Fund drive successful

Some great news to report today, folks:

Our little drive to raise funds for Parmer County Crimestoppers is already a huge success.

As of Tuesday, more than $1,000 has been turned in by concerned folks who wish to help this vital anti-crime group.

The donors have been: Border Games (Darrell Cook), Tedson Trailers (Ted and Teddy Lopez), Rose and Ed Longley, Texico-Farwell Rotary Club, Suzy and Leon Langford, Jack and Becky Landrum, Beta Sigma Phi, State Line Tribune and "anonymous."

When Daren Sudderth suggested this project, I had no idea how much we could raise. All I knew is that every dollar would help.

Crime Stoppers is an effective anti-crime tool. It works -- which is more than I can say about some other agencies I could name.

So when Daren asked me to help, I said "absolutely." I knew Crime Stoppers was short on money, having dished out some big rewards to tipsters recently.

Crime Stoppers is making a dent in the drug trade. A big dent. And I want it to continue.

Funds turned in so far have been put into the bank. We plan to give one big check to Crime Stoppers at Border Town Days.

Let's make that check as big as possible.

You can help in the fight to get the druggies, and other criminals, out of our area. Every dollar will help.

Please send any contribution, made out to Parmer County Crime Stoppers, to me at: State Line Tribune, PO Box 255, Farwell TX 79325.

If you want to get the druggies out of this area, this is the way you can participate.

Yes, I know that Bordertown Days is still several weeks away (July 31). But now is the time we need to plan for it so it becomes the super day we are accustomed to.

What we are asking is simple - your participation! Check out the round-up of BTD activities in the story elsewhere in today's Tribune. It lists the folks in charge of the various committees and the phone numbers to call.

Are you an artisan who would like to be in the arts & crafts show?

How about a float in the parade (hey, we need to hear from you reunion groups!)

Would you like to sing a few songs or play an instrument during the Day in the Park activities?

The decorated bicycle contest is fun for kids. All the kids win something and they get to be in the parade, too!

The Twin Cities is awfully lucky to have an event like BTD. It's just a fun, family

Texico hires band director

Texico School Supt. R.L. Richards said Wednesday that Ellen Reighley will be the new school band director.

She replaces Verne Jacoby, who had resigned.

Ms. Reighley, of Carlsbad, has 15 years experience. Originally from Clovis, she taught for five years in the Clovis school system.

In other personnel matters:

-- Jan Riley will replace Lawana Stone as Title 1 instructional assistant. This is a fulltime position.

Ms. Riley had resigned earlier this year as a computer aide in the Texico schools.

-- Teresa Marshall will be the new fulltime library assistant. This is part of the school's goal to upgrade the library program.

Ms. Marshall had been part-time library assistant and part-time guidance secretary.

Thus, a part-time guidance secretary's position is now open.

Golf shootout scheduled

The Texico Chamber of Commerce Million Dollar Hole-In-One Shoot out is set for June 26 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Farwell Country Club.

The entry fee is $10 per each 3 chances or 10 chances for $25. A person may enter as many times as he or she desires. The top 10 qualifiers will win prizes and compete for the $1 million.

The hole distances are 130 yards to the qualifying hole and 150 yards for the $1 million hole. Participants must be at least 18 years old to enter. Only amateurs are allowed.

Morrison honored

Bill Morrison, agriculture teacher at Texico High School, has been named New Mexico's Agricultural Teacher of the Year by the state vocational agricultural teachers association.

Texico may re-set its stop signs

The Texico City Council, at the request of Marshal Kelley Brophy, will look at re-setting stop signs throughout the community.

At Tuesday's meeting, Brophy said he wants to change the signs to slow down traffic.

Currently, he said, about 93 to 95 percent of the east-west streets have stop signs.

Thus, the north-south streets see faster moving vehicles. He gave Griffin Street as an example, noting it is in the school area. Also, through streets by the park are a problem.

"We need to re-arrange the signs so they slow down traffic," he explained.

Brophy and street Supt. Matt Meeks will study the signs on a block by block basis and report back with recommendations at the next council meeting.

"We may need to go (with stop signs) every other block," said Brophy.

In other business, the council:

-- Heard that the state building inspector has looked at two Texico properties and will send the city a report. As for a third site the council is unhappy about, the state building inspector said a fire inspector needs to check.

