Conditional approval on gas tax by Senator Lloyd Bentsen

Senator Lloyd Bentsen advised the administration Monday that he will oppose a 5 cent increase in federal gasoline taxes unless at least 90 percent of the money from these taxes is returned to the states where it was raised.

"This is a user tax and should be spent by the people who pay it," Bentsen said in a letter to the Secretary of Transportation Drew Lewis.

Bentsen also expressed concern about reports that cities like Houston and Dallas, which do not now have rail transit, will not share in an increase in federal mass transit funding planned in conjunction with the tax hike.

"I wanted to let you know that I intend to oppose the proposed 5 cent increase in the federal gasoline tax unless at least 90 percent of the money raised through the Highway Trust Fund is returned to be spent in the states that provided it," said Bentsen.

"This proposed new federal tax should not penalize states such as Texas which are concerned about inadequate highway maintenance and are actively considering an increase in state gasoline taxes to deal with the problem. A federal tax might preempt their efforts and could lead to a situation where some states are able to perform less maintenance than they would be able to with no increase in the federal tax."

Bentsen is ranking Democrat on the Senate Transportation Subcommittee, which will consider the highway mass transit funding program that is part of the tax increase package.

The Senator is also second ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee, which has jurisdiction over all tax legislation.

"I am deeply concerned by reports that cities such as Houston and Dallas, which will be facing considerable growth in their existing mass transit systems, including the possibility of rail systems, would not be eligible for funding under this program. That makes no sense to me and I will be working in the Senate to insure that Houston and other cities which may fall into this category will not be denied their fair share. It's not right to collect this tax money from Texans, then use it only on older mass transit systems in the Northeast," Bentsen said.

"I am in agreement with you, Drew that this is not a jobs bill. The time lapse inherent in the highway program between authorization and actual expenditures is too long to provide a solution to our immediate unemployment situation. But I certainly see the need for a much higher level of highway maintenance than we now have," Senator Bentsen said.

Depot acquisition questions to be answered by Chamber

The Chamber Of Commerce held a public meeting Thursday evening with the purpose of discussing the possibility of moving and renovating the depot. As Hal Spain, Chamber President, advised, it would be an ideal office for the Chamber of Commerce and also space for community use.

Jim Dover, City Manager, explained that the city had given the depot to the Chamber of Commerce, however, it needed to be moved due to the need of opening Water Street to relieve the traffic congestion around the school.

Jim Cusenbary, Chamber Treasurer, advised he had gotten a bid on moving the depot, however, he did not have a bid on the renovating work. He estimated the cost would be from $40,000.00 to $45,000.00 dollars.

In discussing the financing of this project, it was suggested the Chamber solicit donations for moving the building and some of the renovation. Also, a Hotel-Motel Tax for Sonora was discussed, with the possibility of helping with the renovation and maintenance of the building.

A fund raising Committee was appointed to meet with the board for discussion for some positive action in this project.

and Water Street at 2:00 p.m., bring those tickets, be a lucky winner for $160.00 worth of prizes.

Armando Virgen Avila, Jr. indicted for murder

In a telephone conversation Thursday, Dec. 2, 1982, District Attorney, of the #119 Judicial District, Bill Mason announced that a murder indictment was returned by Sutton County Grand Jury against Armando Virgen Avila, Jr. which states that he did on or about the 3rd day of September 1982 intentionally cause the death of an individual named Luis Sanchez Velez by shooting him with a gun.

The Grand Jury looked at various bits of evidence and photographs of the scene and handed down a true bill of indictment.

Pretrial is expected to be held shortly after the first of the year and the trial shortly thereafter.

Velez was killed after an altercation on a countryside road outside of Sonora.

Next Door To The Hurry-Up

The Old Shop hosted Marti McLain and Shiela Davlin November 30th

Carol Ann Dixon from Sonora models a designer outfit from the collection of Shiela Davlin.

was a natural evolution after moving with her husband to Opelousas, Louisiana, that she open the first fashion boutique in the state. Fate took a hand after several trips around the world and lack of space in the Davlin home for Sheila's collection of treasures from the Four Corners of the Globe to give birth to the Sheila Davlin collection.

