PLANT IN FULL OPERATION

Water Discoloration Disappears: Wofford

By TEX DEWESE
City Manager Mack Wofford said today he believed Pampa was "over the hump" in its transition from well water to surface water from Lake Meredith.

The city's new $1.4 million water treatment plant began operation one week ago today. Malfunctions that developed on the first day all have been corrected.

Discoloration of the water, evident in the first couple days of operation, has disappeared, Wofford said.

Complaints from water consumers have dropped to practically nil, the city manager added.

Wofford said well water now has been completely replaced in the distribution system by water from the lake.

The treatment plant is pumping from the Lake Meredith line to Pampa at the rate of 3.5 million gallons of water daily.

The plant was operating on an around-the-clock basis yesterday and today with only intermittent stops. It is being run by four operators on 12-hour shifts of two men each.

The pumping rate varies, according to Tony Anderson, plant superintendent.

The city manager said the city had two calls yesterday and one so far today from people asking where they could obtain well water.

He said well water is available at the city's No. 1 pumping station just south of the Hobart St. underpass.

"Everything seems to be going remarkably smooth," Wofford said. "The complaints have stopped and we are getting into what we believe will be normal operation. Water consumers are now being served entirely with lake water."

Representatives of Forrest & Cotton, consulting engineers on the water plant project, were in Pampa yesterday on a tour of the installation, checking throughout for final completion orders to the contractor.

Contributions To PUF Now Stands At $27,853

With a month of the campaign already gone, the total amount of contributions to the Pampa United Fund stands at $27,853.40, a little more than 25 per cent of its $94,250 goal.

"It's absolutely essential that all volunteer workers contact their lists of contributors as soon as possible," said David Fatheree, 1972 drive chairman.

"All cards should be worked by Monday, Sept. 25, the date set for the House-to-House campaign," Fatheree continued.

The Advance Group and Education divisions combined have turned in $18,664.50 of the $27,853.40 total, with the remaining $9,188.90 being turned in by the Oil & Gas, the Commercial and Industrial, and the General divisions.

"If our United Fund agencies are to continue to provide the health and welfare services that are so important to this community," Fatheree said, "we must collect every dollar of our $94,250 goal."

"Again, we urge each worker to make an extra effort to collect his contributions this week."

The eight agencies supported by the Pampa United Fund are the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, the Pampa Milk Fund, the Pampa Welfare Index, the USO, the Texas Rehabilitation Center of the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation, Adobe Walls Council of the Boy Scouts of America, and Quivira Council of the Girl Scouts of America.

No GI Killed Last Week In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — For the first time in more than seven years, weekly casualty figures for the Vietnam war listed no Americans killed in action.

But the U.S. Command, in announcing today the figures for last week, said five Americans died from nonhostile causes, seven were wounded and four were missing or captured.

It was the lowest combined casualty count since the Command began keeping records on Jan. 1, 1965, and the first time there had been no American combat deaths since March 1, 1965.

Current U.S. troop strength in Vietnam is about 36,000, compared to 29,100 in March 1965. There are no U.S. infantry units engaged in combat in Vietnam, but there are still American advisers attached to South Vietnamese combat troops.

South Vietnamese casualties were put at 409 killed and 1,710 wounded, a result of Hanoi's continuing offensive in South Vietnam which has lasted more than 5½ months.

The Saigon command claimed 4,625 enemy troops were killed last week, a significant increase over the previous week's 3,449 enemy dead.

State Senate Panel Opens Hearing On Insurance Rates

AUSTIN (AP) — Larry Teaver, who was rejected by the Senate as chairman of the State Insurance Board, assured a Senate committee today Gov. Preston Smith did not call a special session on insurance because he resented their rejection of Teaver.

Teaver was the first witness to appear before the Economic Development Committee, which will consider Smith's proposal to set up a competitive rate system of regulation for homeowner and car insurance.

Every state except Texas has such a system, said Teaver, who wrote the bill before the committee.

"It has been said by many that the special session to study competitive rates was brought on because of the resentments harbored by both Gov. Smith and myself against the industry, the Senate and the present board. Nothing could be further from the truth."

Teaver said the governor "had personal knowledge that money could be saved as he was one of my customers for many years and enjoyed the savings afforded him on his insurance by receiving dividends and when possible by buying his insurance at 20 per cent under the manual rates."

Teaver was an insurance agent before joining the governor's staff and later being appointed to the insurance board, where he served for 10 months before the Senate rejected his appointment.

He said Smith realized when he called the special session on competitive rates and fund transfer power that "the air would be filled with accusations, charges and counter-

Red Move On War Rejected

PARIS (AP) — The United States today again rejected Viet Cong proposals to end the war in South Vietnam, saying they would lead instead to "prolonged warfare and Communist dictatorship by the North."

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter told the 160th session of the Paris peace talks that the more the U.S. analyzes Communist statements "the more illogical, impractical and self-contradictory they appear."

In an analysis of the Viet Cong's Sept. 11 declaration on its seven-point peace plan, Porter noted that the United States was asked to cease all military activity, pull out and dismantle bases.

"The statement is completely mute, however," he said, "about the measures your side would undertake."

As for the Viet Cong plan for a tripartite coalition regime, Porter said it would give the Viet Cong element "decisive preponderance of authority even though its 'representativity' has never been tested."

He told the Communist side: "A quarter-century of ruthless Communist fratricide has made Vietnamese political leaders and impartial foreign observers pardonably skeptical about professions of coexistence."

Porter declared: "Your silence about your commitments in the military and political spheres is paralleled by your silence about the North Vietnamese army. That army, the world knows, is the instrument of aggression not only in South Vietnam but in the other countries of Indochina as well."

He again called for an internationally supervised ceasefire throughout Indochina.

South Vietnam said earlier today that the war may be "prolonged indefinitely" if the Communists do not give up their present demands.

Beef Cattle Prices Drop, Says USDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattle prices have taken a back seat to the U.S.-Soviet wheat sale lately but producers are still limping along in a summer market slump that has reduced their gross $40 to $50 per head from early July.

While Congress was checking on grain trade and government involvement in the sale of 400 million bushels of wheat to the Soviets, the Agriculture Department says cattle prices are still $4 per hundredweight or so lower than two-and-a-half months ago.

For the week ended Sept. 16, the USDA reported Wednesday, choice grade steers at Omaha averaged $34.81 per hundredweight. That was up 23 cents from a week earlier but far less than the top of around $39 in early July.

However, the Sept. 16 average was improved from the week last year when Omaha steers sold for $32.79, the report showed.

charges. It would be only fitting and proper to do the right thing."

Teaver added that in the past, attempts to study competitive rates have always "bogged down into mountains of statistical, mathematical data out of which only confusion emerged," and he cited as an example an 18-page exhibit prepared by the present board and the industry on auto rate comparisons.

He said he sensed that most of the complaints "are generated by the people who moved to this state from a competitive rate state and are told that they no longer allowed to buy insurance on a competitive market."

But Teaver said it is "impossible" to prove without question that competition will lower insurance rates.

Social Security Tax Hike Approved By Senate Unit

IT'S A BUM STEER, cattlemen figure, the way critter prices have dropped, so they put this 1,000-pounder on display with appropriate tags in Washington. Bert Eason Jr., Iowa Beef Industry Council chairman, said consumers have benefited little, if any, from the price drop.

President Will Inspect Setup For Detecting Drug Smugglers

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — An underworld battle for narcotics control lies just across the Rio Grande from this border city, where President Nixon will inspect facilities geared to potting drug smugglers.

The President, who announced this week that he is taking new steps against heroin traffickers, will visit the U.S. Customs station at the International Bridge here Friday.

There he will find an operation that uses a computer to check automobile license plates and individual suspects; dogs that can sniff out narcotics; a new pollution-free marijuana incinerator; and a large staff of highly trained inspectors.

While authorities are using these and other means—including helicopters—to combat drugs on the U.S. side, hoodlums are using machineguns in a battle for control of the narcotics trade in Laredo's sister city of Nuevo Laredo just across the border.

Body counts vary widely but observers generally agree that more than 40 persons have been killed in gangster fashion in the Nuevo Laredo area this year. Most were Mexicans.

One report from Mexico City said Nuevo Laredo's crime wage has taken 68 lives in the past two years.

Mexican federal and state police, as well as U.S. officials familiar with the situation, blame the violence on narcotics. U.S. agents say whole families are involved in the drug war, although just who is fighting who is subject to speculation.

Several Mexican law enforcement officers have been killed in Nuevo Laredo over the past two years, most of them in machinegun attacks. In late July, a veteran peace officer was gunned down less than two months after he arrived in Nuevo Laredo on special orders to wipe out the smuggling business.

There have been several police shakeups as the crime war raged on, including one announced only this week—two state police agents were fired and three reassigned because of what officials termed their alleged connection with drug dealings in Nuevo Laredo.

The Tamaulipas state governor said he sent 10 agents to replace them Wednesday in a renewed effort to halt drug traffic.

Mexican authorities cracked down on Nuevo Laredo a few weeks ago and the drive has gone far into rural areas.

Last week, a special federal official sent to Nuevo Laredo by Mexico City announced that nine suspected narcotics operators had been arrested in Sabinas Hidalgo, about 90 miles south of the city.

Border residents say Sabinas Hidalgo is known to be a center for marijuana preparation and that planes can fly to several landing strips in the area to pick up contraband.

Other raids in Nuevo Laredo and nearby ranches have led to the arrests of several persons believed involved in narcotics.

Although President Nixon apparently is not scheduled to visit it, the U.S. Bureau of Customs recently opened a modern office on Laredo's outskirts, complete with a helicopter for aerial surveillance of smuggling.

Customs investigative agents at Laredo say most of the heroin seized along the border has been of European origin. "Mexico is being used as a conduit country," said William F. Hughes of San Antonio. Customs District special agent in charge.

Plot To Kill Israelis Spreading To Africa

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The plot to kill Israelis with booby-trapped mail parcels spread to Africa today after intensive police searches turned up bombs in North America and across Europe.

Israeli officials also reported they are getting tough with persons trying to inflame their own personal vengeance on Arab terrorists.

The Israeli foreign ministry said three of the envelopes containing the bombs were found today addressed to embassy officials in Kinshasa, the capital of Zaire, the former Belgium Congo.

They were discovered in the embassy's postal delivery box before any went off. A spokesman said the bombs were similar to those found earlier this week in Paris, London, Brussels, Geneva, Vienna, Tel Aviv, Montreal and New York. One of them killed a diplomat in London, but the others were found before they were detonated.

Meanwhile, Israeli police cracked down to prevent Jewish vengeance attacks in Europe. "We are not planning any illegal operations," one official said.

Israel's state radio reported that police were holding former Israeli underground fighter on suspicion of trying to ship arms to Europe for attacks on Arab terrorists or Arab interests.

The radio identified him as Amihai Paglin, once operations commander of the Irgun terrorist movement.

He laid his prestige on the line Wednesday night when, faced with backstage Arab and African opposition to his initiative, he expressed hope that members of the 25-nation steering committee and the 132-nation assembly "will understand my reasons and will support this proposal."

He spoke to the committee right after it decided to recommend that assembly debate on Korea be postponed to next year. The decision was a victory of West over East.

In a concession calculated to win over the doubtful, Waldheim's personal prestige also was at stake as the steering committee, considering which of 101 proposed items to recommend to the assembly's agenda, neared a decision on his proposal for a debate on measures to prevent terrorism.

China vetoed the application in the Security Council Aug. 25. The proposal was sponsored by the Soviet Union, India, Yugoslavia and Britain. There were 11 votes in favor and three abstentions, and the United States voted with the majority.

Entrance into the world body is impossible without unanimous approval of the five big powers in the council, China, the Soviet Union, Britain and the United States and France. However, even then a move was reported underway to persuade the General Assembly to urge the council to reconsider.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim has suggested that the subject of terrorism be debated first in the legal committee, instead of going straight to the assembly as he had asked earlier.

The steering committee adopted a U.S.-supported British motion for postponement of the Korean debate over Communist and non-aligned opposition. The vote was 16 to 7 with France abstaining.

Measure Also Affects Welfare Families, Aged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has approved a $6-billion package of Social Security increases and higher payroll deductions to finance them. Today the panel tries to wrap up work on the joint Social Security-welfare-reform bill.

The Social Security boosts were approved Wednesday as the committee neared the end of its deliberations on the House-passed legislation.

Under the Social Security tax hike approved by the committee, a person making $10,800 next year would pay $648, compared with $468 this year. The employer pays a matching amount.

The measure also contains far-reaching provisions affecting welfare families with dependent children; the aged, blind and disabled on the welfare rolls; and the two big government health programs—Medicare and Medicaid.

Finance Committee has voted to junk President Nixon's family-assistance plan for welfare reform and substitute its own welfare version with much stronger work requirements for welfare recipients.

The new Social Security benefits approved would include $3.5 billion in cash payments and $2.4 billion in Medicare. The committee also voted Social Security tax increases totaling $6 billion to finance the new benefits.

Last June, while the committee was reviewing this bill, Congress passed and Nixon signed into law a 20-per-cent general Social Security boost attached to another bill.

The 20-per-cent increase, which took effect Sept. 1, would be extended temporarily to one million railroad retirement beneficiaries under another bill passed by the House and sent to Nixon Wednesday.

Railroad workers are covered by a separate pension system, and the bill was designed to keep them on a par with Social Security beneficiaries.

The panel also further eased the limitation on earnings of retired persons.

Under present law, these persons can earn up to $1,680 a year with no loss of benefits. The House voted to make this $2,000; the committee decided to raise it to $2,400.

The committee turned down the recommendation of the Nixon administration that some of the Social Security provisions be removed from the bill as too costly.

Candidates Air Views On '72 Election Issues

By Associated Press
Vice President Spiro T. Agnew predicts the 1972 presidential election will be decided on principle rather than party, while Sen. George McGovern says he believes the Vietnam war remains the dominant issue of the campaign.

Sargent Shriver, meanwhile, says the McGovern-Shriver ticket is in "serious" financial trouble, and would welcome some money from the Kennedy family.

Agnew told the Ohio Republican Convention in Columbus Wednesday night that the positions of Democratic presidential nominee McGovern "are so far to the left, sometimes they're almost out of sight."

"We have not had in recent years a national election in which party affiliations have played as little part," Agnew said. He predicted the election can produce a majority built around principle rather than party.

McGovern was in Philadelphia where he devoted an entire speech at a $100-a-plate banquet to the Vietnam war, the first time he has talked exclusively about the war since winning the Democratic nomination in July.

"The war now, more than at any stage since we've been involved in Southeast Asia, has now become an assault on the decency and self-respect of this great country," he said.

Earlier, Nixon campaign director Clark MacGregor charged that the Democrats were withholding reports on contributions from the Kennedy family.

A McGovern aide in Washington said it is not the Kennedy "style" to make cash contributions to campaigns. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has campaigned with McGovern this month.

Shriver Wednesday reported his own net assets at $100,000 and those of his wife at $707,000. His wife is the oldest daughter of the late Joseph P. Kennedy, one of America's wealthiest men.

Researcher Warns VD In U.S. Reaches Epidemic Proportions

DALLAS (AP) — Calling it the "most common disease in the country except the common cold," a national medical researcher said Wednesday that venereal disease has reached epidemic proportions.

