Big Issues Unresolved

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas lawmakers hope to finish up the 1969 legislature's business this week and settle down to the critical 1972-73 spending and taxing problems that face the 1971 legislature.

With more than a month of the 140-day session already gone the 62nd legislature still has its prime issues—spending, taxing, and redistricting—on the unfinished business calendar.

The only votes taken so far on financing state operations the next two years have included a 22-125 House vote that killed Gov. Preston Smith's plans for a $450 million state bond issue based on oil and gas lease income from public school lands. A 15-16 vote in the Senate killed another Smith plan to let public school land income be used for current school operations.

All other 1972-73 spending and taxing plans are still being studied by committees.

House members had expected to wipe out the current business year's welfare crisis Monday. However, late Friday Speaker Gus Mutscher said a Senate-passed bill that will let the Public Welfare Department have $34.9 million from the teacher retirement fund between March 1 and Aug. 31 will not be laid out for House debate until later in the week.

The actual appropriation of the $34.9 million has already been approved but must wait until the authorization bill is finally passed.

The $34.9 million will be repaid to the teachers retirement fund as soon as the new fiscal year's taxes start coming in after Sept. 1. However, the retirement fund does stand to lose somewhere between $100,000 and $700,000 in interest $34.9 million would have earned during the six months.

In last week's slow and easy action the House approved and sent to the Senate bills that would raise non-resident tuition in state colleges, and allow issuance of up to $110 million in bonds for new college buildings, to be repaid by student tuition. The Senate sent to the House proposed constitution amendments that would lower the voting age to 18, replace annual voter registration with automatic re-registering at least every four years, and allow annual legislative sessions.

There was very little action in either house Thursday and Friday because of two ceremonies—the swearing-in of secretary of treasury John Connally in Washington and the special joint session and ceremonies in Austin honoring prisoners of war in Vietnam and their families.

MOON ROCKS UNPACKED — Technicians begin unpacking core samples and rocks taken from the surface of the moon by Apollo 14 astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Edgar D. Mitchell in pressurized chamber at the Manned Space Center near Houston, Tex., Friday. One case of the samples arrived here Thursday while more came back early Friday with Shepard, Mitchell and fellow astronaut Stuart A. Roosa.

Aspermont's rainmaker takes some local observers back a couple of decades. The entire Southwest was embarking on a tenacious drought and Snyder's total rainfall for the year in 1951 was a mere 10.26 inches. Excepting that infamous year of 1917, when the 12-month total was only 8.15 inches, that is the lowest yearly total listed here since the official records have been kept, dating back to 1911.

Anyway, there was a "rainmaker" on the prowl back there in the early fifties. People around the Lamesa-Big Spring-Snyder region were willing to try almost anything for a few drops of water from the skies. I recall inspecting one of that rainmaker's "generators" at the north edge of Big Spring. There were other pieces of such apparatus around Lamesa, and I understand there were some around Snyder.

But the drought of the early fifties was not broken until 1955. It was May when the heavens opened up and 6.21 inches of water fell to the earth. It had been nine months since the area had seen as much as one inch of moisture within a single month. The ultimate total for 1955 of 17.75. inches made it seem like a very wet year, although that still was below normal.

These recollections do not exactly stimulate optimism over current conditions, but there was one aspect of the dry years in the early fifties that appear somewhat unusual today: Even the years which produced only scattered showers managed to increase the level of Lake J. B. Thomas, the few showers that fell crossing the lake's watershed from time to time. The exact opposite has been true in recent years. Over-all rainfall has been about normal, but the lake watershed has been overlooked.

If you think your calendar is contradicting your history book tomorrow, the observance of George Washington's birthday on Feb. 15 is by decree. Changing of some national holidays to Mondays, so that those fortunate enough to be off the job would have a long weekend, resulted in this situation. The plan now is to observe Washington's birthday on the third Monday in February, regardless of the day of the month. This year, it just so happens that the traditional Washington's birthday date, Feb. 22, also falls on Monday, but it is the fourth Monday. So, the observance will come exactly one week earlier than it did on the old calendars.-WACIL McNAIR.

Desolation Is Seen In Photos

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The desolation, dust and darkness of Fra Mauro were captured in graphic pictures taken on the moon by the Apollo 14 astronauts and released today by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The nine color and four black and white photos were snapped by Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Edgar D. Mitchell as they explored the surface a week ago.

The photos showed why Shepard was moved to remark: "It's certainly a stark place here at Fra Mauro. It's made more stark by the fact that the sky is completely black."

And why Shepard said: "Nothing like being up to your armpits in dust."

The sky appeared ink black and contrasted sharply with the sun-bathed landscape, the golden landing ship Antares and the white-clad spacemen.

The dust was everywhere, clinging to the boots of the moon walkers and clearly showing the imprint of their footfalls and the tire tracks of the two-wheeled equipment cart they pulled across the surface.

Most of the shots in the first release were taken near the lunar module and did not give an impression the astronauts were in a highland region. Photos to be released later will show the sloping boulder field they tried without success to climb in an effort to reach the rim of Cone Crater.

There was one black and white shot of a large boulder, but it was difficult to judge the size because there was nothing else in the picture. The other black and white pictures showed Mitchell pulling the cart, Mitchell walking, the lower part of his suit black with dust, and a long-range shot of the lunar module, slightly tilted as it came to rest on a gentle slope.

Explosion Hits Induction Center

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A predawn explosion broke hundreds of windows at the Armed Forces Induction Center and two nearby buildings today but apparently did little other damage.

Officers said an explosive device apparently was placed outside the main doors of the four-story induction center. They said there were some military personnel in the rear of the building at the time of the blast but they were not injured. There apparently was no one else in the vicinity at the time of the explosion, about 4:40 a.m.

The officer said police had reports of at least one person seen running from the area shortly before the blast.

Plans For Banquet Progress

Plans were moving on schedule at the end of the week for the annual banquet of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, which is set for Thursday night in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The banquet will climax the observance of "Oil Appreciation Week" here. Business firms and individuals associated with the oil industry, which has played a major role in the Snyder area's economy for over two decades, will be honored.

Guest speaker at the banquet will be R. J. Becker of Denver, Colo., president of Chevron Oil Co. Special entertainment will be presented by Bellinda Myrick, Miss Texas of 1970, and dinner music for the banquet will be presented by the Ted McMillan Trio.

Tickets to the banquet, priced at $3.50 each were moving rapidly by the end of the week. Chamber officials said that a number of business firms had requested that tables be reserved for their personnel. This can be done for any business who purchases 10 or more tickets, it was announced. However, the reservations must be in by Wednesday.

Ernest Sears and Jimmy McFarland are co-chairmen of the ticket sales committee, while the Chamber banquet arrangements committee is headed by C. T. McLaughlin and E. W. Schrader.

Musicians Due Back

HOUSTON—Fourteen Snyder musicians were set to return home Sunday after attending the annual convention clinic of the Texas Music Educatiors Association here.

The event attracts several thousand persons each year and for over 30 years has brought outstanding music specialists from over the world in contact with Texas student musicians and educators.

On Thursday, the all-state choir and the North Texas State University orchestra were directed by Weston Noble in performing "The Tedeum" by Kodoly. This presentation received a standing ovation from a capacity crowd in the Houston Convention Center's Music Hall.

On Saturday, the all-state groups combined for the annual grand concert.

Snyder High School students attending included All-State Choir Members Bill Branson, Jana Bullard, Charles Collins, Susan Farrell, Dee Peveler and Wayla Walton, and All-State Symphony Member Holly Cramer.

Rioters Hit Compounds

SAIGON (AP) — Anti-American demonstrators broke into two American compounds in the coastal city of Qui Nhon today, hurling stones and fire bombs and burning vehicles.

It was the second day of rioting in Qui Nhon, touched off when two Vietnamese were killed by a U.S. grenade launcher. The compounds had been sealed off as a precaution.

At the U.S. Army's Support Command motor pool the Vietnamese burned two buses and damaged three others with rocks.

At a compound of Pacific Architects and Engineers, a civilian firm under contract to the U.S. Army, the rioters burned seven vehicles, damaged nine others with rocks and set a small building on fire.

Field reports said the city was quiet at nightfall after South Vietnamese national police dispersed them with tear gas.

Agreement On Arabian Oil Price

TEHRAN (AP) — Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Zeki Yamani announced today that the world's oil companies and the producer countries of the Persian Gulf have reached agreement on new price levels.

At the end of a two-hour meeting, Yamani reported the negotiators now were concentrating on the legal aspects of the agreement.

Yamani gave no details of the financial agreement and did not amplify what still had to be discussed.

A western source reported earlier that the basic structure of a new agreement now was in sight and a breakthrough had been achieved on the question of guarantees.

The companies are seeking a five-year pact in a bid to stabilize prices and are asking assurances from the gulf states that they will not demand more for their oil if other countries subsequently are given better deals.

The producers want $1.25 per barrel for their oil as against the current price of just under $1.

Yamani told newsmen outside the conference room in Iran's Finance Ministry that the negotiators hoped to conclude a final agreement tonight or Sunday.

The 10 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting countries (OPEC) have given a group of 22 oil companies until Feb. 15 to accept their demands. Otherwise the Persian Gulf states said they will legislate unilateral price increases.

If the companies refuse to comply with the proposed new laws, the producers would shut down the oil supply, they warned.

Lucrative Haul Made On Ho Chi Minh Trail

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces operating under an umbrella of U.S. air support swept through North Vietnamese base camps, supply depots and warehouses today on the Ho Chi Minh trail in southern Laos.

Saigon headquarters said the day's haul was the most lucrative since the South Vietnamese drive into Laos began Monday. A spokesman reported finding hundreds of tons of munitions, fuel, clothing and food stockpiles, including 2,000 chickens and ducks. The poultry was distributed on the spot to South Vietnamese troops, he said.

The headquarters reported half a dozen clashes along the trail north and south of Highway 9. It said 142 enemy were killed while South Vietnamese losses were seven killed and 16 wounded. Many of the North Vietnamese were victims of American bombers and helicopter gunships and some were guarding base camps and war stockpiles about 10 miles from the South Vietnamese border.

The U.S. Command announced increased air support for the South Vietnamese, reporting 1,100 helicopter missions into Laos Friday, more than double the number of the previous day. Gunship support, troop lifts and medical evacuation of dead and wounded were included.

South Vietnamese soldiers found several warehouses stocked with canvas boots and gloves, three tons of canned pork, 35,000 gallons of gasoline and other items. They killed 28 North Vietnamese guards while fighting their way into the complex 12 miles southwest of Lang Vei. It was described as a quartermaster depot.

In an area nine miles southwest of Lang Vei, they seized 20 Soviet-made trucks, and 10 miles northwest of the city they found three caches and the bodies of 20 guards killed by U.S. air strikes. These yielded between 70 and 100 tons of rice, more than 500 rifles, 600 uniforms and 60 antiaircraft machine guns like those that have knocked down more than 20 American helicopters this week. Some weapons were destroyed by the U.S. air raids.

John and Mary not very merry

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I am curious to know exactly how fair you are.

John [not real name] had an unhappy home, so at age 20 John decided that more than anything else he wanted a nice home and family.

