City Ordered to Cease Dumping Refuse In River

NEED BETTER PLANT

Wichita Given Period Of Grace Until October

An injunction restraining the city of Wichita Falls from discharging solid matter from the sewers and garbage dump into the Wichita river was granted by Judge E. G. Thornton in 30th district court here Friday The injunction becomes effective on October 1.

Thelbert Martin, attorney for the city, immediately after the decision, took exception to the court's ruling and gave notice of appeal. The next skirmish in the battle for $212,500 damages originally filed against the city and oil and laundry companies by D. G. Whitney et al, probably will be staged in the court of civil appeals at Fort Worth.

Effective Oct. 1

Mr. Whitney and his brother, C. W. Whitney, filed suit for damages, which they claimed to a 750-acre tract of land bordering on the river, attributed to pollution of the stream by the city and other defendants in the action.

The first victory, in the form of an injunction, went to the petitioners.

The injunction, Judge Thornton explained, will become effective on October 1. In the meantime, if the city shall take precautionary measures and show an intention of abiding by the restraining order, it was indicated, the additional preparatory time may be given.

Judge Thornton in his decision indicated that the court would favor installation of an incinerator to care for the city waste and also would suggest more adequate provision for care of sewage.

Laundry concerns and oil companies involved in the damage suit were dismissed from the injunction proceedings upon recommendations of J. B. Hatchitt, attorney for the defense, after it had been shown that they had installed sanitary sewers since the suit was filed.

Pollution Charged

Previously their waste, the defense claimed, had gone into the river through the storm sewers.

Testimony at the two-day hearing had tended to show that refuse from the city dump and sewer system had been permitted to enter the river, polluting the stream.

Cotton Price Drop Is Laid to Gambling

AUSTIN, Aug. 10. (AP)—Thursday's $7 decline in cotton prices in the face of the government estimate of a short crop was attributed by George B. Terrell, state commissioner of agriculture, in a statement today, to "gambling" activities in the cotton exchanges, which he roundly denounced.

Explosions Cause $200,000 Loss in Warehouse Fire

ANTIGO, Wis., Aug. 10. (AP)—Two explosions, caused either by dust or oil, started a spectacular fire which burned four men and destroyed a five-story warehouse building with a total loss exceeding $200,000 here this afternoon.

WIDOW CALLED BY GRAND JURY

Shook Probe Halted As Witness Balks

Mrs. Beulah Daugherty, widow of W. O. Daugherty who was stabbed to death at the home of Ace Sperry in Electra Thursday night, her oldest son, Homer, and a number of other Electra residents have been subpoenaed to appear before the Wichita county grand jury Saturday morning.

Jury Begins Work

The grand jury was hastily impanelled by Judge W. W. Cook of 78th district court Friday afternoon, following the arrest of Tom Shook, former chief of police in Electra, four hours after the death of Daugherty. Shook, with an eight-year record as a fearless peace officer behind him, remained in the Wichita county jail Friday night, pending final findings of the grand jury. He is at present under indictments charging burglary and driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Hope of the grand jury to finish its work Friday afternoon was dissipated when one of the witnesses in the case under investigation refused to testify before the body, it is learned. Name of the unwilling witness was not revealed, and officials refused to say whether deliberations of the grand jury Saturday would involve contempt charge. When it was seen that the session could not be completed Friday the body decided to withhold its report until the investigations had been completed, probably early Saturday.

Shook, who surrendered to Sheriff W. G. Bralley Friday morning at 2:30 o'clock, had made no statement Friday night.

Shook surrendered following a seven-hour vigil by officers after Daugherty had been stabbed to death at 7 o'clock when he stopped at Sperry's house to use the telephone. Sperry, in a statement to Tom Shook, former Electra chief of police, is held in the Wichita jail while the grand jury investigates the death of W. O. Daugherty. The above picture of Shook was taken several years ago, just after Shook had participated in one of the largest liquor raids in the history of the county.

Harmony Assured For Demo Rally

AUSTIN, Aug. 10. (AP)—Singleness of purpose and assurance of harmony dominated the attitude of early arrivals here today for Saturday's Democratic mass meeting of leaders planning an intensive campaign to carry the party solidly in Texas for the presidential ticket.

Mrs. H. H. Sevier, national committeewoman for Texas, said today that a state-wide organization will be perfected Saturday to carry the campaign for a straight ticket into every voting precinct and to concentrate on centers from which emanate the loudest threats of a "bolt" to Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee. Mrs. Sevier, National Committeeman Jed Adams and State Chairman D. W. Wilcox called the meeting.

A telegram late tonight from Governor Moody to Boyle said that he (Moody) would be unable to attend the convention because of bad roads.

EARLE DENIES UTILITY AID

Ferguson Hopped His Band Wagon, Says Senator

Denying that he had seen Jim Ferguson in an Austin hotel recently to make arrangements for Ferguson's support and further denying that he had in any way sought Ferguson's support in his campaign for the United States senate, Earle B. Mayfield said in Bellevue park Friday night that he was "not going to hit any man in the face if he tried to climb on my band wagon" and that "Ferguson was stumbling on my band wagon."

Senator Mayfield then attempted to show that his opponent, Tom Connally, sought Ferguson support by inserting a $25 political advertisement in the Ferguson Forum.

"There is not one iota of truth in the statement that I met Jim Ferguson and made arrangements for his support in an Austin hotel," the senator declared. "I have seen Mr. Ferguson one time since I left Washington to engage in my campaign, and that was in the lobby of the Rice hotel at Houston during the Democratic national convention."

Denies Utility Support

Charges hurled by Mr. Connally that the Insull power interests support Mr. Mayfield were denied by the senator who charged that big power interest representatives are active in Connally's behalf rather than his.

"O. H. Shannon of the Fort Worth Gas company, who is trying to increase the gas rate in Fort Worth from 75 cents to $1.50 per cubic thousand feet, is one of Connally's campaign managers," he charged.

"John P. King of the Fort Worth Power and Light company, a subsidiary of the Electric Bond and Share company of the General Electric group, is on Connally's campaign board.

Severance of Siamese Twins For Sake of Cupid Holds Medical Eye

Psychologists and Surgeons Alike Await Result of Operation to Separate 17-Year-Old Girls

By CORINNE RICH

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (US)—Medical science is ready to perform one of the most difficult and dangerous operations known—the severance of Siamese twins—in order to come to the aid of Cupid and allow one of America's only Siamese twins to marry and lead a normal life.

The 17-year-old twins, Margaret and Mary Gibb of Holyoke, Mass., are resting in a hospital here ready and willing to run the tremendous risk for the sake of love. Their parents, who came to New York yesterday with them, are ready and willing.

And Dr. Francis P. Weston, a young surgeon of some note, is awaiting the outcome of an X-ray examination before he decides definitely whether or not the contemplated operation would have a reasonable chance of success. If he decides not, he will not attempt the performance. The next 24 hours will tell the tale.

Previous Operations Fail

Similar operations have been executed before; but only in the case of Mexican twins was such a severance even partially successful. One of those twins lived.

An eminent psychologist today held out little hope that Margaret and Mary would be happy, if they should be separated and develop into normal women with individual lives.

"Margaret is in love with a youth and wants to marry him," this psychologist said. "She has always given her love and devotion to the sister to whom she is physically bound. If she were suddenly to stand alone and be dependent on some one of the opposite sex, for love and companionship, she would find it extremely difficult to transfer the intimate companionship from her sister to that other person. She would always be longing for her sister, for whom she would continue to have a mental affinity.

"Mary's case would be even sadder. Robbed of her other self by the operation and the marriage of her sister, she might easily be inconsolable and pine away and die of a broken heart. This might happen in spite of her present readiness to be separated."

TEXAS STORM CLAIMS LIFE

Home of Victim Burns In Electrical Display

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 10. (AP)—A sudden windstorm sweeping in from the north with a severe electrical display took heavy toll in the bay shore vicinity near here Friday night, exacting one life and causing an exodus of campers and tourists.

William Herbert Beazley, Jr., 8-year-old son of Dr. Jo Herbert Beazley of Houston, was killed instantly when he was struck by lightning as he was attempting to lower a window in his parents' summer home at La Porte.

As the mother carried the lad to a physician's office, the house was burned to the ground.

A Seabrook, a short distance from La Porte, a twister swept across the flats and uprooted a house and twisted the railroad station partially from its foundations.

Slight crop and property damage from the storm was reported north of Houston.

Man Enters Vesuvius Crater to Investigate

NAPLES, Italy, Aug. 10. (AP)—Prof. Alessandro Malladra, head of the observatory on the slopes of Mount Vesuvius, descended into the crater of the volcano today despite the explosions and rumblings and emissions of lava, cinders and ashes which mark the mountain's present activity.

"There is no danger—so far," said the professor as he let himself down the slope.

Beitzel Must Undergo Sanity Examination

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 10 (AP) Sanity examination of Russell St. Clair Beitzel, accused of slaying Barbara Mauger, his common law wife, and her new born child, will be ordered as result of the man's dual peal of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity when arraigned today on the murder charges.

DEATH ASKED FOR ATTACKERS

Trial of Two Youths At Comanche at End

COMANCHE, Texas, Aug. 10 (UP) The jury failed to reach a decision tonight after four hours deliberation in the case of Harley Holland and J. D. Pierce, being jointly tried here on charges of criminal assault, alleged to have been committed against Miss Velma Bankhead, 19, on the night of July 21.

Court adjourned and the jurors went to bed at 10 o'clock.

COMANCHE, Texas, Aug. 10. (AP) District Attorney Jesse Shipman this afternoon made a dramatic plea to the jury for a verdict of death in the case of Harley Holland and J. D. Pierce, being tried jointly on charges of criminal attack upon Velma Bankhead, 19, of De Leon.

Neither defendant displayed emotion as the prosecutor demanded that they receive the same sentence as their alleged companion, Dick Hazzard, who was given death on a like charge two days ago.

Bob McCampbell of the defense plead with the jury to show mercy. A. B. Haworth of the defense said that by accompanying the defendants Miss Bankhead in part assented to commission of the crime.

All in Readiness For Hoover Talk Broadcast

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 10. (UP)—An estimated radio audience of 70,000,000 persons will hear Herbert Hoover accept the Republican nomination for president at Palo Alto Saturday.

Officials in the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, who have been in charge of all installation for the past six weeks, said all was in readiness for one of the greatest radio hook-ups in history, requiring 125,000 miles of wire.

Bank Secretary Pleads Not Guilty to Larceny

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—After telling the district attorney he took money belonging to his employers with the intention of helping them rather than benefitting himself, Cornelius Callahan, 28, pleaded not guilty today to grand larceny indictment.

He is charged with stealing almost $500,000 from the Bancitaly corporation, by which he was employed as assistant secretary.

Economist Says Farm Taxes Outstrip Values

UIVERSITY, Va., Aug. 10. (UP)—Farm taxes have gone up out of proportion to land values, Eric Englund, department of agriculture economist, told the University of Virginia Institute of Politics today. In 1927 the average tax per farm was 153 per cent over 1914. In Kansas, a typical state, the ratio of taxes to selling value of farm land doubled from 1910 to 1923.

L. E. RONE AND COMPANION IN CLAY MISHAP

W. L. Wright With Wichitan When Auto Strikes Melon Wagon

TRUCKSTER INJURED

Accident Occurs On Road Just West of Bellevue Limits

L. E. Rone, 1518 North Sixth street, was critically injured, W. L. (Curley) Wright of Amarillo suffered a broken right hip and E. L. Mitchell of Frederick, Okla., was severely cut and bruised about the face in an automobile collision five miles west of Bellevue about 7 o'clock Friday night.

Mr. Rone's condition early Saturday morning was reported as extremely critical, with little hope held for his recovery. Mr. Wright was reported to be resting well.

All three men were given first aid treatment at the Moore filling station, in front of which the accident occurred, and Mr. Rone and Mr. Wright were rushed to the Hargrave-Walker hospital in a Henrietta ambulance. Mr. Mitchell was brought to Wichita Falls by J. F. Riggs of Amarillo.

The two cars collided at the top of a hill when the roadster which Mr. Wright was driving and in which Rone was riding failed to make the turn. Mr. Wright was driving toward Fort Worth. Mr. Mitchell, with a truck load of watermelons, was returning to Frederick.

Mr. Riggs was directly behind the truck at the time of the accident, he said. He was returning to Amarillo from a business trip to Dallas. Mr. Riggs formerly lived in Wichita Falls and was in the clothing business here.

VICTIM OF AUTO CRASH IMPROVING

Alvis Hayes, 13, of Temple, Okla., who was injured in an automobile accident on the Iowa Park road Thursday afternoon, was reported to be improving at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital Friday.

The youth suffered a crushed and broken leg when the automobile in which he was riding and a second car driven by L. D. Rainey, also of Temple, collided. F. B. Hayes, the boy's father, was driving. Rainey was arrested and was being held in the Wichita county jail on charges of driving while intoxicated and failing to render aid. His bond was set at $2,000.

Easterwood Offers $50,000 for Flight

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 10. (UP)—Captain William Easterwood of Dallas, Texas, announced here tonight that he was prepared to give a prize of $50,000 to the first aviator who flies from the Texas city to Hong Kong.

A prize of $25,000 for the same flight was offered by Easterwood last year but has expired. Captain William P. Erwin, who went into a tail spin between here and Honolulu and was lost, was the only competitor for the original offer.

Clothing of Suspect Examined by Chemists

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 10. (UP)—Garments belonging to John Burke, a suspect held in the slaying of Miss Jenny Constance, Bradley college instructor, were being examined by chemists here tonight.

Northwestern university chemists expressed the opinion that stains on the clothing were caused by blood, although no official report of their findings had been made to police.

SCOTT FIELD, Ill., Aug. 10. (AP) Testing out a giant tri-motored monoplane in which he plans to fly to Nicaragua in 10 days, Lieut. C. Frank Schilt, marine aviator, arrived here from Washington today. His flying time was 8 hours and 50 minutes. He said the flight was uneventful except for a rain squall encountered over Illinois.

Gasoline Thieves Fire On Officer As He Attempts to Halt Trio

Off duty and without a gun, Ralph Rohatsch, city officer, was fired upon when he attempted to stop three armed men from stealing gasoline from a parked car Friday night.

The men were driving a Ford roadster truck bearing an Oklahoma license and were transporting gas from a parked car to their own when Rohatsch discovered their activities.

The Wichita Falls officer was with a girl companion when the thieves attracted his attention. He jumped on the running board of the Ford to make an investigation and was met by a drawn pistol. The men pushed him from the car and started to drive away.

Rohatsch hailed a passing automobile and attempted to follow the fugitives, only to be fired upon when he came within 50 feet of their car. The owner of the automobile hailed by Rohatsch refused to continue the pursuit when the men opened fire.

No trace of the men had been found by the police late Friday night.

Zoo Keeper Loses End of Finger In Recapturing Unruly Alligator

Harry Williams, head zoo keeper of the Wichita Falls municipal zoo, lost the end of his index finger on his right hand Friday noon while engaged in the recapture of the 7-foot alligator which escaped from the zoo Thursday night.

The alligator did not bite off the end of the finger. This point was made clear by Mr. Williams' friends who objected to the suggestion of any such indignity by an alligator.

A twisted rope pinched off the end of the digit while the 'gator was being pulled from the creek, where he had been hiding, back to the alligator pond.

Texas cowboys, expert with ropes, had deftly circled Mr. Alligator's tail and head with hemp, so that it appeared an easy matter to drag the beast back home. They reckoned without an alligator's powerful tail, however, for he suddenly slipped his tail rope and pulled hard on the rope Mr. Williams held.

While pulling, the alligator also rolled over and over. It was this twisting pull which is said to have caused the damage to Mr. Williams' finger.

Dr. H. D. Fillmore, city physician, treated Mr. Williams immediately after the accident.

PEACE TRAILS WAKE OF DEATH

Raditch Tragedy Seen As Blow To Reds

GENEVA, Aug. 10. (UP)—A possible dimunition of bolshevik influences in Jugoslavia and a consolidation of her internal differences is foreseen by certain circles here as the result of the death of Stephan Raditch, peasant party leader, at Zagreb Wednesday.

It is said that if Jugoslavia is now able to eliminate the dissensions in her internal politics after the passing of Raditch, who died as the result of wounds he received in an affray in the chamber of deputies, June 20, an important step would be marked in the maintenance of Balkan peace.

While League of Nations circles recognize the fact that Raditch's death primarily concerns Jugoslavia, it is emphasized that any event is calculated to weaken or strengthen a country internally will find a vital repercussion on the world at large and particularly on international politics.

Dangerous Balkans

This is considered especially true of Jugoslavia in view of her position as a part of the ever-dangerous Balkans and also because of her membership in the little entente and her alliance with France which indirectly affects the whole make-up of the European situation today.

On the other hand, there are some sections of the European press, particularly the German, which feel that Raditch's death will cause great embitterment in the country and increase the internal party differences, making a Serbian-Croatian compromise to link the country more firmly together more difficult than ever.

These quarters predict that reports so far received from Jugoslavia that the situation is quiet throughout the country, constitute only the lull before the storm which may break before Raditch is buried.

It is reported, meanwhile, that Raditch's will which has just been published, appeals to his followers to avoid disturbances after his deathr.

Five Escaped Convicts Sought Near Houston

HOUSTON, Aug. 10. (UP)—Police today sought five convicts who escaped from three prison farms last night and today. A. W. Collier, 33, serving a life term for criminal assault from Waller county, and Tom Rogers, 31, serving 15 years from Fannin county, left Blue Ridge farm. Rogers, a trusty, rode away on a state-owned horse.

Other escapes were Tenley Kenshaw, 26, serving five years for theft from Grayson county, from Eastham farm; Claude Harris, 28 three years from Collin county, burglary, and G. E. Calhoun, two years, Potter county, forgery, from Clemens farm.

Parisian Follies May Appear in Texas Cities

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 10. (AP)—Most of the larger towns of Texas will probably see the Follies Bergere from Paris this year if the American legion succeeds in bringing the show across the water for the American legion national convention in October.

The production will come if bookings for four weeks can be arranged in Texas. Plans are being made to take the production to Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston.

'Dying' Men Sure to Live When They Give 'Last Words' to Texas Official

COLEMAN, Texas, Aug. 10. (AP)—If you get shot or cut and believe death is likely, send for County Attorney V. Rawlins Gilliland of Coleman county. He has a record of "cures" any physician or surgeon would envy.

Since assuming the duties of the office he has taken four dying statements and all of the men making them are hale and hearty today.

When Pleas Reed was in a serious condition from knife wounds he sent for the county attorney. Joe Croft was almost dead from bullet wounds when the county attorney went to his bedside to take his dying statement, and the same thing happened again when Chas. Jameson "believed he was going to die" and placed an order for the county attorney.

The latest "dying statement" was taken by Mr. Gilliland last Friday night at 9 o'clock in a dimly lighted room in Mexican Mary's restaurant when Alex Jarmarillo believed he was going to die from bullet wounds. The attending physician, a deputy sheriff and a newspaper man all were of the opinion Jarmarillo would die before morning.

Nearly a week has elapsed and the wounded Mexican still lives and present indications are he will completely recover from the effects of three severe bullet wounds.

Before a "dying statement" can be taken, County Attorney Gilliland said, the one making it must believe that death is approaching. Jarmarillo was satisfied the night his statement was taken that the end was near and with the aid of an interpreter he told the county attorney just what happened the day of the difficulty and prior to that time.

When the statement was taken, signed by the "dying" man and several witnesses, Mr. Gilliland remarked:

"That man will now recover. I have never had one to die after making a dying statement."

TEXAS DEMO FUNDS GROW

Contributions Range From $5 to $500

Special to The Record News.

HOUSTON, Aug. 10.—Contributions to the national Democratic campaign funds ranging in amounts from $5 to $500 are beginning to pour in, according to an announcement by John Henry Kirby, state director of finance for the national Democratic finance committee.

The first donation, one for $5, was sent to Mr. Kirby on the afternoon his appointment was made, contributed by R. E. Kane of Galveston. The second for that amount came from Sawtelle, Calif., and was contributed by little Miss Mary Virginia Callan, granddaughter of Austin Callan of Houston.

The first contribution of $100 came from Guy M. Bryan, Houston banker, and the second was made by United States Senator Morris Sheppard.

The first $500 contribution was made by J. M. West, Houston capitalist, lumberman and cattleman, and the second came from Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier of Austin, national Democratic committeewoman from Texas.

Mr. Kirby is now at work perfecting a statewide committee and expects to announce the names of the members within a few days. With the advice and aid of the general committee he will then proceed to the appointment of county chairmen, so that every Democrat in the state will have an opportunity to contribute to the party war chest.

"We all know that if we make an aggressive fight," said Mr. Kirby today, "victory is within our reach. Our adversaries are abundantly supplied with money. Our party represents the masses, and we must depend on the masses for funds with which to so strengthen our organization as to enable our leaders to cope with a powerful opponent."

Philippine Executive Given Advisory Staff

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (UP)—Governor-General Stimson of the Philippines has approved a bill passed by the native legislature to give him a staff of technical advisors. Stimson said this would develop autonomy of departments as a forward step toward responsible government in the islands. This measure is regarded as the death knell of the "cavalry cabinets" resented by the natives.

Jonah and the Whale Subject of Dispute

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (UP)—Dr. G. S. Miller, national museum curator of mammals, has taken issue with Rev. Ambrose J. Wilson, in the Princeton Theological Review, over the clergyman's so-called "scientific facts" tending to show that Jonah could have been swallowed by a whale Dr. Miller holds the Biblical legend to have been impossible.

Fiancee Demands Gene Quit Boxing

So Tunney Gives Up Prize Ring For Wedding Ring

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (US)—The prize ring or a wedding ring? Gene Tunney, the retired heavyweight champion, had to make that choice in the course of his romance with Mary Josephine Lauder, the heiress to whom he will be married within the next few months

Friends of the fighter today told how Tunney left his Florida training camp last winter to make a mysterious pilgrimage to the Greenwich, Conn., home of Miss Lauder when she returned from Europe.

Polly Disapproves

According to the story, well authenticated, Gene paid this visit as a "follow-up" of a series of letters written to the girl while she was abroad.

When they met, Miss Lauder promised to marry him if he would give up the prize ring, which was "distasteful" to her and her aristocratic and enormously wealthy family.

