Clothing Drive To Be Completed In County Tuesday

The men's used clothing drive which is being sponsored in this county by the local Rotary Club 31, and persons having used suits, overcoats, and shoes from sizes 8 to 10, as well as underclothing, shirts, socks and work clothing, are asked to turn them in for the campaign. These articles should be brought to Modern Dry Cleaners, Hurt's or to McGuire & Campbell.

School children are asked to take their bundles to Superintendent V. Z. Roger's office in Lamesa High School.

The clothing turned into this drive will be sent to England, where citizens have had their belongings destroyed by bombs. The need for such articles is reported to be urgent, as Britishers are facing a long, cold winter during which time they will need additional clothing to keep warm.

If you have not yet turned in a bundle, do so immediately as the drive is scheduled to close Tuesday.

Mustangs Hand Tornadoes 47-6 Defeat On Friday

Sweetwater's high-scoring Mustangs handed the Tornadoes a 47-6 defeat here Friday night, adding one more win to their already perfect record.

Towner Leeper, ace Mustang quarterback, led his mates to a decisive victory. Disdaining to even try their ground offensive a good portion of the time, the Mustangs filled the air with passes to complete 14 of 21 attempts. Gerald Scott went over from the 3 early in the first period then added the extra point to start the visitors off on their scoring spree.

The Mustangs added 14 more points in the initial quarter, Leeper passing 11 yards over the goal line to Owens, right end. Brown dropping the extra point. Then Leeper tossed one to Elrod which went for 72 yards and another counter, Brown again booting the conversion.

Brown went over from the 1 in the second period, then added the extra point. Leeper passed 32 yards to Owens for a counter in the third, Scott kicking the extra point. Leeper passed to Bonner 26 yards for a touchdown in the first play of the last period, but the try for conversion was blocked. The Mustangs wound up their scoring when Brown passed to Mayes over the double-stripe from the 4 for a score, Scott missing the try for extra point.

Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes scored their lone touchdown late in the final period, Boone, Lamesa quarterback, tearing through the line from the 11 for the score. Bizzell missed the conversion effort.

Sweetwater led in first downs, 17 to 4, and in yards gained by scrimmage 200 to 100.

Sgt. Sam Haynes of San Diego, California, spent Sunday here visiting with friends.

He continued: "It was too bad that I didn't get Junior Ragan's address sooner, as he was on Saipan at the same time that I was."

A letter received Thursday, October 26, from Captain A. C. Jacobs, director of the Dependents Welfare Division stated that he was wounded in action in the performance of his duty and in the service of his country. The communication reported: "Your son received gunshot wounds of the chest. Due to the great volume of communications now required for essential fleet operations, the dispatch received concerning your son was necessarily brief. United War Chest Drive Is To End In Twelve Days; County Is Short Of Its Goal

Lauderdale's Pig Won First Place In Contest Here

Ed Lauderdale took first place position in the pig show held in this county Saturday, October 28, with his gilt Wavemont Sue, a pig delivered back to the Sears Program by Jimmy Hogue last spring.

Walter Truitt won second place with a very nice pig, and the boar, Golden Lad, owned by Glyn Whitmire received third place rating. Pigs owned by Wilbur Ray and Harold Hancock took fourth and fifth places in that order.

Jason Gordon, county agent from Lubbock who served as judge of the contest, states that the group of pigs entered in the show were the nicest he had seen, and complimented the boys highly.

For taking first place in the show, Ed Lauderdale was awarded a registered Jersey heifer, out of the J. M. Peterson herd. County Agent Jason reported that this was an extra fine heifer, and that he hoped the boy would give her the best of care and enter her in dairy shows, giving her a chance to prove her value. Other contestants securing places in the Saturday exhibit will be awarded baby chicks.

After the judging a picnic lunch was served at the Fair Grounds which was enjoyed very much.

The entire project was sponsored by the local Sears Roebuck office.

Price Attended Veteran's School

R. L. Price, service officer for the local Allen-Houston Post of American Legion, attended a three day rehabilitation school October 23 to 25 at Veterans Administration Hospital in Waco.