He met Mary, who promised to give John everything he was looking for. All Mary wanted was a meal ticket, but John was too young and inexperienced to know. John married Mary and she had two children immediately to hook John but good. She hated housework and didn't bother too much about the children. She turned out to be a sloppy, lazy woman who didn't make friends easily, so consequently they had practically no social life.

Fifteen years later John has met a wonderful woman who was perfect for him in every way. They fell in love. If John leaves Mary, his children will be turned against him. Also, everyone will say, "Poor Mary was a good and faithful wife, so John must be a louse." True, Mary was faithful, but no credit is due her as no man with good eyesight would look twice at her.

Now, must John spend the rest of his life with Mary just because he made a mistake when he was young? Abby, if you are the woman I think you are, you will not say that John must keep his marriage vows. I am anxiously awaiting your reply. INTERESTED PARTY

DEAR INTERESTED: Before I reply, let's both be "fair." Who's going to tell me Mary's side of the story?

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of 10 children, and we're surrounded by neighbors who have nothing to do but complain if a ball bounces on their grass. Since we have the most children, everything from the chalk writing on the sidewalk to the overturned garbage cans at Halloween is blamed on us.

Am I supposed to apologize for the number of children I have? Or do I tell my neighbors that I have trained my children to be law-abiding citizens, and they should get off my back? MOTHER OF 10

DEAR MOTHER: Your children may be "law-abiding" but the law of averages is against you. When a childish prank is pulled, they figure it's 10 to one that one of your 10 did it.

DEAR ABBY: Because you have shown compassion for animals, I appeal to you to discourage the practice of giving young children live pets as gifts. At Eastertime thousands of baby chicks and rabbits are handed over to small children who mall and squeeze them to death. Puppies and kittens, by the thousands, are given to children who haven't the faintest idea of how to care for them.

Abby, live animals are not toys. Please tell your readers to give stuffed animals to youngsters who aren't old enough to care for live pets. Thank you. LOVES ANIMALS

DEAR LOVES: And if you love children, be aware that animals, when forced to defend themselves, will bite and scratch. Animal care can best be learned from your local Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals or from any veterinarian.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LEARNED THE HARD WAY": You belong to a large club. There is hardly a man alive who couldn't retire comfortably in his old age if he could sell his experience for what it cost him.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Youth Center Is Discussed

Plans for a youth center now being prepared at the old Aztec Theater were discussed at Friday's meeting of Snyder Jaycees at the American Restaurant.

Presenting the program was the Rev. Leonard Gallegos, who is helping develop the youth center which has been named "Your Place." He said several business firms and individuals had contributed materially and financially to the project, but more help is needed. The center is due to open the second weekend in March.

Jaycee President David Burkett, who presided, reminded Jaycees of the district convention next weekend in Lubbock and also of a special meeting Sunday night in Abilene at which Gordon Thomas, President of the U. S. Jaycees would be the featured speaker. Ben Warton gave the invocation and Roger Sullenger led the Jaycee Creed. Ronald Brown was a guest at the meeting.

District Lines Are Studied

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Rep. Delwin Jones of Lubbock, chairman of the House Redistricting Committee, said today the "one man-one vote" rule won't be the only factor governing the drawing of new legislative and congressional districts this year.

He spoke at a meeting concerning this year's reapportionment.

"The basic requirement that will be met is the 'one man-one vote' theory established by our courts. In addition to this, I feel that we must consider geographic factors, economic and social factors, which have a bearing on equality of representation," Jones said.

He issued a preliminary map of possible South Texas districts, splitting Bexar County and allocating the pieces to three districts composed mainly of rural counties.

U.S. Rep. O. C. Fisher of San Angelo again would have a district extending from the Permian Basin of West Texas to San Antonio.

"This tentative plan, if adopted, would geographically cover one-third of the state, but it would only encompass one-fourth of the total Texas congressional delegation. It is apparent here that the urban areas will be the strong part of our congressional delegation in the future. In this tentative plan, Bexar County would have a dominant role in the election of three congressmen," Jones said.

But based on figures given by Jones and the equal population standard of 477,665 persons per district, Bexar County residents would be out-numbered and presumably outvoted by predominantly rural residents in two out of the three districts.

Easter Seal Sale Begins On March 1

The 1971 Easter Seal Appeal will open in Scurry County on Monday, March 1, according to Cecil Boren, who serves as Easter Seal Representative for the county.

Boren said that Easter Seal Appeal letters would begin arriving at homes in the county about March 1.

As Easter Seal Representative, he is the local person to contact to request rehabilitation services from the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas. These services include physical and occupational therapy, speech and hearing programs and special information services to help solve the many problems faced by the families of handicapped children and adults.

Last year over 21,000 handicapped people received help from the Texas Easter Seal Society. With the costs of providing expert professional care rising, more money than ever will be needed.

Funds help support 20 centers in Texas, where crippled children and adults are treated, regardless of their ability to pay.

Walkers, wheelchairs, and related services are provided to those who cannot provide for themselves.

"The people of Texas have always responded generously to helping the handicapped, and I feel certain they will make it possible to increase Easter Seal services to crippled Texans throughout the coming year," Boren said.

Pipelines To Be Abandoned

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission has told Pure Transportation Co. It can abandon its crude oil gathering system in the Mt. Sylvan and Bud Lee fields in Van Zandt and Smith counties.

The commission said Friday volume of crude oil transported through the system has declined from some 2,000 barrels to 125 barrels a day, and that the operator of the system has lost substantial revenue for several years.

Also, the commission said, the operation of the system could cause pollution in the future.

Echeverria Expected In Laredo

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — President Luis Echeverria, two state secretaries and at least seven state governors are expected from Mexico for the 74th annual George Washington birthday celebration here Feb. 18-21.

Texas guests will be headed by Gov. Preston Smith, attending the fiesta as President Nixon's envoy, and other top state officials. Among others invited are Vice President Spiro Agnew, Sens. John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen Jr., and U.S. Congressmen Eligio de la Garza, Henry B. Gonzalez, John Young and Abraham Kazen Jr., John G. Hurd, U.S. ambassador to South Africa, was also invited.

Winfield W. Scott Jr., commander of the 3640th Pilot Training Wing at Laredo Air Force base, will serve as marshal of the grand international parade. He will ride in an open car at the front of the big parade, one of the highlights of the celebration. For years the wing commander at Laredo base has served as parade marshal. Scott came here recently from the Pentagon.

An international youth festival will be staged as prelude to the celebration today (Sunday).

Mrs. Estela Kramer, girls physical education director at Laredo Nixon High School, says more than 2,200 elementary and secondary school pupils will join in dance routines. Joe Benavides will be master of ceremonies and there will be music from the Nixon and Martin bands.

Six collegiate drill teams and 10 top high school units will compete in the annual drill team competition Feb. 20. The college groups will include students from the University of Houston, Texas A&M, Sam Houston State, St. Mary's University, and the University of Texas (Arlington).

Four daughters of the local society of Martha Washington will be presented at the colonial pageant and ball in the Laredo Civic Center the previous evening. Daughters of society members, to be introduced along with 13 other debutantes, are Lauren Sanditen, Janice Gallagher, Diana Pena, and Mary Martin.

Two Mishaps Are Logged

Minor damage resulted from two motor vehicle collisions investigated by City Police Friday.

The first one occurred in the 4000 block of Austin at 1:32 p.m. Involved were the 1967 Model Plymouth of Debra Jo Ivison, 3208 Hill Avenue, and the 1964 Model Pontiac of Josilov Stacy Maddux, 4002 Austin. Sergeant Ben McNulty investigated this mishap.

The other one occurred on Twenty-fifth Street at Avenue J at 2:25 p.m. Friday. Involved were the 1962 Model Chevrolet of John Pinkney Deshazo, 2802 Avenue U, and the 1968 Model Oldsmobile of Buford Light, Route 2, Hermleigh. Officer Brian Blair investigated this mishap.

Juvenile Crimes Increase Little

HOUSTON (AP) — Although the crime rate in Houston is growing faster than the population, the increase in juvenile crime during the past three years has been negligible, officials say.

A spokesman for the Houston Police Department's juvenile division said most of the increase during the past few years is because of better record keeping by the police rather than an actual boost in crime.

An Honest Man Within Reason

CHICAGO (AP) — Norman Budwit, a $3.50-an-hour clerk who returned $183,000 he found, says he considers himself an honest man "within reasonable limits."

Then he added: "Well, philosophers down through the centuries have been looking for an honest man and they haven't been successful."

Budwit, 35, got a reward of $18,300 after he returned to Brink's, Inc., Friday the two sacks containing the $183,000, mostly in cash but with some checks. He had found them Monday.

Budwit said at a news conference he had hesitated to return the windfall for fear other bags might be missing and he would be held accountable for them.

Asked if he ever considered just keeping the money he replied:

"In that situation I suppose everything enters your mind but I never opened the seal."

Officials of the Brink's Inc., figure Budwit picked up the money Monday within an hour of the time it fell out the back door of an armored truck in suburban Elmhurst. A guard felt a draft, turned to find a door of the vehicle wide open and noticed the bags were missing.

Budwit said that while driving from his home in Downers Grove to his job on the night shift at Shell Oil Co., in Des Plaines he found the bags marked "Brink's" and threw them in the car "just to get them out of the road."

He said he forgot about them until Tuesday and then refrained from telling his wife, Kay, about them "because it was just something else she would have to be concerned about."

Friday, when he saw news stories about the missing money he phoned Brink's and told Security Director William Cole, "I would like some clarification on the reward."

The news stories quoted company officials as saying it would be "liberal."

Jones told newsmen that even though company officials had mentioned the liberal reward they considered the chances of recovering the bags were "3 to 1 against."

After a brief conversation with Budwit they said recovering the money would be worth 10 per cent to them and they hastened to his home to pick up the bags.

Budwit said he would consult his wife and three children ranging in age from 7 to 14 on how to spend the reward.

Probably, he said, it would be for "family use and necessities —the necessary evils of living day to day."

HEARTS-AND-FLOWERS — Our sentimental hearts-and-flowers dessert array features a cream cheese cake frosted with a pinky-red apple sauce topping. You provide the sweets and chances are he'll bring the flowers.

Heart Valentine Dessert

A meltingly-smooth cheese cake that "makes" in just one bowl and bakes with no worry about failure is a dessert to win the hearts of homemaker and hubby alike. Schedule its premiere on Valentine's Day as a special surprise for family or guests.

The "cake," if baked in a heart-shaped aluminum pan or mold, is a conversation piece as is. But, to give ours an appropriate touch, we've finished it off with a pink and peppy frosting that's made of floavored and thickened canned apple sauce. When both cake and topping are icy cold, frost lavishly, following the heart shape to within an inch of the edge. If you have only a square or round baking pan, trace the heart shape on top of the cake and fill in this outline with the spicily nipped apple sauce topping.

For one final bit of romantic whimsey, pierce the heart with a broken arrow. Make a card arrow. Tint it with food color or cover it with a bit of cream cheese or white frosting.

This is a love of a recipe that you can use time and time again. With cream cheese and apple sauce—both ready products and family favorites—you'll be tempted to make this your year-long dessert specialty.