Dr. J. D. Millar told more than 200 health professionals and community officials at a VD seminar that venereal disease is the most pressing communicable disease problem in the United States.

Millar described venereal disease as completely uncontrollable, with 2½ million contracting it in the last year. He is chief of the VD Branch of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga.

He estimated that 26 persons per 100,000 had syphilis and 43 per 100,000 had gonorrhea. In 1971 there were 2,453 cases of syphilis in Texas and 50,193 cases of gonorrhea reported in the state. "Dallas accounts for 38 per cent of the syphilis in Texas and 40 per cent of the gonorrhea cases," Millar said. "There has never been a nationwide nor a statewide campaign attempt until now, and it must start right here in this community now."

The seminar is the kickoff of a massive VD awareness campaign by the Texas State Health Department to inform and educate the public and health officials throughout the state about venereal disease.

Millar said although funding was still grossly inadequate Congress has committed $26 million this year for a nationwide program against venereal disease. Texas received $2.5 million of the $16.5 million going to state programs.

The public image of the typical VD patient must be changed because now all are at risk, the speaker said. "Venereal disease is still a dirty word related to promiscuity and tagged as justifiable punishment in the public eye."

"Can you imagine any other disease affecting 2½ million persons a year without a public outcry?" he asked the group.

He urged that campaigns include widespread screening, interviews with reported cases and education of physicians as well as the general public.

Screenings should be included in every health care facility such as family planning agencies, private doctor offices, planned parenthood agencies, public health clinics, hospital clinics and other clinics, he said.

MAKING FRIENDS is usually no problem for the very young of any species, as demonstrated by Elise Caplan, 4, and the young assistants of organ-grinder Tony Bruno. Bruno was hired to ballyhoo the opening of a new movie in New York, and stole the show as far as some people were concerned.

Astronauts Decline To Talk About Personal Gain Charges

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Members of the nation's astronaut corps have flatly refused to be interviewed on charges they have been selling their autographs for personal profit.

In a reply to interview requests, Alan B. Shepard, chief of the astronaut office and possibly one of those involved in signature selling, said the spacemen would not talk and were shielded from inquiry because the profiteering was "an internal NASA personnel matter."

The reply, relayed by a space agency spokesman, stated, "Astronauts decline to grant interviews on their involvement or non-involvement in autographing philatelic materials for personal gain."

This is consistent with the NASA policy that states that since there were no substantive violations this is considered an internal NASA personnel matter and the names of those involved will not be released, "the statement concludes."

The statement effectively blocks inquiry through official channels at the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Questions regarding the signatures are not answered because there were "no substantive violations," while questions on other areas of astronaut profiteering are not answered because, says the space agency, the Justice Department is investigating possible substantive violations.

The space agency admitted last week that members of the astronaut corps had been selling their signatures for about $5 each. Officials said the spacemen had been signing the signatures during their off-duty hours for a German dealer, who, in turn, was selling them for about $16.50. Some of the astronauts reportedly donated the proceeds to charity.

The gag on the astronauts regarding the signatures is a continuation of a policy the space agency started just after it became known the Apollo 15 crew had smuggled stamp covers to the moon with the intention of making a personal profit.

Since that time, two of the Apollo 15 astronauts still with the space agency have refused to grant interviews on the subject. Questions from newsmen posed to officials at the Manned Spacecraft Center have gone unanswered. Reporters are referred to the Washington headquarters of the agency.

In a release on its own investigation of the stamps and signatures, the space agency has also admitted that the Apollo 15 commander, David Scott, carried two unauthorized watches into space.

The watches, according to one source, were manufactured by Bulova and were similar to the Omega watches astronauts have worn since early in the space program.

The space agency has refused to elaborate on the unauthorized watches.

A space agency spokesman said no official from the Manned Spacecraft Center, home of the astronauts, will discuss any of the stamp, watch or signature dealings because they are "areas being investigated by the Justice Department."

Currently, interview requests submitted to the Manned Spacecraft Center spokesmen are carefully screened as to subject matter. Any that would deal with the astronaut profiteering are firmly declined.

Lawyers Seek Cut Of Bonds For Five IRA Sympathizers

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Five men cited for contempt in a gun running probe remained in jail today while their attorneys sought reduction of their $100,000 bonds.

Doris Petersen, a lawyer for the so-called "Fort Worth Five," said "we filed a request for an emergency appeal hearing with the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals."

U.S. District Court Judge Leon Brewster set the $500,000 in bonds Tuesday at Abilene despite protests from Dallas attorney Ed Polk.

Polk argued for their release on personal recognizance bonds but said he had been prepared to post $100,000 bond for each man.

Brewster cited the five for contempt last June when they refused to testify before a grand jury investigating alleged gun running activities in Texas and Northern Ireland.

The bond hearing Tuesday was ordered by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. Polk, in seeking their release, argued that the five have families, were gainfully employed and had no criminal records.

The five are Kenneth Tierney, 45; Thomas Laffey, 32; Daniel Crawford, 45; Matthias Reilly, 31; and Paschal Morahan, 25. Their attorneys say all are employed in the New York area.

The men have gone through a lot of hardships, but it has been by their own choice," Brewster said in setting the stiff bonds.

He said it would be in their best interest to testify if they have nothing to hide. He pointed out also that even if they violated the law they have been granted immunity from U.S. prosecution.

The judge said he felt the men were remaining silent "to protect someone else."

"There's no question in my mind that there is a lot of money behind the defense of these men," Brewster said.

Shriver Says He Will Take 40% Pay Cut If He's Elected

CHICAGO (AP) — Sargent Shriver will take a 40-percent pay cut if he is elected vice president. His personal balance sheet shows an income of $108,600 last year and net assets of $100,000 for himself and $707,000 for his wife.

As he disclosed his family finances for the first time, the candidate acknowledged that the McGovern-Shriver campaign is in "serious—I wouldn't say acute—financial trouble."

But he hasn't gone to the Kennedy family for contributions, Shriver said in an interview Wednesday night.

"That's probably the last place that I would turn to ask for money. I have no intention of doing it," Shriver said. "I would have hope if they are interested in the success of the campaign."

they would make a contribution."

The salary of the vice president is $62,500 a year plus $10,000 for expenses, all taxable.

Shriver's balance sheet shows that he earned $105,800 last year from his partnership in a Washington law firm and another $2,800 from speaking fees.

He has $42,000 cash in checking accounts, $43,000 cash-surrender-value in his life insurance and $15,000 in personal property that includes automobiles, jewelry and clothing.

Shriver's wife, Eunice, is the oldest daughter of the late Joseph P. Kennedy, one of America's wealthiest men. Her financial statement contained the notation that "Mrs. Shriver's income is derived primarily from trust funds established by Joseph P. Kennedy over which she has no control."

Clark MacGregor, chairman of President Nixon's re-election campaign, had said he considers it inconceivable that the Kennedy family has not contributed to the money-short Democratic campaign.

"It may be inconceivable to Mr. MacGregor," Shriver said, "but he has great trouble with concepts. He's still a politician from Minnesota and he's representing a candidate, President Nixon, who's got $10 million in a slush fund."

"Except for the possibility of my wife, none of the Kennedys has given any money yet. We will disclose all the money we get. Certainly all the money the Kennedys give."

Freed British Newsmen Tell Tale Of Terror In Uganda

LONDON (AP) — Americans and Europeans rounded up by Ugandan troops and secret service agents were flung into a "black hole of Calcutta" jail cell with African prostitutes, thieves, thugs and lunatics.

That was the tale of horror told today by seven British newsmen released by the Ugandans Wednesday after they were held several days in Kampala's central police headquarters as "British spies."

The British newsmen withheld their reports until they knew the other newsmen held by the Ugandans were freed. That group, including Associated Press correspondent Andrew Torchia, was released late Wednesday night and flown out to Manchester on a British airliner.

Daily Mail reporter Leslie Watkins, freed Tuesday night, was arrested in the Grand Hotel by seven Ugandan agents and marched to prison with a submachine gun jabbed in his back.

He was stripped and searched and found himself branded a spy because interrogators found a note from his five-year-old son in his case. It read: "Good luck daddy. Come back safe and soon. Love Simon."

Watkins said his interrogator screamed at him: "This person knows you are on a dangerous mission."

Watkins was flung into the "foul-smelling dungeons of the central police station"—which the Ugandan Africans christened "King Georgey Hotel" during British colonial days.

After more interrogations by screaming Ugandans, Watkins and other newsmen were thrown into a barracks room measuring 40 feet by 20 feet with about 50 other foreigners, including a pregnant English woman and two small boys aged four and two.

The foreigners still held by the Ugandans "are in a desperate situation," Watkins said. One man, he said, cracked under the strain and stumbled terrified around the crowded cell mumbling "they are going to shoot us." But he said most of the foreigners, even children and women forced to watch torturers batter an African with clubs for an hour, kept their heads.

Vehicle Stolen On Harvester

A stolen vehicle bulletin was issued by Pampa police following the report of a missing car from the 200 block of Harvester St.

Missing is a 1966 Oldsmobile white two-door hardtop bearing Texas license number BTK-348.

Owner of the car told officers she checked with the only persons having access to the vehicle before reporting it stolen.

Bus Strike Ends In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Buses were rolling again today after union members accepted an agreement on a new pension plan, halting a three-day strike affecting 65,000 riders.

Drivers and mechanics, who walked out Monday in what they called a "vacation," voted 175 to 127 Wednesday night to return to work today.

They approved a proposal to hire a consultant to study new pension plans based on a trustee program—a stock market investment method rather than the present insured plan.

Pampa Firm Protests Panhandle Savings Plan

Panhandle Savings recently announced their application for a branch office to be located in Pampa.

Security Federal Savings and Loan Association of Pampa has filed a formal protest against the branch opening with the State Savings and Loan Commissioner's office in Austin.

Aubrey Steele, Security Federal president, said this morning that Security Federal has been in Pampa since 1928 and has tried to take care of the needs of Pampa during that time.

"We hate to see a firm owned by a holding company based in Houston come in here and siphon off funds from this area," Steele said.

Steele said a hearing has been set for Oct. 4 in Austin before the State commissioner to consider the situation.

Jack Huddleston, president of Panhandle Savings, stated he was disappointed to hear of Security Federal's formal protest.

He added that he did not anticipate any problems or objections to Panhandle's locating a full service facility in Pampa, since the area currently has only one operating savings and loan association.

Huddleston said Panhandle is still hopeful of opening a branch office in Pampa. Plans and specifications for the building to be built in Pampa, if approved, are already designed by the architectural firm of Hucker and Parge of Amarillo.

Supervisory Personnel Course Set For Oct. 10-11 In Pampa

The second annual course for area local government supervisory personnel will be conducted Oct. 10 and 11 in the Palm Room at City Hall by the Engineering Extension Service of Texas A&M University.

The course, labeled "Working With People," is designed to fulfill the need for training to equip supervisors to function effectively in their present jobs and to advance to higher positions, according to the Texas Department of Public Affairs, sponsor of the program.

The local training sessions are expected to attract local government employees from Pampa and towns in the Eastern Panhandle.

The project is financed in part by the Department of Housing and Urban Development under Title VIII of the 1964 Housing Act.

Wisconsin, in 1932, was the first state to adopt unemployment insurance, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Inflation Pushes Home Prices

By CARLTON SMITH
All you nice, innocent people who have been saving your money for the purchase of a modestly-priced house are advised to go on dreaming. If you should wake up you'd find the reality is more like a nightmare.

In the home-building industry the low cost house virtually has disappeared from the market.

It's next to impossible to find anything in the new-home market today for less than $15,000. The median sales price of new homes last year was $25,000, the United States Savings and Loan League reports in its 1972 Fact Book.

Last year you could find only about three houses in a hundred selling for less than $15,000. Seven years ago a fourth of all the new homes built were priced under that figure. The word that comes to mind is "inflation."

Look what's happened to the median price—the figure right in the middle, with half the houses selling for more and half for less. Today, $25,000. In 1963, the median price was $18,000.

That's an increase of roughly 40 per cent. That may sound like the result of rampant inflation. Actually it's the result of only about a 4 per cent a year inflation—just a little more than we have currently, when we're told that the managers of our economy are getting things cooled off nicely.

What turns a "moderate" inflationary rate into runaway inflation is that it compounds itself every year.

A rate of around 4½ per cent a year is sufficient to raise the price of houses 40 per cent in eight years—which then becomes an average of 5 per cent a year.

Inflation—plus a couple of other factors—also is pushing the upper half of home prices—those over $25,000—into a more sharply upward-titled scale.

Last year, one home in five sold for $35,000 or more. Seven years earlier, a house carrying that price tag was a luxury home, affordable by only a few. Six per cent of the houses sold in 1964, says the Fact Book, were in that price range.

Well, you say, inflation, yes—but personal income has increased, too.

The fact remains that the cost of traditional housing evidently has priced large numbers of American families out of that market. For nearly a third of all those buying single-family units in 1971, the Fact Book reports, couldn't afford what our parents called houses. Thirty per cent of them bought mobile homes.

We are told that if those in authority can get inflation down to around 3½ per cent a year, they are satisfied that everything will be all right again.

Better than 6 per cent it certainly is—but don't let anyone sell you the idea that 3½ per cent is not inflation. At that rate, last year's median-priced $25,000 house would be selling, seven years from now, for $32,920.

Congress Seeking Action To Halt House 'Loopholes'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Like that of countless other angry homebuyers, Russell L. Merrifield's "investment of a lifetime" has become a nightmare.

The roof of Merrifield's new house in Fairbanks, Alaska, leaks. The wind whistles through ill-fitting doors and windows. The floors, separated from their underpinnings, squeak.

Mrs. Laddie Shaw of Idaho Falls, Idaho, shares Merrifield's frustration with new houses.

Two days after she and her husband moved in, their basement flooded with sewage. The living room sank 1½ inches, a warped joist. The family waited a year for promised rain gutters and attic insulation.

In Delaware, Ohio, the basement floor and walls of Lewis A. Zimmerman's new $34,000 house cracked recently after six months. A new roof is needed: the original is blowing off shingle by shingle.

The builder promised corrections, Zimmerman said, but as yet these corrections have not been made.

Merrifield, the Shaws, Zimmerman and hundreds of thousands of other home seekers have produced — and some fallen victim to — an unprecedented boom in housing construction, now running at more than two million units a year.

This boom, many specialists say, makes for a seller's market, strains the supply of skilled workers and supervisors and encourages corner-cutting and shoddy workmanship.

Homebuyers are showering government agencies and consumer organizations with complaints about late delivery in promised houses, about defects in materials and workmanship, about the reluctance or slowness of some contractors to set things right.

Temper frayed, some owners have hoisted protest signs to embarrass builders into corrective action.

Others go to court. Judges in 16 states have ruled recently that all new houses are covered by an implied, if not formal, warranty of quality.

Spurred by homeowner complaints, Congress and many state and local governments are weighing legislation that would extend and fill some loopholes in existing, one-year warranties that now cover at least half of all new houses.

The 1973 Ford Galaxie 500, shown here in the four-door pillared hardtop model, is distinguished by a new front appearance and new sheet metal below the window line. For 1973 it features an improved rear suspension. A new window weather-stripping further improves the Ford quiet ride. Power is provided by a standard 351-2V eight-cylinder engine and SelectShift, Cruise-O-Matic transmission.

