A City of Flowers—Time to Mail Early—Gone Forever—Neff on Ignorance—

The annual flower show sponsored by the Womans Forum opens this morning, and should draw a good attendance, both because the exhibits are said to be unusually beautiful, and because Wichita Falls residents are interested in flower growing. Success with flowers here demands considerable time and attention, but no section of the state gives better returns in quality and profusion of blossoms. Every Wichita Falls home owner, every Wichita Falls resident, should be interested in encouraging and developing the growth of flowers here. It is a work that pays a double dividend—in the pleasure we derive from a beautiful city and in the increased values given all property.

Postmaster O. P. Maricle issues his annual appeal for the public to "mail early" Christmas packages and greeting cards. Probably if all postal workers took a holiday on Christmas as do most of us, 90 per cent of our mail would be posted earlier and in time for delivery Christmas eve. As it is, there will be the usual last minute delay and rush, and the public will cheat a great many federal workers who also have families and friends they would like to join in celebrating the day, out of many pleasures of the season.

Cards in groups of ten or more can be mailed now for delivery two or three days before Christmas. That is real service. Even the most laggard Christmas mailer should be glad to take advantage of this convenience.

Another sign of the changing times—the early morning milk delivery, between midnight and early dawn, is to become a thing of the past December 1. Dairy owners have voted for daylight delivery. It probably will not make a great deal of difference, as an increasing quantity of milk is now being supplied patrons during the day and in the afternoon. The 3 a. m. or 4 a. m. milk wagon is out of date. Walter Doney, the wise-cracking advertising man who probably knows, says the time was when milk wagons were classed as public utilities, for gentlemen to come home with or by, as the case might be. Those days are gone forever.

Former Governor Pat M. Neff, president of the Baptist General convention now in session here, made a forceful appeal for support of denominational schools as "the coaling stations of civilization." Church schools, he pointed out, supply a need of both religion and education that public schools cannot do because the state cannot function in teaching religion. Then the former governor said: "Ignorance costs Texas more than all public and denominational schools in the state. More than half the convicts in Texas are illiterate. One-fifth of them were never in a school of any kind. It costs more to send a boy to the penitentiary than to send him through the public schools."

Abject poverty is the stepmother of illiteracy. Crass ignorance is the mother of poverty. Poverty and ignorance combined are responsible for well-filled jails and work houses and enlarged penitentiaries. All the children of all the people should be given developed heads and trained hands.

Bolt of Lightning Hits Only Person Known To Be Killed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—A tornado, followed by two heavy rainstorms that drenched the city, struck two sections of Washington and neighboring communities today, leaving in its wake at least one dead, more han a score of injured, and several million dollars damage to property.

The storm, descending first around 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and abetted by a 53-mile gale and blinding rain, struck in the southeast and northeast quarters of Washington, tearing off roof tops as if they were band box lids, blowing down trees and transmission wires, and sending hundreds scurrying to safety within their homes. The only person known to have been killed was Mrs. Jane Carter, who was struck by lightning.

Most of the damage resulted to small dwellings, although many automobiles were turned over and several persons were injured in this manner.

That path cut by the tornado was at least a mile in width and about 20 miles long, Alexandria, Va., on the south, and Hyattsville, Md., on the north, reporting having felt the blow and rain, with slight damage to wooden structures.

Police tonight were erecting barriers in the affected area by placing blown down trees at intersections to keep out possible looters.

Secretary of War Davis offered to place troops in this section at the disposal of city authorities, but none had been requested early tonight.

BANK BANDITS DEFY GUN LAW

$5000 Reward For Dead Robbers Ignored

By Universal Service

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 17.—Several days ago officials of the Texas Bankers association raised the ante on dead bank bandits in an effort to curb the spreading wave of bank robberies. For two days not a bank robbery was reported.

But, today, two unmaksed youths walked into the East Grand State bank here, commanded the employes to "stick 'em up," and cleaned the cash tills of about $1500 in cash.

One of the youths scooped up the money while his companion kept the employes in front of his gun. Not four feet away from him was a sign reading:

"A reward of $5000 will be paid for every bank bandit killed during a bank robbery."

When the youthful bandit's eye caught sight of the placard, he asked why someone didn't attempt to get their "Christmas money."

The bandits were unsuccessful in locking the employes in the vault but that didn't prevent them from escaping in a small roadster. They fled toward Garland, Texas.

Norris To Speak Here On Sunday

Al Smith's Candidacy To Get Pastor's Fire

Dr. J. Frank Norris, Fort Worth pastor, late Thursday night postponed his next address in Wichita Falls until next Sunday afternoon, when he is to speak, on the subject, "Six Reasons Why Al Smith Should Not Be President of the United States." He further announced that the meeting place will be Bellevue park.

The Rev. Morris made a second statement late Thursday night, supplementing the speech made Thursday noon before a large aggregation, in which he stated that "the resolutions passed last night by the Baptist convention were in accord with principles for which I have been fighting for seven years."

Repudiating the theory that the resolutions were designed to stir up another "war" the Rev. Norris said Thursday night that the "passage of the resolution ends the controversy so far as I am concerned."

"I started this fight seven years ago for the fundamentals against evolution, and since the fight has been won, the convention has settled in favor of 100 per cent fundamentalism, and repudiates evolution; and since Dr. S. P. Brooks, the srustees, and the faculty accept officially the McDaniel resolution, everybody should be satisfied and go home and go to work."

Some Oil Fans Predicted Million Barrels Of Production

ONE 65,000 WELL

Texas Oil Bureau Man Certifies Capacity Of Gusher

DALLAS, Nov. 17. (AP)—J. A. Morehouse, deputy supervisor of the state oil and gas division at Fort Stockton, tonight wired The Associated Press figures given the No. 2-C Yates well of the Transcontinental Oil company an official rating of 65,880 barrels a day.

Describing the proration test, Morehouse said that the well, completed at a depth at 993 feet, was gauged by the field prorating umpire, B. C. Clardy and on a 45-minute test through three four-inch flow lines into a battery of five 500 barrel tanks gauged 2059 barrels, when all space in the tanks was filled and the well shut in.

Eight-Inch Hole

"Well is completed with an eight and one-quarter inch hole through oil sands, and had it been connected with an eight-inch flow line to the tanks, it would no doubt have shown a considerably increased flow," Morehouse wired. "On the basis of the 45-minute gauge, the well is credited with a production of 2,745 barrels an hour and potential production of 65,880 barrels a day.

"One certainly could not expect a well of this capacity to produce that amount indefinitely, and it would no doubt show depreciation very soon.

"To arrive at a basis of production for prorating the pipeline runs of each producer in the field, however, a one hour gauge is taken on the first and 15th of each month of all wells in the field, the wells then

BAPTISTS HEAR MANY REPORTS

Baylor University Name Change Order

The board of trustees of Baylor university, consisting at present of 21 members, was authorized by the Baptist general convention in a resolution passed late Thursday afternoon to increase its membership to 27 members, seven of whom shall be chosen from Dallas county, and seven from McClennan county. At the same time Cullen F. Thomas, vice president of the convention, and author of the resolution, introduced a second measure authorizing the board of trustees to change the name of the institution from "Baylor University at Waco, Texas," as it reads in the charter, to "Baylor University." As explained by President Pat M. Neff, the name "was changed to what you thought it was all the time," just as a matter of convenience.

Educational Work.

The afternoon session was devoted almost wholly to the adoption of reports from the several Baptist institutions of the state. Dr. S. P. Brooks reported that the present enrollment of Baylor university was 2165, of whom 1467 were students in Waco, and 698 were in the various professional schools of Dallas. In his financial report he stated that the total available cash and unpaid pledges of the institution aggregated $167,857.80. This report was followed by that from Baylor college, at Belton, Texas, read by the president, Dr. J. C. Hardy. Dr. Hardy pointedly brought out the fact that the "life of Baylor university began on the old Baylor college campus at Independence," and that college leaders were proud of that fact. The college for girls received its separate charter in 1866, and opened as a separate institution at Independence, Texas, where it was maintained for 41 years. This year, he said, it is completing its 42nd year at Belton, is in the 86th year of its independence, and going strong.

J. D. Sandifer, president of Simmons college, Abilene, gave a brief outline of the progress of the institution preceding the report of Howard Payne college by the president, Dr. E. Godbold. The enrollment of the latter, he said, was reported at 561 for this year, a slight decrease on account of the recent increase in tuition. Other reports were heard from John Caylor, president of Burleson college at Greenville; Wesley Smith, president of the College at Marshall; Dr. L. J. Mims, president of Rusk college at Rusk, and from the San Marcos Baptist academy, of San Marcos. All of the reports were unanimously accepted by the convention.

The report of the committee on Christian education was read by the Rev. J. B. Thorn, pastor of the Columbus Street Baptist church, Waco. The report was steadfast against the practice of dissemination of religious education through state institutions, stating "that Baptists will never consent to its teachers remaining in state institutions, and never will they consent to the teaching of non-religiousness and atheism."

"The responsibility for Christian education," the Rev. Thorn said, "rests with the churches and the home. By systematizing the edu-

Accused Teapot Juror To Defer Plea For Redress in Charge of Tampering

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—One of the knots in the oil jury tampering tangle apparently was removed today when the government and counsel for Edward J. Kidwell, juror No. 11, agreed to take Kidwell's petition for redress temporarily out of court. Kidwell was accused by Don K. King, Washington newspaper reporter, J. Ray Akers, a street car conductor, of having said he expected an automobile as long as a block at the end of the trial of Albert D. Fall and Harry F. Sinclair. He denied the charge and petitioned the court to hold King and Akers in contempt for having talked to him about the case.

Juror's Hearing Today.

Inasmuch as Justice Siddons has appointed a committee to determine whether there was any contempt anywhere in the events which led up to a mistrial in the case, Kidwell's counsel agreed to wait for the report of this committee before proceeding further if the justice would agree to such a course. This attitude will be made known in court tomorrow when the juror's petition is scheduled for hearing.

There was no further grand jury activity apparent today in connection with the case. Henry Mason Day, who, with Harry F. Sinclair and Sheldon Clark are charged with conspiracy in connection with the activities of Burns detectives in shadowing the trial jury, failed in an attempt to have his bond lowered from $25,000 to $10,000 when the government objected.

Two Men Accused.

The district attorney's office contended Day and Clark, both Sinclair officials, received reports from the Burns agents. Both declined to testify before the grand jury, and today Assistant District Attorney Burkinshaw argued that Day had no regular place of residence in the United States and that therefore the $25,000 bond should stand.

Day will be given a hearing Monday.

ELEVEN NAMED ON REMUS JURY

Accused Rum Czar Picks Men He'll Face

CINCINNATI, Nov. 17. (AP)—George Remus got a pointed warning from the bench today that continuation of his participation as counsel for himself in his trial for uxoricide depended upon his adherence to rulings of the court.

Remus clashed spectacularly and wordily with Charles P. Taft, II, Hamilton county prosecutor, and continued a one-sided debate after Judge Chester R. Shook had rendered a decision.

He brought up short, however, with this from the court: "Now, Mr. Remus, if you are going to remain in this case, as an attorney, you must abide by the ruling of the court."

Remus Begs Pardon

Remus sat down with a muttered, "I beg your pardon, your honor."

For the fourth time in the four days of the tedious period of examination of veniremen, Remus provided the fireworks which lifted the court session from dreary routine to the status of vivid drama.

George Awrey, 67-year-old retired buyer of oil property, was under examination as to his qualifications for jury service when the storm broke.

Rearing out in his great voice which even in its middle tones fills the court room, crooning as if to a baby, Remus fired questions at Mr. Awrey which depicted for the full jury box Remus' estimation of his position.

"The fact that my life is in the balance would not influence you, would it?" Remus asked in low and sincere tones.

"No," was the response.

Remus' Tone Booms

"And the fact that I am an ex-bootlegger, an ex-convict, and a disbarred lawyer," Remus boomed, with his face grimacing and a tone of scorn in his voice as he analyzed himself, "is that going to influence you? Are you going to charge that against me?"

"No," came again from the venireman.

It was when Remus softly asked the aged ventreman if he would not consider all circumstances surrounding the case that Taft leaped to his feet with an objection.

Heated exchanges between the two included the prosecutor's demand that the jury be sent out and Remus' assertion that a suggestion for such a maneuver was "ridiculous."

Judge Shook got control of the situation and delivered his ultimatum to the defendant-counsel, the only break in the dry routine of qualifying jurors.

11 Tentative Jurors

At the adjournment two women and nine men sat as tentative jurors, the same as at the opening of court, excepting that seven faces had been changed by the prosecution exercising two and the defense five peremptory challenges.

The defense still had six peremptories left and it was thought there was small chance of obtaining a jury tomorrow.

BAPTISTS PICK PLACE FOR 1928 MEETING

Greenville Pastor Named To Deliver Annual Sermon

NEFF IN TRIBUTE

Workers of Church In Behalf of Orphans Given Cheers

Mineral Wells was unanimously selected for the 1928 meeting place of the Texas State Baptist convention at the meeting Thursday night at the city auditorium.

The selection was made on the recommendation made in the report of the time and place committee which was read by J. B. McLain, chairman. The meeting will be opened in Mineral Wells on Nov. 14, 1928. The pastor to deliver the annual sermon will be the Rev. W. R. White, pastor of the First Baptist church of Greenville. The Rev. W. R. Hornburg, pastor of the Coggin Avenue Baptist church of Brownwood was named alternate.

The committee selected as director of music, Lee A. Stulce of Abilene, and as alternate music director, Paul Harper of Corsicana. All of the recommendations of the time and place committee were unanimously adopted.

The session opened with a song service led by Dow Mooney, home mission board singer of Dallas. Mr. Mooney also gave a vocal solo.

Pat M. Neff, president of the conference, introduced L. O. Vermillion, superintendent of the Southern Baptist sanitorium at El Paso.

The convention then went into the report of the foreign mission board which was given by the Rev. W. R. White.

Mission Work Urged

Urging Texas Baptists to devote more time during the coming year to the study of foreign missions, the Rev. White declared that this field of activity had "made the Baptists what they are today." "Whenever Christianity has ceased to be missionary," he continued, "then it ceased to be Christian. If we do not give Christianity, we lose it, no matter how orthodox it may be."

The Rev. White, continuing the report, stated that there are 533 missionaries in the field today; that there are 612 Women's missionary schools with a membership of 15,100; and 560 other schools, with an enrollment of 22,516 students.

The discussion of the report, given over to short addresses by several foreign missionaries who were present at the convention from foreign countries, was opened by Dr. W. B. Bagby, Seminary Hill missionary, who has spent the last 47 years in the missionary fields of Brazil.

Baptists in Brazil

Dr. Bagby related that when he first touched the foreign soil in 1880 there was not a single Christian church in the land, and not a single missionary.

"Now," he said, "we have 30,000 Baptists in Brazil alone, representing between three and four thousand churches, and the work has spread into neighboring countries of Chili, Paraguay, and Columbia.

"There is one thing that we missionaries have learned in our work," Mr. Bagby continued. "That is, that the single hope of the human race is in your gospel and mine. No other religion other than our religion ever saved a soul. Some were saved in spite of them, but never were they saved by them." Dr. Bagby declared that he was going to return to his work, and offered a plea for the Baptists of Texas to return more missionaries to their fields of endeavor.

B. W. Orrick, of the Argentine and Urugay missionary fields, brought greetings from "the least known of all fields being explored by Baptists," and urged that more of the denomination take an interest in the work. After speaking of the various advantages of the countries in which he is working, the missionary displayed the flag of Uruguay, bringing the applause of the convention. F. S. Groner, general secretary of the convention, applauded the work of the missionary, and asked that more indulgence be given the reports of the foreign workers.

