Prayer Ban Seen As Threat To Other School Activities

By The Associated Press
The U. S. Supreme Court decision against the recitation of official prayers in public schools is viewed by some groups as a challenge to many types of religious observances in the schools.
These observances include Bible readings, the Lord's Prayer, Christmas carols and plays, Easter plays and other religious practices permitted in some states.
The Supreme Court declared Monday that the recitation of a nonsectarian prayer, instigated by the state, in the New Hyde Park, N.Y., schools violated the First Amendment prohibition against the establishment of any religion by the government.
Twenty attorneys general from other states told the court that the 21-word New York prayer did not violate the Constitution.
However, the New York Civil Liberties Union, which sponsored the case brought by five Long Island parents, called the decision a "landmark in the development of the guarantee of separation of church and state."
William J. Butler, the lawyer who led the attack, said the strength of the court's 4-1 opinion and the comparative mildness of the prayer, add up to a probable philosophy in the court against using public school facilities for any type of religious observance.
Alan Rabinman, assistant executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union, said the decision was expected to introduce it in the Senate later this week.
He said the amendment proposal would declare in essence that nothing in the Constitution should be interpreted to "deny the right of any school to make available to its students religious expression of prayer or religious observance, provided that participation by students shall not be mandatory."
Belli said the Founding Fathers themselves had made clear their acknowledgment of a Deity, and that the principle has been restated with every currency issue bearing the words "In God We Trust" and in the pledge of allegiance to the flag with the words "under God."

Both the American Civil Liberties Union and the American Jewish Congress have opposed religious practices in the public school classroom.
A similar opinion was expressed by Leo Pfeffer, general counsel of the American Jewish Congress.
"I was shocked by yesterday's decision of the Supreme Court," Belli said, "and I feel that legislation should be introduced immediately to reaffirm the nation's faith and trust in the Supreme Being."
The high court ruled 4-1 that a nonsectarian prayer authorized by New York State authorities for use in public schools violated the Constitution's requirement for separation of church and state.
Belli said he was not sure the language of his proposed amendment, with constitutional lawyers, but expected to introduce it in the Senate later this week.

Court Decision Due Today On Strike Against Pan American

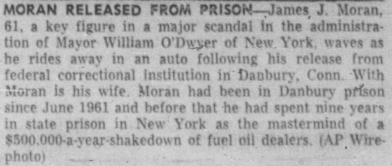

NEW YORK (AP)—Possible resumption of the flight engineers' strike against Pan American World Airways hinged on the outcome of a federal court hearing today.
Daniel Kornblum, counsel to the engineers' union, predicted that the U.S. District Court in New York would lift the temporary restraining order which ended the strike four hours after it started last Saturday. Kornblum called the ban clearly untenable under the law.
Ron A. Brown, president of the union, said that if the temporary order is lifted, Pan Am's 500 flight engineers will strike again immediately.
Today's hearing before Judge George Rosling was on whether a full-fledged injunction against a strike should be issued. Union leaders have been ordered to show cause why such an injunction should not be granted.
Rostling issued the temporary order Saturday on a plea by Pan Am. Rostling acted under terms of the National Railway Labor Act, which gives the federal government

Eastern Air Lines — struck Saturday, at the same time as Pan Am — has been closed down since then by the walkout of its 575 flight engineers. A spokesman for Eastern said it did not seek an order similar to that obtained by Pan Am because Eastern's position was "somewhat different." He did not elaborate.
Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said in Washington that negotiations of the AFL-CIO Flight Engineers International Association are deadlocked with both Pan Am and Eastern.
"The issue is basically a fight by the engineers against losing jobs to pilots, who are members of the larger AFL-CIO Air Line Pilots Association," Goldberg said. "The issue is not over who shall fly the plane, but over who shall sit in the cockpit."
Goldberg received the negotiations between Pan Am and the engineers Monday pending Goldberg's court hearing. Lawyer Again Links Firm To Estes Deal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney Frank Cain said today he was convinced that Commercial Solvents Corp. was in the deal with Billie Sol Estes right to the peak.
Cain contradicted earlier testimony by the Commercial Solvents President, Maynard C. Wheeler, before the House Government Operations subcommittee.
He repeated substantially the testimony he had given in April before a Texas court of inquiry. Wheeler has called that testimony "false and defamatory" and "slander of the most vicious kind."
Wheeler testified June 13 that Commercial Solvents was unaware of Estes' financial difficulties when he visited the West Texas financier's home in Pecos March 18. Cain also visited Estes briefly at that time.
Within two weeks after the meeting, Estes was charged with fraud and his financial empire went into court.
Cain represented a finance company to which Estes owed $4.5 million. He said he had suggested the breakfast session with Wheeler to determine whether Commercial Solvents would cooperate in trying to help Estes pay off his debts.
Cain said he told Wheeler that Estes owed a number of finance companies many millions of dollars and they needed cooperation from Commercial Solvents, which Cain said held a mortgage on practically everything Estes owned.
Wheeler denied that Cain said anything about Estes' financial troubles and said he thought Cain was a personal friend of Estes.
Estes had signed over all grain payments from his warehouse activities to Commercial Solvents in return for money to finance expanding his liquid fertilizer and grain storage activities. At the time Estes was arrested, he owed Commercial Solvents about $3.7 million.
Cain said he told Wheeler, "If you're going to step in and take over then it's foolish to try to work out anything."
He said Wheeler refused to commit himself on what Commercial Solvents would do but said his company was firmly established through Estes in the liquid fertilizer business in West Texas and would take over if necessary to maintain its position.
After the meeting, Cain said, "I was absolutely convinced Commercial Solvents was in the deal with Billie Sol Estes right up to the peak."
Cain said he could offer no solid proof to back up his conviction, but added, "They had extended him so much credit they couldn't back out."
Cain touched on all the essential points of his statement in Texas without any major changes.
This establishes a direct conflict of testimony under oath which subcommittee counsel James Naughton said "is likely to reach the Justice Department for study of possible perjury charges."
Naughton, however, says the committee is interested only in finding the truth, not in having Estes' lawyers "play the game."