Ford Division's Torino, which set a series of sales record in 1972 in pacing its market segment, presents a new front appearance for 1973 highlighted by a wider grille and a large impact-absorbing bumper. All Torino models for 1973, including this Gran Torino two-door hardtop, feature new high-visibility, low-back front bench seats, larger rear brakes and an inside hood latch release. New Torino options for 1973 include steel-belted radial-ply tires and a spare tire lock.

Fresh Front Appearance, New Sheet Metal, And Unique Features Highlight Ford's Offerings For 1973

Fresh front appearance, new sheet metal, and unique features including an optional anti-theft alarm system and a standard spare tire extractor for station wagons, highlights Ford Division offerings for 1973.

"With our bread-and-butter car all new, and with the market leadership we hope to continue with Pinto, Torino, Thunderbird and Mustang, we look forward to 1973 as another record-breaking year," said John Naughton, Ford vice president and Ford Division general manager.

The Division's 39 car models in six lines will make their debut at Ford dealerships Friday, Sept. 22. Availability of all vehicles is subject to Federal emissions certification.

Ford Division continues to expand the availability of radial-ply steel-belted tires which are standard again on the Thunderbird in 1973 and now optional on all other car lines. These tires are offered with a 40,000 mile wear guarantee from the manufacturer.

The Ford car receives a new look, a more convenient instrument panel, and a variety of new features. Thunderbird offers a new front appearance and a new optional opera window.

Torino, with two new luxury models, eliminates the high-back bench seat of 1972 and adds a new front grille. Mustang's front bumper now is molded urethane.

Maverick's interior is substantially upgraded. Pinto adds to changes started during the '72 model year both steering and braking refinements besides new paint and trim color selections.

The 1973 Thunderbird offers a new front appearance produced by a new grille, stand-up hood ornament and larger, impact-absorbing bumper. Front and rear headroom is increased.

Radial-ply steel-belted white sidewall tires are standard, as are a refined rear suspension, larger rear brakes, and bright bodyside protection molding with a black vinyl insert.

An all-new car in 1972, the Ford Torino has a new front appearance in 1973. Low-back front bench seats are standard, and an electric rear window defroster is now optional for station wagons.

A new Torino series is added. It includes the Gran Torino Brougham two-door hardtop and four-door pillared hardtop. They replace the Brougham Interior Trim Group option of 1972.

Ford Mustang's five models—still the widest choice in the small specialty segment—include Ford Divisions' only convertible for 1973. All Mustangs carry a new grille, and molded urethane front bumpers which match the body color.

Five new paint colors and two new trim colors are offered. New options include forged aluminum wheels and a two-tone hood with twist-type hood locks.

Other new options include a leather-wrapped steering wheel, a revised protection package and rear bumper guards.

Ford Maverick, Ford Division's newest million-unit seller, receives a substantially upgraded interior with more comfortable seats and richer looking door trim.

A refined front and rear suspension and an improved sound insulation package highlight Maverick's technical improvements. Sporty forged aluminum wheels and an AM-FM radio are new Maverick options.

Ford Pinto—which received many "running changes" in mid-1972, including thicker seats on all models and an improved suspension—for 1973 adds steering and brake refinements and an optional handling suspension package.

THE '73 FORDS ARE HERE.

The airborne glider. 82 decibels at 60 mph.

The '73 Ford LTD. 65 decibels at 60 mph. Quiet is the sound of a well-made car.

At 60 mph a '73 Ford LTD rode quieter than an airborne glider.

On July 27, 1972, General Radio Co. tested a '73 LTD against an airborne glider. Both at 60 mph and with identical sound level meters. The result: the Ford was quieter. But the new LTD is more than just quiet. It is well made from its power front disc brakes, power steering and automatic transmission, standard equipment, to its luxurious, comfortable, roomy interior. There are 16 new Ford models to choose from and each will convince you that quiet is the sound of a well-made car.

High wire artist Bill Couch balancing on a '73 Torino riding over a road of 2x4's.

A '73 Torino rode so smooth, a high wire artist kept balance on a road of 2x4's.

Chances are you won't try to balance yourself on top of your new Torino. But, when you're riding inside, you'll still appreciate Torino's refined suspension—because it helps to cushion bumps, absorb road vibrations and reduce body sway. You feel solidly in control while you ride in comfort and luxury. The solid mid-size Torino. Smooth riding, strong and quiet.

THE SOLID 1973 FORD TORINO BROUGHAM (shown with optional front bumper guards, deluxe wheel covers and whitewall tires).

'73 Pinto: When you get back to basics, you get back to Ford.

Ford, the company that built the first basic, solid, reliable car seventy years ago—has built today's basic, solid reliable car: Pinto. It's become America's top selling economy car for more reasons than economy. Here are some of those reasons: A 1600 cc. engine developed and perfected in over 10 years of actual driving. Rack-and-pinion steering. Solid welded body, electrocoated to fight corrosion. 4-speed transmission—lubed for life. Everything we've learned in seventy years of car making—all the basics—we build into every Pinto Wagon, Runabout and Sedan. When you get back to basics, you get back to Pinto.

THE 1973 PINTO WAGON (shown with Squire Option, luggage rack, Deluxe Bumper Group and whitewall tires).

A 1973 Pinto on the Michigan Testing Facility. The cables connecting the Pinto to the Van enable us to monitor Pinto's performance.

There are 39 new models to choose from.

And every 1973 Ford, Thunderbird, Torino, Mustang, Maverick and Pinto—comes equipped with new energy-absorbing bumpers and steel guard rails in all side doors. Steel-belted radial ply tires and AM/FM stereo radios are options on all models. Test-drive these new Fords at your Ford Dealer's now.

Betty Canary

By BETTY CANARY

That soft, soothing sound isn't the wind in the trees. It's a collective sign of relief from housekeepers everywhere. Because it's now too far along to worry about those things we didn't get done during the summer.

Too late to plant trailing vines and tuberous begonias in the window boxes.

Too late to fix the drain in the portable swimming pool.

Too late to really follow through on that summertime edict. Absolutely no more soft drinks on that front porch or the ants will carry us away!

The reading schedule you made out in March. Oh dear. Too late to start that—especially the three-volume "Life of Charles Dickens." For heaven's sake, football weekends are upon us, so Dickens can wait until next year.

Too late for our every year plans for a hiking tour of New England. Better wait until next summer for that.

Next summer will serve just as well for painting the trim of the house, for posting a regular schedule for grass cutting and weeding instead of having regular quarrels.

Too late for collecting fines for not hanging up swimsuits and tennis racquets. Too late for enforcing that rule about always cleaning the racks on the outdoor grill immediately after use.

Too late for all those packets of seed we'd planned for a herb garden in the side yard.

But, wait a minute. We might use those for a potted kitchen window garden. After all, it's time to be making up our lists called Things to Do This Fall.

When you are heating a loaf of French or Italian bread, wrap it in foil but leave the ends open. The open ends of the package will help the bread to crisp.

Combine cranberry juice and apple juice and heat with a cinnamon stick. Nice for a rainy day!

Dear Abby

Need for affection not inherited

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of three children. A boy 9, and two daughters, 6 and 3. The two older ones are my natural children; Tammy, the youngest, we adopted when she was five days old. Believe me, when I tell you that I couldn't love Tammy more if she were my own flesh and blood. But she is my problem.

Tammy seems to be crazy about men! Any man. If a strange man smiles at her in the grocery store, Tammy will grab his hand and want to go with him. If a man comes to our home, whether she has ever seen him or not, Tammy wants to climb on his lap and kiss him. She makes a big hit with all the men because she is affectionate, but it worries me.

Do you think her real mother could have had this trait? We know that Tammy's mother was a runaway girl, and she had Tammy when she was 15. I can't help wondering if this aggressiveness with men could have been inherited from her mother? [Our older daughter, who is not adopted, is shy, and she won't go near a man unless she knows him very well.]

Please tell me what you think, Abby. Is there some way I can break Tammy of being so forward with men? Or is it hopeless because her mother may have had this problem?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Stop worrying. Tammy's reaching out for male attention, affection and approval is NOT an inherited trait. [Such behavior is learned—not inherited.] Question: Is Tammy's father giving her enough attention and affection? If not, ask him to work on that. And you should train Tammy to be less forward and more reserved with men.

DEAR ABBY: Why do I not have the right to say to a fat person, "My, you're fatter, aren't you?" People seem to think it is all right to say to me, "My, you're thinner, aren't you?"

Not everyone who tells me I am thinner is fat, so I can't accuse them of being jealous, but I resent the remark anyway.

I am and always have been slender, but I look well in my carefully selected clothes and receive many compliments. Why do some people think a thin person doesn't mind being told he looks thin?

Can you explain the psychology back of this dumb kind of remark? It has bugged me for years.

THIN IN EL CERRITO

DEAR THIN: Most people equate fat with ugly, and thin with beauty. Of course excessive thinness is no more desirable than excessive obesity, but it has been said [humorously] that a woman can't be too rich or too thin. If you don't have to count your calories, count your blessings, lady.

DEAR ABBY: To the parents of "Twenty Six and Single": I didn't write that letter, but I could have. I know you love your daughter, but you will lose her if you don't accept the blessing that she is a happy, productive person even though she isn't married and has no prospects yet.

She may not need you to look after her children, but she needs you in other ways. Would you rather that she had an unhappy marriage, or one that ended in divorce? Or that she just lived with her boy friend?

Making your daughter feel that she has "let you down" because she isn't married yet will give her feelings of guilt, worthlessness, and insecurity, which are bound to make her less attractive to any man she might meet.

Making her feel loved, worthwhile and secure will give her a glow that will attract the right kind of people to her. Pray for the strength to avoid prying questions about boy friends and dates and prospects of marriage. If your daughter has any good news, you will be the first to know.

TWENTY SIX AND SINGLE, TOO.

DEAR ABBY: I was surprised in reading your column to note that you referred to a man who would not converse with his wife's parents as "a person who sits in company like a wart on a pickle." It brought back memories of my dear mother. She was the only one I ever heard use that expression.

FLORENCE

DEAR FLORENCE: Your dear mother and mine must have gone to the same school. That's where I heard it.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69790, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Color Fall '72 Plaid

Plaid is the biggest news for fall and winter. Right out of the north woods come this look for school (left). Inspired by the lumber camps, the red plaid wrap jacket tops new wide, long pants. Come rain or shine this little miss is well protected in her bold plaid boot length coat (center) with side zipper, hood and deep pockets for warmth. The topper swing coat (right) fits narrow through the shoulders with a smock or shirt look that flares out to a wide hem. Topping the topper is a plaid conductor's cap. All these garments have been Scotchgarded to make outfits water repellent and stain resistant.

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — If it's plaid it's IN for Fall '72.

Watch for every color of the spectrum to be fused into all-size plaids. Fabrics sporting the tartan look will run the gamut from corduroy to taffeta, silk to denim.

Now you'll be able to fill your wardrobe with plaid wrap shirt jackets, conductor caps, swing coats, shoulder bags, jeans, pantsuits, raincoats, blouses, bathrobes, even gowns, gloves—and the list goes on.

What's even more exciting is that most of the new looks in outerwear go plaid. And although many are not all-weatherized, anyone can make them so with a spray fabric protector. Now a favorite fashion can be stain resistant and water repellent with a mere press.

Don't leave oily rags in a heap anywhere, as they may burst into flame spontaneously.

of an aerosol button.

One of the outerwear silhouettes is "looser." The new loose look shows up in wide pants, flaring coats, wrap jackets. Fuzzy, fluffy, nappy and nubby are the fabrics that will greet the elements. Look for brushed wools, flannels, shetlands, gabardines and meltons.

But whatever the style or shape, you can be sure that the fashion will be plaid-ed. And part of the fun will be mixing different plaids together or combining them with stripes or checks.

In children's wear, coats are boot length, a warm style that caught on last year when midi's were making the fashion scene.

Another scene stealer comes the cold weather will be the swing coat. This loose, flare-back top is a real departure from the skinny fit of previous seasons. The fit is narrow through the shoulders with a smock or shirt look that flares out to a wide hem.

Whatever your favorite outerwear look, just remember to plaid-it and then spray with fabric protector to keep you warm and dry throughout the upcoming chilling months.

We have changed a few cards around in Hand 29 of the nationwide Olympiad game so as to make sure that South gets to be declarer at three no-trump.

The contract is not one of the best we have ever seen but worse ones make every day and this one will make unless West is right on his toes.

South takes East's king of spades with his ace at trick one and enters dummy with a diamond in order to try the heart finesse. It loses and West is back on lead.

West assumes that South is sitting with the guarded jack of spades and some West players will make the mistake of trying a waiting lead. If they do they will be waiting for the setting trick long after South has romped home with his contract.

A realistic West will see that king-jack-10 of clubs right in back of his ace-queen and will realize that he must clear the spades before South has a chance to go after clubs. He will play queen and another spade.

South will collect a second spade trick plus three hearts and three diamonds, but if East hangs onto all his diamonds South will not be able to score that all important ninth trick.

Double Duty Furniture Solves Storage Problems

Bedroom storage pieces such as an armoire (housing TV) and a 71-inch dresser (right) move to the living room to stretch space for a young couple's new home. Units here are Mediterranean-style in off-white. Walls are painted royal blue and the fabric is royal blue and white floral in sturdy cotton. The Roman shade at the window is of the same upholstery fabric. Carpet is an orange.

By AILEEN SNOODY.

NEW YORK — (NEA) —

A young couple's first venture at decorating may lead to a tug of war. In most instances each has had a piece of territory at home or in an apartment shared with one or more people and this makes it difficult to ration storage space for future living.

Most men jokingly say their bride gives them all the room they want for clothes.

NEW PACKAGING IDEA

NEW YORK (AP) — Packagers are turning to flexible materials to reduce the relatively high cost of packaging small food portions needed to tap low income, mass markets.

A significant innovation is the use of films, foils, laminates and overwrapping to combat high heat, humidity and insects, and thus prolong shelf life, according to the Bureau of International Commerce.

fishing gear, tennis rackets or scuba equipment—one-half of a closet. (She has two full closets, at least.)

But lack of storage space is no joke for most couples. Those who recently took up quarters together will find their problem is not a special one. No one has enough storage space. However, furniture manufacturers do make efforts to ease this irritating problem.

One solution is the use of larger triple dressers and armoires in rooms other than the bedroom where most people automatically put them. These units, according to a special decorator for Stanley Furniture Co., fit well in living rooms and become a focal point when a room is devoid of interesting window possibilities or a fireplace. Many new apartment buildings need the architectural feeling such pieces of utilitarian furniture can give. They do double duty and may house stereo-TV equipment, extra linens, china and crystal, home office supplies—all in a few larger basic units and not scattered in itsy-bitsy drawers in two or three additional rooms.

In selecting armoires and triple dressers, the designer suggests a couple will be happier with off-white painted furniture if the room needs the appearance of space. The key to decorating today is getting the most from your space via designs you like.

Annie Johnson Celebrates 100th Birthday At Party

WHEELER (Sp.) Mrs. R.O. (Annie) Johnson of the Golden Spread Nursing Home, Shamrock, celebrated her 100th birthday in the Shamrock American Legion Building with over 300 attending.

