COLORADO BUSINESS MAN AND TWO OTHERS KILLED WHEN MOTOR CARS CRASH

Rev. Frank J. Randall And Daughter, Fort Worth, Other Victims

Three motorists, one of whom was a Colorado business man, were killed and two others injured when a truck and automobile collided Friday night on Highway No. 1, eighteen miles from Sierra Blanca.

The local citizen was Clyde Bush, son of Mrs. Maggie Bush. In company with his wife and a brother, Murton Bush, he was returning from Las Cruces, New Mexico, where he had gone for a truck load of apples.

The other two death victims were Rev. Frank J. Randall and daughter, Virginia, 11, of Fort Worth. They were driving west on the highway when the two machines crashed.

Mrs. Bush was driving the truck at the time. They had passed through Sierra Blanca at 11 o'clock Friday night and she was relieving her husband at the wheel. Mr. Bush was riding in the cab with his wife.

After the crash, she climbed from wreckage of the cab and found the body of her husband behind the cab. Impact of the collision had hurled him through back of the cab. Murton Bush was found some twenty feet away where he had been thrown by force of the impact. He was suffering from painful head injury.

A passing motorist was stopped and an ambulance sent out from Sierra Blanca. Rev. Mr. Randall died within a few minutes after the accident and his child died while being rushed to a hospital in El Paso, 100 miles away.

Mrs. Randall sustained a fracture to her skull and other injuries, and Mrs. Bush was only slightly scratched.

Mrs. Bush and Murton arrived in Colorado by train at 12 o'clock Saturday midnight. The body of Clyde Bush arrived from El Paso at 7:30 Sunday morning.

Funeral services for Mr. Bush were held Sunday afternoon at the Jones, Russell & Company funeral home, with Minister J. D. Harvey of the Church of Christ, assisted by Rev. L. A. Webb, of the First Methodist church, in charge. Burial was in the L. O. O. F. cemetery.

Mrs. Maggie Bush, mother of the dead man, was at Franklin, Texas, at the time. Her brother, J. F. Austin, was buried there Thursday, less than two days prior to the tragedy that took life of her son.

Pall bearers were Donald Lee, Byron Dorn, Arlie Taylor, Vernon O'Neal, Edwin Chase and Jim Greene.

The booth will be in personal charge of a Legionnaire, who will explain details of the relics on display.

Owners of any war relics are requested to bring them to Mr. Templeton at the county clerk's office.

EDICT OF BOARD SETTING GAS ORDINANCE ASIDE IS READ CITY COUNCIL HERE

No Action Taken by City To Meet Utility Challenge In Gas Rate Fight

Edict passed by the Texas Railroad Commission, October 6, setting aside an ordinance passed September 27 by the Colorado City Council, was read members of the council Monday evening by Secretary J. Lee Jones. It was the first time the city legislative body had officially received the mandate issued by the State board.

Mayor Hutchinson and the council made no counter move to meet latest challenge of the Community Natural Gas company in rate fight here. It is apparent that the city has elected to await outcome of hearing on the controversy, to be held in Colorado on a date yet to be announced by the railroad commission.

The ordinance, setting gas rate in Colorado at 50 cents per 1000 cubic feet, was passed as an emergency. The new price would have reduced price consumers are now paying from 75 cents. The utilities appealed to the State board within a few days after passage of the ordinance and was granted plea that the act be set aside.

The matter of employing an additional night patrolman was again discussed Monday night, but no definite action looking to employing another man on the force was taken.

MRS. WEBB'S HIP NOT BROKEN IN ACCIDENT

Injuries sustained by Mrs. L. A. Webb, wife of the Methodist pastor, when she fell near the Methodist church building Sunday night, October 4, are not expected to result in permanent injury, according to attending physicians.

She is expected to be confined to her room, however, for several days.

THIEVES TURN TO GAS TANKS ON MOTOR CARS

Thieves operating in Colorado are turning their attention to motor car gasoline tanks, reports from a number of Colorado car owners disclose. The prowlers evidently are using a five-gallon container in which to carry off their loot, since that amount of gasoline is usually reported missing.

The police urge that motor cars be locked up at night.

EXPRESS CO. EXTENDS LIMIT FOR DELIVERIES

Effective at once, the Railway Express Agency is to extend its collection and delivery limits to every section of the city, it was announced Wednesday by Les Crowder, local agent. Orders that such be done were received from G. Y. Reed, superintendent, Fort Worth.

Heretofore this service has been extended only eight blocks from the express company depot.

BANKERS AND MERCHANTS SOUND NOTE OF OPTIMISM AS CONDITIONS REVIEWED

Bank Loans Decline; Brisk Trade Reported By All Local Merchants

"Business conditions," as reflected through the financial structure of the community, are considerably better in Colorado today than could have been claimed a year ago, contrary to fact that farmers are marketing their cotton at around five cents per pound, a quotation approximating one-half the amount realized in sale of the commodity this date last October.

Local bankers and merchants sustained such a claim when giving expression to their views Wednesday. Trading in all lines of merchandise was rapidly moving ahead to larger volume and loans at the bank were being liquidated in such a pronounced manner as to lend strong encouragement to the thought that peak of the depression has already been left far in the rear.

"We actually sold more merchandise Saturday than during the entire month of August," reported the manager of one of Colorado's department stores. Another remarked that during the past few days business had gone well beyond any expectations that he might have entertained.

Collections, at both the banks and among those carrying demand paper, was reported much in advance of the record made a year ago. Combined loans at the Colorado National and City National banks, as reported in statement published in another column of The Record today, sustain statement from these institutions that farmers and other borrowers are fast moving their accounts to other side of the ledger.

One of the bankers was profuse in his praise of manifest determination of farmer borrowers to clear their accounts and return again to the policy of a cash basis. Such a state, he pointed out, will do more to return prosperity to Mitchell county than any other program.

Along with the upward trend in commercial trading has come another condition to augment the spirit of optimism that has taken definite form here. The rains of this week brought smiles to the faces of both farmers and ranchers alike. Ideal conditions for winter plowing, preparatory to spring planting are seen.

RAIN QUENCHES FIRE THAT DESTROYED GIN

It remained for the heavy down-pour Monday night to put a stop to smoldering flames, burning from debris where almost a week previous the Fuller Cotton Oil Company gin at Dunn had been destroyed.

A huge pile of cottonseed, 140 tons of them, had been burning since the fire.

Statements of the banks are published in another column of The Record today.

The City National Bank reports loans and discounts to be $620,810.26, deposits totaling $520,570.68, and resources totaling $738,429.20.

Colorado Wins In Game With Roscoe Plowboys, 26 to 6

Colorado emerged from Plowboy field at Roscoe, Friday afternoon, to claim the most decisive victory ever chalked up in favor of the locals since first the two grid organizations entered competitive football.

In years past Colorado had taken victory by a small margin over the visitors, only to see the Plowboys walk away with the coveted pennant the next. Last year the two teams played to a 7-7 tie. The score in Friday's game was 26-6.

The Plowboys' alibi was that it had been difficult to get the men out to practice on account of demands of the cotton harvest. The game was played with five of the Roscoe first string men out. Colorado, however, used several second-string men in the game.

FARMERS MUST CALL HALT TO DUMPING COTTON UPON MARKET, WARNING OF COOP

B. S. Burgess, Field Service Manager, Will Speak In Colorado Friday

Announcing that he will move on Colorado under the unfurling banner, "A Bloodless Rebellion Against Dumping Cotton Crop at These Prices," B. S. Burgess of Dallas, director of field service, Texas Co-operative Cotton Association, has announced a speaking engagement here Friday afternoon at Union Tabernacle at 2:30 o'clock.

"Farmers, bankers, business men, all must unite to stop this policy," he declares in statement received by The Record Wednesday. He will discuss the present cotton situation, including the allowance of six cents per pound on all cotton mortgaged to the Federal government for seed and feed loan surety.

The chamber of commerce is lending cooperation to the local Co-op office in arranging for the mass meeting. Several hundred farmers and other citizens are expected to hear the address of Mr. Burgess.

Singing Class For Colorado Planned By Local Artists

Organization of a singing class, with membership to be made up from among singers in Colorado and surrounding territory, is proposed by C. O. McCreight and other local musicians. The class would sponsor program to be given each Friday evening during the winter months.

McCreight stated Wednesday that meeting would be held at the First Methodist church Friday evening, beginning at 7:45 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing the class.

"We urgently invite every singer in Colorado and surrounding country to be at the church at that time," he said. "There are a number of good singers here and we can see no reason why a strong class should not be organized."

RATTLE SNAKE BITES CARR FARMER ON LEG

RAIN PREVENTS COURT SESSION FOR MONDAY

District Judge Fritz R. Smith did not open court in Sweetwater Monday morning, as scheduled, due to fact he could not reach the Nolan county capital from his home in Snyder. Flood waters along the highway between Snyder and Sweetwater made the planned motor trip from his home to the court room out of the question.

ORGANIZATION TWO TECH EXTENSION CLASSES FOR COLORADO SCHOOLS SEEN

14 Enrolled Tuesday Night; Others Expected Within Next Few Days

Organization of two classes for study in extension work to be sponsored here by the Texas Technological College, Lubbock, is seen by C. A. Wilkins, principal of the high school. Wilkins stated Wednesday morning that the classes were expected to complete enrollment and get ready for work at a meeting to be held at the school auditorium on Monday evening.

About thirty people met with J. F. McDonald, director of the extension department of the Lubbock school here Tuesday evening. Fourteen were enrolled for regular study course and 15 more are expected to be enrolled at another meeting to be held Monday evening of next week. The department requires an enrollment of not less than 31. Discussing plans for organization of the course here, Mr. Wilkins said:

"On Monday night, October 19, at 7 o'clock, at the high school building, another meeting is to be held to complete organization of the classes. In the advanced work there were fourteen people who signified their intention of taking an advanced course in English. All people interested in taking an advanced course in either English or education are requested to meet on Monday night to make final plans for the organization of the class.

"The English course is especially desirable for members of Study clubs, teachers, professional people, and others. The course may count as college credit or non-college credit as desired by the individual. The credits are transferable to other institutions of higher learning.

"Keep in mind the date, and be present for the meeting if you think that you might be interested in such a course. It is thought that the first course in English for advanced students will be a course in Contemporary Drama from Ibsen to Shaw.

School At Loraine Opens After Month Of Harvest Recess

The Loraine school was opened Monday morning, ending a recess of four weeks ordered by the school board to permit students to assist farmers in the cotton harvest. The school was opened on August 31 and the cotton harvest recess was declared two weeks later.

It is estimated that the students were worth $500 per week to their parents in the cotton harvest, according to Superintendent Clyde Bennett who was in Colorado Saturday. School officials were impressed with the fact it would be better to lose a month from school work now and make it up in the spring.

COTTON RECEIPTS LOWER DUE TO HEAVY RAINFALL IN COUNTY DURING WEEK

Receipts During Week Total 1979 Bales; Season's Total Is 12,457

Due to heavy rains over Mitchell county during the first of the week, gin receipts are lower with only 1,979 bales reported for the week ending Thursday at noon. Total county ginnings at that time were reported at 12,457 bales.

During the same period a week ago a total of 3,487 bales were ginned at Colorado, Loraine, Westbrook and Buford.

Colorado gins accounted for 6,048 bales of the total season's receipts. Loraine reported 3,834 bales ginned, Westbrook 1,635 bales and Buford 940 bales.

Rain at Colorado Sunday night and Monday totaled 4.10 inches. This was one of the heaviest rainfalls registered here this year.

