How's that?

Program eligibility

Q. Are students from Coahoma and Forsan high schools eligible to participate in the Big Spring Independent School District's marketing and distributive education program?

A. Yes. Juniors and seniors from Coahoma, Forsan and Big Spring who are interested in marketing, management or merchandising are urged to apply for the program, said Lee Lowery, program instructor.

The program offers students a chance to receive on-the-job training in marketing and distribution while receiving three units of school credit. Applications are being accepted now through the first week of school.

Calendar

Registration

TODAY

• Registration for all secondary students, grades 6-12, at Coahoma, Forsan and Big Spring High School is today through Aug. 23 from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

• The application deadline for the Starlight Specials Talent Show is noon. The show, scheduled for 8 p.m. Aug. 16 in the Comanche Trail Park Amphitheater, is open to students in kindergarten through the 1985 graduating seniors. The top prize in the senior division will be a $250 scholarship to Howard College. Participants need to turn in application forms to the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. Forms are available at the Chamber of Commerce and the Dance Gallery.

• The National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees will meet for an ice cream supper and business meeting at the Kentwood Center at 6:30 p.m.

• The Big Spring Humane Society will meet at 7 p.m. in the Westside Community Center.

Outside

Partly cloudy

Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies, highs in the lower 90s and a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms. Winds are blowing southeasterly, 5 to 15 miles per hour. By Friday, highs will be in the lower 90s, and a 20 percent chance for thunderstorms will be in effect.

Area school registration

The Big Spring Herald will run registration information on any area schools. Please send dates and times of registration to City Editor, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring 79720.

Man indicted in car accident

Wrecks result in one manslaughter charge, one no-bill

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Texas Department of Public Safety requests for involuntary manslaughter charges in two recent car accidents resulted in one indictment and one no-bill decision by Howard County grand jurors.

The new 12-member jury panel seated Tuesday returned an indictment against Bobby Lee Edmondson, 24, of 608 Goliad, who was involved in a two-car accident on N. Birdwell Lane last May. A 30-year-old Big Spring man died as a result of injuries sustained in the accident.

Edmondson, the driver of a vehicle that initially struck the victim's car, was on probation for driving while intoxicated. His driving privileges also had been suspended by county court at the time of the accident.

Jurors did not indict the driver of a van that flipped off the Interstate 20 overpass at Birdwell Lane last July. The single-vehicle accident resulted in the death of a 14-year-old boy and a 54-year-old Lovington, N.M., woman.

That case initially had been presented to the county attorney's office by a DPS trooper with a request that criminally negligent homicide be charged against the driver. The DPS accident report cited alcohol as a factor in the accident.

County Attorney Tim Yeats rejected the case citing lack of evidence. The trooper then presented the case to the district attorney's office, requesting it be included with this grand jury's case list.

"It was a death, and we felt much better that it should be decided by a grand jury," District Attorney Rick Hamby said this

30,000 evacuate homes; hurricane threatens coast

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP) — Hurricane Danny hit land today with torrential rain and wind gusts above 90 mph after more than 30,000 people were evacuated from offshore drilling rigs and towns as far south as Galveston, Texas, officials said.

Danny's eye made landfall at 10:10 a.m. CDT over Pecan Island, just off the coast about halfway between Lake Charles and Lafayette, the National Weather Service said. An earlier prediction said the storm was expected to hit landfall in the marshes south of New Iberia, south of Lafayette.

Danny spawned at least two tornadoes, authorities said today.

Gov. Edwin Edwards declared a state of emergency in 13 parishes. "Things are kind of rough right now — there's a lot of wind and rain," said Sheriff Ray Lemaire of Vermilion Parish, home of Pecan Island. "The situation is deteriorating pretty good."

"We've still got about three or four families holding out on Pecan Island but there are units down there and, if they want out, we'll get them out," said Lemaire.

The eye of the hurricane is the calm center of the storm, with rain and wind surrounding it. Danny packed most of its power northeast of the eye. As it moved further inland, the storm was expected to weaken.

Gale winds and flash floods were expected all along the Louisiana coast, including in New Orleans, about 125 miles east. Gale warnings and a hurricane watch were posted from the mouth of the Mississippi to Pensacola, Fla.

Coastal towns experienced thunderstorms, tornadoes and wind gusts in excess of 90 mph this morning. Automatic equipment on an evacuated offshore oil rig recorded winds of 101 miles an hour, said Clarence Vicroy of the National Weather Service in New Orleans.

Although classified a minimal hurricane, the storm was so potentially dangerous that hurricane warnings remained in effect from Freeport, Texas, to the mouth of the Mississippi River, about 100 miles south of New Orleans.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Grand Isle reported a mayday from a 41-foot sailboat carrying seven people adrift in the Gulf 50 miles south of the Mississippi River mouth.

Police in Grand Isle reported two tornadoes early today. Roofs were blown off a cement building and an apartment building. "A few roofs, a few shingles, nothing serious," said Civil Defense Director Paul Bradberry. "Nobody got hurt."

The tornadoes knocked off power to about 80 percent of the town, according to the weather service.

"We have live wires all over the place," said Ernest LaFont, police chief of Grand Isle.

In a huge airlift, oil and gas companies evacuated an estimated 20,000 workers from platforms scattered throughout the Gulf of Mexico.

"We've got everything flying every minute," said Byron Stone, operations officer for Petroleum Helicopters Inc. in Lafayette.

City kicks off Stampede reunion fete

By LISA MUSSER
Staff Writer

The Comanche Trail Park will be adorned appropriately in yellow to welcome residents and guests to the Crossroads Stampede, a reunion festival scheduled Friday through Sunday at the Comanche Trail Park.

The community project, sponsored by Coors, the Hotel Settles, 7-11 Stores, Coca Cola and coordinated by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, will feature a variety of activities for the weekend.

The Stampede was organized to give Big Spring a boost financially. Gary Hopper, advertising and media chairman, said during the planning stages of the event.

Admission to the Crossroads Stampede is free, but donations will be accepted to offset expenditures.

Persons within a 100-mile radius to Big Spring are expected to come wearing yellow bandanas, the reunion theme, and may participate in the events ranging from a liar's contest to tomahawk throwing, said Sonja Worthan, special activities director.

Persons not wearing yellow will be placed in jail until a 25-cent fine is paid. Upon payment, a yellow ribbon will be given with release from jail, Worthan said.

Cook-offs featuring beef, buffalo, goat and spare ribs also are scheduled.

More participants are needed in all events, and several opening are available for the liar's contest, little Miss and Mr. Beauty contest and Mr. and Mrs. Legs competition, Worthan said Wednesday.

Merchants from the city will operate booths, and arts and crafts will be on display. Also, live music will be on stage Saturday and Sunday.

Events scheduled for Friday are: 6 p.m., pizza eating contest; 7 p.m., tricycle race for adults; 8 p.m., talent show; and 9 p.m., husband calling.

On Saturday, a little Miss and Mr. Beauty contest will kick off activities at 9 a.m. Other activities are: 11 a.m., horseshoe pitching; noon, black powder shoot; 1 p.m., toddler diaper run; 2 p.m., E. J. Parsons was the first person buried in the Clairemont Cemetery.

Parsons died February 27, 1891. One of a handful of early settlers struggling to scratch out a living on the West Texas Plains, he was buried in an open field under a marker reading: "An honest man is the noblest work of God."

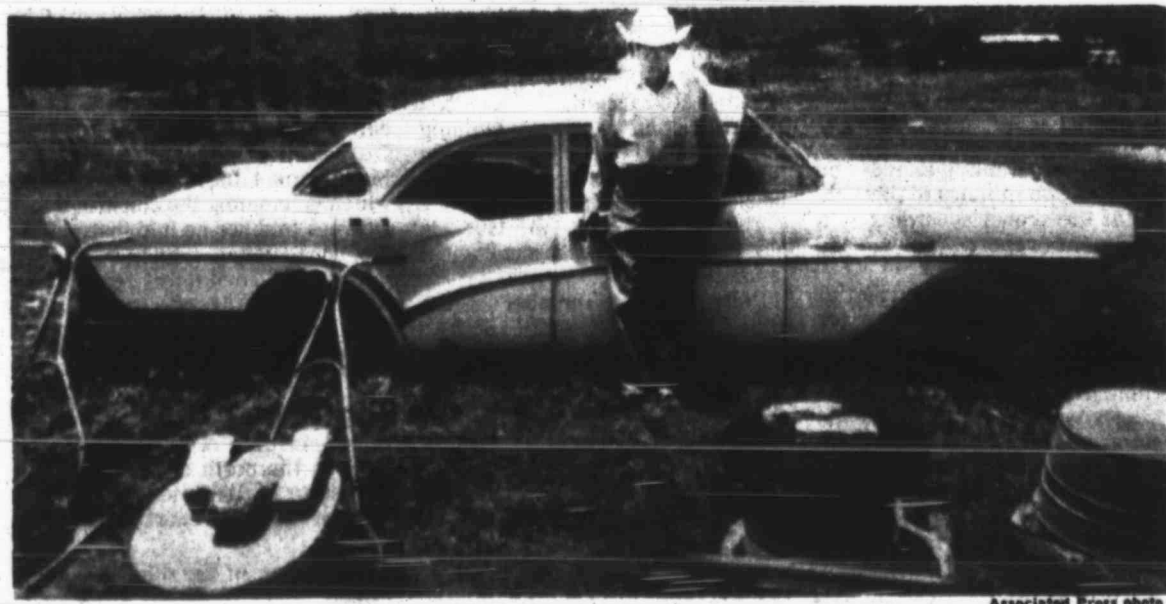

From the hard, honest work of Parsons and those that followed came Clairemont. First a stop on westward wagon routes, it grew into a full-blown town with a Saturday trading days and Sunday socials, spring weddings and early winter harvests.

Hundreds of townfolk grew old and followed Parsons to the grave. Saplings grew to respectability as generations were buried in the field on the east side of town which became the city graveyard.

Now, a roofless jailhouse stands as a tombstone for the town that once was.

The post office, bank, livery stables and stores are gone. A few facades of the old town remain, including the jail and part of the old courthouse, both proudly built in 1895 with red sandstone quarried from nearby Treasure Butte.

