The official said the various militarized zones were created by the armistice agreements of 1949 and any violations must be discussed by the Armistice Commission composed of representatives of Syria and the United Nations. The zone in question is occupied by Syrian forces east of the Palestine line, he said. It was claimed by both sides in 1949 that the other side intended to pull their army out of the zone. Now, he said, the Syrians are accused, frontier of a cease-fire from that date on. There could be the demilitarized zone, he said, by pulling the troops back into the zone.

Discrimination In Labor Must Go, Mitchell Asserts

By STERLING J. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rapid and massive changes in the labor force in the 1960s will require the abandonment of job discrimination based on race, age, sex and color, Secretary of Labor James H. Mitchell said Saturday.

Mitchell made public a Labor Department study showing that industry will be hit by a tide of young and inexperienced workers just as it faces a shortage of men in their working prime—the group that provides managers and foremen.

The proportion of older workers and working women will climb sharply, the report said. Between 1960 and 1970, the number of every five employees will be over 45, and by 1970 one of every three will be a woman.

If management can cope with these impending shifts—and with the need for better-trained and better-educated employees—the country's manpower resources can support a 50 per cent gain in production, Mitchell said. That would mean a 750-billion-dollar output in 1970, compared with a recent rate of 485 billion.

Hinted at, but not directly discussed in the comprehensive study, are questions raised by some economists whether the economy will grow rapidly enough to absorb a net increase of 15 1/2 million in the labor force in the decade without painful unemployment.

Mitchell told a news conference that the study assumes there will

Blast Rocks Classroom In School

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two fifth graders who wanted to see the space program in action exploded an elementary school classroom when they unwittingly detonated a small dynamite cap.

The blast Friday at nearby Leisure City sent one of the experimenters to the hospital and left four children with sore, minor burns, and small cuts from flying wire. Thirty-one other pupils escaped injury.

Scott Hockensmith Jr., 11, was hospitalized for treatment of burned hands. Hospital officials said his condition is fair. His companion in the experiment, Landis Robinson, also 11, suffered a cut on his left hand and minor burns.

Another pupil found the inch-long dynamite cap and gave it to Hockensmith and Robinson. None of them knew what it was.

Because they had been sparks fly when a dry-cell battery was shorted with a piece of wire, the boys decided to short the battery on their desk top near the front of the classroom. They used the wires on the dynamite cap. A classmate had brought the battery to school.

"I had my back to the class, getting ready to write a lesson on the blackboard, when the thing went off," the teacher, Billy Scott, said.

"It rattled the windows, but none of them broke. I couldn't figure where the noise had come from, and then I saw some of the children bleeding."

Survey Of Schools Set

Fluvanna High School and Ira High School are among those selected "by machine" to take part in Project Talent, a national survey of the talents of American youth.

Dr. Robert Anderson of Texas Tech's psychology department is directing the survey in this region.

High school students from 13 schools in West Texas will participate.

The project, which will survey 25 areas of knowledge and aptitude including English and arithmetic comprehension, mechanical and clerical abilities and creativity, includes public, parochial and other private schools—large and small—urban and rural in each of the 48 states of the continental United States.

State Ownership Of Tidelands Checked

PORT ARTHUR (AP) — Two state officials checked Friday into the possibility of asserting state ownership to valuable submerged land in the marshes south of the city.

The officials were Land Commissioner William Allcorn and a representative of the state attorney general's office.

The tract consists of a chain of shallow lakes extending along the rim of the Gulf of Mexico. The area has undergone oil and gas production and exploration since the late 1920s.

A year ago an inquiry was launched by sportsmen's clubs seeking entry to the lakes for public fishing.

Export Hike Is Expected

DALLAS (AP) — The National Cotton Council expects at least 8.5 million bales of U. S. cotton will be exported during the current marketing year ending June 30.

Hugo Dixon, chairman of the council's foreign trade committee, said Saturday.

"Any net increase in stocks and/or consumption abroad would increase the estimate," Dixon stated. He cited the current high rate of consumption abroad, and said if the trend continues the figure could be higher.

Export Hike Is Expected

Cotton production in the foreign free world is currently estimated at 16.7 million bales this season, compared with 17.5 million bales last year, and 16.8 million bales in 1958.

"Consumption of cotton in the foreign free world should approximate 22 million bales, Dixon said, an increase of 7.5 million bales over the previous season.

Negro Thinks Civil Rights Are Violated

DALLAS (AP) — A Negro minister who was asked to move into a mixed-population North Dallas area said Saturday he would present his case to the U. S. Attorney's office to see if his civil rights have been violated.

The Rev. J. J. Young, pastor of the Emmanuel Church of God in Christ, said Negroes live in virtually every block surrounding his home at 3000 E. 10th St.

"When I bought it," said the pastor, "I didn't know it was a street where white people were not wanting the colored to live. There are two or three houses up for sale to colored people on this block."

Young said a delegation of 15 to 20 white persons gathered while he was moving into the newly purchased brick structure Friday, and others called by telephone.

The pastor said the delegation was quiet and orderly, but told him there would be trouble if he moved in.

"I moved in, my old house because I want to go to sleep at night without fear," he said.

Scott Hockensmith Jr., 11, was hospitalized for treatment of burned hands. Hospital officials said his condition is fair. His companion in the experiment, Landis Robinson, also 11, suffered a cut on his left hand and minor burns.

bill provides for fines and jail sentences for any persons—licensees, producers, advertisers, sponsors and others—who knowingly and intentionally set out to deceive or defraud the listening or viewing public.

Bennett said he also would offer a bill to allow the Federal Communications Commission to suspend broadcasting licenses for limited times. At present the FCC can only revoke licenses permanently.

Long Term Study Panel Set By Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has completed setting up a long-term study commission on national goals which he first proposed more than a year ago.

The commission, headed by Henry Wriston, former president of Brown University, and Vice Chairman Frank R. Kane, former secretary of the Army in the Truman administration, and now board chairman of General Dynamics Corp., will be set up by executive order.

In a letter to Wriston, made public Saturday, Eisenhower said he hoped the commission will "develop a broad outline of coordinated national policies and programs for the next decade and longer."

The commission's work will be financed entirely with private funds. Eisenhower has said that difficulty in arranging the financing was what delayed the panel's formation. Exactly where the money will come from has not been announced.

The members announced Saturday are:

14 Solons Unopposed

By ROBERT L. FORD
Associated Press Staff Writer
Fourteen Texas Congressmen were big, broad, smiles of relief last week, the deadline passed without an opponent standing against them in the Democratic primary.

This leaves only 24 of the 24 members of the delegation forced to campaign.

An eighth Texas congressman faces a campaign, but his race will come in the general election, after Congress adjourns. He is Bruce Alger, Texas only Republican in Congress.

Alger's opponent will be Joe Pool, Dallas attorney and manufacturer, who is unopposed in the Democratic primary.

Alger will be selected in a GOP convention, not a primary. So far, no Republican has raised a protest against nomination of the only successful GOP campaigner in the state.

Any of the 14 incumbents who have no Democratic opposition could face a Republican sometime in the general election, but there are no announced GOP candidates yet.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson's name will be on the Democratic primary ballot for reelection without opposition. Sen. Ralph Yarborough's term expires in 1964.

Representatives without opposition May 7 are Wright Patman, Texarkana; Jack Brooks, Beaumont; Lindsey Beckworth, Gladewater; Speaker Sam Rayburn, Bonham; Clark Thompson, Galveston; Homer Thornberry, Austin; Bob Poage, Waco; James Wright, Fort Worth; Frank Bland, Wichita Falls; J. T. Rutherford, Odessa; George Mahon, Lubbock; Paul Kilday, San Antonio; Clark Fisher, San Angelo; and Bob Casey, Houston.

Pool tried for the office two years ago but lost in the Dallas primary to Barefoot Sanders, who in turn lost to Alger in the general election.

Strength of the opposition in the primary races depends on the type of campaign the opposition makes. But this early in the races it appears few incumbents can take it easy.

Notably absent this year is the usual array of cranks and

Exploring Meets Older Boys' Needs

Exploring, scientifically built on the expressed needs and interests of young men, filled with challenge and positive value is now available to the young men of America.