The Sheila Davlin Collection is akin to opening the treasure chests of Marco Polo and Kubla Khan, Fabrics, Jewels, and Curios that conjure up the snow-capped Himalayas, the glory and the mystery of Shangri La.

Sheila Davlin brings her rare finds, like wedding robes from Ancient China, silk and satin court robes from Japan, and hand-embroidered silks and brocades from Nepal, and blends the old with the new. This blending occurs in Opelousas, where Sheila maintains a large cottage craft industry. Yesterday's luxurious fabrics are magically turned into beautiful contemporary garments by the design genius of Sheila Davlin. All are entirely hand made by local ladies.

Ms. Davlin travels around the world every two months garnering exquisite collectibles to provide for women who desire something truly unique. Each garment, or hand-carved ivory jewels, is an authentic one-of-a-kind creation.

In Sheila Davlin Collection each hand-printed, brocade or embroidered piece of rare fabric is utilized. Large portions and tiny bits of material are transformed into incomparable handbags, pillows, wall hangings, superb fashion accessories.

To experience the Sheila Davlin Collection is to evoke all the faraway places you've ever read about and to revel in their beauty to give birth to the Sheila Davlin Collection.

Mr. Mayor:

On November 1st I was traveling East on I-10 when I came to the Sonora exit. It was about 7 a.m. so I felt I'd like a cup of coffee and a bit of breakfast.

I stopped at the Food Center downtown on 290. I went to their Bakery counter and purchased two giant nut covered donuts for fifty cents. That was great in itself. I had drawn out a big cup of coffee from their pot sitting on top of the counter. I mentioned this fact to the young lady behind the counter when she told me the donuts were 50 cents. She then told me that the coffee was free to their customers.

Mr. Mayor, I didn't know there was any place in our country where one could just walk in and get a free cup of coffee with his pastry. The incident had a positive affect on me. It was my first time to ever be in Sonora. I look forward to someday traveling West again. I want to stop in Sonora and spend more time. If the grocery store bakery folks are that nice in your town, I want to spend some more time with the other citizens too.

I feel that I was truly fortunate to have driven in to Sonora that day. We seem to forget at times that there are still so many fine people in this country.

I hope you will let the proprietor at The Food Center know of the fine impression his place of business has left with me. The coffee and donuts were delicious too.

Sincerely,
E.B. SHAW

Comptroller Bob Bullock reports

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Tuesday President Reagan's suggested 5-cent-per-gallon gasoline tax increase would leave Texas on the short end of the stick again.

The Comptroller explained a federal hike would preempt the talked-about increase in Texas' state gasoline tax, which has been at the same nickel-a-gallon level for the past 25 years. "This is going to cost Texans $480 million a year," Bullock said. "This is money the Texas Legislature won't be able to spend if it's needed because we'll be shipping those dollars out of state." "Historically, we Texans have only gotten about 70 cents back for every dollar in motor fuel taxes we have sent to Washington. We've got roads and bridges right here at home that need to be repaired. We could raise the money to pay for this work here in Texas if Regan would live up to his word to get the federal government off our backs. If this idea becomes law, it will hit every Texas right in the pocketbook."

Bullock also pointed out the President's top economic advisor, Martin Feldstein, has said the President's proposal will cost more jobs than it would create.

The Texas Highway Commission has proposed increasing the Texas tax by the same nickel per gallon as suggested by the administration. "We are being undercut by the federal government. If this proposal gets ramrodded through Congress, Texas can look forward to higher taxes and deeper potholes while their hard-earned money creates a piddling number of jobs somewhere else," Bullock said.

Ways to cope with unemployment

Many workers today fear they will hear the boss say "we have to lay you off" or "you're fired!"

Non-union employment in most states can be legally terminated by either party at any time, without showing "just cause". In other words, one can be fired for no good reason, explains Dorothy Taylor, specialist in family life education with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Organized labor has afforded some protection for union employees, just as some government employees and many school teachers are protected from arbitrary dismissal. Legislative change assuring all employees similar rights is expected to become a major issue in the courts as inflation and unemployment accelerate," Taylor says.

In the meantime, people should devise a "survival plan" in the event they lost their jobs. Most employment counselors recommend that any worker be prepared for at least six months of unemployment.

