Two Small Boys Ride In Runaway Car Sunday

A runaway car in which the small son of Clarence Rowland and C. B. Reeder were sole occupants was the cause for grave concern on the part of parents of the boys for a short time Sunday afternoon. The boys were playing in the car and in some manner got it started and rode in it at a high rate of speed for a block or two until a garden fence at the W. D. McCarley place stopped the mad rush. Neither of the boys were hurt but some damage was done to the car and to the garden fence. Mrs. Rowland was so badly frightened that she was confined to her bed for a time.

Loraine Wins First Game

Loraine has been without a baseball team this season for various reasons, but Wednesday of this week a team was thrown together for the first game and some real nice playing was seen.

Ernest Brock, pitching for the locals, let Colorado down to a 4 to 0 defeat. Only a few hits were garnered by the Colorado team and they were so badly scattered that they could not produce a score.

WHEAT CURTAILMENT

College Station-Texas has been allotted 20,384,322 bushels of wheat to be raised in each of the years 1934-1935 for domestic consumption. This figure represents 54% of the State's 5-year average production, taking the 1928-1932 period as the basis for figuring, according to information received by O. B. Martin, director of the Extension Service, from Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace in regard to launching the wheat acreage reduction campaign.

Conferences of district and county farm demonstration agents of the major wheat producing districts have been called to meet in Mineral Wells August 22, 23, 24 Mr. Martin stated. The Extension Service will be in the wheat campaign, as it was in the cotton, the agency charged by the Secretary of Agriculture with the responsibility of making clear the provisions of the contract to every grower and of organizing the county and local committees who will swing the job.

Each wheat producing county has a definite allotment and within the counties these allotments will be sub-divided to wheat growers by computing the individual grower's average production over a period of three years. The grower who joins up to reduce his acreage for 1934 and 1935 will agree to cut down not more than 20% of his average acreage during the preceding three years, and to sow in wheat in a "workmanlike manner" the number of acres that should produce the number of bushels that are allotted to him. He also agrees not to use the released acres in any way except for soil building, erosion preventing, or for the producing of food to be consumed at home or feed to produce livestock products to be consumed at home. And here, Mr. Martin asserted, is an opportunity every wheat grower should seize to develop a definite live-at-home policy. The Extension bulletin "Filling the Farm Storehouse" will be found a good guide, he said.

In return he receives, on or after September 15th this year, 20 cents per bushel on his farm allotment; and not less than eight nor more than ten cents additional per bushel after proof of compliance. This last payment will not be made before June 1, 1934. These payments he will receive regardless of the price for which he sells his wheat. The 1934 and 1935 payments will be based on the amount necessary to bring the price up to parity.

The growers who enter into this contract with the Secretary of Agriculture will be expected to organize county wheat control committees, selecting a paid director to devote his time to the business of the organization. The salary and expenses of this executive will be deducted from the money to be sent into each county by the Administration. In counties lacking sufficient production to justify setting up County Wheat Production Control Associations but whose growers wish to participate in the plan, special arrangements will be made whereby counties may Mitchell County Will Speak For To Vote on Beer Bonds Here Sat.

The Mitchell County commissioners court Monday ordered a local option vote to determine whether or not 3.2 beer will be sold in the county in the event of state authorization. This action was taken following presentation of a petition containing more than 180 names, it is said.

ARREST OF GOLD HOARDERS TO BE EXPECTED SOON

Washington, Aug. 16.—Gold hoarders of the United States have about reached the end of the rainbow, for the government is going after their hidden pots of gold.

In the justice department, legal experts are quietly drawing up the case against gold hoarders. It would not surprise officials of Washington if warrants for the arrest of the hoarders were announced by Attorney General Cummings when he returns from his vacation Thursday or Friday.

YOUNG PEOPLES PRAYER SERVICE

Beginning Friday evening the young people have met in prayer service each evening and Saturday afternoon. The following leaders have prepared their own subjects from the scriptures and given them in a beautiful way:

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Taylor left Tuesday for home in Hollis Okla. after visiting their parents Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wilson a few days combine to carry out the organization steps herein enumerated. Mitchell, Nolan and Fisher counties will be in a group for organization purposes. The counties will be assisted by the Extension Services and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The counties entering into combinations will be known as District Associations, and their allotments and payments, both for the combination of counties and for the individual growers in such counties, will be handled in approximately the same manner as in the case of counties in which County Wheat Production Control Associations are organized.