Exploring in posts is now broader in scope, more flexible and balanced in content, and simpler in method. Almost any worthwhile activity can be included, temporary or a specialty. These activities are adaptable to interests and abilities of members and leaders, supplemented by consultants.

To measure the activities being considered by a post six explorer experience areas have been defined: social, vocational, outdoor, personal fitness, service, and citizenship. The officers evaluate the proposed activity to see how many it provides of the six types—the more the better.

An outstanding development of the new program is the specialty which enables Exploring to appeal to young men through their own special interests. Specialties cover such diverse interests as science, auto mechanics, emergency service, and conservation. This specialization may continue for months or years and then change to another specialty or to none at all.

Cub Scouting Big Aid To Small Fry

Cub Scouting, with its nearly two and a half million boy members and adult volunteer leaders has been termed "America's largest and most dynamic parent and boy program."

Designed to help parents of eight, nine, and ten-year old sons help their sons through one of the most vital periods of life, the Cub Scout program is a year-round, home-centered program of activities. The Cub Scout learns to be helpful to others and to be self-reliant. The program teaches a boy to do interesting things—handicrafts, collections, games, stunts, nature lore, and hobbies with his parents.

In most packs, parents sign up with their boys, mothers serving as Den Mothers or helpers in other ways, and fathers signing up as den dads or pack committee men.

Cub Scouting has had an impact on many phases of America's society. It is found in rural areas, suburban homes and big city apartments. Cub Scouts are constantly on the go, working on the various requirements called for in their achievement program.

Cub Scouts get together in their weekly den meetings under the supervision of their Den Mother and den chief. This Cub Scout den is a small neighborhood group of boys who like to be together. They learn how to get along with other people and find out more about their world.

During the week each Cub Scout gets his father and mother to work with him on his various achievements. In this way home life is built more solidly and family teamwork is enriched. The pride of accomplishment of the boy is further strengthened at the monthly Cub Scout pack meeting attended by parents and Cub Scouts of the various dens.

With Boy Scouting so popular it was inevitable that some folks would want a younger boy program. Parents and institutions were demanding it. In 1926 the National Executive Board authorized the development of a program for younger boys.

The Laura Spelman Rockefeller Foundation made available $50,000.

John D. Rockefeller reputedly refused to argue with people if they did not agree with him.

GOD AND COUNTRY AWARD — Gary Worley, first class Boy Scout smiles as the Rev. Walter A. Mitchell, pastor of the First Baptist Church, tries on the God and Country award Gary has earned. The award will be presented today during morning worship services at the First Baptist Church, sponsor of Gary's troop. (Staff Photo by Gerry Burton)

God And Country Presentation Set

Gary Worley, a first-class Boy Scout, is scheduled to receive a rare award today.

He will become the first Boy Scout in Snyder to earn the God and Country Award.

The presentation is to be made today during the morning worship services at the First Baptist Church.

Young Worley is a member of Boy Scout Troop No. 33, which is sponsored by the First Baptist.

The God and Country Award is not a Boy Scout Merit Badge, but is recognition given by the church for service and spiritual achievement.

The goals of Christian Education and the objectives of Scouting coincide at many points. Both are concerned with the development of clean habits, wholesome associations and creative activities that build character and train for participating citizenship. They have a mutual interest in providing for young people, leisure-time activities that are favorable to the functioning of religion in concrete terms.

Gary Worley, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Worley, has been working for more than a year in achieving the God and Country Award. He has been counseled in his work by R. Virgil Mott, minister of music and education at the First Baptist Church, in his memory work, making maps and completing other requirements for the award.

Young Worley was reviewed by H. L. Wren, past president of the Buffalo Trail Council, Boy Scouts of America and a member of the council executive board, by Earl Perser, his Scoutmaster, and by Mr. Mott.

Ex-Resident Appointed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson appointed Garland Marshall, former Texas Extension Service official, as executive secretary to the federal committee for the rural development program.

The program is designed to help farmers in low income areas find better economic opportunities on and off the land.

Marshall, who is a native of Scurry County, Tex., has been coordinator of a rural development program covering 22 counties in East Texas, with headquarters at Nacogdoches.

The rural development program is conducted under joint supervision of the Agriculture, Interior, Commerce, Labor, Health, Education and Welfare departments, the Small Business Administration, and the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Silver Beaver Is Top Award

The Silver Beaver is the highest award which an adult leader can earn in Scouting, and naturally the award has not been passed out with abandon in the Buffalo Trail Council. In fact, less than 100 Silver Beaver awards have been made in the council since the first in 1923.

Six of these have gone to men in the Lone Buffalo district.

The first to receive the Silver Beaver from Snyder was H. L. Wren, who was presented the award in 1938.

The latest to get the Silver Beaver from this district are B. J. Bartels of Snyder and Sid Reader of Gail, who received their awards this year at the council banquet held recently in Big Spring.

Others from the district who have received the Silver Beaver are J. E. Blakey in 1944, Lyle Deffebach in 1947, and Nolan von Roeder in 1956.

Service Held For Tyler Civic Leader

Scouting Leads To Many Adventures

And boys join the Boy Scouts of America to do interesting things with friends, to learn to live in the great outdoors, and to have fun.

Several have found exceptional opportunities for high adventure through their Scouting affiliation. For some, Scouting experience has changed their lives by helping them to find the right path after their samples of experiences through Scout work.

Perhaps the foremost authority in America today on polar matters is Dr. Paul A. Siple, director of the United States Army's Office of Polar Affairs.

Paul was an Eagle Scout, who by hard work earned sixty merit badges that challenged his abilities. In 1923 Commander Richard E. Byrd agreed to take on his first Antarctic expedition some boy who had made a good record as a Scout. Hundreds of older Boy Scouts applied. After arduous tests Siple was selected.

After fourteen months in the Antarctic, according to Byrd's own testimony, Siple was as cooperative, intelligent, and mature as any member of the expedition.

A few years later on the second Byrd expedition Siple filled the position of chief biologist. In 1939 when he received his Ph.D. in geography he was chosen as leader of the Little America base of the United States Antarctic Service Expedition.

Some 17 years later he became deputy to Byrd who was in charge of the United States Antarctic programs, and in 1967 Siple was leader of the first party to live a full year at the South Pole.

Other Scouts have picked up Siple's lead. Three 15-year-old lads, Richard Douglas, David R. Martin, and Douglas Oliver, accompanied the Martin Johnsons on an African adventure. They were picked from among hundreds of qualified Scouts.

Today Dr. Douglas L. Oliver is a professor of anthropology at Country, all in Pennsylvania, and Los Angeles, California. From 1919 to 1922 he was regional Scout executive of Region III, serving Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware, and the District of Columbia.

In 1927 eight young men were selected from among Chicago Scouts to man the schooner "North Star" on the John Borden Field Museum Expedition to the Bering Sea and Arctic Ocean.

A few years ago Explorer Richard Lee Chappell was selected from Scouting's ranks and became

3 Executives Serve Scouts In 50 Years

Three men have occupied the position of Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America during its fifty years of existence.

First to hold this highest administrative post was Dr. James E. West. At the age of 34 this Washington, D. C., attorney accepted the task of putting the organization on a sound basis within a six-month period. The six-month period turned out to be a career lasting from January 27, 1911, when he was succeeded by Dr. Elbert K. Fretwell of Teachers College, Columbia University, who had been identified with the organization since its earliest days.

Dr. Fretwell served on the National Executive Board from 1933 to February 1, 1942. He was Chief Scout Executive until September 1, 1948, when he was succeeded by Dr. Arthur A. Schuck. Dr. Fretwell is the Chief Scout, succeeding Dr. West who died in May 1948.

Dr. Schuck entered Scouting in 1913 as a volunteer leader at Newark, New Jersey. In 1917 he entered Scouting professionally. He served as a Scout executive at Lancaster, Reading, and Chester.

Many Adults Aid In Scout Program

Dozens of adults leaders are required to keep an active Boy Scout program going, and the Lone Buffalo District composed of Scurry, Borden and Mitchell Counties maintains ample leadership to keep an ambitious program for boys in motion.