The Ghost Town still lives in West Texas

Jack Jones stands in the back yard of his home in Gail, which is considered an isolated town.

With her gas station on State Highway 380, where downtown used to be, Margie Hart is the only person left in town. She says she'll be buried in the city cemetery, too.

"Clairemont was a pretty good little town, though you can't tell that now," she said.

She lives in an old house behind the two-room wood gas station she owns. She still uses the outhouse built by the Works Progress Administration decades ago.

"It's not much, but it's medicine for me," said Ms. Hart, who has lived in the area most of her 50-plus years.

The slow death of Clairemont — from a once-thriving town of almost 1,000 to a population of one — has become a familiar saga on the expanses of the Texas plains.

Unlike the tumbleweed ghost towns of Texas lore where saloon doors swing in the breeze until the end of time, towns like Clairemont die and leave little behind.

They are scattered across West Texas, places that lose their reason to be and quietly fall down. Every time the census taker comes knocking, more Clairemonts join the ghost town list.

The latest advisories warned that gale-force winds that began lashing Louisiana's shoreline late Wednesday would be followed closely by hurricane-force winds of at least 75 mph.

The hurricane warning said there would likely be 10 or more inches of rain and tides 5 to 8 feet above normal. It said tornadoes probably would spin off as Danny passes.

Towns directly in Danny's path — Cameron, La., and Sabine Pass, Texas — were ordered evacuated at 5 p.m. Wednesday. Cameron has about 9,300 residents; Sabine Pass about 650.

But the late advisory pinpointing New Iberia came when many people had already gone to bed, officials said.

"We've had no problems at all," said Iberia Parish sheriff's Deputy Ferris DeRouen. "In fact, they're having their shrimp festival this week over in Delcambre. It started today for five days ... and they tell me the place was packed tonight. That's unbelievable."

Residents of Cameron, Louisiana, take refuge at Lake Charles-Boston High School in Lake Charles

Wednesday night, Cameron is on the Louisiana Gulf Coast, the area affected by Hurricane Danny.

Ghosts

Texas, old-timers say, there's not much room for holding on. If something isn't growing, it's dying, and that goes for towns as well as cotton.

"We're all just hanging on by the skin of our teeth," said Charles Kimmel, a Kent County rancher who used to own Clairmont as the closest town. "Hanging on don't last. You can look around and see that."

Clairmont can be found in nooks and crannies across West Texas. The railroads, highways, refineries or factories passed the towns by, or came only to leave again. The people left thereafter.

The growing list of dead and dying towns, officials say, is a paradox in a booming Sunbelt state.

In Borden County, just east of Dawson, the same cycle is being played out in the county seat of Gail.

Somehow, the interstates and even the larger state highways managed to pass all around Borden County without passing through.

The county high school in Gail — which has fielded a six-man football team for years — provides teachers with houses so it can attract them from faraway cities during the academic year.

There is no bank in Gail, nor anywhere else in the county. Instead, the hangers-on who know Gail as their home have become accustomed to driving up to 50 miles to shop or see a movie.

The lone cafe in town is run by Ruby Hall and her husband, and she remembers the town in better days.

"It's still a good town," she said. "What's left here, anyway."

But, like other dwindling towns, residents said, the population of Gail is getting steadily older, and there is little fresh blood to keep it going.

Jack Jones, an 82-year-old retired highway-department worker, has lived in Gail for just over 50 years.

Like its dying brothers and sisters across West Texas, he said, Gail has become a town that simply has little reason to remain.

Jones' house, with its flat-tired 1957 Chevy parked out back, sits directly across the street from the end zone of the county high school's football field.

On football nights, if he wants to, he can sit on his front porch and take in the games, even watching an occasional errant pass bounce across his front lawn.

For years, he has watched as the teen-agers played the game, graduated and then left town.

If it continues, which it most likely will, he said, Gail will join the ghost town ranks.

"The kids just scatter off. I can't think of one that's graduated here that's still around," he said. "It's a bad situation, but that's the way it goes."

morning.

Hamby said neither he nor Yeats "relish the idea of playing God" when requested to prosecute emotional cases such as this one.

Grand jurors also returned indictments against:

- Debra Denise Ausbie, 23, of Big Spring for tampering with governmental records. The case initially was presented to jurors as an investigation with evidence submitted by the Department of Human Resources. The tampering allegedly occurred Nov. 7, 1983. Hamby said such cases "take a long time to uncover."

- Raymond Lopez Chavarria, 29, of 1217 W. Sixth for burglary of a vehicle on July 14.

- Ricauter DeLeon, 20, of 2202 1/2 Nolan for burglary of a building on May 21.

- Ramon Galindo, 37, of Odessa for burglary of a building on May 22.

- Randy Joe Lindley, no age or address listed in case file, for burglary of a building.

- David Frank Morgan, 28, of 3613 Calvin for aggravated assault on May 10.

- Ricky Dale Payne, 22, of 2605 Ent for burglary of a habitation and retaliation on Aug. 1.

- Charles Rhodes, no age or address listed in case file, for theft over $750.

- Adam Vela, 24, of 402 N.W. 11th for burglary of a building on May 16. He currently is serving a sentence in the Texas Department of Corrections.

- Victor Yanez Sr., 66, of 309 N.E. 10th for aggravated sexual assault on June 30.

- Teresa Anzadua, no age available, of Colorado City for theft by check on Jan. 15.

Grand jurors no-billed the following cases:

- Roger Renee Henry, 21, of 1505 1/2 Main, who was charged with indecent exposure.

Grand jurors passed on the following cases:

- Loanne Biddison Brown, 20, of San Angelo, who is charged with theft of more than $750 that occurred May 8.

- A person who is suspected of committing an insurance fraud on Dec. 3.

Man receives 5-year sentence

District Judge James Gregg placed Kent Salisbury, 22, of 702 E. 12th on a five-year probation sentence after he pleaded guilty to a theft of more than $750 charge. Salisbury also is required to pay $801.04 in restitution fees and $101 court costs.

Howard County sheriff's deputies transferred two men from county jail to the Midland Sheriff's office for transfer on the Texas Department of Corrections bus bound for Huntsville.

Gary Lee Jewell, 24, of Midland was sentenced to seven years at TDC by Judge Gregg after he pleaded guilty Monday to an aggravated robbery charge. The incident occurred last March at Webb Bowling Lane.

Albino Noyola, 33, of 404 Benton will serve six years at TDC after his probation recently was revoked for a prior arson conviction.

Big Spring Police transferred Kenneth Wayne Dower, 38, of P.O. Box 945 to county jail after he was arrested for suspicion of driving while intoxicated. He was released on $1,000 bond.

- Police transferred Carl Robert Farr, 27, of 2101 Main to county jail after he was arrested and charged with driving while license suspended. He was released on $500 bond.

- Sheriff's deputies arrested Terri Lee Hopper, 34, of Sterling City Route Box 150 A-1 on a peace bond warrant issued from a justice of the peace office. She was released on $1,000 bond.

- The sheriff's department received a report Wednesday night of shots being fired at someone working in a pump station near Forsan.

Upon investigation, sheriff's deputies reported that no one at the pump station had been shot at, but a building in the area had been burglarized. A sheriff's deputy from Glasscock County, where the building is located, was notified and took a burglary report, according to the sheriff's log.

Report information was not available from the Glasscock Sheriff's Department Thursday morning.

Firemen suspect arson in blaze

Arson was suspected in a house fire this morning at 105 N.E. Ninth, but arson investigator Burr Lea Settles said he has too little evidence to warrant further action in the case.

The fire, which occurred at 2:35 a.m., caused $1,500 damage to the stucco structure, owned by J.B. Hardeman of 104 N.E. Ninth, according to a fire department report. The house was vacant at the time of the blaze.

Firefighters extinguished the fire within two minutes of their arrival at the scene, according to a department report. They used about 50 gallons of water.

Captain Bob Myers called Settles to investigate the fire after neighbors said they saw children running away from the house, according to the report.

Settles said he submitted the results of his investigation to Howard County District Attorney Rick Hamby today, but he and Hamby agreed that not enough evidence was present to take any action.

The investigation is closed unless further information comes to light, Settles said.

Police Beat

Woman reports burglary to PD

Joyce Kincheloe of Snyder told police her duffel bag containing $605 of property was stolen Sunday from her 1984 Dodge pick-up truck.

The burglary occurred at 10 a.m. while the vehicle was parked at McDonald's on Interstate 20 and Highway 87.

Among the items were a $75 steer riding rope, an $85 pair of chaps, two $35 belts and a $10 Hawaiian shirt, according to the report.

- Byron Gressett of 2625 Chanute told police someone stole five cassette tapes, a go-cart gas tank and carburetor, and a Ben Hogan golf putter from the back of his 1979 Ford pick-up truck.

The burglary occurred between 7 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. Wednesday while his truck was parked at his residence. The items were worth more than $65, according to a police report.

- A black York stereo, two speakers and a turntable were stolen from the residence of Virginia Gail Smith of 1706 Austin, according to a police report.

The theft occurred between 11 p.m. Sunday and 10:15 a.m. Wednesday, the report stated.

- A forgery was committed July 11 at the West-Go Conoco, 1800 Gregg, according to a police report.

- Vandals caused $200 damage Tuesday to a trampoline owned by Earlene Williams of 2305 Alledale, according to a police report.

Holes were punctured in the trampoline in the backyard of her residence between 7 p.m. and 8:30 p.m., the report stated.

- Nolan John Perkins, 28, of Hallsville was arrested on Texas Department of Public Safety theft warrants from Tyler and Waco, according to a police report.

Crew damages iron fence

A damaged southside fence of the historic Pottin House will be repaired no later than the first part of next week, said Felecia Armstrong, a spokeswoman for West-Wend Operations in San Angelo, which owns the future Big Spring Wendy's Restaurant.

Construction workers building the fast food restaurant on Gregg Street had reportedly damaged the house's original iron fence.

The house, built in 1901, is classified as a state archeological landmark.

Polly Mays, a member of the Howard County Historical Survey Committee, said the damage probably occurred in the latter part of May when construction crews began excavating the restaurant's property site.

