Taft Labels Ike's Choice Of Labor Man 'Incredible'

President-Elect Completes Cabinet

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft today called the selection of Martin Durkin, a Democrat, as secretary of labor "an incredible appointment" by President-elect Eisenhower.

This volley from the GOP senator came after Eisenhower completed his cabinet with the appointment of Durkin as labor secretary and Sinclair Weeks of Boston, businessman and Republican official, as secretary of commerce.

Sen. Taft, who campaigned for Eisenhower after losing the GOP nomination to him, said in a prepared statement:

"The appointment of Mr. Durkin is an incredible appointment. This is no reflection on the character or ability of Mr. Durkin. I had a number of talks with Mr. Herbert Brownell who has been the key man in Cabinet appointments, and made several recommendations of qualified men. "It was never even suggested that a man would be appointed who has always been a partisan Truman Democrat, who fought General Eisenhower's election, and advocated the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law.

"It is an affront to millions of union members and officers who had the courage to defy the edict of officials like Mr. Durkin that they vote for Stevenson. This appointment leaves without representation in the cabinet those millions of Democrats, North and South, who left the party to support General Eisenhower, and gives representation to their most bitter opponents."

The statement immediately brought to question Taft's future political relationship with Eisenhower. Only a few days ago, Taft remarked that the general's choices for cabinet posts had not included anyone he had recommended.

The senator had gone all out for Eisenhower's election after his own defeat in the GOP convention, making speeches in many states.

One of the things the Republicans fought during the campaign was the declaration by President Truman and others that Eisenhower was more or less under control of Taft.

Durkin, the only Democrat on the new Cabinet list, is the first person ever to be taken directly from a labor union office for the secretary of labor post. Some previous secretaries had been in the labor movement before appointment.

Durkin, 58, is general president of the AFL United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe-Fitting Industry of the United States and Canada.

Weeks, 59, is chairman of the Republican National Finance Committee. He is an industrialist and bank director and has been a power in the Massachusetts GOP for nearly 20 years and in the national GOP organization since 1940.

The designations of Durkin and Weeks were announced by Arthur H. Vandenberg Jr., who will be Eisenhower's White House secretary.

Vandenberg also announced the designation of Walter Williams of Seattle as under secretary of State. (See CABINET, Page 3)

Fear Missing Plane Down

SAN BERNADINO, Calif. (AP) — An Air Force C-47 with 13 men aboard apparently crashed during the night at the 8,000-foot level in the San Bernadino Mountains, the Sheriff's Office reported today.

Deputy Loring Poleman said he saw a big fire in the mountains north of here and west of Big Bear Valley about 4 a. m., which finally died out.

BEFORE AND AFTER OPERATIONS — The New York Daily News says in a copyrighted story that six operations have changed the sex of George W. Commission Buys Trucks, Ups Salaries

Pursley Motor Co. was awarded the contract this morning by the city commission to furnish one two-ton truck and one short-wheel-base, two and one-half-ton truck for trash packer bodies used by the city.

At the same time a new 16-yard Garwood Load Packer was also purchased by the city.

The new packer will be mounted on the larger truck while the two-ton truck will replace a present packer with a old packer.

The smaller truck will cost the city $1,886.38 plus the old truck as a trade-in and the larger truck $2,412.96. The new packer body will cost $4,550.

Authorizes Raises The commission authorized salary increases for all city employees for the first two weeks in December up to $25 depending on length of service. After that salaries will revert to present rates.

The action was taken because it was the only legal way the city may grant Christmas bonuses to employees. The $25 figure is the maximum and will be scaled down according to how long the employee has been with the city—one year; nine months; six months and three months.

To Attend Hearing The commission also instructed City Manager B. H. Cruce and City Atty. Bob Gordon to attend the Dec. 18 hearing in Austin of the State Board of Water Engineers on use of affluent coming from the disposal plant and flowing through White Deer Creek. (See COMMISSION, Page 3)

U. N. Passes On Peace Plan Crippled By Russian Veto

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Western and neutral nations overwhelmingly pushed through United Nations committee approval of India's Korean peace plan last night despite a Red rejection that already had shattered hopes of its ever working.

More Soviet fireworks are expected before the plan's final adoption by the General Assembly.

The vote in the U. N. Political Committee on the Indian resolution, aimed at ending the prisoner of war deadlock which has held up a Korean truce, was 53-5. The five Soviet bloc nations voted against it. Nationalist China abstained because she didn't think the plan would work.

Meet Again Today The committee set another meeting today to let delegates put on the record their reasons for voting the way they did.

But Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei V. Vishinsky has expected to turn the meeting into another bitter debate by demanding that his counter-resolutions be voted upon before the committee sends the Indian plan to the General Assembly for final approval and transmission to the Communist command in Korea.

Even if Vishinsky succeeds in getting a vote on his proposals, they are doomed to smashing defeat. Previous rejection of the Indian plan by both Moscow and Peking promised it just as hopeless a future.

India and her backer had pressed for a vote, nevertheless, to place on the Communists the moral blame for turning down another chance at a Korean peace.

Approves Indian Resolution The committee climaxed one of the most violent debates in its history since 1949.

McDonald maintained "everything is the same" and as the Haywood group would continue to fight all the way.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church, White Deer; a past master of the White Deer Masonic Lodge; and a Shriner in the Khiva Temple, Amarillo.

Surviving are his wife, Maggie, White Deer; five sons, Jim and Glenn Culbertson, White Deer, Tom Culbertson, Mobeetie, Dan Culbertson, Gentry, Ark., and W. T. Culbertson, San Diego, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. Ruth Taylor, Pampa, Mrs. Dorothy Kable, San Diego, and Mrs. Jean Beth Smith, Amarillo; 10 grandchildren; and one great grandchild.

Boy's Death Plunge Ruled Accidental NEW YORK (AP) — Police say a 15-year-old youth's plunge of a 16-year-old death last night apparently occurred after he slipped on a highly polished floor at his home and tumbled over the low sill of an open window.

The boy was Stephen W. Ordway, son of former New York City Civil Service Commissioner Samuel H. Ordway Jr., who once was a member of the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

Frank Patterson Dies In Borger Frank Patterson, 44, father of Mrs. Bob Baldwin, Pampa, died at 12:45 a. m. today of a heart attack in his Borger home.

Funeral services have been scheduled for 2 p. m. Thursday in the First Baptist Church, Borger. Burial will be in Perryton.

Rhee Demands All-Out Drive

SEOUL (AP) — President Syngman Rhee today demanded an immediate all-out offensive to drive Chinese Reds out of North Korea.

The South Korean leader declared, "We can do so now," without the help of Japanese or Chinese Nationalist troops. And he indicated he didn't think the move would draw Russia into the conflict because the Soviet Union is not ready for a world war.

Can't Avoid War Rhee said if the Soviet Union had wanted to enter the Korean War it would have done so when Allied troops drove to the Yalu River in 1950.

"No world war can be avoided unless the leaders in the Kremlin are persuaded or are forced to believe they cannot conquer the United States," he declared.

Rhee outlined his views at a press conference and in an interview with a National Broadcasting Company newsmen.

Peace Talks Fall He asserted the Panmunjom armistice talks have failed and the latest Indian truce proposal in the U. N. is not acceptable.

He said he thought the only store we have is Lewis Hardware. Adv.

Solon Says Sale Of Obscene Literature Is 'Out Of Control'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Kearns (R-Pa) said today he thinks the sale of obscene and gruesome literature is "out of control" and that the government should do something about it.

Kearns is a member of a special House committee investigating public distribution of objectionable reading matter, including low-priced, pocket-sized books and comics.

An unidentified police official, a book publisher and several spokesmen for civic and religious organizations were called today as witnesses.

Kearns said testimony yesterday indicated that within recent years there has been a marked increase in the number of books and magazines that go in for photographs of undraped women, lurid stories of sex and cartoon books dealing with crime and horror stories.

"The distributors and dealers say they want to police their industry," said Kearns, "but it is apparent the business is out of control."

The committee heard Samuel Black, a Springfield, Mass., distributor, testify yesterday that a majority of the distributors are alert to the problem and already are rejecting many publications.

Identified as "a severe critic" of objectionable reading material, Black said it would be "physically impossible" for any distributor to read and pass on all publications they handle.

But, he went on, when complaints are made, distributors withdraw objectionable publications from retail outlets and often refuse to accept shipments from publishers.

He suggested that the major distributors could police the industry satisfactorily. That, he said, would be better than having censorship imposed.

For Christmas . . . City Firemen To Fix Toys

Pampa firemen will gather new toys and paint and repair slightly damaged ones to be given to underprivileged children in the area this Christmas, according to Fire Chief Ernest Winborne.

New as well as used toys are desired, he said, and are to be brought to the fire station where necessary paint jobs will be done on used ones and distribution will be worked out with local Salvation Army headquarters.

The late date in starting the project, Winborne explained, is due to the fact that last year other groups were carrying out similar projects but have dropped them this year.

Consequently, firemen will be rushed to prepare toys by Christmas, he said, and urged persons to bring them in as quickly as possible in order to assure Pampa's underprivileged children a visit from Santa Claus.

Motorists Warned On Double Parking

Double-parking on Pampa streets will not be tolerated, Police Chief Jim Conner warned today.

Both city ordinance and state law prohibit the practice, Conner said, "which has been particularly bad since the recent snows."

An estimated 25 tickets were handed out by city patrolmen Monday, he emphasized, and the "average fine for double-parking runs around $3."

Especially bad spots in the city, the chief continued, are the 100-block of South Cuyler, the 100- and 200-blocks of North Cuyler and the 100-block of West Foster.

Only one exception is permitted, Conner said. If a person must unload and there is no place at the curb, he will not get a ticket if he unloads as quickly as possible.