Leadership requirements range from the district committee to the unit leaders and their assistants, including such posts as institutional representatives, troop and pack committees, and various other positions which must be filled by adults keenly interested in boys and in the Boy Scout movement in particular.

Units are maintained in all counties which compose the Lone Buffalo District, and leadership has attracted the services of men and women of wide vocational and professional interests.

The top echelon of the district organization is the district committee. Most of those who serve in such posts are veterans in the Boy Scout movement.

Rev. Harry Vanderpool, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Snyder, is district chairman and Frank Wilson, superintendent of schools in Colorado City, and E. H. Williamson are the vice chairmen.

R. C. Patton of Snyder is the district commissioner.

Others serving in key positions are R. Virgil Mott, organization and extension chairman; Bill Wilson, finance chairman; D. V. Merritt Jr., leadership training commissioner; Jack Patchell, advancement chairman; Bill Brown, public relations chairman; Jerry C. Woodriddle, camping and activities chairman; and George W. Stewart, health and safety chairman.

Scout Magazine Is Big Aid To Boys

Almost as old as the Boy Scouts of America itself, celebrating its 50th anniversary in 1960, is BOYS LIFE magazine published monthly by the organization, particularly for Scouts but essentially for all boys eight to eighteen years old.

The magazine had a humble beginning. It was started in 1911 by Joe Lane, a Rhode Island Boy Scout. His first issue, scarcely more than a pamphlet, had a circulation of 6,000.

The Boy Scouts of America bought the publication in 1912 and made it the official magazine. The magazine was enlarged and contributions of material were obtained from excellent professional writers and illustrators. One of these, a young artist in his teens, was Norman Rockwell who started his famous career with the struggling publication.

Some of America's notables who helped the magazine by writing for it in its earliest years include Presidents Theodore Roosevelt, William H. Taft, and Woodrow Wilson; also Lord Baden-Powell, Admiral Robert E. Peary, Admiral George Dewey, and Orville Wright.

The editors of BOYS LIFE use stories and articles that present the basic ideals and principles of Scouting, namely character building, citizenship training, and physical development. But stories and articles are not restricted to Scouting.

Stories and articles on the outdoors, nature, science, sports, Scouting, hobbies, and crafts, and other subjects of special interest to boys are used. Professional writers contributing to BOYS LIFE are among the best in the juvenile field. Some regular departments and photographers cover outstanding Scout events over the nation.

Each year the May issue is written primarily by BOYS LIFE readers. A writing contest is an annual feature. The magazine is published monthly, except for a combined issue in November, and the winners see their stories and articles in the May issue illustrated by professionals.

Advertising is checked for its honesty and suitability for young people and enables the magazine to be self-sustaining. It has grown steadily to its present circulation of close to two million, with an average of almost three readers per copy.

Presidents Aid Scouting

One of the causes contributing to the success of the Boy Scouts of America has been the thoughtful and wholehearted way in which each President of the United States since Taft, in 1910, has taken an active part in the work of the movement.

Two Presidents, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Dwight D. Eisenhower, were both active in Scouting before they entered the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt was a founder and president of the Boy Scout Foundation of Greater New York and led a campaign to raise funds for its famous Tea Mile River camps in Sullivan County, New York. President Eisenhower has been a member of the National Executive Board of the Boy Scouts of America since 1948.

Scrapbooks Of Scouts

Going Abroad

In a bridges of Friendship project, many packs, troops and Explorer units of the Boy Scouts of America will prepare scrapbooks with captions in English and the language of the nation to which they will be sent. This is one of the activities planned for 1960 to mark the 50th anniversary.

Scrapbooks will contain pictures and articles covering unit activities including favorite Scout songs, mementos, recipes, games and skills. Units have been urged to include pictures of home life and such family activities as gardening, trips, barbecues, and material about the home community — its landmarks, industries, activities, and data on such group endeavors as worship, schools, libraries, theaters, recreation, local government, and natural resources. These activities will further the broad to know America better.

Between You And Me

By Jerry Jackson

A recent Broadway musical which we'll just call "Dadburned" introduced a character who might be looked upon as a very significant bit of a ditty entitled, to wit, "You Gotta Have Heart."

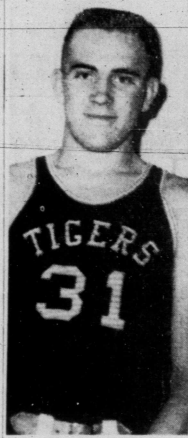

It puts to music the well-known fact that a person may have a lot of natural ability, but FIRST, he's gotta have heart—heart in this case meaning drive, determination, and an over-supply of intestinal fortitude.

Never has this adage been more aptly personified than in the case of one of this year's Tiger cagers by the name of Lynn Herndon.

Herndon, a senior in Snyder High, was looking forward to a big year sports-wise during his last year in the Tiger confines, and the future prospects for same looked nothing short of ray until the fickle hand of fate moved in. Last summer to deal him one off the bottom of the deck.

A highly painful and disheartening accident at that time resulted in his losing all the joints in his thumb, while severely mutilating the index, third and fourth fingers of his left hand.

To get the complete picture, it must be noted that he is left-handed and so it was that his sports future reached a supposedly abrupt and untimely end. No assumption could've been further from the truth in the case of the spunky and determined senior, though, for he has since fought back and mounted every obstacle in coming back from the disappointment of his tragic accident, and has earned a lofty spot in both the Tiger basketball lineup and the eyes of the student body.

LYNN HERNDON
Miles And Miles Of Heart

Converted To Northpaw

AND SO IT WAS that he switched from left-handed to right—a feat almost unheard-of in sports circles—and came back to bolster Tiger fortunes in a convincing manner.

When football season rolled around this past fall, the injury hadn't healed sufficiently for him to participate in that sport, but upon the arrival of the basketball season he braced himself and prepared to give it a flare. Surgery on the maimed hand had been set for December 16, but he succeeded in postponing.

Sophs Galore In Evidence At Baylor

WACO — Coach John Bridges is expecting a squad of 86, including 19 lettermen and 53 sophomores, when Baylor University opens spring football training here Monday, February 8. Spring game is set for 2:30 p.m., March 3.

Only 12 seniors, nine of them lettermen, are listed among the 86 squad members. Another senior letterman, Halfback Randy Brown, has decided to forego his final season to concentrate on his science studies. Brown is a pre-medical student.

Coach Bridges and his staff will be aided again by Raymond Berry, top pass receiver in the National Professional League. Berry, ace end with the Chicago Bears, will help install the pro style offense at Baylor last spring.

The 14 players who usually shared starting duties for the 1959 Cubs who compiled a 4-1 record, and are all returning include Jerry Harris of Odessa and Carl Choate of Pasadena at ends; Bob Crenshaw of Pasadena and James Moore of Harlingen, tackles; Robert Burr and Andrews, fullbacks; Allen of Wichita Falls and Ronnie Rogers of Garland at guards; James (Butch) Maples of Mt. Vernon, center; Don Trull of Oklahoma City and Robert Abney of Longview, quarterbacks; Ronnie Goodwin of Odessa, Bert Tate of Marlin and Don Adams of Groesbeck, halfbacks and Mack Thomas of Longview, fullback.

End Gerry Moore of Bonham, Guard Everett Frazier of Portales, N.M. and Fullback Jim Evans of Levee's Chapel are the 1960 Tri-Cityans.

Snyder's Mustangs stamped into Tiger Gym last night, and by utilizing the post-making abilities of forward Ronnie Turnbow and big center Billy Belew to best advantage, romped over Snyder's Tigers to the tune of 76-55 and in the same breath took over undisturbed second place in the District 3-AAA standings.

The loss plummeted the Tigers from a second place tie to a fourth place deadlock with Colorado City, which fell victim to previous cellar-dweller Lake View by 51-43 in last night's other 3-34 family fray.

Lamesa now continues to stand head-and-shoulders over the remnants of the district teams with a 11-1 white 3-0 record, while the Mustangs are a distant second with 3-3.

Lake View jumped into third with 2-3 while Snyder and Colorado City bring up the rear with 2-4 each.

