Hospital Board Meeting Sept. 22

The annual meeting of the Eastland Memorial Hospital contributors will be held Sept. 22 at the Hospital meeting room, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Secretary Jeff Glazner has reported.

New directors and officers will be elected.

Texas Electric Service Company will sponsor an outstanding high school senior from this area to the 1970 National Youth Conference on the Atom to be held in Chicago Oct. 22-24, according to a company official here.

A science teacher from the student's school will be named by the school principal to accompany the student to the conference, also as a guest of Texas Electric, he said. In all, the company will sponsor eight students and eight teachers to the conference from high schools in communities it serves in north central and west Texas.

Students interested in attending the conference may submit application on forms available in area high schools or from the company. Detailed information concerning the conference also is available at these locations.

The student will be chosen by a selection committee of scientists on the basis of the applications submitted, he said. A student's grades, test scores and interest in science will be among the qualifications considered by the selection committee.

Members of the selection committee are Dr. E. Leigh Secrest, vice chancellor for advanced studies and research at Texas Christian University, who will serve as chairman; Dr. Wendell H. Nedderman, vice president for academic affairs of the University of Texas at Arlington; Dr. Arthur F. Beyer, chairman of the biology department of Midwestern University; Dr. H. R. Dvorak, chief scientist at General Dynamics Corp. in Fort Worth; and W. R. Garrett, chief engineer and manager for research and development of the Drilco division of Smith Industries in Midland. Calvin A. Cumble, registrar at TCU, will serve as advisor to the committee.

Representing most of the 50 states, the 800 conference delegates attending the twelfth annual event held at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel will hear some of the nation's leading scientists discuss the latest progress in a variety of scientific areas. Discussion in the past have ranged from nuclear fusion to weather satellites and exploring the solar system and are conducted by top authorities in these fields.

The students and teachers also will make field trips to the Argonne National Laboratory, a principal center for peaceful atomic research and the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry.

National Youth Conference on the Atom is designed to inspire the scientific and engineering leaders of tomorrow by giving them an opportunity to meet and talk with leaders of today.

"The conference was conceived to reward hard work and to provide these young people with additional awareness of dramatic developments being made in the field of atomic research and development and other related areas of science and engineering the Tesco official said.

"We at Texas Electric want to do our part to contribute to the scientific development of our young people in Texas."

Texas Electric is one of 63 investor-owned electric power companies that co-sponsor the conference with the National Science Teachers Association. The program this year at the conference will have two themes, "Patterns in Nature" and "Man and Energy."

IN JUST ABOUT a week, area hunters will be taking to the fields in search of 1970 crop doves. And reports indicate that hunting will be pretty good this fall, despite drought conditions.

Dove season begins Sept. 1 and runs to October 30 in our region. The daily bag limit will be 10 birds with the possession limit set at 20. Shooting hours are from 12 noon to sunset.

A hunting license will be required if you shoot outside your home county. The 1969 hunting and fishing licenses expire on August 31, so you'd better pick up a new set before you start out on Sept. 1.

MR. AND MRS. SQUIERS

HARP-SQUIERS VOWS SAID HERE SATURDAY

Miss Sandra Harp and Mr. Dale Squiers were married Saturday, Aug. 29, at 7 p.m. in the Bethel Baptist Church in Eastland. The Rev. Bill Goff, pastor of the church, and Father Scanlin of Ranger officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Harp and Mr. and Mrs. Noble Squiers of Eastland.

Church decorations carried out the bride's chosen colors of turquoise and white. Palm trees flanked and outlined the altar. Two baskets of white gladiolus were used in addition to two white candelabra bearing turquoise candles and English ivy. White bows were used as pew markers.

Registering guests as they entered the church foyer was Mrs. Jack Adams. She presided at a registry table decorated with turquoise net skirt and bearing a bride doll.

Maid of Honor was Miss Karen Green of Eastland. She wore a turquoise peau satin floor-length dress featuring bell sleeves and empire waistline trimmed in self-fabric bow and band. Her headpiece was a circlet of turquoise satin with short veil caught in back. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Candlelighters were Miss Vicki Moore of Jal, N.M., niece of the bride, and Miss Debo rah Squiers of Eastland, sister of the groom. They were dressed in turquoise dresses identical to the Maid of Honor with matching turquoise bows in their hair. They wore white carnation corsages.

Miss Debbie Carol Shelton of Brazos, Texas, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. She was dressed identically to the candlelighters. She carried a basket of white carnations.

Ring bearer was Gary Moore of Jal, N.M., nephew of the bride.