HEY KIDS, SANTA'S HERE!—Santa Claus made an unscheduled appearance on Cuyler street this morning and passed out candy to many little boys and girls. The jolly old fellow is shown here with Wesley Brinkley, 6, who said he had been a good little boy and told Santa what he wants for Christmas. Wesley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Brinkley, 206 E. Browning. Santa Claus will be a familiar figure in downtown Pampa between now and Christmas. (News Photo)

Mother Is Charged In Death Of Baby

HOUSTON (AP) — A little 28-year-old mother of four children was charged with murder here yesterday after she admitted to police that she drowned her 15-month-old daughter because "I wanted to send the baby to mother."

Mrs. Lorraine Head's statement, made to Policewoman Louella Rote, said "I wanted to send the baby to Mother. Then the state will send me to them."

The infant daughter — Lana Lee Fester — was drowned, the statement said, while Mrs. Head's other children were at school and her husband was out getting a haircut.

Mrs. Head said her mother has been dead some time, but "I had been thinking of mother a nd wanted to go to her."

Under Treatment Her husband — a police radio technician and the children's stepfather — also made a written statement to police in which he said his wife had been under treatment by a psychiatrist and that arrangements had been made for her to enter a Galveston hospital today.

A week ago, Head said, his wife told him that she and the baby "were going away." He said that Mrs. Head said her mother "had come to see her" the night before and asked "her to bring the baby and come and see her."

County Pathologist Dr. W. W. Coulter made an autopsy report on the child, saying Lana Lee was not drowned but probably had been smothered to death. Coulter's report said the baby did not die of natural causes and a microscopic test will show definitely if the child was smothered.

Charge To Stand Whatever the findings of the autopsy report, the charge of murder will not be affected, Police Lt. Leo Horton said.

Melting Snow Solves Problem Melting snows at the Top of Texas have uncovered a predicament which was related in the weekly meeting of the county commissioners.

A woman out near the county line kept calling him, County Commissioner Bill Graham told his colleagues, to have the snow plows clear out the road near her place.

For two or three days—every few hours—she kept calling him, Graham continued.

Finally, he said, the plows managed to force a path to her door—and he was there behind them in his jeep.

Breathlessly, the woman came rushing toward him, stretched out her hand and said:

"Get a cigarette? I haven't had one in two days. "That's all I really wanted."

Post Office Dept. Fights Propaganda WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department said today it hasn't yet found any sure way to keep Chinese Communist propaganda out of the U. S. mails—but it is still trying.

The department received an appeal to the general public, originally made several weeks ago, to turn in to local postmasters all such material which the postmen may deliver.

Medical Technicians To Form Society Formation of a Texas Medical Technician Society for the Pampa area is scheduled to get underway at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at a dinner meeting in the Pina Room of the Hotel Schneider.

Composed of both laboratory and X-ray technicians, the society will include persons in Shamrock, Canadian, Wheeler, Borger, McLean and Pampa.

All hospitals and clinics in the area will be represented according to Emmett H. Mays, X-ray technician in Highland General Hospital.

Main business at this dinner meeting, Mays said, will be to elect officers and discuss future plans.

La Belle Darcel Has Definite Ideas On The American Male

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — No doubt translated from unique English about "La Belle Darcel" is like an American man. But she says: "The men want their wives to be mothers to them. They aren't bossy enough with their women. They marry too young. La Belle Darcel is the French version of perpetual emotion. She never sidesteps an issue, but instead 'ades' right in with a man's life. And when the subject is male-female relationships, she speaks forcibly and with an insight possessed only by the French. Here are some of her views:

"American men want a mother as well as a wife. I don't mean just to the children; I mean for the men themselves. They allow their wives to assume the authority; they're their mothers had over them. They don't say, 'We're going to a movie tonight.' They say, 'Would you like to go to a movie tonight, dear?'"

Reason For Divorce

"That's bad. When the man becomes too weak, his wife loses all the respect she had for him. That's why there is so much divorce in America. The men are not firm enough with their work."

en. The men are the boss in France; that's one of the reasons the French have so little divorce.

"Women like to be bossed. They want the man to be the head of the family; that is the way he's intended life to be. She also likes to be a mother. She can be motherly to her husband, but she should do it in a subtle way — so it doesn't make him weak."

This may cause battles in many American homes, but Darcel claimed males should refrain from helping with the housework.

"Most American men work hard," she remarked. "When they come home from work, they shouldn't have to help in the kitchen. Their wives should pour them a drink and make them relax and read the paper."

"Yes, I know that the wives work hard, too. If they are too exhausted, their husbands should offer to help. But if they insist on the glamour of their marriage if the women are worn out when the men come home."

Work Faster

"My suggestion is this: the women should work a little faster so they can have an hour's rest before their husbands come home. No matter how hard I've worked during the day, I always try to get a little rest before I have a date."

This mother complex on the part of U. S. husbands is partly because they marry too early, said the French gal.

"They have not been out in the world long enough and they still feel an urge to be mothered," she remarked. "A man shouldn't marry until he has grown up and had a great deal of experience with women. I think the best age would be around 32 or 35."

"Is a more mature man a better lover?" "Who mentioned anything about love?" she inquired. But since it appeared to be one of her favorite topics, she added: "If a man is a good lover, he is good at any age."

Miss Darcel, who is currently toiling in "Flame of Calcutta," a final word of advice to American men: Tell your wives to shut up now and then. Be firm, but don't go to extremes. The French husband is too bossy, while the American is not bossy enough. The happy medium is the perfect husband!

Village Church A Millionaire

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
HYDE PARK, N. Y. (AP) — The little village church that became a millionaire overnight has learned how to live with its surprise riches.

As befits a religious medium, the unexpected wealth has provided opportunity for lessons in unselfishness and thrift, and the truth of the old adage that "honesty is the best policy."

The church is old St. James Episcopal Church, which has 450 parishioners and was formerly renowned as the place of worship of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The story of its wealth began when Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks, 80-year-old reclusive daughter of the fabulous Hetty Green, died in New York in February, 1951. Given Two Shares

A few days later, members of St. James were electrified to learn that Mrs. Wilks, a complete stranger to the congregation, had willed the church two of the 140 shares into which her estate was divided. The bequest was eventually figured out to be $1,200,000.

Three years earlier the Rev. Gordon L. Kidd, the rector, had received a telephone call from Mrs. Wilks. They had never met. She explained that her husband, a great-grandson of John Jacob Astor, was buried in the Wilks family vault in the church graveyard and requested that he make a careful study of the vault and report to her what renovations and repairs were necessary.

Followed Directions
"I followed her directions," said the Rev. Mr. Kidd, "and then wrote her that the vault apparently had been built to last 1,000 years. It was in fine condition and didn't need any repairs."

A few days later, Mrs. Wilks lawyer called the Rev. Mr. Kidd and asked the corporate name of St. James Church. The rector told him, and then asked the attorney why his interest.

"It was your report to Mrs. Wilks," the lawyer told him. "If you had written her that the vault required $1,000 to $2,000 worth of repairs, she'd have made them gladly. But you didn't ask for a thing. That impressed Mrs. Wilks so much that she wanted to remember the church in her will."

There are seven cars in the Packard line, including family sedans and chauffeur-driven models. Power steering, designed by Packard, is introduced for the first time as optional equipment, along with air conditioning. There are power brakes, ultrasonic no-shift automatic transmission, and other recent contributions to easier motoring. Packard advanced contour styling is retained with refinements to further accentuate low appearance. Models in the Packard line have a 180-horsepower engine with 8 to 1 compression ratio.

Pretty Well Off

Actually, the church was pretty well off as churches go. It had been founded by rich people who had estates on the scenic banks of the Hudson north of Poughkeepsie. Its endowment was some $170,000, which yielded an annual income of $5,000, representing about one-third of its annual operating cost.

"But the effect of the news of Mrs. Wilks' gift on most of the members was that now they wouldn't have to contribute to their church any longer," the rector says.

The minister and governing body undertook to disburse their money. Member contributions now are back where they were, $30,000 per year.

St. James has hired a Poughkeepsie bank to administer the money. The income, when all the money has been received, is expected to run around $30,000 a year. It will be earmarked for

Agriculturists Are Always On The Job

WOOSTER, O. (AP) — Nature still has the upper hand at Ohio's Agricultural Experiment Station here, agricultural scientists found out the other day.

They held a meeting to show the editors of city newspapers what they had been doing. But during the meeting a group of fruit experts had to leave. They said there were a lot of apples on the trees at the station and they had to be picked before they froze.

A laboratory for studying chemicals and coke products was opened in Pittsburgh.

economically practicable for farmers to keep their livestock.

The department said the problem of obtaining hay has been complicated by the fact that farmers in Midwestern supply states are becoming reluctant to part with feed because of fear that they, too, might suffer drought later.

The department explained that if the program is continued it may become necessary to turn to western states for supplies. This would greatly increase the freight charges — and the cost of the government subsidy.

Officers Seeking Two Stolen Cars

Officials of the sheriff's office are investigating the theft of two Buick automobiles from the Pampa area.

Taken in rapid succession Saturday night were a '41 model owned by Randy Raines, 1901 Barnes, from Atchison near North Cuyler and a '46 model owned by Joe Anthony, 417 Graham, from a spot near Sie's Barn.

Both vehicles have been recovered in good condition — one at Sie's Barn, the other in Bethany, Okla. The first car was found Saturday night and the second about 24 hours later.

Officers believe the same persons stole both vehicles.

Keys were not left in either car. Sheriff Rufe Jordan said today, but on a Buick the car was started after a key has been inserted in the ignition and withdrawn.

Icy Street Blamed in Auto Accident

Icy streets have resulted in the 334th automobile accident within the city limits this year.