BLUSHING HEART VALENTINE DESSERT

4 pounds cream cheese
3 cups sugar
8 eggs
1-½ tablespoons grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon almond extract
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoons finely crushed cornflake crumbs

Let cheese stand in large bowl of electric mixer at room temperature to soften. At low speed, beat cheese, blending in sugar, ½ cup at a time. Add eggs, one at a time, continuing to beat. Add lemon juice, rind, vanilla, almond extract, and salt. Beat until the mixture is well blended and light. Sprinkle crumbs over bottom and sides of well-buttered heart-shaped aluminum mold (about 8-cup size). Pour in cream cheese mixture. Set mold in aluminum pan with hot water to a depth of one inch. Bake at 325 degrees for 2½ hours. Cool thoroughly. Loosen cake at edges with small spatula. Tip out onto serving platter. Finish with:

Blushing Heart Apple Sauce Topping

2 cups canned apple sauce
2 tablespoons light brown sugar
1 tablespoon red cinnamon candies (red hots)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
Red food coloring (optional)

Combine all ingredients in saucepan. Simmer over low heat for 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Adjust color with a few drops of food color, if desired. Chill thoroughly. Makes 1½ cups.

Former Model Boosts Dieters With Cookbook

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Every dieter occasionally needs a psychological lift, says Nancy Gould, 23, a former fashion model, who has written a cookbook of calorie-weakened recipes and gourmet foods to supplement diet menus.

The book, "How to Gorge George Without Fattening Fanny" is for times when one must invite George for a homecooked meal or when one reaches the limit of one's endurance on a strict diet and has a yen for something sweet.

Nancy has been through the whole bit, and it is all in the book under chapters of mood-changing poetry—"I wish I may, I wish I might ... lose 10 pounds ... this very night" and under such euphonious titles as Pate Nonfate. Recipes include a Heavy Hearts Hungarian Goulash at 325 calories a serving which might seem high, but when you've got a heavy heart ... There are a 128-calorie fudge cake and a Cinderella custard at 82 calories. The calorie count of recipes is about half that of the traditional recipes,

The book evolved as Nancy fought her own weight problems and lost more than 40 pounds in six months.

"My weight gain had nothing to do with an inactive or overactive appetite," she explains. "It had to do with inactive and overactive heartaches, and this situation is true probably of anyone in the 5 to 20 pound overweight bracket. Causes of their overweight are psychological, not physiological. It is frustrations that make us eat more than we should."

Four years ago, Nancy was a curvaceous 114 lbs, 5 ft. 6½ inches, when she arrived in New York from her native Los Angeles to become a fashion model with the Ford Agency.

In six months, she says, Eileen Ford, who has an aversion to avoirdupois, called her into her office, and said, "take your body home."

On the scales, Nancy was 148 pounds, but she was heavier in heart and mind she points out. She gained more and went back to California where she tried medically prescribed treatments which she gave up for fear she would become "addicted to pills."

Raiding the refrigerator one midnight, she couldn't find the usual forbidden yummies. She concocted a mousse "out of a lot of stuff that was in the refrigerator—it tasted good!"

She began evolving substitute recipes for high-caloried foods she liked, and soon she had a great collection of recipes. In six months, eating small quantities of the lower-caloried foods and engaging in above-normal activities, which she says "is the real secret of most successful diets anyway" she had lost 44 lbs. She now weights 116 lbs.

She returned to New York hoping to market her mousse. She failed to interest a big food company, but a friend stocked it in his diet store. Whipping up 200 mini-mousses a day, for a profit of $10 a week, was "an enterprise that was bound to die of exhaustion," she explains.

The idea of a book made more sense, and in addition, she interested a cruise line in conducting a "gourmets cruise to lose." On that venture, low-caloried gourmet recipes will be supplemented with exercises—"exersounds" and "stereo swimming" that are done to music as one dances and swims.

It's all part of her idea of lulling the dieter into a happier frame of mind—a soothing approach to brighten the drudgery of it.

Teen-Aged Girl Gives Clues On Vocabulary

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

How do you adjust to a word like romance—when you are the four-letter word type, asks a 17-year-old girl, who finds it quite a struggle. She is trying to discard the salty vocabulary.

She is being measured for the romantic look—choker, wagon-train challis, tendrilled hair ... the whole bit. But somehow it doesn't fit.

"I begin usuing profanity when I was 12 because everyone else was tuned in. But now I want out—I like the real girl idea."

She has been at work on her reform for four months using various methods, even tongue biting, and she still has a lapse of memory. It's something you can't discuss with anyone, she says, but she'll pass on her Vocabulary Anonymous treatment, as she calls it, to "interested parties."

The Switching Hour ... Discover your peak four-letter time. For her, it was homework time, and in particular math.

Pennies for Thoughts. ... She penalizes herself 10 cents for every slip of the tongue and promises the money to charity. (It was her mother's suggestion, but it will keep you broke.)

Circuit Breaker. ... Certain people may make you feel more four-wordy than others do. Break the ties that bind, but remember that drop-dead are two four-letter words.

Liza Doolittle Technique: This one she stole from Shaw: Speak very slowly using the "rains in Spain" technique emphasizing each word, making yourself aware of what you are going to say. This one requires patience, but it works.

Cough Drop: When you begin to drop a word that might lead to the no-no, cough madly and grope for your handkerchief. It is good, but you could choke if it becomes a habit.

Drama Critic: Sit back and analyze your crowd in the school cafeteria as if they were on stage. Don't they sound gauche with their out-dated obscene lingo? Persuade yourself they are light-years out of step. It will make the campaign easier.

The thing that really put her on the romantic kick was a remark she overheard her escort make at a party:

"Oh, yeah, she's fun to be with, but you couldn't take her home to parents ... she uses worse language than I do."

Hot Pants Are The Thing For Spring

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Right now hot pants may be the hottest thing in town.

They're a nice fashion for men, too—so long as the right girls wear them.

One Dallas store, Sanger-Harris, advertises them as "skimpier, shorter, jazzier—they're for grown-up city girls to wear in town."

Neiman-Marcus thinks the name unfortunate. They call what they sell "cocktail shorts."

"We don't call them hot pants because the name is not relevant and kind of bad taste," a spokesman for the store explained. "It doesn't add any romance to the style. Our customers wouldn't want it said they were wearing such things."

So what are the advantages anyway? Weren't micro-minis about as far as anyone could go?

"They're more comfortable than slacks just as slacks were more comfortable than a dress because you didn't have to wear nylons," one hot pants wearer explained. "They're more informal, too, but you have to be pretty daring to wear them to the office because they are short-short. I've bought several and I like them. You can wear them with tights or nylons or long boots."

The mini-pants were shown here to the trade in January, when manufacturers from New York and California trotted out their latest wares at the Dallas Apparel Mart, the main wholesale distribution center for the Southwest.

The orders poured in and they'll be in shops throughout Texas by summer. Big fashion stores have a few on the racks already, but it's still the more daring avant-garde girl who wears them. After all, although they can be worn with a maxi or midi coat, they're still a summer thing.

Mrs. Kim Dawson, director of the Apparel Mart, who also runs a model agency, said:

"All my girls are wearing them. Older women aren't buying them—and they shouldn't. It's a young girl's style—the micro-mini in another form.

"It's for young people with good legs, hopefully sun-tanned, And it's a man fashion. Very much so.

"The girls like it because it's a perfect foil for them to show off their bodies at the right time of their lives. Besides, it's the newest thing to do. It's an innovative fashion that puts you a step ahead. And it's the with-it girls who wear it."

The fashion folk say hot pants can be worn all through the day—for sports, cruising, street wear, and late in the day at a cocktail party or the discotheque. They can be worn with knee socks or panty hose so the legs that emerge from them can come in different colors.

As one Dallas girl put it: "I like 'em because they're fluid, kinda flirty, and very cute."

She can say that again.

Enzymes Fade Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stain-eating enzymes, which at one time held 75 per cent of the $1.2 billion laundry products market, are quietly being removed from some brands because of dipping sales.

Lever Brothers has stopped using enzymes in its only enzyme product, Drive. Procter & Gamble has dropped enzymes from two of its detergents and Colgate Palmolive says it has been and will continue reducing the number of its enzyme products.

"Recent publicity has apparently contributed to diminished consumer interest in the new enzyme detergent products that were introduced two years ago," said a Lever Brothers spokesman.

Scientists in the United States and England discovered that workers in the enzyme industry developed respiratory illness.

Government agencies and the detergent industry have received consumer complaints that enzymes caused skin rashes. But the industry says it has never been able to confirm a consumer allergic reaction due to enzymes.

For the last year the Federal Trade Commission has been investigating enzyme safety. The American Academy of Allergy recently declared detergent enzymes a "potential danger to public health."

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader has asked the FTC to ban enzymes in detergents.

Enzymes are chemicals which break down certain stains in clothing so the regular washing process can remove them.

SUGGESTIONS, ANYONE?

Scientists Mastering Control Of Weather

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — On a recent flight into San Francisco, an airline captain, encountering fog, announced the flight was being diverted to Los Angeles because the weatherman had made a mistake.

Aboard the flight was a delegate to the annual meeting of the American Meteorological Society convening in San Francisco. He took out a business card, scribbled "It wasn't me" on the back and sent it up to the crew.

Although meteorologists probably always will encounter difficulties predicting each quirk of the weather, sudden airplane-diverting fogs soon may be a thing of the past. Scientists have learned how to briefly dispel certain types of ground fog by seeding them with chemicals.

Dissipation of fog is just one of the techniques weather scientists are mastering as they stand on the threshold of an era of weather management. They hope it will be possible to take the lightning and hail from thunderstorms, dampen the fury of hurricane winds and increase snowfall in mountains and rainfall from tropical clouds.

But the new optimism that man soon will manage the weather, even if only on local or regional scales, is tempered by mounting evidence that air pollution already is changing the weather. It even may be altering world climate.

The spectre of weather modification, planned or accidental, has raised a host of ecological, social, economic, legal and political questions that have sparked a spirited debate among scientists.

For instance, weather scientists are split over what the results of weather modification experiments mean. Ecologists warn that even the most innocent-looking weather modification project could wreak havoc with the environment.

"It is clear that we as scientists have developed a primitive but probably real capability for manipulating certain kinds of atmospheric processes and as a result we are entering a new era, an era of weather management," Dr. Robert White, acting director of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, told the American Meteorological Society.

The new era had its beginnings in the late 1940s when scientists discovered that silver iodide, or dry ice, caused growth of ice crystals in supercooled clouds—clouds in which moisture remained unfrozen although the temperature was below freezing. The ice crystals would attract nearby droplets of moisture and turn into snow.

The discovery was seized upon by drought-plagued residents of the West, and a new generation of rainmakers sprung up. Their results, at best, were inconclusive. Cloud seeding and the dreamed-of ability to control the weather fell into disrepute and many researchers left the field.

Those who remained entered a period of cautious research with the emphasis on gaining a better understanding of the complex processes at work in a typical weather system.

The research is beginning to pay off.

A recent project showed that seeding hurricanes can reduce their death-dealing winds. Hurricane Debbie's winds in 1969 were cut from 15 to 30 per cent —substantial reductions in a storm in which winds exceeded 100 miles per hour.