Armstrong said she received a call this morning from LaVon DeWees, an owner of Tech Management Inc. in San Angelo, which is handling the construction. DeWees told her he had instructed the construction manager at the job site to mend the fence this week.

Police charge man in wreck

A 38-year-old Big Spring man was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and failure to control speed after a two-vehicle accident Tuesday night in which he was injured.

Kenneth Ray Dower, 38, of P.O. Box 945 remains in jail this morning. He was treated for minor injuries at Malone-Hogan Hospital, according to police records.

The accident occurred at 11:25 p.m. on the north service road of Interstate 20, 1 1/2 miles east of FM 700, the accident report states.

The driver of the other vehicle, Roger James Blossom, 39, of 2404 Cheyenne, was not injured, the report stated.

Leak linked to computer

INSTITUTE, W.Va. — Chemical industry authorities dispute a Union Carbide Corp. claim that its computer tracking system was adequately programmed to predict the movement of a toxic gas leak that injured 135 people this week.

The president of the company that made the system said Wednesday it was programmed to predict the movement of three chemicals, none of them similar to aldricarb oxime, which leaked Sunday from Carbide's Institute plant.

Union Carbide has blamed erroneous predictions from the computer for a 20-minute reporting lag that allowed the poisonous fumes to settle on nearby homes before community warning sirens sounded.

State officials concerned about possible long-term health effects said Wednesday that they would monitor the 135 people treated at hospitals after being caught in the toxic chemical cloud.

No AIDS discrimination

LOS ANGELES — Concerned that AIDS victims are being treated as "lepers," the City Council unanimously adopted an ordinance banning discrimination against people who have contracted the disease.

The ordinance, believed to be the first of its kind in the country, would allow the city to sue employers who fire or refuse to hire AIDS victims, restaurants that bar people with the disease and landlords who evict tenants or who turn down prospective renters because of AIDS.

Dentists' and doctors' offices, schools, hospitals and nursing homes are included in the ordinance. However, blood banks and sperm banks are exempted.

"Since its discovery a few years ago, AIDS has become a relentless killer," said Councilman Joel Wachs, who sponsored the ordinance. "And yet a society which should be showing compassion to people who are ill is often shunning them like lepers."

Judge rules on spy cases

BALTIMORE — A federal judge today ordered separate espionage trials for John A. Walker Jr., accused of leading a family spy ring which sold Navy secrets to the Soviet Union, and his son, Michael.

When the Walkers were arrested last May, federal prosecutors said they planned to try them together. But the two later requested separate trials, and the U.S. attorney's office did not object.

U.S. District Judge Alexander Harvey II granted the request at the start of a two-day hearing on dozens of pre-trial motions.

TBS network reports loss

ATLANTA — Turner Broadcasting System Inc. blamed its unsuccessful attempt to take over CBS Inc. for a second quarter loss of $6.7 million, or 31 cents per share, on revenues of $99.3 million.

The Atlanta-based cable system said Wednesday it spent $18.2 million for legal services and related charges in its hostile takeover attempt of the nation's largest network.

For the second quarter last year, the company posted a profit of $8.1 million, or 40 cents per share, on revenues of $78 million.

The meeting took place after Bush's participation in a V-J Day anniversary ceremony in San Francisco.

Reagan relaxes

President 23-day vacation at ranch nears end

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Vice President George Bush and his wife, Barbara, were treated to iced tea and a walk around the ranch house when they dropped in on the vacationing President and Mrs. Reagan.

Bush and his wife spent an hour with the Reagans on Wednesday in their small, white adobe residence on the 688-acre spread high in the Santa Ynez Mountains.

The Bushes were the first official visitors to the remote presidential hideaway during Reagan's planned 23-day vacation.

The vice president and his wife had just participated in a celebration of the end of the war with Japan aboard the aircraft carrier USS Enterprise in San Francisco Bay before journeying down the coast to this Southern California community.

Since Sunday, Reagan has been relaxing at his ranch and continuing to recuperate from colon cancer surgery of a month ago.

The Bushes were treated to a tour of the area around the ranch house before going inside for refreshments, according to a statement issued by deputy press secretary Larry Speakes.

The two couples visited for about one hour, Speakes said.

He said Reagan and Bush, over glasses of iced tea, discussed items on the administration's fall agenda, as well as international trade problems and "protectionist legislation pending in Congress."

Just before the Bushes arrived, a member of the Secret Service was injured in a four-wheel-drive vehicle accident while patrolling Reagan's spread.

Deputy press secretary Peter Roussel identified the agent as George Lee. Lee suffered head injuries, but they were not serious, Roussel said.

"He was riding in the Jeep and it hit a rock and overturned," Roussel said.

"He was out on post," guarding the area, Roussel said.

Reagan was informed of the incident, but was not involved in the accident in any way.

Rough terrain makes up much of the president's land.

Lee was transferred from the remote mountain-top ranch by ambulance and taken to Santa Barbara's Cottage Hospital, Roussel said.

Bush and his wife, after visiting with the Reagans, were to return to their home in Maine.

Earlier in the day, Speakes said Reagan and his wife planned have lunch and breakfast together, and go for morning and afternoon strolls about the property.

Reagan also was to do routine paperwork, Speakes said.

Speakes also announced the president has received 47,439 "get well wishes" in the mail, as well as 500 gift items, following his July 13 surgery for colon cancer. The gifts amounted to "small items, flowers and so forth," Speakes said.

Reagan's California vacation, which began Sunday and will end Sept. 2, is the first time he has left Washington since his surgery.

Pope beatifies nun

KINSHASA, Zaire — Roman Catholic Church officials said Pope John Paul II agreed to meet and grant his forgiveness today to the former soldier who killed a Roman Catholic nun 21 years ago because she refused his sexual advances.

The nun, Sister Anuarite Nengapeta, was to be declared a blessed martyr of the Roman Catholic faith today during an Assumption Day Mass in Kinshasa, the capital of Zaire. The Assumption is the feast day commemorating the ascent of the Virgin Mary to heaven.

The process, known as beatification, is the final formal step before possible declaration of sainthood by the church. No other African woman has received the honor.

World's new snail king

LONDON — His eyes glazed over and his hand shook with the final spoonfuls, but American Thomas "Muskrat" Greene broke a world record for gluttony by devouring 2.2 pounds of snails in less than three minutes.

"Everybody's got a gift, and his happens to be his stomach," said observer Sarah Burlason, one of Greene's hometown friends.

Greene, a 45-year-old marina worker from Deale, Md., accomplished his feat Wednesday in 2 minutes, 43.95 seconds — more than a minute better than his English rival's all-time mark for snail swallowing.

During the gastronomic showdown at a London restaurant, Greene dipped methodically into a bowl of about 220 shelled, sauteed snails. He stopped once for a sip of water.

Japan inspects 747 jets

TOKYO — The Transport Ministry today ordered inspection of the tail section of all Boeing 747s flown by Japanese airlines because of evidence that a tail-end failure caused a jumbo jet to slam into a mountain, killing 520 people.

Preliminary evidence in a joint U.S.-Japanese probe of Monday's crash of a Japan Air Lines jet, the worst single-plane crash in history, indicated it was caused by a structural failure in the tail section, the ministry said.

"The circumstances (of the crash) seem to indicate that the damage to the vertical stabilizer and the rudders might be the starting point of the accident," it said.

Three pieces of the tail section were found in Sagami Bay outside of Tokyo, indicating that they had come off the plane well before the crash.

Canada opposes S. Africa

OTTAWA — External Affairs Minister Joe Clark said today he is recalling Canada's ambassador to South Africa for consultations to protest the refusal of South Africa's white-minority government to hold talks with the black majority.

Clark said in a statement that Canada was especially appalled by South African President P.W. Botha's refusal to meet with Anglican Bishop Desmond Tutu, the 1984 Nobel Peace Prize winner, who is black.

The United States withdrew its ambassador to South Africa for consultations in June to protest a South African raid on alleged black guerrilla bases in neighboring Botswana.

Japan observes anniversary of VJ Day

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito of Japan observed the 40th anniversary of the end of World War II today by telling more than 7,000 relatives of war dead that he still grieves for the war's victims, and prays for peace.

"Even now my heart grieves when I think of the many people who fell in the ravages of war and are scattered on the battlefields of the last world war," said the 84-year-old emperor, who announced Japan's surrender on Aug. 15, 1945.

He spoke at Tokyo's Budokan Martial Arts Hall, facing a memorial dedicated to the "souls of the nation's war dead." A large Japanese flag fluttered behind tiers of 25,000 yellow and white chrysanthemums.

The ceremony began with a speech by Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, who said the government "would make endless efforts in the name of world peace and international cooperation, using the lessons we learned from the war, so that the deaths of those who never came back would not be in vain."

An estimated 2.5 to 3.1 million Japanese died in the war, including about 200,000 who perished in the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Nakasone is to make an official visit this afternoon to the Yasukuni Shrine, where 2.46 million war dead are honored. The visit is the first by a post-war prime minister.

Many religious and pacifist groups oppose the official visit to the shrine, saying it would violate the constitutional provision for separation of religion and state and lead to a resurgence of Japanese militarism.

At noon, Aug. 15, 1945, Hirohito ended almost four years of war with the United States and its allies, announcing in a radio broadcast that "the war situation has developed not necessarily to Japan's advantage." It was the first time most Japanese had heard their emperor's voice.

Opinion

Real nightmare hard to imagine

It's one of those real-life situations that compares with your worst nightmare.

Two Mexican nationals, threatened at gunpoint, held against their wills and forced to work for — in effect — white slavers. Indeed, it was under slavery statutes that Steven Crawford, 22, and Randall Waggoner, 23, both of Nacogdoches, were convicted in federal court. An appeals court just upheld the five-year prison sentences on 21 counts of slavery, conspiracy and transporting illegal aliens.

The aliens testified that they were starved and threatened at gunpoint while planting pine trees near Center. Federal investigators said the workers were hauled to the farm from the Mexican border in a trailer and forced to sleep in a 10-by-17-foot shack without beds, running water or a toilet.

The slavery case came to light after a four-month investigation by the FBI, the Immigration and Naturalization Service and the Justice Department's civil rights division. The five-year prison terms assessed the two men are commensurate with their crime.