Individuals and families can survive the deep emotional/psychological and financial "scars" of job-loss, but it requires planning ahead, Taylor emphasizes.

The most painful part of unemployment is the psychological and emotional stress, Taylor explains. The first response of most workers is to panic, and the second response is usually that of guilt. Then they usually blame someone or something else and generally become angry or depressed.

"After all emotions have been vented, most workers usually get renewed self-confidence and then begin to get their lives in order. They want to start seeking another job," Taylor says.

While many families are becoming better prepared financially because of the economic climate, experts suggest that being "fairly well prepared" may mean being able to weather a six-month job lay-off. After this period without work, most families start to "really hurt."

If one expert lay-offs in his or her organization, there are several strategies which can protect one from being the first to get released.

"Decide how important the job is to you, first of all. People lose jobs because of economic conditions—which employees cannot change—or job attitudes or lack of skills needed by an organization. The more valuable a person is, and the harder one works at staying, the more likely an individual is to keep a job," Taylor says.

Getting to work on time, being well-dressed, offering to stay late and doing your job consistently are marks of an exemplary employee, she reminds.

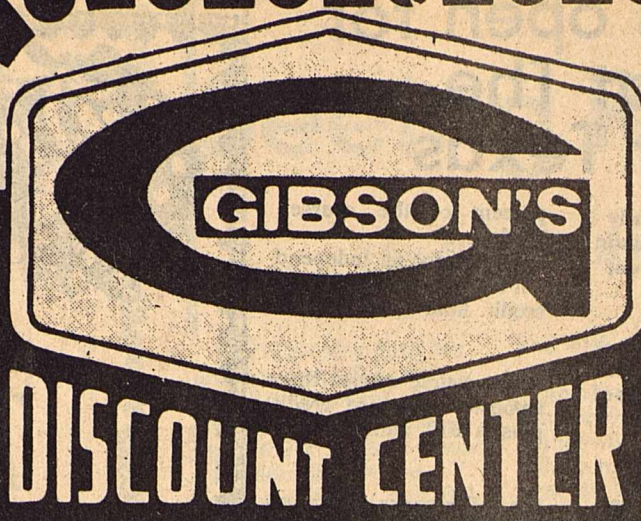

"Secondly, if you foresee lay-offs, get your finances in order. Save more and spend less. Defer long-term expenditures like a new car or home. If you already have a home, try and protect your house first. For many it's their major equity," Taylor says.

Since finding another job may not be easy, learn to "beat the competition." Be creative in your job search—instead of answering classified ads with a resume, find out what the prospective employer really wants—then write your resume creatively enough about your skills to "sell yourself."

"Stay active, rather than stagnating during lay-offs. Get up, dress and go out—even to do volunteer work. Get a telephone answering service to take your calls. Volunteerism provides you with a new network of acquaintances, keeps you active and can steer you to job openings," Taylor says.

Staying "too busy" is not recommended either, she reports.

Learn to develop mental health breaks to offset your tension and stress. Exercise, read, and make good use of your time. Workers would like to do many things if they had the time. When you're unemployed, time is one thing you have in abundance," Taylor reminds.

Rhonda Regeon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Regeon of Fayetteville, Georgia, is a member of the 1982 Angelo State University Golden Ram Marching Band. The band performed before an ABC Television Regional audience during halftime activities of the Abilene Christian Angelo State football game in October. Miss Regeon, whose grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Cashew W. Taylor of Sonora, is a freshman attending Angelo State University on a Carr Academic and a Band Scholarship.

Purchasing SS numbers

Schools may be able to help students obtain Social Security numbers without the need for the students to visit or telephone a Social Security Office, Frank Upp, Social Security District Manager in San Angelo, said recently.

Social Security numbers are issued about 2 weeks after a person provides the required application and evidence. Even so, many students wait until they find a job before applying for a Social Security number and sometimes they want us to provide a number the same day.

Schools can help students avoid this situation. Under a voluntary plan suggested by the Social Security Administration, Schools may arrange for students in the seventh grade or higher to complete applications for Social Security numbers at the school. "The school can assist in establishing the student's identity. Evidence of identity, together with proof of age and of U.S. citizenship or legal immigrant status, is required before a Social Security number may be issued."