Mr. Randy Squiers, brother of the groom, was best man. Serving as ushers were Jerry Jackson of Eastland, Tom Bauchard of Oxnard, Calif., Clovis Moore of Jal, and David Harp of Decatur.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of peau de soie featuring chapel sleeves empire waistline, scoop neckline with wide stand-up collar. The collar and bodice were adorned with Galoon lace medallions and appliques encrusted with seed pearls. The same beaded appliques continued from bodice to hem down the front of the dress. Edged in seed pearls, a chapel train fashioned of organza was attached with a satin bow at the waistline.

The train featured identical beaded medallions and appliques in the same pattern as on the dress. Appliques also adorned the sleeves. The shoulder length veil of organza was caught with a satin bow and organza roses. She carried a colonial bouquet of turquoise and white carnations with center gladiolus atop a white Bible. She carried out the tradition of something old by carrying a handkerchief carried by her grandmother in her wedding, something blue, and a sixpence in her shoe.

Miss Mary Ann Turner was organist and Mrs. A. C. Blackwell was soloist. Vocal selections presented were "More" and "Whither Thou Goest."

The mother of the bride wore a gold double knit dress with long sleeves and high neckline with a dark brown double knit sleeveless coat. She wore beige accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The groom's mother wore a seafoam green silk A-line dress with high neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. She wore black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The reception following the wedding was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Hostesses were Mrs. Clovis Moore, Mrs. Jack Harp, Mrs. Gaylon Park, Mrs. Jeff Shelton, Miss Patsy Ingram and Miss Barbara.

The bride's veil was laid with a white lace tablecloth over turquoise underlay. Cake, fruit punch, nuts and mints were served to the guests with crystal, silver, and gold appointments. Centerpieces for the table consisted of turquoise carnations and pom mums surrounding a gold candelabra holding three white tapers.

The bride's going away dress was the pink double knit. She wore straw and black patent accessories and a white gladiolus corsage from her bouquet.

After a trip to New Mexico the couple will make their home in Weatherford, Okla., where both will attend Southwestern State College. Both bride and groom are graduates of Eastland High School.

Old Rip in 5th Courthouse, How He Got There Is Related

By Mrs. T. E. Castleberry

There are many people who have never had an opportunity to read an Eastland County history, even though several have been printed. For their information, I would like to tell some things of the five courthouses Eastland County has had, the pictures of which can be found in the Edwin T. Cox Eastland County History in the Eastland Library.

Like most nearby counties, Eastland was created February 1, 1858. It was named for Captain Wm. M. Eastland, who fought in the Battle of Mier just inside the Mexican border. Those captured were taken to Salado, Mexico, and it was decreed that every tenth man should be shot. Captain Eastland was the first of the seventeen men to draw a black bean in the fatal lottery. On March 16, 1843, they were blindfolded, marched up to a brick wall and shot from the back.

Organization of the county took place December 2, 1873, and the location and name of the county seat were voted upon. Merriman was chosen as the name of the county seat, in honor of a prominent man by that name. Merriman is three miles south of Ranger. The first courthouse was a small wooden structure covered with deer skins and buffalo hides. The county officials, or most of them, lived at Mansker's Lake because of the abundance of water.

About this same time, three young men were attending the Lexington University of Kentucky. They were: J. S. Daugherty, C. U. Connelley and J. B. Ammerman. After graduation, they came to Dallas, entered a college there and took a course in surveying and came out full-fledged surveyors and land agents.

They came to Eastland, bought a half-section of land of the C. S. Betts Survey, for 50 cents per acre, between the middle fork and the north fork of the Leon River.

J. S. Daugherty and C. U. Connelley talked to the county officials about holding an election to see if it was agreeable to the people to move the county seat to Eastland. The election was held Aug. 2, 1875, with Eastland having been voted the county seat, and that name chosen.

Daugherty, Connelley, Ammerman and several local surveyors plotted the town and named the streets. When twitted about his lack of imagination when Mulberry Street was named, Mr. Connelley replied that he had named it after his first sweetheart whose last name was Mulberry.

After a $5,000 bond was put up by them, a building of native stone, 25 by 50 feet, was erected on the northwest corner of the square. The upper floor was used as a courthouse and Masonic Hall and the lower floor housed a grocery store. After a time, Bill Connelley (brother of C. U.) put in a grist mill in the west end of the store. The mill pond behind the store was used as a baptistery by those who practiced immersion. Many of our early citizens, some still living, were baptized in the mill pond behind what is now the Mode O'Day store, formerly the Corner Drug Store.

This second courthouse served the people until 1883, when it was decided that a larger one was needed; so, a contract was signed by the Commissioner's Court and the firm of Lance and McEachern for the erection of a building of native stone, said to have been red sandstone. There were two stories and a gable or a lookout. Close scrutiny of the picture in Edwin T. Cox's history shows the roof to be quite complicated, with fancy flues, tiny fences, a cupola and a large clock, which was so common in those days.

