Wichita Falls Man Is Beaten

Attacked By Mob Of 300 Jobless Men After He Refused To Surrender Keys To Food Storage Room

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, April 24.—Barred from the use of the courthouse because of an attack upon J. B. Marlow, unemployment relief leader earlier in the day, 300 jobless men of Wichita Falls milled about the locked and guarded building for almost an hour Friday night before contenting themselves with the out-of-doors and a demand for the building.

Marlow, aged pioneer resident, was severely beaten Friday afternoon when he refused the demands of a self-styled "unemployment committee" to surrender the keys of a storehouse containing food for 3,700 men being helped daily.

Marlow originated the fund and obtained individual contributions after the withdrawal of Red Cross aid here.

Voiced By Few

The demand was voiced by only a few men and was not regarded as representing the whole group. Marlow refused the order and the fight followed. Although more than a dozen men crowded about the scene of the affray, only one of the number was believed directly involved. No charges had been filed Friday night.

Marlow said the distribution of food would continue.

Russia Method Not Practical Experts State

Dr. Ernest Minor Patterson Declares America In Need Of National Plan For Direction And Control

BY J. R. BRACKETT
Associated Press Business Agent

NEW YORK, April 24.—America should have a national plan to direct and control its energies and resources, Dr. Ernest Minor Patterson, president of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, believes, but "what we should not undertake is the type of control now being employed in Russia."

Dr. Patterson is one of a dozen noted experts who have given the Associated Press their ideas on a national plan.

Dr. A. C. Whitaker of Leland Stanford university's department of economics, argues that a comprehensive plan "is so far from being necessary and inevitable, that it is not even possible. I do not see what it could be."

Aid For Disabled Vets To Be Sought In Drive

National Commander Of Legion Visits In Lubbock

THAT the American Legion is to conduct a renewed campaign during the next session of congress to obtain compensation for disabled veterans of the World war was revealed here Friday by Ralph T. O'Neal of Topeka, Kas., national commander of the American Legion, who spent several hours in Lubbock on his two-day visit to Texas. His visit was the first ever paid to this section by a national Legion commander. Approximately 400 ex-service men greeted him at the Legion home.

He was accompanied on his visit by State Commander Hal Brennan and State Adjutant Bob Whiteker of Austin.

"Chow Line" Feature

"Our first concern this year and every year is our disabled comrades," Mr. O'Neil said as he opened his address at the Legion home following the serving of a "chow line" by the Allen Brothers post to the distinguished officials and visiting legionnaires.

"This chow line takes us back to the days of the war," he went on "but we have practically forgotten them except upon occasions like this. For us, the war is over and just a memory now but it's not over for those 40,000 men disabled, lying in hospitals. The war's still on with them."

To Press Program

"Our chief concern in the past year," he said, "was the hospital program. We asked congress to adopt a policy of having a bed for every veteran and they came to our relief. Much of our program for our disabled was not enacted, however, and is to be pressed in the next session."

Arriving here shortly after 11:30 from Plainview where he had been honored in a breakfast program by the Plainview post, Commander O'Neil was greeted by more than two hundred ex-service men at the Hilton hotel. His official welcoming party was headed by Commander Glenn Hess of the Allen Brothers Post of this city.

Shouse Charge Gets Comeback

Chairman Fess Of Republican Committee Declares Shouse Did Inject Religious Issue Into Speech

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 24. — A charge by Chairman Shouse of the Democratic national executive committee the Republicans injected the religious issue into the last campaign was hurled back at the Democrats today by Chairman Fess of the Republican national committee.

"Clearly and unquestionably Mr. Shouse did inject the religious issue," in his recent San Francisco speech, the Ohioan said in a statement from Republican headquarters.

Article Circulated

At the same time he said the Republican national committee circulated an anti-Raskob article by Frank Kent in the 1930 congressional campaign but added it did not refer to the religion of Chairman Raskob of the Democratic national committee and would have been distributed whether Raskob was a Methodist, a Baptist or a member of any other denomination.

He said Shouse's speech had been repudiated by several California Democratic leaders.

Now Stanley Is On Alimony Row

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 24. — There were two versions of the case of Stanley Kopacz, whose wife, Sadie, had him brought into Judge Desort's court for being in arrears in his alimony payments.

Stanley said it wasn't his fault as he had been trying his best to get a job.

Sadie said Stanley spent most of his time at a dance marathon and went so far as to rub the feet of his favorite feminine contestant during rest periods.

Judge Desort chose between the two by deciding to put Stanley in alimony row at the county jail.

Tiny Flame Is Fanned Friday By Criticisms

Representatives Go To Aid Of Travis County Members Who Received Resolution Signed By 50 Citizens

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, April 24.—A little flame of yesterday was fanned into a big fire in legislative halls today.

The house of representatives went to the aid of Travis county members who yesterday were asked in a resolution signed by 50 Austin business men to abandon leadership on controversial statewide issues. It unanimously adopted a resolution by Representative Satterwhite of Odessa condemning the citizens' group.

Proposes Removal

The "flare" was precipitated yesterday when Representative Stewart of Teague said he would propose removal of the highway department to Waco and the erection of a $500,000 highway office building there when a McGregor bill, proposing erection of a highway office building in Austin, was brought before the house.

Representative Pope of Corpus Christi charged that John Wallace, secretary of the highway commission, wrote the resolution which Austin business men signed. Wallace stated he knew nothing of the resolution until he read it in papers today.

Lubbock Citizens Respond To Appeal And Money Is Raised Early Friday; Ortega Said To Be Improving

Merced Ortega is apparently on the high road to recovery, funds to guarantee his hospital expenses have been collected—and, on top of that, his wife and kiddies have a "whole tow-sack full" of groceries.

After an appeal was broadcast in yesterday's Morning Avalanche the $40 necessary to defray the penniless Mexican's hospitalization literally 'poured in'. The fund was raised before 8 o'clock Friday morning and others who sought to contribute later in the morning turned sorrowfully away.

Many Offer Aid

The bill was footed by students of Draughn's Business college, who contributed $20; and by E. P. Carlock, Max Coleman, The Plainsman of the Daily Journal, and a lady who asked that her name be withheld. Each of the latter contributed $5, while Jerry Jarett, Mrs. J. B. Mobley, Rev. Cupid Heals Her Wounds

Out of the chaos of the World War has sprung a romance unequalled by any in the fantastic flights of fiction. Mrs. G. After a parting the two were brought together once more with the result that they were recently married in Berlin.

Cause Of Spur Girl's Death Destined To Remain Mystery

Report From State Chemists Received Here Friday Which States No Trace Is Found Of Poisoning

THE cause of Elsie Foreman's death, occuring at a Crosbyton hotel, April 12, is destined to remain a mystery, it was indicated here yesterday.

District Attorney Durwood Bradley received a report from W. B. Wardlow, of Austin, state chemist, stating that the girl's viscera failed to reveal signs of poisoning. The stomach and its contents were sent to Austin for examination following an autopsy performed by Lubbock doctors. The autopsy failed to show immediate cause of the girl's death, doctors reported.

Dies of Wounds

J. N. Edmonson, Spur mechanic, who was accused of murder in connection with Miss Foreman's death, died last Saturday in a Spur sanitarium from gunshot wounds inflicted by the girl's father, C. R. Foreman, prominent Dickens county farmer.

Edmonson and Miss Foreman were occupying a room at the Crosbyton hotel when the girl died, according to officers. The mechanic maintained his innocence of the murder charge until his death.

Ward, being arrested by Sheriff R. L. Edwards in connection with theft of gasoline at a filling station east of here on the highway today.

The pair were arrested in a car Temple told the sheriff he took in Fort Worth. The car was identified by the filling station operator as one which had driven off from his place last night before he received pay for a tank of gasoline.

First Sentence To Be Assessed

The days of the old west are rapidly passing.

Even the outposts of this vast prairie frontier are succumbing to the mandates of civilazation.

At 9 o'clock this morning, Judge Homer L. Pharr of the 72nd district court, is to assess the first sentence for a felony conviction in history of Cochran county. Sentence is to be passed in the courthouse at Morton.

The defendant, T. T. Storey, 55-year-old Bledsoe man, was convicted late Thursday by a jury on a charge of possession and transporting liquor. He was given a year and a day as penalty.

Storey was charged with transpoting three gallons of liquor from Bledsoe to Lehman.

Prohibition Will Be But One Issue Chairman Asserts

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP)—With the assertion he did not propose to make prohibition the single issue in 1932, Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee, tonight sailed for Europe. He said also he did not intend to dictate the party's nominee for president in 1932.

Both he and former Governor Alfred E. Smith, who bade him bon voyage, denied any sanctioned survey had been made to determine the relative strength of the party's potential candidates in 1932.

"I am not prepared to say," said former Governor Smith, "whom I will support for the nomination."

States That Parked Car And Trailer Obscured Two From His Vision; Swerved In An Effort To Miss Pair

TALIMA KELLY, 16, was instantly killed and Floyd Ward, 23, an employe of the Lubbock Poultry & Egg company, was seriously injured about 10 o'clock last night when they were struck by an automobile driven by C. A. Sheffield, manager of Hotel Lubbock as it was emerging from the north end of the Avenue H underpass. Miss Kelly and Ward were hurtled through the air several feet by the impact of the automobile, according to witnesses of the accident. They were walking.

Wesley Doak and William Zirkle, 2222 Fourteenth street, Texas Technological students, who were returning to the city, witnessed the accident and carried the girl and man to the Lubbock sanitarium. Sheffield aided in loading the injured persons into Doak's car.

Badly Crushed Chest

The girl was pronounced dead when she reached the sanitarium. A crushed chest was the cause of her death, according to physicians. She sustained cuts and bruises on her head and face and other parts of her body. Ward suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and cuts and bruises. An operation was necessary to set his leg. Although his condition was regarded as serious, physicians stated late last night that he should recover. An examination failed to reveal any internal injuries.

