Optimistic Note In Assurances Of Chiefs to Hoover

Farmers, Thronging Stations Through Which Nominee Passed, Petition Him For Assistance.

(By Associated Press) HOVER TRAIN EN ROUTE TO WEST BRANCH, Iowa, Aug. 20.—Speeding through the home state of his running mate today, Herbert Hoover received assurances of support from the farmers of the state. The candidate received indications of enthusiasm for the G. O. P. cause as his caravan stopped at several cities.

Burned, overworked farmers, stood with their wives under burning sun while the nominee thanked them from his train platform for their interest in his cause. At Hutchinson, where several thousand persons had gathered to greet him on his passage to the eastern political battle front, the nominee asserted that he must at once state to the farmers of the state that "that great citizen of Kansas, Senator Curtis," who is his partner on the ticket.

Hoover avoided political dissertations, saying a train platform for the audience standing in a scorching sun was no fit place for a discussion of political theories.

Hoover conferred with Senator Capper, Governor Paulsen, Clyde Reed, republican nominee for Governor, Dave Mulvane, national committeeman, and Mrs. R. B. Hittman.

Six Meet Death As Storm Rakes Mid-West States

Average of 150 Miles An Hour Made By Dole Winner

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Beating the previous record by almost eight hours, Art Goebel and Harry Tucker today completed a non-stop flight across the country at average speed of 150 miles an hour. They took off from Los Angeles at 12:06 yesterday afternoon, western standard time (4:06 eastern daylight time), and their monoplane touched Curtis Field at 11:04, eastern daylight time this morning, making the time for the 2700 mile flight just 18 hours and 38 minutes.

First Non-Stop.

It was the first non-stop airplane flight from the west coast to the east, and the time was better by seven hours and 42 minutes than the previous non-stop transcontinental record, established in 1923 by Lieut. John A. MacReady and Oakley Kelly, flying from east to west.

Goebel, who won the Dole race to Hawaii last year, was at the controls all the way across the country. Tucker was financial backer of the flight and rode as passenger.

They were greeted at Curtis field by only two persons, because it had been expected the landing would be made at Roosevelt field a mile away and the crowd was waiting there.

WILL SPEAK AT CISCO AND DALLAS IN TEXAS

Claims That Republican Boasts Of Strength In South Have Merely Aroused Demos to Action

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Expressing confidence as to solidarity of the south for the democratic ticket, upon his arrival here today, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the party's vice-presidential nominee, mapped out a speaking itinerary which probably will call for his appearance in eight southern states in early stages of the campaign.

He declared emphatically the word he brought here to the democratic national committee as to conditions in the south was encouraging and that there had been "tremendous change in public sentiment" since his visit to New York shortly after the Houston convention.

Popularly to Grow He contended republican claims of strength in the south had aroused the democrats "as I have never seen them aroused before," and predicted popularity of Governor Smith will grow as the campaign progresses.

Further than to say that after his notification in Hot Springs, Arkansas, August 20, he proposed to speak in Dallas and Cisco, Texas, on September 3 and 4, the senator declined to discuss the itinerary under consideration.

Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, member of the democratic speakers bureau, said he expected the senator would cover "practically" all the country before his notification and election day.

Silent On Issues Robinson declined to discuss campaign issues, insisting that he proposed to adhere to his policy of silence until after his formal notification.

Freight Level To Be Reduced Under Plan, Says Expert

State Rail Commission Is Asked to Decide On Case That Effects Entire Rate Structure In State.

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—I. D. Dodge, assistant chairman of the Texas-Louisiana tariff bureau, testified today at a state railroad commission hearing that the freight level in Texas "on the whole" would be reduced by adoption of newly prescribed southwestern interstate rates for application to movements within this state.

Dodge was Texas railroads' first witness in their application to have interstate rates authorized for intrastate traffic.

Affects Rate System

The case affects about the entire rate structure in the state and is about the most important the railroad commission ever has had to decide.

He testified interstate rates, prescribed by the interstate commerce commission, effective July 1, would affect net reduction of 30 cents a hundred pounds on the first class freight as compared to the existing first class intrastate rates on shipments from 5 to 500 miles.

Dodge said that "fourth class," which moves a large proportion of less-than-carload merchandise traffic handled by rail, would have to move more than 500 miles on a single line before any increase in rates would be encountered under the proposed new schedules.

No increase would be encountered before 600 miles, single line, for a fifth class, covering a large number of commodities in carloads, he said.

The carriers propose to do away with the maximum common point blanket rate system in the state and substitute a purely mileage scale.

It assailed the republican national committee for "openly associating itself with this personal attack," and was intended to include in its scope among others Dr. John Roach Straton, the New York Baptist minister, who has been outspoken in assaults on the governor.

