Jubilant Columbia Crew In Texas For Debriefing

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Astronauts John Young and Robert Crippen, awed by the success of their historic space adventure, were back in Texas today for several days of intense debriefing.

Young told a rousing, flag-waving crowd waiting to greet the astronauts at nearby Ellington Air Force Base Tuesday evening that the 54½-hour voyage and unprecedented landing by the Space Shuttle Columbia was "something just short of a miracle."

"Robert and I spent the most exciting 2½ days probably that we ever spent in our lives or ever will spend again," said the flight commander, wearing a blue flight suit and standing on a platform decked with red, white and blue banners.

About 1,500 onlookers whistled, clapped and let loose with yelps of glee. "It's always great to be back in Houston," said Young with a wide grin.

He and shuttle pilot Crippen flew into Ellington just before nightfall, barely six hours after the pinpoint landing of their 80-ton spaceship in a California desert.

"The spaceship Columbia is phenomenal. It is an incredibly amazing piece of machinery," said Young. "Anytime you can take something that big and put it into space and bring it back and land it, you have accomplished something just short of a miracle."

Young, 50, a veteran of four previous trips into space and one of the handful of men to walk on the moon, suggested there might have been some perilous moments during the maiden voyage that perhaps went unnoticed in an almost flawless mission.

"There were some moments up there where we had some very exciting ... and complex tasks, and Robert did all those things ... ignoring some potential personal risk," he said without elaborating.

He said Crippen, 43, who made his first space trip, "is a very smart man" who "kept me out of a lot of trouble on that flight."

As he spoke, Crippen stood behind Young grinning and shaking his head from side to side as his boss in space praised him.

"For me it was the darndest time I've ever had in my entire life," Crippen said. "I was just hanging on hoping he would point me in the right direction. I want to go back as soon as I can."

Temperatures Fall...

Area Rains Continue

A cold front continued to bring welcome rainfall to the Snyder area this morning as temperatures fell into the low 40s.

Intermittent showers were reported over the entire area, although the rains had subsided for a time late Tuesday. Rainfall at Lake J. B Thomas amounted to .70 inch since Tuesday morning, making a total of 1.30 inches there for the two-day period. However, there had been little runoff into the lake this morning. The Colorado River was reported flowing about two or three feet deep into the lake, but none was coming in from Bull Creek.

The official gauge at the city water plant here added only .07 inch of rainfall overnight, making a total of 2.07 for the two days and 3.73 for the year so far. But more showers were adding to the it this morning.

The new rainfall was putting area farm and ranch land into excellent condition, and the continuing showers were replenishing stock tank supplies.

The disturbance produced widespread rain and light rain over West Texas during the night and into the early morning hours.

Forecasts called for showers and thundershowers for most of the state with some scattered thunderstorms expected for Southwest Texas and South Texas.

Highs were to range from the 50s in Northwest Texas to the 80s along the gulf coast. Most areas were to have readings in the 60s.

Some rain was reported early today over the western half of the state and light rain was reported in South Texas and along middle sections of the coast.

San Angelo received .79 of an inch between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 5 a.m. today and many reporting stations in Southwest Texas received about half of an inch of rain during the evening and early morning hours.

Early morning temperatures were in the 40s in West Texas and the 50s and 60s over the remainder of the state. Extremes ranged from 42 at both Dalhart and Lubbock to 70 at both Laredo and Corpus Christi.

The SDN Column

The timing could not have been improved for the space shuttle demonstration.

We are not talking about the hours, minutes and seconds of the schedule, although they apparently were perfect also. We are talking about the dates for the shuttle flight.

Just when Americans needed something to get their minds off one of the most unpleasant episodes in the nation's history, here came the space program with a show that clearly demonstrates that some things are still going right in this country.

It must have been as encouraging to Washington as it was to those of us out in the hinterlands to see the Columbia come into view and then proceed to make a flawless landing after circling the earth for couple of days. Coming just a couple of weeks following an attempt on the president's life, it was a good stimulant.

Our space program has had, and undoubtedly still has, its critics, but we believe it has two-fold benefits. There are the technological spinoffs that have added to the quality of life. Someday, we believe this program will be in the forefront as America solves its energy problems by harnessing resources from outer space.

But there is another benefit that may be just as valuable, at least in the short run. Few things have evoked as much evidence of national pride in recent years as our space triumphs. They are something that tend to draw the people together as they marvel at the sophistication of our scientific and technological pursuits. And, no matter what your opinion of flag-waving and simple patriotism, these things hold a nation together, especially in times of widespread adversity.

It is a sad fact that one of the most successful events in stimilating patriotism in the past has been war. National pride is needed in war-time, of course, but it is good that we also can rally around something on the positive side.

The space exploits still boggle our mind, but we applaud them. We keep thinking that some day, one of them will go awry and there will be a tragedy. But there is no denying that space is the new frontier, and we remember that there was a time when simply sailing into the ocean was regarded with just as much skepticism and criticism.

Reward For Utah Gunman

PRICE, Utah (AP) — Rewards totaling $20,000 have been offered for information leading to the arrest of a gunman who wounded an employee of the engineering firm designing Utah Power & Light Co.'s Hunter power plant units No. 3 and No. 4.

Authorities said the shooting appeared to be the result of a labor dispute.

William R. Stilson, shot in the shoulder Monday night, was due to be released from the hospital today.

Stilson was one of the intended victims of pipe bombings here last week, and he and other employees of the engineering firm had received threatening letters.

Three Injured In Traffic Mishap

Three females were transported to Cogdell Hospital by Scurry County EMS at 9:35 Tuesday night following a two car accident at 3300 College.