Neff Pays Tribute

After a brief tribute to the workers in foreign countries by Pat M. Neff, convention president, the remainder of the night session was devoted to the report of the Buckner's orphan home, and to the observance in tributes paid by many speakers, of the 50th anniversary of the institution. This night of the convention, it was explained by Hal F. Buckner, son of the founder of the home, was set aside in a resolution passed by the 1926 convention for this observance, and plans were made last year to show motion pictures of the life in the home. Owing to unexpected delay

Vernon Boy In Critical Condition After Being Pinned Under Big Truck

Special to The Record News.

Returning from Thalia where he had made some deliveries, Newberry was crowded into a ditch when a light touring car in which were several negroes, darted on to the main highway from a side road, a spectator said. Efforts to locate the negroes have failed.

POULTRY SHOW AT MEMPHIS

Hall County Association To Exhibit

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Nov. 17.—Extensive plans are being made for the seventh annual poultry show of the Hall County District Poultry association, which will be held in Memphis on December 20, 21, 22 and 23. This will be the second show in 1927, there being a show held on January 13.

Walter Burton of Dallas will be the judge. He has acted as judge in many poultry shows in Hall county, giving entire satisfaction.

Chas. A. Williams, president of association expects the show next month to far exceed anything ever held in Hall county, both in quality of birds and the number of entries. The Hall county association began seven years ago with a show of only 150 birds. In the last show there were exhibited more than 600 high quality fowls, and it is expected that the December show will far exceed that number, due to the fact that many more individuals have become interested in poultry during 1927.

Numerous breeders are planning on taking exhibits to the Panhandle Poultry association show that is to be held at Amarillo on December 8 to 13, and with the high quality birds that are found in Hall county they expect to capture some of the best premiums.

A large power plant will be constructed in connection with the $4,500,000 Masaryk Dam at Strekov, Czechoslovakia.

This decision was reached by the commissioners court of Collingsworth county, when the city counsel and a representative group of citizens met with the court here Monday.

Work on this paving started Tuesday, brick is being hauled and placed on the lawn.

The new paving project will allow double parking and two one way lanes on each side of the square. This will allow 24-foot parking space in the center, a 12-foot parking space on either side next to the curbs and two 22-foot driveways on either side. In order to make this enlargement, the size of the courthouse lawn will be reduced 24 feet on all sides.

The cost of putting down the paving (which will consist of brick surface on concrete foundation) will be approximately $8000.

The proposed paving will do much to simplify the traffic problem that arises in Wellington.

Iowa Woman Found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Always Helpful

Vinton, Iowa.—"When I was seventeen years old I had to stay at home from school. I finally had to quit school, I was so weak. I suffered for about two years before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, then I picked up one of your books and read it. I began taking the medicine. Now I am a housekeeper with six children, and I have taken it before each one was born. I cannot tell you all the good I have received from it. When I am not as well as can be I take it. I have been doing this for over thirteen years and it always helps me. I read all of your little books I can get and I tell everyone I know what the Vegetable Compound does for me."—Mrs. Frank Sellers, 510 7th Avenue, Vinton, Iowa.

Many girls in the fourth generation are learning thru their own personal experiences the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mothers who took it recommend it to their daughters as a dependable medicine.

FOLLY'S DAUGHTER

A Thrilling Mystery Story of New York Night Life

By ANN LISLE

Tony's Girl Brings Vital News to Mac Shannon

By Ann Lisle.

"THERE'S a girl to see you, Mr. Mac," said Miss Carl chief stenographer to MacNeil Shannon and so efficient that he was beginning to wonder if he couldn't promote her to the post of secretary and get rid of Mrs. Moore who had been annoying him progressively ever since she had declared her enmity to Jill Hathaway. "She's determined to see you. I think it's that same black-haired girl who was over here last week with a message from an Italian named Savelli."

ANN LISLE

"Why didn't you send her away?" Mac asked. "I discovered last week that she hadn't anything of importance to tell me."

"I couldn't send her away," Miss Carl sighed. "And somehow I don't think you'd better. That girl looked desperate. She may not tell you anything you want to hear. But I think she'll go crazy if you don't listen to what she's got to say."

"Send her in," Mac ordered. "There's enough misery in the world without refusing a hand to anyone who wants it so much she's got you pleading her cause."

A moment later a sullen-faced, tight-lipped girl with sultry eyes that flashed and smouldered slipped into his room.

"Last week you sent for me," she said. "Today I come."

"So I see. What can I do for you?"

"Maybe I'm going to do something for you," she said. "Last week when your dick asked me over, I come along with him nice and pretty, thinking that maybe you was one of them guys that don't like my Tony any too well. And knowing that I have a way with the men sometimes, I come here to see what I can uncover that may help Savelli. And the minute you find out I'm his girl you lose interest. You follow me?"

"All the way," Mac said. "Sit down and get your breath and tell me the rest."

"You treated me like a lady then," she said grimly. "You give me a hundred berries for my trouble. And with it you hand me a line I ain't forgot. Have you?"

"Refresh my memory," Mac asked with a twinkle in the steel gray of his eyes.

"You say: 'Fifty of that is for wasting your time on a gray-head when it's a young Neapolitan fisher boy you like. And fifty of it is because your hair ain't red.' Do you recall?"

"I didn't think you'd notice," Mac told her. "Well, what now?"

"Why, that little sentence about red hair struck in my crop. I wasn't able to tell you, not being a mind specialist," the girl said. "But stick it did. And last night when Tony tells me to get out and beat it, as my time is up and he's getting tired of a lowbrow like myself, something began to churn in the place where I'd park my brains if I had room for any inside of my little bean. And this morning when Tony gets me up early and starts housecleaning, including ridding the house of me, I asks him innocent like: 'Is it my type you're tired of Antonio, my heart? Is it red hair you're preferring?' And what do you think the answer was? Or aren't you interested?"

"I'm deeply interested," Mac told her, and the lines deepened at the corners of his mouth.

"He said: 'You said it baby.'"

She paused and looked at Mac grimly. She was demanding something—insisting on it, but he had no idea what it was that she was claiming of him.

"You don't get me at all," she sighed after a minute. "I'll try again. Last week you was interested enough in the fact that I ain't a carrot-top to hand me fifty berries. This week Tony tells me to vamoose and make way for a lady with red hair. I figger this way: If the girl that's coming to steal Tony from me has red hair, maybe she is the dame you was afraid was staying there last week. I don't want to get out. You don't want her to come into Tony's—net. Why don't we stop it?

"Let's go," Mac said, smiling boyishly as he arose.

The girl looked at him in astonishment. "I don't have to beg you or anything. You just get up and trek with me on suspicion like that?"

She snapped her fingers airily. Mac nodded.

"I was willing to pay you fifty dollars last week for being—you and not someone else," he said. "The someone else is my girl—that girl I love—the girl I drove from me just as cruelly, though not in the same way, as your Tony is driving you out. There's nothing I wouldn't give to get her back. Let's trek, as you put it. The sooner we get to Mr. Savelli's apartment the better."

Sitting in his limousine a few minutes later, the sullen-faced, black-haired girl said crisply: "It's hard for me to believe that any dame would ever look at another guy when my Tony's around. But if that girl don't quit him for you she don't know enough to be a real rival to a wise Jane like me."

"She's going to quit him," Mac said. "I'll carry her out screaming if I have to. And that, my dear, is for your sake as well as for mine—and hers," he added with a smile so sweet that the sullen-faced girl reached over and took his hand and said quietly:

"I had a bottle of vitriol I was thinking of using if you didn't come along and help me. But if the girl we find at Tony's is your sweetie and she wants him instead of you—I'll let her have him."

To Be Concluded.

BEIGE and brown are still being combined in most interesting fashion, as witness this beige jersey cardigan suit with a striped jumper in many shades of brown. A frock of white silk alpaca is distinguished by its symmetric applications and by a checked scarf tied once over. At the right, a rose-plaited skirt is worn with a white China-silk blouse and a black kasha cardigan with black-and-white bands.

SUCCESSFUL SOUFFLES

By Hannah Wing.

THERE was a time when the making of souffles was attended with a great deal of uncertainty, for the baking temperature of souffles is the most important consideration. As the is no uncertainty about an oven controlled by a regulator, a successful souffle is now a certainty.

Souffles are one of the most delicate of dishes. They may be planned for dessert or they may form the basic part of the meal. They may be used as a meat or vegetable extender. There are numberless possibilities here for the use of left-over foods, as well as for those served for the first appearance.

Vanilla Souffle.

One cup milk, 5 tablespoons ... ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 egg yolks, 3 egg whites, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Make a sauce by beating th butter, add the flour slowly, stirring constantly, and then add the salt and milk, stirring while ing. Cook until smooth and thickened. Cool this sauce, add the sugar, vanilla and egg yolks, which have been beaten to a yellow cream, then carefully fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour this mixture into a well-greased baking dish. Place the baking dish, uncovered, in a pan which contains about one inch of hot water. Bake for one hour in an oven of 325 degrees F.

Cocoanut Souffle.

One cup milk, 5 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 egg yolks, 3 egg whites, 1-3 p sugar, 1 cup cocoanut.

Make a sauce of the butter, flour, salt and milk. Add the sugar and cool. Add the yolks beaten, then fold in the egg whites, beaten stiff and the cocoanut. Bake at 325 degrees F. for one hour in a well-buttered baking dish, set in a pan having hot water to the depth of about one inch.

Almond Souffle.

One cup milk, five tablespoons flour, four tablespoons butter, one-third cup sugar, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one-half teaspoon almond extract, three egg yolks, three egg whites, one cup almonds (blanched and broken).

Proceed as for the other souffles, adding the almonds before the egg whites have been folded into the mixture. Bake for one hour in temperature of 325 degrees F.

Meat Souffle.

One cup milk, five tablespoons flour, four tablespoons butter, one and one-half cups left-over meat (chopped), one-eighth teaspoon pepper, dash of cayenne, one-half teaspoon salt, three egg yolks, three egg whites.

Prepare a sauce of the butter, flour and milk. Cool and add the beaten egg yolks and the chopped or ground meat, which has been well seasoned. Fold in carefully the stiffly beaten egg whites and pour this mixture into a well-buttered baking dish. Place the dish in a pan of hot water and bake at 325 degrees F. for one hour.

Do You Know?

You can clean a ceiling which has become smoke-blackened, by applying a fairly thick paste of starch and water, with a soft piece of flannel. Afterward allow it to dry and then gently dust with a soft brush.

Always be sure to have plenty of room when cutting out a dress. If you haven't a large enough table, cut out on the floor.

Do not discard blankets when they begin to thin. Two or three put together and covered with attractive sateen make excellent quilts. If they are made to "button down" in one or two places they will maintain a good shape.

The Habit of Courage

By L. Lamar Matthews

HENRY and his little brother Boswell were delivering hand bills. Up one side of the street and down the other they went ringing doorbells and leaving the circulars as they had been instructed to do. Henry darted into one house while Boswell ran into the next door, and so they made quick work of the throwing.

L.LAMAR MATTHEWS

Then all of a sudden Henry heard the ugly growl of a dog mingled with a shriek from his younger brother. Looking in the direction from which the terrifying sounds came the boy saw a huge dog almost upon Boswell. Before he could move, the dog leaped at the child, but Boswell dodged the attack. Then without a moment's hesitation Henry picked up a stick and ran shouting toward the ferocious animal.

As often happens, the dog recognized the fearlessness of a superior being and slunk away beneath the house. The boy's superb courage had saved his little brother from a horrible experience.

Now Henry has not always been a brave and bold lad. He can remember when he was afraid of many things—dogs in particular. He still shrinks from encounters with danger. That is human nature. But in an emergency he can be trusted to rise to the occasion and meet danger unafraid.

Three years ago Henry joined the Boy Scouts; and as every scout knows service and courage are keynotes of scoutdom. Those boys are trained in courage. They are inspired by tales of brave deeds and they are taught how to meet emergencies. Henry, being a most enthusiastic scout, read the books and practised the teachings week after week for a long, long time. In that way he got the lessons firmly planted in his consciousness. He gradually acquired the habit of courage through performing many small deeds of bravery. Then the big test came and he met it like a man.

Authorities on the subject agree that people are not born brave or cowardly. They are made brave or cowardly by training, by everyday influences, by environment.

When the habit of courage is firmly fixed in the nature of a boy, a girl, a man or woman, then that person can be depended upon to act without fear or cowardice in any situation.

It is persistent drill; patient teaching, wise counsel and good example that enables your son to throw off the shackles of fear. For as surely as habit controls other actions, habit controls the trait called "courage."

Sometimes it is companions who furnish training in physical courage. Sometimes it is the conditions which a cold world imposes upon homeless children. There are undoubtedly many fearless people who have never had any home training. But they got it in the hard school of experience. No one wants his own children subjected to unnecessary hardships. But every parent wants his children—especially his sons—to be brave.

Those who are unable to cultivate in their young ones the habit of courage may be able to find some organization that will help in that direction. It is certainly worth trying.

Why Familiar Scenes Upset You

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOU may have noticed at times that some of your close friends seem to undergo mysterious changes of temperament, even of personality, under certain circumstances. "I don't know what's come over So-and So, he's ... to a different being." "So-and-So seems to change for the worse when he meets his old friends." "I went to see my old school, and when I came back home I felt quite a stranger." These are a few of the expressions, or thoughts, that may have occurred to you under the circumstances that they indicate.

DR.CHAS.A.L.REED

The mental state responsible for these various phenomena has been discussed by the distinguished Dr. William Brown before the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Dr. Brown says that we can only understand these changes, which are quite real and not at all matters of "imagination," by realizing how complex a thing the mind is, and how little of our own minds we know and control.

Mind, in its most general sense, is one and indivisible. It is the supreme function of the human body and not a thing separate and apart from the body. Through this function there is a constant striving toward balance, with its consequent feeling of satisfaction. But, like all other things in highly evolved life, this function that we call mind has become very complex. An animal's mind is balanced, so far as we can understand, when it satisfies its instincts for self-preservation, self-propagation and the company of its own kind. A man's mind, especially if he be a city-dweller, has developed all kinds of side-lines to help him gain his fundamental end of balance. Its structure has been moulded to serve these ends. The mind is one function, but it has developed many varieties of activity, which are connected together by what we call "association."

Now as we live and learn, we find that we have also to unlearn. A man who is promoted from the despatching house to be a traveler has to "dissociate" all or most of the activities which he cultivated as a despatch clerk and develop a new side line, for the old one is no longer any use in helping him to gain his fundamental object, balance, or, as we often call it, success. This dissociation is a normal process of the mind. It does not mean destroying the function which has ceased to be useful. Nothing we master is ever wasted. It is simply the act of reducing it to the position of a back number. It becomes a sleeping and no longer an active partner. Now, since the brain structure which goes with it remains unchanged, it is always liable to be revived by "association." If at the same time the new and still plastic function is out of use, our old self may rise up and take possession, sometimes with very unpleasant results.

When we leave school, we close down the parts of our mind with which we carried out our school activities and start equipping others. If after some years we go back to our school to have a look round, the association of the old well-known buildings, the bell, the teacher's voice droning through an open window, call up those disused associations, and we revive and relive our past.

There is a danger in this awaking of old memories. We should beware of it. If we come back quickly to our new life, without an interval for readjustment, we may pay dearly for our dip into the past. We cannot revive old categories of thought and habit without risking a clash between them and the new. So all those who are adapting themselves to any kind of new life are advised to "dissociate" it from their past. They should cut themselves completely off all of the old that is in conflict with the new until they have built a solid foundation under their feet and are not afraid of being thrown off balance. Then they can please themselves.

Our Rhyming OPTIMIST

—By Aline Michaelis—

WHAT is this life which men so greatly prize above all other treasures that they give wealth, joy, truth, honor in their fellow's eyes; give all with gladness that they may but live? Too many hold that life is but to be, to drag through dull existence, day on day; content with ignorance and poverty of mind and soul they wear drab years away. But there are those who ask the brimming cup, who want not dregs, but sweet and potent wine, and the elixir that their lips would sup must hold some essence that is part divine. True life is growth. Unless from hour to hour you gain in all the attributes of worth, in kindliness, in patience, peace and power, you do not live, although you walk the earth.

