Giant Pep Rally Planned for Skyrockets Friday Afternoon

Wellington High School students and townspeople will stage the biggest pep rally of the year Friday, November 14, at 2:00 p.m. as the Skyrockets prepare to meet the Clarendon Broncos in the game to determine the district 2-A championship.

It will be held in the High School Gymnasium.

Besides the enthusiasm it generates, several special events are planned.

The Senior Class of 1976 has made a banner for its spirit project and this will be presented to the school during the rally.

Thirteen feet in length, it is made of red silk, with Wellington Skyrockets lettered in white. It is bordered in white fringe.

Colemans Host U.S. Officer from Chad

Col. and Mrs. Dudley Coleman of Dozier had as their guest recently Howard C. Jordan, who is a Foreign Service officer assigned to the U.S. Embassy at N.D. Jamena, Chad, Africa.

Mr. Jordan retired from the U.S. Navy with 20 years service in China, North Vietnam and South Vietnam. He then was assigned to the Department of State and served as Foreign Service officer three years in Mocha, Yemen; eight and one-half years in South Vietnam; and a year in Katmandu, Nepal. His wife, Nguyen Thi Leiu, and son, George, remained in Washington D.C. visiting his relatives.

Col. Coleman and Mr. Jordan worked together while serving in South Vietnam with the Office of Civilian Operation and Revolutionary Development Support.

On his arrival, he visited with Dub Hyso of H&H Sporting Goods in Amarillo to obtain ammunition for game hunting in Africa.

Mr. Jordan participated in a cattle round-up conducted by J.H. Oldham, then he

Moore Found Incompetent to Stand Trial

David Moore, under indictment on two counts of murder, has been found incompetent to stand trial at this time, District Attorney Charles Darter has reported.

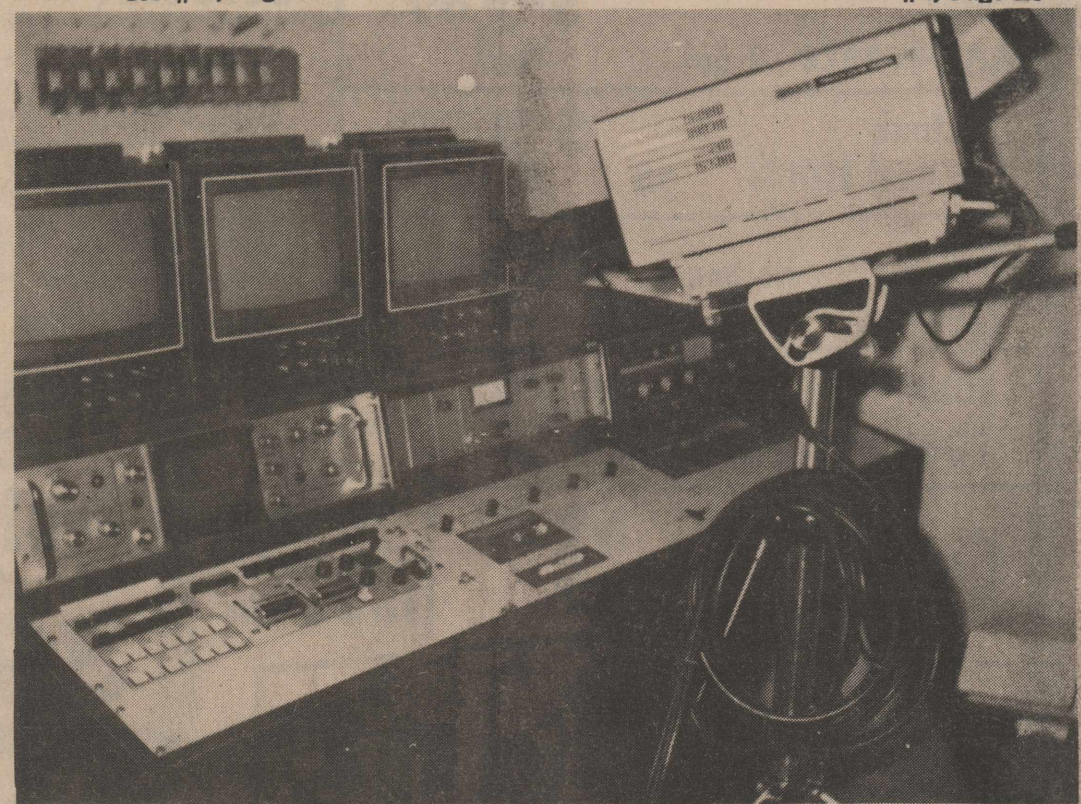

The jury finding came after a sanity hearing before District Judge Robert Montgomery.

Moore was sent to the State Hospital for the Criminally Insane at Rusk, where he will receive treatment. He will undergo a reevaluation after 12 months, Mr. Darter said.

Tom Priolo, Amarillo, attorney for the defendant, introduced testimony in the form of a deposition from Dr. B.E. McCoy, Amarillo psychiatrist, that Moore is not competent at this time to stand trial, the district attorney said.