Involved in the accident was a 1981 Chevrolet driven by Laney Ashworth and a 1966 Ford driven by Andres T. Gutierrez. A wrecker was needed to remove the Ford.

JoAnn Gutierrez, 15 years-old, was admitted to the hospital for observation and is reported to be in stable condition. Norma Costillo and Sandra Costillo were treated and released. All three were passengers in the Ford.

Three minor accidents were also investigated by police Tuesday.

At 10:23 a.m., a 1978 Subaru driven by Gloria Shaw, and a 1977 Ford driven by Elvis Bollinger were involved in a mishap in the parking lot at 2300 Ave. R.

At 5:06 p.m., a traffic mishap was reported at 2900 Ave. Q. Involved were a 1976 Pontiac driven by Rogelio Cantu and a 1977 Chevrolet pickup driven by Curtis Tony Hayley.

At 8:31 p.m., a 1977 GMC pickup driven by Dow Clark Mathis was in collision with a legally parked 1973 Dodge.

Late Tuesday night, a 26 year-old female was arrested and charged with public intoxication and posession of less than two ounces of marijuana.

Ask Us

Q.—What has happened to all the sales tax rebates over the past few years?

A.—Funds from the city sales tax rebates go into the city general fund, the same as property tax funds. They are used for operation of the city services and also help on capital improvements, such as the water main replacements now being made. All city tax funds go into the general operating fund, except for the hotel-motel tax funds, which are special purpose funds that can be spent only for items specified by the state.

Midland Bank Loses Suit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court ruled today that Midland National Bank may not deduct the value of its building in computing the taxable value of its stock.

The decision meant more than $200,000 in taxes to Midland, Midland County, Midland Independent School District and the Midland County Junior College District.

Foundation May Clear Property

Scurry County Industrial Foundation directors Tuesday decided to look into the possibility of demolishing the former Lincoln School building.

The building, which was given to the foundation by the school district, has been unoccupied for several years and has not proved suitable for use by business or industrial concerns.

Directors attending the meeting indicated that they hoped to get estimates on the salvage value of materials, etc., in case they decided to clear the property. It is believed that the property will have a better chance for industrial or business development if the present structures are removed.

Truett Bryan, president, presided over the meeting Tuesday. Other directors of the foundation attending were Ray Max Grimmett, Don Wolf, Don West, Ernest Sears and Mike Line.

Larry Talley, 21, of Abilene was discovered lying along the side of the road seven miles east of Hermleigh on U.S. 84 shortly after 10 this morning. He had apparently been there since 1 a.m.

Talley told Sheriff Dept. officials he was traveling to Lubbock and had car trouble. He said that after he had pulled the vehicle over two subjects drove up, hit him on the back of the head and made off with his billfold which contained about $80.

Talley was transported to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Scurry County EMS. Hospital personnel report he is in fair condition and is improving.

Homage Paid Gen. Bradley

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Hundreds of mourners braved damp, blustery winds to pay homage to "the soldier's general," Omar N. Bradley, at a memorial service at Fort Bliss, the five-star general's home since 1977.

Bradley, who died April 8 in New York at the age of 88, was eulogized Tuesday as a "great protector of freedom," a "legend," and one of the "greats" during the service that drew a crowd of 500 to the El Paso Army base.

The services at Fort Bliss coincided with funeral services in Washington, D.C., where Bradley was buried in Arlington National Cemetery on a hillside overlooking the Pentagon.

LA Mayor Wins Easily

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite challenges from 18 people, including a former mayor he had faced twice before, Tom Bradley won a landslide victory in his quest for a third term with the highest percentage of votes ever cast for a Los Angeles mayor.

With 99.2 percent of Tuesday's vote counted, Bradley had 63.6 percent, or 279,501 votes, to former Mayor Sam Yorty's 32.3 percent, or 142,204. Bradley had needed at least 50 percent to avoid what would have been his first runoff.

The previous percentage record was 60.8, set by Norris Poulson in 1957.

Threats Against Reagan

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal magistrate has ordered psychiatric tests for James T. McCaughey, accused of threatening to kill President Reagan because the telephone company increased its weekend rates.

McCaughey, 42, of Hatboro, Pa., was arrested last weekend after a telephone company employee notified the Secret Service that the man allegedly had made two calls threatening to kill the president.

U.S. Magistrate Edwin Naythons set bail at $150,000 Tuesday and ordered McCaughey to be sent to a federal facility in Springfield, Mo., for psychiatric examination.

redistricting time

Now that it is known where all the people of Texas are, the time has come to get down to the business of redistricting the state politically. The action traditionally follows the U.S. census every 10 years, and the population count taken during that federal endeavor has been announced. Chances are that for all practical purposes in the redistricting effort, the people are still where they were when they were counted.

When the new lines finally are drawn, there may be some Texans to object, declaring they were not aware of what was taking place. In a number of areas, at least, new lines are surely to be drawn because of the urban drag on the rural population.

It sould be pointed out here that since the census tally was announced, and even before, many news items were carried by the Texas print and electronic media that redistricting action was soon to follow.

The Texas Senate Subcommittee on Redistricting has begun a series of outreach meetings in the state. The subcommittee has been charged by the Senate Committee of the Whole, of which Sen. Tati Santiesteban of El Paso is the chairman, with gathering the testimony from various regions of Texas in preparation for the drawing of state senatorial and congressional redistricting plans. Sen. Jack Ogg of Houston is chairman of the subpanel, and he is striving to reach all segments of every commmunity to invite and encourage their turnout at one or more of the meetings.

He said the committee hopes to hear testimony from public officials, interested individuals and groups, and civic and political organizations.

We understand that while no new districts will be formed this time, some changes will be made because of population shifts and new lines drawn.