Fashion Fads and Fancies

By Mildred Ash

A Rose by any other Name may smell as sweet, but a rose of any other type would make a far less attractive shoulder pin than the one of marcasite, with green stones set in the leaves, that is now replacing the shoulder flower on many a lovely afternoon or evening frock.

Uneasy Lies the Crowned Head

far as coiffure fashions are concerned. For formal evening wear the old fashioned tiara is being revived. Elaborately set in rhinestones, it seems to give just the required finish to the stone studded gowns and sparkling costume jewelry that glitters quite as dazzlingly as if the strass, marcasite and rhinestones were really precious gems.

BEING A LADY -:- -:- -:- By Dorothy Dix

"I See No Reason Why a Business Girl Should Be Less a Lady in An Office Than in a Parlor," Says Dorothy Dix, Replying to a Correspondent Who Competes With Business Men on Their Own Level.

Can the business girl be a lady and succeed? I say YES.

One of my correspondents says emphatically NO.

She writes: "You said the other day that in these days of hard-boiled young girls that the lady threatened to become an extinct species. Let me tell you that it is necessary if she expects to get along in the business world. The stay-at-home girl with plenty of money and parents to take care of her may remain gentle and refined in speech and manners, and considerate of the feelings of others, but not the girl who has to get out and hustle for her own bread and butter.

"What would your lady do if she had to face the grind of an office every day where she had to listen to men curse and swear, and stand for all kinds of familiarities, and hear suggestive stories and comments? That's what we business girls have to do, and naturally we get sophisticated and wise. We have to be tough. We have to be rough and ready, or we would starve to death. When you compete with men you have to forget that you are a woman and fight with them on their own ground."

This statement sums up pretty accurately the point of view of the average modern young woman, who thinks that in order to get along she has to be one of "the boys" and drink and swear and tell risque stories and be shocked at nothing.

In this I totally disagree with her, because I think that when a woman throws away her womanliness, she casts into the discard her trump card, and this is just as true in business life as it is in social life. For sex is a fixed fact that cannot be altered. When a woman ceases to be a woman, she does not automatically become a man. She just makes of herself a poor imitation that is nothing, that is neither male nor female, and that has all the faults and weaknesses of both, with the virtues of neither.

Moreover, it is folly for a girl to coarsen herself down to the level of the men she happens to be thrown with, because she can neevr really acquqire their technique. Her swearing and cursing always has the marks of an amateur about it. It lacks spontaneity and flavor. When she gets drunk, she is never humourous or amusing. She is simply bestial. And when she tells smutty stories, they do not rouse laughter in the listener, they make him want to weep. A man may be profane and lipsy and vulgar and get away with it. But no woman who drinks too much, and who is foul-mouthed, fills us with such disgust that we do not want to have anything to do with her.

In the best business houses a great stress now is put upon the men being gentlemen, and I do not think that any girl would be less esteemed by her employer for looking and acting like a lady.

On the contrary, I am very sure that the girl who dresses quietly and sensibly, who is reserved and modest, and who keeps herself to herself, as our grandmothers used to say, would stand a better chance of promotion than would the flashy, talking, cigarette-smoking girl who is always draped over some man's desk swapping putrid jokes with him.

In fact, often and often again do I hear men wind up their encomiums of some indispensable woman employe, or assistant, by saying, "and she is a perfect lady." But never yet have I heard of a valued female employe that she was a regular rounder.

The truth is that deep in his heart every man has a reverence for the qualities that go to make a lady. Gentleness in manner and speech. Reticence. Modesty. Fineness. The inability to say or do a coarse and vulgar thing. They appeal to whatever is best in his soul. They arouse his chivalry, and he is far more apt to give a helping hand to the woman who possess them than he is to the woman who is without them.

So I contend that being a lady is an asset rather than a handicap to a girl in the business world. Of course, this would not be true if being a lady meant being Miss Nancy-ish, and lacakadaisical, and high-hatish. An office is no place for clinging vines who have to have somebody to sharpen their lead pencils and reach down things off shelves for them, and hunt out words for them in the dictionary and help them balance their books.

Nor is it any place for those squeamish creatures whose dignity is always getting hurt, and who think that men shouldn't smoke in their presence, and who are insulted because a busy man keeps his hat on while he is dictating an important letter to them. But a girl can be prudent without being a prude. She can be dignified without being a snob, and the very essence of being a lady is having the self-respect that makes her do good work and earn the salary she receives.

The theory that it is necessary for a girl to be hard-boiled in order to succeed in business is also another falacy. Women and men are made differently and they must work along different lines. No woman can crash the gate. She has to find the key that unlocks it. No woman has the strength to beat a man in a rough-and-tumble battle. She has to win out through subtlety.

The aggressive, fighting woman gets anywhere. She antagonizes every man with whom she come in contact. He realizes that he is at a disadvantage with her because he can neither deal with her as a woman, nor strike back at her if she were a man. So she misses her opportunities and loses out at every turn.

Mrs. Hampshire Wins Lovely Trophy In Women's Golf Championship Game

The name of Mrs. G. H. Hampshire will be engraved on the beautiful championship cup offered for the first time this year by the Women's Golf association of the Country club, as a result of the tournament finals played Thursday morning.

Mrs. Hampshire defeated Mrs. Stanley McGregor in a fine game for low score on Thursday for the trophy. Mrs. Hampshire has been the recognized champion of the Women's association for some time, and it is believed by association members that Mrs. McGregor will soon have her name engraved on the beautiful cup.

The trophy stands about 24 inches in height and is of solid silver on four inch base. The club member who will win the cup three times, though not consecutively, will have permanent possession of the trophy. It will be played for each year and the name of the year's champion will be engraved on it.

In addition to the cup, Mrs. Hampshire was presented with a bar pin of engraved platinum, while the runner up was awarded a pin of similar design. These pins are to be retained permanently by those winning them each year. The championship games are always to be played during the month of November.

In the weekly games, Mrs. Fred T. Couper and Mrs. W. P. Bolding tied with Mrs. Bolding winning in the playoff for low score. Mrs. D. G. Whitney won the putting contest for the week in Thursday's games. The regular games of next Thursday will be cancelled due to the Thanksgiving holiday.

Food Experts Lecture To Austin School Mothers

At the regular monthly meeting of the Child Health study club of Austin school Wednesday afternoon at the school, Dr. Wallace J. Masters lectured on the underweight child. He said that one-third of the children in the United States, according to medical statistics, were underweight, and this is borne out by the statement that 35 per cent of first grade children in Austin school were underweight. There is urgent necessity, he told the group of interested mothers, that such a condition be corrected.

"The underweight child," he said, "must have plenty of rest—must have a variety of simple foods. The mid-afternoon rest is important."

Dr. Masters advocated the use of cod liver oil to prevent colds, and should be taken three times a day. Plenty of exercise, without exhaustion was also emphasized.

Miss Mary E. Sutherland, nutrition expert, talked to the mothers on the day's diet. She showed an attractively set table, decorated with flowers and dainty doilies to stimulate both the eye and the palate of the underweight child. She urged regularity in meals, and some play before breakfast.

A 650 calory breakfast, she said, consisted of a whole orange sliced, two slices of buttered toast and a cup and a half of oatmeal, or similar cooked cereal. She urged the use of whole wheat and bran foods for roughage and discouraged the too frequent use of eggs in the daily diet of the child because of sulphur content, and spoke strongly against too much sugar and sweets.

Food charts, menus, phamplets and diet lists in which the study of diet laws was made clear and their importance brought home to the minds of the mothers and distributed.

Mrs. J. Z. Steinkoenig is chairman of the Child Health Study club which is sponsored by the Austin school P.-T. A.

Mrs. R. P. Willis, president, dismissed the club with the repeating of the Lord's Prayer in unison. The next meeting on December 21 will have for its topic "Preventable Diseases."

Little Miss Kruger is only 12 years old and has attracted a great deal of attention both locally and from out-of-town concerning her clever poetry.

Former Students Of Simmons Hold Banquet Thursday

About 80 alumni and former students of Simmons university at Abilene attended the luncheon given at the Kemp hotel Thursday noon. The luncheon date was set for Friday evening but was changed in order that speakers scheduled to make addresses might appear on the program. Many of those attending the banquet are in the city attending the state Baptist convention.

R. J. Baucom, Simmons university evangelist, was toastmaster while those who appeared on the program included J. D. Sandifer, president of Simmons university, who gave the principal address, W. H. Fuquay of Amarillo and M. H. Wolf of Dallas.

In addition to local alumni and visiting delegates, the following were special guests at the luncheon: Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Ferguson of Wichita Falls, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Caldwell of Amarillo, Mrs. W. H. Fuquay of Amarillo and Mrs. Sandifer, Abilene.

Local members to have charge of the program were: J. L. Randel, Carroll Spangler, Solon Featherston and W. B. Featherston.

The following resolution was passed by the members of Simmons university. "Be it resolved that the ex-students of the Simmons university endorse and wish to go on record as being in hearty accord with the resolution that was adopted at the Baptist convention last night, November 16, which resolution expressed the convention's faith in Baylor university."

Wesley Girls To Give Thanksgiving Party

Political Conditions Rotten

POLITICAL conditions in the United States are rotten. Who returned the indictment? John Hays Hammond of New York, chairman of the department of education of the National Civic Federation. This eminent engineer and multi-millionaire who made history in South Africa long before he became widely known in America, his native land, has announced plans for a movement in 500 cities to educate the voters so that they will know what they are voting for as well as to get out to vote in the 1928 election.

John Hays Hammond is a Republican. He is one of the master minds. He declares that every one will agree that all the greater is the obligation "resting upon us, as enlightened and patriotic citizens, to refuse to tolerate the rottenness which we know to exist today."

Then John Hays pointed to the "spectacle of a former governor returning from the penitentiary and almost bumping into his successor in office on his way to the same corrective institution; the governor of another state forced to refund a million dollars for interest illegally collected upon state deposits and revelations regarding malfeasance, misfeasance and nepotism on the part of a former state official elected by the people."

John Hays is an excellent Republican. He did not mean his men. Former Governor Warren S. McCray, Republican of Indiana, is the executive just out of jail who bumped into Governor Edward S. Jackson of Indiana, under indictment for attempt to bribe and other accusations. Governor Len Small, Republican of Illinois, is the governor who was compelled to pay into the state treasury the million dollars.

Governor Len is an office holder. He is guiding the ship of state. He has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election. John Hays should have exploded a bomb nearer home. He should have invaded the national capital. He should have had something to say of the oil scandals and the brazen corruption of men high in public life in the Harding administration.

Wy not carry the education program to the country districts as well as the 500 American cities? Why not spread the light cast by the torch of knowledge in country as well as in city? Human nature is much the same everywhere. Human greed is much the same.

Human prejudice is much the same. Benighted ignorance flourishes in the country as well as in the city. A man is a man for a' that. Regardless of this comment, the Hammond program is all right.

Declaring that the whole remedy lies in the hands of the voters, he said the problem can be solved by educating the voters on the questions they are called to pass upon, by getting out to vote and by having the votes counted as cast.

On education of the voters, he declared, depends the preservation of this country and its democratic institutions. Critics of the administration of George Washington, the first president, advanced the same argument. They declared that education of the voters would save the country and its institutions.

Critics of all the presidents from Washington to James Buchanan advanced the same argument. To a man they declared that the republic and its institutions were going headlong to the devil.

Then came the civil war. All the critics of a republican form of government at home and abroad, knew that the end was in sight. It has been much the same since the close of the civil war. All the time the country was going headlong to hades.

Now it is on the road to hades once more. Regardless of this, its people are the most intelligent to be found on the map of the world; it is the richest of nations; it is the most progressive; its standards of living are the highest.

It has never waged a war of conquest; it has never brow beaten or terrorized or robbed a weak people or a weak nation. This gospel of facts may not be accepted by the amiable men and women of America whose slogan is, "My country ever wrong."

Why America Is a Winner

INDUSTRIAL corporations and the federal government are spending about $200,000,000 annually for industrial research, with industries spending $2 for every dollar spent by the government.

More than a thousand companies now operate research divisions whereas in 1921 only 578 companies were known to maintain research divisions or laboratories. Data submitted to the national industrial conference board showed that industries whose research expenditures were largest five years ago have scored the greatest relative growth since that time.

This for the growers of things. The makers of things are spending the money for research work. This is one of the reasons why the American dollar is making its way around the world.

It is another reason why American finished products are placed on the bargain counters of every land touched by the ships that cover the seven seas of the world.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—They tell this story of General Downey, father of Fairfax Downey, the humorist. Some months ago the general underwent an operation on his leg, and amputation was found necessary. He managed, however, to get around prettty well with artificial aid, and one day in the heat of September he went to lunch at the New York athletic club with his son and some of his old friends. The other members of the party paused a moment in the club and the general managed to negotiate the outer steps alone. On the last step, wearying a trifle, he sat down and took off his hat, applying a large handkerchief to his heated brow. It was at this exact moment that a pretty girl trotted along with her young man. The picture suggested just one thought to her. She fumbled in her bag, dropped a dime into the astounded gentleman's hat and passed on. Her escort (who says men have no intuition?) came back contritely in a moment to murmur confusedly that he was sure his friend had made a mistake. The general is said to have twinkled and also to have remarked that he didn't mind a bit; she was such a pretty girl. He kept the dime. The Downeys, father and son, are fonder of that story than of any bit of family legend they know.

The best opportunity for cloud gazing that I know of, in a big city of canyon streets, is provided in the blissful moments when one lies in the dentist's chair and realizes that the drilling is over for that day, at least. Never am I so conscious of the beauties of nature, the truth of immortality, the general goodness of man, as I am after a release from the tortures of the drilling machine.

The gardeners were out in full force last Saturday in Macy's bulb department. I had to fight my way through to buy some crocus and narcissi I had been bidden to bring home without fail. Outside was a chill November afternoon, and the terrific confusion of Saturday half holiday in New York. Indoors clerks murmured of daffodils and black tulips and "heavenly blue" hyacinths. I think the average garden enthusiast represents the highest type of optimist. When he can visualize beauty in a dreary swirl of dead leaves and frozen clay, there is hope for the race.

Residents of a New York suburb have been requested to be on the lookout for an elderly woman who escaped from a home for the aged. At first thought it would seem to be easy to recover the old adventuress. A woman in her dotage cannot be expected to make her way far without any money. But the runaway has a fine set of gold teeth, which she has been known to sell or pawn before.

Now just to even matters, I'll have to quote Frank Sullivan. Frank says that the first big fire in Chicago was started by a cow and the second by a jackass.

HATTIE

A STORY OF LOVE AND SACRIFICE

By SAMUEL MERWIN

HATTIE JOHNSON, just 17, works in the mailing room of a printing and book-binding establishment. A former fellow employe

LUCILLE OVERMAN, takes her to the Earthwide Picture studio, where she is soon by

ARMAND DE BRISSAC, famous director. He makes a screen test of Hattie and takes her to California with him to make a picture. With her go

GRANDMA, old and lame, and, ALICE, Hattie's married sister and her baby, all dependent on Hattie. Hattie becomes engaged to

HENRY O'MALLEY, De Brissac's head camera man. De Brissac makes love to her and wants her to go with him for a vacation on his yacht, but she refuses. She leaves his company and works at another studio, but is not successful away from De Brissac. Lucille advises her to go back to him. Alice's husband,

ARTHUR, who had deserted her, comes back, making another for Hattie to support. The De Brissac picture is a success and he offers Hattie a new contract at a much higher salary. She wants to give up pictures, and be married and keep house for Henry, and when she finds he has no idea of this she breaks her engagement and goes back to De Brissac. It is decided that Hattie and the director will go to New York and make personal appearances together at the showing of their latest picture. Then,

JULIAN DEMPSTER, a young magazine writer, comes to interview her.

