parties and said Yugoslavia should not be rewarded while ethnic violence was continuing and while Sarajevo was being strangled.

U.N. acts because Yugoslavia keeps war supplies away from Bosnian Serbs by tightening border.

"Serbia and Montenegro are being rewarded for a set of tactics that make it appear that it has separated from its offspring," Bosnian Ambassador Muhamed Sacirbey said. Serbia and Montenegro are the two remaining members of Yugoslavia.

Sacirbey said the resolution "rewards premature and inadequate measures."

Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic is regarded by many as the instigator of the Bosnian war in 1992, but he has recently tried to remake his image as a man of peace, hoping to get international sanctions lifted against Yugoslavia and avoid being dragged into a broadening conflict in Bosnia.

Turkey's ambassador, Inal Batu, said lifting the sanctions "will constitute yet another wrong signal to the aggressor and undermine the peace process."

A second resolution imposed financial and travel sanctions against key Bosnian Serb leaders who have repeatedly rejected an international peace plan. The plan would reduce their holding in Bosnia from 70 percent to 49 percent. The remainder of the country would be controlled by Bosnian Muslims and Croats who have reluctantly endorsed the plan.

The resolution calls for denying visas to Bosnian Serb leaders, except in connection with the peace process and freezing their bank accounts.

It also would limit economic and commercial activity with areas under control of Bosnian Serbs.

River traffic in areas controlled by the Bosnian Serbs is to be barred, except when it concerns the Bosnian Muslim-led government in Sarajevo or the United Nations.

A third draft resolution demands that Bosnian Serb authorities immediately cease their campaign of ethnic violence and provide immediate and unimpeded access to U.N. officials and the Red Cross to Banja Luka, Bijeljina and other areas under their control.

The war began when Bosnian Serbs rebelled after a vote by Muslims and Bosnian Croats to secede from Yugoslavia. An estimated 200,000 people are dead or missing.

The members of the Security Council are the United States, Russia, China, United Kingdom, France, Argentina, New Zealand, Spain, Oman, Rwanda, Pakistan, Djibouti, Czech Republic, Brazil and Nigeria.

Aristide will urge amnesty for Haitian junta, lawmakers say

■ Aristide also indicates he is ready to return to Haiti as soon as U.S. forces say it's safe.

WASHINGTON — Exiled Haitian President Jean-Bertrand Aristide will encourage his nation's parliament to consider amnesty for the military junta that ousted him, U.S. lawmakers said after meeting with Aristide on Friday.

In the hour-long session with three Senate leaders, Aristide also indicated he is ready to return to Haiti as soon as the U.S. forces there say it is safe, the senators said.

"It is enormously important to begin the reconciliation process," said Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., one of the participants in the meeting. "President Aristide reacted very positively to that point."

Aristide left without speaking to reporters.

The amnesty issue is one of several loose ends left over from last week's dramatic diplomatic mission — led by former President Carter and including Nunn and retired Gen. Colin Powell — that won a promise from the junta to yield power by Oct. 15. The agreement turned a probable U.S. invasion of Haiti into a peacekeeping mission.

But questions remain about Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras and other junta members — such as whether they will leave the country or merely leave office. And the possibility of violence among political factions in Haiti remains.

President Clinton said Friday that steps taken to rein in Haiti's police forces appear to be succeeding and that Haitian refugees from the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, would begin returning to their homeland on Monday. The State Department said there are 14,108 Haitians at Guantanamo.

"We're making good progress" in Haiti, Clinton said.

Later, Clinton called Aristide from Air Force One as he flew to Chicago for a campaign fundraiser, said a senior administration official who spoke on condition of anonymity. It was Clinton's first conversation with Aristide since Sunday and the announcement of the agreement with Haiti's military leaders to relinquish power.

Clinton told Aristide "things seem to be going well," the official said, adding that Aristide "personally expressed his deep appreciation" for the U.S. efforts on his behalf. The two discussed Aristide's intention to call the Haitian Parliament into session before Oct. 15 to consider the amnesty promised in the agreement to the Haitian junta.

The official said Aristide expressed no misgivings about U.S. policy and described him as "totally on board with what's happening." Clinton also called the U.S. ambassador to Haiti, William Swing. Lt. Gen. Hugh Shelton, commander of the U.S. operation in Haiti, also participated in that conversation.

Meanwhile, Pentagon officials said the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. John Shalikashvili, would travel to Haiti on Saturday to inspect the U.S. operation.

On Capitol Hill, during a brief photo session in the office of Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., Nunn said to Aristide, "I appreciate your words of reconciliation to your country."

Aristide then turned to Dodd, one of the leading defenders of Clinton's Haiti policy, and said, "I hope some day soon we can meet in Haiti."

"We will," Dodd replied.

In the private meeting with the senators, Aristide indicated he will encourage the democratically elected parliament to assemble in Port-au-Prince to consider amnesty, among other issues.

His visit to the Capitol signaled an effort to improve his image among lawmakers and to head off Senate and House votes next week that could set a time limit on the U.S. operation in Haiti. Dodd, a longtime acquaintance, said Aristide would be meeting with other lawmakers over the coming days.

Aristide was accompanied by his public relations advisers.

Clinics take advantage of 'loophole' in state's new abortion law

Abortion clinic uses 3-minute physician's taped message instead of live doctor telling women about abortion risks and various options.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Clinics across the state have found a loophole in Pennsylvania's new abortion law, which requires doctors to "orally" inform women of their options 24 hours in advance: The clinics have put a doctor's three-minute message on tape, enabling women simply to phone in ahead of time.

Such recordings are also used in Ohio, Nebraska, North Dakota, Utah and Kansas.

Abortion rights activists said the recordings spare some women the need to travel to a clinic twice — once for counseling, and once for the abortion.

"There are obvious advantages," said Barbara Rinto, executive director of Planned Parenthood in Cincinnati. "There are several clinics in Cincinnati but no one else for 100 miles. . . . We have people traveling from a multistate area. It eliminates the need for extra travel."

Pro-lifers in Pennsylvania say the clinics are violating the spirit, if not the letter of the state law, which went into effect in March. They have urged the state to take legal action against those clinics.

"In my opinion, if the Legislature had wanted us to do face-to-face two-trip counseling, they would have said so," said Austin Kirkbride, spokeswoman for the Women's Suburban Clinic in Paoli. "Other portions of the law are very specific in their language."

Pennsylvania's law requires doctors to inform women of their options and the risks.

Senior Deputy Attorney General Kate L. Mershimer said the state once argued that the counseling could be done by phone.

"But I don't think tape recorders were ever discussed," she said. "How is a tape going to address a woman's concerns or answer any questions?"

Mershimer said the job of challenging the use of the recordings falls to local prosecutors and the state medical board.

In North Dakota, which also requires doctors to counsel women "orally," an appeals court ruled that the law allows telephone recordings, said Kathryn Kolbert, vice president of the Center for Reproductive Law and Policy in New York.

Pro-lifers question why abortion-rights advocates, in fighting Pennsylvania's law, argued so vehemently about the burden of having to make two trips to an abortion clinic. The U.S. Supreme Court in 1992 upheld the constitutionality of Pennsylvania's 24-hour delay.

"Now they're saying, 'We'll just do this over the phone.' What kind of a burden is that?" said Michael McMonagle, spokesman for the Pro-Life Union of Southeastern Pennsylvania.

Abortion doctor faces child-porn charges

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — A prominent doctor who fought abortion restrictions is facing child-pornography charges involving pictures of his 3-year-old foster daughter.

"These are not your typical kids in the bathtub on a Saturday night type pictures," Winnebago County state's attorney Paul Logli said Friday.

He said the photographs showed the child with exposed genitalia.

Dr. Richard Ragsdale, 59, was arrested on Thursday as he picked up the film from a local photo shop. His wife, Debbie DeMars was arrested at the couple's home.

Ragsdale denounced the charges, saying a "minor family matter has been blown totally out of proportion by the state's attorney's office."

Ragsdale said that the pictures were of a dress-up game "like kids and mothers do. . . . Little girls dress up in their mom's clothes. . . . They like doing this. This is normal."

Ragsdale was charged with one count of possession of child pornography, punishable by up to three years in prison. DeMars was charged with one count of child pornography, which carries up to 15 years in prison.

Ragsdale and DeMars were released after posting $500 and $1,000 cash bonds, respectively.

The 3-year-old was taken into protective custody by the Department of Children and Family Services and the 10-year-old son of DeMars and Ragsdale was staying with relatives.

Ragsdale fought a protracted legal battle in the late 1980s to end what he believed were medically unnecessary rules at the state's abortion clinics. In 1990, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld a legal settlement in the case that eased restrictions on Illinois abortion clinics. He now runs the only private abortion clinic in northern Illinois.

Panel lets European atomic waste into U.S.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A federal appeals court ruled Friday that European nuclear waste will be allowed into this country while a lower court irons out a dispute between South Carolina and the U.S. Energy Department.

But the head of the three-judge panel also blasted the Energy Department for trying to evade environmental rules.

"It is sheer sophistry to argue, as the Department of Energy does, that we are dealing with a single, isolated shipment," Judge Donald Russell wrote.

Two ships loaded with weapons-grade uranium have been waiting in the Atlantic for a decision from the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on whether they could dock near Wilmington, N.C.

The Energy Department had argued that accepting spent fuel from research reactors in Austria, Denmark, Sweden and the Netherlands was crucial to the nation's nuclear non-proliferation policy.

South Carolina had sued to block the shipment until a detailed environmental impact study could be completed, usually a two-year process. The Energy Department has finished a less-detailed study and says the Savannah River Site is adequate for the 409 fuel elements it has promised to take.

Mom tries to smuggle dead baby on plane

NEW YORK (AP) — When an English woman heading home refused to pass through a metal detector before boarding her plane at Kennedy airport, a police officer got suspicious.

And when he ordered the slender, 30-year-old woman searched, she confessed: Under her coat was her dead daughter, born just hours before.

The medical examiner determined Friday that the baby's death was a homicide caused by suffocation.

Carolyn Beale was charged with second-degree murder and tampering with physical evidence, said police spokesman Sgt. Edward Caro.

She was admitted to Queens Hospital Center where she was under psychiatric observation. "She's stressed and in tears," hospital spokeswoman Beryl Williams said.

Beale was being held overnight at the hospital and would face an arraignment some time this weekend.

Beale told investigators that she gave birth at full term in a Manhattan hotel around 1 a.m. Thursday, then placed the infant in several plastic bags, de Bourbon said.

The sad chain of events began Sept. 15, when the woman and three men, also English, checked into the hotel, where they shared a room.

At 7:25 p.m. Thursday, Beale was alone at a boarding gate in the Air India terminal at the airport when she told a security guard she did not want to pass through the metal detector because she was pregnant.

Port Authority Police Officer Alex Velez, a five-year veteran, became suspicious and "thought something was under her coat." Velez asked the security officer to search her with a hand-held detector.

At that point, the woman told the officers a dead baby was in the bag under her coat.

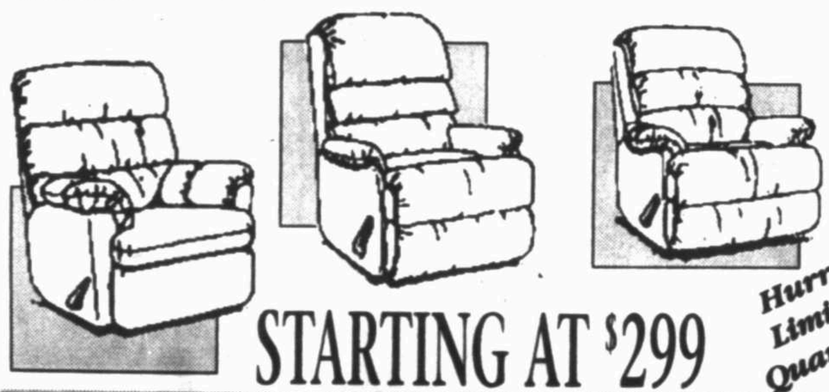

Investigators had no motive for why the woman might have wanted the baby dead, or why she wanted to bring the body home with her.

FBI begins nationwide hunt for suspected serial child molester

WASHINGTON (AP) —— The FBI Friday launched a nationwide manhunt for a suspected child molester accused of repeatedly luring young girls into his car by posing as a cheerleading coach.

Fleming

The FBI announced the search after federal charges were issued against a drifter named Phillip Dean Fleming, 45. According to reports, officials are seeking him in connection with at least two abductions in the Southeast of young girls and at least one count of sexual assault on a child.

Special Agent Laura Henry said Fleming, who sometimes uses the name Vernon Robinson, has repeatedly attempted to lure young girls into his car by posing as a cheerleading coach looking for girls to participate on his team.

Lawmen are eager to find Fleming as soon as possible because of the serial nature of the crimes. "He has a constant need to be near young girls," Henry said.

The latest abduction occurred on Sept. 12 in Oxford, Miss. The child was released in Jackson, Miss., Henry said, but Fleming could be anywhere by now.

Fleming is described as a white male, about 5 feet 7 inches tall, with brown eyes and short blond hair and a high forehead. He's missing at least one tooth, but has been known to wear a bridge. He often wears a baseball-type cap and sunglasses and has written a string of bad checks to finance his flight, officials said.

Fleming was last seen driving a 1983 Buick sedan, possibly blue or green, but may have sold it by now. He has used a series of licenses plates from all over the South and Montana. He's been spotted in Montana, Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia since this past spring.

Henry said Fleming is believed to be armed with a pistol and is considered extremely dangerous. Sightings should be reported to local police or the FBI immediately, but members of the public should not attempt to approach Fleming under any circumstances, officials said.

SIGHTINGS ALSO CAN BE REPORTED TO THE FBI DIRECTLY AT (601) 948-5000 OR TOLL FREE AT (800) 644-7449.

Coast Guard ends Cuban rafter rescue operation

MIAMI (AP) — The Coast Guard has officially ended the operation that rescued more than 31,000 Cuban refugees from the Florida Straits during the largest exodus from the island since the 1980 Mariel boatlift.

Most of the refugees plucked from homemade rafts and small boats are being detained indefinitely at the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, a camp in Panama and detention centers in Florida and Texas.

"I don't think people, at least in this community, feel the chapter is closed because those people are there in precarious conditions," said Juan Clark, a sociologist at Miami-Dade Community College.

The Coast Guard said Friday it would keep a "strong presence" in the 90 miles of water separating Florida from Cuba, even though it officially called off Operation Able Vigil the day before.

"The only thing that's ended is the name," Petty Officer Luis Diaz said. "We are still continuing to patrol the Straits of Florida. We do have aircraft and we do have patrol boats."

The Coast Guard now will be able to more evenly spread its resources among such other duties as catching drug smugglers and helping protect the environment, Diaz said.

The flow of refugees from Cuba has slowed to a trickle over the past two weeks. Eighteen people were picked up this week, including five taken from a freighter Monday off the Yucatan Peninsula.

At the peak of the exodus in late August and early September, the Coast Guard rescued between 2,000 and 3,000 refugees a day. During the 1980 Mariel boatlift, in which refugees were ferried by ocean-going boats rather than makeshift rafts, a total of 125,000 Cubans came to Florida with one-day totals well over 5,000.

More than 60 Coast Guard and Navy vessels and a half-dozen planes and helicopters patrolled the Straits, searching for Cubans fleeing on anything that floated: oil barrels, inner tubes, unseaworthy boats.

In August, more than 20,300 Cuban refugees were picked up. So far this month, 11,060 more have been rescued.

The exodus began after rioting in Havana on Aug. 5 prompted Fidel Castro to relax control of his borders. Florida Gov. Lawton Chiles declared a state of emergency Aug. 18 and pleaded with the Clinton administration for federal help.

Within hours, Attorney General Janet Reno changed the 28-year-old U.S. policy of welcoming Cuban refugees with open arms. She announced that Cubans intercepted at sea would be detained indefinitely.

U.S. and Cuban officials negotiated an agreement under which Castro pledged to prevent refugees from leaving and the United States agreed to allow 20,000 Cubans to immigrate

Panetta tolls White House staff shakeup

Press Secretary Dee Dee Myers' final-hour appeals to keep job pay off, George Stephanopoulos to have more clearly defined duties.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moving to put a sharper edge on President Clinton's message to the American people, the White House announced a major shakeup on Friday involving two dozen of its key players.

Chief of Staff Leon Panetta said the realignment, the result of a two-month review, was intended to impose discipline on the staff, end a series of embarrassing mistakes and ensure "greater focus and greater long term planning."

Panetta

As he announced the changes, Panetta himself was in an embarrassing spot: It had been widely reported that he had recommended replacement of press secretary Dee Dee Myers. She made a successful 11th hour appeal to the president Thursday night to avoid being unceremoniously brushed aside, and the staff reshuffle as announced preserved and enhanced her authority.

Myers

But Myers, 33, is known to have told friends she intends to leave the White House staff by the end of the year, no matter what.

Myers had been widely expected to be replaced by State Department spokesman Michael McCurry. However, that change was overruled by Clinton himself, said White House officials who spoke on the condition of anonymity.

"Both the president and I have full confidence in her ability to handle that role," Panetta said. He insisted he had never offered the job to anyone else. But he acknowledged that he discussed the position with McCurry.

McCurry said: "I think it's a very good choice, because Dee Dee Myers, is, in my opinion, one of the best and finest press secretaries that has worked in Washington."

The changes announced by Panetta at an afternoon White House briefing included:

■ A job swap between Small Business Administration director Erskine Bowles and Deputy White House Chief of Staff Phil Lader. As SBA director, Lader will be elevated to Cabinet status.

Bowles will be in charge of day-to-day White House operations, including access to the Oval Office. Harold Ickes is staying on as a deputy chief of staff, and was given a specific portfolio that includes the White House political, intergovernmental affairs and Cabinet liaison duties.

■ More clearly defined duties for two of Clinton's most trusted aides, George Stephanopoulos and Bruce Lindsey. Stephanopoulos was named executive assistant to Panetta for policy; Lindsey is to work as deputy White House counsel for special projects.

■ Mark Gearan will move from communications director to a new post as director of strategic planning — reporting directly to Panetta and focusing more on long-range communications strategy than day-to-day contact with the media. Panetta said confusion between Gearan and Myers over daily press responsibilities had contributed to the administration's communications troubles.

Myers will keep her press secretary title, get the new rank of assistant to the president and for the first time gain direct access to the Oval Office and the president, a major change. She will get a pay raise, from $100,000 to the range of $118,000 to $125,000, and probably the spacious and prestigious office occupied by most press secretaries in the past.

Reporters have grumbled that Myers' lack of direct access to Clinton has made the information she dispensed incomplete and at times suspect.

Efforts to reform communications fail in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress' efforts to pass the most sweeping changes in telecommunications law since 1934 unraveled Friday when key senators said they could not overcome objections from other lawmakers and powerful industry groups.

"I reluctantly announce today that we will be unable to pass comprehensive telecommunications reform legislation in this Congress," said Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C.

Hollings, as chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, serves as the gatekeeper for all telecommunications legislation in the Senate. Without his support, a telecommunications bill has little chance of passing.

The legislation, a priority of the Clinton administration, was designed to free telecommunications companies to offer consumers an array of futuristic services and devices. Backers said the measure also would deliver lower rates for local telephone and cable services.

Without a new law, telephone and cable companies will still continue making their networks capable of carrying voice, video and data in two directions. But they will have to carry out those modernizations at a slower pace; the legislation is intended to accelerate the process by allowing companies to enter new businesses.

The Senate bill faced resistance from some large phone companies and from a handful of senators who demanded substantial changes. The senators, including Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, John McCain, R-Ariz., Robert Packwood, R-Ore., and Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., have said they would not let the bill go to the floor for a vote until changes were made.

In the closing days of a session, even one senator can block a vote and kill a bill.