There was a time in the state's history when the ugly word "gerrymandering" cropped up often during time of redistricting, lines being drawn for political or other doubtful advantage being charged.

One hopes that never again will gerrymandering be a problem for Texans. An alert citizenry and some built-in legal measures may prevent it, but it will be well that Texans remain informed of what plans are being made.

george plagenz

She was a housewife in her 40s who had Hodgkin's disease. One day she was taken, critically ill, to a hospital and put in intensive care. Later a nurse saw that the woman was dying. She rushed out of the room to summon help.

The woman's body showed no vital signs — no respiration, no blood pressure, no brain-wave activity.

Remarkably, she lived through her brush with death. But even more remarkable is the story she told after her recovery.

She said she could feel herself float out of her body. She could look down from above her body and see how pale she looked. Yet at the same time she felt, she said, absolutely wonderful.

She had a great sense of peace and relief.

She was also able to observe the doctors at work on her body. She heard what they said, which members of the team wanted to give up trying to revive her and which did not. Her recall of details was so acute that when she was revived three hours later, she was even able to relate one of the jokes an attendant had cracked to relieve the tension.

This is only one of thousands of reports which have been given to investigators by persons who claim to have "left the body" at one point or another in their lifetime.

Some — like the woman in the story just recounted — have had the experience involuntarily when they were near death. Others have voluntarily left their bodies and visited distant places or loved ones who may have been departed or are still on the earthly plane.

One of these was a Topeka, Kan., psychiatrist, Dr. Stuart Twemlow. In a laboratory in Ashton, Ky., his brain was electrically stimulated. During the experiment he had the sensation that his mind was leaving his body. He found himself back home in Topeka.

"I saw my wife go to the kitchen for a drink of water and then lie on the couch," he reported later. "I drew close to her for a moment and then went to the mirror in the hall to see whether there was any reflection. There wasn't.

When Twemlow returned home — in the body — he said nothing about his psychic experience to his wife. But in the course of a conversation later, she told of a strange feeling she had one evening while he was away.

"I got up to get a drink in the kitchen," she said, "and then I lay down on the couch in the living room. I felt a shadow come close to me and then move toward the mirror in the hall."

It may even be possible for the untrained layman to get his mind to leave his body.

A man named Lawrence Burns tells of an experiment he participated in with Dr. Alex Tanous, a psychologist from the University of Maine.

Burns was skeptical of Tanous' stories of how he could leave his body at will and travel around the world. Tanous offered to show Burns that he too could leave the body.

He took a copy of Cosmopolitan magazine and opened it face down on a table so neither he nor Burns could see what was underneath.

Burns was told to "take three or four breaths and relax." Next he was instructed to "think of something happy and take three or four more breaths."

"Now think of a floating feeling and take three or four more breaths," Tanous told him.

Then Burns was instructed to focus mentally on "the third eye," a spot which Hindus and others believe to be between the two eyes and back from the forehead about two inches. The two glands located there are said by those who believe this to be "the doorway to the connection with our spiritual body."

At this point Burns was to say to his mind, "Mind, go under the magazine and see what's there."

As he did this, an image of a dark-haired woman wearing a white print dress appeared in Burns' mind. The magazine was turned over and there was the picture of a dark-haired woman in a white print dress. Burns was flabbergasted.

Was it ESP which gave Burns the answer? Or did Burns leave his body and crawl under the magazine to see what was on the hidden page?

If, as Tanous believes, Burns left his body, it could be evidence that the soul (or human personality) has its own independent existence, perhaps with a physical body at its disposal, and can go on living and functioning after the body dies.

I swear, advertisers don't know anything.

There isn't a day goes by that I don't pick up a newspaper or a magazine and get asked a provocative question like, "DO YOU WANT HEALTHY HAIR?" or "ARE YOU SICK OF ROACHES?"

Okay, so you make allowances for a dozen or so weirdos who consider dandruff a turn-on and are lonely for pets, but I think we can safely assume the answers are yes.

A full-page advertisement the other day wasn't taking any chances. Across the top was the musical question, "DO YOU WANT TO BE IN DEBT THE REST OF YOUR LIFE?" Below were two boxes. One said, "NO! Quick! Send me your pamphlet, 'Free at last,' on trial so that I may thumb my nose at bankers and be a millionaire without leaving my home." The second box was "YES! I want to drift aimlessly for the rest of my life and die a failure."

Don't tell me that agency couldn't have figured out the number of yes's and no's from a simple poll in the elevator.

Who writes that stuff? Rip Van Winkle? "DO YOU WANT TO END NAGGING BACKACHE?" "ARE YOU TIRED OF BEING RIPPED OFF?" DO YOU WANT TO LOOK TEN YEARS YOUNGER IN TWO MINUTES?" (Are they crazy? I'd give 'em TEN minutes to make me look TWO years younger.)

"WOULD YOU BE INTERESTED IN PLAYING AT PARTIES AT CHRISTMAS AND HAVING THE TIME OF YOUR LIFE?" "WOULD YOU LIKE TO SAVE MONEY AND LIVE LIKE A KING?"

"DO YOU WANT TO LOSE 12 POUNDS IN THREE DAYS?" "WOULD YOU LIKE PROSTATE RELIEF?" (If you can spell it, you can cure it.)

Frankly, I hate quizzes. Always have. I get rattled. A salesman at the door the other day asked, "Are you interested in saving 15 cents a copy on each magazine you receive?" What am I supposed to say, "No, I want to get in my car, use gas I don't have, run down to the corner drugstore, buy that magazine off the newstand before it's sold out and pay an extra $12 a year for the privilege"?

Later, as I stood there with a five-year subscription to the "Bleeding Gums Journal," my husband asked, "Why didn't you just tell 'em you didn't want the magazine?"