and his holdings are in receiver-ship. He is also on trial in Pecos, Tex., on a state charge of felony theft in the sale of liquid fertilizer.
Cain testified in Texas that during the meeting with Estes, Wheeler said, "If Billie gets too involved, we can always use him as a consultant in Switzerland."
Cain added, "Billie spoke up and said, 'Well, I think Brazil will be better.'"
He said Wheeler "dropped several names" of high Agriculture Department officials and said "If we have to, why we can step in here and take the place of Billie. We can keep those tanks full, too."
Wheeler denied saying any of the things.
Estes had assigned payments for surplus grain storage to Commercial Solvents as collateral for loans and when arrested, he owed the company more than $5 million.
In another Estes case development, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman issued a formal reprimand Monday to Thomas E. Miller, acting area director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, who wrote a report favorable to Estes.
Freeman said Miller was disciplined because he did not tell investigators he prepared a report under instructions from a superior recommending that certain allotments in the Estes case be allowed to stand for 1961 and subsequent years.
Miller, according to Freeman, has not read the recommendations contrary to his own judgment and made at the direction of Emory E. Jacobs, former deputy administrator who resigned April 13.
Jacobs, contacted at Oklahoma City, said, "If the investigations have made him that did stand his report in favor of Estes and did so at my suggestion, he is not stating a fact. Further, if his report was slanted it was done so far more often than a suggestion from me."

Jury Selection At Pecos Moves Slowly

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK
PECOS, Tex. (AP)—Qualifying veniremen for jury service in the Billie Sol Estes felony theft trial moved slowly today.
During the first hour defense lawyers questioned four veniremen. One was excused after saying that to sit on the jury would be "a source of embarrassment."
Asked by Dist. Judge J. H. Starley whether someone in the case owed him money, the venireman said, "yes."
In a swift legal move Monday, Estes' lawyers asked that the West Texas promoter be brought to trial at once on a charge that he defrauded a Reeves County farmer of $162,144.
The case grew out of the sale of liquid fertilizer tanks. Estes, 57, is under federal and state indictments in connection with the transactions.
Estes, who paid little attention to proceedings Monday, listened intently today as his lawyers questioned veniremen. Occasionally he jotted down notes in a notebook.
He sat at his counsel table, dressed in a black suit with a white shirt and a dark red and black check tie.
Only 10 veniremen remained to be questioned after the first hour. Selection of a jury was resumed after afternoon and night sessions of the first day of the quickly called trial that even surprised residents in this West Texas town.
One of Estes' lawyers, Hume Coffey, said the defense would show the complainant was fully aware of the fertilizer tanks contract involved and there was no fraud on the part of the 37-year-old promoter.
Twenty prospective jurors had been examined when Dist. Judge J. H. Starley recessed court shortly before 10 p.m. Fourteen others were to appear today.
The 34 veniremen represent a cross-section of this small West Texas town.

Texas city whose development in recent years had been closely linked with Estes' enterprises. Three of the 34 are women.
During most of the long afternoon and night sessions, Estes sat at court with his head turned away from the prospective jurors. Occasionally he turned to observe proceedings. A few times he smiled slightly.
Estes was indicted April 25 by the Reeves County grand jury on eight counts of felony theft in the sale of substandard ammonia fertilizer tanks to 28 farmers. The six claimed they were bilked $628,376 in the transactions.
The current trial involves only one count, which accuses Estes of defrauding Thomas A. Bell of $162,144.
If convicted, Estes could be sentenced to 10 years in prison for three years in the state penitentiary.
Without advance notice, Estes with his lawyers—John Coffey and Hume Coffey of Austin and John Dennison of Pecos—appeared in District Court Monday morning and asked that his case, 17th on the docket, be tried immediately.
Dist. Atty. R. B. McGowan informed Judge Starley: "The state is ready. We will not move for a delay."
In Austin, State Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, who instigated efforts to bring Estes' case to trial, said the request was a complete surprise.
There was speculation about what was behind the request for an immediate trial on the state charge would have, since Estes is also under federal indictments. The government charges he and others swindled a finance company out of $22 million loaned in 1958, mostly non-existent fertilizer tanks.

Nevada Tests Oil Fires Raging In Oran Harbor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration sources said today the government is considering the explosion of nuclear devices in the atmosphere over Nevada, but that no final decision has been made.
The comments were in response to questions about a story in the Washington Post saying there were plans to explode two small atomic devices in the atmosphere over Nevada in the near future.
The Post said White House officials had been given for three days to test, and that other Nevada atmospheric tests were under consideration.
There have been no tests in the atmosphere over Nevada since 1952.
"It was understood there would be no press coverage of tests at the Nevada site."
Foreign Trade Bill Cleared For Action
WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration's foreign trade bill was cleared today for action by the House under a rule prohibiting amendments from the floor.
Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., said the rule committee approved the measure for debate in the House.

ORAN, Algeria (AP)—Raging fuel oil fires touched off by Secret Army Organization terrorists in Oran harbor still sent huge clouds of black smoke billowing over this western Algerian seaport today.
Terrorists blew up three British Petroleum Co. tanks late Monday and the burning oil quickly ignited seven other tanks in the dock area. Fed by an estimated 2.6 million gallons of gasoline, flames continued to shoot skyward today, but a threat to other dock facilities and a military depot appeared averted.
Overworked firemen poured tons of water on the undamaged oil tanks to keep the fire from spreading. Harbor traffic was paralyzed.
Thousands of Europeans turned out after daylight to witness the latest secret army effort to turn Oran into scorched earth before Muslims take over an independent Algeria.
Huge traffic jams formed on the waterfront boulevard 500 feet above the waterline. Many Europeans packed cars burst into flames.
The secret army in Oran has ordered all Europeans to leave Algeria and destroy everything left behind. Many of those at the airport had come from towns and villages of the interior.
The terrorist command in Oran has refused to negotiate a peace pact between secret army leaders and Algerians and the Muslims which has brought a measure of peace.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Vietnamese soldiers and marines killed eight Communist guerrillas and captured 20 others Monday in the opening of a sweeping amphibious operation in the Mekong River delta. American military sources said today.
The government marine and army units had been ordered to have destroyed and captured 20 others.

Panorama Of An Executive

THE HANDS OF ESAU. By Hiram Haydn. Harper, $7.50.

Is this a novel about Walter Herrick, a muddled, middle-aged man of affairs in a summer crisis in his life? Or is it a huge panorama of our neurotic age? It could be both.

Here in 784 large pages is the full figure of Herrick, an executive in an educational foundation, and by the time the reader has reached the final page he has more information about the hero than a psychoanalyst would dig up in years of consultation.

The situation is this: In the summer of 1953 Herrick's third wife Julie has died herself and their children off to her father's home, trying to make up her mind whether to leave Herrick for good. Furthermore, Herrick is in an awkward position at the foundation, entangled with the question of whether an appointment should go to a man who once lent his name to a pinkish organization.