Mrs. Johnson was born Sept. 10, 1872, to Mr. and Mrs. G.W. Dillworth in Alabama. Mr. Dillworth had six daughters, of whom three married Johnson brothers. Of these three Johnson brothers, this is the first time in history that members of all three sets of the double cousin's were present. Other than the two nieces of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson's brother and sisters, there were three other nieces and one nephew who came a great distance for the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were the parents of 12 children. One daughter, Laura, died in infancy and is buried in Wheeler, while the other 11 lived to adulthood. Eight of the children were present. Two sons-in-law, J.D. Rutherford and C.A. Whitener, also of the Golden Spread Nursing Home in Shamrock, were present along with Mary Johnson, the daughter-in-law of Mrs. Johnson. Of her 30 grandchildren, 21 of them were present.

There were 34 great-grandchildren present and 18 great-great-grandchildren. Of the ones coming the greatest distance were two grandchildren, Mary Johnson Haile of Long Beach, Calif., and Melvin Robertson of Trenton, Mich.

Miss Ree Lummus, of Shamrock, friend of Mrs. Johnson, presented a money tree for Mrs. Johnson of $100, a dollar for each year of her life. She also received 150 birthday cards and greetings from Texas Governor Preston Smith, Oklahoma Governor David Hall, The Honorable Richard Nixon, President of the United States; The Honorable Lyndon B. Johnson, former President of the United States; and Cramer N. Capps, state senator from Oklahoma.

There were two sets of five generations. Ola Cooper of Optima, Oklahoma and W.H. (Bill) Johnson were represented by five generations.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

FRIDAY, SEPT. 22

Your birthday today: Today is equinox day. Those born before 6:33 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time are Virgoans, those later are Librans. In other years the time is different. Tonight's full moon is a starting point in some lunar calendars, too. The coming year promises swift changes.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: You're probably overscheduled, too much to do in too short a time. Retain a gracious manner, shed loads or postpone where you can.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Endless discussions fail to disclose key facts—do your own looking. The determination to get things straight saves the day.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Impulse, haste can be troublesome. Items and situations usually safe aren't necessarily so. You are better off if you state your case.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Bickering leads to serious conflict, and is better avoided except where you have all it takes to settle a long conflict.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Stay uncommitted and tactful, on the alert for a break. Loved ones need your wisdom. There are many things to talk over later tonight.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Opposition is just challenging enough to stir you into definite effort to get what you want. What is begun today is complex.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Early activity is smooth, later hours bring tension. Switching to another job is a bridge to some other undeveloped situation.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Strenuous activity is normal for this long and tense day. Today's conditions in time open a special opportunity for you.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: The better they like you, the more contrary their mood. Stick to the routines of winding down the week's work, adding nothing.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Conversations get out of hand this strange Friday, making it difficult for you to judge what to answer, and when to leave off.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: No clear path is available, so you must feel your way as most people do. Wait for provocation to lose its edge.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Anything will serve as a bone for contention. Resign gracefully, or select some other issue to work out relationship adjustments.

EPA Charges Ford Violates Regulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency sent the Justice Department evidence Wednesday of alleged tampering by Ford Motor Co. employees with the antipollution tests on Ford's 1973 cars.

EPA asked the department to take appropriate action.

EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus wrote to Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst. EPA announced that "there is evidence" the test tampering, first reported to EPA by Ford itself, was deliberate.

Because of unauthorized maintenance on Ford's test vehicles, its original antipollution test results were withdrawn and the company was required to repeat its full 50,000-mile testing on 1973-model auto engines.

Ruckelshaus allowed the company to ship its new cars to dealers but forbade their sale until the new tests prove they meet federal clean-air standards.

In his letter to Kleindienst, Ruckelshaus praised Ford top executives for reporting the problem voluntarily.

"However," he added, "this commendable action by top corporate management cannot, in our judgment make lawful the action of Ford employees who were responsible for the conduct and reporting of emission tests required by federal law."

Ruckelshaus said evidence "indicates that employees of Ford did perform unauthorized, unreported maintenance on 1973 certification vehicles and committed other acts in violation of the regulation" under the 1970 Clean Air Amendments requiring reductions of auto exhaust emissions.

"There is evidence," he wrote, "indicating that the performance of unauthorized maintenance on 1973 test vehicles and the failure to report such maintenance was directed and condoned by supervisory employees who were aware of the illegal nature of such a practice."

An EPA-spokesman said the alleged violations are punishable by both criminal and civil penalties.

He said Ford was notified of the EPA action Wednesday but made no immediate reply.

Perryton Sets Arts, Crafts Show Nov. 18

PERRYTON (Sp.) — The Second Annual "Hidden Talents" Arts, Crafts and Hobby Show will be held at the Veterans Memorial Building at the Fair Grounds in Perryton, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 18 and 19.

An invitation is extended to anyone interested in arts and crafts to join with other persons in the Perryton area in showing and selling arts and crafts.

The show will open at 9 a.m. Saturday and close at 9 p.m. that evening. Items will be on display Sunday from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. Perryton Lions Club will provide food for the visitors and exhibitors.

A portion of proceeds of sales will be given to Perryton Lions Club which sponsors the Satellite Day School. There will be articles on display made by students of the Satellite School, as well as handmade articles by residents of Senior Village Nursing Home.

Tables will be provided for exhibitors for a nominal fee, and reservations should be made by Nov. 10 by telephoning or contacting Bertha McLain at 122 Southwest 15th Ave., Perryton, Phone 435-3754. The show will provide an opportunity for those interested in crafts and hobbies to view the work of others and exchange ideas.

TV Series Emphasizing Violence Back This Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — Two television series that emphasize violence are back with us this fall. Viewers may protest, but the shows also appear to emphasize decent, aerial thievery and the thrill of the chase.

Both arrived here Sunday afternoon for what the announcers called the start of the 1972 regular season. On NBC, the show was "The Jets vs. the Bills." At CBS, it was "The Giants vs. the Lions." Similar shows were seen elsewhere in the nation.

The CBS show, broadcast live from Detroit, began with a brisk rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner," performed in 57 seconds by a 180-piece marching band. Then it got down to business.

The plot went this way: A man in a blue jersey, flanked by 10 identically dressed men, ran up to a ball that resembled a big leather egg with stitches. He kicked it and this caught the attention of 11 other men in white.

They ran at each other and formed a big pile on something one of the narrators, Ray Scott, called the 31. Then they got up and talked to each other and decided to form a big pile again. A few scenes later, as they took sides, Scott said: "Let's see if the Lions decide to blitz Snead in what looks like a passing situation." He referred to Norm Snead, a star in Sunday's show.

Blitz must mean hurl to the ground and jump upon, because that's what the Lions did to Snead. A few minutes later, the Giants did the same to Greg Landry, a Lion star.

As the drama unfolded, someone in a striped shirt threw down his handkerchief as if in anger and Scott said: "We have our first marker of the game. Holding...It's against the Giants."

After this, other men in striped shirts showed no reluctance to hurl down their handkerchiefs, too. Scott explained this was because of things like illegal motion and offensive interference among the players.

The show's strong point wasn't dialogue. Landry and Snead spent most of the day in a crouch, muttering "hut-hut-hut" and silently fleeing for their lives when given the ball.

On the positive side, the action was fast and furious. Viewers who adjourned for a beer during the better parts didn't lose out; CBS replayed the dramatic highpoints 37 times and in slow motion at that.

And at the end, it gave the ratings for each cast. The Lions got a 30 rating and the Giants a 16.

The entire show lasted about three hours — five for those who switched over to the NBC drama in which the New York Jets got a 41 rating to the Buffalo Bills 24.

All things considered, both shows are fun and will do well in neighborhood saloons and household basements this fall.

They won't do well in homes where the average viewer is a bewildered bum who, upon assuming the prone position on the sofa, is immediately told by his wife to get up and let her vacuum it before it moults.

Senate Counsel Offers Advice On Car Repair

NEW YORK (AP) — It's easy to be taken for a ride when trying to get your car fixed, a Senate investigator says. But, he adds, there are dozens of ways to avoid the trip.

They range from giving your favorite mechanic a Christmas gift to picking the repair shop which you think may have cheated you.

Donald A. Randall, counsel to the Senate subcommittee on antitrust and monopoly, is co-author of a new book which outlines how-to instructions on car repair.

The instructions include questions a motorist should ask when he brings his car in, ways to check that the car has been fixed correctly and ways to complain when it hasn't.

"The Great American Auto Repair Robbery" was written after a four-year subcommittee investigation of the auto repair industry, directed and organized by Randall. His co-author is Arthur P. Glickman, former reporter for the Wall Street Journal.

"If you haven't been gyped by an auto repair shop, it's probably because you've never driven a car," the authors say.

During the Senate investigation, Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., estimated that the American public was being cheated out of $8-$10 billion a year on car repairs.

"The auto repair industry is just slightly more advanced than it was in the Model-A era," Randall said in an interview.

The authors say many car repair problems can be blamed on the auto manufacturers, through their failure to train and enlist competent mechanics, warranties that often prove worthless and production of cars which can be damaged easily but are not so easily repaired.

Other problems, they say, stem from the pressure which insurance companies put on repair shops to fix cars as cheaply as possible, often resulting in slipshod work.

With all these pitfalls, how can you insure that your car will be repaired efficiently and correctly?

The best way, the authors say, is to find a mechanic whom you can trust—not an easy task because of a critical shortage of good mechanics and the virtual lack of training for those entering the trade.

"Ask every mechanic you deal with about his background and try to judge as best you can the quality of his work," they say. "Once you find a good mechanic, stick with him."

The authors add, "Tip the mechanic a few dollars once in a while and remember the mechanic and the service writer (who writes up repair orders in car dealerships) at Christmas time."

A major cause of skyrocketing auto repair costs, the authors say, is the use by most repair facilities of so-called flat rate manuals, which determine how long each type of repair job should take. Motorists are charged for the amount of time the manual says a repair job should last, not how much time actually is taken.

"In practice," the authors say, "a reasonably competent mechanic can beat the time in the independent flat-rate manuals, sometimes by 50 per cent."

They say mechanics usually are paid on a flat-rate basis, leading them to perform jobs as quickly as possible in order to make more money.

"If you must deal with a shop that uses the manual, at least choose one that pays its mechanics a straight salary or a salary plus proficiency pay," the authors say.

Other suggestions are: —Don't take your car to be repaired during peak work periods, particularly mornings, when service writers and mechanics are rushed.

—Make sure you describe to the mechanic the symptoms your car is exhibiting. Don't just talk with the service writer.

—Request a copy of the repair order before repairs are made to prevent anyone from adding unnecessary repairs after you've signed the order.

—To insure that your car has been repaired properly, demand a road test and perhaps take your car to an auto diagnostic center to be checked.

Trying to get repairs for a car under warranty is possibly the thorniest of all auto repair problems because it's not profitable for auto dealers, the authors say.

A good way to avoid warranty problems is to get all the "bugs" out of the car before you take possession.

The authors suggest that you: —Have the dealer state in writing that all the items on the manufacturer's pre-delivery inspection list will be performed.

—Insist that before you take possession, you be allowed to road test the car and have it examined by a mechanic of your choice or at a diagnostic clinic.

—Buy as few power options, like air conditioning, as possible because they put stress on the motor and battery, reduce gas mileage and often break down.

If you feel you have been gyped and you don't get satisfaction from your auto repair shop, complain loudly and persistently to auto company executives, the appropriate federal and state government agencies, newspaper "action lines" and the Better Business Bureau, the authors say. If nothing else works, think about hiring a lawyer and going to court.

Bonn Report Justifies Shootout At Airport

By ANTHONY COLLINGS
Associated Press Writer

BONN, Germany (AP) — The "aggressiveness and murderous intent" of Arab terrorists helped make it impossible to prevent their Olympics' death raid, West German authorities say in a report used as a basis for clearing officials of any blame.

The report, written primarily by the Bavarian state government, was used Monday by a Bonn parliamentary committee as a major reason for approving the way police and officials handled the affair.

The terrorist attack in Munich Sept. 5 ended in the massacre of 11 Israeli hostages, five guerrillas and one policeman.

In the report, released Wednesday, the Bavarian government rejected criticism that not enough police were used in the airport shootout that ended the bloody nightmare. It did not cite any errors by police or officials.

A Bonn government spokesman, asked at a news conference if the report represented the "brutally frank" investigation Chancellor Willy Brandt had ordered, said the report plus the parliamentary committee hearings based on it did represent such an investigation.

Parliament's Internal Affairs Committee voted unanimously to absolve federal and local officials of blame, after reading the report and spending a few hours questioning officials secretly.

The 71-page report was in three parts. The Bavarian government wrote the first part, about Olympics security before the raid, and the third part, about the airport shootout. The federal and Bavarian governments jointly wrote the second part, about the abortive negotiations to free the hostages without a shootout.

In the second section, they said that after Israel refused the terrorist's demands to release 200 Arab guerrilla prisoners and the Munich terrorists refused to modify their demands, the federal and Bavarian governments decided jointly they had no other choice than to try to kill the terrorists before they could board a flight with their hostages.

The Bavarian government, in the report's third section, said police dared not storm or shoot at two helicopters holding the hostages and some of the guerrillas, for fear of hurting the Israelis. This was ruled out "under the given situation and the determination and firepower of the terrorists," it said.

It also said intensifying Olympics security before the raid probably couldn't have prevented it, because of the circumstances and the "aggressiveness and murderous intent" of the eight terrorists.

The Bavarian government said the peaceful Olympics image ruled out drastic security measures, and that even if the Israelis' living quarters had been heavily guarded the Arab guerrillas could have attacked elsewhere, such as in the training camp.

It said the five police sharpshooters sent to Munich's Fuerstenfeldbruck Airport against the eight terrorists were enough "because each marksman was able to shoot repeatedly." Also, it said, no more than four of the terrorists ever stepped out of the helicopters at any one time.

The Bavarian government said all 11 Israelis were killed by their Arab captors, and none was hit by police bullets.

SOUR CREAM COFFEE CAKE

A rich and moist version of this popular dessert.
2 cups unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup butter
1 1/4 cups sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 container (8 ounces) commercial sour cream
Nut Mixture, see below.

Grease and flour bottom and sides of a 9-inch angel food cake pan with removable bottom. On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder and baking soda. In large electric mixer bowl cream butter and sugar, thoroughly beat in eggs, one at a time, and vanilla. Gently beat in flour mixture in 4 additions, alternately with sour cream. Turn half of batter into prepared pan, sprinkle with half of Nut Mixture, spoon in remaining batter, spreading evenly, sprinkle with remaining Nut Mixture, pressing down slightly with spoon. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—about 1 hour. Place cake in pan on wire rack to cool for 10 minutes; turn out, with another rack turn right side up, cool completely.

Nut Mixture: Mix together 3/4 cup finely chopped walnuts, 1 teaspoon nutmeg and 2 tablespoons sugar.

Guard against steam when you are melting semisweet chocolate because steam causes the chocolate to stiffen.

Spicy Donuts Are Delicious

Spicy wheat germ donuts add nutritional zest to munching favorite.

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Homemade donuts are more than just dessert incidentals. Those made with wheat germ and instant mashed potatoes make a nutritional snack and yet please those with a sweet tooth.

