Hopes of reviving Explorer Posts

By AMANDA DUFORAT
Managing Editor

Merit badges, learning how to build a fire, tie a knot or survive in the wilderness are the commonly associated skills with Boy Scouts, but there is more than that when it comes to Scouting’s Explorer program. Local leadership is trying to revive Explorer Posts in order to expand the horizon of Big Spring’s young people.

“Boy Scouts is great when it comes to teaching young boys – and now girls – the survival and preparation skills, but through the explorer posts we will be able to teach them life skills and help ensure they are ready for the work field,” Anita Davidson, District Executive, said.

Explorer Posts, which were active many years ago, according to Mark Richardson, Boy Scouts volunteer and past Troop Leader, are opportunities provided by the local community for older boys and girls.

“Explorer Posts help us close the gap for older youth and allows inclusion in activities that provide direction for future careers,” Davidson said. “Many of our youth don’t know what they want to do and are not aware of all the opportunities out there. Explorer Posts allow them an opportunity to see what path fits them.”

According to Davidson, any field of employment could qualify for an Explorer Post. Meeting structure, lessons and application process would be up to each business, but resources are available for the initial setup.

New UIL rules regarding student physicals

Athletic, band, and cheerleading physicals slated for Wednesday

Special to the Herald

New this year, marching band students and cheerleaders are required to have a physical

West Texas Injury Prevention will be on the Coahoma ISD campus on Wednesday to perform physicals for students who plan to participate in athletics, band, and/or cheerleading for the 2019-2020 school year.

Students who will be going into the seventh, ninth and 11th grade for the upcoming school year are required to have a physical if they plan to play school sports.

New for the upcoming academic year, UIL rules require all students participating in marching band and cheerleading to have a physical examination if they want to participate in these programs.

“This is the perfect time to get this done,” said Chris Joslin, CISD Athletic Director and Head Football Coach. “West Texas Injury Prevention is offering a $15 discount for those students who have the physical on campus Wednesday. Our kids will not have to wait in an office or waste a day in the summer to get it done.”

The cost per physical is $30 and can be paid by cash, check, or credit card. The cost to have a physical at the WTIP office is $45. Forms must be fill out and payment turned into either the school office or the athletic office on Tuesday, May 7.

Forms will be sent home with your child or can be found at <https://www.uiltexas.org/files/athletics/forms/PrePhys-Form17-18.pdf>

Physicals will begin at 8 a.m. during junior high school athletics on Wednesday, May 8.

Who needs a physical:

- Students entering 7, 9, 11 grade who plan to participate in athletics for the 2019-2020 school year.
- All band students and cheerleaders who do not have a current physical and plan to participate in band and/or cheerleading.
- Any student who doesn’t have a current physical and participates in athletics.
- Any student who has had a major injury within the past year and plans to participate in athletics, band and/or cheerleading.

If you have any questions, please contact the CISD athletic office at 432-394-5000.

Chicano Golf Association Scholarship Tourney set

By AMANDA DUFORAT
Managing Editor

What’s better than playing a round of golf on a nice summer day? How about playing golf and helping send a Howard County student to college?

The Big Spring Chicano Golf Association is hosting the 29th annual scholarship tournament - a 2-man scramble - June 8 and 9, at the Comanche Trail Park Municipal Golf Course.

“Almost 50 years ago a group of Hispanic golfers joined together to start a club and golf association,” Charlie Garcia, Chicano Golf Association President, said. “The purpose of the association was to give back to the community with money raised through golf tournaments, and they have been serving that purpose ever since.”

According to Garcia, the Chicano Golf Association has provided approximately $184,000 in scholarships to Howard County (Forsan, Coahoma and Big Spring) students, since the first golf tournament was held in 1990.

“The scholarships can be used at any college and for any field of study,” he said. “Once the student is selected, they notify us of their college choice and we send the money over to the college for them.”

Each year, the goal is to raise enough money to provide 25 scholarships. Sponsors and supporters of the golf tournament make the scholarships possible and help support the youth in our community.

“If it wasn’t for our community and the generous sponsors, we wouldn’t have the success that we have,” Garcia said.

Sponsorships are available on different tier levels, and it is also possible to donate to a specific scholarship.

