U. S. might reopen talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said today the United States would be willing to reopen substantative discussions with Nicaragua's leftist government once "serious negotiations" begin between the Sandinistas and the U.S.-backed Contra rebels on reaching a cease-fire.

Reagan made the disclosure in remarks prepared for delivery to a gathering of hemispheric foreign ministers attending the Organization of American States General Assembly.

Reagan made clear that he envisions talks with the Sandinistas as part of a broader discussion involving other Central American countries as well.

Once serious negotions between the Sandinistas and the Contra rebels have begun under the mediation of Nicaraguan Roman Catholic Cardinal Miguel Ovando y Bravo, Reagan said that Secretary of State George Shultz "will be ready to meet jointly with the foreign ministers of all five Central American nations, including the Sandinistas' representative."

Reagan added that before such a meeting and throughout this period, the United States will consult closely with the Contras because "the key to democracy and peace in the region is freedom and national reconciliation in Nicaragua."

The United States has had no substantive negotiations with the Sandinista government since the latter half of 1984.

Suitable name sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fall of President Reagan's second Supreme Court nominee leaves the administration in the same situation it faced five months ago, searching for someone who would appease conservatives and win approval in the Democratic-controlled Senate.

Federal Court of Appeals Judge Douglas H. Ginsburg, named to fill the seat vacated by retiring Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., announced Saturday that he had asked Reagan to withdraw his nomination because his views on law had been "drowned out in the clamor" over his use of marijuana in the 1960s and 1970s.

One possible replacement nominee is Judge Anthony Ken-

Ask Us

Q. — Is the airplane game in Snyder legal?

A. — No, if it is the same "pyramid" scheme reported in the city last spring. This involved individuals purchasing rights to be a "pilot, crew member or passenger" on the airplane, then selling these same rights to other individuals in a chain-letter type scam. At the time, local law officials noted engaging in such activity is viewed as a third degree felony.

TDC site decision awaited in Austin

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

AUSTIN — By 11:25 a.m. Monday, Scurry County's "final say" for a Texas Department of Corrections prison project was completed and a crowd of some 200 supporters were awaiting the decision expected around 2 p.m.

The county's presentation before the TDC board, the fifth of an expected seven, also generated words of praise from one TDC board member, Charles Terrell, a member of the site selection committee visiting here Oct. 28.

Terrell, vice chairman of the TDC board, commented, "Without prejudice to other board members, I want to compliment Snyder and Scurry County for the professional way they've handled the project."

His comment followed presentations from both proponents of the project, estimated to be 200, and a smaller group of opponents, represented by Mrs. Fred Bullard.

She took the podium to speak against the local bid after presentations "for" it were given by both County Judge Bobby Goodwin and Tom Loeffler, a former U.S. congressman and gubernatorial candidate who has served as a consultant for Scurry County's bid.

The remarks from Mrs. Bullard were the only opposing comments offered by any of the five finalist bidders making presentations through 11:30 a.m. Monday.

Other presentations prior to the local bid were given by representatives from Gatesville, Marlin (Falls County), Liberty County and Woodville (Tyler County).

Those to make presentations after Scurry were Childress and Amarillo.

In referring to the Scurry County effort, Loeffler remarked to the board that never in his public service had he seen a community "roll up its sleeves with Texas-size dedication" like the Scurry County bid.

He called it "the best proposal I've seen in government," and added, "The time has come for a prison facility in West Texas."

Regarding this, he described Snyder as "the hub of West Texas."

Goodwin offered evidence of "widespread community sup-

Year's first freeze said possible here

From Local, Wire Reports

Temperatures in the 30s and the possibility of the year's first freeze are in the Scurry County forecast for Monday night.

A cold front that moved across the state during the weekend was moving eastward at dawn along a line along the Texas-Louisiana border southward across the gulf into Mexico.

While Snyder received a trace of rain, other light precipitation was being noted over much of the eastern half of the state.

Monday morning, scattered showers were being reported in West Texas between Lubbock and Amarillo.

The low temperature recorded early Monday was 42 degrees. Scurry County normally reports its first freeze of the year around Nov. 4.

Clearing skies and cooler temperatures were forecast across Texas for Monday night and Tuesday. Skies are to be clearing throughout the day Tuesday.

Fast-moving thunderstorms rolled across South Central Texas and South Texas Sunday, prompting the National Weather Service to issue a flash flood watch for the Hill Country.

San Antonio reported as much as 2 inches of rainfall, enough to cause some minor street and road flooding. Police at San Antonio reported 36 major accidents and 196 minor accidents Sunday during the rainfall.

Other early morning temperatures around the state included 48 at Wichita Falls, 51 at Fort Worth, 50 at Waco, 53 at Austin, 51 at San Antonio, 61 at Houston and Corpus Christi, 62 at Brownsville, 49 at San Angelo, 41 at Lubbock, 47 at Midland and 43 at El Paso.

DPS trooper assigned to 4-man local office

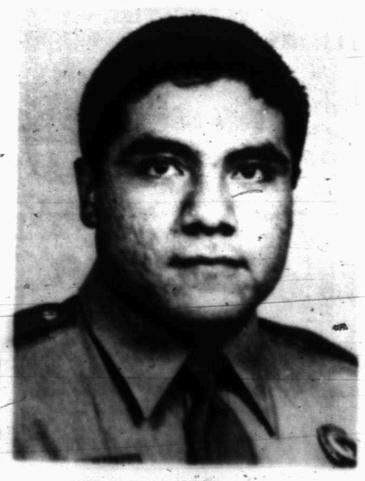

A new Department of Public Safety trooper has been assigned to the four-man Snyder DPS office.

Trooper Steve Torres, 24, a native of San Angelo, has just graduated from the DPS academy in Austin and will replace trooper Larry Brown, who has been assigned to the DPS license and weight office in Abilene.

Torres was one of 83 cadets recently commissioned as new troopers in graduation ceremonies in Austin after successfully completing the 18-week training course.

The course includes instruction in traffic law, criminal law, arrest procedures, accident investigation and numerous other law enforcement-related topics, DPS Director Leo Gossett said.

"A Texas trooper is required to perform a number of difficult tasks in addition to traffic law enforcement," Gossett said. "The trooper will assist in narcotics arrests and other felony cases as well as manhunts and disaster situations," Gossett said.

Search confirmed suspicions

MIDLOTHIAN, Texas (AP) — The feeling by some Midlothian students that undercover officer George Raffield was a "narc" who was investigating them may have been reinforced by a police raid on a home the day after the officer visited the residence, a newspaper reported.

