Weinberger charge

WASHINGTON — A federal judge Friday threw out an Iran-Contra charge against former Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger that was brought four days before the election and prompted allegations prosecutors were trying to harm President Bush's re-election campaign. Four felony charges remain against Weinberger — for trial Jan. 5./7A

Verdict on priest

MINNEAPOLIS — The first trial of a former Roman Catholic priest accused of sexually abusing dozens of children in three states ended Friday in his conviction of molesting a 15-year-old baby sitter in 1987. The now-21-year-old woman wept as the verdict was announced in a courtroom crowded with some of the dozens of people who have accused James R. Porter of abusing them while he was a priest in Massachusetts, Minnesota and New Mexico./7C

Television violence

WASHINGTON — ABC, CBS and NBC have agreed on standards governing television violence that will be in effect for next fall's programming decisions, a senator who helped arrange the deal said Friday. The voluntary agreement resulted from a law sponsored by Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., that gave the networks an antitrust waiver so they could plan among themselves ways to control violence in TV entertainment programming. "The networks have assured me you will see a difference," said Simon at a news conference that did not include any network representatives.

90-mph winds, flooding paralyze seaboard

Ocean waves crash over seawall in Lynn, Mass., Friday.

■ 'Northeaster' knocks out power for hundreds of thousands, disrupts lives of millions.

Wind up to 90 mph lashed the Atlantic Seaboard on Friday, flooding shore communities with some of the highest waves this century, blowing out skyscraper windows in New York City and shutting down transit for hundreds of thousands.

"We're boarding up as fast as we possibly can. Say a prayer for us," said Mary Franchi, manager of the Bass Point apartments at Nahant, Mass., where waves crashing into the sea wall leaped 30 feet in the air.

Three feet of snow fell in Pennsylvania, 2.5 feet was dumped on West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle, and parts of Connecticut got up to a foot.

Virginia's Gov. L. Douglas Wilder sent the National Guard to evacuate up to 2,500 rural residents isolated by 2 feet of snow since Thursday around Winchester.

Warlords cut truce; fighting stalls food aid

■ Convoy's cancellation means fourth straight day without food deliveries for northern sector of capital.

Associated Press

MOGADISHU, Somalia — Two of Somalia's main warlords agreed to a cease-fire in the capital Friday, but gun battles stalled food convoys headed for the starving in the hinterlands.

The Marines scrubbed plans to escort a food convoy into northern Mogadishu and set back a scheduled convoy to Baidoa at least a week, despite appeals from relief officials who said bandits were in a looting frenzy.

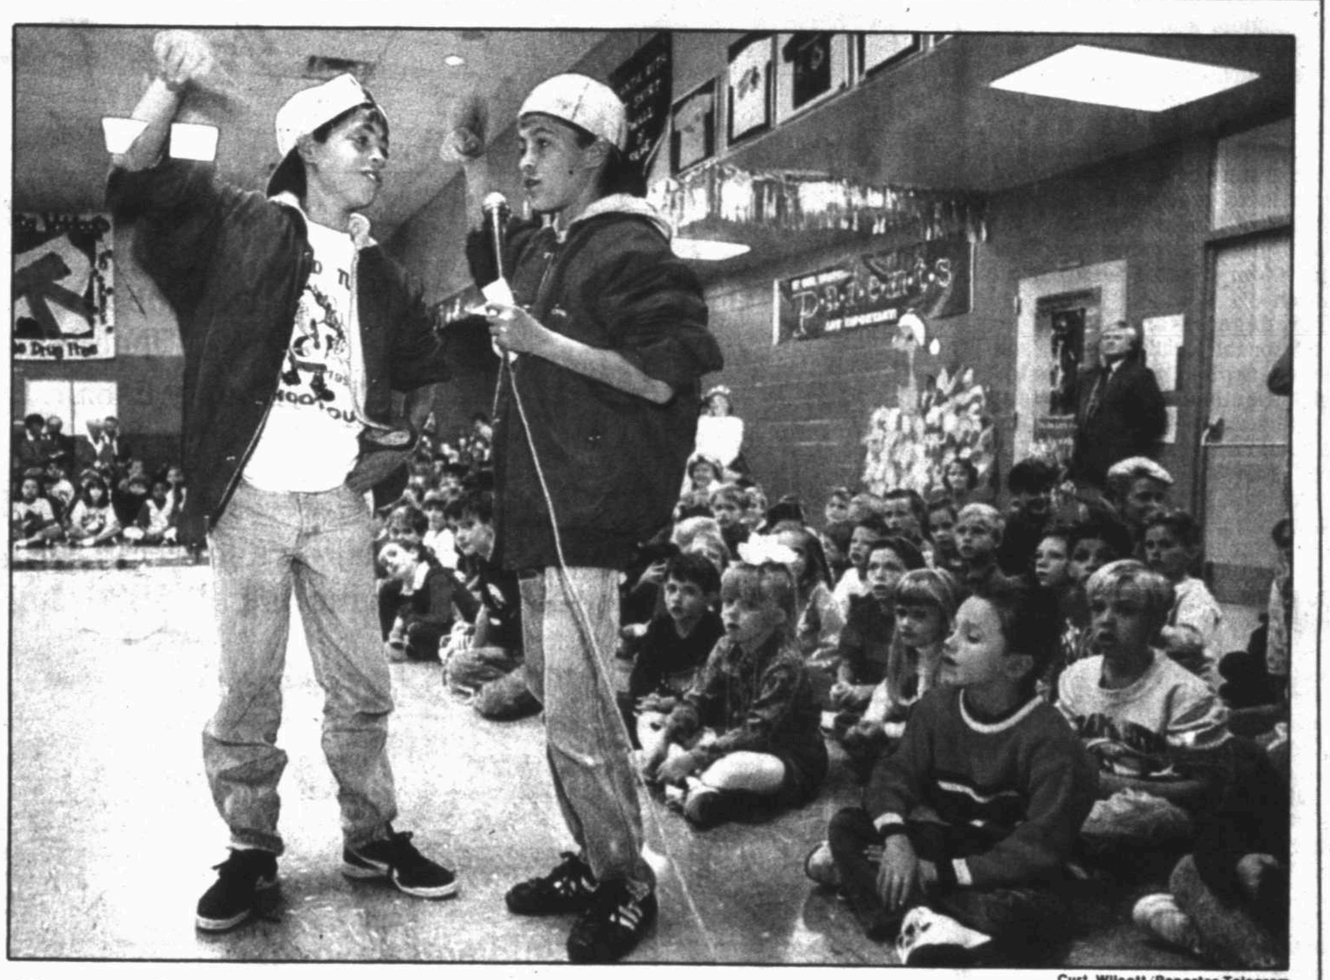

U.N. officials hailed the agreement between Gen. Mohamed Farrah Aidid and Ali Mahdi Mohamed as a first step in a long and difficult attempt to reconciliate all of Somalia's major clans.

But the two warlords have no authority over many of the unruly factions, and only loose control in the capital.

Just how difficult it would be to attain peace was demonstrated by:

Round 2: Clinton chooses outsiders

By Dave Montgomery
N.Y. Times News Service

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — President-elect Clinton on Friday named four more top-level appointees to his steadily expanding administration, reaching into the ranks of academia and social activism to choose his stewards for labor, human services and the environment.

The latest group of nominees, including three women, came one day after Clinton announced a five-member economic team headed by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, the president-elect's designee for Treasury Secretary. All will require confirmation of the Senate.

Still more nominations could come today, aides said. Included among prospective nominees is former San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros, who is under consideration to head the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Clinton said his second round of appointments represent a "new generation of American leaders."

Straight talk on drugs 'touches hearts'

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff writer

"Would you sell your baby for drugs? Come on, that baby is only 4 weeks old. He doesn't know your name. He doesn't even look like you. Are you sure you wouldn't sell your baby for coke (cocaine)?" Milton Creagh asked a student identified as "Brian."

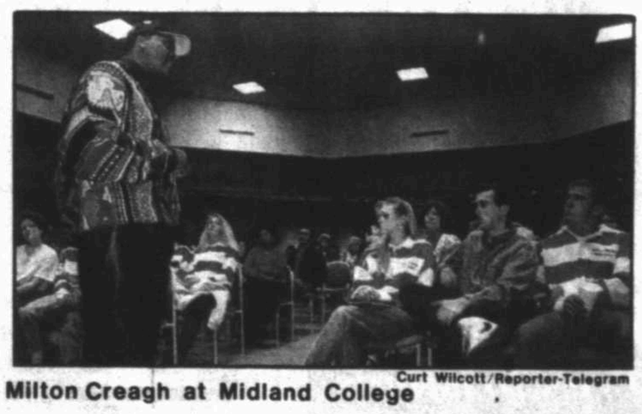

"You look like the kind of guy who would sell your baby for coke. That's why I picked you," Creagh said to the clean-cut, neatly dressed youngster, garnering laughs from an audience of junior high school and college students at Midland College Friday.

"You don't have to be crazy. You don't have to be nuts to sell your baby for crack. You just have to be a junkie," Creagh said, allowing the shy student to take his seat.

"For a minute there, Brian looked like he wanted to fight me," the 6-foot-7 speaker, said, waiting a beat, and drawing himself up to his full height. "He'd lose."

Combest kicks off PBPA drive with 'call to action'

Kicking off a membership drive for the Permian Basin Petroleum Association (PBPA), U.S. Rep. Larry Combest, R-Lubbock, told members of the oil organization that they must "play as hard as the other side."

The congressman for the 19th district of Texas said that anti-business, anti-oil forces are vocal, visible, active and make it hard for those who vote against them. "You have to be equally active. We need more organizations like PBPA to fight for oil interests."

Sales rise for fifth straight month; inflation remains low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail sales rose in November for the fifth consecutive month and inflation remained subdued, the government said Friday, heralding what economists predict will be the best Christmas shopping season in four years.

"There's a distinct possibility that December sales could be a bonanza," said economist Campbell Harvey, a professor at Duke University.

The strength of holiday buying is crucial to sustaining economic growth, which has shown signs of picking up in recent weeks after more than two years of sluggishness and outright decline.

Purchases of retail goods represent roughly a third of all economic activity and many retailers regularly record about half of their sales in the weeks be-

SOMALIA: Marines scrub plan to escort convoy

(From 1A)

American Marines.

■ Plundering and hostage-taking in Kismayo, an important port 300 miles south of Mogadishu. Pentagon officials said "a small number" of relief agency workers were held hostage, apparently as part of a turf battle among Somali factions. The workers apparently were not American, but few other details were immediately available from the Pentagon.

■ A night-long battle over a radio station between Ali Mahdi's forces and those of Aidid, which forced the United Nations to postpone sending a 10-truck convoy of food to northern Mogadishu. A disagreement over whether Marines or Pakistani U.N. peacekeepers would drive the trucks also played a role in the cancellation, according to U.N. sources.

The cancellation of this convoy meant the fourth straight day without food deliveries for the northern sector of the capital.

It was "kind of ironic," said an exasperated Rick Grant of CARE International, that his relief agency had been able to move two tons to the north in the four days before the U.S. arrival.

Convoys could begin immediately if the Marines provided security, said Paul Mitchell, spokesman for the World Food Program.

But it would be wrong to conclude that the U.S.-led effort was hindering relief, he said.

It is becoming clear that it will take time for Marines to venture in force outside Mogadishu, into the areas where as many as 2 million people could face starvation.

Since American troops took over the seaport and airport on Wednesday, the first cargo planes arrived in six weeks. A Danish-registered vessel carrying 30,000 metric tons of wheat — enough to feed a million people for two months — was to dock Sunday.

But it was becoming clear that it will take time for the Marines to venture in force outside Mogadishu and into the areas where as many as 2 million people could face starvation.

At the United Nations, meanwhile, Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali and U.S. Ambassador Edward Perkins said they were working on settling disagreements over the mission of U.S. forces.

Boutros-Ghali has asked the United States to expand its role in Somalia to disarming clans and getting a peace agreement. But his request was getting a cool reception in Washington, U.S. officials said Friday.

"We will find a solution to agree (upon) because we need this agreement, both of us," Boutros-Ghali said when asked if there was agreement on how to disarm the fighters in Somalia.

More than 300,000 Somalis already have died in one of the most cruel famines in history.

Despite a huge international effort, hundreds and perhaps thousands still die every day, largely because much of the food, medicine and other supplies sent to them gets looted by clan militias and free-lance bandits.

Two chartered Boeing 747s brought 713 more Marines to Mogadishu on Friday. As of Friday, American troops were arriving in Somalia through a single airstrip at the international airport.

A 25-member team inspected a Soviet-built airstrip 60 miles northwest of the capital, however, and its 10,000-foot runway will begin receiving troops of the 10th Mountain Division from Fort Drum, N.Y., by the weekend, Lt. Gen Martin Brandtner said at the Pentagon.

In their first meeting in more than a year, Aidid and Ali Mahdi agreed to stop fighting and remove their forces from the capital within 48 hours.

"Anytime factional leaders who have been opposed meet, it's a major step in the reconciliation process," said Ian MacLeod, spokesman for U.N. special envoy Ismat Kittani.

Aidid, once the most feared warlord in the country, agreed to the meeting at a time when his influence and power were waning. Both he and Ali Mahdi have acknowledged they do not fully control even the gunmen of Mogadishu.

Aidid was kicked out of the central town of Bardera more than a month ago by another warlord loyal to ousted dictator Mohammed Siad Barre, and is said to have some influence in Baidoa and Kismayo. Ali Mahdi's military influence never extended beyond Mogadishu.

The two met for three hours at the residence of U.S. special envoy Robert Oakley, who joined the warlords along with Kittani and Marine Lt. Gen. Robert B. Johnston, the commander of the U.S.-led military coalition in Somalia.

At the end of the meeting, Aidid and Ali Mahdi came outside and faced reporters as an aide read their joint statement. After turning to leave, they were called back by photographers, then shook hands and briefly embraced.

Rebel band offers Pasadena preview

Staff report

Midlanders who won't be going to Pasadena, Calif., to view the 104th Tournament of Roses Parade, can get a preview of the Lee High School Rebel Band and Orchestra's marching skills Sunday.

In a gesture of thanks to the city and also to practice marching a distance of 5 miles, the band will take to the streets shortly after 2 p.m. from First Presbyterian Church.

Paradegoers are invited to watch for the locally invented and choreographed "Texas Turn," which the students will execute at an intersection for spectators during the Rose Parade on Jan. 1, 1993.

"One line is swiveling at a 90-degree angle and another line turns another way at a 90-degree angle and both lines commingle," said LHS Band Booster Mike Tubbs. "It's something to see."

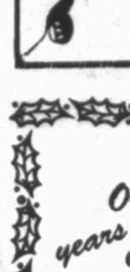

Tubbs said the booster club has prepared a float to thank Midlanders for supporting the band's march to the Rose Bowl parade.

The 250-plus band students have been raising money for their trip to California. Popularly known as the "Pride of West Texas," the LHS band will represent the Lone Star State in the nationally televised parade.

The parade will be aired in 90 countries to an estimated 400 million viewers.

Sunday's march is set to begin between 2 and 2:20 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave.

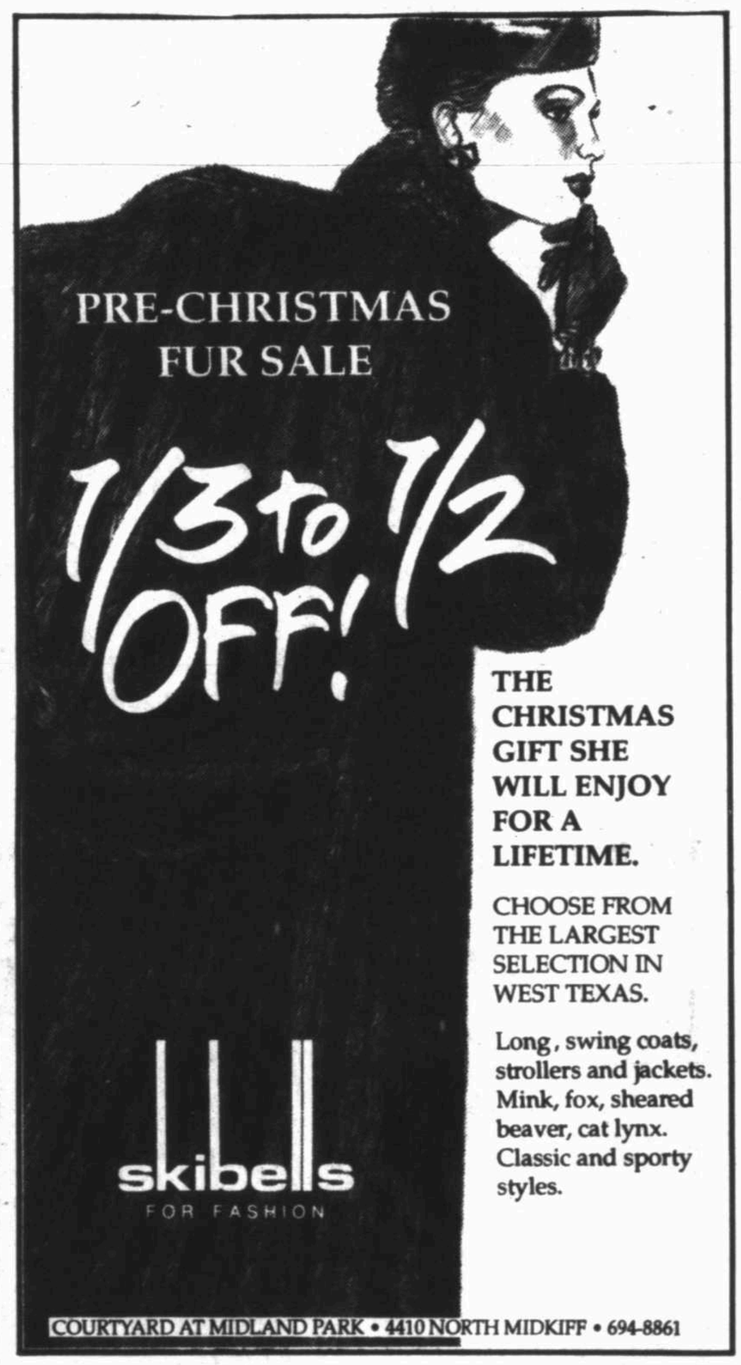

It will travel east on Texas Avenue, to Colorado Street, south on Colorado to Wall Avenue, then west on Wall Avenue to Andrews Highway, west on Andrews Highway to Midkiff Road, then north on Midkiff Road to Neely Avenue. The parade will end at the LHS campus, 3500 Neely Ave.

