School board will consider 4.65% tax hike

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The Hereford school board voted Tuesday night to consider a 4.65 percent tax increase for the 1989-90 school year, and set a hearing on the proposed increase for Aug. 26.

The board wrangled with a proposed $14.5 million budget for 4 1/2 hours during a workshop session before tabling the session to talk about the proposed tax increase and to adopt a revised substance abuse policy for the Hereford athletic program.

The decision to call for the hearing means that the school district can't raise taxes more than 4.65 percent, but could go lower.

If the proposed hike is actually imposed, it would increase taxes from last year's 74.44 cents per $100 value to 78.5 cents, or a 5.46 percent increase.

However, the total value of taxable property in the school district slipped about $5 million to $446.178 million. The "effective" tax rate, or the rate that would be needed this year to raise the same revenue as was raised last year, was figured at 75.02 cents per $100 value.

Tax receipts and anticipated state funds will total $13.885 million (local tax revenues are based on a 90 percent collection rate), but the district will draw the rest of its expected expenditures from a $2.6 million reserve.

The school district looked at several areas where expenditures could be greater than contained in the proposed budget, including significantly more than is currently budgeted for health insurance.

The district currently has a self-insurance plan, with an insurance company providing re-insurance after a certain point.

The school insurance committee, made up of employees from across the district, will be examining plans that call for increases from 27 percent to 67 percent in premiums paid by employees.

The school district pays the first $70 of employee premiums.

More of that reserve could be used during the next school year, if some board members have their way, in order to obtain more supplies requested by teachers following workshops recently completed or currently underway on dyslexia and alphabet phonics.

"I'm worried that we have teachers who participate in these workshops and want to use this in their classrooms, but they can't get the supplies they need," said board member Kathy Moore. "There's no reason to teach our teachers new ways to teach if we can't give them the supplies they need."

The total proposed budget for supplies and materials is $1.3 million, the same as was budgeted for the 1988-89 school year, but about five percent was pared from the requests submitted by school principals when they were submitted to Richard Souter, assistant superintendent for business.

"We can adjust the budget for supplies and instruction," said board member Dennis Newton. "We have $54,000 (leaving the district with a reserve of $2 million) that we could put in there where they'll have access to it."

"I think we got a board that's saying that if we've got kids who are needing supplies we need to try to get it," said board president John Fuston.

Some board members wanted to look at other areas that might be cut.

School officials fear that there could be personnel cuts as early as next year because of financial cuts that include a drop in state funding, but the board has expressed an unwillingness to cut employees or programs until absolutely necessary.

"Before I start cutting people's jobs I'll look at some of these minute things," said board member Shirley Wilson as the board reviewed the travel budget, which has been cut significantly but still totals $25,125, and vehicles provided for some administrators. "I'd rather cut some of that than mess with people's livelihoods."

"When you start cutting that, then you start driving off some of our good people we have," said Newton.

The board will probably hold another budget workshop, and will adopt the final budget on Aug. 31.

The substance abuse policy was drawn up by Athletic Director Don cumpton and includes all athletic programs in the district.

The policy, which is in effect year-round for all athletes, details how athletes could be confronted with evidence or questioned about substance abuse, including notification of parents of the charges.

Under the policy, any athlete who uses narcotics or performance enhancing drugs (like steroids or caffeine pills) will be suspended for one semester on the first offense and be encouraged to seek help. A second offense will result in the athlete's dismissal from athletics for one year.

- In-season use of any form of alcohol would result in a two-week suspension and a punishment of running 25 miles and 250 "bleachers" within a two-week period. A second offense would result in a one-semester suspension, and a third offense would lead to dismissal from athletics for one year.

Use of alcohol during the off season would result in running the 25 miles and 250 bleachers, and a two-week suspension from inter-school competition once the season begins. A second offense would result in a one-semester suspension, and a third offense would result in dismissal from HISD athletics for one year.

All athletes and their parent/guardian will be required to sign a copy of the policy before being allowed to participate in athletics.

Hance to run

Democrat-turned-Republican Kent Hance says his party switch will present no problems in his second bid for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

"I have great party support. We just don't think that will be an issue, not at all," he said Tuesday after formally launching his latest campaign.

Following a decade-long career in the Texas Senate and U.S. House as a Democrat, Hance changed parties after losing the 1984 Democratic U.S. Senate primary.

In 1986, he vied for the GOP gubernatorial nomination but lost the primary election to Gov. Bill Clements, who defeated both Hance and former congressman Tom Loeffler without a runoff. Appointed by Clements to the Railroad Commission in 1987, Hance became the only Republican ever elected to that panel last year.

In campaign stops Tuesday at Austin, San Antonio, Houston, Dallas and his hometown of Lubbock, Hance pledged to try to ban state income taxes, increase local control of schools and make the state education commissioner's job an elected one.

Borrowing a campaign line from President Bush, Hance said, "To the liberal, special interests of this state - read my lips, no state income tax in Texas."

He proposed creating around-the-clock drug courts in Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Austin and El Paso to hasten processing of drug cases and urged a constitutional amendment to prohibit bail for accused drug dealers.

"There must be no mercy for them. We must get tough, stay tough and be relentless in our prosecution of drug dealers," he said.

Hance described himself as anti-abortion, saying he hopes the Legislature will require parental consent for women under 18 and "protecting the taxpayers who feel that their money should not be spent on abortions."

DSGH adopts $7.8M budget

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Directors of Deaf Smith County Hospital District tentatively approved Tuesday night a $7.8 million budget, including a slight pay increase for hospital employees, with no tax increase anticipated.

Gary Moore, administrator for Deaf Smith General Hospital, said the budget assumes that a 7 percent increase in hospital rates and a 5 percent increase in patient volume will fund the anticipated increase in operating expenses. The presence of three new physicians is expected to boost hospital revenues.

The board will hold a public budget hearing next Tuesday, Aug. 22, and then formally approve the budget and set the tax rate. The ad valorem tax revenue is budgeted at $608,813--the same as this year, while gross patient services revenue is targeted for $7,144,460.

Operating expenses for the hospital are tabbed at $5.5 million for 1989-90. Revenue deductions lower the net patient revenues to $4.9 million. The proposed budget shows a profit of $116,968 for the new year.

The proposed salary increases cover all employees of the hospital, with the minimum raise being 25 cents an hour and the maximum being 50 cents an hour for non-manager positions. The pay raise will average about 4 to 5 percent overall, said Moore. Total salaries and benefits are budgeted for $3.3 million, or about 60 percent of operating costs.

Of the $608,813 budgeted in tax revenues, Moore said about half of that is obligated in subsidies to the ambulance service($74,000), the emergency room physician($25,000), the emergency room itself-($37,000) and debt retirement-($180,000).

In other business Tuesday night, hospital directors:

--approved the purchase of a C.T. scanner.

--approved lease of office space for a new physician.

--approved a $22,000 contract for evaluation of the hospital plant.

--set Aug. 22 as the date to open bids on renovation work at the hospital, and reviewed operating statements for July.

Three bids were received on a C.T. scanner and directors accepted a bid of $210,000 for a refurbished unit in a trailer. The hospital has been using a mobile unit from Amarillo twice a week.

The board approved a contract with Healthcare Environment Design, an affiliate of Baylor Health Care Systems, to evaulate future needs and facilities of the hospital plant. The study will present recommendations and estimated costs on remodeling, renovations, or the alternative of constructing a new facility in the future.

"This is just a study--it's no more than that at this time," said board president Ralph Detten. "It seems important to me that we have a longrange plan to go by and plan for permanent facilities."

The board approved a bid for office space in the west side of the Plains Insurance Agency building. It is planned to be sub-leased to two new physicians, and one is already scheduled to move here in October. The newest physician is an internist. The board's recruitment program still calls for three more doctors to be recruited--a urologist, an ear, nose and throat specialist, and a family practice physician.

The space in the Plains building contains about 2,922 square feet and was leased at 50 cents a square foot a month. Several other sites were considered.

The operating statement for July showed a loss of $99,000, with the patient census dropping from May and June reports. The year-to-date gain, however, was recorded at $491,000, which represents 10 months of the fiscal year.

Board members present for the meeting were Detten, Frank Zinser, Dr. Nadir Khuri, Raymond Schroeder and Craig Smith. Absent was Margie Ford.

Visions reappear at Lubbock

LUBBOCK (AP) - Fatima, Lourdes, Medjugorje - Lubbock?

Lubbock Bishop Michael Sheehan has said he doesn't believe Lubbock belongs in the company of the first three places - all European towns where people have reported seeing miraculous visions. The Roman Catholic Church has taken those reports seriously.

But Lubbock could be in the beginning stages of becoming a shrine, just like the other towns, because of visions that pilgrims report seeing there. During Tuesday's evening Mass of the Feast of the Assumption, scores of people - most of them out-of-towners - reported seeing religious visions at St. John's for the second year in a row.

During the 1988 Assumption Mass, many of the 12,000 faithful gathered outside the underground church in west Lubbock reported seeing apparitions of Jesus and Mary in the clouds. Others said the sun danced in the sky and that their silver rosaries turned a golden hue.