"Because that wasn't the question!"

The next time I see, "HOW WILL YOU SPEND ETERNITY?" on a bumper sticker, HE can answer it!

When playing a trump contract with a five-card side suit to develop, it is usually correct tactics to work on the side suit before touching trumps.

If hearts and clubs were going to break 3-2, it wouldn't matter which suit South started on. But to guard against bad breaks it was essential for success that South work on clubs and leave trumps alone.

South did just that. At tricks two and three he played his ace and king of clubs.

West ruffed the king and could do nothing better than to play a second diamond which South ruffed. South led a third club which East won. East led another diamond and South ruffed again.

Now South was in full control. He led a heart to dummy's ace and returned to his hand with the king. West held the high trump and declarer and dummy each held a small one.

South led a fourth club. West knew that East held the diamond 10, so West chucked his last diamond. South ruffed in dummy, led dummy's last diamond and ruffed it. West overruffed, but that was the defenders' third and last trick.

South made the last three tricks with the ace-king of spades and his fifth club.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

See your doctor instead

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 22-year-old female and I have a bad complexion. I have tried everything — gels, creams, astringents, vitamin E, cucumbers, even some green stuff. I hear now that tea bags with hot water helps.

I really don't have money to see a doctor so tell me what creams I can use that will help. I really don't have oily hair or skin. I do have a few blackheads. I don't eat sweets or sugar.

DEAR READER — You may be spending more money on beauty aids than you would have to spend for some useful medical attention.

Blackheads and acne are caused by an overproduction of sebum, the oily secretion from special glands in your skin. It affects both sexes and usually starts with puberty.

There are three main approaches to treating the problem: decrease oily sebum formation, open skin pores for proper drainage of sebum, and use of antibiotics to eliminate bacteria in the pores that break down the sebum to form irritating chemicals. These irritating chemicals cause the red pustules.

Warm soaks with a wash cloth several times a day help to soften sebum cores, open pores and washes away oily secretions. Do not use oily or greasy beauty aids or creams. They make matters worse.

Peeling agents that your doctor can prescribe for you such as a vitamin A acid gel can help your skin shed surface cells to eliminate blackheads and promote drainage.

The main method of treating such problems is discussed in greater detail in The Health Letter number 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

There are new medicines being studied that will be even more effective, but they will be prescription items when they are released for general use. Almost everyone can get some help to improve an acne condition today. So see your doctor and stop using all those greasy creams and useless aids.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had a severe case of laryngitis two years ago. Now I grow hoarse almost every day after minimum use of my voice. In the past I enjoyed singing very much and could sing (or talk, for that matter) for hours. Now I have had to practically stop singing entirely.

A throat specialist told me that I have benign throat nodules, and that I should stop talking when I become hoarse and maybe it would improve. I would appreciate your advice on ways to improve my voice. I don't smoke. Should I have surgery?

DEAR READER — Scarring, nodules and changes can occur in the vocal cords. There must be 50 different causes for hoarseness. The point I would like to impress upon my readers is that anyone who is hoarse for more than two weeks must have an examination, as you have done.

You may have what is called "singer's nodes" or "speaker's nodes." The only way a proper diagnosis can be made is with direct observation of the larynx. You may get some help by resting your voice but often surgical removal is necessary. It must be done very carefully to not injure the cords. The voice becomes normal within a few weeks after successful surgery.

Thousands Rushing To Beat Deadline Of IRS

By The Associated Press

The ides of April may pass virtually unnoticed for some Americans. But for thousands of procrastinators, today meant a panicky race against a midnight deadline for mailing income tax forms and settling the annual debt to the government.

With filings of federal tax forms running behind schedule in many areas, according to the Internal Revenue Service, the scramble may be worse than usual. Missing the deadline could mean stiff penalties of 5 percent for each month the forms are overdue.

In Omaha, postal workers were expecting such a large rush by Nebraska taxpayers as the deadline approached that they planned to offer street service in front of the downtown post office.

Carl Schroeder, a Postal Service manager, said four workers would collect returns from cars from 5 p.m. until midnight.

In Cincinnati, IRS public affairs officer Linda Budai said: "There's going to be a pretty heavy crunch. Our filings have been down at this point, and we are anticipating a big rush."

Ms. Budai said major IRS offices in the southern half of Ohio, which includes Cincinnati, Dayton and Columbus, would stay open two hours late, until 6:30 p.m.

Northern Ohio officials, however, said that unlike taxpayers in other areas, taxpayers there filed earlier than normal this year.

"As of April 3rd in Ohio's northern 47 counties taxpayers had filed 2,010,000 returns compared with 1.8 million at the same time last year," said Rollie Woods of the Cleveland District IRS.

Income-tax preparers in Kentucky said Tuesday there was a steady increase in customers seeking assistance in completing their forms. They said they expected it to get worse today.

"It's definitely been busier today," said Arlene Wilmoth, a tax consultant in Elizabeth, Ky. "We had to call in extra help. It's been quite a rush."

California IRS spokesman Larry Wright said the government already has returned more than 20,000 unprocessed federal tax forms to northern Californians who forgot to sign them.

He said about 10 percent of all forms contain errors, most of them forgotten signatures.

IRS officials in Washington expect about 94 million returns this year, with almost 13 million of them being mailed during the past week.

Taxpayers who can't meet the midnight deadline can get a two-month extension until June 15, but their application for an extension must include a check for at least 90 percent of the estimated taxes due.

What if a taxpayer has finished a return but doesn't have enough money to pay his taxes?

IRS spokeswoman Ellen Murphy advises the taxpayer to mail a return by midnight and pay as much as he can. She said the agency then will send a bill for the balance, including interest at a 12 percent annual rate.