The notion of slavery is repugnant to Americans. It's deeply disturbing to realize that vestiges of the practice remain.

Japan's revenge has economic base

WASHINGTON — Hiroshima and the end of World War II have a bearing on the current trade dispute between this country and Japan. But not in the simple sense that the Japanese, defeated in war, then took commercial revenge.

On the contrary, a deep cultural disconnection underlies both the military and the trade confrontations. Now, as in the past, conflicts far more deadly than intended are apt to develop unless each country takes special care not to misread the other.

Japan, as everybody knows, is a consensus society. Insular, poor in natural resources, and packed together like sardines, the Japanese avoid chaos by sinking individual differences in national causes. Building agreement takes time. But once a goal is fixed, the Japanese pursue it with furious intensity until, as they say, aku made mo — even the bitter end.

But when they pushed into Southeast Asia, the U.S. turned nasty. Pearl Harbor was the Japanese response. They fought thereafter until utterly devastated. When Tokyo began to hint at peace, Washington missed the cue. Hence Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

After the war the Japanese abandoned imperial ambitions and adopted the national goal of rapid industrial modernization. By working very hard, by saving like crazy and by stinting on comforts (such as housing roads, and other social infrastructure), they developed, after the U.S., the second largest economy in the world.

Along the way, in sector after sector, Japanese manufacturers overtook and surpassed American competitors. Repeatedly there came growls from Washington and pressure on the Japanese to open their markets to U.S. manufacturers. Each time the Japanese bought off the pressure by relatively trivial concessions — limiting exports of textiles, steel, autos or buying more American planes and electronic equipment.

Now the overall trade balance is seriously out of whack. The U.S. ran a record trade deficit last year and the imbalance continues to rise. Foreign competition has weakened the whole manufacturing sector, comprising a third of the total American economy. Japan, with record trade surpluses last year and again this year, is by far the biggest exporter to the American market.

A tangled mass of connected mismatches underlies the commercial imbalance. The U.S. maintains big budget deficits, while Japan is squeezing down. American interest rates are much higher than Japanese rates. The dollar is overvalued against the yen. Americans consume most of their disposable income (94 percent consumption against 6 percent saving) while the Japanese save 27 percent. Set against those heavy influences on the flow of money and goods, trade barriers carry all the weight of a paper fan.

But in this country, the common view is that Japanese restrictions against entry of American goods constitute the heart of the problem. The Congress throbs with proposals for retaliation against Japan unless Tokyo opens up markets. One project or another could suddenly be enacted. For, as a recent 92-0 vote in the Senate indicated, there is no overt opposition to commercial retaliation. Stopping it is up to Japan.

But Tokyo is used to getting off easy after thunderclaps of pressure. Many Japanese businessmen think the U.S. is bluffing. Prime Minister Nakasone keeps announcing market-opening measures that don't impress American industrialists. In the end, sophisticated Japanese expect they will buy off the Americans with yet another set of "voluntary" restrictions on exports to this country.

Perhaps the policy of mutual self-deception will work awhile longer. The recent decline of the dollar is certainly a plus. But it will be months, perhaps even years, before the dollar drops to the point where the import penetration achieved by the Japanese begins to reverse itself. In the interim, the stage is set for another accidental collision — an unintended clash between Tokyo and Washington that would break down the whole international economy.

So the two economic giants need to talk far more candidly than they have to date. The dialogue has to go beyond the charade of free trade vs. protectionism. The requirement is for an explicit understanding that brings into better alignment consumption and saving, interest and exchange rates, budget deficits and money supply — in short, all the major items of economic policy.

Army developing talent for disguising purchases

WASHINGTON — Applying the Army's talent for camouflage, two military posts in the Washington area hid some purchases that might have raised eyebrows. These ranged from personal computers to a coffee maker and an exercise machine.

The purchases were disguised as "educational services" to bypass proper procurement channels.

Why did military officials ignore regulations? Because it was "easier and faster," Army auditors were told by those responsible. It was also, the auditors added, more expensive.

The two bases that tampered with the rules were Walter Reed Medical Center in Washington, D.C., and Fort Belvoir in nearby Virginia. In fiscal 1982 and 1983, the years covered by the audit, the bases bought about $235,000 in equipment without going through the required competitive-bidding process.

The auditors' report, which has never been made public, concluded that the educational services were "not cost effective" and included "unnecessary administrative fees" — not to mention the regulations that were outflanked.

The questionable equipment purchases were made through an "inter-agency agreement" with the Agriculture Department's Graduate School. But the school, which is self-supporting and thus does not get funds appropriated by Congress, is no longer allowed to make such inter-agency agreements, according to a General Accounting Office ruling. All its agreements, estimated as high as $30 million over a four-year period, will be terminated as of Sept. 30.

In fact, the school's inter-agency agreements were the subject of a three-year investigation by the Agriculture Department's inspector-general and now a grand jury is studying the school's operations. The school's director was recently asked to resign.

According to the Army audit report, which was obtained by our reporter Kenneth Reid, Fort Belvoir paid the Graduate School $21,685 for word-processing equipment in 1982, and $77,000 for office equipment, furniture and supplies in 1982-83. It also purchased data processors from the school as part of its educational service.

The items purchased included a microwave oven, a bar stool, a coffee maker, slide projectors, desk lamps, a belt massager or exercise machine, two 12-by-19.5-foot carpets and 100 tables and chairs. A Graduate School spokesman said the purchase of the belt massager was an "error." The bar stool was used as a classroom perch for a teacher, and the microwave and coffee maker were used in the lunchroom.

Walter Reed paid the school $89,600 for data-processing gear, without the high-level approval required for purchases above $50,000.

The auditors, noting that the Graduate School charged overhead fees of anywhere from 6 percent to 30 percent, said the school made a $49,450 profit on its Army contracts in 1983. The auditors recommended that the fees be returned, but the school spokesman said it has no intention of returning the $49,450.

"These fees were not a profit," he said. "It cost that much to do business with the Army."

As for the reasoning behind the two posts' camouflaging their equipment purchases, the audit stated: "Responsible personnel ... told us that they used the school to acquire items because it was easier and faster than acquiring them through normal acquisition channels." A Walter Reed employee told the auditors that the procedure "was viewed as a time-saving measure for all concerned."

But the shortcut clearly violates Army regulations. As one Pentagon public information officer recalled his requisitioning days at Fort Sill, Okla., "We had to submit a justification for everything down to our jockey shorts."

UNDER THE DOME: After a private meeting a few weeks ago between General Dynamics' new vice chairman, Stanley C. Pace, and Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., investigators for Dingell's subcommittee looking into the giant defense contractor's dealings will get a little more cooperation from the company. General Dynamics is gathering all its notes, logs and records on the sale of F-16s to Turkey to hand over to Dingell's detectives. They may also be given access to other files on the company's overseas business, and will be allowed to interview secretaries in the firm's Washington lobbying office.

FUED OF THE WEEK: The feathers are flying as the National Audubon Society and the rival Wildlife Society peck at each other over the controversial Garrison irrigation system proposed for North Dakota. Audubon startled other environmental groups by supporting a compromise that kept the project alive — and bigger than ever. "Audubon will certainly become the laughingstock of the conservation community," jeered Wildlife. Audubon replied, "To raise issues ... without first checking out the facts is not a sound way to proceed."

MINI-EDITORIAL: A chilling precedent has just been set in a little-noticed action by the Patent & Trademark Office. It announced that it will charge individuals "user fees" for searching through the agency's files. It thus becomes the first federal agency to put a price tag on information the public is entitled to. It's part of the Reagan administration's plan to cut the deficit by charging actual users for services that most taxpayers never use. That may be OK when it involves charging yacht owners for Coast Guard towing services — but if information costs money, only the wealthy will be informed. Everyone else will be kept in the dark.

The logic behind atomic power

By PAUL L. STUCK

First let us examine who will gain and who will lose from atomic power. Recently, Jeanne Kirkpatrick, former ambassador to the U.N., pointed out that the red government of Ethiopia was taking 12 year old blacks, dropping them in boiling hot oil, and throwing them into the streets. This did not stop Mr. Ted Kennedy from his continued support of the red government of Ethiopia. This is the same Mr. Kennedy who is sabotaging atomic power in the phony name of trying to make it safe. The N.A.A.C.P., on the other hand, in their statement on energy in December 1977, supported atomic power, realizing that this safe and dependable source of energy could be an avenue for upward mobility for blacks.

If you were living in a small house and it was winter time and you had a bed of coals in your stove; you would be most foolish to take these coals out into the snow and quench them. By the same token, if you take hotly radioactive plutonium and bury it in a salt mine, you have thrown away a valuable source of energy that, if the liberal damnyankee politicians would allow it, could be used to supply power for West Texas and we would have enough left over to distill the sewerage from surrounding cities and thus Big Spring could be a center for fresh water in this area, maybe selling it back to the cities. Who can deny the fact that we need more industry in West Texas?

Hypocritical damnyankee Ralph Nader has suggested that a nuclear power plant might explode. Since nuclear physics is an exact science, I can say with authority, that such an explosion is impossible. You need a 90 percent pure isotope U 235 for an atom bomb and it has to be brought together to a critical mass in a millionth of a second. In a nuclear power plant the fuel is only 3.5 percent of U 235 and the rest is U 238. There is just no way that this small amount of U 235 can come together explosively.

How dangerous is Plutonium? Plutonium is an alpha emitter which means you could put a piece of it in a cigar box and you would be protected from radiation. By contrast, the radiation in the cinders of a cinder block, which I might add, is in common use in Big Spring, comes from Radium and Thorium, both long lasting gamma radiators. About 1.8 billion years ago, in the Republic of Gabon in Africa, a naturally occurring nuclear reactor went critical producing 20 kW of thermal power for one half million years. 12,000 pounds of fission products have been produced as well as 4,000 pounds of plutonium and all of this has remained in place with no danger to animal and plant life in the area.