About 1,000 people crammed inside the church to celebrate Tuesday's Mass and another 400 gathered on the lawn outside to watch for miracles. Most weren't disappointed, though few if any said they saw Jesus and Mary together.

"Do you see the sun dancing?" Maria Ramos asked a reporter who said he did not. "It's dancing. Pink is coming out of it, coming up and down. It's marvelous."

Many others reported seeing the sun spinning, pulsating and "dancing," and most said they saw flashes of yellow, orange and red coming from it.

Sister Reed of San Antonio - Sister is her given name, and she is not a nun - said: "I saw the sun - well, we call it dancing, but it was pulsating very fast. Then it would change colors from yellow to a deep blood red color, then it was spinning around."

Her husband, Peter, said he drove to Lubbock in a skeptical frame of mind, but saw the same things his wife saw.

"I was pretty impressed and awed by it," he said.

The faithful came from Texas, California, Kansas, Louisiana and other states. Everyone who was asked said they saw something.

"I asked the Virgin to give us a sign and this is it," Consuelo Torrez of Lubbock shouted in Spanish as she gazed at the sun and family and friends gathered round. "Look: yellow, blue, red! Can you see it? Glorious!"

Scores of people took pictures of the sun with still and video cameras. Some passed around pictures from instant cameras that appeared to show a window around the sun.

People said they could look directly at the sun without discomfort.

"It's like there's a gray disk that moves in front of the sun and you can look at it," said Don Giacobbe. "It's a miracle you can look at the sun."

Tillie Barrandey of Van Horn didn't need to gaze at the sun to see a vision. She said she saw the face of Jesus on the church's white stucco wall.

"I knew I would see him there," she said, tears streaming down her cheeks.

About 20 people quickly crowded around Ms. Barrandey and some said they, too, could see the face of Jesus. Others looking at the same place said they saw Jesus on the cross.

Sheehan ordered an investigation last year into the visions at St. John's, and the panel of four priests and a nun found no evidence of miracles. He has asked Monsignor Joseph James, the pastor of St. John's, to tone down his Charismatic rhetoric. Sheehan was absent from Tuesday's Mass, and James was working and unavailable for comment.

Most of the parishioners said they believed the visions are a sign that the end is near.

"The mother of God is here to try to save her children: to tell us we need to wake up," Mrs. Reed said.

But why Lubbock?

"Why Medjugorje? Why Fatima? Why Lourdes? Why any of them?" Mrs. Reed asked rhetorically. "This is a special place. You can feel it when you come here."

BABBLING BROOKS

By John Brooks

Whatever happened to just plain old commercials for plain old stuff?

Not that those plain old commercials were any good but we saw did Duz did, and a variety of other things.

Just a few years ago, we had this fast-talking guy trying to get us to use their overnight package service. That was about as exotic as it got.

Now we have commercials for all kinds of stuff.

The latest craze seems to be these romantic hotline numbers. You call this 900 number and you get to listen to people from all over the place. If you hear one that interests you, you give them a call.

Since single life in Hereford is, to say the least, boring, I decided to give one of these numbers a try.

I heard a variety of people, but none that interested me enough to give them a call.

So I decided to put my own message on the hotline. I didn't lie, but I did leave out my weight, as I described myself and my interests.

Maybe no one was interested, or maybe my message never made it onto the service, but I haven't received a call.

If you believe the commercials, a chair isn't just a chair anymore. If you want to be a healthy human being, you have to have one of these form-fitting jobs that adjusts to about any height you want. It'll even put your feet above heart-level. I hope that you know where you're adjusting it when you adjust it, or you won't have to worry about your heart.

Another new commercial rage is for these space-saving clothes hangers. with these, you can hang your shirts or trousers or whatever else in the space usually taken up by one hanger.

That sounds all right on the surface, but how big of a mess do you have when these hangers, like all other hangers, become conjoined? It's a big enough mess when you have one-hanger-in-one that decides to twist around all of the other hangers in your closet during the dark of night, but what about these five-hangers-in-one?

There are all of these breakfast cereal commercials. Back in the olden days, like the 60s and 70s, we had commercials with cartoon bears, toucans, tigers and Mikey.

Now we have people standing in oat fields. I know oats are good for you, but do you know what happens if you eat too many oat products before your body becomes used to oat products? You develop a problem with, er, flatulence. After your body becomes accustomed to the oat-based products, you may have to send thank you cards to the friends you still have, and a Dale Carnegie course to make new friends from people who may not have given you one red cent, or scent, before.

There is one commercial yet to come that I can hardly wait to see.

It's the one for the Tammy Faye Bakker label clothing. Right now the line includes the basics of clothing, but will soon include jewelry and, of course, makeup.

The makeup will likely come in the handy one-ton and two-ton compacts.

Poland's problems internal, says U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Bush administration is engaging the Kremlin in a mild war of words over attempts by Poland's Solidarity trade union to form a non-communist government in that Soviet bloc country.

"Questions involving the government of Poland are properly an internal affair," State Department spokesman Richard Boucher said Tuesday. He was using a diplomatic formula that recalled the flavor but not the intensity of 1980-81, when Solidarity last challenged the Polish Communist Party, leading to martial law.

In Moscow, the Soviet Communist Party daily Pravda warned that efforts by Solidarity leader Lech Walesa to form a non-communist government were "against the principles of parliamentary democracy" and "could lead to a prolonged political crisis."

"The opposition has changed its strategy and has taken the course of an immediate seizure of power," Pravda said. The commentary noted that fixing the Polish economy required a coalition of political forces, including the communists.

The commentary contrasted with recent Soviet media reports on Poland. Soviet television recently broadcast neutral coverage of such Solidarity leaders as Walesa and Bronislaw Geremek, and highlighted a visit last month by filmmaker Andrzej Wajda, a Solidarity supporter and member of parliament who served as a judge in the Moscow Film Festival.

An independent Washington-based analyst, Janusz Bugajski, said the Soviet commentary "means that they are trying to send a message to the government and to Solidarity that things have gone far enough."

"The Soviets have given the countries of Eastern Europe a free hand over the past few years, but they may be reassessing that policy," said Bugajski, a scholar at the Center for Strategic and International Studies and author of the book, "Eastern European Fault Lines."

Debate renews on insurance hike

AUSTIN (AP) - Insurance industry critics said a proposed 34.9 percent increase in workers' compensation rates was too much and amounted to blackmail.

State Sen. Kent Caperton, who spearheaded Senate efforts to change the workers' comp system, said Tuesday the insurance industry was trying to pressure lawmakers to change the system in favor of insurers.

"I would think Texans would be sick and tired of the insurance industry playing games and threatening," said Caperton, D-Bryan.

Kay Doughty, public counsel for the Consumer Protection Division of the State Board of Insurance, said many businesses would not be able to afford a 34.9 percent increase, on top of increases that have averaged 148 percent since 1985.

"Once again the ratepayers in the state of Texas are being asked to take it on the chin and to pay for a system that is broke," Ms. Doughty said.

In announcing the recommended rate increase of 34.9 percent, Robert Hilton, senior vice president of the National Council on Compensation Insurance, said rising workers' comp insurance losses have "become intolerable" and are driving insurers away from Texas.

"If something isn't done to balance cost and price ... then the system is going to collapse. Insurance companies are not going to write the product," said Hilton, of Boca Raton, Fla.

The House and Senate failed to resolve differing proposals on reforming the workers' comp system after a 140-day regular legislative session and 30-day special session.

Gov. Bill Clements has said he will call the Legislature into a fall special session on workers' comp.

State Rep. Richard Smith, R-Bryan, who led House efforts on proposed changes, said the insurance industry was not making a threat, but stating the facts.

"Insurance providers are suffering along with everyone else. To say they are simply crying wolf belies the facts. That's just a bit of demagoguery," he said.

Both Ms. Doughty's division and the Insurance Board staff will present alternative rate recommendations later. The Insurance Board will hold a worker's comp rate hearing Oct. 18-19.

"It's safe to say it will be significantly lower," Ms. Doughty said of her office's upcoming rate proposal.

Hilton said insurers are losing $1.21 for every $1 they receive in workers' comp premiums for losses of $585 million last year and $4.4 billion since 1984.

He said medical and legal costs are driving up insurance costs. Average total cost per lost-time case increased from $12,854 in 1987 to $17,914 in 1988, a jump of about 40 percent, he said.

But Caperton disagreed, blaming the industry's losses on its own mismanagement.

"The insurance industry is in a cycle and that cycle has been exacerbated by bad management and poor regulation," Caperton said.

Bush would use military if needed

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush says he wouldn't hesitate to use military force if he thought that would safely rescue the eight Americans being held hostage in Lebanon.

However, the president said he didn't "want to be responsible for the loss of innocent life."

"But if I could find a way to take those hostages, get them and bring them out, and that required using the military force of the United States, make no mistake about it - I would do it in an instant," Bush said Tuesday at his 21st formal news conference since taking office seven months ago.

Bush stressed the uncertainties that involve any military response when asked why he had not retaliated for the murder of hostage Marine Lt. Col. William R. Higgins.

