6 from SHS due state competition

Six Snyder High School students qualified for the UIL state meet in regional academic contests held in Brownwood over the weekend.

Kirsten Miller placed first in poetry reading and Robyn Fambro placed first in prose reading to pace the local effort in Brownwood.

Both will advance to the state meet in Austin May 7-9.

In journalism contests, Elaine Smylie placed second in headline writing to qualify for state in that event.

Also earning a trip to the state meet with a second place finish in Brownwood was Robert Neblett who competed in the Ready Writing contest.

Snyder one-act chosen again for 18th trip to state contest

Snyder High School theatre students qualified for their 18th trip to the UIL state one-act play contest in regional competition in Brownwood Saturday.

The SHS production of "Hamlet" was chosen from a field of eight plays to advance to the state meet along with the Borger High School production of "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie."

The Borger play was also a winner in area competition held in Snyder earlier in April.

Five members of the SHS cast were singled out for individual honors at the regional contest including Karl Menges, who was named Best Actor of the contest for his portrayal of Hamlet's step-father Claudius.

Named to the regional All-Star cast for roles in the production were Brad Vincent as Hamlet; Kirsten Miller as Gertrude; and Shawn Rhodes in the dual role of Osric and the ghost of Hamlet's father.

Monique Miller, who plays Ophelia, was named to the regional honorable mention All-Star Cast.

Snyder will be performing in the Class AAAA one-act finals in the Center for the Performing Arts on the University of Texas campus on Friday, May 8.

SHS theatre director Jerry Worsham said Monday morning that no word has been recieved regarding a performance time for "Hamlet."

Goetz's trial begins

NEW YORK (AP) — Bernhard Goetz committed "vicious, even sadistic acts of violence" by shooting four young men on a subway in 1984, and jurors in his trial should take care to heed logic rather than their emotions, a prosecutor said today.

Opening arguments in Goetz' trial on charges of attempted murder began with a blistering attack by Assistant District Attorney Gregory Waples on Goetz's allegation that he fired in self-defense because he believed the youths were about to rob him.

He called Goetz "a person who in the name of self-defense shot four people in the back."

"Pay no attention to those appeals to your heart rather than your head," Waples told the jury in state Supreme Court, New York's trial-level court.

The shooting Dec. 22, 1984, ignited a national debate on self-defense and vigilantism, a debate noted by Waples.

"This case has touched a raw nerve in the American public," he said.

Fireman honored by group

Jamey Baldwin, a member of the Snyder Fire Department since August of 1983, has been selected as the "Fireman of the Year" for the MidWest Texas Firemen and Fire Marshall's Association.

The honor was announced Saturday at the 97th semi-annual meeting of the group, hosted locally this year by the Snyder department.

Baldwin will now be in contention for "Texas State Fireman of the Year" honors and will serve as the association's nominee at the state convention to be held in Amarillo in June.

This past November, he was the 1986 "Fireman of the Year" for the Snyder department.

He is a native of Scurry County and is also a certified Emergency Medical Technician now working toward paramedic status.

He graduated from Western Texas College in 1982 at the top of his class with a 4.0 grade average. He was listed in "Who's

Hermleigh one-act is statebound

Hermleigh high school students scored a "first" during the weekend as the one-act play, "The Small World of Millie McIvor," was chosen to advance to Class A state competition in Austin.

In addition, Hermleigh student Lori Tate was chosen Best Actress at the event and three other players gained All Star cast honors. Ben Smith and Barbara Brown were named to the cast and Jill Roemisch was given an honorable mention.

In the regional literary contest conducted at Abilene's McMurry College, Hermleigh qualified three other students for state competition as well.

Daniel Ramey will advance in headline writing; and Crystal Church will go to Austin in prose interpretation reading. Also going as an alternate will be Ben Smith in ready writing.

Regarding the one-act play, Trent's "The Diviners" will advance also. The Hermleigh pro-

Rosa's has take-out, dine-in Mexican food

Snyder gained a new Mexican food restaurant Sunday with the opening of Rosa's Mexican Food and Tortilla Factory, located in the 4200 Block of College Ave.

Owner and manager for the establishment is Eddie Perez.

The new business has a seating capacity for some 60 individuals inside the building. Also offered are outdoor tables and umbrellas.

A feature of the restaurant will be its drive-through window offering complete Mexican food dinners as a take-out food item.

These include complete burrito, enchilada and taco dinners with such side orders as beans, rice and chili.

Mesquite grilled foods will be offered also, to include fajitas and marinated chicken plus hamburgers.

All items are homemade right in the store.

The restaurant will open each day at 10:30 a.m. It will be open until 10 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and will stay open one hour later until 11 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

4-year-old signup due

Snyder ISD will pre-register students for its 4-year-old program Tuesday from 8 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. at North Elementary, where the class is held.

To be eligible for the program, the child must be 4 on or before Sept. 1, 1987; meet income guidelines for free or reduced lunches; or be unable to speak and comprehend the English language.

Parents pre-registering their children should bring the child's birth certificate, immunization

Commissioners renew Noah Project contract

County commissioners Monday reapproved a contract with Noah Project — the local shelter for abused women and their children — during the court's regular weekly session.

Noah Director Linda Scalf noted that the reapproval extends for another year a current contract with the governor's office.

This contract allows federal crime victim funds to be channeled through the state office to the county, which in turn directs the money to the shelter.

With the governor's approval, the local facility will share $24,000 with the Brownwood shelter for the second year of the five-year program. Scalf added that each year the grant amount drops by 20 percent — down now from the $30,000 awarded last year.

The local shelter will be responsible for replacing the lost revenue each year through fundraisers, such as the Germanfest held Saturday, other government or foundation grants and con-

Ask Us

Q. — Why hasn't the Snyder Daily News reported about the city's water problems?

A. — In fact, we just submitted the first news story written about trihalamethane levels here as a contest entry for news writing in this year's Texas Press Association competition. That story was a page one article with a banner headline on July 27, 1986. Several other stories related to trihalamethanes have been written since then, the latest on April 6.

In Brief

CIA protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 450 protesters, many chanting the 60s-style slogan "the whole world is watching," were arrested today as they sat down in front of entrances to CIA headquarters during the morning rush hour.

The non-violent protest was a major event in three days of demonstrations against Reagan administration policies in Central America and Southern Africa.