Sheffield, who was taken into custody by Policeman Clarence Luce and J. D. Johnson at the sanitarium, was released pending further investigation of the accident. He was questioned by District Attorney Durwood Bradley, who is handling the inquiry.

Makes Statement

In a statement to the Morning Avalanche late last night Mr. Sheffield explained that a trailer and truck parked at the top of the underpass was the whole cause of the accident.

"I was going north on Avenue H," Sheffield related. 'As I approached the top of the underpass on the north side I had to swerve to the left to keep from striking a parked truck with a trailer. Neither the truck nor the trailer had lights.

"As I swerved to go around them a man stepped in front of me and I could not stop. I tried to miss him but hit him with the radiator. A fraction of a second later a girl stepped back and the right rear fender struck her.

"I stopped my car as quickly as possible and got out. I picked up the man and flagged down a car to help me with the girl and told them to rush both to the sanitarium. I got back into my car and followed them.

"I immediately upon reaching the sanitarium I called Dr. J. T. Krueger and asked him to hurry down. Before he arrived, however, the

THAT play some children staged at the City Federation meeting Thursday afternoon was good. It was surprisingly well worded to be the work of children in the elementary grades and the actors were good because they were so un-self-conscious.

It's a pretty good idea to start children out on things they may have to do later—such as public speaking—if they are to be successful. In their youth they do not have the qualms that overtake them later when they are exposed to the eyes of the public. A lot of us who never had training of that kind know the unpleasantness of stage fright.

Children are adaptable, too. If something happened Thursday to break the trend of the play, they picked up the threads and went on with things; if the stage happened to be different from what they were accustomed to, they promptly adjusted themselves to the situation. They were staging a play for the fun of the thing and the audience actually mattered little.

ODDS AND ENDS

SOME of the things learned this week: Final examinations—the kind we used to have at the end of the school term—are unheard of in the public schools of Lubbock today. That sort of thing is passe and I hadn't known it . . . Lubbock is the cleanest town in this section and one of the cleanest of towns. . . this was passed on by Mayor Clements from Ben S. Sivitts, president and manager of the Sivitts Iron and Steel works of Wichita, Kas., who has been coming to Lubbock for 12 years . . . An easy and delightful family supper dish consists of boiling a pound of fresh pork for an hour, then adding some new potatoes and a pound and a half of fresh green beans and cooking this all together slowly for a half hour . . . If a matter is the subject of considerable controversy I think there is probably no solution . . . this from Bob McCall who assures me that he reads this column occasionally . . Another thing that has been dispensed with in the public schools and which was an institution in my day is the valedictorian-salutatorian oratory. . . . It is a shame that I don't attend all of the public programs that are given over town . . . this from several members of the U. D. C. and I wish they could see me down here making up time in the evening for attending one club meeting during the afternoon.

TODAY'S WOMAN

THAT reference to time serves as a reminder of something E. P. Earhart said at the City Federation meeting Thursday afternoon. He was telling of Civil War times saying that during that period nothing was bought and brought into the home; everything was furnished there. His mother, sisters and the negro women on the place spun the cotton, wove it into materials and made all garments by hand, in addition to making blankets, condiments and providing many other things which we depend upon the merchant and manufacturers to furnish to us today.

"Women then were busy from morning until night and I sometimes wonder what women do with their time today," he remarked. And after the picture that he had painted most of the audience seemed to wonder, too.

There is no point in spinning and weaving today and doing many other things that pioneer women were forced to do, but most of us waste a lot of time doing little that is worthwhile. We are so involved in politics in most of our church and club work that we overlook the fundamental purposes of the organizations through which we are working.

Sometime this winter I said that idleness was probably back of most divorces and several people disagreed with me, pointing to statistics which give no prominence to idleness as a cause of divorce. E. C. Kuykendall, Plainview, general agent of the Fort Worth and Denver and post commander of the American Legion, visited local company officials while here yesterday. Mr. Kuykendall came with the national commander of the Legion from Plainview to Lubbock and returned to Plainview.

Former service men of Lockney have so far received $20,000 to $25,000 on their insurance loans from the government, Hub Mason, post commander of the American Legion there said while here yesterday. He expects the total will be in excess of $40,000. "We got a big bunch of checks the first of the week," he added.

Business in Plainview is improving and there will be a large number of men here during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, Grady Shipp, manager of the Plainview board of city development, said here yesterday. "We had a great Rotary convention and we are looking forward to the W. T. C. C. meeting in Lubbock," he added.

H. S. Hilburn, editor of the Plainview Daily Herald, who was here yesterday with Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, said agricultural conditions in Plainview's territory were greatly improved. Recent rains have made the farmers feel much better and there has been some planting of early crops, he said.

Houston Seeking Control Of Galveston Lighting System

GALVESTON, April 24. (AP)—The Galveston city commission today held a public hearing on the question of sanctioning the transfer of the Galveston light and power system franchise to the Houston Lighting and Power company.

S. R. Bertron, executive of the Houston company, said Houston had received nearly $1,000,000 in excess of earnings since 1914 and that Galveston would share if his company acquired the Galveston franchise.

Rates proposed by the Houston company would be the same as those at Houston and would save Galveston consumers $1000,000 annually, Bertron said.

Three petitions were presented protesting against the transfer, one of which favored establishment of a municipal plant.

EXACT METHOD OF ROASTING COFFEE PERFECTS FLAVOR

Controlled Roasting, Patented by Hills Bros., Gives Flavor No Other Coffee Has

To sip a cup of Hills Bros. Coffee after drinking other brands is a most revealing experience. There is a wealth of full-bodied, savory flavor that is almost startling. What's more, it is a different flavor.

The way Hills Bros. Coffee is roasted is responsible for this deliciously different goodness. Instead of being roasted in bulk—as most coffees are—Hills Bros.' rare blend passes through the roasters, evenly—continuously—a little at a time.

The chief factor in the success of this process is the perfect control of the flow of coffee and of the heat. This insures an even roast such as the bulk method can never equal. The ultimate result is a matchless, uniform flavor in every pound.

In order to keep their delicious coffee fresh, Hills Bros. pack it in vacuum. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is completely extracted from the can, and kept out by this process. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can. Sold everywhere by grocers.

Quickening Realty Values

OF particular interest to Lubbock and the South Plains, where realty and land values play one of the major roles in the advancement of the area, comes the report from The Manufacturers Record that quickening intterest in real estate is apparent throughout the South.

Under the heading "Growing Real Estate Activity", the Record sets forth various facts which it has collected below the Mason-Dixon line. Texas was not included in the survey but what is happening in other states may be expected to happen in this one—and in this section—by the time fall, logical season for land movements, rolls around.

Says the Record's editorial:

"With the coming of spring there has been a noticeable quickening of interest in Southern real estate. The demand is not spectacular, but sales of all types of property have been increasing. From Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Florida, Louisiana and other parts of the South, reports of real estate transfers are becoming more numerous. The amount of money involved in such transactions indicates that a substantial volume of business is being developed above the usual seasonal activity.

"Sound real estate is one of the surest of investments. The history of some of the nation's greatest fortunes bears this out. And there can be little doubt of the fact, that based on past experience, the price at which well-located property has been selling in the present depression is much below the figure that will be regarded as its value later on. Real estate, in common with other investment values, has always emerged from depressions at a higher level. Today, farm land and business property can be bought at prices considered to be far below reasonable worth when based on any ordinary expectation of normal growth of the United States.

"From all indications, it is a time when prospective home owners, aided by the low cost of building, may not only build more cheaply than they can later on, but also have an opportunity to buy real estate at a low point. Surplus money now held in savings accounts, in banks, in building and loan associations and by insurance companies, will increasingly demand investment outlets.

Thousands of acres of land, thousands of city lots are beckoning to the investor in West Texas. Until the lands are settled West Texas, nor any part of it, will be in a position to secure its maximum growth—which of course means its maximum business and prosperity.

It is to be hoped that the quickening of interest in realty investments, noted by The Manufacturers Record in five Southern states, may come to Texas. West Texas and the South Plains in double-quick time.

AVIATION'S FUTURE

Just back from Europe, the superficial observer usually dilates upon the vast superiority of foreign air service over that in the United States. He is impressed by the large place the airplane occupies in the transportation system of nearly every European country. The daily departures of several gigantic planes from London to Paris; the network of airplanes connecting all the great continental cities, and the elaborately equipped airports which facilitate the general use of air transportation, seem to put like developments in the United States into unfavorable contrast.

But to those who know the inside workings of the system, the achievements of European aviation have their explanation which is not so impressive from the economic point of view. A statistical monograph, presented at the first international aviation conference of the League of Nations, says that each mile flown by commercial transport planes in 1929 cost British taxpayers about $1.28 for the lines flying between England and the continent, and about six dollars for those reaching the district parts of the empire.

French taxpayers, according to the same report, paid at the rate of $1.09 a mile, and German taxpayers at the rate of 70 cents. These costs are paid in direct subsidies provided by the respective governments.

In the United States, on the other hand, the progress of civil aviation has been without governmental subsidy, save the aid given by mail contracts, and these rates are being reduced. Under private ownership, strictly in response to actual needs and because of efficiency of service, the business of aerial transportation is growing rapidly. Of this success in American civil aviation, the report has this to say: "The great size of the United States, its huge volume of urgent business, and other conditions make it the promised land of commercial aviation."

Another figure that invariably arouses our curiosity is the one who decides to look up his genealogy all the way back to William the Conqueror or someone, and, after working hard at it a month, suddenly stops.

Alas! The letters a man forgets to mail never contain bills.