Last month, on the night after the raid, Raffield was shot to death. He was found lying face down in a field near Midlothian with two bullet wounds in the back of his head. Richard Goeglein, 17, and a 16-year-old boy are charged with capital murder.

The Dallas Morning News reported Sunday that the 16-year-old was with Raffield when he went to the home of Cynthia Fedrick, 23.

Police said they searched Ms. Fedrick's home the following day on an unrelated matter and didn't think anyone would link that to Raffield because he did not provide the information leading to the search.

"We knew George had been there, but we didn't think it would jeopardize him. We don't believe it did jeopardize him," said Raffield's supervisor, Lt. Bobby Fowler.

Police say Raffield and the 16-year-old often visited the home of Ms. Fedrick, who is charged with a misdemeanor for hindering the apprehension of the youths.

Ms. Fedrick said the youths visited her the night of the Oct. 23 killing. She said the 16-year-old told her they were in trouble and talked about putting bullets in a gun belonging to his father, a Dallas police officer. The youth said a "high-priest spirit told him Raffield was an undercover investigator who should be taken care of," Ms. Fedrick said.

Police said they were waiting for a second 16-year-old suspect to turn himself in. He is accused of picking up the two other suspects after Raffield's shooting.

Raffield's mother, Shirley Moore, said a student assaulted the officer two weeks before the shooting and accused him of being an undercover narcotics investigator, the Morning News reported.

Although Ms. Moore said the encounter frightened her son, Midlothian police said it was common to undercover operations and kept Raffield on the job.

"He said, 'Mother, I'm over 21. That kid is under 17. I couldn't hit him back and he came right out and accused me of being a narc,'" Ms. Moore said. "That is when I told him: 'Get out. Your cover's blown. Tell your bosses and get out because if you don't, George, you're dead.'"

But Raffield continued attending classes, posing as a West Texas transfer student and hanging out with the 16-year-old accused of killing him.

"It looks like a succession of small screw-ups — things that nobody put together until it was too late — put George Raffield in that field," an unidentified law enforcement official told the News.

Ms. Moore of Red Oak is considering suing the the city of Midlothian on grounds of wrongful death. "Those kids may have pulled the trigger, but the police put him there in that field," she said.

Midlothian Police Chief Roy Vaughn disagrees.

"Under no circumstances would we have endangered that boy's life. We had no information suggesting — even hinting — that we needed to pull him out. I'm not even sure that those kids ... ever knew he was a narc for sure."

"This man was in high school. Even if somebody thought he was a narcotics officer, the worst we expected was that he would get a beating. And if even a beating had been threatened, we would have pulled him out. We had no idea anything was wrong," Vaughn said.

Around Houston...

Furor grows over correction facilities

HOUSTON (AP) — Some people are beginning to complain that Houston's economic problems are helping to lure a disproportionate number of corrections projects — from prisons to halfway houses to pre-release centers,

"Houston is getting an inordinate share because of our property values," said state Sen. Gene Green. "We have to accept our charge, but they need to be located in other urban areas, too."

The city already is the site of nearly half the state's 1,588 beds in halfway houses for Texas Department of Corrections parolees and pre-release centers for convicts approaching parole dates. Many of those are located in the city's south side and northeast Harris County.

"At the outset, it looks like Harris County is getting an unfair share of criminals, but that's not the case," said parole board spokesman Mike Roach. "Some 25 to 30 percent of all inmates are out of Harris County, and will return to Harris County."

Despite the furor, more corrections programs are being considered for the city.

Last week, the state board of Pardons and Paroles selected Houston as the place to test electronic monitoring of non-violent inmates. On Monday, the Texas Department of Corrections is scheduled to evaluate sites for as many as 10 new prisons, and the Houston area is expected to be included in consideration.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Corrections Corporation of America, the company proposing that a privately-operated facility be located in northeast Harris County, said chances of being hurt in an accident are high.

Furr's completes deals to get stores

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Furr's Inc., officials have officially taken over 59 stores that once were in the Safeway chain, but customers may not be able to tell.

Jan Friederich, chief executive officer of Furr's, announced Sunday that final negotiations for the acquisition of Safeway's El Paso division is now complete.

"Effective today, the 59 stores that make up this division will become an autonomous, separate division of Furr's, Inc.," Friederich said, "until final approval of the FTC (Federal Trade Commission)."

However, the stores will continue to operate under the Safeway name, continue to offer Safeway brand products, and many of the same employees will continue in their jobs, Friederich said. Furr's has hired most of the Safeway workers under the terms of a newly agreed labor contract, he said.

Furr's reached agreement with the United Food and Commercial Workers Union in Texas and New Mexico. The Union locals represent about 5,000 workers.

"We have no intention of changing the Safeway stores," Friederich said. "The Safeway stores were well managed, and we want that same level of service and value to continue. I am confident that the managers and employees of these Safeway stores are eager to continue to serve their customers and are looking forward to business as usual on Monday morning."

Furr's has an agreement with Jaynes Group, Inc. to purchase 12 New Mexico division stores located in Alamogordo, Artesia, Clovis, Espanola, Hobbs, Las Vegas, Lovington, Portales, Roswell, and Silver City, and in the Texas towns of Fort Stockton and Pecos.

Those stores will be sold, officials said, to eliminate the only objection raised by the FTC to the acquisition of the Safeway El Paso division. The Jaynes Group is a newly formed corporation, organized by former Safeway employees, and is headquartered in El Paso.

Mom's Concern for Daughter Expressed in Flood of Towels

By Abigail Van Buren

1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 years old and have been married for six years. My husband and I have a nice apartment, dress well, both have good jobs and two nice cars. Our household is well established.

Last month, my mother visited us in our new apartment for the first time. While she was here, I had a towel shortage because I hadn't done my laundry for the week. (The washers were unavailable for use the night before she arrived.) However, I did put a set of fancy towels out to make the bathroom look nice.

Soon after my mother arrived home, she called and said, "If I send you the money, will you buy some towels?" I said, "No, I'd probably spend it on something else because I have plenty of towels."

The next week I got a check for $50 with a note saying it was for towels. A few days later I received a set of towels that did not match my bathroom, but I remembered seeing them hanging in my mother's bathroom last time I visited her. Included in the box were some used dish towels (clean but not new).

Why would my mother do such a thing, and how should I handle this?

FURIOUS

DEAR FURIOUS: Your mother was behaving like a mother. She thought her daughter was in need, so she instinctively rushed in to help her. (Old habits die hard.) Simmer down, and handle it with patience and understanding — just like your mother did when you erred.