Around The Rim

Me retiro con su bendicion

Por LUIS RIOS

Ahora si me despido de Uds. Unos de Uds. saben que tome un puesto con una prensa en San Antonio que se llama el San Antonio Light. Para el viernes, Big Spring sera como el pasado para mi. Pero nunca me olvidare del. Me acuerdo cuando primero llegue aqui en este pueblo hace mas de un ano. Y luego se acerca el Diez y Seis de septiembre, el dia de la independencia. Y a los pocos dias nacio este articulo en espanol.

Desde ese dia yo ha escrito de supersticiones, de un amigo viejo que murio del alcoholismo, el cuento del gigante egoista y tambien de los consejos y dichos de mi familia. Tristemente no tuve tiempo de escribir del amor de una madre para sus hijos y tambien de su gran bendicion. Pero lo que pude escribir, escribe en nuestra idioma.

El mexicano, no importa de que region sea, siempre es mexicano. Cuando oye el grito de un charro siente algo dentro de su corazon. Tambien quiere ponerse de pie y cantar y llorar.

Cualquier persona puede oir una cancion mexicana pero nomas el mexicano la siente dentro del.

Y por esa razon nunca quise traducir este articulo para el ingles. No es verdad que el americano va entender lo que yo escribo. Lo que escribo es solamente para un mexicano.

Digame que le importa al americano de mi familia y de una supersticion que el no entiende?

Pero uno mexicano sabe que la familia es la cosa que mas importa en nuestra vida. No nomas lo decimos, pero lo vivimos.

Quien le canta la mananitas a su madre o a su esposa en el dia de las madres — el mexicano. Quien se mata de trabajar para sostener su familia? El mexicano. Y la buena esposa hace lo que puede para ahorrar el poco dinero de su esposo. Y esa misma reina vive por sus hijos.

Para mi, ser mexicano es ser orgulloso por ser de esta raza y tambien nunca olvidarse de nuestros padres que muchos fueron humildes y tambien pobres.

Y si uno se le olvida de esas cosas — bueno es como decir que no siente nada dentro de su corazon cuando oye el grito en una cancion por Jose Alfredo Jimenez, Javier Soliz, Pedro Infante o Vicente Fernandez.

Y con esos pensamientos los dejo — con los pensamientos de un mexicano humilde.

Ahora les pido sus bendiciones.

Y pido que Uds. se queden con Dios.

Dear Abby

Tight fiance too cheap to tip

DEAR ABBY: First off, we are in our mid-30s, both educated with good incomes. My fiancé, "John," is very tight with money. When we eat out, he refuses to leave a tip, no matter how good the service. He says tipping is unnecessary; I think he is just plain cheap. I've explained that people who wait on tables often work for minimum wage, and count on their tips to supplement their income. He refuses to budge. It's gotten so that every time we enter a restaurant, I can feel my stomach knotting up.

John and I take turns picking up the tab, which is only fair. When it's my treat, I always leave a tip. There are many pluses in our relationship, but our philosophies on spending money are worlds apart. This will be the second marriage for both of us, and I never want to go through another divorce.

What are your feelings, Abby?

MARY (ALIAS)

DEAR MARY: Same as yours. You wisely thought that the difference in your philosophies on spending money was of sufficient importance to warrant a letter to Dear Abby — and you were right. Regardless of how many "pluses" there are in your relationship, John's penny-pinching reveals a rather mean-spirited pettiness that you may find hard to live with. Don't tie the knot with any man who consistently puts knots in your stomach.

DEAR ABBY: I checked a book out of the public library last November and I must have lost it somewhere, because I have turned this house upside down and I can't find it! I must owe a fortune in fines by now, and I can't tell my parents or they will kill me. What should I do?

I need to know if there is a limit on how much I can be fined. What if the book costs $6 brand new and the fine amounts to a whole lot more?

I feel so nervous and guilty, I haven't been back to the library since. Please help me, but don't say where this is from.

BOOK LOSER

DEAR BOOK LOSER: Every library sets its own policy. At the Los Angeles County Public Library, children are fined 5 cents a day per book for every day the library is open. Adults are fined 15 cents a day.

If the fine exceeds the cost of replacing the book, one pays for replacing the book. Should the book be destroyed by a natural disaster such as flood, fire or earthquake — no charge.

Go to the library and tell the librarian that the book is lost and be prepared to pay for a replacement.

(Problems? Write to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. All correspondence is confidential.)

Sharon Tindol is honoree at several showers

Sharon Tindol was the honoree at a bridal shower recently at the Coahoma Church of Christ Fellowship Hall.

Tindol is the bride-elect of Wayne McCarty.

Mother of the bride-elect, Sue Tindol, and McCarty's mother, Norma Jean McCarty of Wylie, were special guests.

Hostesses were Mary Anderson,

Pat Allen, Alleen Bohannon, Dale Ferguson, Doris James, Wanda Bristo, Mattie Denton, Martha Hall, Doris Tiller, Fay Gibson, Kelley Anderson, Linda Dick, Ann Bingham, Vera Dell Anderson, Luanne McAdams and Virginia Allen.

Hostesses presented Tindol with a bedspread and pillow shams. The table was covered with a blue and burgandy cloth.

Tindol was the honoree at a lingerie shower given July 27 in the home of Patricia Bennett of Sand Springs. Hostesses were Bennett, Bo Fryar and Cindy Fryear.

A bridal luncheon was held for Tindol in the home of Jean Wynn by hostesses Martha Spell and Beverly Martin on Aug. 17.

The mothers of the couple were present at the luncheon.

Dr. Donohue

Anorexia nervosa worries parents

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: With everybody talking about anorexia nervosa these days, parents like myself are up in the air. How does a parent tell if a young daughter is falling into that situation? How can it be distinguished from weight being lost because of some other ailment? And how can you convince a girl not to go on a diet when she doesn't need one? — M.L.

Tough questions. Obviously, there are only two causes of weight loss — purposeful dieting or illness — if you want to exclude exercise. Weight loss from an illness would not be the only sign. Usually, there would be some symptoms of the illness causing it, ones that could be detected upon examination. There would be a slackening of physical activity and signs of things like anemia. In anorexia the loss often accompanies a stated preoccupation with weight, usually representing a seriously distorted body image.

Parents do face difficult problems in this area, I realize. And answers aren't easy. Anorexia usually begins with a sincere but unrealistic dieting goal, many pounds beyond what would be considered reasonable by most. The person may state that he or she (it can happen to males, too) needs to lose 30 or 50 pounds when weight-height charts show that person near normal or at most a few pounds overweight. Then when that goal is reached, the person feels compelled to go on to another, even more disastrous one.

Parents can help by trying to intercept the process at the earliest possible point. For example, a daughter can be shown where medical experts say she should be on the scales. Incontrovertible proof from authoritative sources can sometimes change ideas. At that point, she should decide on a modest and realistic weight level and stick to it.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can you discuss the treatment of prostate cancer with hormones? My husband is receiving this treatment following surgery for an enlarged prostate. Cancer was found there.

It was decided that hormone treatment would be best in his case. He takes diethylstilbestrol. I understand it can retard and possibly prevent spread of cancer for a considerable time. A discussion in layman's language would help us. — Mrs. R.L.

There are many ways to treat prostate cancer, so I can only give you a general explanation of the why regarding female hormone treatment (diethylstilbestrol is a female hormone). The effect of the hormones is to suppress the person's own male hormone production. The rationale for doing this is that many prostate cancers grow more rapidly under the influence of male hormones, so the less of them present, the less incentive for growth. The female hormone in effect turns off the male hormone production.

Yes, when successful this treatment can retard the cancer for significant periods. Other prostate questions are answered in the booklet "The Pesky Prostate," which other readers may obtain by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

Asbestos plant closing lays off 850 employees

MANVILLE, N.J. (AP) — The shutdown of the Manville Corp. plant had been anticipated, but that didn't soften the blow when the company announced it was pulling out of the city that took its name from what was once the world's largest asbestos producer.

"It's going to be rough for us," said Gene Kritzerberger, 51, who has worked for Manville for 31 years. "I have asbestosis and a bad back. I'm going to be looking for a job."

"Until everybody gets on their feet, it will hurt us a little," said Gerard Rienta, 32, a gas station owner. "But there is still the tavern owners, the grocery stores, the liquor stores, the dry cleaners..."

Most of the 850 workers will lose their jobs when the factory closes, probably by the end of the year. Some salaried and hourly employees may be transferred to other operations.

"Everybody was expecting it," said Ernie Chamberlain, 61, a 39-year company veteran. "When they closed the roofing (operation), we knew the rest wouldn't be able to sustain it. Most (workers) are pretty old. Some will be able to retire. The others, they're in trouble."

First shift employees at the Manville Corp. plant in Manville, N.J. leave work on Wednesday after learning the company will close down operations at this site, where asbestos was originally produced. About 850 workers will be laid off with the shutdown.

Cops pound beats to fight crime

By The Associated Press

Police officers are back pounding beats in about 200 communities rather than cruising in patrol cars, signaling a nationwide shift in crime-fighting philosophy, law enforcement experts say.

"I think it's definitely a trend. This is policing of the 1990s," said Bruce Benson, deputy chief in Flint, Mich., where more than 43 percent of the uniformed patrol force is permanently assigned to foot patrols.

The return to the beat has been made in cities nationwide because people prefer to have cops walking streets rather than cruising by in cars, according to Robert Trojanowicz, director of the Michigan State University School of Criminal Justice.

"Citizens feel safer, they like the closer contact with the police," said Trojanowicz, who heads the National Neighborhood Foot Patrol Research Center and conducts seminars for police officials.

Foot patrol officers have been around as long as most police departments, but became less fashionable with the increase in radio-equipped patrol cars in the 1940s and 1950s, he said.

"It's a renaissance," said Robert Kliesmet, president of the International Union of Police Associations in Washington, D.C. "I think within the next 10 years half the major departments in the country will have a neighborhood foot patrol program."

Kliesmet and Trojanowicz say the popularity of foot patrols represents a shift in police philosophy.

"We somehow perpetuated the myth that we could be all things in crimefighting," Kliesmet said Wednesday. "If we can't reduce crime we can at least teach people how to protect themselves, and that's basically what the foot patrols are doing."

Trojanowicz said he has advised police in New York, Houston, Miami, Milwaukee, Richmond, Va., and other cities on incorporating foot patrols into their departments.