Following is the allotment for Mitchell County:
5-year average seeded acreage, 1,400 acres; yield per acre, 11.3; production bushels, 15,800; Allotment bushels, 8,561.

Speaking dates in interest of the 20 million dollar bond issue have been announced. Then are: Loraine, Saturday afternoon, 3 p. m. on the streets, and Tuesday night of next week at the tabernacle. A speaker from Colorado will be here on both occasions to explain the question in full.

Absent members, let's come back to Sunday school, the class needs you and you need the class. Let's help each other.

The class paid $1.00 to the cemetery fund. The Lord's Prayer was repeated in concert.

The meeting was then turned over to the hostesses for a delightful social hour in games by Mrs. T. C. Wilson. Angel food cake and fruit punch was served to 18 members.

Next meeting, September 12, will be with Mesdames Glass, Thomas, Pignet and Cook. Mrs. Harrell will lead the devotional.

RECOVERY ACT WINS IN COURT

Washington.—The Roosevelt administration's vast economic rehabilitation program was fortified Wednesday by victory for the government in the first court test of the constitutionality of the National Recovery Act.

The decision upholding the emergency law was handed down in District of Columbia Supreme Court on an application of 49 Texas oil producers and refiners, for an order to restrain the government from enforcing orders prohibiting interstate shipment of "hot oil."

W. F. Fischer, counsel for the oil men, indicated he would appeal.

WILL SHOW UTILITY LIVESTOCK AT FAIR

Dallas, Texas, August 16.—No "carnival herds" of livestock are wanted at the 1933 State Fair of Texas, but instead a utility class of fine livestock which are needed on Texas farms will be sought, it has been announced here by A. L. Ward, general superintendent of the department, who explained that "carnival herds," are those bred for show purposes only.

Mr. Ward predicted the largest livestock show at the 1933 State Fair ever held in the entire south. He pointed out that in keeping cotton production down, the average farmer would have to turn to livestock to replace cotton with feed, and that the breeders of utility animals knowing this, would send their best quality livestock to the exposition to show instead of the "carnival herds."

Those animals which have been bred to bring a profit to the farmer will be the kind shown at the 1933 State Fair of Texas. In beef cattle classes types that can utilize feeds and produce a quality carcass will be shown, while in dairy cattle divisions those animals that have been bred to produce the largest amounts of butter fat will be especially emphasized to visitors at the 1933

The following announcement was sent out by the associated press from Washington Monday: "Department of Agriculture officials today completed a plan for making possible the payment in full of more than $200,000,000 in benefits to wheat and cotton farmers for curtailing production without withholding sums due the government as seed, feed, and other types of loans."

The plan was to come up for consideration at a meeting late Monday of a special committee selected last week by the cabinet advisory board consisting of Secretary Wallace, Chairman Jones of the Reconstruction corporation and Henry Morgenthau, Jr., governor of the farm credit administration.

The plan of agricultural officials contemplates a waiver for the time being of the government's claims on crop production loans and renewal of obligations by farmers for later payment.

County agent W. S. Foster stated Tuesday that he hoped to finish the work in connection with the cotton plow-up by Saturday. He expects to receive the final bunch of acceptances from the government by that time.

He stated that since the government has waived their rights in withholding the amount of indebtedness due the government by farmers he sees no reason why checks should not be arriving here within the next few days.

HOG PROCESSING TAX TO BE LEVIED

Washington, D. C. Aug. 15.—Secretary Wallace said today that a nominal processing tax may be levied on hogs on or after October 1 to provide funds for financing the emergency hog reduction program now being worked out by his aides.

Under no consideration he said will a processing tax on swine be levied before the beginning of the hog marketing year which he added is generally recognized as being October 1.

A tax of about one-half cent per pound on live hog would provide the maximum gross cost of the program at about $50,000,000. However, he added, this may not be the rate of the initial levy. He said it had been left for later determination.

TO ASK PAYMENTS BOLL WORM COSTS

Midland.—Appropriations of funds to reimburse West Texas farmers for costs of the pink boll worm regulations will be pushed during the special session of the Legislature, if the matter can be brought up. Frank Stubbeman, candidate for representative of the 88th district, to succeed the late B. Frank Haag, said in an interview Monday, if he is elected. Stubbeman, a law partner of Judge Haag, helped him collect data for the pink boll worm fight in the House last session, and is familiar with the needs of the farmers in obtaining re-payment of funds they were out in obeying regulations.

exposition. Visitors will also be shown the particular type of sheep and hogs which prosper and will bring a profit to Texas farms.

