Texans Down Referendum

COLLEGE STATION (AP) -Texas cattle and dairy producers have failed to approve a tax on themselves for a research and development program, prompting one official to remark, "It hurts. It damn sure does."

Texas cattlemen, the largest block of voters nationwide, fell about 1,600 votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to approve the plan, which would assess cattlemen across the nation 30 cents on each $100 received from sales.

The final national totals for the beef referendum were being tabulated in Washington and were expected to be released today.

Wilford Hott, chief of the production adjustment division of the Texas Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the vote in Texas was 19,305 for an 12,045 against.

"It would have had to have been at least two thirds (20,910) of the total voting for it to pass," said Hott. "But even though Texas voted it down, it could pass in the other states and still pass nationally."

"It hurts. It damn sure does," said James Sartwelle, chairman of the Texas Beef Development Task Force. "When you think that 1,600 is just seven votes per county in this great big state of ours. That says something about those people who run around and say, 'Boy, my vote don't count anyway."

Texas System Illegal

AUSTIN (AP)-Texas' system of distributing state education money based solely on the value of the district's real property is unconstitutional, a federal judge says in a ruling that could have far-reaching impact on state school financing.

U.S. District Court Judge Jack Roberts of Austin said taxing real property and automobiles while ignoring "intangibles," such as stocks and bank deposits, violates the U.S. Constitution as well as Texas law.

He refused, however, to halt August state payments to local school districts, as requested by members of the Leander and San Augustine school boards, who filed the suit.

Several state officials, including Gov. Dolph Briscoe, said they are not alarmed by the ruling, stressing that it is not final. But others believed the ruling places the current school finance law in jeopardy.

Sheriff Ponders Posse

DALLAS (AP)-Dallas County commissioners and other citizens might soon be serving as temporary jail guards in transporting inmates to other facilities if a federal judge closes the county jail, the sheriff says.

U.S. District Court Judge Sarah Hughes ruled Monday that the allegedly overcrowded jail must be closed to new inmates, effective Friday.

The order came after commissioners failed to buy a site and set up preliminary plans for a new facility. Commissioners were to meet in emergency session today on the matter.

Sheriff Carl Thomas said Wednesday he was seriously considering invoking an old state statute that gives a sheriff authority to "round up a posse" to help "execute the legal process" if the order takes effect.

Death Deadline Passes

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP)-A deadline for death arrived today for 50 Jesuit priests ordered to leave the country by a secret right-wing terrorist group.

The so-called White Warriors Union, accusing them of "Communist subversion," threatened to kill all of El Salvador's 50 Jesuits "immediately and systematically" today if their ultimatum was not met.

Border Clash

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)-Libyan and Egyptian armored and air forces engaged in a massive clash along their mutual border today, resulting in the destruction of 40 Libyan tanks and two planes, Cairo radio reported.

Cairo radio said 12 Libyan soldiers of the 9th Armored Division were killed in today's clash, which climaxed a series of border incidents in recent days.

Island Election Today

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP)-This island nation's voters, in the habit of rejecting incumbent politicians, chose today between their woman prime minister and an opposition leader who favors a "grand coalition" government to fight the country's economic problems.

About 6.6 million citizens were eligible to vote in Sri Lanka's first national election in seven years. All 168 seats of the unicameral parliament were at stake.

Livestock Tough On Opening Night

With the processional entry of 359 area horsemen, the 42nd annual Scurry County Rodeo initiated the first night of its four-day slate of performances.

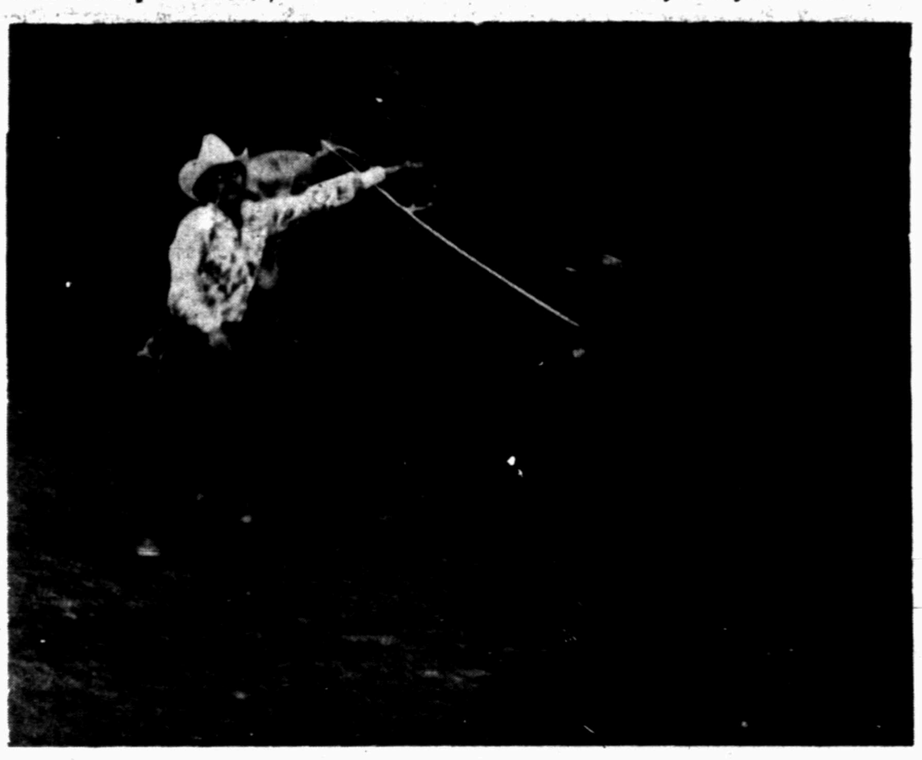

Tossed about atop their mounts, some cowboys fell to the arena floor with no scores while other cowboys rose to achieve scores that may prove unbeatable.

Bolting out of the chute atop a horse named Budwiser, Ray Dyer of San Antonio, the first rider in the first event, attained a score of 61 in his ride. Randy Davis of Lubbock and Jack Stuckey of Lawton, Okla., each rode their mounts to achieve scores of 57.

Allen Ramsey rode to a 51 score and J.T. Henry trailed behind him with a score of 50. Bobby Cooper and Don Lerowe each received scores of 43 during their rides. Receiving no scores in the bareback riding last night were Jo Ed Eckert and Kris Brown.

The estimated 2,200 rodeo spectators appeared enthralled when Darrel Lambert of Lamesa and Smitty Smith of Teel were timed in at 10 seconds each in the tiedown calf roping. Another cowboy from Teel, Clifton Smith, received a

Passed Back To Senate

Nursing Home Bill Okayed By House

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The House passed 139-1 today and returned to the Senate a bill tightening state regulation of nursing homes and imposing possible prison time on employes who physically harm elderly patients.