Bush, who embarks today on a 20-day vacation to his oceanfront retreat in Kennebunkport, Maine, again signaled that he is willing to work to improve the bitter U.S.-Iranian relations of the last decade.

"We don't have to be hostile with Iran for the rest of our lives," the president said. "We've had a good relationship with them in the past."

The first step, he said, is for the Islamic republic to stop supporting terrorism and to pressure the Lebanese kidnappers to release their American captives.

Noting conflicting signals from the new Iranian leadership about rapprochement with the West, Bush said "the jury is still out as to what has happened internally ... in Iran."

He said he can't say the chances of a breakthrough on the hostages are closer today than three weeks ago, "but we're going to keep on trying."

On another matter, Bush previewed the national anti-drug strategy he and drug czar William J. Bennett will send to Congress on Sept. 5.

The drug strategy "will target all aspects of the problem," including new efforts to cut off drugs at the source as well as tougher penalties for casual users, Bush said.

On other topics, the president:

-Refused to rule out the possibility of abducting Panamanian strongman Manuel Antonio Noriega to face drug-trafficking charges. "I have an obligation to try to bring people to justice," he said.

-Declared he was "very comfortable" with budget director Richard Darman's complaint that the Federal Reserve was keeping interest rates too high.

-Praised Reps. Mickey Leland, D-Texas, and Larkin Smith, R-Miss., killed in separate plane crashes, as "outstanding public servants" who gave their lives trying "to better the lot of mankind."

-Said that if Sheik Abdul Karim Obeid, the Shiite cleric seized last month by Israeli commandos, were indicted for the kidnapping of Higgins, "I would be remiss if I didn't try to see him brought to trial."

FLY US TO THE MOON

WASHINGTON (AP) - Private firms increasingly are providing space transportation and other services that only a few years ago were only available from the government.

American firms that once built rockets under government contract are now developing private launch vehicles and offering commercial launch services to satellite owners.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It's too late for me, but maybe my letter can spare some other woman the pain and humiliation that I have suffered.

It began last August when I moved to a new city and started to attend a small, local church. The people seemed warm and friendly. Soon after, I signed up for a mid-week singles Bible study class.

Almost immediately, a nice-looking man in the group took an interest in me. I was flattered and pleased when "Carl" said he was soon to become associate pastor of the church. I was impressed that a man of 27 would be elevated to such an important position.

One Saturday, Carl invited me to accompany him on a drive so we could get to know one another better. As we drove along, I mentioned that I had been in a serious auto accident a few years earlier and a settlement had just been reached. When he learned the amount of money that I was about to receive, he said God had revealed to him that I was to be his wife.

Several weeks later, after much heavy courting, we set a wedding date for September.

Ordinarily, Ann, I would not have fallen for his story, but because this man was involved with the church, I believed him. Carl proceeded to run my life and kept saying that it was "God's will." I was afraid to contradict him.

He moved into my apartment saying that God told him it was all right. It turned out that he was indeed elevated to a higher position in the church but it didn't pay anything. I gave him money for clothes, gas and incidentals. he told me not to give to the church anymore, but to give the money to him because it was God's will.

Whenever I questioned him about his nonpaying job, he said I would be punished if I did not trust the "spirit of God." This frightened me so I continued to go along. Meanwhile, he went out and bought a Jaguar, which I paid for.

Before I met this man, I had planned to use my insurance money to finish nursing school. When he told me God didn't want me to be a nurse, that was the last straw. I finally realized that God did not want me to support a lazy, self-indulgent freeloader whether he was in the ministry or not.

I now know that just because someone works for a church doesn't mean he is an upright person. Ministers do not have an 800 number to heaven.

Using "God" to control, manipulate, bully and extort is cruel and sadistic. My emotional scars will take years to heal an I may never fully trust a minister or church again. My money is gone. I am now undergoing treatment for depression as a result of this nightmare. I suffer from insomnia and suicidal tendencies.

As for Carl, he's still at the same church in his nonpaying job, driving other people's cars, living with another woman and having a wonderful time. I am sadder, poorer, but wiser.--A Crushed Christian in California

DEAR CALIFORNIA: Thank you for sharing your bitter experience. Events that have been given wide publicity these past few years have let the world know that being involved with a church does not make a person moral, decent or trustworthy.

If you really want to do some good in this world, go to the pastor of the church and blow the whistle on that bum.

Whipped cream tops cake

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens Magazine

Isaac Walton summed up the way I feel about strawberries: "Doubtless God could have made a better berry, but doubtless God never did." And doubtless shortcake is my favorite way to serve them. Lemon butter adds a fresh new taste to this spring tradition.

Be sure to let the berries and sugar stand while you mix and bake the biscuits. This allows the berries to juice out and create a thin syrup.

STRAWBERRY LEMON SHORTCAKE

3 cups sliced fresh strawberries
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon sugar
11/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup margarine or butter
1 beaten egg yolk
1/4 cup milk
11/2 teaspoons finely shredded lemon peel
2 tablespoons margarine or butter, softened
1/4 teaspoon sugar
1 cup whipping cream, well chilled
1 tablespoon sugar

Combine strawberries and 1/4 cup sugar; set aside.

In a medium bowl stir together flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, baking powder and salt. Using a pastry blender, cut in 1/4 cup margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Combine egg yolk, milk and 1 teaspoon of the shredded lemon peel; add all at once to flour mixture and stir just until moistened.

On lightly floured surface knead dough gently 12 strokes. Pat dough into a circle. Cut dough into 4 pieces. Roll into balls. On an ungreased baking sheet flatten each until 3/4-inch thick. Bake in 450-degree F oven 8 to 10 minutes or until golden. Remove from baking sheet and cool slightly on wire rack.

Meanwhile, stir together remaining shredded lemon peel, 2 tablespoons softened margarine and 1/4 teaspoon sugar. Split warm biscuits; spread bottom layers with butter mixture. Immediately beat well chilled cream and 1 tablespoon sugar with an electric mixer on low speed until soft peaks form. Fill and top shortcakes with strawberries and whipped cream. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

Experts say Herd bound for playoffs

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

Every year about this time Texas high school football players gather to begin the annual ritual of two-a-day workouts.

And every year about this time Texas high school football fans gather to begin the annual ritual of arguing over which team is headed for the playoffs.

This has led to a third annual ritual -- heading down to the nearest newsstand to get a copy of any magazine that says which team will be the best. This year three publications pretty much agree that Hereford and Lubbock Estacado will be the teams to catch in the District 1-4A race.

The Harris Rating System's Schoolboy Forecast puts the Herd at the top of the class with a power rating of 176. Estacado comes in just behind with a 172 just edges Lubbock Dunbar at 170.

The Brownwood-based rating system considers the district's overall strength to be below average, but improved from last year. Interestingly enough, Hereford is the team that lost the most starters from 1988 (nine on both sides of the ball) and dropped the farthest on their power rating, seven points, and is still picked to win the loop.

Two other prognosticating publications, Dave Campbell's Texas Football and Top O' Texas Football, have the Whitefaces picked second behind Estacado.

Harris also predicted Hereford will advance to the regional round of the playoffs, after defeating Monahans in area play, where Brownwood is picked to end the Herd's season. Brownwood quarterback Brad Butler was the Texas Football Class 4A coverboy and is listed by that publication as one of the top 10 quarterback prospects in the state.

Herd head coach Don Cumpton said he agreed with the assessment of the teams in each magazine but hedged on any predicted finish.

"Our district is real balanced," he said. "There are five or six teams that could make the playoffs. Last year we went into the final week with four teams with a chance to make it."

Cumpton added that the number of teams competing for the two playoff slots also makes for a tight race.

"Any time you have a large number of teams in a district, it's going to make it that much tougher to win. You probably won't see anybody go undefeated (in district play)."

The coach said another factor in the league is the schedule.

"With our schedule we can sit back see where we are after the third game," he said. "We look at it as if it's two seasons. We've got a three-game season with Tascosa, Palo Duro and Estacado, then a seven game schedule after the open date.

"We can use that time to evaluate how we're doing and make any adjustments we need to for the rest of the schedule."

All three magazines point to the Herd's front line,which will average about 220 pounds, as a major strength despite the loss of All-State guard Brian Watts. Returning starters Benny Gonzales 6-0, 235) and Anthony Tijerina (6-3, 225) are the main reason.

In the backfield, Hereford faces the task of finding a quarterback. Seniors Chad Schroeder and Jason Walterscheid and junior T.J. Head will battle for the starting spot. Quarterback will be a major problem for most teams in the district as only Dunbar, Pampa and Borger return starters at the position.

On defense, Jason Lueb and Brian Wagner return at linebacker, Cumpton may be forced to use some players both ways, something he is hoping to avoid.

Cumpton has been impressed with the first two days of workouts, which have been held in shorts.

"We've started real good," the Herd mentor said. "The players have shown a lot of enthusiasm and they've retained a lot of the things we taught them back in the spring.

"But it's going to be different when we get the pads on Friday. There's going to be some hitting going on then."

Cumpton said the juniors and seniors will work out for about an hour and 20 minutes during Friday's morning session and will hold an intrasquad scrimmage for the evening practice. Cumpton said the public is invited to attend the scrimmage.