U.S. Park Police, with jurisdiction over the north gate of the facility in nearby Langley, Va., arrested 175 people. Fairfax County, Va., police, with jurisdiction over the south gate, arrested 287.

Of the latter, 72 were taken to jail because they refused to identify themselves or for some other reason.

Six are killed

HOUSTON (AP) — The roofs of both cars were sliced away by the impact of a crash on Interstate 45 that killed six people and seriously injured a small child, officials said.

Houston police accident investigator D.L. Wilhite said a northbound vehicle went through a fenced barrier, flew through the air, and landed atop a southbound vehicle carrying five people who were returning from a Houston Astros game about 11 p.m. Saturday.

"This is the worst I have ever seen. This one takes the cake," said paramedic J.R. Hemphill, whose ambulance was the first on the scene.

The crash forced authorities to shut down a section of the highway that links Houston and Galveston until early Sunday morning, police said.

Texas Department of Public Safety officials said the accident ranks as one of the worst in the area.

El Salvador faces many crises

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — After seven years of civil war, the nation's economy is so bad President Jose Napoleon Duarte wants the United States to give temporary refuge to Salvadorans illegally living there.

Government and business leaders say the war-damaged country cannot provide jobs, land or basic services for as many 500,000 Salvadorans who might be forced to return home because of the new U.S. immigration law.

"The economy does not have the power to absorb these people," Victor Steiner, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Industry, said in an interview.

El Salvador is Central America's most densely populated nation, with 5.2 million people, most of whom live in abject poverty. More than 50 percent of the work force is unemployed or underemployed. The average farm worker earns about $1.60 a day.

Business leaders and the U.S. Embassy say Salvadorans living illegally in the United States sent home an estimated $350 million last year. By comparison, the U.S. government last year provided $545 million in economic and military aid to El Salvador.

The immigration law offers amnesty to certain illegal aliens who arrived in the United States before 1982, but thousands of Salvadorans entered the United States later.

"It's a problem we are well aware of, and it has become a hot issue that we are looking into," U.S. Embassy aide Pendleton Agnew said in March.

Duarte last month asked the U.S. government to give Salvadorans "preferential treatment" under the new immigration law, citing the civil war with leftist rebels and severe economic problems.

Published reports Sunday from Washington disclosed the contents of a confidential letter Duarte wrote President Reagan. In it, Duarte reportedly said that forcing the Salvadorans to return home "would reduce drastically the amount of money received by poor Salvadoran people in remittances from relatives now working in the United States."

The reports also quoted Duarte as saying the economy is expected to suffer this year from declines in sugar, coffee and cotton production.

The three crops have been the nation's major export items, but production has declined because the war is being fought in many principal farming areas.

In San Salvador on Sunday, Roman Catholic Monsignor Gregory Rosa Chavez disclosed that Archbishop Arturo Rivera Damas went to New York last week to ask three U.S. bishops' help in securing preferential treatment for Salvadorans living illegally in the United States.

Rosa Chavez said Rivera Damas' meeting with the U.S. churchmen, whom he did not identify, produced "hopes but no spectacular immediate results."

Mainly because of the war and its destruction to farmlands, factories and businesses throughout El Salvador, the economy is in a shambles.

The economy was further hurt by last October's devastating earthquake, which killed 1,500 people, and, according to Duarte, caused $2 billion in damage.

Leftist unions claim Duarte isn't doing enough for the poor. Rightists fight forcefully against social programs. The armed forces are increasingly angered at all politicians.

Despite yearly infusions of more than $100 million in U.S. military aid, there is no end in sight to the war by fighting or negotiation. Religious and human rights groups say more than 62,000 people, most of them civilians, have died since fighting began in late 1979.

New drugs may block pain study says

NEW YORK (AP) — Drugs that use a new approach to blocking pain gave relief without producing numbness in laboratory animals, and may prove useful for arthritis and backaches as well as cuts and burns, a scientist says.

The research is the first to show that bradykinin antagonists, invented a few years ago, can relieve pain, said Dr. Solomon Snyder.

The drugs prevent a natural substance called bradykinin from activating pain-sensing nerves next to an injury, said Snyder, director of the neuroscience department at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore.

Snyder reports the studies this week in the European Journal of Pharmacology, along with Larry Steranka and others of Nova Pharmaceutical Corp. in Baltimore and Raymond Vavrek and John Stewart of the University of Colorado School of Medicine.

Nova plans to start tests in humans within the next few months, Snyder said in a recent telephone interview. Snyder is a Nova co-founder and stockholder.

Another pain expert said that while bradykinin antagonists are not yet proven superior to standard painkillers, the fact that they act through a different mechanism means they may prove useful when traditional painkillers fail, or in combination with current drugs.

"I'm delighted that it works," said Dr. Howard Fields, neurology and physiology professor at the University of California at San Francisco. "It could help a lot of people."

Bradykinin is released by body tissues when they are damaged, Snyder said. The substance then binds to specific receptors on nerve fibers, making the nerves send a "pain" message through the spinal cord to the brain, he said.

Bradykinin antagonists block pain by keeping bradykinin from binding to the receptors, he said.

Snyder said antagonists may prove useful for headaches, backaches and arthritis pain because the pain-producing mechanisms are thought to be the same as in skin surface pain. But Fields said the mechanism of headache pain is not known.

The new research involved two experiments. In one, 90 mice were injected with acetic acid to induce body-wide pain, a standard procedure for testing pain relievers. The level of pain was measured by the amount of writhing observed in the mice, starting five minutes after the injection.

Mice that received either of two bradykinin antagonists along with the acetic acid writhed less than did mice that received an inactive salt solution in the initial injection, the researchers reported. Each antagonist was given in two doses, and the higher doses reduced writhing more than lower doses.

Snyder said it is difficult to say whether the animals' pain was completely blocked, but that the writhing was markedly reduced.

The second experiment was designed to show that the antagonists reduce supersensitivity to touch, such as that caused by sunburn, without producing numbness.

Researchers recorded how much pressure had to be applied to the paws of a group of rats to make the animals withdraw their limbs. That reaction occurs not because of pain but from discomfort induced by the pressure, Snyder said.

Gift of Car Banners Reflects Mother's Concern for Teens

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me where to write to obtain some "Please Call Police" reflective banners that can be taped on the front and back windows of automobiles in case of a road emergency.