The name of one man who worked on the roof of this third courthouse has gone down in history, not because he was an expert roofer, not because he was loved by all who knew him, for no one seemed to know anything about him except his name, but simply because he had the misfortune to fall off the roof to his death. He was unknown locally, none knew when or where he was born, if he was a bachelor or if his family grieved and worried about what had become of him in those days of unforeseen dangers.

This story was told to his children by Mr. Calvin Perkins, who lived near Pleasant Grove for years and who was lovingly called "Uncle Cal Perkins."

A co-worker on the roof carved out a marker of red sandstone with the inscription:

"In Memory of James Fox, who Died December 12, 1883."

This marker is in the old part of the cemetery, to the right as one enters from Valley Street and is just east of the fenced-in plot of the Corner graves. This odd looking stone is not sitting square with the world, but the foundation looks to be as solid as the day it was put there some 87 years ago. The stone is almost covered with rock moss. One wonders who this co-worker was that carved out the stone for this unfortunate man.

This third courthouse was finished in 1883, but it was doomed to have only 13 years of life. The town awoke about 2:30 one morning in late November of 1896 to find the beautiful building wrapped in flames! Arson? Who knows? But feeling ran high!

However, there was grave need for a courthouse, and plans were made at once to rebuild. So, in the summer of 1897, the cornerstone took place and little attention was paid to the placing of a horned toad in this stone.

The fourth courthouse was completed in February of 1898. There were three stories and a cupola. Also, there were winding stairs that led from the ground to the cupola. It got to be a custom for the young people to gather in groups of two or three or a dozen and climb the circular stairway to the cupola every Sunday afternoon and look at the great expanse spread before them in every direction. What a thrill!

After a period of 31 years, it was decided to raze the fourth courthouse and build the fifth. When the building was almost leveled, people began to speak of the horned toad and wondered if there really had been a frog put in the cornerstone, and if so, would it be dead or no frog at all.

Gene Day reached down and brought out the flat, dusty frog and handed it to Rev. Singleton, who in turn handed him to Judge Prichard, who caught him by one hind leg and lifted him high into the air. When he kicked his other hind leg, the crowd went wild! When he finally woke up, he found a few changes had taken place during his nap!

When Old Rip gave his first kick with his free leg, he kicked himself, his owner, Will Wood, Eastland and Eastland County into the limelight and things have never been the same again.

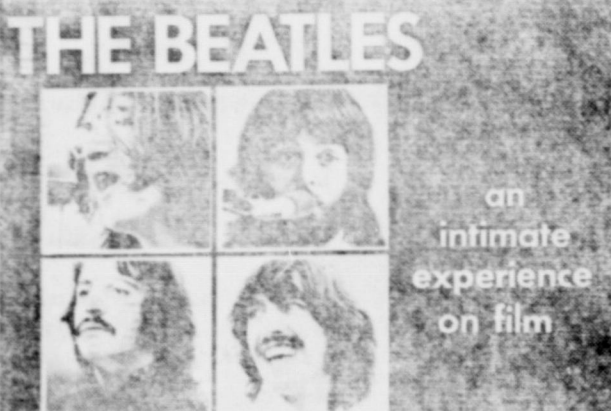

In some sections of the country, people call Old Rip a toad, in other sections he is called a lizzard—but in Texas, he is just a useful, harmless "Little old honey frog." California shipped many, many of these little fellows out to the country where they could enjoy the land themselves put in the 1890s and 50's. The children named their father or some personage. Recently the horny frog, and gardens have from the lack of friends.

Courthouse was completed in 1928. And, would even though "Old Rip" already gone to Heaven, his body view in the main first floor in his casket with a glass

New Promise Is Offered By Hog Raising

DALLAS—More and more Texas farmers are agreeing with the words that appear under the head of a smiling pig: "Hogs are Beautiful."

For whether the porkers are really pretty or not, many of them are agreeing that swine production holds particular promise in the state.

Charles Taylor, associate editor of the Texas Farmer-Stockman, explains why in the September issue of the magazine.

Texas has plenty of grain to support feed requirements for an expanded hog industry.

Pigs convert feed to meat more efficiently than other red meat animals, and hence have more potential profit.

Texas markets can use more pork. The state produces only about 25 to 30 percent of all the pork it consumes.

Swine can produce a higher return on investment than any other form of livestock. "Good management and a liking for the business make the difference between success and failure," Taylor reports.

Taylor cited two cautions about the hog business. Usually high hog prices in the last year led many farmers to take a second look at raising the animals. But by now prices have taken a drop and the U. S. pig crop for 1970 has already been predicted to be the largest since 1943.