"We're going to look pretty rusty out there (in the scrimmage) just getting into pads," he said. "We'll find out a lot more about what we've got then."

The Herd will scrimmage at Lubbock Monterey on Aug. 24. Cumpton said he expects to decide on which players will make the varsity after then.

"We're going to run the sophomores and juniors separately and will probably bring a few kids back to work with the seniors," he said. "After that we'll know who belongs on the varsity."

Injury report: Senior TE Jonathon Haney had arthoscopic surgery performed on his right knee Monday morning. Haney had a piece of ligament removed and a section of the kneecap smoothed. Cumpton said Haney is expected back in 10 days to two weeks.

They're back

Herd offensive coordinator Danny Haney and defensive line coach Bill Bridge prepare to put lineman through drills during the first day of two-a-days Monday.

Grijalva scores eagle

Sabino Grijalva, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Grijalva of Hereford, shot an eagle two Monday on the 440-yard par-four second hole at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Grijalva holed his second shot from 165 yards out using a 5-wood. The shot was witnessed by Danny Gamble of Canyon.

Paris gets nod in 4A

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

The 1989 Associated Press preseason schoolboy football poll predicts three of last year's state playoff finalists will be there again this year.

Those three schools, Converse Judson in Class 5A, Paris in 4A and Navasota in 3A, are joined by Groveton in 2A and Munday in A to make up this year's picks by the AP's panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Judson, which lost to eventual state champion Dallas Carter in the 1988 title game, received 11 of the 22 first-place votes cast.

Odessa Permian and Lufkin, also victims of Dallas Carter's title march, ranked second and third on the 5A list.

Judson returns five starters from its defense that registered four playoff shutouts last season.

"We've got a good group coming back and Brent McCullum is our leader," Judson assistant coach Danny Padron said.

Also returning on defense are cornerbacks Darnell Stephens and Mike Hendricks, safety Harold Massey and end Robert Reed.

Padron, the Rockets' quarterbacks coach, looks forward to tutoring Mike Jinks, who will direct Judson's multiple offense.

"He does all the intangibles," Padron said. "He comes up with the big plays and his throwing his improved."

The running backs are Vincent Kyle and Kyle Arnell and they'll get plenty of work. About 80 percent of Judson's offense is rushing.

Permian offers the best challenge to Judson. The Panthers return Chris Comer, who rushed 2,135 yards last year, and Lloyd Hill, who caught 69 passes for 1,317 yards.

Carter, hit heavy by graduation losses, starts the season in the No. 8 spot with only four returning starters.

Paris lost its first three games last season and then won 13 in a row to end West Orange-Stark's two-year domination of Class 4A.

Paris beat West Orange 31-13 in the title game and they've got big defensive help returning in linebackers Rodney Kendricks and Roddy Wortham.

Wortham is the state's top returning Class 4A tackler and sacker with 247 tackles and 35 stacks. Kendricks is second with 243 tackles and 33 sacks.

Katy Mayde Creek and Corpus Christi Calallen, regional finalists with 10-1-1 records last season, ranked second and third in 4A.

Navasota gets the nod in Class 3A with five first-place votes and will have to hold off No. 2 Sweeny and No. 3 Springlake Carroll, the defending champion.

Navasota has seven offensive starters returning.

Springlake Carroll, which beat Navasota 42-8 in last year's title game, received seven first-place votes.

Groveton sidelined on penetrations by Hughes Springs in the regional finals last year, leads the 2A teams into the regular season with seven first-place votes and a 172-166 margin over runnerup Lorena.

Refugio, a semifinalist last year, is third followed by defending champion Corrigan-Camden and Eastland.

Munday got nine first-place votes in Class A to beat out Sudan for first place. Bartlett ranked third followed by Baird and Rankin.

Here is The Associated Press schoolboy preseason football poll with number of first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total number of points based on first-place vote worth 10 points and last-place vote worth 1 point:

Johnson hoping Noonan returns for Raider clash

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Dallas Cowboys starting defensive tackle Danny Noonan could return from a groin injury in time to play against the Los Angeles Raiders Saturday.

But for Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson, Noonan's return can't be soon enough.

Johnson said Tuesday he was disappointed in the play of Noonan's replacements - free-agents Dan Sileo and Willie Broughton and rookie third-round draft pick Rhondy Weston.

"I thought they did an adequate job," Johnson said. "But they were a little soft at times and they ran around some blocks.

"We were not as efficient at that position as we would have been if Danny was in the ballgame."

Noonan has missed the last several days of practice with the injury and did not play in the Cowboys' preseason opener at San Diego Sunday. Noonan, a former first-round draft pick in 1987, is entering his second year as a starter after taking over for Randy White last season.

Sileo, a second-year free agent who played for Johnson at the University of Miami, started in place of Noonan and did not have a good game, according to Johnson.

"He busted a few defenses," Johnson said. "And he had some mental errors. But he gave a good effort."

Broughton, a free-agent who also played college ball under Johnson, was also not impressive. And Weston, a third-round draft pick, sprained his ankle in the first half and is still out.

Johnson said none of the three players, who are vying for the backup tackle spot behind Noonan and fellow starter Mark Walen, have done much to make themselves noticed.

"Right now, it's up for grabs," Johnson said. "I wouldn't say anybody has the edge. No one has looked like they are playing at 100 percent."

The Cowboys also made a roster move Tuesday, releasing linebacker Eric Naposki, a second-year man from Connecticut. Naposki was one of the team's Plan B free-agent acquisitions during the offseason.

Johnson said wide receiver Tyrone Thurman - who, at 5-foot-3, is the shortest player in the NFL - will see more action at returning punts. Thurman had a 21-yard return against San Diego that set up the Cowboys' first score.

Hough pitches one-hitter, loses

SEATTLE (AP) - Pity poor Charlie Hough and the Texas Rangers.

They deserved a better fate against the Seattle Mariners in the Kingdome Tuesday night. They didn't get it.

"One of the strangest games I've been in," Seattle manager Jim Lefebvre said.

"I've never seen anything like that," added Bobby Valentine, the Rangers manager.

Hough, 41, pitched a one-hitter and was backed by a 13-hit attack but he lost to the Mariners 2-0. as Brian Holman and Mike Schooler combined to shut out the Rangers.

Hough had a no-hitter for five innings. He lost his no-hitter and the game in the sixth.

Harold Reynolds led off with a line drive single to right centerfield and advanced to second on a balk. Alvin Davis was walked intentionally. Hough wild pitched the runners to third and second. Jeffrey Leonard then hit a sacrifice fly.

"Our guys swing the bat well, play hard, Charlie throws a terrific game and we lose 2-0," said Valentine. "Figure it out."

The Rangers lost their third straight game and for the ninth time in their last 13 starts. Hough lost his second career one-hitter and dropped to 7-12 this season, including 0-3 against the Mariners. He struck out three and walked five.

The unflappable Hough accepted the loss without a complaint.

" ... I didn't help myself with the wild pitch," admitted Hough. "I had a chance to get out of it, but I threw a knuckleball that Leonard had a chance to get into the air and he did."

The Rangers have supported Hough with just one run in his three starts against Seattle this year.

"This team is tough on me and they all seem to be tough, close games," Hough said.

Brian Holman, 5-5, allowed 10 hits in seven innings. But he had five key strikeouts and received great defensive support, especially in the seventh and ninth.

With runners on first and second and two out in the seventh, center fielder Mike Kingery made a diving catch of Ruben Sierra's line drive.

"That was the difference," Hough said. "If he doesn't catch that ball, it's a home run and the score is 3-1."

Kingery scored the Mariners second run on an error in the seventh inning. He said Sierra's drive stayed up, letting him make the diving catch.

"It's one of those plays when you let your instincts take over," Kingery said. "Fortunately, I read the ball well."

Cecil Espy and Rafael Palmeiro led off the game with back-to-back singles and advanced on an infield out. Then Davis, Seattle's first baseman, caught Sierra's line drive.

"I played in a game in 1965 with the Dodgers when we won 1-0 and got only one hit. That's the only game I remember close to this one," Lefebvre said.

"We're shaking our heads because we can't believe it. You can imagine what they're doing," he said.

The Rangers were one hit away from equaling a major league record for most hits in a shutout loss.

The record was set on Sept. 14, 1913 when the New York Giants beat the Chicago Cubs 7-0 in a National League game. Cleveland blanked Washington 9-0 on July 10, 1928 when the Senators got 14 hits.

Palmeiro had four of the Rangers 13 hits.

In other games, Milwaukee beat New York 1-0, Baltimore downed Detroit 2-0, Oakland defeated Cleveland 5-2, California topped Minnesota 3-2, Toronto trounced Boston 7-2 and Kansas City beat Chicago 10-6.

Brewers 1, Yankees 0

Teddy Higuera again beat New York, pitching a six-hitter for his sixth straight victory.

Higuera is 12-2 lifetime against the Yankees. His .857 winning percentage is the highest for any pitcher versus New York.

He walked two and struck out five in his first shutout of the year.

Clay Parker, 3-3, gave up six hits, including Greg Brock's RBI single in the fourth inning.