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior faculty member at a small liberal arts college in Virginia. Annually our administration has a beginning of the year reception for faculty and staff. Generally, this is a pretty dull affair, somewhat stilted and formal. This year, the invitation stated "Open House from 6:30 until 8:30." By 8 o'clock, the occasion became festive and quite pleasant. However, promptly at 8:30, all the food and drink were suddenly removed from every table and the lights were blinked off and on to signal the end of the affair!

This, in my view, gave the guests the impression that they were simply "hired hands" being tolerated for two hours, not professionally respected colleagues. Is my perception inaccurate? Or was such behavior simply "low rent," as we used to say in the South?

VIRGINIA LADY

DEAR LADY: Obviously the reception came to an end too abruptly. Blinking the lights to signal that the party is over is acceptable, but yanking the food and drink from the tables at 8:30 sharp is "gauche, b'gosh," as we used to say in Iowa.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the letter from "Neither Hair nor There," the woman who wanted to try the hairdresser in the next booth but hated to offend her own hairdresser: Why doesn't she do what I did? I wasn't happy with the barber who had been cutting my hair, but I liked the work of another man in the same shop, so on my barber's day off, I quietly booked an appointment with the other man. It worked out just fine.

UNHACKED IN TOLUCA LAKE, CALIF.

DEAR UNHACKED: It may have worked out just fine for you, but when a client drops one operator for another in the same shop, trying to keep it a secret would be like trying to smuggle dawn past a rooster.

Treatment of severe anemia

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My wife, 53, has pernicious anemia. She's received five pints of blood in two months. Where does the blood go and why?

DEAR READER — Pernicious anemia is not a blood-loss disease, as is frequently the case with iron deficiency, for example. Patients with pernicious anemia lack an ingredient in the stomach, called intrinsic factor, which permits absorption of vitamin B12, a compound necessary for the manufacture of red blood cells. Therefore, patients with pernicious anemia cannot make enough blood to replace what is used.

Our red blood cells ordinarily survive in the body for about four months. At the end of this time (the normal erythrocyte life span), used-up blood cells are removed from the circulation and their components are recycled in the manufacture of new cells. Vitamin B12 must be present in order for new cells to form. People who lack B12 are unable to produce enough new cells to replace the old ones.

Pernicious anemia used to be a uniformly fatal illness, until injections of liver extract (a rich source of B12) were found to correct the vitamin deficiency. Later, B12 itself was synthesized. The vitamin is now universally available in purified injectable form. A shot once or twice a month is all that is necessary to bypass the intestinal tract (that lacks intrinsic factor) and treat pernicious anemia. Other nutrients, such as folic acid must be present in the diet, but the modern treatment of B12 deficiency is safe, inexpensive and effective.

I do not know why your wife required so many transfusions. Perhaps her pernicious anemia isn't the only problem; she may be losing blood through sources such as the intestinal tract — from an ulcer or colon hemorrhage, for instance. Ask her doctor why your wife needed transfusions. In most uncomplicated cases of pernicious anemia, vitamin shots should suffice.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have persistent, extreme tenderness and soreness of my muscles after even a minimal amount of exercise. I'm in my early 30s and think I'm too young for this.

DEAR READER — Painful, tender muscles in a young person suggest the possibility of muscle inflammation (myalgia). Myalgia has been linked to many infectious diseases (such as influenza and polio); low blood sugar and excess release of hormones from the parathyroid gland; and connective tissue (autoimmune) diseases.

You need a thorough examination and blood tests by an internist, a physician trained in diagnosis. You are, indeed, too young for this. Get some help in discovering its cause.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report on ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE discusses symptoms, management and new studies of this tragic and irreversible disease. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

M&F Plastic Pipe has variety of sizes

M & F Plastic Pipe is your locally owned dealer for polyethelene pipe, sales and rental, with a wide range of sizes and pressure ratings.

Polyethelene pipe is now replacing steel pipe and PVC pipe in many areas. It is much more versatile than PVC and more economical than steel. It's flexibility makes it easier to handle, therefore saving you time and labor. The durability of this pipe has been proven under all kinds of weather conditions and it can be re-spooled and re-laid several times without damage to the pipe.

They have spooling trailers, reel trailers and a spooling truck to handle pipe up to three inches. Pipe that is four inches or larger comes in joints and must be laid by hand. It is "welded" together by using an electric iron that melts each end of the pipe and then it fuses when put together. This eliminates the worry about leaks from bad threads or not being tight enough such as in steel pipe or the hassle of cleaning and gluing as in PVC.

Poly pipe can be used for water lines in homes, stock tanks, water wells, water supply for drilling, transfer lines, gas lines or production flow lines.

They will lay new or used pipe, provide you with valves, fittings, ditching, etc. to suit your needs and will also repair your lines, relocate it or replace it if needed.

M & F Plastic Pipe is owned and operated by Ricky and Teresa Trammell. Please feel free to call them or Darby K. Scott, manager, for prices or information at 573-8612.

Pastor thought to be next president

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The Baptist General Convention of Texas is expected to elect a Fort Worth minister its president when it meets in Fort Worth on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Rev. Joel C. Gregory, pastor of Travis Avenue Baptist Church in Fort Worth, is expected to win the presidency without opposition. He is not regarded as aligned with either the fundamentalists or moderates vying for control of the Baptist denomination.

Some violent offenders get out through early releases

HOUSTON (AP) — Convicted killers are among those being freed under a prison early-release program that state administration officials said would be limited to non-violent offenders, the Houston Chronicle reported.

"To tell the public we are not letting out violent people is inaccurate," state parole board Vice Chairman Chris Mealy told the newspaper.

On Sept. 24, Gov. Bill Clements, State Board of Corrections Chairman Al Hughes and Paroles Chairman Henry Keene announced the early release program as a stopgap measure to release 150 inmates each day to make room for 150 more.

Only inmates serving time for such "non-assaultive" crimes as passing bad checks, theft, credit card abuse, drug possession and burglary would be eligible for the early release program, Keene said.

However, the Chronicle reported Sunday that an informal study of the plan shows that 15 percent to 20 percent of inmates being released under the program were serving time for aggravated assault, aggravated robbery and other violent crimes, including murder.

The Chronicle said 125 (17 percent) of the 730 inmates approved for parole in the program's first week (Sept. 28 - Oct. 2) had been convicted of violent crimes.

"The problem the (state) administration has is that it preaches law and order, of locking all the inmates up and throwing away the key," said John Byrd, executive director of the state parole board. "Then it turns around and announces 150 will be let out in a day. You can't have it both ways. It just doesn't work."