Most of the interest was spurred by a landmark, three-year study in Flint, he said, adding that about 200 communities have adopted some sort of foot beat program.

"What started in Flint has really expanded throughout the country," he said. "Our feeling is that (foot patrols) probably increased tenfold." Flint, armed with a $1 million grant from the Mott Foundation, ran an experimental program from 1979 through 1981.

Margie Pinkerton, mother of condemned killer Jay Kelly Pinkerton, 23, of Amarillo, visited her son briefly Wednesday. Pinkerton was granted a stay of execution Thursday morning.

Convicted murderer gets execution stay

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Five Supreme Court justices granted a stay of execution for Jay Kelly Pinkerton, 26 minutes before he was to be put to death for the 1979 rape and mutilation of a mother of three.

Pinkerton, a 23-year-old meat cutter from Amarillo, was waiting in a holding cell only a few feet from the death chamber when Warden Jack Pursley told him that the execution had been blocked.

"Thank you," Pinkerton said and then shook Pursley's hand. He was taken back to his death row cell at the Texas Department of Corrections' Ellis Unit, 13 miles away.

He would have been the youngest inmate to be executed since the Supreme Court restored the death penalty in 1976.

"We were of the opinion that a stay probably wouldn't be granted," Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said in announcing the high court's decision.

"We looked at the issues and didn't see any meritorious issues.

He said, however, that his office was surprised initially when the process "as rapidly as it was."

Pinkerton, a convicted burglar with a history of juvenile crime, was sentenced to die by a poison injection shortly after midnight Wednesday for the Oct. 26, 1979 rape and mutilation of Sarah Donn Lawrence, 30. He also has a death sentence for a similar mutilation five months later of Sherry Welch, 25, a former beauty queen.

"It figures," Mrs. Lawrence's mother, Virginia Royer, of Lubbock, said after learning of the stay. "I was afraid this would happen. But maybe it was God's will."

The Supreme Court's decision came two days after the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals refused to block the execution.

U.S. District Judge Hayden Head also denied an appeal typed by Pinkerton only hours before he was transferred to the Walls Unit.

Military

Cadet Martin Solis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vicente R. Solis of 704 N.W. 10th, completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training camp at the Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

Solis is a student at East Texas State University in Commerce.

Col. Grady W. Barr, formerly of Howard County, retired from the U.S. Army after serving 26 years.

Barr served in Korea, Vietnam and Germany. He was honored with a retirement Parade at Fort Bliss in El Paso July 31.

He graduated from Coahoma High School in 1955 and from Texas A&M in 1959. He married Letha Brewer of Houston in 1959 and entered the Army the same year.

Barr, son of Maureen Barr of 2607 Carol, has three children and will live in Tyler after retirement.

Airman Sylvester Briones, son of Raymond and Manuelita DeLaCruz of Lamesa, graduated from the U.S. Air Force financial services course at Sheppard Air Force Base.

The course will count toward an associate degree from the Community College of the Air Force.

Briones, 1984 graduate of Lamesa High School, is scheduled to serve with the 438th Military Airlift Wing at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J.

Spec. 5 John E. Gossett, a 1978 graduate of Stanton High School, was named outstanding soldier of the quarter at Fort McPherson, Ga.

Gossett, a computer repairman with Headquarters, 3rd U.S. Army, was picked on the basis of military bearing and knowledge, professional skill and exemplary behavior.

Army 2nd Lt. Andres Contreras, son of Santos and Estolia Contreras of Snyder, has arrived for duty in West Germany.

Contreras, a 1984 graduate of the University of Texas at Austin, is a combat engineer with Headquarters, 3rd Infantry Division. He previously was assigned at Fort Knox, Ky.

Local district offers vocational courses

The Big Spring Independent School District offers several vocational and cooperative training programs for students interested in career training.

In-school vocational training is available in automechanics, agriculture, appliance repair, metal trades, small engine repair, home economics and office education.

Also, five cooperative programs allow students to attend school for part of the day and receive on-the-job training for the remainder, according to a release from Loren Spencer, vocational administrator.

The cooperative programs are in office education, home economics education, industrial training, distributive education and agriculture education.

Thursday Notes

By Steve Belvin

Thursday Notes kicks off with a softball success story. Local slow-pitch softball team, L.G. Nix or better known as Kwicksilver, finished second in the State Class C Tournament in Midland this past weekend.

L.G. Nix, coached by Bill Battle, won 10 games and lost two in the 86-team tournament. The squad went through a grueling schedule on the final day Sunday, playing seven games, including five-in-a-row.

L.G. Nix assured itself of second place by defeating Taylor from Texas City, 10-5. The local team was defeated in the finals by Lagnef of New Braunfels, 17-10. Trinity Miller Lite finished fourth.

Outfielders Tim Hall and Bobby Bell were selected to the All-Tournament team.

The finish qualifies L.G. Nix to the Regional tourney in Houston on Labor day weekend.

The Big Spring Cardinals were defeated this past weekend by the Odessa Colt 45's for the Texas-New Mexico Semi-Pro Baseball championship.

The loss prevented the Cards from winning the Texas-New Mexico League title for the second consecutive year.

There is still time for boys to sign up for the Howard College Day Basketball Camp scheduled for Saturday at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Any boy who hasn't competed in basketball on a varsity level is eligible. Entry fee is $26. To enter contact Roy Green at Howard College at 267-6311.

The Guys and Dolls Senior Bowling League will hold their annual Fall bowling league organizational meeting Friday at 6 p.m. at the Big Spring Bowl-A-Rama.

Bowlers must be 55 years or older unless a married couple wants to bowl together and one of them is not 55.

Anyone not able to attend the meeting but would like to enter should call Ed Booth at 263-2408.

Big Spring cowboy Wacey Cathey is making a strong bid to become the bull riding leader on the Professional Cowboys Rodeo Association circuit.

In the past couple of months, Cathey has moved from eighth to second place. His current earning total $37,549. El Paso cowboy Tuff Hedeman leads the event with $43,321. Charles Sampson of Dallas is third with $35,963 in prize money.

Summer doldrums hit fishing at Lake Thomas and Lake Spence during the past weekend, but there was some activity.

Crappie fishing was fair to good at Lake Thomas, there was a good string at Lake Spence, where the biggest catch was a 13-pound striped bass. All catfish were biting well on trotline or rod and reel, using almost any kind of bait.

Big Spring fisherman Denver Heffington brought in a nine and 10-pound catfish at Lake Thomas.

The local husband-wife golfing duo of Joe and Patsy Sharpnack has been burning up the greens this Summer.

They recently won the two-day Yoakum County Couples Golf Tournament. It was the duo's fourth golf championship this Summer.

Jackie Roach, Ruby Honea, Martha Saunders and Diane Posey finished first in a nine-hole four lady team scramble Tuesday at the Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association playday.

Finishing second was the team of Tammy Newsome, Bobbie Patterson, Stormy Ward and Ray Coffee.

The LGA will sponsor a couples tournament at Comanche Trail Golf Course September 14-15. Entry fee is $100 per team.

Tony D. returning to Pokes

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Holdout running back Tony Dorsett, who only a week ago called the Dallas Cowboys "double-crossers," planned to return to training camp today to sign a new five-year contract.

Dorsett's agent, Whit Stewart, negotiated the contract with Cowboys' President Tex Schramm on Wednesday after another agent, Howard Slusher, had encouraged Dorsett to stay away from camp at least another two weeks.

Dorsett, a nine-year veteran who is the sixth most prolific rusher in National Football League history, was to hold an afternoon press conference after checking into camp.

Schramm would release no details of the deal but a source told The Associated Press that it included deferred dollars that Dorsett can't touch until his career is over. Also, the contract took care of a $500,000 loan the Cowboys had given Dorsett.

According to the Dallas Morning News, the new contract provides Dorsett with a $6 million annuity and a lucrative real estate deal.

The News said Dorsett's annuity will pay $300,000 a year from 1993 through 2012. The Cowboys also will put $850,000 into Dallas real estate, with Dorsett having the option of taking the money or the land after five years, the newspaper reported.

Dorsett will also be paid $450,000 between the time he retires and the time the annuity begins, the News said.

Under the new contract, Dorsett's salary will be $450,000 a year in 1985, 1986 and 1987, and $500,000 a year in 1988 and 1989. The News said. Dorsett's old contract paid $450,000 this year, $500,000 in 1986 and $550,000 in 1987.

"I wanted to structure an agreement that he can walk away with pride and financial stability," said Schramm. "Right now he is very relieved. His years after football have been helped (financially)."

Dorsett got into financial trouble with the Internal Revenue Service and made some bad investments that ate into deferred money he had taken up front. He was on the fourth year of a seven-year contract that would have paid him $450,000 this year.

Dorsett hasn't received a paycheck since the Internal Revenue Service began attaching his $21,000-a-month salary last October.

The IRS claimed Dorsett owed $412,000 in back taxes, and Dorsett has reached a settlement in which he has already paid $200,000 and will pay the rest later this year.