Officials worry about year-round school without state finance plan

AUSTIN (AP) — Some education officials are worried about what could happen to year-round school programs if lawmakers don't meet a June 1 court deadline for a new public school funding plan.

A state judge has warned that he'll cut off state and possibly local funding of schools if the deadline isn't met.

"The worst scenario is we've got a lot of kids that could lose some valuable instructional time because they couldn't go to school," said Julian Shaddix, associate commissioner for field services at the Texas Education Agency.

Forty-five of Texas' 1,000-plus school districts are offering year-round classes on at least one campus this year, mostly at the elementary level. There are 60,000 to 70,000 students in the classes, Shaddix said.

Year-round school rearranges the traditional schedule of a nine-month term and a three-month summer break. Students may go to school for three months, for example, then be out for a month. So for them, classes may be far from over on June 1.

State Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno plans to send a letter to Gov. Ann Richards and legislative leaders to make sure they're aware of the year-round school calendar, Shaddix said.

The Legislature meets in regular session beginning in January, when lawmakers will again tackle the school funding issue. They were unable to pass a plan in a special session that ended Dec. 3.

Some school districts with year-round programs are thinking about whether they should abandon their planned breaks in the spring and hold classes straight through to June 1, Shaddix said.

But he said he hopes that won't be necessary, even though TEA is advising school districts to have a contingency plan.

Shaddix said rearranging the schedule could cause bad feelings about year-round school, which proponents tout as a way to improve attendance and student learning. For example, he said, it could cause problems for parents who have already arranged for day care.

"I'm afraid that it would set year-round education back in Texas," Shaddix said. "We don't want that to happen. We feel like it has the potential, at least, to be a very good thing."

Charles McCasland, a Plano elementary school principal who heads the Texas chapter of the National Association for Year-Round Education, said year-round classes in his district end before June. They start up again in late July. Two elementary campuses in the Plano district have year-round classes.

"I would hope the schools would try, if they could, to fund their educational programs through reserve funds" and hope to be reimbursed from the state later, McCasland said.

Tom Murphy, elementary education director for the Weslaco school system in South Texas, said his district likely would rely on contingency funds to finish year-round classes. They are scheduled to end July 17.

However, Murphy noted, "The question becomes whether the court would order no spending at all."

About 25 percent of students in his district through grade seven, or 1,700 children, are in year-round classes, he said. Because they have already had a break in the fall semester, he said, they could not fit in the full 180-day school year by June 1.

DRUGS: Charismatic speaker brings his message

(From 1A)

Ga., alternately reaped tears and laughter from his audience.

"He touched my heart," said one junior high school student, who wiped tears from her eyes following a startling story about a pregnant mother killed by gangsters.

Creagh, who didn't mince words during his dramatic descriptions of drug and alcohol abuse, ended his college talk with a message of hope and call to arms for young people.

"How old was that person in Tiananmen Square who stood in front of the tank and said, 'I believe in freedom. You've got to run me over because right is right?' He was 19. It's the young people who change the world," Creagh said. "What about the Berlin Wall coming down? Did you hear some old folks saying: 'Got to get over to that wall now,' " Creagh said, bending over and mincing steps to giggles from the audience.

"No, it was teen-agers who did it, teen-agers who took the Freedom Rides. It wasn't old folks getting on the bus. There has never been a major social change in this country without young people being involved," he said.

Creagh spoke at the college following appearances at both Midland and Lee high schools. He also spoke about drug and alcohol abuse to students at both Midland and Lee freshman schools Friday afternoon.

The talented speaker hosts the television talk show "In Effect" for teen-agers in Atlanta.

Creagh uses the program — a collection of rap music, dance and frank discussion — to get teen-agers talking about the daily temptations they face.

"My show is a little bit of MTV (Music Television), Soul Train and Oprah Winfrey," he said.

Now Creagh spends much of his time traveling the country to tell communities that chemical abuse is widespread. "We're in trouble," he said, "maybe the worst trouble the country has every been in."

To put drug and alcohol abuse into perspective, Creagh said Americans reacted with alarm to the polio epidemic of 1953-'54, with parents taking measures to protect their children from a disease that affected only about 27 per 100,000.

"About 10,000 people out of every 100,000 have a drug and alcohol problem. And yet most people say: 'No big deal. Nothing going on. We don't have a problem here.' "

Creagh asked students to honestly respond, by a show of hands, if they knew "at least one place" where a teen-ager could buy alcohol. About 90 percent of the students, from junior high to college age, raised their hands. A good number of the audience also knew "of at least one place to go buy drugs."

"Did you notice that as many junior high kids as college students know where to buy drugs and alcohol? Does that scare anybody else in this room besides me?"

"And what about that legal drug — alcohol. When you take out everything that gives it color and flavor, what you end up with is ethyl alcohol — what the doctor gives you to put you to sleep before surgery. Think about it," he said.

Creagh will speak at two free, public rallies today: at 10 a.m. in the Midland High School auditorium, 906 W. Illinois Ave.; and at 3 p.m. at Carver Cultural Center, 1300 E. Wall Ave.

Some clouds, mid-60s on tap

Staff report

Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with high in the mid-60s, according to forecasters with the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport. Gusty winds are expected from west-southwest 15-20 mph.

Tonight is forecast to see skies increasing to mostly cloudy, with a 20 percent chance of rain and a low in upper 30s.

The 20 percent chance of rain continues in the forecast through Sunday, under cloudy skies with cooler conditions. The high is expected to reach only between 45 and 50.

After an overnight low of 35, Friday's high was 70, 14 degrees short of the record for the date of 84, set in 1987. The record low for today's date was set in 1989, when the mercury dipped to 10.

STATE

Clear skies were replaced by clouds over most of Texas on Friday and are expected to remain in place over the weekend, reducing temperatures statewide.

PBPA: Combest opens drive with call to action

(From 1A)

field told the group that PBPA, the largest regional oil and gas association in the nation, was launching a massive membership drive to add 500 members to its rolls in an effort to be more effective in Washington D.C., Santa Fe, N.M., and Austin.

Combest said a lot of negative attention has been placed on "special-interest" groups, but there had been no concern when organized labor was the only special-interest group.

"When business formed lobby groups to represent their interests, special interests suddenly became a bad thing."

Combest said anti-business laws and regulations are the prime reason no new jobs are being created. "Over-regulation is taking away the incentive to create new jobs." A strong proponent of less government, he said the secret was to stop making laws that give bureaucrats an opportunity to make regulations.

He noted that PBPA could help in preventing unneeded laws from being passed, and in keeping Congress informed when regulations were excessive.

The Panhandle native, who represents a district that stretches from Dalhart to Odessa, said his biggest concern for the oil industry was environmental policy. "It is real scary," he said.

He said one reason government agencies are often excessive in their environmental regulation is that unless the regulations are written to excess, environmental groups will take the agencies to court and the courts will call for stricter rules and regulations.

An opponent of the Clean Air Act, he said the legislation forced taxpayers to spend billions of dollars on overkill. "Lubbock is a non-attainment city for clean air, because the dust blows. How do you deal with that? We should not spend billions of dollars on problems that do not exist."

He also said that the same strict laws written for cities with the most polluted air in the state would apply to those with the cleanest air.

"The one thing you don't hear is that the environment is cleaner than it was 20 years ago."

In addressing political questions, he said Congress would probably never give up its power on a line-item veto, but that he would support term limitation if it were on a national basis. "I don't think states should impose term limits on their own, because it only insures that they will never have a senior member in Congress, which is built on seniority."

He said congressional districts generally reflect the political philosophy of the people in that district. "You may change the congressman, but you don't change the people."

He applauded President-elect Bill Clinton's nomination of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as Secretary of Treasury, but said it would leave a leadership gap in the Senate.

He said the race to fill Bentsen's seat would bring an onslaught of candidates and that a final run-off relection might feature two candidates from the same party.

SALES: Economists see best season in 4 years

(From 1A)

fore Christmas.

"This sets up the possibility not just for a lackluster recovery but for a robust recovery," Harvey said.

Sales rose a modest 0.4 percent last month to a seasonally adjusted $165.8 billion. That came on top of a healthy 1.9 percent gain in October, now the biggest in nine months and more than double the Commerce Department's original estimate of 0.9 percent.

Sales haven't declined since June, when they posted a tiny 0.1 percent drop.

Meanwhile, the Labor Department said inflation remained in check despite the pickup in buying demand. Its Consumer Price Index rose just 0.2 percent in November. For the year so far, inflation is running at a 3.1 percent annual rate, the same as the rate for all of last year.

In another sign that economic pressures are easing on consumers, the American Bankers Association said 2.46 percent of consumer installment loans were 30 days or more past due at the end of September.

That was the lowest rate since March 1990, before the onset of the recession, and down from 2.60 percent three months earlier and 2.74 percent a year ago. Credit card delinquencies, however, increased.

The retail sales report sent many economists scrambling to revise upward their projections for overall economic growth in the fourth quarter. Generally they had predicted a moderate 2 percent annual rate of growth in the gross domestic product. Now, in some cases, they expect nearly 3 percent.

However, some analysts cautioned that the buying fervor seemed greater than warranted by recent improvements in the labor market and personal income. The jump in sales seems to be based more on a surge in confidence just before and after the election, they said.

"It may well be the election of Mr. Clinton has served to trigger an improvement in people's confidence in the longer-term outlook," said economist Norman Robertson of Mellon Bank in Pittsburgh. "Whether they're right or wrong is irrelevant. If people feel that now we have better economic management, this could be a self-fulfilling prophecy."

NOMINEES: Clinton selects quartet of outsiders

(From 1A)

They include:

■ Secretary of Labor: Harvard professor Robert B. Reich, 46, who has known Clinton since their days as Rhodes Scholars at Oxford. He is one of Clinton's most trusted confidants and is economic coordinator on the transition team.

■ Secretary of Health and Human Services: Donna E. Shalala, 51, chancellor of the University of Wisconsin who served as assistant secretary of Housing and Urban Development under President Carter.

■ Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency: Carol M. Browner, 36, head of Florida's environmental regulatory agency and former aide to Vice President-elect Al Gore, known for his environmental stands in the Senate. She is heading an effort to clean up industrial waste in Florida, winning support from environmental groups.

■ Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers: Laura D'Andrea Tyson, 45, economics professor at the University of California at Berkeley. She is the first woman chosen for the post.

The latest selections bring to nine the number of top-level appointees announced by Clinton in a series of rapid-fire personnel decisions during the past two days. Further announcements also are expected next week after Clinton's two-day economic summit in Little Rock.

In contrast to the economic team, composed of Washington insiders and Wall Street investors, the latest group is drawn from outside the Beltway, although most have had Washington experience.

"These appointees know the limits of what government can do as well as what government must do," said the president-elect as he introduced them in a news conference at the Old State House. He said they will bring "energy, dynamism and fresh thinking" to help him achieve his "mandate for change."

With a total of four women now on his top-level team — he earlier named economist Alice Rivlin as deputy White House budget director — Clinton said he is keeping pace with his goal to create a diverse administration "reflective of the whole country."

Reich, 4-foot-11 and barely visible behind the podium, joked that he was on Clinton's "short list" for the job. The two have known each other since the late 1960s when they sailed for Oxford University in England as Rhodes Scholars.

Reich, whom Clinton described as "one of my most trusted advisers and closest friends," has been a public policy lecturer at Harvard's Kennedy School of Government since 1981. As labor secretary, he said, he will help carry out Clinton's efforts to retrain and educate workers to stimulate productivity and help America stay competitive.

Clinton said he chose Shalala as health and human services secretary to preside over his efforts to reform the health care system and confront the AIDS crisis and other social issues. In a swipe at the Bush administration, Clinton said the massive social services agency has been woefully neglected, despite its out-of-control budget.

STORM: 'Northeaster' explodes

(From 1A)

Massachusetts and in New Jersey, where Gov. Jim Florio declared an emergency statewide. New York Gov. Mario Cuomo and Connecticut Gov. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. also declared emergencies.

Off the coast of Virginia, the Coast Guard rescued five people from a pleasure boat and eight from a fishing boat when the vessels, battered by high winds and 20-foot seas, began taking on water. No one was seriously hurt.

The storm brought New York City's transportation network, used by hundreds of thousands daily, to a near standstill.

LaGuardia Airport shut down after wind gusted to 77 mph and remained closed late into the night. Other airports in the region had lengthy delays and some canceled flights, including Newark, Philadelphia and Boston. That affected flights connecting to airports as far away as Los Angeles.

Flooding and power problems virtually shut down New York's subway system for part of the day, as well as commuter trains running under the Hudson River from New Jersey, and delayed service to other suburbs. Wind-blown debris closed some bridges and high water closed parts of major expressways along the East and Hudson rivers.

"We literally had scuba divers taking people out of their cars on the FDR Drive," said Joe DePlasco, a spokesman for New York City's transportation department. The divers wore their insulated suits to wade to the cars.

The coastal flooding was caused by the on-shore wind coupled with extra high tides. Wind gusted to 90 mph in Wildwood Crest in extreme southern New Jersey. New York's Central Park, partially protected by surrounding skyscrapers, had sustained wind at 35 mph during the afternoon with gusts in the 50s. One to 2 inches of rain had fallen along the coast.

The National Weather Service said Friday morning's high tide at Atlantic City, N.J., was about 4 feet above normal. Meteorologist Wayne Albright said: "People who have lived through this storm will have lived through probably the highest tides this century on the southern New Jersey coastline."

Inside the protection of New York Harbor, ferries had to stop because of high waves, halting travel to Staten Island and the Statue of Liberty. Windows were blown out of some skyscrapers, commodities markets closed early and some businesses sent employees home early because of the mounting commuting problems.

One woman was killed when a roof blew off a building in Jersey City, N.J., said Hudson County spokesman Jay Rosenfeld. Another woman died when her car was struck head-on by a tow truck in Deptford, police said. The Hudson County courthouse was closed for fear its dome could blow off.

In Pennsylvania, a roof heavy with snow collapsed in Pittsburgh, killing three employees of a printing company, officials said. At least six deaths Thursday were connected to the storm. As much as 37 inches of snow was reported in parts of the state and about 300,000 homes lost electricity.

In two counties in West Virginia's mountainous Eastern Panhandle, only emergency vehicles were allowed on roads. Schools were closed a second day in nearly half of West Virginia.

Suzanne Herrmann, Red Cross coordinating manager for New Jersey, estimated the agency had 5,000 to 6,000 people in shelters. Power to more than 100,000 people was disrupted.

In Brigantine, two boys, ages 5 and 9, were mistakenly left behind when National Guardsmen evacuated one family. The soldiers returned to the house but the boys were not there, and police searched by boat. Police later found them at a neighbor's house.

Former sheriff, professional football player dies at 80

By Mike Cochran
Associated Press Writer

Lon Evans, a hard-nosed, soft-hearted ex-sheriff who played football for Texas Christian University and the Green Bay Packers, died Friday after a long illness. He was 80.

FORT WORTH — Lon Evans, a hard-nosed, soft-hearted ex-sheriff who played football for Texas Christian University and the Green Bay Packers, died Friday after a long illness. He was 80.

Tarrant County officials ordered flags lowered to half-staff as a tribute to the man whom friends and associates called the "high sheriff" even after he retired in 1985.

Evans suffered from diabetic-related circulatory problems that cost him both legs even before leaving office. He died at Harris Methodist Hospital.

"I hope I get to heaven," said Dick Lowe, a friend and former TCU football player, "because Lon will be the sheriff and it sure will be fun."

Evans played for the TCU Horned Frogs from 1929 until 1932 and was an All-Southwest Conference guard on the Purple and White's fifth-ranked championship team in 1932. He spent five years with Green Bay and was an All-Pro selection on the Packers' 1936 World Championship team.

"I knew nothing about pro football," Evans once said of his offer by the legendary coach Curly Lambeau to join the Packers. "I hardly knew where Green Bay was and he offered me a job to play ... for $90 a game."

Evans later officiated in both the SWC and the National Football League.

He was a district attorney's investigator before his election as sheriff.

"He was a great guy, a good friend, an outstanding law enforcement officer and very dedicated to TCU," said Max Eubank, a four-year letterman at TCU from 1947 until 1950.

In 1960, Evans ran as the proposed reform candidate for a sheriff's department notorious for controversy and malfeasance. He was swept into office the same year John F. Kennedy became president and, in 1963, was drawn into the Kennedy assassination in nearby Dallas.

In fact, Evans led local elements of the security force during Kennedy's overnight stay in Fort Worth the night before the shooting. The next morning, he was on hand for the President's final speech at the old Hotel Texas.

During his record 24-year term, he befriended governors and congressman, including former U.S. House Speaker Jim Wright of Fort Worth. He was cited on his retirement by President Ronald Reagan.

When he became sheriff, Evans recalled, the county had only two patrol cars. Two decades later, he counted more than a dozen, plus sophisticated computer equipment, a helicopter patrol and 200 officers.

CBS news correspondent Bob Schieffer, who once covered the courthouse for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, maintained that Evans was a "gold mine" for reporters.

Schieffer asked the sheriff once why a famous Fort Worth man killed his father.

"He killed him," Evans drawled, "because he thought the old SOB ought to be dead."

Schieffer recounted that exchange in "The Purple Lawman ... From Horned Frog to High Sheriff," a book assembled by Evans' daughter Kitty and published in 1990.

Said Schieffer:

"Unlike most public officials who spend their days trying to avoid controversy, I was always convinced Lon went looking for it because he so much enjoyed telling about it later."

An Associated Press reporter once asked the sheriff about the suspect in a multiple murder case in which an innocent girl was slain.

"If he hadn't shot that little girl," Evans grumbled, "we'd a throwed him a barbecue."

Evans loved to tell how, during his days as a NFL referee, he once tossed a flag on Dick "Night Train" Lane of the Detroit Lions.

"You stink," Lane purportedly snapped.