My teen-age daughter and her friends are approaching the age when they will be driving, and I think those banners would make terrific sweet-16 birthday gifts.

MRS. ROBERT SVIHLA,
RIVERSIDE, ILL.

DEAR MRS. SVIHLA: Write to: WCIL-BANNERS (Westside Center for Independent Living), P.O. Box 66942, Los Angeles, Calif. 90066. The cost is $4 per banner — postage and handling included. Make your tax-deductible check or money order payable to WCIL-BANNERS. This organization exists to help disabled people live independently. Thank you for suggesting that the banners would make terrific gifts. I agree.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Because of a recent personal experience, I am writing with the hope that you will print this (anonymously, of course) to remind professionals that "confidentiality" is still of vital importance in the nursing profession.

My husband is a recovering alcoholic. He went to a physician for a physical examination. Several nurses in that doctor's office were nursing classmates of mine.

A few weeks after my husband's visit to that doctor's office, the husband of one of the nurses came to me and told me how "proud" he was of my husband because he had quit drinking! He told me that his wife had read my husband's medical history, and told him "everything." I was shocked.

Abby, I, too, am a nurse, and I have always regarded a patient's medical history as privileged information — to be held in the strictest of confidence.

Perhaps other professionals need to be reminded of this. Thank you for letting me air my opinion.

NURSE

DEAR NURSE: And thank you for airing it as a reminder to everyone who, in the line of duty, has access to privileged information. This includes therapists, lawyers, school teachers, hairdressers, housekeepers, telephone operators, hotel (and motel) personnel — the list is endless.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know how many readers really like these new French-cut swimsuits — which seem to be the only kind one can find nowadays. I used to buy two swimsuits every season. Now I don't buy any — I wear my older ones rather than buy one of those new ones.

At first the slightly larger cutout look was attractive, but they kept cutting out more and more until the bottom of the suit barely covers the crotch! I'll be darned if I am going to start removing hair from yet another area of my body! How anti-feminist can you get?

I am over 40, 5 foot 6, weigh 110, and I am not ashamed of my body, but these new swimsuits are a disgrace. If other women want to expose that much of their bodies, it's all right with me, but I would sure like more styles to choose from. But where do I find them?

L.G. IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR L.G.: Keep looking. If you can't find them in the stores — look in the catalogs. I'm with you all the way.

Keep boils from spreading

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband gets boils a lot. They leave scars as big as a quarter. I have had two boils and my older daughter has had one, but our 6-year-old has never had them. Why do they occur? Are they contagious?

DEAR READER — Common skin boils are the result of infection with staph germs. They can leave scars and, like any infection, are contagious. Boils occur for many reasons, including a susceptibility that some people may inherit, the presence of diabetes or an immune deficiency, or unusually germ-laden skin.

Your husband should be checked by a doctor to see if he has a treatable cause for his tendency to skin infections. Your family may have fewer problems if you use a bath soap that contains an anti-bacterial compound. Your pharmacist can advise you.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have blood blisters in my mouth. My platelet count is 35,000 and my semen is red. This really takes the starch out of me. I've had every test you can imagine and they all come out normal. I'd appreciate any information you could provide.

DEAR READER — Your platelet count is low. These tiny blood cells are necessary for proper blood coagulation. With too few platelets, bleeding can occur into the skin, intestinal tract or reproductive system.

You need a full examination by a special doctor (a hematologist) to determine why your blood cells are deficient. Once the cause has been discovered, you can be treated to correct the abnormality.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Several years ago a medical column carried a recipe for a mixture to bleach age spots. My pharmacist says he will make it up (I have a prescription for it), but he doesn't know the ingredients. Can you help?

DEAR READER — I'm not sure I can. If you have a prescription for it, it must list either the name of the product or its ingredients.

In the past few years, most doctors have chosen to prescribe by a drug's generic title or brand name. However, older physicians (and pharmacists) can remember when doctors listed, and pharmacists combined, the specific portions of a medication. Nowadays, medicines are more complicated and commercial drug companies have taken the responsibility of mixing and marketing the potions, which doctors then order by name.

I am unaware of any current medicine that, when applied to the skin, bleaches the pigmented areas that come with age. If you have a prescription for the ingredients, a compounding pharmacist can make up the final product. If you have the name of the substance, the pharmacist can order it if it is still being manufactured.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report, WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT NURSING HOMES, offers a step-by-step guide to rating facilities and finding the best care available. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Tuesday, April 28, 1987

In the year ahead you will receive the opportunities for which you have always hoped. They are likely to emanate from least-expected sources.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Plans you conceive today have excellent chances of working out as you envision them, provided you don't make adjustments to incorporate the weaker ideas. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you want something kept confident, don't even discuss it with a friend today. You'll have only yourself to blame if a distorted version comes back to you later.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone you've done favors for can't be relied on to reciprocate today. This person may be too busy trying to feather his or her own nest.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have the potential for praiseworthy achievements today, yet they may only earn you jealous murmurs instead of applause from co-workers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be careful not to put yourself in a position today where your generous nature can be taken advantage of by others. Be kind, but also be realistic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Although you might look outside of the family for acceptance and enjoyment today, you could discover, the hard way, that those who really appreciate you are within your own household.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Avoid gambling with romance or dollars today. Your hunches in these areas are not too nifty and you might end up a loser.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Financial conditions are a trifle unusual today. On one hand, you might be on a roll for accumulation and, on the other, you could suffer losses through poor judgment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The time you spend brooding over real or imagined problems can be chalked off as a waste today. Instead, immerse yourself in involvements that can yield tangible results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone who needs your help may come to you hat in hand today. Don't embarrass this person further by outlining all of his or her mistakes.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Engage in productive activities today, both mentally and physically. Even if they tire you, you'll feel good about your achievements, whereas idle time could depress you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This could be the kind of day when what you think you want, you won't find, and what you already have might not make you too happy either.

City probes boy's drowning

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The drowning of a 4-year-old boy who fell from a paddle boat on the San Antonio River may lead to stricter rules regarding the operation of paddle boats in Brackenridge Park, officials say.

Ron Darner, director of the city's Parks and Recreation Department, told the San Antonio Light Sunday that officials will probe the Saturday death and determine if any state regulations were violated when the boy was allowed on a paddle boat without a life preserver.

"The (city) regulations may change depending on what we find during the investigation," he said.

The investigation should be completed later this week, he said.