She is much attracted to Julian and decides to go to the Thursday night dance at the hotel and meet him there.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX.

They sat, as they had in the afternoon, almost without speaking. But she felt no embarrassment now. Apparently he didn't either. Once their eyes met and they exchanged a quite smile that had the effect a sympathetic speech. The music began again, and moved by a common impulse they were quickly on their feet. Her light body gave itself gladly to his embrace. He danced well. They tried a few experimental steps that went very smoothly. She felt exquisitely a part of him as they glided about. She didn't mind her color now; but let it come, stirred by the music and the bright costumes and the lights, as by the movement of the dance and by his strong arms holding her close to him, to a pitch of happiness she had never before known. Her lips were parted in a breathless little smile. She found her chin brushing the lapel of his coat and her forehead very near his cheek. Timidly, hesitatingly until the dance was nearly over, she let it find a resting place there. There it seemed natural. She was glad that the ice was partly broken.

As they walked out to the porch he said—

"I mustn't be a pig, of course, but please don't forget that we were to have a little talk. After all, I've got that article to write."

"Let's walk a little," she replied; considering as they moved off down the steps if Arthur wouldn't be somewhere there watching her. Yes, he would, of course. But then she didn't seem to care. It was wonderful not to care.

Farther down the street, he said, with that happy little laugh of his—

"See here, you won't want to be tramping all around in those dainty little slippers!"

"I don't mind," She was looking along the line of dark automobiles at the curb. There's my car. We might sit in it."

He opened the door for her. She slid in behind the wheel. He took the place beside her and shut the door.

"I'm trusting that you won't let me keep you out here longer than I should," said he gently.

She didn't know how to answer Hadn't she brought him here?

"Since I've got to go away so soon," said he gently, "perhaps you'll allow me to say . . I've been thinking rather wildly since this afternoon . . things happen pretty fast sometimes, I begin to see . . . oh, I'm horribly clumsy, but you see you give me a sort of stage fright . . ."

"I do?" She was surprised, and turned her eyes on his shadowy face.

"Oh, sure! You know. You're, after all, a great celebrity. You scare me . . . I don't mean," he laid a hand impulsively over hers, and then she found herself clinging to a finger, "that you're anything but simple and frank and girlish, but that what you really are . . . oh, you are! No getting around it! You're a personage . . all that keeps coming up to confuse me when I look at you and talk to you. See here! I'll start again." He broke off for a moment with a nervous, low laugh. "Here's what I mean. I never realized when I looked you up that you could turn out to be so damnably real. You're just natural girl all through. I'm a pretty old-fashioned sort in some ways. I've got some ideals about women. And finding you so simple and sweet, really as ingenuous as a child, like a fragrant little wild rose here in all this big hothouse called Beverly—"

She was stirring restlessly. Now she glanced behind his shoulder and saw dimly a figure, a man, moving slowly toward them along sidewalk behind a cigar. She had never felt so bold or so competent.

"Arthur!" she called.

The man quickened his step. "I want the key, please."

He wouldn't help staring, but he gave it to her, and she maneuvered the car out into the street and drove away, leaving Arthur on the curb to watch them go.

"What it boils to is that you've done something to me. I realize that I couldn't have any place in your life. I'll never have any money. Probably some day, if I ever do marry, it'll be a friendly little woman who understands the problems of the artist and will take care of me. But . . ."

He drew away from her and gazed up at the dark mountain.

"When are you going East?" she asked.

"Next week—Tuesday."

"What train?"

"The 10 o'clock."

Her heart seemed to stop beating. And then she managed to say, hoping that she didn't seem too familiar with this business of contriving meetings—

"I'm going on that train."

"Oh!" she heard him exclaim. And then again. "Oh!" followed by "How wonderful!"

"I suppose," said she, "that they wouldn't let me go if they knew it."

She waited, watching the road ahead as she drove along. Would he think her artful? She couldn't have planned that speech; not in this exalted mood. The words had just come rushing out of themselves.

"Looks almost as if Fate had taken this business in hand," said he, so low that she had to learn toward him to catch the words.

They rode to Beverly Hills and looked up at the lights of the huge hotel on the hillside. The perfume of many flowers scented the air. He rested his arm on the back of the seat close to her shoulder, evidently thrilled, as was she, by the occasional contact, yet drew no closer. She sensed that he wouldn't dare take her in his arms. How wonderful that was! She had felt, all this year, very old. But now she suddenly knew that she wasn't yet nineteen. She was, really, only a girl, with all of life before her. She was even picking up the old threads. De Brissac was drifting off among the queer unreal things of the film world. She was beginning to be happy, so happy that a sob came and had to be controlled. It was his respect for her, of course . . his delicacy . . . she hadn't known there were such men. It wasn't just in that way that he cared for her. . . Yes, it was the beginning. The other life was just a mistake. People did make mistakes. Some day he'd have to know. This was beautiful. It was no longer a matter of what he had called being presumptuous. It was, all at once, clear that they must share every moment possible. Because she longed to find herself again in his arms she drove back and they danced the evening out, very close, saying little, hardly smiling, their emotions in exquisite tune. She didn't care now who saw. Nothing else mattered. The hovering Arthur seemed as unreal as De Brissac.

They planned a picnic on the beach for Friday. He said he would have a luncheon put up at the hotel. Saturday they spent in Los Angeles, lunching and sitting through a picture hand in hand like children, and then dancing and dining at the Alexandria. By this time she knew that De Brissac was calling up the house in some impatience. There was a note from him on her dresser that night that she read with a faraway smile. He had to go north Sunday morning. There was the matter of the tickets to be straightened out. And other things. She burned it, and dreamed of blond hair that curled a little on the temples. . . His name was Julian. Julian Dempster.

In the morning De Brissac woke her up, telephoning. He spoke rather sharply. This was by no means the masterful and magnificent director of their earlier acquaintance.

He said—"What on earth is the matter?"

She, sleepily—"Why, nothing."

"But why haven't I heard from you?"

"Oh . . there's been a lot of things to do."

"One of them was dancing all the evening with a new man."

So he knew that. Well . . she hesitated . . then replied, with a touch of the old confession—

"He's writing an article about me."

"I see. But you haven't even sent me the tickets."

"Oh . . . I meant to tell you . . . I'm going to use them. I'm going Tuesday."

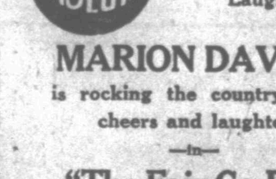

"Oh, you are."

"Yes, it's better for a lot of reasons."

"But see here, child, now really—"

"Please don't be cross! I can't argue."

(To Be Continued.)

And behold a certain lawyer stood up and tempted him, saying, Master what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

He said unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou?

And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself.

And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live.—Luke, x, 25-28.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of this paper.

IS YOUR APPETITE POOR?

You have often wondered why no cook seems able to prepare food as tasty as "Mother used to make." Somehow, the flavor does not seem to be there. The most elaborate course dinner seems tasteless to you, and every dish is unpalatable and ill-flavored.

Why does the modern cook seem unable to tickle your palate with appetizing dishes when he has at his command all of the scientific equipment that mother never dreamed of? What was the magic that mother used which made you smack your lips after every taste of the plain food which she prepared?

You will get one of the greatest surprises of your life if you will go back home and eat one of the same home-cooked meals which you enjoyed a few years ago! The food will seem tasteless and unsavory, and all the seasoning and condiments with which you flavor it will not render it palatable to you. At first, you will ask yourself: "Has mother lost her ability to make toothsome dishes?" As the light of reason illuminates your mind, you will discover that the fault does not lie in the way that the food was prepared, but in you, yourself. The old hunger for simple food is gone; years of bad eating habits have changed your natural hunger to such an extent that only queer-tasting food seems appetizing to you. The taste buds of your mouth have been so deadened by condiments that simple food tastes flat and insipid—even sickening and offensive.

The truth is that you haven't been really hungry for years. Your meals have been bolted in a hurry three times daily, and you have eaten, with no real relish, so much more than your body could appropriate to its use. You have neglected to exercise sufficiently to use up this excess nourishment and it has accumulated in the body, making you bilious and toxic.

If you want to bring back that normal hunger you enjoyed when you were a child you will have to start training for it at once. Give your deadened taste nerves a rest from all food for a few days. Just drink plenty of water, if you are thirsty, but eliminate all food of every description until normal hunger reasserts itself. Take long walks of several miles daily, and clean the intestines with enemas of plain water. Watch the pep come back in your step! Look into the mirror each morning to see how your eyes lost that fishy expression, and observe how your tongue regains its usual pink color.

Don't be afraid that you will fast too long. You will get hungry again when your body really needs food. When the sight of a stale crust of bread makes your mouth water you will again know what real hunger means, and mother's food will thrill you once again as it did when you were a child.

QUESTION: M. H. G. asks: "What causes a baby's legs to cramp and draw back of the knees?"

ANSWER: Any time a baby's legs cramp or begin to draw back it is liable to be a symptom of some dangerous spinal irritation, such as infantile paralysis or cerebrospinal meningitis. Such symptoms in a baby should be immediately reported to your doctor who can best tell what to do.

QUESTION: Mrs. M. G. G. writes: "My brother has been ill with heart trouble for nearly a year — leaky valve. The heart specialist ordered complete rest, but he insists on taking two treatments a week from an osteopath, and his improvement has been very slow. Would not such treatment force the blood through the heart as rapidly as any other form of exercise?"

ANSWER: Your brother will never be cured of heart trouble as long as he uses the "complete rest" treatment. Osteopath treatments will surely be helpful to him, but he must get up and walk around several times daily in order to properly exercise the heart muscles. His diet should be limited, and care must be used to preclude any possibility of flatulence. Exercises should be taken while lying in bed, and walking increased each day in order to develop the strength which is needed to overcome any heart derangement.

Mrs. Kemp Talks To Forum Members At Holland Tea

The home and health department of the Womans Forum entertained Thursday afternoon at the forum with a delightful Holland day program, followed by a Holland tea, with charming little Holland misses serving the tea and assisting the guests.

Mrs. J. A. Kemp, lecture speaker of the afternoon, in a delightfully informal manner, spoke to the women present on her trip in Europe, laying particular stress on Holland. Mrs. Kemp told of the beautiful flowers of Holland and of a day spent in typical Holland home, which was, as is all of Holland, characterized in particular by its extreme cleanliness.

In concluding her talk Mrs. Kemp said: "All of the beauty, culture, and development of Europe is due to man-power, and shows little, or no trace of science. America, working with what Europe has bequeathed to her and with the addition of scientific development, will be able to go much further."

Miss Mary Sutherland, Red Cross nutrition expert, gave a talk in the absence of Miss Webb, who was unable to be present because of illness, in which she made a plea that the younger generation be taught love and appreciation of simplicity.

At the close of the meeting which was presided over by W. W. Cook, the guests were invited into the dining room for tea. Host Misses Mathilda and Mary Elizabeth Donald, Mildred Buchanan, Cheville Whitehill and Mary Collier, dressed in Holland costumes, with caps coming directly from Holland, assisted in serving tea which was poured by Mrs. Dick Whitehill, gowned in a lovely costume which came directly from Holland.

The tea service, with lighted silver candles, Holland dolls, wooden shoes and the boat, which made up original tea table as they were arranged attractively among the flowers, were all brought to this country directly from Holland by Mrs. Harry the Brink. Holland cheese, wafers, and tea were served to the guests.

Mrs. R. H. Collier, chairman of arrangements for the afternoon, was assisted by the following hostesses: Mesdames Corbett, B. W. Whitehill, S. B. Daniel, E. D. Bonnell, George Dobson, W. C. Duncan, E. E. Fisher, W. D. Gant, E. Gernandt, C. F. Lorent and Ben King.

Among the guests present were: Mesdames J. A. Kemp, C. L. Shepherd, Linn Boyd, L. M. Boyd, J. N. Sherrill, Paul Colbert, L. Adrian Burke, C. W. Snider, J. N. Calfee, W. W. Cook, G. D. Fox, Curtis E. MODISH MITZI — Mitzi Says She Has A Sprained Ankle — By JAY V. JAY

Mitzi told her friends she had sprained her ankle. Well, it did ache—for a time. She's sure the best thing to do is to rest it—right on the foot stool where you can see that the sprain has not prevented her wearing the new strap slippers trimmed with reptile skin. Incidentally, she had to wear these slippers for of course they match her dress trimmed with bands of reptile skin around the neck, sleeves, and blouse. There's a pocketbook to match them too. Shoes are bought with a great deal of thought these days to matching the rest of the costume.

Poor Mitzi, she had nothing to do but change her dress to this flowered taffeta with the large bow on the side and the neck with the pointy narrow collar tying on the side. It did hurt a bit to put on the new shoes—but after all they went with the dress so there was nothing else to do. It's the buckle of the same color enamel as the flowers in the dress that makes them belong so definitely to her costume. Well, Dad thinks it's a funny kind of sprained ankle or is the child suffering cheerfully and being noble? Which?

CLOUD CAST ON LOCKE VERDICT

Juror in Death Case Not Qualified Voter

ANTLERS, Okla., Nov. 17. (AP)—One of the twelve men who composed the jury that this morning convicted Major Victor M. Locke Jr., of manslaughter in the first degree, late today was declared unqualified to serve as a juror in another murder case, because he was not a legal voter.

Attorneys for Locke, who was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary, have announced that a motion for a new trial will be filed tomorrow.

The juror, Charles Lewis, admitted having returned to Oklahoma about a year ago from Arizona. A week ago he moved from one precinct to another in the county. Lee Welch, Major Locke's attorney, declared that to be a qualified elector, one must have lived in the state 12 months, in the county six months and in the precinct 30 days.

Major Locke, former superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes, was convicted of killing Abner Battiest, young Choctaw Indian.

WHITE MAN'S LAW PREVAILS IN SLAYING

ANTLERS, Okla., Nov. 17. (AP)—The white man's law prevailed here today and Major Victor M. Locke Jr., 51, former principal chief of the Choctaw Indian tribe, was sentenced to ten years in prison for killing Abner Battiest, young full blood Choctaw, September 26.

Deciding that Locke was not temporarily insane at the time of the shooting, as he had claimed, a jury in the Pushmataha county district court found the Indian guilty of manslaughter.

Defense witnesses, some of whom could speak only the Choctaw tongue and their testimony had to be translated in court, testified that Locke and Battiest had quarreled because of the latter's improper advances to girl members of the tribe. Locke, as a chieftain, looked upon the maidens as wards, who he left obliged to protect.

Just before the shooting, testimony showed, Locke's aged father, "Uncle Dick" Locke was cursed and struck in the face by Battiest when the former remonstrated with the young Indian for his relations with the girls. Hearing of this, Major Locke followed Battiest and shot him to death.

That Locke, formerly in comfortable circumstances, had been virtually penniless for four years was brought out in the testimony. Witnesses said that this condition had changed him from a happy carefree man to one addicted to brooding. His dismissal in 1923, as superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes, started this condition.

Locke, who had been at liberty on $25,000 bond since soon after the killing, was taken into customy by the sheriff when the jury gave its verdict. His attorneys announced that they would appeal.

cation of the young in the home and in the Sunday schools and churches, we must go farther than the state institutions."

Grice Speaks.

The afternoon session of the convention was opened by a song service led by Dow Mooney, home mission board singer, of Dallas, with piano accompaniment by Daniel Christiansen, of the Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary, of Fort Worth. The invocation was given by the Rev. C. B. Edwards, pastor of the College Avenue Baptist church, Fort Worth, and the scripture reading and a brief devotional were given by L. E. Finney, executive secretary of Baylor university.

The opening address of the meeting was given by Homer L. Grice, of Nashville, Tenn., of the Sunday school board of the Southern Baptist convention. He spoke of the work of the Sunday school board in the spread of Christian education, pointing out that during the last year it contributed $3500 to the Woman's Missionary union, and $70,000 to be used as salaries for rural workers. Its three fields of activity were outlined by the speaker as the Sunday school, the B. Y. P. U., and the Daily Vacation Bible school, the latter of which is being introduced in churches all over the south as a means of encouraging Bible study during the vacation periods.