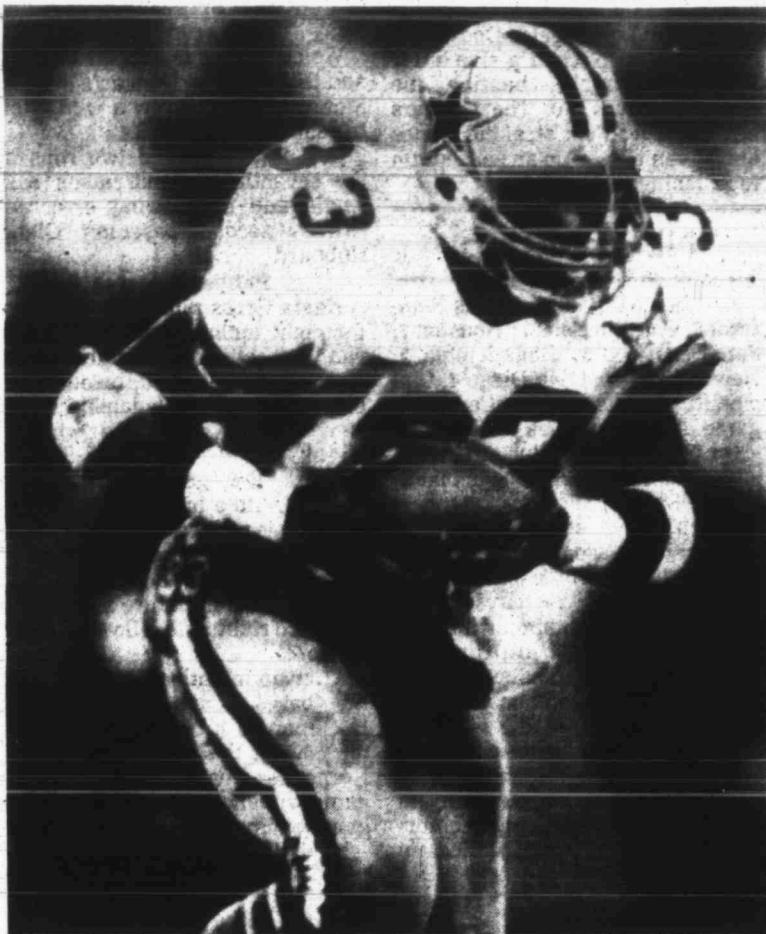

Dorsett's woes stemmed from investments in business deals that turned sour and consumed most of the $1.5 million in deferred payments he had asked the club to give him up front.

The financially frustrated Dorsett then turned to agent Howard Slusher July 18 to negotiate with Schramm.

Schramm said he called Dorsett on Tuesday to get the contract negotiations underway.

"I was supposed to hear from him Sunday or Monday and so Tuesday I decided to call myself to see what was going," Schramm said. "He wanted to get it resolved and I wanted to get it resolved."

Schramm added, "I'm very pleased with the way things turned out. I've never depreciated his value to our football team and I've never depreciated his value as an individual. He's an important member of our team."

TONY DORSETT will rejoin the Dallas Cowboys training camp after signing a new contract Wednesday.

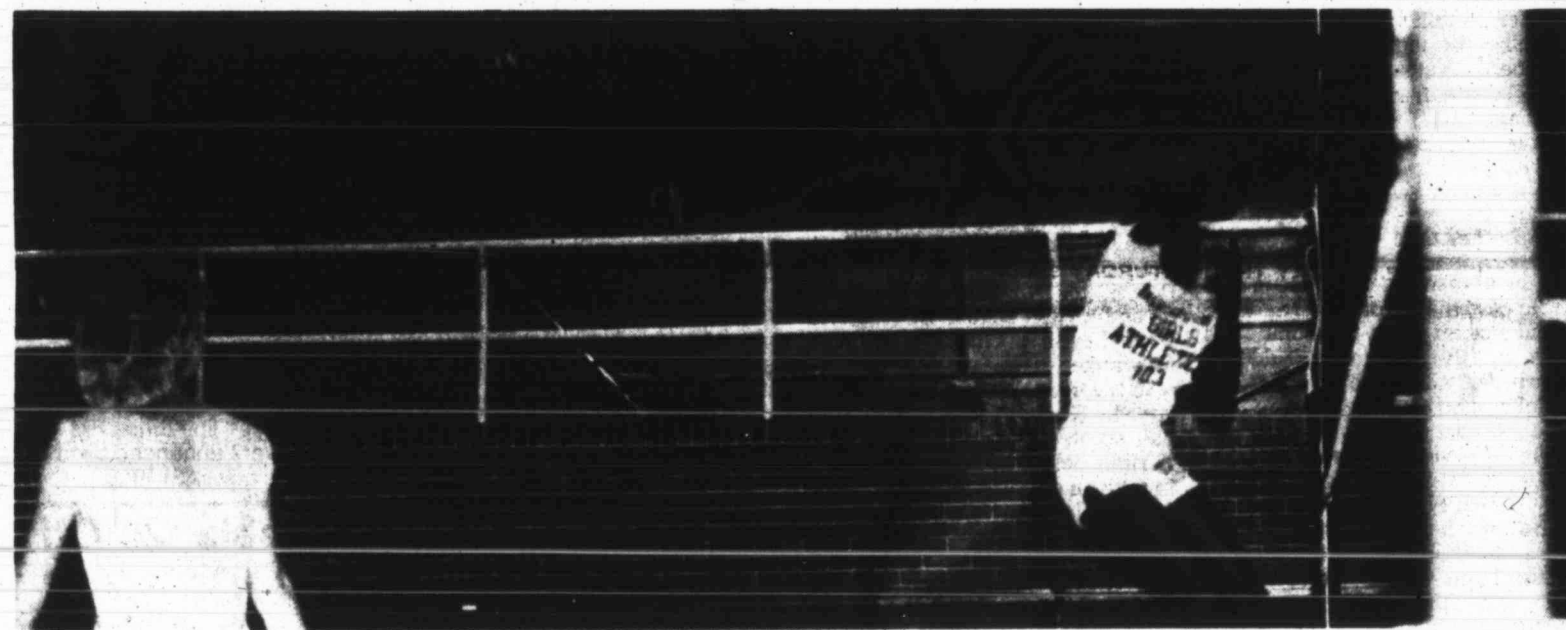

Schramm said he can forgive and forget Dorsett's harsh words about the Cowboys which included a threat to retire or be traded.

"People say things when they are upset that they don't mean," said Schramm. "I don't think there will be any bad feelings. His attitude to me has been upbeat."

Schramm said the $1,000 a day fine against Dorsett "was not a topic of conversation."

Schramm told Dorsett he needed to get to camp. Schramm said Dorsett replied, "He was a football player and he didn't feel right not playing football."

Judge refuses to drop bribery charges

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Judge Alvin Oser refused today to dismiss sports bribery charges against former Tulane basketball player John "Hot Rod" Williams and granted a recess until Monday for defense attorneys to review previously undisclosed evidence.

Williams' lawyer, Michael Green of Chicago, Wednesday charged that his client is being subjected to "trial by ambush" and asked that all charges be dismissed because of misconduct by prosecutors.

Oser said that his only recourse under state law was to grant a retrial or guarantee full disclosure of any possible exculpatory material, grant Green time to review it, and continue the proceedings against Williams.

"It seems to me — and I have to say this for the record — that the conduct of prosecutors is calculated to goad the defense into a motion for a mistrial," Green said.

"I will not be goaded by the prosecution into asking for a mistrial," he said. "I object to a mistrial and I object to this case going forward."

ROD WILLIAMS ...still facing charges

He said his experience with Bruce Whitaker and Jim Williams, the assistant district attorneys handling the case, had been good.

"However the finger is pointed at the office from which they come. I don't know who it is, but someone is intentionally withholding material to which John Williams is entitled," Green said.

Green objected to any lengthy recess, although he said he needed time to review the material.

He said a long delay would deprive Williams of his constitutional rights to due process because jurors could forget earlier testimony and could be put in a poor frame of mind by having to sit in solitude for days at a nearby hotel.

Oser said he would allow jurors to go home for the weekend.

Earlier Green said that prosecutors violated federal law — and the repeated order of Oser — by withholding evidence that might tend to exonerate Williams, including a photograph of star prosecution witness Gary Kranz holding a straw in his hand and posing with a pile of cocaine.

Kranz testified Wednesday that he was only a recreational user of cocaine and then only on such rare occasions as formal dances or holidays. Cocaine allegedly brought together the principals in the point-shaving scheme.

Several other photographs show others involved in the case taking cocaine and posing with straws in their noses, Green said. And prosecutors have several names of people who got drugs from Kranz, he said.

Depriving him of that evidence kept the defense from mounting its best cross-examination of Kranz, Green said.

Federal law says that prosecutors who come into possession of evidence that might tend to acquit a defendant must turn it over to the defense. It is called Brady material after the U.S. Supreme Court decision which established the law.

UT star running back gets medical okay

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Longhorn tailback Edwin Simmons, sidelined by knee injuries for most of his first two seasons, has been given his medical release and will be allowed to begin fall practice Aug. 24.

Coach Fred Akers reacted to the news from the team's orthopedic surgeon, Dr. Jerry Julian, with guarded optimism. Simmons was unavailable for comment.

"The guy might play," Akers said. "He's been released to do everything everybody else is doing because he is improving. I'm pulling for him but if he was sitting here now, I would tell him, 'I'm not counting on you.'"

Simmons also must satisfy an academic requirement to maintain his eligibility. He passed nine hours in the first session of the summer semester and needs passing grades in sociology and education courses in the second session.

At least two doctors have recommended that Simmons give up football because of a congenital condition that results in chronically dislocated kneecaps, the Austin American-Statesman said. The junior tailback from Hawkins underwent knee surgery four times — once on the right, three times on the left — in a nine-month period.

The 6-foot-4, 226-pound tailback played the final four games of the regular season last year before sitting out the Freedom Bowl. After missing the first seven games, he rushed for 66 yards on 21 carries against Houston. In the next three games, he carried just 18 times for 67 yards.

In his freshman year, Simmons rushed for 259 yards on 30 attempts, including scoring runs of 76 yards against Rice and 67 yards against Oklahoma.

"The main difference this time is he's had a full year for that (condition) to stabilize," said Charles Craven, UT's rehabilitation specialist. "He's strong and looking good. I think, for the purpose of being able to play, he's got a lot better chance this time."

Craven added that Simmons has experienced no swelling or soreness after his daily workouts at Memorial Stadium.

Akers said Simmons ran a 4.65 in a 40-yard dash last month. The former blue-chip player has run a 4.4. Redshirt freshman Charles Hunter of Odessa, who has never played a collegiate down, is currently listed as the Longhorns' No. 1 tailback.

"I don't want to create the impression he's well," Akers said. "But I'm encouraged. I'm pleased Edwin's finally getting some encouragement."

Welch fires five-hitter at hapless Braves

By The Associated Press
Bob Welch used to worry that his arm wasn't strong enough to withstand the strain of pitching complete games.

Now the rest of the National League seems unable to take the strain of facing Welch or anyone else on the Los Angeles Dodgers. Welch, 9-1, pitched a five-hitter Wednesday night, beating the Atlanta Braves 5-0. The Dodgers have now won six straight games and haven't given up an earned run in 52 innings.