Bitterly Assails Writer, said that the editor's statements about him and his legislative record were "slandrous" and that the attack on him was "unfair, unmanly and un-American."

YOUR CHILDREN

Dr. Adler, head of the child clinic for behavioral in Vienna and probably the greatest authority in the world on children, says: "A growing child needs a pat on the back, a mother's kiss, and the bright smiles of his elders in order to avoid an almost natural inferiority complex."

Impress a child with the belief that everything that he does is wrong, that other children are his superiors, and that everything he does is mountainous and he becomes a failure.

"Only courage is able to develop all the potential faculties and capabilities of a child; lack of courage means retarded development—a discouraged child becomes neurotic."

Once there were two boys in a family. Both boys were equally talented as was proven later in life when they reached manhood. One attained unusual success at the age of twenty-five or six. The other, who considered himself a failure, plodded along spiritless, discouraged, poor, and until he was nearly forty-five.

Opening Partner's Suit—4 Assume, for the following illustrations, that east has bid one spade, but south has won the contract with a bid of one no trump. Thus, if west holds a solid suit, or only a singleton in the suit named by his partner, it often is advisable to lead from his own strongest suit, for it probably can be more easily established.

1—West holds—spades K, 10 5; hearts Q 3; diamonds Q 7 6 4; clubs 10 5 3 3.

West should lead the 5 of spades. Since the declarer must hold a stop in spades, you may in this manner capture all of his possible spade tricks.

2—West holds—spades 4 3; hearts A K Q 2; diamonds K 4 3 2; clubs 6 5 4.

West should lead the King of hearts. When you hold a solid suit it is advisable to open it before leading partner's suit.

3—West holds—spades 7 6 5 4; hearts A K J; diamonds 5 4 3; clubs 6 4 3 2.

West should lead the King of hearts and then switch to partner's suit.

4—West holds—spades 2; hearts 4 3 2; diamonds K Q J 6 5 4; clubs A 4 2.

West should lead the King of diamonds and continue the suit as he has a strong re-entry in clubs. The diamond suit may be established more readily than the spade suit.

5—West holds—spades 2; hearts 6 5 4 3; diamonds 7 8 4 2; clubs 7 6 5 3.

West should lead the 2 of spades. Although it is a singleton, he has no other desirable lead.

FORMER LUBBOCKAN HERE

F. P. "Smiles" Jennings, former resident of Lubbock, but manager of a sugar concern in Santa Domingo for the past twenty months, is visiting the city again. He is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Overton of 1813 Main Street.

Down Town Revue

Life is plenty interesting for the husky kink-kad speedster who wields such power with his little whistle. The pleading, astonished, or outraged faces that he sees and the fluent excuses that he hears make up a colorful day for him. The Lubbock Sanitarium corner seems to be his favorite haunt—he must love action; he gets enough of it there!

A heavily-ringed, too-fat woman, with a more or less insipid face, sits in a beauty parlor, bored with everything in general, while a manicurist vainly tries to make her hands beautiful. "Oh," says the woman, "I'm sick and tired of bridge parties, but what is one to do. There's really nothing else of interest."

A girl in yellow, standing in the down town section, creates a commotion during the noon hour. Brain fever or just ultra-collegiate? It's hard to tell.

Summer school students bracing up for the last bitter week. "I wouldn't mind just a little bit of work," says one, "or even a lot. But these profs ain't even human when it comes to preachin' midnight oil stuff." "If I live through this one, summer again will I tackle a summer course. I used to know a little something about Spanish, but I've had so much drilled in me this summer, I don't know nothin' now. I'm just dumb!"

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 20. (P)—Ragged pitching marred a game until Glaser stepped on the strip to hold the Fort Worth Panthers while the Bears won Monday, 5 to 7.

Christian and Wachtel gave a sorrowful exhibition of hurling and Burns, who succeeded Wachtel, proved an easy mark for Bruin bats. Then Bill Goff came in to check the Bears after they had taken the lead off Burns. Mulvey was the bright spot in the field with two fast double plays after a hard run and perfect throw from right field in each instance to cut down Cat scoring chances.

It would seem that some of them will see about all there is to see, if they don't travel any faster than they did on the track.

Lovington Plans To Re-Live Wild West With Rodeo

Three Day Get-Together
For Stars of Saddle Is To Be Held In New Mexico
Town During Next Week.

(Special To The Avalanche)

LOVINGTON, N. M., Aug. 20.—Scenes of the old west will be relived here on August 28, 29, and 30, when the sixteenth annual picnic and rodeo of Lovington will be staged.

Lovington, situated in the center of the New Mexico "cow country," is regarded as the final outpost of the cowboy and the ranchman. On Lovington's streets today one sees the typical "cowpuncher"—boots, chaps, spurs and all.