Effie E. Ellis, 48, of 615 N. Somerville, was headed east on Browning near Gillespie shortly before 10 a.m. Monday, police reported, when she hit her brakes and collided with a parked vehicle driven by Opal W. Kelley, 35, of Pampa.

Damages to Miss Ellis' car were calculated at $200 and there were no citations.

VFW Meeting Called

Plans for the Veterans of Foreign Wars' annual Christmas party for city children will be discussed in a special meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. today in the American Legion Hall.

Two Traffic Wrecks Reported

Two more automobile accidents have been reported within the city limits, raising the 1952 collision toll to 336 — just one shy of an average of one-a-day for the entire year.

Ray Fancher, 24, of 821 Doucette, had stopped west of Cuyler on Atchison at an alley entrance to wait for some vehicles when a cab operated by Ray Stone, about 60, of Pampa, collided with Fancher's car.

Accident occurred about 3:15 p.m. Monday and Stone told Fancher that sunlight had obstructed his vision. According to Fancher, no damage estimates have been made.

A 16-year-old Pampa and Cecil McCarrell, 28, of 1021 S. Dwight, were headed in opposite directions on West Ripley near South Nelson at 7:16 p.m. Monday, police reported, when McCarrell's vehicle hit a deep frozen rut and ran onto the wrong side of the street.

The two cars collided head-on, but there were no casualties or citations. Cause of the accident was attributed to the condition of the streets. Damages were calculated at $75 to each car.

Charged in Knifing

DALLAS (AP) — Ernest McNeil, 31-year-old Negro yardman, was charged with assault to murder yesterday in the knife slashing attack upon the wife of a Dallas doctor Thanksgiving night.

McNeil, a two-time ex-convict, remains in the county jail. His alleged victim, Mrs. Harold Nesbit, is reported in fair condition in a Dallas hospital.

Suit Is Settled Out Of Court

The only one of eight civil suits to go to trial this week in 31st District Court died this morning when attorneys announced they had reached a settlement before the first witness was called.

The case, a compensation suit brought by James R. Cook against the American General Insurance Co., was to be heard before a jury and District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich this morning after pre-trial work was finished late yesterday.

Pre-trial details of drawing the jury were delayed after an insufficient number of the panel showed up to proceed with the trial.

But, after 12 talesmen and some delinquent jurors were brought in to court yesterday afternoon, attorneys completed their examinations, turned in their acceptable juror lists by 3:10 p.m. The jury was sworn in and then dismissed until 10 a.m. today.

Cook asked for $10,025 in workmen's compensation for injuries he received by working for Brown and Root Construction Co. on Dec. 5, 1951.

HOUSTON HAS POLO CASE

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's first polo case since Oct. 29 and the 444th listed victim this year was reported yesterday. The victim is a three and a half year old boy.

It is thought that the Chinese first used natural gas, piping it from its source in bamboo tubes.

Hearing Set On Military Buying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top defense officials have been summoned to a hearing opening tomorrow before a House expenditures "watchdog" subcommittee.

Chairman Bonner (D-N.C.), in announcing the hearings yesterday, said they are designed to "find out exactly what has been done" about congressional orders against expensive duplicating military supply systems.

Bonner said he had heard "rumors" that the military was disregarding the order. He said the hearings are scheduled to run through Friday.

Adlai Is Guest Of The Trumans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Adlai Stevenson will be the guest of President and Mrs. Truman at the White House tomorrow and Thursday nights.

The White House said the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee will come to Washington directly from Atlantic City, where he speaks at memorial services for the late CIO President Philip Murray.

He will confer with the President on Thursday, keep a round of engagements and attend Truman's farewell dinner for his Cabinet at the White House Thursday night. After spending the second night in the White House, he will fly back to Illinois Friday morning.

Father Dies For Killing Biologists

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A Negro father of 15 children died early today in the electric chair for the slaying of a state wildlife biologist who had caught him hunting on a game preserve.

The slayer was 60-year-old Alton Paris.

When asked for a last statement, Paris merely shook his head in a negative manner, but as he was being strapped into the state prison electric chair he was seen to mutter what was apparently a prayer.

Paris, a mild-looking man, admitted shooting Gus Engeling, 33, last Dec. 13. "I just whirled around and fired the gun and he threw my ducks up in the air and fell," Paris told Palestine Sheriff Roy Herrington.

Engeling had caught the Negro hunting on the game preserve in the swampy area near Palestine.

Waiter Admits Robbing Rooms

NEW YORK (AP) — A 26-year-old waiter, police say, admits robbing more than 100 hotel rooms in 18 months just by walking into the hotel and asking the clerk for the key to any particular room that popped into his head.

The waiter was identified as Murray Meckler, married and the father of a new-born baby. Detectives, who arrested him on burglary charges yesterday, said they had been on his trail for weeks. They said he looted rooms of thousands of dollars worth of jewelry, clothing and other items and then blew the proceeds on horses and cards.

COMMISSION

Two local ranchers have made application for exclusive use of the creek waters.

In other actions the commission authorized purchase of 110 additional parking meters to be located on the east side of Somerville from Foster to Francis; west side of Somerville from Foster to Kingsmill and along the east side of the Hughes Building; the 400 block W. Kingsmill; and 100 block E. Kingsmill.

Estimates for current paving work — curb and gutter running — and water line work were approved.

Wilson: Firm Hand On Brass

By EVERT CLARK
NEA Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — In Charles Erwin Wilson, the gruff, plain-talking, 62-year-old motor mogul from Detroit, the Pentagon's high brass have a Secretary of Defense who will take no pushing around.

Wilson learned about the admirals and the generals the hard way — as wartime consultant on everything industrial and builder of nearly any military thing that rolled or flew.

He is also wise to Washington's ways. For many years he has been a top trouble-shooter for industry before agencies handling problems that touch on business and labor.

Wilson is expected to be a boss in something like the tough Louis Johnson tradition.

CHARLES E. WILSON — In the tough Louis Johnson tradition?

It will be no great change, after all, to step from the top job in one of the world's largest corporations — General Motors — to the big chair in the world's largest government body.

"He's sure got himself a king-sized headache," a close friend says, "but if anybody can do that job, Charlie can."

Wilson is a big, solidly built, slightly stooped man with white hair, vigorous and interested. But he is not the high pressure type.

The dynamic look and the gruff voice don't seem quite so formidable when he speaks — slowly and pleasantly, and without the fancy words.

"Charlie is an unbelievably hard worker," a GM executive at Detroit says. "He never knows when to quit, sleeps right here in the building quite often. You know, he has a place fixed up near the office."

"He has no town house, and he spends some time at his farm, 20 miles out from Detroit, raising Ayrshire cattle — although his wife complains she never sees him unless she travels with him."

During World War I he had charge of design and development of Westinghouse radio generators and dynamotors for the Army and Navy.

He went to General Motors in 1919, worked for a number of subsidiaries, helped arrange the purchase of minority interests in Bendix Aviation and what is now North American Aviation and bought out five important engine and electrical companies in Ohio and Indiana.

In June of 1940 he took over the GM presidency when William S. Knudsen came to Washington as a dollar-a-year man. Last year he made $566,200 in salary, director's fees and bonuses.

His labor relations pay off, too. He introduced the "cost-of-living" wage formula in 1947. In 1950 GM signed an unprecedented five-year contract with the United Auto Workers, and it became a model for others like it.

Congress won't be new to Wilson. He's advised as many committees as he's appeared before.

Wilson's two appearances before the National Press Club here — where he was at the mercy of the most curious of reporters — showed his sense of humor and his firm handling of the press.

"He even got laughs and came out unscathed right after the war, when our cars were coming off the line with pieces missing here and there," the GM executive said. "There were plenty of questions about that, but he turned them back."

One of the first things he is expected to do is show the same firm hand to the military.

Wilson flies around the country in one of GM's planes, usually a DC-3, making business trips about once a week and getting in vacations at places like Sun Valley.

He was quite a horseman until he broke his hip several years ago, is "pretty good" at bridge. He golfs and fishes, reads anything he can find on business and economics. He smokes cigarettes and "eats anything." Arthur Godfrey is one of his closest friends.

Associates call him "Charlie" or "C. E." His wife says "Erwin."

"He's plain and unadorned," the GM man said. "An old shoe. Very pleasant — just a hell of a good guy."

Most of all, apparently, Charlie Wilson works hard.

His mother and father were school teachers. He grew up in Ohio, got an electrical engineering degree from Carnegie Institute of Technology, and worked for Westinghouse Electric in Pittsburgh for 10 years.

Kentucky Cops Are In Bad Shape

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A physical checkup of policemen here recently disclosed that 14 percent were physically incapable of performing satisfactory police duty. Safety Director James E. Thornberry reports.

Of the 438 policemen examined, 184 were overweight, 116 had unsatisfactory blood pressure, 87 had below-par vision, 25 were wholly or partially color blind and 79 had defective hearing.

Thornberry blamed low police pensions for the high percentage of unqualified officers. Of the 62 men termed unsatisfactory, 46 had already reached the age of 51, which is in the retirement bracket.

Martin Dies May Set Up His Own Group

JASPER, Tex. (AP) — If Martin Dies is not placed on his old House Committee on Un-American Activities, he may try to form his own investigating group.

He said Tuesday the new body would "sweep Socialists, moral perverts and grafters" out of the national government along with Communists.

Dies, a Democrat, said he felt any such new committee would receive bi-partisan support and that he didn't see how President-Elect Eisenhower "could resist" supporting such a group.

He made his statements to the Associated Press in a telephone interview after saying Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) didn't think Dies "has any constructive contribution to make to the committee's work."

Dies was elected congressman-at-large from Texas after campaigning chiefly on his work in the Un-American Activities group from 1938 to 1945 when he was chairman of the House group.

