FOUR DEAD, EIGHT INJURED IN CRASH

SENATOR FROM NEW MEXICO IS VICTIM OF AIRPLANE ACCIDENT IN MISSOURI

TWA Plane Runs Out of Gasoline; Crashes Near Macon; New Mexican Listed Among Those Killed Instantly

LEFT SUNDAY NIGHT FOR CAPITAL

Three Others Die In Mishap; Nine Injured In Eastbound Plane; Left Santa Fe For Washington To Assume Duties

ATLANTA, Mo., May 8. — Senator Bronson M. Cutting of New Mexico and three other persons were carried to their deaths in a fog-bound TWA transport plane near here early this morning.

Nine persons, six of them members of a motion picture production unit eastbound to make a film at Annapolis, were injured and taken to a Macon, Mo., hospital 15 miles from the scene of the crash.

The dead: U. S. Senator Bronson M. Cutting, Santa Fe, New Mexico. Pilot Harvey Bolton, Kansas City. Co-pilot K. H. Green, Kansas City. Miss Joanne Hillias, Kansas City. Mrs. William Kaplan, Los Angeles, Calif.

William Kaplan (1413 Greenfield Ave.), West Los Angeles, Calif., assistant to producer of Paramount Studios, leg broken, condition reported favorable. Henry Sharpe (230 Northwestern Ave.), Los Angeles, or (372 Main St.), Port Washington, Long Island, N. Y., broken right leg and face and body cuts. Baby Metzger, 15-months old daughter of Mrs. Metzger, broken left leg and cuts about face and body. Mrs. D. L. Meeker, Kansas City, wife of a TWA pilot, slight injuries.

Was Hurrying East Senator Cutting was hurrying to Washington from New Mexico to vote on the bonus bill. His body was identified by a bill fold in his pocket. News of the prominent progressive republican's death caused a shock in his home state and in the national capital.

The accident occurred about six miles west of here in rugged country where emergency landing conditions had been rendered hazardous by recent rains.

Enveloped in Fog Eastbound non-stop from Albuquerque to Kansas City, the ship arrived over the Kansas City airport at 2:56 a. m., 30 minutes late, at an altitude of 4,000 feet. Dispatchers Kora advised Pilot Bolton there was only 300 feet of ceiling here, due to low hanging fog and smoke, and ordered the ship on to seek the department of commerce emergency landing field at Kirksville or Knoxville, Mo.

About 120 miles northeast of Kansas City, just 15 miles short of the field at Kirksville, fuel gave out and an immediate landing was necessary.

Motors Sputtered This crash was reconstructed from final radio reports and reports of Charles Bledsoe, farmer, who lives near the scene of the crash, who said the motors of the big low wing monoplane sputtered out just before it fell.

The Transcontinental Western Air of Kansas City said this was the first accident reported anywhere to one of these twin motored Douglas ships. The line itself had flown

Memorial Services To Be Held Here

Memorial services will be held here tomorrow from 11 to 11:30 to pay a last tribute to Senator Bronson Cutting, who was killed in an airplane crash early Monday morning near Macon, Mo. A program has been outlined, and all stores are asked to close during this half hour.

The program is as follows: Tribute—Claude A. Loris, Salute—American Legion, Taps—American Legion, P. G. E. band playing. The committee is composed of Ezra Watters, P. D. Miller, and E. T. Hensley Jr.

It was a sister ship of "No. 300," the transport that only last week set a new transcontinental speed record between Los Angeles and New York.

Crashed At 3:30 A. M. Bledsoe said the crash occurred about 3:30 a. m. on a rolling pasture a quarter of a mile from his farm home, which is six miles west and one and one-half miles south of Atlanta.

"I heard the crash," Bledsoe said, "but made no investigation. A half hour later Bland Gempner, a neighboring farmer, came to my house with a woman passenger. The Stores To Close A concerted effort is being made to ask merchants and business men of the city to close their places of business tomorrow during the time the funeral of Bronson Cutting, victim of the ill-fated TWA airliner, "Sky Chief," which plunged to earth through a heavy fog in Missouri early Monday morning. Senator Cutting and three others lost their lives in the wreck; another, injured in the accident, died later.

The plea was issued by Mayor R. G. Bryant of Portales. Stores will be closed from 11:00 until 11:30.

woman had gone to Gempner's house to report the accident, but he had no telephone. We put in calls to Atlanta and Macon for ambulances.

"Seven injured were brought to my house. One was brought in on a truck and the others on stretchers. All were unconscious or too badly injured to tell what had happened. The injured were taken to a hospital at Macon.

Plane Was Destroyed Bledsoe said the airplane was destroyed. There was no fire. Officials of the TWA said it was the first fatal crash on one of the airline's scheduled revenue carrying flights since March 31, 1931, when Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach, and seven others were killed near Badger, Kansas in foggy weather much the same as that early today over Missouri.

Only 80 minutes before the doomed ship cruised overhead at Kansas City municipal airport the first sec-

To Let Contracts For New Buildings

Contracts will be let Monday for two new duplexes to be built on the site where the Bond rooming house has been torn down. The buildings will be modern and attractive, with fireplaces and built-in features. One will be rented furnished and the other unfurnished, according to Mrs. Arthur Jones, who is building them. Work will start immediately and they will be ready for occupancy in a short time.

Presto! $1,562.50, Like a Charm

The send-a-dime "plan" has reached Portales. During the last week letters coming into the local post office have shown a large increase, part of which is attributed to the fad of chain letters. A number of people have turned their letters over to the postmaster here, while others have cast them aside with animosity; still others, it is to be surmised, have taken the privilege of attaining "a dime for nothing."

Many of the letters differ in wording, but the intent is the same. Many carry the name "Prosperity Club," others have been dubbed by the sender "Hope, Faith, Charity," which might indicate that there have been more than one originator in this little game.

The letters have about the same meaning. All of them state that

"Ain't Gonna Be Outdone by Long"

WASHINGTON, May 8 (UP). "I ain't gonna be outdone by Long," the colorful Percy L. Cassaway, Oklahoma's ex-cowboy, now turned Congressman, said as he gathered his bodyguard about him and strode down the steps of the Capitol before a battery of newsmen cameras. The guards were armed with guns. As they drew abreast of the cameras Cassaway gave a signal. The guards drew their pistols and fired four times in the air. The pistols were merely cap guns—and the bodyguard was composed of four youngsters. Fred Johnson Jr., 13-year-old son of Fred W. Johnson of Rock Springs, Wyo., U. S. Land Commissioner, was a member of the personal bodyguard.

RAIN-SNOW-SLEET

Colorado's Dust Bowl Gets Relief In Downpour

Rain, accompanied by snow and sleet, which fell here over the week-end is thought to have broken the intense drouth that has held this county in chaos for the last eight months. It has been reported that better than a half-inch precipitation covered the Eastern New Mexico area.