Scientists have learned how to spot winter clouds in which seeding is likely to increase snowfall. The U.S. Bureau of Reclamation has begun a five-year, $5 million project in the San Juan Mountains of Colorado to increase the snowpack and the subsequent spring runoff in the Colorado River, which serves parched areas of Arizona, Southern California and Mexico.

Experiments to suppress hail and reduce lightning in thunderstorms also have shown encouraging results. By seeding a brewing thunderstorm, scientists force it to give up rain early, preventing formation of hail.

But many weather scientists say results of experiments have been overrated.

Inability to predict the outcome of their efforts is weather scientists' biggest handicap. Attempts to increase rainfall in a small valley may unknowingly be changing the weather hundreds or even thousands of miles away.

"The forces within weather systems are delicately balanced and a subtle trigger applied at precisely the right place and time may permit channeling storm energy in ways desired by man," Dr. Frederick Sargent, professor of human ecology at Western Washington State College, told the meteorologists.

"But until it is fully understood how and why the natural inputs of energy set off particular sequences of weather, it would be precarious to intervene experimentally. That air pollution appears to have initiated alterations in small-and large-scale weather processes seriously confounds the systematic development of a technology of weather modification."

The popular theory is that air pollutants—dust, smoke, soot, chemicals—act just like cloud seeding agents. Lead from automobile exhaust, for example, may be combining with iodine already in the atmosphere to form lead iodide, which acts similarly to silver iodide, a favorite cloud seeding chemical.

But theories advanced so far about the effect of air pollution on world climate are speculative. Predictions that increasing levels of carbon dioxide will heat the earth, melt the polar ice caps and raise the oceans several hundred feet are countered by prophesies that increasing dust, smoke and clouds will cut sunlight, cool the earth and bring the onset of another ice age.

Predicting global climate change is tied to the earth's heat budget, the delicate balance between energy radiated to the earth from the sun and energy radiated back into space. If the balance is disturbed, the planet's temperature will change. A change of only a few degrees could cause profound results.

Carbon dioxide, a product of combustion, has increased about 15 per cent since 1860. The gas acts like a one-way window, letting sunlight through but preventing the pass of radiation back into space. Some scientists estimate that it would take 400 years for the amount of carbon dioxide to double, raising the earth's temperature about 4 degrees. But since 1940, the earth has been cooling, leading to speculation that growing amounts of air pollutants are the cause.

Junior Editors Quiz on DRAWINGS

QUESTION: If your artist is really artistic, can he draw me unseen?

* * *

ANSWER: Well, well, Dollie Humphrey, you sent us a remarkable question, didn't you? We showed it to our artist. "What does she think I am, an x-ray machine?" he said. "Yet, there is something interesting about this. I am going to try to draw Dollie Humphrey because she seems such an original young lady." But when he was finished he began to wonder if he'd come any where near Dollie at all. "Tell you what," we suggested, "make Dollie some little sketches which show how you'd get a likeness if you really saw a person; then she can have some fun sketching her friends that way, and all the other Junior Editors can try it out too," "Good idea," said the artist. "Here are two heads from the front. The one on the left is a simple round shape. The next to the right has a head wide at the top with a pointed chin. Now look at heads from the side. One kind may have the features in a straight line; with another type (right) the upper and lower parts of the face may slant back from the nose. Decide which of these head structures your model has, then study his type of nose and his kind of mouth. Put these together with the right kind of eyes and there he is looking at you, (I hope)."

(Dollie Humphrey of Elkhart, Ind., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Pushbutton Housewife Still Has A Full Job

COLLEGE STATION — Oh to be a housewife—to flip a switch here and there, punch a few buttons, then curl up on a cushioned couch and let the Computer Age take over.

Forget it!

The homemaker still has an eight hour workday, just like she did 40 years ago, says Miss Bonnie Lyerly, Extension specialist in home management at Texas A&M University.

But the nature of homemaking work has been "modernized," Miss Lyerly adds. Mental work has replaced much of the physical work. The modern homemaker, then, is a decision maker who requires generous helpings of knowledge about goods and services available on the market. She must be skillful in buying, using and caring for goods and services. She is a marketer, record-keeper and manager.

And as usual, housework takes time. Dr. Kathryn Walker, associate professor at New York State College of Human Ecology, conducted a study at Cornell University to determine how much time a homemaker spends tackling the daily chores.

The data, collected in 1967-68, was compared to information gathered in 1926-27 and in 1952. The study revealed that during the 40-year period, homemakers spent almost the same amount of time for household work. Homemakers in 1926-27 used an average of 7.3 hours a day; in 1952, 7.4 a day; and in 1967-68, 8 hours a day.

Homakers with very small children or many children have the heaviest work load in the home, Miss Lyerly says. And homemakers employed in the labor force likewise have a heavy total work load. In the 1967-68 Cornell study, homemakers who were employed 15 or more hours in the labor force reported a 10-hour workday.

The switch from physical power to mental mastery in housework has imposed certain disadvantages, the specialist adds. Today's homemaker is more indecisive and frustrated. She must choose goods and services for her family from a wide assortment available on the market, and she must be able to use and care for those goods she buys. Mrs. Homemaker today, then, may spend her work time studying information about consumer goods, while her counterparts 40 years ago were confined to physical labor.

And so the work of the modern homemaker is much easier and not nearly so tiring. Right? Wrong! Fatigue results from mental and emotional strain as well as from actual physical labor, Miss Lyerly explains. Of course, the informed homemaker, who is able to make decisions, is less likely to be plagued by fatigue than the homemaker who lacks knowledge and is indecisive.

Raisins Star In International Cuisine

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

We've been struck by the unique ways various countries use raisins. Such interesting dishes!

In Latin America raisins go into a meat hash called picadillo. For this ground beef is cooked with onions, tomatoes and spices and raisins and pimiento-stuffed green olives are added. The hash is delicious served over rice.

In Mexico, picadillo is used as a stuffing for the pastry turnovers called empanadas and as a filling for tamales.

Italian cuisine has an inspired way of adding raisins and pine nuts to spinach. For this dish fresh spinach is cooked in a small amount of water and drained. Then olive oil, raisins and pine nuts go in.

A Rumanian compote uses golden raisins. Nika Standen Hazelton, author of many outstanding cookbooks, first brought this recipe to the attention of American cooks. We tried it and have been serving it ever since. For the dessert you soak the raisins in water to cover and then drain them. Next you make a water-and-honey syrup and add the raisins and grated lemon rind and simmer for about 10 minutes. Finally pine nuts are added and the compote is chilled.

Scandinavian cooks, like those of many other countries, sometimes add raisins to their famous coffee breads. Here's just such a recipe. If you have a yen to bake a yeast bread, but are wary of the kneading process, this rule may appeal to you. The dough is beaten with a wooden spoon; no kneading necessary. Try the recipe on a weekend morning—it needs only an hours rising—and serve it hot and fragrant for brunch.

EASY RAISIN COFFEE BREAD

1½ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
1-3rd cup plus 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
¼ cup milk
1 egg
½ cup raisins

Grease an 8-inch round layer-cake pan.

Into a medium mixing bowl sift together the flour, salt and 2 tablespoons of the sugar. With a pastry blender, cut in the 1-3rd cup butter until particles are fine.

In a small mixing bowl dissolve the yeast in the warm water. In a small saucepan heat the milk until it is just lukewarm; add to yeast.

To the flour mixture add the yeast-milk mixture, egg and raisins. With a wooden spoon, beat thoroughly.

Turn into prepared pan; sprinkle with the remaining 1 tablespoon sugar; dot with the remaining 2 tablespoons butter.

Cover with a tea towel; let rise in a warm draft-free place until doubled in bulk—about 1 hour.

Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Turn out of pan; turn right side up onto serving plate; cut in wedges and serve at once with squares of butter.

Social Impact Of Mass Media And Bylaws

THE COMMUNICATIVE ARTS. By Charles S. Steinberg. Hastings House. $10.

From man's first primitive attempts to communicate to the latest in sophisticated electronics, it's all in this book. Dr. Steinberg thoroughly documents the vast change from symbolism to satellite.

In the main, the book is concerned with the mass media and in particular the impact of the mass media upon society. The author points out that "there is an interaction between media and society, and this very relationship imposes an enormous obligation on the media to function with awareness and responsibility."

He delves into recent allegations that sex and violence in the media, especially television, precipatated some riots and demonstrations. Dr. Steinberg, however, finds no evidence to support such allegations.

Ancient Capital Is Unearthed

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Belgian archeologists headed by Prof. Leon DeMeyer believe they have unearthed what may be the ancient capital of the Accadians who ruled in Mesopotamia in the middle of the third millenium B.C.

The city of Agade was discovered 12 miles south of Baghdad during three months of excavation. The Belgians hope to return to Iraq to complete their work later this year.

Beauty Salon Week Is Feb. 14-20

Members of the Snyder Beauticians Affiliate No. 77 of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association will once again visit our local nursing homes to give free beauty services to the patients. These visits are an annual part of National Beauty Salon Week, which is in its 21st year.

The week, which is observed Feb. 14-20 this year, will again emphasize the community service programs of hairdressers in all our 50 states and the District of Columbia.

In many areas, the hairdressers carry on a yearly institutional welfare program at homes for the aged, in hospitals, mental institutions and orphan homes.

Jean Howell, president of the Snyder No. 77 Affiliate reports that the cosmetologists will visit the following institutions in our area: Snyder Nursing Home and Leisure Lodge. And they will also do underpriviledged children of the area in their salons. Among those visiting the institutions are: Johnny Taylor, Thelma Clark, Jackie Nail, Monica Ortiz, Linda Davidson and Pat Burnett.

"Hair Is In. Make It Beautiful." That is the theme of this year's National Beauty Salon Week Program. The "in" hair fashions for Spring, designed by the Official Hair Fashion Committee of the National Association, will be featured in the paper this week.

The messages carried by flowers is universal, and seldom varies in any part of the world.

The Lily denotes innocence; the Forget-Me-Not, friendship; the Red Rose, "I love you"; and the White Rose is often said to say, "I will wed you."

The briar is an insult, as denoted in the "Crown of Thorns." The Violet means modesty, hence the name "Shrinking Violet."

President's Cousin Is On Welfare Roll

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

GRASS VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon's cousin says he hopes he did no one harm by disclosing that he gets a small welfare check each month.

He told the story, Philip Milhous said Friday, because the manager of the California Rural Legal Assistance office telephoned and said it would help CRLA if he would let them send a newspaper reporter up to the Milhous farm house for an interview.

Milhous, 57, and his wife, Anna, 47, said CRLA intervened to help them get welfare after they were turned down three years ago. Since then they have been volunteer helpers for the controversial legal aid organization in their rural Mother Lode county.

They said they thought it was "a shame" that Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan has been "picking on CRLA," and that they decided to tell newsmen their story "so as it might help get legal aid for others that are poor."

CRLA is a legal aid program Reagan tried to halt by vetoing its federal grant. His veto was partially overriden by the federal Office of Economic Opportunity in a compromise reportedly worked out after White House intervention. Reagan questioned whether government funds should be granted attorneys who file suits against the state.