"The question of identity is particularly important for students in the seventh through the ninth grades since many have not yet acquired drivers' licenses or voters' registration cards or similar documentation. A birth or baptismal record cannot be accepted as proof of a person's identity, but certification by the school can help the student meet this requirement."

Teachers and school administrators who would like more information about how they can help their students obtain social security numbers should contact the San Angelo Social Security Office, located at 2214 Sherwood Way. The telephone number is 949-4608.

Mathematics 304E-- Trigonometry is open for enrollment at The University of Texas

A correspondence course in college-level trigonometry has been added to the course schedule of Extension and Correspondence Studies in The University of Texas Division of Continuing Education.

Mathematics 304E--Trigonometry is open for enrollment now. It is designed to help students meet math prerequisites and to help raise scores on the math achievement tests.

Trigonometry currently is taught in the UT Austin Mathematics Department only in summer session. The author of the course guide is Dr. Ernst Adams of the mathematics faculty. The final examination counts 60 percent and the 15 assignments count 40 percent of the course grade.

Tuition for an independent study course is $32 per credit hour (the trigonometry course carries three semester hours of credit) plus a $10 administrative fee. Textbooks are purchased separately. Students may enroll at any time and have one year to complete the work. For more information and a registration application, write UT Austin Extension and Correspondence Studies, Education Annex F-38, Austin, Texas 78712 or call (512) 471-

Deregulation of your telephone ...how will it affect you

Deregulation. What does it mean to the nation's telephone industry — and the customers it serves? All of the hows, whys and maybes are not determined, but here are answers to some often-asked questions.

Q. What is deregulation?

A. Simply, it's the process of removing state and federal controls from many services provided by the telecommunications industry. It means customers can select equipment and services in a competitive market without regulation by a regulatory commission.

Q. When does it happen?

A. Deregulation isn't new. Federal Communications Commission rulings over the past three decades have allowed some competition in terminal equipment (telephones, multi-line systems, etc.) and in long-distance services. But deregulation surfaced as a major public issue when the FCC mandated total deregulation of new terminal equipment, effective January 1, 1983.

Q. Why does the FCC want the telephone industry to be deregulated?

A. The FCC believes competitive markets are most efficient. Deregulation — and competition — will encourage new services and open more options to customers.

Actually, the FCC is but one of the driving forces behind deregulation. Congress, the Justice Department and the Reagan Administration (like others before it) all are eager to deregulate the American telephone business.

Q. What is GTE's position regarding deregulation?

A. GTE feels that deregulation ultimately will benefit all concerned. Competition is the American way and GTE expects to compete aggressively.

Q. Just what services will continue under regulation?

A. After January 1, the basic local and long-distance switching networks will continue to be regulated. So will all in-place equipment on customer premises. New equipment will be excluded from regulation, as will "enhanced" services, which combine basic service with computer processing to provide additional, different or restructured information.

Q. How does this affect customers?

A. The big change is in lease and purchase arrangements for telephones, multi-line systems and other equipment in a customer's home or business.

After January 1, existing customers may continue to lease their phones from General Telephone. In addition, they have the option of purchasing phones — either from General Telephone or another supplier.

New customers also will be able to buy phones anywhere they choose (including General Telephone). Cost of equipment purchased by customers will be determined by the marketplace — not regulatory commissions. Lease options also will be available to new customers, but again will be determined by the marketplace — not the regulators.

There's another important point. By definition, anyone who alters existing service will be classified as a new customer. People who move from one residence to another — even though both are served by General Telephone — would be considered new customers under deregulation guidelines.

Q. Will all customers be affected by deregulation?

A. No. The FCC's order applies only to single-line service. Customers on multi-party lines may continue to lease phones from General Telephone with all the traditional services. For a period after deregulation begins, party line customers may have some options that will not be available after January 1, 1983 to single-line customers.

Q. Will it affect the cost of telephone service?

A. Deregulation will have an impact on virtually every aspect of the telephone industry — including cost. It should result in lower prices for some services and higher prices for others. The net effect of deregulation — and the competition it creates — is that each product or service provided by General Telephone must pay its own way, without subsidies from other segments of the business.