Texico may ask a Clovis fire inspector to do this.

-- Discussed a problem with old tires on property owned by Jean Skaggs and leased by Ralph Autrey.

-- Heard that improvements to Avenue F are expected to begin this week.

-- Will ask Clovis to spray Texico for mosquitoes like it did last year.

-- Okayed a permit for for a 6-ft. fence for Darrell Hampton at Eulie and Hereford streets. Hampton keeps vehicles there.

-- Bought a trimmer/mower.

-- Heard that the Texico junior class will have a street dance after the 4th of July

This photo of the new turbine generator installed south of Texico was taken on Monday against a backdrop of heavy rain clouds. The picture was the first published in the newspaper with the Tribune's new digital camera. How big is the new "windmill?" time for folks here. And the fact that several reunions are held at the same time adds to the enjoyment as folks run into old friends they haven't seen in years.

But an event like ours can only remain strong if folks participate. So if you (or your group) can get involved in some fashion, it helps our community.

And at the same time you will have a ball!

Well, folks, modern technology has attacked the State Line Tribune again.

We now are using a "digital camera."

It was scary just to learn how to use it. I'm getting old, and you know what that means.

Anyway, I attacked it diligently. When I hooked it up to the computer to use, it didn't work. So I called my computer expert and explained the problem.

The only four words out of his mouth were, "Turn ... the ... camera .... on."

I laughed hysterically. Anyway, once that feat was achieved, it worked great.

I'm writing this article before this week's paper is put together so I don't know yet if we will have any photos from our new camera in today's issue. But if we do, we will point it out.

Hopefully, the new camera will give present clearer photos in our paper.

I didn't know anything about these newfangled cameras until Doug Scoli showed up at the Tribune last fall with photos of a Wolverine football game. The pictures were outstanding, and I said to myself that we needed to go that route, too. So we did.

From Greg Qualls: Over the years, I have learned one thing about high school that is a recurring fact: you will have substitutes.

A subalways means one thing, "busy work." This is the work that teachers tell the subs to give you in order to keep you and the sub out of trouble while they are gone.

There is only one way to prepare yourself for this event before it happens. You must know your enemy and their weaknesses and then use them to your advantage. That is the only way you can get out of "busy work."

-- Heard Karen Wible say another dumpster was needed in her alley. Duncan Disposal will be contacted.

The sub usually falls into one of three categories: the Terminator, the Wanna Be, and the Pay Collector.

The Terminator can easily be noticed by his or her gray hair and aging complexion. Not all who are elderly are Terminators, but all Terminators are elderly.

A Terminator is also noticeable by the tone of voice towards the student. The class roll is usually taken at a fast rate, with little effort to pronounce the names right, and at a level just below yelling.

If you try to correct the pronunciation of your name, you will quickly be ignored. Also, the Terminator believes in the age-old rule, "Do not speak unless spoken to" and strictly enforces it.

The Terminator is also known to send students to the office for trifling errors like talking of passing notes. This is also done with much embarrassment to the student.

There is little that can be done when the Terminator is your sub. The Terminator doesn't listen to students' advice, so you can't change his or her mind on the lesson plan.

Then, there's the "Wanna Be." The Wanna Be normally has just finished getting his or her teaching certificate and has decided to subuntil finding a job.

Wanna Be's can easily be noticed when you first walk in the door. They stand behind the teacher's desk or podium studying the real teacher's notes on what to do for that day. When they take roll, they are careful to take their time pronouncing every name.

Some even go to the extreme of trying to learn everyone's name that day. Best of all, the Wanna Be asks the students what the real teacher would normally do in their situation. This is the greatest advantage to the student.

Since the Wanna Be doesn't know the truth, you can easily mold them into your idea of how the teacher should run the class. But you must be careful when doing this, because if you move too fast or take big steps, they will catch on. Remember, it wasn't long ago that they

Boll weevils trapped here

Parmer County is part of the Northwest Plains Boll Weevil Eradication Zone.

The report from the Agri-Partners/Plains Cotton Growers Inc. boll weevil grid trapping for the week of June 14-18 shows:

Total number of weevils caught in the zone, 199; average number of weevils per trap catching, 3,685; and percentage of active traps catching, 31.03 percent.