Moore was indicted by the 100th District Court grand jury on April 7 for the shooting deaths of C.B. Roland and James Davis, which occurred in separate incidents on Saturday, April 5. All three men were long-time Wellington resi-

District 2-A Championship Will Be Decided Here Friday

The district 2-A championship is on the line when the Wellington Skyrockets and Clarendon Broncos meet on Powell Field Friday night, November 14. Both are undefeated in district play and this is the game they have been working toward since early in the season.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. The largest crowd to see a football game in the last decade is expected unless the weather is impossible. Several District 2-A teams, out of title contention, are presently discussing the possibility of finishing their own games early so they can come to Wellington.

Clarendon has clear memories of state playoffs just a few years ago. Wellington is seeking its first district title in a decade.

"Everyone knows this is the big game. We've worked all year long, and it's all wrapped up in this one ball game," said Coach James Williams after the booster club meeting Tuesday night. "Our kids realize this and I'm sure Clarendon's kids do too. The only vantage point I can see, we are playing them at home. This is going to be a hard-hitting game, and the team with the least amount of mistakes is going to win it."

The Bronco linemen can be compared to Childress and are as formidable. Clarendon backs are not as big as those on the Bobcat team, but they are quick. Quarterback Gary Jack is described by those who have watched him as "real quick." Broncho guards weigh about 160 pounds, the tackles about 190.

A comparison of the games with other 2-A teams is one indication of relative strength. In their season opener, Clarendon lost to Childress 40-6, but immediately after that the Broncos began to come on strong and they have not stopped improving. Wellington had its only tie against Childress 13-13.

The Rockets defeated Shamrock 34-6. The Bronco victory was 14-7. Wellington won over Memphis 23 to 6; the Clarendon victory was a tight squeeze 14-13. Clarendon defeated Claude a strong 48-0. This team was almost the Rockets' undoing and their victory was by only five points, 14-9.

Clarendon's weakness was in the early part of the season; Wellington has been consistent from the beginning except for the Claude game.

"As far as going into the game injury-wise, we are fortunate to have come through with no more injuries, said coach Williams. Dan Ford is expected back in the game Friday after illness and Richard Sims' knee injury seems recovered.

"I think our overall quickness in the defensive line will be a major factor," Coach Williams continued. Our defensive line is exceptionally quick for a bunch of young kids. Also, I think we have a better throwing game. Offensively, we can throw to either side. We don't key in on any one individual. They're all pretty well equal.

"If we can shut off their running attack and take away the things they like to do best, this will do a lot toward the outcome of the game from our standpoint."

The Broncos run from the Houston veer formation, and on defensive they mount a 5-man front with two linebackers and four secondary people. The Houston veer is similar to the wishbone, but a fullback is not used. Halfbacks are used for the same purpose. This gives the quarterback more option in handing to a halfback or keeping the ball. "They have been running that all year and we are gearing our defense to stop their veer offense," Williams said.

Enthusiasm in both towns is growing—all working up toward Friday night. Clarendon has lots of tradition behind it. The Broncos have been to the playoffs in recent years and they and their backers are ready for another

PREPARE FOR BINDER

Copies of The Wellington Leader filed in the Collingsworth County Library for a period of more than 30 years, are being prepared for binding, to preserve them and make them more accessible for research. School Bus Driver Course Scheduled Wellington has been selected as the training site for school bus drivers in Collingsworth and Childress counties, Supt. E.W. Clement announced.

Under a new educational bill, every person who drives a school route must have a certificate stating he has attended or will attend a 20-hour training course, Supt. Clement explained.

John Birkey was selected as instructor for this course and he is presently enrolled in a class for instructors in Amarillo.

The drivers course here will be set up in January, with drivers from approximately 20 bus routes participating. These will be from the Wellington, Childress, Samnorwood and Quail Schools.

The course will cover all phases of bus driving, with emphasis on safety and on defensive driving, Mr. Clement said.

Youth Receives Neck Injury

James Thomas, 16-year-old member of the Skyrocket Junior Varsity, received a neck injury when he was tackled during practice Monday, November 10, according to Coach Robert Hicks.

The youth was taken to Collingsworth General Hospital, where he was X-rayed and held overnight for observation.

He should be ready to play in Thursday night's game with Clarendon, Coach Hicks said.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas.

Dedication Program for First Building Complete

Plans are complete for the dedication of the Official Texas Historical Marker in front of the O'Neil Building, first brick structure erected in Wellington.

The ceremony will be held Saturday, November 22, at 3:00 p.m. at the building, 909 9th Street, on the south side of the square.

Grandchildren and great-grandchildren of the late Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil will be among those taking part in the ceremony.

The history of the marker will be given by Clint Small,

Jr., an Austin attorney, and Louise Neal Smith of San Antonio will give the dedication. Both are grandchildren of the pioneer couple.

Unveiling the marker will be Allison Cook and Charles Clinton Cook, great-great-grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil.

The building, now owned by Cecil Browning and occupied by his shoe shop, was erected in 1893 of brick left over from construction of the Collingsworth County Court House.

A reception, to which the public is invited, will follow immediately after the dedication and will be in the Heritage Room. The public is invited.

Judge R.L. Templeton will be master of ceremonies and the Rev. Roy Collins will give the invocation.

Judge Denzil Bevers, judge of the 62nd District, Lubbock, will introduce the guests. His parents, Mrs. John Bevers and the late Mr. Bevers, operated a cafe in this building many years ago.