Colorado Woman Dead From Attack Of Heart Trouble

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. O. V. King, 31, wife of O. V. King, Colorado building contractor, were not completed Thursday afternoon, but it was believed that services were to be held here Friday, with burial to follow in a Colorado cemetery.

Mrs. King succumbed to an attack of heart trouble Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the family residence, 927 Chestnut St. She had been in good health until one or two days prior to her death. 'GENTLEMAN FROM CORK' ELECTED COMMANDER OF COLORADO LEGION POST

Sixty Ex-Service Men Attend Annual 'Bean Feed' On Friday Evening

Mitchell county Legionnaires now have a real Irishman as commander of Oran C. Hooker Post, M. J. Bransfield of Westbrook, associated with the California Company for the past seven years and a native of Cork, Ireland, was elected to the position Friday night to succeed Judge A. F. King.

"We are predicting great things for the post during administration of the 'gentleman from Cork,'" mused Joe Y. Fraser, Monday. "Mr. Bransfield has been an active member of the post for several years and is among the most loyal legionnaires in the county."

J. F. Quinney was elected first vice commander and Albert Hiser, second vice commander.

Benton Templeton, post adjutant; J. S. Williams, post finance officer; and Joe Fraser, post service officer, were re-elected to succeed themselves in office. Jno. E. Watson, superintendent of Colorado schools, was named post chaplain.

Executive officers elected include W. W. Whipkey, Roy Warren and Roy Dozier.

Sixty former service men of the county attended the annual business meeting and bean feed, held at the American Legion building last Friday night. Post Commander A. F. King called the meeting to order and presided during the ensuing business session.

The membership made no reference to resolution adopted at the recent National convention in Detroit, demanding referendum of the 18th Amendment. Post officials are of the opinion local legionnaires would have voted down any resolution lending encouragement to the National convention's demand for light wines and beer.

The post voted to sponsor an exhibit at the fair. Relics owned by former service men in the county are to be collected and placed on display. This exhibit is expected to hold considerable interest among visitors to the fair.

Blanks to Succeed Reagor as Manager Municipal Utilities

N. H. Moore of Abilene, district manager for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, met with the council Wednesday to exhibit statement showing investment figures and business revenues of the company here to sustain his claim that it would be impossible to reduce telephone rates in Colorado.

Whether the city is to demand cut in telephone rates here remained to be seen.

PLANS FOR OPENING 'LIVE-AT-HOME' FAIR THURSDAY OF NEXT WEEK COMPLETE

Many Improvements Over Last Exposition Have Been Attained

No citizen of Colorado was wearing a broader smile Thursday than Tom Johnson, president of Mitchell County Live-at-Home Fair, as he discussed some of the conditions under which the annual exposition is to be opened Thursday morning of next week. Johnson asserts with emphasis that the 1931 fair will be remembered as the best ever held in Colorado.

To sustain his claim that Colorado business men were patronizing the fair more liberally this year, Johnson recited that a total of 22 commercial booths had been contracted in the main building. "And every one of those booths are built and now ready for the decorators and the exhibits," he said.

There are five rural communities of the county that are to show farm exhibits, along with a large number of individual farm exhibitors. W. S. Foster, superintendent of the farm and 4-H club departments, states that these are to be outstanding at the fair. This department, together with the commercial exhibits, are to be housed in Union Tabernacle, Oak and 4th streets.

The textile, antique and American Legion booths are to be located in the John L. Doss buildings, corner East 3rd and Walnut streets. The booths have been built and decorators are now at work converting interior of the buildings into a place of civic attractiveness. This department is expected to draw large numbers of fair visitors.

The health department exhibit will be located in front of the Jas. T. Johnson building, on East 3rd street. Mrs. Bennett Scott, superintendent, stated Wednesday that in addition to the educational features to be incorporated in this exhibit, a rest room for mothers would be maintained. Mothers attending the fair with small children will find a cordial welcome here. Mrs. Scott or another trained nurse will be in personal charge all the time.

The home canning department, to be exhibited in the tabernacle, will cope with all others for popular favor. Mrs. A. J. Hooks, superintendent, has said. This department will, no doubt, carry stronger appeal.

She then told of Edward C. Pickett, and Mrs. Doss read "A Health" by him. The third poet that Mrs. Stoneroad told of was Philip C. Cook, and Mrs. Bennett read one of his poems.

Mrs. Jack Smith gave a reading, "The Lament of the Captive," by Richard H. Wilde. Mrs. Riordan had a paper on Poems on the Mocking Bird, by Southern authors. Mrs. Joe Smoot gave Adubon's description of the mocking bird. Mrs. Snyder gave the "Grapevine Swing" by William Gilmore Simms, also poem of the same name by Peck, and then compared the two.

Pictures of Giant Naval Ship 'Akron' Presented Dealers

Unusual pictures of the giant U. S. Navy airship, "Akron," taken by Margaret Bourke White, famous photographer, and framed in duralumin, were received here this week by local Goodyear tire merchants.

The picture showing the big dirigible emerging from the air dock at Akron, Ohio, was taken during the "walkout" of the ship, just before starting its trial flights. By a curious fore-shortening effect which Miss Bourke White caught, the dock or hangar, which is three full city blocks long is narrowed almost to an arch, the rear doors of the building being open at the time, accentuating this effect.

Scrap duralumin from the ship itself was used in the frame of the picture and held into place by a hundred duralumin rivets. The pictures were presented to Connell & Beal, winners in a summer merchandising contest instituted by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., constructors of the airship.

Miss Bourke White, a slender Cleveland girl whose climb within five years to be the highest paid photographer in America, took the picture recently as her last commission in this country before starting to Russia to take some industrial pictures for Fortune Magazine, of which she is associate editor.

With two obliging sailors from the airship crew carrying her plate holders, Miss White tramped several miles over the airport during the walkout period, lugging her precious camera with her trying some 60 shots before she caught an angle and background that just suited her.

Presentation of the prize winning pictures to the local men was made by Tom Williams, sales representative of the Goodyear Company who congratulated the recipients on their aggressiveness and fine character of service that had won the award for them in a depression year.

Explaining the anomaly of a tire manufacturer being in the unusual business of airship building, Mr. Williams explained that some 21 years ago President P. W. Litchfield of Goodyear, then superintendent of the company, was looking about for new products to manufacture, and was attracted to aeronautics for two reasons. The company was already experienced in impregnating cotton fabric with rubber in connection with making tire plies and belting. This is also the first step in building balloons. And as a more important reason, he was already impressed with the importance of improved transportation, whether by land or air, and felt that aircraft were destined for an important future in economic history.

INTERESTING DISPLAY FOUND IN FORD MOTOR CO'S DALLAS EXHIBIT

Coming direct from the Michigan State Fair which closed recently, the Ford Motor Company's miniature glass oven and manufacturing exhibit on display at the State Fair of Texas, opening last Saturday in Dallas, is attracting much favorable comment, according to the reports brought to Colorado by citizens who have already attended the exposition.

L. G. Mackey of the Colorado Motor Company, local Ford distributor, suggests that those visiting the Dallas Fair from this section do not fail to see this interesting exhibit.

This exhibit is very unique in that it is the first time any manufacturer has attempted to bring his manufacturing plant to the public. The spectator sees with his own eyes the manufacture of Safety

Glass and is carried from the initial operation—that of cutting plate glass to the required size—through a series of bake ovens, spray booths in which the glass "sandwiches" are assembled from two sheets of plate glass, with a sheet of celluloid cemented between them, and then on through a hydraulic press where the "sandwiches" are formed into Safety Glass Windshields under tremendous pressure. At the end of the 70-foot glass conveyor is a glass cage especially designed for demonstration purposes, and on the inside is an operator with a flying ball, illustrating the non-shattering qualities of Ford Safety Glass Windshields.

WORKERS' CONFERENCE

The Workers' Conference of the Mitchell-Scurry Association met last Tuesday in all-day session with the Payne Chapel church, of which Rev. T. L. Nipps is pastor.

The general theme was the "Every Member Campaign." Talks and discussions were given by Dr. G. W. Parks, Rev. Oren C. Reid, Rev. W. H. Howell and others.

The 11 o'clock sermon was preached by Rev. A. A. Watson, the subject being Stewardship.

After dinner a board meeting and a W. M. U. session were held. Mrs. Jack Smith, president, presided at the W. M. U. session. She stressed the apportionments and the Every Member Campaign. Miss Violet Mooser of Colorado conducted the devotional from the 15th chapter of John, on fruit bearing.

While there was not as good attendance as usual, yet the meeting was very interesting and helpful. The good women of the church served a bounteous dinner of the many good things grown in West Texas. The next meeting will be with the Wastella church. Reporter.

Wiggs—My wife is a wonderful vocalist. Why, I have known her to hold her audience for hours—

Wiggs—After which she would lay it in the cradle and rock it to sleep.

The evangelist had delivered a powerful sermon and was just winding up, when he said, "In time of trial what brings us the greatest comfort?"

A guy in the back of the congregation ruined it all by shouting: "An acquittal!"

Doctor—If this doesn't cure you, come back and I will give you something that will.

Patient—Couldn't you give it to me now, Doctor?

Bert (the barber)—Wet or dry? John B.—Comb my hair. Never mind my politics.

"Rastus, did you go to your lodge meeting last night?" "No rah, we done had to postpone it."

Business men of Loraine have been enjoying the biggest sales days they have had in many months, and there is a general feeling of optimism throughout this section of the county. SACRED HARP SINGERS TO MEET SUNDAY P. M.

Sacred Harp singing will be held at the Church of Christ, Sunday, October 18, at 2 p. m. You are invited to attend.

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST CHURCH

Elder T. A. Dunn of Crosbyton will fill the pulpit at the regular Primitive Baptist meeting next Saturday at 2 p. m. and on Sunday at 11 a. m.—Mrs. Thomas, Reporter.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Our services were well attended last Sunday. We had 211 present for Sunday school. This is a very fine record considering that so many of our people are very busy gathering cotton.

The morning service was well attended and fine interest manifested. The League had an unusually fine service. The evening service was rained out. Come and be with us next Sunday.

J. M. COCHRAN.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

We had a good service Sunday morning, another fine sermon Sunday evening, but the threatening weather kept quite a number from attending the evening service.

Our pastor, Rev. A. C. Hardin, did not return to Abilene Monday morning, as has been his custom, but stayed over to attend Workers' Conference, which met at Payne on Tuesday.

Rev. Mr. Hardin asked that the Sunday school officers and teachers, B. Y. P. U. officers and teachers, and deacons of the church meet him at the church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He has a message for us and urges that each one be in attendance.—Reporter.

EXHIBIT BOOTHS PORTRAY PROGRESS OF COMMUNITY AS LORAINNE FAIR OPENS

Two-Day Exposition to Open Friday Morning With Full Program

Mitchell county will turn to Loraine Friday and Saturday, when annual exposition of the Loraine Fair Association is in full swing. The fair is to be opened Friday morning with one of the most pretentious programs ever attempted by civic leaders of that community.

An inspection of exhibits already in place late Thursday demonstrated that the fair is to portray far-reaching strides in community progress in Loraine territory during the year. Some of the community and individual farm exhibits, along with those sponsored by members of the 4-H Club, would impress to discard the general thought of "hard times."

Clyde Bennett, president of the fair association, and his corps of assistants have completed final arrangements for entertaining a large number of visitors. Everything possible has been done to impress the visitor with the hospitality of Loraine and further to carry for strong impression the thought that Eastern Mitchell county is forging ahead to realize the fair goal of living at home.