Senators now must decide whether to accept House changes, since the bill originated in their chamber.

The House voted 79-55 to remove the nursing home bill a section enabling the Texas Department of Public Welfare to secure protective services for old people who are abused, neglected or financially exploited.

Rep. Jim Kaster, D-El Paso, made the move to knock out the protective services provision.

Representatives added to the bill an open records provision that would make public reports on nursing homes kept in the files of the State Health Department.

A major provision of the bill lodges all regulation of nursing homes in the health department. It currently licenses homes and certifies them to receive Medicaid and Medicare patients, but the welfare department supervises day-to-day services.

The measure also makes it a penitentiary offense, with punishments ranging from two to 10 years and up to a $5,000 fine, for a nursing home employe to physically harm a patient.

Homes that violate standards set by the health department would be subject to heavy civil penalties.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High reading Wednesday, 96 degrees; low 71 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. today, 72 degrees; precipitation, none; total precipitation for 1977 to date, 13.82.

Food, Services Feed Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Higher costs for food and a broad range of services pushed June consumer prices up six-tenths of 1 per cent, matching the previous month's boost in prices, the government reported today.

The rise was a disappointment to government economists who had hoped some moderation in consumer prices would follow a slowdown in wholesale price hikes in May and a sharp wholesale price drop in June.

Retail food prices, which climbed seven-tenths of 1 per cent in May, rose by eight-tenths of 1 per cent in June and marked the sixth straight month of sharp increases in the cost of food.

In another report, the goverment reported that real spendable earnings-after-tax earnings adjusted for inflation-increased 3.4 per cent in June, reflecting a change in tax deductions which lowered the withholding rates beginning June 1. The increase marked the biggest monthy boost in real spendable earnings in two years.

The government planned to release a second report on the nation's economic health later today and it was expected to be more encouraging. A preliminary estimate from the Commerce Department indicated the economy had another strong quarter, with the Gross National Product growing in the April-June period at about the same rate as the first quarter's 6.9 per cent rate.

Wholesale prices-a precursor of costs a consumer eventually faces-fell seven-tenths of a per cent in June after several months of steep increases. The drop was the first since last August and was largely the result of a 6.3 per cent decline in prices of farm products.

Changes in the wholesale food prices are usually reflected at grocery counters within a few weeks but this has not been the case so far for the June decline. The Labor Department said a large part of the June increase in retail food prices was caused by higher prices for processed foods such as dairy products, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, sugar, bakery products and coffee.

While the six-tenths per cent increase in consumer prices was relatively steep for one month, it was less than the eight-tenths of 1 per cent rise in April and January and the 1 per cent jump in February.

In a separate report, the government said that real spendable earnings - after-tax earnings adjusted for inflation - increased 3.4 per cent in June, the largest monthly increase in two years.

Leisure Lodge Has Top Float

The float entered by the Leisure Lodge Nursing Center was judged to be the winner of the float division in the rodeo parade Wednesday afternoon.

The parade featured a total of approximately 16 floats, cars and farm equipment entries and about a dozen sheriff's posses and riding clubs.

The float sponsored by Beta Sigma Phi placed second while the firemen's auxiliary float came in third. The float sponsored by the Snyder Jayceeettes placed fourth in the competition.

The senior division of the posse competition saw the Howard County Sheriff's Posse come in first place. The San Angelo Riding Club and the Nolan County Sheriff's Posse won second and third place, respectively.

The Howard County Youth Horsemen won first place in the junior division of the posse entries. Placing second in the junior posse competition was the Stamford Junior Sheriff's Posse.

Burkett Named P&W Director

Burkett replaces Clayton Garrison, who resigned, effective Aug. 31.

Burkett has been with the department for 30 years, starting as a game warden. He also was warden supervisor for the Trans-Pecos and later became regional director for fisheries, wildlife and law enforcement for West Texas and the Panhandle.

Hill Seeks Push Of Labor

AUSTIN, Tex. AP-Atty. Gen. John Hill says he wants Texas labor leaders to urge him to run for governor.

Hill gave a rousing political speech before the state AFLCIO convention Wednesday, comparing his record with that of Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

I haven't announced for governor yet, but I think everyone in this room, especially the press, knows I'm highly inclined to do so," Hill said.

"I think this state is drifting. I don't thing we have a strong hand at the helm," he said.

Without naming him, Hill said Gov. Dolph Briscoe's administration has been one of "waiting around" and responding to crises.

"This week it's the nursing home crisis. Last week it was the school finance crisis. The week before that it was the highway crisis," he said.

Hill said Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. officials paid "courtesy calls" to the governor and to the attorney general a couple of years ago to inform them of a $90 million increase on intrastate long distance rates in Texas.

"I'm told the other person, Briscoe, who received the call had no objections to raise," he said.

Amtrak Threat Long Overdue

By ROBERT LEE ZIMMER
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—An official of a group that promotes better rail passenger service says Amtrak's threat to sue the Missouri Pacific Railroad over its handling of an Amtrak train is "long overdue."

Amtrak told The Associated Press that it was considering legal action against MoPac, which operates the Inter-American train on most of its trip through Texas, Arkansas, Missouri and Illinois. It has been so late that between March 2 and July 2, one out of four northbound trips ended in St. Louis and passengers were bused the last 300 miles to Chicago.

"The MoPac are simply in direct violation of federal law in repeatedly sidetracking it for freights," said Dan Monaghan of Dallas, a member of the board of the National Association of Railroad Passengers. "I know the last time I rode it, I counted seven sidetrackings between here Dallas and Little Rock."

Amtrak says MoPac has one of the worst on-time records for any of the 18 private railroads that operate Amtrak trains, and that when MoPac trains are late, they are twice as late as the national average. The Inter-American was late 92.3 per cent of the time in April, and Amtrak says freight train interference was the leading cause of delays.

The federal law which created Amtrak in 1971 and allowed railroads to turn over their unprofitable passenger business to the government, says "intercity passenger trains...shall be accorded preference over freight trains...," Amtrak says.

MoPac spokesman H.H. Olmsted, contacted about Amtrak's charges, said the case could go to court and "I don't think we should get into too many details." However, he blamed Amtrak equipment failures for some delays.

Monaghan said MoPac and some other railroads do not want passenger trains on their tracks because freight service is much more profitable.

"They are totally committed to the eradication of rail passenger service in this country. They feel anything they can do to make the service less attractive to the public helps them toward this end."

Monaghan said he thinks Amtrak will present evidence "that points up the fact that the MoPac are violating federal law."

He believes a double standard is involved in the lack of action against railroads like MoPac.

"It's unacceptable for a guy to go out and commit some small crime...but here's a big corporation violating a federal law, but nothing is done."