Walter will be the ranking Democrat on the committee in the 83rd Congress, but Dies angrily said, "If it takes a fight I'm ready for a fight with Mr. Walter and the rest of them."

He added he might try to form the new group if he finds the present committee "isn't cleaning up the mess in Washington," adding he didn't care who cleaned it up just so it's cleaned up.

Dies also said Rep. Sam Rayburn, due to be House minority leader, recently said that he (Rayburn) would do everything he could to oppose Dies' assignment to the investigating committee now existing.

"They're getting awfully scared," the big East Texan said. Dies called Walter "one of the group of 'pseudo liberals' who fought us all the way" when Dies was heading the investigating committee and said, "It's not surprising he says things like that."

The Congressman-elect said he would want his new committee to investigate anybody suspected of being unfit for governmental service whether elected or appointed.

He said such probes might include "the financial affairs of people who have prospered in government in the last 10 or 20 years."

He said that might include some "Texas people who started out to my knowledge 10 or 15 years ago without a dollar and are reputed to be wealthy now." He didn't mention names.

Dies said, "Socialism is the same as Communism in theory." "Socialists don't believe in our economic system and I think it would be well to enlarge investigations to include Socialists," Dies said.

"I want to fix once and for all the responsibility for our presentment of the Communists," he added. "But there are some who don't want the skeletons to be brought out of the closets."

Geisha Girl Top Singer In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's latest "Cinderella" singer has emerged from the geisha girl community of Tokyo.

Six months ago you could have booked Miss Tamako Suzuki for singing and dancing entertainment in a secluded restaurant room at the rate of a dollar an hour. In those days, she says, she would have lingered even longer if she liked your company.

Today Tamako, better known by her professional geisha name of Hanko, is sought day and night by scores of managers and promoters offering $100-an-hour guarantees for stage and screen performances.

Hanko catapulted to success on her first recorded song, "I Can't Believe It's Me."

The song stood at the top of Japan's hit parade for four consecutive months. It still is one of the top five. The 21-year-old geisha sings it to the accompaniment of a small band including some traditional Japanese instruments and Western violins.

More than 200,000 copies have been sold since the record was cut last April. That's an all-time high for a new singer in this country.

Daughter of a geisha—a professional singer and dancer—and a geisha herself since she was 16, Hanko does not read musical notes. She still finds it hard to understand what "vocalization" means.

Her voice is sultry alto, not uncommon in Japan. To many Westerners her singing sounds too throaty and often off key.

Hanko is not the only geisha queen of Tokyo's Tin Pan Alley. Two geisha girls dominated it about 20 years ago. But these forerunners had indisputable talent and reputations based on long, intense training. Compared with them Hanko is just an amateur—even at $100 an hour.

Boom Year For Housing Is Foreseen

By T. E. APPEGGATE
YUSAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — It now appears certain 1953 will see the starting of the second largest number of housing units in history.

Through October "starts" on non-farm residential units ran about 15,000 ahead of the first ten months of last year.

Because of seasonal factors, November and December normally bring a drop in home building volume. This year's total will fall far short of 1950's record 1,396,000 units, but is expected to exceed the 1,088,800 started in 1951.

This is the time of year when officials associated with the building industry take a look at prospects for the next 12 months.

And it seems 1953 may be a different story.

Predictions that this year's volume will be exceeded are rare, although many, including leading economists and private home building leaders, think 1953 total will top the million-unit mark for the fifth successive year.

Others Are Cautious

Some others, however, take a more cautious view.

They report that in many sections home buyers are becoming more price-conscious, with builders having greater difficulty in selling homes priced above $12,500. And they say the building of more than 4 1-2 billion housing units in the past four years has

Living Standard In Russia Down Third Since Revolution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russian living standards have gone down as much as one third since the Communists seized power, the State Department says, regardless of Moscow claims to the contrary.

Available figures indicate that in 1950 the average Russian worker "could buy with what he earned about two-thirds as much as a worker in St. Petersburg in 1913," the department says in a booklet called "Let Freedom Ring."

Fifty thousand copies were printed for U. S. and foreign readers in an effort to debunk Soviet propaganda claims about life in Russia.

"Most of the workers in the Soviet Union earn no more than 650 rubles a month — not nearly enough to buy a man's suit of poor quality," the booklet said. The Russian ruble is officially valued at 25 U. S. cents, but is actually worth less.

The official department view differed somewhat from that of Frank Rounds Jr., a former U. S. diplomat recently returned from 18 months service with the American Embassy in Moscow.

Russia's progress in "tremendous" economically but not spiritually, Rounds said in an interview last week, adding that Russian "prices are falling. They're eating better. They're getting more clothes."

Abraham Lincoln's mother, Nancy Hanks Lincoln, died at 35, shortly after the family had moved across the Ohio River to the hills of Southern Indiana.

Charlie McCarthy's 'Mother' Seeks An Identity Of Her Own

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I think in these times a woman likes to feel useful. She doesn't want to merely have everything handed to her by her husband. If her children are in school and she can afford to hire help, it's natural that she wants to get out and do things on her own."

This was the explanation Mrs. Edgar Bergen gave for doing her first film role. Under her professional name, Frances Westcott, she is portraying Mrs. John Jacob Astor in the film about the Titanic disaster.

Put Mrs. Bergen admitted there was another reason. She's tired of living under the shadow of that wooden-headed Charlie McCarthy. To her, it's no laughing matter.

"I'm not knocking Charlie, because goodness knows he has helped support the Bergen family in fine style," she said. "But I am a little tired of being referred to as Charlie McCarthy's mother. I want an identity of my own."

Mrs. Bergen explained the extent of her frustration. Recently she joined an entertainment troupe which toured Army camps. She appeared as Frances Westcott, and no mention was made of her relationship to Messrs. McCarthy and Shered.

"But invariably one or more soldiers would come backstage and say something like 'How does it feel to be Charlie McCarthy's mother?'" she sighed.

tors to withstand a pretty severe market shock, if one comes.

Contributing to probable severity of any recession in real estate, Warnock says, is the fact that many new home owners have not firmly established their earning capacity and may not have the "will to scrape and pinch to pay the mortgage charges and to hang on at all costs."

And he suspects that day-to-day living costs are absorbing more of personal incomes than they did in the late 1920's.

Christmas Tree Cake

Slices of Christmas Tree Cake and glasses of fruit juice make a simple but festive snack for holiday guests.

Entertaining during the Christmas holidays is a must. Make the party easy on you, as well as guests, and serve a delicious, easy-to-prepare Christmas Tree Cake.

Christmas Tree Cake is made from a standard two-egg cake recipe topped with a Butter Cream Frosting. The topping requires no cooking. Get out your pastry tube and food coloring and trim the cake with a fetching green tree.

For added decor, put the cake on an over-sized tray and circle the cake with red pyramid candles.

If you have no cake-baking time, visit your baker. He will have a wide selection of holiday cakes from which you may choose. You may want to purchase a plain cake and decorate it yourself.

Christmas Tree Cake pictured here supplies 12 large servings—at only 5 cents each. For extra value, nutritionally, be sure to use enriched flour. You'll be getting extra amounts of three B-vitamins and food iron.

Grace Friend

Dear Grace Friend:

Eight years ago a young unwed mother came to my home with a baby boy six months old. We were already the parents of six sons and one daughter but after three years the girl was in trouble and the court was taking the child from her and she asked us to adopt him legally. We did because we really loved him.

Twice this child has been given a bicycle only to have it taken before he ever got to ride it and he is such a good little fellow that he doesn't complain even though I know he yearns for a bike.

Our girl has a girl's Columbian Tourist bike. She never rides it and it is in good shape. It has a three gear speed shift, high pressure tires and hand brakes. It cost $114 new and has not been ridden much but when we had it shipped here two years ago some wires were broken and we have never had it fixed because nobody ever rode it. It would not cost much to fix it.

It is not suitable for an eight year old boy because of the delicate gear shift. I have advertised trying to sell it so I could buy a bike for the little boy.

Do you think some of your readers would be interested in trading a boy's bike for this one so that I can make my boy happy for Christmas?

I sure would feel very grateful to you if this could be accomplished.

Mrs. R.

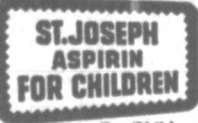

Dear Mrs. R.:

Why don't you trade the bike in on a boy's model at a bicycle store? If yours is in good condition you probably can buy a second hand one for yours plus a comparatively small sum.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

At 4:30, Mr. Pierson's sales manager called him into his office to say that he could not claim a certain commission he had counted on.

Mr. Pierson stayed late at the office to prove that he could. By 9:30, when he finally got home, Mr. Pierson had accepted his sales manager's figures, but was in no mood to accept anything else.

When he read a note from his son's school complaining of his tardiness, he became very upset.

He went upstairs to Wesley's room. When he opened the door, he found that though Wesley had turned out his light, he was listening to a crime drama on his radio.

Mr. Pierson turned on the light, ripped the radio plug from its socket and read the school's note to his son in a shaking voice. Then he said, "I'm warning you for the last time. If you're late to school again, I'm going to send you away to a school where you won't have a bedspread. You know what a reformatory is, don't you? Well, it's the place for a boy like you who doesn't appreciate his home..."

Mr. Pierson should have warned Wesley, not threatened him. He should have said, "You can't listen to the radio and get up in time for school. If I find you listening again to your radio at 7:30, I will have to remove its tubes until you have proved you are responsible enough to turn it off at bedtime."

When we warn, the dictionary says, we "caution against danger." When we threaten, we "attempt to alarm by the promise of evil." It is the difference between our self-confidence and our lack of it.

We often have to caution children by warning them of penalties that will result from misbehavior. When we threaten them instead of cautioning them, it is usually because we ourselves have been feeling threatened.