Snyder's "B" team avenged an earlier loss at the hands of the Sweetwater five by downing them by 48-27 in a rough-and-tumble preliminary encounter.

Chilly Initial Canto
A frigid first quarter in which the Tigers failed to hit a single shot, spelled their doom early in the game as they lofted 17 futile attempts through that disastrous stanza with none of them finding the mark. The disadvantage imposed was too much to overcome, as the Tigers turned in an end total of 30 per cent completions from the field 19 hits in 64 attempts, while the Mustangs pulled a stopper in 27 of 67 for 40 per cent.

A pair of junior Tiger guards led the local onslaught in the area of point-making, as Bubba Fleming looked especially good while cranking and pushing shots while the latter monopolized play under the basket to score almost all of his points from close-in.

Rumaldo Sepeda was the only other Mustang to climb into twin figures, hitting for a dozen, while Steve Free and postman Charlie Gladson added 8 and 6 points, respectively, to the Bengal cause. Snyder was still in reach of the Pioneers going into the final stanza of play, as the Tigers trailed by only 42-53 at the time, but Sweetwater managed to efficiently bottle up Tiger scoring attempts during the last quarter to lengthen the spread by an additional 10 points. Quarterly scores—all to Sweetwater's advantage—read 13-7, 35-23, and 53-42.

Rallies To Down Wolves
COLORADO CITY—Lake View's Chiefs conserved their strength for the final quarter here Friday night in downing the Colorado City Wolves, 51-43, in a District 3-AAA clash here. The Chief win boosted them from the cellar position to third place in the standings, with their current record being 2-3.

The Wolves dropped into 3 tie with Snyder for fourth place, as both now possess 2-4 marks.

Lake View trailed by one point going into the last quarter, but rallied to outscore the Wolves by 20-11 in that stanza to take the win.

Colorado City's district scoring leader—Jerry Haley—shared high point honors in the game with the Chiefs' Bobby Shuffield, as each hit for 21 points.

Lake View's Kenneth Phillips was second high with 16.

Colorado City turned the tables on the Chiefs in a preliminary "B" game, winning by 43-35, with scoring honors being taken by Lake View's Raymond Walters, who dropped in 14 points.

Perry Loveless topped the C-City point-makers with 8.

Top World Record
SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A New South Wales swimming four some was timed in 3 minutes, 46.8 seconds Saturday night for the 400-yard free style relay. This is a half-half-second faster than the listed world record of 3:47.3 posted by the same four men two years ago.

The team is made up of John Devitt, John Konrad, Geoff Shipton and Warwick Webster. The race was a part of a water carnival staged to raise Olympic funds.

Races In Comfort
BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Eastern racing fans will be allowed to Tise their money on the rags in relative comfort Friday.

Bowie, the prize-encrusted track that likes to start its business before the ice is off the pond, is sporting a heated, glass-enclosed clubhouse and grandstand for the only time.

Gladson and Jimmy Don Robinson put them into a 2-1 lead, while forward Roger McMennamy followed in short order with two more gratis tosses to run the total to 4-3. Snyder, Belew took over at that point, however, sinking a free toss to knot the count, then drove in for a two-pointer, setting back in the process, and gained the subsequent bonus shot to put his Mustangs into a not-to-be-overtaken 7-4 lead.

Snyder finally broke the field goal drought when—with 45 seconds and quarter—Moffett looped one in from the top of the key to narrow the Pony bulge to 9-13.

Later in the canto Robinson zeroed in on a 30-foot pusher from 45 degrees. Free dropped one in from approximately the same distance. Moffett made good on a medium-distance set shot, and Robinson hit a free throw to bring the Tigers close at 16-19, which is an near as they were able to get through the remainder of the tilt.

Trailing by 21-35 Free won a shot with the halftime buzzer by sinking a one-hander from 30 feet as time ran out, thus bringing on the 23-35 intermission count.

The Tigers were hotter than a firecracker on the 4th of July during the second and third quarters, hitting just shy of 50 per cent. But an anemic 3 for 31 total during the first and last quarters sealed the fate, and sent them sprawling to defeat.

No less than six Snyder boys made good on field goal attempts during the big third quarter, with Fleming leading the way by pushing in a pair of goals and by looping in an underhanded hook under pressure following a bounce pass from Moffett.

Moffett earned a set shot and a drive-in himself, with Gladson, McMennamy, Lynn Herndon and Alex Cross each making good on a single field goal attempt.

During fourth stanza play, the Mustang cause was aided and abetted by the loss of the Tigers' two postmen via the foul route. Gladson went out with 4:12 remaining, while Robinson got the skates with 2:38 left.

Ware Leads Rees
Weldon Ware represented himself as "chief wrecker" for the Tiger "B" team in their 48-37 waltz to victory, as he contributed 13 points to the winning aggregate.

He was the only Snyderite to grace the twin-figures bracket, although Larry McNair was knocking on the door with 9-6 of which were run up during the fourth quarter play.

Garland Brock paced the Pony net-poppers with 11 points, while Don Grogan followed closely with 9.

Snyder lagged after a dismal first stanza, 4-5 but rallied behind the shooting of Ware, Eddie Phyl, and Travis Hatter to bring on an intermission lead of 17-12. The spread was increased to 31-19 in the third canto ended, from which point they coasted in to the triumph.

The Tigers next see action this coming Tuesday here at home, as kingpin Lamesa moves in to Tiger Gym. A victory for the Tornados in that one would represent the district title clincher for them.

SPIKES

A good reputation is the most important thing of all."

His concluding remark summed up his feeling for the thundering fullback, as he said that, "Jack will always be a boy who has a niche in our hearts at TCU."

Lamar Hunt, the millionaire owner of the Dallas Texans of the new American Football League, gave a brief statement which followed on the program.

He opened his short talk on a humorous note, as he remarked with a smile that, "I don't know if I should be here on Jack Spikes Appreciation Day or not, for we over in Dallas have had very little of the appreciation for him the past few years, as you can probably understand."

"You see," he continued, "I was an SMU graduate."

Concerning the new professional league of which he is an extremely important cog, the young Hunt (27 years old) had this to say: "We are trying in our program (Dallas franchise) to get as many Texas boys as possible signed up, as is Houston. We have a lot of pride in our boys, and are interested in keeping them near home."

In conversation with Hunt prior to the program, it was learned that he has signed 68 players to contracts, whereas the limit on the number of performers which he may contractually obligate is 70.

He seemed especially pleased to have plucked the Spikes plumb from the tree of graduating seniors, and added that, "I like to think that Jack Spikes' equally likeable wife was the guiding light in keeping Jack from going to Pittsburgh, Green Bay, or some other club, but kept him here in Texas where he belongs."

He topped off his comments by saying that he considered Jack and Jane to be one of the finest couples whom he has met anywhere.

The 30-minute film, entitled "TCU Highlights" was shown, and featured the high points which were evident in each of the Frog games through the past season. It ended the season with an 82-win-loss record, a share of the Southwest Conference championship along with Texas and Arkansas, and an invitation to play in the freshly conceived Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston against Clemson.

Following the presentation, to Spikes of the original proclamation which proclaimed him "Day" by Mayor Harold Bennett, Spikes himself offered a heartfelt response to a hungry audience which did not waver.

He opened, by saying that, "I wasn't born in Snyder, but with I had have been, I was born in Big Spring, if that means anything."

He extended his thanks and appreciation for all that has been done for him by those responsible for planning the day, and for the strong which turned out in his honor.

"Football has really been great to me, and I'll always appreciate the day, but the sport was responsible for my becoming an All-American, which is something that has always been in my mind."

He followed by giving a philosophical plumb on the playing of the sport, as he related that, "It really does something for you, as you have to learn to lose as well as win, just as it is in life."

It takes a great man to win, but even a greater man to lose and get up and come back fighting. The boy who participated and lost didn't really lose, but it is rather the boy who didn't participate who becomes the loser."

With a sly grin he topped off his comments by saying that, "Now, the only thing you have to do to get out the door is to buy a ticket."

He then turned to the crowd and said, "I hope you all enjoyed the day, and I hope you all enjoyed the game."