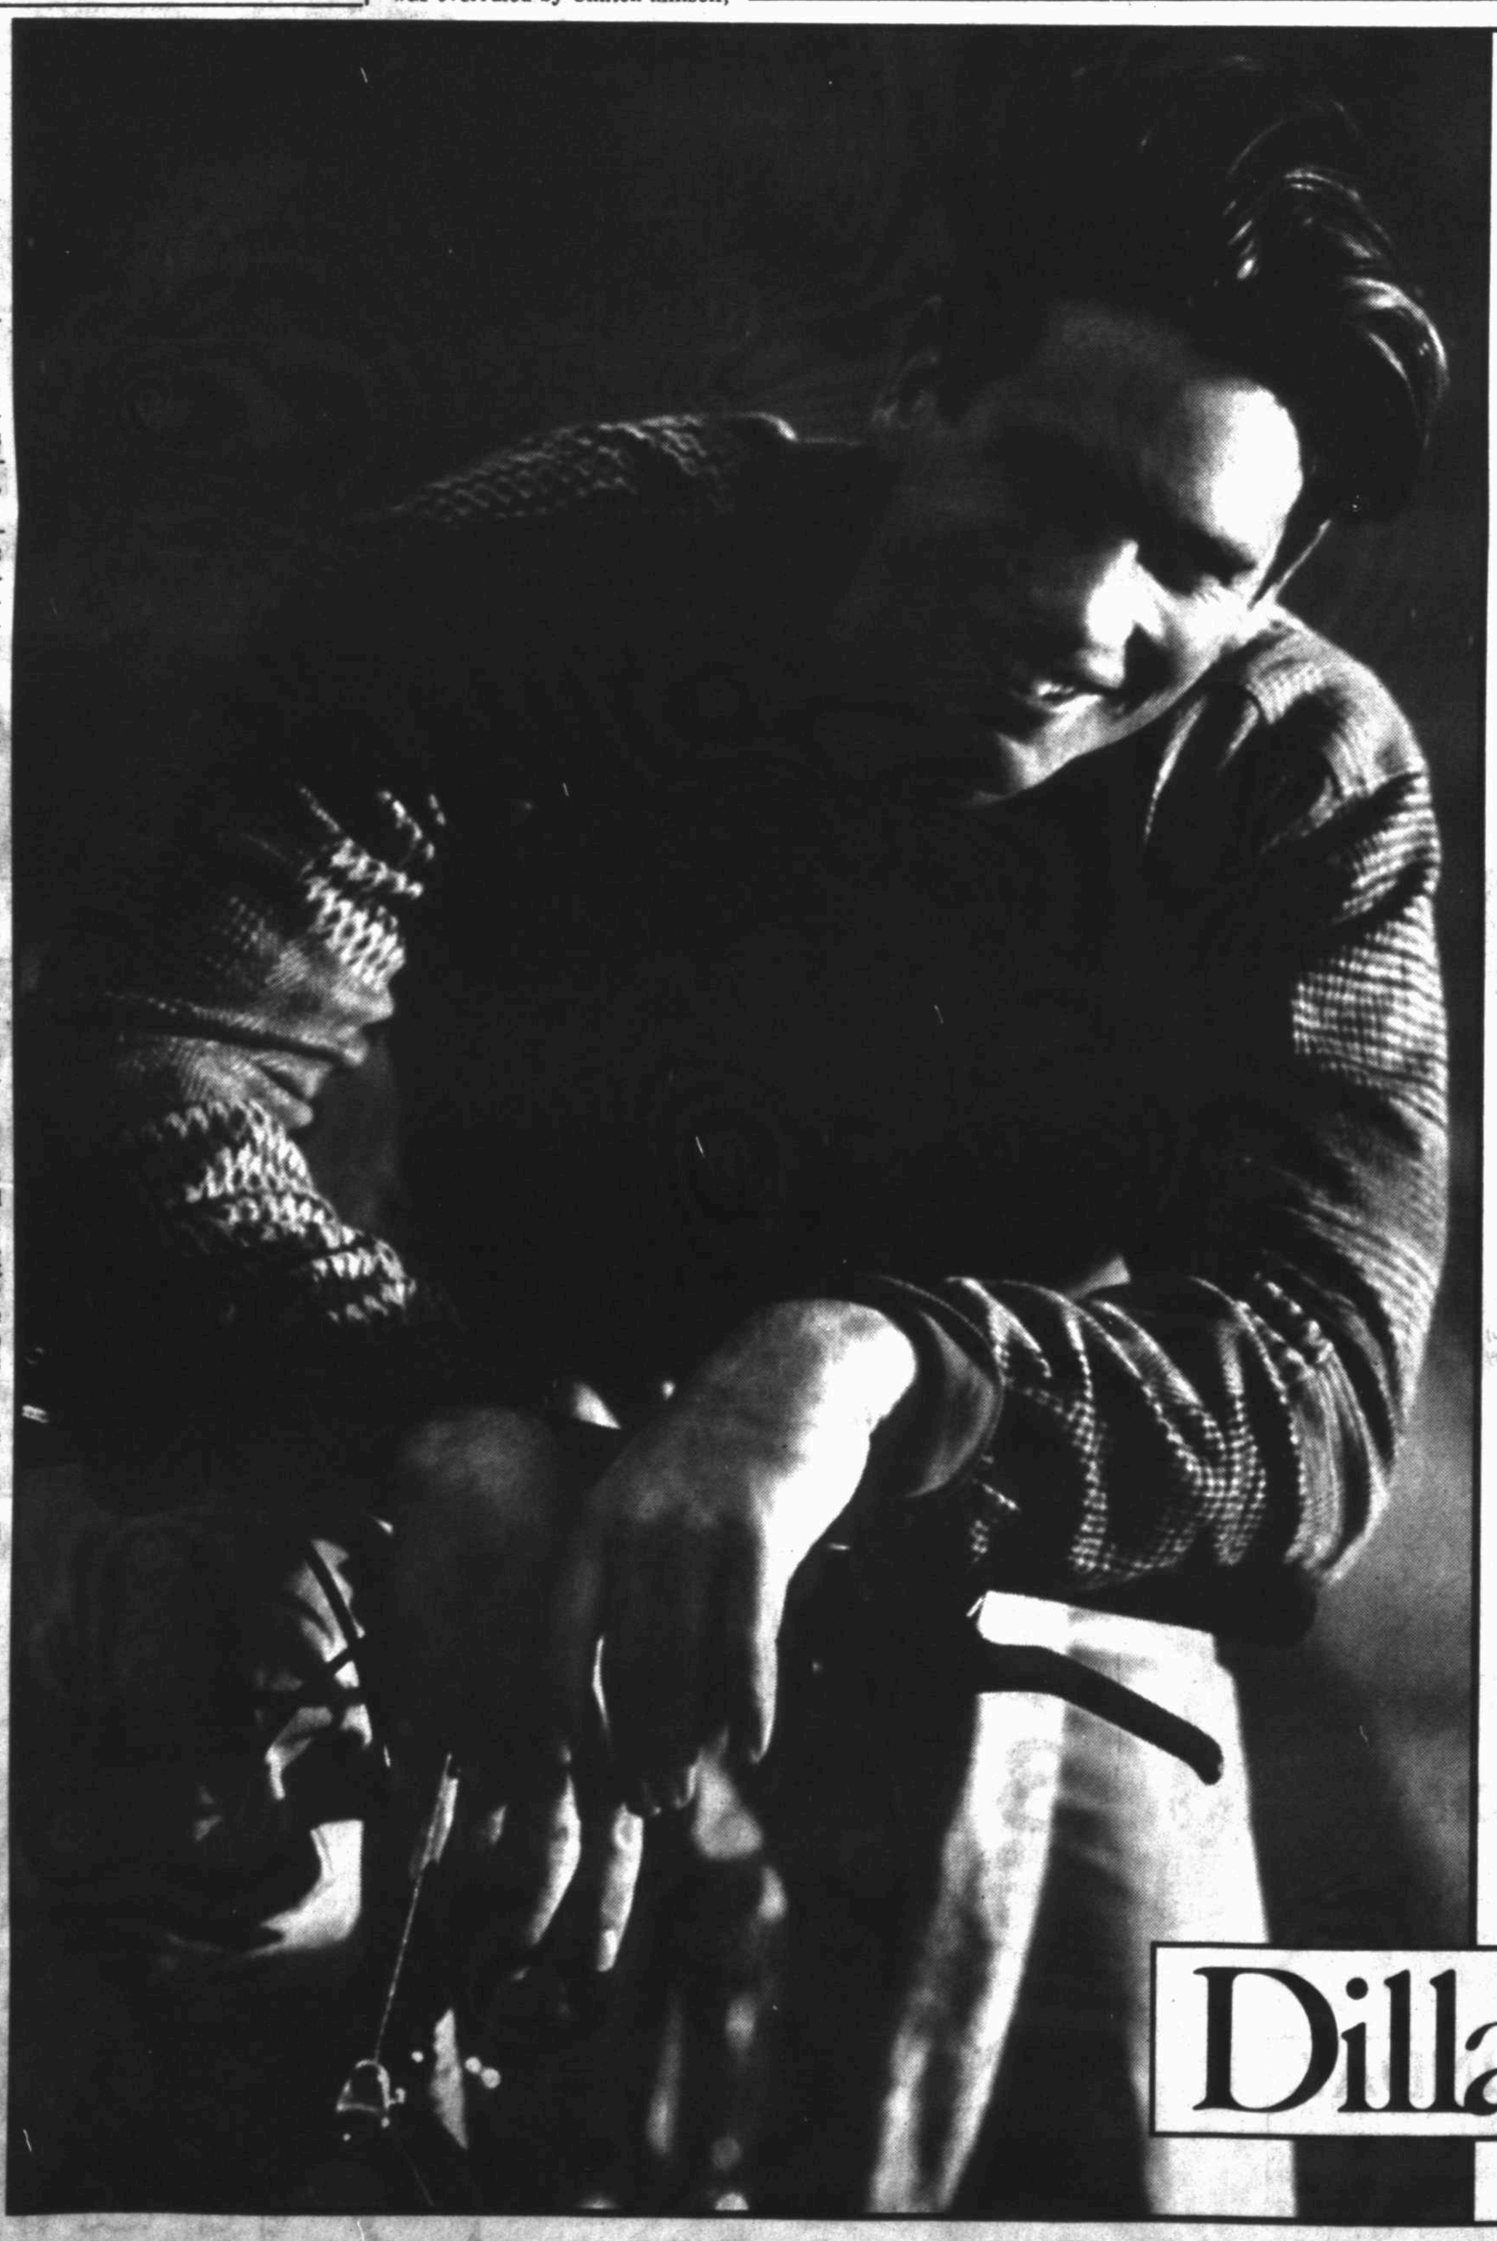

The bill would let telephone and cable companies into each others' businesses and allow regional phone companies to provide long-distance service and manufacture telecommunications equipment.

"We'd like to deregulate, not have more regulation," Dole said in an interview. He wanted a number of changes supported by the regional phone companies, but defended them as being consistent with his historical position on telecommunications policy.

Hollings called the changes nonnegotiable. He said they would have gutted much of his bill and violated a compromise he had made with the regional phone companies over their entry into the long-distance business, the most contentious provision in the legislation.

"There are too many points of controversy, it can't be passed this year," Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., a coauthor, said in an interview.

Regional companies denied backing away from the compromise. "We have scrupulously adhered to that commitment," said a statement of the MFJ Task Force, a lobbying group representing all seven regional operators — the Baby Bells.

'Quiz Show' won't let facts get in way of a good movie

By John Horn
AP Entertainment Writer

BURBANK, Calif. — Is "Quiz Show" as dishonest as the movie's scandal-plagued TV game show? That's the real $64,000 question, say critics of the acclaimed film, which admittedly plays fast and loose with the facts.

The mounting accusations against the Robert Redford-directed movie mirror charges against "Twenty-One," the rigged 1950s game show whose contestants were secretly given answers.

Specifically, both the game show and "Quiz Show" seem to dodge the truth and create clear heroes and villains for popularity's sake — more TV viewers in one case, bigger box-office in the other.

From invented dialogue to fabricated court transactions, "Quiz Show" often takes broad dramatic license. Because the film uses the names of real people (some still living) and has been positioned by its makers as a righteous statement on ethics and morality, the "Quiz Show" deviations raise provocative questions about Hollywood's conscience — or its lack of one.

"If Robert Redford had taken this movie and had changed the names, then I would have no argument," says Don Enright, whose father Dan produced "Twenty-One" and is vilified in "Quiz Show."

"But as this movie sits, it is now a half-truth, and a half-truth is the blackest of lies, because it's based on fact and it's impossible to fight."

Says Albert Freedman, Dan Enright's producing partner and a character portrayed very unfavorably in "Quiz Show": "All of my conversations (in the

Latest Sheen flick takes flight — as long as it's aloft

TERMINAL VELOCITY

By Bob Strauss
N.Y. Times News Service

LOS ANGELES — Skydiving is the arena for "Terminal Velocity," a thriller that's pretty earthbound whenever things aren't falling from great heights. A lot of sub-Hitchcockian gimmicks and star Charlie Sheen learning to deliver pseudo-snappy patter as he goes along do little to involve us in the film's flimsy web of intrigue. But if you toss enough people out of enough airplanes, any movie is bound to work some of the time.

Sheen plays a guy named Ditch. He's a rebel parachutist who enjoys wafting through restricted airspace, like between downtown high-rises. The Arizona airhead's happy life is turned, um, upside-down when a beautiful first-timer, Chris (Nastassja Kinski), jumps to her death under his tutelage.

Or does she? Chris soon pops up, eminently unsquished, to enmesh Ditch in some post-Cold War nonsense about a hijacked plane and unemployed KGB operatives turned Russian mafiosi. A romance kind of develops, even though it takes Ditch awhile to decide whether he should trust the deceptive Chris.

Which is about the only intelligent impulse the character has. But that's good, see, because otherwise Ditch wouldn't attempt such foolishly heroic stuff as driving a convertible out of a cargo hold at 40,000 feet — and the film would have even less reason to exist.

This climactic set piece, by the way, is breathtaking despite several mismatched shots and a general lack of visual persuasiveness — after the summer of "True Lies" and "Forrest Gump," it's seamless computer images or nothing, it seems. Where big trickery is involved, anyway; when "Terminal" is just about bodies free falling gracefully, director Deran Sarafian ("Gunmen") and his aerial camera crew capture a lot of balletic compositions against a lovely palette of atmosphere and rugged desert terrain.

Still, there's too much dopey plot (by David Twohy, formerly known as the "thinking man's action writer" for his work on "The Fugitive") and not enough sky stuff for "Terminal" to fake the perception that it's "Speed," vertical. Adrenalized as it sporadically is, this film spends most of its running time well in back of the bus.

Rockers on life support

Rob and Laura in separate beds? No way

Down through the years, television has asked us to buy a lot.

Soap. Cars. Tennis shoes. And dumb shows like "The Brady Bunch."

Patterson

(They are actually making a movie based on the Brady television show. For the life of me, I cannot figure why anyone would pay to live through that again.)

Anyway, I digress.

As I was saying, we have been asked to believe a great deal and because we so desperately want to be entertained, we have swallowed up most of the stuff we have been dished.

For instance ...

■ The Dick Van Dyke Show. Rob in one bed. Laura in another. Yeah, right.

■ The Mary Tyler Moore Show. Seven seasons of complete celibacy. In the '70s no less. Not likely. Then again, this is the same woman who slept in a separate bed than her first sit-com husband ...

■ The Andy Griffith Show. Most everything was believeable about this time-honored classic. Except for when Andy's pant legs would get stuck in his boots. And he would actually do nothing to fix them, walking around town with one pant leg in, one pant leg out. Looked pretty goofy for such a smart guy.

■ Gilligan's Island. A glamorous movie star, a pert little country girl, a bright professor and a manly skipper. And we're expected to believe they never once fooled around? They didn't even give each other a suggestive glance as far as I can remember. No wonder they were never rescued. They were as dumb as they looked.

■ M*A*S*H. With his wardrobe, Max Klinger would've fit in nicely on Gilligan's Island. He might have even livened up some of the castaway's personal lives, too.

■ Bonanza. Three brothers. One dad. A guy named Hop Sing. Together under one roof for 14 years and not one woman. I'm guessin' probably not. On the other hand ...

■ The Brady Bunch. Television really expects us to believe we dressed like that in the '70s? OK, OK, so we did. But this family is so utterly void of dysfunctional tendencies, they must be Dan Quayle's ancestors.

■ The Munsters. Marilyn, Herman and Lily's unassuming niece, actually shared a dark mansion with these weirdos and treated them as her equals. She was so oblivious to their eccentricities, she probably never even wondered why her Uncle Herman always wore lipstick.

■ The Addams Family. He, a wise-cracking, cigar-loving husband named Gomez, treated her, the sultry, beautiful, somber Morticia, like a queen. They never argued. She got whatever she wanted. Gomez was as loving a husband ever created and Morticia as soft-spoken, appreciative and adoring as they come. I may throw up.

■ Wonder Woman. Here's the way the synopsis reads from "The Complete Directory to Prime Time TV Shows, 1946-present": "Wonder Woman (played by Lynda Carter) came from a lost island where a band of Amazon women had fled to escape male domination by the ancient Greeks and Romans. On Paradise Island, they found a secret substance which, when molded into a golden belt, gave them superhuman strength and in golden bracelets could deflect bullets." I'm not makin' this stuff up.

■ Lassie. A dog saved the day every single week. A dog! And we ate it up for 17 seasons.

■ Flipper. A dolphin saved the day every week, but at least we only put up with this one for five years. Note: This is quite possibly the worst-acted program ever on television. The fish had more talent than Bud, Sandy and Porter.

■ Hogan's Heroes. The creators of the show tried to make Nazis funny. Nazis aren't funny. Not even when they're named Col. Klink and Sgt. Schultz.

QUIZ: Film takes several liberties movie) were fiction. ... Everything that they have me saying is fantasy."

Freedman, who says he was not consulted about the film, has threatened to sue. "I'm certainly not going to stand by and let him get away with it," he says of Redford.

Redford and screenwriter Paul Attanasio have said the fictional elements were added to make the story more dramatic and instructive. Their critics, however, say the inaccuracies destroy the film's credibility.

"I think the movie's a lot of bunk," says Jeff Kisseloff, author of the upcoming TV book "The Box," which includes a chapter on the quiz show scandal. "I was astonished. People will look at it and think it's history — and it's not. ... Robert Redford has said in interviews he doesn't believe in lying for profits. But that seems like what he's doing here.".

Retired New York Judge Joseph Stone is among the film's most knowledgeable faultfinders. Working four decades ago in New York's district attorney's office, Stone led the investigation and prosecution of the quiz shows, months before the film's investigator, Richard Goodwin, came along. Stone wrote about the affair in the book "Primetime and Misdemeanors: Investigating the 1950s Quiz Show Scandal."

"As far as I am concerned, the movie is a farce," says Stone, listing a variety of errors both large and small. He is especially bothered by the film's lionizing of Goodwin, who Stone says was a minor player in the scandal and never did half of what he is shown doing.

"The movie tries to give the aura that this is the way it happened — but it's full of baloney from beginning to end," Stone says.

But is such movie trickery so unusual?

Ask any filmmaker, and the response is the same — real life is not always interesting and rarely entertaining. Remember: Even "Schindler's List" was adapted from a novel, not a biography. Almost every other fact-based movie — from "Lawrence of Arabia" to "Gandhi" to "JFK" — builds a dramatic story on a foundation of truth, adding layers of fiction and speculation to create a more "compelling" film.

Redford and Attanasio candidly admit doing the same with "Quiz Show," which at its core is a true story.

Based on a chapter from Richard Goodwin's memoir "Remembering America," "Quiz Show" follows congressional investigator Goodwin (Rob Morrow) as he looks into the fantastically popular — and rigged — TV game shows. Coached contestant Herbert Stempel (John Turturro) helps Goodwin bring down rival contestant Charles Van Doren (Ralph Fiennes), who, like Stempel, was given quiz answers beforehand.

The film's liberties include (but are not limited to) elevating Goodwin's role in uncovering the fraud, sealing grand-jury files which in fact were given to Goodwin, mixing facts about "Twenty-One" with "The $64,000 Question," collapsing three years of events into one, and inventing dialogue between key participants.

Attanasio, who could not be contacted for this story, has said he and Redford wanted a "detective story" and had to create one because it wasn't there. Goodwin, similarly, has admitted the film is not "completely historically accurate."

Redford's publicist did not return telephone calls. Redford has said elsewhere that he used "dramatic license to make either a moral point or an ethical point and not move too far out of what could possibly have happened."

All this was done, the Oscar-winning director of "Ordinary People" said, to "elevate something so that people can see it."

It is such talk of "morality" and "ethics" that particularly angers the film's detractors.

Good and evil in a more innocent age

By Janet Maslin
N.Y. Times News Service

■ Review

The brilliantly unsettling prologue to "Quiz Show" is a seduction scene in an automobile showroom, with a shiny new Chrysler working its wiles upon a wary young man. The car promises late 1950s-style perfection, but its allure is undercut by an air of sleek unreality and a hint of danger.

The salesman looks uneasy. The car's radio mentions Sputnik. The film's soundtrack, delectably sinister, accompanies the opening credits with "Mack the Knife."

"Hey," says the customer, aptly anticipating what will follow. "I thought it used to be the man drove the car. Now the car drives the man."

Confronted by that Chrysler as a symbol of false values and misplaced optimism, the audience faces the most salient aspect of the American dream: that we had to wake up.