And as a diversion, a political leader keeps asking Herrick whether he would be interested in running for governor of Connecticut.

The summer's events are told in several ingenious ways—partly in straight narrative, partly in Herrick's own highly introspective journal, in an associate's manuscript, in letters and even in a single letter voice.

Interspersed with these current themes are long, detailed chronicles of Herrick's ancestors, and an equally detailed history of his boyhood and growing years.

Big Flame For Big Plans

How long does it take to cook spaghetti, shrimp or corn on the cob? It depends on the amount of food, the size of the cooking pan and the source of heat. That's why manufacturers put a "burner with a brain" on their best ranges. It senses the temperature of the bottom of the pan and automatically furnishes the exact amount of heat needed to cook the food in the shortest possible time. The flame can be set for big or little pans and provides even, fast heat.

Tip For Homeowners

The pilot light in a boiler should be left on during summer months. The small amount of heat from this source is enough to keep the heating equipment dry and prevent corrosion. Also it assures that heat will be readily available on damp days. No special service will be needed to turn on the equipment in the fall.

There had been some pretty distorted personalities on the family tree. On one side were the loving, optimistic "narcissus" people and on the other were the cold, cruel, pessimistic "demon" types.

Herrick's boyhood was warped by an ogre-like mother. And to top it off, he is a self-centered, self-searching man who constantly digs into his own thoughts and worries over their meanings.

Haydn has psychoanalyzed his hero, inspecting his dreams, his words, his nightmares. Even the lesser figures in the novel are given similar treatment, and some of them are neurotic too.

Nor is this all. "The Hands of Esau" is only one book in a series to be called "The Generations of Adam," and later books will expand the present theme.

Readers of this novel are likely to divide sharply into two classes—those who think it is a tremendously interesting study, and those who think it is too overwhelming in size and detail to be digestible.

It is an ambitious work. It is much too long, but it is written with virtuoso skill.

Simple Check Gives Clue To Tree Health

Wonder if you're treating your trees right? Now's the time to find out because trees, like children, normally grow so much each year.

You can't stand your arboreal pets against a wall for a growth check, as you would children. But you can do about the same thing—just measure the new wood growth on a few terminal branches of your trees.

Trees, unlike children, do practically all of their year's growing in Spring. By the time they've burst into full leaf most home trees have made the bulk of the season's twig and branch growth. This is notably true of all trees with determinate growth that is, those that set terminal buds, such as oaks, maples, ash, pine, spruce and fir.

As a rough rule-of-thumb, less than several inches of new growth wood means possible trouble. If, besides stunted growth, foliage is sparse and off color, your tree is probably sending you an S.O.S. Act quickly, because the tree has only the Summer to build itself up for Winter and next Spring.

Exactly how much new growth is normal is a matter for the expert, for it depends on the kind of tree, its age, climate and various local factors. The cause of poor growth may be anything from insufficient water or food or both to smothered roots, mechanical injury, insect attack or perhaps a fungus disease.

Some troubles you may be able to correct yourself; others, no. But keep especial watch on newly planted trees for they have limited foliage and must draw upon reserves for their season's growth.

WHAT'S GOING ON

Recent guests in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. J. Nelson Dunn and Mrs. Carolyn Reon, were Major and Mrs. James C. Dunn and children, Kelly and Jennifer.

Major Dunn and his family have been stationed at Shaw Air Force Base in South Carolina and were enroute to Sumter, Calif., where Mrs. Dunn and the children will make their home while Major Dunn serves a year in Viet Nam.

Freeze Weld Process Aids Palsy Cases

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Freeze welding in the brain is halting the uncontrolled shaking and rigidity of muscles in shaking palsy.

Brain cells causing the trouble are frozen or welded with liquid nitrogen at a temperature of 150 degrees below zero. The nitrogen is forced down a narrow tube leading to the trouble spot.

The technique is painless, bloodless, and can stop the shaking in as few as 10 minutes, according to Dr. Irving S. Cooper of New York City said today.

The same method looks promising for destroying some brain tumors, but this work still is experimental, he told the American Medical Association's 111th annual convention. The tumors become frozen solid, and are left to shrivel.

away. This may permit surgery of tumors which cannot be reached otherwise, he said.

Dr. Cooper, of St. Barnabas Hospital for Chronic Diseases and New York University Medical Center, devised the freeze method within the last year for treating shaking palsy, or Parkinson's disease.

He uses a thin cannula consisting of an inner and outer tube, with a silver tip. This is inserted to reach the area where brain cells are firing off wild electrical signals.

Liquid nitrogen forced down the inside tube freezes the silver tip. As the nitrogen vaporizes, it escapes up through the outer tube. Cooling the brain for 30 seconds at 32 degrees gives time to test whether the silver tip is in the right place to halt the shaking. If it isn't, no harm is done, Dr. Cooper said. If it is correctly placed, then deep freezing for three to five minutes destroys the guilty area to halt the tremors and rigidity.

Some patients go home within four days after surgery. One man, 75, was home a week later with his shaking halted. "Many patients return to their old jobs," Dr. Cooper said.

The death risk is less than one per cent, Dr. Cooper said. The Public Health Service estimates there are 300,000 persons with Parkinson's disease, and 25,000 to 30,000 new cases annually.

"Encouraging experiments with atomic bullets from a reactor to treat various forms of cancer were described by Dr. Lee E. Farr of Brookhaven National Laboratory, Upton, N.Y. The treatment lasts only three minutes.

Ten years in development, the method has been tried on cancer of the bowel, cancer of blood vessels, four types of brain cancer, bone cancer in dogs, and transplantable cancers in mice, he said.

Born is used to set cancer cells up for the kill by neutrons, one of the principal atomic particles, streaming from the atomic reactor.

A special purified metallic boron is converted into sodium borate, dissolved in water, and injected into the bloodstream. Half an hour later, when the boron has been taken up by cancer cells, neutrons are shot at the cancers.

Seven types of spontaneous cancer so far tested, six in man and one in a dog, can be killed to a depth of 2 1/2 inches below the skin surface, Dr. Farr said. He pointed out the technique is still experimental.

More Data Demanded In Steel Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department has demanded expense account and other information from steel company executives in continuing a probe into April's on-and-off steel price raise.

Informed sources said Monday subpoenas for information from some executives went out about three weeks ago in connection with department efforts to determine whether the price boost involved collusion.