SPICY WHEAT GERM DONUTS

3 1/2 cups unsifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups wheat germ
3 eggs
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups cold, cooked, sieved instant mashed potatoes (cooked as label directs)
3 tablespoons melted shortening

1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
3/4 cup milk
Oil for frying
Confectioners' or cinnamon sugar

Sift first 4 ingredients into bowl. Stir in wheat germ and reserve. Combine eggs, sugar, potatoes, shortening and vanilla in beater bowl. Beat until smooth and a light lemon color. Add 1/2 of the dry ingredients and 1/2 of the milk; mix just until dry ingredients are moistened. Repeat process using remaining dry ingredients and milk. Cover bowl and refrigerate 2 hours or overnight. Roll 1/4 of dough at a time on a lightly floured board to 1/2 inch thickness. Cut donuts using a well-floured sharp donut cutter. Fry a few donuts and donut holes (centers) at a time in hot oil (360-degrees) until done and a golden brown. Turn donuts as soon as they rise to the top of the oil. Brown on underside. Turn and brown on second side. Remove from heat with slotted spoon. Drain and place on paper towel covered tray to drain and cool. When donuts are slightly warm coat with confectioners' sugar or a mixture of cinnamon and sugar by shaking a few donuts at a time in a bag with 1/2 to 3/4 cup sugar. Arrange sugared donuts on tray to finish cooling. Makes about 2 dozen donuts and donut holes (centers).

(When no deep-fat thermometer is available drop a 1/2 inch bread cube into hot fat. If oil is right temperature the bread will turn a golden-brown in 1 minute.)

Famous Western Art Works To Be Displayed At Civic Auditorium

A traveling exhibit of Western art from the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Oklahoma City will be displayed at the M. K. Brown Memorial Auditorium Lobby on Tuesday night, Oct. 24 as an added attraction for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet. The exhibit may be viewed before and after the banquet.

Dean Kraker, managing director of the center, announced the National Center of Western Americana will send its traveling exhibit of 17 of the country's top Western artists. Kraker said the art is by members of the Cowboy Artists of America, a prestigious organization of Western artists striving to record like their late predecessor Charles M. Russell, life in the West of the current generation.

The exhibit will give visitors a chance to see what the modern-day Charles Russells are doing to set down contemporary Western ways, Kraker said.

Richard Muno, art director of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center, says, "The cowboy art reveals that there is still plenty of life in the Old West."

Mechanization has brought about many changes in Western life, but the basic work unit is still the horse and rider—the West will always have cowmen and cowponies.

Twenty-nine works of art by 17 painters will afford an exciting panorama of the West, both its past and present. Oil paintings, bronze sculptures, watercolors, and drawings will be featured. A range of subjects as diverse as the West itself will be shown—all kinds of cowboy action scenes, Indian life, historic scenes, pastoral landscapes as well as desert and mountain settings—all the moods of the West will be shown.

The art of Joe Beeler, James Boren, John Clymer, Charlie Dye, John Hampton, Ned Jacob, Robert Lougheed, George Marks, Brownell McGrew, William Moyers, Tom Ryan, Robert Scrivner, Irvin Shorty, Shope, Gordon Snodow, Jack Swanson, James Reynolds, and Melvin Warren comprises the exhibit.

All are members of the Cowboy Artists of America, an organization which has an exhibit every summer at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame.

The art represents the best entries of the annual exhibits (seven have been held), both Gold Medal and Silver Medal winners of the exhibits and other outstanding CAA art selected by the Hall for its permanent collection.

Joe Beeler of Sedona, Ariz., will be represented with a bronze entitled the "Sioux." James Boren, a Clifton, Texas, artist and former art director of the Cowboy Hall of Fame, will have four watercolors in the exhibit—all of them Gold Medal winners of the CAA exhibits, the oil painting of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame is also Boren's.

Wyoming artist John Clymer will have the 1970 Gold Medal winner in oil painting, "Land of Plenty," on exhibit.

"Through the Aspens," the prize-winning work of Sedona, Ariz., artist Charlie Dye, will be exhibited, as well as "Cowpunchers" by Scottsdale, Ariz., artist John Hampton.

Top drawing of the 1969 show, "Ute Woman With Cradle," by Denver artist Ned Jacob will be displayed. One of the largest pieces in the exhibit, "The Bell Remuda," is a Gold Medal winning oil painting by Robert Lougheed of Newton, Conn.

George Marks will be represented by the oil painting "Going Home." Marks is from Albuquerque, N.M. "Sam Billie," a Navajo, the drawing by R. Brownell McGrew of Cottonwood, Ariz., will be exhibited. It was judged best drawing of the 1970 CAA show.

Albuquerque artist William Moyers has an oil painting, "The Evening Chill," and a bronze, "Range War," in the Hall collection. Tom Ryan of Lubbock is represented in the exhibit with three paintings—"Sharing an Apple," "The Heritage," and "Portrait of George Humphreys."

Browning, Mont., artist Robert Scrivner, a Gold Medal winner, is represented by bronzes titled "The Buffalo Runner," "An Honest Try," and "Pay Window."

"Indian Country," an oil painting by Irvin "Shorty" Shope, will be displayed. Shope is from Great Falls, Mont. Albuquerque artist Gordon Snodow is represented by three works—two watercolors, "A Cup of Coffee and a Cigarette" and "Shipping the O-Bar-N," and the drawing "The Weighing Gate," a Silver Medal winner.

"Wild Horse Country," an oil by Carmel Valley, Calif., artist Jack Swanson, will be shown, and "Run for the Rio Grande," a bronze by Melvin Warren of Clifton, Tex.

The artists are presented in many private and gallery collections. Each has a unique style of his own, a highly individual approach that comes from the artist's ties to Western traditions.

The cowboy Artists live the life they paint, many raise cattle or horses, compete in rodeos, or spend a major part of the year traveling in the West. The CAA holds an annual trail ride.

Like most artists, CAA members are complex beings with multifaceted lives and backgrounds. Many are flamboyant like the West they paint. They usually combine robust Western humor with well-traveled wit—they prefer the outdoor life of the West, but they've been around.

Most are graduates of well-known art schools and have gone through careers as commercial artists and other professions before devoting full time to Western art.

The annual CAA show is kicked off in mid-June every year by a preview and awards banquet attended by art and Americana patrons from across the nation. In addition to first and second (Gold and Silver) medals in art, the Trustees Gold Medal of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame is awarded to a person who has, through the years, made outstanding contributions to Western art.

The National Cowboy Hall of Fame is one of the West's impressive landmarks, with a striking contemporary structure, sparkling fountains, and a flag esplanade atop a wooded hill.

Sponsored by the people of the 17 Western states, it houses a multi-million-dollar collection of Western art and history, including one of the finest collections by the late cowboy artist Charles Russell, the famed End of the Trail heroic statue, the National Rodeo Hall of Fame, and West of Yesterday, a new division with a real pioneer town and many life-like Western settings.

Its resident Cowboy artist show is the largest exhibit of Western art by contemporary painters. The National Cowboy Hall of Fame is a major cultural force in preserving American traditions, with a heritage awards program for Western films and literature and co-sponsorship of the National Finals Rodeo.

In addition to its regular exhibits, the entries in the Seventh Annual Cowboy Artists of America competition are displayed in the entrance gallery of the Hall through the summer until Sept. 4. There were 89 entries this year. Gold and silver medal winners are indicated with medallions.

In the traveling Cowboy Artists' Show, the Hall's collection of CAA art is brought to other states. With the sponsorship of the Board of Trustees, the permanent collection of the art of CAA is enlarged with purchase awards from each year's competition. The traveling exhibit is composed of art from this collection.

Mrs. D.D. Payne of Pampa, a member of the Board of Directors of the Cowboy Hall of Fame, was instrumental in making possible the exhibit for Pampa.

Today In History

Mideast Belligerents Seem To Be Inching Toward Peace Despite Munich Tragedy

By HARRY DUNPHY
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT (AP) — Passions ignited by the Munich tragedy will take a long time to subside, and more violence is likely in the Middle East. But the general impetus is toward peace, not war.

In the weeks before Arab terrorists struck at the Israeli Olympic headquarters, Egypt and Israel showed renewed interest in reaching a negotiated settlement of the 1967 war.

Seasoned diplomats thought it was just a matter of time. Egypt fundamentally altered the strategic equation in July by expelling thousands of Russian troops and military advisers. Without them and without new Soviet arms, Egypt would be virtually powerless in a new war with Israel.

Until the explosion, war in some form seemed inevitable. Now it appears much less likely, but this does not mean that peace is just around the corner.

The thorny, seemingly insoluble problem of Palestinian refugees—and the guerrillas who fight their cause—will continue to upset peace efforts, as they did at Munich.

Israel has warned it will "strike at the terrorist organizations wherever we can," as in the retaliatory air raids in Lebanon and Syria this month. But Prime Minister Golda Meir added: "The terrorists cannot weaken our desire for peace."

They will not alter our peace policy."

Thus although Munich has thrown up a roadblock to peace moves for a while "the dust will settle and we can start up," an official in Tel Aviv said.

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, in a separate holding action of his own, has been preparing a diplomatic offensive to get European Common Market countries involved in trying to arrange a settlement with Israel.

As a result of Munich, relations between Egypt and West Germany, re-established three months ago after a seven-year lapse, are strained. But Bonn did not figure as prominently in Cairo's plans as did Britain and France.

One key to action seems to be the United States and the useful role it can play by using its political weight to secure an Israeli withdrawal.

Perhaps anticipating post-election pressure from Washington, the inner circle of the Israeli Cabinet has been informally discussing what frontiers are needed to guarantee the country's security, but no decision apparently has been reached.

Egypt's primary concern is getting Sinai back. The only realistic way appears to be the U.S. plan for "proximity talks" aimed at an interim agreement to reopen the Suez Canal as a first step. This in turn must await the outcome of the November elections, officials in Cairo believe.

Sadat rejected Mrs. Meir's appeal on July 26 "to meet as equals to make peace," repeating Egypt's position that no negotiations are possible without an advance Israeli commitment to withdraw from occupied land—that otherwise such talks serve only to reward aggression.

The other linchpin in Egypt's position is that there must be no bargaining on the rights of the Palestinians, but this is purposefully left vague.

The guerrilla attack clearly embarrassed the Egyptian government but the guerrillas are not a major factor in official thinking about a possible settlement.

Palestinian leaders get moral support and the use of a radio transmitter but little else from Egypt, which has almost no resident Palestinian population and keeps tight rein on guerrilla activities.

Two years ago the Palestinian guerrillas represented a dynamic new force in the Arab world. Now the movement seems to be on the ropes.

An angry and frustrated Israel has declared war to the bitter end against Arab terrorists and the governments that support them.

The violence which many in the area now think is inevitable may set back peace efforts but is unlikely to shatter them.

The Israeli manhunt against Arab terrorists may — while satisfying an emotional desire for revenge — actually improve peace prospects.

Israel believes Arab governments are unable or unwilling to tackle the Palestinian guerrilla movement and the small, hardcore terrorist element. Israeli leaders evidently believe it is better to stamp the guerrillas out now than let them run loose, lest one day they torpedo a possible peace agreement with Egypt or Jordan.

After the killing of 11 Israelis at the Munich Olympics, the Israeli government said in a statement: "Israel will persevere in its struggle against the terror organizations and will not absolve their accomplices from responsibility for terrorist actions."

Since then Israel has conducted a bombing raid in Syria and a military raid into southern Lebanon, saying both operations were aimed at wiping out guerrilla bases tolerated by the Syrians and Lebanese.

Israel's duty, Prime Minister Golda Meir has said, is "to fight the terrorist organizations to the very end ... to strike at the terrorist organizations wherever we can."

But she said this campaign would "not alter our peace policy." Israel had directed several barely concealed peace feelers at Egypt and Jordan before the Munich tragedy.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban said much the same thing, but his remarks underscored the Israeli determination to wipe out the guerrillas.

Correspondents covering Eban's recent news conference could not remember his ever being so angry as when he said: "Peace isn't the question in my mind today. The question is how to eliminate this scourge (terrorism)."

He made it quite clear that the Munich killings had pushed the search for peace into the background, and he added that, in all future meetings with foreign government officials, "I would not talk to them about anything except this — terrorism."

In an apparent indication he shares the view that Israel eventually will have to redress Palestinian grievances in any peace settlement, Eban concluded: "Any legitimate aspiration in the Middle East can be achieved by peaceful means."

Eban later said Jordan was welcome to include Palestinians in any negotiating team it might send to talk peace.

Representation that would reflect all the parties with whom we wish to reach peace."

However, in discussions before Munich, the Israeli Cabinet was divided over which Arab government to approach first — Egypt or Jordan.

The Israeli defense minister, Gen. Moshe Dayan, believes the first address should be to Egypt, "in whose hands is the key to peace."

Addressing himself obliquely to the Egyptians, Dayan in a speech Aug. 17 suggested a division of the Sinai Peninsula as a "compromise of the Egyptian-Israeli conflict. This line, temporary or permanent, could give the populated areas of both Egypt and Israel maximum security."

Israeli political observers called Dayan's statement a "significant shift in Israeli policy" and noted that Dayan once had said he would rather fight than pull out of occupied territory under a settlement less than full peace.

On the other side in the Israeli Cabinet discussions are those who favor approaching the Arab leader most willing to talk peace at the moment, Jordan's King Hussein. They include Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon, Eban and Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir.

Mrs. Meir appears to be fluctuating between these two lines. AP Correspondent Hal McClure reports from Tel Aviv.

Hussein has a plan for a Palestinian province under his authority. The guerrillas vehemently oppose this. Black September and other extremist groups have vowed to assassinate him if they can.

Thus Israelis believe it is in their interest to remove these groups from the Middle East stage if they can while remaining open to any peace proposals that emanate from Cairo or Amman.

Where does this leave the guerrillas and the many Palestinians outside Jordan and the occupied territories who support their cause and see Hussein and Egypt's President Anwar Sadat moving toward peace?

If Israel stiffens its terms, does not come up with a comprehensive plan for resettlement and compensation for refugees and engages in an indiscriminate manhunt for the terrorists, it is likely to stiffen Palestinian resolve and make recruiting easier for desperate groups.

This could lead to a long, virtually unstopable string of Munichs, putting more roadblocks in the already tortuous path to peace.

But the basic realities remain. Egypt is emerging from Russian entanglement. Israel is militarily supreme. Hussein never has been in a stronger position, and the Palestinian guerrilla movement seems to be losing steam every day.

Thus the impetus is toward peace, and the ball may start rolling after the U.S. elections.

FOR BREAK-UP

Unmarried Couples Turn To Counselors For Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — You don't have to be married to seek out a marriage counselor.

From Boston to Beverly Hills, psychiatrists and counselors say that within the past year unmarried couples have been beating a track to their doors in unprecedented numbers.

The principal reason they come is that most people who live together become emotionally involved and don't know how to break up," said Jarle Brors, founder of the Institute of Marriage and Family Relations in Washington.

Brors was among more than two dozen family counselors questioned in a survey of seven metropolitan areas—Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, New York, St. Louis and Washington. All said their practices now include unmarried couples who live together.