Evans, a smile stretching across his face, would recount how he stepped off 15 yards, turned to Lane and asked:

"How do I smell from here?"

Some suspected that Evans may have incorporated that widely circulated story as his own but, as his great friend Bobby Malone says, "He told it a thousand times."

Don Looney, a Texas oilman who officiated with Evans, traveled the NFL circuit with Evans for four or five years and called him the "most entertaining fellow I've ever been around. He had a million stories."

Raymond "Rags" Matthews, a TCU end and in 1926 the SWC's first All American, said he first met Evans as a "kid carrying head gears and water buckets" at Poly High School.

"Lon was just a hell of a nice fellow and a wonderful friend and he even gave me a lifetime sheriff's license," he said.

"He took care of his friends," quipped Byron Matthews, a retired state criminal court judge who was not always on best terms with Evans. "He was probably as popular as any sheriff we've had in a long time."

In his only serious brush with scandal, Evans was investigated in the mid-1970s for allegedly taking kickbacks from bail bondsmen and gamblers. No charges were ever filed and the matter was quickly forgotten, at least by the voters.

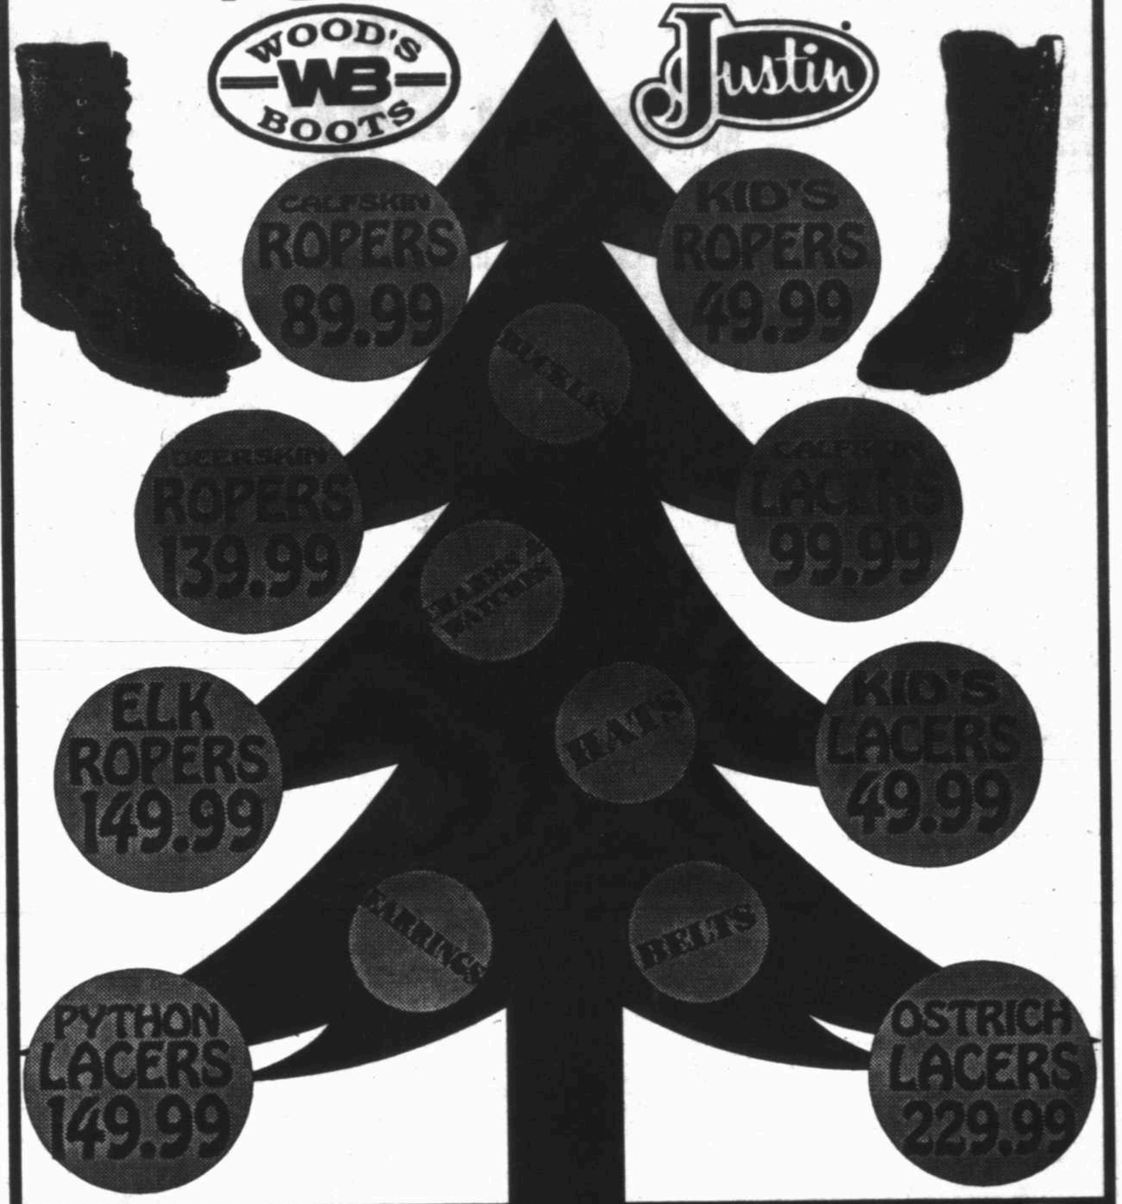

Services are scheduled for 11 a.m. Monday in the Greenwood Funeral Home Chapel, with burial at Greenwood Memorial Park.

Survivors include Evans' wife, Marion P. Evans; three daughters, Marlon Evans Seghetti, Kitty Evans Loveless and Peggy Evans Dulaney, all of Fort Worth; and grandchildren.

Networks set standards to reduce TV violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — ABC, CBS and NBC have agreed on standards governing television violence that will be in effect for next fall's programming decisions, a senator who helped arrange the deal said Friday.

The voluntary agreement resulted from a law sponsored by Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., that gave the networks an antitrust waiver so they could plan among themselves ways to control violence in TV entertainment programming.

"The networks have assured me you will see a difference," said Simon at a news conference that did not include any network representatives.

But neither Simon, nor the networks provided any specific examples of how the standards will effect shows currently on the air.

At Simon's behest, the National Association of Broadcasters adopted standards for local stations two years ago against gratuitous sex and violence.

"It appears that the networks are just following suit," said association spokesman Doug Wills.

Simon said he was optimistic cable programmers would adopt similar standards.

He said the networks will be holding an industrywide conference on violence next spring in Los Angeles that also will involve Hollywood studios, which produce most television drama.

Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, said the networks' proposals appeared in line with the objectives of the motion picture rating system.

He said he welcomed the chance to discuss the problem with television officials.

"Achieving a careful balance in programming content between creative freedom and social responsibility is a delicate and fragile undertaking," he said.

According to the standards, depictions of violence:

—Should be relevant to the development of character or advancement of the plot.

—Must not be gratuitous or excessive.

—Should not be depicted as glamorous or a solution to human conflict.

—Must not show how to use harmful devices or weapons or give descriptions that would lead to imitation, or involve ingenious, unique or otherwise unfamiliar methods of inflicting pain.

—Should include the consequences to victims and perpetrators.

Judge throws out key charge against Weinberger

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge Friday threw out an Iran-Contra charge against former Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger that was brought four days before the election and prompted allegations prosecutors were trying to harm President Bush's re-election campaign.

Four felony charges remain against Weinberger — for trial Jan. 5.

But U.S. District Judge Thomas F. Hogan, in a major setback to independent counsel Lawrence Walsh, barred Weinberger from being tried on the charge that suggested Bush knew more than he had admitted about the arms-for-hostages deal. The count alleges that Weinberger lied to Congress.

Hogan said the charge, contained in an indictment handed up Oct. 30, violated a five-year statute of limitations.

Coincidentally, Hogan's ruling came the same day that Attorney General William Barr refused to authorize an independent counsel's investigation into whether the Oct. 30 indictment of Weinberger was politically timed to wreck Bush's re-election campaign.

Barr instead referred that allegation against prosecutor Walsh, made primarily by Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., to the Justice Department's Criminal Division.

"This is the latest failure by Lawrence Walsh's high-cost, low-result crusade against Republicans," Dole said in a statement.

Dole said Walsh had committed political "mischief" in obtaining the indictment.

"It's incredible to me that the Independent Counsel continues to bumble along trying to get an indictment right," Dole added.

Walsh's office pointed out that it has brought 14 cases and obtained 11 convictions, the latest on Wednesday of former CIA official Clair George, on two counts of lying to congressional committees that investigated the Iran-Contra affair. But convictions in its two biggest cases to date, against ex-White House aide Oliver North and former national security adviser John Poindexter, were set aside or overturned on appeal.

'This is the latest failure by Lawrence Walsh's high-cost, low-result crusade against Republicans. It's incredible to me that the Independent Counsel continues to bumble along trying to get an indictment right.'

—Bob Dole
Senate minority leader

The count that Hogan is throwing out details a Jan. 7, 1986, meeting where the participants, including then-Vice President Bush, discussed trading 4,000 TOW missiles for five American hostages. Bush has always maintained he didn't understand the Reagan White House to be trading arms for hostages until mid-December 1986.

Hogan said the Oct. 30 count against Weinberger must be dismissed because it impermissibly broadened the original indictment — brought in June — against the former Pentagon chief.

The charge replaced an earlier count alleging Weinberger obstructed Congress in its investigation of the Iran-Contra affair, which involved trading arms for U.S. hostages and then using the proceeds to help Nicaraguan anti-communist Contras.

Hogan said, "The new charge of false statement was a substantial amendment to the original charge of obstruction of Congress and broadened the charges against defendant."

"Any criminal defendant, including Mr. Weinberger, has a right to timely notice of the charges against him ... The court cannot allow (Walsh's office) to bring broader charges that are barred by the statute of limitations in this case."

More national news/7C

Remaining against the former defense secretary are two counts alleging that he committed perjury and two counts charging him with making false statements in the Iran-Contra scandal.

Walsh's office sought to minimize the damage from Hogan's ruling.

Bush remains benched as considerations increase for Senate seat

AUSTIN (AP) — A leading Republican prospect for Lloyd Bentsen's U.S. Senate seat, Texas Rangers baseball team owner George W. Bush, said Friday he will stay on the bench during the upcoming special election.

Bush, the president's eldest son, said he and his family looked closely before deciding.

"Laura and I seriously considered the Senate race and decided it is best for our family to stay in Texas," Bush said. "Besides, I love my life in baseball."

Bentsen, a Democrat and senator since 1971, was tapped Thursday by president-elect Clinton to be the next U.S. Treasury secretary.

Gov. Ann Richards will appoint an interim replacement to serve until the special election is held.

The governor has declined to say whom she may appoint. Since Bentsen has said he won't resign his seat until the Senate confirms him, Richards said she doesn't "have to be in any big hurry."

Many Democrats say former San Antonio mayor Henry Cisneros is the party's strongest candidate. But several reports indicated he may be in line to head the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

If Cisneros gets the HUD post, several Democratic sources said they believed the governor might turn to state Comptroller John Sharp, winner of statewide races in 1988 and 1990.

Sharp's name was among those mentioned by Clinton as he appointed Bentsen.

"The kind of leadership that has been provided in Texas by people like Ann Richards, Henry Cisneros and John Sharp ... embodied the kind of new Democratic Party that we're trying to bring to the United States, and I think that there is a good chance that Gov. Richards will name someone senator who will have the confidence of the people of Texas," Clinton said.

Other Democrats who have indicated interest or were said to be looking at the Senate race include Jim Mattox, former attorney general and former congressman; Jim Hightower, former agriculture commissioner; Texas Attorney General Dan Morales; former lieutenant governor Bill Hobby, and U.S. Rep. Mike Andrews of Houston.

On the Republican side, state Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison says she will decide soon, and U.S. Rep. Joe Barton said the same.

Convicted murderer wins appeal

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court panel on Friday threw out the conviction of a Texas death row inmate accused in the 1983 hacking death of an El Paso man.

A three-judge panel of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a lower court's recommendation that the conviction of Federico Martinez-Macias be overturned because the inmate had inadequate legal representation.

"We have read the record, read the briefs, and heard oral argument," U.S. Circuit Judge Patrick E. Higginbotham wrote in the opinion.

"We are left with the firm conviction that Macias was denied his constitutional right to adequate counsel in a capital case in which actual innocence was a close question.

"The state paid defense counsel $11.84 per hour. Unfortunately, the justice system got only what it paid for," Higginbotham wrote.

Haney and his wife, Naomi, were found hacked to death in their El Paso home the next day. A coroner testified during Macias' trial that the couple had bled to death from chop wounds to the head with an ax or machete.

Two days after the killings, police arrested 19-year-old Pedro Luevanos, who in turn led police to Macias. Macias, now 39, had worked briefly as the victims' gardener.

Luevanos, a state witness, testified that he was involved in the robbery, but that Macias had killed the couple. Luevanos pleaded guilty to charges related to the robbery and received a 25-year prison term.

The 5th Circuit ordered that Macias should be released from prison if the state does not begin a new trial within four months.

Justice is done; thousands will begin transfer into state prisons

AUSTIN (AP) — A federal judge on Friday approved a settlement between the state and inmates, ending a two-decade-long lawsuit against the Texas prison system.

The action by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler ended his direct control of the nearly 50,000-inmate system, one of the largest in the nation, officials said.

"The settlement of the Ruiz lawsuit is a historic milestone in our efforts to bring order out of the chaos that has dogged our prison system for more than two decades," Gov. Ann Richards said.

"Now we can get on with the business of running our prisons without federal court supervision and the most important job of all — that of making our streets safe for our citizens," she said.

In 1980, Justice ruled that confinement in Texas prisons constituted cruel and unusual punishment because of overcrowding, substandard care and routine brutality by guards and inmates.

But after more than a decade of massive prison building and spending increases, state officials said they had earned the right to take back control of the system.

The original lawsuit filed against the state was handwritten and filed in the early 1970s by prison inmate David Ruiz.

"The order that the court enters today is a historic event marking the end of one phase of this case. Over 20 years ago, a handful of brave prisoners set in motion a process that even defendants' highest officials acknowledge has improved all aspects of (the prison system)," Justice wrote.

Justice said the prison system "has remade itself into a professionally operated agency whose goals are to achieve the highest standards of correctional excellence."

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock hailed Justice's decision, saying it would allow the state to quickly begin easing the overcrowding of county jails that have been holding hundreds of prison-bound inmates.

"It will almost immediately allow us to transfer 2,500 inmates out of overcrowded county jails and into state prisons," Bullock said.

"I commend him for this decision, and I commend those who helped bring an end to the Ruiz litigation. They have done this state a great service," Bullock said.

Under the agreement between the state and inmate's attorneys, the state could place 2,300 to 3,500 prisoners into existing prisons, according to the attorney general's office.

The state has also agreed to prisoner population limits in the existing prisons, and to limit future prison population to the capacity of the specific unit, although those capacities have not been determined, the attorney general's office said.

Attorneys for inmates and the state reached a tentative settlement agreement in July, and Justice held a hearing in Tyler on Oct. 28.

Turner said he and other lawyers have obligations until next June to represent the prisoners.

Cisneros awaits HUD appointment

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Former San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros appears headed for secretary of Housing and Urban Development, a department Cisneros says he now views in a new light, news reports said Friday.

Cisneros was not immediately available for comment Friday. He said Thursday he has received no official word about the HUD post.

"No offer has been made from President-elect Clinton, so I have nothing to respond to," Cisneros said.

The HUD development follows weeks of speculation about whether Cisneros would take a place in the Clinton cabinet or be appointed by Gov. Ann Richards to the seat being vacated by U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

■ More state news/6C

Cisneros was a senior adviser to the Clinton-Gore campaign and has been active with Clinton's transition team.

A source close to Cisneros told the Express-News an appointment to HUD fits better with the former mayor's training and experience. "It makes all the sense in the world," the source said.

Cisneros, 45, was mayor of San Antonio from 1981-89 and is a past president of the National League of Cities.

"Unless there is a last-minute change, his name will be the only one recommended to Clinton" for HUD by his transition-screening committee, the source told the Express-News.

The San Antonio Light reported Friday that Cisneros has said privately for years he would not want to be secretary of HUD, Education or Health and Human Services, but recently has told friends he views HUD in a new light.

NHL's choice

PALM BEACH, Fla. — Hoping to emulate the marketing success of professional basketball, the NHL on Friday chose as its first commissioner Gary Bettman, NBA senior vice president and general counsel since 1984.

"I know some of the things we did in the NBA and why we did them," Bettman said. "The NBA is a fabulous success story."

Bettman, 40, has been responsible for the NBA's legal matters and was involved in collective bargaining, labor arbitration and the television package.

Another Pitt stop

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — In 1972, Pitt thought Johnny Majors was the right choice to resuscitate its moribund football program. Now, Pitt is back where it was 20 years ago — and so is Johnny Majors.

Friday, Pitt again turned to Majors to revive a football program whose prestige and winning percentage have plunged precipitously in recent years, signing him to at least a four-year coaching contract.

Majors, 57, coached Pitt to a 33-13-1 record and a national championship in 1976 before leaving for 16 seasons and a 116-62-8 record at his alma mater, Tennessee. He recently was forced to accept a contract buyout at Tennessee despite taking 14 of his last 18 teams to bowls.

Majors will be asked to do exactly what he did in 1972: take Pitt's program off the scrap heap, make it respectable, and make it win.

Broncos expect Bills to be ready

Associated Press

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — Two straight losses have stunned the Buffalo Bills. It would seem like Saturday would be a good time for the Denver Broncos to travel to Rich Stadium, right?

NFL Today

Wrong, according to the Broncos' quarterback tag-team of Tommy Maddox and Shawn Moore.

"I think we are coming in there at a tough time," Maddox said. "I don't think Buffalo has lost two games in a row at home in a long time."

"I think we've caught them at a bad time," Moore said. "They need a victory."

The other problem for the Broncos is that they're not playing well, either. Three straight losses — the last two in the fourth quarter and overtime — have dimmed the playoff prospects for the Broncos (7-6).

