Betsy Lemons New County Librarian

Announcement of the appointment was made by County Judge Bob Watson, who is also the county librarian.

Mrs. Lemons accepted the appointment as a $1 per year employee of the county, the Judge said.

Watson, on the basis of his work as a member of the Panhandle Library Board, was granted temporary state certification when the library was without a certified librarian earlier in the year. His license will expire December 31.

Mrs. Lemons, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobo Castleberry, graduated from Wellington High School and graduated with honors from Texas Tech University in 1974, receiving a B.A. Degree in English and Spanish.

She taught at Samnorwood one year, where her work included that of librarian. In that time and the following summer, she completed work in library science from West Texas State University to qualify for certification.

She taught at Wellington High School 5 years, with the added duties of junior high reading teacher the last two years. Since leaving the teaching profession, she has been associated with her father in First Wellington Insurance.

Watson emphasized that Mrs. Lemons will be in complete charge of the library.

In other business, the commissioners heard reports from various county officials. The court passed a resolution supporting a juvenile service grant for the 100th judicial district. The $8,500 grant for the 5-counties provides for psychological testing, and evaluation of juveniles brought before the juvenile Reception, Hunt for Bob Armstrong Thurs.

Bob Armstrong, Commissioner of the General Land Office, is due to hunt Quail in Collingsworth County Thursday, Dec. 17, according to Doug Seal, county Democratic Chairman.

Here with him will be a number of state Democratic Leaders, State Democratic Committee members, various county Democratic Chairmen and presidents of various farm organizations and others, Seal said.

A reception will be held Thursday evening from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Cherokee Inn to honor Armstrong, with a number of the other visitors due to attend.

The public is invited.

Seal said that the purpose of this reception is for local people to discuss with Armstrong state issues, and for him to find out what people here are interested in.

Of the day-time activities, Seal said that "we are just going out there to hunt quail." The hunt is sponsored by some of the State Democratic leaders.

After the reception, Armstrong and others in the party are due to remain in Wellington overnight, then on Friday morning they will go on to Pampa, Dumas and Hereford.

Armstrong is due to arrive in Wellington between 9:30 and 10 a.m. and go directly to hunt.

Seal pointed out that only Armstrong and Peyton McKnight have announced as gubernatorial candidates on the Democratic Party.

Dodson Council Denies Request

Dodson City Council, in a meeting last week, denied the request for a rate increase presented by West Texas Utilities Co.

As the request was company-wide, the increase would amount to the same as that asked for Wellington, approximately 15%.

With the denial of the request the Dodson rate will be set by the Public Utilities Commission of Texas, and the Dodson council has indicated it will go along with PUC.

If differs from Wellington in that Wellington, as a member of the Texas Municipal League, has an intervenor before the Utilities Commission, while Dodson, which is not a TML member, does not have that intervenor.

Memphis and Clarendon have also denied the request, said Tommy Hudson, Wellington resident manager.

The Wellington City Council deferred action for 120 days from January 1, and at that time the WTU request will go before the Public Utilities Commission.

ALL REGION

Three members of That Skyrocket Band were named to the Region 1 All-Region band in auditions held Dec. 7. They are Toni Tramel, seated with French horn, and Leslie Birkey, right, baritone, and Susan Brooks, standing, with clarinet.

Humanism VS. Christianity

4th of Series

There are some people that are born-again Christians; they love God in their heart, but they are humanistic in their thinking because they have been programmed humanistically by schools, television, newspapers, associations with people who think humanistically, etc. It is very likely that the majority of people sitting in churches profess Christianity, but in reality are practicing humanism. They wouldn't call themselves humanists if they knew what the word means. They would tell you that they love the Lord and that their lives are committed to Him, but they have the pagan philosophy of life
called "humanism."

Mrs. J.M. Strong Honored On Her 90th Birthday Dec. 12

Mrs. J.M. (Ethel) Strong, a Wellington florist for almost half a century and one of the first women to enter that profession in the Panhandle, celebrated her 90th birthday Saturday, Dec. 12, when her children entertained with a coffee in the Heritage Room.