Jason Barger drowned after falling from a paddle boat being operated by his mother Saturday. The incident occurred as the boat passed the Koehler Pavilion near the entrance to the San Antonio Zoo.

The boy, who could not swim, was not wearing a life preserver, witnesses said. Police reported the boy had stood up on the boat before slipping and falling into about 9 feet of slow-moving water.

The boy's mother, also a non-swimmer, was rescued after she jumped into the river in a desperate attempt to save her son.

Support grows for arms offer

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — European NATO members have expressed increasing support for Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev's proposal to eliminate all of the superpowers' ballistic nuclear missiles in Europe.

Officials of Italy, Luxembourg and Spain have come out in its favor, and Belgium, the Netherlands and Denmark also are believed to support it.

A key uncertainty in the Europeans' effort to forge a common position, however, is disagreement within the West German coalition government.

Chancellor Helmut Kohl planned to hold private talks in Bonn today with Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher, who leans toward acceptance of the Soviet offer, and Defense Minister Manfred Woerner, who says NATO should maintain some shorter-range missiles in Europe.

Britain also has yet to declare its stance, although the foreign secretary, Sir Geofferey Howe, suggested after an April 16 NATO meeting that the proposal could be a good deal for the West.

As part of an accord to withdraw hundreds of U.S. and Soviet medium-range nuclear missiles from Europe, Gorbachev has offered to allay NATO fears about a Soviet superiority in shorter-range rockets by destroying them as well. The only U.S. concession would be to forego the possibility of future deployments of short-range missiles.

In this category for the West, the West German air force has two wings equipped with 72 nuclear-capable Pershing 1A rockets, but the nuclear warheads are under U.S. control.

Before Gorbachev's offer, the official NATO position had been that the Soviets should freeze their short-range missile arsenal at current levels and allow the United States to match it.

Gen. Bernard W. Rogers, the top NATO commander in Europe, has said the Western alliance needs some America ballastic nuclear missiles in Europe to detect ground attack by superior Soviet conventional forces.

Italy indicated its support for the Soviet offer shortly after Gorbachev spelled it out to U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz on April 14, but virtually all the other NATO allies said they needed more time to consider its security implications.

The Reagan administration has said it will not take an official position until the European allies made up their minds. Shultz, however, has indicated he considers it a good deal.

In interviews in Luxembourg on Sunday, the foreign ministers of Spain and Luxembourg said their governments were willing to accept the Gorbachev proposal as long as it had full NATO support.

"We can accept this, but only if this is the wish of the full alliance," said Francisco Fernandez Ordonez of Spain.

Jacques Poos, the Luxembourg foreign minister, said Western Europe should not fear the proposed missile withdrawals would leave it unprotected.

"Enough nuclear potential remains in Europe, not only with the British and French (independent) nuclear forces, but also the tactical weapons that remain at the Americans' disposal in West Germany," Poos said. He was referring to the approximately 4,600 nuclear bombs, artillery shells and other nuclear charges designed for battlefield use.

Poos will lead a discussion of the Gorbachev proposal in a meeting Tuesday of foreign and defense ministers of the sevennation Western European Union, a forum for debating defense and security issues. The participating countries are Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Farmers victims of forces beyond their own control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers fell prey to soaring national debt and other big-picture economic happenings in the early 1980s and are still being held hostage by forces over which they have little or no control, says an Agriculture Department economist.

"Over the last four years, the trend in overall U.S. indebtedness has been dramatically different from anything seen in the previous 40 years," said Ralph Monaco of the department's Economic Research Service. "This change has important implications for U.S. agriculture because it affects the macroeconomic environment in which agriculture must operate."

In Monaco's view, the biggest dangers to the U.S. economy — which he termed possible but unlikely — would be an end to the flow of foreign capital into the United States, or trade protectionist legislation and an all-out trade war.

To give perspective to the immensity of U.S. debt — all the money owed by business, government and individuals — Monaco said that at the end of World War II the debt stood at 170 percent of the nation's Gross National Product, the value of all goods and services produced by the United States.

After an abrupt decline and some instability in the early 1950s, total debt as a percentage of GNP grew slowly and steadily through the late 1950s to 1980, when it again reached 170 percent.

Federal government debt as a share of GNP declined from a wartime high of 118 percent in 1945 to a low of 25 percent, according to Monaco's figures.

"It was almost constant from 1974 to 1980," he said. "In contrast, non-federal debt rose steadily from 52 percent of GNP in 1945 to 143 percent in 1980."

Monaco added: "Since 1982, the 35-year trends in total and federal debt as a percent of GNP have been shattered. By 1986, total debt reached about 210 percent of GNP, owing to a string of record federal budget deficits and a 22-percentage-point increase in non-federal debt as a percent of GNP."

In his analysis, prepared for a forthcoming USDA publication, Monaco noted that international developments have occurred that add to the frustrations experienced by American farmers.

"Between 1982 and 1985, real interest rates were about four percentage points higher in the United States than in the rest of the world," he said. "Foreign capital inflows have exceeded U.S. outflows for five straight years, something that has not happened since at least 1940."

The second president of the United States, John Adams, was born in 1735 in Braintree, Mass.

Overbid and underplayed

By James Jacoby

South's rebid of three spades was aggressive. If partner did not have enough to accept the invitation, South would probably go set. When partner does accept and bids four spades, as today, South still may go set. It's worth noting that a simple rebid of two spades by South should not end the auction. North, holding two aces and a doubleton club, which might be worth something, would still invite game with a raise and South would quickly accept.

South did not fit the mold of the normal aggressive bidder. Most overbidders are quite skillful at the play of the hand, since they spend much of their bridge life taking as many tricks as possible in precarious contracts. Today's declarer took the simple approach. He won the ace of hearts and played a club. East put up the jack and South played low. East now led a trump. Declarer won, played the club ace and ruffed a club. He ruffed a heart back to his hand and tried to pick up the remaining trumps. Since they did not split, he had to lose four tricks.

Declarer blundered in his haste to ruff a club. Instead, it costs him nothing to ruff a heart at trick two. He can then play a club, and everything will proceed as before, but with one important difference. After the club ruff in dummy, when he gets back to his hand by ruffing still another heart, he can try to pick up trumps. When spades fail to split, he has another way to get his 10th trick. He plays to the ace of diamonds and ruffs one more heart with his last small spade. Since West must follow, that makes the contract. But this could not have been accomplished without the careful ruff of a heart at the second trick.