Monaghan was asked what he thought would be the outcome of a lawsuit by Amtrak against MoPac.

"If a federal law means anything, I would think they would have all manner of success, and assuming they do, I think it will be a landmark case."

Nonstop Heat Wave Blazes On

By The Associated Press

Hot and muggy weather enveloped Texas in an oppressive cloak today.

As a nonstop heat wave blazed on, steamy air billowed across the state from the south and southeast.

At the same time occasionally heavy thunderstorms boomed near the Davis Mountains between Van Horn and Pecos, near San Angelo and from near Del Rio toward Rocksprings and Brackettville, all in western areas of the state, and between Dalhart and Channing in the northwest corner of the Texas Panhandle.

Overnight temperatures stayed as high as 81 degrees at Galveston, San Angelo, McAllen and Palacios. It was only a little cooler elsewhere near dawn except for readings near 60 in the West Texas mountains.

Top marks Wednesday afternoon soared as high as 100 at Brownsville, Midland and Mineral Wells; 101 at Fort Worth and Waco, and 102 at Dallas and Wichita Falls.

Sizzling heat was expected to linger and scattered thunderstorms were promised in most sections again late in the day.

MRS. ROB BELL

England Resident Returns To Teach

By JO ANN NUNLEY

Diane (Lewallen) Bell, wife of Rob Bell, is awaiting news concerning her husband's visa. Rob is now in his home country, Sheffield, England, where he has been a teacher at Colley Comprehensive School which is comprised for students ages 11-18.

Mrs. Bell returned to Sheffield with her husband last August after being accredited to teach in the school system. She teaches speech, drama and history.

She said the country is strikingly beautiful with picuresque, storybook houses along hills of green. "The people are friendly once you get to know them," she said, "they are a more reserved people." She thought it amusing that they do say good-by, "Ta-Ta,"or"Ta-da."

There is an estimated 20,000 unemployed teachers in England which might explain the reason Diane did not have one interview after making 60 applications. She took a job in a department store and worked there for seven months. As an employe of the store, she related a story which she addmitted was one of her most frightful experiences.

The native citizens were more or less accustomed to the bomb scares which occurred often and were warned with an announcement of Code 1,2 or 3. Code 1 warned the people there was a reported bomb in the area, Code 2 meant there was one in the store to look for it, and Code 3 was more definite one--get out of town.

An ordinary work day had begun for Diane when a Code 1 announcement came over the PA system. She noticed surrounding stores were closing shop and soon a Code 2 was announced. She didn't really see a need in searching for the bomb possibly planted some where in the store. After not being able to determine why theirs was the only store open, she decided at that point to go home, job or no job. Later, everything was back to normal, if it can be normal after a bomb scare, and she returned to work.

Mrs. Bell returned to Snyder in April after the application for Mr. Bell's citizenship was in progress to help secure jobs for the 1977-78 school year. She stated that Omar Burleson had been especially helpful in getting through to the proper authorities in the procedure for acquiring the visa hopefully to soon be acquired.

While in England, she visted Scotland and Wales with her husband. The cities visited were full of American tourists, so there was little chance to hear the dialects and observe the local people.

When visiting the Tower of London, Mrs. Bell realized that two of her ancestors were held prisoner in the Tower. One died while trying to escape. He had made a rope out of sheets which proved to be less than adequate and he plunged to his death. The other did escape but was captured and beheaded. His head was returned to the Tower and mounted on a stick for all to see.

While sight seeing in London, the Bells did not have tea with the Queen, but did see the Prime Minister as he left 10 Downing Street. 10 Downing Street is a very simple house on a narrow street and you can walk right up to the door. Although they did not agree with the Prime Minister politically, it was a very exciting experience.

Opening lead — Q♦

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One of the hardest type hands to bid is the one that belongs in five of a minor suit. Somehow or other no one likes to try for an 11-trick game in preference to one in notrump or a major suit, so when a pair gets to five of a minor there is a strong tendency to go on to six and hope for the best.

Today's hand illustrates a really old convention that makes it easy to stop at a minor-suit game.

South has almost enough for a forcing opening, but just bids one club. North has a normal one-heart response whereupon South shows his great strength by jumping to two spades.

North rebids to three clubs to show his club support and now the convention comes into use.

South simply jumps to five clubs. This bid says, "Partner, I have two diamond losers. If you have first-round diamond control please bid five diamonds to show it; if you have second-round control please bid six clubs."

North is looking at two quick diamond losers and passes.

Ask the Jacobys

A Florida reader asks if there is a convention known as "The big diamond."

There are several bidding systems that use both one-club and one-diamond openings as artificial forcing bids. They are extremely complicated and none have been given any acceptance except by the inventor.

New Labeling On Cigs, Diet Products Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)- Warning to smokers: Cigarettes may kill you.

Warning to women: Prolonged use of estrogen, a sex hormone, many increase your risk of cancer.

Warning to food makers: Watch what you say about your low-calorie foods, and how you say it.

In separate announcements Wednesday, the federal governments moved to give you protection and more information about products you use everyday:

-The Federal Trade Commission asked Congress to approve a new warning label for cigarette packs. The agency says the old warning that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health understates the hazard.

-The Food and Drug Administration ordered manufacturers of estrogen to provide to every user of the hormone a brochure warning that prolonged use increases the risk of cancer of the uterus. The brochure also says there may be a relationship between the drug, used to treat menopausal problems, and other types of cancer.

-And the FDA proposed new rules on what foods can claim to be low calorie and restricting advertising that makes such claims.

In its annual report to Congress for 1976, the FTC asked lawmakers to consider two possible new warnings to replace the one used on cigarette packages since 1970.

"Warning: Cigarette Smoking is dangerous to Health, and May Cause Death from Cancer, Coronary Heart Disease, Chronic Bronchitis, Pulmonary Emphysema and Other Diseases," was one alternative.

The second was: "Warning: Cigarette Smoking is a Major Health Hazard and May Result in Your Death."

The FTC also proposed that all cigarette packages and advertising contain information on tar and nicotine content.

In addition, it recommended that packages of small cigars include warnings that they also may pose health hazards "if smoked in the same quantities" as cigarettes and "if the smoke is inhaled."

In announcing the brochures for users of estrogen, the FDA said it wants the warnings printed in common language, so everyone can understand them. Distribution must start by Sept. 21.