The ponies which one sees tethered to the old hitching posts carry legends of the old west.

Stars to Assemble

Riders and ropers from all over New Mexico and into Texas are expected for the rodeo celebration which will last three days. Two men who have ridden the range for more than twenty years—Burt Weir, owner of a ranch near Monument, and Babe Eaves, who lives in Lovington—are sponsoring the rodeo celebration this year. Weir is a former world's champion roper and Eaves is a former world's champion roping horse.

Weir declares that the entry list for the rodeo is larger this year than ever and that there are indications for a record attendance at the celebration.

To Serve Barbecue

Barbecue will be served on all three days of the celebration. An old time "cowboy" dance will hold sway each night, a hall measuring 140 by 50 feet having been reserved for the purpose. An orchestra from Roswell has been retained to furnish music.

Lovington lies on the main Carlsbad Cavern highway. It likewise lies just beyond Hobbs, N. M., center of a new oil play and the southwest's newest oil boom town. Undoubtedly, many tourists will wish to combine a trip to Hobbs and the Cavern with a tour into the interesting Lovington "cow country."

Son of General Wood Works As Miner

Once Power of Wall Street Is Two Dollars-a-Day Laborer In Albuquerque Mine

(By Associated Press)

EL PASO, Aug. 20.—Osborne Wood, son of the late Gen. Leonard Wood, who made a fortune in Wall Street and lost it in France, has taken a vacation from his two-dollar-a-day job at a mine near Albuquerque, N. M., to serve two weeks as officer in training at Ft. Bliss. He came to El Paso with the 11th cavalry, an offshoot of the famous Rough Riders.

Wood is a captain in the reserves but has had little opportunity to get into the saddle since he went to Albuquerque after failing to recoup his fortune in Florida real estate.

At first his presence in the mining camp created attention and debate as to whether he could stand the grueling pace of mine work. But Wood stuck doggedly to his job and apparently has been quite happy, according to other members of the cavalry outfit.

Rise Was Merit

The rise of young Wood in the financial world was meteoric and his fall came just as quickly. He was a lieutenant in the army serving with his regiment in the Philippines Islands. All of his financial dealings

SAN LITO, Aug. 20 (AP).—Texas grapefruit is winning favor in England. A London fruit importing company has informed the San Benito Chamber of Commerce that it can handle 4,000 crates, or approximately 12 carloads of grapefruit per week during the Rio Grande Valley shipping season.

Large consignments were sent to London, Liverpool and other English consuming centers last year. It is understood plans are formulating to ship the fruit this year under refrigeration direct from Corpus Christi. Growers believe the shipments can be placed in English markets at approximately the same price as in New York and in competition with Florida fruit.

Complete Threshing Unit and Mill With Largest Capacity In Western Texas Added By Grain and Coal Co.

Expansion Program Already
Under Way. And Construction
Begun. Says
Manager Lubbock Co.

Another industry is being added to Lubbock's list of business firms. A complete threshing unit and mill with the largest capacity of any mill this side of Fort Worth is to be added to the plant of the Lubbock Coal and Grain company, immediately east of the Santa Fe tracks on Broadway. It was announced Monday by T. F. West, manager of the company.

Coming to Lubbock from Fort Worth about three months ago, Mr. West has outlined and launched an elaborate program of expansion and development. Everything about the plant is being remodeled so that every detail will be modern and complete.

Construction Is Begun

Construction of the improvements has already started and it is expected that it will be completed by October 20. Twenty men will be used in the employment when operation is begun.

Three Case threshing machines will be run, and virtually everything about the entire plant will be run by machinery. Make will be unloaded by a power shovel and carried by conveyors and drags. The machines will have a capacity of one-half million pounds of threshed grain daily.

The mill will use the hot molasses process, requiring five sets of live steam coils, and fed under heavy pressure at a high temperature, developing a uniform and complete mixture. Mr. West said. Storage capacity will be 20,000 gallons.

To Use Power Fans

Manufacturing capacity of the plant will be about two thousand 100-pound sacks daily, according to Mr. West. Power fans will be used to blow grain over a large net work of galvanized blow pipes. It is planned to operate the plant 24 hours a day.

The new manager announces that a high-grade cheap feed will be manufactured by the company. Utilization of the products of this district makes this possible, he says.

Large feed pens will be made here. It is said that premiums have been received from several large feeders of the Southwest to feed cattle here before sending them to the markets rather than sending them to Kansas City to feed out.

South Plains cattle, full-fed on South Plains grain and shipped at a South Plains point is the goal of the company, Mr. West said.

Stations will be operated at various towns over this section when will both buy and sell.