NL Roundup

In other NL games, it was Montreal 8, Chicago Cubs 7; Houston 7, San Francisco 5; Philadelphia 2, New York 1; and San Diego 4, Cincinnati 1. The Pirates-Cardinals game at St. Louis was rained out.

On Wednesday, Welch struck out eight and walked only one in blanketing the Braves.

Welch had a strained shoulder early in the season, forcing him to the disabled list at the end of April. Then he spent 20 days on a rehabilitation assignment in Vero Beach before rejoining the Dodgers. Now he has won eight straight decisions and has an ERA of 1.67.

Welch, who was also 2-for-3 at the plate and scored two runs, hit a double to start a two-run rally in the third inning off Craig McMurry, 0-2, who was just called up from the minors Tuesday. Mariano Duncan then bunted to McMurry, who threw to third base, allowing Welch to score and Duncan to take second. Bob Bailor then sacrificed Duncan to third and he scored on Landreaux's sacrifice fly.

Welch walked to lead off the fifth and took third on Duncan's double. McMurry then threw a wild pitch to score Welch.

Los Angeles added two runs in the seventh on Landreaux's RBI single and a throwing error by Braves second baseman Glenn Hubbard.

Phillies 2, Mets 1

Kevin Gross pitched a six-hitter for eight innings and singled in a run, and reliever Don Carman got out of a bases-loaded, no-outs jam in the ninth as Philadelphia broke New York's nine-game winning streak.

Gross, 12-9, gave the Phillies a 2-0 lead with a hit in the top of the ninth, then walked the first two batters in the bottom of the inning. Carman relieved and immediately threw Ron Gardenhire's sacrifice bunt into right field, allowing a run to score.

After an intentional walk loaded the bases, Carman got Wally Backman to hit a grounder for a forceout at the plate before Keith Hernandez, leading the majors in game-winning RBIs, hit into a game-ending double play.

Rick Schu knocked in Philadelphia's first run with a single in the seventh off Ron Darling, 10-5.

Padres 4, Reds 1

San Diego got a five-hitter from Dave Dravecky and scored all of its runs with two outs in the third inning after an error by Cincinnati shortstop Dave Concepcion.

Dravecky, 10-7, pitched his sixth complete game of the season, striking out seven and walking three. He also started the Padres' four-run third with a one-out walk against Reds starter Jay Tibbs, 5-13.

After Garry Templeton singled and Tony Gwynn flied out, Steve Garvey hit a grounder to Concepcion that the veteran shortstop mishandled on a short hop, loading the bases. Terry Kennedy then singled in two runs and Graig Nettles followed with a double that scored two more.

Expos 8, Cubs 7
Chicago built a 5-1 lead with the help of Ron Cey's grand-slam homer, but Montreal rallied with four runs in the fourth inning, then won the game on pinch-hitter Scot Thompson's tie-breaking single in the seventh.

With two outs in the fourth, Sal Butera and pitcher Bryn Smith hit their first major-league homers on consecutive pitches from Ray Fontenot and the Expos tied the score later in the inning on run-scoring singles by Andre Dawson and Hubie Brooks.

Smith, 14-4, pitched six innings, allowing seven hits, including the grand slam by Cey and a solo shot by Keith Moreland. Tim Burke, who earned his fifth save, gave up only one hit in three innings, a homer by Richie Hebner.

Astros 7, Giants 5
Dickie Thon broke a 3-3 tie with a pinch-hit, three-run homer off Mark Davis in the seventh inning, lifting Houston over San Francisco. Thon's third homer was his first pinch hit of the season. Reliever Jeff Heathcock, 1-1, got the victory and Dave Smith picked up his 19th save by getting the last out.

The Giants, trailing 7-3, rallied for two runs in the ninth on Dan Driessen's grounder and Chris Brown's single. Driessen hit his seventh homer, and first as a Giant, leading off the second inning.

Houston's Nolan Ryan, who gave up three runs in the second inning, two of them on Joel Youngblood's single, lasted only three innings and failed to win for the 11th consecutive start.

Young and Orioles slam past Indians

By The Associated Press
Switch-hitting Mike Young slammed a home run from each side of the plate and led Baltimore to a 8-4 win over Cleveland.

In other American League games Wednesday, Oakland swept a doubleheader from Minnesota 5-0 and 7-4; California and Seattle split a pair, the Angels taking the opener 3-1 in 12 innings and Seattle winning the nightcap 6-1; Boston clobbered Kansas City 16-3; New York came from behind to stop Chicago 10-7; Toronto downed Texas 4-1; and Detroit nipped Milwaukee 4-3.

AL Roundup

Young wasn't the only one to provide power for Baltimore. Fred Lynn also hit a two-run homer, his 19th, and Rick Dempsey added a sacrifice fly and solo homer as the Orioles, who have hit 24 home runs in their last 11 games, extended their major-league-leading total to 147.

Red Sox 16, Royals 3

Boston, having scored just 17 runs in five consecutive losses, burst loose against Kansas City with a 21-hit attack, tops in the American League this season.

Bill Buckner belted the fifth grand-slam homer of his career and Steve Lyons added a two-run blast as eight Red Sox starters had at least two hits and the other had a single in Boston's biggest scoring binge of the season.

Yankees 10, White Sox 7

Ron Hassey, who homered earlier, stroked a two-run single in the top of the ninth to lift New York to a wild victory over Chicago. After the White Sox had taken a 7-6 lead, Don Mattingly led off the Yankee ninth with a walk and, one out later, Ken Griffey singled and Don Baylor was hit by a pitch to load the bases.

Hassey came through with his single and Mike Pagliarulo doubled home two more runs.

Mattingly drove in two runs in the game, one with his 20th homer, to increase his major-league-leading RBI total to 94.

Chicago rookie shortstop Ozzie Guillen went 4-for-4, including his first major-league homer. Carlton Fisk had his 32nd home run, tops in the major leagues.

A's 5-7, Twins 0-4

Don Sutton posted his 292nd career victory in the opener and Mike Davis hit a two-run, seventh-inning home run in the nightcap as Oakland swept a doubleheader from Minnesota.

In the second game, Twins rookie Mark Portugal, making his first major-league appearance after being recalled from Toledo on Sunday, took a four-hitter and a 3-2 lead into the seventh. But he walked Dusty Baker before yielding Davis' 22nd homer of the year for a 4-3 A's lead.

Bruce Bochte hit a two-run homer, his ninth of the season, in the sixth inning of the opener to break open a 1-0 game.

Angels 3-1, Mariners 1-6

Al Cowens' two-run homer backed the six-hit pitching of Jim Beattie and Jack Lazorko as Seattle stopped California in the second game and gained a split of their doubleheader.

In the opener, Rod Carew's RBI double in the 12th inning gave the American League West Division leading Angels the victory, while Donnie Moore notched his 22nd save.

Carew collected three hits in the two games to increase his career hit total to 3,012 and move within 11 of Lou Brock, who is 13th on the all-time list.

Blue Jays 4, Rangers 1

Dave Stieb pitched a four-hitter and Jesse Barfield scored twice and drove in two runs to lift Toronto over Texas. Stieb, 11-8, walked four and struck out four in going the distance.

With the score tied 1-1, Barfield led off the fifth with his 19th homer of the year.

Tigers 4, Brewers 3

Nelson Simmons slammed a two-run homer in the first inning, and Detroit got help in the third on an error by right fielder Ben Oglivie when they snapped a 3-3 tie to down Milwaukee.

In the third, Darrell Evans walked and Kirk Gibson singled. The ball scooted under Oglivie's glove in right field, allowing the runners to take an extra base before Lance Parrish followed with an RBI single.

Winning pitcher Jack Morris, 13-6, struck out six and walked four before reliever Willie Hernandez came on in the ninth to post his 24th save of the season.

Judge rules no foul on foul play

HOUSTON (AP) — A judge says he will overrule a jury's recommendation to award $180,000 to a woman hit by a baseball in the Astrodome when she was 11 years old.

But attorneys for Karen Friedman, who is now 18, say the decision by visiting State District Judge Robert Montgomery is a "slap in the face" to the jurors who reached the verdict.

Montgomery, who is from Memphis, Texas, presided over the trial last month in which a jury recommended the award.

Ms. Friedman was at a Houston Astros game against the Pittsburgh Pirates on June 14, 1978 when she was struck by a line drive off the bat of Enos Cabell.

She was standing behind the first-base dugout getting autographs from the players when the ball struck her in the head, according to testimony.

The girl suffered a broken facial bone and eye injury, according to a lawsuit filed by her father, Dr. Robert Friedman. Her attorney, Leonard Kahn, said doctors had to insert a plate in the girl's head and she still has vision problems in her right eye.

Jurors last month found the Houston Sports Association, which owns the Astros, was negligent in not warning Ms. Friedman of the danger of foul balls.

He said Ms. Friedman and her father are "disturbed and don't understand the ramifications" of the judge's decision.

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, AUGUST 16, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are all stirred up to get things done, and this is a very good time to yield to that worthwhile urge. A good time for romantic and social interests.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study how to get your finest talents working successfully. The evening can be very fine from the romantic standpoint.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan how to make conditions at home better, and don't be satisfied with the same kind of monotony.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) By showing appreciation to partners for their backing, you gain even more from them.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Better self expression can gain you more of the fine things of life that mean much to you.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Pursue personal goals with conviction since you can easily gain them now. Meet the persons you want to have in your life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Think more idealistically and confer with advisors so that you can make the future brighter and more to your liking.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Ideal time to do something thoughtful for your friends and gain their added esteem and goodwill.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get right at those outside matters and you can make real progress today. Anything of a credit nature can also be handled well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have many ways of advancing but choose the best of such and get busy on them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't get so involved in details that you lose out on the big issues of your interests. Confer with experts in business.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Listening carefully to suggestions of successful persons can bring you advancement. Make this a social and happy evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Have talks with allies and plan the future better and be more efficient at your duties. Avoid one who may be trying to trick you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be charming and have a brilliant mind and should have as fine an education as possible, which will train for leadership in whatever field may be chosen. It is important to give encouragement and praise early so that the incentive can be raised and full potential realized.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