Choice Up to Gene

The choice was up to Tunney. He had fought his way up from the very bottom of the fistic ladder and was champion of the world, making money hand over fist.

But he chose the girl and the wedding ring. He told Miss Lauder that he would have to fulfill his contract for one more fight in July and promised to retire after that. That fight left him champion, but, true to his promise and his girl, he did retire.

Three Noted Texans Bolt Demo Ticket

HOUSTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—Three prominent Texans have advised him of their determination to oppose the candidacy of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, Democratic nominee for president, according to Alvin S. Moody, chairman of the anti-Smith Democrats of Texas.

These are: Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor university, Waco; E. V. Cole, editor of the Texas Christian Advocate, official organ of the Southern Methodist church of Texas, and A. D. Duncan, secretary of the executive committee, Baptist general convention of Texas.

Plans for Completely Equipped Port Drawn

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10. (UP)—Plans for the most completely equipped air field in the United States to be erected just south of East St. Louis, Ill., have been completed, the St. Louis Air Transport Terminal company announced today. Equipment at the field would accommodate 500 planes, under the plans.

EL PASO BOY KILLED RESCUING HIS FATHER

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 10. (INS)—Alfredo Acuna, 15, was shot and killed here today when he tried to protect his father, Guadalupe Acuna, proprietor of a bakery establishment, from an attack by Jose Pena, employe of another bakery.

After the shooting, said to have been the outgrowth of Acuna's refusal to drink with him, Pena made a break for the international bridge and Juarez, but was captured by police on duty there.

Letter Mailed 28 Years Ago Finally Reaches Destination

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (UP)—A letter mailed 28 years and two months ago, was received at its destination last week, it was disclosed today. The letter was mailed just about 100 yards from 32 Park Place, New York the address written on the envelope.

J. J. Raftery president of the Bunnell company found the letter in his mail. It was crumpled and yellow. He opened it and found a check in payment for some merchandise.

The letter had been mailed by E. B. Strout and the checks were dated June 4, 1900, the letter had been mailed at Hudson terminal.

PASTOR CLEARS UP WRANGLE

Political Parson Gives His Version of Fight

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 10. (AP)—In order to correct "misleading and untrue reports" of the personal difficulty between himself and Clarence Kendall at the Harris county Democratic convention here on Aug. 4, the Rev. A. G. Fitzgerald, pastor of a Presbyterian church in Houston Heights, a suburb, has issued the following statement:

"I was a duly elected delegate from my precinct to the convention, and my only desire was to represent the Democrats of my precinct as best I could. When the small minority sought to put over their program without permitting any delegate to vote, I went to the platform and approached the gentleman who was presuming to act as chairman and requested the privilege of voting on the proposition being submitted. A man standing nearby looked me in the eye and used these words: 'Shut up, and get out of here; you are a Republican!' I corrected his statement, using a short and unparliamentary term, and he struck me, using several unparliamentary terms in his description of me. His blow missed me entirely; and then the fight started. He did not run away, neither did I, but so far as I know not a single blow touched me.

"I am a Democrat; have always been, and expect to remain one all the way through and to maintain my position as best I can. I have voted the Democratic ticket straight for 26 years, not scratching it one time. In November I will vote for Hoover for president because Smith is not a Democrat, having already repudiated the Democratic platform, upon which he was nominated."

State Rebekah Officer Visits Doans' Lodge

VERNON, Aug. 10. (Sp.)—Mrs. Jessie Ross of Amarillo, vice president of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas, visited the Doans lodge Wednesday night, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Flora Ross, and Mrs. Tom Thompson.

Mrs. Ross spoke on the work of the order in Texas, especially the home for widows and orphans at Corsicana. Mrs. Ross is en route to Corsicana and will visit lodges in that section of the state before returning to Chillicothe for the annual meeting of the Lower Panhandle association August 15-16.

NEW TRIALS IN MURDER CASES

Condemned Man and War Vet Get Rehearings

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 10. (AP)—Two men, charged with murder, one of whom was sentenced to electrocution in his first trial, are to face new trials here last month.

Clifford R. Franck, who witnesses his first trial, when he was sentenced to death, said was a narcotic addict, is charged with the slaying of his wife, Gladys, on March 25, 1927. Mrs. Franck, friends testified, married Franck to cure him of the narcotic habit. He shot her, testimony at the first trial indicated, when she went to her sister's home, leaving a note saying that he would be better off without her.

Franck's death penalty was reversed when the court of criminal appeals held that the state should have proved Franck sane, the defense at several times, including a sanity hearing, having proved him insane.

Morris Laine, attorney, is charged with having shot and killed T. F. Conoway in front of the First Baptist church here on Oct. 2, 1927. In his first trial the jury failed to agree. Witnesses said that Conoway had married Laine's divorced wife. Conoway had taken Laine's daughters, Virginia Fern, 11, and Edith Laverne, 9, to Sunday school when the shooting occurred. Laine claimed self defense.

A murder charge against C. E. Millender, world war veteran, was dismissed by District Judge Whit Boyd on recommendation of Assistant District Attorney W. J. Barnes, who said that Millender is in a critical condition from tuberculosis and injuries suffered in the war. Millender was charged with having fatally stabbed J. A. Durst on Nov. 5, 1925. Millender is a cripple.

Vernon Girl Injured In Motor Collision

VERNON, Aug. 10. (Sp.)—Miss Esta Bourland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bourland of Vernon, sustained serious bruises about the left side Wednesday when the automobile in which she was riding collided with a truck on a Vernon street. She was taken to a hospital, where her condition is considered serious.

Hubert Simonds was driving the machine, a light roadster, in which Miss Bourland was riding. Miss Odell Simonds and Miss Rose Lee Key were also in the car, but they escaped with minor bruises.

Girl Collects Bill On Egg Shell Infection

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 10. (UP)—Because she scratched her thumb on an egg shell while in the employ of an egg company, Velma Haroun, 18, was awarded a $30 doctor bill and $35 in compensation here today. Infection resulted from the scratch, the girl claimed.

Travel Fatigue Quickly Relieved

Long train or motor trips in hot weather cause the nerves to become strained and upset, resulting in nervous headaches, sleepless nights and general fatigue.

To avoid this take a bottle of Capudine with you on your trips. Two teaspoonfuls in a little water will quickly soothe the nerves, bring delightful relief from pain, restlessness and fatigue. Capudine is safe and being liquid, acts almost instantly. At all drug stores; 30c and 60c sizes.—Adv.

THOUSANDS AT BRENNAN RITES

Governor Smith Is Among Mourners

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (US)—A former coal miner died the day before yesterday.

The democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States attended his funeral today.

The coal miner was George E. Brennan, and the candidate was Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York.

And this because Brennan was a leader of men, and a power in the political world—a typical American.

Thousands crowded about Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic church this morning while the requiem high mass was being sung by the Very Reverend Monsignor Casey.

Thousands Awed

The thousands were awed by the grief of Governor Smith. He had laid aside the pressing affairs of his campaign for the presidency to come almost half way across the continent to mourn at the bier of his friend.

There were no flowers. There was nothing ostentatious about the funeral of this man who became the leader of the Smith-for-president boom in 1920, and failing to nominate the governor at that time, swung the tide to Cox.

The family had requested that friends offer prayers for the deceased, rather than send flowers. There was no glorification in the sermon.

Governor Smith and his party entered the church from a side door and took seats near the synctuary. A few moments later the family of Mr. Brennan took seats nearby. The governor was visibly under a strain, as the short service progressed.

When the service was over, the governor and his party led the way out of the church, and stood silently, solemnly with his head uncovered as the bier passed to the waiting hearse.

Long Cortege

Five hundred automobiles made up the cortege which wended its way to the Des Plaines Catholic cemetery.

But Governor Smith did not make that pilgrimage. He had made reservations to return to New York after only three hours in Chicago.

He arrived on the first section of the Century, and was greeted by George E. Getz. Under the escort of 100 motorcycle policemen, he was whisked up Michigan avenue, Lake Shore drive-and-Sheridan road at 50 miles an hour.

The funeral already had been delayed one hour pending his arrival.

Siamese Twins To Be Severed

of their spines by a cartilaginous band that through the years has been lengthening and giving them more freedom of action. Doctors agree that their blood and nervous systems interminglie. In that fact lies the danger of separating them.

A hospital head declared today that because of its extraordinary nature the forthcoming operation, if in its performed, will hold the rapt attention of the medical world. He would not care to perform it himself, he said.

One May Be Crippled

Should the severence of the artery in the cartilaginous band be successful, he explained, there would still be the mutual spinal cord to deal with. One of the girls at best would probably be hopelessly crippled, he thought.

Margaret and Mary are pretty bright-eyed girls of not completely similar tastes. Margaret is two inches taller and a couple of minutes older than Mary; she is also more sedate and less vivacious than her sister.

They do housework, play the piano and sing, play tennis and golf, and dance. They do not suffer the same physicial pain. One fell ill last winter and the other, lying in bed with her, was perfectly well and administered to her sister's needs.

They were happy with each other until among the boys who called on them Margaret found one with whom she fell in love. Life for both girls took on a different aspect after that. Margaret was unhappy; and Mary, with that psychic sympathy of hers, knew what was the matter. She was unhappy, too.

Mary knew that now was the time for them to be separated and she suggested it herself, for Margaret could not bear the thought of repeating the performance of the famed Bohemian Siamese twins, one of whom married and had a child while still joined to her sister.

The girls consulted their parents and an operation seemed the only chance for the safeguarding of Margaret's happiness. So they came to New York and stepped into the center of the medical limelight.

SO WEAK SHE COULDN'T WALK

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Gretna, La.—"After my first child was born I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a run-down condition. I could not walk across my room at times, I was so weak. A friend induced me to take the Vegetable Compound. Since that time I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and the Pills for Constipation, and I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a housekeeper and I am still taking the Vegetable Compound as a tonic to enable me to do my work."—Mrs. E. F. VICKNAIR, 829 Hancock Street, Gretna, La.

Artificial Skull Made by Doctors Saves Man

A wig worn by Norman Douglas Ellis effectually conceals the new skull of bakelite that surgeons made for him to replace the one that decayed to a large extent after electricity equivalent to 5,000 horsepower had passed through his body. These pictures show Ellis with his wig and a close-up of his new brain cap.

TORONTO, Aug 10. — Norman Douglas Ellis of Toronto was "killed" by an electric shock a little over two years ago.

Then doctors removed about 40 square inches of the bone of his skull, leaving his brain exposed from about the hairline in front to about an inch above the hairline at the base of the neck.

But today he is alive and well, doing a man's work and enjoying the best of health.

This apparent double miracle can be explained by two factors:

First, the conscientious work of Ellis' fellow workmen who employed artificial respiration after a doctor had pronounced him dead from electrocution, and who thereby restored a life that seemed to have departed.

Second, an amazingly skillful job by doctors on the staff of the Toronto General hospital, who found a way to construct almost an entire artificial skull for him.

Got Terrible Shock

Ellis' case is one of the most astonding in medical annals.

It was on May 21, 1926, that he was electrocuted. An employe of the Eugenia Hydro-Electric company, he was working in a power house beneath an exposed copper line carrying electricity to the extent of 5000 horsepower, which supplied 28 Ontario towns. He was climbing a stepladder beside a horizontal row of iron pipes; the ladder slipped and he stepped upon the pipes to keep from falling. This brought his head in contact with the wire.

There was a blinding flash as a miniature thunder bolt leaped 25 feet to the ceiling and burned out a big porcelain insulator there. The nails in Ellis' shoes were welded to the iron pipe by the heat, and he was left suspended in midair. Fellow employes got him down and called a doctor. The 28 towns were plunged into darkness.

The doctor pronounced Ellis dead. But the power house workmen had been trained to employ resuscitation methods, always after an accident no matter how hopeless the outlook. They did so; and, after 45 minutes, Ellis stirred, began to breathe and regained consciousness.

He was taken to a hospital for treatment. At first it seemed that his troubles were over; then necrosis, or rotting of the bone tissue, set in in his skull.

Cut Away Skull

This disease progressed slowly. Finally, however, after 11 months, the doctors were compelled to cut away a piece of his skull, approximately 10 inches long and six inches wide, to save his life. Brain specialists in attendance said that he would never be able to leave his bed. Skin from his thigh was grafted over his exposed brain; but there was no bone under it.

Then came the second miracle.

With extreme care a mould of Ellis' head was taken. On it was constructed something unique—a bakelite artificial skull, light and strong. It was fitted into place—and presto! Ellis was himself again. The new skull extends from an inch behind the hairline in front to the back of the neck.

A few weeks ago he left the hospital and returned to his job at the power house. The electricity left him slightly lame in one leg, and he uses a cane to walk, but otherwise he is as well as ever. He drives his car to and from work, and displays as much energy and stamina as he had before the accident.

Ellis wears a wig over his artificial skull, and from his appearance no one would know that his head was not just like all the other heads in Toronto.

Dr. R. E. Gaby, who was in charge of the operations on Ellis, says that there is no reason why Ellis should not live to a ripe old age. If he is ever hit a sharp blow on the head, Dr. Gaby says, it will probably kill him; otherwise he can go his daily rounds without ever thinking about his artifical skull.

END OF HEAT WAVE NEARS

29 Deaths Recorded Over Nation

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (UP)—Cooling breezes which brought a slight drop in temperature tonight gave promise that the weather Bureau prediction of a break in the heat wave, which has caused 29 deaths in the past 72 hours, would be fulfilled.

The middlewest and northwest suffered the most fatalities and heat prostrations, although the torrid wave was felt throughout the southwestern states.

Twelve deaths, directly attributed to the heat, were reported in and near Chicago, where the temperature went above the 90 degree mark. The highest temperature here today, however, was 84.

The northwest was visited by the hottest temperatures of the season, causing 15 deaths. Heart trouble, induced by the heat, and drownings were included in this figure.

At Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., where national guardsmen are in training, 50 cases of prostration were treated.

One death and several prostrations occurred at Lincoln, Neb., where the temperature reached 97 degrees. Dallas, Texas, reported one death and two prostrations and a temperature of 96.

Manager Wilkus of the Norfolk, Neb., baseball team collapsed in the dugout at the ball park, where the mercury registered 100.

Numerous cities in the Southwest, particularly Kansas City, said that thousands of persons were sleeping in the parks and on porches to escape the uncomfortable heat.

Salesman Sentenced For Neglecting Family

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 10. (UP)—J. F. Meyers, sales manager for a vacuum cleaner company, was sentenced to 90 days in jail here today for failing to support his wife and five children because of his infatuation for Mrs. Hazel Winders, a Lincoln divorcee. Neighbors claimed Mrs. Meyers had collapsed from hunger.

Rent Receipts Assure Couple Paris Divorce

PARIS, Aug. 10. (UP)—Eleanor Winthrop lawyer of New York today was granted a divorce from her husband, Fritz Faber, an Austrian. The divorce was only granted after the production of rent receipts showing that the couple had resided in Paris four years, the necessary period to apply for a divorce in France.

Three Ships Ashore In St. Lawrence River

MONTREAL, Aug. 10. (UP)—Three ships today were reported ashore at Varennes, 20 miles down the St. Lawrence river from Montreal.

Passenger liners with a total of 2600 passengers aboard, were unable to proceed down the river because the channel was blocked.

Bootleggers To Lose Children

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 10. (UP)—The police of Denver have announced a movement to deprive convicted bootleggers of their children.

The drastic form of punishment is based upon the claim by police officials that children of bootleggers are subject to home influences which tend toward delinquency.

As an initial step in this new form of prohibition warfare, charges of contributing to juvenile delinquency have been filed against Mrs. Beatrice Rael, 33, who is now serving a 30-day county jail sentence after selling a pint of wine to a police undercover man.

The two children of Mrs. Rael—Esther, 10, and Susie, 6—have been placed in the Denver detention home. They will remain there until Mrs. Rael is released. Then a hearing on the delinquency charges will be held.

While police realize that the ultimate decision in these cases will rest with the juvenile court judge, they assert that it is within their jurisdiction to bring the charges. This they intend to do when they feel it necessary to disrupt liquor traffic, officials declare.

"Children are often used as a blind to cover an illicit trade in liquor," said Ed Young, head of the police dry squad. "Every possible effort will be made to put a stop to the practice."

Canada Launches Prohibition Drive

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 10. (UP)—A gigantic cleanup of Ontario border cities in which liquor stocks valued at millions of dollars were seized was continued today by government agents.

Every export company on the border was involved and no liquor warehouse escaped the raiders, officials said. Forty export concerns were given court summons for alleged liquor law violations. It was charged that liquor scheduled for export was being smuggled back into the province for distribution.

Attorney General W. H. Price said all companies concerned will be prosecuted and must appear before Sir Henry Brayton, chairman of the Ontario liquor control board.

The result, it was said, may be that no exports will be permitted to the United States.

The raids today were conducted over a 40-mile stretch along the river front, climaxing activities of agents which had been conducted on a small scale during the last month.

The provincial authorities said those exporters found guilty of moving liquor back into the province for sale to bootleggers who compete with the government sales would be liable to fines of as high as $1,000 each. The liquor stores would be confiscated.

Woman and Her Son Are Charged With Murder

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Aug. 10. (UP)—First degree murder charges were filed today against Mrs. Margaret Stephens, 38, and her son, William, alleged slayer of Mrs. Jennie Dilley. Officers claimed that Mrs. Stephens abetted her son in the murder.

CANCER GIVEN CLOSE STUDY

Science Makes Progress In Research

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (US)—Cancer, one of the outstanding and unsolved puzzles of medical science, is gradually being unravelled by science.

In a lecture today before the American Chemical institute meeting in Chicago, Dr. Ellice McDonald, director of cancer research at the University of Pennsylvania and the Philadelphia General hospital, pointed out that the biologist can now determine in advance susceptability or inclination to cancer.

The also explained that the medical practitioner can offset a suspected case of cancer by increasing the amount of calcium content of the blood through the administration of thyroid gland extract and other means.

"In other words," said the doctor, "a person who suspects that through inheritance he may be a likely subject for the disease of cancer in later life, may now be forewarned, and treated for those deficiencies in his blood which are suspected as the cause of cancer."

More people die of cancer than any other disease. The dangerous age is 45; below 30 only one per cent of deaths come from this disease.

"Cancer," explained Dr. McDonald, "is a disease of the human cells and so is subject to the laws regarding these cells. It is a disease of cell reproduction of cell manipulation, whereby the cell reproduces itself lawlessly and irresponsibly.

"The treatment of cancer can, therefore be intelligently directed and controlled by means of chemical analysis of the blood. A certain degree of relative acidity of the blood is therefore necessary to conditions of improvement in cancer patients."

Shriners to Plan Trip to Stamford

Plans for an entertainment at Stamford in September to be given by 300 Wichita Falls Shriners will be made at the regular Maskat temple meeting Tuesday night, according to Albert Ellis, Maskat temple recorder.

Arrangements for the regular fall cerenfonial in November will also be announced.

A feature of the meeting will be a report of the imperial council, which was held at Miami, Fla., in June, given by Guy Rogers.

Reports will also be given from the various Maskat temple working units including the degree team, band patrol, chanters and drum corps. All nobles have been requested by Martin D. Rowe, potentate, to attend the meeting.

Boy Scout Troop Returns From Camp

Troop 16, Wichita Falls Boy Scouts, returned Friday from a three-day encampment at Diversion dam.

The troop consists of 10 boys, led by Kenneth Erwin, scoutmaster.

Several merit badges and scout tests were passed during the stay at camp.

The boys who went on the outing were Phillip Blacklock, Elmer Tyle, Thomas Cox, Hal Roper, Jimmy Smith, Raymond Tarkenton, Robert Van Houten, Willard Wilkins, John Fooshaee, Baldon Brownlee.

Wichitan Completes Army Radio Course

Archie B. Smith of Wichita Falls has been graduated with a class of 140 students from the Army Signal Corps school, radio operators' course, at Fort Monmouth, N. J., according to an announcement received here from the army information service. Smith is a private, and upon returning to headquarters company, first infantry at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, the organization from which he entered the radio school, he will be eligible to promotion to the rank of army radio operator.

Tennessee and Alabama Listed as "Doubtful"

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (AP)—Returning from a survey through the South, Michael C. Walsh, Democratic candidate for congress, today said Gov. Alfred E. Smith would carry Kentucky, Georgia, Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana, but listed Tennessee and Alabama as "doubtful."

Could Hardly Walk Across the Floor

Lady Says, She Was Weak and Nervous; All Food Tasted Just Alike. Took Cardui and Soon Got Better.

Dallas, Texas.—Three years ago, I had a spell of sickness from which it looked like I just could not recover," says Mrs. C. S. Cain, 1830 Richardson Ave., this city. "After I got up and out of bed, I was so weak I could hardly get across the floor. It took a lot of strength to stay on my feet. I was not equal to doing my housework.

"All this time I was very nervous. I could not sleep, and had no appetite. All my food tasted just alike. I lost in weight and looked like a shadow. I dragged around, but was not able to do much. My back hurt continually, and I dreaded the pains which I had in my side.

"I tried several kinds of medicine, but it seemed like none of them did me any good. I was not getting my strength back, and I began to worry about myself.

"My mother had given me Cardui several years before when I was a young girl, so I made up my mind to take it again. I soon began to feel better. My appetite improved, I gained in weight, and my nerves got much better. I grew stronger, and in a few weeks felt better than I had in months."

Cardui has been in use by women for over 50 years. Sold by all druggists.

CARDUI

Helps Women to Health

Cardoseptic, for hygienic reasons, should be used by women as a mild, harmless detergent; 50 cts.

Magnolia Salesmen Confer Here On Uses of New Motor Fuels

Five Magnolia salesmen arrived in their tank trucks at the office of E. F. Crites recently for a mid-season conference and discussion of plans for advising motor fuel users as to the motors in which the latest motor fuel of the Magnolia Petroleum company, Magnolia anti-knock gasoline, can be expected to give superior performance.

"The problem of our salesmen has been made harder by the introduction with changing designs in motors of two different classes of gasoline," Mr. Crites said in telling the purpose of the conference. "They now carry in their trucks as many as two kinds of gasoline, kerosene and many grades of motor oils and lubricants. A customer will soon become dissatisfied if he gets the wrong oil or gasoline for the motors and equipment he is using.

"With the modern motor truck our salesmen serve users of petroleum products as far as 30 or more miles from the distributing station. As changes occur in our products to meet changes in motors and machinery we pass the information on to our salesmen and through them to our customers."