Legislation aims to revise home health benefit plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 70-year-old man who is anemic and has bone marrow cancer lives in a Pennsylvania boarding home. Despite his weakened state, he is refused home health care benefits under Medicare.

The reason for the denial is that he is not considered "homebound," largely because he leaves his room each day to eat meals in a restaurant on the ground floor of his building.

According to Sen. John Heinz and other lawmakers who introduced home health care reform legislation last week, the case is typical of a system that has not kept pace with the rising numbers of elderly Medicare recipients needing post-hospital care.

Although a new reimbursement system encourages hospitals to release patients sooner than in the past, the government seems unprepared to handle the thousands of senior citizens who must continue their treatment at home, said Heinz, R-Pa., in a recent interview.

"For those who live alone ... the home health benefit assures a choice of independence over institutionalization," Heinz said. "But for reasons which can only be described as arbitrary, confusing and even illegal, (these people) find themselves cut off from care in the interest of savings."

The man with bone marrow cancer was one of 30 Medicare case studies cited in a report last year by the Senate Special Committee on Aging, on which Heinz is the senior Republican. The document did not identify the individuals.

The report found the number of Medicare claims denied for home health care increased from 18,121 in the last quarter of 1983 — a rate of 1.5 percent — to 47,855 in the first quarter of 1986, a rate of 3.5 percent.

A big part of the problem is the way the federal government treats the "homebound" requirement for home benefits, according to a summary of the reform bill introduced last Wednesday by Heinz and Sens. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., Jay Rockefeller, D-W.Va., and others.

In many cases, Heinz said "homebound" has been interpreted by the government to mean that the benefit applicants are still bedridden.

HCFA oversees Medicare, which is a federal health insurance program for senior citizens and certain disabled people.

The new legislation would define as homebound anybody with a condition that hampers their ability to leave home without support, or those for whom leaving would aggravate their illness.

The bill would also qualify beneficiaries to receive daily services from home health care providers for up to 60 days, or even longer when a physician declares "exceptional circumstances." Currently, HCFA allows most patients to be covered for daily care only on an "intermittent" basis.

According to Bradley, the "intermittent" requirement has been interpreted by HCFA to mean that daily home care covered under Medicare normally cannot extend beyond three-week intervals.

"In other words, if a patient is too ill, he or she cannot get home health care coverage," Bradley said. "That does not make sense."

Carrillo, Hudson lead way as...

Western wins H-SU Rodeo

ABILENE -- It's an old saying that when the going gets tough the tough get going, but that's exactly what Western Texas College cowboys Mike Carrillo and Keith Hudson have done.

Two weeks ago, Western Texas was in fourth place in the Southwest Region rodeo standings and needed points badly. Today, Western sits in first place by 158 points, thanks largely to Carrillo and Hudson, who have accounted for 360 points over the past two rodeos.

Western earned 285 points here Saturday at the Hardin-Simmons University NIRA Rodeo, giving the college a total of 1,445 heading into the final show sponsored by Tarleton State University and held in Stephenville beginning Thursday.

"If we didn't go (to Stephenville this weekend), then Tarleton would need 344 points and Odessa 342, I think, to catch us," said WTC rodeo coach Bob Doty. "What we would like to do is have another 250 point rodeo and that would give us enough to win the region."

Teams compile their five best rodeos for a team total. Western is still adding a 170-point rodeo in its total, along with four others: 435, 280, 285 and 275. To improve its point total, Western needs to score more than 170 points at the Tarleton Rodeo. Both Tarleton and Odessa - which have totals of 1,287 and 1,285 respectively - are still adding a 205-point rodeo and must score more than that amount to improve their overall totals.

Saturday's performance at the Hardin-Simmons Rodeo was WTC's second straight win and its third in the six rodeos held so far this semester.

Carrillo won the average in the bareback with a 148 total on two head. He also won first in the long-go with a 77, and split second place with teammate Bryan Evans in the short-go with a 71. Evans, the only freshman on the six-man WTC team, tied with Tarleton State's Andy O'Neal for third place in the average with a 139.

Adam Brewster of Western also reached the bareback finals with a 67, but he scored a 66 there and finished out of the money.

Hudson is the region's leading calf roper, and the defending national champion in the event. That wasn't where he got his points at this rodeo, however. After his calf got up in the long-go to give him a no-time in that event, he went to work in the steer wrestling.

The Paris, Texas, cowboy was ninth in the long-go with a 5.8, but flashed a fine 4.2 Saturday to win the short-go. His total 10.0 also aced the field for average honors.

Teammate Todd Danley took a three-way tie for first place in the long-go with a 4.7, then clocked a 6.1 there for third in the average with a 10.8.

"Mike was hurt for two rodeos (collarbone) so he missed the WTSU rodeo and tried to ride at Big Spring and couldn't. Now he's back strong and doing well," Doty said of the Kingsville cowboy. "Adam didn't point in this rodeo, but he's done real well this semester. He's really come on strong for us, too."

Western's students who weren't on the designated teams didn't have as good fortune here, though Steve Roberts was second in the long-go of the saddle bronc with a 71. He took a no-score in the finals. Heath Simms also took a no-score in the steer wrestling and Joel Marr NTed in the calf roping.

Mistri Davis was the only women's competitor from WTC to reach the finals. She clocked a 4.1 in the long-go of the breakaway, but no-timed in the finals.

Texas Tech University won the girl's division with 135 points.

AJRA rodeo boasts winners from all over; Snyder, also

The American Junior Rodeo Association Rodeo held here last weekend produced winners from all over Texas, as well as Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Competition was held in four age divisions during the three-day show, which was sponsored by Western Texas College.

Local cowboys and cowgirls took their share of the winnings also, including Adam Brewster, who won first in both the bareback and bull riding. Ross Hataway of Snyder scored a 67 to win the 12-and-under steer riding while local roper Leddy Lewis joined Justin Stowe of Plains to win the 13-15 division team roping in 13.52.

Pam Jones took her winnings back to Sonora. She won the 8-and-under flags in 7.58 and placed third in both the barrels and pole bending.

Corsicana hands did well here too, as Marty Yates won the 13-15 breakaway roping in 1.77 and Jeff Yates was second in both the 12-and-under breakaway roping and ribbon roping.