This school was sponsored by the Department of Texas American Legion, and included studies pertaining to benefits of veterans of all United State's wars.

It was reported at the school that during the present war, veterans and dependents are taking from 90 to 98 per cent of all claims.

Price states that instructors of the school were working with the Veterans Administration, and that 100 per cent of them are veterans of the first World War; thus their experiences enables them to meet problems of the present war, and see that World War 11 veterans are getting the benefits they are entitled to.

Miss Louise Youngblood and Mrs. Ruth Rogers of Salinas, California, are visiting here this week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Youngblood.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Tarter and children and Mrs. W. H. Carmichael of Sweetwater spent the week end here visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Tarter.

Only twelve days remain before the close of the United War Chest Drive, and Dawson County still has a large portion of its quota to meet. The drive has been in progress in this area for several weeks and will close Saturday, November 11.

A $11,156.00 quota, which includes the local Girl Scout campaign goal, has been assessed this area, and donations are needed badly to complete this successfully.

In a recent proclamation Governor Stevenson stated that every Texan should exhibit on the home-front the same determination and spirit of sacrifice that fighting men are showing on the firing lines. It is your duty to give them every support at your command. During the next few days you will have the opportunity to help Texas fighting men by contributing to the great war-related agencies which serve them and their allies. Through the state-wide campaign conducted on behalf of the National War Fund by the United War Chest of Texas, every Texan can help bring earlier victory and peace. The National War Fund deserves and should have the full support of all patriotic Americans and all are urged to support this great effort through generous contributions to the county and community war fund campaign.

Through the county and community campaigns which are being conducted in every county, Texas is scheduled to raise almost $5,000,000 for the National War Fund, which provides funds for more than 20 agencies serving American troops, troops of Allied nations and war-victims throughout the world.

Texans are asked to sacrifice in order to make generous contribution, but the sacrifices of those at home are small compared with those of the men at the front.

If you have not made your contribution to the County War Fund, do so today. Your war fund gifts will benefit and support your sons, husbands and friends who are fighting fiercely and bravely against a brutal enemy.

Matches Slated For Local Squads

Although no game is scheduled this week for the Golden Tornado football team, two matches have been slated for other Lamesa school teams, according to H. S. Fitzgerald, local coach.

The Breeze squadron, which is composed of grade school lads, will meet Tahoka here Wednesday, November 1, in a game announced for 4 p. m.

On Thursday, November 2, Lamesa High School's "B" string will participate in a game with Lubbock's Cowhands, which will be played in this city on McCollum Field at 8:30 p. m. The Cowhands fought their way to a 28-0 win over the Ropes eleven Friday afternoon, to tally the fourth straight win for the power packed squadron.

Officials hope to have nice crowds out for the matches, which will feature some close competition.

SUCCESS WITH TOMATOES
Mrs. Ross Hileman and Mrs. C. H. Wintringham of the McCarty Home Demonstration Club have proved to themselves and their neighbors that tomatoes can be produced successfully during hot, dry summers in Dawson County.

Mrs. Wintringham has Porter Improved tomatoes. She prepared a "tub garden" and planted the seeds around the tubs. She placed a can with both ends cut out over each hill of seeds. As the tomato plants came up she thinned them out and kept the strongest plants. From the plants around this one tub Mrs. Wintringham has had all the tomatoes she and Mr. Wintringham and their summer visitors could eat fresh, has given lots to their neighbors, has canned 30 pints of tomatoes and made 10 pints of chili sauce. The vines are still producing ripe tomatoes and are heavily loaded with green tomatoes.

Mrs. Ross Hileman's story is similar. From 40 Porter Improved tomato vines planted around tubs she has canned 89 pints and 5 quarts, sold 168 pounds, and has had all her family and neighbors could eat fresh since the last days in July. Mrs. Hileman says that she spaded a heavy dressing of barnyard manure into her plot of ground early in January. She sank tubs and set plants around them. She watered the plants through the tubs once a week. Early in July she covered the ground under the vines with a heavy coat of straw. The straw was added and they have been producing ever since. They are heavy loaded now.