He then turned to the crowd and said, "I hope you all enjoyed the day, and I hope you all enjoyed the game."

He then turned to the crowd and said, "I hope you all enjoyed the day, and I hope you all enjoyed the game."

Palmer Leads By A Stroke

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Palmer, a professional in the 1940's, gave the younger generation another lesson in golf Saturday and leads the pack into the final round of the $100,000 Palm Springs Desert Classic. The gentleman from Dixie, now 41 and since 1955 a club professional in Tulsa, shot a 6-under par 66, his fourth straight sub-par round, for a 72-hole total of 272. He played the Bermuda Dunes Dunes Country Club course. The 90-hole circuit, played over four courses for four days, goes into the final 18 holes Sunday at the par 36-51 Thunderbird Country Club. Palmer, in quest of the $12,000 top money, held a one-stroke lead over another Palmer, young Arnold, no relation, from Ligonier, Pa., who also had a 66, registered on the Thunderbird course. The pace setter through the last two rounds, Wes Ellis Jr., a Texan now from West Caldwell, N.J., slipped well back with a 74 for 278. In the pro-amateur competition—each pro played in a foursome with three amateurs for 72 holes—former National Open champion Jack Fleck and veteran Jim Turnesa led their team to a tie. They had a best ball score of 230 and the two pros split a $4,300 pot. In the pro competition, three were tied at 274—John McMullin and Bob Goaly, with 68's, and Bill Johnston with a 67. Tommy Bolt was the big name in the 276 bracket. Bolt set a course competitive record of 31-32-63 for the new Indiana Wells par 36-36-72 course. He beat a 64 Johnny Bulla shot there in the 1950 Southern California Open. Tied with Bolt were Fleck, Tommy Jacobs and Fred Hawkins. Jack Burke Jr., Ken Venturi and Al Bessink shared the 277 honors. Tied at 279 were Ellis, Gene Littler, Dutch Harrison and Stan Leonard. National Open champion Billy Casper Jr., with his second 68 in a row, Doug Ford, Billy Maxwell and Paul Harvey were tied at 279. Scores of 288 and under qualified as the field was trimmed to 60 and ties for the final round. Joe Campbell, the New York youngster who shot a hole in nine Friday, and took a stout stake on the $50,000 prize put up by the Campbell, shot a 72 for 283. Campbell has to split the sum with a golfing pal, Buddy Sullivan, and perhaps with a friendly sponsor who is backing his tour. But unless another pro shoots an ace, he gets the full amount.

On-And-On Is Winner

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Calumet Fiam's On-And-On sprinted to a neck victory in the McLennan Handicap at Hialeah Saturday, beating the fast-closing Bald Eagle. On-And-On sped the mile and a half in 1:48.43. Tudor Era was third and Talent Show fourth in the field of nine. On-And-On, carrying 120 pounds with Steve Brooks riding, moved to the front at the first turn and never was headed. He paid $6.60, $3.40 and $2.80.

On-And-On had won the Orange Bowl and Tropical Park handicaps last month. The $40,560 he earned Saturday boosted his 1960 winnings in three races to $95,505 for Mrs. Gene Markley of Lexington, Ky. He earned $101,088 in 22 starts last year as a three-year-old.

Golf Crown To Teacher

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—An Ohio school teacher who never won a major golf tournament upset the veteran Mary Ann Downey 1-up Saturday to take the women's championship of Palm Beach title.

Mrs. Barbara Fitton, 26-year-old physical education instructor at a Hamilton, Ohio, junior high school, had a see-saw battle with her Baltimore opponent.

Neither was more than 2 up at any time and Mrs. Fitton trailed by one hole at one point.

Miss Downey, who has tried for 10 years to win the title, apparently scuttled her chances when she three-putted four greens.

Dallas Rangers Pick Business Manager

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas Rangers, the new addition to the National Football League Saturday named James H. Parker of Dallas as business manager.

Parker is assistant athletic director of the Dallas city schools. General Manager Tex Schramm said Parker will handle general administration of the office staff, including public relations, tickets, equipment and trainers.

Parker has handled public relations and equipment for Dallas' 15 senior and 14 junior high schools since 1950. He is a Texas A&M graduate.

Results were held up for several minutes after jockey Milo Valenzuela, aboard the second place Indian Maid complained that Silver Spoon had shut him off by lunging into the rail in the drive for the wire. The Santa Anita Park stewards disallowed the claim after viewing the films.

Silver Spoon was timed in 1:07.4 for the mile and one eighth to finish ahead of Mrs. Mary Keim's Indian Maid, second choice in the mutual betting, and the Argentine speedster Narva.

The Whitney fully returned $3.80, $3.20 and $2.20.

Silver Spoon took command on the turn for home and was leading by about 3/4 lengths over Indian Maid in the sprint for the wire.

THIS IS PROGRESS—That might be the comment which the two ladies above are making as they look out from the Snyder Country Club's temporary—and not-to-luxurious—pro shop. Standing in the doorway is Betty Henderson, the local pro, and at right is Ruth Bookout, who is one of the outstanding lady golfers to come out of Snyder. The makeshift shop has been put into use following the moving of the old club house, the site of which will hold the new, ultra-modern Country Club building, the construction of which will get underway in the near future. The building will be new from the floor up, with the swimming pool being the only structure carried over. Included in the plans will be a ball room of 36 by 56 feet with adjoining private dining room (24x24) and lounge (22x24).

Kelly Still Set To Quit

DETROIT (AP)—Red Kelly, star defenseman of the Detroit Red Wings, said Saturday 24 hours of thinking it over hadn't changed his mind about quitting hockey rather than be traded.

Detroit forward Billy McNeill also said he was sticking to his decision to quit the National Hockey League with Kelly rather than report with him to the New York Rangers.

The two were traded in a straight swap for Bill Gadsby and Eddie Shank Thursday night. The deal was called off when it was learned the Detroiters balked at leaving the Wings.

Kelly said NHL President Clarence Campbell had telephoned him again Saturday. Campbell said Friday after his first talk with Kelly that if the two Detroiters stuck to their decisions they would be placed on waivers. He gave them 24 hours to think things over. The 24-hour deadline passed without any official action taken.

January Rains Are Above Normal

The Snyder area started 1960 with the wettest January in more than a decade.

There was "measurable" moisture on six different days during the month to account for a total of 1.40 inches.

The biggest single rain of the month was on Jan. 4-5, when .70 was recorded here.

January is normally a "dry" month here. In fact, there have been only five times in the past 40 years when the January rainfall exceeded the 1.40 recorded this year.

Last year there was not enough moisture to measure here during the first month of the year.

The biggest January from the standpoint of rainfall was in 1929 when 2.42 inches were recorded. During the drought years from

Formula Is Adopted To Help Schools Hit By Flu Sieges

AUSTIN (AP)—Public schools hard hit by influenza this year will not suffer financially next year because of decreased attendance.

The State Board of Education adopted a formula Saturday adjusting this year's average daily attendance in flu-affected schools on past periods. It will be based on the difference between actual attendance earned during the epidemic reporting period and the average percentage of attendance during the same reporting period in the 1954-55, 1955-56, 1956-57 school years.

The days of attendance during the epidemic period will be increased to reflect the percentage difference between actual attendance earned and that which would have been expected had the epidemic not occurred.

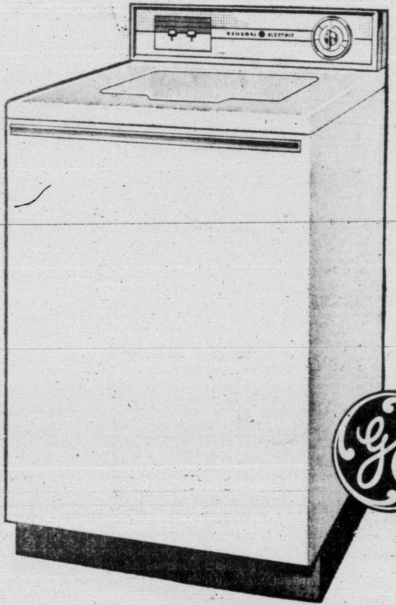

The average daily attendance figure is important because alcohol aid is allocated on that basis.