Big Spring also reaped honors as Kim Rankin carried the banner. Competing in girl's 16-19 events, she won the barrels in 13.92 and placed third in both the pole bending and breakaway roping.

A number of youngsters familiar in AJRA circles competed and fared well. Olney's Jeff Hilton won the boy's 12-and-under barrels in 13.79; Lari Dee Guy of Abilene won the 16-19 breakaway roping in 2.20; Robin Wardlaw of Del Rio won first in the 16-19 pole bending with a 20.78; and Lorrissa Edmondson of Roby won the 13-15 barrels in 13.73 - the fastest run of the rodeo.

Other Snyder competitors who finished in the top three included Russell Riggan, third in the 8-under-flags; Kristi Prather, third in the 13-15 barrels; Jana Kincheloe, third in the 12-under-goats; and Leslie Ward, second in the 16-19 barrels.

Western Texas College cowboy Troy Budvarson won the saddle bronc with a 59. Other WTC students included Todd Danley, third in the 16-19 steer wrestling; Bryan Evans, second in the bareback; and Brewster, who scored a 72 in the bareback and a 73 in the bull riding.

Region track meet set for Friday, Saturday

Snyder begins competition in the Class 4A Region I Track and Field Championships on Friday in Brownwood.

First action for the Tigers will be at 4:35 p.m. Friday when Michelle Pilgrim runs in the 100 meter preliminaries.

Other events for Snyder on Friday are the 800 meter relay at 4:50 p.m., the 200 meters at 5:30 p.m. and the 1600 meter relay at 5:45 p.m.

Saturday morning at 11, Snyder's only boy's qualifier - Chris Garrett - competes in the high jump.

In finals set for Saturday, the 800 meter run is at 2:15 p.m., followed by the 100 meters at 2:45 p.m., the 800 relay at 3 p.m., the 200 meters at 3:35 p.m. and the 1600 relay at 4:05 p.m.

800-meter relay members for Snyder are Sandra Powell, Sharnette Thompson, Kim Koening and Katrina Reed. Koening, Reed, Dana Fenton and Melody Pickering run the 1600 relay.

Koening also runs the 800 meters and Reed the 200 meters.

SHS girls compete in qualifier's meet

LEVELLAND -- Snyder's Lady Tigers tuned up for this weekend's Region I Track and Field Championships by participating in a qualifier's meet here over the weekend.

The Tigers compete at regionals on Friday and Saturday, May 1 and 2, in Brownwood.

Snyder netted a couple of third places here. Kim Koening set a personal best in the 800 meters with her 1:31.08 clocking. Also placing third was the Tiger 800 meter relay team of Sandra Powell, Sharnette Thompson, Katrina Reed and Koening. They ran a 1:47.59.

Reed was fifth in the 200 meters with a 26.9 and the 1,600 relay team of Dana Fenton, Melody Pickering, Koening and Reed did not place. Coach Patty Grimmett pointed out, however, than Fenton and Pickering ran their fastest splits of the season.

Also running for the Tigers was Michelle Pilgrim in the 100 meters. Pilgrim, who did not place at the meet, finished fourth in the District 2-4A 100 meters but will be competing at regionals since two other girls either became ineligible (grades) or chose not to compete.

Saberhagen improves to 4-0; Rangers topple Red Sox, 5-3

by The Associated Press

Bret Saberhagen has always liked pitching in Detroit. But this season, he seems to be enjoying his job no matter where he pitches - because this year, he's healthy again.

Saberhagen, plagued by a sore right shoulder and right foot last season, ran his record to 4-0 Sunday by scattering seven hits as he pitched the Kansas City Royals to a 6-1 victory over the Tigers.

The victory improved Saberhagen's career record at Tiger Stadium to 7-0 and dropped his earned run average in four games this season to 1.32.

"I said in spring training that if I stayed healthy, I would win some ball games," said Saberhagen, who finished 1986 with a 7-12 record and 4.15 ERA.

Detroit starter Walt Terrell dropped to 1-3.

Elsewhere in the AL Sunday it was, the New York Yankees 14, Cleveland 2; Minnesota 10, California 5; Toronto 5, Chicago White Sox 2; Milwaukee 5, Baltimore 3; Texas 5, Boston 3; and Seattle 8, Oakland 5.

Yankees 14, Indians 2

Tommy John pitched seven shutout innings for the second straight start, this time allowing Cleveland one hit.

The 43-year-old left-hander allowed only an infield single to Julio Franco with two outs in the third inning. John retired 14 Indians on groundouts.

Rangers 5, Red Sox 3

Texas, off to an unexpectedly slow start, might have found the answers with a three-game sweep of Boston. Pete O'Brien, who entered the game batting .182, completed the sweep with a two-run homer in the bottom of the 13th inning.

Calvin Schiraldi, 0-2, came in to start the 13th and gave up a single to Scott Fletcher before O'Brien hit his second homer of the season.

Roger Clemens started for Boston and allowed 10 hits, walked four and struck out 10 in eight innings.

Brewers 5, Orioles 3

Juan Castillo hit his first major-league home run as the Milwaukee Brewers improved their record to 16-1 by completing a three-game weekend sweep of Baltimore.

In the fifth inning, Orioles starter Mike Flanagan, 0-3, gave up an infield single to Jim Paciorek before Castillo hit the next pitch over the left-field fence.

Milwaukee starter Mike Birkbeck, 1-0, limited the Orioles to three hits through the first five innings before yielding two runs in the sixth.

Twins 10, Angels 5

Steve Lombardozzi, not considered a longball threat in the power-packed Minnesota lineup, broke a seventh-inning, 5-5 tie with his first home run of the season.

The solo homer came off reliever Mike Cook, 1-1.

Blue Jays 5, White Sox 2

Toronto's power hitters broke out of their slump as George Bell hit two homers and Jesse Barfield added a solo shot to help beat Chicago.

Fire levels truck stop at motel

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — As many as four people remained missing after a blaze destroyed a three-story motel for truck drivers, but officials were trying to determine if they were injured or simply fled.

The fire in the motel at Ronnie's Truck Stop began about 2:30 a.m. Sunday and burned for about two hours, leveling the wood building, officials said.

South Montgomery Volunteer Fire Department Chief Jim Williams said there were no injuries except for a woman who suffered from emphysema and was having breathing problems.

"About two to four truck drivers are unaccounted for," Williams said Sunday night.