Not only did this area receive the downfall, but parts of Oklahoma, Texas, and even the much-read-about dust bowl of Colorado had its breathing relief after several weeks of dust.

Many farmers were optimistic over the prospects of an unusually good crop following the rain. Many have begun their spring planting, which has so long been delayed, due to drouth conditions. The New Mexico weather bureau gave a report that this part of the county was in far better condition as a result of the drouth than most any other part of the state.

Although accompanied by a strong north wind, the cold wave did little to mar the prospects of fruit in this section. It was feared at first that the cold spell would kill all fruit in bloom at that time.

This was the most precipitation the county has had since last August, according to figures on the report.

Hushpuckenean May Get Job "Ef En He Can Locate Town"

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 8 (UP).—Hushpuckene, Mississippi's own J. Davis Becknozer, has applied for the "dog-catcher" of Cheyenne. Few residents here, if any, ever heard of the Hushpuckenean until he wrote a letter to Tim T. Kelher, chief special agent of the Illinois Central system at Chicago, and a former Cheyenne resident. Becknozer applied for the dog catcher's position through Kelher. Kelher in turn mailed the application to Police Chief T. Joe Cahill here and recommended the southerner for the position. J. Davis Becknozer of Hushpuckene, Miss., penned the following letter:

"Mr. Culppe has told me he moved you all and you all lived in Cheyenne once and maybe you all moved this T. Joe Cahill feller who is looking for a good dog catcher which he is in need very much of I need the job bad as old man tiver Yaso and Yalobusha bout ruin me this year. Am good dogman always have 4 or 5 of em no hard dogs rund all the time an I just naterly like 4 leg dogs better than some 2 leg critters I know of. I can go rite up and pet a strange dog which is something a lot of fellers cant do so dont haf to chase em to catch em. I nows all kinds of dogs from Coon hunds up to pet dogs women halve in place of kids.

"Tell this her T. Police Chief Cahill has taken no action toward Becknozer's application—but wouldn't be surprised to see the Hushpuckenean walk into town 'ef en he can find Cheyenne."

BULLETIN

Following the death of Senator Bronson Cutting, killed in an airplane crash Monday morning, a number of figures have jumped into the limelight as a possible successor. Dennis Chavez, democrat, defeated by Cutting in the recent election, seems to be the most popular among the prospects. The state press has intimated that Gov. Clyde Tingley will attempt to appoint himself. However, this is hardly possible.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Barker, San Angelo, Texas, with their small baby, were visiting Mr. Barker's brother, Ed Barker, and family here Sunday. Mr. Barker reported snow all the way from San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Trapp, Charlie Brown and Jack Imoe were fishing on the Pecos near Fort Sumner Tuesday evening. They report a nice catch.

Will Hold Rabbit Drive Wednesday

With the coming of green grass the jack rabbits are becoming so numerous they are threatening the grass and will be a menace to crops when they begin to come up. A rabbit drive is being held west of town Wednesday to help get rid of these rodents. Everyone is invited to come and help rid the country of jack rabbits. The drive will start from the A. G. Tinnin place on the South Floyd Road. Free barbecue and coffee will be served to participants at noon.

Anent the Error

According to reports coming from Dora, Mr. Cathey Dandrudge, formerly of that community but now of Mississippi, was reported to have been killed by a negro in that state some time ago. J. B. Sledge, local resident, wrote his brother of that state, R. F. Sledge, who reported the rumor was false.

Orval Slaton returned from Tucson Sunday.

FLOYD HIGH SCHOOL TEAM WIN HONORS

Broncos Capture Win In State Athletic Contest, Monday

WIN FIRST PLACE

Widener High Point Man In Hurdles at Albuquerque

The Floyd High School Broncos again displayed their supremacy on the athletic field last Monday afternoon by winning the state track championship on the University field at Albuquerque. The Broncos led the scoring with 31½ points, beating their nearest competitor, Carlsbad, by 3½ points.

It was the same combination that was used in winning the basketball championship, Woods, Finley and Widener, that was responsible for the great total amassed by the Broncos. The Roosevelt county boys were able to collect one first, four seconds, one third, three fourths and two fifths in winning the meet.

Carlsbad was second with 28 points and the Santa Fe Indians third with 23 points. Elida, the other team entering from Roosevelt county, placed fourteenth with four points. Butler and Tusha of Elida won places in the meet.

Although the Broncos led the field in scoring, they were not able to break any records and their only first was won by Widener in the high hurdles. Robertson of Hot Springs scored his team's only points by setting a new record in the pole vault of 11 feet 4½ inches.

SUMMARY High hurdles: First, Widener (Floyd); second, Dunnagan (Carlsbad); third, Widener (McAllister); fourth, Aikie (A. I. S.); fifth, Pashona (A. I. S.). ## TO HOLD FIRST COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT COLLEGE, MAY 29

Instructor For Summer School To Arrive Soon

Miss Frances Carey, observation school supervisor for the summer session at the Eastern New Mexico Junior College, will arrive here this week to make arrangements for the observation schools to be held in connection with the summer session of the college.

Enrollments in this school will be limited to twenty-five students in the first three grades, according to Donald MacKay, president of the institution.

Commencement exercises for the first class to graduate from Eastern New Mexico Junior College will be held on the college campus Wednesday, May 29, at 10:30 o'clock.

Graduates will wear the traditional blue caps and gowns. Members of the faculty will wear caps and gowns in accordance with their degrees.

Baccalaureate services will be on Sunday, May 26. The preceding Friday will be Honors Day in assembly with President Donald MacKay in charge.

On May 28 President and Mrs. MacKay will entertain the graduating class with a breakfast at their home. This will be followed by the ceremony of planting the evergreen on the college campus.

On Sunday there will be a formal tea at the college for the faculty, graduates, families of graduates and members of the board of regents.

Members of the graduating class are Mrs. Mayme Rylander Ford, Edith Bernice Price, Norma Grace Widman Edith May Wheeler, Anita L. Frances, Annie Maude Hunter, Frances Nan Hodges, Mary Catherine Wilson, Eva Christine Black, A. D. McDonald, Leon M. Shumper, Jewel Derrick, Eunice Drinkard, J. M. Metcalf, Kathryn Ann Mundell, Erna Wells, and Ida McE Hart.

Install New Pumps

The C & T service station has installed two new pumps at their station at the southeast corner of the square. The pumps are ultra modern, showing the purchaser the amount of the sale, along with the amount of fuel put into the gasoline tank.

Kenneth Brough, librarian at the College, made the commencement address at Rogers Friday night.