Mrs. Milhous said the President has never been told of their needs or the help CRLA gave them: "Oh, my God, no, we don't do things like that," she said.

Milhous said they have not seen Nixon for more than eight years, and their only contact has been Christmas cards and an invitation to the President's inauguration. They didn't accept, he said, because they couldn't afford to attend.

At Key Biscayne, Fla., presidential Press Secretary Ronald Zeigler noted that Mrs. Milhous had been quoted as saying she and her husband had sought no aid from the President and, Zeigler said, Nixon was "proceeding on that basis."

A 1953 autographed photo of Nixon as vice president is the only sign of the relationship to the President in the Milhous home. Milhous' father and Nixon's mother were brother and sister.

Milhous and his wife, an invalid with severe hearing, sight and allergy problems, said they have been living on a Social Security disability pension and state welfare since Milhous suffered a heart attack in 1966.

He said attorneys "looted" him of his small chain saw business "to the tune of about $50,000." Then, he said, he had to put a mortgage on his home, which he built himself in the 1950s on six acres in a jack pine clearing above Grass Valley, to pay medical bills.

He said a CRLA attorney helped them qualify for the state Medi-Cal program of free health services for the poor and "medically indigent."

Only Three Wildcat Wells Are Reported

AUSTIN (AP) — Only three wildcat oil wells—two in the Houston district and one in the Wichita Falls district—were drilled in Texas during the past week, the Railroad Commission reported Saturday.

The commission said 31 wildcat oil wells have been drilled this year, compared to 44 at this time a year ago.

Nine Wildcat gas wells—eight in the Corpus Christi district and one in the Houston district—drilled during the past week, raising the total for the year to 56, or six fewer than a year ago.

A wildcat well—gas or oil—is one drilled in an unestablished field.

The commission said 103 oil wells and 34 gas wells were completed during the week. This increased the yearly totals to 702 oil well completions, or 57 more than a year ago, and 191 gas well completions, or 37 fewer than at this time a year ago.

The commission said 198 wells were plugged in Texas during the week, including 63 dry holes.

Texas Trash Tells Tale

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texans may be the biggest consumers of beer per capita in the United States—if their trash tells the story, says a pollution research group.

According to a national survey recently conducted among housewives, it was indicated that the homemakers of this state dispose of more beer cans per capita than any other state.

The survey was made by Scientific Pollution Control Corp.

The survey was to graph a chart of the nation's major waste items as a guide to governments and industry in working out the most efficient disposal methods.

Theodore Kaish, president of SPC, noted, for example, that "...while collection of waste per week is now less frequent than in previous years, at the same time, consumer consumption of goods of all types is increasing." He adds that it "necessitates the greatest amount of organization in handling waste both at its source and for collection."

Texas residents dispose of 104 million cans of beer per year or, based on adult population figures —15 cans each adult per year.

Other survey findings:

Discarded washing machines lead all household bulk waste.

Discarded containers of cosmetics including metal and plastics outrank containers of medicines and vitamins.

Families of higher income, $10,000 per year and over, accumulate less waste than lower income families.

Married couples without children accumulate more trash than families with children.

There is a striking correlation in the frequency of disposal of hairspray cans and champagne bottles.

Soil Moisture Is A Major Problem

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.) (AP)—Even rainmakers in Texas are having trouble as the soil moisture situation continues to worsen.

At midweek, John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said only a very limited area in Southeast Texas is reporting adequate soil moisture. Moisture is short to very short in all other areas of the state, he said.

Ranges and pastures continue to decline and the hauling of stock water is becoming more widespread. Heavy feeding is general and only irrigated small grains are supplying any grazing, he said. This week's cold blast further complicated an already worsening situation, he added.

Under heavy feeding, livestock are holding up well considering the current problems but hay supplies are becoming short in some areas, and he said it will add more problems.

W. W. Grisham Jr., Amarillo, said the recent light snows did little to improve the drouth situation in the Panhandle. Dryland wheat continues to deteriorate and livestock feeding is heavy. Irrigated wheat was responding to the warmer temperatures before it got a setback from this week's very cold temperatures. Land preparation is continuing and livestock in general are in good condition, he said.

Small grain pastures on the South Plains continue to decline and stands reduced in many areas due to the lack of moisture and the cold temperatures, said Billy Gunter of Lubbock. Irrigated small grains are making little growth and were rated in fair condition. Land preparation is continuing as weather permits and the general condition of livestock was listed as good with feeding continuing to increase. Gunter said marketing was increasing due to a shortage of roughage.

The overall picture over the Rolling Plains continues to worsen with each day, said James Simmons at Vernon. Small grains are in poor condition; some is dying; greenbug damage covers a wide area and some spraying is being done. The moisture situation was listed as critical. Ranges are in poor condition; grazing is extremely short and much stock water is being hauled, he said. Livestock feeding is heavy and hay supplies are short in some counties, he noted. Marketing of livestock is on the increase.

The soil moisture situation in North Central Texas is critical in all counties and small grain growth has about stopped, said Ted Martin at Denton. Much is about grazed out, he added. Pastures and ranges are suffering from the continuing lack of moisture but livestock are in fair condition with heavy feeding.

Last week's showers and light snow over the past weekend helped some but soil moisture in Northeast Texas is still short and the biting cold further slowed small grain growth, said R. S. Loftis of Overton. Pastures and ranges are below to average and most are about grazed out. Livestock generally are in good condition and feeding was listed as normal for this season. Some home garden planting was noted. Labor is short.

Range conditions continue to deteriorate in far West Texas and livestock feeding is increasing, said Ray Siegmund at Fort Stockton. Livestock were listed as in fair to good condition with good calf and lamb crops now on the ground. Goat shearing is continuing. Livestock on irrigated small grains are making good gains, he said. Land preparation for spring crops is continuing.

Small grain in West Central Texas are mostly dead and winter grain mites and greenbugs are causing lots of damage in irrigated wheat, said Allen Turner at San Angelo. Ranges are very dry and old grass is getting short and once plentiful supplies are fast becoming a memory, he added. Livestock is in fair condition with heavy feeding. Deer are poor and getting thinner, Allen said. The big job is care and feeding of livestock but some land is being prepared, he said. The soil moisture situation is critical.

Small grains in Central Texas are dormant; some is dead and there is little grazing from this source, said John Burleson at Stephenville. Grain yield prospects were listed as dismal. The soil moisture situation is critical, he said. Ranges and pastures are below average and heavy livestock is required and the general condition of livestock continues to decline, Burleson said. The movement to market was listed as steady. Feeding and hauling water and other livestock chores are the major jobs in the district.

Soil moisture in East Texas continues short to very short with a few showers last week that helped only temporarily, said W. H. Lehmberg at Overton. Small grains need rain and warmer temperatures to make any growth. Pastures and ranges are below to average in some spots but grazing is short, he said. Livestock feeding is heavy and producers are doing a good job of keeping the herds in good condition, Lehmberg noted. Some home garden planting was noted.

Soil moisture in Southeast and the Upper Gulf Coast district ranges from very short to adequate in the extreme upper coastal counties of the area, said Uel Stockard at College Station. Oats are providing limited grazing and are suffering from the lack of moisture and the low temperatures. Hay supplies are getting short, he said. Pastures and ranges are about grazed and are badly in need of rain. Livestock is in fair condition with heavy feeding. Some peach blooms are being noted. Land preparation is nearing completion and livestock care and feeding are the major activities.

Soil moisture in South Central Texas is very short; pastures and ranges are extremely dry and little grazing from any source is available, said Doyle Moore at Gonzales. Land preparation is continuing and some fruit trees are blooming, he said, due to the above normal temperatures of recent weeks.

Soil moisture is still at the critical stage in South Texas, said J. D. Selman Jr. at Weslaco. Ranges and pastures are in critical need of rain and livestock are continuing to decline in condition, he said. Feeding has been increased to offset the lack of grazing. Vegetable harvesting is continuing and the fast rate of the citrus harvest is continuing, Selman said. Watermelon planting is continuing. The Valley vegetable and citrus crops escaped freeze damage this week.

Laird Declines Gift Of Rifle

PHOENIZ, ARIZ. (AP)—Defense Secretary Melvin Laird has turned down the gift of a commemorative rifle from the National Rifle Association because it was donated by a major arms maker. Laird was offered the rifle Friday, given by Winchester-Western Co. at a news conference before addressing a Rotary Club luncheon.

"He appreciated the gesture, but he cannot accept," said an aide. "It's just one of the quirks of the job."

Takeover Of Land Deplored

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Promising "drastic, profound, rapid and massive agrarian reform," Interior Minister Jose Toha says Chile's leftist government is preparing legislation to punish peasants who take over farms on their own.

Toha, speaking on national television Friday, said President Salvador Allende has sent to Congress a bill setting penalties for "instigators and executors of land takeovers." The nature of the penalties was not disclosed.

Allende, a Marxist, has promised to expropriate all large rural estates in Chile, while leaving small farms and ranches in private ownership.

But occupation of many small and large properties by peasants has become one of the most troublesome problems he has faced since taking office in November.

Many land takeovers have been led by leftist political agitators, despite official pleas for an end to such practices.

Toha said persons who continue to defy authority to "create a climate of intranquility and take advantage of an image of disorder and anarchy are in fact conspiring against the Chilean revolution."

He said the government has not used "repressive action" to halt illegal occupations because of its confidence in Chile's rural workers.

Toha warned that the government "will proceed drastically" against the illegal land seizures, adding that they "do nothing but retard and make more difficult the execution of agrarian reform."

Bride Becomes A Valentine

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Cindy Broyles won't have much of an excuse if she forgets her wedding anniversary.

Cindy, a former college student here, is to be married in California Sunday, Valentine's Day.

She'll become Mrs. Kirk Myles Valentine.

Spokesmen at Cindy's alma mater, Trinity University, said the ceremony will be performed on an island in Tomales Bay, Calif.

They said the wedding invitations advise the guests to meet at Marshall, Calif., for the trip to the unidentified island. "Clothing should be casual and suitable for the boat trip," the invitations say.

Trinity officials said school records show that Cindy, a 1967 sociology graduate, served during 1968 and 1969 as a Red Cross worker in Vietnam.

Poised Bruins Nip Ducks 69-68

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Oregon Ducks almost did it again.

But a steal and driving layup by Henry Bibby of UCLA with 43 seconds left turned defeat into a 69-68 victory for the No. 1-ranked Bruins over the Ducks at Eugene, Ore,, in Friday night's top collegiate basketball game.

The Ducks beat the Bruins by 13 points, 78-65, at Eugene a year ago. It seemed they had done it again with a five-point lead at 68-63 with a little over two minutes left.

But the poised Bruins held the Ducks scoreless the rest of the way and pulled it out when Bibby stole the ball from Bill Drozdiak and drove in for the winning basket.

"We had to louse it up in the final minute," commented a disappointed Steve Belko, Oregon coach. "It was the toughest loss I've ever experienced. I don't know when I've hurt so much before.

John Wooden, the UCLA coach whose Bruins have won four straight national titles, praised his players for not losing their poise when behind.