Blue Jays 7, Red Sox 2

Lloyd Moseby led off the game with a home run and Toronto went on to win for the 14th straight time at Fenway Park.

Manny Lee and Rance Mulliniks also homered for the Blue Jays. Mookie Wilson had four hits and Fred McGriff doubled twice for Toronto, which had 15 hits.

Dave Stieb, 12-7, went five innings for the victory. Duane Ward escaped bases-loaded, one-out jams in the seventh and ninth innings for his 12th save.

Mike Smithson, 6-11, gave up four runs on eight hits and was replaced with no outs in the third inning.

Athletics 5, Indians 2

Rickey Henderson hit his 39th career leadoff home run, extending his own record, and Jose Canseco homered in his first start in eight days.

Storm Davis, 13-5, won his fourth consecutive decision. Dennis Eckersley got his 24th save when he escaped a bases-loaded, no-out jam in the ninth inning.

Henderson opened the bottom of the first with his eighth home run, connecting against Rod Nichols, 3-2. Canseco, who has been out with a strained right quadricep, hit a two-run shot.

Orioles 2, Tigers 0

Rookie Bob Milacki pitched a three-hitter.

Cal Ripken and Joe Orsulak homered in the Orioles' third straight victory.

Milacki, 7-10, has won all three career starts in Detroit.

Milacki struck out five and walked four in his second shutout. He did not allow a hit until two outs in the fifth inning.

Orsulak hit his fourth home run in the fourth inning and Ripken hit his 15th in the sixth against Doyle Alexander, 5-14.

Angels 3, Twins 2

Bobby Rose got his first three major-league hits and tripled home the go-ahead run in the sixth inning.

Rose was recalled from Class AA on Friday after Dick Schofield fractured his hand. Rose singled home the tying run in the fourth and put the Angels in front in the sixth.

Chuck Finley, 14-8, got the victory and Bryan Harvey earned his 18th save. Mike Dyer, 1-3, was the loser.

Royals 10, White Sox 6

Kurt Stillwell hit two triples and drove in three runs.

Mike Macfarlane, who had three of the Royals' 15 hits, and Danny Tartabull each homered. Stillwell hit an RBI triple and scored on Jim Eisenreich's single for a 7-6 lead in the sixth inning.

Terry Leach, 3-3, got the victory. He relieved Charlie Leibrandt after Ozzie Guillen's two-run triple in the fourth.

Dravecky suffers bad break in win

By The Associated Press

It could be the worst break of all for the beleaguered San Francisco Giants pitching staff.

The Giants, who have had six starting pitchers injured during the season, received another physical blow Tuesday night when left-hander Dave Dravecky fractured his pitching arm, the same one on which he had cancer surgery 10 months ago.

Although Dravecky got credit for the Giants' 3-2 victory over the Montreal Expos, the psychological damage of his loss could be even greater than the physical one.

"It's a crying shame," first baseman Will Clark said. "Dave's first start changed the meaning of the season for us because it's not just about baseball, it's about life."

Dravecky, who won the first start of his comeback by pitching eight innings last Thursday against Cincinnati, dropped to the ground and grabbed his left arm after throwing a pitch in the sixth inning of a game the Giants were leading 3-1.

In other National League games, it was New York 3, San Diego 2; Philadelphia 7, Los Angeles 6; St. Louis 9, Atlanta 1; Chicago 5, Cincinnati 2 in 12 innings, and Houston 3, Pittsburgh 2 in 11 innings.

Dravecky, who pitched five shutout innings before the sixth, was conscious as he left the field. X-rays showed the fracture in the upper arm near the scar that marked the surgery that removed a cancerous tumor last Oct. 7

The injury is expected to sideline him for 6-8 weeks, effectively ending his season.

"The odds are in his favor that he'll pitch again," said Dr. Robert Broderick, the Expos team doctor who examined Dravecky.

Matt Williams' fifth homer in six games, after a single by Will Clark, gave the Giants a 3-0 lead in the sixth.

Montreal scored its two runs off Dravecky in the bottom of the inning. Damaso Garcia led off with a homer and Andres Galarrago was hit by a pitch. Jeff Brantley relieved Dravecky and surrendered a sacrifice fly by Tim Raines.

Brantley finished with three hitless innings before Steve Bedrosian pitched the ninth for his 16th save.

Cubs 5, Reds 2

Andre Dawson hit rookie Mike Roesler's 0-2 pitch for a three-run homer with two outs in the 12th inning.

Dawson hit his 13th homer, scoring Mitch Webster and Mark Grace, who both walked with two outs off Roesler, 0-1, the fifth Reds pitcher.

The victory went to Mitch Williams, 2-2, who pitched two hitless innings.

Mets 3, Padres 2

New York passed Montreal for second place in the East, 3 1/2 games behind the Cubs, when Kevin McReynolds tied San Diego with a ninth-inning homer and Kevin Elster later hit an RBI double.

New York, which won for the 12th time in 15 games, trailed 2-1 against Padres starter Ed Whitson before McReynolds homered with one out, his 15th of the season and sixth in August.

Chris James' home run in the seventh gave the Padres a 2-1 lead.

Astros 3, Pirates 2

Houston won its 29th one-run game when Ken Caminiti's single drove in Eric Yelding from second base in the 11th inning.

Glenn Davis, who homered earlier, led off the 11th with a single off Mike Smith, 0-1, and Yelding came in to pinch run. After a sacrifice bunt by Kevin Bass moved Yelding to second, Caminiti singled to left field.

Larry Andersen, 3-3, was the winner, going one inning and giving up one hit and one walk.

Phillies 7, Dodgers 6

Ricky Jordan got his 17th RBI in 15 games with his second home run of the night, leading off the bottom of the eighth against Ray Searage.

Reliever Jeff Parrett, 11-4, Philadelphia's biggest winner, pitched three scoreless innings, allowing one hit, for the victory.

The Dodgers got homers from Mike Huff and Mike Marshall in taking a 6-4 lead, but they couldn't hold it.

Cardinals 9, Braves 1

St. Louis routed Atlanta behind Jose DeLeon's three-hitter, Milt Thompson's four RBIs and Terry Pendleton's four hits.

DeLeon, 12-11, missed St. Louis' league-leading 16th shutout when Jeff Treadway homered with two outs in the ninth for the Braves.

The right-hander struck out 10 and walked one for his fourth complete game.

Rose in more trouble

CINCINNATI (AP) - Pete Rose, already under threat of a lifetime ban for alleged gambling on baseball, could be in trouble again.

Sixteen months after his 30-day suspension for shoving umpire Dave Pallone, Rose was involved in another bumping incident Tuesday night after Cincinnati's 5-2 loss in 12 innings to the Chicago Cubs.

The Cincinnati manager and umpire Joe West shoved each other after Rose came to the defense of Reds second baseman Ron Oester, who also exchanged bumps with West.

"You saw what they did when I pushed Pallone last year," Rose said, referring to the $10,000 fine and suspension. "Let's see what happens now."

The argument started with a call on a 2-2 pitch to Mark Grace in the top of the 12th, which plate umpire Bill Hohn called a ball. Grace walked and scored on Andre Dawson's game-winning, three-run homer.

In the bottom of the 12th, Oester took a 3-2 pitch and was called out by Hohn, ending the game. Shouting followed between Oester and Hohn, and again West joined in.

Words were exchanged and West pushed Oester.

Oester was restrained by teammates as he attempted to get back at West, who was leaving the field and heading toward the tunnel behind home plate.

Rose also intervened and argued with West, pushing him several times.

"We have no comment, nothing to say," crew chief Jerry Crawford said. "We will discuss it before the game tomorrow."

United Way: striving to make life a bit better

Hundreds of volunteers work to support broad range of human service agencies for community

By ORVILLE HOWARD
Special Feature Writer

It has been said you get to keep only that which you give away--10,000 needy will pass Deaf Smith County's way during the next 12 months.

On Sept. 7, the Deaf Smith County United Way Campaign will open with a Kick-Off Luncheon at the Hereford Community Center on Park Avenue where caring people of this agribusiness center will link in a unified move to help in deed for those in need.

"The track record of the Deaf Smith County United Way leaders reveal that folks of this area--from the feedyard cowboys to the downtown financial leaders--strive to make life for its residents a little bit better," said Wayne Amstutz, executive director of the Deaf Smith County United Way. "The Kick-Off Luncheon at the Community Center on Sept. 7 will be the official opening of the United Way Campaign with the Kiwanis Club to host the noon event."

All United Way board members, agencies, budget and admission committees and community volunteers are invited to the Kick-Off Luncheon that will feature a number of special guests and speakers. United Way representatives from various regional and state agencies will also be on hand for the special event that will eventually touch more than 10,000 lives during the next 12 months.

Special recognition will be given to the Hereford Brand and KPAN Radio for their outstanding support of United Way campaigns.

"There are not enough words to express our sincere appreciation for the outstanding work of the Hereford Brand and KPAN Radio in their support of the United Way," said Amstutz, in summarizing the many programs of the United Way during the past 25 years.