EPCO Begins Third Year of Special Help to Students

The Eastern Panhandle Coop. is beginning its third year of operation to provide special help to students with learning difficulties. There has been very little change in the organizational makeup of the program since its beginning. In the area of educational evaluation, the diagnosticians have added the Structure of Intellect method of testing and writing assessments with remediations for each student who qualifies for the program.

This innovative program in education was pioneered by Dr. Mary N. Meeker. The Structure of Intellect concept of learning involves three methods: OPERATIONS (the way in which a student receives material to be learned), CONTENTS (the student's interpretation of the material to be learned), and PRODUCTS (the use the student makes of the material received). Thus, 120 distinct types of learning methods are derived from the use of the Structure of intellect classifications. A unique identification can be obtained for each learning cell by simply specifying its characteristics in terms of the three above named methods. This model is especially useful in determining the area of the brain that is not functioning up to its capability. This information is utilized in developing a prescription which the resource teacher will use to overcome the particular weakness.

It is hoped that the success rate of students enrolled in the program will show a higher rate of growth than in the past two years. In the 1974-75 school term 674 students received services in all areas of Plan A education. It was also the first year in which Speech Therapy was offered to some of the students. Speech Therapy was not offered in all of the eighteen schools throughout the coop. because a qualified person was not available to serve as the instructor; however, 132 students received Speech Therapy and the program was very successful. Several speech students will be completely remediated this year and 73 students enrolled in other resource rooms were returned to the regular education program last year because they no longer required special help except that provided by the regular classroom intervention. After the first six weeks of the school year, these students are making progress and passing their work without extra help or extreme difficulty.

Runaway Girls Picked Up Here During Week End

Two juvenile girls, both run-aways, were taken into custody during the week end by the 100th Judicial District Probation office, according to Bob Watson, director.

A 16-year-old Childress girl was picked up Saturday night, December 8, at a house in north Wellington and placed in the Childress detention facility by Mrs. Charlene Poteet, girls probation officer.

The girl, who had been missing from home four days, was located by her father, but refused to return with him. Officers were then notified, Mr. Watson said. After a hearing, she was released to the custody of her parents.

A 14-year-old girl who had run away from Genesis House in Pampa was located in Wellington Sunday after an anonymous telephone call to the probation department. Mrs. Poteet confirmed that the girl had left Genesis House and she was picked up and held in the Childress Juvenile facility until transportation to Pampa could be provided. She had come to Wellington with her 16-year-old sister and brother-in-law, Mrs. Poteet said.

Eighth Grade Defeats McLean Team 48 to 14

With a series of long Firecracker runs that would have made the Dallas Cowboys proud, Wellington won 48-14 over McLean 8th grade at Powell Field Thursday, November 6.

It appeared the 8th graders couldn't handle the ball without scoring. On the first play, Robert Powell intercepted a pass and ran 60 yards to set up the first score. He took the ball on the next play and ran it over for 6 points.

Then it was McLean's time. They received the kickoff and ran 50 yards.

Wellington repeated the performance, only this time it was Mike Thomas who ran 70 yards. Robert Powell carried the ball over for the extra points.

Here the Wellington defense dug in and soon the Firecrackers had the ball on downs and Baldo Nevarez ran 40 yards to score.

McLean wasn't through. On the second down of their next possession, an agile player eluded the Firecrackers for 50 yards to score.

That ended the first quarter.

As the second half started, Marty Warrick ran the kickoff 60 yards to the McLean 15 and on the next play Nevarez finished the 15 yards for the touchdown. Kevin Needham took a pass from Marty Warrick for the extra points.

The next score came on a 30-yard run by Nevarez, and late in the second, Warrick threw a pass to Needham for 30 yards and a touchdown.

The score at halftime was 42-14.

Jessie Garcia ran 35 yards for a touchdown at the start of the third.

At that point, Coach Bruce Dollar put in the second and third strings--boys who haven't had much opportunity to play, and they held McLean for the last half.

"On defense, everybody played real well," the coach commented. "Offensively, it was the best game we have had so far. Everybody blocked well."

Neal Van Pelt caught two passes and Powell intercepted three.

MR. AND MRS. W.D. (DOC) LEWIS

Mr. and Mrs. Doc Lewis Honored on 50th Anniversary

A long-time Wellington couple, Mr. and Mrs. W.D. (Doc) Lewis, were honored on their fiftieth wedding anniversary Sunday, November 9. The reception was hosted by their four children in the Heritage Room.

Five generations were present for the event, and heading these was Mrs. Lewis' mother, Mrs. Hattie Hornsby.

Guests were received by the honored couple and their children, Odean Lewis of Wellington, Mrs. Billie Uzzell of Lono, Ark., Mrs. Colleen Hodge and Mrs. Peggy Needham of Corpus Christi.

Alternating at the register during the afternoon were granddaughters, Betty Alice Lewis, Susan Lewis and Janie Lewis of Wellington, Barbara Needham, Pam Needham and Paula Needham of Corpus Christi.

The reception table was laid with a gold cloth and centered with a large arrangement of golden chrysanthemums, baby's breath and daisies. Appointments were of crystal and silver. Serving punch, coffee and the elaborate three-tiered anniversary cake were other granddaughters, Mrs. Doug Backert of Corpus Christi, Mrs. Kerry Ashton of Sapulpa, Okla., Mrs. Charles Young of Amarillo, Mrs. Wayne Hodge of Corpus Christi, Mrs. Gene Spinella of North Little Rock, Ark., and Mrs. Emmitt Long of San Antonio.