“We have long time sponsors who help us cover costs and we have those who like their money to go specifically to providing a scholarship, every dollar counts and helps us reach our goal,” he said.

The deadline for sponsorships is the middle of May, in order for promotional items to be printed and sponsor names to be included. Donations are being accepted continuously. In addition to the sponsorships, teams are needed to compete in the tournament.

“There are several ways to win along the course, including Hole 11, which offers a chance to win a 2019 pick up from Pollard Chevrolet,” Garcia said.

Pollard Chevrolet has been the Hole in One sponsor for the past several years, according to Garcia. There are several other payout opportunities spread over the two day competition. Teams can register for $240 per team or $120 per person.

“We appreciate all those who have supported the association over the years. We are also always looking for volunteers to help out. There are several ways to get involved,” he said.

For those wanting to sign up a team, volunteer or find out more information about the tournament, call Charlie Garcia at 432-213-2081 or Linda Summersell at 432-264-2366.

“I have set up law enforcement fire department, and other Explorer Posts in other towns and most of them are still up and running. They each have their own way of doing things, but the common thread between them all is that they are providing an avenue for the youth to find a career path, while staying out of trouble,” Richardson said. “We have the resources here on what needs to be done to get started. Lady Hawks sweep Luna and El Paso to win their fifth straight conference title!

Tony Claxton (www.claxtonphotography.com)

The Howard College softball sophomores (front) pose with the rest of their team on Sunday, May 5 following their four game sweep of El Paso this weekend. Sports Editor

BIG SPRING – The Lady Hawks finished off their regular season in dominant fashion with back to back sweeps of Luna Community College and El Paso Community College to finish the season with a 41-10 record and a 25-3 conference record as well as their fifth straight conference championship. This years Lady Hawks have continued the tradition of winning that we have all come to expect and are poised to make another run at the national tournament again this year. The Lady Hawks will begin their post season run this Friday in the WJCAC regional tournament at Lubbock Christian University.

Howard College will enter the regional tournament riding a 12 game win streak in which the Lady Hawks scored double digit runs in 11 of those 12 contests. With Amanda Gonzalez and Angelina Garcia both batting over .500 for the year and Laela Minnich, Marin Musicant, and Paige Hallam all batting better than .400 as well, Howard College has great talent and discipline at the plate throughout their lineup.

Defensively, Julia Grib leads the way from the pitchers circle this year with a 3.5 ERA and 74 strikeouts on the year. Marin Musicant, Brittney Espinosa and Marissa Salinas have also been key for the Lady Hawks from the rubber as well. With this core group of great pitchers and great defense behind them, Howard College looks poised and equipped to make another great showing at the Regional Tournament and will hopefully stamp their ticket to the National Tournament again this year.

Our Lady Hawks have been one of the most dominant powerhouses in women's softball for over five years now and they not only embrace those expectations they raise them for themselves every year and have been excellent at living up to their potential. Congratulations to the Lady Hawks on another fantastic regular season and yet another conference title. We can't wait to see what these ladies will do this year at the Regional Tournament.

Tony Claxton (www.claxtonphotography.com)

Several Howard College softball players pose for a photo during the Lady Hawk's second game of a double header with El Paso on Friday, May 3. Howard swept the series in two run-rule games, 13-4 and 14-0.

Coahoma High School Senior Julia Mashburn was recognized Sunday night at the FCA (Fellow Christian Athletes) Banquet in Abilene as a member of the 2019 Big Country FCA All-Star Cheerleading squad.

She will be representing CHS as she cheers during the Big Country FCA All-Star Football game set for June 8 at Shotwell Stadium in Abilene. Fellow high school classmate Joe Manning will play on the Red Team during the game.

"We are so proud of Julia and all she has done for Coahoma ISD," said CHS Cheerleading Sponsor Joni Lacefield. "She will be missed."