Last week, Texas voters approved a constitutional amendment that will provide an estimated $200 million in bond funds for new prison construction. Clements and others have endorsed the measure, which is intended to help the state build 19,000 new prison beds by 1991.

However, Clements and other officials have warned that the new construction will allow the state only to catch up with the current overflow, not anticipate future growth.

Extra risk, extra gain

By James Jacoby

The value of pre-emptive bidding was realized early in the history of contract bridge. One modern practice is the use of weak two-bids in third position on even five-card suits when the vulnerability is favorable. This pre-emptive bid created a major problem for South in today's deal. Because South had a hand that he felt called for strong bidding, he cue-bid three spades over East's weak two-bid and then jumped to five hearts. He was asking North to bid six with anything that seemed of value, and North hoped that the K-J of clubs would be enough.

There were reasonable chances after a spade lead. If hearts split 2-2, declarer could cash the A-K of diamonds and get to dummy with a club to run the jack of diamonds. Although West might win the queen, he would not have another spade to lead, so 12 tricks would be made. Unfortunately hearts were 3-1, so where did that leave declarer? Not completely in the soup, if he exercised a little derring-do at the risk of going set an extra trick. So South drew trumps, cashed the A-K of diamonds, and led a club toward dummy's K-J, finessing the jack. When it held, all that was needed was for West to indeed hold the diamond queen. So declarer played dummy's diamond jack and made the unusual play of discarding his ace of clubs. When West won the diamond queen, he had to give up the lead to dummy by playing a minor-suit card, and our enterprising declarer had made his slam.

Your Birthday

Nov. 10, 1987

In the year ahead, you will become involved with a partner in an ambitious undertaking. Its possibilities for success are excellent, provided both people continuously aim at the same target.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today, you may be tempted to use labor-saving techniques that could actually make more work for you in the long run. Stick to known methods that produce results, even if they're more tedious. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to restore the relationship. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you want to do something today where the outcome is chancy, do it alone without trying to involve others. Should it go awry, you'll have them on your neck.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be extremely selective as to whom you go to for advice today. If the person you choose is a poor counselor, greater complications are possible.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're an effective salesperson today, but don't sell anything that you haven't tried yourself — it may not work.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A lack of concern for your resources could lead you to spend extravagantly today. If you do, you'll end the day with a pain in your purse.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Occasionally you can pull a bluff and your bravado will get you by, but today you'd better be sure you have a handful of aces before you up the ante.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you are too laid-back and easygoing today, don't expect the world to beat a path to your door, even though you may think you have something great to offer.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Unless you stabilize and strengthen your position in a business arrangement today, there is a possibility you could lose that which you have already gained.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't be more optimistic than realistic about something you want to achieve today. If you fail to come down to earth, you might miss the brass ring.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Generosity is a virtue that you could overdo today by impulsively favoring the wrong people. Later, you'll realize your zeal was misguided.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your worst enemy today could be a well-intentioned friend who may try to involve you in something where the value is grossly inflated.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are endowed with splendid judgment, but today, you might make a hasty decision that doesn't serve your best interests. Think before acting.

Westerners top TSTI; play Ranger Tuesday

HOBBS, N.M. -- Coach Tony Mauldin and the Western Texas College Westerners chalked their first victory here Saturday, a 98-87 win over Texas State Technical Institute.

"It was nice to finally get a win," said the first-year Westerner coach. "We needed it for confidence. We know we're building for conference play, but we needed that win now."

The victory put WTC at 1-3 as they prepare for Tuesday's 7:30 p.m. game in Ranger.

"They'll be tough, especially in that small gym they play in," said Coach Mauldin, whose Westerners hope to regain their legs for the game.

"We pressed the whole game against TSTI but we were tired and we weren't as aggressive. It is early in the season and the third game of a tournament. We were tired," he said.

Nevertheless, Western built a 46-38 halftime advantage and held on to defeat TSTI, which made it to the final four in the Region V Tournament last year.

Richmond, Va., sophomore Darrell Nelson led the Westerners again offensively. He scored 38 points while Derrick Greene notched 17, Walter Martin put in 12, James Hill had 10 and Chris Jackson added 9.

Martin and Bobby Spear yanked down 12 rebounds each and James Hill had 8 assists. The Westerners turned the ball over 20 times, but caused 26 TSTI turnovers.

TSTI, from Waco, was led by the 21-point efforts of Reginald Degrate and Willie Chapman. Creig Charles pitched in 17.

The Westerners were still without sophomore forward-post Harvey Marshman, who is out with a knee injury. He is not expected to play Tuesday, or at the Howard College Hawks Tournament, which begins Thursday in Big Spring.

Arkansas eyes Cotton; needs help from TCU

by The Associated Press

The Arkansas Razorbacks haven't been to the Cotton Bowl since 1975, but they could make it on Saturday by defeating Texas A&M in College Station if Texas loses to Texas Christian in Austin.

The Hogs could have an extra big incentive if TCU upsets Texas in a noon (Raycom TV) game that begins two hours before A&M and Arkansas are scheduled to play in Kyle Field.

Arkansas is 5-1 with its only defeat coming 16-14 to the Longhorns on a touchdown pass with time running out.

If Arkansas and Texas finished with just one conference loss each, Texas would go to the Cotton Bowl because of the victory.

The Longhorns, who were shocked 60-40 by Houston on Saturday, have a Thanksgiving night date left on the schedule against Texas A&M, the defending SWC champion which has lost only to Texas Tech in league play.

Notre Dame is the odds-on favorite to be the guest team in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

Houston's amazing upset of the previously unblemished Longhorns (3-1 in SWC play) put preseason favorite Arkansas (5-1), and defending champion Texas A&M (3-1) right back into the thick of the race. It was new Coach Jack Pardee's first SWC victory.

Arkansas survived a defensive battle against Baylor (2-3) with a 10-7 victory while the Aggies were idle.

Texas Tech's wild 36-35 victory over Texas Christian (3-2) inflicted a second league loss on the Horned Frogs, who had won four games in a row.

Houston returned an NCAA record four passes for touchdowns, including three by cornerback Johnny Jackson.

The Cougars scored 31 points in the fourth quarter. It was the most points Texas had ever yielded in an SWC game.

Texas Coach David McWilliams was in shock.

"I thought we had the game under control. Then the hammer dropped on us," McWilliams said.

Texas played the second half without quarterback Bret Stafford, who injured both elbows.

Tech is now 6-4 for the season and 3-3 in league play and the Independence Bowl is interested after the victory over TCU.