Students To Sell Tags on Commission

At the regular weekly meeting of the local chamber of commerce, held in the basement of the Christian church Tuesday, a complaint was made concerning automobile tags bearing the insignia "The Sweet Potato Town."

It was decided only a few had been applied to cars of the city, and as a consequence, Bert Rawlins, secretary, was instructed to let college students sell the tags on a commission basis.

In case a student calls on you at your home, or elsewhere, for sale of the tags you should cooperate with that student as much as possible. It is surmised that the student is to use the money derived from these sales to aid in defraying his expenses at the local college.

Reed Plans to Attend Athletic Conference

Coach D. H. Reed of the Eastern New Mexico Junior College will attend the New Mexico Athletic conference which will be held at Las Vegas Saturday. At this time plans will be made for the fall football schedule.

Rainfall In Mississippi

According to word coming to J. B. Sledge from the state of Mississippi, his brother, R. F. Sledge, reports the rainfall so far this year at 20.79 inches. This is 1.5 inches above the average. Mr. Sledge reports the rain still falling. So far Roosevelt county, New Mexico, has had little more than half an inch.

Dean Floyd D. Golden made the commencement address at Ranchvale Friday night.

HEAVY, HEAVY HANGS OVER YOUR HEAD

There is no message more poignant at this time than that concerning the send-a-dime letter. If the sender would only scan the postal laws and regulations governing this kind of mail, which is labeled by Uncle Sam as "fraudulent scheme," we feel sure they would not hesitate to turn the matter over to the local postmaster that postal inspectors might be aided in solving the mysterious inception of these epistles.

During the last several days a number of local residents have been recipients of such mail. Many have been cast aside with abhorrence, while others, it is to be surmised, have responded to the request of the sender.

We are of the opinion, governed by a clause in the postal laws and regulations book, published by the government, that anyone using this means to secure money or other valuables are subject to arrest. The minimum or maximum penalty for the crime is not known, but we are left to believe it would be disastrous.

The letters, which differ somewhat, but have the same meaning literally, have poured into the larger postoffices in stacks. It has become a problem among clerks and postmasters and much work and probing is being done by inspectors to locate the sender of the first letter.

We'd hate to be that bird

BALANCED CANNIBAL DIET

The vicar apostolic of the Northern Solomon Islands, Bishop Thomas Wade, arrived in San Francisco recently with an explanation why cannibals are cannibals.

"Deprive a native Solomon Islander of vitamins and proteins demanded by Nature and he will eat his neighbor," said the bishop. "Give him natural food and he will become ashamed of his former flesh eating. Cannibalism was originally due to lack of meat in the islands. Then it became surrounded by ceremonials.

"Weaker tribes who had been driven from lowlands and available animal life by stronger tribes took to cannibalism for the sake of a balanced diet, including fats and oils. I believe that the South Sea islands had no indigenous animal life except possibly the pig and it was probably brought by Captain Cook. "When I am particularly angry with an ex-cannibal or his children, I call them such. It is worse than a slap in the face. They would rather eat bully beef than human flesh because there is more salt in it. I don't think they are afraid of a new diet.

"Cannibals usually are weaklings. There will be no cannibals among the Solomon Islands in ten years, when civilization contacts the back country."—"Times" in Santa Fe New Mexican.

UNITED FIGHT ON DOPPE

Every state legislature could profitably give heed to President Roosevelt's appeal for a system of uniform state laws to abolish the illegal traffic in narcotic drugs.

As the President points out, the federal government alone cannot wholly check this traffic. It must have full cooperation from local law enforcement units. But the great diversity of existing state laws on narcotic drugs makes such cooperation very hard to obtain.

No part of the current campaign against crime is more important than the drive against the drug evil. Passage of uniform state legislation along the lines suggested by the federal authorities will help us to attack the crime problem in a most vital zone.—Amarillo News.

RELIEF FROM RELIEF

In a little story from London? light is thrown on just what the relief problem means—and what patience is going to be required to work it out.

In London, one Frederick Head, unemployed father of five children, was sentenced to one month at hard labor for refusing to learn a trade in the government training classes. The new British regulations provide that a relief beneficiary must show that he had made an honest effort to get work.

But the interesting part of it is that Head had been drawing about $8.50 a week in relief ever since 1923. For 12 years the public had paid this man in cash because it had been unable to give him a chance to work. And after 12 years of that, Head refused to go to the trade school because he said it was "a waste of time."

It is to avoid this sort of thing that an effort is now being made to substitute work for handouts in this country.—News-Capital, McAlister, Okla.

PEACE RESTS SECURELY ON STABILITY

A sensible approach to the problem of world peace is produced by Secretary of State Hull in his recent warning that the nations must unite in an economic program to restore economic stability before the threat of war can be averted.

We do not often stop to remember that back of almost every war scare there is some profound maladjustment which exerts an unendurable pressure on a people or a group of peoples. Our disarmament and security conference almost uniformly ignore that fact, and for that reason get nowhere.

Secretary Hull's notion is that, if the tangled economic situation can be unscrambled first, the attempt to build enduring peace will be a great deal simpler.

"The necessity was never more apparent," he says, "for the various countries of the world to give immediate attention to the matter of adopting a sound and comprehensive economic program, both domestic and international, and carrying it forward, to the end that the normal processes of domestic and international finance and commerce may be restored and tens of millions of unemployed wage earners may be re-employed.

"This would afford a solid foundation on which to rebuild stable peace and political structures."

Too often we seem to take it for granted that this or that nation adopts a warlike course out of pure human cussedness.

We have been very vocal in condemning Japan's course in Manchuria and China, for instance, and we have blamed it largely on the militarism of an army and navy clique which has managed to take control of the government.

What we forgot is the simple fact that Japan has faced the prospect of a trade depression and a wave of unemployment far more severe than the one through which we have been passing.

The Japanese people became convinced that only by gaining access to fresh territories that would provide expanding markets, and new sources of raw material could they avert economic disaster.

This is what explains Japan's warlike course in recent years; and something similar is behind almost every resurgence of the martial spirit.—Exchange.

LONG LIVE THE CIRCUS

Every year before the big Ringling circus starts on the road the elephants, clowns, and some of the more wholesome freaks are taken to Bellvue Hospital, New York, where a special performance is given for the children and adults, many of whom are crippled and incurable. This year the special show was presented for the twenty-ninth time. Some of the patients were in wheel chairs, others on crutches, many of the 4,000 confined to the hospital watched the ponderous elephants and funny clowns from the balcony. Shrieks of the little ones told of the delightful ecstasy which was theirs.

What a calamity to children if the circus ceased to be. It is for that very reason it should be perpetuated. No American institution brings such gladness to young hearts as the big top and saw-lust ring.—Las Cruces News.