The U.S. Steel Corp. said in New York that the government had subpoenaed telephone numbers and expense account information of some executives.

The Dow Jones business news service reported from Pittsburgh that similar records were subpoenaed from Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Wheeling Steel Corp. and that J. Edgar Hoover's Steel Corp. was understood to have been served.

A grand jury investigation into steel prices was ordered April 12 by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy after seven companies announced 36-40-cent price increases. The inquiry continued after the hike was rescinded in the face of administration protests.

A Justice Department source said the subpoenas were part of the continuing inquiry and do not represent any new investigation. The search into expense account information reportedly extends back to June 1961.

Nixon Going To Denmark

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon will represent the United States in Denmark's celebration of American Independence Day on July 4.

Nixon will speak on the principles of the Declaration of Independence as applied to the world's current ideological conflicts. More than 30,000 persons are expected to hear him at Rebild National Park in Jutland.

Last year the United States was represented by Walt Disney.

Rebild National Park is a 30-acre tract bought in 1909 by Americans of Danish birth and devoted to the Danish government in 1912 with the stipulation that the signing of the American Declaration of Independence be celebrated there each year.

The man who stands for nothing will always fall for something.

Tshombe, Adoula Conclude 6 Weeks Of Fruitless Talks

By PETER GROSE

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe left for Elisabethville today, ending six weeks of negotiations with Premier Cyrille Adoula without any further sign of progress toward the union of Katanga and the central Congolese government.

After a sleepless night of 11th-hour bargaining, Robert Gardiner, the U.N. chief in the Congo, admitted no document had been signed, and no agreement or communication could be produced to indicate any progress.

"There is nothing," Gardiner said, adding that a communiqué to be issued later today would be purely routine.

Tshombe told newsmen much remains to be done and that the negotiations would continue. He said he had every intention of meeting again with Adoula in Leopoldville, or "some other place," he said, no indication of when.

U.N. officials broke into smiles of relief as Tshombe's U.N. plane took off, without incident. Last time he left Leopoldville—21 March, the Congolese authorities made a clumsy attempt to stop him by blocking the runway.

Today the U.N. had three truckloads of Nigerian troops discreetly standing by to prevent any interference with the departure. There were no Congolese troops in sight and all went smoothly.

There were no representatives of Adoula's central government at the airport.

Tshombe promised Gardiner to write a letter Wednesday after he had conferred with his Katanga government, about the negotiations this far. He also agreed to name his members of four joint commissions authorized to study the problems of reintegrating Katanga with the rest of the Congo.

"It will be interesting if he in fact does this," Gardiner told newsmen, "and it will also be interesting if he doesn't."

Gardiner's attitude was resigned. "We move in tiny steps," he said.

said "If we didn't accomplish anything this time, maybe we will the next."

Syrians Charge Israel Aggressive

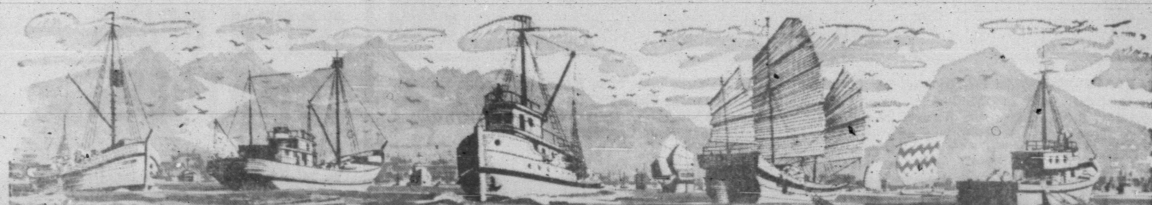

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Syria charged Israel with aggression Monday following an exchange of gunfire between Israeli and Syrian troops in a border area Sunday night.

The charge was made in an official complaint lodged with the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization in Jerusalem.

A Syrian spokesman said Israeli troops stationed in Tal Elkad area on the frontier shelled the Syrian village of Nkheila with heavy mortar and automatic fire. The Syrians, he said, returned the fire.

Israel has blamed Syria for the incident.

Ruling On Prayer Stirs Criticism

Temple Policeman Slain By Robber

TEMPLE (AP) — Two quick shots killed city police Lt. Walter Staley as he stopped a car at a gas station being robbed early today.

Less than an hour later a man forced a hostage to drive past a road block but surrendered to pursuing officers within a few minutes.

Temple Police Chief A. C. Berry said the man in custody identified himself as Jerry Fickel, a state prison parolee from Waco. He was held without immediate charge.

The Staley shooting and holdup in Temple followed a service station robbery at Waco, where the holdup man forced attendant Jerry Fickel to accompany him at gunpoint.

Berry and Deputy Sheriff Lester Cunniff of Belton related these details:

A bandit robbed Fickel about 12:45 a.m. and compelled the station attendant to drive them 20 miles to Temple in the gunman's car. He told Fickel while they were en route that he intended to hold up another station here.

In Temple the holdup man took the wheel, drove into a gasoline station on the south side of town and took an undetermined amount of money from the man on duty, who was not immediately identified.

Next the robber herded both holdup victims to another car parked in the drive. It wouldn't start, and Fickel escaped while the other two were getting a battery. He sprinted 200 yards down Interstate 35 to a neighboring gas station, from which an attendant called police.

Fickel, expecting the robber to hunt him, faded into the darkness.

The gunman herded his bither captive to the same station.

Staley meanwhile checked at a fourth service station, apparently because of a mixup over the address, and turned back into Temple. He wheeled into the station where the robber held his captive and the shooting followed.

Witnesses said the holdup man fired twice at pointblank range, opened the patrol car door, hauled Staley out and seized the policeman's pistol.

The robber then fled in another car, forcing his prisoner to go along. They headed toward Belton, but the gunman apparently grew confused over directions and doubled back into Temple.

He forced his hostage to wheel aside around a roadblock, where officers held their fire because of the captive, but stopped and surrendered less than a mile down the road.

Texas Rangers joined city police and sheriff's officers in questioning the prisoner.

South Africa Is Screening Aliens

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — The government set out Monday a screen for possible deportation thousands of Asian British subjects who entered the country illegally.

Most of those affected are Indians and Pakistanis who came here in the years before their countries achieved sovereignty. They were ordered Sunday to apply for legal residence and to prepare for deportation if the government decides on it. South Africa became a republic divorced from the British crown last year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Supreme Court ruling striking down the saying of official prayers in public schools has stirred a cauldron of criticism from churchmen and members of Congress.