Because of the number of out of town guests, there was much reminiscing and visiting. Mrs. Lewis' sister and brother, Mrs. Anita Anglin and Lester Hornsby of Fate, were present.

Altogether, 13 of their 17 grandchildren and 8 of their 11 grandchildren attended.

A few days before their anniversary, Mr. Lewis remarked that he came to Collingsworth County in a covered wagon. The year was 1914, and he said it didn't take long until he knew most of the people around. The family had settled in the Swearingen community.

The former Tessie O. Hornsby, Mrs. Lewis was born at Quinlan and lived there until the family came to the Buck Creek Community in 1923. She attended school there and in Wellington. Her father was the late Issac Hornsby.

William Dolen (Doc) Lewis, son of Albert Lee and Sarah Childress Lewis, was born at Bells. He attended schools in Denton County and at Swearingen.

He worked as a carpenter many years until he retired. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were married November 8, 1925, in the home of Elder L. Stonecipher, near Rolla. They have been members of Fundamental Baptist Church since 1946.

The couple have four children, Doyle Odean Lewis of Wellington, Mrs. Billie Uzzell of Lono, Ark., Mrs. Colleen Hodge and Mrs. Peggy Needham of Corpus Christi.

Bromeliads are members of a great family of plants, the best-known being the edible pineapple. Some bromeliads grow on trees, others cling to rocks in their native state in Mexico, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Panama and the West Indies. All bromeliads have scales on their leaves, and absorb most of their water through the scales. They need no pot or soil---they hang on the wall. The only care they need is occasional misting.

Identification Marks on Farm, Ranch Property Urged by Sheriff

Farms and ranches are easy marks for a determined thief who likes the idea that there's usually no one around for miles to catch him in the act.

Operation Identification is under way by the Collingsworth County Sheriff's Department to cut down on thefts.

"Riding gear such as saddles, bridles, and spurs are prime targets for thieves because they're easy to carry off," said department representative Chief Deputy Richard Keller.

Operation Identification helps farmers and ranchers discourage thefts by teaching them to mark their riding gear much as they would brand cattle.

"You use an engraver," said Deputy Keller, "to mark the gear with your driver's license number. This makes the property hard for the thief to resell, and easy for the owner to get back, since the numbers are filed in a computer system."

Signs are also placed around the farm so potential thieves know the gear is branded.

Saddles, bits and spurs are easily marked with the owner's license number and state prefix (for example, TXS311211). The electric engraver is simple to operate, and is available from the Sheriff's Department.

Deputy Keller suggested that saddles be engraved underneath and on the fiberglass saddle tree and D-rings.

The prefix and number can be tooled on a custom-made saddle. Bits should be marked on the inside lower shank, and spurs engraved in the inside U.

"We'll be happy to give anybody all the information they need to protect all their equipment," said Mr. Keller. "It's a lot easier to mark a saddle than to buy another if it's stolen."

Losses from Collingsworth County farms during the last year have been constant and extensive, Deputy Keller pointed out. For example, burglars entered the home of an elderly man who was hospitalized, taking a large amount of household goods.

Another county resident lost cameras and guns. A considerable amount of welding equipment has been taken in the last year, some of it marked, most of it unmarked.

ELEMENTARY QUEEN

Patricia McKinney, candidate from the fifth and sixth grades of Samnorwood School, was chosen elementary Princess at the recent carnival and coronation. Her escort was Steven Knoll.

"Unity" to Sing At First Baptist

"Unity", a choir of students in grades 7 through 12, will sing at First Baptist Church for the evening service Sunday, November 16.

Thereafter they will sing on the third Sunday evening of each month, according to Miss Mary Bearden, one of the sponsors. Selections this week will include their theme song, "Make Your People One," with Teresa Hodges as soloist, "Oh, Jesus Loves Me," and "Lord Make Me an Instrument".

Each month, following the services, the boys and girls will go to the home of one of the members for refreshments.

The 28-voice choir has as instrumentalists Lowry

Area Labor Survey Extended for Week

The survey to determine the county's potential labor force available to work in industry will continue for the next week or 10 days.

Results so far were described by Mrs. Margaret Vines, Chamber of Commerce secretary, as "real, real good".

Altogether, 172 answers have been received. This includes 24 from persons living away from here who said they will move back to Wellington if they can find work.

An additional 32 of those answering the survey are presently living in Collingsworth County but driving to other towns to jobs, Mrs. Vines said.

Most of those replying, including both men and women, say they are available for work now, although a few are interested in changing jobs if a better opportunity presents itself.

Out of town replies came from as far as central Louisiana. A number were from the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex and others from Amarillo, the Abilene area, Plainview, and several eastern and central Panhandle towns.

The survey was set up after the Chamber of Commerce received an inquiry from an industry considering Wellington for a new location, but needing information on the availability of a labor force. Those in contact with the industry heads indicate that they also are pleased with the survey turnout.

Auxiliary Sponsors Donkey Ball Game

The Wellington Fire Department Auxiliary is sponsoring a Donkey Basketball game Monday, November 17, at 7:30 p.m. It will be held in the high school gymnasium.

A double header is planned. In the first game, Future Homemakers of America will meet the women of the Firemen's Auxiliary.

Coaches of Wellington High School and Future Farmers of America will team to play against Wellington Volunteer Firemen.