"THEY CAN EAT IT AND HAVE IT"

Everyone has wondered how a person could eat their cake and still have it. In fact it has always been as seemingly impossible as perpetual motion. But at last it has been found that it can be done and by no less a person than the man who sits in the White House solved the vexing problem. He issued an order, since the "drouth" that wheat farmers could raise all the wheat they want to and still get their pay from the government for not raising it.

What is the critic couldn't do as well himself? You can be a good judge of mules without being a mule.

By United Press

CANON CITY, Colo., May 8 (UP).—Canon City police are on the lookout for window smashers. About midnight, one night recently, wine bottles were thrown through plate glass windows of two local stores. Later two young boys, about eight years old were arrested for allegedly tossing rocks through stained glass windows of the Baptist church. Policemen were inclined to believe the two boys had nothing to do with the wine bottle tossing.

FUERLO, Colo., May 8 (UP).—A thief here did not exactly steal candy from a baby, but he did raid the icebox of the Lincoln Orphanage. Because he got away with a smoked ham, a large slab of bacon and four pounds of butter, the children had to eat ham and eggs, or bacon and eggs, without the ham or bacon one morning.

ALAMOSA, Colo., May 8 (UP).—Lost and found ads have been used to locate money, missing husbands, false teeth, diamond rings, and watches, but now a Monte Vista man, by answering an ad, located his lost flock of 100 ewes. J. A. Lucero, of Alamosa, advertised that he had found a few sheep north-east of Alamosa. When L. B. Sylvester answered the ad, J. A. Lucero had rounded up most of the remainder of the missing ewes.

TRINIDAD, Colo., May 8 (UP).—A local amateur fortune teller talked too soon recently, according to a story being told about town. A certain lady was visited by the fortune teller Wednesday afternoon, April 24, when dust clouds hovered in the air. The fortune teller told the lady that there would be "three more years of dust" and that there would be no rain to end the present dry spell. Half an hour after the weather prophet had left, rain began to fall and continued all night and the next day.

SANTA FE, May 8 (UP).—Favorable tax rates in New Mexico may lead to establishment of a portion of the motion picture industry in this state, officials stated recently. Governor Clyde Tingley has invited the industry to the state. On a recent visit, Joseph M. Schenck, speaking unofficially for the industry, said he regarded New Mexico as "ideal" for filming westerns.

JACKSON, Wyo., May 8 (UP).—A horde of spiders appeared here with the arrival of spring. However, they must all have been married, because no Black Widows were reported.

LOVELAND, Colo., May 8 (UP).—A unique form of the chain letter has hit Loveland. Money chain letters, "send-a-pint of whiskey" chains, and "send-a-packard" have started in Denver, but Loveland's chain beats them all. The American Legion here acquired a pig which they promptly dubbed "Chain Letter." They then proceeded to pass "Chain Letter" from hand to hand. The pig, at last reports, was enjoying the hospitality of his successive owners.

TORRINGTON, Wyo., May 8 (UP).—"She" was just a Buff Orpington hen, but her eggs were displayed here by R. G. Green, a farmer living northwest of Fort Laramie. The "egg" weighed 6 ounces, was three and one-half inches long and measured one-fourth inches in lengthwise circumference. The outer shell was of normal thickness and color and contained the usual white and yolk, as well as another complete egg with a shell which was larger than the average egg.

EMMETT, Idaho, May 8 (UP).—Two shepherd puppies mothered by a coyote were reported here by Guy Givens, predatory animal hunter and trapper. Earlier, Givens found nine young coyotes in a den and killed them. The mother escaped in a hall of lead.

Three days later, he again saw the mother, wounded her, and found the two puppies in her den. Givens said he felt sure that the bewitched mother adopted the two pups from the litter of a shepherd dog.

LUSK, Wyo., May 8 (UP).—An emetic prevented Emmet Mabelet from letting his wife "blow" him. Apparently despondent over a love affair, the 31-year-old youth drank a quantity of iodine. The emetic aided his recovery.

LOGAN, Utah, May 8 (UP).—A pioneer wagon similar to the ones used in the trek of early settlers to Utah, has been built here and will be sent to Denmark by the Cache County Camp, Daughters of Pioneers, for the Fourth of July celebration of the Danish-American Association. Relief carried across the plains will be placed in the wagon, while emphasis will be given to parts of the wagon taken from old wagons actually used by the pioneers.

State Legislators Have Enacted 9,223 Laws at Cost to $1,000 Each, Said

By FRED MYERS

United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, May 8 (UP).—In the four months of this year 44 state legislatures have enacted 9,223 new laws at a cost of approximately $10,000,000, or somewhat more than $1,000 a law.

Thirty-four assemblies still are in session and another, Alabama, will reconvene after a recess. They have before them about 40,000 additional bills which would legalize such diverse proposals as annual health examinations for parrots and confiscations of utilities.

It is probable, following an extension of averages, that when the final gavel falls on the last legislative session about July 1—the country will have received around 11,000 new laws from its state lawmakers. There is no way to estimate their cost in added taxes or in their effect on industry and commerce.

Present $4,000

More than 64,000 bills have been introduced in the 44 legislatures that have met in regular session since January 1. Bills still are being offered in some. More bills were introduced in the first four months of this year than in the entire sessions of the same states in 1933-34.

In contrast, the legislators are more chary of turning their thousands of proposals into law. They have made fewer laws per day this year than in any similar period of the last decade.

The average legislature in regular session this year has passed only 215 bills. In 1933 the average number of laws enacted by each legislature to April 30 was approximately 260.

New York Leads

Legislators of New York, California and Minnesota have been most prolific in introduction of bills. New York legislators, who dropped 4,826 measures into the hopper, also have been one of the most active bodies in shaping their ideas into law. Almost 900 bills have been passed and 409 have been signed by Gov. Herbert Lehman.

California legislators have dropped 3,641 bills onto the clerk's desk but have pushed only 85 over the governor's desk. In Minnesota 3,419 bills have been introduced with only 194 signed.

Kentuckians Pay More

The Pennsylvania legislature has been the most costly of the 44 regularly meeting bodies, but Kentuckians paid the highest price per law. The Kentucky legislature met

"Don't Quote Me"

By United Press

WASHINGTON, May 8 (UP).—The great filibuster against the anti-lynching bill is over but it did not end until the Senate had managed to tangle itself in a good many confusing situations.

Several times Senators were—or at least claimed to be—completely in the "dark" as to just what was going on.

A most annoying feature of the filibuster for those who were not much interested one way or another was the matter of quorum calls. Every half hour some one would demand a quorum and the Senators would rush down to the chamber, not knowing whether a vote had been called or just a roll call.