Many of them asked, "How far does it go?"

"The next thing you know, they'll be telling us we can't open our daily House sessions with prayer," said Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., a Jewish leader, who hailed the decision, felt it made clear that federal funds could not be used to aid parochial schools.

Specifically the court ruled Monday that it is a violation of the Constitution for New York State to authorize the saying of the following prayer in public schools: "Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

In a 6-1 decision the court said the First Amendment's ban against establishment of a religion means that "it is no part of the business of government to compose official prayers for any group of American people to recite as part of a religious program carried on by government."

The decision—written by Justice Hugo L. Black—likely will have broad impact.

Some states require public schools to begin each day with the Lord's Prayer. The wording of Black's opinion indicated these state laws also violate the First Amendment.

Wrote Black: "It is neither sacrilegious nor antireligious to say that each separate government in this country should stay out of the business of writing or sanctioning official prayers and leave that purely religious function to the people themselves and those the people choose to look to for religious guidance."

The only dissenter in the decision was Justice Potter Stewart who noted that the Supreme Court's own sessions are opened with the words "God save the United States and this honorable court," and that the House and Senate begin the day with prayers.

He also observed that the "Star-Spangled Banner" invokes God's help.

Justices Felix Frankfurter and Byron R. White did not take part in the ruling. Frankfurter has been ill for weeks and White had not taken his place on the bench when the case was heard.

In the majority decision, Black noted parenthetically that there is nothing in the ruling "inconsistent with the fact that school children and others are officially encouraged to express love for our country by reciting historical documents such as the Declaration of Independence which contains references to the deity or by singing officially espoused anthems which include the composer's professions of faith in a supreme being or with the fact that there are many manifestations in our public life of belief in God."

While there were many expressions of protest, there were also voices raised in approval of the ruling.

Leo Pfeffer, general counsel of the American Jewish Congress, said he feels it was consistent with earlier Supreme Court decisions "that the Constitution requires an absolute separation of church and state and a secular public school system."

A supporter of the Kennedy school aid bill—now bottled up in the House Rules Committee—said "I can see no analogy" between the prayer decision and the constitutionality of federal aid to church schools.

The same view was expressed by House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana. The issues were not the same, he said.

Southern members of Congress—angry over the court's civil rights decisions—were bitter in their denunciation of the ruling.

"They put the Negroes in the schools and now they've driven God out," declared Rep. George Andrews, D-Ala.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, an elder in the Mormon Church, remarked: "I don't know how much further we can go to forbid the expression of even the simplest acknowledgement of a belief in God. How long will it be before the daily prayer in Congress is considered a violation of the constitution?"

Evangelist Billy Graham said of the decision: "This is another step toward the secularization of the United States. Followed to its logical conclusion, we will have to take the chaplains out of the armed forces, prayers can not be said in Congress, and the President can not put his hand on the Bible when he takes the oath of office. The framers of the Constitution meant we were to have freedom of religion, not freedom from religion."

In New York, Francis Cardinal Spellman said he was "shocked and frightened."

"The decision strikes at the very heart of the godly tradition in which America's children have been so long been raised," he declared.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said he hoped adjustments could be made in the prayer so that it could continue to be used in New York schools.

However, the Board of Regents which governs education in the state said "the Supreme Court has ruled and we accept it with regret."

In its final decision day of the session, the Supreme Court also denied a review to Dr. Robert Soblen, convicted as a Soviet spy and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Denied a review to the Teamsters international union of its objections to a Labor Department subpoena for the organization's financial records.

Agreed to rule on appeals by sit-in demonstrators convicted under state trespass laws.

DODGER-REB TILT PROTESTED

Yankees, Rebels Notch Victories

The Wilson Motors Yankees rapped out seven hits here Monday while scampering to a 6-1 City League victory over the Ray Taylor Well Service Phillies.

Yankees tended to mound duties for the Yanks over the first six innings of play and gained credit for the win. Leslie Brown took over and chucked the final frame.

Leslie Brown was the Phillie moundman until he was touched for four hits and three runs in the sixth and gave way to Kenneth Dover.

J. N. Wall, Stanley Balke and John Flynn each drove in runs during the sixth inning Yankee surge, each driving out singles. Brown collected singles in the first and third to be the only player in the game connecting for more than one single.

Neither nine hit for extra bases during the course of the game. A dispute involving the insertion of Ramon Valdes into the lineup after reportedly having been pinch-hit for resulted in the Scurry Butane Dodgers protesting the other game of the evening, a City League battle in which the Snyder National Bank Rebels outscored the Dodgers by 4-2.

Randy Hales went the distance for the Rebs in that one, being touched for three singles. Lane McMillan started for the Dodgers, but was relieved in the first by Dougie Newman.

Lloyd Potts faced the six-hit Rebel attack with two singles in three trips. Frank Parsons had the only extra-base, a double in the first, and scored on a single by the follow-up hitter, Hales. During his tour, Hales struck out 14 and walked one.

Rob Golden and Newman singled in the first and third, then scored on errors for the two Dodgers tallies.

Nepper Twirls Perfect Game; Oilers Win

R. E. Smith's Pottys Nepper buried for himself a perfect game here Monday to highlight City Softball League play, blanking Ray Taylor Well Service by 20-0.

Nepper faced only 12 batters—the minimum-over the span of the abbreviated four inning game.

Zelmer Glover was the loser.

Harlin's Oilers halted West Texas Machine by 12-1 in the other contest of the night on a one-hit effort on the part of Temmy Hester.

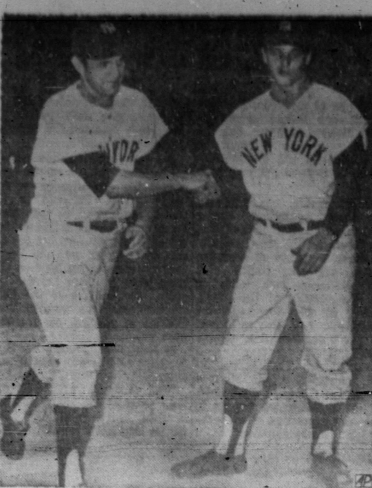

Lowell Bearden connected for that sole hit—a fourth inning single that drove in his team's only run of the game.

Hester struck out six, walked three, and spurred his own effort with a bases-empty homer in the fifth.

Jim Wesson went three-for-four for the Oilers, cloning a three-run roundtripper in the fifth to go along with his double and triple.

Gene Williams also homered for Harlin in the second with nobody aboard.