"That has been their history this year, outside of the Notre Dame game when they completely outplayed us," Wooden said. "In almost every game when we have gotten in trouble we have played close to our best."

Sidney Wicks paced the Bruins with 20 points. Drozdiak was high for the Ducks with 16.

South California, third-ranked in The Associated Press poll, and Pennsylvania, No. 4, kept pace with the Bruins. The Trojans whipped Oregon State 82-63 and the Quakers made it 19 in a row by tripping Brown 70-56. North Carolina, 11th-ranked walloped Georgia Tech 87-58.

Ron Riley and Paul Westphal hit 23 points apiece in leading Southern Cal over the Beavers. Steve Bilsky's 23 paced Penn over Brown as the Quakers chalked up their 37th consecutive regular-season triumph over a two-year span.

Washington took a 23-point lead over Stanford, then just managed to hold off the Indians' comeback for an 81-80 victory. A 20-foot jumper by Dale Dover with three seconds left gave Harvard a 73-71 victory over Columbia and second place in the Ivy League. It was the sixth straight triumph for the Crimson.

N.C, State downed Clemson in overtime 64-57, California routed Washington State 90-72, Arizona humbled Wyoming 98-81, Arizona State overcame Colorado State 103-85, Princeton ended Yale 81-71 and Dartmouth whacked Cornell 83-65 in other games.

Frog Negroes Enter Tulsa

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Two black football players who withdrew from Texas Christian last semester will transfer to Tulsa University and be ready to play for the 1972 season.

Ervin Garnett Sr. said his son, Ervin Garnett Jr. and Raymond Rhodes would be on the Tulsa campus to enroll Monday. Tulsa coach Claude Gibson confirmed that Garnett and Rhodes had given verbal agreements to make the transfer.

Garnett, Rhodes, Larry Dibbles and Hodges Mitchell left TCU because of what they described as a lack of social life and a dislike for some of new head coach Jim Pittman's rules.

Gibson was asked about his dress code and said "I never really objected to long hair. In fact, we had a meeting on this issue last week. I realize times and kids have changed, and I know long hair and mustaches are the trend now days.

"When you invest a scholarship on a boy who is going to have to lay out a year anyway you'd better be sure of his character as well as his ability. And there's no doubt these boys have both."

Tech Gets Receiver

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas Tech's Red Raiders landed what they considered the top schoolboy wide receiver in the state Friday as Coach Jim Carlen signed Corsicana's flashy Jeff Jobe to a letter of intent.

"He was the one receiver in the state we were after and I would have said that even if we hadn't gotten him," Carlen said.

Texas Tech has signed four of the state's top 16 "blue chips" and the 6-foot-2, 185-pound Jobe said he decided to become a Red Raider when "coach Carlen convinced me Tech will throw the ball more."

The speedy Jobe, an All-Stater, caught 44 passes for 625 yards and 19 touchdowns last season. He also was considering Oklahoma and Texas.

"I feel Tech will be the upcoming winner in the Southwest Conference," Jobe told The Associated Press. "I didn't want to go to Oklahoma where nobody knows me. I thought how it might be playing in say Ames, Iowa with nobody in the stands knowing who I was."

New Coach Jim Pittman of Texas Christian signed three players to bring the Horned Frogs' signings to 28.

They are Vic Morriss, 6-1, 180-pound quarterback from Arlington Sam Houston; Gary Crawford, 6-0, 175-pound quarterback from Henderson, and Randy Talbert, 6-2, 175-pound defensive back from Weslaco.

The defending national NAIA champion Texas A&I Javelinas signed a quality player in All-State running back Byron Shaw of Refugio's Class AA state co-champions.

Howard Payne, also of the Lone Star Conference announced the signing of Brownwood's All-State running back Gary Barron.

Cougars Come From Behind

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The defending NCAA golf champion University of Houston won its 12th straight intercollegiate match Friday, but had to come from behind to do it.

The Cougars squeaked by the University of Texas by five shots, 1,322 to 1,337. The win came in the fifth annual L. R. Goldman .Invitational, named for the retired golf editor of the Houston Post.

Houston Baptist finished third in the meet with a 1,400 total.

Texas went into Friday's double round with a two-stroke lead but the two teams were tied after the morning 18 holes.

Ben Crenshaw with a 211 was the individual medalist in the meet, followed by UT teammate Tom Kite with a 213. Crenshaw was two under par for the 54 holes.

University of Houston players took the next three places.

Stumbling Knicks Lose To Atlanta

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York and Atlanta, riding National Basketball Association elevators in opposite directions, passed each other and kept right on going Friday night.

The stumbling Knicks had their losing streak extended to six games, dropping a 125-116 decision to the rampaging Hawks, who took their fifth straight. Atlanta has won seven of the last nine and New York has dropped seven of its last nine.

Elsewhere in the NBA Friday night, Detroit tagged Philadelphia 118-109, Boston topped Baltimore 113-109 in overtime, Phoenix dumped Cleveland 114-105, Chicago routed Los Angeles 107-88,. Portland slanmed Seattle 137-125 and San Francisco bounced Cincinnati 133-119.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana took Pittsburgh 120-109, the Floridians topped Texas 114-111, Kentucky defeated Denver 142-138 and Utah tripped Memphis 113-102.

The Hawks, trying to catch Cincinnati and a playoff berth in the NBA's Central Division, got a combined 94 points from Walt Bellamy, Pete Maravich and Lou Hudson to wear down the Willis Reed-less Knicks. Reed remained in New York to rest his ailing left knee.

Bellamy, without having to worry about Reed, poured in 33 points and grabbed 18 rebounds, dominating the backboards, Maravich had 31 points and Hudson 30.

The Knicks, leaders in the Atlantic Division, lost no ground despite the defeat. Pursuing Philadelphia was knocked off by Detroit.

The Pistons used a flurry of three straight baskets by Jimmy Walker in the third period and three straight by Dave Bing in the fourth to pull away every time Philadelphia closed the gap.

Bing had 27 points and Walker and Bob Lanier 24 each for the Pistons, fighting to hang on to second place and a playoff berth in the Midwest Division. Billy Cunningham had 26 for the 76ers, who remained 2½ games behind the Knicks.

Boston wiped out a 14-point Baltimore lead in the second half and defeated the Bullets in overtime. John Havlicek scored 21 of his 36 points in the second half and hit five more in the extra period to lead the comeback. Dave Cowens had 20 points and 20 rebounds for the Celtics.

Dick Van Arsdale's 24 points led Phoenix past Cleveland, Clem Haskins added 23 for the Suns including eight in the third period as he and Neal Walk broke open a tight game. Walk had nine in that quarter.

Chicago ran off 12 straight points early in the fourth period to tear away from Los Angeles. Jerry Sloan's 23 points led the Bulls while Jerry West was held to seven, making only three of 19 shots for the Lakers.

Rookie Geoff Petrie's career-high 43 points led Portland past the slumping SuperSonics. He had 25 in the second half as Portland turned a seven-point lead into a runaway.

San Francisco, leading 51-23 in the second period, suddenly found itself trailing 76-74 in the third before waking up to trim the Royals. Cincinnati's Tom Van Arsdale led all scorers with 40 points.

Memphis Pros Will Not Move

By DOUG STONE
AssociatedPressWriter

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Memphis Pros will stay in Memphis.

That was assured Friday night when American Basketball Association Commissioner Jack Dolph announced the ABA trustees' unanimous approval of sale of the franchise to Memphis investors.

The only thing that needs to be done is actual issuance of a new franchise, Dolph reported to a gathering here via a long-distance telephone hookup from Vermont.

The announcement climaxed two hectic weeks by Memphis Area Sports, Inc., which was quickly formed to raise $800,000 to buy the franchise and provide working capital for the Pros' 1971-72 season.

The price of failure would have been ABA sale of the Pros to either of two bidders, neither of which had any intention of keeping the club here.

In the two weeks period, more than 4,000 persons and a bulldog went on the rolls as stockholders in Memphis Area Sports, Inc. at $5 per share, raising $700,000.

Herbert Kosten, president of the corporation, said that during three days of intense negotiations, the ABA agreed to sell the franchise for $100,000 less than it first asked.

There is a condition, however, that is that the corporation come up with the added $100,000 and put it into other areas, such as promotion of the club.

The drive to keep the Pros in Memphis has been a city-wide effort, with everyone from high school kids to senior citizens being asked to chip-in what they could.

The Memphis club has what is probably one of the most unusual stockholders around, Cpl. Bodacious—a one-foot-six-inch tall, 75-pound bulldog, the mascot of 3,900 Marines stationed at Memphis Naval Air Station.

SWC Logjam To Be Broken

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The five team logjam for second place was a cinch to be broken af in Southwest Conference basketball play Saturday.

Texas Christian (6-1) holds a two-game edge over Texas Tech, Texas, Southern Methodist, Rice and Baylor—all with 4-3 records.

Baylor hosts Texas at 8 p.m. Saturday in Waco's Heart O'Texas Coliseum, guaranteeing a partial change in the second place scramble.

SMU and Arkansas play in the 2 p.m. regionally televised game at Fayetteville.

Other night contests show Texas A&M (2-5) hosting Rice while TCU journeys to Lubbock to meet Texas Tech.

SMU's Gene Phillips needs only 28 points to establish an All-Time SWC career scoring record.

Cotton Bowl Best Show

DALLAS (AP) — For the second consecutive year, the New Year's Day Cotton Bowl Classic has topped its rivals in the television ratings.

The Jan. 1 telecast of the Notre Dame-Texas game in the Cotton Bowl went to 20,110,000 homes and gained a Nielsen rating of 33.3.

The game attracted a 63 per cent share of the audience.

Runnerup to the Cotton Bowl Classic for the second straight year was the Rose Bowl game which had a rating of 27.2 or a 47 per cent of the audience as it went to 16,350,000 homes. Next, in order were the Orange Bowl 24.5, Gator Bowl 15.2, and Sugar Bowl 8.3.

Floridians Win Overtime Match

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winning is easy as one, two, three for the Floridians.

One, two, three-point field goal.

Mack Calvin sent the game into over time with a three-point basket, then Larry Jones gunned in another long-range bomb as the Floridians whipped Texas 114-111 in an American Basketball Association overtime game Friday night.

Calvin, who had 20 points, hit a goal at the end of regulation that tied the game at 104.

Then, with one second left in overtime, Jones scored his 29th point by throwing in a 35-footer for the final score.

Elsewhere in the ABA, it was Indian 120, Pittsburgh 109; Kentucky 142, Denver 138 and Utah 113, Memphis 102.

In the National Bsketball Association, it was Atlanta 125, New York 116; Chicago 107, Los Angeles 88; Boston 113, Baltimore 109 in overtime; Phoenix 114, Cleveland 105; Detroit 118, Philadelphia 109; Portland 137, Seattle 125 and San Francisco 133, Cincinnati 119.

Wayne Hightower and Gene Moore kept Texas in the game with the Floridians until the last-second dramatics by Calvin and Jones. Hightower finished with 26 points and Moore, 22 for the Chaparrals.

Indiana had six players in double figures to overcome a 42-point effort by Pittsburgh's John Brisker. Mel Daniels led Indiana with 33 points and Billy Keller added 26, including four, three-point field goals.