Threatening is therefore a form of bragging.

Whenever we are tempted to try to control by threatening exaggerated punishment for thoughtlessness or disobedience, we should explain it to the child we have threatened.

We should say, "I was just showing off when I said I would call in the police if you came home late again. Of course I won't do anything of the kind. But I will have to forbid you to visit anybody's house after school for two weeks."

Children often boast of what they will do to those who offend them, so they will be quite understanding of how anxiety or hurt has trapped us into threatening them. They will feel respect for our truthfulness and be ready to consider the more realistic penalty we have to promise for a repetition of disobedience.

Otherwise, we will just produce more defiance which must be met by bigger and better threats, and we'll find ourselves in serious trouble.

Rock Hudson Finds British Women Nicer Than Americans

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Despite the rags he received on his arrival in England, Rock Hudson has nothing but kind words about his stay there. He even gives a boost to English women.

The husky Hollywood heartbeater recently hied to England to appear in "The Sea Devil" with Yvonne DeCarlo. Upon his arrival, he was blasted by British Equity, the actors' union, for taking a role which an English actor could have played. Hudson and Jeffrey Hunter, another American who was playing in a picture made over there, were both criticized for their invasion of the Isles.

Good Publicity

"They made their protest and that's all there was to it," remarked Hudson. "There was nothing more they could do about it. I didn't mind at all. It was good publicity for me.

"Aside from Equity, there was no other unpleasantness. The people I worked with and the English in general couldn't have been nicer."

He did quite a bit of dating, mostly with gals in the picture business. He refuted the American impression that English women are a cool lot.

"They're not," he remarked. "They're a lot nicer to date than American gals. A guy doesn't get the intrigue that women over here insist on handing out. If an English girl is interested in romance, she lets you know about it. She also lets you know if she isn't interested. She never keeps you in doubt, as American women do.

Not As Beautiful

"By American standards, the English women aren't as beautiful as Americans. Not one they have, which is purported to be the Sword of Damocles.

Hudson and I leaned back and watched while his double wielded the sword against an onslaught of villainous soldiers. Then something embarrassing happened. The invincible golden blade snapped off at the handle. Luckily, the prop department was standing by with another.

"That's more than twice as long as any other picture I've ever worked on here," said the big boy from Winnetka, Ill. The English picture was his first loan-out; all his other films have been made at economy-minded Universal-International.

"The Golden Blade"

Hudson is back on the old lot, this time going through another Oriental exercise called "The Golden Blade." The crux of the English women aren't as beautiful

Nineteen Pet Geese Shakespeare Festival Season Scheduled

THOMPSON FALLS, Mont. (AP)—George and Ruth Hartman are pet lovers as anyone can easily see in passing the Hartman home. They have 19 Canadian geese on the premises.

Wife Ruth says the only reason there aren't more Canadian honkers around is that "19 are as many as we can handle and still know intimately." It all started the hardest of Alan Ladd fans. In 1942 when George ordered his first pair of Canadian honkers from Alberta, Canada. He was so pleased that he began ordering more.

Although the birds bear no identification, the Hartmans can tell them individually. "You get as are most of the other plot characteristics," RUTH says, "They're a lot like people."

LONDON (AP)—Some 400,000 visitors are expected at the coronation year Shakespeare festival at Stratford-on-Avon. The company will be headed by such English favorites as Peggy Ashcroft, Michael Redgrave, Marius Goring, Yvonne Mitchell and Harry Andrews.

The 23-week season opening March 17 will see the presentation of "The Merchant of Venice," "Richard II," "Antony and Cleopatra," "The Taming of the Shrew" and "King Lear."

Abraham Lincoln was elected captain of a volunteer company in the Black Hawk War.

U. S. Industry Searching For Young Men

By WALTER BREDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—American industry is looking for young men willing to work in far-off places—Brazil, Iraq, West Africa, The Philippines and other strange and distant lands.

Jobs in foreign trade are going begging, industry sources say. An indication of this was seen at the recently concluded National Foreign Trade Convention here—a meeting of top manufacturers, financiers, exporters and importers whose farflung trade interest spanned the world.

Students Attend

Two hundred college students attended the three-day convention as guests of the sponsoring organization, the National Foreign Trade Council. This was the biggest student delegation ever invited to the annual event.

Here's a sample of the advice they got:

An old hand at foreign trade, Vice President W. R. Stebbins of W. R. Grace & Co., told the students:

"We have found that men who have been in business for themselves or men who have acquired some experience in the business world make the best traders. The kind of business they've been in isn't important. The man who has collected and sold waste paper and made a little money out of it may have an easier job of marketing his talents to use."

Start At Bottom

Basically, Stebbins said, success in foreign trade is "still founded on the age-old copy book rules of business, which do not vary in substance with either place or time."

He emphasized that the college-trained job hunter must be willing to start at the bottom. "The men in our personnel department have told us that far too many young men with good and thorough academic training approach us with the idea that they are prepared to assume administrative positions in our foreign trade setup.

"This is unfortunate because we don't consider them ready."

Big Oriental Hornet Irking Little Israel

ROME (AP)—The big Oriental hornet is becoming a serious problem in little Israel. The November plant protection bulletin of the food and agriculture organization of the United Nations reports that this is because the hornet has an insatiable appetite. It catches honey bees and often destroys 30 to 50 per cent of the bees in apiaries. It eats up ripe fruit. Dates can only be saved by covering them with paper bags. Hungry hornets even gnaw the bark of young fruit trees so badly that some of them die.

The only poison bait so far that has proved highly successful is poisoned meat. With Israel's limited meat supply, this exists too much.

Twenty-two states now prohibit the diversion of motor vehicle fees and taxes to non-highway purposes, says the Automobile Club of New York.

MANILA — Japan has displaced the United States as the leading supplier of textile machinery and spare parts to the Philippines.

A Tragic Fact

The day after the election, the president of a retail association which has more than 7,000 store members, sent a long telegram of congratulation to Dwight D. Eisenhower. He advocated a number of policies regarding current major national problems and issues. One of them was: "Should inflation further threaten America's economic health, that tried and proven fiscal measures be adopted to combat the inflationary forces, and that direct measures or controls be imposed solely in case of a true national emergency, and then only as part of an over-all anti-inflation program."

It is a tragic fact that up to now we have totally failed to deal with the true causes of inflation. We have dealt only with their symptoms, primarily by imposing arbitrary ceilings on the prices at which goods may be sold. This has imposed a heavy and costly burden on the manufacturer and the retailer, has in many cases disrupted the normal processes of production and distribution, has further intensified the trend toward all-powerful government, and has resulted in far more harm than good. An especially bad effect has been to divert the attention of the public from the sources of inflation — which is much as if we paid attention only to the smoke caused by a forest fire and disregarded the blaze beneath.

Inflation comes mainly from financial waste and extravagance in government — from the endless creation of more and more paper dollars with less and less substance back of them. It comes from growing debts and deficits — from government budgets which can't be made to balance even with taxes at a stupefying level. This is the most important domestic problem with which the next administration will have to deal.

Cogent Question

The oil industry as a whole has been the subject of consistent political attack. And much of it has been directed at the foreign operations of American oil companies which have spent vast amounts of money and effort abroad, in order to provide the Free World with oil it vitally needs. The high point is found in a staff report to the Federal Trade Commission entitled "The International Oil Cartel," which names seven American companies. The whole inference is that the activities of these concerns and their foreign associates have been bad.

Few people can understand the legalisms involved. But certain facts can be appreciated by all of us. One fact is that, due in large part to the success of American private enterprise in finding and developing oil resources in the far corners of the world, the free world today is producing some 11,000,000 barrels of oil each day as compared with 1,000,000 barrels a day during the same period of time.

Another is that in 1919 American companies produced about 190,000 barrels per day in foreign operations, of which all but 5,000 came from Mexico. Today their concessionary interests abroad account for 2,500,000 barrels a day. U. S. domestic oil production has risen from about 1,000,000 to 6,250,000 barrels a day during the same period of time.

It has been cogently asked "whether this record of production, which has kept ahead of rapidly rising demand and has made it possible to keep oil prices low, fits your concept of what a cartel is supposed to do?" What is your answer to that question?

90 Million Insured

By the first of next year, more than 90,000,000 Americans will be covered by some form of voluntary health insurance, according to an American Medical Association official.

This is a fact in which every one with an interest in the public health may take pride. The first voluntary plan came into existence only 30 years ago, in Seattle. Now every state in the Union has voluntary health insurance, sponsored either by medical societies or lay organizations. In late-years their growth has reached the spectacular stage.

There has also been a remarkable growth in community health councils. In 1943 there were but 48 of these councils in the entire United States. Now there are 1190.

Here is one of the compelling reasons why the scheme for compulsory government health insurance — a scheme which, incidentally, President-elect Eisenhower is solidly against — failed to gain a sizable following either in Congress or among the public at large. No one argues that the voluntary plans have solved all our health problems. But they have solved many of them, and the extent of their coverage has been steadily broadened. The remaining problems — some of which, such as catastrophic illness, are extraordinarily difficult — are being extensively studied and experimental efforts at solutions are being tried.

It is also significant that the medical profession warmly supports soundly-conceived and administered voluntary plans. Thus the battle to mitigate the economic impact of illness and accident forges successfully ahead.

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

He was a fat man and noted for his humor. He also was a top-rank newspaperman. Before he had his stomach cut open and began making money writing for books and magazines. He once said it to me, long before I ever thought of being a newspaperman: "Items are like grass. You can always make two blades grow where one grew before—if you can grow grass at all." His name was Irvin S. Cobb, rest his soul.

So there was an item in one of the papers: "A Chicago impresario is teaming 12-year-old conductor, Feruccio Burco, with 11-year-old concert pianist, Ehabah, for joint recital." That was the item. Now let's grow some grass. Linda is considerable of a story.