Butler Assails Hoover Attitude For Main Issues

Disagrees With Nominee On Prohibition and Armament;
Statement Causes
Sensation.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's opposition to prohibition and armament views of Herbert Hoover, as set forth in a letter to the New York Times today, was expressed by the Columbia university president, as a republican and as a member of the party organization.

The letter by the educator, long prominent in republican party circles, Dr. Butler disagreed with the republican nominee's stand on the naval program of the United States and on the 18th Amendment, repeal of which the Columbia president favors, and said he wished to dissociate himself from Mr. Hoover's stand on those issues.

When asked whether his letter would be construed as meaning that he would support Governor Smith, Dr. Butler replied with this statement:

"My letter to the Times ought to make it perfectly plain that the position I have taken has been taken by me as a republican and as a member of the party organization."

Miss Sarah Butler, acting chairman of the republican state committee, said her father would make no statement of any kind, to make on her father's position.

DAILY MARKETS

WALL STREET REPORT

By STANLEY W. PRENSOIL
Associated Press Financial Editor
NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—Speculators for the advance, who have been endeavoring to bring about a generally rally in the stock market on the strength of improving business conditions, encountered strong resistance again today as a result of another flurry in call money rates. Final quotations were irregular but disclosed a preponderance of gains. More than a score issues were elevated to new high levels for the year, or longer, despite persistent selling of some of the recent industrial favorites.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent and advanced in easy stages to 7 1/2 in the late afternoon. Banks called $35,000,000 in loans, presumably to strengthen their positions at the Federal Reserve bank, and replacements were slow in making their appearance. The U. S. treasury called for the withdrawal of nearly $30,000,000 in deposits tomorrow, of which more than one-fifth will be from the New York federal reserve bank.

Stocks Take Profit

With the exception of Central Alor, which was bid up 2 points to 37 1/2, the steel shares were heavy on profit-taking. Motors displayed considerable irregularity. Resumption of the advance in Chrysler was offset by the heavy selling of general motors. Pierce Arrow issues were in brisk demand but Hudson and Hupp were heavy.

Rails displayed a strong undertone. The first two July earnings reports to make their appearance showed conflicting results. Erie reporting a moderate gain while Kansas City Southern disclosed a slight loss in net operating income. Recent buying of the rails has been based on expectations of heavy crop movements this fall.

Time money was slightly firmer at 6 1/4 to 6 1/2 as against 6 to 6 1/4 in the closing days of last week.

Prime commercial paper rates held steady at 3 1/4 to 3 1/2. Foreign exchange trading was quiet with price changes narrow and irregular. Sterling cables were slightly easier around $4.85 5/16.

CHICAGO WHEAT

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Announcement of 7,010,000 bushels increase of the United States visible supply added effect today to news that Canadian harvest operations are rapidly spreading. Besides, Australian wheat prospects suggested a harvest of 200,000,000 bushels this season, an amount nearly double that of last year.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 1 1/2c to 2 1/4c net lower, with corn ranging from 1-3c decline to 1 3/4c advance, and oats a shade to 3-4c off.

Auspicious wheat harvest weather in Canada today was coupled with much lower Liverpool quotations than due, as well as with slackness of export demand for wheat from North America. Lowest prices of the day in the Chicago market, however, were reached until near the close and after the posting of the big increase of the domestic visible supply, making the total now about 24,000,000 bushels more than was the case a year ago.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Aug. 20. (AP)—The cattle trade here today generally was steady. Steers sold from $9.25 to $10.90, cows $9.00 to $9.60 and calves $10.50 to $13.00.

Hogs were steady. He bulk of the sales sold from $11.00 to $11.90. Sows brought from $8.75 to $9.25. The sheep trade was steady. Yearlings sold from $9.25 to $11.

Chase's portrait is to be placed on the new $10,000 bill. Some people seem to be just doomed to obscurity.

Slaton Child Is Injured In Crash

Juanita Rose, Age 9, Suffers Broken Leg, Result Of Collision In Slaton Yesterday.

Juanita Rose, 9-year-old niece of George Dial of Slaton, suffered broken left leg just above the ankle yesterday afternoon in an automobile accident which happened at Tenth and West Garza streets in Slaton.

She was brought to the Lubbock Sanitarium here by Carl Greer, after first aid treatment had been rendered by Dr. S. H. Adams of Slaton, and was reported last night to be resting easily. The leg was badly lacerated, but amputation will not be necessary unless infection sets in, according to hospital attendants.

The little girl was riding on the fender of the car driven by George Dial, when a car driven by H. C. Maxey collided with the Dial car, striking the little girl's leg directly.

Her cousin, Toy Dial, about the same age, son of the driver of the car, was on the other fender, and was thrown to the ground, but suffered only bruises. Dial and his wife and Tom Horne, with whom the little girl was visiting, were in the car at the time of the accident.