"We don't know too much today. We'll know more tomorrow. These are truck drivers and they may have have just decided to leave and say 'the hell with it,'" Williams added of those still missing.

Montgomery County Sheriff's spokesman Bob Morrison said he did not know how many people were in the motel at the time of the fire.

Minority figures reported down

AUSTIN (AP) — Private schools in Texas provide significant exceptions to the national downward trend of enrollment of blacks and Hispanics, a spokeswoman for the institutions said.

Carol McDonald, president of the Independent Colleges and Universities of Texas, says enrollment of blacks and Hispanics has hovered around 16 percent for most of the 1980s, compared with below 10 percent nationally.

The peak enrollment was 16.2 percent in 1981, followed by a slight up-and-down movement to 15.3 percent in 1985, the latest year for which statewide figures are available, Ms. McDonald said.

Black enrollment was consistently 8 to 8½ percent from 1981 to 1985, and Hispanic enrollment was 7 to 7½ percent, she said.

Total enrollment at the 40 ICUT schools has remained about 78,000 through the 1980s. Among the schools are six historically black private colleges which have a combined enrollment of about 3,300.

Nationally, black enrollment in higher education dropped from a high of 9.4 percent in 1976 to 8.8 percent in 1984, according to the American Council on Education.

Scalf reported a marked increase in the number of individuals served by the facility since last summer. "In most of the 19 categories on which we keep records, we are seeing as much as three to four times the help given over last year," she said.

As an example, she noted that Noah staffers estimated some 72 families will be served this year. Some 65 families have already been reached after only the first six months of the facility's fiscal year.

In other action, commissioners approved a request from Jimmy Ward, parks superintendent, to bid for salvage of light poles located in the old ball park at Hermleigh.

Ward will draw up specifications for the project which will include some nine poles, light fixtures, harnesses, meter loops and other items. Bids will be opened during the court's regular session May 11.

Ward also reported that bulbs in Towle Park were replaced at a cost of some $1,300 to the county. Park personnel completed the work rather than contracting the project this year to realize an estimated $1,700 saving.

Also Monday, commissioners authorized County Auditor Bernhard Bartels to drop a $25 payment made to three staffers for bookkeeping related to the juvenile grant program.

The bookkeeping duties have been transferred from the county treasurer's office to the auditor's office.

Art collectors made mistake

DALLAS (AP) — Not all art experts and anthropologists were shocked when the Dallas Museum of Art announced that three prominent artifacts in its pre-Columbian collection are actually modern forgeries.

The museum announced last week that three of their most prominent pre-Columbian pieces were not 1,000 years old, but rather were thought to have been made by Brigido Lara in the 1950s.

Lara, whose pre-Columbian replicas were withdrawn from the Dallas Museum of Art (DMA) when found to be fakes, said Saturday he made thousands of such pieces which are probably in museums all over the world.

Experts said such art is more easily faked than other types because it belongs to a relatively new and uncharted area of collecting.

Most major pre-Columbian collections in this country, including the DMA pieces, were formed during the past 50 years. For most of that time, artifacts were plentiful and there were no restrictions on their export.

"It's a high-risk, high-reward area," DMA Director Harry S. Parker said. "The fact that the field has not been tilled over and over again means there are more surprises. But there also are more possibilities."

DMA officials were able to build a world-class pre-Columbian collection on a budget that would have been negligible in more established fields, such as old master or impressionist paintings.

Employees are in unemployment lines

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — As former Safeway employees queued up in the unemployment line, the out-of-work grocery workers included at least 30 married couples.

Some had met while they bagged groceries and stocked shelves together, then stayed on at the grocery store because the pay was so good. On Friday, they lost their jobs together and Saturday, they were in line at the Texas Employment Commission offices.

The couples were among more than 700 Fort Worth Safeway workers of 1,700 who were put out of work when the grocery chain closed the stores in its North Texas division.

Zelma Baties, director of the regional TEC office, estimated that the commission will pay as much as $1.6 million a week to more than 8,000 Safeway workers thrown out of work when the 131 stores closed.

Jack Monkres, business agent for the United Food and Commercial Workers International Union Local 368R, said at least 100 couples worked for Safeway stores in the Fort Worth area.

Most earned more than $1,000 a week between them, but they will now have to get by on a combined average of about $400 a week in unemployment benefits for as long as 26 weeks.

Negotiations are continuing on severance packages for union members.

Collection of taxes consolidation plan heldup by lawsuit

County officials say they now believe any move to call a special election related to the consolidation of tax collection duties here should be postponed pending a final decision on the constitutionality of such a move.

Officials note they have learned that the section of the state property tax code which allows such a consolidation has been declared unconstitutional by the district judge for 43rd District Court in Weatherford.

Local county officials have sought such a consoliation here to eliminate the duplication of services now performed by both the county tax office and the appraisal district. Commissioners court members estimate $60,000 annual might be saved by consoliating the task with either entity.

It has been noted that an election to decide the issue would have to be called by a petition bearing in excess of 900 names.

On Jan. 17, such an election took place in Parker County, where voters approved consolidation of tax collections under its county tax assessor-collector.

Officials with the Weatherford Independent School District and the City of Weatherford brought suit against the county in March to block the consolidation effort, however.

With his ruling in favor of the lawsuit, Judge W.A. Hughes Jr. declared the section unconstitutional and the election void.

The legal question is now being appealed, however, to the Texas Attorney General's office.

'Airplane' scam under investigation

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

A new variation of what law enforcement officials call an old scam has surfaced in Snyder--a game called "Airplane" which uses the same premise as a chain letter in an attempt to make money for its participants.

The pyramid-building scheme is no "game," says District Attorney Ernie Armstrong. Instead, the "Airplane" plan reported here is viewed under Texas law as a third degree felony punishable by a prison term of from 2-10 years and a fine of up to $5,000.

All participants in the so-called "Airplane" are liable under the law, he notes.

The local reports are now being investigated by the Texas Rangers office and, statewide, the Texas Attorney General's office is investigating similar pyramid-building schemes reported in the Midland-Odessa area.

The first reports of the games surfaced here some 10 days ago, Armstrong said. These were reported by individuals who said they had been asked to participate.

The names of others already involved have been provided, and the indication is Texas Ranger personnel will be talking with these persons within the next few days.

In Texas, Armstrong notes, any type of "endless chain scheme," to include chain letters, basically falls into the "general theft" category of state law.