Controversial Play Canceled

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Maryland Science Center says a play about nuclear power that it bought sight-unseen won't be presented as scheduled next month because it is "an effort to agitate," not educate.

The authors of the play say "Meltdown" describes the 1979 accident at Pennsylvania's Three Mile Island nuclear plant.

The accident was the worst in history for a commercial nuclear facility, but no meltdown of the reactor core occurred.

Co-author Ivan Kramer, a University of Maryland physicist, said Monday that center officials thought it "controversial fiction." But he contended the play was "controversial fact."

The charter of the Hudson's Bay Co. was signed in 1670 by Charles II.

Major Question: Tax Cut, Or Balanced Budget?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year ago, congressmen were getting letters from people who said, "We demand a balanced budget."

This year, the letters say, "We demand a tax cut, like President Reagan is calling for." They're the same people who wrote a year ago.

"You want to write them back and ask, 'What do you want — a balanced budget or a tax cut? You can't have both," said Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas.

"There's no way you can have a balanced budget, a major tax cut and increased spending for defense, all at the same time," said Hance, 38, who is playing a major role in the tax cuts legislation being hammered out in the House Ways and Means Committee.

Hance is one of 44 House Democrats who belong to the Conservative Democratic Forum and is head of the organization's tax cut group.

The organization, formed to strengthen the conservative position in Congress, has lined up basically behind Reagan's budget proposals.

The Republican Party has a majority of the Senate, while the Democratic Party has a 26-member edge in the House. But with 44 members, the CDF has found itself the subject of a lot of interest.

With the Republicans likely to vote together behind Reagan's proposal, the support of the CDF would give Reagan a victory in a situation that has become — to the chagrin of the Democratic Party leadership — to be a battle between the Conservatives and the Liberals rather than the Republicans and the Democrats.

The Democratic leadership has tried, with little success, to persuade the maverick Democrats to stay with the party position.

"I think the key vote of the next two years will be the first budget vote" on the floor of the House, Hance said.

But the support from the conservative Democrats for Reagan holds true only for his call for widespread budget cuts. The president isn't faring as well in his call for extensive tax cuts.

"The thing the general public doesn't realize is that Reagan's proposal for $54 billion in tax cuts would result in a $45 billion deficit for 1982," Hance said.

"I don't know of five votes the president would get (from CDF members) for his tax cuts. I've only had two tell me they would vote for it."

But Hance, head of the CDF's tax cut group, says he also opposes the Democratic tax cut alternative offered by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., the Ways and Means chairman.

"I'm for something that would create a smaller deficit than the president's bill, with incentives that would encourage people to put their money into savings," Hance said.

Hance has introduced a bill that would provide $2,000 tax free for an individual and $4,000 tax free on a joint return on interest earned on savings accounts or dividends.

Kleindienst Facing Fourteen Counts

By LARRY LOPEZ
Associated Press Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Former U.S. Attorney General Richard Kleindienst, who resigned amid the Watergate scandal and later pleaded guilty to testifying falsely to the Senate, has been indicted on 14 counts of perjury, state officials say.

Kleindienst was named Tuesday in an indictment handed down by a Maricopa County grand jury alleging he lied to Arizona Bar Association panels investigating his role in an alleged Teamsters Union pension-milking scheme.

Kleindienst, who maintained his innocence before the indictments were handed down, reacted to them by saying, "holy mackerel."

"I am not a liar," he said.

The three-time state GOP chairman said he had not seen the charges and referred questions to his attorney, George Carlock.

Carlock said the case "will be defended as vigorously as we can."

Kleindienst faces arraignment April 22.

Phil MacDonnell of the state attorney general's office said pre-trial motions could last six months and the trial itself could last a month or more.

The indictment capped a six-month investigation that started when Bar Association officials told prosecutors that Kleindienst allegedly lied to their administrative and disciplinary committees during their 1978 and 1980 inquiries.

The bar is recommending that the Arizona Supreme Court suspend Kleindienst from practicing law for one year because of his alleged perjury and unethical conduct during investigations of the alleged milking of $7 million in Teamster Union health and welfare funds.

The charges stemmed from hearings by the state Insurance Department after the department agreed to settle a suit arising from the alleged fraud. The bar association accused Kleindienst, who represented an insurance vendor in the 1976 hearing, of keeping silent when he heard testimony he knew was false.

It also said he had lied in 1977 testimony about the same scandal in U.S. District Court in Washington D.C.

And it said he had then perjured himself in 1978, when the bar association asked him about those and other matters.

MacDonnell said Kleindienst's alleged perjuries in testimony to the Bar Association were virtually identical to answers he also gave to a U.S. Senate subcommittee.

Twenty Spots Left In Pump Jack Field

There are still about 20 spots available for the April 26-26 Pump Jack Partnership Tournament, reports Snyder Country Club golf pro Mike Yantis. Last year, tournament chairpersons were forced to turn away several entries when the meet became full.

Entry deadline is April 21.

Format of the two-day tournament will be lowball, medal play over 36 holes. There are to be eight flights of eight teams each. Prizes include $250 to the first place team, $150 to the second place team and $100 to the third place team.

Saturday tee times will be from 7:45 until 9:45 p.m. and from 12:15 until 2:15 p.m. Sunday tee times range from 8-10 a.m. and 12-12:30.

In addition to the tournament itself, players may take a practice round Friday, and entertainment is planned for Friday and Saturday.

Friday's practice round includes an optional sweepstakes. At 7 p.m., special entertainment will be provided by auctioneer Tex Farnsworth.

Saturday's entertainment includes a happy hour and buffet in the evening, with entertainment by Ben Blewitt, a musical and varitey entertainer who has worked in Las Vegas.