Due to strong educational features of the fair, a large number of visitors from outside the immediate Loraine territory is expected to attend. Strong emphasis is to be made of the "Live-at-Home" slogan through exhibition of home-grown and home preserved foods.

The county farm and home demonstration agents, who have been lending full cooperation to fair officials in developing interest in the fair, collecting exhibits and arrangement of program, are profuse in praise of merits of the fair. That some of the best farm products ever exhibited from this county are to be shown is claimed.

Farmers and farm boys and girls, however, are to hold full sway at this fair. There are departments, including the fine arts, culinary, antique, and others, made possible largely through efforts of ladies of the town that will rank with any others for popular favor during the two days.

The livestock and poultry departments, too, will hold strong interest among visitors to the fair.

Among the farm exhibits will be a collection of grain sorghums from the McCarley farm near Loraine. Maize grown by Mr. McCarley have been awarded grand champion prizes at both the State Fair of Texas, Dallas, and the Southwest Exposition and Fair Stock Show, Fort Worth.

BEST COOPERATION EVER EXTENDED FAIR PROGRAM HERE, SECRETARY SAYS

Greene Forecasts Success Of Annual Exposition To Open Oct. 22

That success is to attend annual Live-at-Home Fair, scheduled to open here October 22, is already definitely assured was declared in an address delivered Friday by Jim Greene, secretary to the fair association. He was speaking before meeting of the Lions Club at Hotel Colorado.

"The officers and departmental chairman directing program for the fair here this fall are giving of their time and efforts more loyally than ever before," he said. "Beyond this fine cooperation the general public is extending every aid to the association in plans for the fair, a condition that assures success in our efforts."

The subject of this annual event was discussed by other members of the club. One speaker outlined that a community program, that would build for a more universal "live at home" program among the citizens of the county should receive the support of every business and professional man of Colorado.

Sam J. Smith, with Mrs. Roy McClellan at the piano, directed musical program for the meeting. The visiting musicians were responsible for one of the best musical programs the club membership had enjoyed in several weeks.

A feature of the musical program that did not fail to go over was the singing of "Silent Night" by six ministers, the Revs. Oren C. Reid, Philip McGahey, Alex Hanson, J. D. Harvey, George A. Beaves, and W. M. Elliott.

Visitors included Mrs. McClellan, Sam J. Smith, and Dale Warren. Jim Greene directed the entertainment program.

MRS. O'LEARY'S COW ABSOLVED OF BLAME; MOUSE CAUSED FIRE

A slip of a girl frightened by a scampering mouse, and not Mrs. O'Leary's cow, was the real author of the great Chicago fire of 1871, according to the October issue of The Rock Island Magazine.

This exoneration of the milch cow is part of the railroad company's magazine's contribution to Fire Prevention Week. Flying in the face, as it does, of one of the major legends of this country, this act of belated justice to the memory of the dead cow is not expected, however, to gain much headway. Americans in 1931 as at the present time will continue to believe that an irritated cow kicked over a lamp and thereby started it all.

Belief that it is impossible to debunk the cow story is contained in the fact that Mrs. O'Leary's bovine was exonerated by an impartial commission of inquiry as long ago as 1891. The report of the commission was published in the Chicago Evening Journal that year, just 20 years after the disastrous fire. But thousands of fire prevention stories are being printed over the country today which accept the cow's culpability as a fact.

According to research appearing in the Rock Island Magazine, here is how the great Chicago fire started:

Mrs. O'Leary, who actually kept milch cows in her stable, also had some neighbors as tenants. The day before the fire started these neighbors had a friend arrive from the old country and on Sunday night a party of friends gathered to celebrate. Sending out for some oysters for oyster stew, they found that there was no milk to cook them in.

SPECIAL TRAINS TO BRING 50,000 TO SAN ANTONIO FOR W. O. W. AFFAIR

U. S. Senator Morris Sheppard, W. O. W. Treasurer, to Deliver Main Address

Special trains of Woodmen of the World members and their families from all sections of the United States and Mexico will bring more than 50,000 people to the formal dedication of the William Alexander Fraser Chapel and Bird Sanctuary, which will be held November 22 at San Antonio, Texas, according to W. A. Fraser, president of the Woodmen of the World with headquarters at Omaha, Nebraska.

Railroads have indicated that special rates will be offered from leading vicinities of the country.

The dedication program is to last three days. Leading speakers with national reputations have accepted invitations to make addresses during the program. The principal speaker on November 22 will be Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, who is treasurer of the Woodmen of the World. Senator Sheppard is the author of the 18th Amendment and a speaker of national reputation.

A mammoth barbecue with pork, beef, and mutton products from the farm of the Woodmen of the World Memorial Hospital will be served without cost to the Woodmen of the World Pilgrims attending the dedication.

"Leading Church Dignitaries from all faiths will take part in the program," said Mr. Fraser. "The Woodmen of the World Chapel is a universal church in which every denomination will be represented. Regardless of religion, everyone can hold services in the Chapel."

President Fraser has announced the plan to a half million members of the association by which they may earn their way to the dedication through the performance of service to the Woodmen of the World. The Woodmen of the World expects in this way to pay the expenses of several thousand members.

The Bird Sanctuary was built following a study of the Bok Tower and Bird Sanctuary in Florida and other such structures in various parts of the world.

The Chapel has a patio with a beautiful fountain especially designed, according to Mr. Fraser. The exterior of the Chapel is of Indiana limestone and of a unique architectural design. Dark oak with large ceiling beams are used in the interior. The main stained-glass window of the Chapel is a production of Tiffany of New York.

Another window of the Chapel contains an art memorial dedicated to the States in which the Woodmen of the World does business. Special landscaping has helped to make the Chapel one of the most beautiful structures in all of Texas. Phelps and Dowdes of San Antonio are the architects.

At this point someone suggested that they might get some milk from one of Mrs. O'Leary's cows.

Thus while Mrs. O'Leary slept peacefully in her own home a couple went to the stable, broke in, and while the young lady held a lamp, her escort made ready to milk the cow. At this point "a mouse scampered out of the straw near the young lady, causing her to drop the lamp which she was holding, and thus began the greatest fire the world ever saw."

GOVERNOR ROSS STERLING COMMENDS PRISON SYSTEM

AUSTIN, Texas.—Governor Ross Sterling says the State prison system now is the best managed of all State departments.

"They have $50,000 worth of canned goods put up ready for the winter, have cut running expenses and have the farms in good shape," said the governor after returning to Austin from a trip to the Imperial Prison Farm.

Morale of the prisoners is much improved, the governor said. "They know that if they earn a parole they will get it," he went on. "Instead of trying to break out of prison they are trying to earn their way out. We have had 60 breaks this year, compared with 160 for a corresponding period a year ago."

One of the requirements the Governor insists upon before pardoning or paroling a convict is that some reputable person guarantee him employment. Industrial training is progressing in the prisons, he said.

"If a convict cannot get work, he is better off in prison these times," said the governor. "He will soon use up the $5 given him when he leaves the gates. If he can not get employment, he gets desperate."

When asked about the Texas Committee on Unemployment, Governor Sterling said that work rather than a gift of food and shelter should be the object of the committee. "If the government is going to support everybody, who is going to support the government?" he asked in discussing appeals for government aid.

Texas will have two organizations dealing with the problem. The recent session of the Legislature authorized a committee of nine, three each to be named by the governor, the lieutenant governor, and speaker of the house. The other "Committee of One Hundred" will be named by the Governor, he has said, at the unemployment conference he has called for October 16 and 17.

AMERICAN AIRWAYS, INC. TO IMPROVE SERVICE ON DALLAS-EL PASO ROUTE

Additional weather information from Colorado is to be supplied the American Airways, whose planes fly daily from Dallas to Los Angeles, according to F. L. Duncan, assistant operations manager, who spent a visit in Colorado Friday. Mr. Duncan announced that C. R. Farris would supply this information from Colorado.

Mr. Duncan arrived in a special plane of the company and is visiting each of the eighteen weather reporting stations on the Southern Transcontinental air mail route between Dallas and El Paso.

Additional equipment is being furnished weather observers by the company to obtain more detailed information. Included in this equipment is a ceiling balloon, which is released daily to determine the distance of the clouds from the ground, and a hydrogen gas tank and fittings for inflating the balloon. A hydrometer also is being furnished. This instrument is used to forecast conditions favorable to the formation of fog.

FREE MOVIE SHOWS FORD AUTO PLANT

A sound motion picture graphically portraying the story of the Ford Motor Company and its widespread activities will be exhibited free of charge in a special Ford exhibit to be held at the Mitchell County Live-at-Home Fair, beginning Thursday and continuing through Saturday. The show will be open to the public from 1 p. m. to 10 p. m.

The picture, entitled "A Tour Through the Ford Factory," will show the gathering of raw materials, their arrival at the Rouge Plant in Dearborn, Mich., and the numerous interesting stages through which they pass in the process of making Ford cars and trucks. It is, in short, an education in the extent and meaning of modern volume production.

While an unseen voice explains each scene, the audience is taken on a tour of the plant, through the great blast furnace building where ore is converted into iron; into the open hearth building where the iron becomes steel and is poured, a white hot liquid, into moulds; into the blooming mill where the steel ingots are made into bars; and into the rolling mill in which the long bars of what hot steel are reduced to definite sizes. Forty kinds of steel, each of composition to serve a definite purpose, are used in the Ford car and truck.

The picture also shows the manufacture of glass in an endless unbroken strip, a process developed by Ford engineers; the machine shops in which parts for the car are manufactured; the pressed steel building with its gigantic presses, and the coke ovens and other units in which by-products are recovered to the extent of millions of dollars annually.

Throughout the picture one sees literally miles and miles of conveyors which take much of the manual labor off the backs of men. They are conveyors carrying newly arrived materials into the plant, others taking parts from one building to another, and, of course, the final assembly line, that famous conveyor on which the parts are put together to form the completed car.

In addition to the picture, there will be a representative line of Ford cars and trucks and display boards containing car and truck parts.

MEXICO CITY TO PLAY S. M. U. AT DALLAS FAIR

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 15.—All the plays that University of Mexico will show against Southern Methodist University's B team at the Texas State Fair in Dallas today came out of the Book of Yale Strategy for 1931.

Marvin Stevens, head football coach at Yale; Benny Friedman and Adam Walsh, assistants, tutored F. J. Linehan, head coach at the University of Mexico, and Stuart D. Ludlum, assistant, for their jobs in Mexico. The University of Mexico's passing game, for instance, came straight from the brain of Benny Friedman.

The roots of the University of Mexico go deep into Yale traditions. This means they stress fundamentals. It is a diversified, skilful and deceptive offense founded on football that has stood the test of time. In Mexico the sports writers call the offensive strategy of the University team "muy elegante"—very elegant.

POWERFUL MUSTANG HERD TO PLAY LOCAL GRIDMEN IN SEASON'S INAUGURAL

Sweetwater Club, Doped To Win District Penant
Coming Oct. 24

The Colorado Wolves are to have their season's inaugural conference game with the powerful Mustang herd from Sweetwater as antagonists. The melee will probably be staged at Cantrill Field on Saturday afternoon, October 24, but that date was reported here Thursday as being indefinite.

It is a known fact, however, that Hardy Pearce's charges are to meet the Sweetwater gridmen in first conference game of the district. In meeting Nolan county club, Colorado will defend attack against the potential Class A district champion holders, after the smoke of last grid battle has cleared away.

The Mustangs outplayed the Abilene Eagle machine at Sweetwater a few weeks ago, holding the visitors to a score of 7-10 in favor of Abilene. Abilene won the count, in so far as the score board was concerned, but failed to demonstrate the quality of football technique that the Mustangs dispensed that day.