Vice-President John N. Garner finally took pity on the confused membership by writing out on a large slip of paper just what was going on. Then he would hold it up for the Senators to see.

Once when a vote was called in an effort to break the filibuster, Garner wrote in large letters on his paper: "Yes and No."

Grateful senators thus knew that they were supposed to vote instead of merely answering "present" to their names.

At another point one of the time-consuming Senators, feeling the need of a rest, asked for a roll call. A supporter of the anti-lynch measure objected that no business had been transacted since the previous quorum call, hence the rules provided that a quorum call could not be had.

A dissent was then made for a quorum call so that the Senate could vote whether or not it wished to support the ruling of the chair. Senators came in, answered their names, and debate languished on, everyone apparently having forgotten the proposed vote.

The senators then got into a dispute over just what matter the Senate was considering.

Garner said, "The chair is of the" in special session to pass one law, making a primary compulsory, and it cost $40,000. Pennsylvania solons have appropriated $1,000,000 to pay the expenses of their session.

opinion that none of the senators knows what is before the Senate." He said the question before the body was still that of supporting the ruling made about an hour before.

A new discussion started, and the vote never was taken.

Don't jump to false conclusions if you read that "Lord Asbestos," "Cotton Ed," The "Doc," "Young Bob," "Dapper Jimmy," "Cactus Jack," "Jay Ham" and the "Kingfish" are having a little get-together.

The nicknames are not gleaned from a roster of aliases from the police blotter. They refer to some of the leading members of the "World's greatest deliberative body"—the United States Senate.

Here are the translations: "Lord Asbestos"—Senator Henry F. Ashurst, Arizona. "Cotton Ed"—Senator Ellison D. Smith, South Carolina. "The Doc"—Senator Royal S. Copeland, New York. "Young Bob"—Senator Robert LaFollette, Wisconsin. "Dapper Jimmy"—Senator James P. Byrnes, South Carolina. "Cactus Jack"—Vice President John N. Garner.

"Jay Ham"—Senator James Hamilton Lewis, Illinois. "Kingfish"—Huey P. Long, Louisiana.

Most of the nicknames date back a number of years. But the "Lord Asbestos" one is new. Senator Allen Barkley, Kentucky, is responsible. He bestowed it upon the mild-mannered Ashurst just the other day in introducing his colleague to newspaper men.

Asked where he got the name, Barkley said: "He gets hot but never burns."

Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska, hasn't got a nickname. And he is minus another hat, too. Norris holds all senate records for losing hats.

When he missed his last hat he enlisted four page boys and two colleagues to help hunt it. Half an hour of hunting through cloak-rooms and committee rooms was futile.

"We might as well give up," Norris finally said. "I guess some Senator stole it."

ENGLAND LEGALIZES TRAMPS

LONDON.—Tramps now legally sleep in barns or similar places under a bill passed in the house of commons, thus reversing a 100-year-old principle of British law which made a penniless man liable to arrest because he could not pay for a bed.

Loan-A-Minute
At Wichita Office

At the rate of practically a loan a minute, the Wichita Emergency Crop and Feed Loan office is delivering service from the $60,000,000 appropriation for the United States, which became available April 1.

Already with his office fully organized, in serving the Ninth Farm Credit District (Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and New Mexico) from the great drought relief appropriation of last summer, Acting Manager R. H. McElveen promptly began giving one day service on applications for loans from the new fund. At the close of business on April 30, Mr. McElveen stated that his organization already had closed 9,596 of the new fund loans.

Mr. McElveen, who came last winter from the old regional office at St. Louis, to set up the new Ninth District headquarters office in Wichita, disclaims any record breaking or sensational speed. "It simply is what a good organization tion of "Flight Six" arrived and dropped in safely after cruising for several minutes and conferring by radio with the ground crew.

CUTTING

Within a few minutes the ceiling here had fallen from 1,500 feet to only 450 feet.

Pilot John Graves of the first section, also was flying with a full load of passengers.

Ceiling Lowered

When the second section was heard overhead the ceiling had dropped another 150 feet and Dispatcher Earl Korf deemed it unwise for a landing to be attempted and so advised Pilot Bolton.

"I told him he'd better go on to Kirksville and I heard the usual response, 'OK,' from Bolton," said Korf.

"That was the last word from the ship. He gave us no signal of distress and did not indicate in any other way that there was any danger."

Had Same Amount Gas

When Graves brought the first section in safely he had 120 gallons of fuel left in his tanks. The firm reported Bolton and Graves left Albuquerque with the same quantity of gasoline aboard each ship.

"Bolton did not mention low fuel tanks and it was taken for granted at the field he had enough to go on," said Chief Dispatcher Welch.

Bland Gentner, a farmer, who was the first to reach the scene, found the dead and injured scattered over a hillside. He built a fire as it was cold and foggy.

Tro Hurt To Talk

Most of the injured were too badly hurt to talk. One of the passengers, however, told him the airplane had run out of gasoline. Another asked what state they were in.

A large crowd gathered around the wreckage after the victims had been removed.

Gentner went from the scene of the crash to the Bledsoe home and help was called. Bledsoe accompanied Gentner back to the crash scene where they tried to make the injured as comfortable as possible.

Bledsoe described the scene:

Crashed In Pasture

"The plane had stopped near the edge of our pasture, not far from a dirt road. The east bank of the road showed a mark where the ship had hit, and there were marks on the west bank also.

"Then the plane tore on through the fence into the pasture, breaking down a small tree in its path. Later we noticed the top of a tree near the road also had been struck before the ship crashed.

"Pieces of the engine and plane were thrown beside the road and over part of the pasture.

"Most of the injured seemed too shocked and dazed to talk as we reached the scene. The pilot kept saying he ran out of gasoline.

Removed To Farm House

"More neighbors came up and helped get the injured to our house. We finally had seven in our living room, and two doctors came.

"Most of the injured could not remember just what happened. Their minds seemed to be blank.

"Some of them were suffering intensely. The baby did not cry at all, though.

"They all were in our living room about two hours before the ambulance came. They were brave, all of them. We did what we could."

Mrs. Bledsoe said it appeared as though the pilot was trying to make an emergency landing in the pasture. The ship "tore itself to pieces" in landing, she said.

ANNOUNCED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Shocked by the death of Senator Bronson M. Cutting of New Mexico in a Missouri airplane accident, the Senate heard tributes to him today and forthwith adjourned in honor to his memory.

Mrs. Olivia Peyton Cutting, mother of the senator, was attending the National Cathedral services in honor of the silver jubilee of King George when friends arrived at their home to tell her of the tragedy. The first indefinite reports had been withheld from her.

Hatch Announces Death

The youthful looking Senator Hatch, a former judge of New Mexico, rose in the senate and chokingly announced "with deep regret a terrible accident has occurred in which my colleague, Senator Cutting, has lost his life."