Anyone wishing further information should call the Pro Shop at 573-7101.

Bass Club Notes Results

Tommy Hood took top stringer and big bass awards at the April Tournament, held the 11th and 12th at Hubbard Creek Lake, the Snyder Bass Club has reported.

Hood won top weight with a nine-pound stringer, and took big bass with a specimen of 4-5.

Rick Howard, current Top Six leader with 366 points, had the second heavy stringer at 6-4, followed by Gay Hickman, 5-6, Mark Stephens, 3-14; Jack Hickman, 3-11; Jeff Fowler, 3-3, James Heffernan, 2-8; and Don Fisk, 1-5.

Current standings in the Top Six are Howard with 366, Ken Gard with 294, Gay Hickman with 271, Hood with 249, Bill Collier with 236 and Ronnie Parsons with 203.

Next club meeting will be 7:30 p.m. May 14 in the West Texas State Bank community room. The next Bass Club tournament will be held May 16-17 at Lake Champion.

Mavericks Talking To RalphSampson

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) - Dallas Mavericks owner Donald J. Carter has met with University of Virginia basketball star Ralph Sampson and presented a specially-produced video tape on his National Basketball Association team and the Dallas area.

The two met in Cavalier Coach Terry Holland's office Tuesday at University Hall. Also present were assistants Craig Littlepage and Jim Larranaga.

The 7-foot-4 sophomore center, who led the Cavaliers to the Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season title this year and a final-four berth in the NCAA playoffs, could not be reached for comment after the meeting.

"I've asked Ralph several times, 'Is there a dollar figure that you would go for?'," Holland said. "And every time, he's told me, 'No.'

"He's curious about the money, but not obsessed by it. He knows he's going to be wealthy. It's just a matter of when he becomes wealthy."

The tape brought by Carter was shown on the video player Holland has in his office. It included a general look at the city, a segment from Mavericks General Manager Norm Sonju, a coaching philosophy discussion by Coach Dick Motta, and comments from Roger Staubach and Drew Pearson on business opportunities in the city.

Holland said Carter's presentation was low-keyed.

"I have two sons in college, and I cannot recommend that you leave college. But if you decide to leave, I want you to know that the Dallas Mavericks would be very interested in you," Holland quoted the Dallas owner as saying.

Sampson has until midnight April 25 to declare his intention of being eligible for the 1981 NBA draft. Five days later, Dallas and the Detroit Pistons will flip a coin to decide who has the No. 1 pick in the June 9 draft.

Four Earn All-Conference Honors...

Westerners Win Final Tourney

ROSWELL, N.M. -- It's been a while in coming, but here, just before the all-important Regional Tournament, Coach Bob O'Day's Western Texas College Westerners appear to have turned on the burners.

Western Texas, which had finished second in three previous conference tournaments this season, notched the number one spot here yesterday, winning the final WJCAC tourney by seven strokes over New Mexico Junior College, 302 to 309.

The Westerners also placed four of their team on the All-Conference Team; sophomores Jeff Wagner, Richard White and Chris Johnson, and freshman Jeff Seger.

The victory left Western Texas in second place in the final conference standings with 17½ points. NMJC won the conference with 21.

Coach O'Day stated the Westerners gave "a tremendous team effort" to win the final conference conference tournament.

"They played under adverse weather with steady rain, wind and cold, and showed a lot of pride and character on the course under these conditions. Even though the weather was terrible for golf, it was nice to win a tournament," the coach said. "We've finished second three times this spring in tournaments."

O'Day also praised tourney medalist Seger, who had an outstanding round of 71, especially considering the 15 to 25 mph northeast winds, rain and 45 degree temperature. Runnerup medalist was NMJC's Angus Baker with a 72, followed by WTC's Wagner with a 76.

Other Western scores included White's 77, a 78 by Johnson, a 79 from Phillip Jones, and an 82 from Gary Hodge.

Western Texas moved from third place to second in the final standings with yesterday's tournament victory. Odessa, which had held second but was disqualified during the meet, finished third in the final charts with 14½ points. Fourth was Midland with 13½, followed by tourney host NMMI, 7½ points.

Western will compete in the Region V Golf Tournament on April 21-22 at Loss Creek Country Club in Fort Worth. The 54-hole tournament sends its winner and runnerup to the June NJCAA National Golf Tournament.

Pecci Stuns Bjorn Borg

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Victor Pecci of Paraguay stunned defending champion Bjorn Borg of Sweden, 6-0, 4-6, 7-5, in the first round of the Monte Carlo Open.

In other matches, France's Yannick Noah downed Mario Martinez of Bolivia 6-2, 6-2; Pascal Portes of France defeated Andrew Pattison of South Africa 7-5, 6-1; Ricardo Cano of Argentina beat Pavel Slozil of Czechoslovakia 7-6, 6-0; Christophe Roger Vasselin of France eliminated Chris Lewis of New Zealand 6-4, 6-3, and Adriano Panatta of Italy beat Fernando Luna Spain 6-3, 6-2.

Rockets Ram SA Spurs

HOUSTON (AP) — The late-blooming Houston Rockets, who surprised the world champion Los Angeles Lakers earlier in the National Basketball Association playoffs, need just one more victory to deal the same fate to the Midwest Division champion San Antonio Spurs.

The Rockets, who powered to a 123-117 win over the Spurs in San Antonio to take a 3-2 series edge Tuesday night, can wrap up the Western Conference semi-final series with a win tonight.

Meanwhile, the Kansas City Kings, who lead the best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal 3-1, will try to finish off the Phoenix Suns tonight in Phoenix. Also tonight, Milwaukee is at Philadelphia.