The object of the evening is fun--for these are billed as the most stubborn, trickiest donkeys in the funniest game ever played.

A new laugh sensation will be the Hobby Donkey Derby, and also between quarters there will be a special act by a trained donkey.

McLean Jubilee Will Be Nov. 15

McLean Lions Club is sponsoring a Derby Town Jubilee Saturday, November 15, at 7:00 p.m. in the McLean High School Auditorium. Entertainers will come from throughout the Golden Spread.

Proceeds will be used to help the youth of the area, with the main project the conservation of sight, said George Terry, master of ceremonies, and Conald Cunningham, show manager.

"We like to think of our Jubilees as a night of good clean family fun. Anyone who is a country and western music fan will certainly enjoy visiting with us," said the sponsors.

Hot Checks the Costliest and Fastest Growing Crime in U.S.

The costliest crime in the country, and the fastest growing, is hot checks, and much of it is due to carelessness by businessmen and their employees.

This and other pertinent information concerning the twin crimes of hot checks and shoplifting were given 60 Wellington merchants and their employees in a seminar sponsored by the Sheriff's Department and Small Business Administration Tuesday, November 4.

The seminar paid off for a young business man Wednesday morning, when an out of town man tried to pass a check of which he was suspicious. A call to the Sheriff's department proved he was correct. The man was arrested.

R.K. Jennings of the SBA staff was the speaker, with Deputy Sheriff Richard Keller and Probation Officer Bob Watson in charge of local arrangements.

After a shoplifter is caught, Mr. Jennings urged that the merchant call the sheriff's office, report the incident, and co-operate in the prosecution. This follow-up is important, he emphasized.

Be aware of your customers, he urged. Low counters were suggested. The location of every customer in the store can be noted at a glance.

Small and valuable items, including cameras, jewelry, records and tapes should be behind glass. Items on a counter encourage shoplifting, Mr. Jennings said.

Actual shoplifting incidents filmed by hidden cameras were illustrated in a film, then Mr. Watson demonstrated several methods of shoplifting.

By film and discussion, Mr. Jennings warned of precautions which can be taken to cut down on hot check losses.

Determine if the check is drawn on an existing bank; be sure the signature is legible, and if it isn't, ask the writer to print his name below it.

Forgery is the easiest crime to commit, the Wellington merchants were told. A forger can commit it over and over and it will never cost him a cent-until he is caught.

There was difference of opinion as to the acceptability of drivers licenses for identification, but it was pointed out they are considered a legitimate means in this area, since Texas licenses bear a picture of the holder.

However, merchants were warned to always check the picture on the license with the person presenting the check, as well as other pertinent information as height, weight and color of eyes.

"I enjoy collecting hot checks," County Attorney R.L. Templeton told the group as he held up a file-folder full of uncollected hot checks.

He urged promptness in reporting hot checks and pointed out the decrease in hot checks since local banks began accepting only personalized checks. He reminded that the statute of limitation on collecting checks is two years.

During the question and answer period, Judge Templeton admitted the county has trouble with hot checks from minors.

Deputy Keller urged greater care with the approach of the Christmas season, when more people will be buying.

Mr. Watson repeated the warning to be sure that the drivers license description matches the person presenting it. "If you are suspicious, step outside and write down the number of his car license. Call the sheriff's office. With their telecommunications equipment, they can check any license in only a few minutes.

Mr. Keller also explained Operation Identification, whereby an engraver can be borrowed from the sheriff's office to mark personal property.

We Must Inventory Ourselves Before We Expect Industry

New businesses, the new apartment complex, new commercial buildings and others being re-modeled are an indication of Wellington's well-being.

What we need now is some industry, we say to each other.

But before we get that, we must have a complete, honest and realistic inventory of what we have to offer industry. E.H. Sheffield, manager of Community Services for the Texas Industrial Commission, gave a concise explanation of what industrial prospects will ask for when he spoke at the recent Industrial Planning Seminar held here for leaders of Wellington, Shamrock and Childress.

What are our living conditions, we will be asked. What is our location in relation to other industries? How about our climate? That is one of the biggest assets of the lower Panhandle, the business leaders were told.

What kind of city government have we? And there is that important question, what are the attitudes of our people? Our cultural resources, organizations and recreational facilities, especially the latter, will be looked at.

We must review our transportation facilities. This is a sore spot. Our labor supply will be scrutinized closely. The Chamber of Commerce is surveying this now.

What are our other resources? Where could an industry go for machinery and equipment repair?

What kind of educational system have we? "If you don't provide good education, you can just about mark off industry," said Mr. Sheffield. Can we offer vocational training in the area? Our answer is "yes". Clarendon College, TSTI and Amarillo College of Vocational Arts can give the start-up training most industries will need. Other questions will be asked.

These are nothing more than an inventory that Wellington leaders can take for themselves. We must overlook nothing.

There will be follow-up work, including preparing presentations that will give a complete overview of our resources in the most attractive and concise form. Once this is done, the details can be filled in to fit the needs of a particular industry making the inquiry.

New Safety Program

A restructured national water safety program has been designed by American Red Cross. The program recognizes the fact that most drownings are caused by failure of bystanders to react rather than a shortage of specific life saving skills.

Retraining of water safety instructors already has begun nationwide. As instructors are trained in the new techniques, water safety instruction will follow the new format.