The 1989 United Way campaign goal has been set at $125,000, the minimum needed to sustain the current people-oriented programs of the 12 UW agencies. These agencies and supervising directors include the American Red Cross, Betty Henson; Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Alva Lee Peeler; Boy Scouts of America, Kevin Cook; Girl Scouts, U.S.A., Sallie Strain; Family Services, Mike Moon;
Violence, Bonnie Browder; Salvation Army, Lola Faye Veazey; Senior Citizens Center, Margie Daniels; Y.M.C.A; Weldon Knabe; High Plains Epilepsy, Betty Brown; Children's Rehabilitation Center, Richard Balke; and Camp Fire, Nita Lea.

Heading up this year's United Way fund drive are Dr. A.T. Mims, M.D., a retired surgeon who is campaign chairman; Boyd Foster, president of Arrowhead Mills, Inc., who is president of the Deaf Smith County United Way, and Margaret Bell, a long-time educator of the Hereford school system who is vice president of Deaf Smith County United Way.

Other officers are Larry Alley, treasurer, a vice president of the Hereford State Bank; Pat Newton, assistant treasurer, a loan officer for Olney Savings & Loan; Morgan Cain, secretary-bookkeeper (paid worker); Cindy Caro, publicity chairman, of KPAN Radio; and Tommie Weemes, committee chairman, and area manager of Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative.

Don Graham, president of the First National Bank of Hereford, is chairman of the Budget and Admissions Committee which is composed of Dennis Printz, Andy Radford, Helen Rose, Philip Shook, Steve Maupin, Lewis McDaniel, Gilbert Tijerina and Roger Wilcox.

United Way board members whose terms expire Dec. 31, 1989, include Larry Alley of the Hereford State Bank, Howard Birdwell of Bluebonnet School, Boyd Foster of Arrowhead Mills, Lajean Henry of Pants Cage, and Terry Langehennig, a Hereford attorney who is filling the one-year term of Don Davis who moved out of the county.

Board members whose terms expire Dec. 31, 1990, include Jeryl Baker of the Lone Star Agency, Margaret Bell, Idie Gearn of Gearn Industries, Rose Medrano of Ramirez and Sons and Cruz Ramirez of West Texas Rural Telephone.

Other board members whose terms expire Dec. 31, 1991, include Mary Edwards of Little's, Gary Moore of Deaf Smith General Hospital, Pat Newton of Olney Savings, Bill Townsend of Garrison Seed and Company, and Lanny Wheeler of King's Manor.

Chairmen of the United Way Campaign divisions include O.G. (Speedy) Nieman, publisher of the Hereford Brand, Corporate Gifts; Jane Meiwes and Pam Fellers, Agriculture; Helen Spinks and Inez Witherspoon, Golden Age; Ken McLain of McLain Garden Center, Major Gifts; Jeff Torbert, of State Farm Insurance; Metro; Pat Newton and Larry Alley, Pacesetters; Dr. Steve Lewis (DVM), Professional; Jimmy Bell and David McDonald, Special Divisions; Lee Washington of TLC Cleaners, Whiteface East, and Anna Solomon and Wanda Cobb, Whiteface West.

Sid Shaw of White Implement Co. will serve as chairman of the Loaned Executive Division, with Howard Birdwell to head the Cultivation Division. Charles Bell will serve as chairman of the New Accounts Division.

Amstutz pointed out that the Kick-Off Luncheon for the 1989 UW Campaign on Sept. 7 will set the pace for the fund drive that will officially run from Sept. 11 through Oct. 28. The final tabulation will be announced Oct. 30 during a noon luncheon at the Ranch House Restaurant.

United Way is a locally-controlled organization made up of hundreds of volunteers who work to support a broad range of human service agencies for the benefit of Deaf Smith County residents. Volunteers work to motivate every person in the county to give money to aid these important services.

This concerted fund-raising effort is the most cost-effective way to support social, health and recreational programs here in Deaf Smith County which is made up of an estimated 17,000 residents.

"Many children and adults would have a much diminished lifestyle if support of these agencies were withdrawn," said Amstutz.

The 12 United Way agencies given funds by this campaign help people in ways and local, state and national governments either can not or will not. Many sick, young and troubled persons need special counseling, treatment and services that are not provided by the government. People give to the United Way in order to help people whose needs would otherwise go unmet.

"When I first moved to Hereford in 1952, I was very much impressed by the progressive, proud and caring attitude of the people," said Dr. Mims, who served as a leading surgeon of the Golden Triangle for more than a quarter of a century. "We had great churches, a fine school system, active and concerned city and county governments and a population of people that would take on any task and get it done."

In relating to a time before the organized efforts of United Way, Dr. Mims gave an example, without naming names, of how community funds were raised. "A group of men that were friends would see each other almost every morning in a place of business to talk, drink a cup of coffee and just associate with one another," Dr. Mims said.

"They kept money in a desk drawer that each one would supply from time to time. If at any time any one of them found a needy child or adult, or a needy situation, they would take this money and help this individual or family."

"We didn't have a United Way at that time but this and other examples I could give, showed me what the people here were like," Dr. Mims added. "The overall feeling was to try and help and improve our community."

Dr. Mims said that all of the citizens of Hereford can do what these men were doing by caring enough to support our United Way program.

"What better way do we have to help make life better for ourselves and others, than by supporting the 12 vital agencies in the Deaf Smith County United Way," Dr. Mims said.

United Way needs depend on pledged support, whether it be in a lump sum or spread throughout an entire supporting year. With payroll deductions, as an example, the weekly or monthly gifts singly may not be large, but bound together in a unified effort the work-force contributions become a mountain of support for needy children or families. Out of every dollar contributed from local residents, 91.1 percent goes directly to the agencies--only 8.9 percent is used for administration and operational costs.

Amstutz pointed out that major community problems that affect the entire Deaf Smith County community cannot be resolved as effectively by random individual giving as the agency programs through the United Way, but by the same token, agencies must know how much income is available to them in order to economically and effectively deal with the Deaf Smith County needs.

"Only the United Way provides a yearly citizen's review of all agency programs to determine what is needed most by our county's population," Amstutz said.

United Way volunteers are people representing all segments of leadership in Deaf Smith County. They are your neighbors and friends. They may be your employers or bankers, or pastors but regardless of position or profession, each and every one is a person who cares for those in need.

As an added assurance that every penny goes to a worthwhile cause, each United Way agency is reviewed annually by volunteer budget and admission committee members who want what is best for the county.

No agency is allocated funds until it has presented its budget and goals, one year at a time. The total objective of the United Way is to do the most good for all the people who need its support and concern.

A native of Oklahoma, Amstutz was named the executive director of the Deaf Smith County United Way in 1982 after having served with Armour & Co. for 42 years. "When I retired from Armour, I was contacted by the peers of United Way here at Hereford to take over as the executive director for the Deaf Smith County unit," recalled Amstutz, who puts in about 1,500 hours a year for the local entity.

Amstutz worked at nearly every position in Armour's Beef division during his 42 years' of service to the Omaha-based company and was working out of Hereford at the time of his retirement from the international food firm. "I had worked and traveled in every corner of the nation and in Hawaii and Canada, but I can honestly say that my wife and I loved the Hereford community much greater than any place we'd ever lived," said Amstutz.

He started out with Armour in 1940 in Oklahoma City, then came World War II. Born and reared on a dryland farm near Geary, Okla., Amstutz learned the hardships of dust and depressions at an early age and was a seasoned soldier when gunfire sounded in the Battle of the Bulge.