The understanding when they live together is that they're free," Brors said. "But it doesn't usually work that way. It's not much different from marriage except that in one case they have a ring and in one they don't."

One counselor gave this example of an unmarried couple that sought his advice:

Peter and Pat, two college students from New York, had been living together about a year. "Peter insisted he loved Pat and considered their relationship permanent, but he was not ready to get married. Pat was. After numerous arguments, they went to a family counselor. After four sessions, they split up."

It became clear that neither of them felt comfortable together," the counselor said. "After the first session it came out that he did what he damn well pleased, and she felt used, that it was nothing more than a convenience for him."

Many of the counselors said that the intrigue of living together without marriage sometimes wears thin after awhile.

"It's like trying to live with something the spirit doesn't go along with," said Joseph Laliberte, supervisor of the Boston office of the Family Counseling Guidance Center, Inc.

Some counselors said that unmarried couples often seek help in reaction to disapproval from family or neighbors.

In Beverly Hills, Calif., Dr. David Radell, administrative director for the Center for Behavior Therapy, said that unmarried couples make up almost 20 per cent of the center's clientele this year. Treatment, he said, usually takes two half-hour visits each week for 10 to 15 weeks. Each session costs $25 to $35.

Dr. Donald F. Cowan, the center's assistant director, said unmarried couples who seek help often don't have the commitment to each other to follow through with therapy.

"The only thing that's really different (from married couples) is the commitment," he said. "It's more difficult for unmarried couples to follow through with the programs we set up for them. One or another gets dissatisfied. They can just go out and find another partner."

Peter was the only apostle to whom Christ appeared on the day of the resurrection.

The first one-cell forms of life appeared on earth probably about three billion years ago.

BATTIN' AROUND The Disfranchised

BY C.R. BATTEN

The effect of Colorado's primary election on September 12 is already being felt nationwide. The influence of environmental issues will be debated in the press and wherever candidates and their supporters gather to seek the stance that will attract the most voters.

Boulder County had a spirited campaign in the Republican primary between an environmentalist and an incumbent County Commissioner. The incumbent won easily, which leads one to the conclusion that despite all the noise created by the ardent environmentalists, they do not make up the majority which they claim to be.

But environmentalist groups claim credit for the upset of the year—the defeat of Congressman Wayne Aspinall by a younger opponent who campaigned largely on environmental issues.

Now completing his twelfth term in Congress, Aspinall is chairman of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, and has been a leading influence in shaping public land and water policies. He has long been unpopular with conservationists and environmentalists, because of his outspoken support of the commodity uses of federal lands. He headed the "Dirty Dozen" list of Congressmen that Environmental Action wanted to see defeated.

Aspinall's district, after all, is traditionally the western slope of Colorado, where the small and scattered populations depend on ranching, mining and timbering, and where the majority of the lands are owned by the federal government.

It appears likely that the several years work of the Public Land Law Review Commission and its recommendations will go down in defeat with Aspinall. He spearheaded the legislation that created the Commission and became its chairman when it was organized. He promised that its report would be one study of the public lands that would not be put up on a shelf to collect dust, but would be the basis of legislation to end the confusion of thousands of conflicting laws that govern the use of federally owned lands. His land use policy bill now pending was a major effort to initiate some of the recommendations of the report.

There is no doubt that the defeat of the man who is known in western Colorado simply as "Wayne" will change the course of history.

The stage was set for his defeat when Colorado was reapportioned earlier this year. The Republican-controlled legislature (over the objections of some west-slope Republicans) took 19 counties in southwestern Colorado away from Aspinall's district, and added two on the eastern plains, plus a part of Denver suburban Adams County. If the Adams County votes were omitted from the primary, Aspinall would have won by a small margin.

If politics were truly an honest game, and the true goal were to give every person an equal vote, then the west slope of Colorado would have been left intact in one Congressional district, instead of being divided between two districts that extend across the state from west to east—from Utah to Nebraska. The west slope and the east have little in common.

The west slope of Colorado—an area five times the size of Maryland—will probably never again be represented in Congress. The large populations east of the Colorado Rockies have the power to outvote the west slope population in both congressional districts.

Some will say that the man who defeated Aspinall lives on the western slope, but that is debatable. He is a law professor at the University of Denver. He owns a home in Denver, and spends most of his time there. But last year he established a legal residence in Breckenridge, some 90 miles to the west and across the Continental Divide. This carpetbagger's intrusion will be resented by many who already feel the tyranny of the majority east of the Rockies.

I wonder how many other areas have lost in the eternal struggle for political power, and have been effectively disfranchised by reapportionment—areas that may be unique in rich environmental and commodity resources and no longer have a voice in Congress when votes are taken that affect them and the use of the land and resources upon which they must depend.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Tom is the son of one of my former students who took my course in "Efficiency Engineering." That may be why his "horse sense" ideas will shock the bungling bureaucrats who keep raising the taxes of all us productive citizens. They need a DDT treatment!

CASE U-594: Tom G., aged 32, is postmaster in a small city.

"Dr. Crane," he said, "many people are grumbling about the repeated increases in postal rates."

"And well they should!" This may sound shocking, coming from a postmaster, but I know that the Oklahoma crowd of independent handlers of mail can beat us.

"They have pledged that they can distribute first-class letters at less than 6 cents per ounce and still make money!"

"Meanwhile, they will PAY taxes, like other private firms, instead of seeking constant subsidies from Congress to make up deficits."

"And I'll tell you why they can beat us."

"We are the wastebasket department of the federal government, for thousands of incompetents are forced upon us. Why?"

"To pay off political debts of Congressmen and other candidates who finally win election."

"In many large cities, the illiteracy is terrific among postal employees."

"They can't even read! Some illiterates can decipher the Arabic numbers in the zip codes, which is partly why that zip code was enacted."

"And the slow mail delivery is not due to the efficient workers who are literate, but to this growing army of incompetents."

"I don't dare reveal my identity, of course, but I speak for a great many efficient members of the U.S. Postal Service who'd prefer to link with Murray and his Oklahoma private postal system."

"Obviously, the elimination of our inefficient U.S. Postal Department would lead to the discharge of tens of thousands of the present unnecessary employees."

"And they'd howl loudly to the politicians who shoved them upon us as payoffs for their corraling minor ethnic voting blocs."

"But the mail service would improve and costs could actually be LOWERED, not RAISED!"

GOVERNMENT BUNGLING

Tom shows why bureaucracy makes taxes zoom.

And why private enterprise can offer better service at lower costs.

Remember, all private firms PAY taxes, instead of hounding our legislatures and Congress to RAISE taxes to erase bureaucratic red ink.

Alas, the government now anchors thousands of inefficient workers in federal jobs via Civil Service.

That's like the "tenure" system by which second-rate professors remain fixed in their high salaried teaching jobs, even though they are not lecturing more than 9 to 10 hours per week before their 3 classes, with maybe but six to 10 students in each.

Yet they expect taxpayers to ante up $30,000 per year for their salaries when the total tuition input of all their students wouldn't offset half their salaries alone, not to mention heat, light, insurance and all the myriad other overhead expenses.

Since I have taught "Efficiency Engineering," you readers can understand why I am hostile to the bungling, blundering bureaucrats who are sapping their existence from us productive workers out on the real firing line of our "Free Enterprise" system.

They often contribute no more to the GNP (Gross National Product) than wood ticks do to the meat production of cattlemen!

It is thus high time to fumigate Washington, D.C., and get rid of at least 1,000,000 political parasites!

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Mott, Indiana, 47558 enclosing a long, stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

For the first time ever, a girl, Enriqueta Basilio Solto, carried the torch on its last lap around the track, up the stadium steps and lit the Olympic flame at the opening ceremonies in the 1968 summer Olympic Games.

The United Nations Creates A Noncountry

By TOM TIEDE

UNITED NATIONS — (NEA)—It has been an ugly diplomatic year for the Republic of (Nationalist) China. Last October the government was suddenly, that is to say rudely, bounced from a quarter-century of U.N. membership. Short while later, two Taiwan newspaper correspondents were likewise banished from the rolls of the world body. One by one the U.N. cut away other Nationalist affiliations — its position in the World Health Organization, its seat on the International Atomic Energy group. Then, most recently, the word was leaked, splashed, that the U.N. has decided to drop all Taiwan "reference, note or information" from its records and publications.

And now, good golly, as if the wound isn't deep enough, sources say the U.N. may be getting set to apply an official coup de grace. Communist China is reported ready to ask the General Assembly here to formally condemn any mention of Taiwan as separate from the mainland. The vote, if carried, would have the effect, once and for all, of relegating Nationalist China to the status of a noncountry.

Will the vote carry? Taiwan officials fear the worst. "Not because of Peking," says a Nationalist spokesman, "free China can handle its enemies. We have always been able to handle our enemies. It is our friends that we can't seem to control."

Indeed, the friends of "Free China" have, as of late, been less than reliable. The lure of 800 million mainlanders has shaken up the old alliances. Nations which once would not even accept mail from Peking, without first inspecting it, now are maneuvering for diplomatic ties. "Look at the United States, for instance," says one ranking Nationalist. "In the last 10 years Americans have put 45,000 lives and $120 billion into a lost cause like Vietnam. But in that same time they have just stood by with hands in pockets while Free China gets its brains knocked out."

It wasn't always thus. Once the entire free world cheered Taiwan. Twenty-three years ago when the Nationalists were forced from the mainland, most western nations offered aid and encouragement. In the United States, a magazine publisher Henry Luce began a kind of China lobby for "these brave people." On a wider scale, former Congressman Walter Judd created a Committee of One Million to offer not only moral but financial and physical support. And Sen. Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin set his conservative wrath on anyone who would suggest that there was any other China than Free China, any other worthy Chinese than those Chinese on Taiwan.

It was, perhaps, the Mc-

Carthy excess which began to erode the western world's enthusiasm for Taiwan. "He hurt us badly," says I-Cheng Loh, director of the Chinese Information Service in New York. "But we didn't ask him to do the things he did. He was your Frankenstein, not our Frankenstein." Nonetheless, after McCarthy, after the witch hunts for Communist sympathizers, Free China never seemed so free again and Communist China didn't seem that much more enslaved. Over the years the original sympathy turned to apathy, then to some animosity. Today, Luce's China Lobby is long dead and moldering, the Committee of One Million has changed its name (Committee for a Free China) and is moribund in Washington, and opinion polls indicate that most people no longer are interested in Taiwan's survivability.

"Friends?" scoffs I-Cheng Loh, "give me the enemy any day."

For its part, the Republic of China has decided to accept its damaged image and diplomatic reversals with as much calm as possible. Eleven months after their U.N. removal, they say: "We are disappointed but not dead." Officials try to play down the embarrassments with quips ("The U.N. and the Communists deserve each other") or the rhetoric ("West Germany is not in the U.N. and it seems to be doing very well").

And actually, measured any other way than diplomatically, Taiwan is not in any national or international trouble. Since the U.N. ouster the Nationalists have increased the number of their consulates in the United States from eight to 10, and maintain "300 to 400 diplomats and business executives here." Since the ouster, the nation's trade has grown, not shrunk: "In the first five months of 1972 our exports are up 37 per cent over a corresponding period last year." So bright are the nation's finances, in fact, they have purchased ($180,000) an upcoming newspaper supplement (in The New York Times) which has been entitled, "Free China Is Alive and Well."

Yet despite the public posture of cheer, the sting of the last year still hurts Taiwan. "Please," says an embassy official, "don't call us Taiwan. Call us the Republic of China. We are not Taiwan. We are China, temporarily on Taiwan."

And the worst of the sting, obviously, is the loss of confidence in former allies. Says Information Agency director I-Cheng Loh: "I have done my best to drum up indignant support for Free China. But except for some newspaper editorials, there has been no worldwide outcry. And even the newspapers seem to be blacking out Free China these days. Recently I sent out a story about how the new Communist delegation has built a big wall outside its living quarters in New York."

Harvesters Have Final Practice For Perryton

The Pampa Harvesters wind up their practices for tomorrow night's game with Perryton today with a light work-out scheduled.

Pampa is looking for its second win of the year after defeating Dumas 8-7 last week. The Harvesters were able to withstand some bad breaks and questionable penalties to come back in the fourth quarter after trailing the whole game.

After beating Borger 6-0 in its season opener, Perryton is hoping to rebound from a 27-20 defeat at the hands of Clovis, N.M. last Friday.

Several line-up changes have been announced for the Harvesters this week. Rick Leverich, who took over the quarterbacking role on Pampa's second possession last Friday, is slated to start the game this week.

Gary Jennings will be at the right guard slot replacing Billy Lemons and Bill Cox will start at right tackle in place of Harmon Staus. Lemons and Staus will remain at their tackle positions on defense.

Chuck Reeves is starting at the strong safety position on defense this week in place of Leverich.

Harvester head coach Buddy Williams said that "Perryton is a sound team, both offensively and defensively. They have a good kicking game and they have been able to take advantage of their opponent's mistakes." The Rangers work from what is termed the "Denver City" formation on offense. It features wide splits on the line and the backfield lines up very close to the line of scrimmage in a balanced set.

On occasion they use a pro set and a formation reminiscent of the "Shotgun" used by the Dallas Cowboys in their early days.

The advantage of the "Denver City" formation is that it is both quick hitting and sound.

Perryton had two runners that were impressive in the Clovis game, fullback Mike Haberthur (180), and halfback Steve Bonner. Quarterback Mike Dear (195) is also a good athlete.

Offensively Pampa will start Jesse Hunnicutt and Rick McGuire at the ends, Larry Johnson and Cox at the tackles, Ed Townsend and Jennings at the guard slots and David Lanehart at center.

In the backfield with Leverich will be fullback Jack King and halfbacks Richard McCampbell and Steve Mathis. Reeves is also slated to see much action on offense.

The defensive line finds Jody Johnson and King at the ends, Staus and Lemons at the tackles and Townsend at noseguard.

The linebackers are Hunnicutt and Kim Lindsey. In the secondary, Rick Smith and Mathis are the corners and McCampbell and Reeves the safeties.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Earl Weaver, bless his optimistic soul, has finally figured out the American League East pennant scramble. All he needs to win it is a little help from his friends.

After his Baltimore Orioles absorbed a vital 9-1 and 4-0 doubleheader sweep at the hands of front-running Boston to tumble 2½ games off the Red Sox' pace Wednesday night, Weaver studied his handy, dandy baseball schedule and discovered that Boston spends the next four days playing second-place Detroit. Then the Baltimore boss offered his analysis.

"I'll be rooting for my good friend Billy Martin Thursday and Saturday," revealed Weaver. "And I'll be rooting for my good friend Eddie Kasko Friday and Sunday. If my good friends win, we'll get Boston three in a row and we'll be all even with three games to go."

Simple, huh?
Managers Martin of the Tigers and Kasko of the Red Sox are in infinitely better shape than Weaver today. Detroit trimmed Cleveland 4-1 Wednesday night and is second, one game behind the Sox with 12 to play compared to Boston's 13.

That's an awful lot better than Weaver's Orioles, now third, 2½ behind with only nine to play. Fourth place New York, played out at Milwaukee, is 3½ behind with 12 games remaining.
Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday night, Oakland reduced its magic number in the West to seven by whipping Chicago 6-3. Minnesota topped Texas 3-1 and Kansas City defeated California 9-2.