"We have planned our entire livestock show," Mr. Ward said, "with a view to helping the farmers of Texas replace his cotton acres with feedstuffs which can be fed to Texas bred livestock and bring a profit to the farms of this state. This is the only means Texas farmers have of holding down the cotton acreage of the state and still realize a profit equal to that of cotton in its best years."

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF

Twenty Millions for Texas dependents are to comprise the employment relief if the amendment to the constitution authorizing the issuance of bonds to that amount is voted by the people on August 26th. This proposal has become so moot during the past fortnight that the bond issue amendment is today almost as controversial in the public mind as the prohibition question, and a real battle is portended on this issue before Texans move to the polls. The amendment has developed so many unusual phases that arguments both pro and con seem substantiated by formidable arrays of facts.

In Enumeration of the arguments for the issuance of the bonds we find, first and foremost, the indubitable fact that want and hunger do exist in such proportions as to be almost impossible of natural amelioration before the advent of winter months; reliable estimates place the number of Texans dependent on some form of relief at more than a million, or one for every six inhabitants, and it is inconceivable that local relief can suffice in caring for this multitude. Secondly, the Federal government has been spending approximately two million dollars monthly in Texas for relief work, all of which must hereafter be sacrificed if Texas refuses to bear its share of the burden. Thirdly, the national recovery program, even if successful in a high degree, cannot be expected to absorb the unemployed so rapidly as to make relief this winter unnecessary. Fourthly, Texas will be taxed in common with other States to make Federal relief possible, and it seems singularly unwise to pay for this relief and then not get any. Fifthly, advocates of the bond issue are pointing out that the amendment merely authorizes and does not irrevocably demand the issuance of the bonds, although it must be admitted that the Legislature, which will be in session on or soon after August 26th, will interpret a favorable vote as a mandate rather than merely an authority to use its own discretion.

Opposed to these forceful arguments are others just as tenable. In the first place, there is a manifest indecisiveness as to methods of financing these bonds inasmuch as they must be met within ten years, the State will be forced to raise two million dollars annually to liquidate the principal alone, and sources of income as prolific as this are seldom available in Texas. There are hints abroad to the effect that the R. F. C. can be prevailed upon to assume the indebtedness, even this would merely postpone and not obviate payment. Secondly, there is an understandable disposition among the people not to mortgage a decade that already threatens to be one of the most uncertain in American history. Thirdly, inasmuch as the amendment forbids a property levy to retire the bonds, a grave fear is felt that the huge indebtedness incurred will be unloaded on the public schools, this "purchase" of the bonds by the educational fund being a diversion, as the Dallas News cryptically expresses it, "outrageous in character and deplorable in effect." Fourthly, the point has been made by the opposition that the voting of twenty millions for State relief would be most attractive invitation possible for the itinerant vagrants of other States to winter in Texas. And fifthly, it cannot be denied that such a policy, if persisted in would encourage indolence and further dependence on the dole.

Thus we have confusing pictures of the amendment, a veritable spectrum of conflicting opinions, but we can divine these contrasts, I think, a tangible grasp of a great underlying problem that is of the deepest significance. A careful study of the arguments advanced by both sides will reveal a sharp distinction in fundamentals: The demands for the issuance of the bonds are based on the grim necessities of the moment, irrefutable and real; the warnings against their issuance are grounded rather on a keen perception of political and social trends, of the abyss inevitably reached through policies of governmental paternalism. Paradoxically, both factions are right; only their approach to the problem constitutes the divergence in thought.

The Bonds, it seems to me, should be voted; the crisis is too vital to be shunted aside. But behind the specters of want and hunger loom the travesties of an era that produced them. Discernible in recent years has been the trend toward paternalism, emphasized in exorbitant tariffs to protect industry, in farm relief to protect farmers, in doles to veterans or disabilities not incurred in service, and in other manifestations of extravagance inspired by political rather than humanitarian motives. Today's crisis is inescapable, but the political era that could not economically sustain itself the fundamental grievances of the era and not the emergency will ultimately demand correction. One often wonders whether the nation would be steeped so deeply in industrial lethargy today had not the political policy of post-war America alienated markets, contracted trade, and produced a consciousness among great classes of people of dependence on government philanthropy for a fair price and a living wage. Current Comment From Washington

In 1871, an Ohio man claimed to have discovered that hard times occur in cycles of 16, 20, 18 and 20 years. Under that hypothesis, and with the panic of 1857 as a starting point, he foretold the pinching years of 1873, 1893, 1911 and 1931. A different cycle for the prosperous years indicated plenty of ready money in 1918, for example, and in 1935. The way in which the course of events has confirmed his prophecy for more than sixty years, forms the basis for a well-justified hope that business is on the up-trend.