"The work of the Sunday school board," the speaker said, "is related to every branch of church work. And since its organization 36 years ago it has been steadily growing in power."

The principal feature of the Thursday morning session, which was called to order at 9 o'clock by President Neff, was the delivery of the annual convention sermon, on "The Adequacy of the Cross," by Dr. E. F. West of Houston. Preceding this, members of the convention heard a detailed report of the Southern Baptist relief and annuity board was given by M. H. COOLIDGE FOR GREATER NAVY

President Also Declares For Tax Reduction

By Universal Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—President Coolidge declared here in a ringing speech tonight that the United States will build its navy and a great air force to defense of its national security and for protection of its vast trade routes throughout the world.

He promised the people a moderate tax cut, presumably indorsing the $225,000,000 slash proposed by Secretary Mellon.

He defied the threat of western political leaders to make a general onslaught upon the tariff, declaring that the United States is at the "Zenith of our prosperity," the income of the people having reached the amazing total of ninety billion dollars last year under the benefits of the protective system.

And he outlined a broad program for development of the national resources to accomodate the expanding needs of the future America of 150,000,000 people.

The program outlined by him included $75,000,000 a year for development of national highways. It asserted the need of flood control, including the expansion of the Mississippi until it provides a waterway open for traffic to the Gulf and to the Atlantic ocean, probably through the St. Lawrence river.

He said that the Colorado river development, by construction of a great dam at Boulder Canyon, is "pressing" upon the government for immediate solution and, with that done, the government will take up the great irrigation and reclamation project involved in the Columbia basin.

Sweeping Change On Immigration

Davis Favors Stiff Rules To Check Aliens

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Sweeping changes in the immigration laws, at once tightening up the admission of aliens and liberalizing some provisions in order to remove hardships, were proposed recently by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis.

At the same time Davis disclosed that his department is working on a new legislative program for limiting immigration, embodying "new principles" and rearrangement of present quotas.

Although details of this program were withheld Davis asserted it would remove objections to the national original plan, held up by the last congress after it had been hotly attacked.

Deport Dope Fiends.

Other recommendations he expects to make to congress include:

Deportation for all alien narcotic peddlers.

Enrollment of all aliens in the country.

Fining of transportation companies for bringing in stowaways when the secretary of labor decides their presence might have been detected by "competent search."

Additional penalties for illegal re-entry after deportation.

Quota exemption for alien husbands of American citizens; unmarried alien children, under 21, of American citizens; and aliens born in the United States who have lost their United States citizenship.

A closer check on alien students, attained by classifying them as non-immigrants and requiring bonds where deemed necessary.

Special relief for wives and minor children of aliens who entered lawfully prior to the quota law and were married at the time.

Farm Labor Limitation.

Restriction of agricultural preferences and extensions of preferences to skilled industrial workers where the contract labor law is waived and "labor of like kind cannot be found unemployed in the United States."

Preference to members of a learned profession.

Conferring a legal status upon aliens who entered before the quota law, either as visitors or without proper record of their entry, and who now meet all immigration law requirements except as to quotas.

"The vast majority of aliens who arrived prior to the present quota law are not deportable on any ground and it is believed that the anomalous situation thus created—they are privileged to stay but cannot become citizens—is against the interests of the government, as well as the individual alien," Davis said.

He Urges Enrollment.

He urged enrollment "as a basis for this action."

Davis said he had submitted to congress a draft of a proposed permanent code of all existing legislation concerning aliens. This draft does not include the "new principles" now being worked out, which he described as a "new treatment of the limitation of immigration."

In this new treatment the revision of quotas will remove objections to both the census basis and the national origin plan congress help up, Davis added.

Keep Your Stomach Young and Sweet

Every bite of food you eat MUST be digested, and the waste matter eliminated. That's sure. If your stomach is sluggish and old, from the excessive acids which keep eating away the gastric juices, you must dissolve them, or you never will be free from indigestion, sour risings, bloating and drowsiness after you eat.

Get a package of Pape's Diapepsin from your nearest drug store and chew one of the tablets after meals. Instantly the distress is relieved, it dissolves the acids, sweetens the stomach and you will have an appetite again like you had when a child.

All drug stores have Pape's Diapepsin. More than 5 million packages are used a year.

COUNT VICI COPS HONORS

He and Symphonic Girls Headline Bill

By The Record News Critic

Count Bernie Vici and his Symphonic Girls presented one of the best acts ever seen here on the vaudeville stage here Thursday night. They were billed as the headliners of the show and there is no doubt about the act being entitled to the lights and the Majestic having them placed right. The Thursday night audience gave the act several encores. Louise Mele, the petite and talented premiere danseuse seemed to be just a trifle bothered by the small stage but it took nothing from her work. The other girls in the act who were listed merely as Darby Brown, Betty, Mary and Jane also showed much talent and took nothing from the act. The scenic effects were beautiful and undoubtedly helped the performers.

Emile Nathane and Julia Sully opened the bill with a dainty dance number that stirred the audience. Sim Moore and George Charland call their vehicle "The Whatnots" and it is a good title for the fans were never sure just what this pair of singers and tumblers were going to do next.

Bill Talent and Flo Merit pulled several good lines about reducing the waistline that kept the audience giggling. Joe Darcey was up to his standard which means that an excellent blackface song act was given. This song writer knows how to sing and to get effects. Unlike many of his imitators he also knows when to inject a little comedy and when to leave it out. The entire bill was one of the season's best.

Yates Field In Oil's Spotlight

being pinched in to their ratio of pipeline space, Morehouse added, explaining the rating of the well at 65,850 barrels a day.

A million barrel a day field within a very short time is predicted by many persons, Morehouse said.

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 17.—"I'll bet the Yates No. 2-C, Mid-Kansas-Continental oil well in the Yates field that the the producer will make more than 65,850 barrels in a 24-hour period, or better than the 45-minute test it gauged Tuesday when regular gauges were taken to determine pro-ration," said E. C. McCarnes, production superintendent of the Transcontinental Oil company, in the San Angelo division, Thursday afternoon.

"I'd like to make this bet with some of the so-called oil authorities whose experience in oil fields is limited to a newspaper office and friends who tell them what they think of it," he added.

Believes Well Bigger

Mr. McCarnes believes the well is a greater producer than it gauged Tuesday.

"We tried to make the gauge Sunday," he said, "but the control head was blown off. The same thing happened Monday and Tuesday, after working three days, we were able to make the gauge, losing a lot of oil in opening the flow."

There were five 500-barrel tanks on the site when the well was opened. The first was filled in 20 minutes the second in 23 and the others as quickly, oil flowing into them at the same time. The five, comprising the only storage on the site, were full in 45 minutes. That is the reason," he pointed out, "that the gauge was not opened for an hour.

Producer Offers Wager

The 2740 barrels of oil that came out of Yates No. 2-C Tuesday in the pro-ration test was not a head. It was an oil flow that would have stayed at that average if given a a chance. The well was drilled in and immediately shut down. When opened Tuesday it was the first flow the well had made.

"As far as being the second largest well in the world, or anything like that, I don't know," Mr. McCarnes said, "but if anybody wants to take up my bet, we can show them it is better than 65,000 barrels a day."

Midnight Milk Deliveries To End in Wichita Falls Dec. 1

Gone are the creak and rattle of the milk-man's wagon and the disturbing clatter of milk bottles at the unearthly hours before the rising time of the family. No longer will his lurking figure in the before-dawn gloom be a source of suspicion to the night watchman nor will the milk man himself be forced to spend his nights on the streets of Wichita Falls in order that the daily bottle or bottles may appear before breakfast time on the back porch.

The discontinuance of midnight milk delivery service after December 1 and the adoption of a 7:30 delivery hour was mutually decided upon by officials of local creameries at a meeting Wednesday night, it was announced Thursday. R. M. James, manager of James Brothers creamery; W. D. Curtis, manager of the Producer's creamery, and N. S. Chapman, manager of the Chapman dairy, adopted this system frequently used in larger cities and more especially favored during the last few years.

The question of early morning disturbance to neighborhoods and the inevitable danger to the deliveryman in the small hours of the morning—or night—has caused much deliberation among Wichita Falls dairy owners, they said. The daylight service met with such success in those cities which have enforced this system that local dairymen have for some time enthusiastically regarded it as a satisfactory and danger-eliminating idea.

The meeting Wednesday night marked the adoption of 7:30 a. m. as the hour for all milk deliveries to begin and dairy officials are confident that this change will prove decidedly popular to the comfort and convenience of Wichita Falls residents.

Buckner Reads Report

The report of the institution, as read by Mr. Buckner, and as unanimously adopted by the convention stated that at present there were 700 inmates of the home; and that preparations were being made to open a new high school building which has recently been completed. The home hopes to build in the future a new grammar school building, and a nursery for motherless children, Mr. Buckner said. Mr. Buckner included in the report a resume of the progress of the institution from the date of its foundation 50 years ago, tracing its progress through the many hardships it has undergone. The present financial condition of the institution, he said, remained unchanged, the total contributions for the year being $200,779, which was used in the general expenses of the institution.

Founders Praised

President Neff headed the array of speakers that followed the reading of the report, giving unstinted praise to the founders of the institution, and the Baptists of Texas that join in maintaining its course. "It is a fine, fine thing that there lived 50 years ago a man who took greater pleasure in looking into the face of a red-faced boy, than in looking into the face of a white-faced calf," the former governor said. "Many were the people," he asserted, "who saw in the face of the white-faced calf a source of revenue and greedy gain; but few there were who could look into a boy's face, and have a desire to do things for him that would cause the benefactor's name to go forever remembered in the hearts of humanity."

The Story of Bruce

Pleading for the Baptists of Texas to give due recognizance of the need of support in the institution, the convention president recalled the old legend of the messenger who was slain by foes as he was carrying the heart of Bruce to its burial grounds in the Holy Lands. "That famous messenger, knowing he was to meet his death, flung the heart of the warrior from him, crying, 'Fly from me, heart that I love; I come to join you'."

"It is in this spirit that we should remember Father Buckner," President Neff said. "He has gone from us, but we throw our hearts forever towards him, and the work that he has left, on earth."

Jeff D. Ray of Seminary Hill, co-worker with the founder of the home, was introduced. After "speaking for the old guard," he was followed by Dr. E. Godbold, president of Howard Payne college; Robert Jolly of Houston, superintendent of the Baptist hospital; T. C. Gardner, state secretary of the B. Y. P. U. of Dallas; Mrs. J. E. Lee, corresponding secretary of the W. M. U., of Dallas; Mrs. W. F. Bedlow of Dallas, daughter of H. C. Buckner, founder of the home; L. R. Scarbrough, president of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth; B. B. McKinney, head of the music department of the Fort Worth Seminary; W. B. Hillsman of Dallas; Turney Perkins, former inmate of the home and present student of Howard Payne college; and M. L. Hopkins of Dallas.

Buckners Cheered

In the course of the speeches, President Neff called the convention to give a round of applause in honor of Mrs. Bedlow and Joe and Hal F. Buckner, all children of the founder.

Musical features of the Thursday evening meeting included a duet by Juel and Adelle Ray, both of Wichita Falls, who were accompanied on the piano by Charles Christianson, of the Southwest Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

For the first time in 15 years all members of the Owen family, brothers and sisters of J. C. Owen, 2139 Avenue F, were together Thursday in a reunion and dinner.

Those at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Owen of Vernon; Mrs. J. M. Baggett of Abilene and her son, Owen Baggett; the Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Owen of Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Lemmond of Loving; Mrs. B. G. Hasson of Archer City; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Owen of Vernon, and Mrs. G. G. Garrett and children of Wichita Falls. The dinner was held at the home of J. C. Owen.

WINDOW LOCK HALTS ESCAPE

Prisoner Batters Three Officers in Attempted Break

A patent safety slide on the courthouse windows coupled with timely action is probably all that kept Raymond Hall from escaping from Sheriff W. G. Bralley and county officers Thursday morning. Hall, held on a charge of burglary and a pal of John Keys who was killed by police, was brought from the jail to the sheriff's private office for questioning. He put up a terrific struggle in which three officers were battered as well as himself.

Battle Royal.

"Were you not with Keys the night he pulled that burglary job in Enid?", asked the sheriff. Hall immediately went into action and with no warning shot a hard right to the mouth and followed it with a left to the jaw. The sheriff said Hall in an instant searched him for his gun. Mr. Bralley was groggy and about half out on his feet. The prisoner quickly ran his hands down the sheriff's sides hunting for his gun. He did not have it on and to this fact is attributed the safety of those who came to the rescue. Hall turned to the window.

The sheriff was calling for help and as Dick Morris, deputy rushed in from the outer office the prisoner had one foot on the sill and was fumbling with the window in an effort to get it open. Morris pulled the man back from the window and as he was turned the prisoner took a spinning punch that broke Morris' left eyeglass and drove a portion of the glass into the brow. Morris half blinded and stunned stepped back and as he saw a foot coming through the door, yelled "Hit that guy."

Rain of Blows

W. R. Logsdon, prohibition agent, had been in the corridor and heard the commotion. It was his foot Morris had seen. Hall for the first time was beaten to the punch. Logsdon drove a long right to the side of Hall's face. It had so much force that it broke the first knuckle on Logsdon's hand. Hall spun, went halfway to his knees, but came back to his feet almost in front of Morris. Ellis Summers, city motor officer was with Logsdon. He knew who Hall was, as he had arrested him, and had his pistol ready for use but was unable to fire without endangering the lives of the other officers. Morris cracked the prisoner over the head and he went down and was taken back to jail.

Hall had been trying to make a tradeout with the sheriff. He said he could reveal some stolen "stuff" if the charges here would be dropped. Sheriff Bralley refused to consider any such trade and told his man so, he said.

Pioneer Family.

Further investigation has revealed that Keys is the scion of one of the pioneer families of Montague county. Back in 1852 Capt. A. P. Cagle, the dead man's grandfather and Mr. Bralley had offices together. The sheriff also knew the father, I. T. Keys, who at that time lived at Ringgold. Mr. Bralley said that in a talk with the man's mother she told him that Keys had broken out of jail at Enid, Okla., a short time ago and was charged with burglary there.

No additional charges have been filed following the attempted escape of Hall and it is probable that none will be as they would be classed as misdemeanor complaints.

Business men had subscribed to $13,250 worth of stock in the Wichita Falls Airport corporation when the airport committee met at the chamber of commerce Thursday afternoon and canvassed the results of the campaign. The airport company will be capitalized at $25,000.

"We hope to raise the remainder of the $25,000 by Saturday evening, but if the goal has not been reached by then the campaign will be continued on into next week," C. W. Cahoon, chairman of the committee, said. "The sooner all of the stock is subscribed, just so soon can we file the papers of incorporation at Austin and begin with actual construction work on the airport."

Mr. Cahoon and other members of the committee were confident that the full amount would be subscribed within a few days. The young business men of the city are the ones who are most interested in establishment of the airport, it was said. The stock is issued in $50 shares so as many as desire to do so may become stockholders in the corporation.

Zundelowitz Junior high school's gridders have been showing marked improvement over early season form in their last two games, according to a comparison of scores. Last week the Zundies held Bellevue to a 6 to 0 score. Earlier in the season Bellevue defeated Reagan, 19 to 0. Wednesday the Zundies played their second game of the year with the Iowa Park Hawks and lost, 13 to 6, a touchdown margin. Earlier in the season the Zundies lost to the Hawks, 19 to 0, while Reagan took a 20-odd to nothing clouting. Next Tuesday, Nov. 22, Zundelowitz and Reagan meet in their annual clash. Great news from Santa Anna! Carl Williams, pilot of the Dixie champions, is on his way to Wichita Falls to go on a duck hunt at Big Lake Friday afternoon. Incidentally he'll be on deck Friday morning for the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wichita Falls baseball club which has been called for 10 a. m. by J. Alvin Gardner, Spudder president and principal owner.