"It was a must win for us," said Tech quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver, whose 11-yard scoring pass to Wayne Walker with 54 seconds left killed the Frogs. "Maybe this can get us a bowl invitation. We're off next week and if we can just beat Houston we could go somewhere."

"That last drive was the prettiest thing I've ever seen," said Tech Coach Spike Dykes. "We felt like we were doing a good job when all of a sudden, wham-bam, thank you, and TCU was ahead."

Dykes said, "We beat a class team. TCU just kept hanging in there and they were in it all the way to the end. Those last five minutes were the craziest of my life."

Arkansas took advantage of a fumble by Jackie Ball in the final three minutes to score with 47 seconds left to play.

In other games this weekend, Rice is at Baylor in a 2 p.m. game, and Houston is at Temple in an 11:30 a.m. game.

Northern latest victim of Lady Dusters, 84-69

LEVELLAND -- Northern Oklahoma, traditionally one of the top teams in the country, has become the latest victim of the Western Texas College Lady Dusters' full-court press.

The Dusters took a 10-point halftime lead, then whipped the Lady Mavericks into submission at the South Plains Lady Texan Classic here Saturday, 84-69.

The victory leaves Coach Kelly Chadwick's Dusters at 3-0 on the season as they prepare for the Odessa College Women's Hi-Noon Optimist Tournament, which begins Thursday in Odessa.

As usual, Chadwick was both pleased and critical of what he saw on the court Saturday.

"I know the press is very effective for us, but really, I don't know how good Northern is and I don't know how good we are. I know we're 3-0 and we're pleased about that," said the coach. "Sometimes early in the year though you can use the press and teams aren't ready for it. Time will tell us a lot."

The press is also a concern for Chadwick, because his Dusters are being called for a lot of fouls - 28 of them in Saturday's game. Nickey Allen, Jackie Reed and Lisa Houston all fouled out.

"We're committing way, way, way too many fouls," the coach mused. "If people hit 80 percent at the free throw line it might be the thing that beats us. We have to learn to play good, hard defense without reaching and slapping."

Northern hit only 21 of 37 free throws. Western hit 18 of 31.

"That's not very good, but we are showing improvement. We shot 42 percent the first game, 50 percent the next and 58 percent on Saturday," the coach said.

Western was led in scoring by Kayla Thompson and Staci Smith, who cranked out 15 points apiece. Carolyn Colbert scored 12 while Allen and Houston had 10 each and Nancy Bals put in 8.

Northern, 2-1, got 16 from Katie Blagg and 11 from Kristi Heglin.

"We're not shooting the ball real well right now but we are running the break and playing good defense. We're not having a whole lot of turnovers, and we're causing a lot," pointed out the coach. "We're very quick and that's what's helping us right now."

The upcoming Thursday game in Odessa will be against Trinity College - formerly Henderson County - at 6 p.m.

"They've always been good and this should be a real challenge for us," said Chadwick.

Lions overcome adversity to defeat emotionless Dallas Cowboys, 27-17

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - The Detroit Lions, shrugging off a myriad of off-field problems, responded Sunday with a 27-17 NFL victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

"We've had some adversity," Coach Darryl Rogers said. "It's good to have a victory. It's gratifying from a player's standpoint and from the coach's, too."

The victory snapped an eight-game losing streak for Detroit's regulars, who lost their final four games in 1986. The Lions' current 2-6 record includes one win by strike replacement players.

"This win takes care of everything," said quarterback Chuck Long, notching his first victory as a starter. "Everybody likes a winner. They don't seem to pick on you as much when you win. They don't look for those distractions. Hopefully, that's all behind us at this point."

The Cowboys, 4-4, appeared flat after their emotional Monday night victory over the New York Giants.

"Mentally, it was a big, emotional drain from the other night and we didn't get ourselves up to the level that we need to be to play the game," said Dallas running back Tony Dorsett. "You can't say that they were that much more talented than we were, man for man. It's just (that) we didn't play like we were capable of playing."

Long completed 15 of 28 passes for 217 yards and a touchdown with two interceptions. White hit 17 of 38 for 193 yards, but had four passes intercepted.

"We didn't have much going for us on either side of the ball," White said. "I wish I had the answer. I guess if I did, I'd make a great coach someday. I don't have an answer. You see it happen over and over."

But Dallas running back Herschel Walker, who gained 65 yards on 13 carries and caught five passes for another 55 yards, refused to hide behind the Monday night game.

"When you come to play football, you've got to be ready to play," Walker said. "I think that's a reason they call you a professional."

James Griffin had two of Detroit's four interceptions. His 29-yard return early in the fourth quarter gave the Lions the ball at the Dallas 9 yard line and set up a 4-yard run by Garry James with the go-ahead touchdown, snapping a 17-17 tie with 12:33 remaining.

James also had a 2-yard TD run, Long passed 20 yards to Rob Rubick for a score, Rubick's first since 1984, and Eddie Murray kicked field goals of 30 and 19 yards.

Pete Mandley caught eight of Long's passes for 97 yards and had a 61-yard punt return early in the third quarter to set up James' first TD.

Timmy Newsome, who carried the ball four times, scored on runs of 1 and 24 yards for the Cowboys, finishing with 29 yards. Roger Ruzek's 38-yard field goal with 52 seconds remaining in the second quarter sent the teams off tied 10-10 at the half.

But even at 17-17, heading into the final period, Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry had an uneasy feeling.

"We just weren't mentally alert, for whatever reason," Landry said. "It became very obvious during the beginning of the ballgame that we were going to struggle through the whole ballgame."

The Cowboys turned the ball over three times and failed to score in the final period.

Soccer crowns tourney champs

The Foxes, Rangers, Rowdies and Roby King Cobras celebrated championships this weekend as the Snyder Soccer Association completed its fall tournament Saturday.

The Foxes stopped the Cubs 7-1 to reach the finals, then defeated the Eagles 9-2 to win the Under-6 Division.

The Rangers were crowned champs of the Under-8 Division by blanking the Bullets 3-0 in the finals. They had reached the title match by stopping the Firebirds 5-1 earlier in the day.

Perhaps the closest match was in the Under-10 Division, where the Rowdies nipped the Titans 2-1. The Rowdies had defeated the Warriors 3-1 to get into the championship game.

In the Under-12 Division, Roby shut out the Pacesetters 10-0. Roby's Cobras had beaten the Pacesetters 5-1 earlier in the double-elimination tournament.

Chicago rallies past Packers on final play

by The Associated Press

The Chicago Bears, leaders of the "Black and Blue Division" for every week since the start of the 1984 season, are getting a little gray.