"Quiz Show," a supremely elegant and thoughtful parable about that awakening, transcends its narrow time frame and resonates with a piercing disillusionment that dates back to the events described here, and has not gone away.

As directed with quietly dazzling acuity by Robert Redford, "Quiz Show" offers a portrait of slipping standards, delicate lies and a sensation-loving public that may genuinely prefer such falsehoods to the truth.

"We're going to go right on watching," one fan blithely told Life magazine, even after it had been revealed that rigged quiz shows taxed contestants' acting ability instead of their much-vaunted brainpower.

Greatly surpassing the polite excellence of his past work, Redford has made a rich, handsome, articulate film about a subject truly worth talking about. He captures the full scope of a fascinating, overlooked story, also adding something of his own.

Like Clint Eastwood, Redford now takes a lifetime's worth of experience as an American icon and uses it as a mirror, reflecting the culture that chose to lionize him.

If America's daunting ideas about manhood are what Eastwood knows best, Redford understands the adoration and envy accorded its golden boys, its easy winners — including the exemplary one who is his film's fallen hero.

The nominal focus of "Quiz Show" is the patrician, erudite Charles Van Doren (Ralph Fiennes), whose string of canned victories on "Twenty-One" once riveted the nation.

He is seen in pointed contrast to the other main characters: Herbert Stempel (John Turturro), the wild-eyed, nontelegenic contestant whom he unseats; Richard Goodwin (Rob Morrow), who investigates the quiz show scandal for Congress, and Mark Van Doren (Paul Scofield), the literary lion whose reputation casts a long shadow over his son.

■ 'Quiz Show' is not currently playing in the Permian Basin.

Charlie is also contrasted with the television talent that winds up shaping his fate, including Jack Barry (Christopher MacDonald), the professionally suave host of "Twenty-One."

Glimpsing the authentically refined Charlie for the first time at NBC's offices, Barry asks amazedly: "Why would a guy like that want to be on a quiz show?"

That's the $64,000 question. The film's answer is most clear during a bravura garden party set in Connecticut, where Mark Van Doren's birthday is being celebrated by family and friends. The latter group includes Thomas Merton and Edmund Wilson (presented with perfect casualness by Redford), and the conversation runs to erudite quips and quotations from Shakespeare.

But the young women at the table are more interested in asking Charlie about Dave Garroway, the "Today" show celebrity. And everyone's ears prick up at the mention of Charlie's substantial winnings.

Charlie, enjoying a family supremacy that has not been his before, then presents his father with a television set, something the senior Van Dorens have never owned. Redford and Paul Attanasio, who wrote the perceptive screenplay, suggest just how easily a television-based culture will sweep this world away.

If Charlie is the film's supposed center, he also poses a dramatic problem. Even without knowing the facts that shape this story, viewers will sense that some figures, who either are dead or cooperated with the film makers, lend themselves to more dramatic license than the reclusive Van Doren, who has refused to talk about these events and remains out of reach.

PATTERSON: What's the deal with this June Cleaver anyway?

(From 1B)

This was bad taste.

■ Happy Days. For six seasons, Fonzie cried once and never — ever — did anything uncool. Not possible.

■ Leave it to Beaver. June Cleaver wore dresses, pearls and heels when she slaved over a hot stove everyday for the benefit of her loving husband and two adorable boys. I'm told by a co-worker this is complete fantasy. Not to mention Wally and The Beav listened to everything their parents told them. And on what planet did this happen?

■ Father Knows Best. Robert Young was the perfect dad, except he called his daughter "Kitten." Boy am I glad I missed the '50s.

N.Y. Times News Service

THE CLIENT: Susan Sarandon and Tommy Lee Jones star as dueling attorneys in the case of a young boy (Brad Renfro), who knows a mob secret but fears reprisals if he reveals it to government prosecutors. First-rate performances, Joel Schumacher's direction and a screenplay that focuses on relationships rather than a fairly thin story line make this third screen adaptation of a John Grisham thriller the best yet. PG. Rating: ★★½

COLOR OF NIGHT: Preposterous, obvious psycho-sex thriller that's funny when it acknowledges its ridiculousness and is just ridiculous when it doesn't. Bruce Willis is miscast as a psychologist whose new therapy group probably harbors a murderer. Young Jane March ("The Lover") plays the walking erotic fantasy whom he's too stupid to suspect might have something to do with the crimes. Richard Rush's first directing effort since 1980's well-received "Stunt Man." It wasn't worth the wait. R. Rating: ★★

FORREST GUMP: A superb blend of satire and sentimentality powers this look at 30 years of tumultuous history through the eyes of a lovable fool. Low IQ'd Forrest (Tom Hanks) becomes a football star, a Vietnam War hero, a business success and a pop culture guru, all through pretty much dumb luck. Director Robert Zemeckis ("Back to the Future") goes for some impressive computer effects and some baldly feelgood manipulations. Yet the film's underpinnings remain as dark and complex as those events of the past four decades that have made us all feel kind of like idiots. PG-13. Rating: ★★★★

FOUR WEDDINGS AND A FUNERAL: "Enchanted April" director Mike Newell tackles a more contemporary collection of Britons in this stylish and winsome romantic comedy strung out over two years' worth of social gatherings. Hugh Grant shines as a commitment-phobic Londoner in non-pursuit of a forthright American beauty (Andie MacDowell), but the entire ensemble cast is first-rate. A fine, frothy entertainment, perfect for the date crowd. R. Rating: ★★★

IT COULD HAPPEN TO YOU: A good-natured New York cop (Nicolas Cage) promises a down-on-her-luck waitress (Bridget Fonda) half his winnings on a lottery ticket as a tip — and then keeps his word when the ticket comes in a $4 million winner. A Capra-esque tale without the edge, but Cage and Fonda are adorable — and Rosie Perez hilarious as the cop's harpy wife. PG. Rating: ★★★

THE LION KING: Disney's latest animated spectacular isn't quite as seamlessly perfect as the last three features. But it's nevertheless a gorgeous, enjoyable lesson in the eternal cycles of nature and the development of (some very humanlike) behavior. Set in Africa, it's about future King of the Beasts Simba's coming of age. Elton John and Tim Rice wrote the songs, voices include Oscar-winners Jeremy Irons' and Whoopi Goldberg's, and the artwork, though often dazzling, is built upon a becoming naturalism. G. Rating: ★★★

THE MASK: Jim Carrey is simply hilarious as a nerdy bank clerk transformed into a human cartoon character by a mask with mystical powers. Great art direction, witty use of computer graphics, a couple of nutty musical numbers, a sexy ingenue (Cameron Diaz) that rivals Jessica Rabbit, and an adorable Jack Russell terrier make for a top-notch comedy blowout. PG-13. Rating: ★★★½

MAVERICK: Lightweight fun in the Wild West. Mel Gibson pours on the charm as the conniving gambler, Jodie Foster is almost as slick as the woman who loves and robs him, and original TV Maverick James Garner lends his solid presence to the role of a questionable lawman. "Lethal Weapon" purveyor Richard Donner emphasizes thrills and laughs; William Goldman's script is his cleverest since "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." PG. Rating: ★★★

MILK MONEY: Curdled "family" comedy about a kid who brings a hooker he hired to show him a naked lady home for his widowed dad. Melanie Griffith and Ed Harris are as pleasant as possible as the mismathced couple, but they never manage to transcend the soft-pedaled smarminess of the whole enterprise. Richard Benjamin directed. PG-13. Rating: ★★

NATURAL BORN KILLERS: Oliver Stone's fevered, fractured cry of rage against the tabloid culture of violence. Mass murdering couple Woody Harrelson and Juliette Lewis become media darlings, and prove no worse than the state and the TV establishment. Filmed in a schizophrenic mix of styles and operating on an infinite number of levels, the bloody satire finally has nothing to say that hasn't been said before. No matter; it's a hallucinatory, transgressive assault on the senses that makes stuff like "Blue Velvet" and "Naked Lunch" look like "The Lion King." R. Rating: ★★★

NORTH: "North" is Rob Reiner's first Carl Reiner movie. Scattershot and leaden, the film more or less rehashes the Dr. Seuss classic "Are You My Mother?" with star Elijah Wood looking to trade in both parents for something in a nice, attentive, loving couple. Wood should have thrown in screenwriters Alan Zweibel and Andrew Scheinman for lagniappe. Readers not wanting to have the ending spoiled for them should avoid watching "The Wizard of Oz." PG. Rating: ★½

Diamond Rio keeps on truckin'

By Paulette Flowers and Otto Kitsinger

If you take a golfer from Ohio, a sky-diving Californian, a classical pianist from Utah, a rock drummer from New York, a cabinetmaker from Pennsylvania and the Osborne Brothers' nephew, and put them in a recording studio, you get Diamond Rio.

More importantly, you really DO get Diamond Rio. On their new album, "Love A Little Stronger," that really is (in the order listed above) Marty, Jimmy, Dan, Brian, Gene and Dana playing all the instruments, singing all the vocals.

Maybe you don't read the stuff on album inserts, but we do. Sometimes, the only member heard on a group's album is the lead singer. More often, some members of groups play on some songs, but most of the music is coming from those Nashville Cats who make their living as session players. With solo artists, usually it's not their road band you hear on albums either.

But the guys in Diamond Rio act as their own session musicians. After all, they do have the experience. Marty Roe, who is named after Marty Robbins, was a professional country singer by age 12. Dana Williams says, "I guess I was 14 before I knew there was anything but bluegrass." By age 12, Jimmy Olander was giving banjo lessons, although he says, "I wasn't driving a Porsche. A banjo and money don't go hand in hand."

Brian Prout lives in a two-drummer household. His wife, Nancy, is the drummer in Wild Rose. Gene Johnson used to handle mandolin chores for David Bromberg, J.D. Crowe and the late Keith Whitley. Dan Truman once toured the world with Brigham Young University's Young Ambassadors.

Marty, Jimmy and Dan got together as members of Opryland's Tennessee River Boys. After the other three joined, they became "Diamond Rio" because, Jimmy says, "We'd moved up and down the road so much, it felt appropriate to be named for a truck." In fact, they once toured the Harrisburg, Pa., Diamond Reo plant, and Marty got a set of mud flaps. "Now if they'll just come through with a free truck," Jimmy says. Why the misspelling? Well, that's the way they thought it was spelled.

Another name change led to one of their biggest hits. Seems there actually is a "Norma Jean Riley," except, co-writer Dan Truman says, "Her name is really Norma Jean Rabinowitz, and she lives in southern California." Rabinowitz just didn't fit the melody, so they changed it. Dan, now happily married to Lisa, says, "It made a good song, didn't it?"

After exploding on the scene and winning awards right and left with their first album, the Diamond didn't shine as brightly on their second. Of their new album, Marty says, "This time it's all the way – we're either all right or all wrong." Well, they sound all right to us.

Quote of the Week:

"I didn't want to be known as a vice-president of a record company. I was always ashamed of that." –Chet Atkins, after being given a Governors Award by the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences as one of the two "architects of the Nashville Sound." (The other recipient was Owen Bradley.) While an executive at RCA Nashville, Chet produced or signed folks like Don Gibson, Elvis Presley, Eddy Arnold, Rosemary Clooney, Waylon Jennings, Dolly Parton, Boots Randolph, Jerry Reed and Charley Pride.

vancing age, according to Dr. Paul Brammer, a fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians, who practices in Centerville, Ohio. "If they smoke anything — cigarettes, hashish — there's a greater risk of a problem developing at an earlier age," Brammer said.

Family medical history can also determine a person's longevity, but without knowing the singers' personal backgrounds, Brammer suspects their personal habits may have adversely affected their health. "Everybody that's 40 or 50 doesn't start to fall apart, normally," he said.

The Eagles' concerts scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday at Indianapolis' Deer Creek Music Center, and Friday and Saturday at Cincinnati's Riverbend Music Center, were put on hold because of Frey's undisclosed illness.

The Eagles canceled several additional performances in recent weeks because Frey, 45, was suffering from stomach problems, according to Bryn Bridenthal, a spokeswoman for Geffen Records, the band's label.

A spokesman for Scoop Marketing, the Eagles' tour publicist, declined to comment on Frey's medical condition and said an official statement would be issued.

Mellencamp, 42, who performed an uncharacteristically lackluster concert at Riverbend on Sept. 1, was diagnosed Sept. 7 with a hardening or blocking of the artery of the heart during a checkup for unusual fatigue. Mellencamp's doctors advised him to cancel all scheduled appearances.

Daltrey, 50, was ordered Sept. 13 to take a three-week break from performing after undergoing tests for a respiratory ailment.

On the other hand, the Rolling Stones' Mick Jagger, 52, appeared as fit as a teen-ager during his band's performance Aug. 30 at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium. Jagger travels with a personal trainer and exercises daily while on tour, according to a Stones' spokeswoman. The band's personal cooks also prepare a menu of healthy, low-fat meals, said tour caterer Leah Robinson.

"People who tend to exercise regularly seem to do better in the long term," Brammer said.

Thoughtful Moments™

When You Share

is much brighter
When showing someone that you care.
A burden can be made
so much lighter;
It's a heavenly day
when you share. †

Potter

Alison Nicole Potter, daughter of Nolan and Judy Potter, and Jeanette Gaume, daughter of Pat and Joleene Gaume, both received the gold medallion for participation in the six-year program that begins at age 12 and includes goal-setting in the areas of faith, divine nature, individual works, knowledge, choirs and accountability, good works and integrity.

Gaume

In addition, Miss Potter completed four 20 to 30 hour projects that included tutoring her younger brother in reading, making and organizing family photo albums, refinishing an antique heirloom for her mother and learning to embroider.

A 1994 honor graduate of Midland High School, Miss Potter was involved in theater arts and was a member of the French Club. She also was a volunteer for Special Olympics. At church, she served in youth leadership positions as well as being a graduate of the four-year early morning seminary program.

She currently attends Utah State University on a full scholarship where she plans to obtain a degree in special education.

Virgin movement grows stronger across America

WASHINGTON (NYT) — There is a new buzzword beginning to travel the classrooms and recreation yards of America and it has nothing to do with records or airliners. It is "virgin," as in "I'm gonna stay a. . . ." The movement is still small, but its momentum is evidently growing.

"Virgin clubs" are being formed in schools around the country and purity before marriage has become the topic of magazine and television features. Twenty five years after Woodstock, it is the new counterculture.

Its strength was on display in Washington two weekends ago when followers of "True Love Waits," a church-based campaign dedicated to promoting sexual abstinence, descended on the Mall in front of Congress and staked into the turf more than 200,000 white pledge-cards, each one signed by a young person swearing off intercourse until marriage.

The few words on the cards are bland enough, but radical. "Believing that true love waits, I make a commitment to God, myself, my family, those I date, my future mate, and my future children to be sexually pure until the day I enter a covenant marriage relationship."

The Rev. Richard Ross, a Baptist minister from Nashville, Tenn., founded "True Love Waits" early last year. He is not surprised by its success.

"All many teenagers wanted was a clear, positive call to abstinence," he said in an interview. "We have become so wrapped up in condoms and pregnancy that the only message teenagers were getting was that adults had given up on them.

Experience needed for top job, Richards says

By Michael Holmes
Associated Press

AUSTIN — Ann Richards' career as a public official began with her election as Travis County commissioner in 1976.

She hasn't lost one yet.

And that, the Democratic governor says, is the kind of preparation needed to hold the state's top job.

"You can't wake up one morning and stand there shaving, looking in the mirror, and say, 'Mmmmm, mmmmm, mmmmm, I think you're so cute you ought to run for governor'," she told the state Democratic convention in a less-than-subtle shot at Republican challenger George W. Bush.

"What simply mystifies me is why we suddenly hear from people at election time who have actually filed to run for office when we've never heard an idea about government from them before. . . . Running for public office is not some sort of beauty contest. You've got to go through a lot of living, you've got to have some experience with people."

But that may be a tough sell this year, as opinion pollsters find voter anger with government and incumbents.

Richards knows the numbers.

She won re-election as a county commissioner in 1980, was elected state treasurer in 1982 and 1986, and in 1990 won the costliest governor's race in Texas history.

"I think you find that (anti-government sentiment) every election," she says. "The people hope that change will bring about something new, something different. But if you've done a good job, by and large, they reward you and want to keep you there."

It's the job she's done since taking office in January 1991 that she hopes will reap rewards for her on Nov. 8.

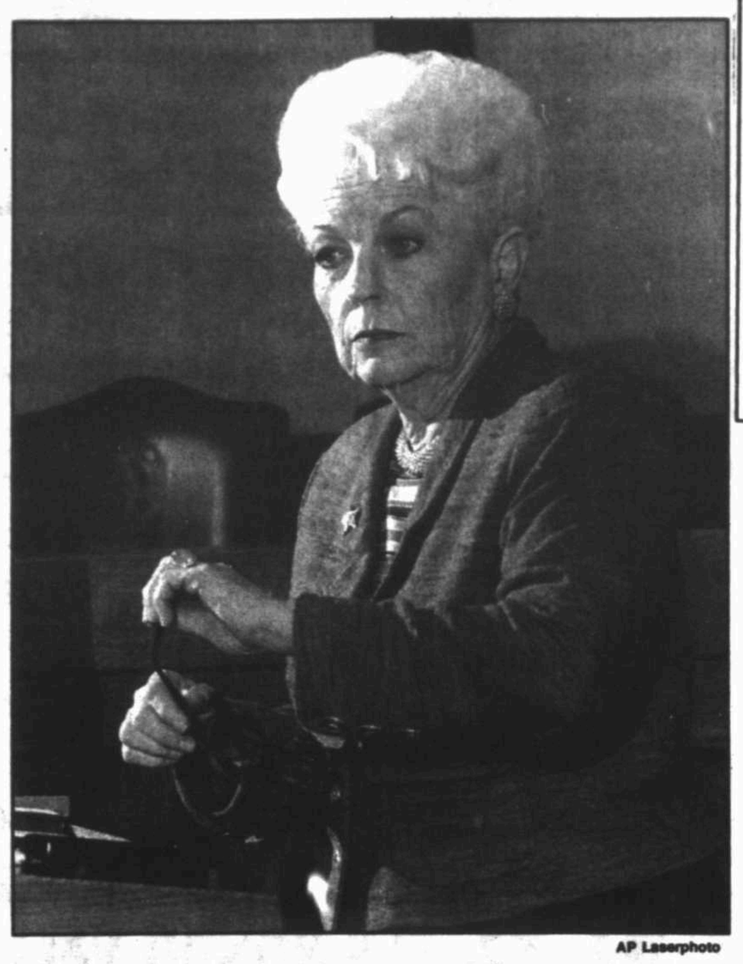

Richards took office on a promise of creating a "New Texas" — open to women and minorities, shaking off old ideas, shaking up the state bureaucracy.

Today, she says she has done just that.

Department of Public Safety statistics show that crime is down; Texas Education Agency reports that the dropout rate is falling and student test scores are rising; the state prison system is doubling in size; Texas leads the nation in new jobs created; taxes rose less than under any of the past three governors, she says.

"We came on strong, determined to shake up the bureaucracy and open the doors of government to all the people of Texas, and we have done that my friends," Richards says.

Seeking to get out front of Bush on other issues, she has offered plans to overhaul the juvenile justice laws, permit a "charter schools" program to allow communities to design their own schools, and she's calling for welfare reform targeted at meaningful job training.

Officials charge women in robbery, high-speed shootout

SHAMROCK (AP) — Two Maryland women suspected of twisting a convenience store robbery into a high-speed shootout were charged Friday with attempted capital murder.

Cheryl Stevens, 39, and Jennifer Davis, 33, wept during arraignment and appeared "emotionally distraught," District Attorney John Mann said.

They remained at the Wheeler County Jail on $25,000 bonds.

Authorities accuse the pair of overpowering a cashier at the Double D Fuel Stop in Texola, Okla., for his gun and money bag Thursday evening. The women then allegedly fired at a contingent of officers who chased them after they entered the Texas Panhandle.

Bruce Burrell, police chief in Shamrock — an Interstate 40 town about 70 miles east of Amarillo — said officers found a dagger and butcher knife in the women's car.

"I'll tell you how dangerous they are," Burrell said. "When I got home last night, I looked my house over real good and I was thankful to be there."

Mann said the suspects asked for court-appointed lawyers. Both women are from the Baltimore area, authorities said.

The Oklahoma convenience store was robbed by two women who at first seemed to be buying beer, said Beckham County Sheriff Terry Poff.

While one woman asked the clerk a question, Poff said, the other woman grabbed him around the neck.

"She's a pretty good size ol' gal and she just manhandled him," the sheriff said.