He was called to New Mexico on important business and was returning by air in order to be at his post today to participate in a debate (the bonus) in which he had a tremendous interest.

"In his loyalty to duty he has lost his life. He had carved for himself a place in the affairs of the nation as well as in my state and his death is a loss to America."

Mr. Cutting, a bachelor, would have been 47 years old next month.

OFFICIALS IN TRIBUTE

ALBUQUERQUE, May 6.—"Senator Cutting's untimely and tragic death is a shock to me," Judge Sam G. Bratton of the U. S. circuit court of appeals and a former associate of Cutting in the U. S. senate, said when informed this morning of the plane crash which claimed the New Mexico senator's life.

"It was my privilege to serve with him in the senate," Judge Bratton said. "He was an able, industrious and effective public servant and his devotion to New Mexico was unbounded."

Governor Clyde Tingley said, "I regret exceedingly to hear the sad news of the death of Senator Cutting. It will be a shock and blow not only to thousands in New Mexico but in the nation.

"Though we differed in politics and fought each other in campaigns, Senator Cutting was always ready to use his efforts in behalf of the state and nation," the governor said.

Dennis Chavez, former congressman, whose contest of the election of Senator Cutting, killed today in the crash of a TWA plane, was pending, was so shocked when informed of the tragedy by the Associated Press that he said, "It is difficult for me to express my feelings."

"I am grieved beyond my ability to state," the former New Mexico congressman said.

KANSAS CITY, May 6.—Harvey Bolton, TWA pilot killed when his giant transport plane crashed near Atlanta, Mo., early today, had never had a previous accident.

TWA officials searched his record today but were unable to discover an accident report, either in his four years with the company or his previous career.

Bolton, born in 1906, was single. His father, F. C. Bolton, lives in Live Oak, Calif.

Gragg Lends Hints On Refrigeration

Just because a refrigerator seems cold is no sign that it is giving satisfactory refrigeration, according to A. M. Gragg of the organization of the Portales Hardware Co., local Kelvinator dealers. He points out that there are many factors which enter into the picture in determining whether an electric refrigerator is doing an efficient job.

"In the first place the temperature range which should be maintained inside the food compartment is a comparatively narrow one," Mr. Gragg pointed out. "Food must not be frozen, which is what would happen if the temperature would drop below 32 degrees and the refrigerator should not allow the storage compartment to get warmer than 50 degrees, which has been established scientifically as the limit for safe food preservation. These limits must be maintained regardless of whether the temperature outside is 50 degrees or 100 degrees, and it is easily seen that some accurate control mechanism should be a part of an efficient refrigerator."

Pointing out that the 1935 line of Kelvinator household refrigerators, now on display at the Portales Hardware Co., represents the last word in refrigeration economy and performance, Mr. Gragg has invited all local people to come in and inspect the new models. Improved control devices which make these refrigerators automatic in operation a wealth of additional convenience features, and advancements in design which make the new Kelvinators more than ever an indispensable aid to the housewife, distinguish these new models, he said.

How To Vote In Wheat Referendum

County and community committees representing New Mexico wheat growers have received their instructions and are making preparations for conducting the National wheat referendum on May 25. The referendum will involve signers of 1932 wheat contracts in New Mexico. In the United States there are 875,000 wheat contract signers in 37 states who will be eligible to vote. A separate vote of non-signers will be taken.

The referendum is to be held for the purpose of indicating to the administration the sentiment of wheat farmers generally toward a new wheat program to follow the present one. The question upon which producers will vote is:

"Are you in favor of a Wheat Production Adjustment Program to follow the present one which expires with the 1935 crop year?"

The county and community wheat committees have the principal responsibility in conducting the referendum. Community committees will have charge of the actual balloting in each community.

The wheat referendum is being taken now in order that the Adjustment Administration may have a clear-cut expression of opinion of producers far enough ahead of time to allow preparation of a wheat contract to be offered to farmers before planting of the winter wheat crop for 1935 begins early this coming fall.

Although the referendum is being taken on the single question of the attitude of growers toward a future wheat program, series of meetings are being scheduled now for every community in which the wheat program has been in operation and at these meetings farmers will discuss all phases of the current and past wheat situation, as well as the outlook for the future.

Community discussion meetings are scheduled for the week of May 6 in Curry and Quay counties of New Mexico, and other counties will have meetings in the immediate future.

WASHINGTON SNAP-SHOTS

(Editor's Note: The Washington Snap-Shots is sent to the News weekly by the Industrial News Service, Washington, and does not necessarily express the sentiments of the News in any way.)

A prolonged session of Congress is indicated if the legislative branch of the government attempts to carry out the "must" program outlined by President Roosevelt. The chances are that Congress would be here until late summer or fall. It won't be and much of the "must" program is likely to go by the boards in the interest of recovery. It is traditional that when hot weather strikes the Capital in June, members of Congress begin to get the itch for home or cooler pastures.

The fact is that Congress has been in session four months now, and the only major piece of legislation enacted is the four billion dollar relief measure. The Senate is showing little interest in the other measures which the administration wants as part of its social program, but which other observers point out might be a deterrent to recovery. Billions of dollars of stored up demand awaits the loosening of the tide of private credit, and Democratic Senators are not inclined to further retard recovery by seeking to reform the entire nation at one session of Congress.

Every indication is, as viewed in Washington, that recovery is nearer than at any time in years if the government will stop retarding the rise with reform legislation.

Reports are circulating in the capital that Senator Harrison, one of the most distinguished Democratic leaders, may succeed Judge Landis as the high mogul of baseball. Harrison is officialdom's most enthusiastic ball fan.

Senator Wagner of New York has the somewhat dubious honor of being the sponsor of two of the most highly controversial bills of the session. With Senator Cogan he is the author of the anti-lynching bill, which Southern Senators have opposed so vigorously as an invasion of state's rights. In his own right, he is author of the Wagner Labor Disputes bill to aid the American Federation of Labor unionization. Oddly enough, both of these bills of the New Yorker find their severest opposition in the South. One witness, testifying at the Senate hearings, pointed out that under the majority rule provisions of the Wagner bill the South would be confronted with the position that where negro workers are in the majority they would be the sole bargaining group for the white workers.

There is little doubt that with the adjournment of Congress the political bells of 1936 will begin to ring with increased rapidity. Senator Lane will be more free to pursue what seem to be his third party ambitions and to carry the war to some Senators whom he has threatened to help defeat. Last summer virtually every Democratic official of any rank was out of Washington beating the political tom tom in some section, and this condition will be more noticeable this year. Aided by Democratic misuses, the Republican party is stirring into activity, although still beset by sectional differences of opinion. Unless the political visceras are all wrong, next year's campaign will be a rival in heated partisanship to the Smith-Hoover campaign of 1928.