For example, revenues from various optional services have traditionally subsidized the cost of providing basic local service. That ensured basic telephone service was affordable to nearly everyone. But competition will force prices to more closely reflect the true cost of any service. Local rates probably will rise; others may decrease. Either way, customers will be asked to pay for the cost of the services they use.

Q. So what are the benefits to the consumer?

A. With deregulation comes competition. With competition comes the suppliers' desire to provide customers with what they want, when they want it, resulting in many options, introduction of new technology and keeping costs at the lowest possible level.

Q. Won't there be a lot of people who will be unable to afford a telephone?

A. GTE expects to help customers meet increases in telephone rates by phasing in certain options for flat rate pricing, including Usage Sensitive Service (USS) which is a measured service.

Railroad Commission approves agreement between Lone Star Gas and the Texas Municipal League

The Railroad Commission has approved a settlement agreement reached between Lone Star Gas Company and the Texas Municipal League (TML) which sets city gate rates to be charged for natural gas delivered by Lone Star to municipal distribution systems. The new rates are effective today.

The Commission action was taken at its weekly conference on Gas Utilities Division matters.

The rates approved by the Commission will give Lone Star an annual revenue increase of $42.9 million, less than half of the $90 million originally requested by the company. More than 400 cities and towns and their related environs areas are affected by the rate charge, involving more than 1.1 million residential and commercial customers. The new rates will increase an average monthly residential bill for six Mcf (thousand cubic feet) of gas by $1.92, or 32 cents per Mcf.

TML represented some 95 of the affected cities during negotiations with Lone Star that led to the settlement agreement.

The city gate is the delivery point at which a city distribution system receives gas from its supplier. The city gate rate then becomes part of the charges to burner tip customers levied by the distribution system.

According to the agreement, the base city gate rate will increase from $2.08 per Mcf to $4.02 per Mcf. The Gas Cost Adjustment (GCA) provision was also changed by the parties to allow the flow through of 100 percent of gas costs above or below the base cost of gas. The previous GCA clause allowed 95 percent of increased gas costs to be flowed through.

Under close questioning by the commissioners, Gas

Utilities Division Hearing Examiner Michael pointed out that according to the agreement, any city or town served by Lone Star may file a protest within ten days after the company files its computation of the gas cost adjustment for any month. The Commission then may set a hearing to determine the reasonableness of the costs claimed. If the Commission found the GCA amount unreasonably high, Lone Star would have to make an adjustment in the following month's GCA statement.

Lone Star filed a statement of intent to raise the city gate rate with the Commission June 25. That statement asked for an increase totalling $90 million. The application was opposed by TML on behalf of the affected cities. At the Commission hearing to examine the rate request held Sept. 14, representatives of both TML and Lone Star indicated they were close to reaching a settlement and asked for a continuance to conclude the negotiations.

Examiner George granted a two week continuance and directed the parties to bring the completed settlement back for Commission analysis not later than Sept.

27. The completed rate agreement, now totalling $42.9 million, was submitted on that date. Provisions of the settlement were then examined by George to make sure they complied with the Public Utilities Regulatory Act and Gas Utilities Division rules before presenting the agreement to the Commissioners for approval. On Sept. 15, the Commission approved an $8 million surety bond posted by Lone Star which allowed them to put the proposed new city gate rate in effect on a temporary basis effective Nov. 1, pending Commission action in the case. Today's Commission order approving the settlement agreement terminates those temporary rates, releases rates, releases the bond, and makes the agreed upon rates permanent, effective today.

Price controls from natural gas await date for decontrol

The federal government has said it will appeal a Wyoming judge's ruling that the windfall profits tax is unconstitutional. Congressman Kent Hance of Lubbock said he was extremely disappointed but not surprised by the appeal and called the tax Ronald Reagan windfall profits tax.

President Reagan said on Friday, November 19th, that he is still committed to removing price controls from natural gas. The President did not give a date when decontrol would be introduced but it's believed it will come early next year.

While 1982 is certainly not as active as last year in the number of active rigs working, the statistics are holding up pretty well otherwise. Through October of this year, there have been 150 more gas discoveries and 39 more oil discoveries than last year in the State of Texas. There have been 927 more holes drilled for oil and 542 more for gas than the same period last year. Oil production in Texas was down about 58,000 barrels a day in August compared to August of 1982. The number of rigs running is down between forty and forty-five percent compared to last year. But, two years ago in the Permian Basin we had 340 rigs running and three years ago there were 309 running.