The smaller woman grabbed a gun and a cash bag containing $350, he said. They fled in a 1986 Toyota stolen in Baltimore, Burrell said.

Oklahoma authorities broadcast an alert and pursuit began at 6:15 p.m. just east of Shamrock.

The westbound sports car — its license plate covered with a sheet — exited and re-entered the interstate several times, Burrell said. One occupant fired from a .38-caliber revolver.

He identified Ms. Stevens as the driver and Ms. Davis as the shooter.

"She was completely out of the window, sitting on the door, firing at us," Burrell said.

He said officers fired back until the chase got to Shamrock.

The sports car finally stopped when its tires deflated at 6:38 p.m., Burrell said.

No one was injured.

Workers rescue another Jessica in minutes

VERSAILLES, Ind. (AP) — It took rescue workers only 11 minutes to rescue this Jessica from an abandoned well.

Jessica Wilson, a 7-year-old from Osgood, had been visiting a relative Thursday when she fell down a 20-foot abandoned well shaft and plunged into water about 10 feet deep, authorities said.

"Her mother told her to get down before she got hurt and then she was gone," said Judy Schebler, Jessica's great aunt.

Town Marshal Marvin Smith and Osgood Deputy Marshal Steve Noble were at Smith's residence across the street when they overheard a call for help.

Noble was lowered by rope into the well, where Jessica was hanging onto the sides to keep from drowning. He grabbed her and the two were lifted up by Smith and others on the scene.

The rope snapped just before they got to the top, but rescue workers grabbed them and pulled them to safety, police said. The girl sustained only minor injuries.

Schebler said Jessica, who was to attend the Versailles Pumpkin Show that night, handled herself very well.

Settlement should warn AIDS discriminators, official says

■ Dental firm admits it violated Americans with Disabilities Act when it ceased treatment of Houston man.

Associated Press

HOUSTON — A $100,000 settlement in favor of a Houston man denied dental care because he has the AIDS virus should serve as a warning to anyone practicing AIDS discrimination, a Justice Department official said Friday.

In a settlement signed by U.S. District Judge Vanessa Gilmore Thursday, Castle Dental Center admitted it violated the Americans with Disabilities Act when it told Harrison J. Totten it would no longer treat him.

Totten, 30, will be paid $80,000 in compensatory damages by Dr. Jack Castle, owner of the dental center. Castle Dental Center and its management company, Family Dental Services of Texas, Inc., each will pay $10,000 in civil damages.

Castle, however, said Friday it was cheaper to agree to the settlement than to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars fighting the Justice Department in court.

"The settlement was purely for economic reasons," he said. "In the settlement, we categorically deny that we violated the Americans with Disabilities Act and still maintain and always have that we did not discriminate.

"When you're fighting Goliath who has unlimited funds spending the taxpayers' money, it's purely an economic decision to settle with them. The only reason we settled was because it cost too damn much money to fight the Justice Department."

Irene Bowen, a deputy chief in the Justice Department's civil rights division, said Totten's case was the first federal case settled regarding AIDS discrimination by health-care providers. A similar case is pending in New Orleans.

Ms. Bowen warned that those practicing AIDS discrimination could ultimately pay for their actions.

"We're vigorously enforcing the ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act)," she said. "We will go for compensation against individuals ... whether it's something that can be assessed as a particular monetary amount or whether it's an emotional, which was the case here."

The department sued the Castle Dental Center in Houston last October for allegedly violating federal law when it told Harrison J. Totten it would no longer treat him.

The suit alleged that after getting braces, Totten was continuing in treatment at the center until it learned he had tested positive for HIV in the spring of 1992.

"At that time, Totten allegedly received a letter stating 'due to the recent discovery of your health problems, Castle Dental Center has decided to cease providing you with orthodontic treatment,'" the department said.

Federal law prohibits discrimination against people with disabilities in places that serve the public. Under the act, testing positive for HIV and having AIDS are considered disabilities.

"Such discrimination is based on unfounded fear, ignorance, and prejudice," said Deval L. Patrick, assistant attorney general for civil rights.

Totten's attorney, John Paul Barnich, said the $100,000 settlement is "more than just a slap on the wrist."

Ms. Bowen said it is difficult to know just how much discrimination is occurring against AIDS victims nationwide, but added that her office is now investigating another 20-30 incidents.

Regents of Texas A&M approve new ethics policy for entire system

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M regents unanimously approved comprehensive new ethics policies covering the entire university system Friday, a year after allegations of fiscal improprieties at the school first arose.

The two policies — one written specifically for regents and the other for Texas A&M employees — were adopted in the wake of intense scrutiny of university officials.

"I guess we've been shot at so much, we decided we'd get our policy in black and white so everybody can read it and know what we're going to do," Board of Regents Chairwoman Mary Nan West said.

Eight A&M employees were indicted or charged with misdemeanors in June for allegedly falsifying documents related to alcohol purchases.

Robert Smith, A&M's former vice president for finance and administration, has been indicted on charges of soliciting gifts from Barnes & Noble, which has a multi-million-dollar contract to run the campus bookstore. There also have been allegations, starting last fall, that former Board of Regents Chairman Ross Margraves Jr. profited from official business.

Both Smith and Margraves have denied any wrongdoing.

The ethics guidelines, crafted in recent months by regents and A&M staff members, say regents shouldn't accept or solicit gifts or anything else of value that might influence them in making official decisions.

Regents are also discouraged in the 16-page policy from making personal investments that might create conflicts of interest. Other topics addressed include travel, benefits, nepotism, political activities and use of authority.

A similar policy covers some 19,000 employees in the seven-school Texas A&M System.

Ms. West said ethics were previously addressed in overall university policies, but there was never a dedicated ethics policy.

"I just feel that everybody knows the difference between right and wrong, and if they don't they should and it should not have to be written," Ms. West said.

"All of us should know the difference between right and wrong, but it did seem prudent to get something in black and white and to get the message out that, 'Here is the Bible and here's what we're going to live by.'"

No punishment for violating the guidelines is spelled out, but Ms. West said regents would take action against anyone determined to have acted unethically.

New A&M Chancellor Barry Thompson lauded the new policies.

"As a public university system, we must be above reproach in the manner in which we conduct our business," Thompson said. "These policies clearly spell out our responsibilities in the area of employee ethics as public servants of the state of Texas."

Second student from Texas Tech claims she made up story of rape

LUBBOCK (AP) — It's the second recanted rape claim this week: Another 18-year-old Texas Tech University student says she made up her story.

Police investigators intend to hand their findings over to the criminal district attorney, who could file charges of false report against the women.

"In both cases, the whole incident was completely fabricated," said Tech spokesman Steve Kaufman.

"It is difficult and frustrating to have an image of our young people concocting stories," university President Robert Lawless said Thursday. "We suffer extra fear when it looks like we have an epidemic."

Nonetheless, school officials are urging students to be careful. They believe two kidnappings and rapes have occurred since the semester started last month.

Texas Tech convened a panel discussion Friday to address sexual assaults. Participants included representatives from the dorms, campus police department and the Rape Crisis Center.

"We consider the safety of all Texas Tech students to be a serious matter and a top priority," Lawless said.

The recanted stories came in the wake of two other reported rapes.

A 34-year-old man has been charged in one Sept. 9. And police are still seeking two suspects who allegedly forced a woman into a van Aug. 27, drove off-campus and left her east of Tech after raping her.

Kaufman said he did not know why the two students admitted they falsely told police they had been raped.

A freshman who said she was raped Sept. 5 recanted Wednesday after investigators received contradictory statements from other people, authorities said.

In the other case, an 18-year-old student who said she had been raped Sept. 17 changed her story Monday when she learned that campus police intended to interview her companions before and after the alleged incident, Kaufman said.

Both women could face disciplinary action from Tech, he said.

FRIDAY NIGHT THUNDER: WEEK FOUR

Midland Lee halts MHS RB Coats for 37-0 victory

■ Midland Lee's defense blankets Midland High running back Roy Coats in shutout.

By Bill Petitt
Staff Writer

It was pitted as a battle between the state's second leading rusher Roy Coats against the Midland Lee defense.

Could Midland High's version of Superman give a Herculean effort and defeat the forces of Lee-vil ?

On Friday night, the Midland Lee defense provided the kryptonite to shut down the Bulldogs offense in a 37-0 shutout in the District 4-5A opener for both squads.

It may have been a costly victory for the Rebels as running back Melvin Dunson, ranked second in the league with 562 yards after a 130 yard effort Friday, went down late in the third quarter after a four-yard gain. His status is uncertain for next week's game with Abilene High.

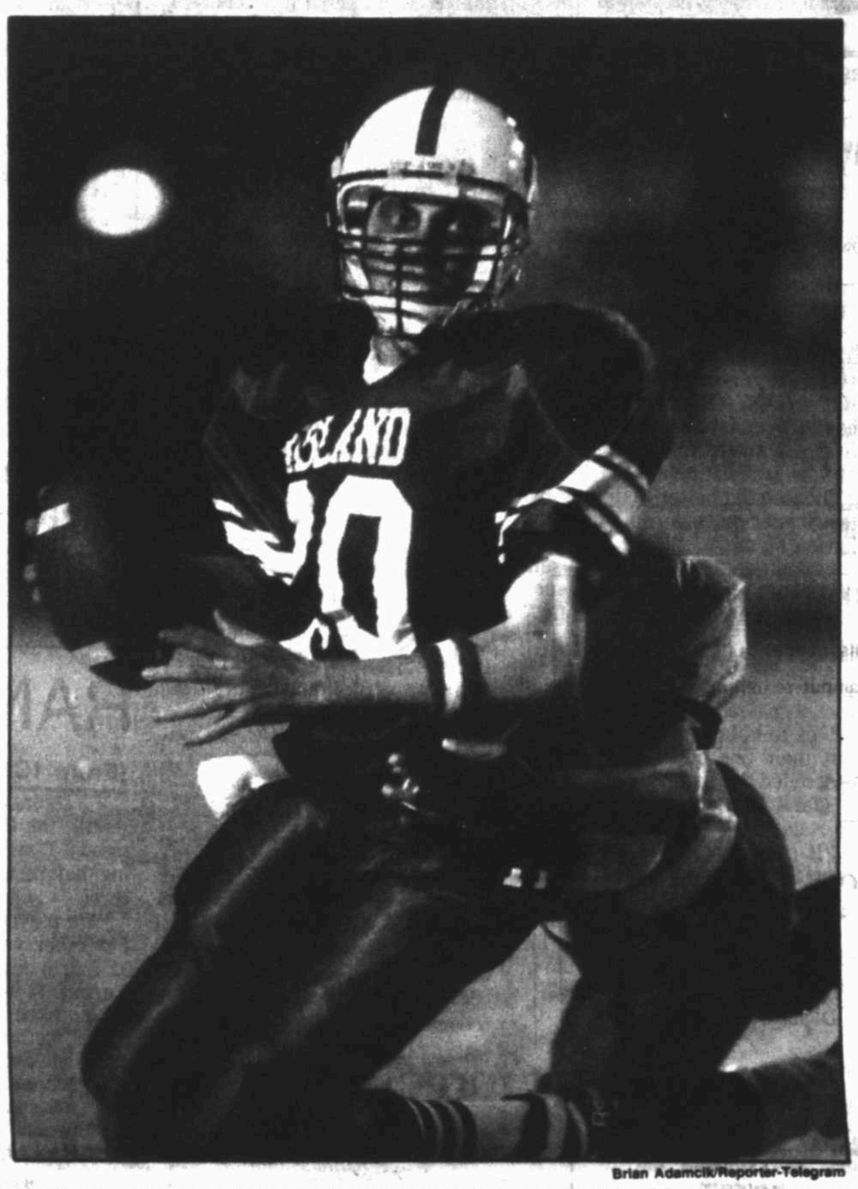

Lee held onto the coattails of the MHS prize and limited him to just 29 yards on 14 carries in the first half as the Rebel offense jumped out to 17-0 halftime lead and never looked back.

"(Stopping Coats) was our main objective this week," said Lee junior defensive lineman Ben Acosta. "We were very pleased with the way we played, very pleased. We played hard ball."

"You have got to be pleased when you have a shutout," said Lee coach Earl Miller, who improved to 8-1 against Midland High during his tenure. "There were a couple of passes that we should have intercepted that turned into big plays, but I thought we played well defensively."

The Rebel defense, which entered the game ranked second in the league allowing 217.7 yards per game, limited

Lee's pixie-like Stanford outleaps MHS Superman

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

Midland High's Roy Coats, the state's No. 2 leading rusher with 659 yards in his first three games, came into the contest Friday night with cross town rival Midland Lee with the big numbers, but it was the 136-pound Rebel Jerry Stanford who left the field with the knockout punch.

Stanford, the pixie-like wide receiver-/punt returner, again moved up and down the field like he owned it. Stanford had four punt returns for 158 yards and four receptions for 117 yards and a touchdown. That accounted for 275 yards of field position, and that was enough for Lee to walk away with its sixth consecutive win over Midland High, 37-0.

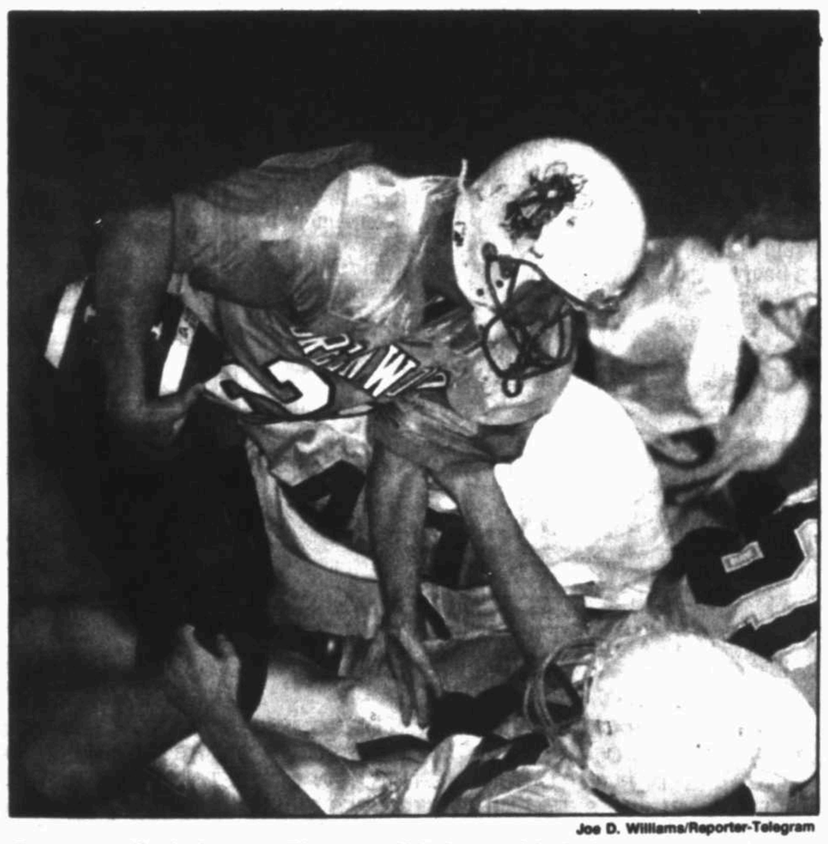

"It was another good night," Stanford understated. "I just get behind the wall and run on the punt returns. They've been setting me up all year with the wall.

"We don't throw a lot when we are on offense, but we get a lot out of it when we do. It's my goal to get 100 yards receiving each game. I'm just glad this came against Midland High because they've been talking a lot of stuff this week."

Meanwhile, the Lee defense pitched the shutout, holding Coats to only 85 yards rushing on 22 carries. It was the

■ Rangers hold back high-scoring Alpine offense to knock off undefeated Bucks.

By Pete Herndon

GREENWOOD — The talk in Greenwood Friday after the Rangers' 48-34 win over Alpine was about playing football in late October. That's when the playoffs begin. And that's when Greenwood might see Alpine again.

Alpine coach Ronny Stoosberry thinks so, anyway.

"We're going to catch them or Kermit, one," Stooksberry said after watching his previously unbeaten Bucks' furious fourth-quarter comeback fall short. "It'll be a heck of a game."

That pretty much sums up this predistrict game between Alpine (3-1), of District 7-3A, and Greenwood (3-1), of District 8-3A.

After trailing 34-10 at the end of the third quarter, Alpine closed the gap to seven points before a 46-yard run by Bucky Smith with three minutes, 51 seconds left gave the Rang-

Mojo ends skid with 22-6 win

Staff Report

ODESSA — High hopes have come and gone over the past 30 years for the Odessa High Bronchos against cross town rival Odessa Permian, but another woeful saga was added to the list here at Ratliff Stadium Friday night.

Mojo, owning a rare two-game losing streak, struck for 15 second quarter points to hand the Bronchos a 22-6 loss in the District 4-5A opener for both teams.

Odessa High came into the game with a perfect 4-0 record, but left again for the 30th consecutive time without coming away with a win against the Panthers.

OHS had two lost fumbles and three interceptions while completing only two of 15 passing attempts against Permian, which suddenly showed a tenacious defense.

Permian's Jacuay Wilburn had 109 yards rushing to lead the Permian attack while OHS had no runner over 100 yards.

Permian didn't crack the scoreboard until the second period when Jeremy White hit on a 28-yard field goal. Eric Williams followed with a five-yard TD burst for a 9-0 lead.

Permian then took a 15-0 lead into the half when Shaggy Dewberry caught a 37-yard pass from Mike Nichols.

OHS got its only score of the night when Tavarez Fowler scored on a three-yard run, but Permian answered in the final quarter with one-yard Jeff Dinger run.

Permian evened its record at 2-2 while OHS fell to 4-1. Permian is now 1-0 in 4-5A action and will play a non-conference outing against Dallas Carter next week. OHS will travel to San Angelo to face the Bobcats in their 4-5A opener.

Late rush powers Steers, 28-11

By Mike Butts
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — It wasn't how the Big Spring Steers began the game, it was how they finished it. And how they finished it finished off the Snyder Tigers 28-11 Friday in the Steers' first home win of the season.

Big Spring lost a fumble and punted on its first two possessions of the second half. But the Steers (2-2) scored on their next (and last) four drives if the game to break open a contest in which the offenses struggled to a 0-0 halftime tie.

Big Spring was picked to finish as low as fourth in District 4-4A. Now they're playing better than any team in the league. And that's mainly due to a pumped-up running game lead by junior Quinton Dickson, who rambled for 188 yards Friday.

Field goal kicks Bearkats to first win

By Tom Ruiz
MRT Correspondent

GARDEN CITY — For two teams that seem to be going nowhere this season, the Garden City Bearkats and the Rankin Red Devils put on a show battling each other to the final seconds before the Bearkats squeezed out a 10-7 non-district victory here Friday night.

Each team waited for the others' shoe to drop. But what finally happened was Bryan Harp planted his shoe into the football for a 32-yard field goal with five seconds remaining for Garden City's first win of the season.

The 1-3 Red Devils lost most of their offense when starting quarterback Tim Watson went down with a separated shoulder towards the end of the first half.

Experience needed for top job, Richards says

By Michael Holmes
Associated Press

AUSTIN — Ann Richards' career as a public official began with her election as Travis County commissioner in 1976.

She hasn't lost one yet.

And that, the Democratic governor says, is the kind of preparation needed to hold the state's top job.

"You can't wake up one morning and stand there shaving, looking in the mirror, and say, 'Mmmmm, mmmmm, mmmmm, I think you're so cute you ought to run for governor'," she told the state Democratic convention in a less-than-subtle shot at Republican challenger George W. Bush.

"What simply mystifies me is why we suddenly hear from people at election time who have actually filed to run for office when we've never heard an idea about government from them before. . . . Running for public office is not some sort of beauty contest. You've got to go through a lot of living, you've got to have some experience with people."

But that may be a tough sell this year, as opinion pollsters find voter anger with government and incumbents.

Richards knows the numbers.

She won re-election as a county commissioner in 1980, was elected state treasurer in 1982 and 1986, and in 1990 won the costliest governor's race in Texas history.

"I think you find that (anti-government sentiment) every election," she says. "The people hope that change will bring about something new, something different. But if you've done a good job, by and large, they reward you and want to keep you there."

It's the job she's done since taking office in January 1991 that she hopes will reap rewards for her on Nov. 8.