Other Oilers who helped spice up the attack included Jack Lawrence, who singled twice in four appearances, and Mickey Sterling, who doubled home a run.

END OF 22 INNING GAME—New York Yankees outfielder Jack Reed, left, is congratulated by Roger Maris, who scored ahead of him, as he scores on a two-run homer in the top of the 22nd inning to win against the Detroit Tigers in the longest game in history. Maris singled to get on and Reed, the next batter blasted one into the left field stands. The time for the game was 7 hours and the Yankees won 9-7. No runs were scored after the 6th inning until the game-winning homer. (AP Wirephoto)

AFL Heads Gathering In Boston

BOSTON (AP)—Representatives of groups from Atlanta, New Orleans and Kansas City meet with American Football League club owners today to discuss expansion of the professional game into one or two of the cities.

All three groups have put up or pledged $25,000 to show good faith. All insist they have the $300,000 needed for players and have promises of reaching the 20,000-ticket sale goal set for new entries.

The owners voted Monday to try out a "sudden death" overtime period to decide the games during the 1962 exhibition series. Even if successful, however, the overtime period, which gives the victory to the first team to score, would not be used in regular league games this fall.

The league also extended its trading deadline from three to six weeks after the start of play.

.45s Nudged By Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Tony Taylor's single in the ninth inning with one out scored Bob Wine from second base and gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 4-3 victory over the Houston Colts Monday night.

It was the Phillies' fifth consecutive victory in five meetings with the Texans this season.

Taylor's game-winning hit was his third single in four official trips to the plate. The Phillies leadoff batter also walked once.

Right-hander Dallas Green, who replaced Cal McLain in the sixth inning received credit for the victory as he retired 11 straight batters before yielding a harmless single to Bob Aspromonte in the ninth.

Southpaw Hal Woodeshick took the defeat, his fifth. With the score tied 3-3 going into the ninth, Woodeshick served up a single to Wine, and was replaced by Don McMahon, who gave up Taylor's game-winning hit.

Athletics, Cards Roll To Victories

The Little League Athletics pounded out 10 hits—three for extra bases—in storming to a 13-1 Monday victory over the Yankees, thus making their place on the top rung of the American League ladder a little tighter.

Pitcher Frank Grimmer, who hurled three innings before making way for Mike Todd, contributed the big hit of the game. His roundtripper in the third sparked a seven-run Athletic uprising after they had leaped out to four tallies in the first and had been scoreless in the second.

Eloy Benitez doubled in the second and Larry Wall smacked a two-bagger in the fourth for the other multiple-base blows of the contest. Grimmer, Benitez, Wall and Ron Potts each had two hits for the night.

Ted Witter started for the Yankees and was the loser after being spelled by Dan Thompson. The nightcap went to the Cardinals by 10-2 over the Braves, making former the Redbirds' second-place position behind the league-leading Giants.

David Smith, chunked a neat one-hitter in that one, but that one safety was a king-sized one, as

Braves Slip Past Cards; Yankees Win

A torrid battle for National Farm League supremacy got a little hotter Monday, when the Braves eased past the league-leading Cardinals 6-3. Both the Braves and Cardinals are now both within a game of the leaders, with the Redbirds trailing 4-5, the Giants at 7-3, and the Braves at 7-4.

Lee McNair buried the important victory, while Clarke Bostick took the loss.

Catcher Randy Gay was top Brave with the hickory. He sandwiched in a third-inning double between first and fourth frames, singles for a perfect night at the plate.

Third baseman Hales sparked the Cards with a double and a single, and David Coy added another two-bagger to the Cardinal cause.

The Yankees took over undisputed possession of second place in the American League standings over the idle White Sox in the other contest of the evening, nipping the Athletics 15-14.

In taking the win, the Yanks sprayed Athletic pitching for six extra-base hits. Shortstop Gary Floyd led the way with a homer, triple and single.

Close on his heels were leftfielder David Rushing with a double and two singles; third baseman J. L. Pherigo with three singles; catcher Rick Mirick with a double and a triple; first baseman Paul Rushing with a double and single; and pitcher Jerry Dent Tate with a pair of singles.

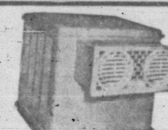

Bill Barry and Rocky Land tended to Athletic pitching duties. Tate was the victor.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY—About 3,000 years ago, the Aztecs built their top in old Aztec land. And since Xitle was a busy volcano, the effect on the surrounding territory was somewhat startling.

Especially to the natives who had built up a thriving civilization, complete with pyramids, in a neat little valley of several thousand acres down stream from Xitle.

When the glib blow blew, the civilians caught the first train out and their valley wound up full of a fast of very hot lava.

How the men of science can peg this incident at 5,000 years back is puzzling. But they claim that by counting the dust layers and such, they can practically give you the hour of the day.

A few years back, some geologists partially excavated one of the big pyramids and began digging around inside. Peeking up bits of pottery and looking at the art on the walls.

Possibly, one of them glanced at his watch and said, "For Heaven's sake, this catastrophe occurred 5,000 years ago." That is the way science operates.

Anyhow, it did not turn out to be such a catastrophe for the moderns. After Xitle got tired of erupting and went out for a short beer, the lava cooled. And what they had was a terribly rough section of real estate which everyone avoided until a couple of decades ago.

Then some engineers decided to quit going around the place and put a highway straight across it. Road to Cuernavaca. That was the first real invasion of the Pedregal, which means "extremely rocky" in Spanish.

Construction companies got ideas, too. They poked dynamite cracks of the lava wall and blew out chunks of rock which were hampered to the proper size and shape for building houses. Also crushed and used as base layers for highways.

Along came the development gentleman, who are always looking for a new angle. And Mexico is loaded with originality in the field of architecture and engineering.

The real estate looked over the Pedregal and said, "well, this appears to be completely impossible. And nothing has more atmosphere or appeal than an impossible project. Let us get to work."

About 10 years ago, they somehow, popped it into lots. Some were made as others rode in. Then they announced the whole thing in the newspaper, next to the corset ads.

"Look," they said. "We got the greatest suburban area yet."

"What you got," said the skeptical citizens, "is a hole in the head. Who wants to live in a cave?"

As it turned out, many people decided to toss up modern caves in the Pedregal. The undaunted developers bored a hole through the lava and artesian water shot high into the sky.

Mexico's top architects and landscape mechanics were called in. They started with a fleet of trucks with dirt to fill the right spots. And blew up objectionable lava ridges to smooth things out. Engineers pushed streets across the fading badlands.