Norman E. Brown, noted Eastern sports writer whose column of sports comment appears regularly in the Record News, paid a brief visit to Spuddertown Thursday. He opined as how the Southwest conference brand of football is getting more attention this year in the East than ever before. The victory of the S. M. U. Mustangs over Missouri's Tigers and of the Texas Longhorns over Vanderbilt and the Kansas Aggies contributed materially t their interest. A sample of Brown's brand of sport writing will be found on today's sport page under the caption: "Sports Done Brown."

Incidentally, and in addition to his ability as a sports authority, Brown is something of a parlor trick genius. He showed the girls in the office how to apply a lighted cigarette to a handkerchief that had been dabbed with face powder, and believe it or not, the handkerchief was not even scorched. What an advertisement for face powder. Only there was a trick in it and the handkerchief wouldn't have been scorched even had there been no face powder.

In order that we might have something on the girls, Brown showed us the trick. Here's how:

First you borrow a half dollar, or a silver dollar if possible (but not around a newspaper office) and place it under a single thickness of the handkerchief at the point the burning end of the cigarette is to be applied. It's a good ideas to have the coin placed ahead of time to keep every body in the dark. Then when you are all set pronounced some cabalistic words, it doesn't matter what just so mystery is added and apply the cigarette, leaving it as long as 30 seconds. Then removed the burning coffin nail, blow away the ashes and it will be revealed that the handkerchief is unscorched. Anyway, the one Brown used wasn't at all damaged.

If you fall on this trick don't come around trying to get us to buy a new handkerchief for you. Also don't cause us confusion by trying to borrow the necessary coin.

RITTICISMS ..... By Bill Ritt

By this time the Brown university football team is a very blue one.

A six-day bicycle race will be held in New York in December. We thought it was about time for those fellows to start coming around again.

Tobacco makes a person deaf and dumb, says writer. Just offer an old-time smoker a two-bit cabbagio and see if that's so!

Rents are cheaper, say the newspapers. Guess our landlord doesn't read 'em.

Women are becoming more interested in golf. They were always interested in golfers.

It's funny that none of these big college football teams haven't tried to get this German Hindenburg for a coach. That boy certainly knew how to handle a line.

Wrestlers are the only boys who get paid for constantly laying down on the job.

Star Olney Fullback Out For Two Weeks

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Nov. 17.—Gloom has settled over the Olney Cub camp here with the injury of a fourth first string man on the eve of the semi-final championship game with the Seymour Panthers at Seymour Friday. Cosby, star fullback on the Cub team, dislocated a leg in Tuesday's practice and has been removed to his home. He will probably be laid up for at least two weeks.

In last week's game with Bowie, with fourth down and six yards to go, on a fake punt, Cosby broke through for 20 yards placing the ball within scoring distance. Throughout the season he has been a stonewall on the defense and a dangerous man on the offense. Russell, fleety quarter, carried from the field last week, has played his last game for the Cubs. Physicians report that he will be unable to participate in any athletic sport for at least a year.

Serious Handicap.

The loss of these two veteran backfield men will seriously handicap the Cubs in their tussle against the Panthers. E. Hart and B. Hart, Cub ends were unable to play in the Bowie game and the chances for their appearance in the Seymour game are very slim.

Coach Herm, Olney mentor, states that the following officials have been selected for the Olney-Seymour game: Ralph Pittman, E. A. Wight and "Dummy" Dean, all of Wichita Falls. Indications for a record attendance from Olney are in sight for the game Friday.

By comparative scores and games played the Seymour Panthers have a slight edge over the Cubs. The Panthers have not been scored on this season while opposing teams have registered 14 points against the Cubs. During the past two weeks both teams have played practice games with college reserve teams—Olney losing to Decatur Baptist, 49 to 0, and Seymour winning from McMurray, 12 to 0.

Panthers in Shape.

Reports from Seymour indicate that the Panthers will be at their best for the Cub game. A number of their players out on the injured list last week have recovered, according to reports and will be in the lineup when the whistle blows.

Frederick Plays Mangum Friday

Both Teams Have Yet To See Defeat

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Nov. 17.—Eyes of Southwestern Oklahoma and particularly of Southwestern conference cities, will be turned to Mangum Friday afternoon, where a crucial contest in the conference flag race will be played between the Frederick high school Bearcats and Mangum.

Both boasting a perfect percentage record, wearers of the orange and wearers of the cardinal will meet in the last conference game of the season for both teams. And the victor will either be winner of the conference pennant or one of two teams forced to a post-season playoff.

Clinton also is running ahead of the field with 1000 per cent and will hurdle into the championship class unless beaten by Cordell Friday. Their remaining conference tilt is with Hobart, who should be easy victims. Should Clinton remain unbeaten, victor in the Frederick-Mangum clash will play it in a post-season game.

The local team is to leave for Mangum about 8 o'clock. Friday morning it has been announced. Pep squads and carloads of students will follow during the day.

Cisco-Abilene Game Draws Grid Interest

ABILENE, Nov. 17.—The situation in District No. 2 which has sent a team to the state finals or semifinals every year since the Interscholastic league was organized, has simmered down to the two ancient enemies, the Cisco Loboes and the Abilene Eagles.

These teams meet here the day after Thanksgiving for the district championship. Neither has been defeated this year. Abilene meets San Angelo next Saturday at Abilene, while Cisco plays the Eastland Mavericks at Eastland. Both will be hard games, but the favorites should win.

The Eagles have a comparatively heavy, powerful and fast team. Cisco has an exceptionally fast, but rather light eleven. When the two gridiron rivals meet here Nov. 25 one of the largest crowds ever to see a high school game in this end of the state is expected.

Illinois Boxing Board Okehs Walker Fight

CHICAGO, Nov. 17. (AP) — The Illinois state athletic commission has approved a 10-round catch weight bout between Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, and Paul Burlenbach, one time holder of the 175-pound title, for the Coliseum November 25. Promoter Jim Mullen said the match was set for Los Angeles, but that Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, refused to go through with it on the coast after the Dundee-Hudkins fiasco.

HEAVIES MEET HERE TONIGHT

Lewis and Munn Will Fight For Belt

THE CARD TONIGHT.

Wayne (Big) Munn vs. Ed (Strangler) Lewis.
Pat McGill vs. Jack Dawson.
Time: 8:15 o'clock.
Place: The Gym, 605 Scott.
Referee: Gene Liepold.

Wichita Falls mat fans will see Strangler Lewis, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, in action for the first time in Spuddertown when the noted matman meets Wayne (Big) Munn, former world's title holder. Both Munn and Lewis are scheduled to arrive in Wichita Falls Friday morning according to an announcement late Thursday by Alec B. Ross, promoter.

Preliminary to the Lewis-Munn contest, Pat McGill will take on Jack Dawson in the semi-final go. Both are powerful heavyweight performers and Dawson is rated as the roughest heavy in the mat game. He has slam-bang victories to his credit over Dick Daviscourt and Toots Mondt, both of which are no tender-hearted babies when it comes to committing licensed mayhem.

Lewis' favorite hold is the headlock which he made famous and in the use of which he is a past master. Munn's forte is the body slam. Fans ought to see plenty of both tonight as Lewis has declared his $10,000 belt at stake in the contest.

Advance ticket sales for the match tonight are the best he has ever experienced in Wichita Falls, Promoter Ross said.

$6 Round Trip Rail Fare Assured For Special Train To Amarillo Tilt

It will cost only $6 railroad fare for the round trip to Amarillo on Thanksgiving day if a Pullman berth is not desired, it was announced Thursday by J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial commissioner of the chamber of commerce. The $6 fare is based on a sale of 150 tickets for the special which the Fort Worth and Denver will run, and as 113 tickets had been sold Thursday it was assumed that considerably more than the 150 will have been sold by the time the train leaves the union station here.

Mr. Chatham was notified of the cost of Pullman berths on the special Thursday.

Those who do not enter the Pullman until Thanksgiving morning, and sleeping in the berth on the return that night will be charged $12.25 for the round trip, including train fare. They may occupy the berth until 7 o'clock Friday morning.

Those who desire to occupy the berth Wednesday night, so that they will not have to arise early the following morning, as well as Thursday night, will be charged $15.50, including fare. The berths will be open as early as 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

Cost of an upper berth on the first basis will be $11.25; on the second basis, $13.70.

A drawing room to be occupied by two people will cost $45 on either basis.

Longhorns Hold Their Pratcice Behind Doors

AUSTIN, Nov. 17. (AP)—The fact that the University of Texas Longhorns have uncovered no unusual plays this season, leads some of the local football wiseacres to think Coach Littlefield's secret practice may produce some new, tricky plays for the supreme effort of the season against Texas A. & M. college Thanksgiving. Closed gates at the stadium continued to bar curious from views of the practice.

HOUSTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—Russell (Pugh) Dougherty, graduate of the University of Illinois in 1926 and one of the most famous football and basketball stars that the Illini has ever produced, has been signed by Rice institution as basketball coach, Business Manager Gaylord Johnson announced Thursday. It is understood that Rice has been dickering with Dougherty for some time in an effort to line him up for the position at Rice but arrangements hung fire until Thursday when mutual acceptances of the contract were exchanged.

Dougherty will succeed Coach Frank D. Ashcraft as Rice basketball mentor this year. Ashcraft coached basketball at Rice for the past three years but this fall was promoted to the post of director of intramural athletics, a new position created

THIRD DISTRICT RACE BACK ON

Dallas and Fort Worth Teams Have Chance

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, Nov. 17.—Forest High Lions will play the winner of the Central-North Side game, scheduled Saturday at Fort Worth, for the football championship of District 3, Class A, and for the right to represent this district in the state play-off series, it was announced here Wednesday following the games played by Sunset high of the district's executive committee.

The meeting was called by Chairman R. L. Paschal of Fort Worth to formally accept Sunset's voluntary withdrawal as district champion and from the state play-off.

Sunset Withdraws.

Sunset high, through the principal, Mr. Wilson, withdrew as district champions and from participation in the state play-off in a letter sent to Mr. Paschal Tuesday by Mr. Wilson. Conflicting opinions as to the age of a Sunset player had resulted in an investigation by Mr. Wilson. It was found that the player was above the age limit, making him ineligible and voiding theg ames played by Sunset participated in by this player.

A conference was held Tuesday afternoon at Austin between Mr. Fouts, Mr. Wilson and Roy B. Henderson, director of the Texas Interscholastic league. Mr. Henderson stated that the district executive committee would have to certify a champion first before the state executive committee could have anything to do with the matter. Sunset had not been certified as champion.

Resolution Adopted.

At the meeting here Wednesday, the executive committee members adopted the following rsolution commending the unselfish and sportsmanlike action taken by Mr. Wilson:

"Resolved, that this committee express its appreciation of the fine spirit of J. A. Wilson (Sunset high principal) in withdrawing his football team from the district contest, and state its conviction that he has done thereby much to promote good sportsmanship and to instill high ideals in the minds of our young men."

The committee decided to count each game played by Sunset, in which this ineligible player appeared, as a half game won and a half game lost by the opposing teams. The withdrawal of Sunset leaves Forest Lions champions of Dallas. North Side and Central high of Fort Worth are tied. Their game Saturday will decide the championship of that city.

Game Moved Up.

If North Side wins Saturday, Forest and North SiCe will play in Fort Worth for the intercity title. If Central defeats North Side, Forest and Central will play here for the title. Forest had a game scheduled for Thanksgiving Day with Bryan high, the final city series contest, but the committee moved the date of the game up to this Saturday, resetting the North Dallas-Bryan game, set for Saturday, for Thanksgiving Day.

The deciding district game most likely will be played Thanksgiving Day, though officials set no date for it Wednesday. In the event this game results in a tie, the team penetrating the other team's twenty-yard line territary the greater number of times during the contest, will be declared district champion.

Wichita Falls Grid Gang Brings Home Bacon

Reagan high school took the Fairview Giants to a fast trimming, 18 to 7, Thursday afternoon in an invasion of the Fairview gridiron and made two more touchdowns which were not counted because of callbacksk by officials, according to word brought back by the Wichita Falls team after the contest.

Peanut Williams scored the first touchdown for Reagan in the first quarter after a series of passes and and runs had brought the ball into scoring range. In this same quarter, Bill Wilson scooped up a free fumble and ran 60 yards to cross the goal but the ball was called back, leaving the score 6-0 for Reagan.

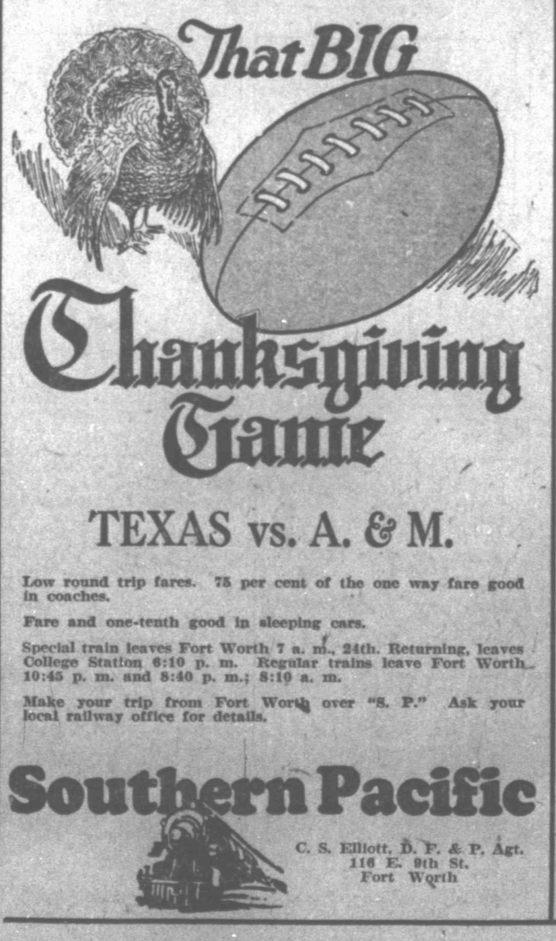

In the second quarter, Fairview came back strong and hammered its way to a touchdown, kicking goal for the extra point, and putting the Reagan foes temporarily ahead. There was no scoring in the third quarter. Bruce made the Fairview touchdown.

Reagan added two touchdowns in the fourth quarter, Logan passing over center to Jackson for one, while Jackson intercepted a Fairview pass and ran 70 yards for the the last marker.

Wesley College Gridders On Deck For Indian Game Take Light Workout Thursday

Sports Done Brown

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Harvard has gone through another miserable season in football. Yale has been vanquished as well.

But th two are preening their feathers for their annual game with all thoughts of recent games discarded. The Yale-Harvard contest still means just as much to adherents of the Crimson and the Blue as it ever did.

And a victory for Harvard—not an impossibility in these days of football upsets though perhaps improbable—would wipe out the stings of defeats without number heaped on the backs of the Crimson warriors since Percy Haughton's days.

Yale has had a two-to-one edge on Harvard through all the years of their association on the gridiron. As the elevens prep for this year's game the total score stands at 26 victories for Yale and but 13 for fair Harvard. Six games have been fought to draws.

This record has been set over a period of 51 years all told. The first game between the two schools was staged in 1875 and due to the scoring then in effect, was won 4 to 0 by Harvard.

With the exception of the span from 1912 to 1922 Harvard has found it hard to check the Bulldogs. The Crimson team trounced the New Haven outfit quite handily in 1901, scoring 22 points to 0. Then with the exception of one Harvard triumph in 1908 Yale ruled supreme until 1912 when the Crimson arose in its wrath and trounced the Eli 20 to 0. The next year Harvard repeated, beating Yale 15 to 5. The next fall it was a massacre, Harvard 35, Yale 0. In 1915 Yale was driven further into the mire 41 to 0.