The codes submitted by the various industries seem to be productive of good, but before complete peace of mind can reign, the gangsters will have to submit theirs. It will be worth something to have the assurance that a person will be likely to be black-jacked or held up only during a five-day week of eight hours per day.

In the state of Pennsylvania, a strike is on in the coal field, pickets get hurt, some policemen are injured by flying stones, the traditional bystander is taken to the hospital, and the militia is ordered out, all of which, from one view-point, is disquieting. On the other hand, the foregoing has a familiar ring to the ear, and those who have the faculty of finding good in everything can argue with considerable force that the country is returning to a normal condition.

A government bureau expresses the opinion that there will be a small crop of grain, which poultry-raisers cannot afford to buy on account of high prices. Until the trouble actually materializes, it will be well to concern the mind with the problems of the present and put the plan for dealing with the threatened shortage up to the hen.

The President's reception of an envoy from the Emperor of Ethiopia did not attract marked attention, yet it might be a good plan to recall a fact or two from Ethiopia's history. She was a powerful nation as far back as King Solomon's time, a couple of thousand years before the people of Europe, clad in wolfskin breechclouts, were skipping through the forests in an attempt to get away from the Roman legions under Julius Caesar. If an ancient heritage means anything, Ethiopia is entitled to look on Germany, England and the United States as families that have just moved in.

ON TEXAS FARMS
By W H Darrow, Extension Service Editor

Claimed to be the longest trench silos on record, Ward and Rush of Valley Mills in Bosque county have completed two silos each 3550 feet long, designed to hold the crop from 100 acres of hegari and red top cane. There were no trench silos in the county last year, the county agent says, but now 10 farmers are building them.

The winter supply of canned food was put up on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wells in Jefferson county this year without one cent of cash outlay except for seasoning. All the meat was home raised on home feed, vegetables came from the garden, berries from the pastures, and cans and jars left over from last year supplied the containers. Mrs. Wells is 4-H pantry demonstrator for Check Home Demonstration Club.

Preliminary reports on tomato growing demonstrations in San Augustine county show profits ranging from $50 per acre on late crops to $150 per acre on some of the early ones. Those who followed county agent directions avoided losses from worms. Boned turkey and ground turkey put up in No. 1 cans of 11 ounces net weight are the first standardized home demonstration products in Bell county to be approved by the county home demonstration council and Extension Service for sale. These products were standardized by Mrs. G. E. Shipp of Temple.

The pooling of 31,800 pounds of wool in Swisher county in June brought growers 1 1/2 to 2 cents more for their wool and has led to plans for a wool growers' association, the county agent reports.

TELLS HOW TO PREVENT APPENDICITIS

Austin, Texas, Aug. 14.—During the past year 605 persons have died of appendicitis in Texas, according to the Director of Vital Statistics for the State Department of Health. Many of these deaths were caused by the persons' ignorance of the disease. There are two forms of appendicitis, acute and chronic. The form that appears suddenly, with great pain and sickness, is acute. Chronic appendicitis may extend over a long period of time and consist of slight attacks at intervals, but, at some time, there will usually occur an attack worse than any before and the disease may then become serious.

The acute attack appears suddenly. The first symptom is pain, some times over the entire abdomen, sometime in a particular portion in the right side of the abdomen. Sometimes this pain extends around to the back or down into the right limb. The pain is cramp-like and is often mistaken for colic. The fever rises to 100 or 101 degrees and the pulse becomes quickened. Chronic appendicitis is the result of repeated attacks of the milder forms of appendicitis.

How to prevent appendicitis? Keep the body in perfect health as long as possible. Watch your teeth, your tonsils, any place where an infection may occur. Get plenty of good food, plenty of sleep plenty of exercise. Have a thorough medical examination at least once a year and have your teeth examined and cleaned by a dentist at least once every six months. This kind of watchfulness will not only help you to avoid appendicitis, it will help you to avoid many other illnesses as well.
