TRUMAN BODINE....outstanding conservationist

Award To Bodine

He's Top Conservationist

Truman Bodine, one half of a brother team that has developed one of the most diversified farming operations in this area of West Texas, is the 1971 outstanding conservationist of Mitchell Soil & Water Conservation District.

The award was announced Saturday by Travis Turner, chairman of the district.

Bodine is cited for conservation farming of 499 acres of range, pasture and farm land which includes dairy and beef cattle, poultry and wildlife preservation.

The outstanding conservationist and his brother, Homer Bodine, have been engaged in the dairy business since 1950. Their dairy herd now totals 35 Jersey and Holstein cows from which a variety of dairy products are marketed.

Their farming operations include 40 beef animals. And their poultry business, added to their farming operations in 1955 with a modest 550 laying hens, now has expanded to 8,000 producing hens.

Total farming operations of the Bodine brothers now grosses in excess of $100,000 annually with dairy and poultry products all sold within a local Mitchell County market.

Bodine's achievement in conservation farming spreads out over 10 impressive practices.

A key factor in this conservation progress, according to District Chairman Turner, is the Great Plains Conservation Program contract entered by Bodine in 1969. This contract--with technical and cost-share assistance from the Soil Conservation Service, is expected to be completed in 1973.

Don Hodges, district conservationist, describes the Bodine work as exceptional achievement in conservation planned to enhance the Bodine diversified operation.

A contributing factor in the successful development of the award - winning conservation program is Curtis Shaw, tenant on the Bodine farm land. Shaw, according to Hodges, has been especially helpful in putting many of the practices into operation.

Here is a list of completed conservation jobs by Bodine:

Range seeding--24 acres.

Mesquite control--36 acres.

Parallel terraces--constructed for 28,109 linear feet.

Standard terraces--completed for 17,316 linear feet.

Diversion terraces--con -

TOWN TALK

A public golf course is needed in Colorado City.

At the present time, there is only one golf course in the county and it is the one at the Country Club.

Now it seems that the one course could be used to the benefit of both the public and members of the Club.

The Country Club is suffering from that common disease sometimes referred to as a lack of money. This disease has resulted in the deterioration of facilities.

Club directors and members have recently voiced a desire to build a new clubhouse as "it would cost a lot to repair" the present building, if it is not beyond repair.

The golf course, while it has the layout and basic requirements to be one of the best, needs a lot of work and water and the present watering system there, I am told, is antiquated.

The Country Club owns acreage across Lone Wolf Creek from present facilities. This acreage would be an ideal spot for a new club house.

Then the golf course could be turned over to the city or county or both with a special consideration to be given to golf playing country club members.

Possibly a day or two a week could be set aside for members of the country club to play golf as well as one week a year set aside for the annual golf tournament.

Under such an arrangement, the city and/or county could take the needed steps to make the course the best in this part of the country and then the club could use its funds to build a new club house.

It appears the club cannot afford to keep the golf course and build a new club house and at the same time there are those who want to play golf who cannot afford to belong to the country club.

The only other possibility for a public golf course would be at the state park at Lake Colorado City and the development of a course from scratch probably

Hospital Election Set

Filing Ends For City, School Ballots

Three elections will be held here in early April with the deadline for filing for two of the elections already ended and deadline for the third will end Tuesday.

The ballot for directors of the hospital district will remain open through Tursday. Candidates can file at the Root Memorial Hospital business office.

Filing deadline for the city council and school board elections have already passed.

In the hospital board election three of seven places for two-year terms are up for election this year. The election will be held April 1st at the Courthouse between the hours of 8 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Murrell Blassingame, president of the board, Tom Moore, board vice president and Bob Reily, board secretary, now hold the positions up for election.

All three have filed for re-election.

Blassingame and Moore are engaged in farming and Reily is agent for Prudential Insurance.

Other members of the board are Willie Landau, Preston Morris, Rex McKinney and Wayne Shawn.

Absentee voting for the hospital directors will get underway March 13 and end March 28 at the hospital.