Smith

red in by the people of my own state who have year after year expressed confidence in me, notwithstanding that a large part of this matter herein referred to was laid before them in the past by agents of my political enemies."

In formulating his reply to White, the governor, who Wednesday evening formally will accept the presidential nomination, studied of old legislative journals and records, and to refresh his memory examined in detail scores of proposals listed by the Kansan.

Issue Out In Open

"I am glad to have this matter out of the whispering stage and out in the open; once and for all I shall meet it now. A regard it as purely political, and when the campaign begins I do not propose to have the issues of that campaign begoggled by controversy over irrelevant things, such as the discussion of my votes as a legislator some 20 or more years ago.

Declaring that "Publicly and by many letters in my possession, the late Rev. Canon John P. Peters, when chairman of the committee of fourteen, the leading anti-vice society of New York, repeatedly thanked me for my cooperation with that organization," the governor went on.

"No one in all the 25 years of my public life has ever dared to make the vile suggestions which emanated from Mr. White, with the approval of Henry J. Allen, publicity director of the republican national committee. What a cowardly course the republican national committee pursued. It issued a slanderous statement through its official publicity bureau, then after its general publication in the press, attempted to evade responsibility by the childish claim that it had been given out by accident. That is not fair play."

Was "Official Release."

In this connection Governor Smith referred to White's cablegram from Europe last week denying that he had "retracted" those charges against the nominee dealing with gambling and prostitution, and which the governor added, was given to the newspapers as an "official release" from the republican national committee.

"Lacking the courage to stand by its complicity in the attack," he added, "the republican director of publicity the next day states that he withdraws his issuance of Mr. White's withdrawal of his withdrawal."

Taking up first White's charges dealing with liquor proposals, the governor said there had been a "deliberate attempt" to show that his votes "dealt with a far greater number of so-called liquor bills than in fact they did." He also charged that the intent of various proposals had been misrepresented, and he recalled that republican leaders in the legislature frequently had lined up as he did on them.

Based of "Vice" Charge

With regard to commercialized vice, the governor referred to his vote against a bill first before the assembly in 1910 which sought to regulate the renting of rooms in hotels and which, he continued, was "unquestionably unconstitutional and unworkable."

"On this bill and this single bill alone," he declared, "William Allen White would have my wife, my children and my friends believe that in my long public career I was a friend of public prostitution."

As for gambling, Mr. Smith said all the bills referred to by Mr. White dealt with betting at race tracks. At a regular session with Governor Hughes "against the race tracks," he said at a special session later "voted the other way" as protest against the "unjustified action of the governor in calling the legislature back into extraordinary session after the matter had been fully thrashed out and disposed of at the regular session."

One other bill listed by Mr. White sought to prevent oral betting at race tracks. Governor Smith said, adding that "How impossible such a statute was of administration I need not say. I have been called by my party to leadership in a great campaign," said, the governor in winding up his statement, "I am hoping to be put in a position to do for the people of this country what I have accomplished for the betterment of the government of my own state and from now on I shall refuse to be drawn into any further discussion of these matters."

Asked to comment on the statement by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, the senator said that he was "very glad to know that he is satisfied with some aspects of the political questions presented by Mr. Hoover," and later amplified this as follows:

"I regard his statement as calculated to have an important effect in many parts of the country." The Arkansas refused to discuss Mr. Hoover's statements on prohibition, saying that he would discuss this as well as other subjects in his notification acceptance address.

The senator and Mrs. Robinson will spend Wednesday night as the guests of the Governor and his wife in the executive mansion and leave for Arkansas tomorrow Thursday.

Cupid Breaks Through Jail Bars

Prisoner Held For Penitentiary Agent Is
Wed In County Bastile Here Monday

Cupid broke through the grim walls of the county jail yesterday morning when J. R. Denning, facing a one year penitentiary sentence as result of conviction on a liquor charge, and Mrs. Maude Vest were united in marriage.

Other inmates of the jail, and court house attaches were spectators of the ceremony, performed by Justice of the Peace J. R. Scott.

Denning was convicted in 9th court on December 7. Following an appeal of the case the court's decision was reaffirmed in a recent ruling of the court of criminal appeals. Denning now awaits arrival of the penitentiary agent for transfer to the Huntsville prison.

national committeewoman and various other party leaders who accompanied him on the long ride across the state.

They joined in predicting a republican majority in Kansas of upward of 250,000 and Senator Capers ventured the assertion "the republicans will carry the state."

During the stop at Hutchinson, one man in the audience who said he had lost $42,000 on his wheat crops in the last two years, pleaded with the nominee to do something to aid agriculture.