Mashburn is on the varsity cheerleading squad at Coahoma and she is an All-American Cheerleader. She is an A and A&B honor roll student and is active in her church group at College Baptist.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Winged Moon

ARIES (March 21-April 19). There's a time to challenge people and a time to make things easy and fun. You've an excellent sense of which mode to use for any given situation, and for this reason you'll be tapped for leadership.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Reactions can be even more important than actions. There are people close to you who count on your feedback and will take your response to heart, whatever it may be.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). The story doesn't really start until the main character decides to stop letting life happen to her and start happening to life. You'll reach that point in your story today.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You'll put out a certain strength, and you'll attract the equally strong. They'll have different talents from yours, and together you'll be a force to be reckoned with.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). There's nothing wrong with sacrificing something of yourself for the good of others. But when they consistently miss the inherent gift that is you doing you, maybe what they need isn't a sacrifice so much as a wake-up call.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). One man's gossip is another man's good information. The spirit of the talk is what matters to you. When the motive is self-elevation at the cost of another, you'll want nothing to do with it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Ideas have a liberating effect. They can unstick what's stuck, create what didn't exist, save the day. Exercise your idea muscle by coming up with a few each day. The more ideas you have, the more you will have.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). If you're not sure what you should do next, look to your feelings for clues. If your feelings are confusing, look to your likes and dislikes. It's like playing a game of "hot" and "cold" with yourself. Simple questions lead to discovery.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). In centuries past, it wasn't at all uncommon for people to never travel beyond their own village. Now there's really no good excuse for confining yourself thusly. So when's your next mind-expanding adventure?

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Someone needs to keep the action on track, or time and money will be wasted. You're the perfect person to set a tone. You have excellent instincts and superb taste, and you'll stay to the point.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). It's fun to see people you love doing interesting things and succeeding -- until it's not. When it hits uncomfortably close to home, take it as your cue to do the thing you haven't been letting yourself do.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Here comes an opportunity to carry your name to a larger number of potential new friends, fans and customers. You'll have a great deal of fun positioning and presenting yourself.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (May 7). It doesn't seem like freedom would be a bonding agent, but easing up on the rules and limits will actually help you feel more connected to people, especially over the next six months. You'll grow in confidence and take on new sorts of adventures. There's a windfall in July and a status bump up in October. Capricorn and Cancer adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 40, 29, 35, 1 and 48.

Level: Advanced

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Annie's Mailbox

Miserable at Home

Dear Annie: I've been married for 32 years, but my wife and I have never made a great pair. We now have two grown children and a well-established life in the local community. I find great fulfillment in my work and my hobbies, but our home life is miserable -- for me, for my wife and for my children. I've thought about divorce, of course, but my wife wouldn't be able to support herself financially, so I'd need to send her payments, I'm sure. How do I balance my needs with hers? We vowed "for better or for worse," but she has been a negligent wife, refusing to help support the family when we've been at our breaking point. I'm so torn. I don't want to break her heart or put her in a financially and emotionally precarious situation, but I also know I'm setting a terrible example for my children by staying with someone who makes us all miserable. What do you think? Is there any way out of this nightmare? -- Stuck

Dear Stuck: Failure is an orphan, even in relationships. I'd ask for you to look for your part in this. While I don't know exactly what you mean by "(she) makes us all miserable," it doesn't sound totally fair. Perhaps your wife is struggling with untreated mental health issues; it's hard for me to guess at what's going on without knowing the specifics. Regardless, my advice to you is to give marriage counseling a sincere try. It's the least you can do for your marriage, yourself, your wife and your children.

Dear Annie: My daughter is getting married in two weeks and I have been battling pneumonia for more than six weeks. I'm being heavily medicated, so I am hoping to feel well by the time of the wedding. I have been told by my doctor and several medical friends that I can't get close to people or it could really set me back. There will be family and friends attending that I would want to hug and be close with. Photos alone keep people pretty close together. I'm at a complete loss as to how to handle this. -- Anxiously Recovering

Dear Anxiously Recovering: While I understand your desire to embrace and be close with all the friends and family that will be at the wedding, you should heed your doctor's advice and try to keep a safe distance. Let your family know the situation ahead of time and ask that they avoid giving you hugs, as it will be easy to forget in the moment. As for photography, talk to the photographer about poses that won't require your being cheek-to-cheek with anyone. Congratulations on your daughter's wedding. Know that even if pneumonia means your experience of her big day isn't exactly how you always envisioned it, it will still be wonderful.