Darrel Carrier scored 14 of his 31 points in the final period to give Kentucky a comeback victory over Denver. The Colonels led 65-63 at the half, but were down by three—102-99—at the end of three quarters.

Kentucky sprinted to an eight-point lead with two minutes to play, but Ralph Simpson scored two three-point field goals to bring Denver within two, 140-138. Then Carrier closed out the scoring with two free throws.

George Stone hit 10 of his 22 points for Utah in the final period as the Stars pulled away from Memphis. Willie Wise, who also had 22, hit the free throws that put Utah ahead to stay at 74-73 late in the third period. Glen Combs led the Stars with 26 and Jimmy Jones topped the Pros with 30.

Hollway Is Card Coach

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Hollway says it was an "opportunity to win" that led him Friday to become the 23rd head coach of the St. Louis Cardinals, a team with budding National Football League title aspirations.

The 45-year-old Hollway, his candidacy for the post given little mention, was named to succeed Charley Winner by Card owners Stormy and Bill Bidwill.

"We think in Bob Hollway we have the man who can take us into the playoffs," Bill, the younger of the Bidwill brothers, said.

Hollway, brimming with confidence, predicted "discipline and execution and some bold football" can put the Cardinals in the role of an NFL title challenger immediately.

"The club is very solid," he said. "It is young, and yet it has good experience. If we get a total, dedicated effort from all our personnel, we'll be a winning football team."

Hollway, a native of Ann Arbor, Mich., and 1950 graduate of Michigan, ended a four-season term as defensive coach for the Minnesota Vikings under Coach Bud Grant to succeed Winner.

The former Michigan end played under Wolverine Coaches Fritz Crisler and Bennie Oosterbaan and was later head coach at Maine and at Eastern Michigan.

"I think three people have had the most influence on what I think about football and my philosophy toward the game," he said.

"Crisler was influential in his ability to discipline ... Ben Oosterbaan helped in his wisdom and thinking ... and Bud Grant has the ability to get the performance."

Known for having welded together Minnesota's defensive "Purple People Eaters," Hollway said superior Cardinal speed may "allow us to do certain things we could not do with the Vikings."

"The Cardinals have three of the fastest receivers in the NFL, strong running backs and a strong weapon in the arm of their quarterback," he said. "In these areas they have more than we did last year with the Vikings."

Still, he said, I believe in sound football. Sound football involves making the fewest mistakes and at the same time forcing errors by the opponents."

Boat Business Is Booming

A boat show is like the first fresh whiff of spring air in the country. You keep coming back for more.

Only in recent years did we discover the best way to see in one day most of the boats at the National Show held annually in New York's Coliseum. Best tine to go is when the show is open to the trade and press, but closed to the public.

Even then it takes a full day to see the sailboats, yachts, motor boats, outboards and various other craft and equipment.

When you walk eight blocks to work five mornings a week behind the unhealthy exhaust fumes of a Fifth Avenue bus a boat show is like a midsummer's dream.

And when you look at the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers figures a lot of people did more than dream in the last year. There was a recession, we were told, but apparently it did not touch boating people because in 1970 estimated retail boat expenditures reached a new high of $3.4 billion.

Nobody in the trade anticipates such a boon for 1971.

Yet, there they were: a $107,200 Pacemaker called a 48-foot sport fisherman of fiberglass.

A 47-foot Concorde yacht "for about $140,000" with air conditioning. It has everything but running maids.

A 39-foot Pearson sailboat sleeping seven and selling for $29,100, less sails.

A 47-foot fiberglass houseboat sleeping 10 and selling for $33,000. Just the thing for a couple with eight kids.

There were four other craft 35 feet or more ranging from $30,000 to $81,000. One of them, a 42-foot luxury double cabin sedan sleeping eight with twin 330 engines, was unpriced.

About the only thing missing from the big show was a design for the aluminum 12 meter yachts planned for the 1973 America's Cup competition. Maybe next year.

There were hundreds of smaller craft on display at the 61st National but we skipped those. When we dream about boating we dream first class, or stay home.

Seals Lose Match, 3-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bare-faced Joe Daley got an early edge and never gave California a chance to get even as Buffalo blanked the Golden Seals 3-0 in the National Hockey League Friday night.

In the only other NHL game, the Vancouver Canucks ripped Detroit 5-3.

Daley, one of the last goalies to play without a mask, kicked out 26 shots for his first shutout of the season and the third of his career.

The Sabres gave him goals to work with early. First Eddie Shack ripped a power play shot behind California's Gary Smith at 4:06 of the opening period. Less than three minutes later, Phil Goyette set up Don Marshall in front of the Seals net for Buffalo's second goal.

YANGEY RECOVERS FROM TRAP — Bert Yancey, a co-leader at the start of Friday's third round in the Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic, explodes fromwetsand at the second hole on the La Quinta Country Club course. The ball lipped the cup 75 feet away and stopped a foot beyond the pin, from where Yancey tapped in for par 4. He played the round in 71 and is seven under par for the three rounds. (AP Wirephoto)

Norway's Mork Wins Ski Jump

By ROBERT H. JOHNSON JR.
Associated Press Sports Editor

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — Tall, slim Ingolf Mork of Norway, who has been plagued by falls this season, overcame a bad takeoff, kept his balance and soared to the men's 90 meter ski jump championship of International Winter Sports Week today.

Mork leaped 103 and 101 meters for a total of 236 points and the title.

Rosi Mittermeier of West Germany led two French girls to the first three places on a women's slalom course so icy and precipitious that no other foreigners made a finish that counted. All fell or missed gates. Two favorites were injured, along with another girl.

A 33-year-old Finnish mother of a twin boy and girl upset Russia's world champion in the 10 kilometer cross country race.

The Soviet Union picked up two more gold medals in the men's 5,000 meter speed skating contest and the women's 500 meter event, a Russian sweep. A Dutch world champion narrowly defeated a Russian in the women's 1,500 meter event.

East German men won both the singles and doubles luge race, and a West German girl won the women's luge.

The results in these pre-Olympic games left Russia in the gold nedal lead with seven. West Germany now has four, France three, Norway and East Germany two apiece and the United States, Japan, Italy, Finland and The Netherlands one each.

Only .01 of a second—the closest slalom finish this season—separated Miss Mittermeier and Annie Famose. Miss Mittermeier had been second with 51.73 seconds in the first run, with Miss Famose third in 51.95 behind Jocelyne Perillat's 51.07. In the second course, Miss Famose posted the fastest time, 48.84, with Miss Mittermeier again second in 49.05, and Miss Perillat third in 52.9. But the German girl's combined times gave her the victory.

Finland's Marjatta Kajosmaa beat the 1970 world champion, Alevtina Olunina, 28, in the cross country with a time of 34 minutes 58.78 seconds.

Valery Troitsky of Russia won the men's 5,000 meter speed skating race in 7 minutes 54.5 seconds, followed by Hirobuni Otsuka of Japan in 7:58.9 and his teammate, Masahiro Ayuzawa, in 8:01.1.

Vera Krasnova won the women's 500 meter speed skating in 45.25 seconds. Her Russian teammates, Tatjyna Averina and Alla Bujanova, placed second and third.

The Netherlands' Johanna Schut plugged the dike and stemmed the Russian skating tide with a 2:28.00 victory in the 1,500 meters. Three times world champion in the 3,000 meters, she beat Miss Averina's time of 2:28.50 by only half a second.

Wolfgang Scheidel gave East Germany its first gold medal with a four-run total of 3:52.35 in singles competition of the luge, a small sled in which the contestant sits upright with his feet forward.

Then Horst Heinlein and Reinhardt Bredow added an East German gold with a winning time of 1:32.52 in the luge doubles.

Hasse Borjes of Sweden, world 500 meter champion, took the lead at the halfway point of the men's combined speed skating sprint with a first in the 500 and second in the 1,000 meters for 81.480 points.

Wolfgang Zimmerer piloted West Germany's four-man bobsled team to the lead after two of the four runs, with a total time of 2:26.98. Nevio de Zordo had Italy in second place with 2:27.53.

Kubinski Scores 72

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Paul Kubinski outscored the entire Fabens High School basketball team by 38 points Friday night in a 102-34 El Paso Parkland victory.

Kubinski hit 24 of 25 free throws and 38 shots from the field for 72 points.

The 5-foot, 11-inch Kubinski has been in double figures in 56 games in the past two years. His previous high was 48 points against Marfa.

The Baltimore Orioles led American League teams in road attendance the last two years.

Snyder's Tigers Tie School Mark

LUBBOCK—Snyder's Tigers tied a school record here Friday night by defeating Estacado 75-50 in a District 3-AAA basketball tilt. It was the 22nd victory of the campaign by the Bengals, and it tied the Snyder High School record for most victories in one season. The Tigers are 6-1 in second half play. If they beat Sweetwater there Tuesday, they can set a new record for most victories in a season.

Both teams were cold as leftover potatoes in the first half. The Bengals hit only 13 of 44 for 28 per cent from the field. The host Matadors connected on only 10 of 40 from the floor in the first half for 25 per cent.

However, both teams warmed up considerably in the second half as the Tigers dunked in 19 of 32 for a highly respectable 59 per cent. Estacado meshed 11 of 25 for 44 per cent in the second half.

Snyder took a 13-10 lead in the first quarter and boosted it to 30-25 at halftime. Hitting with uncanny accuracy in the third quarter the Tigers pulled away as they posted a 54-37 margin. They also outscored the hosts 21-13 in the last quarter.

Two lads had outstanding games for the Bengals—Jerry Brooks and Dubby Preston. Dub put in 11 field goals and four free throws for 26 points. Jerry roped 12 field goals and one extra point for 25 total. Estacado also had two boys in double figures. Daniel Johnson canned 13 points, and Chris Stubblefield posted 10.

The hot pace in the second half was just too much for the Matadors to contend with.

At the line in the first half, Snyder sank only two of five for 40 per cent while Estacado put in five of nine for 55 per cent. In the second half, Snyder dropped in seven of 11 for 64 per cent while Estacado zeroed in three of seven for 43 per cent.

Snyder also held a big edge in rebounds, taking 48 off the boards compared with only 21 for Estacado. Jerry Brooks and Dubby Preston also were outstanding on the boards. Preston grabbed 14 rebounds, and Brooks claimed 12.

In the B game, Estacado prevailed by a 55-45 count. The Kittens took an 18-13 lead in the first quarter and remained ahead, 28-26, at halftime. They still led 42-39 after three quarters, but Estacado rallied with 16 points in the last quarter while holding the Kittens to only three points to score a come-from-behind victory.

Moell Blalock led Kitten scorers with 15 points, and Jimmy Don Dyess contributed 11. For Estacado, Newman tallied 22 points, and Richardson roped 15.

Elsewhere in District 3-AAA Friday night, Lamesa beat Dunbar 70-54, Brownfield tripped Lake View 83-64, and Sweetwater thumped Colorado City 72-64.

Scots' Buchanan Retains Crown

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The partisan fans came to boo the visitors from Scotland but stayed to cheer him. And today Kenny Buchanan headed for home in Edinburgh, his world lightweight boxing crown intact.