"We are going to elect you president all right," he said, "and then we are going to look to you to aid us."

With Kansas City, Mo., as the last scheduled stop for the night, Hoover turned his thoughts to his birthplace at West Branch, Iowa, where tomorrow he will renew associations of childhood and revisit familiar scenes.

Rockford

Millan, in charge of the Rawson field museum expedition here, and Arctic explorer, believes "it is all over."

"If they are down in the vicinity of Cape Chidley we may not hear from them for several weeks," Commander MacMillan says. "As the fishermen are now leaving in their schooners. Some of the boys are deep, and efforts to walk to safety would be almost impossible for one not knowing sites of the Eskimo encampments."

Signal Was Arranged

Nain Labrador is about 325 miles south of Cape Chidley where expedition Cramer is reported to have been when he sent the signal at 3 o'clock central time Sunday morning. The signal R. designated the place as "75 miles off Cape Chidley" according to a pre-arranged schedule.

Bowdoin harbor, where Commander MacMillan and the expedition are located is about 25 miles north of Nain, or within easy radio distance of where the Greater Rockford dispatched its final signal. "We are keeping a sharp lookout for any signals which may come," Commander MacMillan said.

"Ice conditions on and near Labrador this year have been most unusual, we have not seen a pack of ice since June 15. Old fishermen have never seen anything like that."

"Scarcity of any ice for feeding lends a hazard which the fliers might otherwise use in making their way to land."

Commander MacMillan in his message disclosed plans for the expedition's departure south tomorrow, and they will arrive at Wainwright, Maine, during the next few weeks, after a year in the sub-Arctic area for the field museum expedition, which is also co-financed by Frederick R. Rawson, Chicago capitalist.

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

BERTIE LOU WARD married ROD BRYER, who had previously been engaged to LILA MARSH. Lila makes life miserable for her until she meets a rich MR. LORER and marries him. Then she asks Bertie Lou to forgive her.

Trying to keep up socially with wealthy friends plunges the Bryers in debt and Rod becomes depressed. Lila sees her chance to persuade him to accept a high salary from Lorer. Shortly after she asked Rod to put some jewels in the safe during her husband's absence. They disappear and Rod wants to notify the police, but Lila insists that they keep the matter secret, pointing out that suspicion against him might spoil his career. Bertie Lou finds out that he has been seeing Lila secretly and is heartbroken.

She is called home to her sick mother and catches a train without seeing Rod. The separation added to Lila's plotting causes a coldness to spring up between them. Each expects the other make advances or explanations. Rod goes to the Lores without her and Bertie Lou goes out with MARCO PALMER to retaliate.

They go to a party and Lila reveals her plan to Rod. He finds her packing a suitcase for a week-end at the Palmer estate. Angered, he admits to himself that their love is dead and that he is infatuated with Lila.

He is stunned to learn that Lila deceived him about the stolen jewels when a connoisseur admires her pearls at a dinner party. Confronted, she admits that she gave him an empty case and plotted to make him dependent on her generosity to win back his love. He repudiates her treachery and disloyalty to her husband and she sneeringly reminds him that Bertie Lou is at a house party with young Palmer. He leaves her and drives madly out to the Palmer estate. Entering the house by an unlocked door he sees Marco sneering from a room in his dressing gown and hears Bertie Lou's voice inside, and departs without learning that they were merely coming upstairs from a morning swim.

When Bertie Lou gets home, Rod is gone, leaving no word but a check for $2,000. Not realizing that he left because of his suspicions of her, Bertie Lou denounces Lila for trying to take him away from her. Both women try to locate Rod without success. Bertie Lou secures a position, and waits for Rod to get a divorce.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVIII

It had been a long time since Bertie Lou had been to Rod's lawyer. Everything had been settled. This summons could mean but one thing.

Divorce.

Well, it had to come. She was prepared for it. But, rather strangely, she thought it still had the power to hurt—this legal separation.

"Ready it ought to be done by a surgeon," she reflected, on the way. "It's just like a knife cutting right through the heart."

But that was not what she told Rod's lawyer. "I suppose Mr. Bryer wants a divorce," she began as soon as she was shown into his office. He looked at her in surprise.

"I've no objection," Bertie Lou hurried on, but he stopped her.

"I've been requested by your husband to interview you on the subject of divorce," he interrupted, "but it is not his intention to bring suit. He wishes to know if you want to free yourself."

Bertie Lou stared at him. At last she said, quietly, "If Rod wants a divorce let him say so. He can have it. But of course if he prefers to let me bring suit, I'd rather do that than be sued."

"It was in her mind to add, 'In view of the fact that I am the injured party.'"