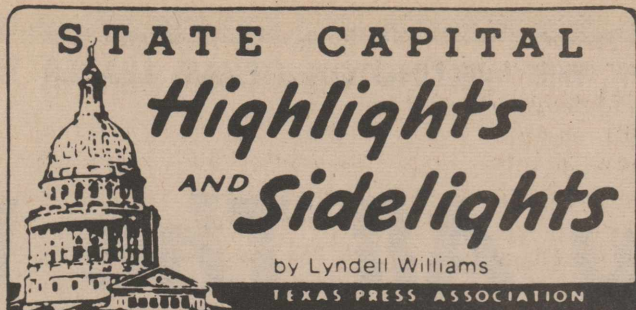

At the basic level is Basic Water Safety, designed to provide elementary water safety information for families and persons engaged in aquatic recreation. Objective is to provide knowledge and skills, without regard to swimming ability, designed to safely handle aquatic emergencies. Emphasis is placed on responses to emergencies that may be safely executed by non-swimmers or novice swimmers.

There are no prerequisites to the course in Basic Water Safety.

Basic Rescue and Water Safety provides knowledge and skills to enable a person to save his own life in an emergency and to correctly respond to aquatic emergencies. The course qualifies students to assist in search and rescue procedures. To be eligible a person must be at least 11.

Advanced Lifesaving replaces Senior Lifesaving. Objective is to provide knowledge and skills to save one's own life or the life of another in an emergency. To enroll a person must be at least 15 and be able to perform a pre-swim test including a 500-yard swim. All the courses include proper handling of injured swimmers, first aid, new equipment for rescues, swimming rescues and increased emphasis on prevention of accidents, injuries and drownings.

Wichita Falls Record News

AUSTIN — Most observers agree constitutional revision is a dead issue in Texas after last week's crushing defeat of all eight proposed changes in the state's basic law.

The eight propositions went down by a statewide margin of nearly three-to-one, leaving proponents little ground for optimism of reviving any of them.

They failed by resounding counts in the cities, the middle-sized towns and in the rural areas. Only Duval and Webb counties approved all eight proposals, and El Paso County endorsed seven. Kenedy County accepted the first three and rejected five others.

Lawmakers seemed to agree that, in view of the lopsided turndown, there is no point in trying to call a citizens constitutional convention.

Some said the only chance for revision now is a long, drawn-out process in which a single article or parts of articles are submitted to voters one-at-a-time after careful efforts to iron out differences.

Only the League of Women Voters of Texas remained committed to seeking establishment of a citizens convention to draft a new document.

Some legislators who pushed hard for revision admitted they will be keeping a low profile for awhile—hoping the voters don't hold their activities against them.

Jails Studied

Only half a dozen county jails met all Health Department standards during the last six years, the new Texas Commission on Jail Standards was told last week.

The Commission met here to discuss how it can go about getting public support for upgrading jails.

A Health Department officer said only counties whose jails had a perfect score were Childress, Gillespie, Howard, Lynn, Milam, and Oldham. Eight others had a single violation out of a list of 30 items checked.

The Commission has enforcement power, can order sub-standard jails closed and transfer prisoners to other facilities.

No Tax Bill

The chairman of the Texas House of Representatives tax panel questioned whether a new tax bill will be required in the legislature of 1977.

The state has escaped new taxes for two legislative sessions, but most projections have indicated a record revenue measure will be required at the next session.

"My personal belief is that a tax increase is not going to be required at the next session of the legislature," Rep. Joe Wyatt of Bloomington told a seminar on the state tax structure. Wyatt is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Bertram S. Brown, M.D., Director
National Institute of Mental Health

Energy Crisis

The energy crisis is likely to cause major changes in the American way of life and add stresses that will affect the mental health of millions.

Our total environment and all the conditions under which we live—including economic, social, and personal factors—have definite bearing upon the state of our mental as well as physical health.

Research has shown that mental health in the United States, as statistically measured by mental hospital admissions, improves or deteriorates according to the state of the economy.

In New York, for example, number of admissions to mental institutions rises in a predictable fashion with the unemployment rate.

Dr. M. Harvey Brenner of the Johns Hopkins University School of Hygiene and Mental Health has studied the Nation's economic health and mental hospital admissions from 1922 to 1972.

"When the economy is up, admissions to mental hospitals are down," he said. "When the economy is down, admissions to mental hospitals soar."

Will the American people experience the energy crisis as something like wartime emergency privations, or as the hardships of an economic recession—whether or not there actually is one?

The U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare issued a statement predicting effects of the energy shortage on health. It included this comment:

"Experts are of the opinion that behavior of the American public during the present energy crisis will follow the model of economic recession rather than wartime emergency privations."

Unemployment, worry, and the various extra stresses caused by the energy crisis may trigger underlying mental illnesses and reinforce tendencies to emotional instability and disorders.

We can best cope with this problem through public education in the causes and prevention of mental illness and the promotion of positive mental health.

If we face the realities of our situation squarely and gird ourselves for a somewhat more Spartan way of life, perhaps we can use current adversities to strengthen our mental health.

People Helping People

A fall, a broken shoulder—and an elderly woman lay on the floor all night, unable to get to the telephone. Fortunately, her son stopped by in the morning and found her.