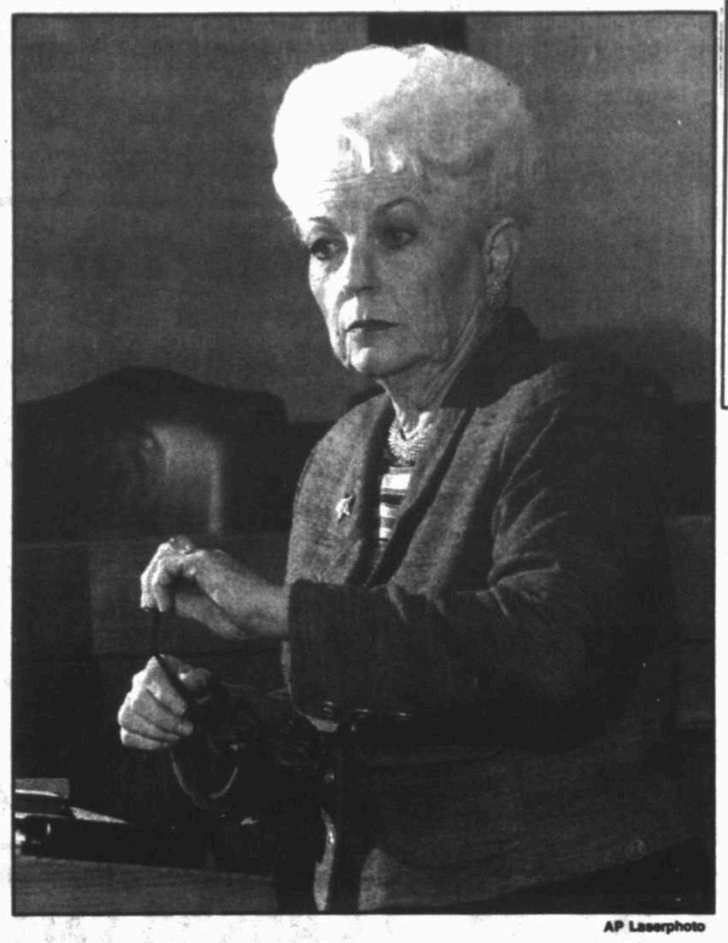

Richards took office on a promise of creating a "New Texas" — open to women and minorities, shaking off old ideas, shaking up the state bureaucracy.

Today, she says she has done just that.

Department of Public Safety statistics show that crime is down; Texas Education Agency reports that the dropout rate is falling and student test scores are rising; the state prison system is doubling in size; Texas leads the nation in new jobs created; taxes rose less than under any of the past three governors, she says.

"We came on strong, determined to shake up the bureaucracy and open the doors of government to all the people of Texas, and we have done that my friends," Richards says.

Seeking to get out front of Bush on other issues, she has offered plans to overhaul the juvenile justice laws, permit a "charter schools" program to allow communities to design their own schools, and she's calling for welfare reform targeted at meaningful job training.

Officials charge women in robbery, high-speed shootout

SHAMROCK (AP) — Two Maryland women suspected of twisting a convenience store robbery into a high-speed shootout were charged Friday with attempted capital murder.

Cheryl Stevens, 39, and Jennifer Davis, 33, wept during arraignment and appeared "emotionally distraught," District Attorney John Mann said.

They remained at the Wheeler County Jail on $25,000 bonds.

Authorities accuse the pair of overpowering a cashier at the Double D Fuel Stop in Texola, Okla., for his gun and money bag Thursday evening. The women then allegedly fired at a contingent of officers who chased them after they entered the Texas Panhandle.

Bruce Burrell, police chief in Shamrock — an Interstate 40 town about 70 miles east of Amarillo — said officers found a dagger and butcher knife in the women's car.

"I'll tell you how dangerous they are," Burrell said. "When I got home last night, I looked my house over real good and I was thankful to be there."

Mann said the suspects asked for court-appointed lawyers. Both women are from the Baltimore area, authorities said.

The Oklahoma convenience store was robbed by two women who at first seemed to be buying beer, said Beckham County Sheriff Terry Poff.

While one woman asked the clerk a question, Poff said, the other woman grabbed him around the neck.

"She's a pretty good size ol' gal and she just manhandled him," the sheriff said.

The smaller woman grabbed a gun and a cash bag containing $350, he said. They fled in a 1986 Toyota stolen in Baltimore, Burrell said.

Oklahoma authorities broadcast an alert and pursuit began at 6:15 p.m. just east of Shamrock.

The westbound sports car — its license plate covered with a sheet — exited and re-entered the interstate several times, Burrell said. One occupant fired from a .38-caliber revolver.

He identified Ms. Stevens as the driver and Ms. Davis as the shooter.

"She was completely out of the window, sitting on the door, firing at us," Burrell said.

He said officers fired back until the chase got to Shamrock.

The sports car finally stopped when its tires deflated at 6:38 p.m., Burrell said.

No one was injured.

Workers rescue another Jessica in minutes

VERSAILLES, Ind. (AP) — It took rescue workers only 11 minutes to rescue this Jessica from an abandoned well.

Jessica Wilson, a 7-year-old from Osgood, had been visiting a relative Thursday when she fell down a 20-foot abandoned well shaft and plunged into water about 10 feet deep, authorities said.

"Her mother told her to get down before she got hurt and then she was gone," said Judy Schebler, Jessica's great aunt.

Town Marshal Marvin Smith and Osgood Deputy Marshal Steve Noble were at Smith's residence across the street when they overheard a call for help.

Noble was lowered by rope into the well, where Jessica was hanging onto the sides to keep from drowning. He grabbed her and the two were lifted up by Smith and others on the scene.

The rope snapped just before they got to the top, but rescue workers grabbed them and pulled them to safety, police said. The girl sustained only minor injuries.

Schebler said Jessica, who was to attend the Versailles Pumpkin Show that night, handled herself very well.

Settlement should warn AIDS discriminators, official says

■ Dental firm admits it violated Americans with Disabilities Act when it ceased treatment of Houston man.

Associated Press

HOUSTON — A $100,000 settlement in favor of a Houston man denied dental care because he has the AIDS virus should serve as a warning to anyone practicing AIDS discrimination, a Justice Department official said Friday.

In a settlement signed by U.S. District Judge Vanessa Gilmore Thursday, Castle Dental Center admitted it violated the Americans with Disabilities Act when it told Harrison J. Totten it would no longer treat him.

Totten, 30, will be paid $80,000 in compensatory damages by Dr. Jack Castle, owner of the dental center. Castle Dental Center and its management company, Family Dental Services of Texas, Inc., each will pay $10,000 in civil damages.

Castle, however, said Friday it was cheaper to agree to the settlement than to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars fighting the Justice Department in court.

"The settlement was purely for economic reasons," he said. "In the settlement, we categorically deny that we violated the Americans with Disabilities Act and still maintain and always have that we did not discriminate.

"When you're fighting Goliath who has unlimited funds spending the taxpayers' money, it's purely an economic decision to settle with them. The only reason we settled was because it cost too damn much money to fight the Justice Department."

Irene Bowen, a deputy chief in the Justice Department's civil rights division, said Totten's case was the first federal case settled regarding AIDS discrimination by health-care providers. A similar case is pending in New Orleans.

Ms. Bowen warned that those practicing AIDS discrimination could ultimately pay for their actions.

"We're vigorously enforcing the ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act)," she said. "We will go for compensation against individuals . . . whether it's something that can be assessed as a particular monetary amount or whether it's an emotional, which was the case here."

The department sued the Castle Dental Center in Houston last October for allegedly violating federal law when it told Harrison J. Totten it would no longer treat him.

The suit alleged that after getting braces, Totten was continuing in treatment at the center until it learned he had tested positive for HIV in the spring of 1992.

"At that time, Totten allegedly received a letter stating 'due to the recent discovery of your health problems, Castle Dental Center has decided to cease providing you with orthodontic treatment,'" the department said.

Federal law prohibits discrimination against people with disabilities in places that serve the public. Under the act, testing positive for HIV and having AIDS are considered disabilities.

"Such discrimination is based on unfounded fear, ignorance, and prejudice," said Deval L. Patrick, assistant attorney general for civil rights.

Totten's attorney, John Paul Barnich, said the $100,000 settlement is "more than just a slap on the wrist."

Ms. Bowen said it is difficult to know just how much discrimination is occurring against AIDS victims nationwide, but added that her office is now investigating another 20-30 incidents.

Regents of Texas A&M approve new ethics policy for entire system

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M regents unanimously approved comprehensive new ethics policies covering the entire university system Friday, a year after allegations of fiscal improprieties at the school first arose.

The two policies — one written specifically for regents and the other for Texas A&M employees — were adopted in the wake of intense scrutiny of university officials.

"I guess we've been shot at so much, we decided we'd get our policy in black and white so everybody can read it and know what we're going to do," Board of Regents Chairwoman Mary Nan West said.

Eight A&M employees were indicted or charged with misdemeanors in June for allegedly falsifying documents related to alcohol purchases.

Robert Smith, A&M's former vice president for finance and administration, has been indicted on charges of soliciting gifts from Barnes & Noble, which has a multi-million-dollar contract to run the campus bookstore. There also have been allegations, starting last fall, that former Board of Regents Chairman Ross Margraves Jr. profited from official business.

Both Smith and Margraves have denied any wrongdoing.

The ethics guidelines, crafted in recent months by regents and A&M staff members, say regents shouldn't accept or solicit gifts or anything else of value that might influence them in making official decisions.

Regents are also discouraged in the 16-page policy from making personal investments that might create conflicts of interest. Other topics addressed include travel, benefits, nepotism, political activities and use of authority.

A similar policy covers some 19,000 employees in the seven-school Texas A&M System.

Ms. West said ethics were previously addressed in overall university policies, but there was never a dedicated ethics policy.

"I just feel that everybody knows the difference between right and wrong, and if they don't they should and it should not have to be written," Ms. West said.

"All of us should know the difference between right and wrong, but it did seem prudent to get something in black and white and to get the message out that, 'Here is the Bible and here's what we're going to live by.'"

No punishment for violating the guidelines is spelled out, but Ms. West said regents would take action against anyone determined to have acted unethically.

New A&M Chancellor Barry Thompson lauded the new policies.

"As a public university system, we must be above reproach in the manner in which we conduct our business," Thompson said. "These policies clearly spell out our responsibilities in the area of employee ethics as public servants of the state of Texas."

Second student from Texas Tech claims she made up story of rape

LUBBOCK (AP) — It's the second recanted rape claim this week: Another 18-year-old Texas Tech University student says she made up her story.

Police investigators intend to hand their findings over to the criminal district attorney, who could file charges of false report against the women.

"In both cases, the whole incident was completely fabricated," said Tech spokesman Steve Kaufman.

"It is difficult and frustrating to have an image of our young people concocting stories," university President Robert Lawless said Thursday. "We suffer extra fear when it looks like we have an epidemic."

Nonetheless, school officials are urging students to be careful. They believe two kidnappings and rapes have occurred since the semester started last month.

Texas Tech convened a panel discussion Friday to address sexual assaults. Participants included representatives from the dorms, campus police department and the Rape Crisis Center.

"We consider the safety of all Texas Tech students to be a serious matter and a top priority," Lawless said.

The recanted stories came in the wake of two other reported rapes.

A 34-year-old man has been charged in one Sept. 9. And police are still seeking two suspects who allegedly forced a woman into a van Aug. 27, drove off-campus and left her east of Tech after raping her.

Kaufman said he did not know why the two students admitted they falsely told police they had been raped.

A freshman who said she was raped Sept. 5 recanted Wednesday after investigators received contradictory statements from other people, authorities said.

In the other case, an 18-year-old student who said she had been raped Sept. 17 changed her story Monday when she learned that campus police intended to interview her companions before and after the alleged incident, Kaufman said.

Both women could face disciplinary action from Tech, he said.

Rebels silence 'Dogs

Midland Lee halts MHS RB Coats for 37-0 victory

■ Midland Lee's defense blankets Midland High running back Roy Coats in shutout.

By Bill Petitt
Staff Writer

It was pitted as a battle between the state's second leading rusher Roy Coats against the Midland Lee defense.

Could Midland High's version of Superman give a Herculean effort and defeat the forces of Lee-vil ?

On Friday night, the Midland Lee defense provided the kryptonite to shut down the Bulldogs offense in a 37-0 shutout in the District 4-5A opener for both squads.

It may have been a costly victory for the Rebels as running back Melvin Dunson, ranked second in the league with 562 yards after a 130 yard effort Friday, went down late in the third quarter after a four-yard gain. His status is uncertain for next week's game with Abilene High.

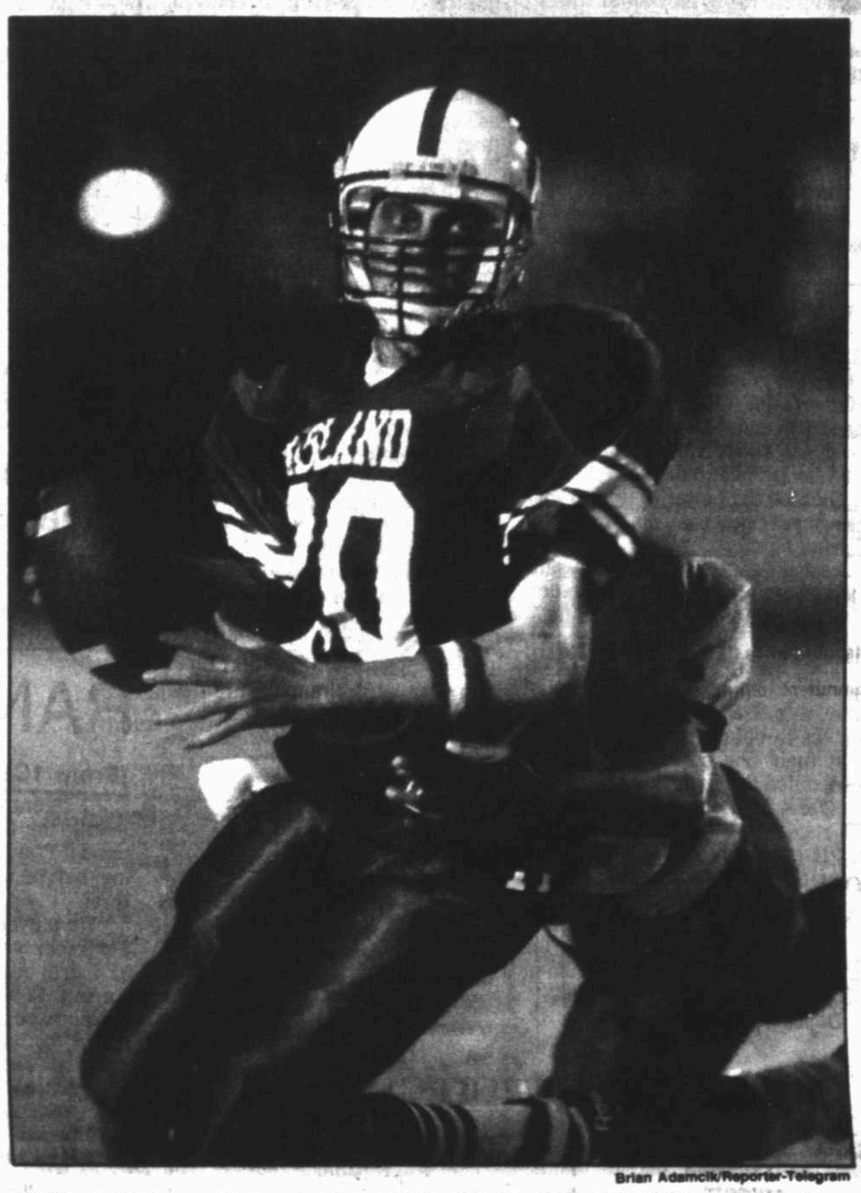

Lee held onto the coattails of the MHS prize and limited him to just 29 yards on 14 carries in the first half as the Rebel offense jumped out to 17-0 halftime lead and never looked back.

"(Stopping Coats) was our main objective this week," said Lee junior defensive lineman Ben Acosta. "We were very pleased with the way we played, very pleased. We played hard ball."

"You have got to be pleased when you have a shutout," said Lee coach Earl Miller, who improved to 8-1 against Midland High during his tenure. "There were a couple of passes that we should have intercepted that turned into big plays, but I thought we played well defensively."

The Rebel defense, which entered the game ranked second in the league allowing 217.7 yards per game, limited

Lee's pixie-like Stanford outleaps MHS Superman

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

Midland High's Roy Coats, the state's No. 2 leading rusher with 659 yards in his first three games, came into the contest Friday night with cross town rival Midland Lee with the big numbers, but it was the 136-pound Rebel Jerry Stanford who left the field with the knockout punch.

Stanford, the pixie-like wide receiver-/punt returner, again moved up and down the field like he owned it. Stanford had four punt returns for 158 yards and four receptions for 117 yards and a touchdown. That accounted for 275 yards of field position, and that was enough for Lee to walk away with its sixth consecutive win over Midland High, 37-0.

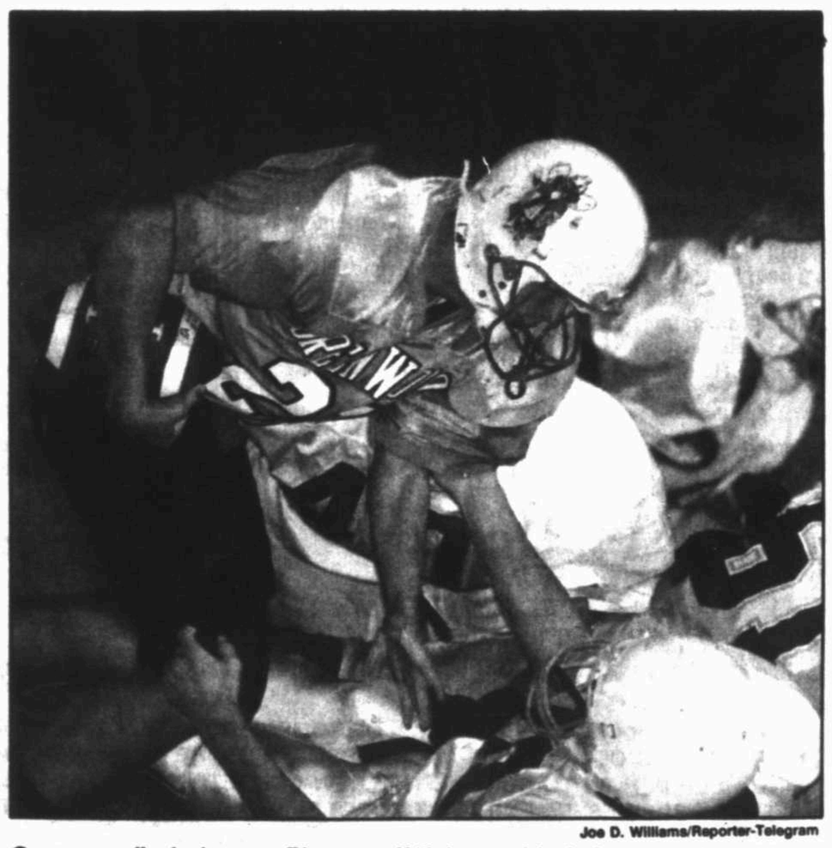

"It was another good night," Stanford understated. "I just get behind the wall and run on the punt returns. They've been setting me up all year with the wall.

"We don't throw a lot when we are on offense, but we get a lot out of it when we do. It's my goal to get 100 yards receiving each game. I'm just glad this came against Midland High because they've been talking a lot of stuff this week."

Meanwhile, the Lee defense pitched the shutout, holding Coats to only 85 yards rushing on 22 carries. It was the GREENWOOD — The talk in Greenwood Friday after the Rangers' 48-34 win over Alpine was about playing football in late October. That's when the playoffs begin. And that's when Greenwood might see Alpine again.

Alpine coach Ronny Stoosberry thinks so, anyway.

"We're going to catch them or Kermit, one," Stooksberry said after watching his previously unbeaten Bucks' furious fourth-quarter comeback fall short. "It'll be a heck of a game."

That pretty much sums up this predistrict game between Alpine (3-1), of District 7-3A, and Greenwood (3-1), of District 8-3A.

After trailing 34-10 at the end of the third quarter, Alpine closed the gap to seven points before a 46-yard run by Bucky Smith with three minutes, 51 seconds left gave the Rang-

ODESSA — High hopes have come and gone over the past 30 years for the Odessa High Bronchos against cross town rival Odessa Permian, but another woeful saga was added to the list here at Ratliff Stadium Friday night.

Mojo, owning a rare two-game losing streak, struck for 15 second quarter points to hand the Bronchos a 22-6 loss in the District 4-5A opener for both teams.

Odessa High came into the game with a perfect 4-0 record, but left again for the 30th consecutive time without coming away with a win against the Panthers.

OHS had two lost fumbles and three interceptions while completing only two of 15 passing attempts against Permian, which suddenly showed a tenacious defense.