The game with Sweetwater will bring an aged enemy of the Wolves to Colorado. The powerful Hicks, imported from Roscoe by the Mustangs, was for several seasons about all there was to the Roscoe Plowboys eleven. And, that powerful, one-hand totting ball carrier is as formidable today as when he led the Plowboys to victory in other days.

Announcement will be made next week as to hour for calling the game here. It is definite that the battle will be staged here and school authorities are outlining schedule for the district, including the inaugural for Colorado.

Since delivering a decisive defeat to the Plowboys last Friday afternoon the Wolves are in much better mettle than at any time during the season. The morsel of victory that came their way at Roscoe was sweet and they are expecting to add another laurel to their trophy collection here Friday afternoon in game with the Hamlin Pied Pipers. The Colorado-Hamlin game is reckoned as giving promise of an interesting scrap.

"The Wolves will register another victory here Friday and from that will move to meet the Mustangs with determined purpose of holding the strong district pennant contenders to an interesting game," was the comment made Thursday at the high school building.

Colorado fans are urged to lend support to the Wolves in the game this week-end and all other contests to follow. It is especially important that strong support be in evidence when the local men engage Sweetwater.

'Give Us a Democratic Panic,' Plea Of Brady Citizen in Reviewing Hooverism

Jacob Sandage of Brady reviews trend of "Hoover prosperity" in an article contributed to the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News and concludes with the demand that the political cry be "Down With Hooverism; Three Cheers for the Spirit of Murrayism." To quote Mr. Sandage:

The Hoover administration may not prove to be a noble experiment, yet it is an experiment that can not soon be forgotten. Will some Hooverian supporter tell us what the Wickrham Commission has cost the taxpayers and then tell us what this commission has been worth to the country? This commission has not even recommended the "plowing under" of every third bootlegger. The campaign slogan of the Republicans in 1928 was "Hoover and Prosperity." We heard so much about Republican prosperity during that campaign that we wondered then if St. Paul did not have Republican prosperity in mind when he said "Faith is the substance of things hoped for; the evidence of things not seen."

Read what Hoover said in his speech of acceptance about the prosperity of the people, and then tell us if he was ignorant of the true conditions of the country, or did he misrepresent some things in order to get some votes?

Beginning on March 4, 1933, we ought to be able to write, "Gone but not forgotten, the Hoover administration."

Let us quote from Hoover and see if he is a true or a false prophet. In November, 1929, he used these words: "The fundamental business of this country is on a sound and prosperous basis."

A month later the president was congratulating the country that "the capital which has been hitherto absorbed in stock market loans for speculative purposes is now returning to the normal channels of business, while the agricultural situation is improving; a feeling of optimism pervades that industry."

In January, 1930, the President said, "We can expect a great deal of business in 1930." In March of the same year he stated that unemployment would be ended in sixty days, and stated: "I am convinced that we have passed the worst." In October, 1930, Mr. Hoover referred to the depression as only "a temporary halt in prosperity."

Some now admit that the people expected too much of the Hoover administration. They expected too much because they were promised too much.

We find this promise: "We pledge the enactment of measures which will place agricultural interests on a basis of economic equality with other industries to insure its prosperity and success."

If we are having Republican prosperity, then give us a Democratic panic. Some say Mr. Hoover is an optimist and that a leader must be optimistic in order to get a strong following. If refusing to face all the facts about the actual condition of our country is any sign of optimism, then we admit that Mr. Hoover can qualify as an optimist.

We have seen leaders in our various farm organizations who refused to face all the facts about the true condition of agriculture, and they, too, could have qualified as optimists and were able to get a strong following. Yet we have never seen such leadership able to rally their forces together the second time, it mattered not how just their cause may have been. "The truth itself is not believed from one who has often been deceived."

It is now admitted that, had we had men of courage for our business and political leadership, who would have warned the business world in 1928-29 that they were courting trouble by their reckless speculation and overconfidence, the stock market crash might have been averted and the depression might not have occurred. We heard so much about prosperity that no one expected that he would have to meet his obligations with 6c cotton and 25c wheat, unless, of course, we should have a Democrat for President, and in that case we would expect 6c cotton and 25c wheat, because the Republicans told us Democrats victory would mean starvation prices for farm products, and Republicans don't lie.

Down with Hooverism! Three cheers for the spirit of Murrayism!

CARD OF THANKS

One never knows how many real, true friends they have until misfortune overtakes them, and our recent bereavement in the loss of a husband, son and brother, Clyde Bush, brought forcibly to our minds and indelibly impressed upon our hearts the fact that we are more than blessed in this respect. It is our earnest desire to reciprocate in every way possible for such tribute of loyalty and friendship, and may God's richest blessings be your lot.

COLEMAN FINDS THAT

HOOVER DEPRESSION HAS A SILVER LINING

From the Coleman Democrat-Voice. Coleman citizens had a nice Christmas present handed them last Thursday that will last at least until next April. It was a fifty per cent reduction in gas rates. It will make heat warmer and cooking better. Now if the telephone company—if there is one here—will do likewise we will be sitting on top of the world, provided sewer rates are reduced. This is no time for big dividends. Winter will soon be here and we can get along on fewer drinks of water, fewer baths and less lights. The old cloud of Hoover depression, after all, seems to have a silver lining.

peal for the "live-at-home" slogan than any other feature of the fair. It is here that the possibilities of living at home are to be strikingly portrayed.

Doyle Williams, superintendent of the livestock division, stated Thursday morning that quarters for caring for livestock were being built on grounds near the tabernacle. Here members of the "Future Farmers" chapter and 4-H club youths are to vie with their elders for championship awards in the show rings.

The rabbit and poultry division is to be housed in the Lasky building on Oak street. Here standard bred birds that would add distinction to the leading poultry shows of the country, along with bunnies that for distinctive breeding are not to be excelled, are to present an interesting and highly educational spectacle. Other departments that are to prove equally interesting, include textile, educational, Boy Scouts, pets, art, floral, birds, antiques, 4-H Club girls and culinary.

Gates to the fair are to be formally opened Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and for three days and nights Colorado will be host to a never-ending program of entertainment. Along with the strong educational features of the fair will be a full program of fun and amusement. Among the social features planned is coronation of her majesty, the queen, the queen's ball and many other social programs given under auspices of the fair association and in private homes of the city.

Inaugural of social program for the fair is scheduled for Saturday night when contest to elect her majesty, the queen, is to be closed. Final balloting on the queen is to be made downtown on Oak street during band concert to be given by Roy Hester and his musicians. This program is to open at 7 o'clock.

At 9 o'clock Saturday evening the ballot boxes are to be closed and as soon thereafter as may be possible judges are to make announcement of the election. All young ladies entered in the contest are to be present and the one winning for the honor will be formally presented.

The band concert and final voting is expected to attract a number of people to the downtown area. Balloting in support of any of the young lady contestants will be permissible up until 9 o'clock.

'GOD HAS BLESSED FIRST METHODIST CHURCH WITH PROGRESS,' PASTOR SAYS

Much Better Financial State Than Year Ago Reported
By Rev. Mr. Webb

That Colorado Methodists have attained splendid progress during the year soon to come to a close was stressed Sunday morning in statements by the Rev. L. A. Webb, pastor, as he outlined briefly some of the conditions that exist in the church today.

"God has wonderfully blessed this church during this conference year in more ways than one," he said. "We are in much better financial condition than could be said a year ago and I have never in my long years as a pastor worked with a congregation possessed with such a unity of purpose. If there have been any ripples among any of our members you have been gracious enough to keep them to yourselves, and we have gone ahead in the spirit of a great family in which mutual understanding and love dominates."

He urged continuation of such a spirit of loyalty to the church during closing days of the conference year. "Our officials have deficits yet to meet in some departments of the church program and I ask that you all be kind to them when they call upon you. Be considerate of the means the Lord has entrusted to your care and He will trust you with some more."

That lax in Christian piety was responsible for the depression that has overwhelmed the country was charged by the pastor. "God is going to exact His share of the assets He has entrusted to your keeping," he said. "He may take it in drouth, boll weevil and worm depredation or in storm toll. You may rest assured that the Lord is going to demand an accounting with every one, and when we do not deliver His portion voluntarily, it will come through some other source."

The church now has a membership of 640, sixty of whom have been added since Rev. Mr. Webb came here as pastor eleven months ago. The pastor hopes to add another ten members, placing total at 650, before end of the conference year. Plans for meeting every financial obligation and closing out the year's program were outlined at a church conference held Wednesday evening, following adjournment of the regular prayer service.

PIGGY-WIGGLY STORE CAME TO COLORADO 6 YEARS AGO SATURDAY

W. J. Randle, owner and manager of Piggly Wiggly, announced Wednesday that Saturday of this week he would celebrate the sixth anniversary of opening his retail grocery and market in Colorado.

Visitors to the store during that day are to be invited to register. All those registering will be given opportunity to participate in anniversary gifts to be distributed in the way of merchandise. $60 worth of groceries are to be given away complimentary during the day.

RAIN WAS JUST WHAT WE NEEDED, GROSS REPORTS

"The rain was just what we needed. It was the best one to fall in Mitchell county since 1920," to quote J. W. Gross, here Tuesday afternoon from his farm home five miles northwest.

Gross stated that he had about 25 bales of cotton open on his farm. He estimates that five bales were destroyed by the rain.

Citizens Pleased With Initial Fair At Westbrook, Tex

Civic leaders at Westbrook and leading farmers of that community are well pleased with the initial community fair, held there Friday and Saturday of last week.

Mayor Van Boston was among the first citizens to give his strong endorsement to the fair and urge that permanent organization looking to holding such a program every year be made.

County Commissioner Skelton believes that the town and community could not sponsor a better program, calculated to advance the cause of farming in that territory.

I. W. Ramsey was profuse in his praise of the excellent quality of farm products exhibited and the efforts of civic leaders making the fair a success.

Community leaders of Conaway, after the judges had awarded their exhibit first place, were all smiles. That Conaway will return with another creditable exhibit next year was indicated.

County Judge A. P. King, a former citizen of Westbrook, was taking as much pride in the fair as other citizens. "Certainly looks good to me and I know that Westbrook will build from this start one of the leading community fairs in West Texas," was his comment.

County Commissioner Joe Shepard of Colorado denied that he was in Westbrook to see about getting votes for the 1932 election. "No, I am not campaigning over here at all. But I am certainly enjoying looking over these splendid exhibits," he said.

"Much better than I ever expected," was the statement of Jim Greene of the chamber of commerce after he had gone through the two buildings in which exhibits were on display.

Pied Pipers From Hamlin To Invade Colorado Friday

Hamlin's Pied Pipers will invade den of the Colorado Wolves Friday afternoon for another non-conference. The Hamlin gridsters are among the strong teams in Conference Class B, already having supplied worries a plenty to such strong clubs as Stamford and Anson.

The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock. Colorado fans are urged to support this game. The charge has been made—not by school officials, but by some of the fans here—that Colorado is not supporting the Wolves this season as they should.

The Hamlin club will give the Wolves a strong fight Friday afternoon. The game should be among the most interesting scheduled for Cantrell Field during the season.

TEXTILE DEPARTMENT SHOULD BE MADE ONE OF MOST IMPORTANT

The textile department at annual Live-at-Home Fair, to open here on Thursday of next week, will be replete with an exhibit that will prove both interesting and educational, in event the plans of Mrs. Tom Pritchett, director of that department, are realized.