The Bears pulled out their third straight comeback win Sunday when Kevin Butler kicked a 52-yard field goal on the final play of Sunday's 26-24 victory over the Green Bay Packers.

"I don't know how long we can keep winning like this. I'm going to get gray hairs and I'm only 25," Butler said.

With Jim McMahon as their starting quarterback, the Bears have won 25 straight games. In the Bears' previous two contests, McMahon led Chicago to comeback victories of 27-26 over Tampa Bay in a reserve role and 31-28 over Kansas City as a starter.

Green Bay's Al Del Greco connected on a 47-yard field goal with a minute left to give the Packers a 24-23 lead.

But McMahon directed visiting Chicago to the Packers' 35 with passes of 21 yards to Ron Morris and 20 yards to Dennis McKinnon.

After three straight incomplete passes and a Packers' timeout, Butler connected and was mobbed by his teammates.

Elsewhere in the NFL it was San Diego 16, Indianapolis 13; Cleveland 38, Atlanta 3; Buffalo 21, Denver 14; Minnesota 31, Los Angeles Raiders 20; Pittsburgh 17, Kansas City 16; St. Louis 31, Tampa Bay 28; Philadelphia 31, Washington 27; New Orleans 31 Los Angeles Rams 14; Miami 20, Cincinnati 14; San Francisco 27, Houston 20; Detroit 27, Dallas 17; and the New York Giants 17, New England 10.

Green Bay, which led 21-13 at the half, fell to 3-4-1 in the Central Division. The Bears lead with a 7-1 record.

Chargers 16, Colts 13

Vince Abbott kicked a 39-yard field goal with 12 seconds remaining and San Diego improved to 7-1 with its victory in Indianapolis.

Eric Dickerson, making his first start for the Colts since his acquisition in a trade with the Rams, rushed 35 times for 138 yards, but his fumble into the Chargers' end zone with four minutes left led to the Chargers' winning drive.

Bills 21, Broncos 14

Buffalo had two safeties and held Denver to 76 yards rushing as the Bills beat Denver for their fourth victory of the season, equaling last year's total.

Vikings 31, Raiders 20

Wade Wilson replaced Tommy Kramer in the second half and passed for two touchdowns and ran for another, leading Minnesota past the Raiders at the Metrodome.

The Raiders, 3-5, who have lost five straight games for the first time since 1964, had four passes intercepted, three of which led to Minnesota touchdowns.

49ers 27, Oilers 20

Joe Montana's 32 completions included three touchdown passes against Houston, giving the NFL's hottest quarterback 13 TDs in the last four games. San Francisco has won seven straight.

The 49rs, NFC West Leaders, improved to 7-1.

Amount of idled farm land may hit record

WASHINGTON (AP) — If projections by the Agriculture Department are accurate, farmers next year may come close to the all-time record for the amount of land idled under government programs.

According to a report by Roger Hexem of the department's Economic Research Service, farmers idled about 68.5 million acres this year under various programs. That included 15.8 million acres in the Conservation Program, or CRP, which idles highly erodible land for a 10-year period.

An additional 7.1 million acres already is enrolled in CRP for 1988. Thus, depending on how farmers sign up in the annual commodity programs aimed at cutting production of major crops, including wheat, feed grains and cotton, even more land could be idled next year.

"While U.S. agricultural exports are expanding and market prices are increasing for most crops, program participation will remain high in 1988," Hexem said in the agency's Agricultural Outlook magazine. "Additional enrollment in the CRP could reduce acreage in production even more."

This year's idled land — 68.5 million acres — is the most taken from production except for the 78 million acres idled in 1983, an area nearly equal to the combined land area of North Dakota and Florida.

Set up as a one-shot attempt to cut rising surpluses, 1983 introduced on a massive scale the concept using surplus government-owned commodities as payment-in-kind to farmers who participated in idling cropland. The PIK principle is still used to pay part of the benefits due farmers.

Hexem said that counting all harvested, failed and summer fallowed acres, the amount of land used for crops in 1987 totaled about 330 million acres, a decline of 27 million acres or 8 percent from 1986. Acreage peaked at 387 million acres in 1981 following farmers' expansion to meet rising export markets in the 1970s.

The 68.5 million acres idled this year was a 24 percent increase from 45 million acres in 1985, Hexem's figures showed.

"The largest change from 1986 to 1987 in cropland used for crops was in the Corn Belt," he said. "In 1987, 7 million additional acres were cut from production. The preceding year, Corn Belt farmers idled about 6.6 million more acres in farm programs than in 1985."

U.S. agricultural exports, in a general slump since the early 1980s, are expected to rise 17 percent in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1 to around 129 million metric tons, according to the department's current forecast.

Translated into acres used for production, that means commodity exports in 1987-88 will require crop output from about 94 million acres, up nearly 20 percent from last year's 79 million acres, Hexem said.

"This expansion, however, is still substantially below the high of 137 million (acres) in 1980," he said. "Corn, wheat and soybeans dominate U.S. agricultural exports."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exports of U.S. forest products continue to improve but still trail the value of wood imports, according to Agriculture Department trade experts.

In the first eight months of this year, the value of shipments was estimated at $2.5 billion, a 29 percent increase from January-August 1986, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said in a recent trade report.

Japan, the leading foreign market for U.S. wood products, accounted for more than $1 billion of the eight-month total, a 34 percent increase from 1986.

Hardwood logs, lumber and flooring showed "impressive gains in export values, as did softwood plywood, logs and lumber," the report said.

Total imports of wood products in January-August were valued at $3.6 billion , up fractionally from a year earlier. Imports of softwood lumber from Canada were shown at $1.8 billion, down 6 percent.

Fund is sparking search for children

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Officials are looking for the beneficiaries of a savings account — long ago forgotten — that was set up in response to the death 18 years ago of a black woman who was hit by a stray bullet during a racially motivated incident.

Mary Montgomery, 22, died May 4, 1969, from a stray bullet fired from a car full of white men. The incident prompted vandalism and fire bombings by blacks angered by her death.

In response to the killing, residents of this southeast Texas city set up an interest-bearing savings account for the woman's children. The unclaimed account, which now totals $11,047.38, was recently discovered by the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce, sparking a search for the woman's children.

According to news reports, Ms. Montgomery's death was the result of a dispute that began when a car barely missed another carrying John Batiste — a black man — and his children. The car stopped in front of Batiste's car and two men in the other car got out. Armed with a hammer and jack, the two white men fought Batiste, who fended off the attackers with his belt.