Practical Health Problems

GAIN WEIGHT AFTER MIDDLE AGE

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

(Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Almost all women now know that strict adherence to a suitable diet will cause a reduction in weight. They have learned moreover that it is just as important to educate the will power as to engage in any other measures necessary for weight reduction.

Dr. D. M. Kremer points out that the vast majority of cases of obesity are those in which the only discoverable cause is race, inheritance, or habits of life. The tendency to put on weight after middle age is a general tendency. It depends largely on overeating and the associated decrease in physica lactivity.

The other type of obesity is that in which the glands of internal secretion fail to function as usual. When the basal metabolism of such people is measured, it is found to be from 25 to 50 per cent below normal. Associated with this there may be subnormal temperatures and a low nervous tension; this, coupled with lack of exercise and overeating, produces a large increase in weight.

Few people realize that weight reduction without proper attention to securing the correct proteins, carbohydrates and fats may be a serious matter in actually producing malnutrition or deficiency diseases. Under proper diet calculated for this purpose, it is possible to cause one to lose weight satisfactorily at the rate of one pound a week. It is generally recognized that a loss of weight of more than two pounds a week may be a serious matter.

In cases in which the action of the thyroid gland is deficient, a physician will prescribe regular doses of thyroid gland which can be taken by mouth, and this provide sthe body with the thyroid that it requires. Following the regular taking of definite dosage under medical direction, the basal metabolism rate will begin to approximate the normal and the patient will have a more normal body chemistry.

Such control of human reactions represents the highest form of modern medical science, including accurate measurement of the physiologic activities, the application of substances to take care of deficiencies and new measurements to establish finally the fact that results have been secured.

Problem More Simple

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Bad as the soft coal industry's illness is, if it were incurable no one could be blamed for it, agrees Congressman David J. Lewis of Maryland, who once was a miner and now is an authority on the industry.

But, he adds, there is a cure.

"In one important respect," says the Maryland representative, "soft coal's case is decidedly simpler to deal with than agriculture's.

"America has a large exportable surplus of farm products, for which prices consequently are fixed in international markets that are beyond our control.

"Our soft coal exports practically are limited to Canada, except for the little that goes into the bunkers of foreign ships visiting our ports. Thus our soft coal problem, in that it is mainly domestic, is one we are in a position to solve for ourselves."

IT IS A PROBLEM Representative Lewis plans to attack at the next session of congress with bills designed to accomplish:

1. A freight rate readjustment insuring the consignment of coal from each of the various mines to that mine's natural markets and eliminating false distribution through artificial routing systems which still survive, despite the interstate commerce commission's efforts, from pre-commission days.

2. The creation of an organization, adapted from the German cartel model, enabling the soft coal industry to regulate itself for its own protection under a measure of government control and in co-operation with its workers and customers alike.

TO THE GERMAN "rationalisation" program Congressman Lewis points as having lifted the fatherland's bituminous industry from post-war difficulties even worse than this country's to a basis of comparative prosperity, notwithstanding many unavoidable handicaps under which it labors even yet.

Illustratively, "When the Ruhr mines were reopened after the French occupation," says the Maryland representative, quoting from League of Nations statistics, "the situation had become so bad that, at the beginning of 1924, wages expressed in purchasing power actually were less than before the war. In the summer of 1927, with the cost of living about 50 per cent higher than in 1913, the effective wages of all workers in the mines had reached 53 per cent above 1913. Meanwhile, despite the very large increase in wages, production costs had fallen, on an average, from 16 shillings and 8 pence in 1924 to 13 shillings and 5 pence in 1926"—or, approximately, from $4 to $3.22.

The miracle was wrought, explains Congressman Lewis, by price control, improvement in distribution methods, the closing of unremunerative mines or abandonment of unremunerative seams and the elimination of seasonal fluctuations; hence stabilization of output.

THE SYSTEM'S machinery, as related by the Maryland lawmaker (who will spend June and July in Europe, studying it at first hand, as well as investigating mining conditions in other old world countries), is directed, in the main, by a council representing the government, the mine owners, the miners, the coal merchants and the large coal consumers.

This body's functions, according to League of Nations authority, "are, for the most part, advisory."

Nevertheless, the industry is bound by "legally enforceable contracts"

Which certainly smacks mighty strongly of "government in business"—so vehemently condemned by many business men.

Representative Lewis smiled grimly. "Even so," he answered, "I don't believe the bituminous operators will object. There is little to choose today between the miners' lot and the mine owner's—unless he has other resources than his mine. I feel safe in saying that owners and miners alike will be glad of any relief they can get, without much argument as to terms."

MINERS' CONDITIONS in the West Virginia soft coal fields were described in detail recently before the Wagner unemployment insurance committee, the testimony of a mine union official alleging the conditions listed here.

Wages so low that a worker must toil six days weekly, ten to a dozen hours a day, to support a family; yet a scant third of them on full time jobs; another third on a one, two or three-day weekly schedule; the remainder idle, altogether. The standard diet, cornmeal, beans and occasionally a little sowbelly. All hands required, under penalty of dismissal, to trade at "company stores" at prices 30 to 40 per cent above independent merchants'. Rentals of unheated, unlighted, unsanitary hovels, $6 to $10 monthly. Trades unionism forbidden under a multiplicity of court orders, based on "yellow dog" contracts. Meager aid available from county poor funds; most treasuries empty. Nothing the Red Cross can do; its concern is not with "local economic situations."

And the West Virginia state of affairs, observes Congressman Lewis, is fairly representative of soft coal mining everywhere.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY + by MILES BURTON

READ THIS FIRST:

...The famous Hardway diamonds are stolen and a gang led by a person called the Funny Toff, who no one has seen, but who is identified by his maniacal laughter at the scenes of his crimes is suspected. Inspector Brooks is first put on the trail, but his body is returned in a packing case to Sir Edric Conway, police commissioner. Young Dick Penhampton, who is in love with pretty Alison Weatherleigh, is put on the trail and at midnight discovers the body of one Thomas Herridge, a rival gangster. One of the diamonds has been placed on the dead man's chest. Dick and Detective Pollard seem to lose all clues. Dick finally asks Sir Edric to make an examination of the packing case in which Brooks' body was returned. Dick discovers a piece of mud in the case from Brooks' shoe. Upon being analyzed, the discovery is made it probably comes from a lonely hill country known as the Mendips.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Dick lay back in his chair and closed his eyes. Fleeting pictures of the Mendips passed through his mind; the wide stretches of uncultivated moor, Cheddar Gorge, the fish in the Blagdon Reservoir, the neglected ruins where the lead mines had once stood. Plenty of space here to commit a murder, far from any human dwelling place. But why select a spot so far from London?

Of course, his deduction might be all wrong. He found himself wondering what the matter-of-fact Pollard would say if he told him that, from a fragment of mud found in a packing-case, he had inferred that Inspector Brooks had been murdered in the Mendips. No, that would never do. Imagination was all very well, but even Conway would smile and suggest that this was carrying it too far. On the other hand, he felt convinced that he was on the right track. In an instant his mind was made up. He would go and spy out the land himself, before he propounded his new theory at Scotland Yard.

He had an appointment to dine and dance with Alison that evening and he resolved to tell her his plans as soon as he met her. But, as it happened, she too had an announcement to make. "Father is going back to Lestridge Hall the day after tomorrow," she said. "And he's asked me to go with him. You know that I shall hate leaving London, Dick dear, but I must go. Father's very fond of me, and he suggested rather pathetically that he won't see much of me once we're married. Of course I said I'd go. You do understand, don't you?"

"Of course I understand, darling, but don't be away too long," replied Dick.

"If I am away more than a week or two, you must come and stay with us," said Alison. "You've never been to Lestridge Hall, and it's an awfully jolly place. You can manage a day or two of quite decent hunting. It would do you good, you're getting lazy."

"I believe you're right," replied Dick. "As a matter of fact, I've been thinking of going down to a little pub I know of, in Somersetshire and having a day with the Mendip pack."

"It wouldn't do you any harm," she replied brightly. "It would keep you from brooding over my absence. Besides, it'll keep you out of mischief. You won't be tempted to play Sherlock Holmes any more. What is the address of your pub in case I should feel disposed to write to you?"

"The anchor and Hope Inn, Priddy, near Wells," said Dick. "It's not a bad little place, if you don't mind isolation and plain food. I might be there a week, if it's decent hunting weather."

So it was arranged, and on the following morning early Dick started off alone in his car. He chose the Bath road, and sped over its broad and somewhat uninterested surface as far as Beckhampton. Here he turned to the left and went on through Devizes and Trowbridge to Frome, where he lunched at the George. From there, after consulting his map, he took the old turnpike road, which climbs steadily, avoiding most of the villages which cling to the slopes of the rising ground, until it reaches the summit of the eastern Mendips at Masbury.

Here he stopped the car and again consulted his map. He was still five or six miles from his destination, but this was an admirable spot from which to survey the surrounding country. The road ran along a ridge from which an extensive panorama stretched out in either direction. On the one side was the line of the Quantocks, with the loom of Exmoor on the far horison, and Glastombury Tor sharply defined in the foreground. On the other was an undulating country, shadowed in the distance by the smoke of Bristol. And in front of him, a bare and rugged skyline, was the border-land of the eastern Mendips.

He had chosen the Anchor and Hope, which he had visited years before, as being more or less in the center of the disused mines. Also he knew that the landlord kept one or two reliable hacks, which he hired to those who enjoyed a gallop with the Mendip hounds. Settled there, with a horse to ride, he could assume the guise of a London sportsman, with no object in view but to stir his sluggish liver. He folded up his map, started the car again and proceeded by a series of lanes, running straight and deserted between low stone walls, to the cross-roads at which stood the Anchor and Hope.