Permian's Jacuay Wilburn had 109 yards rushing to lead the Permian attack while OHS had no runner over 100 yards.

Permian didn't crack the scoreboard until the second period when Jeremy White hit on a 28-yard field goal. Eric Williams followed with a five-yard TD burst for a 9-0 lead.

Permian then took a 15-0 lead into the half when Shaggy Dewberry caught a 37-yard pass from Mike Nichols.

OHS got its only score of the night when Tavarez Fowler scored on a three-yard run, but Permian answered in the final quarter with one-yard Jeff Dinger run.

Permian evened its record at 2-2 while OHS fell to 4-1. Permian is now 1-0 in 4-5A action and will play a non-conference outing against Dallas Carter next week. OHS will travel to San Angelo to face the Bobcats in their 4-5A opener.

Late rush powers Steers, 28-11

BIG SPRING — It wasn't how the Big Spring Steers began the game, it was how they finished it. And how they finished it finished off the Snyder Tigers 28-11 Friday in the Steers' first home win of the season.

Big Spring lost a fumble and punted on its first two possessions of the second half. But the Steers (2-2) scored on their next (and last) four drives if the game to break open a contest in which the offenses struggled to a 0-0 halftime tie.

Big Spring was picked to finish as low as fourth in District 4-4A. Now they're playing better than any team in the league. And that's mainly due to a pumped-up running game lead by junior Quinton Dickson, who rambled for 188 yards Friday.

Field goal kicks Bearkats to first win

GARDEN CITY — For two teams that seem to be going nowhere this season, the Garden City Bearkats and the Rankin Red Devils put on a show battling each other to the final seconds before the Bearkats squeezed out a 10-7 non-district victory here Friday night.

Each team waited for the others' shoe to drop. But what finally happened was Bryan Harp planted his shoe into the football for a 32-yard field goal with five seconds remaining for Garden City's first win of the season.

The 1-3 Red Devils lost most of their offense when starting quarterback Tim Watson went down with a separated shoulder towards the end of the first half.

STEERS: Dickson runs away with Snyder game

(From 1C)

"Everyone of our guys up front just kept pounding on them," Steer coach Dwight Butler said. "And when Quenton hits you, after a while it takes its toll."

After awhile meant after about 2½ quarters Friday. Both teams missed chances to score in the first half: Snyder by failing to make a first down on the Big Spring 10-yard line and the Steers when part-time quarterback Bucky Crenshaw tossed an interception in the end zone with 35 seconds left before halftime.

But Dickson, who carried the load by carrying the ball 31 times, made the play of the game when he scored in the third quarter to put his team up for keeps 7-3.

The Steers faced third and 11 on the Snyder 25 after the Tigers had taken a 3-0 lead when Big Spring fumbled on its opening possession of the half.

Even though the need was 11 yards, the Steers called Dickson's number and the 190-pound back spun away from a tackle at the 20 and went in for the touchdown.

"I thought if we could get down to a fourth and three or four (yards to go) we would try for it," Butler said. "But we had all the confidence that he would make the first. He's just a powerful runner and he kept his balance."

Dickson did better than that and the Snyder defense could hold Big Spring no more.

"I don't get tired," Dickson said of his busy night. "When you touch the ball you don't feel anything." No, but the opponents do.

The Steers pounded out 284 yards rushing and completed enough passes on their touchdown drives to balance out the offense. But their line and running game controlled the contest, as shown by a 3-for-4 first down success — all on runs.

"It shows the confidence in the people we got up front," Butler said of the fourth down tries. "They were the ones saying, 'let's go for it,' and it was a little far for a field goal and against the wind in those (fourth down) situations."

Dickson's TD culminated a 13-play drive that was kept alive when Snyder had 12 men on the field on a Big Spring punt. The Steers went 54 yards on their next drive with Robert Valencia going over from the 2-yard line.

Snyder (2-2) quarterback Matt Parker had much trouble with his passing, missing mostly high on his first seven attempts.

"It was a lot of miscommunication with the receivers I think," said Sndyer halfback Chris Mitchell, who ran for 70 yards. "It was just a lot of missed blocks and a lot of missed tackles (for us)."

But Parker did throw a beauty to Marlowe Riggins in the fourth quarter for a 56-yard touchdown. That and a two-point conversion made the score 14-11 Big Spring.

"They caught us on the pass," Butler said. "We were kind off asleep after their TD. We were in man (to man) coverage and the kid back there was a sophomore."

But by then the Steers offense had taken over. Big Spring got the ball back and went 80 yards for a score. Dustin Waters, who shared time with Crenshaw at quarterback, ran for six yards on a fourth and three at the Tiger 17-yard line. Waters took it in on a keeper for a 21-11 Steer lead.

In the final 9:19 of the game Snyder ran only two plays. The first an interception by Rodriquez that set up his score.

The Steers are now 2-1, losing only by four points at Lubbock Estacado since being blown out by Borger 25-0 in their opener Sept. 2.

"This is a great win for us because we played so terrible the first time we played at home," Butler said.

Jury does not indict Sanders

CINCINNATI (AP) — A grand jury has decided not to indict Deion Sanders on a felony charge for his confrontation with a police officer at Riverfront Stadium.

The Cincinnati Reds outfielder was indicted Friday on only a first-degree misdemeanor of failing to comply with a police officer's order. The Hamilton County grand jury's decision was a setback to police who wanted the two-sport star prosecuted on a felony.

"We've said all along it didn't happen the way the city said it did and that came out in the grand jury," said James Keys, Sanders' attorney.

Sanders was arrested Aug. 8 and charged with misdemeanor counts of failing to provide a driver's license and resisting arrest during a confrontation with an off-duty Cincinnati police officer working as a guard at Riverfront Stadium.

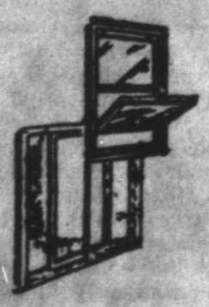

The officer said Sanders, who made the last out in a game that night, tried to leave on his motorscooter through a pedestrian gate, argued when stopped and then drove away when told he was under arrest. The officer, Herb Kohus, was dragged 30-40 feet.

Police upgraded the charges on Aug. 9, tacking on a felony count of failure to comply with a police officer's order and two more misdemeanor counts of fleeing the scene of an accident. The fourth-degree felony carried a maximum penalty of five years in jail.

The case then went to the grand jury, which chose the one misdemeanor count Friday and in effect dropped the other four. Sanders, who pleaded innocent to all charges, faces up to six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

RANGERS: Greenwood tops Fightin' Bucks

gers some breathing room.

Still, the Bucks drove to Greenwood's 13 with 58 seconds remaining before failing on fourth-and-three.

"We played a good game," said Stooksberry, whose Bucks scored 32 fourth-quarter points to defeat Kermit 52-39 last week. "We've got no excuses. We got beat by a better football team."

Greenwood, leading 14-10 at the half, scored on all but one second half possession. Stooksberry and Greenwood coach Bob Purser pointed to two critical plays as allowing the Rangers to hold on to win.

Purser said it was a 5-yard facemask call against Alpine after the Bucks had apparently stopped Greenwood on fourth down midway through the third quarter with the score 21-10. The miscue allowed the Rangers to continue a 13-play, 64-yard drive.

Senior fullback Richard Martin capped the drive with a 1-yard run and Josh Jones' kick gave the Rangers a 28-10 lead.

"There were some huge plays," Purser said. "That fourth down facemask was the biggest for us. There were a lot of huge plays, but I think that was the turning point for us."

Stooksberry said the biggest play was Smith's final touchdown.

"That last touchdown was probably the biggest play of the game," he said of Smith, who finished the night with 150 yards on 11 carries.

"We had the momentum going. Until then, it looked like we were going to have a chance to pull it out."

The reason the Bucks were in the game was the passing of Kevin Losoya and the receiving of Lance Posey. Losoya hit Posey with touchdown passes of 15 and 75 yards. Marcos Rodriguez threw a halfback pass to Miguel Mucharraz for 23 yards and another score.

Losoya finished the night 11-of-17 for 219 yards.

There were early hints of the fireworks that were to come in the second half.

Audey Molinar converted a second-quarter Greenwood fumble into a 24-yard field goal on the half's final play. Six plays earlier, a Losoya touchdown run had been called back due to holding.

But most of the offensive output in the first half occurred in the first 6:39. Greenwood scored on its first two plays from scrimmage.

The Rangers' first score came on a 44-yard pass from Josh Jones to T.J. Pfannenstiel with 9:48 remaining in the first quarter.

Alpine answered with a 49-yard, 9-play drive on its next possession. Losoya hit Miguel Mucharraz from 24 yards out to cap the drive. Molinar's point-after tied the game at 7 with 5:36 remaining in the opening quarter.

Greenwood's Indavong Phonasa answered with a 56-yard run off-tackle.

"We put a play on that's a little different out of the wishbone." Purser said. "Basically, it's a dive. But instead of giving it to the fullback, we give it to a running back. They were running their linebackers fast to the option, which left it open."

Greenwood is off next week. The Rangers play hosts to Reagan County in the District 8-3A opener in two weeks. Alpine's homecoming will be next week against Van Horn.

Frogs look for 'gem' effort to oust 'Horns

Associated Press

Texas Christian trails the Texas Longhorns 20-58-1 in the all-time series between the Southwest Conference teams, but some of those 20 victories have been gems that have sustained the Horned Frogs.

The Horned Frogs ended a string of 24 consecutive losses in 1992 with a 23-14 victory that snapped a five-game Longhorns winning streak and sent them tumbling to a 5-6 finish.

TCU spoiled Texas' hopes before in 1961 with a 6-0 victory that kept the Longhorns' from an unbeaten season and a chance at the national championship.

"We had won five in a row," Texas coach John Mackovic said of the 1992 shocker. "Perhaps, some of our players thought it was going to be just another Saturday afternoon. Clearly, it didn't turn out that way."

TCU's big 1992 victory was an upset, but the Horned Frogs will get much more respect from No. 15 Texas (2-0) today in Amon Carter Stadium with a 2-1 record that includes a victory over Kansas.

In the weekend's other SWC opener, Texas Tech, dizzied by back-to-back losses to No. 2 Nebraska and No. 21 Oklahoma, is a 6-point favorite in Jones Stadium against Southern Methodist (1-2), a last-minute winner over New Mexico last week.

Houston (0-3) is a 37½-point underdog at No. 20 Ohio State and Baylor (3-0) is an 11-point underdog at No. 19 Southern California.

Rice (0-2) plays at Iowa State (0-3) with no odds listed and No. 12 Texas A&M (2-0) is a 22-point favorite to extend its 21-game Kyle Field winning streak against Southern Mississippi (2-1).

One of TCU's largest crowds will be on hand hoping for another major upset. They're anticipating a sellout for the first time since 1984.

A central part of TCU's legendary victory in 1961 was then Texas coach Darrell Royal's comment about TCU, when he compared the team to a cockroach. "It isn't what he eats or totes off, but what he steps into and messes up," Royal said.

From 1968 through 1991, TCU didn't "mess up" any of Texas' seasons. But two years ago, in John Mackovic's first year as Texas head coach, it happened again. He still remembers.

"I remember the players were tearing down the goal posts," Mackovic said. "Usually, the fans do it."

Texas Tech will go against Ramon Flanigan, the SWC's leading passer and total offense leader with 271.3 yards per game. He's completing 64.1 percent of his passes and has accounted for 70 percent of the Mustangs' offense.

Baylor coach Chuck Reedy started the season with plenty of tailbacks, but injuries to freshman Jerod Douglas and senior Brandell Jackson have Kalief Muhammad in charge of the position.

"It's a real opportunity for me," Muhammad said. "When the backup and the starter get hurt, it's a chance to catch the coach's eye and have them say 'This guy can do the job.'"

That's how Muhammad hopes it turns out when the Bears play Southern California today.

The Rice Owls actually started the season thinking Cotton Bowl. But those dreams are quickly fading after their 0-2 start. They hope to begin correcting things against the Cyclones (0-3).

Coach Kim Helton's Cougars actually are showing improved numbers in each of their three losses. But that trend will be severely tested by Ohio State.

Michigan assistant returns

■ Colorado coach Bill McCartney returns for the first time to Ann Arbor after coaching under Bo Schembechler as the No. 7 Buffaloes face the No. 4 Wolverines.

Associated Press

Colorado coach Bill McCartney's first visit to Michigan since 1982 has caused such a stir in Ann Arbor that even the Wolverines are caught up in it.

So much so, they've added Tyrone Wheatley to the welcoming committee.

The star tailback, one of the preseason Heisman Trophy favorites, will help mark McCartney's return to his roots today by making his first appearance of the season in the key matchup of the day in college football.

"This is a great challenge," said McCartney, who left an assistant's position under Bo Schembechler to begin a rebuilding job at Colorado.

"Ever since I took this job, I've wanted to take a team back there and play. I'm very excited about this."

The seventh-ranked Buffaloes, coming off a 55-17 victory over No. 16 Wisconsin, will be the first team to see No. 4 Michigan at near full strength. The Wolverines were without Wheatley in victories over Boston College and No. 9 Notre Dame.

Now seemingly healed from the separated right shoulder sustained in an Aug. 23 scrimmage, the senior said he's ready to put the injury behind him.

"I can't go out and think I have to be careful," Wheatley said. "My mentality is to practice like I'm playing in a game."

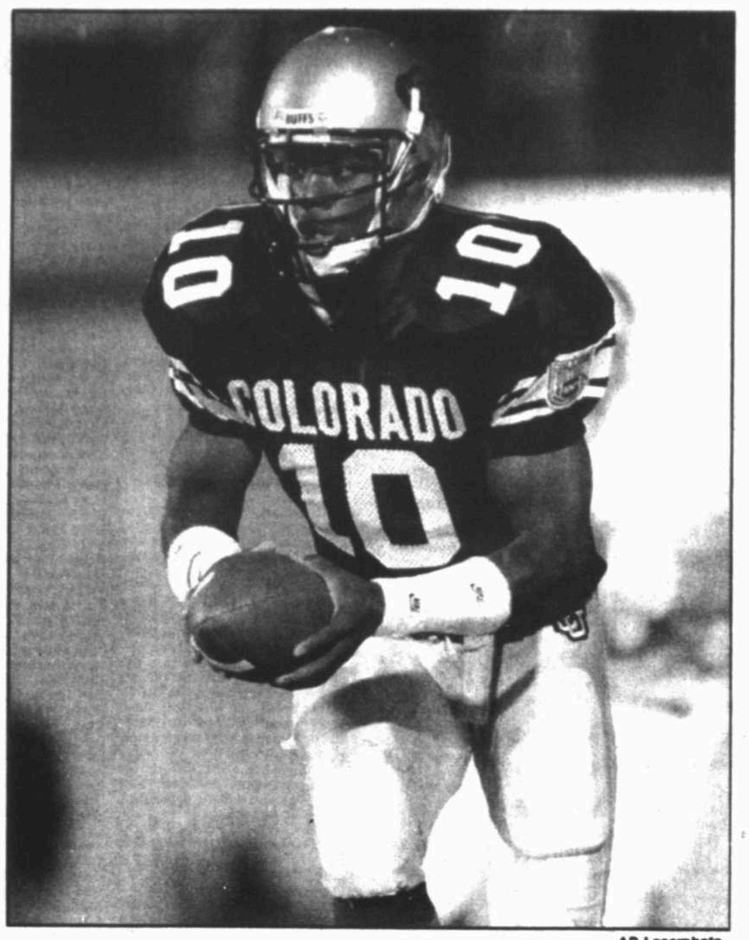

In other matchups of ranked teams, No. 3 Florida State takes its 19-game Atlantic Coast Conference winning streak against visiting No. 13 North Carolina; No. 17 Washington is at No. 6 Miami; Wisconsin entertains No. 25 Indiana, and No. 18 UCLA tries to rebound from a 49-21 loss to Nebraska against No. 22 Washington State.

In other Top 25 games, Pacific is at No. 2 Nebraska, Rutgers at No. 5 Penn State, No. 8 Arizona at Stanford, Purdue at No. 9 Notre Dame, and East Tennessee State at No. 10 Auburn.

Also, Tulane is at No. 11 Alabama, Southern Mississippi at No. 12 Texas A&M, No. 15 Texas at Texas Christian, Baylor at No. 19 Southern California, Houston at No. 20 Ohio State, No. 23 Tennessee at Mississippi State, and Western Carolina at No. 24 North Carolina State.

At Ann Arbor, Michigan coach Gary Moeller said Tshimanga Biakabatuka (228 yards, 2 TDs in two games) will start at tailback, but Ed Davis and Wheatley also will get work.

"The main thing Tyrone has to avoid is another hit just like the one he was injured on," Moeller said. "That was a strange hit."

Colorado quarterback Kordell Stewart, shown in last week's win over Wisconsin, will lead the team for coach Bill McCartney, a former Michigan assistant.

With much of the pregame attention focused on Wheatley, quarterbacks Tood Collins of Michigan and Kordell Stewart of Colorado have been overlooked.

Neither should be.

Stewart has passed for 456 yards and three touchdowns and run for 136 yards and three TDs. He had 301 yards total offense in the victory over Wisconsin.

Collins threw for 258 yards against Boston College, then drove the Wolverines into position for Remy Hamilton's game-winning 42-yard field goal in their 26-24 victory against Notre Dame two weeks ago.

"We're not coming out of there accepting anything less than a victory," Stewart said. "If we do what we have to do, we should win."

At Tallahassee, Fla., the Tar Heels (2-0) will be trying — again — to show they are for real against the defending national champions, who haven't lost an ACC game since joining the conference three years ago.

Last season, North Carolina was unbeaten when the Seminoles came calling, but they looked like pretenders after losing 33-7.

"The more you win, the more you fight the law of averages, and somebody is gonna get us sometime," Bobby Bowden said of his Seminoles (2-0). "Between North Carolina and Florida State, the gap is not wide in my opinion.

"It's so tight they could come down here and beat us this week."

At Miami, some Hurricanes view the game against the Huskies as a chance to settle a debate started in 1991, when both team finished unbeaten but had to share the national title when they couldn't meet in a bowl game.

"A lot of guys playing now were there when we won the national championship and were at the White House," Miami senior quarterback Frank Costa said. "They stole some of our thunder."

At Madison, Wis., the Badgers (1-1) must slow Indiana's Alex Smith, a redshirt freshman who gained 221 yards last week, to stay in the Big Ten race.

Smith, whose rushing total against Kentucky broke the conference freshman record, has three straight 100-yard games for Indiana (3-0), which has averaged 379 yards per game on the ground, second in the nation.

"We were humiliated; we've got to move on," Badgers coach Barry Alvarez said. "We'll have our hands full against Indiana. It's a huge game for us."

At Los Angeles, UCLA (2-1) also will be trying to regain some stature lost against Nebraska.

The Cougars (2-0), 40-27 losers to the Bruins last season, haven't allowed a touchdown this season. Coach Mike Price said the game is very important for a building program hoping to become a regularly respected one.

"We're going to be ready. We're not going to let this opportunity slip by," Price said. "This is an important game for us.

NCAA cites two major violations in letter of inquiry to Alabama football

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gene Stallings admittedly knew his star player had signed something for someone. Now the question is: Was the Alabama coach diligent enough in getting to the bottom of the whole Antonio Langham affair?

The NCAA apparently doesn't think so.

Langham's eligibility was one of two potentially "major" violations cited Thursday by the NCAA in its official letter of inquiry, delivered to the school nearly two years after another former player, Gene Jelks, accused the Crimson Tide of wrongdoing.

The school, which has won six national championships and is ranked 11th in the country this season, could be facing probation for the first time.

Langham and his uncle, Clyde Goode, both say Langham told Stallings about his dealings with a sports agent in a New Orleans bar just hours after Alabama won the national championship at the 1993 Sugar Bowl.

"I told him to call his coach and tell him what he had done," Goode said. "He said he did."

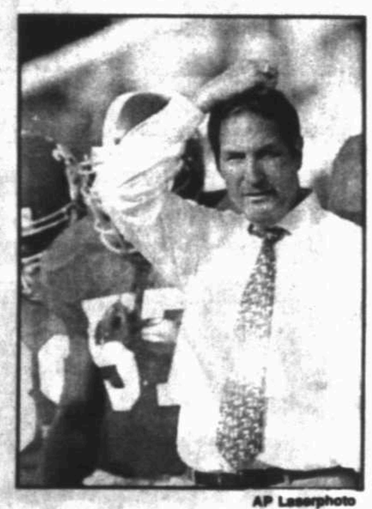

Stallings, though, said he was never told by Langham that an agent was involved and put the matter aside when the player said he wanted to return for his senior year. However, the coach's comments in an interview with The Atlanta Journal-Constitution raised questions about his judgement in not pursuing the matter further.