PATROL MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Maskat temple patrol will be held Monday night in the Shrine rooms on top of the City National bank building. Arrangements for the Shrine trip to Stamford and the fall ceremonial will be made, according to J. M. Williams, captain of the patrol.

POLICE GIVEN 'GAS' BULLETS

New Equipment Puts Victims to Sleep

When gas shells that may be fired from heavy calibre police pistols were carried to Electra early Friday morning by Wichita Falls police in the hunt for Tom Shook, former Electra chief of police, who was barricaded in his home, it was revealed that this city is one of the few with such equipment in this part of the country.

When George D. Fairtrace became city manager, one of his first acts was to order a supply of shells for police pistols and sawed off shot guns, and also hand grenades. The shells are filled with harmless gas which will put the victim to sleep for half an hour but will leave no ill effects and do no damage.

"Those shells and grenades cost $36," Mr. Fairtrace said. "Using them only once will pay for them hundreds of times over.

"Instead of shooting a man down, or instead of having a pitched battle with a man who may resist arrest, it is much simpler to overcome him with a harmless gas shell or grenade.

"Criminals at bay are sometimes capable of killing numbers of persons before they are captured. With a small shell such as a 45 caliber pistol shoots, a room may be filled with gas. It would be a comparatively simple matter to bombard any house with these gas shells and capture anyone within.

"The hand grenades are excellent in case of riots and they act instantly."

Past Ages Are Near

with Magnolia Anti-Knock Gasoline

Ages before the first white man came to America a race of Indians, living in cities composed of many-storied buildings, dwelt in the Great Southwest. The clear, dry climate of New Mexico and Southern Colorado has preserved many examples of their architecture. Something of their art still lives in the work of Zunis, Navajos and Pueblos. Some of their cities, abandoned for centuries, shelter only the mountain lion, the fox and wolf. Their land is now a haven for people who want to relax in mountain air and sunshine where man and nature have contrived unique human contrasts against a background of natural grandeur.

The Magnolia Man will be glad to furnish you with a free map giving latest highway information. With its aid you may visit these prehistoric cities and gain enjoyment from your car. It will also be helpful in planning week-end trips to natural beauty spots near you which afford happy recreation for all the family.

The full pleasure of the trip can be had by going in your car, properly conditioned and kept at its best with the correct motor fuel and lubricants. The Magnolia Man, near you all the way, has Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline, free from chemicals or poisonous compounds, regular Magnolia Gasoline and the right paraffine-base Magnolene Motor Oil, Transmission Oil or Grease to give you motoring at its best. Wife Realizes Too Late the Danger Of Indifference Toward Husband

The Wife Who Ignored the Dangers of Indifference. Why a Boy of Nineteen Should Not Marry a Woman Twelve Years His Senior —Husband Versus Pets.

Dear Miss Dix—Fifteen years ago I married one of the best men that ever lived because I was tired of working and supporting myself. I didn't love him. I loved no one but myself. I took all he offered and gave as little as I could in return. I never even tried to make him a comfortable home. He bore with me patiently for ten years when he woke up and told me that he no longer cared for me. Now I have discovered that I love him madly and have tried in vain to reawaken his old affection. We live in the same house and meet at meals, but that is all, and I am grateful even for that. Oh, what would I give for what I have thrown away! I wish that all indifferent wives might profit by my fate. —MRS. A. M. D.

Answer: So do I, Mrs. A. M. D., but the red lights that every divorce hangs out along the matrimonial road never seem to warn husbands and wives of the dangerous places where they are likely to skid and go over the embankment if they don't slow down and drive carefully.

Did you ever stop to think what a strange and pitiful thing it is that nearly all divorces are granted for the same causes? That almost every marriage that is a failure is one for the same reason? That practically all husbands and wives fall out of love with each other because of petty tyrannies and nagging and selfishness and lack of consideration?

This being the case, wouldn't you think that every young couple who got married would make a cast-iron resolve, and keep it, not to be guilty of the faults that they have seen alienate their friends and break up their homes? Wouldn't you think when they saw that the A's were ruining what ought to be a happy marriage by snarling and spitting at each other like an angry dog and cat they would refrain from quarreling? Wouldn't you think that when a bride saw Mrs. B. driving her husband away from her by her perpetual fault-finding she would bite her tongue off before she would criticize her own husband?

Wouldn't you think that when a man saw how Mr. C was taking all the joy out of life for his wife by his grouching he would resolve to be a little ray of sunshine in his own home? Wouldn't you think, when a man saw how Mr. D was killing his wife's love for him by never speaking to her except to find fault with her, and by starv- would take the trouble to jolly his wife along?

But they don't. Nobody is warned by another's experience. Such is human conceit that every husband and wife thinks that they can treat those to whom they are married just as badly as they want to, that they can be just as careless as they wish, and the partners of their bosoms will go right on loving them.

There is nothing more cynical in life than the fact that when we hear of a divorce among our friends our first comment almost always is: "Well, what did they expect? How did he or she think that he or she would get by with the way he or she did? How did the wife think that she would hold her husband if she let herself get frowsy and slovenly, or if she devoted all of her time to her children and gave none to him, or if she was peevish and fretful and uncomfortable to live with? Why did she think that he would not go off to some other woman who was pretty and attractive, and who flattered and cajoled him?

"What made the husband think his wife would keep on loving him when he was drunken or lazy or cross and surly or stingy or jealous? What made him think that she would continue to forgive his philandering?"

In your particular case you were not warned by all the women that you had seen lose good husbands because they were too selfish and self-centered to take the trouble to try to keep them. No more will others be warned by your fate, or else we would not have so many wrecked homes.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man, 19 years of age, in love with a woman who is 12 years my senior. She is clever, bright and cultured, but my parents oppose our marriage because of the discrepancy in our ages. They claim that a woman ages quicker than a man, and that when I am in my prime she will be an old woman. I cannot see the force of the objection and am inclined to disregard my parents' wishes. What is your advice?

—HORACE R.

Answer: It is a proof of your youthfulness that you are looking for a mother instead of a wife. That is the reason that you have not bestowed your affections upon a girl of your own age. Nearly every boy's first love is a woman much older than himself. It is part of the mother complex.

At 19 you are entirely too young to marry anybody of any age. Your taste is unformed and will change a dozen times before you really arrive at man's estate. Your judgment is not mature enough for you to risk it in the selection of a wife under any circumstance, but you would add to the hazard of the proceedings if you picked out a wife a dozen years older than you are. Wait until you are at least 25 years old. Then, if you are still in love with this woman, you will be assured that you like 'em old and prefer mature women to flappers. But you can't be certain of that now.

Two or three years' difference in age does not matter, but I think that for a woman to be 12 years older than her husband is entirely too great a difference in age, because, as your parents have assured you, women do age quicker than men do, and when you are still a young man wanting to run around and enjoy yourself, she will be an old woman who is tired and wants to sit by the fire.

But more than that is the fact that no woman who is much older than her husband can keep from being crazily jealous of him. Always in her mind is the knowledge that she is too old for him, and that youth calls to youth, and she never sees him with a pretty young girl of his own age, laughing and playing, without imagining that the girl is trying to take him away from her, and that he has tired of her and regrets his marriage. Which is generally only too true.

So if you marry a woman 12 years older than you are, reconcile yourself to the fact that she will treat you as if you were her little boy, and that she will tie you to her apron strings, and keep a wary eye on you always.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—My wife has a mania for dogs and cats. Our house is alive with them and they monopolize the easy-chairs. These creatures call out so much of her sympathies that she would rather see a tired member of the household stand up after a hard day's work than have her favorite cat disturbed in her nap. The animal odor in the house is sickening. This mania is growing. Can you give me some solution of the domestic crisis these pets are causing?

—GEORGE L.

Answer: There's no reasoning with a woman who has the pet-phobia. She prefers animals to human beings, and the only thing you can do is to clear out the menagerie forcibly. Tell her that she can choose between you and her dogs and cats, but that you refuse to live longer in a place that smells to high heaven. Perhaps she will realize that after all a husband who supports her is preferable to Fido. —DOROTHY DIX.

NO VISIBLE signs of activity except a few men and women venturing forth to the baseball game and clouds moving back and forth across the sky, as if preparing for action. And much as we need a cool breeze, we can't hope for rain, for haven't we just been told that no insect except the boll weevil could hope for rain these days?

What the cotton crop needs is a continuation of such weather as Wichita Falls has seen the last three days, and what the insignificant human beings about these parts need is a cool breeze now and then.

That's taking back what we've written to vacationists about Wichita Falls being a summer resort, but who ever expected this kind of weather?

SIGNS of a return to normal conditions is visible in the press of the last few days. Exciting and sensational shootings are still holding first place in column space, but Thursday's paper gave space to at least three stories of bank robberies and hold-ups in Oklahoma.

BUT IT CAN'T last much longer, for aren't fall garments already on display in the show windows? Fall can't be far away, now. But that fact doesn't make the sight of a furred and heavily lined coat and a black felt hat look any more welcome. Nothing but a powerful refrigeration plant in full operation, could sell many of those garments right away.

CHIC CHERIE

LATEST FASHIONS

Such things do happen even in the middle of summer. It isn't reasonable, of course, but the day is chilly. Which means a suit of white and red jersey for Cherie—a dress and jacket of worsted white jersey, a yoke and other trimmings of red knit jersey. Dina admits that the temperature is unreasonable by wearing a sweater of orchid colored lisle with a pleated skirt of white flannel and a white ballibunti hat. If you will look closely you can see that both Ernest and Eustace are excessively annoyed—that's because Cherie has been looking in an earnest and pleasant although quite lady-like manner at the new young man to the right. Does she want to know him? That's all the good it will do her!

He seems to be everywhere, this new young man, and to know everybody. Cherie is really sorry for him, the way he is wasting his time on these two uninteresting females. The only thing to be said for the females in question is that they know how to choose and wear their clothes. The dress to the left is of natural kashmir jersey trimmed with stripes of orange and brown. The spotted frock next to it is also kashmir jersey and the spots are embroidered ones in red and blue and green. More spots of the same sort on the beige felt hat. Cherie is wearing a zephyr three-piece costume with a design of metal threads. And here is Ernest coming up to spoil her campaign for the new man, again!

Elopers Not Favored in Judge's Laws

But He Got Married That Way Himself

By W. F. SULLIVAN

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (UP)—Blissful dove cotes which the sentimental song writers put to music are built up of shifting sands and the husband or wife who commits indiscretions to "tease" their mate is building a fire which eventually may destroy a happy abode.

Married two score years today, Judge Joseph Sabath of the superior court, stepped from the bench and handed down two tables of "ten commandments" for fireside observance before he left to enjoy a day's "honeymoon" with the girl with whom he eloped 40 years ago.

Judge Sabath, who is credited with having effected more reconciliations than any other judge in his long years on the divorce court bench, added a little of the "don't do as I do, but do as I say," in his judicial advice.

This was in respect to runaway marriages on which he placed an emphatic disapproval.

Still on Honeymoon

"I am not in favor of runaway marriages," the jurist said, "although I was married that way. I was 18 and my wife was 17. I didn't have a home, wanted one, got it and still have it. And I'm still on my honeymoon."

Idle flirtations by the wife and "other loves" by the husband were particular admonitions which Judge Sabath warned against. He advised the wife to send her husband to work in the morning with a good breakfast and greet him in the evening with a kiss.

The seventh commandment in each table was identical: "Avoid relatives' interference."

The judge's "laws" for the wife are:

1—Do not let yourself be treated as a weak, dependent little thing.

2—Be not afraid to soil your hands.

3—Do not be afraid of the big things in life—motherhood.

4—Do not make fun and tease your husband by idle flirtation, for you do not realize that you are stirring a fire which eventually may destroy you, and that your home is built upon shifting sands.

5—Show your husband that you love him and that he has your undivided affection—that he is the one of many in your life.

6—Make your husband assume the responsibilities of your home life, in cooperation with you, beyond financing it.

7—Avoid relatives' interference.

8—Give careful and personal attention to your husband's breakfast and meet him in the evening with a kiss.

9—Do not hold him to a strict account of all the promises he made as a lover, nor sing to him the praises of other women's husbands, suggesting how much more generous they are than he.

10—Do not treat your husband as if he were a trespasser in his own home.

Hubby's Commandments

For the husband he suggests:

1—Be faithful and kind to your wife.

2—Make her a real partner and pal.

3—Take her into your confidence and be a good fellow in every phase of your relationship with her.

4—Discuss all your problems, good or bad, with her, and bear in mind that she is not petty or small.

5—Show her that you actually love her.

6—Permit no other love to become between you and your wife.

7—Avoid relatives' interference.

8—Respect your wife's father and mother.

9—Supply her with sufficient funds to run the home comfortably.

10—Do not commit indiscretions that will lay you open to the suspicion of graver things.

Judge Sabath and his wife attended an anniversary luncheon given in their honor by several of their friends.

Monkey With Turn for Romance Seeks Love in Wrong Place

HOUSTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—Invigorated by baths in ultra-violet rays which restored his health lost because of a lack of sunlight, Jocko, inhabitant of Hermann park zoo, set out in search of love.

Jocko, however, turned his search in the wrong direction. A pigtail monkey himself, he sought to capture the love of Fanny, another pigtail recently brought here from the Straits settlements.

Fanny, romantic, returned the love-lorn monk's caresses, arousing the jealousy of her boy friend, Fritzy, who thought he was due some consideration for the trip with her from the Straits settlements to Houston.

Fritzy attempted to regain his sweetheart. When night came, beaten tired, he had retired to a corner of the cage, apparently ready to reconcile himself to the loss of the damsel, to whom Jocko still was making love.

The next morning, though, Jocko was the battered monk who sought refuge in a corner. And Fritzy was the monk who was caressing Fanny.

How it happened, Keeper Robert Morley could not say. But he put Jocko in a separate cage where he mourns a lost love and from which he can watch Fritzy and Fanny and moralize on the fickleness of maidens, for Fanny apparently has forgotten him.

FLIES CAUSE OF POISONING

Pest Blamed in Three Epidemics in City

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 10. (UP)—Kansas City is suffering from an invasion of poison-bearing flies, O. C. Murphy, commissioner of sanitation, declared late today after he investigated another food poisoning case in which 150 employes of a hospital were made ill.

The poisoning cases were the third series of food contamination to be reported here this summer and the second seige in the general hospital of Kansas City. The first occurred in the hospital July 17, the second resulted from pies that were sold by a local bakery and the third attack occurred again in the general hospital.

Approximately 150 of the 325 employes of the hospital were made ill, presumably from eating creamed veal on toast. The earlier cases occurred after chicken salad was served to the employes. The patients were not given the food suspected of causing the poison either time and they did not suffer.

Nearly all of the 85 student and graduate nurses at the hospital were made ill, but they had to continue their duties because there is no one to relieve them. Mrs. Margaret Curry, 50, superintendent of the laundry department, was confined to her bed. Charles Maders and George Hunt, orderlies, were made most seriously ill. Maids, orderlies, internes and office clerks were among those poisoned.

Less than two weeks ago cream pies sold by a local bakery were blamed for causing several cases of poisoning. The bakery has discontinued making the cream pies during the summer and tests conducted with guinea pigs revealed that green bottle flies have poisoned the pies.

Recurrence of a food poisoning scare at the hospital resulted in a ban being placed on the serving of creamed dishes and highly seasoned salads during the summer months.

Kellogg Silent About Jap Row

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (UP)—The Japanese quarrel with China over Manchuria is considered too delicate by Secretary of State Kellogg for him to discuss publicly, he made known today, following press dispatches from Tokio saying the nationalist government had been warned by Japan against permitting the Manchurian government to join the regime at Nanking.

The Japanese government also warned the nationalist regime, according to Tokio reports that "suitable measures" would be taken by Japan unless the attitude of the nationalists towards Japan's "special rights" in China were modified.

Questioned as to whether he considered this action by Japan a violation of the administrative integrity of China as guaranteed by the United States, Japan and other powers under Theshnine-Power Washington treaty, Kellogg said it would be "unwise for me to pass upon this point in full at the present time."

Sam Houston Libel Suits Transferred

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 10. (UP)—Five libel suits in which descendants of Gen. Sam Houston seek a total of $600,000 damages from Liberty magazine were transferred to United States district court today from 96th district court.

The transfer was ordered by Judge Hal Lattimore because of diversity of citizenship and amount involved in the suits.

Plaintiffs in the suits are Mrs. Temple Houston, Richard C. Houston, Sam Houston, Temple Houston and Mrs. W. C. Henderson.

The libel suits were outgrowth of an article published by Liberty magazine, which termed Sam Houston's son, Temple, now deceased, "a wild one," and born out of wedlock, the son of an Indian squaw.

California Farm Study Trip Starts Sept. 1

STAMFORD, Texas, Aug. 10. (AP)—Date for the first farm study trip to California, sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, under direction of Exhibit-Agricultural Manager B. M. Whiteker, has been set for September 1, and Abilene, Texas, has been designated as the starting point.

Applications for the tour are to be sent to the headquarters office of the West Texas organization at Stamford not later than August 25 so that transportation arrangements can be made. As the travel accommodations are limited, the first 25 applicants received will form the personnel of the party.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK.—It takes nine bureaus within the New York Telephone company to supply New York with information that in many cases can be found within the covers of the handy telephone book. Five-sixths of all telephone numbers for which inquiries are made can be obtained in the directories. It therefire takes nearly a 1000 operators to satisfy the demands that come with the operation of about 1,625,000 telephones with which the city is equipped. Of course with this large list of subscribers there is a correspondingly large demand for information. These bureaus respond to about 125,000 calls a day and the questions asked are varying to a large degree. Newspaper offices are usually called to settle bets and to get much live information. Not long ago one editor was rung up and asked "what parade am I looking at?"

"Where are you?" he was asked. "Thirty-fourth street," came back. "It's a funeral," re was informed. "Thanks," he replied, "I must have missed the hearse."

The city employe who covered the Belgian blocks with asphalt at Broadway and Chambers street did a good job. He did not spare the sticky substance and his boss gave him an o. k. for the manner in whichc he did his work. That was when the weather was cold.

With the sizzling heat of last week the cross-walk was a vertible moving mass of asphalt. Soles stuck and were hard to pull loose.

A pretty girl in a pretty frock and feet incased in the neatest of pumps started to negotiate the crossing. She was in a hurry and apparently had paid little attention to the footing. With the whistle of Policeman Taylor that traffic could cross east and west, she started. The fourth step took her to the sticky mess and right away she stepped out of her shoe and a pretty silk stocking on a very pretty foot plumped down into the mass. Then she lost her temper. She did not lose her shoe, but she tugged and pulled to free it and then she had to place her already sticky stocking inside.

The chorus girls from "Good News," now playing at the Mayan theater in Los Angeles, are "dragging" in theih best "varsity" manner in one of the "Confessions of a Chorus Girl" pictures which Christie is filming for Paramount. Bill Holland is directing the girls, with Frances Lee, Billy Engle, Eddie Clayton and the other principals in the backstage comedy romance.

Estelle Taylor is now in New York, with high hopes that she may make a picture before returning to the Coast. She is, of course, coming primarily to start rehearsals on "The Big Fight," a play in which she will appear with her husband, Jack Dempsey. A clause in her contract with Belasco permits her to leave the cast at any time on two week's notice, make a picture and return to the cast.

Like many another screen player, Miss Taylor is appearing on the stage chiefly for the sake of training her voice for talking films.

LATE ADVICE

Advice, you know, is useful stuff
If it arrives in time.
But when it comes a second late,
It isn't worth a dime.
And it's my luck, or lack of luck,
When I try something new,
And seek advice, it always comes
Too late to help me through.

This late advice that comes to me
To late to help, you know,
Quite often sadly shakes its head,
And wails: "I told you so!"

ABE MARTIN

Miss Mamie Lark was knocked down by a Ford while lightin' th' parlor lamp last night. Prohibition is still a theory, an' not a condition.

Penalizing Children

THE RECORDS of the California health department will never again list the word "illegitimate" after the record of any child's birth.

"All birth are legitimate," says a ruling from the board, "and all children are legitimately born."

This follows a similar remark by Superior Judge Leon Yankwich of Los Angeles, who was hearing a suit in which one of the figures was a child born to unmarried parents. References by the contending lawyers to the illegitimacy of the child irked the judge, and at last he burst out:

"The are no illegitimate children—only illegitimate parents."

And the health board issed the following statement explaining its rule:

"If there is any illegitimacy involved in the process it pertains to the parents and not to the children. There may be illegitimate parents, but it is to be deplored that many sections of our so-called civilized society still insist on stigmatizing the children. This is a relic of the dark ages and should be abrogated without further delay from our minds and actions."

That's all perfectly true, and we can hope that other states can follow suit. Penalizing a child for the misdeeds of its parents is pretty shoddy stuff.

But the matter of illegitimacy isn't the only one in which children have to pay for what their parents have done or have left undone.

Go through any city and make a little tour of inspection. Visit, first, the "better class" residence districts. You'll see big, roomy houses, shaded by elms and maples, with smooth lawns where kids can run and tumble and play all day long, enjoying sunlight and fresh air and good health and safety. These kids get plenty to eat and have nice cool places to sleep; when they're sick they get the best medical care, and they have lots of nice shiny toys to play with. Their fathers, you see, are successful men and have plenty of money.

Then go down to the poorer quarters. You won't have any trouble finding them, even in this great and prosperous age. There aren't any smooth lawns or big shade trees there. The children play in the hot, dirty streets and now and then one or another of them gets its life crushed out by a truck. In the summer the kids swelter and fret at night, maybe sleeping out on fire escapes to get a little breeze. If they get sick they're apt to be out of luck; maybe the doctor can't be called until it's too late, if at all.

What have these children done, that they should have so much less than the others? Nothing; they just happen to have fathers who don't earn as much money as the other children's fathers. They're being penalized, in a dreadful way, for the shortcomings or hard luck of their parents.

Don't ask us what the solution is. We don't know. And don't get to thinking about it too much, or you may get some notions that are too radical for a contented and wealthy nation like ours.

A Comparison of Wages

IF YOU don't think that the American laborer is a whole lot better off than his European contemporaries, glance at these figures just issued by the department of labor.

Bricklayers, for instance, average the following daily wages: in France, $1.57; in Germany, $1.84; in Austria, $1.39; in the United States, $12.56.

Carpenters fare thus: in England, $2.96; in Germany, $1.86; in Italy, $1.82; in the United States, $10.16.