Dear Annie: Regarding the letter from "Bewildered in VT": It appears the children have filed a petition to determine incompetency with the court in order to establish a guardianship. Each state differs, but the general idea behind the guardianship process allows a concerned person to file a petition with the court to determine whether a person is able to care for themselves and their property. The person who is being required to submit to the evaluation is entitled to an attorney, so her sister should have one representing her. Generally, the court will appoint one (pro bono) or she can retain one. I would encourage her to make sure her sister has an attorney specializing in guardianships and elder law. Typically, there will be a hearing and witnesses are permitted to testify, so "Bewildered" should be sure to attend. -- Whitney C. Glaser, Esq.

Opening lead — three of hearts.

No one could possibly memorize the best way of dealing with every card combination that can arise to plague a declarer. Fortunately, the answer to most such problems can be figured out at the table. Simple logic will provide the solution in almost every case.

Consider this deal where West leads a heart against six spades. East takes the ace and returns a heart to dummy's queen.

South must avoid a trump loser to make the slam. There is no good reason to postpone playing trumps, so declarer leads one from dummy, planning to finesse.

But which spade should he lead from dummy? The proper play is the deuce, not the ten. This is because East might have the singleton king, in which case the ten lead would establish West's nine as a trick.

After South leads the deuce and wins with the queen, presumably marking East with the king, he returns to dummy with a club in order to repeat the spade finesse.

But this time South should lead the ten from dummy, not the five. The ten is led in order to guard against the possibility that East might have started with four trumps rather than just two or three.

Once South leads the ten, he makes the slam whether East covers with the king or not. But if South makes the mistake of leading the five from dummy and finessing the jack, he will then have to lose a trump trick to East's K-9 and go down one.

Tomorrow: Insurance to the nth degree.

Today in History
Today is Tuesday, May 7, the 127th day of 2019. There are 238 days left in the year.
Today's Highlight in History:
On May 7, 1945, Germany signed an unconditional surrender at Allied headquarters in Rheims (rams), France, ending its role in World War II.

On this date:
In 1763, Pontiac, chief of the Ottawa Indians, attempted to lead a sneak attack on British-held Fort Detroit, but was foiled because the British had been tipped off in advance.
In 1789, America's first inaugural ball was held in New York in honor of President George Washington, who had taken the oath of office a week earlier.
In 1915, a German U-boat torpedoed and sank the British liner RMS Lusitania off the southern coast of Ireland, killing 1,198 people, including 128 Americans, out of the nearly 2,000 on board.
In 1939, Germany and Italy announced a military and political alliance known as the Rome-Berlin Axis.
In 1945, the 1944 Pulitzer
Prizes were awarded; winners included John Hersey for his novel "A Bell for Adano," Mary Chase for her play "Harvey," and Associated Press photographer Joe Rosenthal for his picture of the Iwo Jima flag-raising.
In 1954, the 55-day Battle of Dien Bien Phu in Vietnam ended with Vietnamese insurgents overrunning French forces.
In 1963, the United States launched the Telstar 2 communications satellite.
In 1975, President Gerald R.
Ford formally declared an end to the "Vietnam era." In Ho Chi Minh City — formerly Saigon — the Viet Cong celebrated its takeover.
In 1984, a $180 million out-of-court settlement was announced in the Agent Orange class-action suit brought by Vietnam veterans who said they'd been injured by exposure to the defoliant.
In 1992, the latest addition to America's space shuttle fleet, Endeavour, went on its first flight.
In 1998, the parent company of Mercedes-Benz agreed to buy Chrysler Corp. for more than $37 billion. Londoners voted overwhelmingly to elect their own mayor for the first time in history. (In May 2000, Ken Livingstone was elected.)