The board also adopted a report setting up details for establishment of its new public junior college division authorized by the last legislature. It will be major divisions of the department.

The allocation for purchase of text books was raised from $9,162,620 to $10,064,341 after it was determined that money voted at the July meeting would not be enough to fill this year's needs.

Some health officers have called the current flu epidemic greater than the disastrous epidemic of 1918.

Dallas reported 46 deaths since the first of the year, and Dr. J.

Ladies Of The White House, Acaia Study Club Program

Personalities from the White House, which included three First Ladies, was the program presented to the Acaia Study Club Wednesday afternoon at the Martha Ann Clubhouse.

Miss Elmer Muhlbach presented the interesting life of Dolly Madison, the most popular of all first ladies. Mrs. Muhlbach said in short.

"Dolly Madison was one of the most charming and beloved of American women. She had the qualities of warm friendliness and graciousness that made her the idol of her day as she reigned as queen in both Washington and Virginia society. When the Madisons moved into the White House, Dolly set up her own pattern of entertainment in the president's house—a pattern with democratic overtones and the open-heartedness that was naturally her own. It was she who began the Easter Monday parties for the children of Washington, egg rolling on the capitol lawn."

Mrs. Ben Moore spoke of Rachel Jackson, First Lady from the frontier, who before she was eighteen married Lewis. Roberts in 1785. At the age of 24 she was married to Andrew Jackson. This marriage brought about scandal and accusations that was to affect the life of this beautiful lady. No record was too bad or too good to keep Rachel from a household visited by sickness or death. She was the idol of the slave quarters, but her particular fondness was for children.

"Born to the hardship, toil and danger of the frontier, disillusioned at eighteen by her first marriage, exposed to the tortures of slavery, and caught in a surge of political forces she did not understand, Rachel suffered a heart attack and died. Her death came shortly before her husband entered the White House as President of the United States."

Mrs. Elmo Weyel, in the absence of Mrs. Howard Milburn, concluded the program with a more recent First Lady, Eleanor Roosevelt. In part Mrs. Weyel said:

"The emergence of Eleanor Roosevelt from a painfully shy, awkward little girl with protruding teeth and poor posture into a self-possessed, public speaker of international repute is one of the most fascinating of all the stories of America's First Ladies."

"From the moment she entered the White House as First Lady, Eleanor Roosevelt broke precedents. She became the first First Lady to hold weekly press conferences. After the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1945, Eleanor Roosevelt was appointed United States representative in the general and later became chairman of the Human Rights Commission. She was also the first to accept public office after leaving the White House. Mrs. Roosevelt has emerged as one of the foremost women of our time in international affairs."

Following the program, the hostess meeting was held with Mrs. Bill Lee, president, presiding.

The current event was given by Mrs. Carl Dillaha.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Bob Womack, to 19 members and two guests, Mrs. Ray Houpt and Mrs. Herbert Price.

Party Pants Lifts Morale

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

THERE'S NOTHING that will pep up a girl's morale like a glamorous outfit for at-home entertaining.

Right now an ideal project for home sewing is an Oriental blouse with tapered pants. Done in gay colors, it's just the thing to brighten up winter evenings.

When you make your own, you're sure of perfect fit—a difficult thing to achieve in ready-made slacks or party pants. Use a standard pattern as your guide, and make pattern adjustments before cutting your fabric.

Local sewing center experts say the secret of the fit of the popular new slinky pants is a properly selected and applied zipper, which can be almost invisible and permits a smooth, body-moulding fit. Only a tapered pants leg can truly be made skin tight.

Since many women look on zipper as a chore, a new zipper with a Read-like woven sewing guide line placed at just the right distance from the chain makes the job almost fool-proof. A lighter, stronger chain also has been perfected to give greater flexibility. And to assure invisibility the new zippers are permanent color. Chain and tapes are dyed to the color actually penetrates the metal teeth. Colors are coordinated to all fabrics.

For your at-home glamour outfit, you will need four zippers: a neckline zipper for the blouse, a skirt zipper for the trouser, a pair of neckline zippers for the pants legs. All zippers are available in variety of lengths so check your pattern envelope to determine the lengths and styles you will need. And take along a watch at your fabric to insure an exact color match.

Cappuccino

Milk beverages are not popular in many homes because pans in which milk is heated are not easy to wash. The automatic top burner heat control on the range has changed all that. Set the control at 175 and you won't have to worry about milk boiling over or pan scorching. Heat 3 cups of milk and while it is heating measure 3 rounded tablespoons of the new instant powdered Italian coffee into 6 cups of boiling water. Stir until dissolved, then combine it with the hot milk. Pour into cups or mugs and add a sprinkling of cinnamon and grated orange rind. This amount will serve 8 to 10 persons.

A smooth performing kitchen doesn't have to look cluttered and clinical. Concealing hard working appliances behind screens helps a lot to keep a neat, attractive appearance. An incinerator will keep garbage and trash accumulation in the kitchen to a minimum. An exhaust fan will prevent cooking smoke and grease from accumulating on surfaces. A range hood, a "Gold Star" symbol of modernity, will take on every cooking job, and make it unnecessary to clutter counters and storage space with auxiliary cooking appliances.

Texas U. Nursing Course Now Offers Two-Campus Program

An improved University of Texas four-year educational program leading to a Bachelor of Science Degree in Nursing will begin with enrollment of the freshman class in September, providing two years of study on the main campus in Austin, followed by two more years at the University's Medical Branch in Galveston.

Previously all BS nursing students were taught in Galveston following completion of first-year courses.

The new program, according to Miss Marjorie Bargall, Dean of the University School of Nursing, Galveston, will:

1. Streamline the program of nursing education, eliminating about eight months of classroom work through rearranged schedules and allowing more vacation time by conforming with usual academic calendars.

2. Strengthen the curriculum by using more of the main university's facilities and faculty.

3. Move several members of the Medical Branch faculty from Galveston to Austin, where they will teach preparatory nursing courses in conjunction with other work in the College of Arts and Sciences.

The new program offers a valuable balance of general and professional knowledge and skill in preparation for a nursing career, combined with an educational background for development of qualities of good citizenship and leadership.

Dr. Logan Wilson, University president, said:

A variation in the University School of Nursing degree program also enables sophomore students from accredited junior or senior college to enroll as sophomores at the main campus. Also, sophomore courses will be taught in Galveston during the next academic year.

For graduate nurses the Medical Branch will continue to offer a program for a Bachelor Science degree in preparation for positions in nursing service administration and nursing education.

Applications for fall enrollment and inquiries may be addressed to either Galveston or Austin in care of the School of Nursing, The University of Texas.

The University of Texas School of Nursing has full accreditation by the National League for Nursing, including public health nursing, and the Board of Nurse Examiners for the State of Texas.

No Curves Barred In New Swim Suits

By DOROTHY ROE

Dangerous curves are ahead for the 1960 beach season.

New swim suits often are reduced to bare minimums, with the two most popular styles the bikini and the figure-hugging one-piece maillots. Mermaids with perfect figures had the new trend, while the not-so-perfect resort to the more concealing dressmaker suits.

The new suits are designed for serious swimming with no unnecessary frills or flourishes. The popular knits fit like a second skin, with elasticized straps and legs insuring snug comfort.

Bikinis come in varying degrees of brevity, some with adjustable bras and shorts to permit more or less coverage. Colorful cover-up beach shirts or jackets also are in aid to modesty when the wearer is out of the water.

Many of the new maillots have deep-plunge backs. They come in stripes, jacquard patterns or solid colors. In addition to the old ways, popular black and white, there's a full range of high colors, such as flame red, hot orange, purple, yellow, pison green, turquoise, royal blue and shocking pink. These colors often are used in exotic combinations, such as pink and orange or purple and turquoise.

TOP HITS... The woolknit bikini and the form-fitting maillots are two of this season's most popular swim styles. The button-trimmed bikini suit pictured has tiny camisole bra and brief shorts with elasticized legs, in black or hot colors. The knit maillots, in orange and taupe stripes, has deep V-neckline front and back, fits the figure like a second skin.