Baltimore's slumbering bats ran into two hot pitchers in Boston and Marty Pattin and Luis Tiant simply proved to be too much for the Orioles.

Pattin surrendered five hits in the opener and had an easy time of it when Boston exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning. Carlton Fisk drove in three runs and Rico Petrocelli and Dwight Evans two apiece for the Red Sox.

The victory ran Pattin's record to 15-12 after he horrendous 2-9 start. He is 13-3 since June 12.

Tiant has been even hotter. The veteran right-hander with the herky-jerky motion, improved his record to 13-5 with a four-hitter in the nightcap. He has won nine of his last 10 games and six of his last seven victories have been shutouts.

Evans contributed a triple and homer to the second game victory.

Woody Fryman fired a six-hitter and drove in a pair of runs with a clutch single after Duke Sims, another NL refugee, had snapped a ninth inning tie with a double.

The victory gave Fryman an 8-2 record with the Tigers since coming over from Philadelphia in early August. Since his arrival, Fryman alone has won more games for the Tigers than Mickey Lolich, Tom Timmerman and Joe Coleman have won combined.

The Yankees were trailing 2-0 against Milwaukee before the rain washed out the deficit and the game. It will be replayed tonight.

After their five-hour, 15-inning marathon the night before, Oakland and Chicago played a relatively routine encore with the A's winning 6-3, restoring their West Division edge to five games over the slipping Sox.

Ken Holtzman won his 18th game—a career high—for Oakland while Wilbur Wood, 24-15, took the loss. Home runs by Reggie Jackson and Sal Bando in the second inning posted the A's towards the victory.

John Mayberry crashed a first-inning grand slam homer and pitcher Steve Busby drove in three runs with a double and two singles as Kansas City trimmed California. Busby limited the Angels to six hits and had what appeared to be a grand slam homer nullified in the first inning when Umpire John Rice ruled that time had been called before he swung the bat.

Minnesota rallied for three runs in the eighth inning, two of them on a bases-loaded single by Bob Darwin to overtake Texas. The Rangers, limited to only two hits in eight innings against Jim Perry, led 1-0 until the late Twins' comeback.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Question 1: Did Tom Seaver have a good fastball?

Question 2: Did the Pittsburgh Pirates clinch the National League East pennant?
If you know the answer to No. 1 is "yes," you can rest assured the answer to No. 2 is "no."

Seaver had his fastball and his hard slider and his curve Wednesday night and the result was the New York Mets temporarily beached the Pirates' flag-clinching party by beating them 4-1.

The Pirates need just one victory or a loss by the second-place Chicago Cubs, but the victory isn't coming easily.

Pittsburgh took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Vic Davalillo's triple and Rennie Stennett's single but Seaver bore down.

The Mets scored three runs in the third, two of them on Duffy Dyer's triple. Jim Beauchamp added a run with a sacrifice fly. The fourth New York run was driven in by Jim Fregosi's single in the fourth.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati beat San Francisco 8-6, Atlanta thumped Houston 13-6, Philadelphia edged St. Louis 2-1, Chicago downed Montreal 6-2 and Los Angeles clipped San Diego 5-3.

In the American League Boston beat Baltimore 9-1 and 4-0, and it was Detroit 4-1, Cleveland 1-1, Minnesota 3-1, Texas 1-0, Oakland 6-2, Chicago 2-1, and Kansas City 9-6, California 2-1.

Cincinnati is another team with champagne on ice; the Reds' magic number is two. Pete Rose capped a four-run rally in the eighth with a two-run triple. Johnny Bench had hit his 36th homer to give the NL West-leading Reds a 1-0 lead and Bobby Tolan added two more with his eighth homer.

Atlanta scored all 13 runs in the second inning. Felix Millan drove in five with a triple and single and Dusty Baker hit a three-run homer. The Braves sent 19 batters to the plate against four Astro pitchers. Houston's Cesar Cedeño hit a two-run homer and Doug Rader hit a three-run shot.

Steve Carlton outpitched the man he was traded for and won his 25th for Philadelphia. Rick Wise of St. Louis was touched for a run in the first and another in the sixth. Tommy Hutton drove in the first Phil's run and scored the second.

Milt Pappas won his 200th career victory when the Cubs beat Montreal. He was backed by Glenn Beckert's two-run single and solo homers by Billy Williams and Ron Santo. Mike Jorgensen and Ron Fairly hit homers for the Expos.

Manny Mota's two-run pinch single in the eighth broke a tie for a Los Angeles victory.

Schoolboy Standings

By Associated Press
Defending state Class 2-A champion Jacksboro finally has its star billing back after waiting patiently in the wings for the past couple of weeks.

That's because Refugio, which held the No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll, flopped in its opening night performance last week.

The loss propelled Jacksboro into the lead and dropped Refugio to sixth in this week's poll. San Antonio Lee in Class 4-A, Uvalde in Class 3-A, Sonora in Class 1-A and Celina in Class B, all held onto their top rankings however.

Refugio's loss wasn't a disgrace. They just had the misfortune of playing Cuero, ranked fifth in Class 3-A, in their opening game.

Three of Class 4-A's top 10 teams had mistortune in last week's games. Wichita Falls was upset by Amarillo High, sixth ranked Austin Reagan was dumped as expected by No. 1 San Antonio Lee, and 10th ranked Richardson was tied by Dallas Thomas Jefferson.

Wichita Falls and Reagan dropped to ninth and 10th this week and Richardson fell from the top ten.

In Class 3-A, Gregory-Portland fell from second to sixth after losing to Class 4-A Corpus Christi Carroll and Brownwood dropped from the list after losing its second straight game. Hondo was another loser in Class 2-A but it also had rugged competition in taking a 20-7 dunking from Uvalde. Stinnett and Three Rivers dropped from the Class 1-A list after each lost its second straight game.

Chillicothe was a casualty in Class B but remained on the list as the No. 10 team.

Julius Erving Suggests Hawks May Offer Deal

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Julius Erving, facing possible export from the Atlanta Hawks to the Milwaukee Bucks, has suggested that the Hawks may want to offer a deal to the Bucks involving "cash and a future draft choice."

The 6-foot-7 forward expressed surprise at Wednesday's ruling by the National Basketball Association's board of governors that rights to his talents belonged to Milwaukee, not Atlanta.

"I hadn't anticipated this," said Erving, who still is involved in a New York suit over his jump from the Virginia Squires of the American Basketball Association to the Hawks of the NBA for a reported $1 million.

"I was fairly optimistic about being here (at the Hawks training camp) and staying here."

Contacted by telephone in San Francisco, where the NBA board made its decision, Hawks President Bill Putnam said the Hawks would defy the league, if necessary, to retain Erving.

"It's not as bad as it sounds," he said. "The ruling of the board of governors (the team owners) was based on the NBA by-laws and constitution."

"Our position was that the by-laws did not apply to Erving since he was not a college student and is a professional."

He said the Hawks planned legal action, but refused to give the details.

Putnam said Erving will remain in the Hawks camp, will participate in exhibition games beginning Saturday and will open the season in a Hawk uniform.

"That's assuming there are no complications in the New York court case on Erving," he said.

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy thought otherwise and said, "I am advising the Hawks tomorrow (Thursday) that Erving cannot train in their camp."

Putnam said the Hawks have proof that Erving signed a contract with Atlanta several days before the 1972 draft, when Milwaukee claimed him. The Bucks, however, contended that they drafted him before the signing and took the hassle to the NBA board.

Asked why the Hawks didn't alert the league to the contract with Erving if it came before the spring draft, Putnam responded: "In using hindsight, that was probably our only mistake in the thing. We didn't say anything during the draft because Julius had requested that we keep it secret."

Person Wins First Round

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Curtis Person of Memphis, the 1968 and 1969 titleholder, rallied to defeat Jim Ferrie of Indian Wells, Calif., 1-up in 21 holes Wednesday in first-round match play of the U.S. Seniors Amateur Golf Championships.

Person led the 16 survivors into Thursday's two rounds. Some of the other top seniors surviving the opening round were Ed Meister of Willoughby, Ohio; William Hyndman of Huntington Valley, Pa.; and Ernest Pieper of San Jose, Calif.

Only non-state resident on Penn State's baseball team is pitcher Len Barick, a freshman from Succasunna, N.J.

Ali Stops Patterson On 7th Round TKO

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali unleashed a flow of superlatives in praise of Floyd Patterson, offered him a rematch and then clamored for heavyweight champion Joe Frazier.

"Patterson is a great, great fighter. I thought he'd be nothing but he surprised me," Ali said after he hammered Patterson's left eye shut, sliced open a gash above the optic and stopped him after seven rounds of a scheduled 12-round fight

Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden.

"I didn't knock him out. I didn't get him on a TKO. Ali did close his eye," Ali said.

Despite the loss, the 37-year-old Patterson said he would resume training and refused to entertain thoughts of retirement.

The bout between the two former heavyweight champions had few highlights for the first five rounds as Ali, 218 pounds and enjoying a nine-inch reach advantage, danced around Patterson and jabbed. Patterson, 188½ pounds, brought thunderous roars from the crowd of 17,378 that paid $512.361 when he landed several rights and left hooks and dug punches into Ali's midriff.

However, it was evident Ali was merely testing Patterson for the early part of the bout.

"Ali had to study Patterson's style for the first few rounds," Angelo Dundee, Ali's manager said. "Patterson was zigging and zagging and Ali had to figure him out."

In the sixth, Ali unloaded a flurry of lefts and rights, ripped open the cut and rocked Patterson with a right flush on the jaw shortly before the bell. He staggered Patterson again in the seventh with sharp combinations while the half-blinded Patterson—his eye swollen tight and blood streaming down his cheek—managed to land two good rights. The ringside physician halted the bout in between the seventh and eighth rounds.

Ali, who has been fighting regularly since being dethroned by Frazier in a 15-round title fight in March, 1971, said he was ready for the champion and berated Frazier for refusing to defend against a top contender.

"All he did was fight two nobodies and then retire to his chicken plantation," Ali said.

Deadline Nearing grid quiz

by Dave Nelson, executive secretary, NCAA Football Rules Committee

With seconds left in the half, on first down the clock is stopped because of the Kansas quarterback immediately after receiving the snap throws the ball forward into the legs of an ineligible lineman.

The official should:

1. Declare an incomplete pass.
2. Penalize Kansas for intentional grounding of a pass.
3. Penalize for illegal touching and start the clock on the ready for play signal.

Answer: Number 3. Penalize for illegal touching and start the clock on the ready for play signal.

Rule: (7-3-2-d) A pass is grounded if intentionally thrown to the ground or out of bounds to save a loss of yardage or to conserve time.

Rule: (7-3-10) No originally ineligible player while in-bounds shall touch a forward pass until it has touched an opponent.

Interpretations Book, Page 20, Item (d): With seconds remaining in a half, the clock is stopped because "T" quarterback receiving snap immediately throws the ball forward into legs of ineligible lineman Al. Ruling: The incompletion does not qualify as intentional grounding (7-3-2-d). It is illegal touching and could be 5 or 15 yards penalty, according to position of Al (7-3-10). The clock will start on the ready (3-4-3).

Major Hoople Picks Texas And Notre Dame

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Peerless Prognosticator

Egad, friends, we have some tasty pigskin tidbits in store for you this week. Two of the nation's perennial powers — Texas and Notre Dame are slated to see action for the first time. Top-ranked Southern California will go for the third win in a row, as will rugged Colorado and surprising UCLA. Everywhere you look on Saturday there's a big game on tap.

Here's the way the Hoople System sees some of these biggies.

Darrell Royal's Texas Longhorns will make it rough on the Miami Hurricanes as they repulse the invaders, 26-21. At the same time Ara Parseghian will take the wraps off his '72 Irish eleven meeting strong Northwestern in Evanston. Our data—kaff kaff—indicates a close 22-16 triumph for Notre Dame — um-kumph!

Southern California's Trojans with two impressive wins behind them will chalk up another by thrashing Illinois 29-8 on the latter's home grounds. It will be the same story for powerful Colorado which is the Hoople choice to whip Minnesota when these two fine institutions meet for the first time on the gridiron.

For surprising UCLA there is a surprise in store. The Uclans, who shocked Nebraska and narrowly whipped Pittsburgh, are in for a bit of shock themselves when they entertain Michigan in the Los Angeles Coliseum. Our scouts, Jack Wolverine and Golden Gates, who have been watching these clubs for us, see Michigan finishing on the long end of a 15-12 count—har-rumph!

Another astonishing result is foreseen for the clash of Johnny Ray's rejuvenated Kentucky Wildcats and Bear Bryant's 'Bama Boys in Birmingham. The Wildcats with sparkling newcomer quarterback Dinky McKay at the controls will upset the Crimson Tide, 17-14! Yas.

The Old Boy Himself

dear readers, that's what's in the cards.

Other contests worthy of note will find Arkansas stopping Oklahoma State, 30-20; Nebraska leveling Army, 33-7; Stanford walloping Duke, 35-12; high-scoring SMU rolling over Florida, 35-8; LSU taking Texas A&M, 28-22, and mighty Oklahoma shading a fine Oregon team, 35-28.

In a bruising Mid-American Conference battle the Miami Redskins will edge the visiting Bowling Green Falcons. Your Peerless Prognosticator confidently picks the Redskins to prevail, 22-18 over the B-G Falcons who last week upended Purdue! —Now go on with the forecast.

2---Buffalo Braves

NBA—Atlantic Division

1971-72 finish: W 22, L 60—4th place

PROSPECTUS: Except for bright promise shown by 7-foot center Elmore Smith, top vote-getter on All-Rookie Team, and continued strong play of forward Bob Kauffman, 1971-72 was an easy year to forget for Buffalo. Johnny McCarthy was fired at season's end and Jack Ramsay imported from Philadelphia. Braves came up with two of best rookies from college ranks and figure to leave Atlantic Division cellar for first time. Still, they don't figure to stray far.

FORWARDS: The Braves gambled that Bob McAdoo, 6-9 forward from North Carolina's great NCAA tournament team, would sign with them. He did. NBA's lowest-scoring team last winter got a great prospect—a strong rebounder with a soft outside touch. McAdoo also penetrates exceptionally well and fits in with a running team, which Buffalo will be. At other forward is Kauffman, two-time All-Star, a 'bull on the boards who averaged 18.9 points with all-out hustle. There is little depth behind these two. The best is 6-9 John Hummer (5.2), a disappointment who missed 27 games with injuries. Bill Hasket (5.1) is helpful in spots when healthy. Cornell Warner (6.2) rebounds well. Rating: B+.

CENTER: Elmore Smith is the hope of the franchise. Coming off great rookie year he will get better each year. Has been playing basketball just five years. Finished fifth in rebounding and averaged 17.3 points. May be best shot blocker since Bill Russell. Must overcome tendency to give away cheap personal fouls. But has great attitude, good coach and good personnel to complement his talents. Rating: B+.