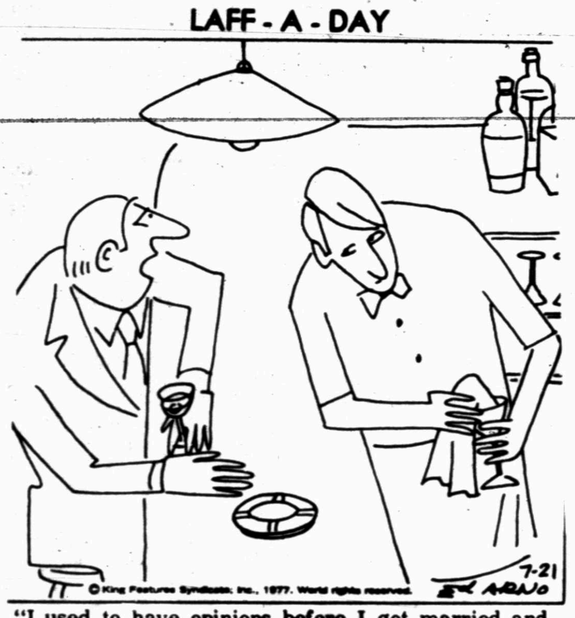

Estrogen prescription drugs are used by about three million women to treat menopausal and post-menopausal symptoms. The agency said women using the drugs for a year or longer are multiplying their risk of uterine cancer by five to 10 times.

The agency proposed ordering a similar warning brochure for the hormone progestin, used primarily by women with menstrual problems.

In proposing strict rules on what foods can claim to be low calorie and recommending advertising restrictions, the FDA said it wanted to let weight-conscious consumers know which foods "may particularly help them attain and maintain their proper weight within a balanced and nutritious diet program."

Under the regulations, a food may claim to be low in calories only if a single serving contains no more than 40 calories, and a gram contains no more than four tenths of 1 per cent calories.

Spy Suspects Are Arrested

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)-Two men accused of aiding Soviet bloc spies planned to use a cabin cruiser to smuggle components of the top-secret U.S. cruise missile to Soviet agents in Cuba within the next two weeks, the FBI says.

Carl Weischenberg, 33, a West German, who officials said is awaiting trial in his own country on charges of high treason and is now living in Freeport, in the Bahamas, and Carl John Heiser, 32, of Highland Beach, Fla., were arrested Wednesday at Fort Lauderdale International Airport as Weischenberg prepared to board a plane for Freeport.

They were formally charged with "acting as agents of East Germany and the Soviet Union without prior notification to the Secretary of State," a charge less severe than espionage because the government wants to expedite the case, a knowledgeable source said.

"When you have a foreign national leaving the country you want to act quickly," the source said.

The charge carries a fine of $5,000 and up to 10 years in jail.

Heiser and Weischenberg were ordered held without bond after a brief hearing before U.S. Magistrate Peter Palermo in Miami. Another hearing was scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Daniel Ennis of Miami says Weischenberg and 11 other persons are awaiting trial in West Germany on charges of high treason involving sale of West German data processing materials to Soviet bloc nations.

The FBI said Weischenberg had offered Heiser $250,000 for components of the cruise missile, a pilotless weapon which can fly a pre-programmed route to its target at extremely low levels. It did not say how Heiser would have gotten such components.

President Carter has chosen the weapon as one of the United State's first-line offensive weapons of the future.

In a 14-page affidavit, the FBI said Weischenberg presented Heiser with "shopping lists" for material, including IBM microfilm cards, manuals and tapes, Memorex computer programs, Bendix computer drive shafts and nuclear fuels.

FBI officials did not say what the various computer cards, tapes and programs contained. IBM, Memorex and Bendix are major defense contractors.

The FBI affidavit detailed dozens of alleged meetings, telephone conversations and trips to Germany by Heiser and Weischenberg dating back to April 1976.

Among other things, the affidavit lists comments allegedly made to an FBI informant by Weischenberg that the Soviets wanted to purchase uranium oxide 205, thorium 230 and other nuclear fuels "in any quantity available."

The FBI said much of the affidavit's information came from confidential informants.

Warrant Is Issued In Mare Theft

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)-The FBI says it's looking for an itinerant "horse fancier" in connection with the theft last month of a $500,000 mare in foal to Triple Crown winner Secretariat.

The FBI said Wednesday that an arrest warrant has been issued for William Michael McCandless, 30, charging him with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. McCandless' last known address was Nashville, Tenn., said FBI spokesman Allen Whitaker.

The mare, 10-year-old Fanfreluche, was stolen from Claiborne Farm near Paris, Ky. on June 25. The horse is owned by Jean-Louis Levesque of Canada.

Whitaker said McCandless was spotted recently in Texas and Tennessee, but added that there hasn't been any sign of the horse.

"The thrust of our investigation is to get the horse to safety first and then bring the individual to justice," Whitaker said.

Franfreluche, the champion 3-year-old filly in North America and Canadian horse-of-the-year in 1970, already has produced a foal, L'Enjoleur, that has twice been named Canadian horse-of-the-year.

Dr. Walter Kaufman, a veterinarian, has said that Fanfreluche, is "an habitual aborter" and needs a special drug to maintain the pregnancy.

The mare last received the drug June 22 and was scheduled to receive it again three weeks later. Kaufman said that without the drug there is a 90 per cent chance of abortion.

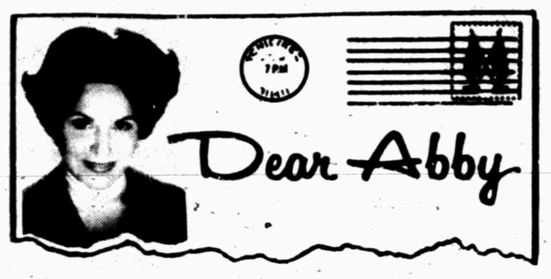

The mare had been in foal about two months when she disappeared.

Atahualpa, last of the Inca rulers, was the illegitimate son of El Emperor Huayna Capac and the daughter of the Indian chief of Quito.

Wanted Wife To Act Alive

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y.News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I just read in a magazine that one of the most unusual letters you ever received was from a woman who said that on her honeymoon her husband wanted her to lie in a tub of cold water for 20 minutes, and then come to bed and "pretend" she was dead.

Boy he IS weird! I would have been satisfied if on our honeymoon my wife had taken a hot bath and came to bed pretending she was ALIVE!

OPPOSITE PROBLEM

DEAR OPPOSITE: The wife of the weirdo who likes 'em cold and lifeless wrote to my sister. Not me.

DEAR ABBY: I was raped almost two years ago and something has been bothering me ever since. I was a virgin before I was raped, and now I won't be able to wear a white wedding dress because white stands for purity, and I'm not pure anymore.

I don't have a boyfriend and I may never get one, but in case I do I'll have to tell him the whole story and he may not even believe me.

Or do you think because I couldn't help myself I can wear white?

TROUBLED AT TWENTY-ONE

DEAR TROUBLED: Even though you may not be a virgin technically, you are still morally "pure." However, white gowns are not reserved for virgin brides only. Any bride who has never been married before may wear white.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a wedding with a male friend of mine. Although the invitation was sent to him, he asked me to accompany him. I accepted and we had a wonderful time. To my amazement, my friend received a bill for $25 for "taking a date."