Possibly one of the most important matters facing the hospital during the next year will be working with Loraine residents in an attempt to persuade them to call an election and vote to join the district, making the hospital district a county-wide organization.

SCHOOL BOARD

The Colorado City school board election is the only one, thus far, in which there will be a contest of the three elections to be held in Colorado City.

It appears there will also be contests in the school board races in Loraine and Westbrook.

In the Colorado City school board election, three persons have filed for the race with only two three-year term vacancies to be filled.

One position up for election is held by Tom Rees, an attorney, now president of the board, and a candidate for re-election.

The holder of the other position up for election, Mrs. Kenneth (Eleanor) Cowan, is not a candidate for re-election.

Also filing for places on the ballot for the school board election were S. L. (Mac) Morris and Mrs. Tom (Jodie) Neff.

Morris, a Boy Scout leader, is a partner in Costin Implement.

Mrs. Neff, who is active in numerous community activities, is the mother of five children.

The school board election will be held April 1. Absentee voting will be conducted March 13-28.

CITY COUNCIL

There are three two-year term positions up for election on the city council and all three incumbents have filed for re-election.

Those incumbents are Buck May, Trevlyn Kelley and Eddie Piland.

May and Kelley are completing their first terms on the council while Piland has served two complete terms and part of a third.

May operates a service station; Kelley is vice president of City National Bank and Piland is owner of Eddie's Pharmacy.

Key Club Project

Members of the Colorado City Kiwanis Club Key Club distributed copies of a booklet entitled, "You and the Law," to schools in Mitchell County. Distributing the books secured by the Kiwanis Club, were, left to right, Skip Maines, Larry Dearen, Mark Waldrip and Scott Hudson.

A slide and tape presentation on dispause boll weevil control will conclude the meeting.

Wreck Injures Youths

Two Colorado City persons--brother and sister--were injured Saturday morning in a 2-car collision near Snyder.

Reported with serious injuries was Connie Lane, student at Western Texas College in Snyder.

Her brother Andy Lane, sophomore at Colorado High, received minor cuts.

Parents of the pair, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lane, 1330 Elm, were in Abilene at the time of the accident and police notified authorities there to locate the Lane car and notify the parents of the accident.

The girl, Connie, was reported with severe jaw injuries. An ambulance transferred her from Snyder's Cogdell Memorial Hospital to a Lubbock hospital before noon Saturday.

Also hurt in the accident was T. C. Goss of Snyder, who was in the other car. He received severe head cuts.