Finally, somebody put up a house. It clicked. Pedregal architecture is a very special kind, not seen in other parts of the city. Much of the terrain was left as is, except for smoothed out lawns and gardens, and houses were designed to fit in.

Zillionaires bought an acre or two and put up a mansion. With heated swimming pools located beneath terraces and windows so potted guests falling off a balcony would get nothing more than wel.

Folks of lesser means took one lot and built smaller, but no less impressive, huts.

Now, they have supermarkets, churches, bus lines and ducks paddling around ponds beneath weeping willow. Good creek water

Conditions Cause Strike, Says Official

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer
PORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP)—

Public school teachers are becoming increasingly impatient with intolerable working conditions and, in some circumstances, may feel forced to go on strike, an official of the National Education Association said today.

"Teacher strikes are deplorable, but so are the conditions that cause them," said T. M. Stinnett, assistant executive secretary of the NEA.

Stinnett said in an interview he does not approve of teacher strikes, but "in all probability we will continue to see such strikes in the year ahead because they are the last recourse to dramatize bad situations and move the public to action."

The strike in New York City last spring, he said, was the result of the total disillusionment of the city's teachers.

"It was an accumulation of intolerable conditions," Stinnett said "including politics, bureaucracy, obsolete and outmoded buildings and rotten equipment."

Stinnett is attending the annual conference of the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards, opening here tonight. He headed the commission for 10 years, until last August.

"If I read the signs correctly," he said, "teachers are going to be much more aggressive, much more militant in demanding better conditions of work so they can provide the services to children that the American public has a right to expect, and they can do the professional job they have been trained to do."

"This doesn't mean that power tactics are inevitable. We need not have strikes, nor threats of strikes. Our problems can be solved by mutual recognition of the facts. We can work these things out through negotiations."

A DAILY VIEW

Rev. R. Charles Spivey

"But who do you say that I am?" Matthew 16:13

This is one of the most famous and well used verses of the New Testament, and this is as it should be. For after all the reception of the New Testament and of the person, Jesus Christ, hangs upon the answer each person gives to the question. Those who think of Jesus in terms of a mighty prophet, or a great teacher, or the greatest man who ever lived, will quite naturally consider Jesus to be one sort of person. Whereas he who knows Jesus to be the incarnate Word of God, considers Jesus to be cut of different cloth.

And what's more, if Jesus is only a great teacher, or moralist, or great man, then why should I worship him—or do such a foolish and silly thing as "Give my life to him"? But if Jesus is really the revealed Word of God to men, then I feel I must bow my knees before the King and I surely do owe my life to him!

So, who do you say that he is? I know him to be God Incarnate.

AND WE'D EXPECTED LIVE AMMUNITION!

There's No Need To Worry About Little Easter Rabbits

BY INEZ ROBB

For years the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has been worried about what becomes of all those darling little white bunnies, in cunning baskets, that are given each and every Easter to New York children. Or to children in any big city, for that matter.

To be truthful, I have brooded right along with the ASPCA fearful that the little rabbits probably died of malnutrition, or neglect, or claustrophobia—from being penned up in those fancy baskets. After all, how many city people are going to let a rabbit run loose in a caboose?

But the ASPCA has been wringing its hands for naught. Little Easter bunnies in New York City, under a regime of tender, loving care, grow up to be only slightly less massive than Harvey, the most famous white rabbit since Alice.

However, let me start, at the beginning. Two nights ago the Head of Clan Robb and I dined with friends who live in a big, cooperative apartment house, built around a concrete-paved arroyo. It was a hot night. The impressive ornamental windows that usually conceal the arroyo from the building's foyer were wide open, in hope of a cross-current of air.

"Look at that big rabbit in there!" exclaimed my husband, sober as a judge, pointing toward the arroyo.

"Honey, are you feeling all right?" I asked, in real alarm. "It's been a hot day."

"Look out that window!" he commanded, with the indignation of righteousness challenged.

Well, there was a white rabbit, all right, twice as big as life, his pink ears swaying methodically as he destroyed a head of lettuce.

"Did you know there's a big white rabbit in your arroyo?"

Cindy The Seal To Get Cooler Home

LODI, N.J. (AP)—It's getting too hot for Cindy the seal. She leaves today for cooler quarters.

Cindy has been splashing in the backyard pool of dog warden George Groshman since last Tuesday when he captured her flopping around the Hackensack meadows.

But animal authorities informed Groshman Monday that the water and weather may prove too warm for the 175-pound seal and he reluctantly agreed to a change in climate.

Henceforth, the seal will do her swimming at the Coney Island, N.Y. Aquarium.

We asked our host and hostess, a question equivalent to asking a smalltown citizen if he realizes there's a rhinoceros in his back yard.

"Why, yes," they said. "That's Butch. He was given to the children of the building superintendent a year ago last Easter and has been living happily ever since, eating prodigious amounts of lettuce and carrots donated by all the tenants and growing like a weed, to coin a cliché."

"But," said our hostess, a trained social service worker, "we-meaning all of the tenants—are worried about Butch."

"We think that Butch ought to have a mate," explained her husband, a distinguished physician who heads one of New York's major hospitals.

"Why?" asked another guest. "Because he's a rabbit," our hostess replied, with incontestable logic.

"Does Butch show any neurotic tendencies?" asked still another guest, a psychiatrist.

"Well, he's a compulsive eater, as you can see," said the hostess. "Nonsense!" cried the doctor. "We feed him too much. All he needs is a diet."

"Now, don't be too hasty," warned the psychiatrist. "He probably eats to subliminate."

"Why?" asked the why-guest. "Why, if he doesn't know what he's missing?"

"If everyone is so worried about Butch's bachelor state, why don't you tenants buy him a mate?" asked my sensible husband.

"Don't think we haven't thought about that," said our hostess. "But we are always stopped by the thought of what to do with all the little rabbits. That could be a real problem!"

"Why?" asked the why-guest. "Don't any of your tenants sell?"

Rodgers Is Happy In Work At 60

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—At 4 the little boy reached up and touched the piano keys, and the sound thrilled him.

At 6 he could play by ear, using both hands.

At 9 he was inventing melodies of his own.

And now, 1,000 tunes and 39 musical shows later, Richard Rodgers will be honored at a 60th birthday luncheon Thursday by cultural and civic leaders as one of the most popular composers in history.

This landmark in his life finds him busy as an old pro at the piano, for which he wrote both words and music. Rodgers and his latest collaborator, lyricist Jay Lerner, now are working on a new and a yet untitled show—his 40th.