Mrs. Pritchett stated Wednesday that she would be pleased to receive full cooperation from every citizen having proper specimens for exhibit. Since she does not have list of many of the most interesting articles owned by citizens of the county, she must depend, to large degree, upon initiative from among the people in building the department to the importance it should be.

Among the articles desired are quilts, rugs, spreads, plain and fancy sewing, old ladies' work (over 60 years of age), infant clothing, novelties, handicraft, embroidery, knitting, crochet and many others that might be mentioned.

SEVEN WELLS SERVICES
Rev. Oren C. Reid, pastor of the First Baptist church, Colorado, will preach at Seven Wells Sunday afternoon immediately following adjournment of Sunday school. The Sunday school is to open at 3 o'clock and preaching services will follow 45 minutes later.

'BAPTIST REVIVAL GREAT SUCCESS,' PASTOR SAYS OF TWO WEEK CAMPAIGN

Twenty-Two Additions Made To Church Membership During Meeting

"We reached our objectives and the revival has ended in victory for the church," was the manner in which Rev. Oren C. Reid, pastor, summed up results of the revival campaign ending Sunday evening at First Baptist church.

A total of twenty-two people were added to the church membership, seven of whom were given baptismal rites Sunday evening. The other 15 were received through transfers from other Baptist churches.

Rev. Philip McGahey, pastor of the First Baptist church at Snyder, did the preaching throughout the two weeks campaign. Services were held twice daily, at 10 o'clock in the morning and 7:30 in the evening.

"I am confident that the spiritual condition of our church was never better," Rev. Mr. Reid said. "Colorado Baptists have demonstrated that large numbers may be enlisted in our Sunday school work and in the young people's department. Goals for both these were attained during the revival."

Sunday, October 11, a total of 758 were registered in Sunday school at the Baptist church. The same day a total of 145 young people were in attendance upon the young people's department, formally known as B. Y. P. U.

Rev. Mr. Reid came to Colorado to accept pastorate of First Baptist church May 1. Since that time 130 names have been added to membership roster of the church and the most extensive program ever sponsored by Colorado Baptists launched. The church now has a membership of more than 700.

The pastor stressed fact that the church would not accept to be satisfied in achievements realized during recent months, but, rather, would continue to build its program toward larger goals and greater fields of service in the religious life of this city and section.

'I AM NOT AFRAID OF THE FUTURE; BETTER TIMES AHEAD'—LEVY

"I am not afraid of the future. Conditions are going to get better and that within the near future."

That was the optimistic expression of A. Levy, Sweetwater and Colorado business man and property owner, here Tuesday from his home in the former city.

Mr. Levy expressed belief that the public would emerge from the present era of depression to write a new formula for doing business. And that new formula, he explained, would demand that less credit obligations be made.

"People are going to find, through the experiences they now have, that it is better policy to pay cash and not rush to buy everything that may be offered them on some sort of installment selling basis," he said.

"The fellow who, in the past, has been quick to go in debt, will go slow hereafter. Such a policy among American buyers will stabilize business and return our people to an era of prosperity never known in this country. The wage earner may not receive the same salary that he did in other days, but he will place a greater value upon his dollar than ever before. There will be more cash business and a subsequent dwindling of unpaid account losses."

Mr. Levy is a frequent visitor to Colorado. He owns extensive property interests in the city and maintains an unflinching faith in the future development of this city and section.

School at Horn's Chapel Will Open Monday Morning

"We are going to open school Monday morning and I will see to it that Jim Greene has plenty time in which to deliver his address," said C. O. McCright, principal of the Horn's Chapel school, while here Saturday.

It had been previously planned to open school there Monday of last week, but due to demand of children in the cotton fields, trustees extended this date two weeks.

Attracting Immigration Was Problem Of Colorado Business Men 24 Years Ago

"Immigration" is a word rarely heard in West Texas now, but it was bandied about considerably on the lips of leading business men of this section a short twenty-four years ago, for then West Texas was making its first strides on the road to becoming an agricultural country, following the collapse of the cattle industry.

It was one of the principal subjects at the meeting of the Central West Texas division of Commercial Clubs in Colorado during the week of October 18, 1907. Today such a meeting would be a Chamber of Commerce Convention, and luncheon would be served in the dining room of the Colorado Hotel. Then it was served in the St. James, and among those present from Colorado were C. M. Adams, R. M. Webb, R. O. Pearson, G. E. Harness, C. S. Knott, S. D. Vaughan, T. P. Cooper, Royall G. Smith, J. H. Basden, Samuel Gustine, C. W. Simpson, Ed W. Smith, F. E. Whippley, F. M. Burns, J. Max Thomas, E. Keathley, W. H. Moeser, A. J. Payne, A. S. Henry, John L. Doss, Patrick Henry, W. L. Doss, T. J. Yoe, Ben Van Tuyl, Jno. Matre, Dr. Rathiff, Dr. W. C. Neal, John T. Johnson, Burwell Cooper, and Owen Neal.

Another of the principal problems worrying the infant commercial organization at that time was lack of adequate railroad yard space. The organization decided to put a salaried man in Fort Worth to handle advertising matter and direct immigration westward to this section of the State.

Robert E. Lee Chapter of United Daughters of the Confederacy was born during the week of October 18. Organization was perfected at the home of Mrs. W. B. Crockett, and the following officers named: Mrs. Ed Dupree, president; Mrs. R. H. Leoney, Mrs. F. M. Burns, Mrs. M. Carter, and Mrs. John Doss, vice presidents; Mrs. J. G. Merritt, recording secretary; Miss Bernice Terrell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. E. Hooper, treasurer; Mrs. C. C. Blandford, registrar; Mrs. C. A. Pierce, historian; Mrs. W. B. Crockett, custodian.

The Record for October 18, 1907, contained the following items of local news:

"The band gave a concert Friday night in front of the St. James Hotel. A 150-candle power electric light had been provided for the occasion, and the boys showed up in great shape. Prof. Chas. Strain has more than made good the recommendation of his friends, and has shown himself an organizer as well as a competent instructor."

"Brooks Bell, a Colorado owned horse, won the Barton-Peel handicap race at the Fort Worth fair Saturday."

"Mrs. S. Gustine and Mrs. J. S. Vaughan returned home on Saturday last from San Antonio, where they went as Eastern Star delegates to the State's Grand Conclave of Stars."

daughters have been out there for the past two weeks.

The instrumentation is as follows: Ed Jones, first violin; Lee Jones, second violin; Adams, second violin; C. E. Strain, clarinet; W. C. Stell, cornet; Watson, trombone; Fred Harris, trombone; H. F. Newman, bass."

"Mrs. S. N. Sherwin and Mrs. J. E. Riordan of this city this week received the sad news of the death of their eldest brother, Edward Douglas, at Hot Springs, Ark., where he had long resided. He was prominently identified with the business interests of that city for many years as a merchant, and some years ago became president of the Security Bank of Hot Springs, and continued at its head until his death, which occurred suddenly from a stroke of paralysis."

SEVEN WELLS NEWS NOTES

R. P. ADAMS, Reporter

We are all smiles over the good rain, which will be of great benefit in several ways. The winter grass will begin to grow, which will help the ranchmen. Fall pastures can now be planted, which will help the stockmen in general. Cotton has been damaged to some extent, but not enough to even think of alone saying: "I wish it hadn't rained." We are all glad it rained.

There is not any real news news here. The people have been real busy, and nothing could have happened but picking cotton. This reporter was absent over week-end. We went to Abilene to visit the Adamases there, and while there it was our pleasure of seeing a sister, Mrs. John W. Jones of Phoenix, Arizona. She is spending some three weeks in Texas—at Abilene, Fort Worth and Lubbock.

Mitchell-Scurry Baptist Workers' Conference met with Payne church on Tuesday. There was a group of visitors from other churches, and we had dinner on the ground, and all seemed to have eaten until they were filled. It was a pleasure to the Payne church to have Rev. G. W. Parks, a former pastor, present and conduct the devotional. We heard W. H. Howell of Roscoe, Oren C. Reid of Colorado, A. A. Watson of Looney and A. C. Hardin of Loraine.

Every Baptist, as well as anyone else, remember that we are to have the privilege of hearing some of our greatest preachers, Rev. George W. Truitt, as well as other leading men—Dr. Williams, our State secretary, and Dr. Jenkins of Abilene—at Colorado Baptist church on Wednesday, October 21st. It will certainly be an inspiration to hear these men.

Let it be remembered that next Sunday is preaching day at Payne. Services will be held Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night.

Let us also remember our Bible school at Seven Wells school house. Following the Bible school, the Rev. Oren C. Reid, pastor of the Baptist church at Colorado, will speak to us. Everyone urged to attend.

The reporter wishes to express his thanks and appreciation for interest taken by our school teachers and pupils for furnishing the news of this community.

MUCH COTTON LOST, IS CLAIM OF JIM JOHNSON

Jim Johnson, Colorado miner and land owner, refused to join the ranks of those citizens who were all smiles because of the rain. "At least half of the cotton that was open in the field was destroyed by the rain," he declared Monday afternoon.

SEVEN WELLS SCHOOL NEWS

By LULA MAE BASSHAM

Edwin Roach visited his little friend, Otis Homer, at Payne Sunday.

Virginia Cockrell spent Saturday night with Christine Cellum.

Lula Mae and Neil Bassham spent the week-end at U. D. Wulfjen's.

Christine VanZandt of Hyman visited our school Tuesday.

Mrs. P. L. Ferguson and little daughter, Martha Gene, visited the school Friday.

They come every year and are favorites with the school children. They have lately moved from Abilene to Colorado and we hope they visit us often. Mr. Ferguson has been called to Bryan to take a position in his brother's office there. His family will join him if he stays in Bryan.

The rain this week sent some of the children in from the cotton fields to school. It is an ill wind that blows nobody good. Maybe the rain, while it has injured the cotton, will make grass for the cattle, raise the price of raw material and bring up the turnips.

Old Champion creek went on a rampage after the rain. He stole watermelons from some man's field and hurled them out into the drift as he passed.

When there are no earthquakes, no storms, no sickness, no deaths, no wars, no family quarrels, no calamities of any kind, what will we put in the paper? When people do not visit and there is nothing eventful it may mean we are quietly, peacefully happy.

Our teachers often ask us, "Are you happy today?" They say the most important thing in the life of a child is to keep him happy. The happy child is the good child, the healthy child. The happy child is the child who brings up good lessons and plays fair on the campus. A happy day for a child is one that can be put away for memory, for character building, for mental progress. A spoiled child is never a happy child. If you don't believe this, think it over.

PLENTY STOCK WATER ON RANCH NOW, BEAL SAYS

Guff Beal, owner of extensive ranch properties in Mitchell and other West Texas counties, stated Monday that he had plenty water on the White Elephant Ranch to run through the winter months.

Beal, who lives in Fort Worth, spends much of his time in Colorado. A few weeks ago he stated that scarcity of stock water had become a serious problem on his Mitchell county ranch.

There was a time

—when old-fashioned heating systems blistered your face while your back shivered.

But now...

with natural gas, winter is just another pleasant season in the modern home.

A timely reminder

Days are growing shorter, nights longer, and the first cold days of winter are on the way.

NOW is the practical time to check up your heating equipment while winter is still "around the corner." Don't let obsolete or inadequate heating rob you of a pleasant indoor climate. Improved gas heating equipment and your dependable gas service will give you care-free, inexpensive comfort at the touch of a match and you'll find just the type heater to fit your particular need on display at your gas company or appliance dealer's.

If this were a gasless community, the next order of business would be laying in a supply of coal or wood. Of course, your dependable gas service makes this fuss and bother unnecessary. All through the summer months your gas company has been "keeping your fuel service faithful"—improving facilities so that you may have the safety and security of a dependable natural gas supply again this winter.