Building trades laborers draw these daily rates: in Austria, $1.12; in Germany, $1.47; in Italy, 80c; in the United States, $4.00.

And that difference isn't eaten up by higher costs of living, either. Wages in this country now average 129 per cent higher than in 1913, while living costs are only 75 per cent higher. In other words, an hour of work today will enable an American workman to buy 30 per cent more than it would buy him before the war.

Greater Fruit Shipment

THE Bureau of Railway Economics, at Washington, reveals that rail shipments of fresh fruits and vegetables have practically doubled in the last ten years. The increase is due largely to improvements in methods of transportation of such perishable commodities.

This represents a real service to the nation as a whole. It has meant that more and more people have been able to enjoy such foods "out of season"; the housewife no longer has to rely on the can-opener between September and July. The inhabitant of the northern part of the country no longer finds his winter diet a vastly different affair from his summer diet. Both his health and his enjoyment of life have been enhanced.

THE OLD FOLKS

Thank God for the old folks! They supply the balance so necessary in not only this but every day and age.

Youth may rail at the older generation for being "old fogies" and "behind the times." But snowy crowns bring a seasoning of reasoning which the snap judgment of youth lacks. Old age can hark back and profit from years of experience while youth, though fired with enthusiasm and ambition, has yet to undergo the ordeal of fire. This "pep" in youth is, of course, a component part of life, but we also need that sageness and maturity of opinion which comes only from advanced age.

POLITICAL GOBLINS PAST

Years ago there was horror in the words whiskey, corporations, Tammany, and religious intolerance. Corporations have come to be the working man's best friend and whiskey, Tammany, and religious troubles simply things dead as far as we are concerned. To the younger generation it all means little except to those few who heed the tales they hear coming from politicians and ignorance. The days of the Goblins are over and mature men and women will not be frightened by the threat that they will "get" them.

PASSING OF A FRIEND OF EDUCATION

Judge V. W. Grubbs died at his late home at Santa Anna, Calif., July 31. He was formerly of Greenville, Texas, and had many friends in this city and county, as well as elsewhere over the state. As a member of the state legislature, he was largely the father of industrial education for Texas women. His memory will be revered by many throughout the Lone Star state.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service — NEA FICTION — by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Virginia Brewster is in love with Nathaniel Dann, but she is tricked into promising to marry Frederick Dean in one year if she fails to earn $100,000 that he alleges her father cheated him out of. Brewster had lost his fortune before his death and Virginia is left destitute.

She pawns her jewelry and Oliver Cutter promises to invest the money for her. She seeks work without success, and discovers that Dean has bribed the agency not to help her. Oliver gains her confidence and shows her attention which Niel resents, but she does not like the way his model, Chiri, treats him.

Finally Virginia obtains a position she likes. Shortly afterward she is charged by Cutter's wife with trying to alienate his affections.

She appeals to him to explain, and demands an accounting of her investments. He confesses that he has not made any money for her, but says that he will give her any amount if she will go away with him. She denounces him and leaves the office.

Her firm requests her to go on a voyage as ship hostess. This separation, together with the Cutter affair on one hand and Chiri on the other, cause a lovers' quarrel between her and Niel which is not mended before Virginia sails.

They both suffer, but her work and the hope of getting aid from one of her father's friends, O. D. Leigh, in Haiti, helps Virginia endure the heartache. Arriving at Haiti, she goes out to the sugar plantation of Leigh.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XLV

Ten minutes after Virginia entered "Oddly" Leigh's sickroom she had buried her hopes forever. He did not confide directly that he was a ruined man but it was apparent in everything she saw and in what he left unsaid.

He had heard of her father's death. Virginia, sitting in a chair drawn close to his bedside, saw a flicker of pain pass over his face as he mentioned Richard Brewster's name.

Finally he asked Virginia who had come out to the plantation with her. She rather sought to evade answering him.

"I'm afraid our reception of visitors doesn't do us much credit," he said with a smile that wrung Virginia's heart. "The overseer is away. His wife was my housekeeper. I haven't been able to get down for a few days to see what old Rastus is doing."

Virginia was not taken in by his reference to his illness as a short one. It would have been evident to anyone that he had not been out of his bed for much longer than a few days.

"It was a relief to find you have someone here who can speak English," Virginia replied, smiling back at him.

"Rastus is a godsend," Leigh returned promptly. "I don't know what I'd do without him. He needs a lot of bossing, though. We will have to tell him just what to do about lunch. He's chief cook and bottle washer for the present."

Virginia thought she detected a new note of concern in his voice and concluded that he was troubling himself over her entertainment.

"I'm afraid I can't stay to lunch," she said. "I must get back to the ship."

Leigh did not answer for a moment but Virginia saw a look of disappointment spread over his face. He made a movement to pull himself farther up on his pillow. Weakness forced him back.

"If you'll just be so good as to call Rastus I'll have him get you something," he muttered. "Hot drive out. You must be parched."

"Please don't bother," Virginia pleaded. "We'll be going in a few minutes."

Mr. Leigh turned a searching glance upon her and Virginia read something in it that cut her deeply.

"I'm sorry," he said. "When Rastus brought me your card I hoped that you were staying at least until the next boat. There's a lot I'd like to talk about to Richard Brewster's daughter."

Virginia's eyes smarted with tears. It was plain to see that he believed she was influenced by concern for her personal comfort—that she was not very deeply interested in her father's old friend.

"It's unfortunate that I can't offer you any decent hospitality just now," he went on. "If you had cabled me I'd have had the place put to rights."

"Oh," Virginia exclaimed involuntarily. "I'd love to stay, dear Mr. Leigh, but you see I can't. I . . ." she stopped. She had not told him of her reduced circumstances. He did not know that her time blonged to the Blue Capella.

He laughed, a bit hollowly. "Don't trouble to disguise your feelings, my dear," he said. "I know you couldn't endure this place. Old Rastus prefers teaching the field boys to shoot craps than to do his duty, I fear."

Virginia could not bear to have him think her a snob. She leaned forward and placed a hand on his. "Please don't misunderstand me," she said softly. "I must get back to the ship because I am the hostess engaged by the line to turn the Agena into a floating home where the passengers all are guests."

Leigh was amazed. "Why in the world are you doing that?" he exclaimed.

Virginia swallowed hard, and told him a beautiful lie. "Don't you know that most of the girls of my set are going in for self-expression?" she asked. "I thought it would be worth while to do something useful, and besides, coming down here afforded me an opportunity to meet you. Father used to talk about you a great deal. I know that you saved his life," she added simply.

He placed a hand over hers, pressed it tenderly. Virginia felt his eyes searching through hers, weighing her, but she felt safe because there were some things she did not know about "Oddly."

One of these was his ability to read through the eyes. It might have been a natural gift but if so it had been developed to a higher degree during the years he had spent as a big game hunter in the jungles.

He had learned to know what a beast meant to do in the same fraction of time required to send the order for action from the mind of the animal to its muscles. He needed only a glance at its eyes.

He knew also that when a woman lied, for good or evil, wild asses could not drag the truth from her if she really did not wish to tell it. So he asked no questions of Virginia.

She sat and talked a little longer, on her promise to let Rastus serve her and Miss Webster—she spoke of her now—with tea. She called the servant and his master ordered him to prepare iced tea and cakes, and to refresh their driver and pony.

Then Virginia said goodbye to "Oddly" Leigh.

Somehow she staggered down the dim stairs without mishap and out into the dazzling glare of the sunlight. Miss Webster called to her from the cleared patch under some thickly grown trees.

"Have you seen a ghost?" the stewardess exclaimed when Virginia reached her. She got up and gave the girl the chair. "Well, I don't doubt it. Everything is dead around here. I never saw such a terrible mess. I've been poking around. There isn't a house boy on the place except that wooly-headed darkey from the States. And I don't believe there's anyone at work in the fields, at all."

Virginia covered her eyes with her hands. "I know," she said. "Please don't talk about it. It is very sad. If you will fetch another chair we will stay a moment. Rastus is getting us some iced tea."

"Iced tea!" Miss Webster snorted. "If there is any ice on this place, I'm an Eskimo." She went for the chair and returned grumbling about the dust that covered it.

Virginia paid no heed to her. She was sunk in dejection. Her sacrifice of time had been in vain. Futile. She was no nearer her goal than when she started. And there was the remainder of the cruise to be endured, while back in New York Nathaniel. . . .

"No, she dared not let her mind dwell on what might be transpiring there. She'd go mad if she let herself think of Nathaniel turning to Chiri for comfort.

Presently Rastus came with a cane table and then returned to the house for the tea. It looked very refreshing in the tall glasses with slices of lime and orange. But it was not cold. In fact, tepid.

"The ice machine done broke itself this mawnin'," he apologized.

Miss Webster rattled on with her "I told you so's," while Virginia sipped from her glass in silence.

Just before they were leaving she asked Rastus about his master. "How long has he been ill?"

"I dunno, Missy. He ain' been out o' bed for mos' sev'l weeks. I'se 'fraid he ain' goin' to get well; he's a broke man.'

"Can't you persuade him to call a doctor?"

"Ain't no doctor goin' bring him back what he los'."

Virginia reflected over that remark on the way back to the city. The servant was right. "Oddly" Leigh was a broken man. His plantation was neglected, his house falling to ruin and he himself laid low with no one to attend him save one lone old darkey.

It had been impossible to burden him with another's troubles. Even had she done so the indications were that it would have been of no avail. A prosperous man did not live as she had found Oddly Leigh. Virginia guessed that he had impoverished himself in an attempt to buy his wife's departure from the West Indies. Certainly his plantation looked as if it had been sacrificed for lack of funds to keep it up.

It could not be worth $100,000. And if it could bring that much she could not ask the man who owed her nothing to deprive himself of his last penny to save her or even her father's honor.

Had he not once saved her father's life? What was $25.000 compared to that? No, Virginia had to admit, "Old Oddly" owed her nothing.

Virginia did not go again to visit him. For two reasons: her time was too fully taken up and she could not go through such an emotional crisis again without losing control of herself.

The first night after her visit to Leigh it had been necessary for the physician aboard the ship to attend her for an attack of hysteria. He was watching her very closely now, warning her against a repetition of the cause of the attack. Virginia had told him enough of the visit to explain why it upset her so.

She tried to make up for her neglect by sending out boxes of delicacies, some of which she bought from the ship's stores, books and magazines the passengers had discarded, and little notes of cheer.

In return Mr. Leigh sent her gorgeous flowers, mostly roses, but now and then a potted poinsettia plant, with blooms more than a foot in diameter.

Before the Agena left Port au Prince Virginia received a letter from Nathaniel. It had arrived on a mail boat that had not stopped long in Havana, but she knew it must have been written within a few days after she left New York.

Time enough, however, for Neil to write calmly. Virginia tore open the envelope with eager, trembling fingers.

Confederate States Revolt Against Al Is "Lot of Loose Talk," Says Pat

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (US)—Republican predictions about the old Confederate states of the South turning against the Democratic party to defeat Gov. Alfred E. Smith were characterized today as a "lot of loose talk" by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, on his return from a tour of the South.

The fiery Mississippian revealed that unprecedented steps are being taken in the South to keep it "solid." The organization work will not go to the extent of establishing a headquarters in the South, as suggested by Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Smith's running mate, it was indicated.

During his stay in the South, Harrison delivered several speeches urging the Democrats of that section to remain steadfast in the political faith of their fathers. Many other Southern congressmen also are busy demanding support of the Smith-Robinson ticket.

Support of Harrison's view of the situation in the South was given by Walter F. Livingston, prominent business man of Charleston, S. C., who called at Democratic headquarters. In his statement, however, he also indicated that the nomination of Governor Smith had credited an unusual situation for that section.

Al's Outlook Bright

"Things in the South look better for Smith than was believed possible by the most hopeful a few months ago," said Livingston. "There has been a noticeable decrease in religious prejudice ever since the Houston convention and most of the more important men in the states are already firmly seated on the Smith band-wagon.

"The few of prominence who still are outside the fold will join up before many weeks have passed, in my opinion. There will be a larger Democratic vote cast in this election than ever before in Democratic history, according to all signs."

The get-the-vote movement in the South also was emphasized by Harrison. It is evident that the Democrats in the South see reason for polling a larger vote in the general election than ever has been necessary in the past when the primaries settled disputes within the party and there were no contests at the general election.

"The Democratic campaign in the South is rapidly getting under way," said Harrison. "The true and loyal Democrats of that section are champing at the bit to get organized and going. There are some defections in the South caused by erroneous impressions created by Republican propaganda against the Democratic nominees. This propaganda is being exposed and the more the records and views of Governor Smith are understood by the people in that section the stronger is the sentiment for him.

Every state in the South is beginning to organize through the establishment of headquarters and within a few weeks we will have perfected the most thorough organization in the history of the party and in a very short while you will not hear any more of this loose talk about any Southern state not voting for the Democratic national ticket."

The Up-to-Date Atlas Who Carried the World on His Shoulders

By GEORGE ADE

Once there lived in a half-portion Town a glowing Intellect who was Posted on all the Issues of the Day. Someone had to keep Cases on the Government and prevent the whole Outfit from getting out of Kelter, and so the Job fell to Mordecai F. Quinsy. Mr. Quinsy found that he could give his Time to regulating Affairs at Washington, because his wife did Sewing and his Daughter was an Expert Stenographer. Between them they kept him supplied with good 5-cent Cigars and relieved his Mind of all Business cares.

He had nothing to worry him except Affairs of State.

When he tackled a large International Problem he could do so with a keen, active Brain that had not been fagged out by any cheap Exertion, such as trying to locate the Winter's Supply of Coal.

Mr. Quinsy had the solemn Phiz of a professional Pall-Bearer, and much meditation had corrugated the Front of the Dome. Those who merely caught one Flash of him and never looked up his Record and checked off his Pedigree thought he was about due to break into the Senate.

To tell the cold and icy truth, Mordecai could not have been elected Constable, but just the same he knew all about Mr. Kellogg's next Move, and sometimes he fretted a good deal for Fear that Frank would permit himself to be Hornswaggled by them foreign Diplomats.

Another thing that worried Mr. Quinsy a lot was the possibility that Calvin would make some serious Mistake. He felt more or less responsible for Calvin inasmuch as he had formally nominated him as Vice President in front of Pilkin's Hardware Store as far back as 1917. The trouble was that Mr. Quinsy was out of Peewee Junction and Cal was up at Washington, and they could not get together to frame up a Policy.

On a Close Schedule

Mr. Quinsy was a man of Regular Habits and very Methodical. He had so much to do every Day and he had to work on a close Schedule.

In the Morning, after his Wife had arisen and started the Fire and put on the Griddle, Mr. Mordecai F. Quinsy would arise and take a few Observations of the Weather. He was a very able Prognosticator, and one of his favorite Stunts was to get up in the Morning and do a little Forecasting for the benefit of His Wife and Daughter.

After breakfast he put on his Overcoat and wrapped himself up in a Comforter so as not to catch Cold and lose the Use of his Voice. If Mordecai F. Quinsy had lost the use of his Voice this Country would have been in a Bad Way.

Mr. Quinsy knew a Druggist who took a Daily Paper, and so, the first thing every morning, he went to the Drug Store to find out what Fool Break had been made by Congress. After reading the Paper he sat by the Stove and laid out some Work for the Ways and Means Committee.

After which he went down to the Station to see Number Six go through.

After which he went up to the Post-Office to wait until the Mail had been distributed. One day in 1920 Mordecai received a Seed Catalogue, and after that he was encouraged. While Waiting for his Mail Mr. Quinsy said a few plain Words about the League of Nations.

About 11 o'clock every day Mr. Quinsy acted as Referee in a Pool Game and then went over to the Barber Shop to look at the Illustrated Papers containing the Pictures of Screen Favorites and Noted Criminals. Mr. Quinsy was depely interested in all Murder Mysteries, and for every Case he had a few Theories of his own that would have been a great help to the Police.

A Weak Back

Just at 12 o'clock Mr. Quinsy went home and ate a hearty Dinner, after which he returned to Main Street smoking a Farm-Hand Regalia and gazing thoughtfully at the Ground, trying to straighten out the Naval Reducing problem.

In the Afternoon he hung around the Court-House more or less because he played a good game of Checkers, and besides he liked to be on hand in case the State needed the Services of an unprejudiced Juror.

Mr. Quinsy had a weak Back, which prevented him from splitting Wood, but he loved some kinds of Work, and the Honest Toil that suited him best was to sit on a Jury in a Case involving Assault and Battery.

If there was nothing doing at the Court-House, Mr. Quinsy usually went to the Real-Estate Office and wrangled with the Trust Problem. He had given much Thought to the Matter of legislating against infamous Combines, and he was one of the first to discover that the Trusts were trying to whip-saw the Working Classes.

About the time that he had solved the Trust Problem he had to go over and see the Afternoon Train go through and wait for his Mail once more.

Late in the Day he usually dropped in at an Undertaker's Shop where a Veterinary Surgeon and a retired Truck Farmer were collaborating on a Foreign Policy for the State Department. Mr. Quinsy was always able to slip in a few suggestions.

At 5:30 he would purchase a Pound of Oyster Crackers and have them charged. Then he would go home to Tea, and tell Mrs. Quinsy and Daughter to fix up the Sofa for him, as he was suffering from a Headache and wanted to Rest for a little while.

FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By MAY McAVOY

Other than being a big movie star, May McAvoy is a cute little kid with a baby smile. Came clean from New York to Hollywood to be a school teacher, but let a movie director talk her into playing in a picture called "The Truth About Husbands."

May used to be that way about Bobby Agnew, screen juvenile, and the following joke. Her love for the joke hasn't changed.

"Over at the studio they employ a big, fat Irishman who works as an electrician," she said. "He was assigned to the staff who were making my last picture. One morning he failed to appear on the set, and did not return for several days.

"When at last he did report back for work his head was swathed in bandages.

"'What's the big idea of the huge bump on your head?' I asked.

"'Appendicitis,' replied the Irishman.

"'Appendicitis on your head?'

"'Well, no—but you see they happened to run out of ether.'"

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, August 12th:

Sunday—Breakfast: Coddled egg, small piece of ham, waffle. Lunch: Fresh berries with milk or cream (no sugar). Dinner: Baked chicken, Melba toast dressing, asparagus head lettuce and celery, ice cream (small portion).

Monday—Breakfast: Cottage cheese, Melba toast, sliced pineapple. Lunch: Grapes as desired. Dinner: Boiled fresh tongue, buttered vegetables, celery, jello or jell-well with cream.

Tuesday—Breakfast: French omelet, toasted triscuit, stewed prunes. Lunch: Watermelon as desired. Dinner: Salisbury steak, cooked spinach, McCoy salad, baked pears.

Wednesday—Breakfast: Wholewheat-raisin muffins, crisp bacon. Lunch: Ice cream with berries. Dinner: Leg of mutton, cooked string beans, salad of grated raw carrots on lettuce, pineapple whip.

Thursday—Breakfast: Poached egg on Melba toast, stewed apricots. Lunch: Ripe plums as desired. Dinner: Roast pork, cooked spinach, summer squash, celery and ripe olives, baked apple.

Friday—Breakfast: Re-toasted breakfast food, with milk or cream, (no sugar), stewed peaches. Lunch: Melon as desired. Dinner: Baked sea bass, cooked string beans, egg plant, salad of sliced tomatoes, plain jello.

Saturday—Breakfast: French omelet, Melba toast, baked apple. Lunch: Ice cream with a fresh acid fruit. Dinner: Stuffed and rolled round steak, head lettuce, prune whip.

"Wholewheat-Raisin Muffins: To a well beaten egg add one cupful of sweet milk: Stir in one cupful of real wholewheat flour and beat until smooth, then add a half cupful of the wholewheat flour into which has been sifted one level teaspoonful of baking powder. Next add a half cup of seedless raisins which have been slightly floured. Mix thoroughly and bake in muffin tins in a moderately hot oven until brown. The quantity makes about eight muffins.

Questions and Answers

Question—X. Y. Z. asks: "Will you kindly state through the column whether or not you approve of sulphur for blood purification? Also, whether there is any cure for pinguecula or pterygium."

Answer: No to the question on sulphur. It is much better to fast and diet scientifically to bring about blood purification. The disease you have named mean formations on the corner of the eye which are due to irritations from some cause such as outside infection through dust or bacteria or from an overacid secretion of the eye lubricants. This trouble can be checked and even cured by proper dieting and the use of a simple eye wash applied several times daily.

Question—Mrs. J. M. B. writes: "You say when making Melba toast to use white bread and cut all the crust away. Why not use wholewheat, and leave crust on the slices?"

Answer: I suggest cutting away the crust as it has already been "toasted" in the original baking of the loaf, and will burn before the inside of the slice is sufficiently dextrinized. The average wholewheat bread, which is made partly of white flour, may be used in making Melba toast, but the real wholewheat bread, if toasted through, develops a bitter taste because of the burning of the protein and bran elements. Wholewheat bread only partially toasted makes an excellent food if there is no reason why you should not use the starch which it contains.

Question—K. L. asks: "What is arthritis, what are its causes? Everyone seems to have a different definition of it."

Answer: Arthritis simply means rheumatism in the joints. Acute inflammatory rheumatism is sometimes found in the muscles, but most rheumatism, including arthritis, comes from a deposit of rheumatic toxins in the joints.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE — (370) CHILD'S BLACKBOARD

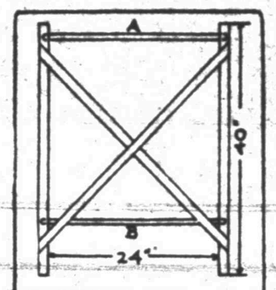

A toy which is interesting and inexpensive is this blackboard for children. The material used may be oak, seven-eighths inch by one and one-half inches, though other woods may be used. A piece of wallboard painted with blackboard paint will serve for the writing surface. The frame should be rabbeted deep enough to allow the blackboard to be covered in the back with quarter-inch soft pine.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-28.

The pine boards should be placed on the back of the board to stiffen and support the writing surface. Here is a side view.

The stretchers, marked A and B in this rear view of the board, are half-inch dowel pins. Cross strips are three-eighths by an inch.