It is true that she is 11 years old. It is not true that her name is Babbits. It's Babbits. She is a pupil of Hedwig Rosenthal, noted teacher and widow of the famed Moritz Rosenthal, once called the Titan of the Piano and the man who introduced Franz Liszt to this country. It is true that most real prodigies began playing before they could walk straight, but in Linda's case it was different. She walked right by the family piano for six and a half years without ever touching it or discussing it or showing any interest whatsoever. She had to have an appendectomy before she piano meant anything to her—and it meant something then only because her distracted mother trying to think of ways of entertaining and quelling convalescent Linda, turned to the piano one day and said: "I'll bet I can run scales faster than you can."

"I don't know how," said Linda languidly, from the depths of her bed. "I don't either, very well," said her mother, a former school teacher. "Maybe we can both learn."

School teachers are wily. They know how to stock up a child's sense of content. Linda got up and wobbled over to a chair near the piano. Her mother got up and went to the piano. She tried out the scales — one finger. Linda got up and matched it. I'll spare you the details. In four weeks Linda was running scales, full hand, twice as fast as her mother. In six weeks, Mrs. Babbits went to see Mrs. Rosenthal. Mrs. Rosenthal interviewed the child and consented to start from scratch. It was a bad day for Thomas A. Edison.

Up to then Linda was a scientist. From babyhood she had been a child who could be made happy with some bits of wire and an old dry battery. If they gave her a fresh one and an old door bell she could rig up, and she was in luck. Edison was her hero. There was no other hero. Edison was the greatest man who had ever lived. Alas, heroes diminish for little girls even as they do for valets. Inside 60 amazing days, Linda had become a scientist. Linda's One and Two heroes, in that order, and Edison moved down to Three. He still holds that spot because Linda still is fascinated by electricity. How much piano. Can a small girl learn in four and a half years? This much: three public appearances in gigantic Madison Square Garden, piano soloist with the United States Military Academy Band in West Point, playing Haydn's Concerto, a difficult, meeching, annoying piece that drives pianists crazy but which Linda sails through without a quaver. She had to appear with a lute to appear with that celebrated band. The artist's year before was a singer Lauritz Melchior, which will give you an idea. He's as gray as a prison wall and she was 10 years old when she trained up to West Point.

The Nation's Press

MR. CHURCHILL AND THE FUTURE

"Truth," London, Eng. The tumultuous welcome given at Scarborough to Mr. Churchill did not prevent — perhaps it assisted — the appearance in print of those speculations about his future which have occupied political talk for many months. It is now generally believed, though without warranty, that he will resign the Premiership after the Coronation.

Some who share that belief believe, too, on equally speculative grounds, that he will accept from his young, newly crowned monarch a seat in the Upper House with a Marquessate, or even a Dukedom, thus following the precedent of Disraeli, who went to the Lords with an Earldom in his last phase.

The Disraeli parallel is not good. It was possible for the newly created Earl of Beaconsfield to remain Prime Minister. A Peer Premier is still constitutionally possible, but, practically, not so. If Mr. Churchill does resign his Office, he might well wish to stay as an elder statesman in the House he has for so long adorned. In the Commons, his presence as the ex-lord might be an embarrassment to his successor. When Gladstone for a time resigned the leadership, his successor, Hartington, found the Old Man's natural command of the House by no means a congenial thing. Should Mr. Churchill wish, or feel impelled, to resign the Premiership, he would be of greater strength to his Party in the Upper Chamber.

Fair Enough'....

Harry Vaughan Taught A Bible Class Every Sunday For Years

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Repartee and controversy in politics and related fields had been waged in a restrained, even a stately terms, for a long time before the Roosevelt Democrats came to power in 1933. Roosevelt was a personal sissy, or mama's boy, who seemed to have learned some earthly expressions from the coachman's children down behind the barn and to have cherished a desire all the years to ride in the smoker amongst the men and try his verboten vocabulary.

He gratified this with awkward and tall-tale abandon when he became President, expressing himself, sometimes, through the agency of Charlie Michelson, a sardonious old professional heckler who originated the organized smear with Herbert Hoover and "respectability" as the primary victims. To be honest, our political contentions had become so formal that the public, as a whole, enjoyed thinking of Hoover and Coolidge as stuffed shirts, a derisive term which actually referred to men who were gentle men though politicians.

In the Roosevelt-Truman era we went, as the British put it in one of their singularly vivid gems, "all out." Roosevelt had an affinity for rascals who were winking in their domestic affairs. Hopkin and Ickes, for flagrant examples, though some of his own loved ones would do. A circle with such a low concept of morals felt an instinctive envy and hatred of genteel men and ladies of good speech and morals.

Instinctively they undertook to bring the public standard down to their own level leaving decency braced high and dry on a more and more lonely shore. The personal influence exerted on this development in American culture by magnates of the press has been important and deleterious. Publicists who maintained the traditional, inconspicuous decency refrained from criticizing influential figures.

The expectation, however unnumbered, that the young man would see a change of Prime Minister brings in its train the question — who is to succeed? By all the signs, Mr. Eden is the Crown Prince. It is he whom Mr. Churchill would advise, did the Queen seek advice. But — again the Gladstone precedent! — the Queen may not seek advice, for Queen Victoria did not when Gladstone retired. He was prepared to recommend one of the more elderly Liberal Peers; she sent for the young Lord Rosebery. Within the party, there are three potential leaders whose claims seem paramount. They are Mr. Eden, Mr. Butler, Mr. Macmillan. Popular as Mr. Eden is, he lacks that intimacy with domestic, economic affairs possessed by his two colleagues. To some of his party, he also rests under the stigma of having created the Axis by the inept handling of sanctions, and of Mussolini.

Mr. Butler, of course, is not without those who mistrust his just Socialist-like "planning". Mr. Macmillan shares with both Mr. Eden and Mr. Butler the disability of being too gentle. If, at some future time, the main opponent is to be Mr. Bevan, the Conservatives might well wish for a leader of the fibre of the young Winston Churchill or F. E. Smith. None such seems to be available.

National Whirligig... Ike Will Find Federal Books In A Mess When He Takes Over

By RAY TUCKER WASHINGTON — Harry S. Truman cannot present a report of his stewardship to Congress next January for the simple reason that no official or agency at Washington knows the amount or the value of the property owned by the United States Government! Numerous inquiries on this subject have been made as a result of the growing belief that President-elect Eisenhower or the next Congress will act on the proposal of Charles B. Wilson.

The former Defense Mobilizer and head of General Electric has aroused keen interest with his suggestion that Uncle Sam dispose of holdings that compete with private industry, thereby reducing the public debt, cutting taxes and eliminating this threat to the enterprise system. Instead of trying to execute the plan with hasty, piecemeal and ill-considered legislation, it has been suggested that a Hoover or Wilson Commission be named to study the subject and report back to the White House or Congress on the practical possibilities.

Attempts to ascertain the full extent of the federal holdings have been made at the general accounting office, which is headed by Controller General Lindsay C. Warren of North Carolina, the budget bureau and the treasury. Each agency has records of partial ownership, but none has a complete master list, showing the outgo and the income from the investment of the people's money.

Officials explain that each agency keeps an account of the property it owns. But when a demand was made for an overall statement with the suggestion that good business required such a key itemization, the oft-recorded explanation was: "Oh! That would be duplication, and we are trying to get away from that!"

So, when Truman hands the reins and title of government to Eisenhower next January 20, he cannot say with respect to federal properties: "General, all present and accounted for!"

INCOMPLETE LISTING — The nearest approach to such an accounting is the treasury statement of October 31, 1952. This lists the "investment of the United States" at $28,108,968,889, but it is admittedly incomplete and inadequate.

The great power project included in this total is TVA, which is valued at $1,410,315,952. There is no estimate of the amount of money which Uncle Sam has invested in Boulder Dam, Bonneville, Grand Coulee and many other projects of this kind now in operation or under construction.

The government's power properties are valued on a conservative basis at about $7 billion. Inflation may boost that figure by billions.

INCLUDES OTHER HOLDINGS — The total of $28,108,968,889, however, includes several billion dollars' worth of investments that lie outside the proposal for a shift of property from public to private hands. They take in, for instance, such holdings as Commodity Credit holdings of farm products, bank deposits, housing loans and guarantees.

Moreover, this money is not invested in productive capacity that competes with private business and industry. Extracting this sum of about $3,325,200,000 from the treasury total gives a net of $24,778,725,569. If the subtraction is correct.

That would seem to be the extent of the government's ownership of property — productive property, a sufficiently large item in a country committed to private initiative. But it does not tell the full totalization story.

As noted, the only power project listed is TVA, with a valuation of $1,410,315,952. Since the federal power system is appraised at about $7 billion, it is obvious that another $5.6 billion must be added to the minimum figure given above.

This brings Uncle Sam's investment in undertakings which could be run more efficiently and economically by private interests, according to the Wilson theory, to almost $28.5 billion. With projects now under way, it will soon amount to $30 billion.

Meanwhile, Interior Secretary Chapman has prepared a new power program for submission to the next Congress that totals more than $5 billion.

TAXPAYER OWNS BY PROXY — The American taxpayer may be interested in the list of properties he owns by proxy. It may also interest him that he loses money on most of these investments because he pays taxes while they do not. Here is a fairly complete inventory:

Power plants and transmission lines, REA's electric and telephone systems and appliances, six synthetic rubber plants, tin smelters, railroad and steamship lines in Panama and Alaska, defense plant machinery, rural and urban homes, large-scale housing developments, warehouses, silos, farm bins, pipelines, sugar-cane factories, a rum distillery, barge lines, hotels, summer resorts in the national parks.