When it is deemed that five or more persons are working on this plan together, it falls under the statute's "criminal conspiracy" category, making the crime a third degree felony.

For the "Airplane" game reported here, a single airplane requires a minimum of 15 participants.

Armstrong notes that in at least one of the local games, each

U.S. stuns Austria

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — President Kurt Waldheim said he has a clear conscience about his activities in World War II and is disappointed the United States has barred him because he allegedly took part in Nazi atrocities.

The U.S. government's move Monday means Waldheim would be denied a visa should he seek to enter on a private visit. He has the right to an administrative hearing should he apply.

It is the first time the United States has placed a head of state on its Watchlist of undesireable aliens.

The Austrian Press Agency quoted Waldheim as expressing "deep regret" over the move and saying he had a clear conscience despite the accusations.

It said that at a dinner Monday night, Waldheim attacked the decision as grotesque and said it implied all surviving former soldiers in Adolf Hitler's army should be similarly banned.

Austrian politicians and media commentators seemed stunned by a move that appeared likely to cloud relations with the United States and unleash a new wave of sentiment against foreign interference in Austrian affairs.

The government recalled its ambassador to Washington.

Stenholm art entries chosen

The five local regional winners were announced Monday for this year's art contest sponsored by U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm.

They join winners from seven other regional contests who seek to be named the 10 finalists from Stenholm's entire 17th Congressional District, which encompasses all or a portion of 35 counties.

These 10 finalists will be named at a district competition due in Abilene May 16.

The final winner will be announced at an awards luncheon to be hosted by Stenholm May 23. This artwork will be hung in the nation's capital.

Other regional competitions were scheduled in Abilene, Big Spring, Gainesville, Graham, Post, Stephenville and Weatherford. Five winners were selected from each.

Local winners, all Snyder High School art students, were Amber Eaves, entering a "scratch board" creation; Jimmy Realzola, a watercolor painting; Jason Best, an ink drawing; Craig Watkins, a pencil drawing; and Deon Nazworth, a tempra paint painting.

Their art was selected from about 35 entries in the local regional contest. Sponsor for the event here was Ned Moore, SHS art instructor.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A marriage proposal proves that talk isn't cheap."

American State Bank president Eddie Johnson was admiring his neighbor's new car. Paul Zeck of Y-Z Industries and one of Snyder's new city councilmen lives next door to the banker.

Zeck responded that he sure did like the new car, except there seemed to be a minor problem with the cruise control.

Zeck explained that he was stopped in Oklahoma by a state trooper who had clocked him about 10 mph faster than the speedometer read.

"I didn't get a ticket," Zeck continued, "but Pam wasn't so lucky."

Paul's wife, Pam, had also been stopped. Johnson suggested defensive driving school as a way to keep the ticket off her driving record.

"It's not quite that simple," Zeck continued. "Pam's driver's license had been expired three years. It cost her $91, and you can't take defensive driving without a driver's license."

Instead of defensive driving, Johnson suggested a memory course for Pam.

Sometimes Johnson can pull a dumb stunt.

Seated next to realtor Mal Stevenson at Rotary Club, the banker asked Stevenson why his home address was listed incorrectly in the telephone book.

Stevenson assured him it was correct.

"It's not the same number that's painted on your curb," Johnson persisted. Stevenson was unmoved, causing Johnson to make a bet.

"Make it easy on yourself," Stevenson said.

To decide the issue, the pair drove to Stevenson's house after Rotary. "See there," Johnson pointed.

"Yes, but that's not my house," Stevenson said. "I live in the next block."

Bodies found

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — The charred remains of two people were discovered by authorities digging through the rubble of a fire that destroyed a truck stop motel, officials say.

Fire Marshall Jerry Magnan said the two bodies were found Monday, but they were not immediately identified.

Four truck drivers who had been staying at the motel were unaccounted for late Sunday, but the whereabouts of two of them had been confirmed Monday. Officials said the other two truck drivers had not been found and may have been the two people killed in the fire.

The fire at the three-story motel at Ronnie's Truck Stop began before dawn Sunday and within two hours destroyed the motel, which was frequented by truck drivers, officials said.

Jim Williams, chief of the South Montgomery volunteer fire department, said no other injuries were reported. He said one woman, who suffers from emphysema, reported having breathing problems.

Art collectors made mistake

DALLAS (AP) — Not all art experts and anthropologists were shocked when the Dallas Museum of Art announced that three prominent artifacts in its pre-Columbian collection are actually modern forgeries.

The museum announced last week that three of their most prominent pre-Columbian pieces were not 1,000 years old, but rather were thought to have been made by Brigido Lara in the 1950s.

Lara, whose pre-Columbian replicas were withdrawn from the Dallas Museum of Art (DMA) when found to be fakes, said Saturday he made thousands of such pieces which are probably in museums all over the world.

Experts said such art is more easily faked than other types because it belongs to a relatively new and uncharted area of collecting.

Most major pre-Columbian collections in this country, including the DMA pieces, were formed during the past 50 years. For most of that time, artifacts were plentiful and there were no restrictions on their export.

"It's a high-risk, high-reward area," DMA Director Harry S. Parker said. "The fact that the field has not been tilled over and over again means there are more surprises. But there also are more possibilities."

DMA officials were able to build a world-class pre-Columbian collection on a budget that would have been negligible in more established fields, such as old master or impressionist paintings.

Safeway...

Employees are in unemployment lines

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — As former Safeway employees queued up in the unemployment line, the out-of-work grocery workers included at least 30 married couples.

Some had met while they bagged groceries and stocked shelves together, then stayed on at the grocery store because the pay was so good. On Friday, they lost their jobs together and Saturday, they were in line at the Texas Employment Commission offices.

The couples were among more than 700 Fort Worth Safeway workers of 1,700 who were put out of work when the grocery chain closed the stores in its North Texas division.

Zelma Baties, director of the regional TEC office, estimated that the commission will pay as much as $1.6 million a week to more than 8,000 Safeway workers thrown out of work when the 131 stores closed.

Jack Monkres, business agent for the United Food and Commercial Workers International Union Local 368R, said at least 100 couples worked for Safeway stores in the Fort Worth area.

Most earned more than $1,000 a week between them, but they will now have to get by on a combined average of about $400 a week in unemployment benefits for as long as 26 weeks.

Negotiations are continuing on severance packages for union members.