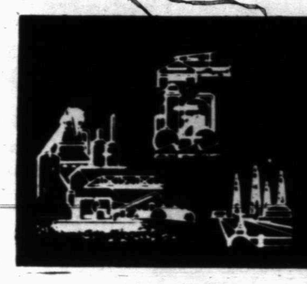

A crowd gathered, throwing bottles at the attackers and forcing them to flee. But minutes later, the car returned with the occupants firing 10 to 20 shots from handguns. Ricocheting bullets hit two men, causing minor injuries. One bullet hit Ms. Montgomery in the chest as she stood on the side of the street.

Two men were convicted in Ms. Montgomery's death.

The Montgomery Children's Fund at First City Bank was discovered in October while chamber officials were reviewing business records, but the whereabouts of the woman's children and husband are unknown.

Ms. Montgomery's obituary listed four children as survivors — Patricia Wilson, Kimberly Rubin, Dorothy Rubin and Joseph Rubin.

"First there's the possibility that somewhere out there, there's some young people — probably at best in their early 20s — who are entitled to a nice little sum of money," said Chamber President Jim Stokes. "That would be the happiest ending."

Kidnapped couple return to Denton

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Austin police say they have not been able to find a man who kidnapped a North Texas State University student and her boyfriend and forced them to drive him to Austin.

Austin Police spokesman Kellye Norris said Sunday that the man, armed with a small-caliber revolver, approached Leslie Harrison, 18, a NTSU freshman, and William Daddio, 18, her boyfriend, in a parking lot at the Denton school early Saturday.

"He took their money, but they weren't hurt at all," Norris said.

Daddio and Harrison were in the parking lot early Saturday when the man approached.

"We were very scared," Harrison said Sunday from her home in Stephenville.

The man told them to "shut up," got in the back seat of the car and instructed Daddio to drive south, without stopping, on Interstate 35 to Austin, Harrison said.

The student said the man instructed them to drop him off in a shopping center parking lot and took all their money, about $74.

Daddio and Harrison called police from a nearby gas station to report the kidnapping.

Norris said Austin police cordoned off the area, stopped cars and searched with police dogs for almost four hours, but no one matching the kidnapper's description was found.

NTSU Police Department officials were aware of the incident Saturday, but the official investigation will not begin until today, Officer David Krieghbaum said.

Austin police gave Harrison and Daddio some money to return home, and the two drove back to Denton Saturday morning, Norris said.

The gunman did not verbally threaten them, Harrison said, but, "when somebody's pointing a gun at you, that's pretty threatening."

"He seemed real nervous," she said. "I don't know if he was on drugs, it's likely."

Harrison said she was more frightened at how easily the man accosted them on campus.

"If they had any kind of security on campus, this wouldn't happen at all," Harrison said. "It's really ridiculous for a man to be walking around campus with a gun."

Officials brace for applicants

DALLAS (AP) — As new federal guidelines expand the pool of those eligible for one-day food stamp service next month, state officials say they are bracing for a flood of applicants.

"We don't know exactly what the impact will be ... except staff are planning right now how to handle the problem," said Gary Garner, a Department of Human Services income-assistance administrator in Austin.

The state administers the federally funded food-stamp program that provides grocery script to qualified low-income families.

About 47 percent of the qualified food-stamp applicants statewide now are eligible for emergency assistance because they earn no more than $150 a month and have no more than $100 in resources, Garner said.

Under new rules effective Dec. 1 — which expand the service to the homeless and low-income families whose resources and monthly income will not cover rent or mortgage and utility expenses — about 65 percent of the qualified applicants will be eligible, he said.

In some parts of the 19-county region surrounding Dallas and Fort Worth, as many as 90 percent of qualified applicants may be eligible for emergency assistance, said Martha Carroll, assistant to the DHS regional director for income assistance.

"Most of these people are going to get immediate attention, but that means many of the regular applicants may have to wait longer," Ms. Carroll said.

Processing paperwork for food-stamp recipients requiring recertification or changes in benefits also could be delayed, she said.

U.S. Department of Agriculture guidelines require that the state either provide or deny food stamps within 30 days of application, except in the case of families that qualify for emergency relief.

Arab summit opens with call for unity

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan gathered his 20 Arab guests in an unscheduled plenary summit session today after reports of a meeting between the Arab world's most bitter rivals, Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and President Hafez Assad of Syria.

The Arab League summit, the first in five years, has been marked by calls to pressure Iran into a cease-fire with Iraq and to allow Egypt back into the league.

Jordanian officials said the 21 leaders went into a closed session at midmorning at a conference hall sealed off by Jordanian troops.

After the summit opened Sunday, Iraq said an Iranian missile plunged into a densely populated quarter of Baghdad, its capital. It said today the missile killed 11 civilians and wounded 105, many of them women and children.

Iran said it fired two missiles at Baghdad to counter Iraqi attacks it said were aimed at impressing the Arab summit. Iran also said it will not be pressured by anyone into agreeing to end the 7-year-old Persian Gulf war.

A ranking Arab League source said he could not confirm a report in Amman's leading newspaper, the English-language Jordan Times, that Assad and Saddam met for three hours in the presence of the Jordanian monarch during the night.

"I know the king met with President Assad," the source said on condition of anonymity. "But that they were joined by President Saddam Hussein, I'm not sure."

Hussein arranged a secret meeting between the two leaders in April, but both presidents later said those talks did not achieve anything.

During the opening session Sunday, Arab League Secretary-General Chedli Klibi of Tunisia urged the heads of state to press for implementation of a United Nations Security Council cease-fire resolution for the Iran-Iraq war.

On Sunday, Arab League Secretary-General Chedli Klibi of Tunisia urged the heads of state to press for implementation of a United Nations Security Council cease-fire resolution for the Iran-Iraq war.

He also called for Iran's expulsion from the world body if it rejects the resolution.

Jordan's King Hussein dubbed the meeting "the reconciliation and consensus" summit.

After the first closed-door session Sunday, Jordanian Foreign Minister Taher Masri said Hussein told the Arab leaders "the fact that the big sister state of Egypt continues to remain outside the league further contributes to weakening the underpinnings of the Arab order."

But Syria and Libya, the Arab world's main hardliners, oppose any attempt to reinstate Egypt as an Arab League member until it tears up the 1979 peace treaty with Israel.

Masri, briefing reporters, said Hussein was the only speaker at the closed session at the conference hall of the Royal Cultural Center. The hall was sealed off and its surrounding area patrolled by soldiers.

Masri said Hussein also told fellow leaders that Arab disunity meant "Iran has come to be regarded in international circles as having greater strategic importance than the entire Arab world."

That was an apparent reference to U.S. and Soviet rivalry for influence in Iran.