In 2004, Army Pfc. Lynndie England, shown in photographs smiling and pointing at naked Iraqi prisoners, was charged by the military with assaulting the detainees and conspiring to mistreat them.
(England was later convicted of conspiracy, mistreating detainees and committing an indecent act, and sentenced to 36 months; she served half that term.)
Ten years ago: A federal jury in Paducah, Kentucky, convicted a former soldier, Steven Dale Green, of raping and fatally shooting a 14-year-old girl after killing her parents and younger sister while he was serving in Iraq. (Green was sentenced to life without possibility of parole; he hanged himself in prison in February 2014.) Former Illinois police Sgt. Drew Peterson was indicted for murder in the death of his third wife, Kathleen Savio.
(Peterson was convicted of murdering Savio, and was sentenced to 38 years in prison.) Mickey Carroll, one of the last surviving Munchkins from the 1939 film "The Wizard of Oz," died in Crestwood, Missouri, at age 89.
Five years ago: Russian President Vladimir Putin softened his tone in a confrontation with the West, declaring that he had pulled his troops away from the Ukrainian border.
The Nation's Report Card said
America's high school seniors lacked critical math and reading skills for an increasingly competitive global economy.
The International Olympic Committee awarded the exclusive U.S. broadcast rights to NBC for an additional six games in a record $7.75 billion deal.
One year ago: First lady Me-lania Trump unveiled what she called the "Be Best" public awareness campaign to help children, focusing on childhood well-being, social media use and opioid abuse. Retired Lt. Col. Oliver North, the Marine at the center of the Iran-Contra affair in the Reagan administration, was named president of the National Rifle Association. New York State Attorney General Eric Schneiderman announced that he would be resigning from office after he was accused of physical violence by women with whom he had been involved; Schneiderman had been a high-profile advocate for women's issues.

Harden scores 38 as Rockets even series with Warriors

By KRISTIE RIEKEN

AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON — James Harden and the Houston Rockets dug out of a 0-2 hole to even their Western Conference semifinals series with the Golden State Warriors after another game where they fought, scrapped and held off a late rally to get a victory.

Harden scored 38 points and the Rockets got a 112-108 win on Monday night to even the best-of seven series at 2-2.

"When you're dealing with these guys, if you let Klay (Thompson) and Steph (Curry) run around and shoot 3s you don't have no chance," Harden said. "The only chance we have is to be in to their bodies and make every shot that they take contested."

The Rockets were up by nine before the Golden State scored the next seven points, capped by a 3 from Stephen Curry, to get within 110-108 with 19 seconds left. Harden made one of two free throws with 11.5 seconds left. Kevin Durant missed a 3 after that. But the Warriors got the rebound and Curry also missed a 3-point attempt before Golden State was forced to foul Chris Paul.

"We got a couple of wide-open looks," Durant said. "They just didn't fall for us."

Paul made one of two free throws with 2.9 seconds left to secure the victory.

Golden State coach Steve Kerr was asked about the physical play of the Rockets, who have several players who are much stockier than his squad.

"They've got a lot of middle linebackers on that team," he said. "They're sturdy and we're like volleyball players, long and lean ... everybody tries to be physical with us because they should. That's the best way to try to beat us."

After losing the first two games of the series on the road, the Rockets head back to Golden State for Game 5 on Wednesday night with momentum on their side after their overtime win in Game 3 before Monday night's victory.

The Warriors got 34 points from Kevin Durant, who had 46 in the Game 3 loss. Curry, who was criticized after shooting 7 for 23 in Game 3, got off to a good start, scoring 11 points in the first quarter. He cooled off after that, but finished with 30 points on 12 of 25 shooting.

"I didn't think we got great shots for much of the night," Kerr said. "We've got to be more poised and that has to be a focus."

Eric Gordon added 20 points for Houston and P.J. Tucker had 17 points and 10 rebounds.

Despite two straight win, the Rockets still don't think they've played their best.

"We've got to be better," Tucker said. "We've got to be more aggressive. We've got to pick it up."

Houston made 17 of its 50 3-point attempts, while the Warriors shot just 8 of 33 from downtown with Curry making just 4 of his 14 attempts.

The Rockets were up by nine after three and used an 8-2 run, with four points from Harden, to open the fourth and extend the lead to 101-86. Golden State used an 8-3 run, with six points from Draymond Green, to cut it to 104-94 midway through the quarter.

Houston had a 10-point lead with about four minutes left before a 5-2 run, with a 3 from Curry, got them within 108-101.

Green was shaken up when Harden inadvertently knocked him in the head on the follow through after he made a 3-pointer that put Houston up 71-59 with nine minutes left in the third quarter. Green fell to the court where he remained holding the left side of his head for a couple of minutes. The Warriors called a timeout and he collected himself and remained in the game. The lead grew to 77-60 before Golden State got going.

TIP-INS

Warriors: Green had 15 points and 10 rebounds. ... Golden State trailed by as many as 17 in the second half before its late surge.

Rockets: Tucker has scored at least 10 points in six of Houston's nine playoff games this season and Monday was his third straight game with at least 10 rebounds. ... Austin Rivers had 10 points.