MRS. BILLY WAYNE VOSS

Martha Charlene Smith, Billy Wayne Voss Exchange Vows In Abilene Chapel

Dr. Edwin Skiles performed a double ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church Chapel, Abilene, at 7 o'clock Saturday evening uniting Martha Charlene Smith and Billy Wayne Voss in marriage.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Lloyd E. Edwards, Abilene, and the late T. R. "Happy" Smith, Abilene, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Voss of Hermleigh.

The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of white candelabra and burning white tapers banked with commodore ferns. The centers of the decoration was highlighted with a white wrought iron arch and tiered gothic urns filled with white gladioli, white stock and white carnations.

Doniece Johnson soloist was accompanied at the organ by Mr. Kenneth LaRue, who also played the traditional wedding music.

Miss Suzanne Weimer of Fort Worth, and Miss Angela Kay of Lubbock, cousins of the bride were candlelighters. Larry Raugh of Arcadia, nephew of the bride was ring bearer.

Mrs. Dallas Baugh of Arcadia served her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Mrs. Paul Clayton of Dallas, cousin of the bride; Miss Barbara Mings of Seagraves; Miss Jean Edens, Talpa, and Miss Sylvia Gwin of Abilene.

Bula Sturdivant of Hermleigh served as brother-in-law as best man. Ushers were Tommy Smith, Fort Worth and Don McNew of Abilene. Groomsmen, Bill Houston, Joe Biggs, Don McNew all of Abilene, and Derral Edward Bangs.

The attendants were gowned in silk organza over taffeta with fitted bodice, large beehive collars ending in large bows and streamers fell to the hemlines over the billowing ballerina skirts. They were shoes to match and carried nosegay bouquets of pink carnations.

The Gardeners Corner

By NORMA GAUB
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The dismal stretch of winter that follows the holidays is the time for indoor gardening.

If you're starting from scratch, the trusty narcissus bulb is a good bet for easy bloom.

Most plant stores have a variety that sprouts in a couple of weeks from rooting in pebbles and water. And you'll be pleased at the thrifty prices of narcissus bulbs.

All you need is a three- or four-inch deep bowl filled with clean, washed pebbles. Set the bulb in the top with a least three inches below for root room.

Refill with water as needed to keep the level just below the bulb. Keep it in a dark, cool spot until it sprouts. If you plant bulbs in succession, you can have flowers in the house from now until spring.

Hyacinths also can be grown in water with a slightly longer sprouting time. They need plenty of root room and after flowering, should be kept in a room with temperature of 65 degrees.

I have had enough failures in my indoor plant growing efforts to feel someone was putting a hex on me. But recently a friend with a perpetually green thumb let me in on her trade secrets.

To start, she takes lots of care with her planter mix. She buys the prepared type that comes in waterproof bags and soaks it thoroughly by running water into the bag.

Then she dumps the mix into a roomy pan and squeezes out the same mix although more pre-moistened material can be added as the roots grow. For extra feeding use various nutrients available in plant stores.

If you're using new clay pots, soak them first so they won't absorb water intended for the plant.

For your present plants, use a rotation system so they don't get a one-sided tilt toward the light. Scrub the outside of clay pots occasionally to keep them porous.

In cold-weather areas especially protect plants from window drafts. And, a craftiest secret of all—shine a hundred-watt bulb from a bridge lamp on your window garden at dusk every day for a few hours.

You'll add valuable light hours to the short winter days and find plants responding the new leaves a richer green color and more abundant bloom.

If you're getting ready to plant seeds early in February for spring transplanting, you can start saving the small aluminum pans that contain frozen foods. They make fine indoor seed starters.

Pile them up and poke drainage holes through with an ice pick.

Chinese Book Informative

Not many years ago when it was the rule that respectable Chinese women should "smile without showing their teeth and walk without showing their feet," a beautiful baby girl was born in the southern part of the Yangtze Valley in the city of Soochow. Her name was Sai-chin-hua and her history has become notorious in her native country.

Now for the first time, Western readers will discover her story in "THAT CHINESE WOMAN."

THAT CHINESE WOMAN, exquisitely translated from the Chinese by Henry McAlvey, is the biography of a Chinese courtesan who was so beautiful that she became a sensation in both Europe and Asia. At the age of 12 she began her career as a "singing girl" on the "flower boats" in Soochow. The book tells of her marriage to a Chinese diplomat and their stay in Berlin during the period of Prussia's magnificence. Here she learned German, was feted by the Empress, has assignments in the Tiersgarten and soon captivated the whole diplomatic set. How her influence was felt during the Boxer Rebellion after her return to China and her reunion with her lover Count Waldessee (who later replaced Moltke as Chief of Staff), provides an exciting climax to this true tale.

THAT CHINESE WOMAN is a rare, exotic and delightful book—a glimpse into old China. Like an Oriental miniature, it is a scene from a world that is gone forever.

Toddlers Need Exercise

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures Writer

AT ABOUT one year your baby will make the marvelous discovery that he will take him places. Then he wants to walk. He is likely to drop all previous activity.

He wants to walk, walk, walk. He still needs your finger to hang onto before he will venture into the open spaces of the center of the room. A light grip was your out with his demands for you supporting, finger. But walking is very good for him. Not only is he practicing how one foot goes in front of the other but he is exercising all the muscles used to keep his body erect and move it about.

Finally the day comes when your baby becomes a true toddler and can go off on his own. For while he still needs to be walked just for the sake of him, but eventually he masters the art sufficiently so that the pure joy of putting one foot in front of the other has lost a little of its charm.

Small Aerobit
Now your little fellow wants to run and skip, go sideways and backward. He wants to pull something after him. If he spies a wall he must walk on top of it or a big piece of pipe must be crawled through. These are all variations of the art of walking. Each brings in a few extra sets of muscles all of which need use to develop their full capacities.

Go on walks with your toddler. When you start make the distance short so that he can make the round trip on his own legs.

When your toddler is in the house he still needs to be pulled things around after him. He will climb over the furniture and drive you crazy.

It's a good idea to provide some spot indoors where strenuous physical activity can go on without harm to the child or to your possessions.

Exercise Mat
This is the time to get an exercise mat. A discarded mattress is fine if you can find a large enough floor area to lay it.

Help your child to learn to somersault. Let him put his head and hands on the mat, rear stuck up in the air—a gentle push from you will send him over. He will be startled with awe and soon learn to do it without your push. It's an excellent exercise.

Do you know how to play wheelbarrow? Let the child lie on the floor on his abdomen. Pick up his legs and let him walk forward on his hands. The closer to his knees you hold him the easier he finds it to go forward on his hands. Gradually move your support back to his feet and then even let go one foot. This is a wonderful exercise for the shoulders. Children enjoy playing this game among themselves.

Muscle Development
The wheelbarrow game leads to standing on head and hands. Muscles grow strong and supple when youngsters use them vigorously for exercises like this. But muscles become flabby and weak when the chief indoor activity is watching TV. Quiet activity has its place in the life of a child but must not take the place of the vigorous muscle building games. The early years are the important ones in which to develop sturdy bodies which will be a joy to their owners all their lives.

In the toddler years do not slip into the easy way of turning on the TV whenever you want a little peace and quiet. TV has many good things to recommend it but it can be greatly abused. If we let them slide through childhood without vigorous physical exercise they will wake up in adolescence to discover that their bodies are more of a liability than a source of strength and pleasure.

Perk Up A Wall With Photographs

VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

What to do about the walls in your home is a problem that many people face. Leave them blank unless you have something special to offer the viewer? Decorate them just as you do windows and floors?

The trend is to use wall space to display hobbies, family photographs, favorite paintings, driedwood, rocks, conch shells, plaques. You should like what you own and display it.

If you own valuable abstract paintings or mobiles and had a horror of modern art what would be the point of displaying them?

Family photographs are becoming a part of the wall decor today, just as they were in previous generations, and for the same reason. The average person doesn't own expensive art but they do have photo portraits of children, grandparents, cousins, sisters, aunts.