"How do I feel?" asked Rodgers. "I feel ambivalent."

"I hate being 60 from a chronological viewpoint; but I'm proud of being 60 and still functioning at what I love best."

"It is nothing to do a thing at 50, 55 or 60. But it's nice to have a head at 60—and working on a new show."

His expression of habitual reserve broke into a wide, dark-eyed smile.

"It turns out that just because you were born in 1902, you're not necessarily a dead poop—at least I don't think I am."

Nobody in the musical world thinks Rodgers is either. The fount of his genius still flows as clear and tuneful as it did in his youth.

"Inspiration with me isn't a matter of mood, but a matter of work and application," he said. "If I have published a thousand melodies, I must have thrown away at least a third that many more. But that doesn't bother me. It's no trouble. There's always more."

"I never felt I was running dry. I can't wait to try the next project. I think of life as a continuing thing—and there's always something to look forward to."

Rodgers has been so creative that some people feel he must think in musical notes instead of words. He smiles at the idea.

"With me it's a matter of expressing in music what others express in prose, color or poetry," he said. "I don't really go around thinking in music—ever."

Of his own shows, he prefers "Carousel," which many critics also rate as his best. He has no favorite among his melodies because "there are too many of them, and they mean too many different things to me."

"At 60 I don't feel at all that I've got it made. But I have no big unrealized ambitions. I don't want to write a symphony, because I don't know how."

What I've tried to do is touch people—and when I have, that has been my biggest satisfaction."

This is Rodgers' philosophy in his own words.

"Have pleasure, give pleasure; avoid pain, and never knowingly give pain to others."

Junior Editors Quiz on GEOGRAPHY

QUESTION: Why does the equator run north and south instead of east and west?

ANSWER: Like the girl in our picture, the reader who sent this question is a little mixed up. The diagram in the upper left should straighten things out. The equator is an imaginary line about the middle of the earth. Thus it runs east and west, not north and south. It divides the earth into two equal halves. Paralleling the equator are other imaginary lines around the world called lines of latitude. These are numbered by degrees north or south of the equator.

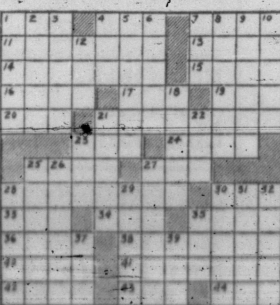

Lines running north and south around the world are not parallel to each other. Instead, they all pass through the north and the south poles. They are called meridians. The meridian numbered zero passes through Greenwich, England. Meridians east and west of this are numbered by degrees east and west of the line. As far as the 180th meridian, on the opposite side of the world.

Why was the system set up this way? Simply because the early geographers found it the most convenient and logical one.

FOR YOU TO DO: Get a map, note the degrees numbered opposite the parallels of latitude and the meridians, and work out the exact location of 30° town in degrees. For example, New York City is 40 degrees and 45 minutes north latitude, and 74 degrees west longitude.

Yarborough Withholds Endorsement

DALLAS (AP)—Sen. Ralph Yarborough has refused to sign a statement by Texas congressmen endorsing John Connally for governor, the Dallas News said today.

The News said Yarborough, in his failed bid to win similar endorsement for re-election in 1964. In a dispatch from Washington, the newspaper said:

Rep. Jack Brooks of Beaumont, chairman of the Texas congressional delegation, drafted the letter backing Connally and all 21 Texas Democrats in the House signed it last week.

Yarborough objected to signing because of the wording at the start. "We, the undersigned Democratic nominees," etc. He pointed out that his term lasts two years. Brooks rephrased the letter to identify the signers as "members of the Texas congressional delegation" but Yarborough still refused to sign.

At a closed luncheon for the delegation last Wednesday, attended also by Vice President Lyndon Johnson, Yarborough produced his own document. He gave it to Brooks and it was proposed the House members sign.

"No one got out his pen," one of those present said. Since it appeared nothing would be done about the Yarborough endorsement, Brooks suggested that Rep. Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio, the delegation's secretary, file the statement. Yarborough then asked that it be returned and it was.

The News said Yarborough was believed reluctant to aid the Connally campaign because he fears the former secretary of the Navy will run against him for senator in 1964.

Textbook Panel Votes To Disband

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas House Textbook Committee voted to disband after going into a secret session Monday.

Rep. W. T. Duncan of McKinney, chairman of the committee which has held hearings in Austin, Amarillo, San Antonio and Dallas, said the vote was 4-0.

He did not vote but stopping the committee hearings "was not my idea," Duncan said.

The committee went into closed session after a morning of haggling over what will be included in its final report to the legislature. Rep. R. W. Bass of DeKalb said afterward that he will introduce legislation to change the method of selecting textbooks and to keep certain books from getting into the schools.

Bass singled out "Andersonville" by Mackinlay Kantor as a book he felt should not be in public school libraries.

"To be specific, I don't want any sex teaching in the schools," Bass said.

Rep. John Alaniz, who asked the secret session, said he did so "because there has been a lot of playing up to the press." He said Duncan exceeded his authority in calling a Dallas meeting and holding it without a quorum present.

The committee voted earlier to not include in its final report the testimony given at the Dallas meeting.

Duncan told newsmen the committee voted to stop its work July 1 and not to meet again until Nov. 1, when each member will have recommendations for the next legislature.

Looking Back

10 Years Ago...

June 24, 1952
While many other West Texas cities have been forced to curb water consumption, Snyder has not experienced any shortage, Ralph Eades, acting city superintendent said.

Eades said that the water pressure drops in Highland Park and Towle Place would probably be stopped with the completion of the new eight inch water line in those areas.

Carl Smith was installed as worshipful master of the Masonic Lodge 706, Bethard Longbottom Sr., past master, served as Senior installing officer with J. R. Austin serving as financial.

Other new officers installed for the chapter were W. J. Pitta, senior warden; R. L. Duck, junior warden; M. L. Andress, treasurer; J. E. Le Mond, secretary; A. G. Roper, senior deacon; W. R. Mickie, junior deacon; J. H. Ogden, chaplain and J. E. Lock, tiller.

5 Years Ago...

June 23, 1957
The county commissioners court here yesterday accepted the bids of Brown Bros. Co. of Lubbock to equip and furnish the new county library now under construction. The Brown bid was $11,000.

Snyder banks on $100,000 had a total of $100,000. That is about the same amount on deposit as April, 1956.