The Pay Collector is the easiest sub to notice; their age ranges greatly, but they are normally in their 30's. Some take roll and some don't.

The majority will tell you what the teacher told you to do. This is so you can do it for homework. Then, the Pay Collector will let you do what you want. All that is necessary is to ask (sometimes you don't even have to do that). Some have been known to allow students to go to the local fast-food place during the period, although, a normal class with a Pay Collector is spent catching up on the latest gossip or trading the latest jokes.

The Pay Collector's favorite line is, "I don't care what you do, just don't get me in trouble." Also, most Pay Collectors are called by their first names. Calling them Mr. or Miss gives them responsibility, and they don't want that.

I should point out that not all subs are clear-cut Terminators, Wanna Be's, or Pay Collectors. The majority are a mixture of the three. In some cases that is good; in some, bad. For example, a Wanna-Be Terminator is the worst. They ask you for advice then yell at you for talking. But in any situation there is always a way out of that dreaded "busy work." You just have to use the right tactics.

They are sold for $2 apiece and will be placed in several local businesses in early July. Each button will be numbered. A number will be picked at BTD and if the person is present, he or she will win $50 cash.

In the good, ol' summertime...

by Greg Qualls

It's summer again and you know what that means -- there are a lot of students at home bored out of their minds. So I decided to call some students and see what they're doing this summer.

I asked them two main questions:

#1) What is your main goal for the summer?

#2) What are you going to do when you get bored?

I also decided to call them during the prime of their day, 8 in the morning (ha!). Needless to say, many of them were not fully awake.

One of the few who was bright eyed and bushy tailed when I called was Katie Peterson. Katie was happy to answer my questions.

She said that her main goal for the summer was to stay in shape. She doesn't want to get out of shape for any of her sports. And she said if she starts getting bored she's going to ride her bike.

Now on the other hand, Coy Martin wasn't completely with the program when I called him. I felt like I was interviewing someone with his eyes still closed.

I could really tell where his mind was at (in the new "Austin Powers:" flick) when he told me that his main goal for the summer was to make an 1/8th clone of himself.

Finally, he gave real answers. He said his main goal for the summer was to take his hobby and turn it into a real business.

Coy collects "Hot Wheels" and many other types of collectibles. So, if you're into "Hot Wheels" and want to trade or buy some, give Coy a call at 482-3858.

Coy said that he is going to play a little basketball any time he gets bored.

P.J. Noblett said that a friend is down here from Maine so he wants this to be the best summer ever. So he "is going to have as much fun as possible without getting into trouble."

He said that if he gets bored he is going to play guitar with his friends and have little jam sessions. Other than that he always has skateboarding.

Keegan Chandler-Autrey is going to play in his band. He is trying to do as many shows as possible this summer before he has to go back to school.

Keegan's band is basically a heavy metal band, but they aren't one of those bands that scream into the microphone. They just like to play fast and loud.

If you would like to book Keegan's band, "Chlorine Rush," you can call him at 763-6182.

Other than playing in his band, Keegan said he doesn't have time to get bored. He works at Tarpley's Music Store in Clovis.

To conclude, there is me. My main goal this summer is to have fun. This is my last summer before I have to get ready for college. I don't want to grow up until I have to.

I'm going to do this by going with my youth group on all our trips this summer and I even plan on taking a trip to San Angelo, Texas to visit a girl who I met at camp last year.

Since I have two summer jobs -- at the Tribune and PT's Diner, there isn't a lot of room for boredom for me.

Darn.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Mike,

In past few issues of the Tribune there have been several articles on the Texico and Farwell bands. I can't speak for the Farwell band, but being a Texico High School student and a band member I have some ideas that might improve the band.

First, we must recognize that a big band is not necessarily a good band. Look into Texico's past. We had a considerable large band (for a small school), but we sounded terrible. Now you could make it mandatory for students to take band at a high school level and this would give you the large band most people are looking for. But you would have several students there that would only tear the band down and not build it up. I have seen this happen in the past when we had band members that didn't want to be in the class but it was too late in the semester to get out.

So, I don't think it would be a good idea to make band mandatory at the high school level. I do think it is a good idea at the elementary level though. This would give the student a taste of band and allow them to see if they want to pursue it anymore.