In 1916 Yale snatched a 6 to 3 victory only to go down to four more consecutive defeats at the hands of its ancient rival.

Then Yale took the upper hand, winning in 1920 and 1924 rather decisively.

Two years ago all prevailing dope on the comparative strength of the teams was knocked into the well-known cocked hat when the two elevens battled to a 0 to 0 draw.

Last year's score still is fresh in everyone's memory. Yale 12, Harvard 7.

Here is the complete record of the two colleges on the grid todate. Write your own ticket for the game of November 19.

Harvard and Yale Ready To Battle

Annual Game of Old Rivals Saturday

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Are you ready Harvard?

Are you ready Yale?

The Harvard-Yale tradition, unaffected by the dissolution of the big three, appears to have more appeal than ever, in the annual game at Cambridge Saturday. And so despite the fact that Tad Jones' Yale team is recognized as one of the country's strongest while Horween's Crimson Jerseyed Minions have struggled through a rather sorry campaign fifty thousand ticket applications have been turned down by the Harvard athletics authorities.

On the record of the two teams Yale rules at least a 3-1 favorite but with the tradition in mind which says: "That anything can happen in a Harvard-Yale game, and usually does." There will be no three-to-one odds given by the betting undergraduates. The memory of those two superb teams which Yale sent against supposedly mediocre Harvard elevens in 1921 and 1922 and the subsequent astounding Harvard victories is still vivid. Then in 1925 a strong, confident Yale eleven invaded Cambridge stadium just as it will Saturday, to meet an eleven which was thought to be just a ghost of one of those Haughton coached wonders of other days. That tie still rankles in the breasts of Yale supporters.

The same way to judge this game would be to predict a Yale victory by a large score. But only a crazy person would attempt to be sane over a Yale-Harvard football game.

The records point to a Yale victory but a tossed coin might better foretell the winner.

Jim Slattery Must Battle Leo Lomski

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. (AP)—Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, N. Y., must defend his light-heavyweight crown against Leo Lomski of Aberdeen, Wash., within 30 days or forfeit the title, according to an edict by Thomas E. Donohue, president of the National Boxing association.

M. Savard, a Frenchman, plans to cross the English Channel on a bicycle fitted with floats and a propeller driven by pedals operated by the rider.

A Candidate For All-American

Jerry Mann, quarterback of the powerful Southern Methodist university football team, Dallas, is mentioned as a likely candidate for the 1927 All-American grid squad.

Dempsey To Settle With Kearns Out Of Court Before Monday, Says Rumor

By Universal Service.

NEWARK, N. J. Nov. 17.—A mystery girl from the west may be a surprise witness for Jack Kearns when the fight manager's suit for $333,333.33 against Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, is resumed Monday in federal court. The girl is said to be well known to both Dempsey and Kearns. She will not appear unless there is a general washing of dirty linen as has been threatened. If called, she will testify against Dempsey. If she does not appear, her deposition will be read.

Settlement out of court was predicted when counsel for both sides conferred today with Judge Runyon in his private chambers. All admitted anything might happen before Monday.

Dempsey and "Tex" Rickard were not present. Kearns was there.

James M. Davis, counsel for Kearns, opposed adjournment on the ground that many witnesses from distant points, here to testify for Kearns, would be inconvenienced and his client put to added expense.

"I don't imagine we are going to hear of the wolf being at the door of any one if we postpone the case," said Judge Runyon.

Another surprise witness for Kearns will probably be Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion. He has held several conferences in Newark with Kearns' attorneys and has come to court armed with several documents. One is said to be a contract for a fight between Tunney and Dempsey, with the date Jan. 25, 1926. The paper bears the signatures of George L. "Tex" Rickard, Dempsey, Tunney, Kearns, and Gibson.

Mr. Driscoll, Dempsey's attorney, is ill with grippe.

Four Beaumont High Grid Stars Ousted

HOUSTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—Four Beaumont high school football players Thursday were ruled ineligible by the executive committee of District 7 of the Texas University Interscholastic league. They are: Smith Reynolds, halfback; Charles Neizek, end; Sam Malley, guard; Abe Bando, halfback.

Throwing out of these men voids all games played by Beaumont with these players in the lineup, and sends the John R. Reagan eleven of Houston into the undisputed lead for the district honors; while practically nullifying the chances of Coach Dimmitt's Beaumont Royal Purple for the district championship.

Coach Arnold Krichamer's Reagan Bulldogs Saturday will play at Beaumont, and the loss of the four men is expected to make the Royal Purple fight with redoubled determination.

Reynolds, Neizek, and Malley are regulars while Bando is a reserve. Reynolds and Bando were found to be over age, while Neizek and Malley failed to attend football the semester preceding the football season, as prescribed by interscholastic league rules.

COYOTE PACK READY TO GO

Allred May Play Against Plainview Saturday

Coach Bud McCallum gave the Wichita Falls Coyote pack their last real stiff workout Thursday afternoon in preparation for their battle Saturday against the fast and powerful Plainview eleven, whose squad will leave the Panhandle town for Spuddertown Friday in order to reach here in time to get a brief rest before the game.

Considerable interest was shown late Thursday in the statement of Coach McCallum that Allred, Coyote backfield flash, who has been out of the game on account of injuries, will probably be able to show in Saturday's game. Allred will not appear in the starting lineup, however, and McCallum was not absolutely positive that he would be played.

Folks around the Coyote range have for the last few days come to the conclusion that the Pack will face no mean foe when the contest with Plainview opens. The Panhandle boys are reported to be 100 per cent better than they were earlier in the season when they lost to Amarillo 18 to 6. Coach McCallum declared late Thursday that the Coyotes would have to fight their best to win and took a more or less pessimistic view of the situation. He declared, however, that the Coyotes have the spirit to win.

McCallum worked his charges until long after sundown Thursday and only called a halt when it became too dark to see the ball well. He expressed the belief that he had the entire squad on edge for the game.

Texas Aggie Frosh Grid Star Dies Of Injury Received In Practice Go

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 17. (AP)—Ernest E. Farquhar, 21, freshman at Texas A. and M. college, died at a Temple hospital Thursday morning from injuries suffered here in football practice Tuesday afternoon, according to word received here today.

LIONS EXPECT STIFF BATTLE

Vernon Set For Gridiron Test With Hollis

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Nov. 17.—A stiff battle is expected here Friday afternoon when the Vernon Lions play host to the Hollis, Okla., football team. Although the game was matched as a practice affair to keep the Vernon Lions in trim for their final league game with the Lubbock Westerners here Thanksgiving Day, the locals are expected to have one of the stiffest battles of the season with the boys from the sooner state.

Coaches Baggett and May have been working their squad behind the closed gates at the city park this week as though they were grooming their charges for the crucial game of the year. An aerial game is expected. The Hollis eleven made all of its three touchdowns against Altus Armistice Day via the aerial route to defeat the Bulldogs 18-13. Until then the Altus eleven had not been defeated this season.

Lions Like Passes

The Lions are expected to break loose with a formidable passing attack. It is known that Baggett groomed his charges for an aerial attack prior to the Amarillo game, which was played in a gale that prohibited passing, and the Lions may use the plays which were practiced for the Golden Sandstorm. However, some fans are of the opinion that Baggett will wait until the Lubbock game here Thanksgiving Day to uncover his passing attack. The Lions and Westerners doubtless will be fighting for third place in District No. 1 Turkey Day.

The Vernon-Hollis game offers football fans an excellent opportunity to compare Texas and Oklahoma high school football. The Hollis eleven, although not a contender in the Oklahoma conference, has defeated the undefeated teams of the conference, and the Lions have displayed strength only just a little less impressive than the strongest in this section.

Scrubs To Get Chance

The Lions are all in good condition except Newth, who was injured in the Amarillo game. It is rumored that Baggett intends to use some of the men who have been turning out regularly in spite of the fact that they are ineligible for League competition. If so he may present the strongest eleven he has displayed this season. Johnson and Black, two regulars of last year, are still in school, although they are outside the twenty-year limit, and the speedy Holloway, ruled ineligible, may see service against the Sooner boys.

Playing 'em Over

With the Dixie Champions

On Sunday, May 22, the Spudders turned the tables on the Waco Cubs for their 10-inning defeat of the day before and Carl Williams and his crew came out on top 7 to 5. A home run by Tut Jenkins in the tenth inning did the trick.

Fred Fussell, Spudder ace then and Pittsburgh flinger now, had rough sledding in part of the game but his mates hit heftily and helped him dodge defeat. In the very first inning of the game, Del Pratt and company got to the Spud portsider for four runs on an assortment of base knocks.

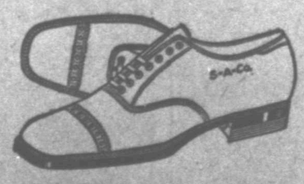

Jenkins was not the only Spudder to hit for a circuit in the game however. Peter Turgeon clubbed a Ruthian hit in the eighth inning. Likewise did Mr. Del Pratt, the Waco pilot, which incidentally knotted the count that was not to be unravelled until Jenkins' homer in the extra inning.

Each team earned four of its runs, the Spudders getting three more via the gift route while the Cubs annexed one in the same category. The Cubs outhit Alvin Gardner's men 11 hits to 10 but that didn't win them the ball game.

IT'S TOSS-UP IN MID-WEST

Notre Dame Only Eleven With Cinch to Win

BY FRED VAN DEVENDER.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Looking over the season's final games to be played in the middle west on Saturday afternoon, it is clear that the teams are very evenly matched. Tie scores are within possibility, unless upsets, common this year, occur.

They lineup about as follows:

Illinois At Ohio State.

Illinois, now the conference leaders, has a "no-star"—"all-star" combination which has taken them through the season without a defeat and only a tie with Ames, in the early part of the season. Ohio state, touted as possible conference champions at the opening of the season has had an "off and on" year. One Saturday the eleven men play brilliant football. The next Saturday, they play pitifully poor. If Ohio state plays one of the good games next Saturday, it is entirely within the bounds of reason that the Illini will be defeated, but inasmuch as it is impossible to forecast what the Buckeyes will do, the game remains very much in doubt. Illinois has a powerful and fast line, aided and abetted by a clever backfield. Ohio state in man by man comparison will abolt measure up to Zuppke's charges, but Wilce for some reason this year has been unable to put his men together into a ship-shape team.

Minnesota At Michigan.

Minnesota has the edge here. The Gopher line, boasting Gary and some other, is undoubtedly the best in the middle west. It is the same line which held Notre Dame to a 7-7 tie. Michigan's line was not even equal to the charges of the Chicago forward wall, so they can expect little from Minnesota. In the backfield, Minnesota here too, has the edge over Michigan. Almquist is the choice of most critics for all-western and all-conference quarter back. Joesting, all-American fullback is undoubtedly better than anything of which the Wolverines can boast in the backfield. In Nydahl and Barnhart, the Gophers have too a little better than average half backs. Michigan on the other hand boasts of Gilbert and Pucklewartz at half, who are two of the best halves in the conference. They are both good pass flingers and Gilbert will have the better of any Gopher in a kicking duel. On top of the Michigan boasts of Oosterbaan, perhaps the best end in the country. It should be a tough battle, but on sheer strength, Minnesota has the edge.

Purdue At Indiana.

This is an old rivalry, in which past performances of the two teams means little in the outcome of the game. Purdue has Welch and Wilcox, the latter the best back in the conference. Indiana has Bennett and Vaunce, two clever open field runners. The lines are about equal, neither being of great ability. A tie score may be expected here, unless Wilcox shows some exceptional brilliance.

Wisconsin At Chicago.

The Badgers have dropped considerable. They lost to Iowa last Saturday. The Maroons, on the other hand, are a very much crippled outfit. On football brains, the Maroons have it. They also have it in man power and playing ability, but Wisconsin is one of those lucky teams. Chicago is the best bet.

Iowa At Northwestern.

The rejuvinated Hawkeyes on the face of things seem to have the better of the purple, which played miserably poor ball against Indiana last Saturday. Gustafson, Lewis and four other men in the northwestern lineup, however, are playing their last game for the Evanston eleven, and may rise to the heights. It is rather more safe to predict a victory for Northwestern than it is for Iowa for that reason. The great trouble with Northwestern this year has been over confidence and desire to play before the grand stands without playing before empty stands in practice sessions. The boys are somewhat big headed as it were.

Notre Dame At Drake.

Notre Dame of course will win. It is just a practice game before the invasion of University of Southern California at Soldier's field here.

COONS AND HOTCHKISS SELL GRAHAM PROPERTY FOR $325,000

600 ACRES OF LAND INVOLVED

Paulle Oil Company Buys Valuable Tracts

Sale of leases aggregating approximately 600 acres in the East Graham area of Young county by Coons and Hotchkiss to the Paulle Oil company for a consideration of $325,000 was announced yesterday. The Paulle Oil company is a new concern composed of the Pitzer and West and Mudd and Wisam interests.

Terms of the sale call for $125,000 to be paid in cash and the remaining $200,000 out of the first quarter of the oil produced.

There are five producing wells on the property with a daily production of roundly 200 barrels. None of the wells, however, are producing from the new and prolific 2200-foot sand.

There are five drilling wells, some of which are offsets to leases on which the deeper gushers are flowing. The drilling equipment was included in the sale.

Mudd and Wisam had held an option on the properties for some time, it is understood, and when they moved to exercise the option Pitzer and West agreed to enter into the trade on 45 per cent of the consideration.

Pitzer and West, who now practically control the present proven area of the Graham field, will have operation of the leases acquired, it was understood. Nash and Windfohr are the other operators who hold producing leases in the pool.

The leases are on the Searbrough, Thompson, Morrison and Graham lands, north and northeast of Graham.

This increased the total for the last twelve weeks to 272. Three locations each were made in Howard and Runnels counties, two in Terrell county and one each in Upton and Winkler counties.

Ten of Pecos county's 24 locations were made by the Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental oil companies that operate jointly.

Seminole Continues To Go Down On Gauge

Special to The Record News.

ZULA, Okla., Nov. 17.—A loss of 1203 barrels was noted Wednesday morning in the Greater Seminole field's daily gauge of 418,220 barrels from 392 wells, compared to 419,433 barrels on Tuesday. Little River and Bowlegs reveal slight increases, while declines were observed for Earlsboro, Seminole City and Searight pools.

Of 22 inmates recently admitted to a public institution at Hornchurch, England, the youngest was 80, and the total ages were 1892 years.

Marland-Zoch Test in Slight Showing of Oil

Special to The Record News.

JACKSBORO, Nov. 17.—The deep wildcat test of the Marland Oil company and Zoch on the Cherryholmes land, had a slight showing of oil in a sand at 2140 feet but drilled ahead. It is now drilling at 2350 feet with the expectation of picking up a producing sand around 2400 feet.

The Leibecker-H. C. Moore No. 1 wildcat test located on the J. Williams survey, abstract 1501, is being unbailed in and is now at the depth of 35 feet. This test is located approximately two miles northeast of Leibecker and Buttram proven pools and 12 miles southwest of Jacksboro. So far Mr. Leibecker has to date completed four wells and all of them are producers. He is at the present time drilling two wells.

FOUR GUSHERS ADDED YATES

Open Flow Shows Field Will Make 447,000

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Nov. 17. Eastern Pecos county, with the United States second largest oil well initially, had added four more gushers Thursday to its forty-three, which on hourly open flow gauges for pipe line operation indicated total daily potential production of 447,254 barrels, compared with approximately 322,000 barrels less than three weeks ago.

McMan Marland No. 7 Yates, in vacancy strip 34 I-2 in the northwest area, was completed at 1320 feet seventeen feet in the pay, for peak production of 625 barrels hourly. Opened for five hours and pinched the rest of the day, it made 4445 barrels of oil.

McMan Marland No. 9 Yates, made eighty barrels hourly at 1450 feet, after topping the pay at 1207 feet, and was deepening. No. 8 Yates made ten barrels hourly upon topping the pay at 1460 feet and was drilling in.