In the past, my friend and I double-dated several times with the bride and groom, so I was no stranger to them. My friend and the groom had even been roommates for a while.

I'm in my 30s and have attended many weddings (myself taking a date, or vice versa) and I have never heard of being "billed" for my guest.

The parents of the bride are supposedly "upper crust" society. Is this proper? Have you ever heard of it before?

SAN FRANCISCAN

DEAR SAN: It is not proper, and I've never heard of it before. You fail to mention whether your friend asked if he could bring a date. If he brought you without asking, perhaps this was their way of punishing him. In any case, it was a chintzy stunt.

Car Inspection Program Flunks

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)-Two Springfield politicians who helped inaugurate a new program to test auto emissions found their cars flunked the air pollution exam.

The two-week inspection program is not mandatory and was set up as a demonstration project.

Mayor William C. Sullivan, the first to take the new test Monday, sent his car to the city's Taylor Street garage for a carburetor adjustment after it scored too high on carbon monoxide emissions.

And state Rep. Arthur J. McKenna, D-Springfield, also needs minor carburetor adjustments. Operators of the city's testing program told McKenna his car was spewing out too many hydrocarbons.

BORING BUT BEAUTIFUL--Fans watching Snyder's game against the C-City All Stars earlier this week might have been bored at the way the local leaguers handled their opponent, 12-1. After all, even home runs can be monotonous, especially when six file over the outfield fence. Above, left to right, Charles Bollinger, Casey Peterson and Barry Davis all round the bases. Bollinger slapped two homers and Peterson and Davis collected one each. Also grabbing home runs were Curtis Gafford and John Overton. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Orioles, Chi-Sox Leading....

Pitching Decisive In AL Race

NEW YORK (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox, overlooked in preseason pennant predictions, will attempt to keep fooling the experts when the American League division races resumed today.

"I don't see anybody running off and hiding in either division," said Chicago Manager Bob Lemon whose White Sox led the defending champion Kansas City Royals by 2½ games in the AL West, with the Minnesota Twins five games behind.

Third baseman George Brett of the Royals, for one, doesn't think the White Sox can hold on.

"I'd have to say we're favored even though we're 2½ games back," said Brett, buoyed by a six game winning streak which the Royals hoped to continue now that the All-Star break was over.

"I'd have to say we're coming. We've come a long way since the start of the season and we're playing the best baseball we have all year. It's seems like when the trading deadline passed last month we started playing better."

Pitching apparently will be the decisive factor, in both the AL West and in the East, where the Orioles led the Boston Red Sox by one-half game and the New York Yankees by three games.

"Whoever gets the pitching will win," said Lemon, a Hall of Fame pitcher.

"No one in the West has had outstanding pitching," added Chicago outfielder Richie Zisk. "You can't expect us or Kansas City or Minnesota to go out and keep scoring five or six runs a game. You've got to win the 2-1 games."

Minnesota's Rod Carew agreed.

"There's no sense scoring five and six runs a game if your pitching isn't going to hold the other team," said the Twins' first baseman, the major league's leading batter with a .394 average. "Our pitching has been a little slack. We have to be more consistent."

The Red Sox have relied thus far on the home run bats of George Scott, Jim Rice, Butch Hobson, Carl Yastrzemski and Carlton Fisk. But Yastrzemski said: "If we get pitching like we had on our last road trip, good consistent pitching, we'll be okay. We got to play good solid, mistake-free baseball and we have a couple of real tough months coming up."

The first pitcher ever to hit a grand slam homer in World Series history was Dave McNally of Baltimore in 1970.

Cincinnati's Worried...

A Dodger Pennant?

NEW YORK (AP)—Having disposed of the American League in another All-Star Game, all the National League stars get back today to the more important business of settling the divisional races.

"Nobody knows what the future holds," said Los Angeles Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda. But if the last 70 games are anything like the first 92, Lasorda won't have any complaints. In the only major league race that isn't close, the Dodgers hold a commanding 9½-game lead over the two-time world champion Cincinnati Reds in the National League West.

"I'm hoping we can maintain it, but there's still a long way to go," said Lasorda, who has seen previous Dodgers' teams succumb to the persisent patter of Cincinnati footsteps.

Since their blazing 22-4 start, however, the Dodgers have been merely a 37-29 team, a .561 pace. "We haven't hit recently and I've been unable to give Steve Garvey, Ron Cey, Bill Russell and Dusty Baker a rest due to the fact that some of our other guys have been hurt," Lasorda noted.

The Reds wouldn't mind seeing the Dodgers play .561 baseball the rest of the way.

"I figure that if they play .600, we've got to play over .700," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson. "We've got to play like heck. I think we have to win 50 of our 73 games, and that's not an easy chore when you're only 48-41. We're capable of it, but I think that they're going to have to stagger a little for us to catch them.

Despite the recent addition of Tom Seaver, the Reds' pitching has to be the biggest disappointment, Anderson said.

In the NL East, the lead of the surprising Chicago Cubs has dwindled form 8½ to two games over defending champion Philadelphia in the last few weeks.

"We haven't been playing too good," admitted pitcher Rick Reuschel, one of the NL's top winners with 12 victories. "But we're still in first place and that's a pretty good indication that if we can ride through this slump we should be okay.

"I think it will be as close as it was in the first half, all jumbled up. I still think four clubs will be in it pretty much," said Phillies Manager Danny Ozark, noting that the Pittsburgh Pirates were only five games off the pace with the St. Louis Cardinals eight back.

Spuzich Recalls, Compares Open

CHASKA, Minn. (AP)—Sandra Spuzich has fond memories of the Hazeltine National Golf Club, where she won the U.S. Women's Open in 1966.

Miss Spuzich, 40, hopes to duplicate the feat in the 1977 tournament, which began today on the revamped 6,313-yard layout.

"They've made some changes on the course, haven't they," she asked rhetorically after a practice round.

"I'm hitting the ball better than I did then," Miss Spuzich said.

"But that doesn't win tournaments for you. You have to get the ball in the hole."

Miss Spuzich, of Indianapolis, has managed only one victory on the tour since 1974, but she is hoping to change that with a repeat Open performance at Hazeltine.

The victory in 1966 earned Miss Spuzich $4,000, compared to the $15,000 first-place money in this year's event.

Defending champion JoAnne Carner, who has won the tournament twice, three-time winner Susie Maxwell Berning, Sandra Haynie, Betsy Jameson, Murle Breer, Carol Mann, Donna Caponi Young, Patty Berg, Cathy Cornelius, Sandra Palmer and Miss Spuzich are past champions in the tournament.

Heisman's Face In Scrimmage

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)—A routine rookie scrimmage between the Dallas Cowboys and San Diego Chargers was to become a Heisman Trophy showcase today.