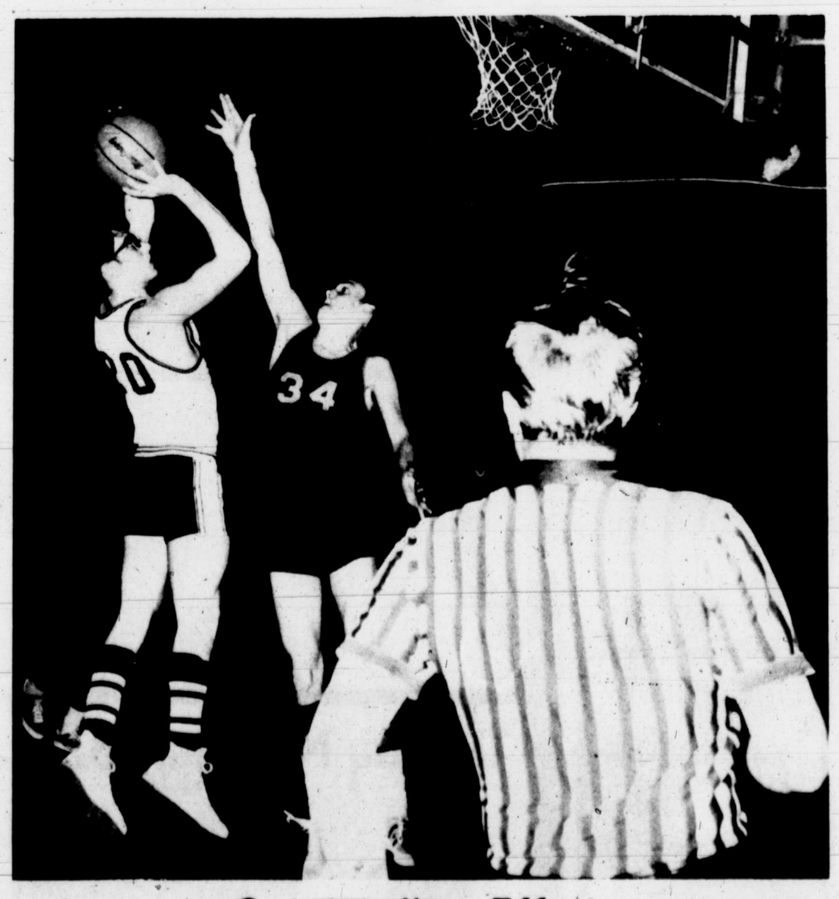

Snyder police informed the Record the collision happened at 9:02 a.m. on the old Colorado City highway south of Snyder.

Teenage League To Meet Tuesday

An organizational meeting of the Colorado City Texas Teenage Baseball League has been set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

All coaches, mothers and fathers of boys 13 and over interested in playing baseball have been urged by Buddy Marcom to attend the meeting.

Election of officers also will be held at that time.

Outstanding Effort

David Minton, No. 34 for the Loraine Bulldogs, made a great effort to block this shot by a McAdoo player Tuesday night in Post but the McAdoo lad managed to loop the ball into the basket. Loraine lost the bi-distridt tilt 62-38.

Loraine Player All-District

Michael Jones of Loraine has been named to the District 10-B all-district basketball team along with players from Ira, Fluvanna, Highland and Hermleigh.

Loraine placed two players on the second team, all district, and Westbrook has one player on the second team.

Besides Jones, other members on the first team are Mike Alexander of Highland, Alex Ynguenzo of Fluvanna, Ricky Cox of Ira, and Leon Ward of Hermleigh. Jones is only a sophomore.

Loraine players on the second squad are Robert Darnell and David Minton, both juniors. Also on the second squad are Randy Anderson of Westbrook, Larry White of Fluvanna, and Dale Evers of Roby.

Loraine won the district 10-B title after a play-off with Highland. Then the Bulldogs lost in bi-district against McAdoo.

Texas Tech Dedication

Ruth COFFEY'S

CONVERSATION CORNER

NEVER BEEN much of a crusader. More like a "So whater?"

But tell you one thing. Intend to start crusading immediately if not sooner if Congress accepts the Senate Finance vote to require that each child be issued a Social Security card upon entering the first grade.

The committee said it was to make the Social Security card the universal method of identification. There must be better ways to tell each other apart.

Why not tattoo the number on the baby's forehead before he leaves the delivery room? Think what that would do for the almost extinct tattoo artist business.

THIS COUNTRY is so full of numbers now it won't be long until we all have to buy us a U-Haul to carry 'em around.

A kid can't start school without a birth certificate. He can't even play in Little League without a birth certificate.

People are not supposed to mail letters or packages without five digit zip codes. They can't cash a check out of town without showing the number of the driver's license.

Telephone companies have gone absolutely number crazy. It takes at least 11 numbers to dial a long distance call. They have forgotten all about the old alphabet you can bet.

NOW ALL that may be very well for the genius with perfect recall. It is just trouble, trouble, and more trouble to ordinary people unless they care to pack with them a thick notebook, make a long list for home use or wear out both the brain and the telephone directory looking up numbers and area codes.

Can still quote poems learned in the fifth grade but never can remember the Social Security number. Only zip code number which stays in the mind is the one for Colorado City, Texas.

Should the zip code list get lost or the telephone directory get thrown away by accident, none of my relatives or friends would ever hear from me again.

SO? Am starting this crusade to annihilate number madness by suggesting to the Senate Finance Committee and to Congress that the tattoo system might be superior to computers. It would take longer but it might help some of us number allergic citizens.

The left leg could be used for zip codes, the right leg for telephone area codes and numbers. Course it could get pretty confusing when people move and have new codes and numbers. But that could be fixed.