Off-shore crude oil production

States leases in bays, inlets and the Gulf of Mexico produced 76,154 barrels of crude oil during September 1982, in contrast to 71,206 barrels in the same month of 1981 and 76,690 barrels in August 1982, according to Railroad Commission Jim Nugent. Through the first nine months of this year, state leases produced 709,988 barrels of crude oil off-shore.

Gas well gas production from state leases amounted to 18,688,345 Mcf in September against 18,297,146 Mcf a year earlier and 19,066,364 Mcf in August of this year. Total gas well gas production offshore from state leases was 194,440,159 Mcf through September.

Casinghead gas production totaled 249,683 Mcf in September against 223,474 Mcf in the same month of 1981 and 192,222 Mcf in August. That makes 2,058,505 Mcf through the first nine months of 1982.

Condensate production from state leases amounted to 62,427 barrels in September, up from 58,898 barrels a year earlier and up from 59,061 barrels in August. Through September, state offshore leases produced 620,765 barrels of condensate.

In September, offshore crude production was about .1 percent of total estimated crude production in Texas. Offshore gas well gas production was approximately five percent of the state total.

Texas oil and gas production

Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Nugent announced that Texas oil and gas wells produced 510,706,037 Mcf of gas in August 1982, down 11.76 percent from field runs a year earlier.

Marketed gas production totaled 419,491,249 Mcf and reflected a 13.99 percent decrease from the August 1981 volume. Marketed production is the total gas to transmission lines, carbon black and plant fuel and lease use.

Gas exported from Texas in August totaled 219,814,908 Mcf. Exports of Texas-produced gas in August totaled 160,106,885 Mcf, and reflected a 6.57 percent decrease from the year-earlier month.

Hightower voices effort in revising Farm Bill

State Agriculture commissioner-elect Jim Hightower said often during his campaign, "Winning will be the easiest part!" Hightower, a tireless campaigner who never slowed his grueling pace until Election Day, wasn't dismissing his general election opponent—he simply acknowledging the tough job awaiting the winner at a time when the Texas farm economy is in its worst shape since the Great Depression.

Hightower, who combined a folksy, entertaining stump-speaking style with an issue-oriented, populist program, rolled up 61.9 percent of the vote, the highest percentage garnered by any statewide candidate with serious opposition. He trailed in only 18 of the state's 254 counties and won by large margins in all eight of the geographical regions into which the Secretary of State divided the state.

Hightower's percentages by region: Panhandle—57.3%; North Central Texas—59.4%; East Texas—70.2%; Upper Gulf Coast—59.4%; South Texas—65.6%; Central Texas—64.5%; West Central Texas—60.5%; West Texas—59.6%.

Hightower, who told a post-election press conference that he planned to "hit the ground running" on January 1, has continued working non-stop since the election. Incumbent Agriculture commissioner Reagan V. Brown met with Hightower following the election and is cooperating fully to make the transition a smooth one when Hightower takes office. The Hightower is interviewing personnel, analyzing current programs and revising budget recommendations to fit the program revisions and new activities promised by the candidate during the campaign.

Hightower is planning to travel to Washington D.C. in December to lend his voice to efforts to revise the federal Farm Bill, an action that he considers the highest priority on his list of measures to bring relief to embattled family farmers in Texas and across the nation.

"I expect to meet not only with the members of the Texas congressional delegation but with House Agriculture Committee members from other states, as well," Hightower said. "The Democratic sweep in Texas won national attention, and I plan to make it clear that the failure of Reaganomics was the number one reason for that sweep. The vote in Texas was a vote to restore some semblance of reason and fairness to our economic policies. And nowhere is that more critical than in our farm economy. The entire national economy is based on a healthy agriculture economy, and we'll never see an economic recovery until we get the farm sector back on track. That's the message I'll be carrying to Washington.

"It may be that we won't be able to get anything done until the new Congress takes office in January, but it's critical that we make a major effort to focus attention on the problem. That's what my campaign was about, and that's a major part of what my job is about."