But she remained silent, and the lawyer not knowing that her very soul was shuddering at the prospect, set her down among other women, who, whether they were shared on the honeymoon party, prefer to cast the stigma of divorce upon the husband. To one is respectable. To be sued is "well, you know, my dear, it sort of reflects upon one."

The lawyer reported to Rod later that Mrs. Bryer would start suit in the spring. Rod understood that Bertie Lou was not in a hurry to marry Marco. Perhaps for some reason of the latter's. His family maybe. And it appeared reasonable that Bertie Lou should prefer not to strengthen the divorce and her marriage to Marco.

Molly Fraser told him that Bertie Lou was always with young Palmer. "She comes around about twice a week," Molly informed him. "But I don't encourage her. Rod because I think it's simply ridiculous the way she has behaved. And that young Mr. Palmer is always with her."

Bertie Lou knew that she was not encouraged at Molly's, but she did not go there because it pleased her to do so, by any means. She had not forgotten the anonymous note she still had, noting that Molly had written her about Lila and Rod while she was in Wayville.

And Molly had heard a lot of made-up tales about Bertie Lou from Lila. She was anything but cordial when Bertie Lou called, driven to suffer Molly's attitude through a desire to learn something about Rod. His lawyer had refused her his address or news of him. At Rod's request.

She couldn't get much information concerning him from Wayville, either. In response to her requests urging her mother to ask Rod's mother for his address, and whether it was true or not—Mrs. Ward couldn't say—Mrs. Bryer claimed she did not know it. "They address their letters to Rod through general delivery," she wrote to Bertie Lou.

Once or twice Bertie Lou was so desperate she considered going to Lila. But she never could quite bring herself to do that.

She wondered that Lila had not left Cyrus. "But I suppose she's waiting until I get a divorce so she can be sure of Rod before she gives up Cy," she told herself. "I never would have thought Rod would stand for a thing like that! Well, they can wait until Spring if it's left to me."

She was willing to divorce Rod but the immediate prospect of it—the coming face to face with the actual first step—had appalled her. She could not go through with it—not yet, at least.

But if Bertie Lou was thinking unflattering thoughts of Rod's attitude in the whole matter, he was inclined to think more highly of her than he had since Lila started poisoning his mind against her.

It certainly reflected a great deal of credit upon Bertie Lou to be earning her own living, he thought, and not accepting her support from Marco Palmer. All the more reason, though, for thinking they would marry some day. Anyone must respect and admire all the more a girl with an independent spirit, Rod admitted.

All the more reason, though, for thinking they would marry some day. Anyone must respect and admire all the more a girl with an independent spirit, Rod admitted.

And what had become of the money he'd given her, Rod wondered.

What he did not know was that Bertie Lou ran with Marco's crowd because she was afraid to be alone—afraid of her memories, and the uninvited pictures that came to her mind when she was not "whopping it up" with a mad, impetuous band of reckless youngsters.

Marco liked her to be happy. If Marco dropped her Bertie Lou didn't know what she would do. Go mad, she supposed. She would if she had to sit in her half-baked room and face her dreary future. Her loveless, drab, homeless future. Better to please Marco while she could; at least until he realized that she meant it when she said she wouldn't marry him. After that—well, that time hadn't come.

And it was gay to go around with Marco. They went to places where wickedness was refined as any rite, and Marco's friends were not vulgar.

Mostly they had scored on life one reason or another and would be like that for a few years more probably. In the meantime they had to make fun to keep in the running.

Bertie Lou did not dare let go. She became their leader and "sore" was proud of her. But it could not last.

One day she collapsed at work. And her employer sent her to a hospital. Then he called in Marco.

Bertie Lou's wild days were over. She was a trembling hysterical wreck. But she wouldn't let them strip her mother. The doctor said she would get well. And Marco promised to see that she kept quiet when she got home.

Marco was a chastened young man. The doctor had held him responsible—yes, him, and his father also for his too generous allowance.

Bertie Lou's employer held her position open for her and paid her bills. To save him expense she flustered upon being taken back to her rooming house as soon as she was able to be moved.

There, during the long lonely hours of sitting at a cheap picture on the faded paper-covered wall, or of hurrying her eyes trying to look through the coarse lace curtains over a dirty window, she evolved a plan that was half-dream, half-hope, for something to do when she was well again.

She couldn't go back to seeking forgetfulness in the way that had put her in the hospital. She supposed she must lose Marco—she hated that—he was a dear companion when he wasn't begging her to marry him some day. But what use could he have for a girl who was no longer able to keep up with his pace?

He'd been a darling during her illness. Fresh flowers every day and baskets of luscious fruits, books too, but somehow she couldn't read; she couldn't concentrate on anything but her own affairs, her tragic, hopeless affairs. For she felt that her life was done, that she never could find anything to live for again. That was tragic—unless this plan she had evolved.