Stamping the Social Security number on the forehead, permanently, and tattooing the driver's license number and picture on the left hand certainly would help everybody identify us--even our little first-graders and our teenage drivers.

Or would it? Sounds more like prisoners or war when you come to think of it.

NEXT crusade under consideration is a sit-in at the court house. Intend to enlist every older man and woman who finds it difficult to climb steep stairs when we get organized and can get whoever is supposed to take care of the matter to move the driver's license office to first floor. . .or have them hire strong-backed young men to carry us all up to third floor.

Course our crusade sit-on-the-steps might just slightly disturb District Judge Weldon Kirk, Bill Erwin, district clerk, and Frank Ginzel, the D. A., plus all jury panels, witnesses, defendants and attorneys for the defense.

BUT the oldsters and the slightly crippled have to figure out some way to get that driver's license office where it can be reached in safety and without fear of falling and breaking something.

Anybody want to dispute the matter or had you rather join the crusade when it gets underway?

We could all bring sack lunches and might have fun drinking all the Cokes in the court house machine.

MEANTIME, before this writer becomes a crusader instead of her usual "So whater?" have had a beautiful letter from Edna Womack (Mrs. Robert) Stell who now lives in Hobbs where she notes she sees Margaret and Charles Hestand often.

Seen Latelys around ye olde home towne were Arlene Morris, post master, and his sweet wife "Katie". . .Nita and Porter Richardson at their coffee break.

Had little conversations with Doris Carter, wife of County Judge Bill F., who will not be affected by the oldsters sit-in crusade since his office is on first floor.

Chatted with vivacious Frances Webb. . .Lil (Mrs. Earl) Brown. . .Always pleasant Gladys Howard with her daughter Doris Jones and granddaughter Diane.

This is the hand that shook the hand of Lloyd McKee, school superintendent, who recently recovered from surgery. . .J. A. Sadler, Jr., city manager, who was saying the older Sadler son Mike of the USN called him and Yvonne from Florida the other night.

GREETED George Hudson, LTF, long time friend. . .E. S. Miles of Longfellow Community. .Dennis and Syble Walding.

AND SAW two fellows known by name but not by face because they have yet to be properly tattooed on the foreheads. They were Mack Morris and Alton Raschke. Morris is now partner of our Warren Costin in the implement business.

Swapped waves with Sefton Pickens. . .E. M. Owen. . .Don DeLaney. . .and exchanged hello's with Ruthie Robertson and Pauline Carlson. . .Ditto Glenn Thomas.

May begin a crusade for more waving, more swapping of hello's, and more friendly chats over the coffee cup. Will let you know when it starts. Which is NOW.

We Salute Our Teachers

Although many of us look on teaching as just another vacation, it's far more than that. Our teachers must prepare themselves with an abundance of education and must thereafter constantly upgrade and augment their basic education and training throughout their teaching career. Although most jobs end at quitting time, the dedicated teacher is usually heading home for preparation of the next day's work or grading papers far into the night. Our teachers can usually be depended upon to offer special help to our children if needed. We know of no profession where such generous amounts of patience, understanding and love is cheerfully given by our teachers to our children. For all of this we offer our thanks!

Hesperian Daughters Hear About Early-Day Colorado City

Happenings in Colorado City's early days were discussed by Hesperian Daughters during a recent meeting in home of Mrs. Weems Dykes.

Mrs. A. L. Geer talked informally about the historical events as recorded in material on files of Mitchell County Historical Survey Committee.

She spoke of the busline between Colorado City and Snyder, established about the same time Greyhound bus service first began in West Texas.

Mrs. Geer described places in early days which were similiar to today's motels.

In reporting the rise and fall of population throughout the years Mrs. Geer revealed population of Colorado City in 1882 was 6,000 persons.

"It also boasted 28 saloons, 75 mercantile establishments, two photographers, seven billiard parlors, four theatres, three land agents, 12 lawyers, one broker, seven peddlers, two lightning rod agents, 17 doctors, one dentist and a newspaper," Hesperian Daughters were told.