15c... Natural Gas is still the least expensive item in your annual cost of living. The average gas bill, throughout the year, for cooking, HEATING and hot water supply is but 15c a day....

An ample gas supply has been provided... pipe lines and distributing lines have been checked over... compressor stations have been overhauled. In fact, every detail of your gas service has been carefully perfected to assist you in stopping Jack Frost at the threshold of your home.

Success attends initial community fair held at Westbrook Oct. 9 and 10

Both Quality and Quantity of Exhibits Excel All Expectations

Westbrook's initial annual community fair, closing Saturday, is being reviewed as successful by citizens sponsoring the show, as well as the large number of visitors attracted to Westbrook during Friday night and Saturday to "look in" upon the singularly striking portrayal of community progress.

The fair was formally opened on Friday evening with a concert by the Colorado Municipal band. Exhibits arranged by farmers, 4-H club members and other citizens presented an interesting array that did not fail to hold attention of all visitors.

This was the first fair program sponsored by Westbrook. Citizens responsible for organizing the community into an association to hold the fair, stated Saturday that success had been so strikingly attained that plans for organizing permanently and hold a fair each season were being concluded.

Mrs. R. M. Jones took first place on individual exhibit, showing 57 varieties of home prepared articles of food. W. T. Brooks came second; J. A. Conaway third; T. E. Ellett, fourth.

Conaway community took first on community exhibit, and Iatan took second.

The 4-H Club boys had 78 exhibits of grain sorghums, and a chart was on display, showing there are 61,000 acres of terraced land in Mitchell county. Model self-feeders, grapes and cherries were displayed.

In the antique display, Mrs. Myrtle Wade showed a cape 125 years old. F. M. Thompson entered a hymn book 150 years old; Dock Lassiter, justice of the peace, entered his baby dress 63 years old; Mrs. P. M. Rowland displayed a coverlet woven in 1851 by her grandmother from wool prepared by her grandfather.

Mrs. J. E. Skelton was chairman of textile; Mrs. John Costin, home canned exhibits; W. T. Brooks, agriculture; F. H. Patterson, general superintendent. County Agent W. S. Foster and Miss Abbie Sevier, home agent, assisted in putting on the exposition.

SOUTHLAND GREYHOUND REDUCES FARES IN WEST

One-way bus fares, from Colorado to any point on the Southland Greyhound West Texas division, have been reduced to one and three-quarter cents per mile, effective on October 10th, according to officials of the bus company.

The reduction has been approved by the State Railroad Commission and will be in effect 30 days. The new low fares apply between any two points on the West Texas Division and are good on all schedules, including the through runs. As an example of the lowered rate, the fare to Fort Worth is $4.30, to El Paso only $6.85.

This latest reduction is consistent with the plans of the Southland Greyhound Lines. Round trip excursion fares, good to all points on Southland's 2500-mile Texas-Wide System, announced earlier in the year, have been extended until December 31st as a result of their big success.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS TO NOMINATE OFFICIALS

Committee composed of the president, vice president and secretary, was announced Sunday to nominate officials of the Young Business Men's Bible class of First Methodist church for the ensuing conference year. The committee was directed to make its report on first Sunday after convening of annual conference, which will be November 15. John E. Watson is to teach the class next Sunday morning.

"More genuine satisfaction than any car I ever owned"

THE FORD is good-looking. It is safe. Comfortable. Speedy. Reliable. Long-lived. Economical. Everything a good car should be.

There is, too, an added something about it that brings enthusiastic comments from every one who has ever driven a Ford . . . the joy it puts in motoring.

"I have been a car owner continuously for nearly 20 years," writes a motorist connected with a leading university. "During this period I have bought eleven new automobiles. Eight of the eleven were in the middle-price field, one cost three thousand dollars, and the last is a Ford I purchased thirteen months ago.

"In the light of this experience I can say in all sincerity that I have derived more genuine satisfaction from the Ford than any car I ever owned. In saying this, I am thinking in terms of comfort, safety, driving pleasure, ease of control and economy. My next car will also be a Ford because it will give me what I want at a price I can afford to pay."

When you get behind the wheel of the Ford and drive it yourself you will know it is a truly remarkable car at a low price. You will like it when you first buy it. You will become more and more enthusiastic the longer you drive it.

After thousands of miles of driving you will say "it's a great car." Its economy will save you many dollars.

WHAT WILL THE RESULTS BE?

It will be interesting to watch the result of the 1931 Fire Prevention Week just closed, in Colorado as well as other parts of the State.

In other years it has been the general experience that fire loss has fallen during the week and the period immediately following, only to return after that to the usual high level. The type of advice offered by the organizations participating is certainly not at fault. They have shown us that to leave wiring unattended, to build below the highest standards, to be careless in the use of tobacco and inflammables of one kind or another, especially gas pipes in homes, is to court disaster—and for a fortnight or so we have remembered it.

The shortness of our memories is the cause of an annual property waste of about half a billion dollars and a human waste of ten thousand lives. These are the direct results of fire. The indirect results are financially of still greater importance, in waste due to loss of taxes on destroyed property, men thrown out of employment, business activity interrupted. Recent history records the cases of communities whose progress and development has been permanently stopped because of a single great fire.

Of course, the extremely dry weather of the past few weeks has tended to make control of fires very difficult and the losses in many instances were much heavier than otherwise would have been the case. But records show that a majority of such fires resulted from carelessness on part of the property owners.

In the light of all this, it is certainly not too much to say that every citizen should make it his business to learn the lessons of fire prevention and keep them in mind during the entire year.

Naturally, the insurance companies are not going to operate at a loss, and the people in every town who carry fire insurance finally pay for the loss of their neighbor's home or place of business through increased rate.

POLITICAL MISTAKE

(San Angelo Evening Standard)

The political mistake of failure to redistrict Texas for congressional purposes became more apparent Saturday at Coleman when Jim Ferguson made one of his typical addresses. The setting was ideal for another edition of Fergusonism and an unrelenting crowd received it, we are told, with applause.

It is generally understood that both Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson are contemplating the race for congressman at large next year. It would be an unsettling condition, aggravating an already unsettled economic state.

Ferguson introduced a promissory note to Texas politics, but he would abolish such things as interest to the economic structure. He claims he would jail the Federal Reserve members. The political clap-trap, always an identifying mark of Fergusonism, readily becomes apparent, though the psychology of the statements probably touched a responsive chord among those who would like to see such a thing happen, though anyone should have the good sense to know that neither could be accomplished.

It is apparent that the Federal Reserve system could function to better advantage of the people and the banks compelled to be members of the system, but the fallacy of introducing Ferguson's plans for bolstering the economic structure is just as apparent.

Ferguson hit upon some truths—"taxes should be cut in half, politics is in awful shape, and the people need the best talent and the best courage to meet the conditions." He had opportunity to demonstrate that he couldn't cut tax levies in his own right and again when he was helping his wife. He eliminated himself when he talked of the best talent and best courage. It takes no great stretch of the imagination to picture a candidate who would have more of each than has Ferguson.

TAKING STERLING TO TASK

From the Coleman Democrat-Voice: "People who came to the opening of the Coleman county fair yesterday expecting to see and hear Governor Sterling were sorely disappointed as people have been at numerous conventions and public fetes in the past. The governor, so far as we recall, has never filled an engagement. Always notification of his failure to be present has come at the last minute, after preparations have been made for his reception and entertainment. We regret whatever happened to prevent his coming to Coleman, because few issues of this paper and other papers in this section have been printed that did not contain some reference to the governor opening the third annual fair. His visit would have been one of the first of a chief executive to an event of the kind here. We are glad, however, that we doubted his arrival and never had that enthusiasm that causes flaring headlines. Personally, we believe that the governor is right in staying in Austin in these critical times to attend to the people's business. We doubt the wisdom of his journey to Houston to attend to private business affairs. Texas has had too many governors who have devoted far too much of their time to opening bridges and closing schools. But we do not believe that Governor Sterling, or any other public official, should accept engagements to be broken."

Test Well Might Be Drilled Past 3,500 Foot Mark

SNYDER, Texas.—The Blackburn oil test, three miles north of Ira, drilled several months ago to depth of 3,500 feet, may be drilled 500 feet deeper, according to M. Z. Dibble, operator, who returned from the East several days ago.

Drilling will be resumed as soon as three lease holders waive their rentals, Mr. Dibble reports. All other landholders in the Blackburn block have agreed to waive their rentals in order to give the driller a chance to find oil in a deeper strata.

Mr. Dibble was advised by geologists to make a deeper test, and he believes that the hole that has shown up dry in the first 3,500 feet will yield pay sand before 500 feet more have been drilled.

THINK ON THESE THINGS

You can't pick the lock or knock the knob on the door to the Hall of Fame. Don't worry because you are not handsome. Better one dwarfish Steinmetz than a thousand Beau Brummels. Last heard from the Hall of Fame it was not overcrowded with Apollos and Venuses anyway. Baggy breeches are not an indication of a brilliant brain. It is not necessary to be always in style. Some great men and women of the world are noted for their indifference as to this particular matter. They had something better to think about. The world is not depending on drug store sheiks, vacant-faced jelly-beans, confectionery cowboys, and lounge lizards for anything worth while.

Corned beef and plain bread have produced more real men and women than have Lucullan feasts of Nightingale tongues and dainty desserts.

Men upon whom our country's future depends are not now being nourished by menus written in French. There are boys now carrying their lunches in paper bags who will later be able to make their judgment—and not their pocket-books—the limit of their meals. Success is not partial to the spoiled and pampered. It seems always to have preferred the rugged and self-reliant. Society's four hundred constitute a poor asset for a country's greatness as compared with one lone thinker in the ranks of industry's toymen.

Many of the boys who rode west in covered wagons years ago have come back in private cars. It was up to them and they had the brains and courage to make the grade. It is the same way today, and those who have sense enough to realize it are the ones who will do things. It doesn't matter about the others. Petted and curled darlings have never monopolized the laurel wreaths of their day. More millionaires trace their days back to poverty than to millions possessed by their dads. Education is the process of putting something into your head. An old dandy who, when upbraided for wearing a badly battered and soiled hat, said, "Dis haid ain't never done nothin' for me, and I ain't gwine do nothin' for it." What he needed was something in his head, not on it. Same way with the rest of us.

THE GOOSE AND THE EGG

The goose that lays the golden egg is "Opportunity." And the best of it is she lays for everybody. The trouble is some don't recognize the egg when she lays it. Another trouble is too many wait for her to come back and hatch it out. She will not do it. She leaves it to you to put it under a bird of your own selection, or better still, in the right sort of an incubator, and do your own hatching. While the loafers wait for her to come back, the egg spoils, then they blame it on the goose, instead of themselves. Wonderful bird, this, for she lays one or more eggs at everybody's door every day in the year, and the thing that makes us know she is a goose, is that she doesn't know after two or three visits that about ninety-nine out of every hundred persons for whom she lays will never appreciate the egg. But she's patient and impartial and has plenty of eggs.

Besides, it is better to make opportunities than to wait for them anyway. Stumbling blocks are fine material for stepping stones if you know how to make them. That's what education is for—causes you to know how. The world has no prizes for weaklings and loafers. Its rewards are for the courageous, the competent and energetic. Not everyone living in a palace was born in one. Most occupants of mansions were tenants of huts. Better be buried in oblivion than be distinguished for anything except goodness and industry. No man is better than the life he leads. Goodness is greatness. Service is success.

THAT COMING BOOK

This columnist is writing a book to be named "Whiskey's Whisperings." We submit part of a chapter for your criticism and approval: CHAPTER (?)