All of the six children were present and they and their spouses were hosts: J.M. and Martha Strong of Dalhart; J.N. and Dorothy Cook of Roswell, N.M.; Robert and Ivabelle Strong, and Eddie and Velma Rose Strong, Bill and Rosemary Cunningham, all of Amarillo and Jack and Jean Strong of Almagordo, N.M.

A large group of friends attended. One of these was Mrs. A.Y. Bell, who was a classmate of the late Mr. Strong when they attended Texas Christian University.

Ethel Lucinda Jolly was born December 10, 1891 in Staffville, Mo., daughter of the late Elizabeth B. and George W. Jolly.

Among her early memories are those of starting to school at age 5, walking one and a half miles to a country school. She had a pair of ice skates, and during lunch periods in the winter, the teacher and students skated.

Soon after this, the family moved to Kremlin, Ok., then in the Indian Territory, where Mr. Jolley worked as a carpenter until the Indian Lands opened for settlement in Southern, Oklahoma.

He went to Lawton to file in 1900 and received land 20 miles south of there, at Walters. This was a tent town. The family made the move with a big wagon and two big white draft horses. His grandmother gave him $1,000 to help.

Mrs. Strong recalls that her father raised corn, oats, wheat and millet on their quarter section, and the family lived in a 5-bedroom house.

The family moved to Texola and stayed three years before moving on to the Aberdeen community. There Mr. Jolly bought a half section later known as the J.W. Deger place, and built a large house. She attended Aberdeen school through the eighth grade, then lived in Shamrock to attend high school. She quit shortly before she would have graduated.

Ethel Jolly then moved to Wellington where she was hired by 7 cotton buyers to keep books. She recalls that farmers would bring in their crop and line up on the street for the buyers to sample their cotton. The going price at that time (1908) was 5 cents per pound. She would figure each farmer's pay and issue them checks from the buyer's checkbook. She was paid $40 per month which she thought was tremendous because the girls who worked in dry goods stores were making no more than $25.

Shortly after the cotton buyers left Wellington, a man from Dallas came to Wellington and taught classes for Daughon's Business College. She was among 20 students who took courses in shorthand, typing and bookkeeping.

When she finished her courses, she was hired by the Leader Grocery Store as a bookkeeper. This is where she met her husband-to-be, J.M. Strong, whose family owned the store.

Later she worked at Wafford's on the east side of the town square.

This consisted of a shoe store and dry goods store in the front of the building, with a grocery store at back.

She kept books and sold merchandise when they were short-handed. She was again paid $40 per month.

J.M. Strong, Jr. and Ethel Jolly were married on May 18, 1912, in Wellington, in the Methodist parsonage. Mr. Strong had been working at the Wellington State Bank for 6 months.

Later he sold insurance for a firm which his mother had established earlier.

From 1920, when she became blind, until her death, Mrs. J.M. Strong, Sr. made her home with her son and family.

Her business, Strong's Flowers, had its beginning in 1926, but even before that, her love for flowers resulted in her growing many plants for her home.

At that point, she helped to raise money for her church, First Christian, by holding a flower sale, from her own plants, as part of the church bazaar.

Her husband by then had built a bench on the back porch to hold all her flowers, and in the fall they kept the flowers in a pit with a glass over the top to shelter them.

Mrs. Strong decided to have a flower sale of her own. It was a success and she was in business.

By spring, Mr. Strong had built a 13'x20' green house and they bought a black commercial ice box to keep the flowers in. In succession, they needed another greenhouse, and then a garden shop which sold seeds, insect killers, hanging pots, and other garden items.

There was no other flower shop in Wellington, and at that time she sold carnations for $1.50 per dozen.

For many years, there was scarcely a Wellington family that was not her customer at some time or another.

She continued in her business until 1975, when, at the age of 84, she sold it.

Her creative floral arrangement were but one facet of her artistic nature, for she was a gifted painter as well.

Mrs. Strong now makes

Trip to Holy Land Described

A former Plymouth community woman, Mrs. Cora Gragson of Quitaque, has written this account of her recent visit to Jordan, the Holy Land, Israel and Egypt.