She let her eyes rove over the shadowy room and came to rest on Marco's latest offering of flowers. She saw them through a mist of tears and looked away. They reminded her that Marco was the last friend she had, and pretty soon there would be no more flowers from him. She must send him on his way.

The other people she had met through him, did not count. Not their did any of Molly's or Lila's friends. The only persons who cared anything about her now were in Wayville. And Bertie Lou wasn't going home.

She was going to do something else—something interesting something that thrilled her just to think of it. It wouldn't last forever—the pain and pleasure-mixed undertaking, but it would take the edge off her unhappiness while she went through the ordeal of divorcing Rod.

After that she wouldn't need distraction quite so much, and she always would have something to dream over. She was turning the thought over in her mind, developing it and getting more excited each moment when someone knocked on her door.

"Come in," she called. The door opened and a round, good-natured face with heaps of freckles and a nice grin was poked in. "May I come all the way in?" its owner inquired.

"I'm glad to have you," Bertie Lou told her. And so she was for a week now she had received a daily visit from her neighbor in the next room, Beanie Rogers.

Beanie was a shopgirl and a devoted little soul to anyone she liked. She had liked Bertie Lou after her first call. They had not really met until Bertie Lou came home from the hospital.

"Anything I can do?" she asked after sniffing the flowers. It was a never-ending source of conjecture with her that Bertie Lou got so costly blooms. But she was not inquisitive.

"Yes," Bertie Lou replied. "You can help if you like to listen. I've a perfectly mad but heavenly idea that I've got to talk over with someone."

Colorful Throngs Greet Hoover Train At Stop In Albuquerque, N. M.

Three Civilizations That Have Blended Into Citizenry Of New Mexico—Indian, Spanish and English—Are Numbered In Great Welcoming Crowd

BY MARY RAINBIDGE HAYDEN (Associated Press Staff Writer)

HOOVER TRAIN EN ROUTE DODGE CITY, Kas. Aug. 20.—The three civilizations which have blended into the citizenry that populates New Mexico participated today in the first informal reception by Mrs. Herbert Hoover aboard the train bearing her husband eastward.

Indian, English and Spanish bloods filled the veins of those who boarded the train at Albuquerque to extend greeting to the wife of the republican presidential nominee.

The early Indian culture of the country, traces of which are still seen in the adobe pueblos along the route of the train, was represented by Princess Islania, one of the last royal house of the Oklahoma Cherokees, and several New Mexican Indian women in full tribal costume.

In the elaborated white buckskin ceremonial dress of her royal rank the princess was one of the first Mrs. Hoover received. She is known throughout this part of the country as a woman of culture and a talented singer.

The proud Spanish tradition left to America by the Conquistadores, who before the Pilgrim Fathers landed had built a governor's palace that still stands at Albuquerque was personified by Mrs. Adeline Otero Warren. She represents a group of women of Spanish family who have broken with the traditions of the past to take active part in the political organization of the state, and she herself was running for congress when Mrs. Hoover knew her as Mrs. Otero several years ago.

At Lanny Mrs. Jose Ortiz Y Pina came to the train, and at Las Vegas, where the candidate was introduced to Spanish and a mob of dark-skinned little boys tore their shirts off in a mad scramble to get to the car. Separate contingent of Spanish speaking women accompanied their husbands up on the platform to meet the candidate.

English Are Received. The last layer of culture in the southwest represented by the people of English blood were among the women received by Mrs. Hoover at Albuquerque were members of the republican women's club and the women's city club of Albuquerque.

After that she wouldn't need distraction quite so much, and she always would have something to dream over. She was turning the thought over in her mind, developing it and getting more excited each moment when someone knocked on her door.

—WEEKLY HOUSE PLAN— REMINISCENT OF EARLY AMERICA

A GLIMPSE of The Avondale makes one think immediately of four poster beds with canopies and other early American furniture.

For there's something reminiscent of early America in the graceful slope of its roof and the rather chaste beauty of its lines.

The sun parlor is pure velvet. For it affords the type of room that adds to the joy of life with its sunshine. And it in no way detracts from the house's symmetry.

The wooden door with its peepholes of tiny panes suggests other days also. And that spacious little vestibule with a closet for wraps suggests early American hospitality when guests never just dropped in, en route to the movies or a prize fight, but really came to stay a while.

The interior of The Avondale has a spaciousness that few modern homes today can boast. A living room over 21 feet long, with a sweep of air through windows both front and back, is a genuine achievement and should be a valued possession these days. Of course it has a fireplace.

There is a central hall upstairs off which the three bedrooms open. Two of these rooms have the kind of closets that have outside windows and an abundance of space to hang clothes without crowding them. The price of The Avondale is from $3500 to $7500.