"He's the champ and it will take a lot of fighter to beat him," said the challenger, Ruben Navarro. He pointed to himself as the fighter who could do it.

Ruben, the No. 3 contender who took the title fight on 72 hours notice, gave it a good go. But he was no match for the boxing dandy from abroad, who retained the championship by unanimous decision in 15 spirited rounds.

Navarro boxed his way out of the barrios of East Los Angeles and his Mexican-American supporters gave him a thunderous cheer when he entered the ring at the Los Angeles Sports Arena while greeting the Scot with hearty boos.

The boos rocked the place every time Buchanan would pepper Ruben with a volley of jabs, hooks and an occasional right cross—and then dance out of danger.

Gradually the boos faded and, in the final two rounds, the cheers went to Buchanan—as well as their gallant hometown hero.

Navarro's deadliest weapon is an overhand right. He scored with it on occasion. But too often it was foiled by Kenny's fall-away defense. The blow would start, Kenny would lean away and either the punch was short or had lost its anger by the time it reached target.

The referee scored it 9-4, Los Angeles Judge Lee Grossman had 9-4 and Harry Gibbs, from London, had it 9-2. The Associated Press scored it 10-3.

Swede Sets Vault Mark

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's a long way up and a long way down when little Kjell Isaksson jumps—but today he's back on top where he once was as king of the world's indoor pole vaulters.

The little Swedish athlete, once holder of the indoor mark, soared 17 feet 7¼ inches Friday night to earn top billing on an international card at the Times Indoor Games Track Meet. Isaksson leaped three-quarters of an inch over the world mark set eight months ago by Jan Johson.

Lee Evans won two races, Tom Ron Ruden proved he's one of America's top middle-distance runners and two men couldn't be separated at the finish line of the mile.

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — John Ralston, football coach of Stanford's Rose Bowl upset winners over unbeaten Ohio State, is the son of Milo Ralston who earned his letter at Michigan State as 1923 baseball team manager.

John, a graduate of Norway, Mich., high, also had an uncle, Merle, who played on Michigan State's 1924 basketball team.

Astros' Spring Training Slated

HOUSTON (AP) — The first 26 members of the Houston Astros spring training squad are scheduled to report Wednesday to spring headquarters at Cocoa, Fla.

The first group includes 21 pitchers and five catchers.

They will be followed in about a week by the remaining 17 players, nine infielders and eight outfielders, which will bring the total to 43.

The Astros, who will begin their 10th National League season this year, will open the spring exhibition campaign March 5 by hosting the Boston Red Sox at Cocoa Stadium.

The shortstop's job is up for grabs this year with Metzger, a winter acquisition from the Chicago Cubs, slated to battle the veteran Menke for the position. If Metzger wins it Menke could wind up on first base or in the outfield.

Pitchers Wilson and Griffin had their troubles last year. Griffin battled Tendonitis and was ineffective all year. Wilson missed just about all of April with arm difficulties and went halfway through the season before regaining his form.

If these two are 100 per cent recovered, then manager Harry Walker's starting pitching group could be Dierker (16-12), Billingham (13-9), Wilson (11-6), Griffin (3-13) and Blasingham (3-3).

Gladding (7-4) and 18 saves, Culver, Lemaster, Ray and Cook likely will start out as chief bullpenners.

Houston will play a 23-game Florida exhibition schedule and return to the Astrodome for a March 31 exhibition game against the New York Yankees. Exhibitions against the Yankees and Minnesota will continue through April 4.

The Astros meet the Los Angeles Dodgers in the Astrodome April 5 in the Houston League opener. They will be at home for seven games, three against the Dodgers and four against the Chicago Cubs.

Machine Servicemen

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: Could you give me some information, or tell me where I could get some, on jobs available fixing office machines? – R.C., Charlotte, N.C.

"Business machine servicemen" is the broad category of skilled workers who maintain and repair many types of increasingly complex business equipment: typewriters, adding and calculating machines, cash registers, electronic computers and other data-processing machines, dictating and transcribing machines, and mailing, duplicating, copying and microfilm equipment.

HOWEVER, within this broad category, there's a vast difference in what you must know to service different types of equipment; for example, repairing an adding machine is relatively simple compared to repairing a computer.

MUCH OF THE WORK – but not all – is done in offices where machines are used [you should be neat and personable]. Mechanical aptitude is necessary: you'll work with tools and equipment – some simple, some sophisticated. Sales work is often part of the job: selling maintenance contracts, supplies such as special paper, ink, ribbons and stencils, and, in some cases, new equipment. (Smaller employers, particularly, may require you to wear more than "1 hat," selling as well as servicing equipment.) When you sell, you generally receive a commission in addition to wages. In larger businesses, you may specialize in 1 or 2 types of machines; in smaller businesses or independent repair shops, you generally work on more types of machines.

EMPLOYERS of the estimated 115,000 business machine servicemen employed in 1968 (latest figures) were chiefly manufacturers of business machines, local shops specializing in repair work or a combination of sales and service, or large organizations with enough machines to need full-time servicemen.

TYPES OF SERVICEMEN. Bear in mind that there may be some overlapping in these jobs: typewriter serviceman, adding machine serviceman, calculating machine serviceman, cash register serviceman, accounting-bookkeeping machine serviceman, data-processing equipment serviceman, dictating machine serviceman, duplicating and copy machine serviceman, serviceman of postage and mailing equipment. Job titles vary by employer.

EARNINGS depend on the type of machine, where you're employed and length of service. Most recent figures come from a 1968 Federal Labor Department study: For those who repair only typewriters, adding machines or simpler photocopy equipment – about $95 to $230/week range. More skill is needed for cash registers, calculators, accounting-bookkeeping machines, nonelectrical accounting-statistical machines – about $115-245/week. Top pay went to electronic data-processing machine servicemen; the most highly skilled computer servicemen earned as much as $288/week. Salaries are a little higher now.

QUALIFICATIONS for business machine service jobs include a high school diploma, although some firms accept non-grads with superior mechanical aptitude or appropriate experience. Tests are often given for: knowledge of basic electricity or electronic fundamentals, manual dexterity, general intelligence and abstract reasoning, as well as mechanical.

Qualifications are higher for highly skilled jobs servicing complex equipment, and usually include at least 1 more year of training or experience after high school. Analytical ability and a broad technical background is needed; for example, you have to be familiar with programming to rule out programming bugs as the cause of computer malfunction.

TRAINING is available on the job, in equipment manufacturers' schools (when you're already on the payroll), public and private vocational school programs, 2-year college technician programs, and the Armed Forces. Best bet is to check with your school counselor or State employment service office (it's free) to see what's available in your locale.

OUTLOOK. This is a year round job, steadier than many skilled trades. Although major established employers may not hire as many new employees during economic downturns, layoffs are not common. Future prospects appear favorable as demand for business equipment continues to increase.

WHERE TO WRITE – The Business Equipment Manufacturers Association, Publications Department, 1828 L St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20036, is preparing a new career booklet which is expected to be ready in late Spring. # Letters To Editor

To The Daily News:

To all who read my last letter, I want to apologize. As far as I know there has NEVER been a shadow of any wrong-doing in the basement of the St. Elizabeth Catholic Church in Snyder. Evidently it has always been well chaperoned. What I tried to infer was that it is a shame that that is the ONLY place children can go if they want to dance.

I would much rather have my children (if I had young ones) go to a nice clean dance than to the drive ins, showing modern shows; or tan to drive around and park on roadsides.

I'm sorry I wrote my last letter so hurriedly that it was misunderstood. In the P. S. part it sounded like I had only seen two real nice homes made out of old ones and modernized. An old house made out of good hard wood, on a good foundation is a much better house than one built out of new lumber for the same price.

Mrs. J. E. Sorrells

Oil Drilling Activity Drops

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Oil drilling activity in the United States has dropped to its lowest level in more than 30 years.

Warren L. Baker, executive vice president of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors, says 1971 appears headed for an extremely low drilling level.

"Early trends indicate United States oil and gas drilling activity will undergo another large decrease in 1971, falling to the lowest level since the mid-1930s," Baker reports.

Baker, with a Feb. 3 deadline, prepared his report for publication in the current edition of the association's bi-monthly magazine.

His remarks were geared to a statistical report on the number of active rotary drilling rigs on Feb. 1. The total then was only 886, compared with 1,122 a month earlier and 1,076 a year earlier.

After making revisions in view of the Feb. 1 total, Baker sent his report to the printers and then saw the downward trend continue. Only 879 rotary rigs were making hole Feb. 8, compared with 1,043 just a month earlier and 1,049 the comparable year earlier date.

Baker said the 886 total for Feb. 1 represented a 17.6 per cent decline in a year and a 26.1 per cent decrease in just seven weeks or since the year-end activity peaked at 1,200 rigs on Dec. 14.

"The 886 active rotaries on Feb. 1 are the lowest level since records began in 1938," he said. "The current level contrasted with a low of 914 last Aug. 17 and a bottom of 913 active rigs during June, 1943, when drilling was restricted because of World War II. There is a good chance the rig count will go even lower before next fall."

Baker said the large decrease in rig activity is particularly discouraging because of hopes the November 25 cent per barrel advance in crude oil prices would provide an incentive for higher drilling levels.

"It is a little early to pass final judgment on the impact of the higher crude oil prices, but the rig decline since mid-December indicates the 25 cent per barrel increase did not go far enough toward offsetting rising costs," he said.

Baker said two industry publications have forecast a decline in oil and gas drilling for 1971.

The Oil & Gas Journal has predicted the drilling of 1,732 fewer wells and 4.1 million less feet of hole in 1971, a 5.9 per cent drop in wells and a 2.8 per cent decline in footage.

World Oil Magazine forecasts 1971 will see drilling activity decrease by 501 wells and 1.1 million feet of hole.

"One bright aspect is the prediction by the Oil & Gas Journal that wildcat drilling will advance 498 wells to 8,892," Baker said.

"Increased wildcatting could be a forerunner of higher drilling rates. However, World Oil forecasts 99 fewer wildcat wells will be drilled in 1971 than last year."

Only 29,450 wells were drilled in 1970, compared with 32,187 in 1969. Total footage drilled dropped to 145.1 million feet, compared with 157.1 million in 1969. The number of wildcat or exploratory wells was estimated at 8,400, compared with 9,701 in 1969.

The domestic industry drilled a record 58,160 wells in 1956. Well completions have declined in 10 of the 14 years since then and the 1970 estimate of 29,450 is 49.3 per cent below the 1956 record level.

Glenn Sees War Widened

BRIDGEWATER, Mass. (AP) — Former astronaut John Glenn, a combat fighter pilot in World War II and Korea, says the use of U.S. air power over Laos runs the risk of widening the war.

Answering questions after a speech at Bridgewater State College Tuesday, Glenn, who sought the Democratic Senate nomination in Ohio last year, said if American aircraft are shot down, U.S. ground troops will have to be sent in to retrieve the pilots and crew members.

As for ending the Vietnam war with a victory, he said "to militarily solve the war we would have to occupy the entire country and this would take 2½ million men."

On Dec. 31, most Japanese eat buckwheat noodles, said to represent longevity.