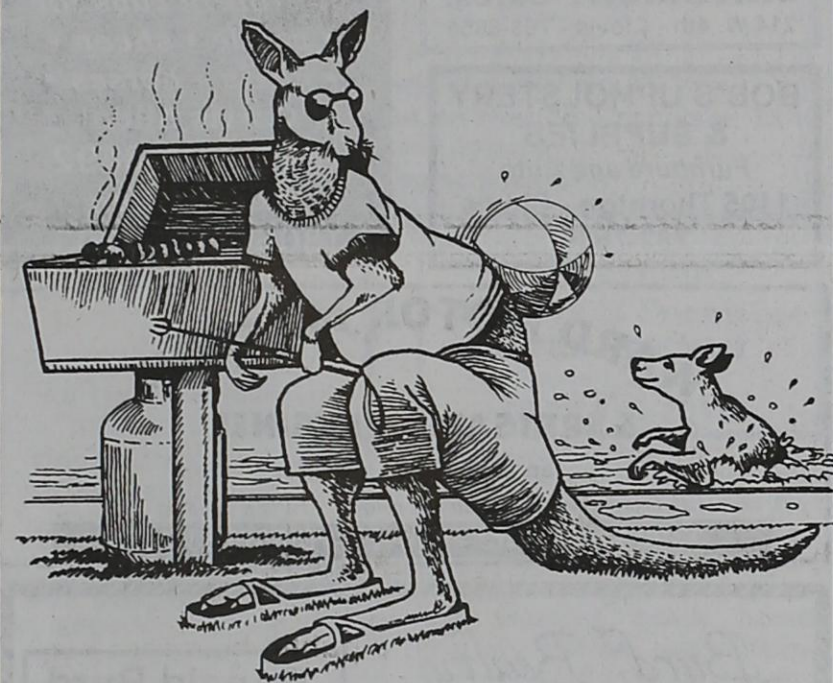

Secondly, band does not have the same amount of support as athletics does. For example, where would football be without the support of the Booster club. Probably in the same situation as our band is now. The band has many problems with broken equipment, jimmy rigged equipment, and no equipment period. Your band is presented as only as good as its equipment. And the school does not have enough funding to take care of all the problems.

This year we did have a Band Boosters, but they disbanded at the end of the year. Plus, during the year, attendance to the Band Booster meetings and fund raiser was minimal, making it hard for them to be effective. What needs to happen, in my opinion, is that there needs to be a club formed with the sole purpose of helping the band improve itself. This can be done by raising money to help pay for the band's outdated equipment or by moral and educational support.

Thirdly, Texico's scheduling makes it hard for students to take band. There are mandatory classes scheduled during the same period as band. For instance, I had to take physical science instead of band my sophomore year because of scheduling. Even the elective classes make it hard to take band. In fact, this coming school year I'm not going to be able to take yearbook. I would hope the schedule can be redone so it accommodates band and other classes more fully.

Back To The Outback

Time to head for the outback. Yes, it's back to the back yard. Outback season is open season for propane gas grilling. Always free of the mess and harmful emissions associated with charcoal grilling. While you're enjoying the back yard, consider the distinctive flair and added security of a propane gas light, either wall-mounted or free-standing. Enjoy the back yard even more with a propane gas heated pool or spa. Since it's heated with economical propane, you could stay out back even longer this year. And you could be back out sooner next year.

In conclusion, the band will never be successful without the support of the school and mainly the community. Without people cheering us on to do better, there is no purpose behind what we are doing. What would a football or basketball game be without a crowd?

Sure you can still play the game, and for that first year with no crowd you might be able to play for the love of the game. But after several years of no fans, there will be no love for the game. Personally, I can say that I feel that there is no support for band like there is for athletics. If there was the same amount of support, then our band would equal or possibly exceed our sports programs.

Greg Qualls

Dear Mr. Pomper,

A few weeks ago, the State Line Tribune published a list of scholarships awarded to Texico graduating seniors. I was among those students. Many of the scholarships came directly from our bordertown communities. A big "thank you" goes to the individuals and businesses that worked hard and gave freely to make opportunities available to students seeking higher education.