"It all boils down to one game," San Antonio coach Stan Albeck said after watching feisty Calvin Murphy bomb his team for 36 points from the outside while super center Moses Malone hit 34 points and grabbed 13 rebounds.

"As I've been saying, the home court means nothing in the series," Albeck said. "It's vital now we go to Houston and return the favor."

Tuesday night, Murphy came off the bench and connected on 16 of 23 shots, most of them long range, while Malone muscled his way for 8 goals and hit 18 of 20 free throws.

Referees Darrell Garretson and Hugh Evans awarded 84 free throws in the physical contest and the Rockets made 37 of their 43 charity tosses. But the Spurs managed only 29 of 41 free throws, causing Albeck to remark, "our free throw shooting was atrocious."

Texas Could Lock Crown

by The Associated Press

The Texas Longhorns, holding a four-game lead in what appears to be their 47th Southwest Conference championship baseball season, travel to Waco this weekend against the Baylor Bears and can clinch the league title with a sweep against Coach Mickey Sullivan's crew.

Texas leads Texas Christian and Houston by four games with an 11-1 ledger.

The battle is for the second, third and fourth place positions in the SWC tournament May 15-18 in Austin.

TCU is 7-5 and Houston is 8-6-1 in league play.

The only other winning record belongs to Arkansas at 8-7.

Houston is at Arkansas beginning Friday in the key series matchup this weekend.

Other three-game series which includes a doubleheader Saturday shows Texas A&M at Texas Tech and Rice at TCU.

In Non-District Baseball Action...

Tigers Batter Brownfield, 17-2

BROWNFIELD -- Snyder's Tigers, averaging 10.76 hits a game this season, got five more than that number here yesterday to blitz the Brownfield Cubs 17-2 in non-district action.

Snyder, now 14-7-1 for the term, returns to District 2-AAAA action next Tuesday, when it plays host to Pecos for one of a possible two shots at the first-round title. The Tigers, 4-0 in loop competition, need a win either Tuesday, or at Lamesa the following Friday, to clinch the first-round championship. They have already locked up a tie.

Yesterday's contest could have been called after the fifth inning, had coaches decided to institute the 10-run rule. Snyder was ahead at that point, 15-2. But the contest was largely a game of experience for both squads, who emptied the benches and did some minor experimenting.

Coach Albert Lewis, for instance, elected to put Jesse Hernandez behind the plate instead of starter Neil Evans, one of the few Tigers who did not see action. He also held out starting shortstop Mike Roemisch much of the game, and first baseman Barry Davis, and took a look at three different pitchers - though any one of them would have done the job.

Lewis should be able to feel more assured this morning. His substitutes filled their positions well.

Snyder, banging out 16 hits, put runners across the plate in every inning except the fourth and seventh, while holding the hosts to one run in the second, and another in the fourth.

Tommy Gressett, 1-0, got the win. He opened and went the first three innings for the Tigers, giving up one run on two hits. Ralph Hernandez pitched the fourth stanza. He also allowed one run on one hit. Cleaning up the act was John Wilson, who pitched three innings of no-hit ball and struck out six batters.

Snyder got rolling immediately as lead off hitter Brent Roemisch walked and Perry Echols popped his second homer of the year off of losing hurler Tommy Fisher. A couple of errors and hits by Trey Harlin, David Rios and Wilson made it 4-0.

Snyder's other big innings came in the third and fifth. Walks to Rios and Wilson, an error, and singles by Brent Roemisch, Curtis Gafford, Harlin and Casey Peterson made it a 10-1 game. Then in the fifth, Brent Roemisch, Gary Don Edmiaston, Jesse Hernandez, Harlin and Peterson all singled and Gafford and Jay Cumbie walked to combine for a 15-2 total.

Harlin was one of the Tiger subs who started the game and showed some stuff by playing well at first base and batting four-for-five with two RBI. Wilson and Jesse Hernandez were both two-for four, and Brent Roemisch and Peterson had two-for-five afternoons.

Westerner Pens With Hurricane

Chuck North, all-conference selection from Western Texas College, has signed a letter with Tulsa University after weeks of quiet deliberation.

The 6-5 sophomore transfer who hails from West Covina, Calif., was contacted by some 50 schools from across the country, including NIT champion Tulsa, Washington State University, the University of New Mexico, Mississippi State and the University of Southern California.

"I feel like Tulsa will be one of the top 20 teams in America next year and I've always wanted to play on a nationally ranked team," said North, who led Western Texas in scoring, rebounding and assists last season.

"I consider it a privledge to be going to Tulsa. They won the NIT and they have a really good coach who has proven himself. He's certainly one of the premier coaches around this area," he added.

Tulsa University is coached by former WTC mentor Nolan Richardson who coached the team to three straight NJCAA National Tournaments perviously, winning the championship in 1979-80. He took the job at Tulsa last year, and with a team composed of five junior college transfers - four from Western Texas - set new school records and won the National Invitation Tournament.

North, who carries a 4.0 grade point average at Western Texas, is majoring in political science.

Houston May Keep Young

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler Executive Vice President Ladd Herzeg said Tuesday the Oilers have matched a contract offer from another National Football League team for the services of free agent guard Bob Young.

Young, a key offensive lineman for the Oilers last season, played out his option and sought offers from other NFL teams. If no other team makes an offer for Young Wednesday, the 16-year veteran will remain with the Oilers.

Young, a native of Brownwood, attended Southwest Texas State and Howard Payne universities and participated in the Pro Bowl following the 1978 and 1979 seasons.

Allen Texas' Top Cager

AMARILLO (AP)-- Leonard Allen, who carried Part Arthur Lincoln to the state Class 5A schoolboy title with 10 points in the last 45 seconds of the championship game, has been named The Texas High School Basketball Player of the Year by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

Lincoln trailed San Antonio Marshall by three points with 55 seconds to play before Allen went on his rampage.