And, of course, RFC investments, although of a loan rather than an ownership nature, include everything from the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad to Dixie Pig night clubs along the highway.

This list does not include public buildings, forests, the public domain, grazing land, the post office or the Panama Canal. It is possibly incomplete because Harry S. Truman is a big-handed and careless investor, and doesn't like to keep accounts.

SMU's Rusty Russell To Speak At Harvester Grid Banquet

Rusty Russell, popular coach for the Southern Methodist Mustangs, has accepted an invitation to be the main speaker at the Harvester football banquet which is being sponsored by the Pampa Quarterback Club.

The banquet will be held the night of Dec. 15, Ivan Noblitt, president of the Quarterback Club, announced last night at the weekly meeting of the club.

Russell will also bring along a film of an SMU game of the past season but it was unknown last night which film it would be.

Warren Hasse, secretary-treasurer of the Quarterback Club, appointed chairman of the banquet committee at last night's meeting at the Sam Houston auditorium.

President Noblitt also announced that everyone including wives and children will be invited to attend next week's Quarterback Club meeting which will be the last of the year.

Dudley Sparks Offense For '52 Harvesters

Ed Dudley, all-round Harvester halfback, was the spark plug of the Harvester's offense for the 1952 season that saw the Harvesters outgain their opponents in every department except passing.

Dudley easily won scoring honors with 101 points and in yards rushing with 999 yards in 144 carries. Dudley's average of 6.5 yards per carry was also tops among the regulars.

The junior halfback also led the team in kickoff and punt returns. He returned 14 punts for 199 yards, a 14.2 average and ran back 10 kickoffs for 260 yards, an average of 26 yards per.

Dudley also led in total yards pass receiving with 285 yards and was third behind Jimmy Martindale and Harold Lewis in the number of catches. Martindale led in pass reception with 10 catches, followed by Lewis with eight and Dudley with seven.

David Enloe's 59.4 average was tops in the punting department with Dudley's 37.4 rating seven.

Quarterback J. N. Wright was the passing leader with 41 completions in 103 attempts, an average of 39.8.

In team figures, the Harvesters rolled up 204 first downs to 156 for the opposition. The Harvesters had a wide edge in net yards rushing, gaining 2,759 yards to 1,617 for the opponents. This is an average of 273 yards per game to their opponents' 161.

Although the Harvesters completed the most passes, 46-40, their opponents gained more yardage, 3,050 to 901.

The Harvesters outscored their opponents, 284 to 178.

Spartans No. 1 In Final Grid Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — Michigan State, the only four-platoon team in the land, today reigned as the nation's No. 1 college football team.

The trophy was donated by the Notre Dame Monogram Club in remembrance of the late Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, a former player and president of the university.

Tennessee won it last year.

Michigan State garnered 2,683 points to 2,249 for Georgia Tech on the ballots of 277 of the nation's sportswriters and sportscasters. They were tabulated on a usual system of 10 for first place, nine for second and so on. State corralled 207 first-place votes to 36 for the Engineers.

Third place went to Notre Dame and fourth to Oklahoma. Southern California was fifth, UCLA sixth, Mississippi seventh, Tennessee eighth, Alabama ninth and Texas 10th.

Michigan State disappointed nobody with its fine showing. Mum's lads were picked as the potential top team in the pre-season Associated Press poll, and except for the second week when Wisconsin ranked No. 1, they were on top.

Mum never used fewer than 35 players in any game, and in two contests he cleaned his bench of all 61 players in uniform, a move which gave him also six platoons.

The leaders, first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Michigan State (207)	2,683

'Kids Night' At Mat Arena

Dory Funk and Frank Murdoch, who will later appear in a tag-team match, will clash in preliminary 20-minute bout at tomorrow night's wrestling program at the Southern Club, promoter Howard Vineyard announced yesterday.

Funk will later team with George Overhuls while Murdoch teams up with brother Farmer Jones in a tag-team match which is the feature attraction.

Meeting in the semi-final will be Tommy Martindale and Gust Johnson. This pair met last week with Martindale winning one-fall to none as time ran out before a second fall could be completed. Johnson asked for a rematch and Vineyard paired the two again for this week.

Tonight has been designated 'Kids Night' at the Southern Club. Every child who is accompanied by at least one adult will be admitted free.

Tickets for the matches will be placed on sale tomorrow morning at the Sportsman's Store and will remain on sale there until closing time.

Buzas Out To Obtain Spahn

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers have prepared a pair of 3-for-2 package deals involving top-flight players in an effort to obtain either Warren Spahn of the Boston Braves or Curt Simmons of the Philadelphia Phillies, it was learned today.

Recognizing the need of a starting southpaw pitcher to go along with the aging Eversole in the defense of their National League championship, Dodgers are quite willing to give up regular players for either of the pitchers, generally recognized as the best left-handers in the circuit.

The Brooks, who sat by quietly yesterday as three of their better minor league farmhands were plucked in the annual major league draft that opened the annual convention, have these package deals to offer:

1. Outfielders Carl Furillo, Andy Pafko and third baseman Billy Cox; all regulars, to the Braves for Spahn and outfielder Sid Gordon or;
2. First baseman Gil Hodges, Furillo and Cox to the Phillies for Simmons and outfielder Del Ennis.

Gordon and Ennis are right-handed power hitters. The Brooklyn Braves' left-fielder batted only 238 last season but hammered 25 home runs, a goodly number at Ebbets Field, where he was moved into the majors in 1942. He is 34, Ennis rapped 20 homers and drove in 106 runs on a .291 batting mark. He is only 27.

The Dodgers were more "hopeful of a trade with Boston, the suspicion prevailing that the Braves are in a mood to part with Spahn in order to augment their right-handed hitting strength as well as to fortify the defense in the infield. Should the trade be consummated, Cox would be installed as Boston's regular shortstop.

Spahn is the man the Dodgers covet the most despite his comparatively poor 14-19 win and lost record last season. The 30-year-old southpaw, a victim of weak hitting and a mediocre defense behind him, failed to notch 20 or more victories for the first time in four years in 1951. He topped the circuit in strikeouts for the third successive season with 182. Simmons, only 23, posted a 14-8 record including six shutouts and is far from his peak as a big winner.

When Manager Lou Boudreau recently returned to the active line of the Boston Red Sox he was assigned to a player-manager contract, covering the balance of 1952 and all of 1953.

ALL SOUTHWEST DEFENSE 1952

ALL-SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE DEFENSIVE TEAM — The players (above) are members of the All-Southwest Conference defensive football team chosen by coaching staffs of the seven member schools for the Associated Press. The defensive platoon has Wayne Martin of Texas Christian (a unanimous choice) and Bill Williams, Texas Christian, tackles, and Bill Forester, Southern Methodist, linebackers, Val Joe Walker, Southern Methodist, and Ronald Freley, Texas Christian, halfbacks and Joe Borling, Texas A&M, safety. (AP Photo)

UT Also Hogs Titles In Statistics

DALLAS (AP) — When you have three men who average over four yards each time they carry the ball and another fellow who averages 16.2 yards each time he passes that spells championship. And that's how Texas romped to the Southwest Conference football title.

Final statistics show that Dick Ochoa, the hampering Texas fullback, led the league in ball-carrying with 819 yards on 194 runs; that Gib Dawson, Texas halfback, was second with 649 on 131 carries, and that Billy Quinn, the other Texas halfback, was third with 627 on 119.

Ochoa averaged 4.2, Dawson 5.0 and Quinn 5.3.

T. Jones, the fellow who made the Texas offense click like a machine, passed for 1,018 yards and seven touchdowns. He completed 68 of 152 for a percentage of 47.7.

Good Runner Also

But Jones also was a good runner. He made 209 yards on the ground for a total offense of 1,299, so that gave him the percentage in that department. He figured in 209 plays.

Jerry Norton of Southern Methodist easily won the punting title. He averaged 41.2 yards on 44 kicks. Bob St. Pierre of Arkansas averaged 28.4 on 22 boots for second place and Roy Dollard of Texas A&M was third with 37.3 on 45.

Punt Runback Title

Horton Neersta of Rice was the fellow who played havoc with the punts. He carried 44 back for 388 yards. His average wasn't tops but his total was No. 1 nationally. Jerry Coody of Baylor had the best average, showing 12.8 on 13 runs. Joe Boring of A&M was third with 11.2 on 12. Neersta's average was 12.2.

Tom Stoihandskis, Texas end, wound up as leading pass-receiver. He caught 39 for 519 yards and five touchdowns. Charley Smith of Baylor was second with 21 for 370 and Bob Blair of Texas Christian was third with 20 for 367.

Texas led in team offense with 269.5 yards per game rushing and 117 passing for a total of 386.5. Baylor was second with 295 and Rice was third with 293.4.

Wichita Falls Given Favorites Role To Win Class 4-A Title

By The Associated Press

As much as Joe Golding will dislike this Wichita Falls is going to be the state championship favorite this week as the Class AAAA division of Texas schoolboy football move into the playoffs.

Golding is the coach of Wichita Falls who has been producing top teams every season and winning more than his share of state titles.

Wichita Falls wasn't supposed to be the favorite this campaign. Lubbock, the defending champion, was returning with another power-packed team. Then there was Baytown in the South and it looked like a stronger outfit than played Lubbock in the finals last fall. Also, there was a Ray of Corpus Christi, jammed with veterans and confident of making it to the finals.

Loyetas Cut 'Em Down

But Wichita Falls methodically cut them down, bouncing Breckenridge, the defending Class AAA champion, 15-0, capping Denison, one of the teams in the Class AAA playoff, 22-0; beating Waco, 14-0, and dousing Highland Park Dallas 28-0. Ten opponents could make only 13 points. Highland Park it was that went into the Plains counzler and gave Lubbock a hefty fight before losing, 33-20.