Personally, I would like to thank the Bordertown Days Queen's committee, the Texico Chamber of Commerce, the Bill Christian Band Award committee, Farwell First Baptist Church, and Walter and Gladys Kaltwasser.

Our communities continually express support not only with scholarship money, but with words of prayer, encouragement and congratulations.

The State Line Tribune plays a great part in this community support. Activities and accomplishments are reported weekly. But more than informing the community takes place. Memory books are filled and family records are kept with these little articles and photos. Literally, the older generation is able to watch the younger generation grow up. The smalltown newspaper chronicles the heartbeat of the community.

Olivia Noblett

Dear Editor,

I read in your paper that the trucks parking on Farwell streets were discussed again last week by the City Council. I find it more pleasant to drive on Third Street and not have the big trucks parked by the city park. If you meet a car at this spot, you have to slow down and there could be a child or two crossing the street in front or back of trucks and get hit by a car.

The city streets should be a no-no to truck parking or finding a short cut from First Street to the loop. We need to keep our streets as safe as possible.

Financial Focus

by Glen O'Rear

Congress recently gave investors an attractive gift by simplifying the capital gains provisions passed in 1997. In a nutshell, Congress replaced the former maximum capital gains rate of 28% with a maximum rate of 20% and made the lower rate retroactive to Jan. 1, 1998.

That means nearly all gains earned on investments held more than one year will now be taxed at a maximum rate of 20%. (For investors in the 15% tax bracket, long-term capital gains will be taxed at a rate of 10%.) Better yet, in a year-and-a-half, the long-term capital gains rate will drop further. Beginning in 2001, investments purchased and held more than five years will be taxed at a maximum rate of 18%.

Gains on investments held less than a year, on the other hand, will continue to be taxed as ordinary income, which means tax rates up to 39.6%. That makes a powerful case for investing for the long term.

Although stocks should never be sold simply because of changes in tax laws, lower capital gains tax rates provide an excellent opportunity to diversify your portfolio. If your portfolio has become overweighed in a single stock, or if the outlook of a stock you own has deteriorated, you may want to take advantage of the lower capital gains tax.

It's easy to control how long you hold individual stocks, but how do you control buying and selling within your mutual funds? Unfortunately, you can't. However, you can choose mutual funds that practice buy-and-hold investing. To determine how often your mutual fund buys and sells stock, check its turnover rate, which indicates how much trading occurs within the fund. The lower the turnover rate, which indicates how much trading occurs within the fund. The lower the turnover rate, the better. For example, a fund with a 100% turnover rate holds its positions an average of one year before selling. A fund with a 50% turnover rate holds its positions an average of two years before selling. Your mutual fund's turnover rate can be found in its prospectus or its annual or semiannual report. Your investment professional also can provide this information.

If your mutual fund has a high turnover rate, consider moving your money into a high-quality fund that subscribes to a long-term, buy-and-hold strategy. After all, you're the one paying the price for the fund manager's short-term decisions to buy and sell. And, you may be paying as much as 39.6% in taxes, depending on which tax bracket you're in!

It's been said that the best gifts are those that keep giving. Congress has given investors a gift that will allow them to keep more of what they earn and pay less in taxes. Make the most of this gift, and hold your investments for the long term whenever possible.

Judge enjoys new job

by Greg Qualls

If you've ever received a ticket, then you may have had to go before the Justice of the Peace.

While you were there, did you ever wonder what it would be like to be the judge? Well, neither have I.

Nevertheless, I interviewed Pam Haseloff about her job as the Farwell area Justice of the Peace.

Judge Haseloff took office in January, replacing the retiring Louise Hancock. She says she has really enjoyed the job. Before becoming JP (or "Judge Pam," as her friends call her), Judge Haseloff worked at the Parmer County Extension Office for six years.

Since starting the new job, Judge Haseloff has done everything from inquests to marriages. Her favorite is to wed couples. She has done about seven marriages since January.

Judge Haseloff said that another favorite part of the job is getting to meet people. After winning the election for JP, she had to go through a 40-hour training. Each year that she continues to be the Justice of the Peace she will have to take another 20-hour block of training.

She says she does get the "hard heads" every now and then, but what they need to believe is that she just enforces the laws -- she doesn't make them.