GUARDS: Randy Smith, an obscure draft pick from local Buffalo State, not only made team but averaged 13.4 points and filled in at forward. His spring and leaping ability make 6-3 Smith doubly helpful. Walt Hazzard, who changed his name this summer to Abdul Rahman, must be counted on as leader of a young team. Rahman averaged 15.8 points and 5.6 assists. Fred Hilton, last year's No. 2 draft pick, was sizzling hot at times and stone cold many other times. Harold Fox, No. 2 pick this year from Jacksonville, may be future star guard the team needs. In the meantime, there are Dick Garrett (10.8), a steady but not starry three-year vet, and Mike Davis (9.1). Rating: C+.

PREDICTION: Smith, Kauffman and McAdoo —a strong and promising front line, will lift Buffalo from oblivion. Third in Atlantic.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Freedom To Depart

Don Oakley of Newspaper Enterprise Assn. writes about the basic freedom the American citizen has to leave the country at any time he wishes. But Mr. Oakley is in error.

He says this "basic right" is taken for granted by Americans, although it is nowhere directly mentioned in the Constitution or the Bill of Rights.

It is not merely the rights of free speech and press, or the ultimate power of the ballot in the hands of the citizen, that distinguishes between democracies and totalitarian systems, Mr. Oakley writes.

It is the right of any fed-up citizen to bug out for good and all any time he doesn't like the way the country is going or thinks he can find a better life somewhere else.

In a recent book on Vietnam war resisters who have fled to Canada, a number of the deserters or draft evaders remarked upon the ridiculous ease with which they crossed the border—as if this were one more proof of stupidity in Washington.

It did not dawn on them that the very simplicity of foreign travel for Americans, particularly travel to our nearest neighbors, Canada and Mexico, undercut much of their allegations about U.S. imperialism.

To be sure, dictatorships have often found it useful to rid themselves of dissidents or those they considered undesirable, but it has always been for a price. We have only to look to Cuba for a modern model.

There, until the Castro government found it convenient to stop further emigration, those who wished to leave had to place themselves on the list of "gusanos," or worms, and in a political and social limbo.

After many long months, those fortunate enough to be permitted aboard the one daily plane to Miami would take with them little more than the clothes on their backs. All their property and wealth had been confiscated by the government.

Much the same thing is happening in Russia today. Jews who are crazy enough to want to leave that other workers' paradise to emigrate to Israel have been required to pay an exit fee of nearly $1,000.

Now, on top of that, a new tax has been levied on Jews holding academic degrees, ranging from $5,400 for a teacher to $23,500 for a person with a university doctorate.

Whether the tax is seen as an effort to discourage an intellectual brain drain or as a form of vindictiveness or, along with the exit fee, as merely a source of revenue for the Soviet government makes little difference.

It is one more practice which separates the indecent governments of this world from the decent.

What Mr. Oakley apparently fails to see is that the political government of the United States does not recognize the basic right of citizens to leave the country. It is simply a situation in which permission to leave is less difficult to obtain.

But in principle, the power to control the citizen in the United States as to his coming and going is the same as in Soviet Russia or Cuba. Our politicians just have not exercised all their power—yet.

The Cubans and the Soviets recognize what they consider a threat to their power when citizens wish to leave and take their property with them. Therefore the politicians place certain restrictions and penalties for this exodus.

The politicians of the United States as yet do not consider departure from this nation a threat to their power.

But it is a fact that the Executive Orders of the President clearly establish a system for control of people wishing to depart these shores at any time the President determines such departure is or may be detrimental to the operation of the political government.

You have some idea, of course, where Nixon stands. Washington, Key Biscayne, San Clemente.

McGovern is way short of campaign money. He's suffering from a kind of buck-a-gue.

How about the reliability of the candidates? Anyone wanting to be president these days must be crazy.

Capitalism Edging Into China Door

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Hong Kong friends report that in recent months Mao Tse-tung has taken a few timid steps toward capitalistic free enterprise in China.

Following Communist theory, managers during Mao's Cultural Revolution were ordered to give their workers equal pay regardless of how much they produced. But in recent months, after a trial run of some years, equal pay has been denounced, blamed on Mao's enemies, its proponents castigated as "egalitarians." Industries have been ordered to pay workers according to the amount and quality of work.

The planting of private plots by farmers has been banned time and again over the years as archaic capitalistic recidivism. In recent months, the order has gone out that Mao officially sanctions these plots.

Private industry and profits have been frowned upon since Mao's armies took over China two decades ago. But since early this year farmers have been officially allowed to run small-scale cottage industries for profit.

It is clear from the reports out of Hong Kong that none of these shifts made Mao's men happy. It appears they were bowing to the inevitable.

In explaining the move to pay workers according to their production, Chinese mainland newspapers have noted that peasants receiving equal pay lost their socialist enthusiasm. Production fell sharply and the economy was threatened with disruption.

Regardless of orders to the contrary, through this purge and that over the years, Chinese farmers have clung in one way or another to their private plots, whatever the penalties.

Villagers, especially in areas far from Peking and Shanghai, have operated their own illegitimate enterprises in increasing numbers over the years in defiance of authority.

But China watchers in Washington believe Mao wasn't merely giving in. The excesses of the Cultural Revolution had created great uneasiness throughout the nation. China was badly split again by the vast purges of Mao's enemies this past year in weeding out the adherents of Lin Biao, whom Mao first appointed as his successor, then destroyed.

Mao, the theory runs, has ordered a nationwide easing up to mend his badly torn fences, consolidate his rule and bring the wobbly Chinese economy back on its feet.

Mao's men have been ordered to show tolerance toward the political errors of those who repent, particularly if they are technologists, or specialists with special skills. Experienced schoolteachers, replaced during the Cultural Revolution by politically reliable but inept substitutes, are now being brought back to their old jobs.

Intellectuals are being reinstated after rehabilitation, some after rewriting their major works. Universities are accepting some students from nonworking-class backgrounds.

A few Western films have been shown. Some classics, denounced during the purges, have been brought out in new editions.

There reportedly is less repression of religion, though the propaganda against worship continues full tilt. Some temples have been allowed to reopen; their desecration is no longer sanctioned.

Muslims have been allowed to celebrate their festivals. Catholic and Protestant Christians held Easter Services this year with some small number of Chinese attending.

The general staff of our military establishment should determine our troop dispositions. If U.S. troop presence is necessary in Europe, then it should be maintained.

This, of course, is a separate issue from foreign aid. The latter was conceived by liberal, one-world politicians as a do-good act and its announced motive was to thwart the advance of communism. This it has not done. Instead, it has simply drained off tax dollars from the citizens of this country.

Our present troop dispositions in Europe probably could not stop a determined Russian offensive to overrun our allies, but they could hinder them until such time as the formidable power of the U.S. could be brought to the fore. It should not be forgotten, also, that we have solemn treaty obligations to the people of Western Europe. We have no formal obligations to continue foreign aid. We had none to start with and the termination of this program would be a step forward. We should have ended it long ago.

History suggests that George McGovern take less comfort from the shallowness of Mr. Nixon's backing, and worry more about the fact that it seems so broad. For, unless the President's thin crust is compressed within much narrower boundaries than prevail today, he will win in a sweep.

BRUCE BIOSSAT Nixon's Support Thin but Broad

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Nearly every test of public sentiment shows President Nixon's support among American voters to be broad but quite thin. That gives Sen. George McGovern hope, and induces great caution among political forecasters. But should it?

The universal observation about Lyndon Johnson in 1964 was that he was the great unloved candidate, whose support was a "mile wide and an inch deep." By contrast, GOP nominee Barry Goldwater had a dedicated following that would go through fire for him.

Well, in case you've forgotten, Johnson beat Goldwater by 16 million votes. He won all but five states and took six big ones by margins of more than a million votes each. No candidate in history has ever come close to equaling that part of his performance.

As for Richard Nixon, there's nothing new about his not being loved.

After he was nominated for president the first time in 1960 at Chicago, he held a pronounced lead over John F.

Kennedy. It is common today to say he blew it. But the picture then was not nearly so sure for him as observers now imagine.

The University of Michigan's Survey Research Center, reporting in 1961 on a long series of poll samplings taken in the previous year's campaign, said that in mid-summer of 1960 there were an unusually high number of undecided voters—upwards of 30 per cent of those queried.

The center's researchers suggest two things. One, that Kennedy was still largely unknown to millions of Americans (a majority of them Democrats) until he was nominated in July. Two, that my mid-September most Protestant Democrats knew of him, knew also that he was a Catholic, and were in considerable torment about how to vote.

Nevertheless, said the center's experts, Kennedy in time began to make heavy inroads with the doubters. The poll findings indicated that from late September until election day, the undecided moved off the fence in a steady procession—in a ratio of two to one for Kennedy.

So, if these samplings are at all accurate, they mean the 1960 election was narrowly determined at the last moment by voters who were neither Mr. Nixon's nor Kennedy's to claim in midsummer.

In 1968, I did four major Republican convention delegate surveys in the months leading up to Mr. Nixon's second nomination. Looking back over these reports, I find repeated reference to evidence, in state after state, that Mr. Nixon's delegate support was loose or fluid or thin. His own chief delegate-hunters acknowledged that this was so.

Yet this did not prevent him from winning a convincing first ballot nomination at Miami Beach. He buried Governors Rockefeller and Reagan.

Nothing much changed for Mr. Nixon in the fall of 1968. There is no persuasive evidence that in the space of a few months he suddenly became the loved one. Nor, indeed, did he widen his support in the general electorate. But most of what he had stayed with him; thin or not.

The lesson in all this is obvious: Thinness of support is not necessarily crippling. Votes count whether they are thick or thin.

History suggests that George McGovern take less comfort from the shallowness of Mr. Nixon's backing, and worry more about the fact that it seems so broad. For, unless the President's thin crust is compressed within much narrower boundaries than prevail today, he will win in a sweep.

Your Health Questions on Soldier's Heart

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would you comment on the difference between soldier's heart disease and effort syndrome compared to angina pectoris caused by atherosclerosis in terms of their symptoms and treatment? I have been treated for four years for coronary heart disease. My blood pressure is normal, cholesterol normal, I don't smoke, or have diabetes. I'm not overweight, or have other evidences of circulatory problems. I'm inclined to think my doctor may be treating me for the wrong thing and perhaps I have soldier's heart disease.

Dear Reader—You must have been doing some reading since not very many people know about soldier's heart disease. Angina pectoris, of course, is pain in the chest usually caused by atherosclerosis (fatty deposits in the arteries). It is a very common disease in the American population and another manifestation of the same disorder of the heart that causes the common heart attack. The main difference is that the attacks are much shorter in duration and often milder.

Soldier's heart disease is sometimes called neurocirculatory asthenia. Individuals with the problem have symptoms that simulate angina pectoris or heart disease although they have nothing structurally wrong with their heart. These individuals often have sharp pain under the left nipple. They become breathless with minimal amounts of exertion and some complain of skipped beats or palpitations of the heart. Faintness while standing is common. It is also called "effort syndrome" because many of the reactions resemble the feeling a person has after having done an unusual amount of effort.

It was commonly observed in soldiers undergoing physical training and Sir Thomas Lewis, a famous British heart specialist, observed that it occurred in office workers and men with sedentary habits who were then put into a fairly vigorous physical training program. Most heart specialists feel that individuals who have this kind of problem are in poor physical condition and that the proper treatment is a very gradual increase in the level of physical activity.

Since a person who is taking medicine for heart disease, such as you are, may have a fairly serious problem, it is very important that the individual doesn't take it upon himself to try to differentiate between these two problems. That's what the doctor is for. If you're wrong and decide you merely have symptoms caused by an inadequate level of physical fitness and embark on an exercise program on your own, you can do yourself a great deal of harm. The doctor will make his decision by careful examination and sometimes by the effects of exercise upon the electrocardiogram taken before, sometimes during, and after the exercise period, in the doctor's office.

McGovern's Campaign Methods

Raise Competency Questions

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—For a man seeking the highest office in the land, with its awesome responsibilities and inordinate strains and demands, Sen. McGovern's seeming inability to plan, organize, and direct an effective and smooth-running campaign is a somber cause for the gravest doubts about the measure and caliber of his competence.

If the glib-talking South Dakota leftist can't put together and run an efficient and high-powered electioneering operation, the inescapable question arises: On what grounds is he qualified to run the country?

Certainly not on the basis of his chameleon record as the Democratic Presidential Standard bearer.

It is two months since McGovern won the nomination, yet his campaign is still a fumbling and bumbling mess, rent by internal wrangling and bickering, with no forceful leadership or decisive control, and waffling and wobbling with constantly shifting and juggling policies, tactics and loyalties.

This inner chaos, turmoil, inconsistency and contradiction prevails not only in the top headquarters but is to be found right in McGovern's own entourage and stumping operations. No day passes without its quota of bloopers and snafus.

To the country at large, this profoundly significant state of affairs is virtually unknown.

While the upheavals, wrangles and clamorous antics of the main headquarters in Washington have been aired to some extent, the mishaps and misadventures afflicting McGovern's furious racing about the country have gone unnoticed for two reasons:

(1) He is whizzing around so fast that the newsmen covering him don't have the time to find out what is really going on, or if they do, to report it. (2) Privately, most of them are for him and, to put it bluntly, go out of their way to protect him.

Typical Example
A graphic illustration of a characteristic McGovern-type operation was his recent weekend electioneering sortie in New Mexico.

It was rife with bloopers and whoopers. As one local veteran Democratic leader observed, shaking his head in amazement when it was all over: "If Magoo and that brass crew of his didn't make any mistakes, it was only because they didn't think of them."

Following is a brief account of what dismayed this politico:

In the small crowd of about 200 at the airport to greet McGovern, there were no state party leaders or officials. That was not an accident or oversight. Their exclusion was deliberate—so the publicity play could be focused on a young McGovern zealot running for Congress. The candidate had gone all-out for the South Dakota radical in the fight for convention delegates, and McGovern was returning the favor—at the cost of offending potent Democrats whose support he needs to carry the state.

Foremost among them are Sens. Clinton Anderson and Joseph Montoya, and Gov. Bruce King.

Significantly, Anderson, 77 and retiring after 39 years in public life, including 24 years in the Senate and Secretary of Agriculture in the Truman cabinet, has very noticeably NOT endorsed McGovern. Local insiders are offering bets he never will.

With a group of others, Montoya did have a breakfast meeting with McGovern the next morning. But the junior senator, who likes to consider himself the top Democrat in New Mexico, made no political capital out of this affair—to his private resentment. He felt he deserved more "recognition" from McGovern than being asked to a group breakfast.

Gov. King didn't even get that. He was refused admittance to see McGovern. This happened in the afternoon when the governor called "to pay his respects." Nominally, King is supporting McGovern, although he isn't particularly keen about him and has no intention of exerting himself in his behalf.

But King did go through the motions of being outwardly hospitable—only to be turned away. McGovern was busy, he was told, and no appointment had been made for him to see the governor at that particular time.

King shrugged and went about his business.

A couple of hours later, McGovern, to his dismay, learned about the stupid rebuff and a frantic effort was made to reach King. He couldn't be found. But the story of the incident rapidly spread all over town.

That's the way it went throughout the weekend—one boner after another.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The NS (Nuclear Ship) Savannah, the world's first atomic-powered merchant ship, was launched July 21, 1959, at Camden, N.J. The World Almanac notes. The ship was 595 feet long and displaced 15,585 tons. There are three other nuclear-powered merchant vessels—the Lenin, U.S.S.R.; Mutsu, Japan; Otto Hahn, Germany.