One difficulty which confronts the Republicans at every turn is the fact that the Democrats hold the purse-strings on $4,000,000,000, and that are votes in their hands.

NAVAJOS FEAR END OF TIME

GALLUP, May 8 (UP)—Old Navajo heads wagged ominously recently when the birth of twin sons to Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Bahe at Mapel, N. M., 15 miles south of here, was announced. The announcement revived fears that the end of the world was not far off. Fears of the Navajos, first expressed during the epidemic of twins that brought ten sets in about 18 months are based on the belief that just so many babies must be born before the end of the world comes and that plural births indicate the gods are hastening things for the end.

"RED ROBIN" DREAMS OF INDIAN OPERA OF FUTURE

DENVER, May 8 (UP)—In modern, noisy Denver, Red Robin, descendant of the ancient Zunis, is dreaming of the time he will "come out of the East" to help the Indians who dwell, as they have for centuries, in the heat-stricken desert parts of New Mexico.

He dreams, too, of composing a great Indian opera which will capture the real spirit and feeling of the Indians and which will be more genuine and sincere than the music and false sentimentality of operas by superficial Europeans who strive to "interpret" the Indian.

Twelve years ago, when Red Robin was but a boy of 12, he squatted at the feet of an old Zuni tribesman near Gallup, N. M.

The seer turned his sightless eyes toward the rising sun and prophesied:

More Intelligent
"The older people are walking away toward the sunset, but when I turn my head toward the East I seem to see our young men coming—not armed with bows and arrows—but with the reason and intelligence of the white men to build a great Indian nation."

Before the revelation of the old man, Red Robin had lived the life of a typical Zuni.

He followed the grazing herds of his people or of the far-wandering Navajos. In the spring, he planted maize as his Pueblo ancestors had done for centuries.

But now the sturdy Indian boy has resolved to follow the prophecy of the wrinkled Zuni seer. He will be one to "come out of the East."

Reads Newspapers
He seized newspapers and magazines, hid them away in the tement-like Pueblos or the mud-covered hogans, studied them—and thought of the ways of the white people.

When strength and young manhood came to Red Robin, he left the tribe and went to a New Mexico logging camp to work hard in the daytime and dream at night of his foretold destiny.

An uneducated American prizefighter in the camp took a fancy to the quiet, ambitious Indian youth. He took Red Robin with him to Arkansas.

There, in the small, southern town of Delight, Red Robin realized he had a promising baritone voice. He liked to sing the stirring, rhythmic chants of the Zunis. Soon, he was singing at school parties, in the church choir, and at civic events.

Studied in Denver
About five years ago, Red Robin came to Denver, closer to the West he loved and to the land of his people. Since then he has studied painting and music so that he can express in art and song the secrets taught the southwest Indians by the ever-blue sky and the calm cycle of life and death, of patient industry, changing seasons, and long-peace wars.

Gradually overcoming his native shyness, the tall, graceful youth now earnestly holds his own with the keenest of his white friends in Denver adult education classes.

In addition to art and music, he has studied business English, mathematics and other high school courses in order to make himself ready for the time he will return to his native people.

Stresses Education
For, Red Robin believes that only through education can the Indian hope to engage his white competitors on even terms, and elevate himself.

Almost any popular song of the last few years Red Robin can sing, but when he chants the "Eagle Song," his brown eyes seem to glow, for he is thinking of the old man's prophecy.

May Present Bill To Protect Hawk

Not all hawks are bad hawks. In fact, most hawks are man's friend, and it is possible that sometime in the future legislation to protect the beneficial hawks may be presented.

This information is contained in a statement from EREA headquarters, which said that state game warden Elliott Barker, with the cooperation of the Santa Fe County ERA is sponsoring a project to educate the public concerning the value of hawks.

Of the 73 species of predatory birds found in the United States, only six are recognized by scientists as harmful, the statement said. The others are either of mixed habits or directly beneficial.

The statement relates that the hawks are beneficial in keeping down the number of rodents and insects, and that damage from these latter would greatly increase if the beneficial hawks are destroyed.

Norman Appleton, naturalist and bird artist, is preparing a book with color plates, to help the layman distinguish between the destructive and beneficial hawks.

PUBLIC HEALTH

Conducted by Dr. J. R. Eary, Director, New Mexico Bureau of Public Health.

THE GOOSING

"What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," they say. And how about the goosing? It is very common doctrine not only among the public but also among teachers of hygiene that goose sauce and gander sauce will not do for the goosing at all. Thus in a recent Hygeia we are taught that coffee is fine for adults (as long as they don't take too much) but with children the case is quite different. Everyone has been told that tobacco smoke is much worse for children than for adults. True, a child experimenting with tobacco smoke for the first time is likely to become nauseated. So, too, is an adult experimenting for the first time, though such an adult is a somewhat rare specimen. In either case tolerance is rapidly acquired.

I am not saying that tea, coffee and tobacco are harmless to children. What I am saying is that I know of no good evidence that they are more harmful to children than to adults, or more harmful to women than to men. And I say this after examining a considerable quantity of evidence. I believe that all of these drugs are harmful in excess to all of us and that the amount which constitutes "excess" varies enormously from one person to another but does not vary constantly according to sex or age. The man who tells his son that the tobacco which is harmless to him will hurt the boy "because he is still growing" is just inventing a reason to get himself out of a jam. And son if your father says it will stop your growing, ask him for the proof—the experimental proof, not somebody's dogmatic utterance.

The goosings are not too deeply impressed by such arguments. When I was a college professor I made a study of the smoking habits of 368 students and their fathers. Of the sons of smoking fathers 71.1 per cent were smokers. Of the sons of non-smoking fathers 41.2 per cent were smokers. Perhaps actions speak louder than words.

TO CONSIDER WHEAT FACTS

Before they go to the polls on May 25 to vote in the wheat adjustment program referendum, the wheat farmers have six important facts to consider, says R. R. Will, of the New Mexico State College.

The first big fact is that our former large export market continues to be small. Foreign countries have placed high tariffs and quotas against our wheat. Our own tariffs against foreign goods have also made it difficult for foreign countries to buy our wheat. Every effort is being made to increase export markets, but this is a slow process.

Second, world prices are not materially higher. Our two short crops have kept us on a domestic price basis. Unrestricted production, in the face of the world situation, would cause our prices to reach their previous depressed condition.

Third, there is still enough wheat land available to produce bumper crops and surpluses. Drought caused heavy losses, but farmers do not expect drought every year.