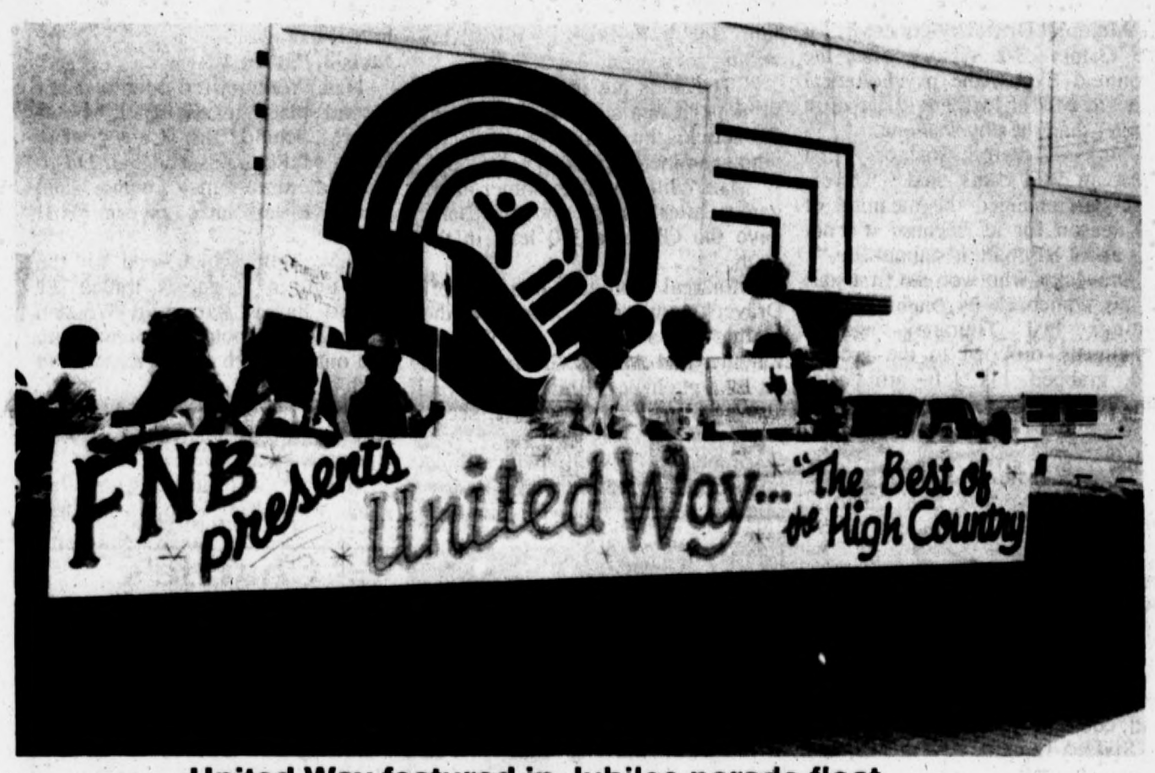

"I saw Gen. Patton cross the Rhine in the lead tank," said Amstutz in recalling those deadly days when balances of the world were held in the hands of a few. A burst of shrapnel put the young soldier in a medic tent as the big military push mushroomed into an epic battle for freedom. He doesn't say much about a handful of military ribbons and medals, war wounds or the day he witnessed the historical German storm-trooper surrender to the 90th

YOU can help with a few dollars a week

BY BOYD FOSTER
President, United Way

A little boy who never knew his dad . . . a 90-year-old grandmother with nobody to look after her . . . a way to dispense blankets and hot coffee after a tornado . . . a place to play basketball instead of hanging out in an abandoned house . . . someone to console a crying young girl after she has watched her drunken father beat and kick her mother--who or what can provide help in these situations at any time, day or night, the year around?

If there are people who are willing to serve the needs of others with little or no pay, how will they be able to have a base of operations and the minimum material requirements necessary to perform their functions? In our busy lives, who has time to look after all their own needs, let alone those of others? Do money and responsible people fall from the sky to provide the badly needed loving and caring that would otherwise go lacking or be even nonexistant?

There is, of course, an existing body that provides a way for all the above mentioned needs to be met. There are responsible volunteers and minimally-paid professionals who have dedicated a part of their lives to helping others.

They derive much personal satisfaction from knowing they have made another's life a little better, but they cannot do so on a continuing basis without help from those of us who believe we have no time to lend a hand. If we can't lend a hand every time it is needed, then we should surely be willing to part with a few dollars on a timely basis so that others can do the job we either can't do or don't want to do.

The United Way agencies of Deaf Smith County make it possible for much of the basic human need of our area to be met. They are staffed by trained and able men and women that we should all salute. They deserve not only our commendations but our financial help as well. Not a great deal is asked by them and they spend what little they get very sparingly.

Our community is a far better place to live because of the United Way. If all the agencies were left to fend for themselves, we would not only grow tired of their constantly having their hands out, but many of the services would fall by the wayside. One organized, unified, yearly fund drive to support all the agencies is the only real answer to what is needed.

People who staff the various agencies are usually low-profile individuals who quietly go about their duties with no fanfare. They neither expect nor receive much thanks. But to those who will take the time to visit the agencies or witness their activities in action, the return for the effort and donated money becomes readily apparent and is nothing short of phenomenal.

The United Way needs you and you need the United Way. For Hereford and Deaf Smith County to remain a decent and enjoyable place to live, we must all play a part and share the responsibilities. The easiest and best way to do this is to give a few dollars a week. We can give knowing that the money will be used wisely and go for a good cause.

If only $10 were donated by every man, woman and child in Deaf Smith County, then the needs of the 12 agencies could be met for a whole year. That's not much to ask for so much in return.

Wayne Amstutz, executive director, points to goal

No better way to help so many than giving to the United Way!

By MARGARET BELL
United Way Vice President

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall" may have become a time-worn maxim to many, but its truth has been proven over and over. If a community unites itself behind a worthy cause, its success is almost guaranteed. If, on the other hand, each person or group determines to go in a separate direction, the project is doomed almost from the beginning.

the way to success is the united way; thus, our United Way concept, if adopted by the citizens of the community, will mean that agencies supported by that funding process can be assured of the monies they need to carry out strong, effective programs of work. With a minimum of administrative cost, the donations of the citizenry can be managed in the most cost-effective manner possible. A person then knows that he has given wisely and that his gift, whether large or small, will be divided equitably to help the largest number of persons possible.

Examples of assistance each donor shares in providing, not to one limited cause but to a broad spectrum of services, are as follows: securing swimming lessons for children and first-aid instruction for youth and adults; allowing youth to experience the leadership and life skills training of Boy Scouts, Camp Fire and Girl Scouts; giving families of handicapped children new hope and assistance; strengthening the lives of children from single-parent homes; feeding hungry travelers whose lives are shaken by misfortune; adding to the health and self-image of needy youth with organized sports programs; letting senior citizens know that they are still vital members of this and every community; protecting battered women and children; shoring up the lives of persons plagued by drug and alcohol abuse.

What better way to help so many than THE UNITED WAY!!

HUSTLE HEREFORD

Division 60 miles from the Russian border--the greying war veteran would rather talk about the needs of Deaf Smith County and the goals of United Way:

"If you can get the real story of United Way across to the people, you can make your goals...most people want to help if they understand the real need," Amstutz said.

Amstutz pointed out that the 10,000-plus who will be helped during the next 12 months by Deaf Smith County people through the United Way may not be all local residents--some may be travelers in need or itinerants who faced unexpected hardships along the way. The American Red Cross and the Salvation Army, two of the United Way agencies, are known worldwide for their helping hands to strangers in need.

Despite steady increases in costs of maintaining the 12 UW agencies the Deaf Smith county campaign goal of $125,000 is holding about the same levels of the 1988 fund drive.

"When I first came here, we had 10 agencies," said Amstutz. "Now, we have added Girls Scouts and Rape Crisis/Domestic Violence...this latter one was the big one that really opened the peoples' eyes. The first year after their being a part of United Way, they had over 200 cases of reported incidents."

Amstutz' United Way responsibilities frequently lead to longer hours than the record shows but his extra work is just a small part of his personal contributions to the needs of his community. And when a day at the United Way office in the YMCA Center is ended, he perhaps can be found in his backyard garden, or picking black-eyed peas in alley patch out back. Amstutz and his wife, Sue, have a son, Wally.

In the years before the organization of the United Way, there were many community programs frequently overlapping and even more frequently, moving in many directions for different causes. It is believed that the first recorded organized community service was initiated in 1918 when a group of Hereford cattlemen donated $4,400 to the Red Cross.

"There were many names for the organized community services efforts in the past, but the one they have now, The United Way, is by far the best. It means something," said Amstutz. "The emblem you see on all of our work is copyrighted by the United Way of America."

In summarizing the needs of the 12 United Way agencies and the vast army of volunteers who make them work, Dr. Mims' admonishment perhaps said it all"

"Please support it and continue to make our community a better place to live."

THE LIFEBLOOD OF BUSINESS

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) - Computers are the lifeblood of American business and, according to one survey, are used in about 70 percent of U.S. offices and factories.

R.J. Reynolds says it has more than 10,000 computer terminals in its manufacturing plants and offices.

Each month, its employees use computers to process more than 10 million transactions. Its computer system has the capacity to store 7 trillion bytes of data - enough to stack full-page memos eight miles high. If the company converted this storage capacity to computer tape, it would stretch more than 4,000 miles.

A LACK OF COMMUNICATION

WASHINGTON (AP) - The War of 1812, the last conflict between the United States and Great Britain, has also been called "The War of Faulty Communication."

Two days before war was declared by President James Madison, Britain had agreed to repeal the laws which were the chief excuse for fighting. If telegraphic communication had existed then, the war might have been avoided.

Speedy communication could also have prevented the war's major battle, fought in New Orleans 15 days after a peace treaty between Britain and the U. S. had been signed in Ghent, Belgium.

The transatlantic telegraphic cable was not completed until 1858.

Severance pay explained

Dear Commissioner Nabers: A couple of weeks ago I had to fire a woman who had been hired as a Secretary/ Receptionist. She was just never able to do the job to my satisfaction. In an attempt to ease the pain I insisted that the company give her three weeks pay. It seemed to me that it was the least we could do since she had a family to support. Now, however, I find that she filed for unemployment benefits the very next day. Surely the Texas Employment Commission will not give her benefits after we gave her such a nice severance pay lump sum.

— D.W.S.
Denton, Texas

COMMISSIONER
Mary Scott Nabers

TEXAS BUSINESS TODAY

Dear D.W.S.: You will most likely not like the answer to your question. The fact is that under our law, the severance pay you gave your ex-employee will not delay any benefits to which the woman might be entitled. The only type of post-employment payment that will delay a claimant's receipt of benefits is wages in lieu of notice. That payment means just what it says. If you had given the woman no notice of termination and had instead designated that the lump sum was to make up for this lack of notice, then those wages would have delayed payment of unemployment benefits for the number of weeks the payment represented.