"If we were on a winning streak, (the Bills' problems) might be an advantage, but we're both struggling, both looking for ways to figure out how to win," Denver coach Dan Reeves said. "We have to eliminate our mistakes to have a chance."

That won't be easy. With John Elway expected to miss his fourth straight game with a shoulder injury, the Broncos again are expected to use Maddox and Moore, both in their first NFL seasons.

Maddox threw for three touchdowns in last week's 31-27 loss to the Dallas Cowboys, but he also had four interceptions. Alternating plays with Maddox, Moore didn't throw any touchdowns or interceptions.

"I think the quarterbacks did a good job," Reeves said. "Unfortunately we turned the ball over a number of times, which you can't do, and that's what causes problems."

In a highly-unusual arrangement, Mad-

Rookie QBs lead Giants

TEMPE, Ariz. — Phil Simms will be here to lend encouragement, but his elbow is still too tender to play. Jeff Hostetler will not be here because he still becomes dizzy from post-concussion syndrome.

So when the New York Giants play the Phoenix Cardinals on Saturday, the rookies — Kent Graham, their present quarterback of the future, and Dave Brown, perhaps the future quarterback of the future — will be on display.

For a third straight week, Graham will start, but this time the plan is to put Brown in the game for more than cleanup duty.

"I may go from one to the other and then back," said Ray Handley, the Giants' coach. "The score won't matter. It won't be based on performance. They've done a good job this week. It's tough to get ready for games at this level. I think even Phil has been impressed by their preparation.

"Because both veteran quarterbacks got hurt, their progress accelerated. Dave has learned how close he is to playing and the necessity of being

Dykes to co-coach South

Associated Press

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Texas Tech's Spike Dykes and Mark Duffner of Maryland will coach the South in this year's Kelly Tire Blue-Gray All-Star Football Game, while West Virginia's Don Nehlen and Minnesota's Jim Wacker will handle the North.

Dykes

Organizers of the Dec. 25 charity game being played here announced the coaching staffs on Friday.

Each coach will be accompanied by a member of his staff.

Assistant coaches include Rhudy Maskew of Texas Tech; Maryland's Dan Dorazio; Steve Dunlap of West Virginia and Chris Foerster of Minnesota.

The rosters will be announced later.

The Christmas morning game, which features mostly players from teams that did not earn a bowl berth, will be broadcast by ABC-TV.

Dykes' Red Raiders finished the 1992 with a 5-6 overall record. Tech was 4-3 in the Southwest Conference, including a 44-35 season-ending victory over the Houston Cougars.

Pokes at RFK means tradition

N.Y. Times News Service

IRVING — Multiple choice.

The Dallas Cowboys' rivalry with the Washington Redskins is:

A) "Just like the Old West," said 10th-year Dallas defensive end Jim Jeffcoat. "It's the Cowboys fighting the Indians."

B) "The biggest game of the year," said Dallas running back Emmitt Smith.

C) "In a sense, bigger than the playoffs and bigger than the Super Bowl," said Cowboys owner Jerry Jones.

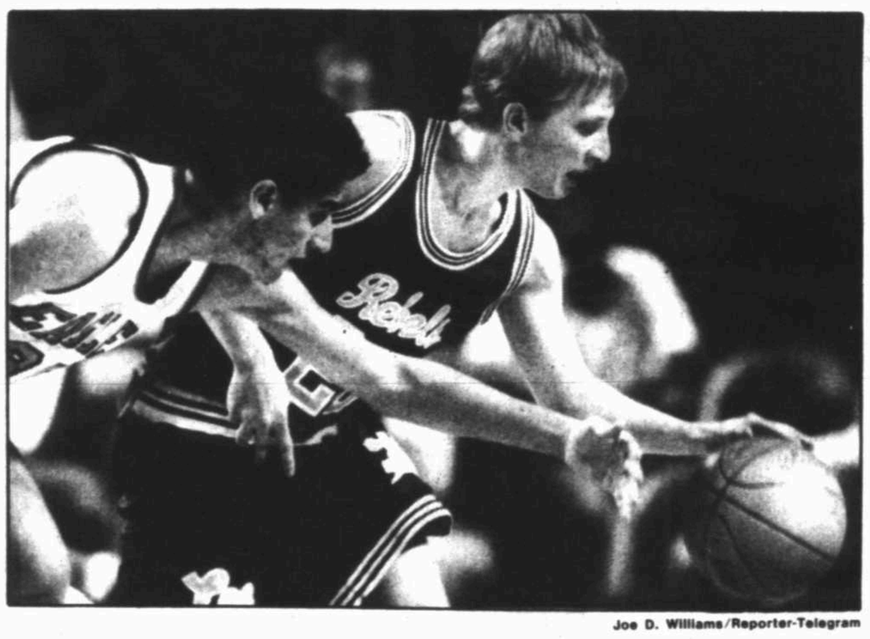

D) All of the above.

"There is a tradition there," said Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson, whose club faces the Redskins at Washington's RFK Stadium at 3 p.m. tomorrow in a game that could determine whether Dallas will enter the playoffs with an NFC East title and

Lee wins, MHS falls in Classic

Midland High lost and Midland Lee won in the opening round of the Tall City Classic basketball tournament Friday night at Chaparral Center, and yes, those were long faces seen from both teams when the smoke had cleared.

Neither MHS coach Jack Stephenson or Lee coach Jon House were pleased with the efforts they saw on the floor as the Bulldogs fell to Class 4A Amarillo Caprock, 79-61, and Lee ran past Canutillo, 77-50.

Caprock, now 10-3 on the season, sent the 6-2 Bulldogs to the consolation bracket while Lee still has time to right its ship as eight games are set to unfold today,

Heisman vote could be close

■ The winner of college football's highest honor will come from a field with no overwhelming favorite.

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Gino Torretta has the best record, Marshall Faulk has the best stats and Garrison Hearst plays in the best conference.

So who will win the Heisman Trophy Saturday?

With no overwhelming favorite, it could be a close vote for college football's biggest award.

Will the winner be Torretta, who has compiled a 26-1 record as Miami's starting quarterback despite a lumbering style and the fact that 18 others were ranked higher in passing efficiency this season?

Or will it be Faulk, the San Diego State sophomore who led the nation in rushing for the second straight year, but missed 2½ games and played in the offense-crazy Western Athletic Conference?

And what about Hearst, the country's leading scorer and No. 2 rusher? The Georgia junior played in the rugged Southeastern Conference, but averaged only 62 yards rushing against Mississippi, Florida and Auburn.

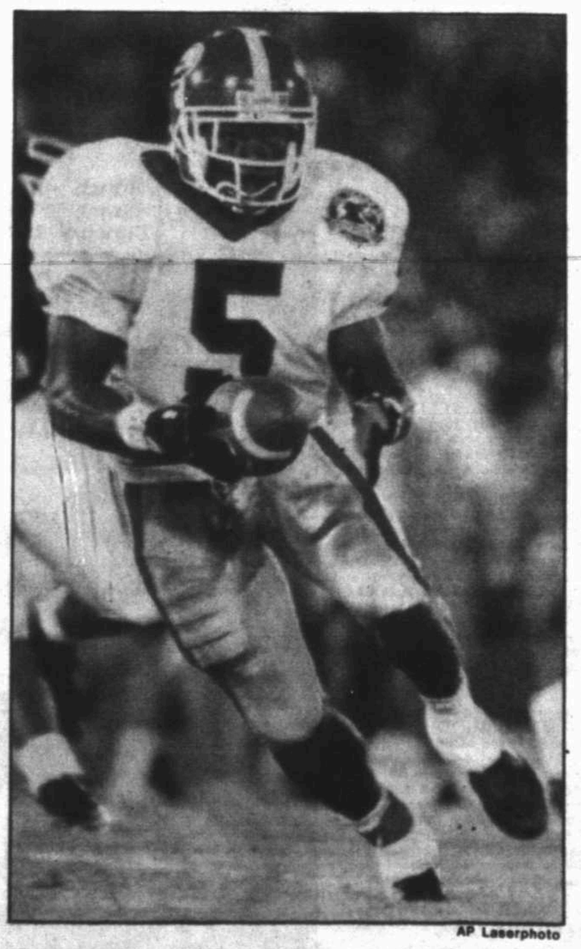

Then again, you might want to consider Notre Dame running back Reggie Brooks and Florida State linebacker Marvin Jones. Brooks averaged eight yards per carry, more than Faulk or Hearst, and Jones was a dominant defensive player on the third-ranked Seminoles.

While Torretta is expected to win, it wouldn't be a shocking upset if he didn't. He doesn't have the flair of last year's winner, Desmond Howard, or the phenomenal stats of the three previous winners — Ty Detmer, Andre Ware and Barry Sanders.

"We've gotten spoiled the last five years with record-setting performances," Ivan Maisel of the Dallas Morning News said. "This year, there's no one like that."

Maisel voted for Jones, who already has won the Lombardi Award as the nation's top lineman. Jones also is favored to win

Big Eight, SWC plan more talks

Associated Press

DALLAS — Southwest Conference presidents will meet with presidents of the Big Eight schools next month to discuss a proposed working agreement between the two leagues, it was announced Friday.

SWC President Paul Rogers, a law professor at Southern Methodist, said the groups will meet on Jan. 13 during the NCAA Convention in Dallas. The two leagues first met to discuss a merger in January 1991 at Nashville.

Outgoing SWC Commissioner Fred Jacoby said the agenda will contain a proposal with three main items.

"It will involve scheduling, television, and sponsorship and marketing," Jacoby

POKES: 'Skins backed up to the NFC wall with 8-5 record

whether the Redskins will enter the playoffs at all. "It has been a classic rivalry. And for us, it can be a statement for what a long way we've come."

But "like the Old West"? It's doubtful west-bound settlers and Native Americans paused in the middle of the crossfire of bullets and arrows to deliver sound bites to the local TV station, as these modern warriors do. And history gives no indication that after the 1800s battles were tallied up, a tiebreaker such as "winning percentage within the conference" would be employed.

The "biggest game of the year"? That's certainly so for the Redskins, who are 8-5 and hold the inside track on the sixth and final NFC playoff berth. The Green Bay Packers are 7-6 and have a four-game winning streak. It looms large for Dallas, as Johnson says about every game, "because every week is big the more you keep winning."

The Cowboys' aims are to clinch the division (any one Dallas victory or Philadelphia loss does that), guarantee a first-week playoff bye and a second-week home game (a Dallas victory and a Minnesota loss does that) and keep pace with San Francisco in the race for home-field edge throughout the post-season (the 11-2 49ers are a game up in conference winning percentage, the applicable tiebreaker).

Also on Dallas' wish list are relatively trivial matters such as a fifth consecutive road victory, a franchise-record tying 12th victory, the Cowboys' two-game winning streak against the 'Skins and their 3-1 record in the past four contests at RFK Stadium.

But all of that aside, said Jones, Dallas-Washington is a rivalry — make that an event — that supersedes whatever happens to be at stake.

"Obviously, it's critical for us to win this game, and it's even more critical for them," Jones said. "But this is Cowboys-Redskins. In a way, it's more important than playoffs and Super Bowl. That's how much history there is here."

The Cowboys are quick to note that Washington features the same frightening efficient roster of players who finished 14-2 a season ago and won the Super Bowl. "Washington, week-to-week and year-to-year, is one of the best teams in football," said Johnson, in a comment as true as it is to-a-fault respectful.

"Dallas-Washington is the sort of game that grabs everyone's attention," Johnson said.

Spending continues after winter meetings

Associated Press

Baseball

NEW YORK — The end of the winter meetings didn't cause baseball teams to close their checkbooks. The spending continued Friday as general managers kept filling holes in their rosters.

Outfielder Chili Davis returned to the California Angels for a one-year deal worth $2.25 million, and outfielder Candy Maldonado agreed to a $3.5 million, two-year contract with the Chicago Cubs.

Second baseman Harold Reynolds agreed to a $1.65 million, one-year contract with the Baltimore Orioles, who then released second baseman Bill Ripken, also known as Cal's brother. And the Detroit Tigers and left-hander Bill Kreuger agreed to a two-year contract.

Catcher Benito Santiago was close to agreement with the Florida Marlins on a $3.8 million, one-year contract. The deal isn't expected to be finalized until the middle of next week at the earliest.

The Cincinnati Reds signed second baseman Juan Samuel to a minor league deal worth $700,000 guaranteed and invited him to spring training. The Baltimore Orioles signed infielder Tommy Hinzo and pitcher Dave Miller to minor league contracts and invited them to spring training, too.

Late Thursday night, the New York Yankees finally signed a free agent pitcher, agreeing to a $17 million, four-year contract with left-hander Jimmy Key.

"Sometimes we get people who get skeptical about coming to New York," Yankees general manager Gene Michael said. "Sometimes after they make two or three million, they want a little more comfortable lifestyle."

Davis, a switch-hitter who turns 33 next month, left the Angels two years ago to sign as a new-look free agent with the Twins, where he served as the designated hitter most of the time. He gets $1.75 million in 1993 and has a chance to earn another $650,000 in performance bonus. The Angels have an option for 1994 at his total 1993 income, or must pay a $500,000 buyout.

"We feel the addition of Chili bolsters our lineup and, with Kelly Gruber, provides protection throughout the batting order," Angels president Richard Brown said. "We feel he will instill some important leadership qualities to our younger players. The club certainly didn't want to lose Chili after the 1990 season, and we are pleased to have him return in an Angels' uniform."

Reynolds, 32, has a .260 career average in 10 major league seasons, all with the Seattle Mariners. He has 208 career steals and has often through his career been among the AL leaders in triples.

"He gives me some maneuverability because of the way he handles the bat," Orioles manager John Oates said.

Maldonado, 32, is the fifth free agent signed by the Cubs, joining catcher Steve Lake and pitchers Jose Guzman, Randy Myers and Dan Plesac. Maldonado gets a $200,000 signing bonus and $1.55 million in each of the next two seasons and the chance to make $100,000 a year in performance bonuses. The Cubs have an option for 1995 at $2 million, with a $200,000 buyout.

He hit .272 for the World Series champion Toronto Blue Jays with 25 doubles, 20 home runs and 66 RBIs.

Selig calls for all new system

Associated Press

MILWAUKEE — Baseball's acting leader, Bud Selig, reiterated a call for a new player compensation system Friday, saying his own team's loss of free agent Paul Molitor highlights the game's changing landscape.

"Forget who signs Paul Molitor or Kirby Puckett or John Smiley or Barry Bonds or Bobby Bonilla. We need a new system," said Selig, the Milwaukee Brewers president and the chairman of the ruling executive council.

"What this is crying for is a new player compensation system, a rational economic system that confronts the issues and enables 28 clubs to be competitive .... We have watched the landscape change beyond any human comprehension."

Selig said an economic study due Monday will show that 18 major league clubs lost money last season.

"That's the story here. It's not that we don't want to do this or do that," Selig said. "This is just not a Milwaukee problem, it always gets back to that.

"The small market-big market problem is not a secret. It's a problem everywhere. All I've said is that the landscape is changing. I have no less conviction today than I did 28 years ago."

The Brewers have been criticized for allowing Molitor, who had played his entire 15-year career in Milwaukee, to get away. He signed a three-year, $13 million contract with the Toronto Blue Jays on Monday.

Selig says those who thought the Brewers waited too long to negotiate with Molitor or who criticize the team's $20 million investment on injured and ineffective players like Teddy Higuera, Ron Robinson and Franklin Stubbs were missing the point.

"This is not about expenses. It's about an industry with some very indigenous franchises needing to find new ways to do business," he said, pointing to other small-market franchises like Pittsburgh.

TOURNEY: Title game scheduled for 8:45 p.m.

(From 1B)

beginning at 8:30 a.m. and running to the 8:45 p.m. finals.

Good shooting beats bad shooting most of the time and Caprock hit close to 60 percent from the field against MHS, with Franco Islas leading the way with an individual school record six three-point shots. He had a tournament best 26 points, sharing that honor with Lee's David Wilson.

MHS was just never in the game as Caprock rocked to an 18-point first half lead and never were threatened in the second half. The threes just fell too fast.

"I take the blame for the loss," Stephenson said. "I just didn't have the kids ready to play a good basketball team and that's my fault. We didn't play well at all and we are capable of playing much better than that."

Caprock coach Chester Dunavin said, "We played five games in three days last weekend and won four of the five, losing only to (El Paso) Hanks. I think that got us prepared for this. I know one thing, it's nice to come in and beat one of the host teams. That feels pretty good."

MHS got 21 points from Andre Gill and 18 from Mike Melzer, but in addition to Islas, Caprock got 19 points from Tony Palmer and 17 from Javier Fierro.

Lee's Rebels climbed to 9-1 for the season with an easy romp over Canutillo, but the victory didn't have a lasting impression with Lee coach House.

"We had a good performance in the first quarter, but it was the worst performance over the last three quarters that I've seen since I've been here as far as intensity level is concerned," said House, who is in his third year as the Rebel boss.

"We started off good and then just turned to slop. You can't do that against a good team and expect to win. We've got no killer instinct."

Still, Canutillo, now 7-4 for the year, was no match for the Rebels, who got 26 points from Wilson. No other Rebs were in double figures. The Eagles were led by 15 points from Joe Portillo and 14 from Shawn Roderick.

Lee, which may be headed for a three-point team shooting record, did hit nine three-point shots, two more than its season average.

The win puts Lee against 4-5A foe Odessa Permian in the championship semifinals today at noon for a glimpse at some upcoming district competition.

The feature match of opening day was supposed to be Arlington Martin's Warriors vs. El Paso Eastwood's Troopers, but 8-1 Martin bombed the 11-2 Troopers by an 83-61 margin.

Eastwood, a Region I Tournament entrant last spring at the Chap, defeated Martin in this tournament a year ago, so this could be considered a revenge match. Not so says Martin coach Danny Husband.

"We graduated nine kids off the team we had last year, so last year's loss to Eastwood had no bearing on this game," Husband said. "We're small, but we're playing hard."

The Warriors' only loss is a seven-point setback to Albany, Ga., the No. 3-ranked high school team in the country.

D'Juan Baker led Martin with 20 points while Johnny Hunter had 17. Eastwood got a game high 25 points from Mohammad Hadavi.