"(Langham) told me the guy (sports agent Darryl Dennis of Washington, D.C.) wouldn't leave him alone," Stallings said, "that he was trying to celebrate and so forth after the (Sugar Bowl) game, and he just sort of basically signed to get rid of the guy."

Langham played the first 11 games for Alabama last season before his dealings with the agent came to light. He was declared ineligible for the Southeastern Conference championship game and the Gator Bowl and now plays for the NFL's Cleveland Browns. Langham declined comment Friday.

Stallings refused to discuss the matter further when questioned Friday by The Associated Press as he headed off the practice field in Tuscaloosa after the Tide's final preparation for Saturday's game against Tulane.

"I'm not going to talk about Antonio Langham," Stallings said. "I've said all I'm going to say. I told the NCAA all I know about it."

AP Laserphoto

NCAA questioned whether Alabama head coach Gene Stallings was diligent in handling former player Antonio Langham's dealings with a sports agent.

Other Alabama officials also declined to comment on the case Friday, standing by a four-paragraph statement released the previous day by university president Roger Sayers.

Former Alabama player Antonio Langham '...told me the guy (sports agent Darryl Dennis of Washington, D.C.) wouldn't leave him alone...that he was trying to celebrate and so forth after the (Sugar Bowl) game, and he just sort of basically signed to get rid of the guy'

Gene Stallings, Alabama football coach

There was a sense that Alabama has escaped the investigation without serious damage to its reputation, which has been tarnished only by a public reprimand two decades ago. Indeed, the Tide seems assured of escaping the most damaging sanctions: a ban on television and post-season play and a loss of Southeastern Conference revenues for one year.

Under NCAA bylaws, Alabama is subject to two years probation, a reduction of scholarships and expense-paid recruiting visits by prospects, and a ban on off-campus recruiting by coaches.

Loss of TV games was not a possible penalty listed by the NCAA. And bowl trips could be off-limits only if the NCAA finds the dreaded "lack of institutional control." However, enforcement director David Berst said in the inquiry letter, "We did not uncover systematic abuses."

The other issue is Stallings. A coach can be fired, suspended or reassigned within the athletic department if he is "known to have engaged in or condoned a major violation," the NCAA rulebook says. Or, if a coach remains active with the program after breaking the rules, his school is subject to a ban on post-season play.

Asked whether he was worried about his job security in light of the NCAA charges, Stallings said, "I think everybody is always concerned about that. I'm going to do the best I can. I'm concerned about my job every week."

The other allegation made by the NCAA involves sports agent and admitted Alabama fan Jerry Albano, who arranged loans totaling $10,000 for Jelks in January 1990, shortly after he had played his last game for the Tide.

Albano said he still can't understand why he was cited since sports agents routinely loan money to players after their college careers are over.

"I'm sorry I did it, but I swear I'm still not sure I did anything wrong," he said. "I went out of my way to make sure he got those loans after his eligibility was up."

Albano said he used to be a season ticket holder and member of Alabama's booster club, but he cut his ties to the university at least five years ago when he became a sports agent.

"I let everything go because I didn't want to cause the university any trouble," he said.

However, NCAA rules say a booster is still considered a "representative of athletic interests" even if he cuts all financial ties to the school. "Once an individual is identified as such a representative, the person retains that identity indefinitely," the bylaw says.

Such a person is barred from dealing with athletes who are still enrolled in school — even if they have completed their eligibility.

■ NFL Roundup

Despite a 3-0 start — perhaps a victory better than most expected at this point — the Kansas City Chiefs aren't sneaking up on anybody.

One of the reasons is coach Marty Schottenheimer, who keeps sneaking up on them. A running back or receiver without a firm grip on the ball can be victimized at any moment.

"I'm swatting at the ball, trying to create the thought in their mind that when they're in traffic, they have to take care of the ball," Schottenheimer said. "You do silly things from time to time, because they can be the easiest things to remember."

The Chiefs have been great students. Their NFL-best plus-10 ratio in turnovers is undeniable evidence that Schottenheimer's "protect-the-ball" policy has been a success.

"As long as I've been coaching, as an assistant and as a head coach, it's been a point of emphasis for us," he said. "Now, young players start thinking, 'I've got to hang onto the ball.'"

That sort of wisdom isn't lost on Chuck Knox, whose Los Angeles Rams will try to upset the Chiefs Sunday at Kansas City. He knows turnovers are one of the most important statistics in the game.

"Most of the time you will average getting the ball about 12 times a game," Knox said. "When you're plus-10 in three games, that means you have had the ball almost an entire game more on offense."

With a controlled offense led by Joe Montana and an aggressive defense that has recovered all eight fumbles it has caused, the Chiefs are making the most of their opportunities. But that's not new.

Since 1990, the Chiefs have a plus-75 ratio. The Pittsburgh Steelers are next at plus-40.

Knox, whose 1-2 Rams are minus-1 in turnovers, is impressed with Kansas City's numbers.

"No. 1, they're teaching ball security on offense," he said. "No. 2, they have a mental attitude on defense. The other team may make some catches, but they're going to knock the ball out of there."

To date, teams with plus ratios are 24-9. Those on the minus side are 17-31.

"I rest my case," Schottenheimer said.

Elsewhere Sunday, it will be Atlanta at Washington, Cleveland at Indianapolis, Miami at Minnesota, Tampa Bay at Green Bay, Cincinnati at Houston, New England at Detroit, New Orleans at San Francisco, San Diego at the Los Angeles Raiders, Pittsburgh at Seattle, and Chicago at the New York Jets.

On Monday, it's Denver at Buffalo.

The New York Giants, Dallas, Philadelphia and Arizona have the week off.

Miami and San Diego, who along with the Chiefs and the Giants are the only remaining unbeaten teams after three weeks, must survive stiff road tests to remain that way.

Four weeks ago, Dan Marino was, well, not really Dan Marino. Still trying to recover from the ruptured Achilles tendon that prematurely ended his 1993 season, the Miami quarterback was 4-for-12 for 37 yards with two interceptions in an exhibition loss to Minnesota.

Vikings safety Vencie Glenn wasn't fooled by that.

"I guarantee that when we play him in the season, he'll be vintage Marino," Glenn said after the Aug. 26 game.

In the first three weeks of the season, Marino has averaged 313 passing yards and three touchdowns per game.

"I told you so," Glenn said this week.

The Vikings (2-1) enter Week 4 having allowed a league-low 33 points, giving quarterback Warren Moon hope that Marino won't go on a rampage. Moon insists the Minnesota offense will have to do its share, however.

"You know going in against a guy like Marino that you have to put some points on the board," Moon said. "I have to be more productive."

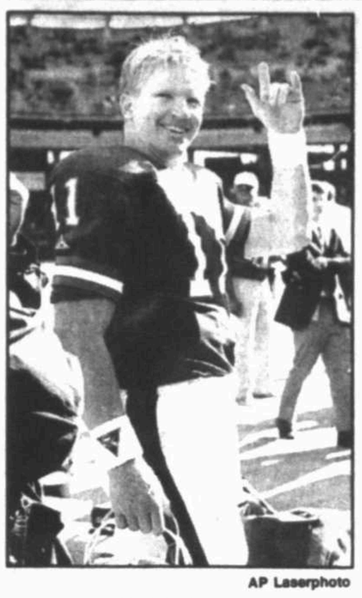

San Diego is the most surprising of the 3-0 teams, but the Raiders (1-2) aren't looking for the Chargers — off to their best start since 1981 — to back off. That's wise, because the Raiders haven't beaten the Chargers the last three times they've visited the Coliseum.

After losing by a combined 59 points the first two weeks, Los Angeles rebounded to beat Denver 48-16, handing the winless Broncos their worst loss at Mile High Stadium since 1968.

"We started off making plays and it snowballed," Raiders coach Art Shell said. "We played 60 minutes of football."

Despite their surprising start, the Chargers cannot relax.

"It is as important for us as it is for them," coach Bobby Ross said. "To be able to get this game up there, to be sitting at 4-0 would be a real positive factor at that point."

Phil Simms

Simms rejects offer

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Phil Simms apparently won't be quarterbacking the Arizona Cardinals. At least not yet.

Simms' agent, David Fishof, said the Cardinals made an offer that has been rejected.

"The salary cap put Phil Simms out of football and probably will keep him out," Fishof told NY 1, a New York cable station.

Confirming that the Cardinals had called to talk about Simms, Fishof had earlier told NY 1 that "an offer has been made."

Fishof said the sides will continue to negotiate.

"I still don't know anything, and I still haven't talked to anybody from out there," Simms said from his home in Franklin Lakes, N.J. "If somebody wants to contact me, I will listen."

Simms, a commentator for ESPN, said he hadn't spoken with Fishof on Friday.

Cardinals coach Buddy Ryan was said to be unavailable Friday to enlighten anyone who's managed to follow the quarterback controversy up to the latest twist.

That twist came Thursday, after Ryan indicated newly acquired Jay Schroeder would probably be taking the snaps against Minnesota when the Cardinals return to action following this weekend's bye.

Are there any other good quarterbacks out there, he was asked.

"Yeah, that guy who works for ESPN is not bad," Ryan said.

Earlier this month, looking forward to the Sept. 11 game with the Giants that turned into the second loss of an 0-3 season, Ryan compared Simms unfavorably to his replacement, Dave Brown.

In an interview last Wednesday, Simms said he couldn't envision returning to football now, and on Friday, he said he hadn't changed his mind.

"There's nothing that could make me go back to playing right now. I've stepped away," Simms said.

"To go play now would be such a short-term thing, it would just set me back in the business I'm into."

Klingler returns to Astrodome

HOUSTON (AP) — David Klingler isn't sure how welcome he'll feel when he returns home to the Astrodome on Sunday as starting quarterback for the Cincinnati Bengals.

"It's going to be fun, I think, at least until the game starts," Klingler, who played home games at the Astrodome when he attended the University of Houston. "It will be a good experience coming back playing in the Astrodome for the first time since college."

Klingler managed a measure of success despite a lack of protection last week as the Bengals dropped to 0-3 with a 31-28 loss to New England. He completed a career best 21-of-29 passes for 266 yards and two touchdowns but was sacked seven times.

The Bengals have allowed 11 sacks in three games. That, combined with an Oilers team angry at being 0-3, could make for a homecoming that's less than warm for the three-year pro, who hasn't played in the Astrodome since his record-setting days at UH.

Despite the Bengals' dismal start, Klingler is optimistic and thinks his team is about to pick up its offensive pace.

"It's encouraging to see that we're moving the ball on offense," he said. "We're not where we want to be. We just have to score enough to win.

"It's more enjoyable than not being able to do anything on offense. A big part of winning is learning how to win and that's something that we're still working on here."

Klingler's toughness is winning him support among his teammates, just as it did with the Cougars. He was once sacked 11 times by the Texas A&M defense, but he kept completing passes in the UH run-and-shoot.

"I think Dave is emerging as a leader and showing toughness," Cincinnati coach David Shula said. "He got sacked seven times but he still put up four touchdowns and two touchdown passes.

"It takes time for that to evolve. We're in the middle of that process right now."

Dodgers renew Lasorda pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Manager Tom Lasorda, whose future with the Los Angeles Dodgers had been subject to speculation, had his contract extended through the 1995 season Friday.

Lasorda, who turned 67 a day earlier, has spent 45 years in the Dodgers organization as a player, coach, scout and minor league and major league manager. He has managed Los Angeles for the last 18 seasons.

The surprising Dodgers were leading the NL West with a 58-56 record when players went on strike Aug. 12, eventually causing owners to cancel the rest of the season. Under Lasorda, the Dodgers had finished first in six previous years and won the World Series in 1981 and 1988.

"I know I can still do the job for them," Lasorda said during a conference call. "I haven't lost my enthusiasm for this game or my desire."

There had been rumors that the Dodgers might not bring Lasorda back and instead hire another manager to help speed the team's youth movement.

Former Dallas QB Danny White files for bankruptcy

PHOENIX (AP) — Danny White, the former Dallas Cowboys quarterback who coaches the Arizona Rattlers Arena Football League, has filed for reorganization of his personal finances under protection of the U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

In petitioning for protection from creditors while reorganizing, Danny White said he has about $50,000 in assets to cover $11 million to $13 million in debts.

The petition filed Sept. 8 said most of the debts were a result of unsuccessful real estate ventures he made during the 1980s when he was playing for the Cowboys.

White's attorney, Robert Spurlock, said Thursday that most of the property has been repossessed by lenders who now are pressing White to cover the difference between what they were owed and what they got through resales.

White, a resident of suburban Gilbert, told the federal court he expects to have some money for creditors. Spurlock said White's financial reorganization can be accomplished "if the creditors accept a lesser amount over a long period of time" rather than forcing White to liquidate.

White's list of creditors included AmWest Savings Association of Dallas, three loans totaling $6.4 million, and Benton Land Fund, a Dallas limited partnership to which he owes $3.5 million.

White played collegiate football at Arizona State University in suburban Tempe.

LEE-MHS: Rebs stage shutout

(From 1C)

the Bulldogs to just 21 yards offensively and one first down in the first half. Five of Midland's six possessions in the first half lasted just three plays.

"We know what they do, how they do it and why they do it, but their kids just outplayed our kids tonight," said Midland coach Ronnie Reeger. "We couldn't get any surge by our offensive line at all."

Lee's offense did surge and surged quickly, scoring on the opening drive when quarterback Dedrick Adams found the district's leading receiver Jerry Stanford behind the secondary for a 57-yard touchdown 2:06 into the game for a 7-0 lead after Chris Boyd's point-after.

Two series later, Lee used a 39-yard punt return by Stanford to set up the Rebels at the Midland 18. The Bulldog defense stiffened and seven plays later Boyd kicked a 28-yard field goal for a 10-0 with 1:07 left in the first quarter.

Lee had amassed 107 yards of offense in the opening quarter compared to 14 for MHS.

The Rebels again took advantage of a Stanford punt return to set up shop at the Midland 38. Four runs to Melvin Dunson set up a Stephen Hunter plunge from the 1 for a 17-0 lead.

In the second half, Lee took advantage of a MHS roughing the kicker penalty of punter Kevin Jordan to keep a drive alive at the Lee 44. On the next play, Adams found Stanford again for 43 yards and a first down at the Midland 13. Three plays later Adams found Theo Macklin for 10 yards and a score to cap the 12 play, 88-yard drive and improve to a 24-0 lead. It was during this drive that Dunson went down after a four-yard run and did not return to the game.

The Bulldogs tried to open up its offense in the second half, but several dropped passes stymied any attempts at a comeback.

"Coleman hit them in the hands and that's all he can do," said Reeger. "Then, as the game wore on, they started to bring everybody and we lost our poise some."

Receiver Steven Littlejohn did snag two Coleman passes for 126 yards, including an 83-yard sprint, but Midland could not score on a fourth-and-eight from the Lee 10 when Rebel linebacker Michael Hall tipped a pass intended for Lee Maston.

Midland High continues its tough road to open district play when the Bulldogs travel to Abilene next Friday to face No. 2-ranked Cooper at 8 p.m. at Shotwell Stadium. Lee will face Abilene High (0-4) at Memorial Stadium.

Bobcats capture first win of year

LUBBOCK — San Angelo Central quarterback Bobby Townsend rushed for two touchdowns and passed for two more to lead the Bobcats to a 35-12 win at Lowrey Field Friday.

Central picked up its first win of the year, improving to 1-1-2 on the year while Coronado, of District 3-5A, drops to 1-3 overall.

Townsend, who finished the game with three yards rushing, scored on runs of 12 and five yards during the game. He completed 10-of-18 for 249 yards including touchdown strikes of 53 and 25 yards to receiver Elliott Bowman.

Central led 14-7 at half thanks to Townsend's two rushing touchdowns to offset a 39-yards interception return by Frederick Tobias for a Coronado score.

The Bobcats outscored Coronado 21-7 in the second half.

Running back Toby Davis rushed for 178 yards on 20 carries, including a 13 scoring jaunt in the third period.

San Angelo opens District 4-5A play Friday when they host Odessa High.

Cooper awakes in second quarter

ABILENE — No. 2 state ranked Abilene Cooper trailed cross town rival Abilene High 3-0 after one quarter of play, but exploded for 21 second quarter points on the way to a 50-22 District 4-5A victory.

Cooper is now 4-0 on the season and 1-0 in 4-5A action, and will host Midland High next Friday. Abilene High fell to 1-3 and 0-1. AHS will be at Midland Lee's Homecoming Friday.

Cooper quarterback Zac Allen rushed for three touchdowns and passed for a two-point conversion to lead the Cougars.

AHS held a 3-0 lead in the first quarter on Joey Rodriquez' 29-yard field goal, but Cooper's Jamine Rozzell took over, rushing for 162 yards and two touchdowns while Dominic Rhodes had 77 yards rushing and two TDs.

STANFORD: Rebel gains crucial field position

first time this year the senior had been held to under 150 yards. His longest run of the night was 34 yards early in the third quarter. The MHS offense went three and out seven different times as the MHS passing game was non-working for three full quarters while Lee keyed on Coats.

"The talk all over town was of Roy Coats this week," said Lee defensive back Lee Lauderdale, "but he had been running against smaller teams and we played like we can. We did a good job of keying on Coats and still managed to cover the rest of the playing field."

Lee junior linebacker J.B. Honeyman said, "We pretty much had our eye on Coats. We had a great game plan and went out and played hard ball. I don't think he has seen hard ball like we played tonight."

MHS coach Ronnie Reeger, however, said blame shouldn't be placed on the shoulders of Coats.

"When we look at the film, I think we will see that we were beaten up front," Reeger said. "And we didn't complete a pass for three quarters. Lee was just coming at us all night. Our quarterback (Craig Coleman) hit the receivers, but we didn't catch the ball. We had too many series with just three downs to work with. We could never get an offensive surge of any kind."

It was clear that Lee would have its sights planted firmly on Coats. In the Lee locker room was a sign that read, "We don't believe in Superman," referring to a recent story that compared Coats to Superman qualities after a city rushing record of 337 yards against El Paso Bel Air.

So, now Lee leads the city rivalry by a 22-10-2 margin and 11 of the last 12 meetings, but it was hard to find any joy coming from the mouth of Lee head coach Earl Miller after the game. And Miller usually loves shutouts.

"This may have been the most costly game of the season for us," Miller revealed. "(Melvin) Dunson may have cracked a bone in his shoulder and probably will be out for the season.

"This is a costly victory for us, but luck hasn't been with us too much this year. It's something we're going to have to deal with."

Dunson performed the bulk of the Lee rushing game this season. He had 130 yards on 26 carries against the Bulldogs and now has 559 yards rushing this season, and was well on his way to crashing the 1,000-yard barrier. No other Rebel back had more than 100 yards rushing this season coming into the MHS game.

Coats still has 744 yards rushing this season. Stanford now has 14 catches for 373 yards and three touchdowns.

The question may now become, can Lee win with passing and punt returns?

And MHS must re-group quickly. The Bulldogs play No. 2 state ranked Abilene Cooper next week on the road.

"It's going to be a challenge for our team to get ready this week to play another great team," Reeger said.

And unbeaten Lee will be hoping that a running back emerges as they test Homecoming waters against Abilene High at Memorial Stadium.

With Dunson on the shelf, Lee isn't exactly thrilled with its win over MHS. The price paid may have been too high.

KICK: Rankin now 1-3

at that position. Two other quarterbacks, including junior Joel Armandarez who went down in week two, were not suited out for the Garden City game.

While both teams hope for better things to come next season, the rivarly between Rankin and Garden City did not seem diminished.

On the Bearkats third offensive series of the first quarter, they went 65 yards in 11 plays for the games' first touchdown.

On Rankin's ensuing possession, Watson faked left at the line and then went right into the end zone for a 59-yard scoring run to tie the game at 7-7.

But Watson's glory was short-lived when with 2:20 left in the first half he was bounced out of bounds and suffered the shoulder injury.

"We just ran out of quarterbacks," said Rankin coach Raul Sanchez. "We were really crippled after that."

The Bearkats (1-2-1), however, had troubles of their own. In the first quarter, they fumbled the ball at their own 25. But Rankin gave the pigskin right back with an interception.

Not to be outdone, Garden City coughed up the football again at their own 22 yard line. The comedy of errors continued when Rankin let the ball slip through their hands again with another fumble.

Garden City butterïingered the ball three times while Rankin gave up the pigskin six times.

"Obviously, that didn't help us at all," said Bearkats mentor Dennis Bryant. "But it was good to win again."