Two successful tomato producers in the Midway Home Demonstration Club are Mrs. C. W. Shafer and Mrs. G. B. Johnson.

Pvt. Ray is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ray who reside on Route A in this county.

Pvt. John Rudeseal Finishes Training At Chanute Field, Ill.

Pvt. John Rudeseal, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rudeseal of Ackery, has completed training and has been graduated from Army Air Forces Training Command School at Chanute Field, Illinois.

While attending this school he received instruction in the Electronics Course, and in various technical operations vital to the maintenance of the country's fighting planes.

Canning Sugar Will Be Issued To Dec. 1

Sugar for home canning will continue to be issued eligible applicants in the 71 counties of the Lubbock OPA District until December 1, Food Rationing Officer Opal L. Wood has announced in reply to many inquiries.

"The second period for issuance of home canning sugar was designated to run through November because of late fall fruits in many parts of this District." The original plan is to be continued to provide sugar for canning late fall fruits, she pointed out.

Many local boards have reported an influx of applications for home canning sugar following a recent report that October 31 was the application deadline in some Districts in Texas.

Advice Given On Houses For Rural Areas Of Texas

The average family usually can afford to invest only the amount of its annual income in a home, housing authorities now say. Time was when experts believed a family could afford to sink twice its annual income into the homestead.

This news comes from Mrs. Bernice Claytor, specialist in home improvement for the A. and M. College Extension Service. In preparation for advising rural families on home building and improvement after the war, she recently completed some advanced work at Purdue University.

Mrs. Claytor says that since farm incomes in Texas usually vary from $500 to $2500 in normal times, most families can afford only the minimum in housing, but they deserve to get the best for what they have to spend. Likely they will have to sacrifice some individuality for economy's sake.

She quotes housing experts as saying that where space must be sacrificed, that American institution, the dining room, can be eliminated in preference to other space. Some authorities regard 750 square feet as the minimum floor space for a family of four.

The specialist believes much home improvement and house planning material pictured in magazines is above the financial reach of many Texas rural families. Consequently she encourages county home demonstration agents to emphasize the practical rather than the ideal in home planning. The next step, she believes, is to simplify blue prints and plans so the average person can understand and follow them.

Rural housing experts through the county are recommending "utility rooms" to families who can afford them. These rooms might house washing machines, milk utensils and other laundry equipment usually found on the farm.

Latest News From County Health Office

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS IN THE NURSING CARE OF A SICK CHILD

A sick child, even one who has a simple cold, should be kept in bed, as quiet as possible. Fatigue prolongs illness. Bed is the place where it is easiest to keep the child's temperature even. A sick child should not walk to and from the bath room through chilly halls. If a child has been properly taught, he will stay in bed, and it will not occur to him to get up unless he is told too. Training in regular health habits when the child is well makes it easier to care for him when he is sick. A sick child should not sleep in the bed with any other person. It may be necessary for the mother to sleep in the room with the child, but it is much more restful and wholesome for him to sleep in the bed alone. Do not put such heavy clothes on a sick child that he is uncomfortably warm and restless. Needs plenty of fresh air.

Be sure that the bed is well made, with the lower sheet tightly drawn and the bed covers suited to the temperature of the room. At night his bed should be remade and he should be bathed and made comfortable. Do not urge a sick child to play. A child who has had fever should be kept in bed at least 24 hours after his temperature has become normal. Give water frequently children are glad to drink water when they have fever. Never force food except on definite orders from the doctor. Daily movements of the bowels is as desirable for the sick as for a well child. A small soap-and-water enema, or injection, or a small suppository may be needed to help the child move his bowels. Do not give any medicine unless the doctor orders it. Ask the doctor whether the child is able to get up to go to the bathroom.

Common disorders of childhood are—colds—enlarged tonsils—sore throat—swollen glands—ear disorders—croup—eye infections—constipation—malnutrition—which is a symptom of chronic ill health.