Martin also has Ben Grieve, son of Texas Rangers general manager Tom Grieve, on the team. He had eight points. Eastwood has 6-6 Gary Brewster, the son of former Midland High standout Gary Brewster who helped take the Bulldogs to the state tournament in the early '70s. Brewster had 13 points.

In the tournament opener, District 4-5A got another first round victory when Odessa Permian survived a second half rally by El Paso Riverside to win 66-58.

Reuben Loud led the Panthers with 21 points while Tyrone Thomas added 11 points and Shon Washington had 10. Riverside's Orlando Olivas led all scorers with 24 points and Rene Sierra had 20, but the Rangers had little help elsewhere.

Riverside trailed by as many as 11 points in the game and trimmed that margin to two points several times in the fourth quarter before Permian nailed the game down with a late charge.

MHS faces Eastwood in an early wake-up call at 10:15 a.m. while Riverside takes on Canutillo at 8:30 a.m. Caprock will test tough Martin at 1:45 p.m.

Eastwood coach Bobby Leslie had it all figured out for today's match with MHS.

"I know what was wrong with Midland," Leslie said. "They saw who we played (Martin) and didn't want any part of them. They wanted to get a piece of us."

Hoosiers trounce Austin Peay, 107-61

Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Alan Henderson scored 25 points, including 14 straight for No. 4 Indiana, as the Hoosiers routed Austin Peay 107-61 in the first round of the Indiana Classic on Friday night.

Indiana will play the winner of Friday's second game between Western Michigan and Pacific for the title on Saturday.

Already leading 55-35 with 15:02 to play, Indiana (6-1) went on a 20-8 run to put the Governors away. Henderson scored the Hoosiers' last 14 points during that stretch. He might have continued his run had coach Bob Knight not pulled him with 9:17 remaining.

No matter. Reserve guard Chris Reynolds picked up where Henderson left off, scoring Indiana's next nine points as the Hoosiers built an 84-47 advantage.

Reynolds, Damon Bailey and Calbert Cheaney all scored 16 points for Indiana.

No. 2 Kansas 94, Mississippi Valley St. 46

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Kansas opened the game with a 41-4 run and went on to easily defeat Mississippi Valley State in the first round of the Golden Harvest Classic.

The Jayhawks advanced to the championship game to face Missouri-Kansas City, an 86-85 winner over California-Irvine.

Mississippi Valley State (1-2) committed 13 turnovers before scoring a field goal. The Delta Devils shot 12 percent in the first half as Kansas (4-0) built a 56-10 halftime advantage.

Six different Jayhawks scored as they went on a 26-2 surge in the first eight minutes.

No. 19 Cincinnati 83, SE Missouri St. 58

CINCINNATI — Erik Martin scored 23 points and led a pair of 20-2 runs that carried Cincinnati over Southeast Missouri State in the Delta Bearcat Classic.

Cincinnati (2-0) used its trapping defense to make up for the loss of playmaker Nick Van Exel, sidelined by knee surgery. The Bearcats forced eight turnovers while opening the game with a 20-2 run, then held the Indians (4-1) without a field goal for nearly seven minutes during an identical second-half burst.

Southeast Missouri State, facing pressure defense for the first time this season, turned the ball over 30 times to set up 41 of Cincinnati's points.

No. 21 Memphis St. 91, SW Louisiana 85

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Anfernee Hardaway had 23 points, eight rebounds and eight assists as Memphis State finally got its first win.

Hardaway, who only missed three of 11 shots from the field, got plenty of support as four players from Memphis State (1-3) scored in double figures.

The balanced attack overshadowed a stellar performance from Southwestern Louisiana's Michael Allen, who scored 38 points, including eight of 13 from 3-point range.

The Ragin' Cajuns (0-1) led by one, 81-80, with 2:48 remaining when Byron Starks, who finished with 15 points and seven rebounds.

Horned Frogs snap skid with double OT victory

Associated Press

JONESBORO, Ark. — Jentry Moore scored 20 points, including four 3-pointers, to lead Texas Christian to a 75-67 double overtime victory over Tennessee-Martin on Friday in the first round of the Runnin' Joe Classic at Arkansas State.

The victory broke the Horned Frogs'(2-3) three-game losing streak and put them into Saturday's championship game against the winner of the Arkansas State-Houston Baptist game. Tennessse-Martin (2-2) will meet the loser.

TCU, which led 57-53 with 2:27 left in regulation, watched the Pacers tie the game on a layup by Sydney Benton and two free throws by Tim Britt with 27 seconds left.

It was 64-all after five more minutes.

In the final overtime, TCU scored nine unanswered points in less than four minutes and coasted to their second win of the season. The Horned Frogs had lost three in a row.

Allen Tolley and Eric Dailey followed with 14 points apiece.

Britt led the Pacers with 17 points and 14 rebounds.

SWC: ESPN to broadcast tourney said. "I think they (Big Eight officials) will be receptive to listening to them."

Also during the league's winter meeting Friday, officials discussed finding Jacoby's successor.

"We hope to have somebody named by early April and take office in early July," Rogers said.

Faculty representatives also heard a report on a possible new site for the annual SWC basketball tournament with proposals from San Antonio and Houston studied.

"No decision will be made until after the tournament in Dallas in March," Rogers said. "We've been in a rebuilding process since Arkansas left and it's not fair to judge Dallas on just one year."

The tournament will be held this March at the 17,000-seat Reunion Arena in Dallas. Last year's tournament sold an average of 11,200 tickets for each game.

This year the SWC tournament will be televised nationally by ESPN, but only to about half the nation because other tournaments are going on.

COACH: Best possible news

(From 1B)

ney, some lymph nodes and a portion of a rib on Thursday after a tumor was found during a routine physical for insurance coverage.

Tests to see if the cancer had spread "show that there was no further cancer. They were able to get all the cancerous tissue out," team spokesman Chip Namias said.

Physicians said the news means Gilbride will not have to undergo further treatments, such as chemotherapy or radiation.

"It's like the doctor said, it's the best possible news," Namias said. "Everybody's very thankful, and Kevin is very lucky they were able to catch the cancer that quickly."

Dr. Rick Goldfarb of Methodist Hospital's urology department said physicians believed they removed all of the cancer in the 2½-hour surgery Thursday.

"It appears he should have an excellent prognosis," Goldfarb said Thursday.

Gilbride, who was listed in good condition at Methodist Friday, was expected to remain hospitalized for another four to six days and then begin resuming his normal work routine within three to six weeks, Namias said.

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

WHAT IS STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE?

Stockquote Hotline gives you the latest stock prices direct from the wires of the Associated Press. Over 9,000 stocks are listed from NYSE, AmEx, and OTC sources; all available 24 hours a day. You can receive up to 10 quotes with one easy phone call.

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE:

1) Call the Stockquote Hotline at 560-2400; enter the category number which is 9988.

2) You will be asked to enter your stock ticker symbol. These are based on industry-standard symbols, which can be found in a Standard & Poor's Ticker guide, or by calling your local stock broker.

3) Once you've entered the numerical code for the ticker symbol, press the Star Key (*) and you will hear the current price and net change from the last Associated Press update; which is a few minutes behind market activity.

4) After the stock is quoted, you will be asked to enter another ticker symbol. You now have 2 options:
- You may request a quote for another stock by repeating steps 2 & 3.
- You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more pressing the Star Key (*).

Now the volume, high and low will be given, and then you will be asked to enter another ticker code.
- You may enter up to 10 ticker symbols per call.

5) To exit Stockquote Hotline, simply hang up the phone.

Rockets topple Bulls, 110-96

Associated Press

NBA

CHICAGO — Hakeem Olajuwon scored 28 points and the Houston Rockets snapped Chicago's six-game home winning streak with a 110-96 decision over the Bulls on Friday night.

The Bulls closed a 15-point deficit to 91-87 on Horace Grant's two free throws with 8:13 left in the game. But the Rockets outscored the Bulls 14-3 in the next 4:41, sealing the outcome.

Olajuwon got plenty of support from his teammates, with four of them scoring 17 or more points. Vernon Maxwell and Otis Thorpe scored 19 each, rookie forward Robert Horry had 18 and Kenny Smith 17.

Michael Jordan scored 26 points and Scottie Pippen 22 for the Bulls, now 6-2 at home this season.

The Rockets took control at the start of the third quarter, starting with a 15-6 run for a 71-60 lead on Olajuwon's 10-footer from the corner at 6:28.

They gradually built an 84-69 advantage, their biggest lead of the game, on a 12-footer by Olajuwon with 1:35 remaining.

The Bulls, who shot just 36 percent in the quarter, fought back with a basket by Jordan and 3-pointers from John Paxson and Jordan, trimming the deficit to 86-77 entering the fourth quarter.

Suns 108, Magic 107

ORLANDO, Fla. — Reserve forward Tom Chambers scored 27 points and Orlando rookie Shaquille O'Neal missed two of four free throws in the final six seconds, enabling Phoenix to beat the Magic.

The Suns extended their winning streak to six games, while Orlando lost for the sixth consecutive time after an 8-3 start.

Down by two points, the Magic worked the ball to O'Neal on two possessions in the final seconds. He went to the line with 6.5 seconds to play with a chance to tie, and he made one of two foul shots.

After Dan Majerle's free throw with 6.2 seconds left, O'Neal was fouled with 1.1 seconds remaining. Again with a chance to tie, he again missed one of two.

O'Neal, who finished with 26 points and 17 rebounds, is hitting 53.7 percent of his free throws this season.

Majerle finished with 22 points for Phoenix, while Charles Barkley had 18 points and 11 rebounds.

Clippers 125, 76ers 110

PHILADELPHIA — Danny Manning scored 29 points and Mark Jackson 26 as the Los Angeles Clippers won in the Spectrum for the first time.

The Clippers' franchise last win in Philadelphia was Oct. 31, 1975, when they were the Buffalo Braves. The team then lost 22 straight at the Spectrum.

The 76ers have lost eight of nine games and fell to 2-8 at home this season.

Hawks 112, Nuggets 107, OT

ATLANTA — Kevin Willis scored seven of his 25 points in overtime to trigger the Atlanta Hawks to a victory.

The Hawks, who won their third in a row, scored the first six points of the extra period. Willis threw in a hook shot over 7-foot-2 Dikembe Mutombo and Dominique Wilkins added four more points for a 105-99 lead.

Willis hit another hook for a 107-101 lead and added a 3-pointer from the corner for a 110-103 advantage with 1:20 left.

Wilkins led Atlanta with 33 points.

Sonics 100, Celtics 90

BOSTON — Derrick McKey and Gary Payton helped the Seattle SuperSonics survive Boston's fourth-quarter comeback and snap a six-game losing streak against the Celtics.

The Sonics' biggest lead, 70-53 with 4:31 left in the third quarter, dropped to 79-76 on a three-point play by Robert Parish with 8:37 left in the game. But the Celtics, who never led, came no closer.

Seattle lost the first two games of its current road trip in New York and Philadelphia. Boston, which won seven of its previous nine games, missed a chance to reach .500, instead falling to 9-11.

Pistons 107, Cavaliers 103

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — Detroit won its fifth straight game as Joe Dumars scored 28 points and Dennis Rodman grabbed 21 rebounds, extending the Cavaliers' losing streak to four.

Rodman, the NBA rebounding leader, has now had seven consecutive games with 20 or more rebounds since returning to the lineup from a suspension.

Lakers 118, Bullets 93

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Sam Perkins had 25 points on 12-for-14 shooting, and the Los Angeles Lakers continued their homecourt domination over Washington.

Vlade Divac had 15 points, 12 rebounds and a career-high seven blocks for the Lakers, who have won three in a row and nine of their last 12 games.

Mavericks' top pick turns back on team

Associated Press

DALLAS — The Dallas Mavericks, off to a franchise-worst 1-14 start, received more bad news Friday when holdout first-round draft pick Jim Jackson said he will not play for the team under any circumstances.

Jackson made the statement in a letter he sent to The Dallas Morning News and cable network TNT. His agent, Mark Termini, read the statement on TNT Friday night.

"I do not feel that the Dallas Mavericks have dealt with me in the same way other top NBA picks were dealt with," Termini said, reading from Jackson's statement.

"I now feel it is necessary to publicly stop all speculation that I might at some time be willing to sign with Dallas. I will not under any circumstances, or at any time, play basketball with the Dallas Mavericks."

Team officials said they did not receive a copy of the letter.

Jackson has asked Dallas for a six-year contract, but the team has offered only a four-year deal.

Mavericks general manager Norm Sonju on Friday night said the club has prepared two six-year proposals that have not yet been presented. The two sides last spoke on Wednesday, he said.

"If we were able to get them talking on a six-year model, no matter what words have been said, things could change," Sonju said. "Maybe I'm naive, but I'm hoping good things can still happen."

Termini did not immediately return a call from The Associated Press to his Cleveland office Friday night.

In the statement, Jackson also says he has re-enrolled at Ohio State, where he starred before becoming the fourth overall pick in this year's draft.

Sonju said he and team owner Donald Carter, who has been handling the negotiations, were surprised but not angered by Jackson's comments.

"We're not holding it against him," Sonju said. "He was sincere and polite in the way he said it. He meant every word of it and I don't blame him."

Putts propel Floyd to 2-stroke lead

Associated Press

DORADO BEACH, Puerto Rico — Ray Floyd overcame a couple of errant shots with spectacular putting and took a two-shot lead Friday in the opening round of the $1 million, season-ending Senior Tour Championship.

Television technicians were not as fortunate.

They were unable to overcome the effects of a massive storm battering the east coast of the United States and a power failure at the Dorado Beach course.

As a result, the scheduled national television coverage of the event was canceled — at least for one day.

Senior Golf

ABC officials hoped to have the problems corrected in time for the weekend telecast.

While the TV people struggled unsuccessfully with the two problems which affected satellite transmission, Floyd was rising above his two brushes with adversity.

The putter did it.

"I made everything I needed to make — and a few more," Floyd said after a 7-under-par 65 that included 10 one-putts.

With two rounds to go in the chase for a $150,000 first prize, George Archer, Don Bies and Dale Douglass shared second at 67.

Archer hit 17 greens in regulation and played without a bogey. Douglass spiced his round with a 30-foot eagle putt on the 10th hole and Bies moved up with a 31 on the back nine.

DeWitt Weaver, Jim Colbert and Gibby Gilbert were another stroke back at 68. Gilbert, who opened the 1991 edition of this event with an eagle-two on the first hole, repeated the performace this year, holing out a 90-yard sand wedge shot.

Lee Trevino, playing with a damaged thumb that will require surgery next Tuesday, had a 2-under-par 70 that left him vulnerable to being overtaken in the race for the money-winning title.

Sampras reaches semis at Grand Slam Cup

Associated Press

MUNICH, Germany — Pete Sampras overcame nemesis Henri Leconte, beating the Frenchman 7-6 (7-3), 6-4 Friday to reach the semifinals of the Grand Slam Cup.

In the semifinals, Sampras will meet Michael Stich, who beat Richard Krajicek 7-6 (7-4), 7-5.

In the other semifinal, Goran Ivanisevic plays Michael Chang.

Ivanisevic advanced Thursday, beating John McEnroe, while Chang ousted Petr Korda.

Sampras, the third seed, can become the first player to win the biggest prize in tennis twice. He won the inaugural edition of the Grand Slam Cup in 1990.

The richest tournament in the world offers $6 million in prize money, with $2 million to the winner. Each semifinalist gets $450,000.

Sampras lost to Leconte in a memorable Davis Cup final in 1991 at Lyon, France, and was upset again by Leconte in the Paris Open in November.

He again faced an inspired Leconte and a noisy French crowd. The fans got so rowdy at one point that even Leconte motioned them to stop the cat calls.

Leconte, once a top 10 player who has dropped to No. 61, had Sampras in trouble in the seventh game, but the American fought off two break points.

Sampras nearly lost his serve when French umpire Bruno Rebeuh called his shot wide, giving Leconte a break point. But Sampras ripped two aces and saved another break point to hold for 6-5.

Leconte blew a 3-0 lead in the tiebreaker. When he missed an easy volley, that made it 4-3 for Sampras and the former champion won the next three points.

"I was hanging on in the first set," Sampras said. "He was hitting some unbelievable return shots that were just too good.

"I got a little lucky in the tiebreaker and just went on from there."

Oilers out to dull receiving edge of Sterling Sharpe

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Green Bay wide receiver Sterling Sharpe is becoming the most talked about nontalker in the NFL.

Sharpe shuns interviews and concentrates on catching passes. He's leading the NFL with 88 catches and is on pace to break the NFL record of 106 set by Washington's Art Monk in 1984.

The Houston Oilers are next in line to try to stop the prolific Sharpe when the two teams meet Sunday night. Few have succeeded.

"Teams have shut him down to six catches instead of 10 but you never really stop him down," quarterback Brett Favre said. "He's always doing something to hurt you."

Sharpe has quickly caught the attention of Oilers wide receiver Haywood Jeffires, who led the NFL in 1991 with 100 catches and ranks second behind Sharpe with 77 catches this season.

Jeffires has resorted to seeking help from his teammates in his fight to retain his catching title.

"I told our defensive backs I'll pay them to stop him, no single coverages, we've got to catch up with him," Jeffires joked. "He's in a groove right now where he's catching everything."

Stopping Sharpe will help the Oilers (8-5), who are pursuing a wild-card playoff bid.

First-year Green Bay coach Mike Holmgren has centered his offense around Favre and Sharpe, who lines up at different spots on the field to disguise his routes.

"I know I can always turn to him (Sharpe) when things are going bad," Favre said. "He always finds a way to get open and even sometimes when he's not open, you throw the ball out to him and he makes the play."

After getting off to an 2-5 start with a new coach and a new quarterback, the Packers have rallied to a 7-6 record with a four-game winning streak, and they're talking about the playoffs.

A victory over the Oilers would give the Packers their first five-game winning streak since 1966, the year they won Super Bowl I under former coach Vince Lombardi.

"It's your obligation to get the ball in the hands of the best players," Holmgren said. "It's important to establish some continuity by getting the ball but into Sterling's hands."

Favre, who got his chance when starter Don Majkowski was injured, is adjusting to Holmgren's system. He's thrown 87 passes without an interception.

The Pack is ahead of Holmgren's schedule.

"If you'd told me, 'You'll lose your starting quarterback in the second game and play whole season with a rookie quarterback yet you'll be in this position with three games to play to reach the playoffs,' I'd say, 'How did we do that?'" Holmgren said.