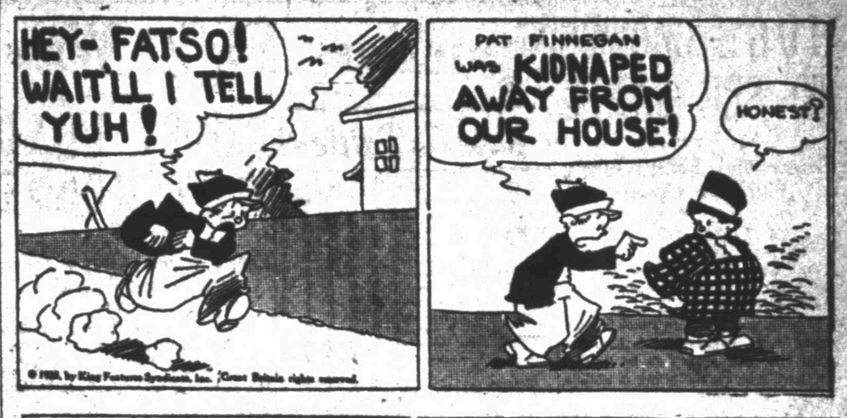

When this blackboard is stained a dark color and given several coats of varnish, it gives a most pleasing appearance. In rabbeting for the writing surface, use the same principles that you employed when making the picture frame. Use your own judgment as to the size of the groove you want to fit the wall board into.

BUFFALOES HERE TODAY FOR DECISIVE FOUR-GAME SERIES

HUGE CROWDS TO SEE GAMES

Shores and Barnes Likely Hurlers in Opener

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Our Spudders and the Houston Buffaloes start their decisive series today at Athletic park.

Championship of the Texas league, or at least the second half, rests with the four games to be played in three games, including a double header tomorrow.

Fighting their way back to the league leadership after relinquishing that place in losing three straight recently at Houston, the Spudders are two games in the van of the Buffs. They are in the midst of a winning streak that yesterday extended to 11 straight, the longest unbeaten record of a Texas loop club this season, and bettering by one the mark of the champion Wichita Falls team of 1927.

Probable Pitchers

Realizing the vast importance of getting away to a running start in this series, Managers Jim Galloway of the Spudders and Frank Snyder of the Buffs will send among their foremost hurlers to the mound today. Bill Shores or Herb Cobb, the slender Pinetop, N. C., gentleman, both right-handers, will be Galloway's choice. Shores is expected to draw the assignment as Cobb has worked since Bill pitched.

Frank Barnes, a left-hander, seemed today to be Snyder's logical hill selection as Bill Hallahan, who was a likely starter in the opener, worked part of yesterday's contest at Fort Worth.

In the event Shores works today without the necessity of relief, Cobb and Payne probably will pitch Sunday's double header, with Cvengros hurling Monday. That, however, is mere conjecture.

Record crowds for league championship games are expected to see the series. More than 7,500 probably will attend tomorrow's double bill, judging by the advance ticket sale. It is probable that more than 3,000 will see the opener today and a like number or more will attend the final Monday.

Fandom of Wichita Falls and vicinity is awaiting the Spud-Buff series with intense interest. Reservations for reserved seats and boxes for Sunday's game have been made from numerous nearby cities, including 100 each from Vernon, Electra an Burkburnett. While the reserved and box seats are selling fast there still is a large supply of tickets available at the Miller and the Renfro Drug stores, the distribution centers. This was made possible through the cancellation of a block of 500 reserved seats by Houston fans when plans for a special train failed to materalize.

Roberts to Attend

Doubtless the Buff fans are planning on returning here to see the playoff games, anticipating the Spudders will win the second half and meet the Buffs, who captured the first half.

J. Doak Roberts, president of the Texas league, has advised officials of the Spudders that he will attend the series. While he made no announcement on the umpires, it is assumed that Kane and Donohue, who worked the Beaumont series that closed yesterday, will be arbiters in the Spudder-Buff games, possibly assisted by a third indicator holder, who may be Hunter Hill.

Athletes of both clubs are in excellent condition, although the Spudders have one ailing athlete. Brick Eldred, leading the team in batting, has been out of play three days with an injured hip. He probably will see some service in the Buffalo games.

Eldred May Play

Skipper Snyder of the Buffs returned to play Thursday after an absence of several days due to an infected foot. "Bubber" Jonnard, another catcher, who was out a few months with a fractured leg, also is back in harness, giving the Buffs their full strength.

That the series will be bitterly fought is certain. Its significance and the intense rivalry of contending players assures that. Twice this season Buffalo and Spudder athletes have mingled in fistic combat on the diamond. If there should be a recurrance of pugilistic melees by players, spectators should keep their place. The throwing of cushions, pop bottles and other missles is extremely dangerous to life and limb, not only to players but to other fans.

All Wichita Falls and its neighboring community hopes—and believes—the Spudders will win. But win or lose, let's be sportsmen.

Amarillo Ball Manager Released Day After Fete

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 10. (AP)—Having a baseball celebration in his honor one day and being replaced as manager of the Amarillo Western league club the next, is the peculiar experience of Tom Connelly.

Just after the second half of the split season started the Broncs hit into a terrible slump and a howl went up about poor management. In an effort to give the fans here better baseball, Tom Connelly, veteran outfielder of the team, was named pilot. He lasted about two weeks and was released the day after "Connelly Day" at the local park.

Mann Is Suspended For Rest of Season

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 10. (AP)—Shortstop Johnny Mann of the Dallas baseball club tonight was suspended indefinitely and fined $50 by Manager Bob Tarleton for alleged insubordination and violation of training rules. The manager said that this was the second offense.

Tarleton indicated that he would not reinstate Mann this season. He said he had wired the Chicago Americans, who own Mann, asking for orders on the player's disposal.

Von Porat Gets Disputed Decision Over Charles

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (US)—Pierre Charles, the bewildering and bewildered Belgian, left the ring at Mills stadium tonight, the loser of a 10-round decision to Otto von Porat, Norway's contribution to the gayety of the heavyweight situation.

Bewildering, was Pierre, with the most curious left hand that has ever been encased in a boxing glove. It was this left which cuffed Otto around a bit in odd moments of the ten rounds, and served to neutralize somewhat, a series of right-hand smashes that had deposited him on the floor for a nine count in the second round.

Bewildered, was Pierre, because he thought the decision was his, never having encountered previously, one of our Chicago decisions.

EXPORT LEAD IS OVERCOME

Estell Saves Game After Foe Scores 3 in 3rd

The Beaumont Exporters battled the Spudders to the very best of their ability out at the lot yesterday. But their desperate attempt to win their final appearance here of the season failed, as the Wichita Falls athletes, also fighting grimly and with visions of a pennant before them, arose to the occasion.

Thus the Spudders scored a 4-to-3 victory in a hectic, uncertain game—and won their 11th straight, bettering their record of last year's consecutive triumphs by one.

Beaumont scored all its runs in a cluster in the third inning and drove Joe Kiefer off the hill by savage clouting in that round. The Exporters also turned in three double plays to keep down the Spudder scoring.

Spuds Overcome Lead

Wichita Falls retaliated with a pair of runs in its half of the third and another brace of tallies in the fourth. This ended the scoring, as Estell, who succeeded Kiefer, and Ad Holzhauser, who relieved Hanson in the fourth, hurled excellent ball the rest of the route.

All the runs were scored off the starting hurlers. Estell is credited with the victory and Hanson charged with the defeat.

Both clubs meced 10 hits, eight of which went for extra bases, including seven doubles and a triple. Howard Fitzgerald drove in two runs with a timely knock, and Smith and Estell batted home the other Spudder tallies. Tom and Doc each whacked a double and a single and Turgeon and Stanton also hit safely twice.

Dutch Has Big Day

Bagwell, Ezzell and Schliebner banged two hits apiece. Dutch and Homer hitting a double and Bill smiting a triple in addition to singles.

Kiefer gave up six hits. Estell went to the mound in the third inning with two out and a runner on first. He caught that runner off the base and yielded four blows scattered over as many innings the rest of the way. The Exporters had two runners on bases in the seventh and three on in the ninth, but Tom was equal to the occasion and bore down to pitch out of danger.

Holzhauser also gave up four knocks after taking up the slab burden in the fourth with one out.

Both Nines Score in Third

After going scoreless the first two innings each club tallied in the third, the Exporters driving Kiefer off the hill after counting three runs. Hanson led off with a double to left. Antista singled to center, scoring Hanson. Swanson forced Antista, Benton to Turgeon. Marshall sacrificed, Swenson to Stanton. Bagwell tripled to center, scoring Swanson, Ezzell's single to center scored Bagwell. Estell relieved Kiefer and caught Ezzell off first.

The Spudders tallied two. Smith started it with a single to left and went to second on Estell's hit to the same territory. Benton strolled, filling the bases. Turgeon hit into a double play, Hanson to Campbell to Schliebner. Fitzgerald doubled to left, scoring Estell and Benton. Lamb fouled to Ezzell.

Beaumont had runners on first and third in the fourth with two out but Swenson snatched Antista's terrific liner.

Spudders Take Lead

Wichita Falls went into the lead in its half with a one-run margin. Jenkins, first up, walked, his second base on balls. Swenson sacrificed, Schliebner to Bailey. Stanton dobled against the right-center wall, Jenkins scoring. Bailey booted Smith's grounder, Stanton scoring. Estell doubled to left, his second hit. Smith going to third. Holzhauser relieved Hanson. Ezzell dropped Marshall's toss to catch Smith on Benton's grounder, filling the bases. Turgeon struck out. Fitz grounded to Schliebner.

The Exporters had three men on with one out in the sixth, but Holzhauser fanned and Antista banged another liner, this one fielded by Stanton.

Stanton singled and Smith doubled in the eighth with two out; then Estell grounded sharply to Marshall.

Beaumont filled the bases in the eighth but failed to score. Robertson batted for Holzhauser and was safe on Benton's wide throw on his grounder. Phillips ran for Robertson. Estell fumbled Antista's bunt and both runners were safe. Swanson was tossed out by Estell, Phillips moving to third and Antista to second. Benton went into short left for Marshall's fly, the runners holding their bases. Bagwell was purposely passed, putting it up to Ezzell. Fitzgerald hauled down Homer's lift for the third out.

BEARS BEAT STEERS

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 10. (AP)—Miscalculation by James Oglesby on the length of time required to complete a double play and the speed of Mulvey allowed the score that beat Dallas Friday, and San Antonio registered a 6 to 5 victory to even the series.

One was out at the time the fleet Ray Flaskamper on third base, and Najo on first. Oglesby took Mulvey's roller, chunked to Morse to force Najo, ignoring Flaskamper, who was crossing the plate and "Hap" failed to get the ball back in time to double the batsman for the third out and the deciding marker was over the rubber. Roberto Roberti May Give Risko Surprise Party When They Fight

Signor Is Big, Strong Fellow With Plenty of Courage and He Stands Chance of Beating Rubbery John

By DAMON RUNYON
Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Confidentially, it is quite within the bounds of possibility that J. Rubbery Risko, the human golf ball from Cleveland, O-Hee-Ho, may bounce into some astonishment over in Ebbet's field next week, when he bumps up against the tall aspen of the Alps, Signor Roberto Roberti.

I mean to say that Signor Several Bobs may out-fumble J. Rubbery, and then we will have new complications to add to our already well complicated heavyweight situation.

It is said that the good Signor Humberto Fugazy, who is promoting the matter between Signor Roberti and Rubbery John, has the Terrible Sharkey Man, of Boston, lined up to battle the winner in September. As things now stand, what with my candidate for the heavyweight title, Tommy Loughran, reluctant to abandon the light heavyweight honors, this September battle is apt to have an important bearing on the business of electing a successor to Mister Gene Tunney.

Suppose Signor Roberto Roberti should be the nominee against the Terrible Sharkey Man, and suppose Signor Roberto Roberti should Wallop the Terrible Sharkey Man? What then? Why then Mussolini would probably take personal charge of the heavyweight proposition, and move it over to Rome, and we would have a big fiesta down in Mulberry street.

Hard Program for Signor

A victory by Signor Roberto Roberti over the elastic man from Cleveland alone would throw a lot of sand in Cappy Rickard's heavyweight clam chowder, because Signor Roberto Roberti is the pugilistic ward of the good Signor Humberto Fugazy, and fares forth to battle only in the black shirt forces.

If he should wallop both Rubbery John and the Terrible Sharkey Man, he would be the outstanding heavyweight gladiator of the day, and Signor Tom Kelly, Signor Johnny Lamanna, Signor Jimmy Kelly, and a lot of other signors would probably be very hard to get along with.

Of course Signor Roberto Roberti hasn't got to first base as yet in the suppositious travels I have laid out for him. The licking of Risko is a reasonably tough opening assignment. And yet Signor Roberto Roberti may do it.

He is a big, strong fellow, with plenty of courage. He can take a powerful painting in that ring, and keep going. If he will plant himself firmly on his two large feet and just stand there and belt away at John as the rubbery one bounces in on him, Signor Roberto Roberti may come straddling home in front.

Bob Bob Likes to Fight

It is when Signor Roberto Roberti undertakes to chase a fellow that he looks bad, because he is inclined to flounder. He likes to fight, and his desire to fight carries him forward on the aggressive, and if an opponent runs away from him, Signor Roberto Roberti's inexperienced feet get tangled up as he launches himself in pursuit.

The proper style for him, because of his height, would seem to be the style of old Harry Wills, the Brown Panther of New Orleans—upright, and well anchored against assault. And, oddly enough, he is being schooled at this very time by none other than the old Brown Panther.

I doubt if Harry will ever be able to make a patient "waiter" like himself of Signor Roberti, because of the Italian's natural fighting instinct. But if he can get Signor Roberto Roberti to hold still with his guns loaded and cocked long enough to take good aim, he will vastly improve the young man.

They tell me old Harry Wills thinks so well of his pupil that he has quietly wagered a few clams on him to beat Rubbery John. I don't think Harry would bet that the sun will rise tomorrow morning, and if the story of his venture on Signor Roberto Roberti is true, the Italian must have shown him something in the way of improvement.

Built Like Wills

Roberti has much the same general physical lines of the Brown Panther, tall, lean flanked and broad shouldered. Wills' fighting pose was statuesque. He wouldn't move around any more than was necessary. He would stand flat-footed, and let the other fellow come at him.

Then Harry would try to plant his right to the body. Only too frequently, however, he would clamp the other guy's arms, and slug while holding, which would be bad style to any young fighter to acquire. You may recall that Wills was finally disqualified for holding right out of the pugilistic picture in his battle with the Terrible Sharkey Man.

But there is no doubt Wills knew a lot about fighting. He was a powerful hitter with his right hand. If he can teach Signor Roberto Roberti that one body punch of his, he adds materially to the young fellow's fistic education. Roberti already has a better left hand than Harry himself ever owned at any stage of his long career.

Has Lots of Courage

I like Signor Roberto Roberti's persistence. He keeps struggling while he is in the ring, even when things are going none too well for him. He has a ton of heart.

He came to this country something over a year ago, as green as grass, although he had done some fighting in Europe. It was mainly against opponents who didn't know any more about the game than he did.

He was given a few soft ones to begin with, then he was moved out against tougher game in each succeeding fight. His advantage over the average young heavyweight of today is that he has fought good opponents. He has been in against all styles of boxers and he has shown some improvement each time.

His last fight was against the promising young John Gross. The decision in the Gross-Roberti case was a draw, though some thought the Italian won.

Signor Roberto Roberti's most important battle up to this time was his meeting with Phalling Phillip Scott, of England, in Madison Square garden. He lost the decision there, but his showing against a real good boxer was an encouragement to his folks, who think that he is bound to be the heavyweight champion of the world some day.

75 HEAVIES IN TEX'S TOURNEY

Young Stribling Included In First Sixteen

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (UP)—Seventy-five aspirants to the heavyweight title vacated by Gene Tunney will compete in Tex Rickard's newest elimination tournament, the promoter announced today.

The tournament may open Sept. 6 with a contest between Napoleon Jack Dorval, Jack Kearns' former protege, and Knute Hansen, the Wisconsin Dane, who flattened Phil Scott in one round.

Rickard has received applications from 43 heavyweights for a place in the tournament, and each day's mail brings a long list of ambitious fighters who are willing to battle for Tunney's discarded crown.

Plenty of Talent

"There's plenty of talent," Rickard said. "Why, for a railroad ticket I could bring enough heavyweights to the garden to stage a regimental parade. Before September I'll have 75 first class fighters in line for the tournament."

Jimmy Johnston, 10 per cent manager of Jack Sharkey, has made Rickard the suggestion of having Johnny Risko and Sharkey meet in September, with the winner to remain out of the tournament and meet the survivor for the Muldoon-Tunney trophy. Johnston's plan is suggested to keep all the heavyweights from eliminating themselves as was the cast in last winter's tournament.

Three Divisions

Rickard has divided the 43 applicants into three classes. The following 16 are placed in the first class:

Sharkey, Risko, Loughran, Heeney, Paolino, Hansen, Scott, Bertozolo, the Italian; Otto von Porrat, Chicago; young Stribling, Pierre Charles, the Belgian; Dorval, Jack Gross, Arthur de Kuh, Robert Roberti and Joe Sekyra.

Twenty-two are placed in the second class, among whom are: Armand Emanuel, Les Marriner, former Illinois football star; Add Warren, former North Carolina football star; Ben Pound, Tiny Roebuck, the former Haskell Indians tackle; Vittorio Campolo, the soldier; Eddie Anderson, Baltimore; James J. Lawless and Ken Hauser, Jersey City, and Marty Gallagher of Washington.

Only five are placed in the third class.

Another Game Won By First National

Amos West of the First National bank team of the Bankers' Baseball league held the Wichita State bank team to five hits while his mates hammered out a 11-to-5 victory for him yesterday. West hurled splendid ball in the pinches and for the last five innings was unhittable. He started off in rockie style and five hits were bunched with three errors to account for five runs, but from there on out West blanked the State bank boys and let them down hitless for five frames.

Guy Taylor, Twilight league shortstop of past years, tried his fling on the pitching mound and after having five scores made off his delivery in the first inning he hurled shutout ball for four innings in which time only two hits were made off him. He weakened, however, in the last two innings and six runs were scored.

H. Smith and Skipper Kubecka lead the hitters for First National with three out of four each. The catching of Kubecka was the feature of the game. Three would-be base thieves died before his strong arm during the game. Reiger accepted 10 chances without an error at second base for the First Nationals. None of the Wichita State nine could get their second hit off West.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

THAT OLD REFRAIN, Scotch I believe it is, "The Campbells (or is it camels) are coming, tr-la-la-la," haunts me and I am humming or whistling it today. Only the words are "The Buffaloes are coming, ho-ho-ho-ho." Indeed, the Buffaloes are here! Men, sharpen your knives; look to your bows and arrows. Victuals to provide sustenance for a hard winter, warm robes to cover the papoose when cold winds blow, are needed. And there's nothing so palatable as Buffalo meat—and how well those Buffalo skins will look adorning our wigwams.

◇ ◇ ◇

Yep, the long, anxiously awaited day has arrived. The Buffaloes are here; boy, summon the gendarmes! Hopes of the Spudders to win the second half pennant of the Texas league probably will materialize, or will be crushed, unlike truth never to rise again, in the four games played in this all-important series. Today's game, two tomorrow and Monday very probably will determine the destination of the second half championship, and may eventually settle the Texas league title.

◇ ◇ ◇

NOTHING LESS than an even break will suffice if the Spudders are to maintain their lead and win the second half. That is logical. For not only would worse than an even break in those four games give the Buffaloes an equal or better standing in the league race, but the effect on the morale of the opposing clubs would be such as to have lasting results. For it probably would send the Spudders into a state of dejection while injecting new life and hope into the faltering Buffs.

◇ ◇ ◇

NOTHING LESS than a split, it is reiterated, is essential and it were better that three out of four be won by the Spudders if they are to hold the edge so desired and acutely needed. The Spudders are confident. Not chesty. But their confidence is begotten by their recent superb play which has been marked by an extended winning streak, and the corresponding slump of the Buffs. But the Buffs, as we all know, are dangerous. They have power. Only the BEST the Spudders have will beat them.

◇ ◇ ◇

And they have that best.

Can't Swim, But Watch Him Dive

High diving has no terrors for this young man, although he's just 2 years old. He is Paul Chary Jr., of Philadelphia, Pa., and here is shown perched on the 10-foot springboard at a city pool. Timidity has nothing to do with his hesitation there; he's waiting impatiently for the picture to be taken before his plunge.

Of course 2-year-old Paul hasn't developed very much in the way of graceful diving. But he never fails to draw the attention away from grown-up aquatic stars when he leaves the springboard for the water far below. Here's Paul in the act of turning over on his way down. The fact that he can't swim a stroke bothers him not a bit, because—

Treading water down below is his father, waiting to bring him safely ashore from the 12-foot depth. Paul Jr., goes head first into the water and leaves the rest to daddy, who is confident that in his little son he has a potential champion.

BIG REPUBLICAN CHIEFS SPLIT

Moses and Work Steer Clear of Each Other

PALO ALTO, Calif., Aug. 10. (UP)—The air of expectancy which always grips this little college town on the eve of the big annual football game enveloped it tonight as the moguls of the Republican party began arriving for the ceremony Saturday officially notifying Herbert Hoover of his selection as the Republican presidential nominee.

The private car of Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, was drawn up at a railroad siding near the football stadium where the ceremonies are to take place—an omen to the populace that California's first notification ceremony was near.

Stores to Close

American flags, Republican pennants, pictures of Hoover, some good and some bad, flew from every lamp post. Merchants' stores bore signs that they will close at 1 p. m. Saturday so that everyone may attend the gathering for which accommodations for 100,000 persons have been arranged.

An extra guard was placed about the Hoover home on San Juan hill, half a mile from the stadium, where the nominee, Work, Senator George Moses, chairman of the notification committee, Gov. John S. Fisher, Pennsylvania, and national committeeman from nearby states pulled at their cigars, discussing the political situation and talking about the completed arrangements for Saturday.

None of the party leaders would talk for publication and Work declined to meet newspaper men even after a conference was arranged this afternoon. At the same time there were evidence that Work and Moses have not buried the hatchet.

When Moses arrived late, Work went out on the front lawn for a walk and remained out of the house until just before Moses departed. They are reported to have been in disagreement over the manner in which the campaign was to be conducted.

Professors "Get Hot"

Professors of the university who have been in charge of all the arrangements were scurrying about importantly, most of them on their first political assignments. They were handing out badges to newspaper men, instructing the student army of 1,000 traffic directors and ushers lining the campus with whitewash lines to facilitate the parking of cars and generally being busier than professors usually are.