The inn had once, when the mines were at the height of their prosperity, been a hostelry of considerable importance. The village of Priddy, lonely and decaying round

AC COLLEGE COLUMN

By MARSHALL FORMBY, TECH CORRESPONDENT

ELECTION CONTINUES

With four co-eds as candidates, voting in the election for a queen to be crowned at the annual pageant in May will continue today. Voting, which is under the direction of the Tech Chamber of Commerce of which Don Maddox, Menard, is president, started yesterday morning and the polls will close this afternoon. Candidates are Faye Foote, Jean Shelly Jennings, Tena Alexander, and Opal Parmer.

Any woman student in Tech was eligible for the race provided she presented a petition signed by at least 25 students. These were filed Thursday. Any student in the college is allowed one vote, chamber of commerce officials announced yesterday.

The pageant will be conducted in the same manner as the ones in recent years, according to Miss D'Laural Beville, member of the speech department who is director. Several hundred students will participate in the event which will be given May 15, the second day of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

DANCE IS TONIGHT

What will probably be the last all-college dance for several weeks will be given tonight at 9 o'clock in the Texas Technological college gym. Regular prices of $1 for stags and 75c for couples will prevail.

Music will be by Frank Stone and his Collegians.

MAY BE PROMOTED

That Professor C. E. Russell, member of the Tech horticulture department, might be promoted to head of the department, succeeding Charles H. Mahoney, present head who recently resigned, was indicated yesterday by Dr. Paul W. Horn, Tech president. Mr. Mahoney recently submitted his resignation, stating that he will become a member of the faculty of the Michigan State Agricultural college. He has degrees from that institution.

"We regret to lose Mr. Mahoney," the Tech head said yesterday, "but we wish him well at his new position."

Mr. Russell has been a member of the Tech department for several years and is well acquainted with that part of the school.

ATTEND MEETING

Dean James M. Gordon of the Tech school of liberal arts is in Austin attending a meeting of the Texas Association of Colleges and Dr. A. W. Evans, head of the Tech education department, left for the sessions last night. Both are there in the interest of Texas Technological college.

Dr. Evans also will attend a meeting of the State Affiliation committee on his Austin trip.

ASKED TO WRITE HOME

In order that more Texas high school students will attend the annual Tech engineering show in May, Tech engineering seniors who are in charge of the event, are asking that Tech students write the principal of the schools in their home town, giving him a special invitation to bring his high school students to the show. This would bring several hundred more high school students to the annual attraction, according to Cary Lodal, Tech engineering senior who is in charge.

Letters are to be sent out to all parts of the state inviting students to the attraction, Lodal said. Because the event will be held during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention here and much work is being done for the best show in the history of the school, engineering officials are anxious that a record crowd be here.

Each department in the engineering school will exhibit special displays concerning that division of the engineering school.

TO HOLD CLASSES TODAY

Contrary to rumors on the campus, all classes will be held as usual today, President Paul W. Horn said late yesterday. Classes were dismissed from 10 o'clock Friday morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon in order to make room for the literary contests of the district interscholastic league meet being held here. As most of the contests were completed yesterday, however, there is no occasion for not having classes today.

Many of the students and faculty members assisted in the judging of the events yesterday.

HAVE CLASS CONTESTS

Inaugurating a new system of entertainments, the Tech Aggie club, made up of students in the school of agriculture, is being provided with special programs each Wednesday night. Each class in the school is presenting a program, there being a contest as to which class can present the best number.

Last Wednesday the sophomores entertained and next Wednesday the juniors will present their program.

Jim Williams is president of the organization.

VISIT POST MILLS

In order to get a better idea how textile mills are run, students in the textile department of the college Thursday visited the cotton mills at Post, south of Lubbock. Practically all the students in the department made the trip accompanied by members of the textile faculty.

Many interesting ideas concerning how mills are operated were gotten on the trip according to those making it.

ATTEND BANQUET

Approximately 50 attended the banquet given by President Paul W. Horn's Sunday school class at the First Methodist church this week, the Tech president said. Dr. Horn was one of the principal speakers.

About 150 business men of the city are members of the class which meets each Sunday at the First Methodist church.

NO DECISION GIVEN

No decision was rendered in the debate between Tech freshmen and a Wayland college team at Plainview Thursday afternoon, Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, acting head of the speech department and director of debate said yesterday.

Garland Smith and Charles O'Neal, both liberal arts freshmen of Lubbock, presented the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved That the Nations Should Adopt Policy of Free Trade."

It was the first debate to be held with the Plainview college this year and the second freshman debate to be held.

TO HELP JUDGE

Tech athletes will assist today in the judging of contests in the district interscholastic league meet to be held on the Tech athletic field. Several hundred high school athletes from 18 counties in this district will be here for the event.

Some of the events were started yesterday afternoon.

Campfire Girls Enter Work In Cleanup Poster Contest

Eight hand-made posters, dealing with the cleanup and paintup motif, have been entered by members of the local Campfire Girls group in the poster contest being sponsored by Miss Margie Taylor, guardian of the group, according to members of the general steering committee of the cleanup and paintup campaign now in progress here.

Awards probably will be announced Monday, it was stated. The winner of first place in the contest is to receive a box of Campfire Girls stationery. Girls placing second and third will receive honorable mention.

Sign Obtains Woman Lawyer

Prisoner Pastes Cotton From Mattress On Window Of Her Cell To Send Message Out To Friends

GREENVILLE, April 24. (AP) — A sign "lawyer wanted," devised by pasting cotton from a mattress on the window of her jail cell with syrup served at her meals, today had obtained for Miss Beulah Allred, prohibition crusader, an attorney who was seeking her release from the Hunt county jail here.

The exponent of temperance who once walked the streets of Pampa carrying a basket and shouting that Jamaica ginger was for sale, in an attempt to show that Pampa was "wet," recently was adjudged insane in Rains county. Sheriff G. N. McTaggart of Rains county had brought her to Greenville because of crowded conditions in the Rains county prison.

A habeas corpus petition filed by her attorney here today charged that she was tried and convicted on false charges of insanity.

Amarillo Presbyterial Holds Annual Confab At Littlefield

LITTLEFIELD, April 24. (Special)—The annual session of the Amarillo Presbyterial was held at Littlefield the 21st and 22nd of this month. A large number of delegates attended this meeting, which was held at the First Presbyterian church.

A very interesting feature of the Presbyterial was an address by Miss Rose Maiser, of Cameroun, West Africa, and an address by Mrs. T. H. Dawson, retired missionary from the Phillipine islands. Miss Maier is in this country on a vacation and will soon return to her work. Miss Maier has the distinction of having established the first orphanage in Africa.

Highway contracts totaling $246,413 for new construction work have been let in Mississippi.

Broken Heart Is Mended

Girl Who Sang Love Song As Sweetheart Died Proves Prediction By Marrying

Lillian Roth and her husband, William Scott.

HOLLYWOOD, April 24.—About a year ago, almost to the day, a beautiful young blues singer made the hit of her life when she sang the tragic love song from "The Vagabond King" to a critical New York audience.

That night marked the peak of Lillian Roth's triumphant return to Broadway after nearly two years in movieland. It also marked the turning point in her life.

Never was a Broadway audience as still as the one which watched hot tears roll down Lillian's face as the notes of her song floated over them. For an instant after the song was finished a death-like silence gripped the spectators. Then a roar of applause burst from hundreds of throats. The curtain went up again—but there was no Lillian. The audience was dumbfounded. Never before had they known of an actress who wouldn't respond to a curtain call.

But the audience couldn't see behind the scenes where others in the cast were trying to quiet the sobbing girl and get her out on the stage again. And even the cast didn't know that as Lillian sang her love song her fiance was lying dead in a hospital nearby.

For years Lillian had been in love. They were to have been married soon. Then he became ill. Just before leaving the hospital, which she visited every day, for the theater on that memorable night Lillian was told that there was no hope. Just before she went on to sing the tragic love song a phone call told her that he was gone.

"He told me," Miss Roth said afterward, "that I was young and would find someone else. But that's not true. He has taken with him my very ability to love."

A few days ago Hollywood received the news that Lillian had married William C. Scott of Pittsburgh, son of a wealthy lumber merchant.

And Hollywood wonders. . . .

Newspaper's Greatest Asset Is Its Reliability, Editor Tells Meeting

PRINCETON, N. J., April 24. (AP) —Fred Fuller Shedd, editor of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, told the Princeton University conference today that a newspaper's greatest asset is its reliability.

Besides looking to newspapers for news, readers expect to know its significance and its consequences as well, Shedd said. News of importance requires interpretation, he asserted, either in the news or editorial columns.

"In this service of interpretation, whether undertaken in the news columns or on the editorial page," he said, "the public is entitled to and naturally expects the same degree of truth, of reliability, or unbiased use of the newspaper's facility for forming judgment and opinion, that applies in the simple presentation of news.

"A newspaper which misleads its readers as to the meaning and significance of news is as much at fault, as unworthy, as futile in its ultimate appeal to continued support as is the newspaper which deals with fiction instead of statement of fact.

"By and large, the American people nationally and individually believe in their newspapers.

"A newspaper may be a pleader and preacher of the Republican faith, of the Democratic faith, of prohibition or anti-prohibition policy, may form and voice opinion as it wills, and none may object, providing it acknowledges its purpose and has resorted to no pretence or disguise.

"The old time party press of the United States is diminishing in its importance, Shedd said, and in its stead there is developing a press that is independent in its political relations, non-partisan in its news and subordinates party prejudice or preference to unbiased judgment in its editorial opinion.

Soviet Plans Are Explained

Vice President Of Syndicate Declares Soviet Five-Year Plan Does Not Present An American Menace

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP)—E. Y. Kadik, vice president of the All-Russian Textile Syndicate, Inc., said the Soviet five-year plan of industrialization presents no menace to American economy in addressing the convention of the American Cotton Shippers association today.