The Oilers are trying to reach the playoffs despite injury and illness. They've been without starting quarterback Warren Moon since Nov. 15 because of a broken arm, and offensive coordinator Kevin Gilbride is out for three to six weeks to recover from surgery to remove a cancerous kidney.

Cody Carlson has replaced Moon and led the Oilers to a 2-1 record. Receivers coach Chris Palmer will replace Gilbride until his return.

The Oilers have a larger weapons arsenal than the Packers. Jeffires, Curtis Duncan and Ernest Givins are among the top six receivers in the AFC. Givins has nine touchdown catches, second in the NFL behind Sharpe's 10 touchdowns.

Lorenzo White rushed 116 yards in Monday night's 24-7 victory over Chicago to become the first Oilers 1,000-yard rusher since Mike Rozier in 1988. White ranks third in the AFC with 1,036 yards.

BILLS: No-huddle offense struggles

(From 1B)

dox and Moore alternated just about every play against Dallas. Reeves said he did it to give both a chance to play, then stand aside and think about the results.

"Rookies have so many things to think about," Reeves said. "I felt I'd give them a little more time to think about the execution, talking to them on the sideline from there to when they got in the huddle."

Moore thought rotating might be tough "but by the second half, it wasn't a problem at all. During the course of the two-minute drill, we both would have 2-3 plays that we'd run, if we got the clock stopped, the next guy would go in."

"You hear the phrase, 'Take it one play at a time,' " Maddox said. "That's what we had to do. You have to try and execute the play that's called, try to do it to the best of your ability and you try to make some things happen while you're in there."

The fortunes of Bills quarterback Jim Kelly have mirrored the team's performances in the past two weeks. Kelly has struggled trying to find an appropriate tempo for Buffalo's no-huddle offense.

Although still ranked second in the NFL, the Bills' offense averaged only 15 points in losses to two of the NFL's more unspectacular teams, the New York Jets and the Indianapolis Colts.

Bills coach Marv Levy said Kelly, the target of a lot of public criticism, is no more responsible for Buffalo's offensive woes than any other offensive player. "I don't know how much heat he's taken, but he's not deserving of it," he said.

Even though the Bills' defense has generally played well during the bad streak, Levy will tinker with it. Cornelius Bennett is expected to be moved from outside to inside linebacker, replacing Carlton Bailey. Marvcus Patton would take Bennett's old slot.

Regardless of the strategic tinkering, Buffalo (9-4) has to regroup mentally after two successive flat performances. A players-only team meeting Tuesday was intended to help do that.

"The guys realize it's getting down to crunch time," Steve Tasker, Buffalo's special teams star, said. "We're not even in the playoffs yet. We've got to get with it."

ROOKIE: Graham gets starting nod

(From 1B)

ready. He has made great strides the last few weeks."

Brown seems excited by the opportunity to play during quality time.

"I just want to get a feel for the game and make plays," he said. "If I have to scramble for a first down, fine. If I have to pass, fine. Whatever it takes. I'd like to play as much as possible. I think in the last couple of weeks I've gotten a taste for it."

For Giants supporters, Brown's coming-out party may be the most attractive aspect of the game Saturday. The stumbling Giants (5-8) have lost their last four games. The stumbling Cardinals (3-10) have lost their last four.

But although the Giants have the better record and have won the last eight meetings of these division rivals, the Cardinals are favored. The game at Sun Devil Stadium will be carried by CBS television, starting at 4 p.m., Eastern time.

PITT: Majors led Panthers to national crown in 1976

(From 1B)

Winning a national championship, as he did in 1976? Maybe that's too much to ask.

"I don't have a magic wand. I'm no miracle worker," Majors said. "The schedule here is intense ... the challenge here may be as great as any in college football. But my role has always been as a builder. I take pride that every program we've left has always been better than when we got there."

Coaches have left colleges only to return again, but the 20-year span between Majors' hirings at Pitt may be unrivaled in college football history. His rehiring on Dec. 11, 1992, came just a week before the 20-year anniversary of his initial hiring on Dec. 18, 1972.

"Twenty years ago, Johnny Majors was the perfect choice to become the head coach at the University of Pittsburgh," athletic director Oval Jaynes said. "He is again the perfect choice."

At Tennessee, Majors was fired despite a 34-9-2 record the past four seasons. At Pitt, it might earn him a contract for life.

But, speaking before a meeting room jammed with reporters, boosters, university administrators and players, Majors acknowledged Pitt probably is farther away from a national championship in 1992 than it was in '72, when he inherited a 1-10 team.

Majors takes over a fast-sliding program that was 3-9 this season and has made only two bowl trips in the past nine seasons. Majors and successor Jackie Sherrill took the Panthers to eight bowls in nine years from 1973-81.

Ironically, Pitt didn't turn to Majors again until Sherrill, the Mississippi State coach who was Jaynes' first choice to replace Paul Hackett, was rejected by university chancellor J. Dennis O'Connor.

Majors said the changing landscape of coaching football — the limitations on college scholarships, the rise of new powers, the intensity of coast-to-coast recruiting — almost rule out quick-fix jobs like he performed in 1973.

Pitt went 6-5-1 and earned a bowl invitation in Majors' first season after he brought in nearly 90 recruits — including a local high school running back named Tony Dorsett.

Majors again will inherit a Dorsett — Anthony Jr., Tony's son and a Pitt defensive back — but the NCAA now limits scholarships to 30 per season. Pitt also no longer lands the prime western Pennsylvania recruits it once did, now that dozens of schools recruit there heavily every year.

"The numbers game has changed," Majors said. "You can't rebuild as quickly. ... The schedule here with the Big East schools (Miami, Boston College, Syracuse) and non-conference teams (Notre Dame) is one of the toughest in college football."

Pitt also faces possible NCAA sanctions resulting from the university's internal investigation of violations it says occurred in former coach Mike Gottfried's regime.

Majors said his forced departure at Tennessee and his open-heart surgery last summer haven't dulled his enthusiasm or energy for coaching or recruiting.

"We've got to recruit," he said. "I know how to recruit. I can do it — legally — day and night. I want to coach here and I'm excited to coach here."

Majors then pulled on a blue-and-gold cap with the script Pitt logo he helped design years ago and held up a T-shirt handed him by Jaynes.

The T-shirt read: Pitt Football: Back to the Future.

"The players here want to win very badly," linebacker Tom Tumulty said. "He wants the same thing we want: to be a national contender again. We think he's the leader who can take us there."

HEISMAN: Award given today

(From 1B)

the Butkus Award, which goes to the best linebacker.

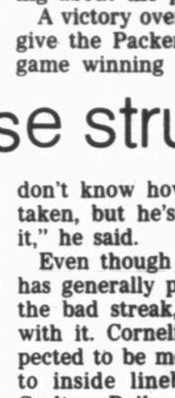

"The (Heisman) plaque says 'Most Outstanding Player in the United States,' and I think Jones stood out more than anyone else," Maisel said. "I know Torretta is 26-1, but if you're going to use starting records, then we should all vote for (Alabama quarterback) Jay Barker, who is 16-0."

ESPN commentator Lee Corso disagrees. He has been pushing Torretta for the Heisman all season, and sees no reason to change his mind now.

"He's a consistent winner," Corso said. "He didn't put up huge numbers, but he made the big plays and never got his team beat."

Others claim Torretta is just a good player on a great team, the offensive leader of a group that wins primarily with defense.

Torretta's numbers are solid, not spectacular. He completed 228 of 402 passes.

Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding.
Proverbs 3:5

Let not your heart be troubled: Ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you.
And if I go and prepare a Place for you, I will come again. And receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also.
John 14:1-3

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

BE MY GUEST!

IN ANOTHER ASPECT OF HOSPITALITY, A MAN'S WEALTH WAS MEASURED BY THE NUMBER OF GUESTS ENTERTAINED. NEHEMIAH, GOVERNOR OF JERUSALEM, ENTERTAINED 150 MEN AT A SITTING! KING AHAB AND JEZEBEL FED 800 PRIESTS OF BAAL DAILY (UNTIL ELISHA SLAUGHTERED THEM!). FOR SOLOMON'S FEASTS AT HIS COURT, ONE DAY'S PROVISIONS INCLUDED "...10 FAT OXEN, 20 CATTLE, 100 SHEEP, HARTS AND ROEBUCKS, FALLOWDEER AND FATTED FOWL." (1 KINGS 4:22FF). IT WAS A MATTER OF PRIDE FOR KINGS, NOBLES, AND ALL WEALTHY MEN TO PROCLAIM HOW MANY PEOPLE THEY FED AND ENTERTAINED. BUT FOR SHEER NUMBERS JESUS OUTDID THEM ALL—WELL, DIDN'T HE FEED THE FIVE THOUSAND? (MATT. 14:14-21)

Religious hallmarks persist in America

By George W. Cornell
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — U.S. public policy travels a turgid, sometimes wavering road between manifesting religious belief and silencing it. Several recent episodes demonstrate the ambiguities.

One was a poll indicating that Americans sharply disagree with U.S. Supreme Court rulings forbidding planned prayer in public schools. Another was a furor over calling the nation "Christian" or "Judeo-Christian."

Such disputes have rumbled for years in this country, and related issues usually proliferate in religious holiday seasons.

Through it all, undeniable vestiges of religion persist in some public institutions — in military and other government chaplains, in opening prayers of legislatures and Congress, in the pledge of allegiance to a nation "under God."

The same motto adorns our coins, and religious convictions throb through the national anthem. Symbols of the eye-of-God decorate dollar bills along with the Latin words, Annuit Coeptus, "He has favored our undertaking."

Court witnesses and presidents, hands on the Bible, seal their oaths, saying, "So help me God." A wall inside the U.S. Supreme Court depicts Moses holding up the tablet of God's law, and that high court opens its sessions with this supplication: "God save the United States and this honorable court."

While such history-rooted governmental earmarks of "civil religion" remain, they're occasionally attacked in lawsuits as unconstitutional by strict church-state "separationists," based on the First Amendment which is variously interpreted. It says: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, nor abridging the free exercise thereof."

High court decisions, beginning in the 1950's, have eliminated various religious expressions, such as in statues or displays on city or state property, in official seals and in public schools, banning arranged group prayer, Bible devotionals or display of the Ten Commandments.

According to a recent poll, most Americans sharply disagree with the Supreme Court's rulings on school prayer. But a defender of church-state separation said results reflected phrasing of questions and misunderstanding of the court's function.

It is not the court's job to measure public opinion but interpret the Constitution, says J. Brent Walker, associate counsel for the Baptist Joint Committee, based in Washington.

Results of the poll of 1,057 adults, conducted by The Wirthlin Group, with a margin of error of three percentage points, were published in the November Reader's Digest.

In the poll, when asked, "Do you personally favor or oppose prayer in public schools?," 75 percent said they favored it. Asked if they "approve or disapprove of the Supreme Court ruling that it is unconstitutional for a prayer to be offered at a high school graduation," 80 percent disapproved.

Seventy-six percent say "it's right for a school to put up a manger scene or menorah during the holiday season" and 53 percent say it's right for schools to post copies of the Ten Commandments.

However, Walker says poll results were influenced by phrasing of some questions. He said "almost everyone favors allowing our kids to pray in school," but if you ask whether the state should write the prayer or promote prayer, support drops sharply.

The stir over religious classifying of the country came after Mississippi Gov. Kirk Fordice recently maintained the United States is a "Christian nation." South Carolina Gov. Carroll Campbell said American values are based on "the Judeo-Christian heritage."

Responding, Americans United for the Separation of Church and State, based in Washington, issued a background paper on the subject, saying the idea of the United States having an official religion was explicitly rejected by framers of the Constitution.

Dallas ministry helps homeless take care of themselves, family

By Judith Lynn Howard
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS — The carpet of the one-bedroom apartment is stained, the furniture worn and the covered windows fail to block the cold. But two children lie safety in bed instead of in a doorway on the streets.

For this, Mary Washington gives thanks.

The single mother has barely enough money through a small child-support payment and public assistance to keep up with the rent and pay the baby sitter. But she gazes beyond her maid's paycheck to care for her children, ages 4 and 5. She anticipates better days when she won't worry about buying the kids shoes and can pursue a nursing career.

The 24-year-old said that her East Dallas apartment, where she has lived since August, is a step up from poverty: "I'm working to strive for me and my kids. A whole lot of women out there think they have to have a man or something like that to depend on, and really, they don't know that if they tried by themselves, it just might work."

That thrust toward self-empowerment is why Abundant Life I Am Ministries operates the complex at 1411 Annex Ave. for homeless families, said the Rev. Arris Wheaton, founder the ministry.

City officials estimate that at least 500 families and 1,000 to 1,200 children are homeless on any given night in Dallas, said Greg Harper, manager of the Day Resource Center.

Instead of soup lines and free turkeys, whether for a holiday or any other day, Wheaton said he opened the apartments three and a half years ago to supply struggling families with a place to live and an opportunity to manage their own lives.

"You go to the shelter, you go in this big bay and you got a cot. Well, here, you get a key to your own door," he said.

Some residents have neglected their apartments, but that is all a part of trying to learn responsibility, instead of having everything given to them, said Wheaton, who espouses a strong self-help ethic.

"When it comes easy to you, you don't maintain it," he said. "But when you've got to work and struggle for it, you try and fix it up."

Ms. Washington is one of those trying to make it.

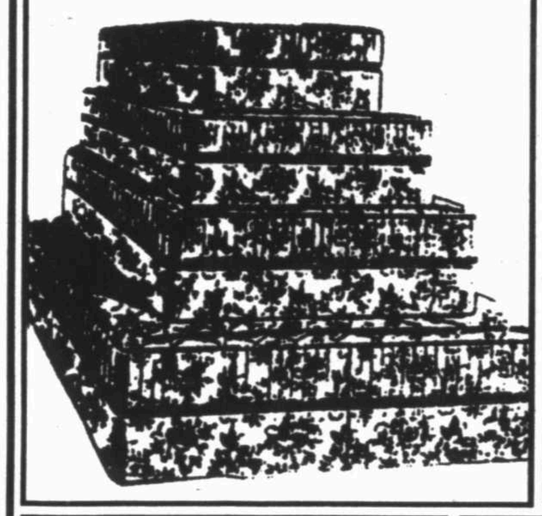

Fifteen of the 21 units are occupied, Wheaton said. The only requirement to stay is to have a dire need for low-cost housing and to pay $50 in monthly rent and a $10 key deposit. There are no leases.

The Communities Foundation of Texas, which works on several projects in East Dallas, owns the complex. It would have demolished the apartments if Wheaton had not suggested that he be allowed to convert them for families, said Kevin Hill, an accounting manager for the foundation.

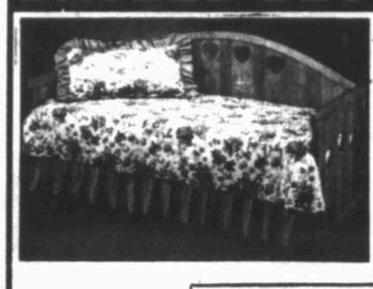

Within a year, the minister, along with homeless men, was able to rehabilitate more than a dozen apartments.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Guest to speak

ODESSA — Dennis Davis, pastor of San Antonio Christian Fellowship, will be speaking at Life Unlimited Church, 4224 E. Loop 338, at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 13.

Davis has spoken locally and in churches and conferences nationally and in other countries.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Don Palmer, invites the public to attend.

■ Groups to perform

Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan Ave., will present its Sunday School Department and youth music groups in their annual Christmas program during the worship hour at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

This program, "A Journey to Bethlehem," will precede the communion service. The program of song and spoken word will include the Joyful Singers presenting "I Wonder If He Knew?" and contributions by the Festive Chimers.

In addition, the church will have its traditional service of candlelight and carols at 7 p.m. Christmas Eve.

During the musical program, vocalist Charles Oxford will accompany a liturgical dance to "O Holy Night." Other participants will be soloist Jeremy Gengler and Richelle Gengler and Chita Meyer who will present an organ-piano duet, "Jesu Bambino."

The public is invited to attend. For more information call the church's pastor, the Rev. Ronald Meyer, 694-1373.

■ A&M Cadets to sing

The Texas A&M Singing Cadets will be giving a concert at First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave., at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 9.

The performance will be part of the church's Spring Festival Music Series. It is being co-sponsored by the local Aggie Moms Club.

Texas A&M has had an all-male chorus since 1894. That year, "The Battalion," Texas A&M's student newspaper, sponsored a contest to name the men's choral group. The winning entry was "Singing Cadets," and the student submitting the entry received a $5 prize.

The current group is chosen in auditions held during the first two weeks of the fall semester and the first week of the spring semester. The more than 60-member chorus rehearses from 5 to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday throughout the academic year.

■ Banquet scheduled

The Mt. Carmel Baptist Church will hold its annual pre-Christmas banquet at the Northeast YMCA auditorium at 7:30 p.m. today.

The fourth annual Women's Day Program will follow at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The Mt. Bethel Baptist Church of Big Spring will be special guests in the Sunday service. The church's pastor, the Rev. E.C. Wilson, will deliver the message. The public is invited to attend.

The banquet today costs $8 and semi-formal dress. Tickets may be obtained by calling 682-1860, or they may be purchased at the door.

■ Church to have drive

BIG SPRING — The First Church of the Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster, will be presenting its annual live drive through nativity between 6:30 and 10 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.

This year five new scenes have been added. The 14 scenes can be viewed from the car as it moves through a lit trail of luminarias. A cassette tape describes each scene.

Live animals and more than 150 will be participating in this event.

There is no charge. There is an opportunity to donate.

The entrance to the nativity is approaching from West Tenth Street and turning right onto South Lancaster.

■ Forum planned

The Unitarian-Universalist Church, Neely Avenue at Midkiff Street, will present a forum and discussion entitled "Controversy Over Abortion Rights" at 9:45 a.m. Sunday.

"The issue to the right to choose is one of the most controversial issues in society today," said church member Bruce McPherson in a news release. "The Unitarian-Universalist Association is proposing a public policy resolution on this important matter."

A discussion of the pros and cons of the issue will take place.

The public is invited to attend. Sunday School is held during the forum. The Sunday service is at 11 a.m. For more information call McPherson, 570-8118.