Iran and Iraq both are Moslem countries, but Iran is Persian while Iraq is Arab.

In his inaugural statement, broadcast live by Jordan's state radio and television, the king said: "Threats facing us are numerous, but the most serious is our fragmentation and internal bickering."

The Arab League's active members have not met in a full-scale summit for five years because of inter-Arab feuds. Diplomats said divisions over the gulf war are likely to prevent strong action against Iran.

Nominee search underway again

nedy of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, who had been considered the favorite of White House chief of staff Howard H. Baker Jr. Kennedy arrived in the Washington area by Air Force jet late Saturday.

The White House hopes to announce a new candidate early this week in order to achieve Senate confirmation by the end of the year, a senior White House official said. Robert H. Bork, Reagan's first nominee to replace retired Lewis F. Powell Jr. on the court, was rejected by the Senate on Oct. 23.

Another official said two finalists who lost out when Ginsburg was nominated will be given strong consideration again. They are Kennedy and William W. Wilkins Jr. of Greenville, S.C., a judge on the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, but others will be examined also, said the official, who, like the other official, spoke only on condition of anonymity.

Terry Eastland, chief spokesman for Attorney General Edwin Meese III, said Sunday, "We will just simply use the people on that list (the names of candidates under consideration at the time Ginsburg was chosen) and go back to it, and review it, and consider the relative merits of each of them."

But Kennedy faces opposition from some conservative senators, who, according to published reports, called Meese before Ginsburg's nomination was announced Oct. 29 and threatened to filibuster a Kennedy nomination.

Nevertheless, a key Republican on the Senate Judiciary Committee warned Sunday that a delay in the selection of a new nominee might prevent Reagan from placing a conservative on the high court.

"I think March or April may well be too late," Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., said on ABC-TV's "This Week With David Brinkley." "I believe you're going to see a very different political tone on this issue if we go until March or April. ... If President Reagan is going to make this nomination, it had better come to fruition before April."

Specter said he would like to see the committee adhere to the same hearing schedule on a new nomineee as the one planned for Ginsburg. The chairman of the Senate panel, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., had decided to begin hearings on the Ginsburg nomination the week of Dec. 7.

Prison decision awaited in Austin port" for the project locally.

He underscored this with charts which indicated Scurry County, of all the finalist counties, had the greatest percentage of approving votes for Proposition 8 in last Tuesday's constitutional amendment ballot.

Proposition 8 approved some $500 million in state bonds to finance prision construction projects.

In her comments against the prison, Mrs. Bullard commented "There is opposition."

Describing herself as a lifelong county resident, she said she felt the campaign conducted locally in support of the prison "left no room for opposing views."

She said a group of "concerned citizens" here had managed to secure "400 signatures in one week" against the project. She offered a petition to the board during her remarks.

No questions were asked by TDC board members following both side's presentation. In addition to Terrell's comments, Al Hughes, chairman of the TDC board, said his office had received 116 ads against the prison from the local group of concerned citizens headed by Mrs. Bullard.

He noted he had received 955 ads "for" the prison.

The final decision regarding the prison sites is the second scheduled agenda item before the TDC board. The group is expected to start on this agenda around 1:30 p.m. Monday.

At stake is the selection for possibly two 2,250-man TDC units and four 1,000-man facilities.

The finalist list of 10 sites, two involving state-owned land in the Dallas and Houston areas, was announced Oct. 21. Since possible projects in Dallas and Houston did not involve donated land, no public hearings were scheduled for these two.

The 2,250-man unit is a project expected to generate 766 jobs and an annual payroll of $15.6 million.

Construction of such a facility is estimated to cost some $68 million.

Each of the 1,000-man units involve an estimated 300 jobs with an annual payroll of $6 million. The construction cost for these units is set at $30 million.

Scurry County's bid has been bolstered by support resolutions from 11 other West Texas cities ranging in size from El Paso to Rotan.

Resolutions of support have been received also from Region 3 of the Texas Municipal League, which includes 21 West Texas counties; and the West Central Texas Council of Governments, which entails 19 counties.

The resolutions have been passed, with others still pending, by the city councils representing El Paso, Abilene, Midland, San Angelo, Plainview, Big Spring, Sweetwater, Levelland, Brownfield, Colorado City and Rotan.

Committee members estimate the list of endorsements represent an area involving 1.4 million West Texans.

Lift helps farmer return to fields

WACO, Texas (AP) — A year after being paralyzed from the waist down in a highway accident, a North Texas farmer is tending his fields thanks to a special lift that put him back in the tractor seat.

Reginald Van Zandt, 28, spent nearly two weeks in intensive care after his car flipped in the accident Nov. 22, 1986.

Under heavy medication, the 28-year-old farmer repeatedly told his grandmother and the nurses, "I need to get back to work, get out in the fields. I'll be late."

While undergoing therapy, Van Zandt learned about a Purdue University program that helped disabled farmers adapt to their equipment. Purdue officials referred him to a disabled farmer in Indiana, Hubert Von Holten, who had redesigned a specialized lift that transfers people from wheelchairs to tractor seats.

In early October, Von Holten, who uses crutches because he also is paralyzed from the waist down, brought his equipment to the small town of Downsville, about 100 miles south of Dallas, and spent a 13-hour day installing the lift on Van Zandt's tractor.

When the lift was installed, Von Holten said he watched Van Zandt transfer himself for the first time from his wheelchair to the lift and then rotate the lift up to the tractor seat with a hand-held electronic device.

"When he slipped into the tractor seat, he had the biggest smile on his face," Von Holten said. "He said, 'I haven't been in my tractor for over a year. This is where I belong.'"

Getting back on his tractor felt "just like having a birthday," Van Zandt said.

"At first it was kind of scary going up in the lift and having no sensation in my legs," he said. It "felt like going up in a roller coaster, which I don't usually ride."

Van Zandt already was in the fields by 7 a.m. the next day. He planted 35 acres of wheat that first day.

After his wheelchair confinement, Van Zandt's friends suggested he go to school. But Van Zandt refused.

"School is fine, but it cost me an arm and a leg to start buying that (farming) equipment," Van Zandt said. "I had to go through too much to get it to just turn around and give up on it."

Now that he has his lift, Van Zandt plans to keep busy by planting 35 more acres of maize and 20 acres of hay on his 100-acre farm.

And Van Zandt is thinking about walking again.

"The doctors never said I would walk, never said I wouldn't," he said. "I guess in time, by God, I'll see how things go. If He decides for me to walk again, I will. I'll never give up on walking — never quit anyway."