Blues, Stars meet again in Game 7 for spot in West finals

By SCHUYLER DIXON
AP Sports Writer

The Blues and Stars are set for Game 7 in a second-round series again, three years after St. Louis dominated a winner-take-all matchup in Dallas for a spot in the Western Conference finals.

Deja vu or ancient history?

Maybe a little of both for Alex Pietrangelo and company, who won 6-1 after going up 3-0 in the first period in 2016 to clinch the only trip to the West finals for either franchise in the past decade.

"A lot of different players on these teams, different makeup, different coaches," Pietrangelo said after a 4-1 win in Dallas that forced Tuesday night's deciding game. "Some of this helps because we've been through a few of these before. We've got some guys that are ready, who have been through this."

The biggest difference is the site: St. Louis, after the Blues recovered from having the NHL's fewest points on Jan. 2 and are already the only team to win a playoff series after carrying that lowly distinction at the start of a calendar year. The Blues finished third in the Central Division, with the Stars six points behind in the first wildcard spot.

"Best out of one," said forward Mats Zuccarello, a trade deadline addition for Dallas this season. "We've got to be excited about it. It's going to be fun. It's always fun to play Game 7s in the Stanley Cup playoffs."

It won't be deja vu for Stars coach Jim Montgomery, a rookie making the rare jump from the college coaching ranks and two years removed from winning an NCAA title at the University of Denver.

"When I was a little kid, every time I played street hockey or I played in my basement with my cousin, it was always Game 7 every time," Montgomery said. "I'm excited."

Montgomery said goaltender Ben Bishop was fine after taking a puck to the shoulder on a hard shot from Colton Parayko that sent the goalie sprawling to the ice as Alexander Steen gathered the long carom and had his shot redirected into the net by Jaden Schwartz over the still-prone Bishop.

The decisive sequence helped turn a one-goal lead into a three-goal cushion with less than 12 minutes left when Sammy Blais scored on a breakaway 33 seconds later. Montgomery pulled Bishop after the Blais goal, giving Anton Khodobin his first action of the postseason. But the coach left little doubt Bishop would be back in net.

"We have confidence in both our goalies," defenseman John Klingberg said.

Dallas Stars' Tyler Seguin (91) scores past St. Louis Blues goaltender Jordan Binnington (50) as Stars' Roope Hintz (24) watches during the first period in Game 6 of an NHL second-round hockey playoff series, Sunday, May 5, 2019, in Dallas.

Tyler Seguin leads the Stars with 11 points in the playoffs (four goals, seven assists) after signing a $78.8 million, eight-year contract extension before the season. Three years ago, the high-scoring forward missed all but one of Dallas' 13 playoff games because of Achilles tendon and calf issues. He missed the entire St. Louis series.

The biggest Dallas contributors in the 2016 playoffs were captain Jamie Benn and Jason Spezza, who was a healthy scratch late in the regular season and early in the playoffs before tallying three goals against the Blues.

Klingberg was the emerging star for Dallas at the blue line three years ago, a distinction that now belongs to 19-year-old Miro Heiskanen. Alexander Radulov and Zuccarello are the most productive veterans who weren't with the Stars the last time they saw the Blues in the playoffs.

Schwartz, who entered the day tied for second in the NHL with eight goals this postseason, and Pietrangelo were double-digit playoff scorers then for the Blues, and again now. Vladimir Tarasenko is probably the most notable holdover, with Ryan O'Reilly and David Perron among the key veterans who were elsewhere in 2016. Parayko was a rookie back then along with Robby Fabbri, who led first-year players in the 2016 playoffs with 15 points, tying Tarasenko for the team lead. Fabbri has struggled with knee injuries since and been in and out of the lineup this postseason. Bishop was last in the playoffs three years ago — with Tampa Bay. The Blues have a rookie goalie in Jordan Binnington, who has been a big part of the team's turnaround. Both goalies have been better on the road than at home in the playoffs, and both teams have more road wins than home victories in the postseason. So the biggest difference from three years — the venue change — doesn't figure to matter much. "Nothing's a gimme," said Blues coach Craig Berube, who replaced the fired Mike Yeo in November after a rough start. "It doesn't matter if they had success or not there already. Game 7s are Game 7s. You have to put it all on the line and be ready to go. We will be."