Railroad officials were running about making arrangements for special trains which are to carry persons from all parts of California to the stadium.

Radio broadcasters and telegraph operators were poring over their $75,000 worth of instruments stored beneath the speaker's stand to see that there would be no hitch in the elaborate plans to speed every word and action of the nominee to all parts of the world.

Hoover Busy Man

The nominee was so busy himself that he hardly had time to celebrate his 55th birthday. In the morning he and Work went down to look over the stadium and in the afternoon he was conferring with the party leaders and meeting with scores or more or less important party chieftains who have come here from every state in the union as members of the notification committee.

His secretary explained the Hoovers had never made much of birthdays. He did, however, attend a dinner given him at a local hotel by eastern newspaper men. After that he sat around the fire in the library with his relatives and talked family matters more than politics.

HOW TO BE SWEET

Anger Stirs Up Sugar In Anatomy, Says Chemist

EVANSTON, Ill., August 10. (UP)—Anger stirs up the sweetness in the anatomy, in fact, the angrier one gets, the sweeter he becomes, Dr. Oliver Kamm of Detroit, who is attending the American Chemical Society institute, declared here tonight.

"When the secretion of the supernal gland is increased," Dr. Kamm said, "the blood pressure is raised and the sugar content of the blood is increased."

The doctor explained that sugar is the fuel for the blood and it is needed in increased quantities during any excitement.

DU PONT DOES THE EXPECTED

Financier Lines Up For Demo Ticket

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—Pierre S. DuPont, chairman of the boards of two of the largest corporations in the country, and nominally a Republican, today came out in support of the presidential candidacy of Governor Smith.

In a statement issued after he had been granted leave of absence as chairman of the General Motors corporation, DuPont said Governor Smith has the "strength of character to correct the evils of prohibition law enforcement and make recommendations necessary for the solution of the liquor problem."

While ordinarily a Republican, DuPont said "I have always interested myself in the plans and policies involved and in the personality of a candidate more than in a name of the party and I believe that no intelligent voter can do otherwise.

Platforms Reconciled

"Platforms of the two predominating parties have become reconciled to a degree that makes choice between them difficult. Neither platform presents a stand on any important question differing materially from the position of the other."

DuPont added: "Governor Smith has proved himself an able executive, one who can be entrusted with the conduct of national affairs."

As to prohibition, DuPont continued: "The really important issue before the country, that of maintaining intact our original form of government and the liberties of people, is not dealt with in either party platform. The issue has been raised by the 18th amendment to the constitution. Nine years of experiment have proved that 'prohibition' does not prohibit, strong drink is still readily obtainable and the ill effects of its abuse remain with us."

Evils Not Corrected

"Nine years of Republican domination have failed to correct killing of innocent citizens and of the guilty without trial, violating the search and seizure laws, conducting illegal resorts, employing men to entice others to break the law, spending public money to acquire alcoholic evidence, 'holding up' innocent citizens and many other immoralities of the enforcement division."

Four Reported Lost In Florida Floods

PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 10. (UP)—A report that four were missing in the West Jupiter flood area was received here today from J. E. Beard, Indiantown farmer.

Beard said Russell Parker and three negroes went from Indiantown to the devastated region to survey road conditions east of Jupiter and no word had been received from them late today.

LEGAL RIFTS IN RECEIVERS

Both State and Federal Courts Take Action

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 10. (UP)—Legal conflicts between federal and state courts appeared probable after receivers late today had been named to supervise the affairs of the International Life Insurance company, of St. Louis, a holding organization, with an annual business volume of $50,000,000.

The receivers were appointed by Judge Albert L. Reeves, of the federal court at Kansas City, who named Robert T. Daly, an actuary for the Missouri Insurance company, and Edward F. Wilson, general attorney for the company, while Circuit Judge Harry Hamilton, at St. Louis, named Ben C. Hyde, state insurance commissioner.

The action in the federal court was the result of a petition filed by Maes Junius C. Dale, of Alabama, a policyholder, and C. P. Long, of Mississippi, a stockholder. The plaintiffs alleged $3,500,000 in assets had been removed from the company vaults by Roy C. Toombs, of Chicago, president of the company. Judge Reeves issued an injunction restraining the stockholders of the company from meeting Monday to merge the business with the Missouri State Life Insurance company.

Action of Judge Hamilton was on a petition of insurance commissioners of eight of the forty-odd states in which the company operates. He enjoined its officials from carrying on business.

Death Claims Father Of Wichita Woman

C. A. Fairbanks, father of Miss Bess Fairbanks, cashier of the Pierce-Arrow Motor company here died Friday at Kendalville, Ind., according to a telegram received here by friends of the family.

Miss Fairbanks left Wichita Falls Thursday for Kendallville upon receiving word that her father was in a serious condition. He had been an invalid for several months. Burial will be Saturday in a Kendallville cemetery, according to the telegram.

Mr. Fairbanks is survived by four daughters and one son who live in Kendallville, and Miss Fairbanks of Wichita Falls.

Three Fliers Killed Making Forced Landing

MINOT, N. D., Aug. 10. (AP)—Fred Glaze and Walter Edwards of Minot, were killed and Byron Cooper of Great Falls, Mont., was injured late today when an airplane crashed near here. A forced landing was the apparent cause of the accident. Fatalities occurred when the plane caught fire and the gasoline tank exploded. Cooper, the pilot, was not seriously injured.

Last Corruption Jury Impanelled in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (UP)—What will be probably the last special grand jury to investigate election corruption and violence in Chicago was impaneled today by Chief Justice William V. Brothers.

Judge Brothers intimated to the jurymen that the work of investigation was near a close and that they would in all probability be dismissed August 30. They will meet only two or three afternoons a week.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—A quieter, steadier cotton market followed yesterday's severe decline. December contracts, which had sold off to 18.51 on Thursday, advanced to 19.00 in today's late trading, or 38 points above yesterday's final quotation, and closed at 18.97. The general market closed firm, at net advances of 33 to 38 points.

The opening was barely steady at an advance of 1 to 6 points, active months soon showing net advances of 15 to 25 points on covering promoted by nervousness over eastern belt weather conditions and increasing complaints on boll weevil infestation.

This bulge met selling on reports of additional labor troubles in New England, Standard Cloth statistics showing an increase of 0.9 per cent in stocks for July, and a private report estimating domestic mill consumption for July at 429,000 bales, compared with 511,000 for June. Prices sagged back to about yesterday's closing quotations on the more active months, but covering continued, while there appeared to be a little more trade buying which helped to steady prices.

Demand became more active after publication of the detailed weather reports showing more or less general rains in Georgia, with heavy precipitation at some stations and the market reached the highest prices of the day in late trading.

October contracts sold up to 19.05, and January to 18.90, net advances of 38 to 41 points and recoveries of approximately half a cent from the low levels of the previous day.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 10. (AP)—Cotton prices today scored a substantial recovery from yesterday's sharp decline under buying and covering induced mainly by reports of heavy rains in the eastern belt. October traded to 18.50, compared with 18.03 for the day's low point and 18.14, yesterday's closing figure. The delivery closed two points under the top with the general market steady at net advances for the day of 34 to 38 points.

A higher opening met execution of overnight buying orders and before these offerings were absorbed October declined to 18.03, and December to 18.10, or 5 to 11 points under the previous close.

Later in the morning denial of yesterday's rumor that there was an error in the government crop totals induced covering by shorts and some trade buying which carried October back to 18.42 and December to 18.45, or 28 to 30 points net up.

Prices eased 17 points, but in the afternoon the demand was stimulated by reports of heavy rains in the eastern belt where moisture is said to be not needed. Fears of the second tropical storm helped the recovery. Prices made new high when October reached 18.50, December 18.53 and January 18.55, or 36 to 41 points and practically $2 a bale above yesterday's final prices. The close was near the top.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—Dun's tomorrow will say:

All commercial trends continue in the direction of a normal and seasonably active fall and winter trade. Although it is now the between seasons period, when it is customary to experience pronounced quietness in many mercantile and industrial lines, the uniformity with which improving conditions are reported by widely separated centers is a reassuring augury for autumn business. Sales of vacation specialties and other strictly seasonable commodities were sustained at an unusually high level by the recent hot weather in many parts of the country. That retailers generally are optimistically inclined is shown by the confidence with which they are placing orders for prompt and future delivery.

Chrysler Climbs Sensationally To Lead Drab Session in Stocks

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Chrysler skyrocketed almost 10 points and featured an otherwise highly irregular stock market, today. Big blocks of the stock were taken at steadily advancing prices as the belief grew that the company would benefit by the General Motors developments.

Rumor of further acquisitions being planned also was responsible for the strength in the stock. General Motors and other automobile shares ruled irregular throughout but met support whenever heavy pressure was applied. Call money jumped to 8 per cent from a renewal of 7 as the banks called more loans. Warner Brothers was pushed up against a crowded short interest but Montgomery Ward and other recent speculative favorites were held down by continued bear pressure. Rails and oils were very dull and fractionally lower on the average.

Many Auto Rumors

Few automobile properties were neglected in the rumors concerning further acquisitions being planned by Chrysler. However, at the present time Mr. Chrysler and his associates are busy coordinating the work of the Dodge organization with his corporation. It will take several months to get the outfit working as a unit and in the meantime other acquisitions are not being considered. Sometime in the future the Chrysler corporation may take in additional properties but there is no idea of doing so at this time.

Big holders of the stock, however, are maintaining their position as indications are that the current period will be the best third quarter in the history of the corporation. One of the most active firms sent out a special analysis of the corporation pointing out the benefits expected from the Dodge purchase and influenced considerable buying.

General Motors was harboring a bigger short interest at the close than at any time in over a year according to reports from the floor. There was good support evidenced whenever professional pressure was applied, that limited its loss to slightly over a point for the session.

Break Is Feared

The temporary withdrawal of Du Pont did not arouse as much worry as did the fear that the development represented the first sign of a break in the ranks of the so-called "Big Ten."

In so far as the stock market is concerned, however, there is no change in the relations of that powerful group of operators. Cutten, Durant and their immediate associates are believed to retain a bullish attitude toward selected stocks while others in the group who abandoned the bull side over a month ago stick to the opinion that the money situation warrants material correction of the entire market.

Dodge preferred kept pace with Chrysler in its climb and there was report that additional stock has been turned in since the official consummation of the merger. Johns Manville was supported but added fractionally to its loss as announcement of the new stock issue is expected within the next fortnight.

International Nickel was pushed a little higher coincident with flotation of estimate that the third quarter returns would prove more satisfactory than did the earnings of the last quarter.

Loans called today brought the total amount of accommodations cancelled during the past week to more than $100,000,000. The bull leaders have been caught by surprise by the tightening of money at this time, and while they apparently are not influenced to abandon their operations, they talk a little less sure than they did a fortnight ago.

SOUTHWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 10. (AP) (U. S. D. A.)—Trade on killing cattle around the 11 market circuit was draggy with steady to easier prices prevailing. Grass fed steers at Chicago topped at $15.40. Common to medium grass steers at Kansas City and St. Joseph were absorbed at $9.50 to $12.40. Bulk of the grass fed cattle this week came out of southwest territory. Stocker and feeder steers have been on a firm to higher price basis throughout the week. Total offerings today were estimated at 10,375 as compared with 10,022 a week ago and 9,903 the same day last year.

Curtailed supplies resulted in a 25 to 35 cent advance on the shipping grade of hogs. The day's extreme top of $12.00 was secured in Chicago. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 36,400, a decrease of 13,000 from last Friday and 12,400 less than a year ago.

Prices in the sheep market were little changed with the exception of some weakness on aged stock.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 10. (UP)—Hogs—Receipts 1,000; market uneven, 10 to 20c higher; quality considered. Top $11.40; truck top, $11.10; bulk medium to good 175 to 220-pound rail hogs, $11.25@11.40; bulk desirable 175 to 240-pound truck hogs $10.85@11.10.

Cattle—Receipts 4,000; receipts include around dozen cars slaughter steers, quality best of week; trade steady; several cars good cake feds, $12.00, $12.50@13.00; four-car string grassers $10.25; desirable fat yearlings scarce, steady, one load good grades, $12.75; other classes cattle generally unchanged; slaughter calves slow, uneven, 50c or more lower; some good to choice heavies, $11.50; other sales around $11.00 down; one load light vealers $11.25.

Sheep—Receipts 1,100; all classes steady; fat wethers $8.25@8.75; fat yearlings mostly $11.00; fat lambs $13.00@14.00; stocker yearlings $9.00; stocker wethers $6.50.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Hogs—Receipts 8,000; fairly active, mostly 20c to 35c higher; top $12.00.

Cattle—Receipts 2,000; calves 500; slow steady to weak; few light steers; heavy steers dull; slaughter classes steers good and choice 1300 to 1500 pounds $14.25@16.50; 1100 to 1300 pounds $14.25@16.75; 950 to 1100 pounds $14.50@16.85; fed yearlings good and choice 750 to 950 pounds $14.50@16.85; cows good and choice $9.50@13.

Sheep—Receipts 10,000; fat lambs active, mostly steady quality considered.

The reunion, an annual affair, is to be staged in the Uncle Hank Smith Memorial park, and will feature a basket picnic, Indian ceremonials, rodeo, roping contests and other entertainment peculiar to this section of the country.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW
By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (US)—Heavy liquidation in all grains today based on the bearish figures in the government report carried prices for all futures except September corn to new low levels on the crop. The break in wheat prices in all of the principal markets of the world was drastic.

Closing prices in the local market as compared to the previous day were: Wheat, 3⅝@3⅞c down; corn, 1⅛@2⅛c lower; oats, ⅛@⅝c off; rye, 2⅛@2⅜c lower.

Liverpool closed 4⅛@4⅜c lower, Buenos Aires was 3⅛@4c down at mid-day and Winnipeg futures registered losses of 3⅞@4c.

Due to the heavy liquidation, there was a large volume of trade in wheat early in the session. Selling was general. Stop-loss orders were uncovered and December at the low for the day was 5⅛c below the previous day's close.

After the first rush to sell, the market quieted down somewhat and even became dull in the late part of the session. At this time covering by shorts to take profits and buying by holders of the privileges was of sufficient volume to absorb the hedging sales and hold the market at a mild recovery from the low point.

Cash wheat was weak and prices were 3@5c lower. The trading basis was unchanged. No shipping sales were reported. A total of 100,000 bushels was booked to arrive from Omaha.

Early selling by commission houses and locals made the corn market weak and prices slid considerably. Later they rallied and recovered a fair part of the loss on short covering and buying by holders of the privileges.

The flatness of export trade was also noticeable in corn.

Corn prices in the spot market were 1@2c lower, but the basis 1@2c higher. There was a fairly active demand for spots and local shipping sales of 27,000 bushels were reported.

Oats and rye still pursued their recent tactics of following the trend of other grains.

Movies Depend On Mustard Contained In Food of Cows

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 10. (UP)—Cows eat mustard in their food and in doing so they not only fill their stomach but delight the millions of moving picture fans of today, Dr. C. E. K. Mees of Rochester, N. Y., declared here tonight at the American Chemical society institute.

"That is how we get the film," Dr. Mees, who is director of the Eastman kodak research laboratories, explained. "The cow's hide produces the gelatin used in films. Impurities taken into its skin by eating mustard and other plants, gives the films their great sensitiveness.

"A motion picture on the screen looks from a distance as though it were quite smooth. But if the film is examined under a microscope it is seen that the image is composed of tiny particles of silver which do not shine as metallic silver ordinarily does, but instead, being broken up, looks like little masses of coke. They are derived from tiny crystals which form the sensitive surface exposed in the camera."

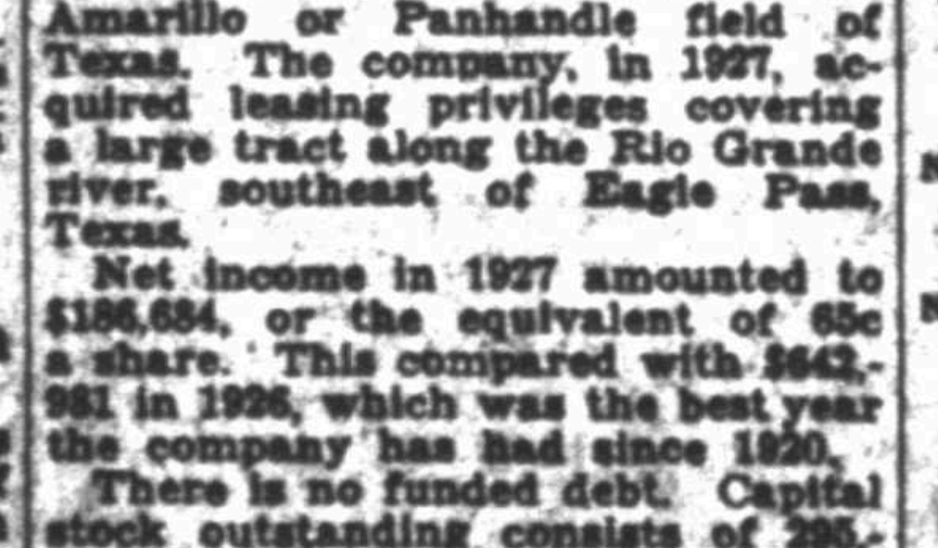

Dr. Mees said there were more crystals on a square inch of film than there are human beings in the world.

"Recently, scientists have determined how the atoms build up the crystals," he continued, "and have measured their size and shapes in different kinds of film. In the fast negative film used in the camera, for instance, there is a great range of sizes, and this enables the beautiful graduation to be obtained.

"In the positive film, on which the pictures are printed, and which is projected in the theater, the grains are much more nearly of one size and this gives the life and sparkle to the pictures."

Life Imprisonment For Housekeeper Slayer

COUNCIL GROVE, Kan., Aug. 10. (UP)—Life imprisonment was meted out today to Joseph Marchion, 45-year-old farmer, who pleaded guilty to murdering his housekeeper, Mrs. Eva Bowman, and her son, Carl, last week. Sentence was pronounced by Judge C. M. Clark.

RYAN CONSOLIDATED PETROLEUM CORPORATION

The Ryan Consolidated Petroleum corporation is a holding company organized in 1920 to produce, manufacture and market oil. The company, however, is essentially a producer and operates no refineries. In 1926, the Ryan Petroleum corporation and the Morton Petroleum company, formerly held as subsidiaries through stock ownership, were merged with the Ryan Consolidated Petroleum corporation.

The later company owns 3,268 acres of land in fee and has 130,854 acres of undeveloped leaseholds. Production so far has come from 4,588 acres operated under 29 leases. A large portion of the undeveloped leaseholds lie in the Amarillo or Panhandle field of Texas. The company, in 1927, acquired leasing privileges covering a large tract along the Rio Grande river, southeast of Eagle Pass, Texas.

Net income in 1927 amounted to $186,684, or the equivalent of 65c a share. This compared with $642,981 in 1926, which was the best year the company has had since 1920.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of 295,931 shares of no par value.