That was before the "lifelines" were set up by Project Interact in Bingham County, Idaho, so people who live alone could check on each other by telephone. Each of the 3 lifelines consists of 8 people who call at regular intervals in a chain sequence, with the last person calling the one who starts the chain.

The lifelines quickly proved their usefulness. The first week, a woman was found sick in bed and unable to prepare food. A doctor was sent; medicines and food were provided.

Project Interact was designed by county volunteers with consultation and support by the Federal Government's mental health agency—the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Its aim was to reduce loneliness, alienation, and boredom and to promote better mental health through various kinds of interaction among people who needed more human contact as well as practical services.

The idea, in brief, was to enable people to help themselves by helping each other.

And help themselves they did—with surprising gusto. One lady, 86, who had spent most of her time in a wheel chair, going weeks without a visitor or even opening her door, is now managing one of the lifelines as well as assuming responsibility for an older lady across the street. She seldom takes a nap nowadays, and keeps her door open all day as she busily watches her charge.

Another lady, withdrawn and friendless, was talked into visiting a woman she had decided 20 years back to dislike. Now the two are inseparable; they visit and call each other often.

Project Interact reports many cases similar to these, with people finding it a joyous experience to be needed again.

The project has a meeting place in downtown Blackfoot (population 10,000) called, appropriately enough, Your Place. Here the interacters socialize, have coffee, and put their handiwork gift items on sale to earn a bit of money.

Bingham County is primarily rural but the project reaches most of its population through activities in Blackfoot and several smaller towns.

Activities so far include preparation of "interest kits" for use in a hospital and a nursing home and "rap lines" which allow young people to telephone for counsel or just to talk out their problems, wants, gripes, and wishes.

Programs like Project Interact don't just happen. This one started with a steering committee, a survey of needs, and support by radio, newspapers, and volunteers speaking at service club meetings and churches.

Patient Load Drops

Patient population at Texas mental hospitals has dropped 18.1 per cent in the last year, to 6,944.

The admission rate, meanwhile, increased to 19,797 from 18,413. Community-based facilities close to patients' homes and improved treatment programs were credited with reducing the number of long-term residents.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court held businesses have a right to jury trial when the state sues them for deceptive trade practices.

In another case, the High Court called for a new trial of a Galveston area woman's suit arising from burn injuries when natural gas came out of her kitchen sink water faucet.

By a divided verdict, the Court affirmed a $303,126 ruling against the widow of the owner of a rental and supply firm which rented scaffolding from which workmen fell during construction of a Galveston school a decade ago.

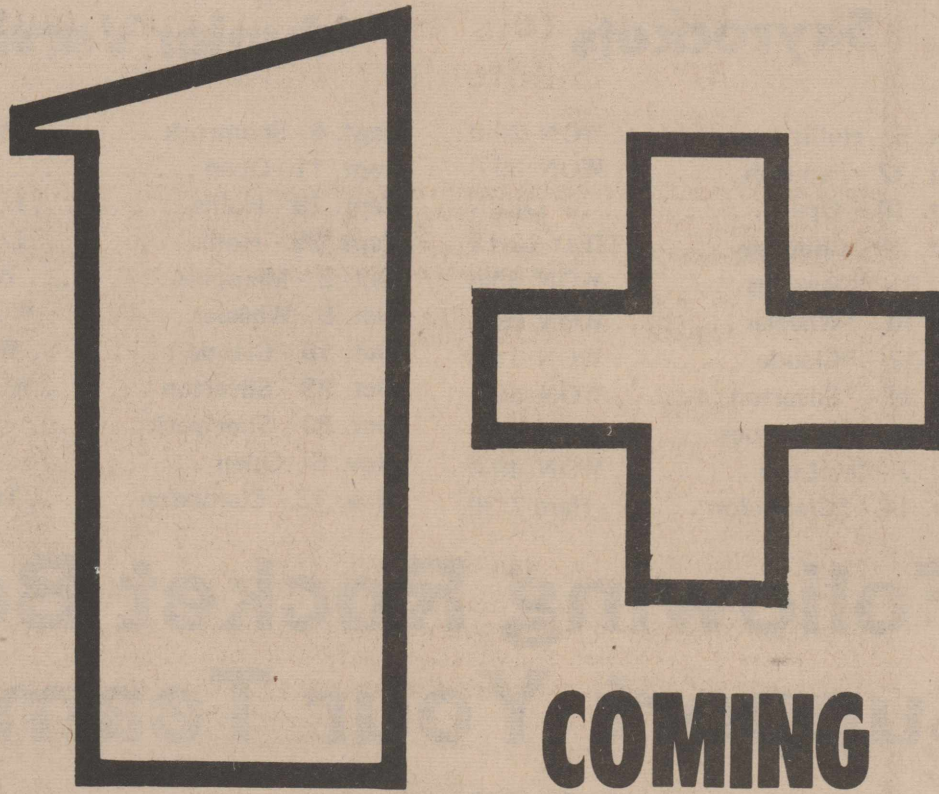

AG Opinions

Atty. Gen. John Hill said ownership interests of Austin and San Antonio in a proposed $1 billion nuclear power plant in Matagorda County are exempt from property taxes.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

• A claim for reimbursement to a state hospital for support and maintenance of a patient is not barred by the two-year statute of limitations.

Federal courts delayed mailing of notices to voters that they must obtain new voting certificates by January 31.