The former Cora Elmore, she and the late Arvin Gragson were married while both were living at Plymouth. He died Nov. 9, 1979.

She is the mother of Willie Gragson.

Here is her report:

From Houston we flew non-stop to Amsterdam. The Neatherlands are beautiful. We flew from there to Beirut, Lebanon, where we were not allowed to leave the plane or take pictures from the window. We flew on to Amman, Jordan, where we went through customs with armed guards nearby. We took buses to the hotel where we spent the night. We toured Tiberius the next day where we saw things growing in the desert. The Ram Hotel of Tiberius faces the Sea of Gallilee. We took a boat ride across the sea to Capernaum when Jesus gave the Sermon on the Mount while He was on each, and read the Beatitudes. We sang "How Great Thou Art" and had prayer. In the Golan Heights. We viewed the Bunkers & Mines of the Assyrians who were fighting the Jews and lost the six day war.

In Druid Valley where the Druids live, we learned the women have the last say in the family problems. This is just opposite to the Moslem women.

In Caesaraa Phillipi, where the Apostle Peter acknowledged 'Thou Are the Christ,' Matt. 16, and where the Apostle Paul was tried, we saw the ruins from the Temple of Herod Augustus from the time of Herod the Great. We went back to the hotel in Tiberius.

The next day, we went to Cana where Jesus performed His First Miracle, then we went to Nazareth. In the synagogue, Jesus read scripture and taught (Luke 4:16-18). From here, we went to the Valley of Armeggedon, or called here, Meggido, where people tried to throw Jesus from a cliff. We passed Mount Tabor. It was here Deborah and Barak gathered 10,000 men to protect them from Cicero. We went to Mount Carmel where the Prophet Elijah confounded the Baal prophets (I Kings 18:23-40). There is now a monastery at the top of Mount Carmel.

We saw the tombs of King David, Lazarus, Christ and Rachael, all Bible characters, and we saw the Upper Room where Christ ate His Last Supper with His disciples. We saw Caiphas Court Trial Room, Garden of Gethsemane where Jesus prayed, and Judah hanged himself after betraying Christ.

At Mount Calvary or Mount of Ascension, we sang "Had It Not Been for Mount Calvary," and we had communion services.

From here, we went to Solomon's Cave, dug out of solid rock by slave labor. We saw Solomon's stable and a replica or model of Jerusalem, the Church of Nativity built by Crusaders centuries ago. We enjoyed a Jewish folk dance and musical.

We visited the Dead Sea where one can swim and never go under the water. We saw the Masada, where 967 Jews committed suicide in preference to being taken as slaves.

The desert is beautiful and fruitful. The Prophet Isaiah of old said the desert would bloom again. There are abundant cotton crops, fruits of all kinds and vegetables, producing three crops a year due to the mild weather there.

At the Isreal - Egyptian border, more customs were to go through. This proved to be the longest one yet. We rode the Suez Canal on a ferry boat, then on to Cairo where we spent two nights. In the Egyptian Museum, we saw King Tut's tomb, the Pyramid Sphinx, a Gallery of Egyptian Art and the Land of Goshen. This was an unusually pretty place.

On Saturday, November 7, all the group was ready to return home. We were tired, so we slept most of the way back to Houston.

(Mrs. Gragson reports this was a wonderful trip, and so very educational if you are a Bible student. She says time nor space can even give the highlights of the trip.)

Mrs. Handley Tells of Trip To Yorktown, Va. Battlefield

Mrs. Bura Handley, with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lamkin of Albuquerque, N.M. and Mrs. Bertie Rogers of Roswell, N.M. have returned after two weeks of touring the eastern states and visiting relatives in Virginia.

Mrs. Handley was a guest of Col. and Mrs. Phil Handley of Norfolk and the Lamkins visited their son, Lt. Comdr. H. Brent Lamkin, U.S. Navy, and his wife and children. Col. Handley grew up in Wellington and Mr. and Mrs. Lamkin formerly lived in this county. Their son was born at Childress.

Traveling through 10 states they stopped first at Jefferson City, Mo., the Town of 700 Hills. "Believe me, they are all there, but it is a most beautiful city," said Mrs. Handley.