Convulsions or spasms, are seen in many different conditions in childhood. Young children frequently have convulsions at the beginning of an acute illness, much as an older person may have a chill. Other causes are inflammation of the brain, epilepsy, and certain types of poisoning. During a convulsion a child usually loses consciousness, rolls his eyes up or to one side, stiffens out and twitches violently with arms and legs, and some times with face and head. Often he holds his breath and turns blue. It is well to remember that a child rarely dies in a convulsion. A convulsion often has to be treated before the doctor can be reached. Protect him from injury, prevent him from biting his tongue by holding a spoon between his teeth, wrap him in a warm blanket, and put cold wet cloth on his head. If it has not stopped in a few minutes, put him in a warm wet pack. Since a convulsion is always a symptom of some abnormal condition, a doctors advise should be sought to discover and treat the underlying illness even if relief is obtained by home remedies.

Rheumatic fever is a serious disease of childhood. In spite of its apparent mildness, such a case may be followed by heart trouble. The most easily recognized form of this disease is that which the child is taken acutely ill and is feverish, and one joint after another becomes painful and tender, sometimes red and swollen. The heart muscle and heart valves are very often inflamed at the same time, tho the child may have no pain over the heart. Permanent damage to the heart may result. Keeping the child at rest for many weeks gives the heart the best chance of recovery. In many cases rest in bed for a long time is necessary.

Cottonseed Can Be Treated For Pink Bollworms

Heating cottonseed as a means of controlling pink bollworm will not injure the germinating fertility of the seed, says Paul Gregg of the A. and M. College Extension Service, provided the heating is done in accordance with regulations of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, and the Texas Department of Agriculture. Gins, however, should be equipped with good heating equipment.

Farmers need have no hesitancy in buying planting seed which has been treated by approved methods, says Gregg who is the assistant Extension entomologist. The late W. T. Young, one of the largest registered cottonseed breeders in western Texas, heated cottonseed under supervision of State and Federal authorities for many years. Farmers in several heavy cotton producing counties of south Texas and the Lower Rio Grande Valley have been planting seed given heat treatment for the past five or six years. Farmers in the El Paso Valley have been planting such seed for more than 20 years.

Either dry or steam heat at 150 degrees Fahrenheit kills pink bollworm larvae in cottonseed in 30 seconds, Gregg explains. The heat process, however, does not injure the germinating and growing qualities of the seed.

Gregg emphasizes these facts in view of Federal and State requirements that cottonseed produced for planting in certain south Texas counties under quarantine because of pink bollworm infestation must be treated by heat before it can be certified for shipment into non-regulated areas. Gins located in quarantined regions have recording thermometers attached to heating units which record the exact temperature of the treated seed during ginning.

Seed of poor quality, regardless of whether it has been treated, will fail to germinate or come up. Improper planting or unfavorable weather also will cause poor germination of even the best grade of planting seed. However, experience shows that treated seed has germinated as well, and in many instances better, than untreated seed, the specialist explains.

Dehydration Of Foods After War Discussed Below

Will consumers want dehydrated foods after the war if they are cheap and available? Will farm people continue to do home-drying when equipment for freezing and canning is accessible?

Food specialists throughout the nation are interested in this subject, and a national survey on the subject recently has been reported to the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. One interviewer among urban families found that most housewives had heard of dehydrated foods, but only half had used them. Dehydrated soup seemed to be the most commonly used, but cranberries and sweet potatoes seemed to be the best liked.

Chief reasons why the homemakers said they would buy some dehydrated foods after the war were because they liked the taste and found the foods easy to prepare. Few mentioned the talking points that they are high in nutritive content, save space, and keep much longer than fresh foods.

Mrs. Winifred J. Leverenz, Extension specialist in food preservation, says talking with farm women who have done home-drying in wartime makes her believe that it will continue after the war, just as urban women will continue to buy some Elected Attorney General of Ohio in 1932, re-elected 1934—both times elected in face of a Democratic landslide.

Elected Governor of Ohio in 1938, following six years of Democratic governors . . . The new Governor found affairs in a deplorable condition. Corruption had been rampant; payrolls were overmanned; the treasury had a $40,000,000 deficit. One of his first official acts was to dismiss 3,000 state employees. Before the end of Governor Bricker's first term, the state was on a pay-as-you-go basis. The State at the end of 1944 will have a surplus of $90,000,000.