Heisman winners Tony Dorsett of the Cowboys and Johnny Rodgers of the Chargers were making their first appearance in National Football League uniforms in the scrimmage on the campus of the University of California-Irvine.

A few young veterans as well as rookies will participate in the scrimmage.

Dorsett won college football's most prestigious award after last season when he led Pittsburgh to a national championship.

Rodgers won the Heisman Trophy at Nebraska after the 1971 football season, but this year will be his first in the National Football League after a stint in the Canadian Football League.

Also appearing in the scrimmage will be Joe Washington, former Oklahoma running back who missed all of last year with the Chargers following a preseason knee injury. Washington was second to Archie Griffin in Heisman voting two years ago.

Another name from the past who will participate in the scrimmage is former Dallas Cowboy backup quaterback Clint Longley, who will share San Diego signal calling duties with former Baylor star Neal Jeffrey and Mike Ernst.

NBC Schedules Ali Bout In September

NEW YORK (AP)-The Muhammad Ali-Earnie Shavers heavyweight title fight that had been faced with legal technicalities the past few months has taken a step toward becoming a reality.

It was announced Wednesday that Ali would defend his championship against the fifth-ranked challenger in a scheduled 15-round bout Sept. 29 at Madison Square Garden, to be shown on home television by NBC.

At Least 32 Dead

Flood Waters Recede

By JAMES McKAY
Associated Press Writer

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)-Flood waters from swollen mountain creeks have receded, leaving a devastated landscape and at least 32 dead in the Valleys around this southwestern Pennsylvania steel town.

Seven counties were battered Wednesday when torrential rains overloaded small creeks and rivers in a 70-mile stretch.

There were widespread reports of persons missing and presumed dead, but communications were erratic and rescue efforts were delayed by deep water.

Civil Defense officials estimated 2,000 persons were homeless in Cambria County alone. It was not known how many were dislodged elsewhere.

It was the third major flood in 88 years in Johnstown, whose name became synonymous with disaster after the Johnstown Flood of 1889 killed 2,200 people.

Then, as in this week's tragedy and in the flood of March 17, 1936, when 20 people died, the steep green valleys channeled mountain runnoff into the Conemaugh River and Little Stony Creek and created sudden, killing thrusts of churning water.

In the 1889 flood, the earthen South Fork dam broke 14 miles upstream, and the water-with nowhere to go to vent its power-was still a raging wall of death when it arrived in Johnstown 57 minutes later.

"It all happened so fast, too fast, and then it seemed like it would never end," said pregnant Elaine Mitchell, who narrowly escaped the high water Wednesday.

A temporary morgue was set up at East Hills Elementary School just outside the city.

The flooding struck in Bedford, Cambria, Clearfield, Indiana, Jefferson, Somerset and Westmoreland counties. About 8.5 inches of rain fell between about 9 p.m. Tuesday and 4 a.m. Wednesday.

Crawford County, some 100 miles to the northwest of the Johnstown area, suffered flash flooding and heavy damage when it received about four inches of rain in the same period.

The Laurel Run Dam north of Johnstown broke and washed out 10 houses downstream. At least 25 persons were reported missing in West Taylor Township.

Carl Thomas, 59, an asphalt plant superintendent, said he had found the body of his brother-in-law, but his sister, brother and sister-in-law, their four children and a granddaughter were still missing.

Thomas' 80-year-old mother had a stroke prior to the flood.

"We don't know how to tell her," he said.

Gov. Milton Shapp toured the area by helicopter with U.S. Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., and declared an extreme state of emergency.

Auditors Find Security For System Weak

WASHINGTON (AP)—Security for a nationwide communications system linked to government computers is so poor that a private insurance company could file false claims for federal welfare checks and go undetected, federal auditors say.

Thirty-three federal agencies have 2,190 terminals on the Advanced Record System, which auditors from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said has serious weaknesses.

"Security procedures and controls over data transmitted through the ARS network need to be strengthened to prevent use of the system for unauthorized purposes," an audit said.

The communications system, run by the General Services Administration, receives messages from agencies' terminals and sends them to their proper designations.

For instance, a claim for Supplemental Security Income, federal welfare for the aged, is filed at a local Social Security office. The request for payment would by typed on a terminal and transmitted to the computer system, which in turn would send it to the Social Security computer in Baltimore.

But the system cannot tell which terminal is sending a message. A deliberate attempt to disguise a terminal's identity can succeed.

The auditors used a terminal in Washington, but not a Social Security terminal, to test the system with requests for Supplemental Security Income claims directed at the main Social Security computer.

"We found that the SSA computer rejected the messages when the sending terminal's codes were used. However, when the codes of an SSA field office were used, the message was accepted and the ... claim was established and processed for payment," the audit said.

The audit, released by Reps. John Moss, d-Calif., and Charles Rose, D-N.C., did not say fraudulent claims had been entered in this manner, only that it could be done.

The Social Security Administration said in response on the audit that its procedures should prevent issuance of checks based on such false entries. But the agency admitted its procedures are not foolproof.

The agency is the largest user of the system, employing about 1,200 terminals for Social Security, SSI, Medicare and other programs.

Some private insurance companies which help administer Medicare at the state level have terminals hooked to the system.

The Social Security Administration said it is trying to plug the holes in the system.

As Investigator In Korean Probe

Jaworski To Have Free Hand

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP)-Leon Jaworski, the former Watergate special prosecutor, says he has accepted the job as chief investigator of the South Korean influence-buying scandals because he had been promised "the ability to go all the way no matter who it may hurt, how it may hurt, or what cause it may hurt."

Jaworski told a Wednesday news conference, "I have never had more complete assurance that I would have a free hand. I also want to tell you this is going to be placed in writing in a resolution."

The Houston attorney said he had been promised twice in the past two days by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., and House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Tex., "full sway in the investigation."

The payoff scandal arose from allegations that several congressmen received financial payments from Tongsun Park, a South Korean businessman who has been accused of being a lobbyist for his country.

Jaworski, in private practice since Watergate, said, "If there is the slightest effort to suppress the investigation, I would not only go to the leadership of Congress, I would go to the public. I don't think it is the leadership of Congress that controls this. What controlled Watergate was the public reaction."

Although he will be briefed by aides during the next few days, Jaworski said he plans to begin his probe Aug. 15.

Asked to compare the South Korean scandal to Watergate, Jaworski said, "It is still a matter of searching out the facts. I have no idea what is behind all of this. But when I went into Watergate I didn't know what was behind it. I had no idea former President Nixon was so involved.

"But this is not the point. The point is to find what the truth is, a search for truth and if it wasn't for that, I wouldn't be coming out of the woodwork, so to speak."

Although he is becoming a special prosecutor for the second time in recent years, Jaworski said, "I have never been one to favor the idea of a special prosecutor. I think it can be overdone. If I thought it was a place for a special prosecutor, I would say so. But, I believe it should be an unusual situation."