Mrs. Handley, who is compiling a history of her family, the Keesees and Mrs. Lamkin, her niece, went to the state archives to do research.

"We spent two nights there, then went on east, crossing the Mississippi River at St. Louis, and went on to East St. Louis, Illinois. Again we crossed the Mississippi and went on through Indiana, with its large dairy farms and pretty country.

Continuing an account of her trip, Mrs. Handley recalled Kentucky:

"Kentucky was so pretty, with the Blue Ridge Mountains. The Shenandoah Valley was of amazing beauty. It was a first time for me to see this, but the Lamkins lived in Oak Ridge, Tenn., in 1943, when he worked for a power plant.

"We saw still more beautiful rivers and near Louisville in Kentucky, we had crossed the Ohio River, then further into the state we again crossed the Kentucky River.

"We left Huntington, West Virginia and drove through the Kanawa Valley, with mountains on each side. It was simply beautiful and the trees were red.

orange and gold, yet lots of green leaves remained.

"We arrived at our destination after four days. I visited the next 8 days with Phil and family and the Lamkins enjoyed their son and his family.

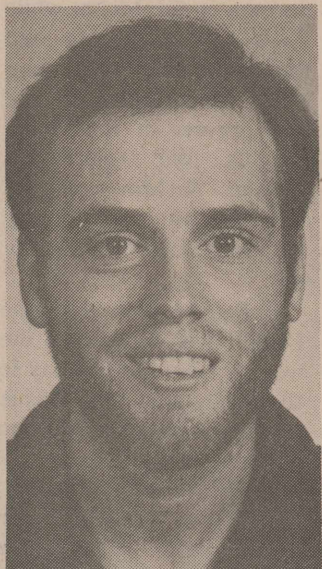

"While there, we visited Yorktown, a few days after the Yorktown Bicentennial celebration which most people saw on television.

"Here you feel you have come home to the cradle of America. Yorktown where freedom was born."

"The Yorktown Victory Center is located in the heart of Virginia's historic triangle, where the battle that changed the course of history was fought in October, 1781. The field of battle is quiet now and the spirit of the men who fought bravely for American Independence surrounds you.

"The victory center is designed to let you see, and feel, the atmosphere of Revolutionary America.

"The gallery provides an impressive setting for valuable artifacts of the Revolutionary War, loaned to the center from private collections in Great Britain,

CHARLES MICHAEL, JR.

Michael in Collegiate Who's Who

Charles Michael, Jr. of Wellington, is one of 20 Panhandle State University students listed in the 1982 edition of Who's Who Among Students university and College. Charles is a junior majoring in accounting. He joins an elite group of students selected from more than 1300 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

other European countries and the United States. It salutes not only the American forces, but their loyal allies and brave opponents as well.

"Some treasured objects never before displayed in America are loaned by collectors throughout the world. All the heartache and glory of the Revolution is depicted in a 28-minute film.

"Then we took a self-guided tour of the battlefields in the car. With Phil as our driver and guide, we traveled to Williamsburg, Va. Here almost a hundred of Virginia's historic homes are open for visitation. Many are taverns where traditional good food in an 18th century setting is served. Solveig, Phil's wife, and I visited the pottery. We also visited the Handley's former home in Newport News, Va.

"They then took me to See America's Tomorrow!" A tour of Langley Air Force Base, where Phil is director of Operations.

"Over 60 years of aviation history mark the birthplace of NASA, located by Langley Air Force Base, is the oldest continuously active aeronautical research center in the United States. At NASA, astronauts practice their moon landings and lunar lift-offs. Here scientists planned the landings on Mars, and today plan the utilization of the Shuttle for the benefit of mankind.

"At visitor Center's many exhibits you can review the history of flight and see an actual moon rock, the Apollo 12 Spacecraft and the space suit worn by David Scott. A Technology Utilization house or "House of the Future" is also located at NASA Langley Research Center. Then I saw all the 78 F15s on the base.

"I returned home with new pride in America, and the gracious hospitality of Col. Phil Handley and his family.

"On our return home, we came through the tip of North Carolina, then Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas and Oklahoma.