Meanwhile, Lubbock was having a little trouble moving along and Baytown was beaten by Temple of Class AAA, and Temple is not rated as strong today as Breckenridge, the team it's expected to meet in the Class AAA finals.

Wichita Falls plays Ray in the opening round this week. Ray was tied by Lamar of Houston a fair team only, and beaten by mediocre Miller of Corpus Christi, 14-13.

Handy Favorite

So Wichita Falls will be a handy favorite to whip Ray Saturday at Corpus Christi and move into the semi-finals against Baytown, which is expected to take out John Reagan of Houston at Houston Friday night.

It's pretty certain that Wichita Falls' opponent in the finals will be Lubbock. The undefeated, untied Westerners play four-time loser Austin of El Paso at El Paso Saturday and expect to win by a comfortable margin. Then Lubbock would face the winner of the North Dallas - North Side (Fort Worth) game in the semi-finals. Lubbock already has licked North Side, 27-13. Highland Park beat North Dallas, 27-0, so Lubbock would appear far superior to North Dallas, too.

Lubbock, Wichita Falls and Baytown are the only ones with good records in the playoff.

Powder Puff Bowl Set At Galveston

GALVESTON (AP) — There'll be a football game between undefeated, untied and unscathed on teams tonight and it will be broadcast.

It's unusual because the teams are undefeated and untied since they never have played a game before and it will be the first girls' football game ever broadcast so far as anybody knows at Station KGCB.

They're calling it the Powder Puff Bowl as usual and it's between the senior and junior classes of Ball High School.

The seniors will be known as the Golden Gals. The juniors will call themselves the Purdie Amazons. It's all because of the colored jerseys they will wear.

There'll be no tackling — each girl will have a flag in her belt. Each flag that's pulled out of the belt will mean a tackle. Blocking will consist of standing with arms folded.

Looks like this is going to be the cleanest football game ever played, too.

George Mikan, regarded as the most outstanding pro basketball player in history, recently took his third Minnesota bar examination.

Kremlin Puts The Curse On Its Cussin' Comrades

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Albert Parry, author of the following dispatch, is professor of Russian Civilization and Culture at Colgate University.)

By ALBERT PARRY
NEA Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA) — Profanity is the newly discovered plague and enemy of the Soviet Union. Four words fill the pure Russian air, and this won't do, no, comrades and citizens, it's just too, too uncultured. So says the Moscow press in accents shocked and angry.

The Kremlin's latest campaign against its subjects' vile language was opened in "Literaturnaya Gaeta" by Feodor Gladkov, a Soviet novelist. He denounced Russian profanity as "an infection" and shuddered at its amazing spread in the USSR thusly: "Not drunken people alone, but sober ones, too, and especially our young, exercise in this . . . everywhere and under all circumstances . . . men of toil, the youths who have studied and who are readers of books."
"Perhaps this profanity is but surface bravado or a bad habit, but it is common, and people do not see its shame."

Teen-agers hanging around the entrances to Soviet movie houses distressed Comrade Gladkov as he recognized in them veritable "masters" of the crudest profanity imaginable. He wrote: "I once tried to appeal to these lads' conscience, but their reply was a barrage of arrogant curses. They bombarded me with the most startling swear-words. A policeman stood nearby, but he merely shook his head in disapproval."

Moreover, Gladkov continued: "Open, loud-mouthed evil tongued profanity, unrestrained by the presence of women and children, can be heard from people of all stations in life, of all ages and both sexes . . . in offices and factories, in stores, theaters, street-cars and railroad stations."

Readers Respond
At once, sympathetic readers of Gladkov's complaint rushed with letters to "Literaturnaya Gaeta" listing these examples of high-voltage profanity which they had encountered in their parts of Russia:

Volley-ball players at a public game: "They played masterfully, but just as 'masterfully' they yelled out unprintable words at one another, as interjections and interpolations, out of habit."

The driver of a kolkhoz vehicle, who goodnaturedly explained to his passenger: "If you don't curse at a horse with the dirtiest words, you asked a newly arrived. He is used to this."

The chief of an important department in the Ural nickel works, who asked a newly arrived engineer: "But can you curse profanely?" The implication being that if the new engineer could not, his authority would not be heeded by the workers.

The Moscow "Krokodil" supplied a case out of its own mail: At Buturilovka in the Voronezh region an official of the House of Culture has such a mean disposition that "he curses visitors to the House most unprintably. Not a cultured comrade he!"

Vestige Of Past
By way of analysis, "Literaturnaya Gaeta" branded this "uncultured phenomenon" of foul swearing as "a vestige of the past," that is, of tsarist times.

It is true that years back, in pre-revolutionary Russia, profanity provided one of the first and most striking impressions of any foreign guest just beginning to make his way in the Russian language. But before the revolution it was mainly the lower classes of Russia that went in for this practice.

Today, however, in the Soviet Union, the use of foul words has spread to all classes. It is held by no such restraints as it was formerly. Worst of all, it does not seem to shock many of even those who do not practice it.

How to explain all this regression? A Moscow housewife wrote to Gladkov that, on asking her college sophomore son why he and his friends swore so much and so vilely, she had heard this reply:

"Mother, you reflect your intellectual inhibitions. Already when I was in high school, those kids who didn't use such words were called stazy intellectuals."

The Kremlin tells people to stop cursing. Yet, the official language of the Soviet government itself is far from polite, especially when it is addressed to other governments and nations. The Soviet press, slavishly echoing the Kremlin, lets go with all the printable curses possible when it talks about the West.

Benjamin Franklin projected the first subscription library in what later became the United States.

In the Himalaya Mountains birds exist on dead grasses blown among the rocks and lichens growing on stone.

Want To Break Into TV? It's Rough—Casting Chief

NEW YORK (AP) — "Breaking into television as an actor or actress is like breaking into major league baseball," says Martin Begley, casting director for NBC-TV.

"A performer must prove his ability by making good in the minor leagues. Very few athletes can jump directly to the big time. Very few performers can make the grade in TV without prior experience on the stage, in films or with theatre groups."

Begley, a short, wiry man in his late 40s, sits behind a large mahogany desk and makes decisions affecting the lives of hundreds of TV actors and actresses. A nod from him indicates who gets a job and who doesn't. 8,000 Applicants

"We have about 8,000 applicants on file," he says. "Each person who registers is listed on a card. In addition to the vital statistics, the card indicates previous acting experience and where performed. A picture is attached."

TV producers usually obtain the services of the starring performers in advance. Begley usually has to fill the supporting cast.

Young aspirant use all sorts of devices to impress him and there by to get parts in NBC dramas. One ingenious actress mailed him a photograph of herself, torn into many pieces. A note in the envelope said: "to save time in piecing together this jigsaw puzzle, just call me at the address below."

Another girl sent a small card on which was pasted a forgotten-me-not.

Large Rubber Ball
A box containing a large rubber ball was delivered to Begley one day. Attached to the ball was a note: "Get on the ball—see me now."

Once he received a picture of a monkey with the notation "I can't play this role but I sure can do a lot of other types."

"Everybody on file must either be auditioned by this office or else be seen in some drama by us. Nobody—but nobody—is listed without these qualifications," Begley says firmly.

"Some youngsters hope to fool us by giving false listings of what they've done," he said. "A few will tell me they performed in dramatic and little theater groups in California. When I try to pin them down to the exact place, they vaguely say, 'Oh, out on the coast.' You probably never heard of it."

"But I never discourage them," he is quick to add. "I try to buck up these youngsters. Give them a little pep talk. Tell them about the hard struggle ahead and advise them to stick to it if they believe in themselves. It usually works."

Millionaires Ousted From China Find Work Elsewhere

By CARL HARTMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Christian missionaries driven from Red China are finding new work elsewhere in Asia and in Latin America.

The Vatican news service Fides says that before the Communists took continental China the Roman Catholic Church had 3,046 foreign missionary priests there, 414 foreign lay brothers and 2,035 foreign nuns.

Of these 5,495 only 840 were left last month. The National Catholic Welfare Conference in Washington estimates about 50 of these were from the United States. Dr. Clyde W. Taylor, Washington representative of the National Association of Evangelicals, says there were 3,943 Protestant missionaries from all countries in China five years ago. He counts 17 left, all of them in Communist jails.

At the New York office of the National Council of Churches of Christ Executive Secretary Roland Cross of the China Committee puts the 1947 total of Protestant missionaries in China at 2,536, with 33 remaining now, leaving since '36.

Dr. Taylor points out that missionaries have been leaving China proper since the 1930s, the period of fighting between China and Japan. Of the Protestants who have gone since 1937—something over 5,700—he estimates that about 25 per cent have settled in Southeast Asia, 300 to 500 in Japan and perhaps 200 to 300 in Latin America.

Part of the missionaries and mission funds released from China, have been going to Latin America.

Some Conflict
There has been some conflict. Fides, the Catholic agency, says that Protestantism "has made colossal efforts to penetrate and win these people who are in general much opposed to it."

In Colombia, Protestant charges of violent interference with their work—denied by Catholics—have led to several protests by the U. S. government.

In Rome the situation of the Catholic Church in Latin America is considered serious. Fides says the 25,000 priests there are "entirely too few for the 154 million inhabitants—nearly all of them Catholics."

The National Council of Churches of Christ, a Protestant group, has found the opportunity to improve school, one of big stimulants to its mission work.

Dr. W. Stanley Rycroft, chairman of its Latin American Committee, calls Latin America one of the greatest mission fields in the world today. It was generally neglected by most main Protestant groups, he says, until the past 15 or 20 years.

He finds the most important trend to be an increased emphasis on training Latin Americans to do missionary work. He cites the case of Cuba, where the Presbyterian Church now has only one foreign staff member but subsidizes some 30 Cuban pastors.