I Saw... by Virginia Robey

A delightful visitor during the week end was Dorothy Brown of Claude, a member of the school board in her town. She ran as a write-in candidate and won. Why did she want what is considered a thankless job? Because she saw some things she felt needed to be done, which a woman can do.

"I'm not women's lib," she said. "I like my life very much as it is."

Mrs. Brown is the mother of Judy White, Mark's wife.

Carl Wischkaemper, president of the Quail School Board, was one who made a presentation to Dollie Mae Wilson when people of that community honored her recently. He recalled she was his teacher at Lillie. There came the day of a class play--no one in the audience but the other students. But he was scared. He got up to say his piece--and fainted dead away. Dollie Mae caught him before he hit the floor.

I learned recently that Richard and Ann LeVine and sons of Azle have had as a house guest Mrs. Tomoko Tada of Osaka, Japan. Ann--the former Ann Savage--and Mrs. Tada have been pen pals since 1958, when Ann was living in Wellington. This is Mrs. Tada's third visit in the LeVine home in 7 years. Ann's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Savage.

Small-fry, small boy conversation this week centers on "Jaws", usually in an effort to persuade mammas to let them see it at the Ritz. "But Mamma, he only eats two people," one youngster pointed out. Another, who did see it, was sad almost to tears--when the shark was killed. He was rooting for it.

Team Play Brings Skyrockets 49 to 0 Victory Over McLean

By H.K. Ballard

The Wellington Skyrockets continued their winning ways Friday night, November 7, beating McLean 49-0 on a beautiful football night. The Rockets played and won as a team, with outstanding play both offensively and defensively.

The night started slow, though, for the Rockets. It wasn't till late in the first quarter that Arnie Ingram scored from the 5 yard line. The Rockets reached the McLean 5 after McLean punted short and the Rockets had taken possession at the Tiger 45 yard line, and moved downfield with excellent passing from George Brewer to Edward Thomas and the good runs by Randall Sims, Richard Sims, Arnie Ingram. A penalty was called on Wellington on a two-point conversion attempt and after another try for the 2 points was no good, the score stood Rockets 6, McLean 0 with 5:32 left in the first quarter.

At the beginning of the second quarter the Tigers could not move the ball and punted. The ball hit a Rocket player on the foot and the Tigers recovered at the Rocket 20 yard line. They eventually faced second down and nine to go. A hard hit by a Rocket defender jarred the ball loose, Tony Martinez jumped on it and the Rockets started downfield from their own 21. Runs by Sammy Gonzales, Richard and Randall Sims, and Arnie Ingram and the duo of Brewer to Thomas moved the Rockets downfield.

The Rockets faced fourth down and 2 to go when Brewer handed off to Richard Sims, who rushed 12 yards for a T.D. A fake extra-point kick by Jessie Davis and Brewer resulted in 2 more points for the Rockets. With 4:45 left in the second quarter the Rockets began to make their move--14-0.

The tough defense of the Rockets, led by Randall Maxwell, Don Allred, Jackie Black and Cliff Pennon forced a Tiger punt. The Rockets took over on their own 12 because of a clipping penalty. On first down Jessie Davis dashed 38 yards with excellent blocking and just plain good running on his part. The Rockets had a first on the 50.

Then the lightning struck. George Brewer threw his best pass of the year to Shane Tarver who had all of his defenders beaten by at least 5 steps and covered 50 yards for another T.D. The Rockets had struck pay dirt in just 2 plays covering 88 yards. Brewer passed to Paul Hanna for extra points but it was broken up, and the score stood 20-0 at half time.

The third quarter started with good work by the Rockets tough defense. Pennon, Martinez, Davis and Tarver made it a hot night for the McLean quarterback. McLean faced third and 9 to go when quarter-back Richey Lowery threw a pass to his big end, Davis deflected the ball and Tarver was there to snatch it out of the air for a Rocket interception. Four plays later the Rockets scored again starting from their own 32. Brewer found Joe Baumgardner all alone in the end zone. Davis kicked the field goal and the Rockets blew ahead 27-0.

A bad punt caused the Rockets to have good field position on the Tiger 35. In four plays the Rockets scored again. Brewer passed to Thomas who out-manuevered the Tigers and scored from 33 yards out. Again Brewer threw to Thomas for the extra points and with 5:52 in the third quarter the Rockets enlarged their lead 35-0.

With 43 seconds left in the third quarter the Tigers fumbled and Rocket Danny Morris recovered the ball. Fourth quarter action started with the Rockets facing second down and 20 yards to go. Davis took the ball on a sweep, the line blocked well for him, and Davis ran 30 yards to score. Thomas' kick was good and the Rockets led the Tigers 42-0 with 11:52 remaining.

The Tigers punted again but the Rockets fumbled and McLean recovered at the 50. They moved the ball down to the Rocket 12, but the Rockets held. On fourth down the Tigers tried a field goal which was way off.

Then the Rockets took over at their 20 and in 3 big plays they scored (or should I say Shane Tarver scored).

Tarver carried 3 times. On the third carry he scampered for 65 yards to score with just one shoe on and picking up his blocks wonderfully. Thomas kicked another extra-point and the Rockets ended the night by beating the McLean Tigers 49-0.

The regular season for the YEAR OF THE ROCKETS ends Friday night, here, against Clarendon.