Jaworski said the lack of a grand jury may make it difficult to get some information, but added, "I think I will get what I want."

He said friends had said the same thing now as they said before Watergate: "How foolish can you be.

"They say to me, 'you came out smelling like a rose on Watergate. Now you are going into this. You never know how it is going to turn out.'"

Jaworski said, "That's not the criteria. The thing is finding the truth so the American people can know and then let them make their own judgment."

Rep. Stratton Returning Nickels

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Sam Stratton, D-N.Y. is sending more than 200 nickels back to his constituents, under the franking privilege, on grounds they may be improperly trying to influence his vote on a consumer bill.

A spokesman for the Albany-area congressman said Wednesday that Stratton was returning the nickels, with a letter to each sender, saying it was a "highly improper way for anyone to lobby for legislation."

"Whether the cold cash is hundreds of five-cent pieces or a wad of $100 bills, the principle is still the same, and it's all bad," Stratton said.

The nickels are part of a campaign by Congress Watch, a Ralph Nader-inspired group, to win passage of a federal consumer protection agency.

Third Of Texas Revenue Oil, Gas Related

AUSTIN (AP)-How much does Texas' oil and gas mean to the state's finances?

Director William Fisher of the University of Texas' Bureau of Economic Geology offered this summary recently to UT ex-students:

"One-third of the gross state product is directly related to the production and processing of oil and gas, one-third of total state revenue is generated by taxes on oil and gas and much of the state's system of higher education, especially the University of Texas and Texas A&M, are dependent on oil and gas revenues for their existences."

SIB Proposes 7.3% Hike In Auto Insurance Rates

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)-State Insurance Board experts today recommended a 7.3 per cent statewide average increase in private passenger car insurance rates.

Insurance companies requested an 11.3 per cent increase.

The board, which occasionally adopts rates lower than its staff recommends, is expected to put new rates into effect with policies written or renewed on Nov. 1.

Rates rose 7.1 per cent last October and 15.5 per cent the previous January.

A policyholder's premium probably will change by a different figure than the statewide average. Actual rates vary according to make and model of car, driving record, hometown, age of driver and the use to which an auto is put.

Board actuaries said accident figures indicate these average statewide rate changes, by category of coverage:

-Bodily injury liability up 3.4 per cent.

-Property damage liability up 2.8 per cent.

-No-fault Personal Injury Protection (PIP), down 5.7 per cent.

-Uninsured motorists, up 13.8 per cent.

-Full coverage comprehensive, up 22.6 per cent.

-$50-deductible comprehensive, the coverage held by most Texans, up 10.6 per cent.

-$250 deductible collision, the standard coverage unless a policyholder requests a lower deductible, up 13.5 per cent.

Staff-recommended increases compare with the insurance companies' request for hikes of 8.3 per cent for bodily injury liability; 13.2 per cent for property damage liability; 9.8 per cent for $250-deductible collision; and 25 per cent for full comprehensive.

This probably will be the last auto hearing for board chairman Joe Christie, who is expected to resign within the next few months to run for U.S. senator.

During his four years on the board, Christie employed private consultants who came up with methods for keeping rate increases below what staff actuaries recommended.

Last year's device was the automatic $250 deductible for collision and $50 deductible for comprehensive, which held the increase far below the staff's recommended 19.3 per cent.

David Irons of Dallas spokesman for the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office, said increased auto repair costs man rates should rise.

"For the most part it appears frequency or the number of accidents will be declining or stabilizing but severity or the cost per accident, representing the dollar costs to repair and replace insured autos as well as pay for medical and hospital bills, is going almost straight up," Irons said.

Base Closing Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON (AP)-Areas hit by the closing of a military base would receive economic assistance under a bill introduced by Michigan's two U.S. Senators.

The bill, sponsored Wednesday by Republican Robert Griffin and Democrat Donald Reigle Jr., would require that 10 per cent of the estimated 10-year savings gained by closing the base be channeled back into the affected community.

The money would be disbursed through the U.S. Economic Development Administration and Office of Economic Adjustment. It would be used for projects which create new jobs and to improve opportunities for new business and industry.

The sponsors said some $28 million would be available over the next 10 years through the closing of Kincheloe Air Force Base, near Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., one of five Air Force bases scheduled to be closed this year.

The other bases are Webb AFB, Tex.; Loring AFB, Maine; and Craig AFB and Richards-Gebaur AFB, Mo.

The senators condemned assistance now available and said it was appropriate for the federal government to help communities affected by its decisions.

More than half the work force in Michigan's Chippewa County near Kincheloe owe their jobs directly or indirectly to Kincheloe, the senators said.

Its closure will cause a 24 per cent population loss, 43.4 per cent unemployment, 22 per cent regional payroll cuts and a depression-type housing market, the senators said, citing an Air Force study.

Flippen Charges Dropped

AUSTIN (AP)-Felony theft charges against Sharon Flippen, former deputy director of the Texas Good Neighbor Commission, have been dropped. Travis County Dist. Atty. Ronnie Earle says she is innocent.

"The initial investigation showed probable cause to indict, but further investigation of the entire matter has revealed to my satisfaction that Ms. Flippen is innocent of the accusations brought against her," Earle told a news conference Wednesday.

Ms. Flippen was indicted June 13, along with five others, on charges of misuse of government funds in connection with a $50,000 contract between two state agencies for preparation of a report.

The indictments grew out of an internal addit by the Texas Education Agency of a contract between TEA and the Greater South Texas Cultural Basin Commission.

Charges against the other five, including former executive director Manuel Garza of the Good Neighbor Commission, are still pending.

At the time of the 1975 contract, Garza worked for the TEA and Ms. Flippen for the basin commission.

why energy plan lags

Two and a half months of time has passed since President Carter warned the American people that an energy crisis of major proportions will be upon them in the early 1980s unless drastic corrective action is taken in the meantime.

He said time is of the essence. Sharp cutbacks in use of oil and natural gas must begin at once. Waste must be reduced. Alternate sources of energy must be developed. That address to the nation and the one to a joint session of Congress later clearly indicated emergency action spelled in capital letters.

But little has happened since that time.

Several explanations come to mind. The President turned his attention to other matters almost by the time he finished his address to Congress. Selling the program was turned over to James Schlesinger, slated to head a new Energy Department.

Punitive taxation and complicated schemes for collecting money from a few and distributing it among the many were key-proposals. For all his reputation for competence in public affairs Mr. Schlesinger is no salesman. It is not surprising that a majority of the people, according to public opinion polls, still aren't convinced there is an impending shortage of oil and natural gas.

lesson in economics

The Joint Council on Economic Education, a private, non-profit organization supported both by industry and labor, has come out with its "Master Curriculum Guide on Economics" which shows teachers how to present the basics to children, even of kindergarten age.