"One hears a great deal about the 'menace' which the success of the five-year plan is supposed to present to the economy of the United States and of European countries," Mr. Kadik said.

"Extravagant reports have spread as to the flooding of the world market with cheap Soviet products, and Soviet foreign trade is pictured as a veritable spectre to haunt the dreams of businessmen in other countries. This view of the situation is just as wide of the mark as the skeptical opinions formerly expressed as to the feasibility of the five-year plan."

He said that even after the five-year plan was completed the level of economic development in the Soviet union will be far below that of this country. Imports have been slightly in excess of exports since the Soviet union began foreign trade activities, he said.

The convention also was addressed by D. C. McCuen of Greenville, S. C., association president, who urged withdrawal from the cotton business of the federal farm board, and U. S. Senator Kenneth D. McKellar of Tennessee who criticized the agricultural marketing act which he said should be repealed or amended.

Press Problems Are Considered

SAN ANTONIO, April 24. (AP) — Editors of more than 170 South Texas newspapers met here today in the opening session of the two-day convention of the South Texas Press association. Governor Ross Sterling will deliver the principal address at the annual banquet tonight.

Problems facing the newspaper profession came under discussion at the morning session. J. Littleton Tally of the Goliad Advance Guard, president, in his annual address, pointed out the path newspapers should follow in times of distress and scored demands of citizens for aid from the government in times of distress.

Officers here for the meeting are Tally, president; Henry Reese, III, of the Gonzales Inquirer, vice president; Chas. E. Davis, San Antonio, treasurer and Fred M. Herndon, San Antonio, secretary.

Reese, who is one of the youngest editors in Texas, is slated to be elevated to the presidency at the election tomorrow.

A short business session will conclude the meet in the morning.

Fokker Is Besieged by Reporters

Autobiography Just Published Which Criticisms Technique Of Richard Byrd In Trans-Atlantic Flight; Delay Cited

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 24.—The Riverside Drive apartment of Anthony H. G. Fokker, "The Flying Dutchman," as he calls himself in his autobiography just published, swarmed today with reporters, all seeking from his own lips some further words from the airplane maker amplifying his comment on Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

Fokker's book, written in collaboration with Bruce Gould, criticized Byrd's technique in the transatlantic flight, and praised the skill of Bernt Balchen both as pilot and navigator on some of Byrd's most famous flights. Byrd so far has declined to comment.

The book said Byrd might have flown to Paris ahead of the "unscientific Lindbergh," if he had not delayed what Fokker regarded as an unnecessarily long time.

"Bernt Balchen took over both navigation and piloting when they reached France," Fokker wrote, "and brought the ship over Paris in a dense fog. He saw one or two flashes of a beacon, but lost them immediately and realized it was impossible to find LeBourget or attempt a landing. Byrd seemed confused and entirely lost; Bert Acosta was a physical wreck; Noville, by damaging his radio, had destroyed his sole usefulness.

"Through the black night, whipped by storms, Balchen steered resolutely back to the coast. He communicated with Byrd by notes."

Balchen's comment on Fokker's description of the flight today was:

"I don't know where Tony got all his information. When I asked him, he just grinned at me. But I'll say this. There are no mistakes in it."

McWhorter was taken from a Santa Fe train by Post officers who were acting upon a warrant issued here. A deputy sheriff probably will be sent to Post today to return the man to Lubbock, according to Sheriff Wade Hardy.

Crosby Schools Show Decreases

CROSBYTON, April 24.—Scholastic enrollment for Crosby county is 3,014 for the year just closed, B. F. Hicks, county superintendent of schools has announced. This shows a loss of over 370 from the 1930 totals.

Ralls lost 127 this year, the figures being 771 for 1931 compared to 898 last year. Crosbyton had 572 this year a loss of 91 from the 663 totals of last year. Lorenzo this year shows 390.

There are 1,281 in the rural schools and 1,783 in the three independent districts.

"I know that there has been an increase in the number of children of school age since the scholastics were taken," Mr. Hicks said. "Many people with children of school age have moved into Crosbyton, Ralls and other districts, but they cannot be counted because they were not here on March 1."

After saving pennies until they had 500, a couple appeared at Greenville, S. C., for a marriage license and paid for it with them.

International Sunday School Lesson

General Topic: HOW TO PLAY

Scripture Lesson: Luke 18:1-14

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

1. And he spake a parable unto them to the end that they ought always to pray, and not to faint;
2. Saying, There was in a city a judge, who feared not God, and regarded not men:
3. And there was a widow in that city; and she came oft unto him, saying, Avenge me of mine adversary.
4. And he would not for a while: but afterward he said within himself, Though I fear not God, nor regard man;
5. Yet because this widow troubleth me, I will avenge her, lest she wear me out by her continual coming.
6. And the Lord said, Hear what the unrighteous judge saith.
7. And shall not God avenge his elect, that cry to him day and night and yet he is longsuffering over them?
8. I say unto you, that he will avenge them speedily. Nevertheless, when the Son of man cometh, shall find faith on the earth?
9. And he spake also this parable unto certain who trusted in themselves that they were righteous and set all others at nought:
10. Two men went up into the temple to pray; the one a Pharisee, and the other a publican.
11. The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself, God, I thank thee, that I am not as the rest of men, extortioners, unjust, adulters, or even as this publican.
12. I fast twice in the week; I give tithes of all that I get.
13. But the publican, standing off afar, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote his breast, saying, God, be thou merciful to mea sinner.
14. I say unto you, This man went down to his house justified rather than the other: for every one that exalteth himself shall be humbled; but he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

Golden Text:—Lord, teach us to pray.—Luke 11:1.

Time:—March A. D. 30, a month before Christ's crucifixion.

Place:—Perasa. The healing of Bartimaeus at Jerico.

Introduction

Jesus had said much about the kingdom of God in the preceding chapter, Luke 17:20-37. Now the Pharisees come asking him when it should come and he gives an unsatisfying answer. The disciples also are puzzled, and Jesus turns to them with certain statements about things that must take place before "the day of the Son of man." The when and the where and the how and the what of that glorious future suggested by "the kingdom of God" they could not fully know. Jesus knew their perplexity, and he knew also that they would be tempted to give up looking for it, and give up prayers likewise. Hence this parable, the unrighteous Judge calling to persistent prayer.

"The parable of the Pharisee and Publican was designed to teach humanity, not only in prayer, but in every estimate of oneself and in every approach to God. It further contrasts the religion of form with the religion of the heart."

Earnest Prayer, Vs. 1 8

"No man ever accomplished so many tasks in so brief a span of time as did Jesus. And yet no man ever spent more time in prayer than did he. Perhaps it would be better to say it in this way: No man ever accomplished more than did Jesus because no man ever devoted so much time to prayer. Luther was wont to say that 'prayer and provender hinder no man on his journey.' The more a worker for God prays, the sharper will be his tools."—Rev. M. E. Dodd, D. D.

Formal Prayer

"Religious forms and practices are always in danger in time of becoming lifeless, and so losing much or all of their original meaning and value. It is true of prayer; and especially of formulated, printed prayers, or those precious ones that have come down to us from the past. Such prayers have their real worth and may well be used, sometimes; but in repeating them we must seek to make them the very living petitions they were in the mouths and hearts of their authors. What we have just said applies to the Lord's Prayer, that so many of us abuse, not by too frequent, but too thoughtless use."

The Widow's Prayer, V. 3.

"Annd there was a widow in that city." The Bible is full of tender thought for widows, and accounts of deeds performed to aid them. One-half of James' definition of pure religion is "to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction" (Jas. 1:27). "And she came oft unto him, saying, Avenge me of mine adversary." Moffatt's translation gives better the thought of the original: "Justice against my opponent!"

"And he would not for a while." Doubtless he was waiting to see whether he might not be offered a bribe. Though the unjust judge is no parallel to God, yet in the divine plan are many postponed answers to prayer. There is always a reason for these postponements, a good reason, since God is our Judge. The blessing for which we beg may be in reality no blessing at all for us, but a curse. Or, if it be for our good at some time in the future, it may not be for our good at the present time. His negative or his delay is as kindly an answer to our prayer as his immediate and full assent to our petitions.

The Heavenly Judge. v 7.

"And shall not God avenge his elect." His chosen ones, with whom he has made a covenant of friendship and love. Christ teaches by contrast—the infinite difference between the slothful, selfish, cruel, indifferent, and avaricious earthly judge, and the heavenly Judge who is all-loving and all- wise. "That cry to him day and night." For even God's dear children have trials and endure sufferings, praying constantly to be relieved from them, as Christ prayed in Gethsemane, "Let this cup pass from me."

"I say unto you, that he will avenge them speedily." Men may think that their relief is long in coming, but God will send it as swiftly as his love and wisdom see to be best; and we remember that "one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day" (2 Pet. 3:8).

"Trusted In Themselves." v. 9.

"And he spake also this parable unto certain who trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and set all others at nought." This is a perfect picture of the Pharisees, that proud and overbearing sect who called all other Jews "people of the earth," that is, no better than beasts. They "trusted in themselves" rather than in God, and therefore they regarded others as nothing. They were self-righteous; "being ignorant of God's righteousness, and seeking to establish their own, they did not subject themselves to the righteousness of God" (Rom. 10:3).

"Prayed With Himself." v. 11.

"The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself." It was not a prayer at all, but only a soliloquuy. He was not communing with God, but with his haughty and conceited self. "God, I thank thee that I am not as the rest of men." It is legitimate to thank God for delivering us from besetting sins, but it never entered the Pharisee's head that he might sin or had sinned; he merely congratulated himself that he was better than others.