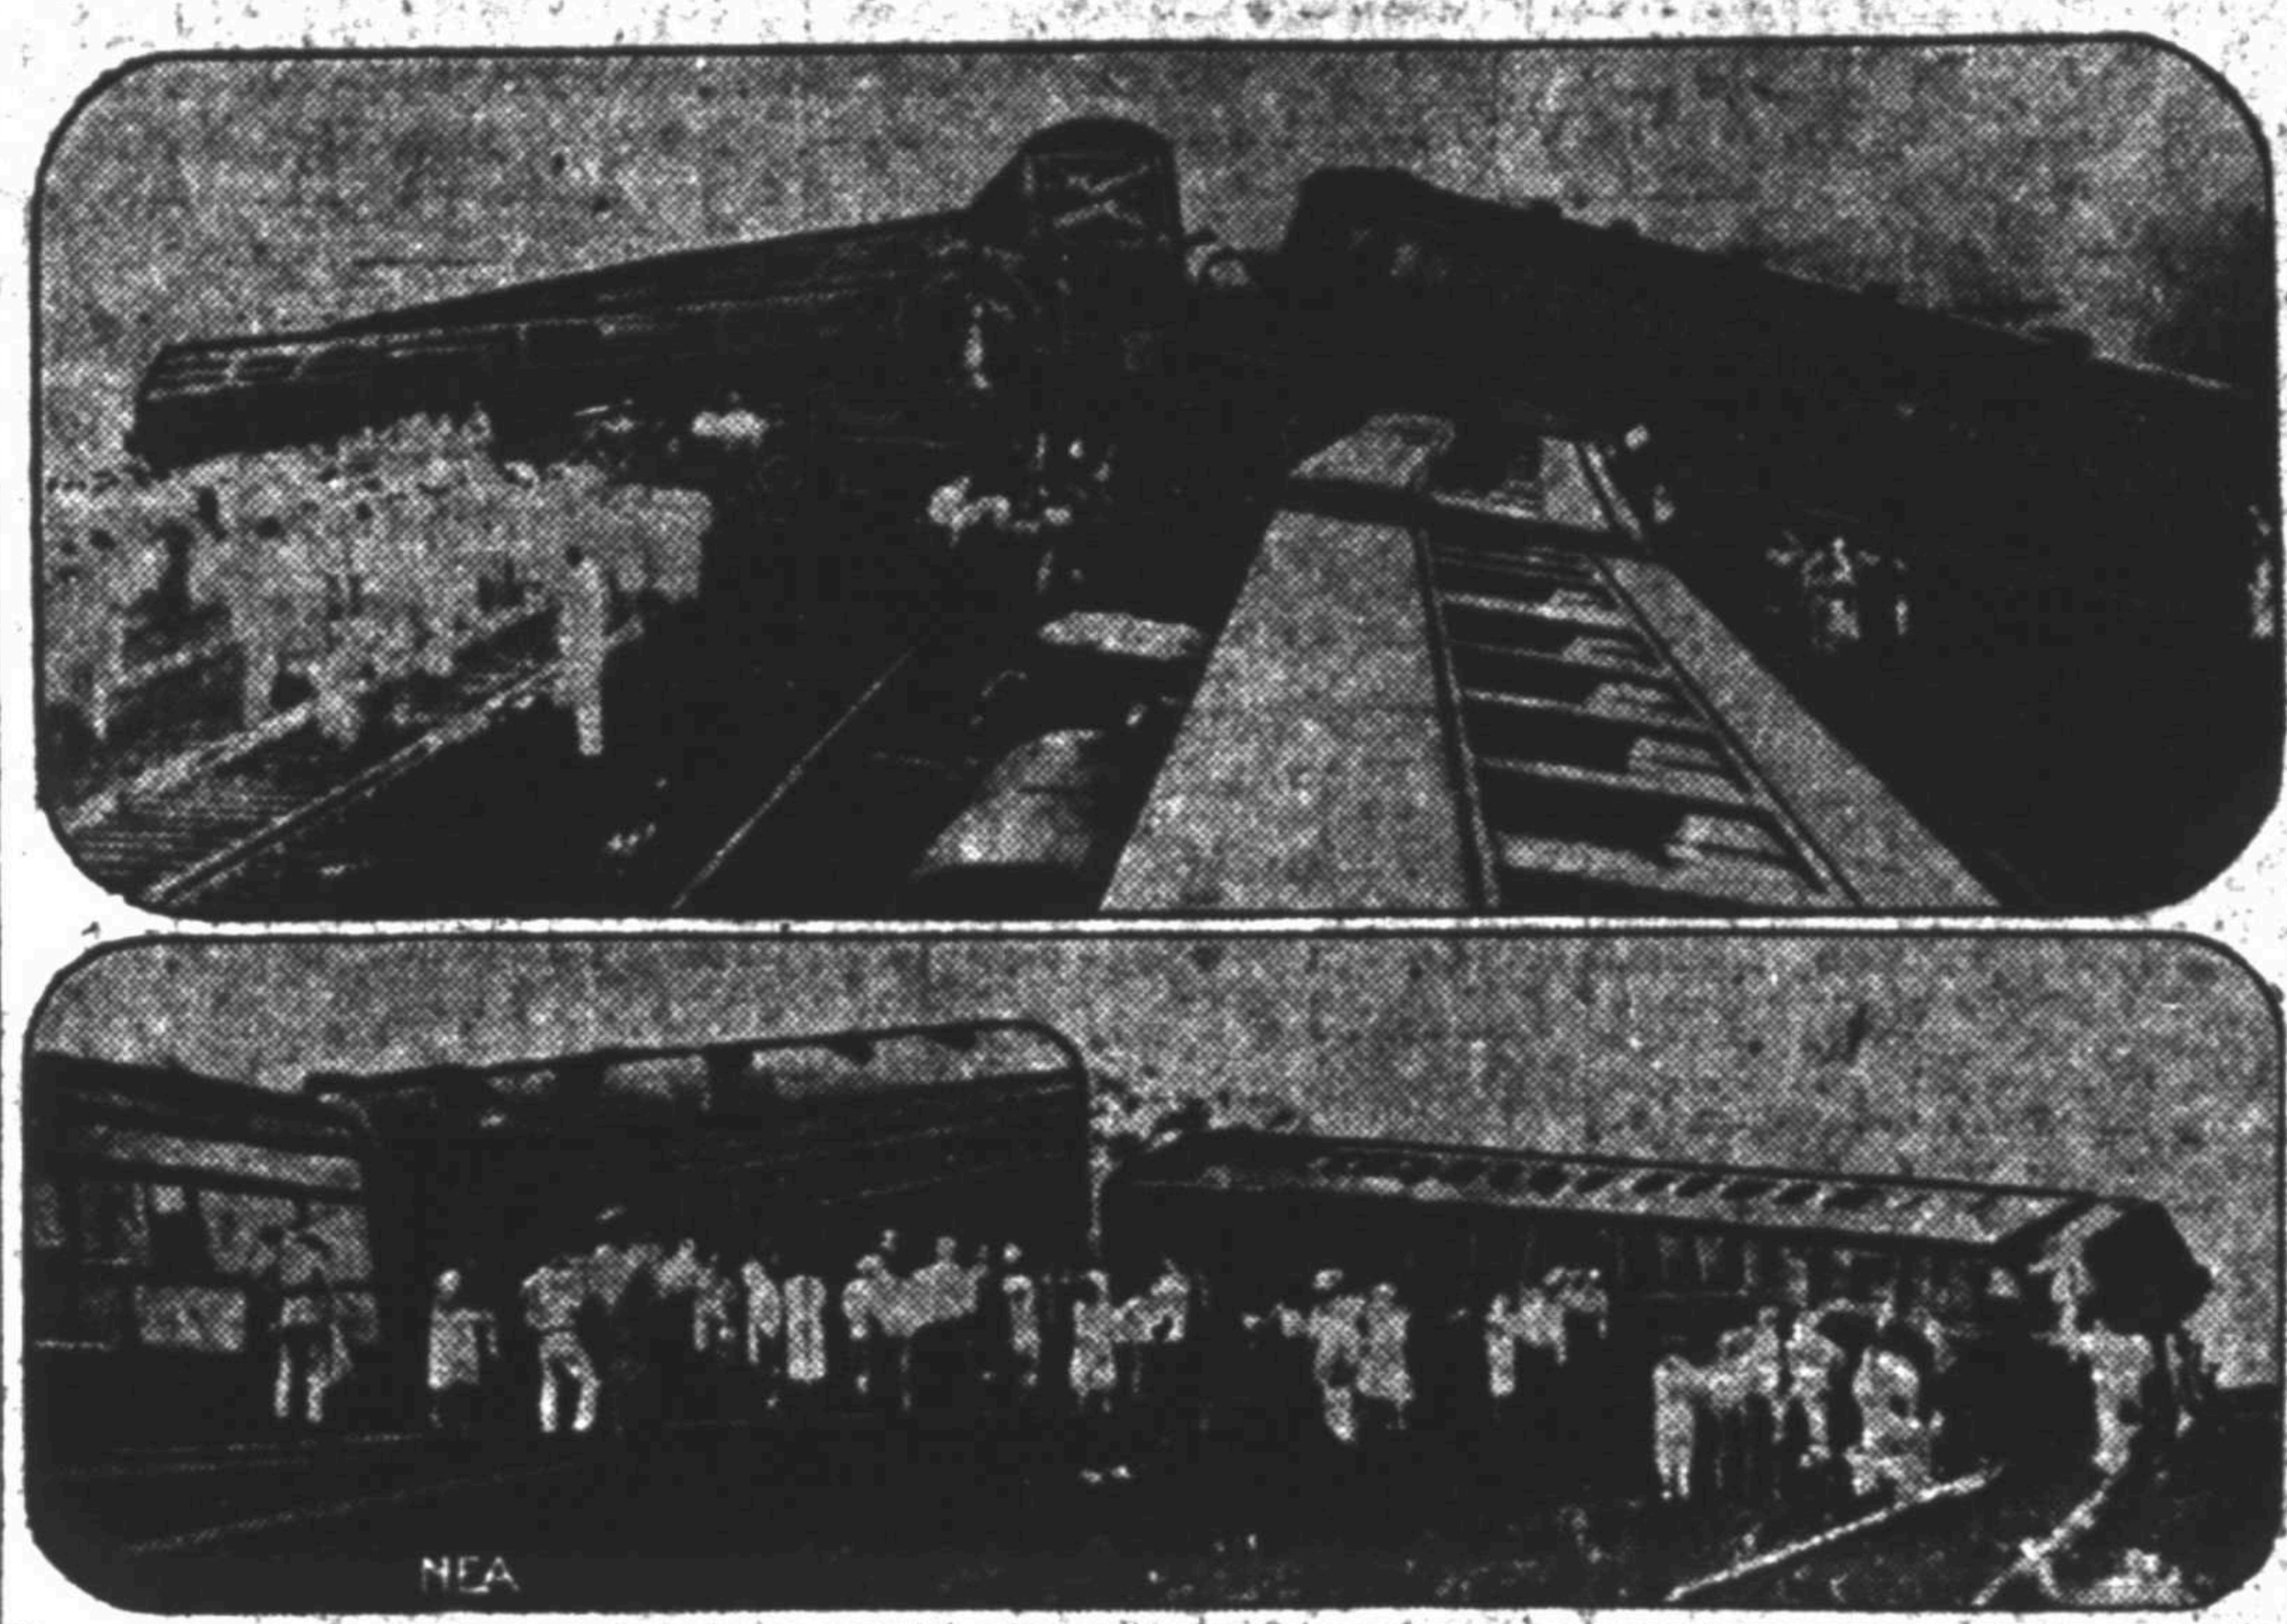

No dividends have been reported on the stock.

As of Jan. 1, 1928, total current assets were $521,115, current liabilities $38,267, and net working capital $482,848. Book value applicable to the no par common shares amounted to $10.62 a share.

The average price received in 1927 per barrel, was $1.29 as compared with $2.25 in 1926.

FAST I. C. TRAINS WRECKED IN CRASH

At least eight persons were killed and more than 60 injured when a fast Chicago-to-New Orleans passenger train jumped the rails and sideswiped another Illinois Central passenger train that was standing on a parallel track near Mounds, Ill. A large iron pipe that fell from a freight car is blamed for the wreck. These pictures were taken shortly after the crash while dead and injured were being removed from the overturned coaches.

OIL MEN COME TO ABILENE

Company Offices Made Larger

ABILENE, Texas, Aug. 10.—One of the strongest evidences that the oil development program in the Central West Texas sweet oil area is attracting increased attention since the recent profitable discoveries in the Tiner Corner pool in southwest Jones county and the Stephens pool in Fisher county is the manner in which the oil companies located in this city are increasing their forces and enlarging their quarters, and the further fact that a number of operators from other centers have established offices of business connections here recently.

Marland Production company during the past week added a new scout to the Abilene staff. Sinclair Oil & Gas company and Southern Petroleumn Exploration company have moved into larger offices.

Atkinson-Sandefer corporation of Breckenridge has established an office here in charge of W. M. Johnson, who until recently operated in California. Mid-Continent Petroleum company has transferred Geologist Cornelius Schnurr from Midland to this city, and will probably further increase the staff here shortly.

Sedgwick Oil & Gas company, with headquarters in Fort Worth, has a representative here regularly and Kenneth B. Yost, president of the Keystone Royalties, Inc., formerly located in San Angelo has moved here and will open an office.

In addition, a number of other oil companies are reported to be negotiating for leases on office quarters here and local hotel records show a constantly increasing number of independent operators in the city.

West Texas Operators To Meet at Midland

MIDLAND, Aug. 10.—A general meeting of oil operators in this section of West Texas is scheduled to be held here early in September at instigation of the oil and gas bureau of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, according to word of H. J. Adair, manager of the division who has been in this territory this week.

The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss problems of the oil industry apparent here, with a view to outlining a program of helpful cooperation between the West Texas bureau and operators.

Other activities to be taken up at an early date include a survey of the oil situation in West Texas, and a survey of West Texas industrials with a view to placing West Texas resources, advantages, and opportunities before Northern and Eastern capitalists.

Woman Nearly Killed By Old Indian Torture

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 10. (UP)—An old form of Indian torture nearly proved fatal to Mrs. Felipe Esquibel, who was found suspended by her wrists on the San Felipe Indian reservation. Federal officers arrested Felipe Esquibel, the woman's husband, and Mrs. Lupe Montano, who were said to have conspired to kill Mrs. Esquibel.

MEEK PROFITS ON HIS 'ERROR'

Forced to Hold Lease, He Sells It for $100,000

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 10.—James H. Meek Jr., San Angelo independent oil operator, once bought an oil lease on 80 acres in Howard county for an oil company, without a purchase order, and the company forced Meek to keep it himself. Today Mr. Meek sold the tract to Taylor Link Oil company of San Angelo for $100,000, payable $80,000 cash and $20,000 in oil. The tract is the east 80 acres of the southwest quarter of section three, township 2 south, block 32, Howard county, an offset to the block on which Henshaw Oil corporation of San Angelo last week brought in its No. 1 Settles, discovery well, in section six. The producer is a three mile west extension of the field, found however, at a new pay depth, 2,200 feet.

The No. 1-C Roberts, half mile south extension of the field, which topped the pay at 3,035 feet last week, had 1,500 feet of oil in the hole. Amerada No. 1 Roberts, three-fourths mile northeast extension, total depth 2,505 feet, swabbed 300 barrels in four hours, pulled the swab, let it stand over night and it flowed 135 barrels in 30 minutes.

COTTON ENDS HECTIC WEEK

Government Report Cause Of Excitement

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—The feature of the week in the cotton market, of course, was the government crop report. This placed condition of the cotton crop at 67.9 and the indicated yield at 14,291,000 bales, approximately 500,000 bales below the average of the private reports which had preceded it. First effect on the market was evidenced by a rush of buying orders and December contracts which had sold off to 19.00 just before the report was issued Wednesday, almost immediately advanced to 20.38, while October sold up to 20.75 or 165 points from the lowest.

The buying on this sensational jump in values was attributed chiefly to covering by shorts, however, and after it had run its course, the market met increased offerings. The latter became heavier and more general Thursday when relatively easy Liverpool cables and reports that the crop figures had failed to stimulate trade demand for either cotton or goods, were evidently a disappointment to recent buyers.

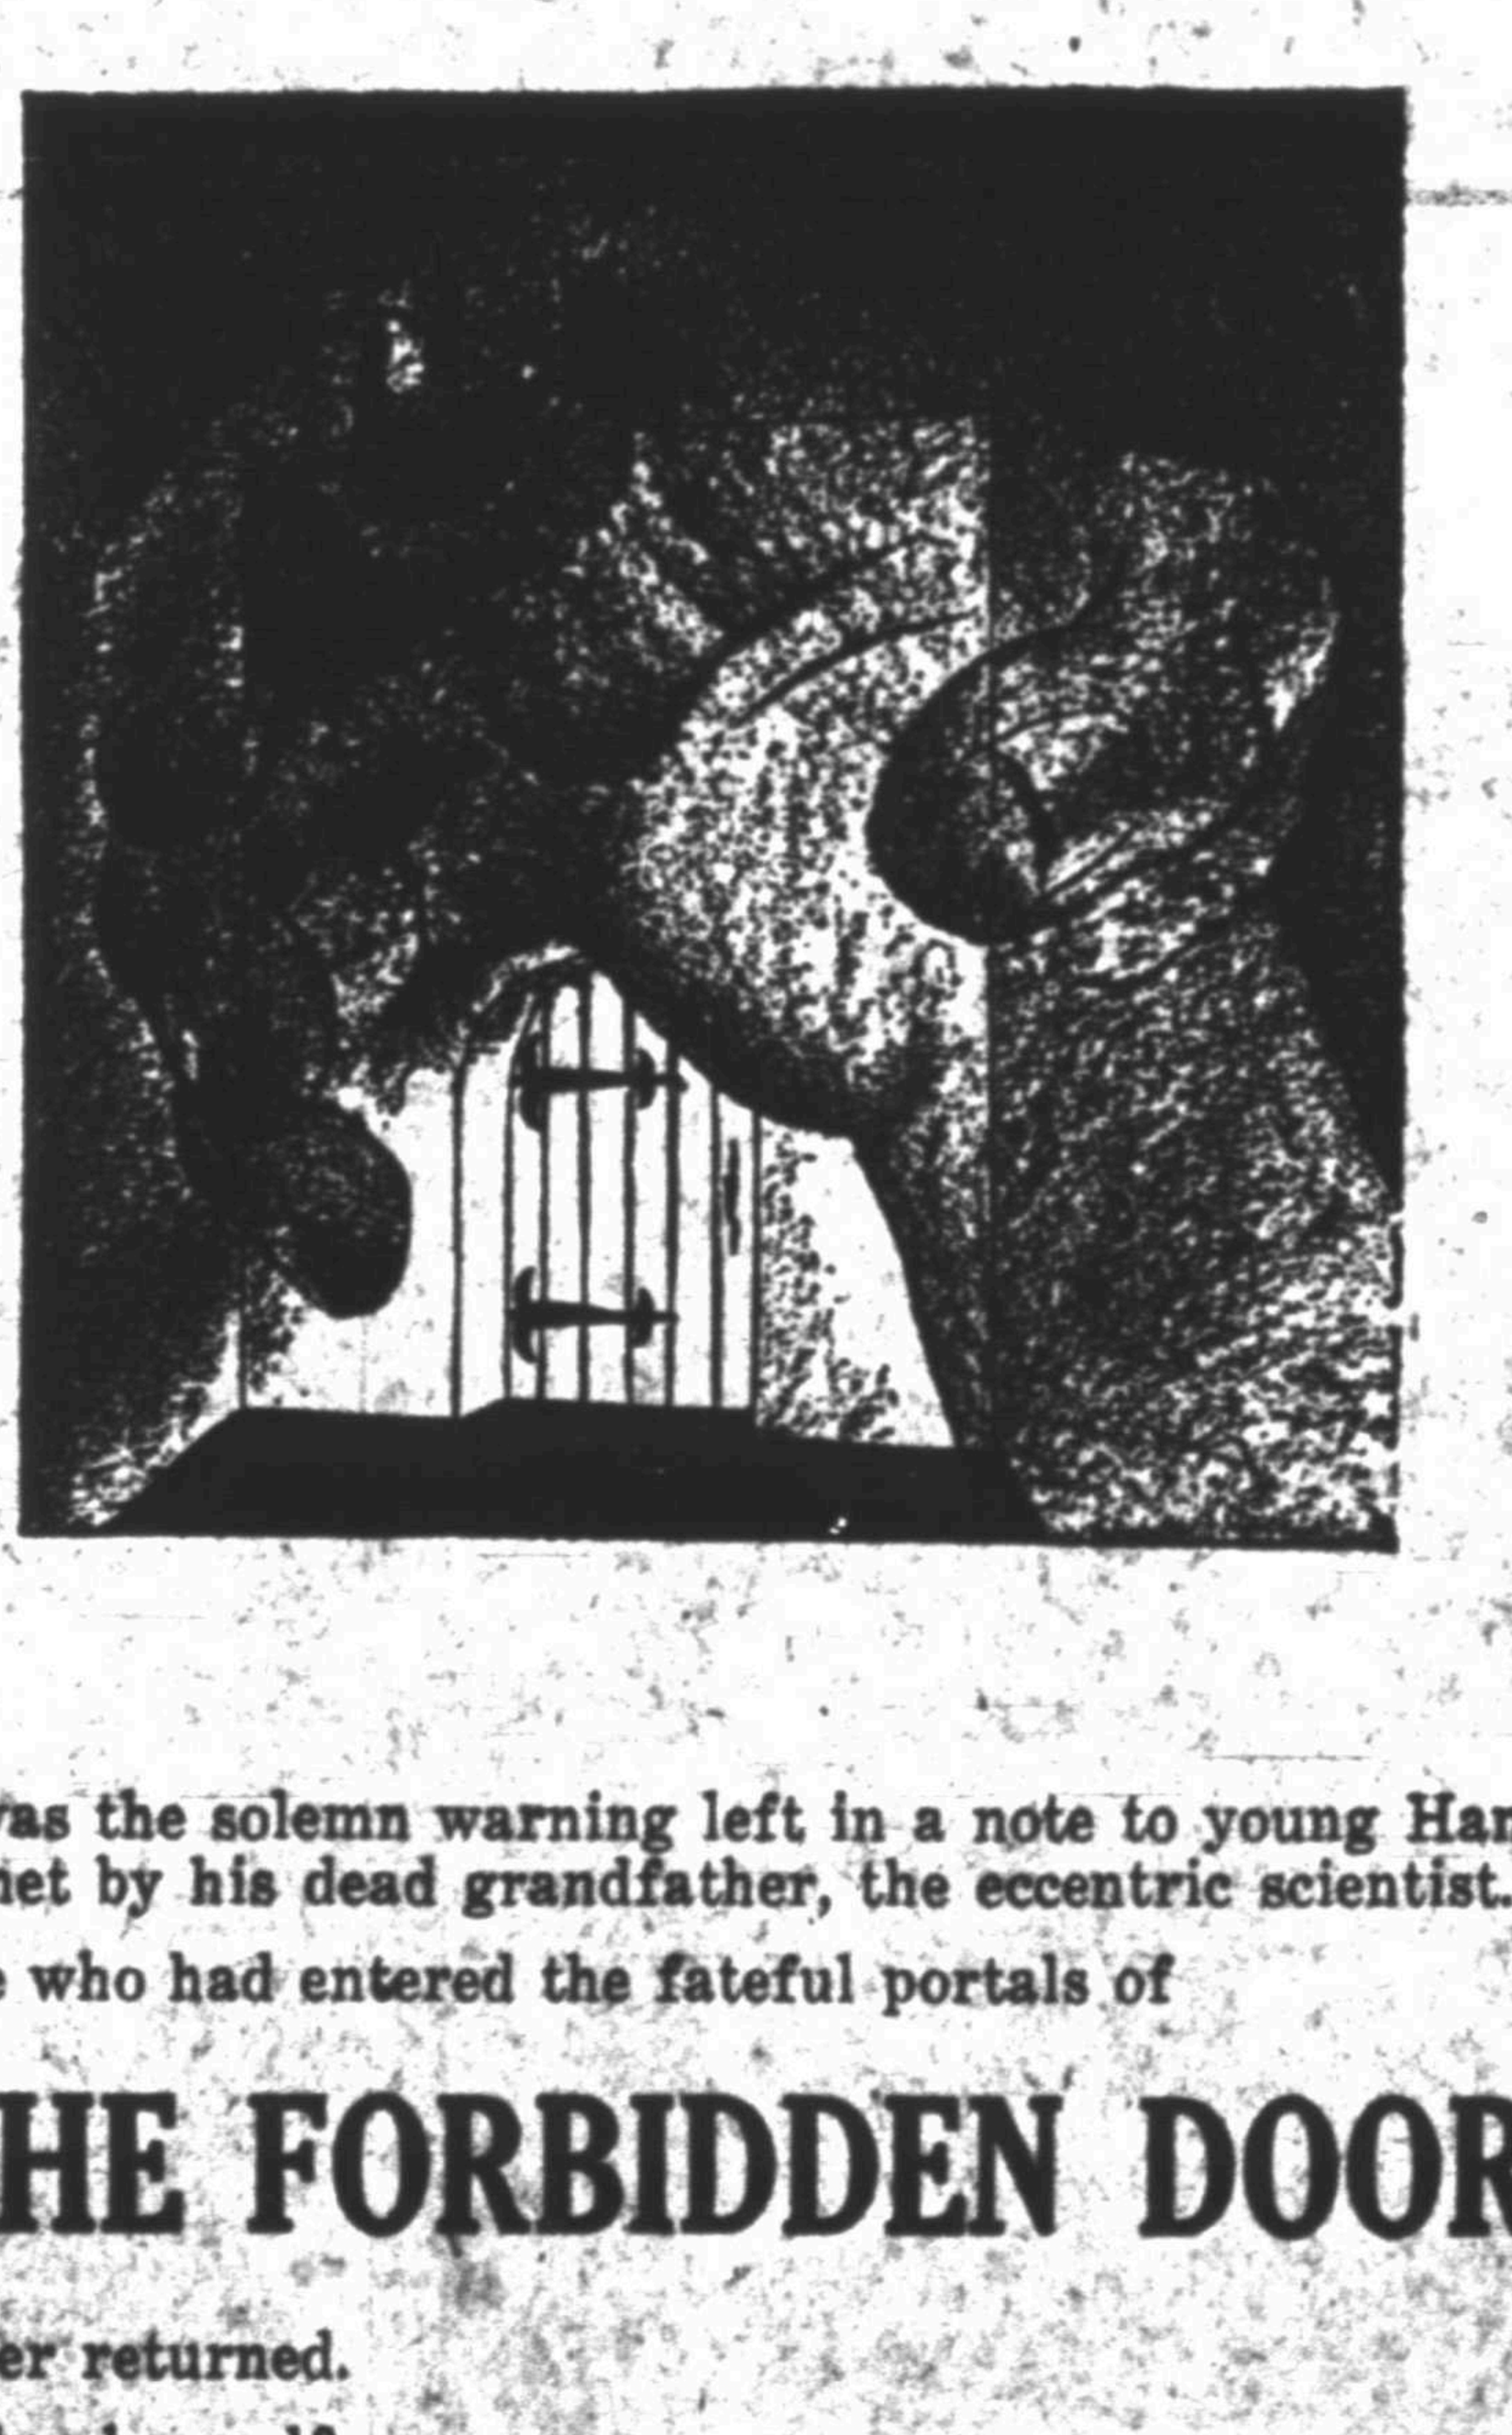

Liquidation and reselling became very acute, and the market not only lost the advance of Wednesday, but made new low ground with both October and December selling off to 18.51 or approximately the 18½-cent level and more than 4 cents a pound below the high prices touched on the advance of late last June. Bearish views also found encouragement in reports from the cotton goods situation including the standard cloth statistics indicating a slight increase in stocks during July and a decrease of 10 per cent in unfilled orders.