"Inspiring People for Progress" Dec. 13-17

"Inspiring People for Progress" is the theme of the upcoming 1982 State Extension Conference in the J. Earl Rudder Center at Texas A&M University, Dec. 13-17.

During the five-day in-service conference, some 1,100 Texas Agricultural Extension Service professionals will attend three general sessions to hear national and state leaders discuss technology advances, and take part in concurrent educational sessions and refresher courses to update their knowledge and skills.

The conference focuses on Extension's special role of providing informal education programs in agriculture, home economics, community development and 4-H and youth. It is designed to bring specialists and county Extension agents from all areas to the campus.

Other special features of the conference include presentation of three Distinguished Performance Awards to Extension staff Addison, deputy chancellor for agriculture, the Texas A&M University System.

Also to be honored are three winners of the prestigious Knapp-Porter Awards for state and national leaders, with Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, Extension Service director, in charge of the presentations.

Conference registration is set from 3 to 6 p.m. Dec. 13 in the Rudder Exhibit Hall.

The welcome and conference challenge by Director Carpenter is slated at the 8:30 a.m. opening session Dec. 14. Addison is to announce winners of the Distinguished Performance

Awards following Carpenter's comments, and Dr. Robert Lindberg of San Antonio is to discuss "How to Motivate Yourself and Others."

Verde Kleingrass to be released in 1983

Verde Kleingrass, a good forage producer with larger seed, will be released in early 1983 through the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station's Foundation Seed Service at Texas A&M University.

Verde Kleingrass seed are larger and 20 to 30 percent heavier than seed of Kleingrass 75," said Dr. Ethan C. Holt, professor of forages with the Experiment Station and Texas A&M's Department of Soil and Crop Sciences. "The larger seed size will make the grass more valuable as a feed source for quail and other game birds and will improve seedling vigor and establishment."

Holt noted that forage yields and quality of Verde Kleingrass are about the same as from Kleingrass 75.

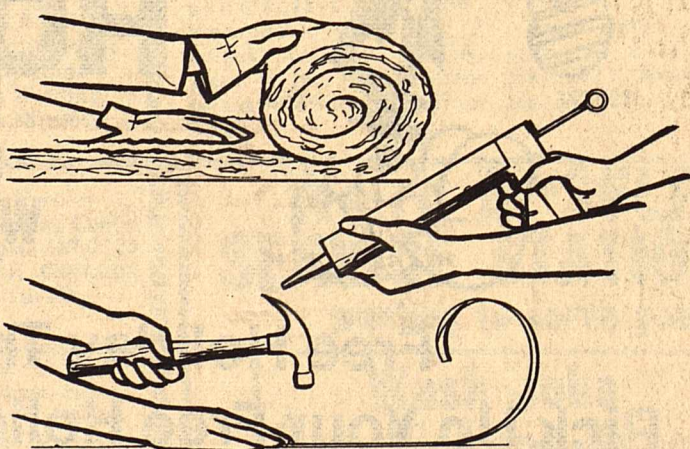

"Verde Kleingrass will be registered as a variety under the Plant Variety Protection Law and will be sold only as certified seed," Holt said. "Individuals interested in producing seed will have to become licensed certified seed growers and will require certification inspections by the Texas Department of Agriculture."

Individuals interested in obtaining Verde Kleingrass seed should contact the Foundation Seed Service and the Texas Department of Agriculture, said Holt. Seed requests must be made by Jan. 15, 1983, to the Foundation Seed Service, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843, which will provide information on the time and arrangements for seed sale. Certification procedures will be provided by the Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

Verde Kleingrass was developed by the TAES and A&M's Department of Soil and Crop Sciences and Department of Animal Science. It will be released jointly with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Agricultural Research Service and Soil Conservation Service.

Use Your ENERGY To Save Electrical Energy...

By using some of your energy you can save electrical energy. Simply by adding insulation, caulking around windows and doors, and adding weatherstripping you can help stop heat loss in your home. Stopping heat loss will help your home to operate more efficiently. Also, consider installing a 200% efficient heat pump cooling and heating system in your home. If you want more information pick up our FREE Home Energy Conservation Guide at any WTU office.