Two major examples of shocking graft in the previous Democratic administration was uncovered. In one case, the state's contract for trucking liquor had been let at 17 cents a case to a company which did not own a single truck, but sublet the contract to a real trucking company at 11 1/2 cents a case. The contract was outlawed in the courts and the state recovered $113,740.

Also under Bricker the grasp of the so-called "hot Mix" ring on State highway contracts was broken and cost of paving material reduced from $12.96 per cubic yard to $8.00.

dehydrated foods. Where rural families have an abundance of fruit, she believes they may dry some apples, peaches, and pears principally for the sake of variety. And families who cannot afford more expensive equipment can do sun-drying or over-drying without much expense. Among the vegetables, home-dehydrated corn seems to be a favorite, except for dried beans and peas.

Regardless of the future of home and commercial dehydration, Mrs. Leverenz believes the food preservation method with the greatest appeal and possibilities for the home-maker is freezing.

Soil Preparation And Good Seed Increase Harvest

Texas' 1944 record wheat crop wasn't due wholly to Nature's friendly mood. Many farmers prepared themselves to meet crop conditions as they came by observing improved farming practices. W. P. Close, living near Kirkland, Childress County, was one who was ready to reap the maximum when moisture and the farmers' faith in the productivity of their soil combined to give the state its greatest wheat yield.

According to County Agricultural Agent, V. F. Hafner, Close harvested 20, 020 bushels from 700 acres and "again demonstrated that he can produce more wheat than the county average." But Close believes that a grower must cooperate with Nature by putting the soil into the best condition and planting pure seed. Accordingly, he cultivates the land immediately after harvest with a one-way plow and combine, and uses a tiller plow where the soil is weedy. Part of the Close farm is terraced and he plans to terrace the remainder in the near future.

Hafner reports that Close's crop averaged 28.6 bushels an acre compared with the county average of slightly more than 14 bushels. He sold 16, 820 bushels for $28,129, or $1.28 a bushel, and an average acreage income of $40.18. He has stored the remaining 3,200 bushels for seed for his own use and for sale to other farmers in the county. He estimated the seed wheat worth $2 a bushel.

Close plants Tenmarq exclusively, and this year sowed 150 bushels of state registered, Tenmarq for seed for next year's crop.

"One good result of Close's practices," Hafner observes, "is that he distributes the improved varieties of seed to neighboring farmers. This means that most Childress County farmers have, some of the high

Capt. McDonald Drops Leaflets On Enemy Area

AT A 12TH AAF B-25 BASE—Captain George K. McDonald, a pilot with a Twelfth Air Force B-25 Mitchell bomb group recently flew a "nickelling mission" over Northern Italy, dropping leaflets instead of bombs.

Printed in German, these leaflets give accurate information on all the war fronts, counteracting Goebbels' propaganda machine.

Vitally important, a "nickelling mission" is no "milk run." Dropping leaflets is as dangerous as dropping bombs, because enemy fighters and flak know no discrimination. The leaflets not only destroy the

In the first daylight strike against that target, "Long Rangers" Liberators carried on their history of making the longest range flights against new Jap targets. Recorded as the longest flight ever made by Liberators in formation, this crack outfit struck at Pandansari Refinery, containing the greater portion of the Japanese aviation fuel production facilities in that area, and at the paraffin base nearby. The formations knocked out the important power plant, a fractionating tower, started a huge fire with smoke billowing to 6,000 feet, and in addition to numerous smaller fires,

Anti aircraft fire was the worst many of the veteran crews had seen since the early days of Munda, in the Northern Solomons, from where the "Long Rangers" made their first history in the Pacific aerial warfare.

Sgt. Houchin's wife, the former Anita June White, makes her home in Slaton. Prior to entering the service, the sergeant attended Wilson High School at Wilson, and was later employed by Consolidated Aircraft Corporation of San Diego, California and Fort Worth.