■ Choir to sing

The Chancel Choir of First United Methodist Church will present John Rutter's "O Holy Night" at the 8:30 and 10:35 a.m. services Sunday.

The choir, directed by Brad Kisner, director of First UMC's Music Ministries, will be accompanied by members of the Midland-Odessa Symphony Orchestra and Joan Lucas, church organist.

"O Holy Night" is an arrangement of several favorite Christmas carols including "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel," "Ding Dong Merrily on High," "Away in a Manager," "Go Tell It on the Mountain," the title song 'O Holy Night" and several others.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Russell C. Parchman, invites the public to attend the services which will be held in the sanctuary, Ohio Avenue at Main Street.

■ School holds service

Trinity School's 35th annual Christmas Service will be conducted in the school gymnasium, 3500 W. Wadley Ave., at 10 a.m. Friday.

The service will include remarks by the Rt. Rev. Sam B. Hulsey, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Northwest Texas. He will be introduced by the Rev. Allen Whitman, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity and chaplain of Trinity School.

Lessons will be read by the Ranking Scholars of grades 7 through 12 and the president of the Upper School Student Council. Carols will be sung by the various school choirs.

■ Program planned

Odessa Christian Faith Center, 8860 N. Andrews Highway, is presenting "One Life to Live, One Life to Give" at 8 and 10:45 a.m. Sunday.

The program is a compilation of originally composed music, script and choreography produced by Odessa Christian Faith Center's Music Ministry and Fine Arts Department.

Children's services are provided. For more information call 1-368-7714.

■ Service scheduled

The Sanctuary Choir of Trinity Presbyterian Church will present its annual Service of Lessons and Carols at 10:55 a.m. Sunday.

The service will feature soloists Marilyn Covington, Louise Crocker, David Messersmith and Dick Snyder. Music will include "How Lovely are the Messengers" from Mendelssohn's "St Paul" and "O Holy Night" by Adolphe Adam. Playing in the service will be flutist Kristi Forsberg, violinist Laureen Yanko and Messersmith on guitar.

The 40-voice Sanctuary Choir has been responsible for the Lessons and Carols Service for many years. It is one of the highlights of the choir year. Steve Spain serves as organist. Jane Clancy Debenport is director of music.

The church's pastors, the Rev. A.J. Moreau and the Rev. Mary Alice Lyman, invite the public to attend the service which will be held in the sanctuary, 2800 W. Louisiana Ave.

Agents arrest fugitive in Kansas

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A man who allegedly transported cocaine from Texas to Kansas and was indicted along with 15 others in October was arrested here Friday.

Kevin Charles Milton, 23, of Fort Worth, Texas, was taken into custody by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Drug Enforcement Administration, assisted by local police.

Milton was treated for minor glass cuts to his chest after he jumped through a window while attempting to flee a north Wichita residence, said FBI spokesman Jeff Lanza in Kansas City, Mo.

Milton was being held in the Sedgwick County Jail pending a Monday appearance before a federal magistrate.

"Mr. Milton is believed to be responsible for carrying large quantities of cocaine from this area to Kansas for distribution," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Fred Schattman, the Fort Worth prosecutor who is handling the case.

Schattman said Milton is named in four of the 57 counts returned against 16 defendants on Oct. 6. Two defendants in the case remained at large Friday.

The charges against Milton allege conspiracy to distribute cocaine, possession with intent to distribute about two pounds of cocaine, possession with intent to distribute about five pounds of cocaine and use of a telephone in illegal drug transactions.

The conspiracy count carries a sentence of up to life in prison and a $4 million fine. The possession counts each carry a possible maximum of 40 years in prison and a $2 million fine, and the telephone count a four-year prison term and a $250,000 fine.

Schattman said grand jurors charged Milton participated in a conspiracy to sell cocaine that dates back to 1987.

A May 3 trial date has been set in the case.

Texas troops head to Somalia

FORT HOOD, Texas (AP) — Nearly 500 soldiers from Fort Hood will be headed to Somalia in the next 30 to 40 days to join the relief efforts, the Army announced Friday.

Officials said the troops are specialists in the areas of supply, transportation, fuel handling, medicine and personnel matters.

The soldiers are scheduled to begin processing Saturday for the deployment. No departure date or flight schedules have been determined, according to the Fort Hood public affairs office.

The Army also said it wasn't known how long the troops would be deployed or whether additional soldiers from Fort Hood would be shipped out in the future.

Some restrictions apply. 12 month service commitment on new number activation with SBMS. Agent reserves the right to decline sale at their discretion.

Clinton's latest appointments promise difference at top tier

By Jill Lawrence
Associated Press Writer

■ Analysis

WASHINGTON — President-elect Clinton's latest appointments promise that the top tier of his administration will be not only diverse but also different from recent Republican teams.

The score after Clinton's Friday announcement was five men, four women, no minorities. That was bound to change, perhaps as early as today, with black and Hispanic appointments.

"When you see the whole Cabinet, it will be genuinely reflective of this country in gender and racial terms," Clinton said.

Whatever the ultimate statistics, Clinton's team already has a distinctive look as a result of the three women he added on Friday: Donna Shalala to be secretary of health and human services, Carol Browner to head the Environmental Protection Agency and Laura D'Andrea Tyson as chairman of the White House Council of Economic Advisers.

That came on the heels of Alice Rivlin's appointment as deputy budget director, which feminists consider a breakthrough in a key economic power post.

"You're struck by the large number of women already tapped ... and I suspect there'll be more," said newsletter publisher Stuart Rothenberg, a Republican analyst.

With blacks and Hispanics expected on the roster as well, he added, "this is very different from the selection of a bunch of Nicholas Bradys and Republican businessmen. It sends very different signals."

President Reagan started with women at the EPA and the United Nations, but had no female Cabinet secretaries until 1983 when he installed Elizabeth Dole and Margaret Heckler at the transportation and health departments.

President Bush initially named two Hispanics, two women and one black to top jobs in his administration — four Cabinet secretaries and the trade representative. Brady, an investment banker and longtime Bush friend, has been treasury secretary.

Clinton's first batch of appointments included four white males from Congress and Wall Street — and Rivlin. But the second wave was bracing to feminists who had pushed for female appointments.

"We are very pleased," said Harriett Woods, president of the National Women's Political Caucus. "We are continuing to press for diversity in terms of color, which is not yet there, and for breakthrough positions like attorney general which have never been held before by women."

There's some reason for hope among women and minorities that they will not only be represented in larger numbers, but will also have jobs that in the past have gone to white men.

Clinton reportedly is planning to name a woman as attorney general. And Tyson's job as economic adviser has never been held by a woman before.

The Department of Health and Human Services, where Shalala is headed, does not fit the breakthrough category. Nor would the expected appointment of San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros as housing secretary.

U.N. ambassador, a prospective post for Democratic Party chairman Ron Brown, has been held by several blacks. But he would be the first of his race if he were named commerce secretary or trade representative — other possibilities for him. The same would be true if Clinton gives secretary of state or secretary of defense to Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, or agriculture secretary to Mississippi Rep. Mike Espy.

Woods said the "obvious goal" of her group would be that women fill about half of 19 Cabinet and senior posts viewed as the uppermost tier, but acknowledged that's not realistic.

"We're not there for a quota. The most we had before is three. We'd be disappointed if it was less than five or six," she said.

She's not likely to be disappointed, for two reasons: Clinton's stated goal of diversity, and the relative depth of the Democratic bench when it comes to women and minorities.

"Bush happened to be comfortable with Jim Baker and Nicholas Brady and people like that, people he has known for a long time. That's his circle," Rothenberg said. "Clinton is more eager to find a mix."

As far as a pool of possible choices, even eager Republicans have had trouble finding blacks, Hispanics and women with both the right credentials and the right party affiliation for top jobs in GOP administrations.

"Republicans are ecstatic when they have even strong black congressional candidates," Rothenberg said.

Jury convicts former priest of criminal sexual conduct

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The first trial of a former Roman Catholic priest accused of sexually abusing dozens of children in three states ended Friday in his conviction of molesting a 15-year-old baby sitter in 1987.

The now-21-year-old woman wept as the verdict was announced in a courtroom crowded with some of the dozens of people who have accused James R. Porter of abusing them while he was a priest in Massachusetts, Minnesota and New Mexico.

"I got what I wanted," said the woman, who agreed to be identified only by her first name, Sara. "I know he needs help. He's a sick man."

Porter, 57, showed no emotion when verdict was read following a 2½-day trial and three days of deliberations by a jury of seven women and five men. He left the courtroom without comment after being released to his attorney's custody.

Defense attorney Paul Lukas said he was considering an appeal based on what he said were prejudicial statements by prosecutors in closing arguments. Lukas said his client was "obviously very upset, very disappointed, very distraught."

The jury foreman, Eric Ayen, said jurors believed Porter was guilty but initially had too many doubts to convict him. He said the jury's first vote was 8-4 to acquit Porter.

Ultimately, the decision hinged on Sara's credibility, he said.

"We had to decide whether or not she was telling the truth," said Ayen, a 29-year-old mental health social worker. "We decided she was. She had no motive to lie, is what it really came down to. We really wanted to give her story a chance."

Porter will be sentenced Jan. 28 on six counts of criminal sexual conduct. Each carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine, but state guidelines recommend probation for a person with no previous convictions.

Prosecutor Richard Hodsdon said he didn't know whether he would ask for a sentence stiffer than recommended guidelines. Hodsdon said the verdict should encourage other victims of sexual abuse to come forward.

"We hope the message goes out — you don't have to hide," he said.

Frank Fitzpatrick of Cranston, R.I., who last summer made the first public allegations against Porter, hugged Sara and thanked her for coming forward.

"It's a big step, a lot of validation," he said. "She was the focal point for every single one of us. We're hoping now for justice to be done in Massachusetts."

Porter faces criminal charges involving 32 people in Massachusetts, but questions have been raised about the constitutionality of a state law stopping the clock on the statute of limitations when a person leaves that state.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Greater business success depends on your coming up with original ideas. An advertising or merchandizing expert can help you get a foothold early in 1993. Next March, give free rein to the artistic side of your nature. Record financial profits are possible by August. A relative will make good on a promise in September. You finally get the support you have lacked in the past!

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: singers Frank Sinatra and Dionne Warwick, gymnast Cathy Rigby, game show host Bob Barker.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Explore an unusual option connected with buying or maintaining real estate. If single, you may be ready to end a relationship that no longer works. Look forward to concentrating on your career.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Pay attention to what is happening around you. Listen rather than proclaim. Read the small print very carefully before signing contracts. Your social life accelerates.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Get an early start today or you will miss the real business. A message from someone influential will bring you good news. Loved ones want to spend more time alone with you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your company is in great demand now. New friends seek you out. Stick to your original social plans even if tempted by a last-minute invitation. Avoid eating or drinking too much.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Joint endeavors seem to be blessed today. Let loved ones know how much you appreciate their efforts. Romance thrives on consideration and trust. Avoid mentioning past mistakes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Do not push your luck or take advantage of your popularity today. A communication could be misinterpreted by people who do not understand your motives. Keep business and pleasure strictly separate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You know intuitively what is right for yourself and your family. Use this special gift to improve your financial position. A patient approach works best in romance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Favorable new developments occur in secret — exciting ideas unfold. It may be best to keep certain friends in the dark about your plans. Visit an older relative who may feel forgotten.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Try not to take it to heart if someone you love seems distant. Think of the affection and understanding you have shared and remember all the good times you have had.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Put your heart into your work and it will become a thing of beauty. A romance flourishes, thanks to your helpful deeds. Children long for both understanding and approval.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A great day for dressing up, going out and making new friends. Small social gatherings hold more appeal than large ones today. A parent's advice could help your career.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your gentle, sympathetic manner helps you win friends and influence people. Be supportive of a love one's dreams. A newspaper ad or article could give you a good job lead; follow up.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are affectionate but not possessive, confident that their love and loyalty will be repaid in kind. Energetic and sociable, they seem to rush from one activity to the next without pausing for breath. Count on these honest Sagittarians to say exactly what they mean. They dislike manipulative behavior and pride themselves on being direct. Wise parents will point out that a little tact can make the truth more palatable.

OKLAHOMA CITY — Muhammad Ali didn't speak a word Friday as he moved from patient to patient at Children's Hospital of Oklahoma. But body language said it all.

Ali

The 50-year-old legendary boxer bent his hulking frame ever so slowly, kissing a young girl in a wheelchair, causing her to giggle.

Talking is difficult for Ali because he has Parkinson's disease, but children were treated to smiles and pictures of the former heavyweight champion.

And the youngsters did plenty of talking, greeting him with comments like, "Hi, champ," and "You still look pretty."

Parents said they were thankful for the visit, especially during the Christmas season.

"It's really nice of him, since he has his own problems, to give of his time," said Gail Breckle, whose 11-year-old girl is a patient at the hospital.

LA JUNTA, Colo. — Kevin Costner is planning a documentary that explores Indian culture across North America.

Costner

Costner starred in and directed the Academy Award-winning film "Dances With Wolves," which depicted a soldier's relationship with a Plains Indian tribe.

The documentary, to be called "500 Nations," will be styled after the popular 1970s miniseries "Roots," said Jan Goedert, director of Southeast Colorado Enterprise Development.

Costner will film part of the movie in Kiowa County, about 150 miles southeast of Denver, Goedert said Thursday.

Costner starred most recently in the movie "The Bodyguard," with singer-actress Whitney Houston.

LAS VEGAS — Paul Anka has a popular home.

It's among a row of eight houses that separates busy Tropicana Avenue from the new MGM Grand Hotel and Theme Park, scheduled to open in early 1994.

MGM wanted to buy the property two years ago. But the singer turned down a $500,000 offer, saying his home was worth twice that.

Months later, Anka learned that the county wanted to take his property to widen Tropicana Avenue.

Don Abraham, who handles Anka's real estate, said he had a cordial meeting with county officials this week.

"I suggested there was a friendly way to do this, that we were open to overtures," Abraham said.

County appraisers will determine how much to offer Anka, who says his home is now worth more than $1.5 million.

Gary Loberg, head of real estate acquisitions for the county, said the land may be taken by condemnation if a price can't be worked out.

PHOENIX — Stevie Wonder boycotted Arizona because it didn't have a civil-rights holiday, and now that it will, some say the singer has an obligation to join the state's first Martin Luther King Day observances.

Wonder

The holiday was approved in the November general election.

"We were told, 'If you pass the holiday, we're going to come back,'" said Rose Newsome of the Phoenix Equal Opportunity Department. "After it was passed, we called him and said, 'We're ready.'"

Organizers are planning to mark the holiday Jan. 15, which would have been the 64th birthday of the slain civil rights leader.

Wonder's booking agent, Melvin Clark, was non-commital. "The issue is availability, period," he said.

PADUCAH, Ky. — Entertainer Merv Griffin will lend his name and likeness to promotions for Illinois-based casino boats that will begin plying the Ohio River next year.

The landing where the two casino boats will dock in Metropolis, Ill., will bear Griffin's name as will two restaurants: Merv's Celebrity Buffet and Merv's Bar & Grill.

Griffin also will appear in advertising for the Players Riverboat Casino, The Paducah Sun reported Thursday.

"It's a two-boat, multi-year deal that puts one of the world's most admired celebrities and businessmen at the forefront of our newest venture," said David Fishman, vice chairman of Players International.

The landing is scheduled to open in January, and the casinos are to open in March.

Riverboat gambling is illegal on the Kentucky side of the Ohio River.

Mayors: Hunger, homelessness rise due to unemployment

By Sonya Ross
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — A growing number of hungry and homeless Americans — including many children — had to be turned away by public agencies and private groups this year, the nation's mayors said Friday.

In releasing its annual report on hunger and homelessness, the U.S. Conference of Mayors said unemployment and its accompanying problems were to blame for the increased requests at a time of limited resources. It said the solution lay in creating jobs with salaries that keep pace with the cost of living.

"This report is really a chronicle of shame," said Boston Mayor Ray Flynn, past president of the conference. "The solution is going to cost money, the solution is going to require political will that has not existed. We need a clear agenda of jobs ... and affordable housing."

Researchers found an 18 percent increase over the past year in requests for emergency food assistance, with children or their parents making up two of every three people seeking food.

City and private agencies turned down an average of 21 percent of the requests, up from 17 percent in 1991, the report said. Resources available for food assistance rose only by 6 percent from 1991.

Requests for emergency shelter went up by 14 percent this year, and about 23 percent of those people had to be turned away. The rejections were up from 15 percent a year earlier. Seventy-two percent of the cities reported having to turn away homeless people due to a lack of resources.

The survey was based on estimates provided by 29 cities, all of which participate in the conference's Task Force on Hunger and Homelessness. The information covers a period from November 1991 through October 1992.

Only percentages were provided, because the cities based their estimates on figures gleaned from non-profit agencies or community groups that keep only informal tallies on the people they serve, said researcher Laura Waxman.

Among the causes for homelessness, city officials listed unemployment, poverty, drug abuse, mental illness and a lack of services.

An estimated 55 percent of homeless people were single men, and 32 percent were families with children. Forty-one percent were drug abusers or alcoholics and 28 percent were mentally ill.

"People are growing tired of seeing the homeless," said Jim Scheibel, mayor of St. Paul, Minn., and task force chairman. "They want the problem to go away. The way to make the problem go away ... is to address the problems in the report."

The survey also found:

—74 percent of survey cities said state budget cuts had hampered their ability to serve homeless people.

—46 percent of cities were unable to provide enough food for those requesting it.

—72 percent of cities reported their low income neighborhoods had poor access to supermarkets.

—62 percent of cities reported that homeless families sometimes must break up in order to get shelter.

—62 percent of cities lacked sufficient services for mentally ill homeless people.

Participating cities were Alexandria, Va.; Boston; Charleston, S.C.; Charlotte, N.C.; Chicago; Cleveland; Denver; Detroit; Hartford, Conn.; Kansas City, Mo.; Los Angeles; Louisville; Miami; Minneapolis; Nashville; New Orleans; New York; Norfolk, Va.; Philadelphia; Phoenix; Portland, Ore.; St. Paul.; Salt Lake City; San Antonio, Texas; San Diego; San Francisco; Santa Monica, Calif.; Seattle and Trenton, N.J.