Fourth, domestic consumption of wheat remains relatively constant. Efforts are being made to improve the quality and appeal of bakery products. Use of wheat for livestock feed is usually increased only when wheat is cheap in relation to other crops.

Fifth, farmers are protected, through the adjustment payments on their domestic allotments, against low world export prices. If we had been on a world price basis during the last year, it is estimated our farm prices would have been 30 to 35 cents a bushel under what they actually were.

Sixth, the drought, while solving some of the immediate surplus problems has not changed the fundamental causes of the wheat problem, which are the large potential wheat acreage, and the difficulty of reopening export markets.

PERFECT NEW CREDIT FUND FOR INDIANS

Credit facilities with which to purchase the necessary livestock, seeds, fertilizer, tools, and machinery to utilize their lands, and to establish simple rural industries, are to be provided for the Indians, as one important part of the large program of social and economic rehabilitation provided by the Indian Reorganization Act of 1934, according to information supplied to Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes by John Collier, Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

A ten million dollar revolving credit fund has been authorized under the Indian Reorganization Act, which will provide funds not only for the purchase of equipment for land utilization but for the organization and development of co-operative merchandising and marketing associations, logging and sawmills estimated at $2,500,000, and the development of fisheries and canneries estimated at $1,000,000. One half of the credit fund is now pending in the budget request to Congress for the coming fiscal year.

To protect your car fully,
your motor oil must do two things:

1. It must be on duty during the starting period!

More than half of all motor wear occurs in the five minutes after you start, because straight mineral oils drain away, leaving parts dry. Even in warm weather your motor makes at least a thousand revolutions before the quickest-flowing oil can reach all parts.

Only Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil cuts down costly starting wear. It is the only oil that penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming a "Hidden Quasi" that never drains away. Your motor is lubricated before you touch the starter! You know your motor is protected!

2. It must withstand unusual driving stresses!

Cars built in 1932 and since have greatly increased power and speed. Bearing pressures and crankcase temperatures have increased in proportion. Flashing pick-up and high speeds make it necessary to have an oil with enough extra oiliness and film strength to withstand the increased load.

Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil protects modern motors better because it has 2 to 4 times the film strength of any oil not Germ Processed! It maintains this high film strength at high temperatures. Say "O. K.—Drain"—fill with Germ Processed Oil and get full protection for your motor!

"Motor oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength now than they had 10 years ago. Many new refining methods now used to make oils free from carbon and sludge have lowered instead of increased oiliness and film strength, the very qualities on which depends an oil's lubricating value!"
Germ Processed Oil is free from carbon and sludge troubles. But more important, the Germ Process puts into it 2 to 4 times the film strength of straight mineral oil, as Timken machine tests have proved!

PLAINVIEW IS IN READINESS FOR MEETING

Westox Chamber To Meet For Annual Event 13th-15th

PLAINVIEW, May 8.—Plans are nearing completion for the 17th general convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, May 13, 14, 15. Jed Rix, WTCC's convention manager, and the half-score of committee chairmen representing Plainview, say the big show could be, if necessary, pulled off right away with certainty of the largest attendance in years.

The Westox chamber has 197 affiliated towns, ranging in population from Fort Worth's 170,000 down to isolated ranch towns with only a dozen or so. Based on requests made in advance for reservations in "Plainview" hotels, on sponsors for "La Fiesta," and entries forwarded in the various contests, it is known in advance that 129 of these towns will have official representatives at the convention. Panhandle-Plains towns, too, are famous for their turn-outs.

The warmest contest in years is in prospect, also, for the honor of entertaining the 1936 convention. Four towns are definitely in the running. They are Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Brownwood, and Fort Worth. Dark horses are El Paso and Mineral Wells, which, while not seriously pressing their claims for 1936, will lay groundwork for asking for the 1937 convention.

New Ruling Allows Hogs for Home Use

Modifications of the corn-hog production adjustment contract, permitting small producers with no hog production base or with a lower than average production from one litter during the base period, to produce an adequate number of hogs for home use, have been announced by the AAA according to R. R. Wilm, of the New Mexico State College.

Producers who agree under the 1935 corn-hog contract to hold corn acreage within the contract limits but who do not have a hog production base, will be permitted to produce one 1935 litter of pigs for home consumption. No hog payment, however, will be made to the producer taking advantage of this ruling.

It has also been ruled that 1935 contract signers, who have an average production record of six hogs or less for both market and slaughter during the 1932-33 period and who are receiving no hog payment under their contracts, may be permitted to slaughter for home consumption all pigs produced in 1935 in excess of the producer's market hog base, provided that only one litter is farrowed on the farming unit under contract. The number of pigs that may be produced for market under the contract is not changed by this ruling.

The 1935 contract does not require a producer with a market hog production average of 15 hogs or less for the base period to make any adjustment in 1935 farrowings, but until the new ruling was made, many small producers could not keep more 1935 pigs than the average number produced during the base period. For example, a producer who had a market hog base of only two hogs and a home slaughter base of three hogs could produce a total of no more than five pigs in 1935. Under the new ruling, this grower may not produce more than two hogs for market, but he may use for home consumption all the remaining pigs farrowed in one litter in 1935.

Season Promising for 4-H Livestock Club

Indications are that the New Mexico 4-H livestock clubs are entering one of the most promising club seasons that has been known for years, says W. L. Black, of the New Mexico State College.

The livestock clubs have been given a tremendous boost by the great success of the recent Southwestern Baby Beef, Hog and Sheep Show, held at El Paso, Texas, under the auspices of the Southwestern Livestock and Agricultural Association. At the sale following that show the Grand Champion calf brought a price of 71.5 cents per pound. The lowest price paid for any calf in the sale was 13.25 cents, with an average of 18.3 cents per pound. In the lamb sale the Grand Champion brought a price of $45.00 or 67 cents per pound, with the average for the lambs going about 14 cents.

The interest manifested by business men in bidding in these animals at these good prices leads the club member to feel that the public is behind the movement and will insure them against losses. The result of this sale will be that two counties that have not previously had 4-H livestock clubs will be well represented in next year's show, which will be held in February, 1936.

The show has changed its rules so that the calves will be classified according to weight rather than age, making three classes—calves weighing 800 to 950, calves weighing 950 to 1,050, and calves weighing more than 1,050. Each member will be permitted to show one calf in each of these classes. There will also be prizes for groups of three calves fitted and shown by one member, and groups of fifteen calves shown from one county. We feel that this classification will be much fairer to the club members because they will be competing with other members having calves of similar weight. The use of nurse cows will be permitted, although the calves must be weaned before coming to the show.

He is survived by six children, all except one of whom were at his bedside at the time of his death. His wife died about a year ago.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Baptist church in Elida.

Nearly 6,000,000 gallons of milk have been distributed to pupils in schools of England in three months.