"I fast twice in the week." The Pharisee's description of his fasts and tithe-giving is doubtless quite correct. The Pentateuchal law prescribed one fast only in the year—the Day of Atonement in September (still alluded to as 'The Fast' in Acts 27:9). " I give tithes of all that I get." The law required a tithe (a tenth) of the crops (the grain, oil, and wine) and of the herd or flock to be given for the support of the Levites, who had no land and were entirely devoted to the care of the temple and the conduct of public worship. The Levites paid to the priests a tithe of what was given them. As the animals passed out to pasture every tenth animal was set aside for the tithe. This provision for religion was extended till the Jews were paying a second tithe, and a third tithe, and many more things were tithed than what the Mosaic law prescribed, even to garden seeds (mint, anise, and cummin, Matt. 23: 23), and some went so far as to tithe not only the seeds but the straw. In addition, of course, the Jews paid taxes to the Roman Empire.

" Be Merciful To A Sinner." v. 13.

"But the publican, standing afar off." Possibly standing at a respectful distance from the Pharisee, but more likely in reverence he stood far off from the Holy Place, near which the Pharisee stood in order to show how close to God he lived. "Would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven." The ordinary Jewish attitude in prayer was standing, with eyes raised to heaven, and with arms stretched out, the palms turned upward as if to receive the blessings which God would send down from the skies. The tax-collector felt no such confidence of blessings. "But smote his breast." In all lands a common gesture of grief and contrition. "Saying, God be thou merciful to me a sinner." Literally, "The sinner." As the Pharisee set himself above others, so the publican set himself below others. "He thinks of himself only and of himself as the sinner, well known as such, the one fact worth mentioning about him, as one might speak about the drunkard of the village." —Prof. A. B. Bruce.

The Reward Of Humility.

"Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he will exalt you." Water always fills first the lowest places. The lower, the emptier, all man lies before God, the speedier and the fuller will be the inflow of the divine glory. If we are but willing to stoop to Christ, as he has stooped to us, he will yet stoop to each one of us again, and we shall find ourselves not unequally yoked with him."—Andrew Murray.

Two Went To Pray

"Two went to pray: or rather say
One went to brag, the other to pray;
Where the' other dares not send his eye.
One stands up close, and treads on high,
One nearer to the altar trod.
The other to the altar's God."—Richard Crashaw.

Soft water keeps clothes white

HARD water always leaves clothes gray, no matter how much you wash and rinse. Hard water has something in it with which the soap combines. Scum forms at once. This scum gets into clothes. You never can rinse it all out.

Soften hard water with Mel'o and you have a very fine, cleaner, with or without soap. Scum doesn't form in this water. Clothes washed in it are as white as snow. Mel'o gives soap more effect on clothes. Get a can of Mel'o today at your grocer's.

Divorce Suit To Be Halted

Attorneys Declare That Action Against Fort Worth Oil Operator Will Be Withdrawn By Woman

LOS ANGELES, April 24. —(AP)— Fred W. Byrd, attorney for Mrs. Alta H. Dunning, said her divorce suit filed against William H. Dunning Fort Worth, Texas, and Los Angeles oil operator, has been withdrawn and "there probably will be a reconciliation."

Asked whether there had been any property settlement Byrd said "there has been a million dollar property settlement."

Byrd filed the suit in the superior court here on Monday. In the action, Mrs. Dunning asked division of property valued at $2,000,000 and accused her husband of associating with another woman, Jean Elliot Bogart, whose address was given as New York.

The couple married in 1917 and Mrs. Dunning said they moved here from Fort Worth two years ago. In the suit Mrs. Dunning alleged that since their residence had been established here, Dunning had spent not more than 30 days in the home.

THE BETTER WAY TO PREVENT CONSTIPATION

YOU MUST look out for the health of your family. Often a faulty diet leads to constipation. Headaches, dizziness, loss of energy follow. Husband and children become irritable. Serious disease may develop.

You can prevent this by including roughage in the diet. A pleasant way to supply this roughage is with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, a delicious, ready-to-eat cereal.

Two tablespoonfuls daily, for each person, will prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases, use with each meal. Do this instead of giving them habit-forming pills and drugs.

ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron to enrich the blood and lend color to cheeks and lips. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Jim Thorpe Takes Coach Job In Oklahoma School

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 24. — Jim Thorpe's road back from digging ditches led today into the yard of a little Oklahoma rural high school.

Robust farm boys, and girls too, will learn the ABC of sport from the Prague, Okla., sac and fox Indian sometimes called the greatest of them all on the football gridiron.

A contract, for an indefinite period, with Thorpe as director of athletics at the Putnam Heights consolidated high school near here was announced today by Moore C. Hess, chairman of the district board of education. It takes Jim out of the laborer's shoes he had to put on because, he said, he "liked to be a good fellow with the boys."

His salary was not announced.

Perhaps the most glamorous part of Thorpe's career was his football at Carlisle Institute but his laurels lost with his amateur status once included honors bestowed by the king of Sweden when he almost single handed won first place for America in the 1912 Olympic games.

He will come here from Los Angeles, where he is employed on an excavation job, in ten days with his family. He will clerk for a sand and gravel company until next school term.

To Old Position

Here is Jess Harper, prominent cattleman at Wichita, Kas., since he turned over his job of coaching Notre Dame football teams to the late Knute Rockne, in 1918, who has been named director of athletics at the South Bend university. It was Harper who introduced the style of play which Rockne, his pupil, later adopted, bringing nation-wide fame to Notre Dame.

CHICAGO, April 24. —(AP)—Ambitious recruits, paced by Joe Vosmik, sensational Cleveland outfielder, have done the serious hitting during the opening days of the American League campaign, according to unofficial figures, which include Wednesday's games.

Vosmik went to bat 30 times in seven games and connected safely 17 times for a mark of .567, along with dominating the field in total bases, hits and doubles. John Winsett, Boston outfielder, had an even .600, but had been at bat only five times. Al Van Camp, another Boston Rookie outfielder, followed Vosmik with .545. Charlie Berry, Boston catcher, headed the regulars and followed Van Camp with .480.

Following the three leaders were: Levey, St. Louis, .450; Melillo, St. Louis, .444; Reynolds, Chicago, .417; Spencer, Washington, .414; Ferrell, St. Louis, .412; Ruth, New York, .400; Alexander, Detroit, .390.

George Herman Ruth, before he was injured Wednesday, had set a blistering pace for an old timer, led in runs batted in with 10, and was runnerup to John Stone of Detroit, in the home run race. Stone had four circuit drives and the Babe one less. Buddy Myer of Washington had stolen three bases to lead in that department, while another Senator, Harry Rice, led in triples with three. Vosmik's six doubles, 30 total bases and 17 safe hits, made him a triple leader in addition to the league's leading batsman for the time.

Herb Pennock, veteran Yankee southpaw, and a pair of comparative youngsters, Walter Stewart of St. Louis, and Hal McKain of Chicago, led the pitchers with two victories and no defeats, while all others had won one game and had not suffered defeat.

Lefty Grove, the Athletics' southpaw fireballer, had 21 strikeouts in three games to lead the field by a substantial margin.

The St. Louis Browns had a team batting average of .333, with Cleveland right behind at .331. The Browns and Indians were the only clubs to make or top the .300 mark, and the world champion Athletics were a sad last with .215. The A's topped the league in team fielding with .983, with the Yankees second at .981. Detroit had ten double plays for a best mark.

Independent Loop Teams End Week's Campus Basketball

Ending the week's intramural basketball program at Texas Tech the Independent League teams played their second games in the double round robin schedule yesterday afternoon with the Army and Y. M. C. A. emerging victorious over the Band and Bookstore teams.

The 54-game intramural cage program will be resumed next week with the first rounds in the interleague play for the campus championship. The Freshman team of the Liberal Arts League continues to head the standings column with a perfect record. The team is coached by Ernest Dowell, whose playing in the lineup has been an important factor in the team's progress.

In the first game yesterday, the Army team defeated the Band, 23 to 16. Kiefer with four field goals and a free throw and Hill with two field goals and three gift shots, were responsible for the losers' scoring. Moffett and Collins for the Army sunk four field goals each, with Owens and Ayres counting for the other points.

The Y. M. C. A. team defeated the Bookstore aggregation, 21 to 17, in a closely contested game. C. Cummings with four field and one free shots and J. R. Cummings with two field goals helped the cause of the winners. Wilson, forward, sank five free shots and one field goal for the day's work.

Drake Relays Off To Slow Start As Bad Weather Prevents Mark Setting

Rice Owl Team Is Disqualified In Relay

BY DON McGUIRE
Associated Press Sports Writer

DES MOINES, Ia., April 24.—Old man weather was the victor in the Drake Relays today, holding a great field of competitors to only two new meet records and slowing down the rest o fthe athletes to below par performances.

Hugh Rhea, the burly shot putter from Nebraska and four husky medley relay runners from Iowa State, who seemed more accustomed to the vagaries of Iowa weather than the other competitors, were the only ones to better previous marks.

The cyclone medley team of Nagel, Henderson, Labertew and Putnam led a wholesale revolt against the supremacy of Marquette in that event, winning in record time of 10:21:6.

Rhea was nearly five feet better than his nearest rival, Sam Behr of Wisconsin in the shot put trials, his heave of 49 feet 7 inches bettering the old record made by Jim Bausch of Kansas last year by 4 1-2 inches.

Except for the high jump, virtually all the expected qualifiers in both relays and individual events came through without difficulty.

Misfortune dogged the footsteps of two outstanding contenders in the mile relay. Rice institute's quartet was disqualified because Chambers, third runners, interfered with Gafke, Wisconsin runner, on a turn. The Badgers appeared to be certain qualifiers until the accident.