Humble No. 3 Smith, in section 36 south offset to McMan Marland No. 8, made 325 barrels hourly from 1445 feet.

Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental No. 2 Smith Taylor, in section 32 was drilling ahead at 1395 feet, after making 2367 barrels in eighteen hours after averaging 227 barrels hourly. No. 8-B Yates, section 61 was shut in at 1048 feet owing to a shortage of tanks. No. 9-A Yates in section 34 I-2 was making ten to twelve million cubic feet of gas daily at 958 feet. No. 3-C Yates in section 60, drilling at 1033 feet in black lime, had made a small amount of oil.

AUSTIN, Nov. 16. (AP)—Four or five oil companies of operating in Texas are under surveillance of investigators for the attorney general's department and suits may be filed against them soon, R. M. Tilley, assistant attorney general said today.

Pierce Junction Proves Real Rival For Old Spindle Top Gusher Area

HOUSTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—Spindle Top apparently has a rival in Pierce Junction, Houston's back door oil field, four miles south of the city limits.

An announcement here today said that Wednesday night a mile deep, new prolific sand was uncovered in the Navarro Oil company's No. 2 Cain which flowed 2500 barrels pipe line oil through a half inch choke. Oil is 31 gravity at a temperature of 70 degrees Fahrenheit, indicating no salt water in close proximity.

This is the third producing horizon uncovered in the Pierce Junction field, the first at around 3000-3800, the second at 4000-4500 feet. The new well is located on the central east flank of the salt plug and in what is known as the oil field where the discovery and other gusher wells were first brought in.

The pay sand was entered at 5278 feet. The drill penetrated to 5289 feet and has not yet thoroughly explored.

Archer County Issues Oil Lease In West Texas To Jim Ferguson

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 17.—The Oil land situation, already in a controversy in the Yates pool, has another complication with Jim Ferguson's entering the field. The former governor of Texas has filed on four leagues of land in Crockett county, said by the deed to belong to Archer county, on the ranch of J. M. Shannon of San Angelo.

This land has been sold by Archer county for a number of years, according to Mr. Shannon, who said he has leased the oil and gas development rights to the Humble and other oil companies.

Ferguson paid $100 down to Archer county, according to terms of the lease, with the same amount due on or before Sept. 1, 1928, and 25 cent rentals due on or before the same date and a year later. A drilling clause is carried in the lease, with suspension of rentals when a well is started. The lease is to run for a term of seven years.

The county commissioners of Archer county issued the oil and gas lease, with the deed making notation that the Ferguson offer is accepted by the county.

BURNS-TURBEVILLE

L. T. Burns and the Texas company have made location to drill their No. 2 Burns, 300 feet west of No. 1 in block 27, J. W. Harris sub-division of the club ranch in Archer county. PETROLEUM-WAGGONER

Petroleum Producer company et al have made location and are rigging up cable tools to drill their No. 1 Waggoner in the southwest corner of section 23, block 3, H. & T. C. survey, Wilbarger county. The new test is on a block of several hundred acres situated three miles southwest of the pool opened recently by the Texas company in section 17, block 5.

Petroleum Producers company is drilling at 2500 feet in its No. 1 Waggoner in the Texas pool and offsetting the producer.

FARMER RANCH AREA

Panhandle Drilling company and C. P. Buxton are drilling at 1-4240 feet in their No. 2 Farmer, located in block 2, North Jamieson ranch sub-division of Archer county. Their No. 3 in the same block is rigging up to spud in.

COTTON DOWN 35 POINTS

Receipts For Day Total Only 30 Bales

The cotton market dropped 35 points Thursday, following a sudden upswing in estimates of 13,350,000 bales, with an indicated yield of 12,572,000 bales.

The upswing left in Wichita Falls months from 12 cents to 13 cents on a middling basis, with some buyers offering 28 3-4 cents for middling.

Receipts were light, local cotton yards reporting about 30 bales received.

Prices increased brought 25 a ton.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. (AP)—Sharp wind keener private crop figures and the failure of unfavorable weather reports to stimulate buying materially seemed responsible for further declines in the cotton market today. Heavy contracts sold off to 13.33, or 42 points net lower and within a point of the lowest level touched on the decline last week, and about at 10.37. The general market showed steadily, at net declines of 33 to 38 points.

The market opened easy at declines of 31 to 35 points in response to unfavorably heavy Liverpool cables, overnight selling orders from the south, and a renewal of commission house liquidation. A private report issued before the opening placed the indicated crop of the Department of Agriculture at 13,350,000 bales, and the indicated crop at 12,902,000 bales compared with and indication of 12,338,000 bales reported by the same authority at the end of October.

There may have been a little selling on this report and later offerings increased from a number of sources, estimating the ginnings at 13,350,000 bales to November 14 and the total crop at 12,572,000 bales. Spot houses continued buyers of March contracts on scale down about 20 or 27 points under March, absorbing the near month liquidation, while there appeared to be a little trade buying and covering as prices washed lower.

The southern selling here, however, was still the most weighty factor. Commodity, while slight bulges met further liquidation and the lowest levels of the day were reached during the afternoon, when December sold at 13.33 and March 13.51. As March approached the 37½-cent level, a better demand developed which appeared to come partly from the trade, and the decline of 35 to 37 points from the previous day's closing quotations, was followed by rallies of six to 10 points in late trading.

Private cables reported lessened hedging pressure and increased holdings by the Liverpool market with offerings absorbed by trade calling at the decline.

Receipts today 22,906, making 2,776,653 so far this week against receipts 3,84,624. U. S. port stocks 2,998,782.

After opening up 13.80 or five points down, December declined steadily nearly all day, closing unsettled, showing 13.15, 45 points or $2.20 a bale net lower. Near the end of the month rallied 10 points to 13.25.

One private authority estimated the ginnings to November 14 at 11,678,000 bales and the crop at 12,902,000 bales. Another authority estimated ginnings at 11,350,000 and the crop at 12,572,000 bales.

for these restaurants and stands are held under leaseholds, the average life of which is about thirteen years. Formerly the company catered exclusively to men but some of the restaurants now have special accommodations for women. The business of the company is conducted on a cash basis.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of 250,000 shares of no par value. It was quadrupled by a 300 per cent stock dividend in April 1922.

Dividends were paid at various rates from $2 in 1913 to $8 in 1921. This rate was scaled down with the stock dividend to $2 on the increased stock in 1923 and 1924. The $2 rate was also paid in the first quarter of 1925 but since that time it has been reduced to $1.50 a year.

Earnings reached high point in the fiscal year ended with April 1922, but decreased in the next four years. They have recovered somewhat, however, in the period ending in April 1927. Net income for the latter year was $408,924, or $1.64 a share, compared with $375,480 or $1.50 a share in the previous twelve months.

Good will and leaseholdings are carried at $2,364,012. As of April 30, 1927, total current assets amounted to $528,106, total current liabilities to $349,351, and net working capital to $178,755. Book value, excluding good will and leaseholdings, amounted to $8.21 a share.

Announcements made up most of the Junior college-high school assembly program Thursday morning.

John E. Lyle announced that the time for the students to choose the proofs for the Coyote was over and that if the students did not choose soon the staff would have to choose from the negatives. Kenneth Mills and Howard Scott dramatized an announcement of the sale of tickets for the special train to Amarillo Thanksgiving morning. The skit represented "Scotty" buying a ticket form Kenneth. Another football parade for Saturday was announced by Jimmy Hale, high school cheer leader. The parade will form between 12th and 13th streets on Indiana avenue at 1 o'clock. According to the announcement, a band will aid in the parade that has not yet appeared in public here and will remain a mystery until the parade Saturday.

Coach A. Y. (Bud) McCallum, in making an announcement concerning the Plainview game Saturday, said that in his estimation Plainview had the second best broken field runner in the district and that the team would need all of the support of the student body.

"Two gold footballs will be given to the first two players blocking kicks in the Junior college game Friday," said Coach Ludgate. He also thanked the student body and teachers who have been loyally supporting and helping the team in the past.

John W. Atkins announced the program to be given Friday evening by Mr. Whitney.

LATIN CLUB HOLDS PROGRAM.

A cornet solo by Leo M. Underwood was the opening number of the program of the high school Latin club which met Thursday afternoon in the little auditorium. An arena fight speech was made by Henry Helgerson. Misses Fannie Godfrey and Laurie Godfrey favored the club with a duet. The organization of the Roman senate was given by Dorothy Smart. Elizabeth Kinard told the club members about the life of the famous Roman, Cataline. Cicero's first speech against Cataline was dramatized by a group of the Latin club members. Howard Baldridge played the part of Cataline and the part of Cicero was divided among several students, each of whom had a section of the speech. Wendall Bash, Hazel Bennett, Aaron Kruger, Nathaline Lebenson, Dell Hatchett, Bety Love Rugeley, and Catherine McCarty played the part of Cicero in succession.

PEP SQUAD PRACTICE.

Formation of the "W" was practiced Thursday afternooon by the high school pep squad at its meeting. The squad also practiced two or three new motion yells for the coming games with Plainview and the one with Amarillo.

HUMORIST TO GIVE LECTURE TONIGHT.

Edwin M. Whitney, noted humorist, is being brought to Wichita Falls again this year. He will appear at the Junior college auditorium Friday evening, Nov. 18, at 8 o'clock. The Junior college Blue Curtain club is aiding in the ticket sales and will act as ushers at the program Friday evening. Those who heard Mr. Whitney last year when he was here under the auspices of the City Teachers association were enthusiastic over his words.

JUNIOR COLLEGE ROOTERS HOLD MEETING.

Talks by Seldon Hale, Jimmy Ford, and R. O. Jonas featured the meeting of the Junior college pep squad Thursday afternoon. Mr. Jonas said that in spite of the fact that there are several of the boys injured, the team is in better shape than at any other time this year. He also said that if the team won the next two games they would cinch second place in the state and the best record of any year so far.

ASSEMBLY MUSIC.

Miss Katherine Weeks gave two piano solos for the Junior college-high school assembly Thursday morning.

Texas Prison Life Too "Soft," Says Neff

ROTARY CLUB HEARS TALK

"Pen Should Be No Ice Cream Parlor," Says Neff

With 50,000 professional criminals at large in Texas, arrests are few and convictions of law violators are fewer, former Governor Pat Neff, who is here attending the Baptist convention, told Rotary members at the luncheon at the Kemp hotel Thursday. Mr. Neff spoke on the "Texas Penitentiary."

"For every 100 law violators in Texas only 10 are arrested," the former governor said. "Only one-third of those arrested are convicted and less than one half of the few who are convicted ever get in the penitentiary. Many of those convicted are turned loose by the jurors under the suspended sentence law."

Few Reach Prison

"Only two per cent of the law violators in Texas ever get in the penitentiary."

The penitentiary is neither a "formatory," nor a "reformatory," Mr. Neff said. The great majority of the convicts came out of the penitentiary with the same disposition toward law violations as when they went in, he declared.

"It is a waste of money to try to uplift the penitentiary population," Governor Neff declared. "A few of the convicts are good citizens—as good as you or I—who were sent there for some law infraction as the result of some action committed in a fit of anger or under other great stress. These convicts who are good citizens number about 150 out of the 4000 prison population.

"The others are criminals by birth and environment. You can go and look at them and you will know they are criminals. They are not to be blamed for being criminals—they had bad records back home.

"Punishment of the convicts is forbidden. The people and the legislature won't stand for it. Let a prisoner shoot down a guard, and nothing will be thought about it. But let a guard shoot a prisoner, and the whole state will become aroused.

"The penitentiary ought to be kept at all times as a penitentiary —not as an ice cream parlor. It should be such a place that the youth of the land would look upon as the worst place in the world. But we have just about robbed the penitentiary of all its terrors.

"When they go to the penitentiary now many of the prisoners enter a better home than anything they have ever been accustomed to.

"A few years ago a young man in the penitentiary was a curiosity. Today the prisons are filled with the youth of the land, more than one-half of the penitentiary inmates being under 25 years old. These are in addition to 1000 boys under 17 years old at the Gatesville reformatory.

Crime a Profession

"I account for this because crime is now a profession. Old men do not take up professions.

"We cannot reform these criminals at the penitentiary. The place of reform is at the source. Rotarians, members of Lions and similar clubs, churchmen and members of society are hiding our sins of omission behind the bars of the penitentiary and the asylums."

Clarence Gilmore, chairman of the state railroad commission, spoke briefly. He commended the community building efforts of the luncheon clubs.

The Rotarians were urged to lend their support to the Community Chest drive in a brief talk by Judge B. D. Sartin.

Mayor R. E. Shepherd led a singsong. Dr. Q. B. Lee welcomed the visitors, many of whom were visiting Baptists. Wm. Killingsworth was in charge of the program.

Of 82 aliens to whom naturalization certificates were issued in Great Britain recently, Russians, numbering 39, headed the list numerically.

Young Wichita Falls

Marian Renfro is frivolous. She says that when she grows to be a great big school girl that she will give a party in the living room of the Renfro home every evening. She doesn't commit herself as to the nature of the party but who knows what will be the new thing when Mary Ann is grown?

Meanwhile Mary Ann is keeping pace with the age of frequent and heavy applications of rouge and lipstick. But mother doesn't object very seriously as that seems to be an integral part of the life of a well-rounded young lady, and that is just what Mary Ann is to grow up to be.

Besides the frivolous things of life, the little Miss likes physicians and nurses. And an interest in some serious phase of life is also an important part of a well rounded personality.

Mary Ann is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Renfro, 2311 Bullington. She is four years old.

County's Suit For Fees On Trial Here

Propery redemption fees form the basis of the suit of Wichita county against M. L. Tittle, former county tax collector. The county alleges that Mr. Tittle did not turn in certain fees as fees of office and that the county is entitled to recover for them. The amount is said to be about $4,000. Mr. Tittle said that he did receive some check from Guy C. Raley, present collector and his successor but only after he had asked Mr. Raley if he had any money coming, and told Mr. Raley certain collections were not due him.

The case is being tried in the 89th district court before Judge P. A. Martin and will probably consume two days.

The City View school will give a community gathering at the school on the Iowa Park road at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening when Roy J. Daniel of Wichita Falls will speak on "The School as Foundation of Citizenship."

FRECKLES

Don't Try to Hide These Ugly Spots; Othine Will Remove Them Quickly and Safely.

This preparation is so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by all drug and department stores with a guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't try to hide your freckles or waste time on lemon juice or cucumbers; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask for Othine—double strength; it is this that is sold on money-back guarantee.

Boy Scouts Aid In Many Activities

Wichita Falls Boy Scouts probably get more calls for community and special service than any half dozen organizations in the city, according to a report made by Frank Creighton. And the local Scouts have a record of never turning down a legitimate call.

These calls are for every imaginable service; civic work, camp work, convention work, publicity, protection, first aid—every department in which the Scouts have had training. And the youngsters not only make willing assistants in community undertakings, but they carry out the idea by presenting a very businesslike and efficient appearance in their well kept uniforms.

There are 452 scouts in he 22 troops in the city, including two troops of colored boys who are doing fine work. The Scout council comprises 69 adults, with 20 members on the Scout Executive board; 68 men serve on Scout troop committees, and there are 67 merit badge examiners; these with the 22 scoutmasters give a total of 268 adults giving volunteer service in the organization.

During the present year six new scout troops have been organized and 130 new scouts added to the community.

If There Is

anything we are interested in more than home ownership it is MORE home ownership, but sometimes people try to own a home by oweing TOO MUCH on it rather than saving their money for a while that they might have a larger equity to start with and thus owe less, pay less interest and have a much smaller monthly payment to meet. This institution will doubly serve you by providing a profitable medium for your use in accumulating your EQUITY, then will lend you the additional funds required to purchase your home and give you a long time to repay by small monthly amounts. In this way your home does not prove a financial burden to you. There is always a right and a wrong way to do everything and being TOO MUCH in debt is not the right way to own a home.