Most authors introduce their heroines early in their romantic stories, but we have seen fit to wait this far to bring into the plot, or story, the girl.

Pausing not an instant in her precipitate flight from the most amazing and impossible made biped she had ever encountered, Alpinie Hackett fled to her room, locked the door, lay down on her bed and indulged herself for ten minutes in that delight of a sex, customarily known as a good cry.

"The watch," she soliloquized, "the odious boor. He had the audacity to talk to me exactly as if I were a refractory client instead of the girl he had but a moment before assured he loved to destruction."

Oh, dear; what humiliation! I hate him! I hate him, and I'll never live."

When a woman has come to that conclusion, quite naturally she finds it time to cease vain repining and weeping, leave her inflamed eyes with some soothing lotion and powder her nose. So presently Alpinie did all these things and while doing them appraised herself very critically in her mirror. At a glance, it was seen she was much too whole-some to entertain a cheap vanity, so she did not waste time in an extended inventory. She knew she had a medium-sized, well shaped head, covered with that sort of golden-tinted auburn hair which so few women attempt but which few ever achieve. Catty girls often said of Alpinie's hair that a chemical analysis would develop a trace of henna in it, but this was not true, and even her detractors knew it. She had the sort of rich, creamy skin that goes with such hair; her eyebrows and eye-lashes were darker than her hair, their luxuriance conveying a hint of Celtic blood.

Alpinie's eyes, large, brown and a trifle sleepy, owing to her acquired trick of gazing up at men from under the lids, were ideal for setting the reason of an impressionable male tottering on the throne. Her nose had just escaped from being snubby and was tilted at so gentle an angle as to confer upon her a faintly haughty expression when her face was in-profile. She had a short, beautifully curved upper lip, which adorable malformation permitted much too easy a display of even, hard white teeth. Her lower lip was full, tender and just a shade wilful. Alpinie was no sad, gentle, resigned wise "Mona Lisa" smile; it reminded one of the gentle flash of a heliograph. Her chin was full and aggressive, her body beautifully formed, lithe as a cat's and suggestive of abounding health and much outdoor exercise.

Despite her almost startling beauty one realized instinctively that Alpinie was not a clinging vine. One felt, too, that she had a healthy temper, despite her perennial good nature and her tolerance for her own sex. As a matter of fact Alpinie did possess a temper readily aroused but she had the saving grace of refusing to admit it except under extraordinary circumstances. A certain coolness, a quiet flash of the brown eyes, a more meticulous-graciousness, an infinitesimal life of the firm chin were the signs of certain squalls. It was difficult for Alpinie under certain stress to refrain from hurling books and traveling clocks. All this short-lived exasperation was in that jaunty, saucy, lovable soul. Appraising herself in her mirror now, Alpinie twisted her lovely head and cocked it at various angles. No, decidedly, her neck was not scrawny, nor was her skin pallid or dull. She was looking and feeling her best, mentally and physically, and she knew that the light green-romaine crepe dress, the "nude" stockings and green suede pumps with plain cut-steel buckles set her off to additional advantage. In the stilted language of the American fashion writer, they constituted the supreme of perfect taste, for Alpinie was one of those girls to whom a clash of colors was impossible. She reflected with a sort of sweet bitterness that she had dressed that afternoon with an eye single to impressing herself upon the cool, quietly impersonal glances of her gentlemen friends.

Once more she gave way to tears, but not for long. With Alpinie tears were a sign of weakness, the weapons of the tyrannous, the refuge of an ungallant and unsportsmanlike woman, although when her emotions were deeply stirred, as by grief or pity, she enjoyed weeping. She patronized human interest or heart-throb plays and avoided profound books written with an obviously greater concern for style than substance. Instinctively she wanted to get her teeth into life, as it were.

She dried her tears and applied the powder rag again, and then the real reason for her charm, as plain as a mountain peak, the reason men adored her and made love to her, presented itself. Alpinie was a good sport, none better, and hated a quitter with all the strength of her vital, intelligent soul.

Season on Ducks

Delayed; Not To Open Till Nov. 16

Hunters planning to open the duck season on October 16, which is today, will have to postpone that indulgence another thirty days, according to W. T. St. John of Abilene, game warden. And this must be done, even the date October 16 is printed on back of State hunting license.

A Federal proclamation limiting the season on these birds from noon, November 16 to December 15, inclusive, has just been issued and the State law, permitting hunting from October 16 through January 31, is therefore void, St. John explained.

Bag limit for ducks is 15, an aggregate of all kinds, for one day, and not more than 30 in possession, while hunters may shoot four geese a day, and possess not more than eight.

EVERY

Canning Budget Valuable Aid to Home Makers; Great Benefit at a Small Cost

With date for opening annual Live-at-Home Fair only two weeks in the future and due to the fact that general program of the fair has been built to stress importance of providing the necessities of life at home, the following article, reprinted from the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News, is timely:

Because the home is the unit of a nation and a country's strength is measured by its homes, our Government is endeavoring to strengthen its rural homes by helping the owners to a more independent, prosperous mode of living. The first step to this end is that the farm family live at home. And so the production and conservation of food in large quantities are of paramount importance, not only to every home, but to the entire nation.

Preserving processes have been greatly simplified by the modern methods of canning that have been carried into the rural homes by the extension agents. Homemakers are indebted to the Department of Agriculture and the agricultural colleges for this as well as many other benefits received.

Use of a canning budget gives one a definite plan to follow. If every housewife will stock her pantry with the amount and variety of food specified in the budget (and most of those on farms are doing so), she will have provided for her family the means for a healthful diet, which is the best and surest immunity against winter illnesses. These canned vegetables and fruits, supplemented by eggs, butter, whole milk, canned beef and pork, will insure a balanced ration.

For the benefit of those who have not a copy of the canning budget, we are again printing it. Based on a six months' supply for one person, the budget calls for 24 containers of leafy vegetables, 24 starch vegetables, 30 of fruit, 25 of tomatoes, 11 of pickles and relishes, 11 of jelly and preserves, 10 miscellaneous, and 10 pounds of dried beans.

The beneficial results of the extension agents' efforts are best observed in individual demonstrations; in a sense, a factory that produces and conserves its food supply. This perhaps was the busiest summer for farm women they ever experienced. They have toiled in their gardens and kitchens long, weary hours to conserve food for winter. But how well repaid they will feel when winter sets in and they behold the big stores of nutritious food on their pantry shelves.

It is gratifying to note that their canning interests have not been confined to their own homes. Many women have cooperated with others in canning surplus food for less fortunate families. A great deal of welfare work was done quietly in this manner. In many sections men and women, cooperating with extension agents, have conducted community cannings, in this way turning out more work and with greater speed.

In practically all rural sections and communities canning continues to hold the center of the stage, especially in the South. We will cite at random a few recent demonstrations which seem to be typical of the activities along these lines:

One pantry demonstrator, Mrs. J. N. Stripland of the Midway Club of Lamar county, canned 520 quarts of vegetables and fruits for home use, the cost of which was $11.65 and the value $222.50. Mrs. Stripland has not finished her canning.

Last year Mrs. Wood Smith of the Sandia club of Jim Wells county had no budget, but she canned 233 containers of fruits and vegetables, 107 cans of preserves and 42 quarts of grape juice. Using a budget this year, Mrs. Smith put up 729 containers of fruits and vegetables, 163 pints of preserves and 53 quarts of pickles.

In Bowie county, in the community canning kitchen at New Boston, 105 cans of eight different fruits and vegetables were canned in one day's demonstration. The next day the women of this community canned 102 quarts of peas. Reports from 20 members of the Dalby Springs Club show that they have canned 4,265 quarts, and the good work is still going on. Bowie was allotted 5,000 cans by the Red Cross to be issued through the county home agent to farm families who had products to can but were unable to buy cans, and 3,500 of these have been used. The remainder will be used for meat canning as soon as the weather gets cool.

Last January 22 the first canning demonstration to be held in Fort Bend county was given by county agent. Six months later more than 100,000 cans of vegetables and meats were accounted for.

Father Colorado Man Built First Big Spring House

That Tom Baze, pioneer West Texan, built the first house in Big Spring is claimed in recent news dispatch printed under Snyder date-line. Mr. Baze is the father of John R. Baze, advertising manager on The Record. The article follows:

M. P. Baze, 83, of San Marcos, who told of buffalo hunting which centered at Big Spring, most of it where the Howard and Glasscock county oil field now is, brought joy to his "little brother" here last week when he surprised him with a visit. W. T. (Tom) Baze, the brother, 79, has been ill for some time and was reported worse last week.

The Baze family pioneered in West Texas. M. P. Baze has vivid memories of the seventies, when he enjoyed great sport and made big money, sometimes killing 100 buffaloes a day at $1 each.

Tom Baze said he built the first house in Big Spring and was later first commissioner of Howard county.

Income From Texas Farms During Last Month Is Reviewed

September farm income for Texas is estimated in a Dallas News survey at $39,754,925. This showing is made despite an estimated holding by farmers of 40 to 50 per cent of current cotton ginnings and a slow harvest due to scarcity of pickers and a low price.

Texas total farm income since Jan. 1, 1931, is estimated at $187,856,797.

Cotton leads for September with a total of $22,620,000 and cottonseed follows with $4,550,000. The commodities are at present selling for an average of 5c a pound for the lint and $6 to $7 a ton for seed, the lowest in 32 years.

Values of all farm products are lower than for many years but crops in general are much larger than last year and in some instances for ten years, thus in some measure compensating the low prices.

Advances on the Texas fall mohair clip by the National Wool Marketing Corporation range from 15c a pound for grown hair to 35c for the kid-hair and are estimated to have brought some $1,200,000 to West Central Texas during September.

It should be stated that in view of the low prices for all grain and feed crops more farmers are feeding beef cattle and calves, sheep and hogs than in several years. The result will be a higher price for these feeds than if sold on the markets.

Record crops of both ribbon cane and sorgho syrup have been made in Texas, these two crops so far returning approximately $373,000.

The largest pecan and peanut crops in years and a substantial sweet potato crop will be harvested during October and the subsequent months and turkeys and other poultry shipments will show heavy movement in November.

ALFALFA BILL TURNS ATTENTION TO CURE FOR PHYSICAL ILLS

And now "Alfalfa Bill," hectic governor of Oklahoma, is to turn his attention to appendicitis and, not claiming to be a doctor, prescribes a "cure" for this physical ailment.

"When you are suffering from an attack of appendicitis, you should stop eating all food and drink milk," said William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, who has prescribed remedies for the nation's oil and cotton industries.

Murray's "cure" is a simple one to follow.

"If you wish, eat three pounds of fresh grapes. Swallow the seeds whole. Follow this diet for 24 hours and the pain will be gone. Why, I do not know, any more than I know why the moon affects fence posts, but it's that way.

"Then for a few days cut out all red meat, eat half-cooked onions and cabbage. If you can't get grapes, take some raisins, soak them in warm water over night, but don't boil them.

"The thing that causes appendicitis is refined food," he said. "Your diet must depend upon your activity, occupation, age and health conditions. For instance, newspaper reporters can eat most anything, including billiard balls."

McCamey Players Ruled Ineligible By Dist. Solons

BIG SPRING, Texas.—The title hopes of the McCamey Badgers were given a severe blow here last Friday morning when the solons of District 4 of the Intercollegiate League met to consider evidence submitted to the district chairman, E. H. McClain, concerning two of McCamey's players.