Chick Hafey Is Back With Cards

ST. LOUIS, April 24. (AP)—The 1931 pennant hopes of the St. Louis Cardinals National League champions, received a big boost today when Chick Hafey, most subborn of the season's holdouts, accepted the club's salary offer. He will report next week.

Breadon's final terms called for a 1931 salary of $12,500.

He will miss at least three weeks' pay, or more than $1,500.

Barney Berlinger Sets New Record At Penn Carnival

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, April 24. (AP)—Big Barney Berlinger, the Pennsylvania strong boy, brought the first day of the Pennsylvania Relay carnival to a climax late today with a record-smashing victory in the intercollegiate decathlon championship.

A one-man track and field team all by himself, Berlinger turned in the most brilliant all-around performance of his career to out-distance a small field of six rivals and capture the decathlon for the third straight year.

Barney finished the ten events with a total of 7735.6135 points. His former carnival mark, set a year ago, was 7460.308. The listed American record of Doherty at which he was aiming is 7784.68 and the world's record is 8053.29, held by the Finnish ace, Paavo Yrjola.

Ohio State's sprinters gained the bulk of relay honors by romping off with the quarter-mile and spring medley races over strong fields of eastern and mid-western rivals.

One-Time Big League Pitcher

NEW YORK, April 24. — When John McGraw said the pennant races this year were going to depend a lot on the pitching he wasn't wrong. The way some of these rookies have been slapping that old nugget makes it look as if the big leagues will have to send for all the pitchers in the minors to find somebody who can throw a good old-fashioned strike.

Nevertheless, Dick went to bed fully determined to have a look at the ruined mine out Nordrach way.

Cotton Upward Tendency Cotton Sustained — Livestock Steady Rates On Hog Trade — Grain Demand Light Feed Grains

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP)—Cotton was generally higher today on covering and buying promoted by the steadier ruling of Liverpool and complaints of continued cold rains in the south. After selling up to 10.44 for July contracts during the early afternoon, the market met a flurry of liquidation in the final hour, with July selling off to 10.38. The comparatively light offerings were readily absorbed, however, and nearly all the loss was recovered with July closing at 10.42 or within 2 points of the best. The general market closed steady at net gains of 9 to 12 points.

Reports reaching here from Texas indicated a setback to the crop owing to low temperatures and rain, and the day's weather news showed further rains with temperatures slightly higher but still unseasonably low in some sections.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 24. (AP) — An early upward tendency was checked in the cotton market today by lower stocks but prices were well sustained at the high points reached near the opening despite the course of stocks. The support was based on trade buying and shorts covering due primarily to the very favorable cables and later to Texas advices that young cotton had been killed in many places by the recent freeze and that there were indications of rather a heavy spring emergency of weevils. After advancing 12 to 13 points prices lost 4 to 5 points due to favorable weekly statistics, mill takings being larger than the corresponding week last year. The market turned easy later in the afternoon owing to a New York failure and made new lows 8 points down from the highs but recovering some of the loss in the final trading. The close was steady at net gains for the day of 6 to 8 points.

Strong Support Helps Stock Market Weather Shock Of Firm's Suspension

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP) — Strong support helped the stock market weather the stock of a member firm's suspension today. The result was an irregular close, with the composite for 90 issues unchanged.

The brokerage house failure was not a complete surprise but, as usual, the official announcement caused an immediate outburst of selling which upset prices considerably. It was apparent, however, that preparations had been well laid against such an event and leading shares quickly reflected a bulwark of buying orders. Sales totaled 2,600,000 shares, 1,000,000 shares changing hands in the last 50 minutes.

Prior to the suspension the market had been irregular, an upturn in the morning fared well but by early afternoon the rally lagged and quotations began to droop, as though some unfavorable news might be pending. The heaviness was aggravated to some extent by weakness in Southern Pacific, which broke to the lowest since 1922, in Westinghouse and in Texas Corp. Oils were soft al day.

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, April 24. (AP) — Hog trade around the eleven market circuit ruled unevenly steady to 15 lower with several points reporting a fairly active demand at generally steady rates. Total offerings were around 36,000, a decrease of 28,000 from a week ago.

Fat lambs held around steady with Thursday's dull close but were materially lower than the best time. Mature killing classes of sheep were steady to 25 lower. The supply numbered around 70,700 as compared with 81,435 last Friday.

Aggregate receipts of cattle estimated at 12,000 were 3,500 more than a week ago. Demand continued fairly broad for fed light yearlings while the general steer trade was rather slow. Prices on most killing classes of cattle were little changed. Eastern dressed beef markets had a healthy tone.

Shouse Charge

permen and denied having said in San Francisco that the Republicans bought and distributed 10,000,000 copies of a magazine containing an anti-Raskob article by Robert Cruise McManus.

Fess started the controversy by referring to a San Francisco newspaper article quoting Shouse to this effect. He added it was a "deliberate lie." Shouse retorted he had been misquoted and had in fact referred to the Kent article.

Vice Is Cited

In his statement today Fess characterized the rejoiner as "half confession and half denial." He said it was immaterial what article Shouse referred to, and added:

"Here is the vice of Mr. Shouse's action—an attempt to imply that the Republican national committee circulated a pamphlet containing an attack on Mr. Raskob because of his religion."

"The Republican national committee," he continued, "did circulate portions of an article by Mr. Kent when that Democratic newspaperman exposed in Scribner's magazine last fall the Raskob-Shouse-Michelson campaign to 'smear' the president of the United States.

"However, the article of Mr. Kent's a part of which the Republican national committee reprinted in pamphlet form, did not refer to Mr. Raskob's religion in any way, and was in fact solely a discussion of how Mr. Raskob—as a millionaire business man backing a political machine—set up an organization in Washington managed by Mr. Shouse and Mr. Michelson to 'paint a picture of Hoover as an inept, bewildered, weak and unworthy man.'

"This is the reason why the Republican national committee distributed the Kent article and the reason why Republican speakers everywhere brought Mr. Raskob's name into the campaign as the chairman and virtual owner of the Democratic party who contributed practically a million dollars to the 'Smear Hoover Bureau' conducted by Michelson and Shouse."

told officers that he and the young woman had drunk a quantity of bootleg whisky on the night before Miss Foreman was found dead.

"The case is closed as far as the 72nd judicial district court is concerned," District Attorney Bradley said yesterday. "With Edmonson's death the matter was removed from our jurisdiction."

Foreman is at liberty under $5,000 bond on a murder charge in connection with the shooting of Edmonson. His case will be considered by the Dickens county grand jury when it convenes in August.

Dickens county is located in the 110th judicial district, with A. J. Folley as district attorney.

Russian Plan

of a planned economy is the progress toward it everywhere," Dr. Patterson says. "In Washington President Hoover attempted to secure a certain amount of concerted action. In England there is an economic advisory committee to assist the government and parliament, in Germany, Italy, Czechoslovakia and elsewhere similar attempts are being made to secure guidance. Russia is, of course, an outstanding illustration of what can be developed.

Is Crying Need

"No one can state with any detail what such a plan would undertake. It is quite clear, however, that several lines of development are in crying need of attention. The most obvious today is that of connecting workers to jobs. The haphazard approach we now have is tragic.

"It will be inadequate and, in fact, impossible if attention is not given also to the direction of our production. At the present time the equipment of some of our leading industries is far in excess of any probable demand for its use. Such a condition should not have arisen, and if it persists, irregularity of employment is certain. This in turn suggests that investment needs guidance. Not only is there a great loss through investment in useless or harmful enterprises, but too much going in some directions and too little in others.

"Any plan that we adopt should be suited to American conditions. The personnel of a planning body should include representatives of the government, or private enterprise and professional economists.

"Our planning must extend beyond national boundaries and at once. Delay is not possible. Any plans we form and efforts we make will be futile unless conditions and activities in other parts of the world are considered, and efforts made for cooperation."

Legislature

tur decried efforts of Austin's citizens to force their representatives to "drop their convictions of legislative matters." Woodruff said they deserved credit for standing by their principles.

"Travis county is asking them to stultify themselves, to 'pipe down' on this for the object of satisfying selfish motives. It is a sad commentary on the citizenship of Austin," Woodruff said.

Bills Jeopardized

The resolution adopted last night stated friendship of other members of the legislature for Austin and Travis county was being alienated and bills helping this county were being jeopardized.

Representative Goodman of Franklin said McGregor was one of the fairest and most conscientious representatives to ever sit in the house. He said Travis county citizens would put their representatives in the attitude of sitting around and begging for little appropriations for their buildings.

Representative Graves of Georgetown, in speaking of Representative McGregor, said: "They shall not still his clarion voice." Graves said he resented efforts of Travis county citizens to shackle their representatives.

Dr. Shelton of Dripping Springs characterized the action of the signers of the citizens' resolution as an insult to the entire membership of the house.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 24 (AP) — Extensive stop loss selling of grain futures, corn in particular, forced corn and oats down to new low price records today. Wheat and rye were also depressed. Slackening of shipping demand for corn was an immediate bearish influence, the market effect of which was intensified by developments outside the grain trade tending at least temporarily to make buying power in cereals thin.

Corn closed nervous, 1-4 to 1 1-8 cents lower, wheat 1 cent down to 1-8 up, oats 1-8 to 7-8 off, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to 10 cents advance.

Breaks in corn prices tumbled that cereal down to the lowest level since 1922. Oats quickly followed corn and fell to a point unequaled as far back as 1905.

Marines After Sandino But News Of The States By Radio Mighty Welcome

CHICAGO, April 24. (AP)—The marines of Nicaragua may have an assignment to catch Augustino Sandino, but this hasn't lessened their interest in the news from back home, especially the daily baseball scores.