More trade buying developed around the 18½-cent level for early new crop deliveries, however, and rallies toward the end of the week were promoted by unfavorable weather reports from the eastern belt together with reports of increasing boll weevil infestation or damage. Weather conditions earlier in the week were considered favorable in most sections of the belt, and it is expected that traders will make a very close study of weather and crop reports during the balance of the month which is considered a very critical period in the further development of the crop.

Olympic Chairman In Answer to Complaints

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (INS)—Charges that luxurious living aboard the liner Roosevelt was the cause of the failure of the American athletes in the Olympic games, were answered today by Douglas MacArthur, chairman of the Olympic committee, who asserted in a cable to Chairman T. V. O'Connor, of the shipping board, that the Americans had achieved a brilliant success in the games.

BOULDER DAM QUESTION UP

Hoover To Discuss Issue In Los Angeles

PALO ALTO, Calif., Aug 10. (UP)—Herbert Hoover will make clear his position on the Boulder dam and public utilities issues in a speech at Los Angeles August 17, it was learned today at the campus headquarters of the Republican presidential nominee.

The announcement carried a considerable degree of political importance because of the relationship between the presidential nominee and Senator Hiram Johnson, who has been campaigning for re-election throughout southern California, devoting this speeches almost entirely to attacks upon the so-called power combine.

In a recent speech Johnson said no one was so exalted that he could avoid making a definite pronouncement of his views regarding the proposal to build a $125,000,000 irrigation, flood control and power dam in Boulder canyon. Some of Hoover's friends thought Johnson was shooting in Hoover's direction, although Johnson has declared he will support Hoover.

Addresses Planned

The Hoover party will leave Palo Alto the night of August 16 with a full day stop at Los Angeles. After the speech there the nominee will continue on to West Branch, Iowa.

Rear platform addresses probably will be made at Albuquerque, Hutchison, Kan., and Emporia.

Hoover will arrive at West Branch on the morning of Aug. 21 and will eat breakfast in the house where he was born. He will make a speech on the farm problem there that afternoon. Two days of ceremonies at Cedar Rapids have been arranged. He will leave Cedar Rapids the night of Aug. 23 and will proceed directly to Washington.

American Lines Sign Truce in Rate War

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, and head of the Isthmian steamship line, announced today that through the United States Shipping board, lines have signed a truce to the jute and burlap rate war between India and American Atlantic and gulf ports.

Dusky Wife Pays Fine For Mate Out Of Savings

HOUSTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—Ten crumpled $5 bills literally came out of the moth balls to pay liquor fines assessed J. B. Harrell, negro, and his wife, Ines, in federal court last week.

The odor of the little white pellets filled the air in the courtroom when the negro woman opened a faded leather bag, and one moth ball fell to the floor and rolled under the judge's bench.

"I done tol' mah husban' he hadn't outhter be foolin' with likker," the woman said. "I been savin' some these here bills for nigh on fo' yeahs."

POLICE PROBE STOCK SWINDLE

Corporation's Investments Hidden, Is Theory

DENVER, Aug. 10. (AP)—A search for between $200,000 and $300,000 alleged to have been taken for worthless stock was started today by the district attorney of Littleton, working on the theory that a large part of investments in the defunct Amarillo-Panhandle Development corporation had been hidden away.

The company's offices were raided here a few days ago, and all of the officers arrested by investigators who charged swindles aggregating a half million dollars had been perpetrated on scores of Coloradoans and other middle westerners.

ALCOHOL CACHE TAKEN

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 10. (UP)—A raid today on a basement of what appeared to be an innocent and homelike cottage netted 477 gallons of alcohol. The alcohol was stored in oil and varnish cans.

WATER CONTROL CHANGE LOOMS

Tillotson To Offer New Program To Solons

AUSTIN, Aug. 10. (AP)—State Representative Leonard Tillotson of Sealy said here today he will offer to the 41st legislature an entirely new program of water control and development legislation.

"The time has come," he said, "for an end of private exploitation of the state's water resources. A policy should be adopted to administer water development from the standpoint of public good."

He said the Brazos river reclamation association, which contemplated a water control and power program embracing some 35 counties in the Brazos river watershed has accomplished all its desired preliminaries and a meeting of the directors will be held within the next four or six weeks to see what can be done to get some actual results. He expressed opinion federal aid would be necessary for a successful program that the national reclamation act should be amended to provide such aid, now confined to federal lands.

Eagles Parade in Heat As Onlookers Faint

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 10. (AP)—While 20,000 members of the Order of Eagles marched in parade here today in a temperature of 90 degrees, almost a score of onlookers were prostrated by the heat. None of the marchers was among the victims.

Eight Nuns Released In Calles Death Probe

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 10. (UP)—The government today released eighteen nuns who have been held for questioning since the assassination of President-elect Obregon.

COOLIDGE MAY WADE RIGHT IN

President Ready to Join Campaigners

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (US)—President Coolidge will take an active and aggressive part in the presidential campaign, if necessary to insure the election of Herbert Hoover and thus win an indorsement by the nation of his own administration.

That information comes here to persons who have advised with the president on the developments and the prospects of the presidential battle between Hoover and Governor Alfred E. Smith.

Although seemingly isolated in the Brule wilderness, the president has kept in very intimate touch with the political conditions throughout the country.

President Confident

From the evidence thus obtained, the president believes that Hoover will sweep the west coast and that he will win all the states in the "disturbed area" of the corn belt. He has learned of outspoken opposition to Hoover and the administration in Minnesota because of the McNary-Haugen vetoes by himself, but is convinced that a substantial majority will ultimately be cast there for Hoover.

Wisconsin, in which he now abides, is believed by the president to be the only seriously troublesome state in the west, but there is a growing belief in presidential circles that Hoover's advocacy of development of the St. Lawrence waterway, which is opposed by Governor Smith as expensive and fantastical, will steadily overcome the opposition there. It is conceded, however, that the attitude finally taken by Senators La Follette and Blaine will have the greatest effect upon the presidential outcome.

East Coast for Cal

It is understood that President Coolidge believes Hoover will win many of the border states and that the great battle will be finally staged in the disputed area along the Atlantic seaboard from Maryland to New Hampshire.

That is the area in which President Coolidge, because of his birth, his early political associations and because of the great prosperity brought to it by his administration, possesses his greatest strength and where he would be most effective for Hoover.

Threat Rumors Sifted After Poison Mysteriously Kills Three of Family

Third Death in Household Moves Authorities to Investigate Mysterious, Slow Poison

CABOOL, Mo., Aug. 10. (UP)—Three mysterious deaths, resulting from a slow-acting poison, are being investigated here tonight by physicians and authorities of Texas county.

The dead were Mrs. Cecil J. Weatherman, 27, of Kansas City, who died here Aug. 6 at the home of her mother; Mrs. Joseph McGhee, Cabool, Mo.; Mrs. McGhee, who died the preceding day, and Nancy Louise McGhee, 9, daughter of Mrs. McGhee.

Three Children Ill

Cecil Weatherman, 3, son of C. J. Weatherman, of Kansas City, is in the hospital at St. Joseph, critically ill and his death is expected.

Two other children of the Weatherman family, in addition to Cecil Jr., are ill at the McGhee home here.

Weatherman told the United Press tonight that he had heard there had been threats by people in Cabool against members of his father-in-law's family and his wife. He was of the opinion that someone had poisoned the members of his family.

Water and Milk Tested

Tests made today of the water and milk supply of the Weatherman's failed to disclose any poison.

Nancy Louise McGhee was the first to die, her death occurring Aug. 3. It was not until the third death that authorities began an investigation.

A theory that the three had been poisoned by enemies of the family was given credence after Weatherman declared threats had been made against him. Nature of the threats was not revealed.

So far the investigation has revealed nothing and officers admit they are puzzled. Examination of the water and food supplies used by the family gave authorities no clues. They claim, however, that the poison is of a slow-acting nature.

None of the men in the family have been affected by the poison, thus adding more mystery to the case.

Mrs. Weatherman and her children had been visiting with her parents here. Last Saturday Weatherman was called from Kansas City to come to Cabool. Arriving here, he found his wife and mother-in-law seriously ill and his sister-in-law dead.

Richard Dix batted his way to fame and probably another fortune in "Warming Up," Paramount's first picture with sound, which opened at the Strand Friday.

At this time of the year when baseball is at a fever heat, it seems that the picture might well be reviewed by the sports editor, as it is a fast, speedy, smashing baseball picture that holds diamond interest.

Richard is seen as a baseball pitcher, a lover, a coward and a hero. The hero part of it is just grand. If you don't believe it, ask the first girl you see if she doesn't love a hero.

The story concerns a young rookies whose troubles are not confined to the diamond.

Jean Arthur is a lovable little miss and plays opposite the star. She proves a winning personality, and should be heard from many times in the future where pictures call for a sweet looking little girl who has that "I need loving" look in her eyes.

Mike Donlin, former baseball star of the New York Giants, Mike Ready, who claims to be the oldest baseball player in the United States, and a number of other well known public entertainers appear in the feature.

This is the first picture where the audience has been able to hear the crack of the bat and to hear the umpire call the balls and strikes. Manager Hans Smith asks that the fans kindly refrain from throwing pop bottles and seat cushions if they don't like his decisions, as it might ruin the screen.

Death Rides Crest of Head Rise In Carlsbad Stream as Trio Drowns

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 10.—A. J. Chambers, and two girls, one his daughter and the other the daughter of J. W. Stovall, all of Plainview, were drowned at Carlsbad, N. M., Friday morning while they were attempting to cross a stream on which a head rise overtook them.

The party was traveling in a sedan. The Plainview vacationists, including Chambers, his wife, two daughters, and the daughters of A. C. Bowley and J. W. Stovall, left Plainview for the Carlsbad caverns on Wednesday. Mrs. Chambers, the Bowley girl and the youngest Chambers girl were rescued but the other bodies had not been found today. Chambers had been chief mail dispatcher at the Plainview postoffice for a number of years and was on his annual vacation.

Whitt Starts Trip Back to Jail Here

Jeff Whitt, recaptured Thursday in Lewisville, Ark., Friday was on his way back to Wichita county jail, from which he escaped early in June. Charles Gant, deputy sheriff, left for Lewisville for Whitt immediately after the sheriff's department was advised that he had been apprehended.

Whitt's arrest was made by Arkansas officers on information furnished them by the sheriff's office here.

This is the second time within the past four months that Whitt has been returned to the jail here after breaking free. Several months ago he, Robert Moore and Boone Brown were recaptured at Magnolia, Arkansas, after they had broken jail. Participants in this break were charged with robbery with firearms after they had commandeered the automobile in which they made their escape.

Whitt, Moore and Henry Shumate escaped a second time.

Plans Made Here For Connally Rally

A district rally of Tom Connally supporters was planned at the meeting of Connally adherents at the Wichita club Friday at noon. Next Thursday evening has been set as tentative date for the rally, arrangements to secure Bellevue park for that evening.

Two minute talks will feature the program of the proposed rally, including in a list of prominent local speakers the following: R. O. Kenley, A. H. Britain, Bert King, Edgar Scurry, J. T. Montgomery, C. C. McDonald, B. T. Cummings, W. S. Long, A. B. Maple, J. T. Young, E. M. Mann, and C. C. Kirby.

PERMIT FOR APARTMENT

Construction on an $8,500 apartment house at 1408 Eleventh street will start at once, according to the provisions of a permit taken out at the city clerk's office by Mytinger and Walker.

The building will be 34 by 46 feet and of brick veneer. It will be two stories high and is to be completed in 60 days.

Knife Victim's Widow Called

Gage McDermett, assistant district attorney, prior to Shook's arrest, told the story of Daugherty's death.

Sperry Tells Story

"Daugherty," he said, "had stopped at the house to use the telephone. I told him to go ahead. I was sitting on a dining room table when he came in and did not turn around.

"Shook and Pryor had come to the house a few minutes earlier to borrow my car, and they were in the living room, where the telephone was.

"I heard a scuffling behind me, and heard Daugherty cry, 'Don't let him cut me any more.' When I turned Shook was standing back of Daugherty, with his right hand back and in it a knife, as though he were going to strike. I pushed him away.

"Daugherty went out the front door, got in his car and drove away. Shook and Pryor left by the back door."

Daugherty died three hours later from a gash in his right side.

Shook, meanwhile, hastened to his home, where he barricaded himself. He was not definitely located until Curley Sperry, brother to Ace, had come from Shook's house with his hands in the air and surrendered to officers surrounding the house. Shortly afterwards Sheriff Bralley arrived, communicated with Shook by telephone, and accepted the prisoner's surrender when Shook walked from the building with his hands in the air. Inside the house at the time of his surrender were Shook's wife and two infant children.

Ben F. Allred, district attorney, following a morning of investigation, presented available evidence to the grand jury Friday afternoon. He was assisted by Gage McDermett and Dick Kenley, assistant district attorneys.

Much credit for Shook's capture goes to Dick Morris and George Garrett, first county deputies to reach the scene after the fatal stabbing.

Seeks Early Trial

Sheriff Bralley had been advised abut 10 o'clock Friday night that there had been a little trouble in Electra and that Shook had "had difficulties with another man." Seriousness of the difficulties were not revealed to Mr. Bralley and it was not until after midnight that he learned of Daugherty's death.

Meantime Morris and Garrett, cooperating with Electra officials, had secured an eye witness to the stabbing, and Mr. McDermett had taken his statement. The two deputies and Electra officers also had ascertained and advised Sheriff Bralley that Shook was barricaded in his home, which was surrounded.

Mr. Allred indicated Friday that trial of Shook, in the event of an indictment, would be set at an early date, probably the week of Aug. 13.

WOMAN FREED OF CHARGES

Mrs. Blair Explains And Officers Drop Case

Convinced after a thorough investigation that Mrs. Lillian Blair, desired as a witness in the Tom Shook and Edgar Pryor investigations, had no intention of evading arrest, county officials Thursday dismissed a technical charge filed against her on July 20.

The complaint had been entered against the woman primarily as a precaution to insure her return here should it have developed that she was unwilling to appear.

Roy Daniel her attorney, quoted Mrs. Blair as declaring that she known that efforts were being made to locate her she would have communicated with officials. She also said that she is anxious to cooperate with the investigations. Due to the nature of her work, she explained, it had been difficult for officers to advise her that her testimony was desired.

After several weeks spent in an effort to locate her, Mrs. Blair was found in Lampasas and returned to Wichita Falls at the request of officers.

The search for Mrs. Blair began about the time an indictment charging burglary was returned against Ed Pryor and Tom Shook, former officers of Electra, and Henry Shumate. Because of the necessity for speed, an airplane was used by Warren Belcher, deputy sheriff, and S. O. Hamm, state highway officer, in securing the return of Mrs. Blair and her daughter, Miss Eddie Thames to Wichita Falls. Miss Thames returned with Mr. Belcher in the airplane and Mr. Hamm drove through with Mrs Blair and her son-in-law and another daughter in an automobile.

Anti-Smith Club Opens Office Here

More than 1,000 have been enrolled in the anti-Smith Democratic club of Wichita Falls and an active campaign is being launched. It was announced Friday following the formal organization of the club Thursday. Offices have been opened in the Perkins-Snider building.

N. H. Martin was elected president; J. T. Harrell, first vice president; C. H. Clark, second vice president, and W. B. Corlett, secretary. Among the organizers are included W. B. Hamilton, J. J. Perkins, C. W. Snider, Pat Simmons, Lester Jones, Mrs. J. C. A. Guest, Mrs. P. B. Curd, Mrs. J. W. Akin, Mrs. R. M. Morrow and Mrs. E. H. Taubert.

Aviator Searches Sea For Two Missing Men

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 10. (US)—A. B. Chalk, local aviator, was cruising the sea between here and Bimini late today searching for Robert Holland, pilot of the flying boat Topsy Fish and Superintendent Salter of the Bahaman Telegraph, believed lost while attempting a flight to Bimini Wednesday.

CONTEST CLOSES TODAY

All stories on "Why I Like Tom Mix" for the kids' matinee at the Mission theater must be in the Mission box office before 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning. Manager Charlie Moorehead announced Friday night. The 25 boys and girls writing the best stories will be admitted free to the matinee which starts at 10 o'clock. The show is Tom Mix in "Painted Posts."

AUTOS REPORTED STOLEN

Two stolen cars were reported to the Wichita Falls police Friday.

A blue Oldsmobile sedan parked in front of the Marchman hotel here was stolen about 3 o'clock from A. R. Evans of Childress.

The other car was stolen in Childress and was a 1927 model Rickenbacker roadster.

Earle Disclaims Aid of Utilities

for their water power rights, is another one. There are more.

"You will not find a single public utility campaign manager for me in any county in Texas. You will find former service men, laboring men and others who are not tied to 'interests' fighting my battles.

Connally Unfair, He Charges

"Tom Connally has made more unfair and infamous attacks on me than any other campaign in years has brought out. He has made these attacks while congress was in session and I was at my post in Washington. He was here in Texas campaigning and the people were paying him his salary for it.

"In the next two weeks you will hear more false issues raised than ever before.

"Connally has fought me instead of reciting his record. In his 12 years in office he has passed one special bill, while in my first term I have passed eight or nine.

"In his 12 years he has been named on one committee and I have been named on six. By the seniority rule I will retain all six if you return me to the senate, and he probably will be appointed to none of them."

Senator Mayfield was introduced by Walter D. Cline, and a number of Wichita Falls residents, including W. E. George and W. J. Townsend, sat on the platform with him. A crowd of 1,500 persons heard the address.

MAYFIELD ADDRESSES CROWD AT BOWIE

BOWIE, Aug. 10.—Senator Earle B. Mayfield, speaking to groups of farmers from a dozen communities of Montague and Wise counties, Friday afternoon asserted that Tom Connally, his second primary opponent for the senate, had solicited the support of James E. Ferguson, former governor, in the run-off race. He asserted Connally last February paid Ferguson $25 for a political announcement in the Ferguson Forum "as a bid for the support of Ferguson's friends," but did not report the campaign expense item until after the first primary.

"That's Trickry Tom's record," he said.

Senator Mayfield denied charges of Connally that he had solicited Ferguson's backing in a conference at the Austin hotel in Austin.

Mayfield also denied campaign charges that he is being supported by public utility officials.

The senator's speech, made from a truck at the street corner was stopped by a heavy thundershower. Former District Judge Paul Donald introduced Senator Mayfield, praising his support of emergency tariff, farm relief, railroad and other legislation. There were groups, principally farmers, present from Saint Jo, Nocona, Sunset and Montague in this county, and from Alvord, Wise county.

W. E. George of Wichita Falls, former district campaign manager for Alvin M. Owsley, senatorial candidate eliminated in the first primary, came here with H. G. Ellis to escort Senator Mayfield to Wichita Falls for his night address.

Senator Mayfield will not go to the Democratic "regulars'" conference in Austin Saturday, he said, but will stick to his itinerary, which calls for addresses at Gainesville and Denton.

WOMAN KILLS TO SAVE HOME

Train Car Thrown Into Disorder by Act

SOMERSET, Ky., Aug. 10. (AP)—Mrs. Logan Perkins, 27, of Whitley City, wife of a McCreary county, Kentucky, circuit clerk, was in jail facing a charge of murder today after having shot a woman to death whom she charged with breaking up her home.

Shortly after midnight this morning, Mrs. Perkins walked down the aisle of a south-bound Southern passenger train as it was passing Ferguson, near here, stopped behind a seat where her husband was talking with Miss Pearl Owens, 27, of Louisville, and fired twice, killing Miss Owens instantly.

While passengers in the day coach scrambled for safety Conductor Dan Demeen snatched the pistol from Mrs. Perkins' hand before she had an opportunity to fire again.

Woman Struck Dead In Traffic Argument

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 10. (UP)—Alvin Rouse, 21-year-old taxi driver, was arrested today in connection with the death of Mrs. D. H. Brown from the effect of a blow received during a traffic altercation. Rouse admitted striking the woman, who, in order to park her car, had moved Rouse's machine a short distance.