In presenting its 19th annual award, the Amarillo COC said the fact Allen was also an excellent defensive player played heavily in the selection.

New Spacing To Hike Yield

An additional half million barrels of oil are expected to be recovered from a 7,970-plus-acre unitized sector of the Westbrook Field in Mitchell County under an infill drilling program approved by the Texas Railroad Commission.

Chairman Jim Nugent and Commissioner Mack Wallace, during the weekly conference on Oil and Gas Division matters, acted affirmatively on the application of Chevron U. S. A., Inc., for a revision of field and well density rules for the North Westbrook Unit of which the company is operator.

The newly-revised rules permit Chevron to operate one producing well per 20 acres within the unit.

Chevron plans to drill 10 producing wells and seven injection wells this year, which the operator estimates will recover an additional 500,000 barrels of oil that otherwise would not be produced, according to Bill W. Watson, senior staff geologist for the Railroad Commission who conducted a public hearing on the application.

Currently, the North Westbrook Unit has 210 producing wells and 41 injection wells. Unit production is running about 3,800 barrels of oil per day. Cumulative unit production as of last Jan. 1 was 33,284,186 barrels of oil.

The Westbrook Field is one of the oldest oil producing sectors in West Texas and the first from a Permian Age formation. First oil production was established in the mid-1920s with completion of Chevron's Abrams Well No. 1.

Dear Abby

A Gigolo Does More Than Tango

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I'm curious. How many hundreds of letters have you received from gigolos protesting your hurting their business by telling folks that gigolos do not provide sexual services?

FRED M. IN HONOLULU

DEAR FRED: None so far. But I've heard from plenty of readers who hastened to advise me that I was wrong. Read on:

DEAR MS. VAN BUREN: I was amazed to read your reply to JUST WONDERING, the 15-year-old girl who asked why a gigolo wasn't considered the same as a hooker.

In fact, they are quite similar. The Random House Dictionary of the English Language describes a gigolo as follows:

"1) a man living off the earnings or gifts of a woman, esp. a younger man supported by an older woman in return for his sexual attention and companionship; 2) a male professional dancing partner or escort."

While a gigolo might be defined as the latter, as you informed JUST WONDERING, the former definition is far more prevalent. I feel that a 15-year-old should be told the entire definition, as I believe that a gigolo is just another name for a male prostitute.

DEAR ABBY: You missed it with IRKED, who is irked when a child answers the phone and keeps saying, "Who is this?"

People who place calls and do not have the sense or courtesy to say "This is so-and-so calling" are the ones who irk me!

IRKED IN PALO ALTO

DEAR IRKED: Let's hear it from the East Coast:

DEAR ABBY: IRKED IN EDEN, N.C., complained about people who let their youngsters answer the phone when all they say is, "Who is this?"

When that happens to me, I always say, "This is Santa Claus!"

That always brings a grownup to the phone quickly with plenty of commotion.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a person who helps a man cheat on his wife by carrying messages and acting as a go-between for a couple of back-street lovers?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: He (or she) probably looks upon it as doing a friend a favor. I'm reminded of something my father used to say: "Never look for an honest person to help you with a crooked deal."

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

April 16, 1981

You're the type who strives to be independent and doesn't like to rely upon others. Fortunately, however, this coming year you will have the right people to lean on when you need them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your understanding of propositions brought to you today may not initially be accurate. Pause to gather all the facts, then your judgment will be wise. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Take time to think your steps through before tackling complicated projects today. You're a good worker once you get everything organized.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may have some annoyances to contend with early in the day, but things should smooth out by afternoon. Hang loose for fun times ahead.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Ways can be found today to resolve a situation which has been disturbing you. Luck may have a hand in bringing about a happy ending.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Something unexpected may develop today which could spell personal gains. It has more potential than is obvious at first glance, so study it carefully.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're likely to be cleverer and more fortunate than usual today in turning unproductive situations around into something more to your liking.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conditions are taking a turn for the better. Unmanagable situations will be back in your control once again. Assert yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Everything comes to him who waits and this principle works in your favor today. Others will be busy shifting things around for your ultimate benefit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Business and pleasure tend to blend well for you today. If you're trying to swing a big deal, discuss it in other than a commercial atmosphere.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may not be able to achieve all you hoped to today on your first effort, but don't let this disappoint you. Marshall your forces. Charge a second time for victory.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This should be a successful day because of your ability to treat disturbing situations philosophically. Your attitude is a winner.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could be in for a pleasant surprise today when someone usually not supportive of you rallies to your banner. You've gained a valuable ally.

Food Joke Was His Inspiration

NEW YORK (AP) — Humorist Sam Levenson grew up in a household that was financially poor, but which was rich in inspiration for his unique humor.

Levenson said his mother used to tell her eight children to say they didn't like chicken, assuring enough food for company. All refusals of chicken were followed by his mother's saying, later, "All those who didn't eat chicken don't get dessert."

The entertainer died last year at the age of 68.

Ex-Hostage Had Problem

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. — While 31 of the former hostages relaxed today at what one predicted would be their last reunion, a foreign service officer who spent 444 days in Iranian captivity revealed the ordeal sent him to a hospital for six weeks' treatment of physical and emotional problems.

Phillip Ward, who like his former colleagues arrived at this luxurious mountain resort for a vacation mixed with a battery of medical and psychological tests, says he now feels "terrific."

And like the others, he was looking forward to enjoying himself with family and friends during his stay at The Greenbrier, which is picking up the tab.

"I'm here for a nice time and a rest," said Moorhead Kennedy Jr., who was accompanied by his wife, Louisa:
