Joy Reigns As Pampanos Mark Christmas Season

By TEX DE WEESE and WID GILBERT

It's the day before Christmas and all through the town the spirit of joy and festivity is stirring as the time for celebration approaches. In Pampa and the Top O' Texas, as in the rest of the nation, the whirlwind of pre-Christmas preparations is at an end. The last gifts have been bought and wrapped. The final decorations are hung on the tree and last-minute plans have been made for tomorrow's Christmas feasts, parties, and family reunions.

Because Christmas is first of all a day of worship — the day celebrated as Christ's birthday — it will be observed with reverence and thanksgiving.

In Pampa's churches this morning, tonight and tomorrow, special Christmas services will tell in song and story, of the Babe who was born in Bethlehem. Young carolers have been practicing the beloved Christmas songs they'll sing in the streets tonight. In churches and in homes throughout the city, manger scenes, large and small, depict the inspiring sight of the Babe with Mary and Joseph, with the Shepherds and Wise Men.

Care has been taken that the needy of Pampa will be remembered by the various agencies which make it a point to bring gladness into homes that might otherwise have none of the Christmas spirit.

Office parties, with their exchange of gifts around the Christmas tree, have been held in many Pampa businesses houses, homes parties have been many, along with festive Country Club social events.

Downtown stores closed at 8 o'clock last night to mark the end of the Christmas shopping season. Practically all stores and service places will be closed Monday. The Post Office windows will be closed. Only mail service will be special delivery packages. City Hall and County Courthouse offices will not be open Christmas Day.

And because Christmas is a day of rejoicing, it will be celebrated with happiness and warmth. The hearts of children and their elders, too, will be gladdened as gifts and greetings are exchanged.

Surprises are waiting under the tree, and tomorrow morning, after Santa's visit, there will be still more, along with many little gifts tucked into stockings, and gaily wrapped packages waiting to be delivered to relatives and friends. Christmas is a day to share, because Christmas means kindness and generosity. The opportunity it brings to make the lives of less fortunate neighbors happier is a gift in itself. For the ill, the lonely, the aged and the needy, tomorrow will bring a merrier Christmas because the people of Pampa have sought to share with them the good things of the holiday.

In the hearts of those who helped, there is a special peace and joy. Christmas is a day to treasure many intangible gifts, to rejoice in the smiling faces and wondering eyes of little children to cherish and strengthen friendships and family ties, to count the blessings of health, happiness and love, to renew faith and hope.

Christmas is a time to remember. For the youngest children, it is a time to store up memories for the future, of Santa and gifts, feasting and fun, caroling and viewing the manger scene.

For those who have left childhood behind, it is a time to recall the memories of Christmas past, and a time to see the wonders of the day with the fresh joy of a child.

Christmas is a time to give and receive good wishes. "Merry Christmas" and "Happy Holiday" will be said in many ways — as they are said in today's edition of the Pampa News by businessmen of the community who observe the season of friendliness and good will with special greetings and words of appreciation to their customers and friends. In homes, the greeting cards are opened, often to become part of the decorations and always to be read with pleasure for the messages they bring from near and far. Whether the mail has brought cards from the neighbors next door or a card and a Christmas note from a distant friend, greetings warm the heart.

Christmas is a time to be merry. It's a day for laughter and singing, a day when even strangers are friends, and passersby on the street smile at one another. It's a day when the stresses of life are forgotten, when joy replaces care, and personal worries disappear in thoughtfulness for others.

Christmas is a time to observe old customs. All the lore of the day as it is celebrated in many lands, as it has been celebrated throughout the centuries, comes to make this Christmas richer in happiness and contentment.

Christmas is a time for traditions. Every family in Pampa has its own, and the special rituals of gift-giving, feasting, parties, stories, meetings with friends and relatives, grow in meaning and grow dearer each year they are observed.

Christmas is a time to say, as did Dickens' Tiny Tim, "God bless us every one."

Goa Issue May Cause Portugal To Abandon UN

LISBON (UPI) — Portugal is on the verge of a drastic foreign policy change that could have serious consequences for the United Nations and NATO, foreign diplomats reported Saturday.

"Goa could well be the king-pin which brings down the United Nations and NATO," one prominent foreign diplomat said.

"There is no question in my mind that the Portuguese will change their policy," he said. "The only question is the nature and extent of the change."

Some diplomats think popular opinion will force the government of Premier Antonio Oliveira Salazar to withdraw from the United Nations if not from the Atlantic alliance.

They point to statements made recently by Overseas Minister Adriano Moreira.

"The United Nations," he said, "is not able to support and defend international law. In fact, it is an instrument of the East."

"Goa," he added, "is the proof."

On NATO, he was more cautious. "All I can say at this time is that some sections of our public opinion now raise the question of the advantages in sharing the risk of Atlantic solidarity."

But a high-ranking member of the general staff was blunter.

"What good are the U. N. or NATO to us?" he asked. "They do nothing to help us in our hour of need."

From all this, and their observations of the Portuguese mentality in the face of "betrayal" and humiliation, diplomats here are drawn to conclude that Portugal is about to give her answer.

What form it will take is not entirely agreed on, but the most general notion is that she might join an alliance with other European powers also unhappy with the United Nations.

These could include Spain, France, Belgium and Holland.

Pampa's Jail Inmates Get Yule Present

Pampa's city jail will be empty Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

Corporation Judge A. J. Carubi said Saturday he was granting Christmas amnesty to any prisoners in the city jail.

The last prisoner was released shortly before noon Saturday.

County jail prisoners were not so fortunate. And the reason for that is the fact that their offenses fall into the felony category while prisoners in city jail are held for only minor violations.

However, county authorities said prisoners in Gray County jail will be treated to a Christmas dinner with all the trimmings.

Yule Glow Covers World

From Tokyo to West Berlin, from Buenos Aires to Copenhagen — and even in the cities of Russia and the satellite countries — the glow of the Christmas spirit spreads around the world. For Christmas is truly a universal holiday.

The legends and traditions gathered about it are many, and customs can, and do, vary from country to country. All nations, through their folklore, have made their special contributions to the traditional ways of celebrating the birthday of Christ.

When the customs of one country are compared with another it's sometimes hard to believe that the same holiday is being commemorated.

Along with the different ways of observing Christmas, there are, of course, different ways of extending greetings, according to the language of the country. To give just a few examples, in Sweden it's "God Jul," in French "Joyeux Noel" and in German "Froliche Weihnachten." In Russian, it's "S Rozhdestvom Khristovym."

Whatever the language, the words mean, "Merry Christmas" — and that's the key to the variety of Christmas customs.

Though the peoples of many lands have unique Yule traditions, each is a way of expressing the spirit of Christmas — a spirit that is the same everywhere, in every place and time.

At Christmas, the thoughts of people around the world turn to the joys of home, of being with

Reds, In Unprecedented Action, Bar Top U. S. Officer From E. Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist border guards Saturday barred U.S. Berlin commandant Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II from East Berlin in what the Americans called a "calculated affront" by the Russians to rupture existing four-power contacts and intensify tensions.

Watson is the ranking American military official in Berlin. The Communist refusal to pass a Western Allied commandant was unprecedented and was considered all the more "provocative" because Watson had notified the Russians in advance of his trip.

Watson was driving to headquarters of Col. A. V. Solovoyev, Berlin's Soviet commandant, in the East Berlin district of Karlshorst to protest East German interference with official American traffic across the East-West border.

Watson, in his general's uniform, was accompanied by two civilian aides and an interpreter. His official car was halted by the striped steel pole recently installed by the Communists at the Friedrichstrasse Crossing point.

The East German guards kept the bar down when Watson's civilian aides refused to show identity cards on the ground that Western Allied official may enter East Berlin freely without East German controls under four-power agreements with the Soviets.

Watson turned back. Saturday's incident was regarded as the most serious violation of Western Allied rights in the city since the Communists built their "anti-refugee" wall on August 13.

He warned that "interference with these contacts through this additional provocative restriction, inevitably will heighten tension in Berlin at a time when the Soviet government is proclaiming its willingness to seek peaceful solutions of international problems."

The spokesman said a "stiff protest" was being made to the Russians while a full report on the incident has been relayed to Washington.

There were an estimated 60,000 eligible voters in the Fourth Congressional district. Only about 22,000 votes were cast and counted.

Roberts got 35.8 per cent of the vote. Slagle received 26.9 per cent.

The Republicans did not campaign as hard for the Rayburn seat as they did in recent special elections.

Italian authorities put the death toll at 71 and said about 30 more of the passengers crammed into a coach built for 80 were injured, some so badly they were not expected to live. Most of the victims were teen-age students going home for Christmas.

Paralyzing Snow Hits In Midwest, Snarling Travel

CHICAGO (UPI)—A paralyzing snow storm bulled its way through the Midwest Saturday, blocking highways, closing major air terminals and halting bus travel.

Chicago's white Christmas insurance added up to 11.2 inches of fresh snow. Des Moines, Iowa, had 11 inches and Cedar Rapids 8 inches.

The Weather Bureau predicted two to four inches of additional snow by Saturday night from northern Illinois through northern and central Indiana, southern lower Michigan, most of Ohio and western Pennsylvania. Freezing rain, sleet and snow were predicted for parts of eastern Pennsylvania and in the Virginia mountains.

At least six persons were dead in Iowa's worst snow storm in years. In Illinois four persons perished as a result of the storm and Nebraska counted one weather fatality for a total of 11.

Chicago's bustling Midway and O'Hare International airports were closed to outgoing or incoming flights. Planes heading for Chicago were forced to land at nearby cities. More than three inches of snow fell at O'Hare in five hours.

An airlines spokesman described the scene at airport terminals as "hectic." Mobs of holiday travelers left both airfields to attempt to find accommodations at rail lines.

A railroad reservationist said: "We're all sold out. I don't know what we're going to do."

Thousands of persons sat on suitcases waiting for flight to take off. Terminal restaurants and cocktail lounges were overflowing. Travelers waited in long lines at telephone booths to inform relatives of their delay.

Chicago's generally fast-moving Lake Shore Drive had slowed to snail's pace. The loop, just two days before Christmas, was practically bare. Police reported 850 minor traffic accidents since the snow started falling Friday night.

Thousands of Christmas travelers were stranded in towns and cities along snow-clogged highways in Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska. They crowded into

Students Lean To Conservatism

By FLETCHER ROBERTSON
Freedom Newspaper Writer
COLLEGE STATION — The political persuasion of a lopsided majority of students of Texas A&M College leans toward the conservative philosophy of government.

Estimates of the proportion of conservative over liberal thinkers on the campus range from 60 to 80 per cent of the student body of about 8,800. Probably 70 per cent would be pretty close to the actual figure.

Why this preponderance of conservatives on the campus? That's the $64,000 question. Maybe it's traditional with students of military schools to stay in the vicinity of first base in politics. And it could be that these Aggies have given the matter considerable thought and arrived at their conclusions through valid intellectual processes.

Girls Declared Less Costly To Rear In Germany

FRANKFURT (UPI)—Twenty-four three-cornered pants and two neckties are the first and last items on a list of goods needed during the first 16 years of a German boy's life.

The list also includes 90 bars of soap, two combs, one brush, $46 worth of toys, 18 towels, and one chamberpot.

The list was drawn up by order of the social minister of one German state to benefit unwed mothers seeking maintenance funds for their children.

Social workers, statisticians, ministerial officials and eggheads expert in food and psychology worked out the basic needs. Providing everything for a most spartan way of life costs around $21 a month, they figured.

The monthly expenditure was broken down this way: food $11.75; clothing, $4; household furniture, less than $1; rent, $2; heating and electricity, $1; cleaning and physical culture, 75 cents; education, 64 cents.

The calculated monthly food ration during a child's first 16 years included three pounds of fat, eight eggs, about 15 quarts of milk, five pounds of meat, 31 pounds of potatoes, 26 pounds of bread, 11 pounds of fruit and other foodstuffs.

$1 Out-Patient Fee To Military Groups Voided

has rescinded a budget proposal to charge military dependents a fee of $1 each for out-patient visits to military hospitals.

The proposal, assailed by critics as miserly, was suggested as an economy move in President Kennedy's budget recommendations to the new Congress. Proponents said it could save the government $17 million a year.

A spokesman said today that McNamara "personally knocked out the plan when he returned from the recent NATO meetings. It had been criticized as "a blow

U.S. And Britain May Soon Decide On Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States hopes to reach a decision with Britain in about 10 days on whether this country can begin planning for possible atmospheric nuclear tests on Christmas Island, a disputed territory in the South Pacific.

U. S. officials, reporting this Saturday, said the island, which both the United States and Britain claim, was one point of discussion between British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and President Kennedy at their Bermuda conference this week.

They agreed that both countries would prepare for possible atmospheric tests, which Russia resumed many months ago, but would put off the "final decision" on whether to go through with them.

Russia broke the voluntary truce test ban last Sept. 1 and fired more than 30 atmospheric shots. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has threatened to resume them if the U. S. does.

The United States does not want to use its former testing site, Eniwetok Island, for tests because of political factors. Eniwetok is among the Pacific islands it holds under United Nations trusteeship.

St. Catherine, said to be on the spot where Jesus appeared to St. Catherine of Alexandria and foretold her martyrdom.

The Greek Orthodox and Armenian Christians celebrate their Christmas in the basilica of the Church of the Nativity itself. Under the basilica lies the chapel or grotto of the Nativity. The grotto is shared by all three churches. Beneath an altar, on the east side, there is a large silver star in the pavement. This is said to mark the spot where Jesus was born. Around the star is the Latin inscription, "Hic deus natus est Virgine Maria Jesu Christi—Here Jesus Christ was born of the Virgin Mary.

Harmony among the three faiths sharing the shrine is symbolized by 15 silver lamps kept burning all the time. Six belong to the Greek Orthodox, four to the Catholics and five to the Armenians. Nearby there is a plain altar used by any of the faiths during special holidays. The altar is decorated on such occasions according to the practices of each religion.

Yuletide Road Toll Mounting

164 Are Killed Over The U.S.

By United Press International

The "home for Christmas" rush pushed traffic deaths to a record setting pace which topped that of the "black Christmas" of 1955 Saturday.

As the death count shot past the 164 mark, National Safety Council President Howard Pyle warned "the toll is running ahead of any previous Christmas holiday in our history."

"We can only hope that this fact will have the sobering effect on our people which will be necessary to reverse the trend," Pyle said.

More than 20 hours after the holiday's start at 6 p.m. Friday, United Press International counted 164 traffic deaths.

The breakdown:

Traffic	164
Fires	13
Planes	2
Miscellaneous	33
International - counted 152 traffic deaths.
Total	182

New York state had the dubious distinction of leading the traffic death count with 17 fatalities. There were 15 in California, 22 in Texas, 12 in Illinois, 10 in Michigan, 7 in both Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, and 6 in both Indiana and North Carolina.

The record for holiday highway slaughter was set during the 78-hour "black Christmas" weekend of 1955, when 605 persons died in traffic accidents according to National Safety Council figures.

This year's Christmas weekend, also a 78-hour period, threatened to inherit the "black Christmas" stigma. The death count was running ahead of 1955's. At the end of the 20-hour period in 1955, only 123 persons had died in traffic.

The Safety Council had estimated before the holiday that 500 persons would die in traffic before midnight Monday. On an average non-holiday period of similar length in December, the council said, a traffic toll of 340 deaths could be expected.

A blowing, blinding snowstorm in the Middle West added to the Greek Orthodox, four to the Catholics and five to the Armenians. Nearby there is a plain altar used by any of the faiths during special holidays. The altar is decorated on such occasions according to the practices of each religion.

164 Are Killed Texas Mishaps Take 22 Lives

A rapidly increasing number of violent deaths across Texas threatened Saturday to force state safety campaign leaders to revise upward their predictions for 88 traffic deaths over the Christmas-New Year's period.

A United Press International count showed that in less than the first 24 hours of the holiday period, 22 persons died violently in the state.

Sixteen persons were killed in traffic accidents, one man burned to death and three were the victims of either homicides or suicides.

With more than nine days to go in the Department of Public Safety's holiday "Operation Deathwatch," the predicted traffic toll was nearly a fifth fulfilled.

The worst traffic accident occurred near Poteet, 30 miles South of San Antonio. Four persons, including Mrs. Hunter D. Barrow, 63, wife of Judge Hunter Barrow of the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals at San Antonio, were killed.

The other victims were Cefirino A. Martinez, 30, of San Antonio, driver of the second car; Yndalecio Santos, 36, of Poteet and Octavio Garza, 39, of Jourdanton. Santos and Garza were passengers in Martinez car.

Emily McGee, 16, and her cousin Eugene Johnson, 19, both of Dallas, were killed Saturday when their car plunged through a detour barricade near Marshall and crashed 20 feet into a ravine.

A two-truck wreck near Brownfield early today killed Amos L. Smith, 29, of Plains, Tex., and H. P. Fletcher of Brownfield.

A fiery two-car wreck near Greenville late Friday claimed two lives. Auburn C. Hendry of Fort Worth died early today of injuries suffered in the collision. Cherry Robertson, 3, of Greenville, was dead at the wreck scene.

Charles McLaughlin of Alta Loma, Tex., and Gustavo M. Marrero of Hitchcock were killed in a head-on collision near Hitchcock late Friday.

C. H. Ferguson, 80, was killed when struck by a truck late Friday while crossing a Corpus Thompson, 51, of Houston, was killed in a car-truck crash late Friday.

Jake Collins, 40, a Houston service station attendant, was burned to death early Saturday in a fire at his apartment house. Herman Alcorn, 43, Moss Hill, Texas was killed Friday night in a two-car wreck near Liberty.

Mrs. Ella Hughes, 77, was fatally injured Saturday morning in a two-car collision about four miles west of Burleson on U. S. Highway 81 in Johnson County.

Archie Henderson, 51, of McKinney, was killed when he was struck by a train Saturday morning in the city limits of McKinney.

Missing Crippled Child Found Safe In Hill Country

SUMMERVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—A crippled four-year-old child survived two freezing nights in the foothills of Lookout Mountain and was found in good condition Saturday by a search party.

Jerry Cooper, who normally wears braces on one leg, apparently wandered from the yard of his grandparents' home Thursday afternoon.

Sheriff Fred Stewart said the child was found "part way up" Lookout Mountain in country so rugged it would have taxed the energy of a grownup.

Young Jerry was taken to Summerville hospital for observation but it was believed he survived the ordeal in good shape.

Captured Banker Reveals Robbery

GUSTINE (UPI) — Two men wearing olive drab masks forced an official of the First State Bank of Gustine to open a vault at the bank Friday night, took $580 in silver, then took the official home and tied up him and his wife.

The story was related by I. C. Willingham, vice president and cashier of the bank. Willingham and his wife freed themselves about 3 a.m. Saturday.

Red Cross Aides Are Found Slain In Katanga City

(UPI)—A Belgian doctor Saturday discovered the bodies of three murdered International Red Cross workers in shallow graves near the Elisabethville airport, a smoldering Red Cross ambulance nearby.

The find was reported from Ndola, Northern Rhodesia, as dispatches from Elisabethville told of rape, pillage and murder and rampaging Baluba tribesmen laying waste to most of Elisabethville's Belair residential district.

On the political side the United Nations and the Central Congolese government were reported bringing heavy pressure on Katanga President Moise Tshombe to honor his agreement to bring Katanga back into the Congo. But there was increasing belief here Tshombe would renege.

Dr. J. H. Smeets, a Belgian doctor from Queen Elisabeth Hospital in Elisabethville, said he found the three Red Cross victims near a police camp which adjoins the airport road on the edge of town.

He said he first discovered the body of Georges Olivet, a Swiss, in one grave. Nearby were the bodies of two others, Mme. Nicole Grooten and Stys Smadding, a Dutchman, dumped into a common grave.

President Plans Quiet Christmas; Father Improved

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—President Kennedy, heartened by news that his father is out of danger following a stroke, turned Saturday to preparations for a Christmas Eve meeting here with President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina.

Frondizi, en route to Buenos Aires after a journey to the Far East, asked to see the President, presumably to discuss the Jan. 22 meeting of hemisphere foreign ministers in Uruguay.

While the Kennedy family was cheered by news that former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, 73, had shown considerable improvement in the past 24 hours, Christmas plans were somewhat subdued by the illness of the President's father. Family attention this week has been focused on St. Mary's Hospital where the elder Kennedy is a patient. Consequently, Christmas plans have not been announced and family celebration of the holiday was expected to be on the quiet side.

Burglars Enter 2 Pampa Cafes

Burglars broke into two Pampa cafes late Friday night or early Saturday and looted juke boxes and cigarette machines.

They entered through a rear door at Jo Ann's Cafe, 606 E. Frederic, and took an undetermined amount of cash. Neither of the machines was damaged.

At the Hickory Pit, 711 S. Gray, the burglars battered the machines open and stole cash and a quantity of cigarettes. Both the juke box and the cigaret machine were damaged.

Talks On Berlin Still Indefinite

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson is expected "before very long" to resume Berlin crisis talks with Moscow.

This was as closely as U. S. sources Saturday would pinpoint the timing of the decision formally announced Friday by President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in Bermuda for Thompson to renew diplomatic contacts with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev on the Berlin impasse.

Sunday Closing Law May Tame Holiday Parties

Christmas and New Year's Eve celebrators will have a problem this year because of the Sunday closing law in Texas.

Texas will not be able to celebrate in the public night spots since the law requires that they close at 8 p.m. on Sundays.

Only New Year's Eve celebrations scheduled in Pampa are those to be held in private clubs.

Police Captain Denny Roan said Saturday the law requires that public places close at 8 p.m. on Sundays and they cannot reopen until 8 a.m. Monday.

"So," said the captain, "if you're planning to whoop it up or move your New Year's Eve celebration ahead 24 hours."

Needy Given Supplies For Yule Dinners

With the help of the Red Cross, Salvation Army, church, civic and school organizations, Pampa's needy families will receive supplies for their Christmas Day dinner.

Mrs. Libby Shotwell, Red Cross executive secretary and coordinator for the Christmas baskets, said distribution of baskets are being cleared through the Welfare Index to avoid duplications. "Delivery of the baskets, filled with turkey or ham and all the trimmings, will continue through Christmas Eve," Mrs. Shotwell said.

Some 114 baskets have already been cleared through the Welfare Index.

The Salvation Army will distribute 35 to 45 baskets. H. C. Seago, Salvation Army commander, said many of the baskets were distributed Saturday. Several families will receive grocery orders if the baskets are used up, Seago said.

Students from schools throughout the city and the Junior Red Cross chapters made tray favors and Christmas stocking decorations which have been given to the Amarillo Air Force Base hospital and the Boys and Girls State Home in Waco.

Lefors High School students have made New Year's tray favors and table decorations which will also be sent to the Air Force hospital in Amarillo.

food and drink to the needy. The Swedes give the legend reality by choosing one of the girls in the family to represent St. Lucy. St. Lucy rises early and wakens each member of the family, serves them coffee and bakes buns.

In Norway preparations for Christmas traditionally start six months before December 24. The Christmas celebration itself lasts three weeks. The period, according to Book of Knowledge researchers, is known as the Jularfred, or the Peace of Christmas. In Switzerland, Christmas Day, or Weihnachten, is the traditional opening day of the winter sports season. A colorful sight on Christmas is the fires which are burned on the peaks of the Alps. Like flaming stars, they hang in the dark heavens during Holy Night.

In Italy the Presepe, or crib, is as characteristic of Christmas as is the tree in other countries. To the Presepe, people bring gifts of nuts and apples, which they place in the hands of life-sized figures.

Australians go in for outdoor picnics at Christmas time since it's summertime "down under" then.

Das Moines hotels had to turn travellers away and four high schools, plus the county building, became headquarters for the homeless. The town of Percival, Iowa, cared for at least 100 stranded school children.

In North Dakota, where blizzard conditions prevailed, the snow slowed 25 buses carrying more than 1,000 Wisconsin National Guardsmen home for the holiday.

In Iowa, most weather deaths were attributed to heart attacks. A bus driver suffered a fatal heart attack after attempting to shovel his vehicle out of a snowdrift. A 67-year-old man also suffered a heart attack in Des Moines while shoveling his driveway. An elderly woman died while walking home through snow drifts.

It was a cigaret lighter from her aunt, Mrs. Charles Pelzer of New York City.

On one side, it has two yellow roses. On the other a flag of Texas. When snapped, the lighter plays a refrain of "The Yellow Rose of Texas."

And on the bottom is an inscription "Made in Japan."

sections of the country. For instance, a moderate liberal of the Deep South would be considered a conservative by a Northern liberal, and a Northern moderate liberal would be regarded as an extreme liberal by Southern conservatives. Liberals of the North classify Southern conservatives as extreme right wingers.
Practically all of the active conservatives on the campus are affiliated with the Texas A&M Young Republicans' Club. Membership roster of the club totals 43, Luke Soules, a Dallas senior, is chairman.

Soules says the big growth potential of the GOP in Texas is among the conservative ranks of Democrats. "These people have been unhappy in their party and can't go along with its liberal policy," he said. "Many of them have supported Republican ideology in the past and we hope others will move over to the conservative camp."

"The most damaging misconception about conservatism in the mind of the public is that we are prone to stand still and don't plan for the future. That's not so. The absence of planning by conservatives exists only in the minds of liberal problem, Soules said. "The liberals want to rush in and implement interference."

Soules believes a strong Republican Party would be about the Texas. "Stagnant and outdated institutions of the state would be revised and reformed if there were powerful opposition from the GOP," he said.

The conservative Republicans are big on the campus but have been competition in the student division of the Young Democratic Club of Brazos County. There are 24 active members of the club. George Fix, also a Dallas senior, is head man of the campus division.

Fix said the student Democrats are liberal "in the manner of the Americans for Democratic Action" and follow the party line all the way. "We are solidly behind the New Frontier," he said.

The young Democrats favor medical care for the aged, federal Social Security payments, federal aid to education, Urban Renewal, civil liberties, assistance to depressed areas and just about everything involving the expenditure of money. Fix said he thinks President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress Program with South American countries has infinite possibilities.

The big hate of the campus Democrats is the House Un-American Activities Committee. They say it's unconstitutional and should be abolished. The sooner the better.

A&M Republicans summarized the position of their party in a recent letter to the editor of The Battalion, college newspaper. It was answered by James L. Long, a senior liberal.

Here's the full text of the letter from the Republicans: "We feel that citizens of the United States, in order to preserve representative government, need to be more vitally concerned with political questions. So that you, the reader of this newspaper, may know our position we offer this for your consideration."
"If you believe that government spending is the answer to all of our problems, then we are not with you.

"If you are not interested in constitutional government and private enterprise, or the two-party system, if you favor more government controls, federal aid to education, then we are not with you."

"In foreign affairs, if you would have Outer Mongolia or Red China admitted to the United Nations... if you think we can tolerate Fidel Castro and his Communist masters on our doorstep and prefer peace at any price, then don't join us."

"On the other hand, if you believe in peace with justice, strong national security, a much firmer stand on Cuba and financial integrity in government, then we are for you."

"If you believe that the first function of a good government is to protect the liberty of the individual citizen — not to take it away, then you believe as we do."

"We believe that ours is a constitutional government and the Congress of the United States is a powerful branch of this government in many ways more powerful than the executive branch. This is all the more reason to select the members of Congress with extreme care and deliberation. Each candidate's views on public education, fiscal policy, medical care agriculture, juvenile delinquency, racial and religious relations and scores of other pressing problems must be examined."

"It is often said that 'Conservatives' are against progress. This is utter nonsense and the 'Liberals' know it. We are conservative because we know the only way to get better schools, better health, better wages — all the things Americans want — is through the diligent application of conservative principles which bring out the best in people, instead of surrendering their responsibility, and finally their freedom to a government way up in Washington, D. C. — this is our kind of conservatism."

Here's Long's answer: "The 'we believers' of the Texas A&M Young Republicans' Club have presented the readers of The Battalion with a typical politician-type series of ringing generalities that sound just dandy, but in reality stand for very little that would enlighten the reader as to what the Republican Party would actually do when confronted with our nation's unending stream of governmental problems."

"Of late, it appears that the Republicans have confined their 'doings' to obstruction and criticism of the Kennedy administration that is now introducing some new ideas and changes in hopes that these reforms will cure some of the weaknesses of our system that are resulting from antiquated policies and institutions of the past."

"I believe that rather than trying to woo the reader of this newspaper with phrases that are obvious necessities for the success of an American political party (not just the Republicans), the Texas A&M Young Republicans should explain to the readers what programs they plan to institute to preserve these fundamental necessities and exactly how these programs differ from the policies now being practiced by the Democratic Party."

Critics Blamed By Actor Quinn For Poor Shows

NEW YORK (NEA) — Anthony Quinn, his dark face crisscrossed with make-up scars for his role in "Requiem for a Heavyweight," sat in his dressing room spooning up a bowl of stew and stewing about newspapermen.
He placed the blame for what he considers the low state of American movies and television squarely on the shoulders of newspaper critics.
"I hadn't watched TV for months," Quinn said, "and then last week I spent a night watching. All that violence! It's a tragedy when a great country like ours has nothing to sell but violence. And the movie industry, they're the ones who should be rap something!"
Quinn took a moment out to dig into the stew again when David Susskind came into the room. He's producing "Requiem for a Heavyweight" and wanted to check Quinn's reading of a certain line. But when he saw that his star was talking to a reporter, he, too, launched into an attack on the press.
Susskind, who often has displayed his sensitivity to critical comments by TV critics, said, "The press is corrupt and vengeful. Oh, I don't mean they take money, it's their nature. They're corrupt. They're the ones who should be rap something!"
Quinn roared with laughter. "I just told him the critics were responsible for the decline of TV and the movies," he said, "and now you tell him the press is corrupt. We're not being very kind to the press today."
Susskind left shortly afterwards, pausing at the door for one final jab — "Be sure you write what he said — and not what you want him to say." Quinn diplomatically changed the subject.
"I'm not a rich man," he said. "I swear I'm not. People think I am because I make so many movies, but I've had four children to raise and I went for a long time when I didn't make very much. By the time I started making big money it was the era of high taxes — 90 per cent of what I make goes to the government. So I'm not rich. But I have $150,000 invested in properties. I own maybe 15 stories which I think MUST be made into motion pictures. These are stories which say something."

Quinn said he had bought 72 paintings in Italy I try to encourage young artists, I'll buy 10 from a discouraged young man and he'll be given the will to keep on painting."
Quinn, in his long and honored career, has played virtually every type of part. There is only one kind of role he never tried.
"A juvenile? No, I was never a juvenile. Look, I was old when I was 6. I never had a childhood. Where I came from — the poor section of Los Angeles — a kid either became a fighter, a gangster or an actor. So I became an actor."
"I had to go to work when I was 4. I shined shoes at 5, bossed 150 other shoeshine boys at 6, and I had a gang of migratory workers by the time I was 12. How could I have ever been a juvenile?"
He finished his lunch, and they came to get him. He had to have the scars on his face done over. There was nothing that anybody

Grid Stars Highlight Sugar Bowl Classic

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — There'll be stars all over the place when top-ranked Alabama meets eighth-ranked Arkansas in the 28th annual Sugar Bowl football game New Year's Day.

Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant's Alabama Crimson Tide (10-0), a favorite to win the 1962 classic, boasts one first team All-America, four All-Southeastern Conference players and a second team All-America star.

Coach Frank Broyles' Razorbacks (8-2) have a second team All-America player and three All-Southwest Conference performers. Billy Neighbors, a 230-pound tackle, is one of the big reasons Alabama was able to win all 10 of its games this past season. He was named to the 1961 UPI All-America team and was All-SEC.

Quarterback Pat Trammell, who racked up 1,314 yards of total offense in 1961 to surpass the famed Harry Gilmer's long-standing Alabama mark, is the key to the Tide's offense. He was a second team UPI All-America choice, All-SEC and SEC Player of the Year.

Alabama fullback Mike Franchia, 185, and Tide center Lee Roy Jordan, 202, were the other All-SEC players.

Arkansas did not crack the UPI All-America first team, but fleet halfback Lance Alworth, 178, was named to the second team. He was a first team pick by Look Magazine. He has carried for 1,330 yards in his Razorback career, a school record.

Guard Dean Garrett, 200, and end Jimmy Collier, 187, were the other Arkansas players named to the All-SWC team.

The pros liked the Alabama and Arkansas players too. In the American Football League draft, Oakland picked Alworth, Houston went for Alabama end Bill Rice, Boston selected Neighbors, Dallas drafted two Tide stars, end Tommy Brooker and quarterback Trammell, and Buffalo took Alabama halfback Ray Abruzzese.

Oilers Rule Favorites To Retain AFL Pro Title

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Defending champion Houston goes into the second American Football League championship game in history Sunday a solid 5½ point favorite to retain the title with a win over the San Diego Chargers.

While the Chargers, from coach Sid Gillman to the last man on the squad, are ready to dispute the odds-makers. And with good cause.

The Oilers are not being lulled by the favorites role. Coach Wally Lemm, prior to the team's departure from Houston, forecast "a tight, hard fought game. We are not counting this one a victory until the game has been decided."

Houston was late in arriving here Saturday with the flight delayed by fog. Brief limbering up exercises was the only thing in the way of preparation undertaken by either team today.

The two clubs announced that they would more or less go with the lineups with which they finished the season.

Gillman did announce several interior line changes—both on offense and defense.

All-pro tackle Ron Mix is moving over to right guard to replace Sam Delucca, out with an ankle injury, on the offensive line. And Sherman Plunkett was expected to move into the Mix slot.

On defense, big 265 pound Henry Schmidt was to start in place of "bad boy" Ernie Ladd, the big 6-9, 315 pound all-pro tackle who is in the Charger dog house for failing to show up for practice two days this week. Neither Ladd, nor the Charger officials, had an explanation for his mysterious absence Wednesday and Thursday.

The game itself will match the "old" with the "new." The "old" is the veteran Oiler club, paced by AFL player of the year—quarterback George Blanda, and fleet halfback, Billy Cannon. The Oilers, able to sign only a small handful of draft choices for the 1961 season, were "forced" to go with the winning combination of last year.

Hildebrand Gets Five Year Pact

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI)—Wake Forest College announced Saturday a new five year contract for head football coach Billy Hildebrand has been approved by the school's executive committee of the Board of Trustees.

College President Harold W. Tribble said the new contract goes into effect Jan. 1, 1962. It will extend through the 1966 football season. Hildebrand had one year left on his original three-year contract as head coach of the Deacon football team.

The college did not reveal any salary terms, but Tribble said that each assistant on the football coaching staff, had been given "a substantial raise in salary."

Tribble said "we feel the new five year contract stabilizes the football situation here at Wake Forest. We feel we have a sound program with a solid base in relation to the academic standing of the college."

Hildebrand, a graduate of Mississippi State, came to Wake Forest in 1956 as the No. 1 assistant to Paul Amen. Hildebrand was named head coach in January, 1960, when Amen resigned to enter private business.

During Hildebrand's two seasons as head mentor of the Deacons, his teams have won six games and lost 14. He had a 2-8 record in 1960 and a 4-6 mark last fall.

Matson Sinks 19 To Lead Locals

DUMAS — Pampa's Harvesters snapped a three-game losing streak Saturday night Phillips' Black Hawks, 75-56.

The Harvesters, who lost their Friday night tussle with Dumas, 36-35 exploded with a vengeance against the Phillips five, jumping off to an early first period lead and then continuing to mow their opponents down with precision like tenacity.

Coach Terry Culley's crew, who bested Phillips in the third game of the season to the tune of 57-51 posted their highest one game total on the year, surpassing the 74 points against Birdville in their second meeting this year.

Randy Matson, Wayne Kreis and Bobby Neslage all hit in the double figures to lead the Harvesters in the scoring department. Matson found the range with 19 points, all in the first half of play. Of the 19, nine came via the field goal route while the 6-6 junior tossed in a charity toss in the first period.

Kreis, on the other hand scored 14 points for the locals, all from the free throw line. Kreis came into the contest in the fading moments of the first period and with uncanny accuracy sank 14 of 16 attempts during the first three periods for his point total.

Neslage added 12 on the boards for the winners.

Pampa jumped off to an early

22-15 lead at the end of the first period, with Matson pouring in 11 of the points. The Harvesters then held on to post a 40-35 lead at the half.

In the second half, Matson sank eight points while Kreis, who missed Friday night's game because of illness, dunked in six from the free-throw line.

In the third period, the Harvesters put on the steam with 21 points while the Phillips crew could only manage five. Coach Culley began sprinkling his lineup with reserves who responded admirably to help in the scoring column. Kreis continued to pelt the basket from the free-throw line, finding the range with eight points.

In the fourth period, the reserves took over for the regulars completely and showed their mettle with sparkling play both on offense and defense.

Phillips wracked up 16 points in the final go round to Pampa's 14, but the damage had been done and the Harvesters owned their tenth win a year.

The Harvesters will be idle until the weekend of Dec. 29 and 30 when they play host to the Top 'O' Texas Tournament. In that tourney, Pampa will play host to Dumas once again to seek revenge for their Friday night loss.

Coach Bares Narrow Escape Of Gridsters

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—The story of a mishap on a bus carrying the Wichita Falls high school football team Dec. 16 that could have turned into a "terrible tragedy" was told Saturday by Joe Golding, coach of the Class AAAA state champions.

Golding related, in a story in Sunday's Fort Worth Press, that a wheel broke loose from the bus as it was traveling to Fort Worth for the title game with Galena Park. The bus carried 40 players, the coach and the bus driver.

He said the bus lost its right front wheel while it was traveling about 55 miles an hour. The bus skidded about 500 feet. When it came to a stop, the right front axle rested inches from the soft shoulder of the highway. It happened about 10 miles from Jacksboro.

"It would be an understatement to say everyone was scared to death," Golding said.

"If at any time in those 50 feet we had hit the shoulder none of us probably would be here today," Golding said, "because as soft as that shoulder was we would still be rolling."

"It could have been a terrible tragedy," the coach added. "It was only through the grace of God and our bus driver that we were spared."

The bus driver was Denny Esmond, who has been driving for Wichita Falls for six years.

A few minutes after the accident, a bus carrying the Wichita Falls High School band arrived at the scene. The football team went on to Fort Worth in the band bus. Wichita Falls defeated Galena Park, 21-14, for the AAAA crown.

"I saw no reason to tell the newspapers about the incident at the time," Golding said. "It would have been a crutch if we had lost the ball game."

"Did it scare us? You're darned right. It shook the daylight out of me and you could imagine what effect it had on the boys."

Royal Credits Sophomores For Crown

AUSTIN (UPI) — Coach Darrell Royal credits play of 17 sophomores for putting his University of Texas football team in the Cotton Bowl.

"At the beginning of the season, Royal said the Longhorns would "have to have six to eight sophomores come through to have a good football team."

Royal now calls the current sophomore crop the best in his coaching career. Although only defensive back Duke Carlisle can be regarded as a regular starter, many sophomores contributed to team depth, especially in the line.

Carlisle also saw action as an offensive quarterback, and was joined at times in the backfield by tailback Tommy Ford, who averaged five yards a carry in gaining 415 yards and finishing third in Longhorn rushing.

Second team offensive ends were sophomores Sandy Sands and Charles Talbert, the younger brother of team captain Don Talbert.

In the interior line, sophomores Scott Appleton, Ken Ferguson, George Brucks, David McWilliams, George Bass and Bobby Gramblin played well, their coach said.

Berlin Texas Cowboy Club Will Get Yule Gifts Late

DALLAS (UPI) — Christmas will come a little late for the Cowboy Club of Old Texas, but the German members of the club in West Berlin should find their presents well worth the delay.

On Christmas Day, a group of big-hearted Texans will ship off a huge package to the club. The air freight gift will include boots, saddles, western belts, jackets, branding irons, a movie film of a rodeo and stacks of books on Texas and the Wild West.

Bill Rives, associate managing editor of the Dallas Morning News, learned about the "Teutonic Texans" on a trip to Germany. He came home and wrote about the club, touching off plans to help add to the club's collections of mementoes of the Old West.

The president of the club, Fritz Walther, told Rives that their collection of Western gear was not as large as they would like. So a few days after Christmas, the ranch house and saloon should be as well fitted out as any in West Texas.

Fort Worth Mayor John Justin, a manufacturer of cowboy boots, later visited Germany and returned to spearhead the drive. John VanCronkrite of the National Finals Rodeo also got into the act.

The West Berliners in the cowboy club spend their spare time on a three-quarter acre "ranch" in the western sector of their city, which includes a replica of a frontier saloon, complete with a stuffed buffalo head.

"My big one is looking up too soon," replied the golden-toed New York Giant. "When you hit behind the ball you don't follow through and it hampers accuracy. It's like golf when you don't keep your eye on the ball and look up too quickly."

Kicker's Biggest Problem Is Bared

NEW YORK (NEA) — Pat Summerall was asked if he ever has any problems with his placing.

"My big one is looking up too soon," replied the golden-toed New York Giant. "When you hit behind the ball you don't follow through and it hampers accuracy. It's like golf when you don't keep your eye on the ball and look up too quickly."

Huntsman Loses Eye In Accident

SPARTA, Tenn. (NEA) — A hunter in White County was standing behind a tree with an arm sticking out.

A companion, believing the arm to be a squirrel, fired. The nimrod stuck his head out from behind the tree to see what was happening — and lost an eye.

1961 PGA Tour Richest Of All

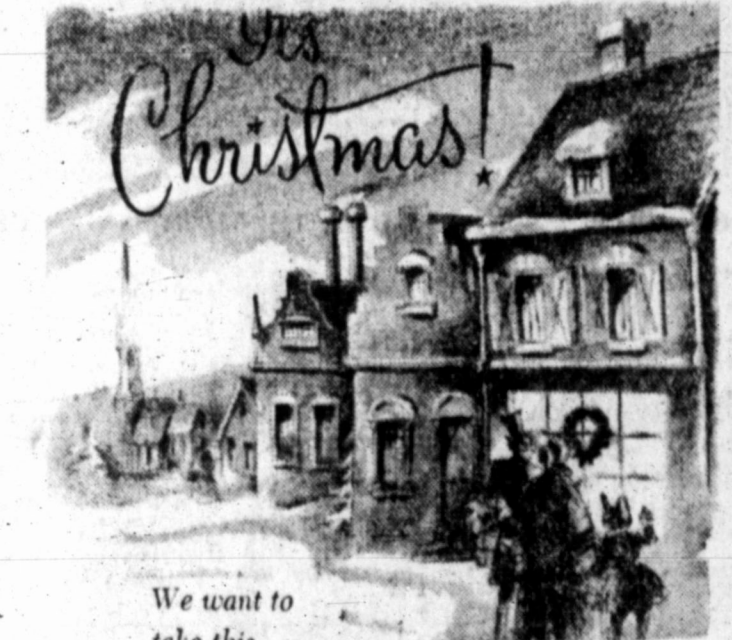

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — The 1961 PGA tour was the richest in history with 24 tournament players winning more than $20,000 each, the Professional Golfers' Association announced Saturday.

PGA President Lou Strong said that Gary Player, a South African playing out of Ponte Vedra, Fla., led the list with three tournament victories and $64,540.

Player, said Strong, became the first foreigner to take top money. Another South African, Bobby Locke, was runnerup in 1947 with $24,327.

Colt Franchise Top News

DALLAS (UPI) — Major league baseball officially came to Texas and Lone Star state teams and athletes made headlines in virtually every major sport during 1961.

Houston was granted a conditional franchise in the National League late in 1960, but it wasn't until well into 1961 that the Bayou City completed its plans for a temporary stadium and its multi-million dollar domed athletic plant, and got the league's final seal of approval.

The Colts, who lured Texan Paul Richards away from Baltimore to head up the embryo organization, will start play in the league next April, but the club has been busy signing players and construction contracts in anticipation of the real thing.

The storied old Texas League had its shaky moments with franchise shift shenanigans moving the Victoria franchise to Ardmore, Okla., and then later the Harlingen franchise to Victoria. After the end of the season, both franchises were moved again — to El Paso and Albuquerque, N. M. — for next year.

In football, the usual surprises cropped up. Texas and Rice were co-favorites to win the Southwest Conference and Texas A&M the choice in the Lone Star conference. Arkansas, instead of Rice, tied Texas for the Southwest title and Sam Houston State sneaked in ahead in the Lone Star.

Texas ranked No. 1 in the nation for three weeks until upset-minded Texas Christian, which already had knocked off Kansas and Ohio State, stunned the Longhorns with a 6-0 shocker. Texas recovered for a 9-1 season and won the host role in the Cotton Bowl game. Arkansas rode an 8-2 record into the Sugar Bowl.

Rice, which wound up third with a 7-3 season, and in-and-out Baylor with a 5-5 record also went bowling with opposite results. Baylor tripped Utah State in the Gotham Bowl, but Rice took a shellacking from Kansas in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Sam Houston won the title, but Lone Star title contender Lamar Tech got the bowl bid from the circuit and was paired against Middle Tennessee State in the Tangerine Bowl.

It was a hard year on college football coaches. Texas A&M and Southern Methodist declined to renew their pacts with Jim Myers and Bill Meek and hired Hank Foldsberg and Hayden Fry as their successors. Either firings or resignations also created coaching vacancies at Houston, Texas Western, Hardin-Simmon, Abilene Christian, Howard Payne and S.F. Austin State.

In basketball, Texas Tech's coach Polk Robison piloted his junior-packed team to a surprise Southwest Conference crown, then promptly decided to devote full time to his athletic directorship and promoted his aide, Gene Gibson. Baylor's Bill Henderson stepped out, too, and his assistant, Bill Menefee, got the job.

The year also marked the first time a Texan ever won the Indianapolis Memorial Day 500-mile classic. Houston's A. J. Foyt turned the trick and also picked up his second consecutive U. S. Auto Club driving title.

On the pro football front, the Houston Oilers staged a whirlwind finish to top the Eastern Division and earn a crack at their second American Football League title in a row. Attendance picked up accordingly at Houston, but remained low in Dallas where the AFL Texans and National Football League Cowboys flourished in the win columns and lost support at the gate.

In golf, McKinney's Dud Wyzong Jr., forged his way to the finals of the National Amateur but lost to Jack Nicklaus, and Dallas' Don January tied Jerry Barber for the PGA crown only to lose it on a playoff. January, who also picked up $50,000 for a hole-in-one early in the year, was named chairman of the PGA's tournament committee.

In track, Abilene Christian College posted the world's fastest 880-yard relay time of 1:22.6 and thrice shattered the existing college mile relay mark with transplanted Californian Earl Young as the anchor man.

In schoolboy football, Wichita Falls and Albany lived up to pre-season predictions to win the Class AAAA and A championships. Dumas came on fast to cop the Class AAA crown and Donna brought the Rio Grande Valley its first state title by pulling four upsets in the playoffs to win the AA laurels.

North, South To Have Air Raid

By United Press International

Pass-minded North and South squads clash on Christmas Day at Miami, Fla., to open the holiday season of football bowl games.

Four more big games are scheduled on Saturday, Dec. 30 — the Gator, Sun, Blue-Gray, and East-West games — and then come the Rose, Sugar, Cotton, and Orange Bowl games on Jan. 1.

Coaches of both North and South teams were talking about passing as the two squads wound up the heavy phase of their training on Saturday. The key men in the game, which is played for the Shrine Charity program, were quarterbacks Eddie Wilson of Arizona for the North and Bobby Ply of Baylor for the South.

North coach Duff Daugherty of Michigan State called Wilson "possibly the best passer in the country," while South coach Frank Howard of Clemson warned that his passing combination of Ply and end-Bill Miller of Miami "will be hard to beat."

At San Francisco, coach Joe Kuharich of Notre Dame for the East and Jim Owens of Washington for the West put their squads through long drills and came away with some idea of their starting lineups. Back Ron Miller of Wisconsin was especially impressive in the East workout while John Hadl of Kansas stood out for the West.

Here are the way the oddsmakers size up some of the leading games:

Dec. 30: Fla.—Georgia Tech 3 points over Penn State.

Jan. 1: Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Calif. — Minnesota 8 over UCLA

Sugar Bowl, New Orleans — Alabama 13 over Arkansas

Cotton Bowl, Dallas — Mississippi 3 over Texas

Orange Bowl, Miami — Louisiana State 13 over Colorado.

In addition to the high school tournament, which runs through Friday night, the National Finals Rodeo starts a five-day, eight-goround run Wednesday in the Livestock Coliseum, 300 players compete in a four-day indoor tennis tournament at the State Fair Recreation Building starting Wednesday and 12 college teams open the Southwestern AAU basketball tournament the same day in the downtown Memorial Auditorium. Mustangs contribute a share of the basketball program, too, when they meet the St. Louis Billikens Friday in the SMU Coliseum.

Bowling and skeet tournaments also will be in progress over the New Year's weekend.

Coach At Utah State Eyes Job At Nebraska U

LOGAN, Utah (UPI) — The coach of Utah State's most successful football team in history said Saturday he was "very interested" in the University of Nebraska job.

Coach John Ralston, who led Aggies to a 9-0-1 regular season record and a spot in the first Gotham Bowl game, said he was happy at Utah State but considered the Nebraska post "very challenging."

The 34-year-old coach was interviewed for the position Friday at Wichita, Kan., by new Nebraska athletic director Tippy Dye. Dye has indicated he may interview a few more applicants.

Ralston, who played under Pappy Waldford at California, has compiled a record of 23 wins, eight losses and a tie since coming to Utah State in 1959.

Matson Hits 16 For Local Five

DUMAS — Pampa's Harvesters jumped off to an early first half lead Friday night against Dumas, only to see the Demons come roaring back in the last half to post a narrow 36-35 win over the locals.

The Harvesters took a 6-5 lead at the end of the first period of play and then held on for a 17-16 lead at halftime.

In the third period, Dumas jumped out to a 27-24 lead and were never headed after that.

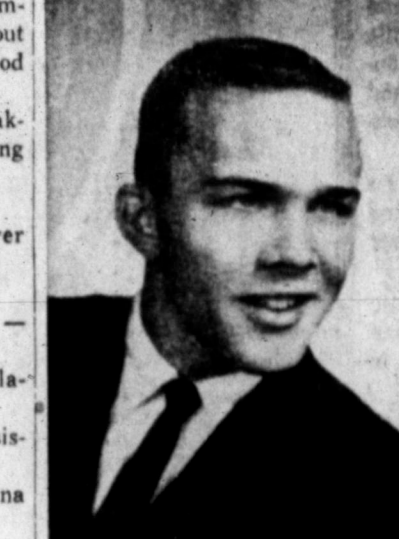

Leading the Demons' attack was Joe Parsons, who found the range with eight points. Randy Matson, the 6-6 postman for the Harvesters, led the local crew on the boards with 16 points.

The victory for Dumas was their seventh. They have lost four.

Pampa went down to their third straight loss; after nine consecutive wins. Other losses were to Hobbs, N. M. and to Elk City, Okla. in the hotly contested fracas last week in which the Pampa team walked off the court in the closing 30 seconds of the game due to a disputed call by the referee.

Outstanding on defense for the Harvesters was Lloyd Balch, senior co-captain. Wayne Kreis, the 5-11 guard for Pampa sat out the Friday night tussle due to a recent illness. He is due to see action in Saturday night's game, however against Phillips at 7:30.

The game was the lowest scoring game the Harvesters have been in this year.

Vet Hunter Stalks Cats

"Old Queen's my best one. He's killed 75."

"Old Queen's my best one. She's of three cat dogs owned by Short Hill, who has been one of the top bobcat hunters around these parts for some 20 years.

Hill, who lives east of Lefors, has three prize hunting dogs to track the elusive cats with. Besides Old Queen, who has killed 75 bobcats, there are Joe and Buck.

Hill just returned from a recent excursion down to Rock Creek, 28 miles south of Pampa where his dogs killed a 35-pound bobcat. Hill sells the pelts for $4 apiece and says as long as his dogs stay in good shape, that hunting should remain pretty good.

"The dogs haven't been hurt by the cats too much," the veteran hunter remarked. Occasionally one of the dogs will have a hunk taken out of his ear, but that's about all," Hill stated.

Public Service Company Names Sales Engineer

David Tucker will become the power sales engineer of the Pampa District of the Southwestern Public Service Company on January 1, it was announced Saturday by Gordon Lyons, district manager of the electric light and power company.

Tucker will replace W. T. Seitz, whose transfer to Borger was announced last week.

The new power sales engineer is a native of Amarillo and a graduate of the University of Oklahoma.

He joined the engineering department of the Panhandle Division in 1948 as a junior engineer and was promoted to engineer in 1950.

His work has covered nearly all fields of activity, including substation construction, transmission lines, network systems and street lighting.

He has worked on several projects in the Pampa area, including the enlarging of the Kingsmill substation.

Tucker was the engineer in charge of the first mercury vapor street lighting installation in Amarillo.

"It will be a real pleasure to work with Dave Turcker, and I know that our customers will find that he will bring the same professional skill and ability to their electric service requirements as W. T. Seitz did," Lyons said in making the announcement.

MATURE PARENT

At PS 149, a junior high school in Brooklyn, N. Y., a fine thing goes on. Children are getting together to correct the results, not only of their parents' incapacity, but of our cities' deteriorating public school systems.

These are not the worlds used by Parents' magazine in its presentation of one of its annual Youth Achievement Awards to PS 149. They are my words.

Every day over in Brooklyn the children of PS 149 who can read the English language open a book like "Jane Eyre" or "Huckleberry Finn" — and from its pages read to other children for whom printed words are meaningless marks on paper.

For 70 per cent of their school's population is Puerto Rican or Negro, offspring of Spanish-speaking or illiterate Americans whose own reading disability disqualifies them from making a parent's basic contribution to a child's education: an appetite for books.

So, every day on time that your child claims for his own studies, the literate students of PS 149 serve their illiterate fellows as proxy parents.

The reading they do has stimulated such delight in books among the nonreaders that English teachers can scarcely cope with the learning hunger that has replaced the old boredom and apathy.

This column is not written to compliment the creativeness of Melvin Deichman, the young social studies teacher who originated PS 149's educational experiment. He needs nobody's compliments, results being what they are. Nor is it written because I get mad at the demagoguery that shoves unprepared children through our antiquated big city educational machinery in the name of "justice to all."

It is not written because I deplore modern methods for the teaching of reading as sentimentally evasive of the fact that learning to read is work.

It is written to hail PS 149 for proving that you can't teach a child to read unless he has tasted books, any more than you can lead a horse to water and make him drink unless he is thirsty.

If our schools have been driven to sentimentalize the teaching of reading to children, it is because parents of the children have failed to read to them before they were sent to school.

Are you reading a story to your preschool youngster tonight?

Discussion Of Love TC Cotillion Topic

Twentieth Century Cotillion met for its Christmas program on Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Luke McClelland with Mrs. James Gallemore as hostess.

Mrs. H. H. Hahn, guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Jim Brown.

Mrs. Hahn reviewed the book "The Greatest Thing In The World" written by Henry Drummond, which is an interpretation of Corinthians.

Mrs. Hahn explained that First Corinthians 13 is divided into three parts by the author, as "contrast of love, analysis of love and defense of love."

Mrs. Hahn reviewed "In the first part of the verse, love is contrasted with other things men thought were important in the days of the New Testament: eloquence, prophecy, mysteries faith and charity."

"The analysis," Mrs. Hahn continued, "of love shows that love is composed of small, ordinary virtues. Love includes passive love, patience, active love, kindness, generosity, humility, courtesy, good temper and sincerity."

"Love is an effect of the love He first gave to us. The defense of love, the reason for naming it the most important thing, is that it lasts."

In appreciation of the review, Mrs. Hahn was presented a gift by the club.

Members attending were Mmes. W. B. Adair, Alvan Agan, James Brown, Jim Campbell, Frank Carter Jr. Harbord Cox, Malcolm Douglass, Lee Fraser, James Gallemore, Jim Hess, Ralph McKinney, Don Morrison, W. D. Price Jr., Jack White, Sam Anderson, Ed Watts and Gene Cockrell.

Dear Abby....
 No Names Left To Use At Honor Camp
 By ARIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a brother, who is at one of those "honor camps." I went to see him and found out that someone else had used my name, to get in to see him. You see, they only let the immediate family visit. My married brother and his wife went to see him and she used MY name to get in. When I went and found out my name had been used, I used my married sister's name. Now, if SHE goes to visit him, they won't let her in because there is no name left for her to use. They fingerprint all the visitors so it is really a big mess. I know I shouldn't have used my sister's name, but I wanted to see my brother and there wasn't any other way to get in. What do I do now?

FALSE NAME
 DEAR FALSE: Write to the honor camp and tell them exactly what you did and why.

DEAR ABBY: I have an adorable 3-year-old granddaughter who has a brother younger than she is. This child bites her little brother whenever he does something she doesn't like. The mother shows partiality to the girl and, when the boy complains, all the mother says is, "Bite her back." The poor little lad walks around with his sister's teeth marks on his arms and leg all the time. I remarked on it when I visited them last. My daughter-in-law threw up her hands and said she gave up. I raised four of my own and never had this to contend with. Can you help her?

GRANNY
 DEAR GRANNY: Tell your daughter-in-law to put some teeth in her own discipline. A human bite can have serious consequences.

DEAR ABBY: A mutual friend recently told me a shocking rumor about my mother-in-law. She said she heard my mother-in-law cheats at cards! I have no intention of accusing her of this, nor do I intend to ask my husband about it — if he doesn't already know it. My husband often plays cards in the same game with his mother (the whole family are great card players) and I'm sure if his mother cheated he would be wise. How can I find out (without asking my husband and causing a family crisis) if his mother really cheats, if he is in league with her, or whether it is just a lot of talk?

CURIOUS
 DEAR CURIOUS: I would dismiss the rumor as just a lot of talk. And I certainly would question the intention of a "friend" who would bring such a rumor to my attention.

"Why in the world are you letting Jim get a dog?" one wife asked another. "They're so much trouble," she added, as though that ought to settle the matter of pest once and for all.

But almost everything that makes a house a real home is extra trouble. Children are trouble. Log-burning fireplaces are trouble. Flower gardens are trouble. Old-fashioned baking that keeps the kids in the kitchen waiting to "lick the pan" is trouble. Home hobbies are trouble. Do-it-yourself projects are trouble.

But a home where there isn't always something going on isn't much of a home. In fact, if a housewife is going to turn thumbs down on anything that makes a little extra work — a family might as well live in a hotel. It would be just as much of a home.

In all the talk today about labor-saving devices and short cuts and easy housekeeping, housewivessometimes get to thinking that the most important thing in homemaking is to save themselves trouble.

But when you start worrying over how much trouble anything is going to be — you start narrowing your life until you are merely existing — not living.

So it's trouble — so what? If it is also fun or stimulating or inspiring or cozy, that is what is important.

Any housewife who is always saying to her family, "No, that's too much trouble" may be an efficient housewife, but she isn't much of a homemaker.

TWAS THE DAY before Christmas and all through the house not a creature was stirring... not even a mother because all the downtown stores were closed... just think, less than twenty-four hours from now all the secret caucuses will be over and the reasons for all those whispered confidences will be revealed... the weeks of cooking, baking and decorating will come into their shining hour... and we are hoping that one of the Merriest Christmases ever will be yours.

Reflect upon your present blessing, of which every man has many; not upon your past misfortunes of which all men have some. — Charles Dickens.

BOY-TALK... almost any hour of the day and night clusters of cars have been parked around homes as hospitality and gaiety have been dispensed with a gay flair... and it isn't entirely the feminine gender that has been doing all of the entertaining... two bachelors-about-town, Bob Wright and Bob Jacobs, entertained with an Open House for their friends on Monday night... they even made the delicious hors d'oeuvres that were served... none of these ready-made dips or catering business for them... Al Schuneman entertained with a Stag Yule party on Wednesday afternoon for a group of business associates and friends... one of the happiest fellows we saw this week was John McCausland as he embarked for Merrie Olde England to be re-united during the holiday season with his country, his wife, Joyce, and the other four J's that make up his family of children... Joyce has been visiting there for the past month or so... they'll all be home soon after the first of the year... we heard that Raymond Hassell made-up as Mitch Miller and his group of "sing-alongers" almost "stole the show" at his school's Christmas program.

Music is the only language in which you cannot say a mean sarcastic thing. — John Erskine

GIRL-TALK... dashing hither and yon to all of the festive parties we've almost wound-up like a gay, musical top at the green candlelight and red poinsettia party given by Tom and Jean Braly last Sunday afternoon we spied Dr. Joe Donaldson in a Christmas Red vest... and on to the party that Gene and Lois Shelhamer... Floyd and Maxine Watson gave to say "Merry Christmas" to their host of friends in the Shelhamer home, there was Zee Holloway at the punch service looking quite festive in a gay, emerald green After Five frock... and at the party Gene and Norma Fatheree... Buff and Mamie Maguire... Fred and Clotilde Thompson gave the night before, the hosts wore bow-ties of holly and red berries... the three hostesses were dressed in red at the Fatheree-Maguire-Thompson soiree we overheard Burnice Miller... who has just returned from New York City... described the fabulous yule decorations there... Buck and Burnice are wishing their friends a "Merry Christmas" with a party on Christmas Day... understand that Kenneth and Cleora Carman of Chicago are spending the holidays with her mother, Mrs. Alta Standard... one of the gayest and most uninhibited parties given this week was the one that Ann McAnelly and her daughter, Larua, gave in their home for members of the Parent Education Club's children... the highlight of the party was the breaking of the Christmas pinata with a long stick... little, blonde Melanie Arrington looked adorable in a gray Painter's Smock frock trimmed with red rick-rack, a red bow tie and red leotards... and having the best time of all was tiny 10-month-old Jennifer Snow as she watched the festivities from the comfort of her mother's lap... Christmas is mostly for children, I know, but I can easily consider myself a child at Christmas time.

Where children are not, heaven is not. — Algeron Charles Swinburne.

ONE OF THE PRETTIEST homes... decorated for Christmas... is the one belonging to Bob and Alleith Curry on Charles... it's archway of greenery accented with gold grape clusters... the topiary trees in bases of white and gold defy oral description... it takes a huge amount of creative talent to make such a festive and elaborate entrance decoration with ordinary flash-bulbs and dried artichokes sprayed gold... each year, we anticipate the Curry Door... and each year we are bowled over with its beauty... you must drive by and see it... you won't see it mentioned in the list of winners in the Christmas Home Decorations contest... simply because it became ineligible for awards after winning two years in a row... Hardy and Betty Pitts have a most attractive outside decoration... the rows of shrubs lining the front of their home and the flower box have been accented with Red Poinsettias... and they have a white flocked tree decorated with red bangles in a little alcove outside... it takes quite a bit of time and creativity to decorate homes for others to enjoy... but we do so much!!!!

EARMARKED FOR "after Christmas" reading is a narticle in this weeks issue of the Saturday Evening Post... entitled "youth, The Cool Generation"... we've scanned through a few of the pages and find that it is a survey of today's youth... their habits, language, and goals compiled by Gallup Poll's scientific facilities... some of the sub-heads read "they settle for low success, won't risk high failure"... "I want something I can grasp, not beyond my reach"... "goals? our parents have achieved them all for us"... all of which can be an insight on ourselves as well as our children.

CHRISTMAS NOTES tied with red bows and holly... there's an attractive couple in town, Bill and Lynn Roberts, who have just moved here from Denver, Colo... but Michigan is their home state... know they will make a nice addition to activities around town... A Merry Christmas Wish to cast members of "Arsenic And Old Lace"... who have been holding rehearsals right up until this week... from all we hear it is to be hilarious... and perfectly cast... tickets should go on sale right after the first of the year.

HAD A CHRISTMAS-CARD from Ted and Kathryn Herriman, who are now living at 6731 Marine View Drive in Edmonds, Washington... wishing all their friends in Pampa a Merry Season with an added note of how much they miss everyone and how much they loved every minute of their stay here... Christmas carolers have been busy about our city during this week... one group, the Girls Auxiliary from the First Baptist Church with their counselor and director, Mrs. W. B. Franklin, went out to the home of Mrs. Thurman Cline, 1125 Terrace, to serenade her father, Life Fire Chief W. P. Hallmark, who is making his home with her... his Christmas is to be even a little brighter with the visit of his granddaughter and great-grandson, Billie and Bob Anderson of Anaheim, California, who are spending the holidays here with the Robert L. Edmondsons and the Norman Fulps... other holiday-visitors are the Eddie Duenkels of Sapulpa, Oklahoma, who brought back granddaughter, Stacy, for the Charles O. Duenkels and the J. L. Carltons to enjoy during the Christmas season.

SO WHAT if we don't have a White Christmas?... the beautiful moonlight nights that we have had this week... moonlight that bathed our lawns, trees and roof-tops in a soft white covering is even prettier... and there is none of that aftermath slush... Have a Happy Time today and tomorrow... and happily ever after.

Love, Peg.

Learn how to create a "mood" in your home. This special atmosphere might start with a collection, anything from sea shells to fine china or old glass. It should be something that reflects your interests and those of your family.

Mood setting imparts an air of individuality to a house.

When friends see a similar object or color, it brings you instantly to mind: "Oh, wouldn't Helen love this amber bottle!"

With the holidays approaching, gift selections are a cinch for friends who have decided preferences. It's easier both for giver and recipient.

Dear Polly: The living room in our new house has gray walls with a faint blue cast. I have a studio couch, soon to be replaced by a sofa. I also have a lounge chair, a channel-back chair and a white leather chair. The mantel is French provincial.

I would like French provincial furniture but cannot afford it. I would still like the effect. — Mrs. A. D. M.

Dear Mrs. A. D. M.: Create a French provincial mood with generous use of toile in a strawberry red pattern on an off-white ground. Draw curtains and slip covers for the couch and channel-back chair could all be of the toile. The lounge chair might have a slip cover of gray-blue material.

Use short, off-white curtains, hanging from brass rods and rings, over the lower third of each window.

A mirror with a gilt frame in French style will further the illusion.

Dear Polly: We have a dormer room built for boys, but we have girls. It is wainscoted in pine with a plastered ceiling and eaves.

Without painting the pine, how could I make this room more feminine? Everything is built-in. Would you recommend an all-over small print wallpaper on the ceiling or would this be too much? — Mrs. C. W.

Dear Mrs. C. W.: I would not only cover the eaves and sloping ceiling with a small chintz pattern, but would make curtains of a matching fabric.

Perhaps the built-in beds could have side curtains and ruffled bedspreads of the same calico-like print.

Yule Party Given By B&PW Club

Pampa Business and Professional Women's Club held its annual Christmas party on Sunday afternoon in the City Club Room.

The afternoon's speaker, Mrs. S. E. Waters, was introduced by Mrs. Grant Anderson. Mrs. Waters told a "Christmas Story."

Christmas gifts were exchanged.

Guests attending were Mrs. Hoyt Haynie, Wyndell Cox and Joe B. Stephens.

Background music was provided by Mrs. E. N. Franklin.

When others advise you what to wear, keep in mind what certain lines and colors will do to your figure. Never buy something that makes you unhappy to wear to satisfy another's whims. It will just hang in the closet.

Miss Tooley Feted With Bride's Party

Miss Melinda Kaye Tooley was honored with a bridal shower on Tuesday evening in the parlors of the First Methodist Church.

Miss Tooley is the bride-elect of Woody Stewart, whose marriage will be an event of Dec. 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Methodist Church.

Mrs. Westbrook provided background music at the piano during the entertaining hours.

Refreshments were served from a table appointed with a hand-made Italian cutwork cloth in pale ecru centered with a Christmas arrangement of white flocked branches centered with a huge white candle accented with orchid grape clusters. Orchid streamers inscribed with "Kay and Woody" extended from the centerpiece.

Approximately 85 guests attended or sent gifts.

Adeste Fideles

Around the sun, as around the hub of fire, the planets revolve like a dark wheel. Even so, around the center which is God, the worlds, and the creatures re- volve like the many spokes of the wheel which is the universe.

universe moves into the dainty geometry of the snowflake or the delicate patterns of Mozart. Right is never the "they say!" of manners or the might of the big battalions, but the ordered justice that holds the stars in their courses and the hero in his honor.

On one side of that choice lies the gas oven of Dachau and the "corrective" labor camps of Siberia on the other, the music of Johann Sebastian Bach and the cathedral of Chartres. On one side lies the crackling nihilism of Paul Sartre; on the other the glory of G. K. Chesterton's "Ballard of the White Horse."

But these were the illusions of the time - film; reality lay in the center which is Eternity, that was quietly invading the world, while the brown-eyed and curly haired sheep stared from deep shallow eyes, munching their hay (and never asking that it be buttered); and fire leaped naked on stone;

The essential war that underlies all significant but fragmentary wars, and which is the soul of the tremendous struggle of good and evil that fractures our whole world today, is the war between those who see life only as a surface and those who see life rather as a center by which the surface lives.

Always it is so! The great fruitful, creative areas of history are those where the surface is lifted into life because men have their roots in the center. The primal, the elemental, the first Eden that is the last Apocalypse, the I AM of God's Eternal Now, the Word that is before birth and after death; these are the fiery core, the God's Eternal Now, the Word Creator of all time's creatures.

Those who believe only in the surface seek naturally to size and dominate the time - film, so they set all our goals and satisfactions upon its transient flicker (soon, they believe, to wink out into a scanty residue of sour suds); but those who believe in the living center, reverence and serve and preserve the surface in terms of meaning, and value and so make even the time - film the stage of a drama of life everlasting.

Simple, inexorable, real, that center will never let the mind proud perversities of the film-time ever quite destroy the surface by concentrating on the surface; when things grow worse, He comes in miracle and might - a new invasion of time by Eternity - and God is born upon the straw of a manger to shake Caesar from the pomp and purple of the throne.

U.N. IS BROKE (Chicago Tribune)

The United Nations has run a total deficit which already exceeds 85 million dollars. The organization is ripe for receivership and a sheriff's sale.

What is more, things are sure to get worse. The U.N. deficit by next June 30 is expected to hit 180 to 190 million dollars. In these sad circumstances, Mr. U. Thant of Burma, secretary general pro- tem, has evolved the bright idea of floating a 200 million dollar bond issue, which, solely from the viewpoint of the investor, would rate as the world's worst risk.

low and sterile idolatry on the surface, Christmas comes to restore us to the center. It comes like a strong free wind into a mortician's stuffy parlor. In our parlor of the dead, the undertakers who are called "artists," or "philosophers," or "politicians," have laid us out like corpses and stiffened our blood with embalming fluid.

It was so in Bethlehem, those many years ago. On the time- film of the world, seemingly "important" things bulked huge: Caesar, the legions, the bread and circuses; the sophisticates of the world, feeding on the nightingale tongues, curling their hair, seeking the perversities of perfumed boys; the commoners shouting for free grain from Africa and turning thumbs down on the dying gladiator; the outward pomp and circumstance like a thin veil over the inward nihilism.

But these were the illusions of the time - film; reality lay in the center which is Eternity, that was quietly invading the world, while the brown-eyed and curly haired sheep stared from deep shallow eyes, munching their hay (and never asking that it be buttered); and fire leaped naked on stone; and a mother who had borne a child nine months beneath her heart now rejoiced in the pain of travail; and where God, made man, drew into his lungs the air that is our human antidote to death.

And at Christmas we realize this truth more poignantly: we see the eternal things that are real and abide - and from - and the fire; the good simple beasts; the anguish in the mother's flesh and the joy in the mother's heart; the child that (even God!) comes always in the ancient, ever - new way; the stars that hold the earth in a cage of beauty.

And one thing more! - a thing of awe and beatitude. Christmas came to a world made sterile and dying because the isolationists of the surface had broken contact with the living center. Our contemporary world also, in its pride and perversity in the blatant ignorance that it boasts of as sophistication, has even more terribly isolated itself from the center. Christmas shows us, in poem and symbol, that once at the moment of the worst there came the glory of the best.

Simple, inexorable, real, that center will never let the mind proud perversities of the film-time ever quite destroy the surface by concentrating on the surface; when things grow worse, He comes in miracle and might - a new invasion of time by Eternity - and God is born upon the straw of a manger to shake Caesar from the pomp and purple of the throne.

A Few Feet Till Christmas

Allen - Scott Report

WASHINGTON - The Samos III reconnaissance satellite, orbited by the Air Force November 22, is proving disturbingly productive.

It is the forerunner of a number of others to be launched in the coming months, all equipped with high-speed precision cameras operated by radio from ground stations. They will provide the U.S. with a space intelligence network that can be aborted only by space vehicles.

Samos III, launched in October 1960, failed to orbit. Samos II, orbited on January 31 of this year, is no longer transmitting. Its pictures were not as numerous or as clear as those of Samos III, equipped with an improved camera.

Other REVEALERS - The U.S. has two other military satellites that are transmitting valuable information about Russia's missiles. These are Midas III and IV. Launched last July 12 and October 21, these satellites are equipped with infra-red scanners to detect missile blast-offs and atmosphere nuclear detonations.

The Soviet is aware Midas III and IV are traversing its territory, but as in the case of Samos

Dollar Watch Gave Him Biggest Christmas Thrill

By HENRY McELMORE

Even if there is a 200-foot ocean-going yacht under my Christmas tree, it won't give me half the thrill that some of the presents of yesteryear did.

I grabbed it, and then lit out the front door to show it to the boys next door. But they never saw it. As I sailed off the front steps I tripped and landed on the walk, palms down. And the watch was in one palm. It went into more pieces than a hand grenade. So did my heart.

TRUTH-FORUM

With Ed Delaney

The "Voice of America" and other media of the U.S. Information Agency, is supposedly keeping alive in the hearts of the people behind the Iron Curtain a glimmering of hope for their day of liberation.

Toward the latter part of World War II in Europe nearly a million anti-Bolshevik Russians and Ukrainians were fighting with the Germans against the Reds. They did not seek a German victory. Their objective was to break the communist yoke that had been fastened on their own people.

Made prisoners by the Western Allies at the end of the war in Europe, most of them asked for asylum in the free countries. Instead, tens of thousands were driven by the U.S. armed forces into the hands of the Communists to be shot down immediately or sent to lingering death in Siberia.

That our sins of those days would plague us in the future was accurately foretold by the 75-year-old German Gen. Ernest Koestring who had much to do in recruiting the Vlassov army. Koestring was born in Moscow, received his education there and spoke the language perfectly.

Koestring told that colonel: "We Germans, through stupidity, incompetence, insatiable lust for conquest and ignorance, destroyed the greatest force that existed in the world to fight communism. The tens of thousands of those inside Russia, who despised the Reds, but despite that we left behind enough to grow into a resistance movement in the future. You will not understand what I am trying to explain, but this week for the second time you have destroyed not only those who would fight against communism, you have killed the souls of those who placed their trust in you. They thought you would understand their plight and that you would help them. It can well be that in the near future you will be desperately calling for such as those you have this week destroyed. It can happen."

The American colonel said, "Perhaps." He apparently had not the faintest idea of what the old general was trying to tell him. Those sins of the past are as an accusing cloud over us today. As Koestring foretold, we now need the aid of those anti-communists inside the Iron Curtain. But because of our past record they are hesitant about putting faith in us. Proof of our sincerity is needed, not promises.

Hopes Are Dim For Oil Trade In Coming Year

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas oil industry, — hurting from imports that have forced curtail production—stands little chance of recovery in 1962, State Railroad Commission chairman William Murray believes.
 As 1961 turned into the most austere year of production Texas history, Murray could only conclude that the petroleum business is "a depressed industry in an expanding economy."
 Texas production was held to 101 days this year by the commission, less than half of what it was 10 years ago. However, a normal buildup of production from new wells will put the final 1961 production total, slightly ahead of the 1960 production from 104 days.
 Murray blamed four factors for the lower Texas allowable—excessive foreign imports, higher production in other states, more wells in Texas, and loss of some oil markets to natural gas.

Suit May Play Havoc With FPC Rate Setup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Power Commission and Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., Houston, are locked in a lawsuit that could play havoc with the FPC's rate-making machinery.
 At stake is the commission's right to make "interim" decisions—those which dispose of one part of a natural gas rate case, while another part is pending.
 The commission and the city of Pittsburgh, which is supplied by some of Tennessee's customers, have asked the Supreme Court to settle the dispute.
 Side issues injected into the case include so-called pricepyramiding and whether or not pipelines use this device to "borrow" expansion money from consumers.
 Here, in brief, is what happened:
 Tennessee, on Oct. 5, 1959, asked the FPC to approve a $26,590,138 rate increase based on a 7 per cent cost-of-service rate of return. The increase is one of three totaling $70 million which Tennessee is collecting, subject to refund if found unjustified.
 On Aug. 9, 1960, the commission issued an interim decision finding the rate of return too high. It cut it to 6 1/2 per cent, ordered Tennessee to reduce its rates accordingly forthwith, and to refund about $11 million to its customers.
 Tennessee went to court. It charged among other things that the decision was invalid because the commission had ignored production allocation costs in six company rate zones. How, it demanded, can the commission, in the absence of cost hearings, determine which rates are lawful or unlawful?
 The commission countered that its decision had placed the pipeline company—one of the nation's biggest—in the precise position it would have been in had it "fled a proper rate of return." In addition, it claimed the burden of proof on production costs was on Tennessee.
 On Aug. 2, 1961, the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals unanimously upheld the commission on the reduced rate of return and the burden of past proof being on Tennessee. But it sided with Tennessee, 2 to 1, on the crucial interim order issue.
 It set it aside to the extent that it would have forced Tennessee to cut its rates and make refunds immediately. The majority said the commission had abused its discretion by not considering zone costs to determine which rates are lawful. It added that costs were such an essential element in deciding when rates are too high that the interim order was patently arbitrary.
 The commission, in asking the Supreme Court to take a hand, declared the decision would keep it from enforcing lower rates even though they are based on evidence that they are not justified.

Financial Review

By JESSE BOGUE
NEW YORK (UPI)—Saturday is a birthday which won't bring out many cakes with candles but which might draw a nod of recognition in banking circles.

On that date in 1913 the Federal Reserve System was established; it was the effective date of the act which created it, legislation which had gone through Congress after lengthy hearing and sometimes heated debate. The law as passed was mostly the output of the House committee on banking and currency, headed by then representative and later senator from Virginia, the late Carter Glass.

The banking system began operation Nov. 16, 1914, and the young operation got a strenuous workout during those war years, particularly after the entry of the United States into the conflict in 1917.

Most citizens not directly connected with banking and business are familiar with the system chiefly through the identification of "Federal Reserve Note" on some of the bills with which they pay the grocer, the doctor, the landlord or the service station attendant.

But because its function is the maintenance of sound monetary and credit conditions, the system is and will remain of acute interest to bankers and businessmen; it controls the flow of credit, and thus helps determine how much a borrower may find available at a bank and how much he'll have to pay for it.

On its 48th birthday, the system can survey an economic situation with problems ahead—as always—but in a little more cheerful condition than was the case of the 47th, when the nation still was struggling out of the most recent recession.

Business forecasts indicate rising industrial production and expansion plans in most areas for the months ahead, and this usually means additional demands for credit.

FREE WRONG MAN

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—William Abney, 28, jailed for non-support of his children, won unexpected freedom.

Sheriff's deputies mistook him for William Ambers, who was being held on a drunk charge, and released Abney instead of Ambers.

Abney was being sought today,

Artist Declares Sadness Appeals To Most People

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Margaret Keane's paintings of big-eyed girls with doleful faces are finding an appeal that ranges far outside the art world.

"I think sadness appeals to people," said the artist, whose most recent portrait was of Zsa Zsa Gabor, leaning in sad-eyed reverie from the confines of a picture frame.

Brought to the attention of the world's art critics and invited to display her work at the World's Fair in Belgium in 1958—the young artist is now making a name in her own right.

"I'm looking for a masterpiece," she said in her San Francisco studio where she paints from midnight to dawn.

But unlike her more gregarious artist husband, Walter, Margaret is content to wait for the world to recognize her work.

Celebrities who once bought only Walter's paintings of wistful young children with the Keane trademark of big eyes, are now asking Margaret to do their portraits. She receives from $250 to $1,000 for a portrait.

Recently she did Adlai Stevenson, showing the ambassador in a half-smile as he gazed thoughtfully into the distance.

"I try to bring out the underlying drives in my subjects," she said.

For all the impressionism in her work, Margaret is first of all a draftsman. And, while painting with feeling, keeps "a sharp eye on harmony of line."

In working for her masterpiece Margaret says she is trying "to make all the things I feel in my points... well, sort of jell."

That she points with a psychological insight has been mentioned by more than a few critics, and Margaret believes this is why the eyes dominate the work.

"The inner quality of a person is reflected in the eyes," she said.

Her impressions of different subjects are well remembered by Margaret. In Adlai Stevenson she detected "a deep, sad loneliness." In Zsa Zsa Gabor she tried to portray the actress' "deep ingrained sophistication."

Writer Has Novel Idea About Airline Income

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The airline industry has been losing money at jet speed this year. Things are so bad that even some skywriters are using red ink.

As I understand it, one of the main causes of the financial plight is the design of those new transcontinental flagships.

The trouble is that the rear compartments of these planes travel just as fast and to the same places as the front compartments, barring, of course, the unexpected.

This makes it difficult for the airlines to sell first class tickets. Passengers have discovered that they can pay the lower tourist fare without sacrifice of speed or convenience, give or take a cocktail or two.

The ideal solution would be a jet transport that could whisk its profit-making wing section across the country a couple of hours ahead of its uneconomical tail section.

This would encourage passengers to travel first class, but thus far it has proven to be aerodynamically unsound. Switching the first class section to the rear of the plane doesn't help much either.

Confronted with the dilemma of an indivisible airship, the industry has sought other means of relief, such as eliminating excursion rates and cracking down on "no-shows."

These measures, however, have drawn criticism from members of Congress, many of whom travel by air a lot and some of whom occasionally must pay for their own tickets.

In a statement issued today, Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., came forth with a counterproposal to the airline proposal to levy $5 to $50 fines on customers who reserve seats and then fail to show up.

Thompson conceded that "no-shows" inconvenience the airlines and customers who might be waiting for seats. But, he said there should be a "reciprocal deal" that would give the customer equal rights.

"For instance, why don't we have the airlines pay a $5-an-hour fine for time spent waiting in terminals for delayed flights?" Thompson suggested.

"And how about a $50 fine for cancellations? There should certainly be a remuneration for the new shirts a man must buy when his baggage does not show up."

Thompson, who sounded somewhat embittered in a jocular sort of way, topped off his proposal by offering his own jet age motto: "breakfast in London, lunch in New York, cocktails in San Francisco, and baggage in Buenos Aires."

He may have a point there, but unfortunately for the airlines such a flight includes both ends of the plane.

Simple Fun-Test Shows Child Can Obey Directions

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Can you follow directions?

Sure, you can. Or can you? As good as school children in the top 10 per cent of the 12-15-year-old age bracket?

William F. Waechter, 24, of Garden Grove, is a teacher at Will Rogers Junior High School here.

For three years he's been testing his pupils' ability to read and follow instructions with a simple fun-test he picked up while getting his Bachelor of Science degree at Ball State Teachers College, Muncie, Ind.

The 7th, 8th, and 9th grade kids love it and here's your chance to try it. Just concentrate, but remember you have only three minutes:

1. Read everything before doing anything.
2. Put your name in the upper right hand corner of this paper.
3. Circle the word "name" in sentence two.
4. Draw five small squares in the upper left hand corner of this paper.
5. Put an "X" in each square.
6. Put a circle around each square.
7. Sign your name under the title.
8. After the title write "Yes, Yes, Yes."
9. Put a circle around each word in sentence No. 7.
10. Put an "X" in the lower left hand corner of this paper.
11. Draw a triangle around the "X" you just put down.
12. On the reverse side of this paper multiply 703 by 8805.
13. Draw a rectangle around the word "paper" in sentence No. 4.
14. Call out your first name when you get to this point in the test.
15. If you think you have followed directions up to this point call out, "I have."
16. On the reverse side of this paper add 8950 and 8850.
17. Put a circle around your answer. Put a square around the circle.
18. Count out loud in your normal speaking voice backwards from ten to one.
19. Now that you have finished reading carefully, do only sentences one and two.

How did you do in your three minutes? Not so hot? Waechter has given the test to approximately 600 students. About three out of 30 make perfect scores. And this was a shortened version of the 25 questions given the kids.

Waechter and his wife, Nancy, are both Hoosiers. He was born in South Bend and she in Fort Wayne. Since coming here, they've used the test as an ice-breaker at parties. He says adults do just about the same as the kids.

"The students certainly enjoy a device of this nature," he says. "The test in itself is not an end—it's just a means of very vividly pointing out that directions are written to be followed."

"Students very often find themselves having difficulty with an assignment not because they can't do the work but because they haven't followed directions."

"And they haven't followed the directions because they didn't read them carefully enough to fully understand them."

Waechter is working for his master's degree at Long Beach State College. Yes, he follows directions. He says.

Our sincere thanks and deep appreciation to the doctors, the nurses of Highland Hospital, Dunkel-Carmichael funeral home, our neighbors and the many friends who have helped in so many ways in the time of sorrow in the loss of our loved one.

The Family of Ila Knowles
 "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away." Rev. 21:4

It is hard to say good bye to those we've cherished here but we'll meet you in that city for in us you were so dear. But you heard the call of angels hurried on to that fair shore where you see the face of Jesus for you've just gone on before. Yes we miss you, how we miss you but your sufferings are all over and though we are sad and lonely you're rejoicing on that shore free from all earth's care and sorrow as you worship and adore our Christ, the blessed savior, for you've just gone on before.