Brawl erupts in Supreme Court

By Michael Hinds
N.Y. Times News Service

PHILADELPHIA — Two months ago a Pennsylvania Supreme Court justice was publicly reprimanded by his colleagues for violating judicial ethics by privately advising a trial judge about a pending case.

Two weeks ago the justice, Rolf Larsen, retaliated against the two justices who voted to censure him, accusing them in a sworn statement of fixing cases, accepting kickbacks and wearing "body wires" to illegally tape private conversations. And Friday in an effort to end the dispute, the state's attorney general intervened, appointing two special investigators to begin an inquiry into the accusations.

Justice Larsen, a Democrat, made these charges in a 45-page court document that is less like the reasoned legal briefs expected from the court and more like a disjointed polemic that repeats rumors of criminal behavior and raises motives that are unsubstantiated, saying, for example, that his opponents "have enormous cravings and appetites for power and control."

Larsen, 58, who is second in seniority on the court, refers to his two colleagues as "fix artists" who are conspiring to push him out of the running for chief justice. He even accuses the news media of "printing and broadcasting false facts and outright lies" about him.

The two colleagues, Justices Ralph J. Cappy and Stephen A. Zappala, both Democrats, have denied all of the accusations.

Legal experts say the once private dispute has turned into a a public furor that could provoke a constitutional crisis, with questions of who should discipline the state's judiciary. Under Pennsylvania law, the attorney general says, the state has the power to investigate and prosecute accusations of criminal wrongdoing by any employee, including Supreme Court justices. But, so far, the Supreme Court has refused to cooperate while it is still considering Larsen's accusations.

The internecine warfare on the court has done little to enhance its credibility, said A. Leo Levin, a professor of law at the University of Pennsylvania Law School and a specialist in legal ethics. "It is fair to say that this could create a crisis of public confidence in the court system," he said.

In his announcement Friday, Pennsylvania's attorney general, Ernest D. Preate Jr., said: "Their charge from me is to go wherever the evidence leads, and let the chips fall where they may. Nothing is off limits. Nothing is preordained. There will be no whitewash and there will be no lynching."

The prosecutors, who will be sworn in as special deputy attorneys general, are Edward S.G. Dennis Jr., a Philadelphia lawyer and a former U.S. deputy attorney general, and James E. Tierney, a lawyer in Topsham, Me., who served as that state's attorney general from 1980 to 1990.

Almost since Larsen, a former state trial judge from Pittsburgh, was elected to the Supreme Court in 1977, he has been involved in bitter struggles with his colleagues. In 1983, for example, a judicial review board investigated the justice on charges of misusing his office for political purposes and using racial slurs to describe Chief Justice Robert N.C. Nix, the state's first black chief justice. The board exonerated Larsen, but the case left many bitter feelings.

This current dispute began in October, when Cappy and Zappala voted to publicly reprimand Larsen for violating judicial ethics by privately advising a trial judge about a pending case.

Larsen made his criminal accusations in a petition, which asks the court to reconsider the October decision by a three-judge panel of the Supreme Court to censure him. The panel was actually voting to accept the recommendation of the State Judicial Inquiry Review Board, which found that Larsen had improperly advised a trial court judge about a estate case pending in her court in 1987.

The board said Larsen had "acted without an apparent improper motive," but had nevertheless created the appearance of impropriety by discussing the case with a judge in private and without all other parties in the case present.

After considering that recommendation, Zappala and Cappy voted to censure Larsen and a third justice, Nicholas P. Papadakos, voted against the censure on procedural grounds. In his recent petition, Larsen accused Zappala and Cappy with "gross improprieties" in an effort to have the court disqualify them from taking part in any future reconsideration of his case.

Larsen's charges are short on specifics, but he accuses Cappy and Zappala of having such a "lust" for political advancement within the court and in state politics that it has rendered them incapable of acting "impartially and without bias." He said that they had improperly used their positions to influence the outcome of cases and that they were conspiring to take control of the state Supreme Court. Larsen accused Zappala of using his influence in some municipal cases as a way to gain political support with local politicians and to indirectly help an unnamed brother in the municipal bond business.

Larsen said that Cappy had acted improperly by giving a procedural advantage to a criminal defendant, who had at one time testified against Larsen in an unrelated case before the state judicial review board.

Larsen also charges Chief Justice Nix with "egregious conduct," saying that he had had improperly interfered in a case but without specifying the nature of the interference. The chief justice has denied the accusation.

Larsen also accused Zappala of accepting unspecified "kickbacks" and using a "body wire" to illegally tape conversations with others without their consent or knowledge.

Moroccan defector alleges torture, killing by guerrilla leaders

By Andrew Alexander
N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — A top-ranking defector from a guerrilla movement waging one of the century's longest-running wars has accused the group's leaders of torturing, imprisoning or killing hundreds of their people.

The defector is Ibrahim Hakim, the former foreign minister of the Polisario Front, the rebel force that has been battling Morocco since 1976 for independence of the Western Sahara in northwest Africa.

He made his charges in an interview with Cox Newspapers, the first he has given in the West since defecting to Morocco in August.

Hakim also charged Polisario leader Mohamed Abdelazziz and several other top officials have diverted millions of dollars of Polisario money — much of it given by Libya and Algeria to wage the war against Morocco — into personal accounts in Switzerland, Spain and Belgium.

Salek Radhi, a Polisario representative in the United States, said Hakim's allegations are lies and labeled them "Moroccan propaganda."

Radhi alleged that Morocco had paid Hakim an unspecified "large amount" of money as a reward for his defection — a charge Hakim denies.

Noting that Hakim had served for nearly a decade as foreign minister of the Polisario's political arm, Radhi asked: "Why didn't he say these things many years before? He just suddenly discovered these moral values when he came to Morocco?"

In September, Morocco's King Hassan II appointed Hakim as an ambassador-at-large. Hakim has said he defected because he now believes Morocco can best administer the Western Sahara and because he thinks the Polisario was "used" by Algeria and Libya to harass Morocco.

Thousands of people on both sides have been killed during the 16 years they have been fighting for control of the Western Sahara, a dusty, desolate, Colorado-sized tract of land where nights are cold and summer days can reach a scorching 130 degrees.

This cartographic wasteland, rich in phosphates, was a Spanish colony until Madrid abandoned it in 1975. Morocco, located to the north, soon unilaterally annexed it.

But the following year, serious fighting broke out when the indigenous people of the Western Sahara — operating as the Polisario Front — began their guerrilla war in earnest. The Polisario (short for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Saguia El Hamra and Rio De Oro — the two major regions of the Western Sahara) has been financially backed over the years by Libya and Algeria, Morocco's neighbor and traditional rival.

The United States, although not militarily involved, has backed Morocco.

United Nations Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali is expected next week to issue a long-awaited report on U.N. efforts to hold a referendum on self-determination in the Western Sahara.

Algeria has allowed the Polisario to operate out of its headquarters near the town of Tindouf, in southern Algeria. The Polisario maintains tent camps for its followers there and uses it as a base to launch attacks into the Moroccan-controlled Western Sahara.

It is in these camps, Hakim charges, that "hundreds" of people "have been killed and. . .have been tortured. And it is continuing." In his position, Hakim said, he saw "lists" of those detained in large "prisons" — he described them as "very deep holes."

Hakim alleged there have been executions without trial of those who merely question the policies of the Polisario leaders.

He said the Polisario camps are organized into small "cells" of four and eight people where each spies on several others. "If you deviate, if you are not in agreement with the Polisario, you are reported" and can be "tortured, imprisoned or executed," he said.

Yeltsin agrees to work with Congress

By Celestine Bohlen
N.Y. Times News Service

MOSCOW — President Boris N. Yeltsin agreed Friday night to enter into full negotiations with an increasingly belligerent Congress of People's Deputies, after his opponents in the legislature blocked his attempt to put their fate to a national referendum.

After a day of nervous political speculation and parliamentary defeats, Yeltsin met Friday evening with Ruslan I. Khasbulatov, the speaker of the Congress, with Valery Zorking, the chairman of Russia's Constitutional Court, acting as mediator.

The two warring leaders agreed to appoint seven-member delegations and start talks in the Kremlin on Saturday, while the Congress, the country's highest legislative authority, suspends its current session. This pact suggested that both sides are looking to resolve a power struggle that has cast doubt on Russia's political stability and on the future of its economic program.

But even if a compromise is worked out over the weekend, most political experts, including the president's most ardent supporters, said Friday that Yeltsin's authority had been badly damaged, both by the successes of his opposition in the Congress, and by his own miscalculations.

"They have driven Yeltsin into a corner, either to force him to give in, or to provoke him to take even bolder moves," said Sergei Kovalyov, a pro-Yeltsin deputy who spent time in prison as a dissident under the old Communist government.

The Congress voted Friday to block Yeltsin from calling a national referendum that could force its 1,040 members into early elections. Yeltsin, a day earlier, had accused the Congress of staging a "creeping coup," and called for a popular vote next month that would have asked the Russian people to declare their faith either in the president, or in the Congress. Whichever branch of the government lost in this vote would then face re-election in the spring.

The Congress vote Friday would prohibit any referendum that calls for the early dissolution of any one of the nation's higher authorities, including the presidency and the Congress. Despite some confusion over the exact legal implications of the new law, it was clearly intended to stop Yeltsin from carrying out his threat to undermine the Congress.

Yeltsin's angry and bitter attack on the Congress backfired in other ways Friday, as his opponents came to work in an aggressive and ugly mood. Legislators rose to their feet to denounce the coverage of their work in the Russian press and particularly on television, and to call for new powers to oversee the media.

Sergei Baburin, a leader of Yeltsin's opponents, called for a constitutional ruling on Yeltsin's appeal for a referendum, and a criminal investigation into the instigators of street protests on Thursday on behalf of the president.

Legislators who expressed hopes for a compromise on Thursday, came away from meetings with Yeltsin Friday, convinced that he had not yet understood just how badly weakened his position had become.

"He is uninformed, and possibly disinformed," said Leonid B. Gurevich, a pro-Yeltsin deputy from Murmansk, who criticized Yeltsin's call for a referendum as needlessly divisive.

In the debate Friday in the Congress, Khasbulatov echoed a widely held view that such a vote could have fatal consequences for the Russian Federation's fragile union. "I am afraid of a referendum that may result in the disintegration of the country," Khasbulatov said.

According to Gurevich, Yeltsin decided to move into direct confrontation with the Congress late last Thursday, after a majority of its members, voting in secret ballots, rejected his nomination of Yegor T. Gaidar as prime minister. This vote was seen by Yeltsin as betrayal, after he had made a concession allowing the standing Parliament the right to veto his nominees to four key ministerial posts.

Hopes for a compromise Friday focused on Zorkin, whose Constitutional Court has only just recently emerged as a legitimate contender in Russia's delicate balance of power.

The meeting between Yeltsin and Khasbulatov had been scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday, but it was repeatedly postponed, causing new anxieties that a compromise might prove too difficult for the two increasingly bitter antagonists. Still, reports of various deals continued to float in the Kremlin, most of them having more to do with changes in personnel than changes in economic policy.

Prince Charles, Diana meet on the love boat

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — Prince Charles and his estranged princess returned Friday night to the royal yacht where they honeymooned, but this time it wasn't the love boat.

Charles and Princess Diana, appearing jointly for the first time since their separation Wednesday, sat at different tables for a dinner for heads of 12 European nations aboard the yacht.

Diana joined Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip at the head table with the queen's sister, Princess Margaret, according to the seating plan released by Buckingham Palace.

Charles was at another table, and bride-to-be Princess Anne presided at a third for the dinner of terrine de saumon, couronne de perdreau souvaroff, legumes panaches, pommes croquettes and poires tatin (fish, fowl, vegetables, potatoes and a pear tart), with four wines.

Charles and Diana earlier separately boarded the Royal Yacht Britannia, which carried them on a two-week cruise after their wedding in 1981.

Diana reportedly will be alone again Saturday, staying away from one of the few happy events of the royal family's year — the second marriage of Princess Anne in the Scottish Highlands.

Announcing their separation on Wednesday, Prime Minister John Major said Charles, 44, and Diana, 31, had agreed to lead separate lives and carry out separate public engagements.

Major said they would occasionally attend national events together. They also plan to meet for a few family occasions, such as a Christmas carol program Sunday at their sons' school.

The queen visited Glasgow and Edinburgh on Friday, smile firmly in place and appearing to take no notice of the topic on everyone else's mind.

"I am very disappointed about the latest news," Mandy Struthers said as she waited for the monarch in Glasgow. "I feel Prince Charles and the princess should have stayed together out of a sense of duty more than anything else."

On Friday, duty took Charles to Dundee, and Anne opened an equestrian center in Fishcross in central Scotland, where an hour-long performance included six Dartmoor ponies doing the "Dashing White Sergeant" dance.

Buckingham Palace refused to release the guest list for Anne's wedding Saturday afternoon at Crathie church, near Balmoral Castle in northeast Scotland. A palace spokeswoman said the wedding was a "small family affair" with fewer than 20 guests — in contrast to her lavish wedding at Westminster Abbey in 1973 to former army captain Mark Phillips.

They were divorced in April.

The palace confirmed only that Elizabeth, Philip, the Queen Mother and Anne's children, Peter and Zara, would attend. Charles was vague about his plans — "I always look forward to Crathie," he told reporters who asked.

BBC radio said Prince Andrew chose to go ahead with a shooting party at the queen's Sandringham estate in England on Saturday, and would not attend.

Andrew's estranged wife, the former Sarah Ferguson, said she learned something from her own troubles, including photos of her topless and canoodling with American businessman John Bryan at a villa on the French Riviera.

"Think. Always think," the duchess said in an interview with ABC New's 'PrimeTime Live."

Controversy continued about whether Diana should become queen if Charles is ever crowned king.

A poll for the Daily Mail of London found 82 percent opposed. The survey of 500 people had a margin of error of 5 percent.

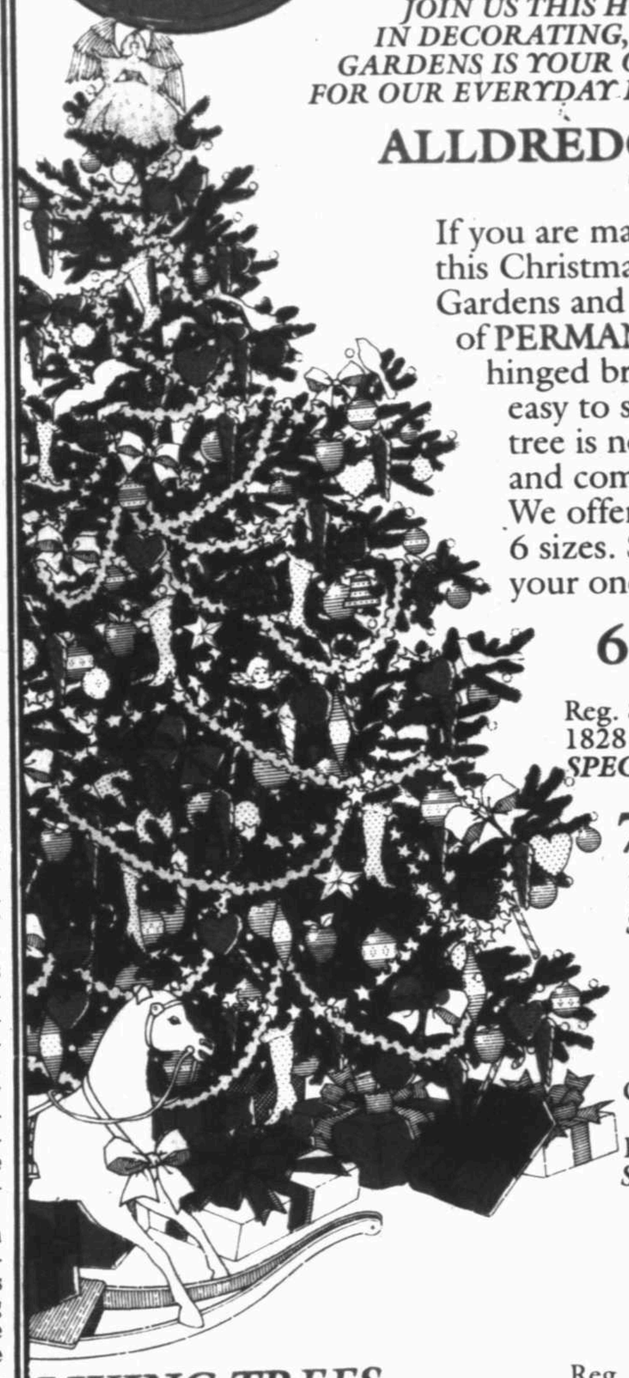

Dame Jill Knight, a Conservative grandee in the House of Commons, suggested that Charles step aside so that his son William could succeed Elizabeth on the throne.

In exasperation with all the talk of tottering thrones and national crisis, author Jan Morris wrote in The Independent newspaper that "the whole business of monarchy is a fantasy and a monumental waste of energy."

"For God's sake, let us grow out of this debilitating nonsense once and for all, and get on with real life," Morris wrote.

WHAT! NEWSPAPER ROUTES?

That's right...one of the best part-time income supplements around. Doesn't conflict with your "day job." Doesn't require day care. And it's dependable income.

Fact: 95% of our Distributors NOW are ADULTS supplementing their income with Route Distributorships!

Fact: Our Distributors make from $400-$800 monthly AFTER expenses, some even more!

The catch? You've gotta be able to handle early mornings and weekends! And when you take a few days off, you'll need to find a substitute for yourself.

So...are you serious about MOONLIGHTING, or what? If you are, and you have dependable transportation and can put up a $100 deposit...

Call 688-2700 and start making that extra car payment today!

WEEKLY & MONTHLY INCOME

The Midland Reporter-Telegram will have an opening January 1 on one of its few "special allowance" routes. This larger route receives a $50 check each Friday, in addition to the regular monthly route profits. The route is in the Washington Park area.

As with all newspaper distributorships, this opportunity requires a 7 day a week commitment (when you go out of town, you must arrange a substitute for yourself) and it is early morning work. $100 deposit required

Newspaper distributorships provide great supplemental income for housewives/ mothers, senior citizens, college students, or any other adult wanting to "moonlight".