The meeting was called by Mr. McClain, of Sweetwater as result of facts submitted him concerning the McCamey men. In view of the evidence given Virgil Smith, captain and quarterback of the Badgers was declared ineligible, and Van Sullivan, star linesman of the McCamey school, will be lost to Coach Park unless he can find sufficient proof to clear him of charges against him. Smith was declared ineligible because he has had four years participation. The 10-semester rule and the scholastic age limit both hit Van Sullivan.

No other players in the district were considered by the officials.

Rev. Whatley Will Not Be Returned After Conference

The Rev. W. M. Whatley of Westbrook, pastor of the Westbrook-Cuthbert circuit, will not be returned to pastorate of those churches another year, Dr. O. P. Clark of Sweetwater, presiding elder, told officials and members of the two congregations attending Fourth Quarterly Conference held at Cuthbert Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Clark explained that he could not return the pastor due to fact Rev. Mr. Whatley was not a member of the conference and already there was an over-supply of preachers. The Westbrook-Cuthbert pastor is listed on roster of the Northwest

Texas Conference as a supply preacher.

Rev. Mr. Whatley stated that he did not know where he would be stationed another year. It is possible, however, that the Bishop's cabinet may find some way out of the present difficulty and return him to the charge he is now serving.

Members of both churches are said to be strong in their endorsement of the pastor and supporting the request that he be returned another year.

Germ Processed Oil gives you safe lubrication not only after your motor starts but during the starting period! For only Germ Processed Oil has penetrative lubricity... the ability to cling to, penetrate and combine with metal surfaces. A "hidden quart" of Germ Processed Oil stays up in your motor and never drains away. It cuts down starting wear and makes starting easier and quicker. Save your motor from wear... Change now to Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil, the only oil in North America made by the patented germ process. Fill up at any station that displays the Conoco Red Triangle.

THREE-FOLD DEVELOPMENT

A person is characterized by the three phases of life, spiritual, mental and physical. We often speak of these as being separate and distinct parts of our lives; but in reality they seldom are. The mind, body and soul were intended to function perfectly and coordinately with one another.

We can point out hundreds of brilliant men, geniuses; we can give examples of men with outstanding lives of purity and good work; wonderful feats performed by men with superb physiques are daily brought to our attention. But the ideal, perfect person would be one that combined equally each of these outstanding characteristics. As the first duty of a school is to strive to develop ideal men and women for the task of meeting life, it is obvious that a school should develop the three-fold life of each of its students.

The earliest schools in America were created for the purpose of educating men in the laws and creeds of their churches. Later, the necessity for training men for other duties in life became apparent, and universities were established. Even then, however, a distinction existed between the two types of schools. At about the same time, military schools were created for the primary purpose of training and developing the bodies of young men. The unit in of the three types of colleges to form our modern universities was slow and gradual process. This necessitated the breaking down of many prejudices and the formation of the new idea that one school can promote the three phases of life. This revision of opinion pertained only to the higher institutions of learning. Only recently have our high schools and elementary schools adopted the principal of developing the body and soul, as well as the mind. This year especially the idea has become popular and widespread among the schools of Texas. Athletics, heretofore, have been the only form of physical training. These could not include the whole school body or even a majority of the students. Last year the State department required every student in Texas to participate in physical education. Trained nurses who have specialized in child hygiene are sent by the State to examine every school child. These nurses cooperate with the parents by suggesting suitable diets, recreations and health habits for the children. Not only do students study hygiene, but they are required to practice it.

As an example of what a modern school does for its students, we may study our own school. The spiritual phase of life enters into our school work as one day each week every student is made to think of the serious, moral side of life by the message brought by some minister. Physical development also forms an essential part of our daily program. The home economics girls are encouraged to develop healthy habits by making health a part of their work. Every football boy is impressed with the importance of keeping his body fit. The student body as a whole participates in healthy, body-developing exercises taken in the fresh air. For mental development, the student is offered not only the prescribed course of study but also the privilege of broadening his mind by taking part in the extra-curricular activities. Thus the student of today has the mental, spiritual and physical sides of his life developed by the modern school.

As long as our schools continue the three-fold development of students, our country will progress in the future as never before, for the student of today is the citizen of tomorrow.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION BEGINS

The first physical education program of the year was conducted on Thursday, October 8, by Mr. Watson, Mr. Pierce, and Mr. Baker. A certain amount of time is to be spent each week on physical education, and various health programs are also to be included.

COLORADO DEFEATS ROSCOE

Despite a handicap of a dry, very lumpy, and sandy field, the Colorado Wolves handed out a good licking to the Roscoe Plowboys, Friday afternoon, October 9, at Roscoe. Both teams played hard ball, but Wolves outclassed the Plowboys.

The Wolves used the aerial route or their main attacks and the Roscoe boys just didn't seem to be there at the same time the ends did. The only exciting part of Roscoe's playing was in the third quarter, when the Plowboys blocked his punt and made their only touchdown. Roscoe failed to kick goal.

Colorado pushed the pigskin across the Plowboy's goal four times, Harkins making one in the second quarter, Shelton making one in the third, Hicks one in fourth, and Shelton one in the fourth. Viles kicked goal twice, running our score to 26.

ASSEMBLY NEWS

Tuesday, Oct. 6, Miss Barrett was in charge of the assembly program, and she gave a very entertaining reading, "Bobbie Shaftoe."

Wednesday, Rev. W. M. Elliott of the Presbyterian church addressed the student body. The life of a high school pupil was compared to a new automobile. Rev. Elliott explained that it was just as essential to take care of the body and mind while young as to drive a car slowly for the first few hundred miles. The physical, mental, and religious phases of training were discussed, and their importance to a happy and useful life impressed upon the students.

Friday morning, Mary Louise Melton led several snappy yells for the Wolves who, that afternoon, met the Roscoe Plowboys. Much enthusiasm and interest was shown in these boys, and a number planned to accompany the Wolves to their scene of battle.

Tuesday, Mr. Baker was in charge of the assembly program, and he presented Miss Skerritt and a trio of her Choral club girls who sang two popular numbers, "The Waltz You Saved for Me," and "It's a Girl." Miss Skerritt accompanied the trio, consisting of Irene Powell, Gladys Louise Jones and Nellie Bess Lipps, on the piano and also played several popular numbers.

HOME ECONOMIC NEWS

What in the world are you doing in the Home Economic department? What is that dreadful noise? I smell paint. What are you doing with it?

These are questions asked by students and teachers. If you don't know, it's time you found out, so I'll tell you. We're making our doll houses to be exhibited at the Fair next week. We're sawing lumber and painting furniture just as if we were paid for it! And maybe you think we can't do it, even if we are girls. Well, just come around to the exhibit in the Home Economics club. We're going to show you things, we are!

And of all the dressed up dolls you'll see. We are planning a baby's layette and a wardrobe for a high school girl. And don't think we're going to leave out good things to eat, either. That's also in our line of work. We will show you how cunning it is done.

If you don't believe all this come around to the high school on the evening of October 20, to the next club meeting, and let us tell you about it in person. Then be sure to see the exhibit for absolute proof. Vocational H. E. Club meeting on Tuesday evening, October 20, at 7 o'clock. The program will be educational and mothers are invited to be present.

H. E. I classes have prepared fruits and breadstuffs for breakfast in class and each girl has prepared fruits, muffins and biscuits at home for home practice.

H. E. II girls are working on a food budget, endeavoring to plan and prepare more balanced and appetizing meals for less money.

H. E. III girls have planned the proper diets for infants, six-and-nine months old and for pre-school children.

SPANISH CLUB ORGANIZED

The third year Spanish class has organized the La Tertulia Club for 1931. They held a picnic at Seven Wells and initiated 18 members. Helen Hester, Otho Rice, and T. J.

Goss, members of last year's Spanish club, were in charge of the initiation. Miss Smith, sponsor of the club, and Miss Jennings, accompanied the group.

Last Sunday Mr. Ham received news of the illness of his father, and he and Mrs. Ham left immediately for Mount Vernon. The entire student body and faculty express their desire for Mr. Ham's speedy recovery.

Mrs. C. C. Thompson is substituting for Mr. Ham during his absence.

And have you heard the one about the absent minded professor who flunked the football boy and passed the hard-working student?

A news item informs us that "Cincinnati, the only American city named after a Roman hero, is to receive a gift of a bronze wolf from Rome." Aren't we seeing enough of the wolf these days without having bronze replicas presented to us? Will the Eugene styles for women that are sweeping the country presently be followed by the Gandhi fashion for the well-dressed man?

Dynamiting For Trench Silos

Top—Digging out the dynamited soil. Center—The trench silo in use. Bottom—Silo loaded, roofed, and ready for winter feeding.

By L. F. LIVINGSTON
Manager, Agricultural Extension Section, Du Pont Company.

ENCOURAGED by the advice of agricultural colleges, county agents, and agricultural engineers, trench silos, which are simply trenches for the storing of ensilage, are being more widely used this year in many states. These silos which are not difficult to make, through storage of livestock feeds, are estimated to increase the feed per acre about one-fourth in some sections.

Dynamite is economically used in constructing these feed storage trenches, in some cases being employed to break up the hard soil and in others, where the trench is far enough from farm buildings, enough explosive being used to clear the dirt from the trench. Such trenches should be built in well drained locations, convenient for feeding and in hard soil. A silo 10 feet wide at top, 6 feet at bottom and 8 feet deep by 50 feet long will take care of 20 head of cattle. It is finished with a sloping straw roof held down by poles.

A typical trench silo blown in Missouri according to plans recommended by the Missouri College of Agriculture was intended to hold 38 tons of ensilage. It was near farm buildings so dynamite was placed five feet down with rows four feet apart and the soil broken up so it was easily removed. Doubtless the quantity of explosive, used by the post-hole method, would have cleared the ditch, if that had been expedient.

Apparently trench silos can be used to advantage in Colorado, Missouri, North Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Illinois, Texas, Louisiana, Wisconsin and Michigan.

HEALTH CRUSADE MAKING FOR PROGRESS, REPORTS GIVEN MONDAY INDICATE

Leaders Attend Meeting At Court House to Outline Future Objectives

Working under supervision of the State Department of Public Health, the Mitchell county health unit continues to make commendable progress and leaders are entering upon the ensuing month's program with more enthusiasm than ever before. Miss Catherine Vavra, of Abilene, nurse in charge of the program here, announced following adjournment of regular monthly meeting held on Monday afternoon.

The meeting was called by John H. Curry, chairman. Report on the inspection work done among school children in Colorado was made by John E. Watson, superintendent of the schools. He stressed importance of this program and pledged full cooperation in continuing such a program in the schools.

Clyde Bennett, superintendent of the Lorraine schools, was another speaker to address the meeting. Lorraine community, under leadership of Mr. Bennett and Mrs. W. J. Hester, vice chairman there, has made excellent progress in the department's health program, Miss Vavra said.

Mrs. Bennett Scott was another speaker. She outlined plans for an exhibit at the Live-at-Home Fair and announced that the county unit would sponsor such an exhibit. This display will be maintained in connection with the exhibit and other Mrs. Scott or Miss Vavra will be in personal charge during the three days of the fair.

Mrs. Wilcox was named chairman of the North Champion chapter and Miss Wilcox of the Bauman chapter. These ladies are organizing these communities to lend cooperation with the supervising nurse in inspection of the school children.

Miss Olga Buresh of Austin, State health nurse, attended the meeting. She accompanied Miss Vavra to Westbrook Tuesday, where lectures were given high school girls at 10 o'clock in the morning and a meeting for the women held at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Thursday and Friday of next week Miss Vavra is to complete inspection of children in the Colorado schools. Approximately 200 students are to be examined.