Severance pay, on the other hand, is not listed as a type of payment which will delay, reduce, or otherwise affect the payment of unemployment benefits. Under the circumstances you describe, it would be considered more of a "gift".

In most cases, severance pay is something your company has obligated itself to pay, either verbally or through written company policy or contract. The payment of severance is not a substitute for notice because it would be payable regardless of the amount of notice given.

There is a Memo on the subject available from my office at no cost. I will see that it is mailed to you this week.

The bagpipe is an old instrument. It is spoken of in the Old Testament and it was used by the Egyptians, Greeks and Romans.

Ancient Romans always entered the home of a friend right foot first—the left side was thought to portend evil.

Use "shadow method", it's safe

Here's an easy-to-use rule for safety in the sun: when your shadow is shorter than you are tall, the sun can burn, so cover up.

The "shadow method" is easy to remember and works any place and for all seasons. It is based on the principle that the closer the sun comes to being directly over a person's head, the stronger are its burning ultraviolet (UV) rays.

"During the summer, most people can sunburn after 20 to 30 minutes of continuous exposure to midday sun," says Dr. Eva Singletary, assistant professor of general surgery at the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Cancer Center.

The atmosphere, and especially its ozone layer, absorbs most of the dangerous UV radiation from the sun, but the small amount that does reach the ground can cause sunburn around midday. But by late afternoon, when a person's shadow length on a level surface is equal to their height, enough of the harmful UV rays are blocked for sunlight to be relatively safe from causing sunburn.

"It's especially important to avoid being exposed to the midday sun because the effects of harmful UV exposure add up," says Dr. Singletary.

Repeated overexposure to the ultraviolet rays of the sun is the principal cause of skin cancer, Dr. Singletary says. No one is immune, she adds. Anyone who is out in the sun needs to protect himself from the sun's direct rays by using sun block preparations, and wearing hats, long-sleeved shirts and long pants as often as possible.

The shadow method is easy to use because it enables a person to determine, without a watch or other instrument, whether the sun's angle is in the danger zone. A person's foot can be used as a ruler for pacing off and estimating shadow length. In general, about six personal foot lengths are equal to a person's height.

During times when shadow lengths outdoors are longer than the heights of objects casting them, most people-except those with very fair and sensitive skin-can remain in the sun for relatively long periods without suffering sunburn.

To find out more about skin cancer or cancer prevention, call the Cancer Information Service's toll-free hotline at 1-800-4-CANCER, or in Houston call (713) 792-3245.

The course will meet on Mondays beginning Aug. 28 from 7-9:45 p.m. and the instructor will be Dr. Delbert Serratt, chairman of the Amarillo College Religion Department.

Registration will be Monday, Aug. 21 from 7-8 p.m. in the Hereford High School Cafeteria.

Watch for suicide signs

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - The elderly rarely communicate suicidal intentions and, unlike the young, usually act once they decide to kill themselves, says Dr. Marv Miller, a gerontologist who has written about late-life suicide.

Most aged suicidal people truly want to die, and indications an elderly person is thinking about suicide should be acted upon immediately, says Miller, of San Diego. Among the "red flags" that doctors and family members and friends should recognize:

-Expression of feelings of hopelessness or worthlessness.

-Statements like "My family is better off without me," or "I want to end it all."

-Death of a spouse, diagnosis of terminal illness, or a recent move.

-Neglecting self-care, including failure to take prescribed medication.

-Suddenly putting personal affairs in order, including giving away money and possessions or making changes in wills.

-Sudden interest or disinterest in religion.

-Scheduling an appointment with a doctor without having an obvious physical complaint.

-Unusual behavior such as buying a gun or stockpiling medication.

-Mood or behavior changes, including hostility, withdrawal and severe depression.

Hints from Heloise

EXTRA UMBRELLAS

Dear Heloise: If you go to garage sales or just look for great sales in stores, pick up a couple of umbrellas — they'll come in handy. I just bought two on sale for only $2.50 each. I keep one under the seat in my car and one at home.

Many times we go out not expecting a drop of rain, and are unprepared. Well, it won't happen again. I'm ready for a storm. — Julie Adams, Dallas, Texas

It usually rains unexpectedly when you're going out for the evening, wearing a great dress and terrific hairstyle, and it doesn't start when you're getting in the car to go out, it happens when you're exiting.

Your hint should keep a lot of us dry. Thanks for sharing. — Heloise

Names in the News

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It's a riches-to-rags story for Roseanne Conner, the wise-cracking mom on ABC's hit comedy "Roseanne."

The show's producers on Tuesday denied rumors that the Conners, played by Roseanne Barr and John Goodman, would strike it rich in a lottery. The rumor turned up in a supermarket tabloid.

Instead, producers Tom Werner and Marcy Carsey told reporters that Roseanne would be unemployed at the beginning of the new season.

Roseanne quit her job at the factory during the past season's last episode.

"We think it's a very fertile area, someone who's unemployed, and the first few scripts we're dealing with that. Obviously, in a family like this, you need two incomes, so pretty soon Roseanne Conner is going to find a job," Werner said.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - Actor John Hayes-Newton, who portrayed television's Superboy but had real-life problems with traffic cops, is hanging up his cape.

The Superboy syndicated television series begins its second year of production Monday with a new actor who will replace Newton, officials said.

Newton played a college student who becomes the boy of steel to assist the downtrodden, like his father, Superman. Executive Producer Ilya Salkind on Thursday introduced Gerard Christopher as the new Superboy.

Newton had contractual and professional differences with Salkind and Viacom Enterprises, the distributors of the TV series, officials said.

Newton was not entirely truthful with the sheriff and a judge in Orlando when he convinced them to tear up a traffic ticket earlier this year. He told them he had no other traffic violations and that his Superboy image would be hurt if a careless-driving citation was allowed to stand.

Later, it turned out that Newton had at least four other traffic tickets and his driver's license had been suspended twice since 1982.

NEW YORK (AP) - The Duchess of York put some of herself and her family into her first book, a children's tale called "Budgie the Little Helicopter."

The book, to be published by Simon & Schuster in September, tells the story of a schoolgirl who is kidnapped and held for ransom.

"There is a little of the Duchess in all the characters -particularly in Budgie, who is as adventurous as she is," said her editor, Denise Johnstone-Burt, childrens' book editorial director at the publishing house.

The former Sarah Ferguson, who holds a private pilot's license and a helicopter license, also created a character called Lionel the Lynx, a larger, more experienced helicopter than Budgie. Her husband, Prince Andrew, a pilot in the Royal Navy, frequently flies Lynx helicopters.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: What has happened to the idea that taking fish oil will prevent heart attacks? There was a lot about it in the news for some time and now I hear nothing about it. Does that mean it is not useful, and should I quit taking my omega-3 capsules I have been using to prevent heart attacks?

Just how does fish oil help prevent heart attacks anyway? Is it true that it lowers the cholesterol level?

DEAR READER: You will find that various medical diseases and treatments often have a cycle of popularity. One reason is because, when something new has been learned, it is featured in the news. But as soon as there is no additional information forthcoming, other new findings crowd it out of the limelight. A case in point is how fast genital herpes disappeared from the news when AIDS became an important health issue.

At this juncture there is not a lot new about fish oil. It offers considerable promise, but it may take several years of investigation before the facts are sorted out. It is quite true that Eskimos in Greenland have a far lower rate of heart attacks than neighboring Scandinavians. But their entire life style is different, involving much more than whether or not they eat cold water fish and how much.

The omega-3 acids do lower the cholesterol level in some people with high levels. But some capsule preparations also contain lots of cholesterol and may not be beneficial in this regard. They may have other actions that prevent fatty-cholesterol deposits. In addition, the fish oils may decrease blood clotting. Since a blood clot is an important aspect of a heart attack, that can be important. It can also be dangerous as it may lead to severe bleeding. The Eskimos are prone to severe nosebleeds that can be fatal.

For more details read Current Thinking About Fish Oil in THE HEALTH LETTER 32-05 which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/32-05, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

The decision as to what you should do depends on your total cholesterol level and your response to the capsules you are taking. What might be good for you, might not be good for someone else. At present, the recommendation for the general public is simply to include a reasonable amount of the fish that contain omega-3 fatty acids in your diet at least two or three times a week.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My husband and I are baffled by the fluctuation in his weight in an eight-hour period. He weighs before retiring at night, then weighs himself in the morning. He will be 2 to 4 pounds lighter in the morning. He does not get out of bed in between. How can this be possible? Where do the pounds go?

DEAR READER: I would need to know more about his habits. Does he weigh in the morning before or after emptying his bladder? Aside from that, most sudden shifts in body weight are because of gain or loss of water. We constantly lose water from our skin as evaporation, even if we do not have frank sweating. Sweating can cause the loss of a few pounds. Then moisture is also lost from the lungs. It is not loss of calories.

Lying down promotes the loss of water through the kidneys. A normal person who is hydrated and goes to bed may lose five pounds or more in 24 hours.