Wildcat Staked

The Ed F. Henderson No. 1 W. H. Pruett, a wildcat located 7½ miles northwest of Rising Star has been completed for a daily production of 43½ barrels of 41.5 gravity oil from a total depth of 2,658 feet. The operator, of Monahans, set 4½ casing at 2,638 feet. The well is pumping from open hole after being treated with 5,000 gallons of acid. Production is from the Marble Falls.

Location is 3,220 feet from the south and 4,818 feet from the west lines of George Robinson Survey 34, A-421.

Even so, Taylor reports that "The long-term, solid potential for hog production in Texas still remains good."

Field Day On Grasses To Be Held Sept. 30

A public field day will be held on September 30 at the Soil Conservation Service plant materials center at Knox City, according to John W. Lee, Rising Star Soil Conservation Service technician.

New grasses, forbs, legumes and other plants under evaluation at the center will be discussed during the day, Lee said. The center, known officially as the James E. "Bud" Smith Plant Materials Center, serves both Texas and Oklahoma.

Some 675 strains of 164 different plants are being grown at Knox City to try to find superior strains that will solve specific soil and water conservation problems. The more promising ones are then grown and evaluated under field conditions on farms of soil and water conservation district cooperators under a wide variety of conditions. Selections that prove superior to other strains available are then released by conservation districts to commercial seed growers. These producers then grow seed and sell it to the public.

A new grass variety, Selection 75 Kleingrass, was certified and released last year as a result of work done at the center in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Other grass strains proven and put into use by SCS include El Reno, Uvalde, and

Area Policy Meet At Eastland Sept. 4

County Farm Bureau will attend an area development kick-off September 4, 1970 at Farm Bureau Meeting Eastland, according to Cozart, president of farm organization.

Meeting was a community session for the purpose of identifying major problems at state and national level which will be of primary concern to Farm Bureau in the year ahead, Cozart said.

The work session committee will be identifying problem areas in some of the following subjects: taxes, education, state and local government, regulatory programs involving agriculture, transportation, natural resources, and various livestock and commodity problems.

Problem areas defined at the area meeting will be combined with reports from other similar meetings throughout the state and used by the Eastland County Farm Bureau

Policy Development Committee as it plans for policy development at the county convention in October, 1970.

The annual Farm Bureau policy development process begins with county annual convention which will be held during September and October, followed by the annual state convention in December which will be held in Houston this year.

All Policies of the organization— from local taxation to national farm program legislation— are determined by the members in a truly democratic process throughout the series of conventions. They are not made by taking a poll, but are hammered out on the anvil of debate and compromise, Mr. Cozart said.

At the county convention, policies on local issues are

THE GORDON SPOT

By DE GORDON, County Agricultural Agent

This is the first "Gordon Spot" column written since the last good rain and that's been several months. The summer passed by fast, yet a lot of things happened during those hot, dry days.

During the first six weeks of summer I was at school at Texas A&M. Jim Wells, Assistant County Agent, did a good job conducting our extension programs during that time.

After I returned from school we had two 4-H camps, met with two communities to discuss community improvement, had one peanut tour, two peanut insect meetings, inspected over a dozen peanut fields for insects, attended the state pecan show and queen pageant, read a four foot stack of mail, had a three day vacation, and attended a one week State Extension Conference. Somehow I didn't find time to write a news column.

We have been fortunate to have JoAnn Fox help us in the office this summer. She has been a big help to us. JoAnn lives at Olden and will be a Junior in Eastland High School this year.

The biggest disappointment of the summer came when Jim Wells told us he was resigning to accept a teaching position at Comfort. Jim was well liked by all those with whom he worked. I'm sure he will be as good an agriculture teacher as he was an Assistant County Agent.

formulated, and recommendations on state and national issues are forwarded to the state convention. County delegate representation at the state convention is based on membership strength.

Policies on state issues are decided at the state convention and recommendations on national issues are submitted to the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Again, voting delegate strength at the national convention is based on state membership. National policies are formulated by voting delegates from the various states at the national convention.

The resulting policies represent compromise among varying regions and commodity interests. They are the natural policies of all farm bureaus everywhere.

We are very happy to have a new Assistant County Agent working with us now. Paul Campbell began work Friday August 21. His home is Crowell and he attended West Texas University. We are expecting our fine 4-H program to continue under the leadership of Paul and Judy Cardwell.

There was an article in that three of our top 4-H members were valedictorians of their respective graduating classes. Two of those students received scholarships through the 4-H program. Carter Housel of Rising Star was awarded $4,000 scholarship and Patsy Mosely of Olden won a $500 scholarship through the state 4-H food show. Carter will attend Abilene Christian College while Patsy Mosely plans to attend Tarleton State College this fall.