First sermon preached in Colorado City was in 1881 by Rev. O. F. Rogers who covered the bar in John Birdwell's Saloon with sheets for the service. The saloon was located at Second and Chestnut Streets.

School was begun that same year.

Also in 1881 there were 30 buildings under construction at one time on Oak Street.

"By mistake, the first courthouse was located in the middle of Oak Street," Mrs. Geer said, "and because there was no room for a lawn the building was torn down after two years and re-built.

One-Act Play To Mark Public Schools Week

Highlighting day-time activities for Public Schools Week observance next week will be a play Tuesday, 3 p.m. in Colorado Junior High School Auditorium.

The play, "Where's That Report Card," is being directed by Mrs. Arnel Smith, speech instructor.

Written by Roger Clark, the presentation is a comedy in one act.

It is the story of a family who find report cards missing after father has received them in the mail. There are three teenagers in the family-two girls who always make good grades and a boy who flunked the last semester.

"You can easily guess who the family will blame," said Mrs. Smith in announcing the program. "And when they find the cards, the results are surprising."

In the cast are Mike Wood, father (who is on a rampage); Theresa Guelker, mother (who tries to quiet father); Kathy Crockett, Helen (who has a date); Adelaide Garcia, Mary (who also has a date); Terry Culbertson as Junior (who is supposed to have caused all the trouble); Cathy Golden as Alice, an innocent bystander.

Nancy Feaster is announcer for the afternoon program.

The public is invited to attend the special play

Red Cross Drive Underway

Red Cross workers got an early start last week as preparations got underway for the annual Red Cross fund drive, scheduled to get underway Monday.

Goal of the Mitchell County Chapter is $3,200. Last year, $2,100 was raised and much more is needed this year to carry out necessary programs, according to Mrs. Dick (Gwen) Wistrand, chapter chairman.

Glen Coon of Loraine is general chairman of the drive. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Rex McKinney of Westbrook and Henry Bilberry of Colorado City.

structed for 3,043 linear feet.

Grassed waterways--two covering 20 acres.

Conservation cropping system--practiced on 374 acres.

Crop residue management--carried out on 211 acres.

Contour farming--on 299 acres.

Deferred grazing is carried out on 36 acres, proper grazing use planned and observed on 87 acres, according to Conservationist Hodges.

In addition, Bodine has 5 acres for wildlife habitat preservation.

Hodges said the impressive program will be expanded with additional conservation practices which are to be completed this year and in 1973.

With the honor as outstanding conservationist of the Mitchell district, Bodine is nominated for the Texas Conservation Awards Program, statewide program recognizing the state's outstanding conservationists, and the Goodyear Soil Conservation Awards Program, a national competition.

Although Bodine's conservation program and diversified farming operation is a busy year-around career, the award winner still finds time for an impressive contribution to civic, church and family life.

Truman Bodine and his wife, Margaret, were married in 1949 and now are parents of 5 daughters and a son--Mrs. Dale Bynum, who husband is a student at Texas Tech University; Brenda, a student at Hardin-Simmons University; Patty, Colorado High senior; Blake, eighth grader; Marla, sixth grade, and Nina, second grade.

Bodine is chairman of the board of deacons at First Baptist Church where he also teaches the Junior High Sunday School Class, serves as brotherhood secretary and is a member of the church's long-range planning and mission committees.

Mrs. Bodine also teaches a church class.

Within the sphere of civic service Bodine is a member of Colorado Independent School District's board of trustees, is a past director of the Chamber of Commerce with service on the parks, sports and aviation committees.

In addition, he is past president of the Quarterback Club, a key organization supporting athletics in Colorado High, where Bodine graduated as president of his class and co-captain of the football team.

Another community service is Bodine's precinct chairmanship within the Democratic Party organization of Mitchell County.

would be too expensive for either the city or county.

While some people might not like to see tax money spent in this manner, it is a public service that should be offered.

If you don't believe country club members should be given special consideration, stop and think of the tons of money the country club has poured into developing and keeping the golf course going over the years.