Direct communication with a radio station two miles south of Managua, Nicaragua, recently wrecked by an earthquake, was maintained last night by Fred H. Schneli, amateur radio operator from his home. He gave the Associated Press the privilege of a direct interview with one of three operators in the marine corps who have been handling official communications since the earthquake wrecked all other lines of communication.

This operator, Adam G. Hileman, of Anna, Ill., is stationed in the aviation unit of the marines south of Managua and talked with only the light of a candle to guide him.

Relating to the bandit leader Sandino, Hileman says:

"No one knows for sure of his whereabouts. He works with two or three lieutenants, each of whom is in charge of a large group, and each group spreads as a unit making guerrila attacks and salvage forays. The only way they will get Sandino is to accidentally bump into him.

"He has just as many spies, if not more than we have.

"Just now everything is fairly quiet at Puerta Cabezas. Ships are standing by to take off more Americans if necessary.

"The Nacionale Guardia is in command of marine corps officers and we are keeping track of each unit of the guard. The two aircraft squadrons and the second brigade of marines are here now. The marines and guardsmen have parties in all large cities of Nicaragua, and about 235 men are left in the hills, but they will return here by May 1.

"We have an average of two earthquakes a night, but these are minor shocks.

Operator Hileman was interrupted several times, and once returned to report an airplane accident at Ocotal at 8:30 p. m.

The marine operator was given a summary of the days news, the baseball scores, and other information he requested.

Disabled Vets

paired to the American Legion home where a "chow line" was formed.

Preceding Mr. O'Neil's address, Commander Hess welcomed the visitors on behalf of the local post and introduced Mayor J. J. Clements who declared the city "is yours, boys." Following Mayor Clements talk, Judge Clark M. Mullican was introduced who in turn presented Adjutant Whiteker.

Post Is Praised

Mr. Whiteker made a few short remarks and introduced Mr. Brennan who praised the work of the local post in building their home and increasing their membership in the past year. Mr. Brennan pointed out that the Legion was "the outstanding patriotic organization" in America and recalled the past national convention in Boston which was visited by "the president, the past president of the United States and all of the president's cabinet with the exception of the arch profiteer of the World war—Andrew Mellon."

Following his short talk, Mr. O'Neil was introduced.

Praises Spirit

In his opening remarks, Mr. O'Neil praised the spirit of veterans of Western Texas and particularly that of the Lubbock post in building such a "fine home which will ever be a monument to that Legion spirit in this community."

The increasing purchasing power of the new loan value for veterans on their adjusted service certificates under the recent act of congress will help stimulate business and increase employment, Mr. O'Neil said. "It has been nothing less than a God-send to those veterans in the farming communities where crops were ruined by drouth."

Loan payments, now estimated at nearly half a billion dollars, have "gone to pay doctors' bills, rent long over due, to buy clothing and food for children and sick wives, and particularly to purchase seed for spring crops," he declared.

Says Charges False

"Many of those who opposed the legislation are now saying that it is responsible for the impending national deficit. Such statements are not only unfair and misleading but are false, and are made for the purpose of confusing the public and are no more or less than a smoke screen to hide the facts and an effort to make veterans shoulder the blame for the present unfortunate financial condition."

Pointing out that there had been no appropriation by congress for veterans' loans under the act, that none was needed and that the legislation would not place any financial burden upon the country, Commander O'Neal declared that "the government makes a profit on each loan." The loans, he said "have no relation whatever with an impending deficit."

"The loans are made from the veterans reserve funds, which is an asset that belongs to the veterans and is held for them in trust by the treasury department" he added. "In my opinion, this fund will be more than sufficient to take care of all loans."

Says Legion Grateful

Congress has always shown a deep sympathy for veterans in distress and has greeted legion requests for legislation with consideration and humanity, Commander O'Neal said. "The members of the American Legion are grateful" he added.

"The veterans have been accused of making unreasonable demands upon the government," he stated. "The American Legion resents such accusations. We have never in the past, nor will we in the future, ask for legislation that is unfair or unreasonable or that will place an unjust burden on our government."

Compensation will be asked for the wives and dependent children of World war veterans who are disabled and in hospitals suffering from what are known as "non-service" cases, O'Neil said.

"We are going to ask this legislation, through a bill drafted by our legislative department and it will be introduced by the chairman of the house veterans committee, Royal Johnson," he said. "It will apply to non-service cases."

Suffering Cited

The commander pointed out that under present regulations men who are veterans of the World war and who become sick and need hospitalization, may go to a government hospital for treatment. "That leaves their wives and children often without support," he said. "Many former service men hesitate to do this and they and their families suffer."

In discussing the amount of money that will be loaned from the veteran's reserve fund, he said applications to date were in excess of $638,000,000 and that nearly half a billion dollars had already been paid out.

He also declared that under the old law the amount of money that could be borrowed on the insurance policy was increased from 22 to 27 per cent this year and that "most of those who borrowed 50 per cent would have borrowed all they could any way."

"Less than one per cent of the men who have received money on their insurance, by loans, have spent that money foolishly," Commander O'Neil declared. "Some of the eastern newspapers have found out a few of these cases and have played them up."

In the party from Plainview bringing Mr. O'Neil here were: E. C. Kuykendall, post commander, Grady Shipp, M. F. Yancey, F. J. Hulbert, E. M. Osborne, R. E. Horne, H. S. Hilburn, Sam Weaver, J. A. Jordan, R. F. Golden and Albert Howell and Hub Moore. Lockney post commander and Sam Miller, adjutant.

Visiting legionnaires were present from Tahoka, Muleshoe, Wilson, Lamesa, Littlefield, Ropesville, Levelland, Brownfield, Slaton, Amherst, Snyder, Pride, Joplin, Mo., Hope, Ark., and Amarillo.

During the noon meal, music was furnished by the Ropesville Merrymakers of Ropesville. They were: Elmer, Ray and Byron Stephenson, and Bob, Sam and Lorene Rainwater.

The meal was prepared by members of the post and consisted of beans, "slumgullion," coffee. Soda pop was donated through W. A. Renfro, manager of the Dr. Pepper bottling company.

Additional Land Expected To Be Broken In Cochran County

Between 5,000 and 7,000 more acres of land in Cochran county will be broken out this spring and added to the county's 115,000 acres now under cultivation, George E. Lance, Morton, real estate man, said while here Friday.

"We have had a number of buyers of property from Oklahoma and East Texas who have come in and bought land," Mr. Lance said. "Most of the sales have been of land already broken out, but I do not think the new owners will move here until in the fall.

"Besides these sales we have sold some raw land and a number of farmers are planning to break out more land. I believe we will have nearly 150,000 acres of land under cultivation by fall."

girl had died. He started to work on the man."

Drove to City Hall

Sheffield continued his story, stating that he drove next to the city hall to get Chief of Police John Lemond and took him to the scene of the wreck to show him how it happened.

"We next went to the courthouse to see Sheriff Wade Hardy," the hotel manager stated. "Reaching there we called District Attorney Bradley and asked him to come down and investigate the affair. We got into my car and went after him and brought him to the sanitarium where he questioned the physicians. The affair is very regrettable but was entirely unavoidable."

Radiator Bent

The impact of the bodies striking the automobile bent the radiator and front fenders, officers said. Tracks in the street showed that the automobile brakes were set 120 feet from where the machine came to a stop. District Attorney Bradley was told by policemen.

Doak and Zirkle told officers that they saw the man and girl just as the automobile struck them.

"Both of them were hurled through the air a distance which seemed to be about 70 feet," Doak said. "The girl was laying lifeless just off of the street. The man was on the side. They seemed to be crossing the street when the accident occurred.

Doak said that the machine which was in front of Sheffield was a passenger car with a trailer attached. It was moving at a slow rate of speed, he said.

Ward and Miss Kelly had been to the business district with some friends and were returning to Miss Kelly's residence, the Sunset Tourist camp, according to Mrs. Besson, 110 Avenue G. Mrs. Besson told officers that Ward and Miss Kelly had accompanied her downtown to meet her husband who had worked late. They were returning home when the accident occurred.

Miss Kelly was the daughter of Mrs. E. Burkett, Sunset Tourist Park on North Avenue H. Beside her mother she is survived by her stepfather, two sisters and two brothers. The body is being held at the Bynum-Morgan Funeral Home pending the completion of funeral arrangements.

Tech Students Hurt In Crash

Four Texas Technological college students were slightly injured late yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding failed to make a curve one and one-half miles south of Lubbock on the Slaton highway.

Those injured were Miss Tammie Jackson, Miss Evelyn Randolph, M. Craver and J. T. Page. Miss Jackson, Craver and Page received emergency treatment at the Lubbock sanitarium, according to hospital attaches.

Miss Jackson, the most severely injured, received cuts on her face, chest and legs. Craver suffered a cut on his nose.

Witnesses to the accident said that the machine in which the four people were riding failed to make the turn in the highway. No other machine was nearby, they said.

Legge Speaks To Lumbermen

Declares That They Can Help The Farmer By Helping Themselves And Gives Examples For Proofs

CHICAGO, April 24. (AP)—Alexander Legge, former farm board chairman and now head of the International Harvester company, suggested to members of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association that they help the farmer by helping themselves.

"As I understand it," he said, "your yards are filled with lumber that is not moving and you are paying insurance and taxes on it. Why not sell this lumber to the American farmers as we in our business sell them tractors and farm machinery?"

"Perhaps the most urgent need of the farmer is lumber to provide grain storage. In the wheat growing sections the situation is acute. The storage facilities of the nation are going to be taxed to the utmost to care for the coming crop and there is no place where a portion of this wheat could be stored as economically as back on the farm. It costs about a cent and a half to store a bushel of grain for a month in an elevator. The farmer could do this for a third of a cent or less on the farm and the difference could pay for the construction of his own granary."