With Rankin playing hurt, the Bearkats began taking advantage. Garden City went on drives of 40 and 53 yards. And although they failed to score, it began to take a toll on the depleted Red Devils.

"No doubt we were tired, but our kids didn't give in," said Sanchez.

With 4:05 left to play, Garden City looked to put away Rankin. In seven plays they went from their own 46 yard line to the Rankin one.

There they were turned away when Harp fumbled the ball.

An outstanding defensive stand by Garden City gave the Bearkats excellent field position at the Rankin 33 after a 29 yard punt.

Four plays later Harp nailed the ball through the uprights.

For Harp it was a measure of redemption. He had previously fumbled the possible winning score at the one. He had also missed an apparent winning point after attempt last week.

"It felt great," Harp said after winning kick. "It was a great finish to a great game."

The Bearkats host Christoval next Friday, while Rankin is at home against Sanderson.

Bailey signs with Pacers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Former Indiana Hoosiers star Damon Bailey said signing a contract Friday with the Indiana Pacers fulfilled a longtime dream.

"You know, you dream of playing in your home state all your life and I have an opportunity to continue to do that," Bailey said. "Hopefully, I'll have a long career here."

The contract, worked out last week, covers one year. But neither Bailey nor Pacers president Donnie Walsh would reveal further details.

Bailey said he felt the Pacers did the best they could for him while he is sidelined with surgery on both knee. The contract covers him during the four to six months he is expected to be out.

Bailey, who said he has been plagued by knee problems since his junior year in high school, said he thinks he'll be able to come back in the second half of the season and prove he is worth re-signing.

"We felt it would be best for me to get it done early, get it out of the way where I could come in slowly, I could learn the system, I could learn how it is play in the NBA," Bailey said. "Then I could come back my second year, or halfway through this year, and in my second year be able to really play and play well."

The Pacers delighted Indiana fans when they made Bailey the 44th pick overall in the NBA draft last June in Indianapolis.

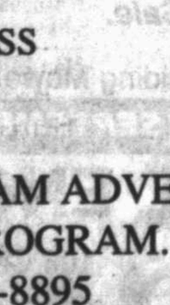

Bailey, a former Indiana Mr. Basketball, was honored with a sculpture of himself commissioned by his hometown of Heltonville. The piece will feature a life-size silhouette of Bailey on one side and his high school and college records on the other.

Indiana's fascination with Bailey began when he was an eighth grader.

Pete Sampras, playing his first match after a stunning fourth-round loss in the U.S. Open, rallied to defeat Magnus Larsson 6-7 (3-7), 6-4, 6-2, 7-6 (7-3) of Sweden in the Davis Cup.

Sampras, Martin give U.S. lead

■ Davis Cup

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP) — Pete Sampras and Todd Martin posted four-set victories Friday, giving the United States a commanding 2-0 lead over Sweden in the Davis Cup semifinals.

Martin continued his mastery over Stefan Edberg, beating the Swede 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3 in the opening singles of the best-of-5 series.

Sampras, playing his first match after a stunning fourth-round loss to Jaime Yzaga in the U.S. Open, then rallied to defeat Magnus Larsson 6-7 (3-7), 6-4, 6-2, 7-6 (7-3) in a serve-and-volley shootout on the Scandinavium Arena's fast carpet.

Jared Palmer and Davis Cup rookie Jonathan Stark can clinch the Americans' victory if they win Saturday's doubles against Jan Apell and Jonas Bjorkman.

Russia led defending champion Germany 2-0 in the other semifinal at Hamburg.

After losing the first-set tiebreaker, Sampras, the world's top-ranked player, took command by breaking Larsson's serve early in the next two sets.

The fourth set went with service all the way, forcing another tiebreak. But Larsson, who reached the French Open semifinals this year but has struggled during the summer with elbow problems, had his chances.

In the fourth game, he had four break points, but Sampras held with a final ace.

Larsson also had a break point in the eighth game, but again Sampras' big serve got him out of trouble.

Martin's victory was his third over Edberg in thre matches this year.

Martin, ranked sixth in the world, rallied from a 3-1 deficit in the third set to turn around the match.

Martin fell behind 1-0 in the third set after Edberg broke him in the opening game. Martin broke back in the eighth game, winning the first point with a perfect lob. He then held to love and broke Edberg again to win the set.

"I was fortunate to start playing well just in time," Martin said. "After I won the first set, I lost 10 of 14 games ...

"Stefan was playing very well. I was almost finished in the third set. To win that set was very important. If Stefan had won that set, it would have been very tough for me to win (the match)."

Martin made some changes in the third set and they worked very well.

"The biggest change was my second serve," he said. "He was returning it very well, so I started htiting it harder and with a little more spin. It threw his timing off and helped me."

Martin broke for a 4-2 lead in the fourth set after hitting a forehand return in the open court on Edberg's weak second serve.

Edberg broke back in the next game, but dropped his serve again to trail 5-3 after starting with a double-fault.

Musgrave blazes Goody's oval

■ Goody's 500

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Ted Musgrave, showing unexpected muscle on the half-mile Martinsville Speedway oval, set a track qualifying record Friday in winning the pole for Sunday's Goody's 500.

Driving a Ford Thunderbird from Jack Roush Racing, Musgrave turned a fast lap of 94.129 mph, considerably quicker than he had managed in practice.

Musgrave, whose two previous Winston Cup poles came earlier this year on the three-quarter-mile trioval at Richmond, Va., hit favored Geoff Bodine with a double blow, knocking him off the pole and breaking his record of 93.887 mph, set in April 1993.

Bodine, who has five poles this season and set the target for Musgrave Friday with a 93.845, said, "The sun was shining and it was getting warmer out there. I didn't think today was really conducive to a track record."

Musgrave said, "We were in the top 10 in practice, but it's awfully hard to get the right line here. You miss it by six inches and you're way off. But I knew that first one was a smooth and consistent lap, which you need here at Martinsville.

"Then I tried to make it better on the second lap and drove maybe six feet deeper into the corners and I had one of the worst second laps of the day. You just can't push it too hard in the turns here."

But the first lap was enough to give Musgrave his second pole in three weeks.

"When I won that first pole at Richmond (in March), I thought it was just luck or something like that," said Musgrave, completing his first season with Roush. "Then, when we won the second pole at Richmond, I though that maybe it was something about that track.

"But I guess what it is is that this team just puts together cars for excellent qualifying. Now we just have to get better tuned in on race setups."

Musgrave has only three top-10 finishes this season, his best a sixth on the road course at Sonoma, Calif.

Jeff Burton was third Friday at 93.835, followed by fellow rookie John Andretti at 93.580 and Musgrave's teammate, Mark Martin, at 93.567.

Rounding out the top 10 were Jeff Gordon at 93.414, Rusty Wallace at 93.299, Dale Jarrett at 93.272, Sterling Marlin 93.253 and Bill Elliott at 93.198.

The top 20 qualifiers locked in starting positions in the up to 36-car field, but only 17 get to pit on the front stretch, a considerable advantage.

Dale Earnhardt, who goes into Sunday's 500-lap race holding a 227-point lead over Wallace in the Winston Cup championship chase, was the first of the day's 41 qualifiers and wound up 20th on the grid at 92.810. And, despite being out of the top 17, Earnhardt gets to pit on the front side by virtue of being the defending series champ.

"We were the first car out for qualifying and that probably didn't help anything," Earnhardt said. "But we'll take what we got and get ready for Sunday."

Earnhardt, a five-time Martinsville winner whose best finish in his last four starts here is 11th, added, "We haven't had a lot of luck here lately, and if we can catch a break or two on Sunday, I think we'll be in pretty good shape."

Rain shortens Brickyard Senior; Lancaster leads Hardees Classic

■ Golf

INDIANAPOLIS — Chi Chi Rodriguez, back in form after spending three months recovering from a torn hamstring, was off to another good start in the Brickyard Crossing Championship on Friday.

The rain washed out the round.

Rodriguez, a fan favorite on the Senior PGA Tour, was at 1-under-par after seven holes when a the rains came. After 2½ hours, with about half the field still on the course, organizers shortened the tournament to 36 holes.

"Now that I've healed up, I'm playing better," said Rodriguez, who has finished fourth, third and second in his last three events.

Playing better, and still drawing huge galleries.

"The American people like a little guy like me facing big guys like George Archer," he said. "They see themselves in me, so they follow me a lot."

The 58-year-old Puerto Rican, a flashy showman at times on the course, said his enjoyment of the fans is curtailed by his concentration level.

"I don't even know they're following me sometimes," he said.

He also said he doesn't pay attention to the prize money available.

"My attitude is, this is better than cutting sugar cane for a dollar a day. I never know how much money we are playing for. I just play."

Friday's cancellation marks the second straight year that a round has been lost in the Indianapolis stop of the senior tour. Last year, a heavy rainstorm knocked out the final round, giving Bob Murphy the victory.

Hardees Classic

COAL VALLEY, Ill. — Neal Lancaster, whose only tour victory came this year in a rain-shortened tournament, shot his second straight 5-under 65 Friday to take the second-round lead in the soggy Hardees Classic.

Lancaster's 10-under 130 at the Oakwood Country Club put him one shot ahead of Bob Estes, who also had a 65 Friday to follow an opening-round 66. Kirk Triplett also shot 65 Friday, giving him a two-round 132.

First-round leader Robert Wrenn managed to shoot par and was bunched with Kenny Perry, Russ Cochran and Mark McCumber at 7-under after another chilly, unseasonable day for golf where rain slickers, sweatshirts and umbrellas were the fashions of the day.

"It's fun so far. Can you get me a couple of rainout days now?" asked Lancaster, his sense of humor intact.

In May, Lancaster won the Byron Nelson Classic in a six-way playoff when the tournament was reduced to 36 holes by rain.

"The weather was perfect the first 13 to 14 holes and then it started getting colder and it started raining. But there was no wind today," said Lancaster, playing early in the day before the rain picked up.

Lancaster, who has taken only one golf lesson in his life, learned to play by looking at pictures in golf magazines. He claims that the explanations of proper mechanics that accompany the pictures are usually too complicated to understand.

That he enjoys the game is apparent.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1994

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Understatement will serve you better than exaggeration when making claims for a product or service. The simple truth is the best selling tool you have! Family support affects your ability to achieve a dream. Proper nutrition and regular exercise will keep you feeling on top of the world. A second job may be the answer to a temporary cash flow problem. A younger person's admiration encourages you to aim higher.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: football great "Mean Joe" Greene, singer Sheila MacRae, musician Linda McCartney, Jazz Age novelist F. Scott Fitzgerald.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Aim for success, not perfection. Mate or business partner will help you find ways to save money and conserve your resources. A triumph is easy to forecast. Have more faith in your abilities.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Someone's eagerness to be your best friend could make you uneasy. Be careful not to say or do anything you will regret later on. A lot of people really do want to help you now.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Do not try to take on the establishment by yourself. Family members will back you in any reasonable endeavor. You find hope where once there was none. A good evening to expand your horizons!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Help a family member get it together. Show up for a date on time. Indulging mate's whim could prove lucky for both of you. Happy romance puts a spring in your step.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Finding out if an insurance or health plan is right for you will take research. Make some phone calls Monday morning. Invite a friend along if you go shopping this afternoon.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Spending time with a confident bunch of people makes you feel strong, too. Time will prove you were right about a financial matter. You find a member of the opposite sex's sunny personality very attractive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A hobby could mean extra money in the bank if you take it one more step. Applause and attention make this a special weekend for you. Call a friend and share some good news.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your mate or business partner may be the center of attention in the weeks ahead. You find that you are happy to relinquish the spotlight for a while.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): While things are shaping up nicely, a goal remains just out of reach. Persevere! Everything happens in its own good time. An unexpected opportunity to travel merits serious consideration.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A visit with those you cherish would make this a day to remember. Resist the temptation to drop in on someone unannounced. Playing backgammon or chess with a prospective mate reveals their true nature.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Doing your fair share of domestic chores will put other household members in a better frame of mind. Go that extra mile to promote family harmony! Spending time outdoors will prove very invigorating.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your own common sense points out the fallacies in someone's reasoning. Refuse to be pressured into doing something you might regret later on. Keep your cool when romance heats up.

Quayle thinks Gore gets easy ride from media due to Clinton

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. — Dan Quayle says Vice President Al Gore is getting a much easier ride from the media than he did, and Gore has President Clinton to thank.

"Richard Nixon told me in 1989 I was going to be fortunate to have an extremely popular president, and therefore, having an extremely popular president, the media has to go after someone, and guess who they are going to go after — the vice president," Quayle said.

Dan Quayle says Al Gore is getting an easier ride from the media than he did.

"From that perspective, Al Gore is rather lucky. He has Bill Clinton around, and Bill Clinton takes all the heat."

Quayle spoke Thursday at a fund-raiser for Rep. Don Sundquist, the Republican nominee for governor.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Like other Elvis Presley wannabes, Travis Tritt used to mimic the King in the mirror. It got his father all shook up.

"I was the kind of kid that would stand in front of a mirror with a pencil in my hand and sing Elvis songs at the top of my lungs until I'd open both eyes up and look out the corner of one eye and see my father looking at me like I was crazy," the country star said in an interview to be broadcast this weekend on the new syndicated TV show "The Road."

GREENWOOD, Miss. — The bright lights weren't big enough to attract Clint Black to do a weekend show at a county civic center.

In fact, they weren't there at all.

The staff at the Leflore County Civic Center couldn't get lights to hang from the ceiling. They also planned to use a generator for power.

Clint Black cancels concert at the Leflore County Civic Center.

So Black canceled.

The civic center began offering refunds for the $28 tickets Friday. The country star's concert was nearly a sellout, with fewer than 200 seats remaining in the 3,000-seat arena, center manager James Belk said.

MOBILE, Ala. — Tom Wolfe, the dandified, double-breasted author of "Bonfire of the Vanities," is taking it all off!!!

Fwooooooop! Gone is THE VANILLA SUIT! SWISSSSSSH. Away with THE DOTTED, SILK TIE! Say goodbye to THE TWO-TONED SHOES! Thuh-dunk.

The spiffy Wolfe allowed as much to a bookish set Thursday when he explained that he was going "up the country" to hunt fowl with the local gentry. He said he would traipse through the woods in beige chinos — A FIRST!

Wolfe spoke to an audience of about 400 at a Friends of the Library gala.

FRESNO, Calif. — The business formed by Dick Rutan for his record-breaking round-the-world flight in the airplane Voyager has gone bankrupt.

"I tried to keep the company afloat," the aviator said Thursday. "I could not line up venture capital."

Voyager Aircraft Inc. was formed in 1981 as the corporate structure for the flight Rutan took with Jeana Yeager. They circled the globe in a nine-day, 25,000-mile without stopping to refuel in 1986.

Rutan, the sole shareholder, liquidated his business July 7. He said the bankruptcy was the result of an IRS audit.

Sally Eckhoff of the Village Voice has analyzed the semiotics and semantics of TV talk shows, and has come to the following conclusions:

— Tears were once the style on talk shows, but nowadays most guests try to display "unflappable calm, over-enunciating a few choice words."

— When the guest says, slowly and carefully, in response to another guest's statement, "please," the guest means "pish and tosh."

— When the guest says "thank you," the guest is saying, "You've just showed the entire nation that you are indeed the (jerk) I've always said you were."

— When the guest says "excuse me," the guest means "shut up."

— The guests hurl accusations to and fro, writes Eckhoff, "until the host or hostess catches some smutty detail flying by and hoists it up for a group salute. 'What's this about your vacation to Tahoe? With your sister's husband?' "

— This is to be followed by the accused hooting "Wrong!" or emitting loud sighs and "phony carefree laughter."

YOU ARE COMMANDED to appear and to answer before the County Court at Law of Midland County, Texas, Ground Floor, Midland County Courthouse, 200 West Wall, Midland, Midland County, Texas at or before 10:00 a.m. on the first Monday after the expiration of 42 days from the date of issuance of this citation, being at or before 10:00 a.m. on Monday, the 31st day of October, 1994, then and there to answer the petition of J. DURWOOD OWEN in Cause No. 8006, styled, "J Durwood Owen vs. Marc Ruiz, d/b/a Auto Buyers " in which J. Durwood Owen is Plaintiff and March Ruiz, d/b/a Auto Buyers, is defendant. The petition, filed on May 27, 1994, discloses that the nature of the suit is as follows: Based upon Defendant's breach of contract and fraud or misrepresentation, Plaintiff seeks to recover from Defendant actual damages of at lease $10,000.00, exemplary damages and attorneys' fees. Plaintiff and defendant agreed that Plaintiff would purchase from Defendant a 1986 four-door Jaguar automobile (VIN SAJAV1347GC448837) which was on consignment to Defendant. Plaintiff paid the purchase price of $8,000.00 which Defendant accepted. Defendant did not pay the consigned seller. Defendant was thus unable to deliver the Plaintiff title to the vehicle free and clear of all liens and encumbrances, and Plaintiff lost the vehicle.

If this citation is not served within 90 days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

"It's 4 U" Game Rules:

Anyone 18 years or older can enter except employees (and family members of employees) of the Midland Reporter-Telegram, Brite systems Inc., Associated Publishing Co., and their advertising and promotion agencies.

The "It's 4 U" Game is designed for people who live in the Midland and Odessa calling areas and no purchase is required to play or win prizes, although long distance toll charges may apply if you call from outside the Midland-Odessa calling area.

Look for the "It's 4 U" Game ad here and in the advertisers' service directory in the Midland Reporter-Telegram every day until November 5, 1994. Call 560-2400 and enter any four-digit advertiser's code listed in the directory. You will hear a brief advertiser's message and, if you are one of five instant winners chosen at random each week, you will win one of that week's prizes. If you are an instant winner, listen for details about claiming your prize. In order to claim your prize, you will be required to give your name, age, address and telephone number. The more often you call, the better your chance of winning a prize.

You can also enter a second chance drawing for unclaimed prizes by hand printing your complete name and address and daytime phone number on a 3"x5" piece of paper and mailing it in an envelope to "It's 4 U" Second Chance Game, P.O. Box 1650, Midland, Texas 79702, so that it is received before the deadline, October 30, 1994. Enter as often as you wish, but submit only one entry in each envelope. Entries become the property of the sponsors. None will be returned.

Each game begins at 12:01 a.m. Monday and ends at 11:59 p.m. Sunday. Each week for eight weeks ending November 5, 1994, five entries will be selected at random and will win one of that week's prize. The total value of all prizes to be awarded in the "It's 4 U" game will equal $4,000 or more. The names and cities of winners will be published in the Midland Reporter-Telegram Classified Ads page. No substitution of prizes is permitted. Only one prize will be awarded to each winner.

By entering, winners authorize the use of their names, cities or photos for publicity purposes. Winners may be required to sign an affidavit of eligibility and release. Taxes are the responsibility of winners. Void where prohibited.

"It's 4 U" Game Rules:

Anyone 18 years or older can enter except employees (and family members of employees) of the Midland Reporter-Telegram, Brite systems Inc., Associated Publishing Co., and their advertising and promotion agencies.

The "It's 4 U" Game is designed for people who live in the Midland and Odessa calling areas and no purchase is required to play or win prizes, although long distance toll charges may apply if you call from outside the Midland-Odessa calling area.

Look for the "It's 4 U" Game ad here and in the advertisers' service directory in the Midland Reporter-Telegram every day until November 5, 1994. Call 560-2400 and enter any four-digit advertiser's code listed in the directory. You will hear a brief advertiser's message and, if you are one of five instant winners chosen at random each week, you will win one of that week's prizes. If you are an instant winner, listen for details about claiming your prize. In order to claim your prize, you will be required to give your name, age, address and telephone number. The more often you call, the better your chance of winning a prize.

You can also enter a second chance drawing for unclaimed prizes by hand printing your complete name and address and daytime phone number on a 3"x5" piece of paper and mailing it in an envelope to "It's 4 U" Second Chance Game, P.O. Box 1650, Midland, Texas 79702, so that it is received before the deadline, October 30, 1994. Enter as often as you wish, but submit only one entry in each envelope. Entries become the property of the sponsors. None will be returned.

Each game begins at 12:01 a.m. Monday and ends at 11:59 p.m. Sunday. Each week for eight weeks ending November 5, 1994, five entries will be selected at random and will win one of that week's prize. The total value of all prizes to be awarded in the "It's 4 U" game will equal $4,000 or more. The names and cities of winners will be published in the Midland Reporter-Telegram Classified Ads page. No substitution of prizes is permitted. Only one prize will be awarded to each winner.

By entering, winners authorize the use of their names, cities or photos for publicity purposes. Winners may be required to sign an affidavit of eligibility and release. Taxes are the responsibility of winners. Void where prohibited.