Trend Is Photographs
The trend in family photograph framing is to use unusual small pictures, arrange them on the floor before putting them upon a wall. Try different placements until mats include shantung, burlap, you get one that looks just right. Look at the walls of a child's room. They are covered with drawings, shells, pistols can be mounted in shadow boxes, included in a wall display along with paintings, photographs, drawings. The important point is to make an interesting layout, whether you use old weather vane or a collection of butterflies or arrowheads to flatter your wall decor.

PORTRAIT WALL—A large photograph can be the focal

Kitchen Traffic
If you observe the flow of traffic in your kitchen you'll probably discover the busiest thoroughfare is the path in the sink. The best way to relieve this traffic caused by drinks of water, washing hands, etc. is to provide an extra lavatory in a nearby closet or laundry room. In many homes such installations inside the closet

Hull Award Is Sufficient To Make Rayburn Reminisce

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service
WASHINGTON, (AP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn, who seldom reminisces, made an exception when he received an award commemorating the late Cordell Hull.

In accepting the award presented by the Committee for a National Trade Policy, the 78-year-old Texan said 42 years of his life were warmed by his close friendship with Hull. The Tennesseean served in Franklin D. Roosevelt's Cabinet as secretary of state.

He was one of the first close friends I made after I came to Congress on March 4, 1912, the day Woodrow Wilson became President of the United States," Rayburn said.

"I lived in the old Cochran Hotel as did many other members of Congress, including Cordell Hull."

"Each night after supper most of these men would pull their chairs together at the end of the long lobby and for several hours they would explore the great issues of the hour. I have often thought that this was the best school of political science I ever attended."

Perhaps because he like Hull, was a native Tennessean with similar views, they became close friends, Rayburn.

"When the Underwood-Tariff Bill was taken up by the House of Representatives in 1913, it included a provision for the first constitutional income tax."

"Cordell Hull was the author of this tax plan. During that debate, I made my maiden speech in Congress in support of the bill. This tax plan has been the cornerstone of our fiscal policy from that day to this."

President Eisenhower promptly replied to a letter from Rep. Bruce Alger in which Texas' only House

Republican commended the administration's fiscal 1961 budget even though it contained no recommendations for funds to build a federal office building in Dallas.

"You have placed the nation's interest above sectional and even personal interest," wrote Eisenhower.

"This is the only formula which can lead us to a responsible people to the fulfillment of our goals."

Chief Judge Marvin Jones of the U. S. Court of Claims, a former Texas member of the House, has been named "Man of the Year" by the Federal Club. The 46-year old organization is composed of high level government officials and scientists.

Corpus Christi Congressman John Young has solved the health problem attached to his habit of inviting visiting constituents to join him in a cup of coffee in his office. "We keep a pot brewing all the time," he said. I have my secretary serve our guests out of that, while fixing me up a quick cup out of a decaffeinated coffee mix. I just couldn't take some 18 cups of coffee a day."

Rep. Clark Thompson (D-Tex.) is sponsoring a bill similar to one offered by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson. The bill would authorize a water storage reservoir on the Colorado River near Columbus, Tex. The Reclamation Bureau would build the Columbus Bend Dam and water users eventually would repay the cost which has not yet been estimated.

A new member of Rep. Bruce Alger's staff is Marvin Collins, SMU law school graduate. Collins hails from Corpus Christi.

The industry also increased steel-making capacity by nearly one million tons last year and this year it plans to spend $1.3 billion dollars on construction and new equipment, or half a billion more than last and almost as much as the record 1957 outlay of $1.4 billion dollars.

A chief factor in the good showing in both profits and output last year was the big surge in the first half of the year getting ready for the strike.

A chief factor in the planning for this year is that the steel companies are working hard to catch up after the strike and replenish customers' stocks. So profits are soaring.

But the strike did take its toll in other ways. Americans bought a record 44 million tons of foreign steel, an increase of 250 per cent over 1958. American exports of steel dropped to 1.1 million tons, the lowest since 1946.

American steelmakers say imports will fall this year, although Europe may still hold some of its new American markets. The Japanese also hope to do better in exports, too.

Help Slated For Jump To College

AUSTIN—The University of Texas English Department has proposed a new means of helping young people make the jump from high school to college classrooms more smoothly.

The plan, described to administrators of several leading Texas school systems, includes bringing to the University each year three or four outstanding high-school English teachers who would serve nine months as teaching associates.

They would teach three freshman English classes each in co-operation with the Freshman English Committee. Upon returning to their home school systems, they could give leadership to their colleagues in providing better preparation to high school students intending to go to college.

The high school visitors also would give suggestions to the University on its freshman English program. They would be expected to write a report on their University teaching experience for the Freshman English Committee.

Dr. Mary C. Boatright, English Department chairman, Prof. Powell Stewart and Associate Prof. William O. Sutherland, Jr., addressed the proposal to school systems which regularly send the most students to the University. It was hoped the plan eventually would enable more entering students to skip at least the first half of freshman English, through advanced placement tests.

An annual conference for high school English teachers is held each spring on the campus. The English Department works with the University Intercollegiate League in the Ready Writing Contest. Members of the department serve as consultants to high school on request. Dr. Stewart served on the Texas Education Agency's language arts commission in its recent curriculum revision.

Strike's Impact Not Yet Assessed

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK, (AP)—The steel strike's toll in profits and output turns out to be less than first expected. But its long-range toll in consumer prices and in lost markets is yet to be assessed.

The nation's three largest steel producers show a decline in profits in 1959 from 1958. But in spite of operations at a loss during the struck third quarter, their final figures for the year aren't bad at all. U. S. Steel's profits, for example, were the best for any post-war year since 1953.

And most steel producers show increased profits in 1959. Some of the smaller ones weren't struck and were able to work at capacity with few customers quibbling about prices. Some of the larger ones had only part of their operations cut off by the strike and did well enough with the plants to offset strike losses in the others.

Of the 23 steel and iron companies reporting earnings to date, only seven show declines in net income after taxes. Combined the 23 show 1959 earnings topping 1958 by 3.5 per cent.

As for output the nation's steel mills turned out eight million more tons of steel last year, despite the strike, than they did in 1958.

The industry also increased steel-making capacity by nearly one million tons last year and this year it plans to spend $1.3 billion dollars on construction and new equipment, or half a billion more than last and almost as much as the record 1957 outlay of $1.4 billion dollars.

New Bedding Plant Trays For Use With Peat Pots

A new concept in home gardening—starting bedding plants each individually potted in a plantable peat moss pot—is now possible with the introduction of sturdy polystyrene bedding plant trays.

The home gardener can transplant bedding plants started in the peat pots without removing them from the pots in which they were started. Instead, the home gardener transplants the peat pot and its flower or vegetable plant together. There is no "bare rooting", and no transplant shock. The result is earlier, healthier and larger plants.

The new yellow trays are available in three sizes of special appeal to home gardeners. Two of the trays can hold 12 bedding plants; each plant potted in a 2 1/2 inch square peat moss pot. The third tray accommodates 24 2 1/2 inch pots. In addition, benefits of the tray-pot combinations will be available to home gardeners who prefer to buy bedding plants started by a commercial grower. In the spring, garden centers will market bedding plants, individually potted in the new trays.

One of the new plastic trays was designed especially for use by home gardeners in starting plants that are held indoors for long periods before transplanting. Resembling an ice cube tray, it is equipped with a saucer to protect window sills and furniture from water seepage.

Commercial growers will market bedding plants in these and in three other new trays which accommodate six peat pots of different sizes.

The new trays were developed to eliminate the need to "bare root" bedding plants when they are being transplanted, a process that has been necessary in handling bedding plants by other methods. "Bare rooting" generally impedes or destroys a plant's growth.

Traditionally, as a consumer selected plants started in a cold frame or hot bed, they were pulled "bare root" and wrapped in newspaper for delivery to the consumer. What little soil was left around the roots was usually shaken loose when the home gardener was ready to transplant. More recently, growers have started bedding plants in small trays or packs that can hold 6 to 12 plants in a common soil. In this case, the home gardener uproots the plants when he transfers them to his garden.

Plants started in peat moss pots and held in the new trays until time for transplanting will grow faster, healthier and bloom earlier than plants started in other containers. Because the peat pots permit a plant's roots to penetrate its walls, there is no transplant shock. Moisture is held uniformly, and