It recommends that teachers have children identify places in the community like the post office, schools and stores. The idea is to distinguish between things people do for themselves and those they share, between needs met by individuals and needs met by government - in short, between the private and public sectors.

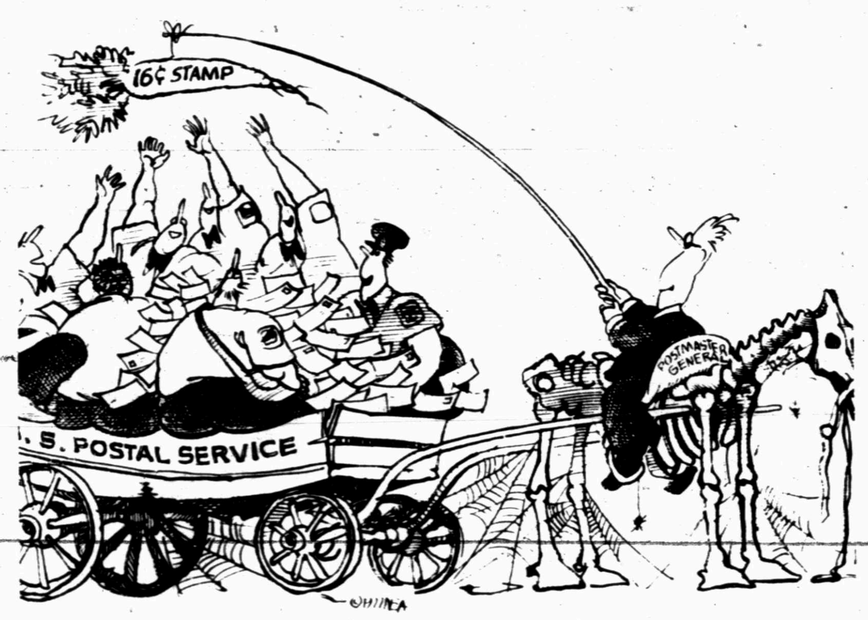

This would have been a splendid way to teach - but only before the great explosion in domestic government spending. It took 163 years - from 1789 to 1952 - for domestic spending to reach $34 billion; in the last 25 years it has jumped to $257 billion.

In 1971, New York's Morgan Guarantee Trust Company figured that if government spending kept on increasing at the current rate, every American would be on the public payroll by 2049.

Accordingly, children in 2049 wouldn't be able to distinguish between the public and private sectors, the latter having gradually disappeared. Morgan Guarantee, of course, will be proved wrong, but the possibility, however remote, suggests this cautionary note: In economics, as in all disciplines, what is, is not necessarily what ought to be.

A government agency, for instance, doing a job is not proof that it ought to be doing that job.

School children, as well as others, should ask not who's doing what, but what should they be doing. It might happen that some of the "needs" now met by government better could be met by individuals - in the private sector.

gambling tempting

If any city needed a hypo, Atlantic City did.

The historic boardwalk was shabby, most hotels shoddy, tourism was nil and conventions rarely went there and never twice.

Now Atlantic City is busy, bustling, booming. Property values are soaring. Conventions are being booked for hotels that are not even built yet

All because that state has elected to legalize gambling which it hopes will convert old Atlantic City into a new version of Vegas East.

If the response is disappointing this first big gamble will bankrupt a lot of builders, promoters and raw land speculators.

But if Atlantic City is a success as a gambling mecca....

Then every city that's pinched in the pocketbook is going to be tempted to allow gambling. This could be the start of something awful!

The first casino will not open in Atlantic City for another five or six months but there is already an increase in weekend tourism.

Not one slot machine is functional in Atlantic City--yet outsiders are so caught up in the fever that bills to legalize gambling have already been introduced in state legislatures in New York and Pennsylvania, Florida and Massachusetts.

Resort owners in the Poconos and the Catskills are reluctant to and scared not to.

In New Jersey it was a coalition of local politicians, local businessmen and union officials who promoted the necessary state legislation.

They were assisted by some out-of-state people. All the time the New Jersey legislature was considering this calculated gamble, it was assumed the "outstate people" included nobody more sinister than hotel builders and professional casino operators.

Anyway, it was a smooth and well-financed campaign. It was sufficiently financed and sufficiently persuasive to influence mightily any money-conscious state legislature.

But I remember a J. Edgar Hoover admonition which remains disturbing.

I had asked him why--if gambling on the stock market is all right--shooting craps is not.

He said that the best argument against legalized craps, roulette and slots...are the kinds of people these things attract.

He considered Las Vegas a social cancer, the skimmed profits from which supported all manner of vice and crime internationally.

So they and all will know, organized crime is trying to move in on Atlantic City with loan sharking and protection racketeering. The causeway linked island is seeing enough added boat traffic to indicate a tremendous potential for smuggling. With the Brunos and the DeCavalcantes and the Gambinos in town, local police are out of their league and the feds are now so fettered with court restraints that the bad guys have every advantage.

But Atlantic City is too euphoric to worry right now. Unemployment which was 22 percent plus last March is shrinking fast. Some 49,000 new jobs are projected. Property values have doubled in ten months.

Liquor licenses you couldn't give away a year ago now sell for $30,000.

And one looks on and wonders.

concerns shift places

NEW YORK (AP)-The uncertainty of business is no more vividly illustrated than in the fortunes of two Memphis, Tenn., companies-Cook Industries, Inc., and Union Planters National Bank.

The directions taken by those two concerns-both well known nationally and internationally-are good examples of the fact that nothing is predictable in corporate life.

Just a few short years ago, the concerns were speeding full-steam in opposite directions. Cook, under the tutelage of chairman E.W. 'Ned' Cook, was a high-flying commodities company that had grown to become one of the five-largest grain exporting firms in the country.

The company's young, aggressive staff, said to be among the best-paid in the industry, came up with coup after coup in arranging huge grain sales abroad. Between 1972 and 1974, Cook's pretax earnings skyrocketed to $80 million form $4 million. The company was the pride of the city.

At the same time, there also was another company in the city that was attracting headlines in newspapers around the country. But most of the space being devoted to Union Planters-UP- was dealing with the $742.5 million deposit bank's financial troubles, and the plethora of lawsuits implicating members of the bank's management were involved in fraud and kickback schemes.

While observers were praising the successes of Cook, they were wondering out loud when UP would go down for the third time into the nearby Mississippi River. The bank had a loss of nearly $17 million in 1974 and a deficit of $2.8 million a year later.

It hasn't happened. In fact, now, just a few short years later, the situation is reversed. UP apparently has pulled itself up from the basement-at one time it had been labeled by the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency as the No. 1 troubled bank in the country-and Cook is being hit by financial chaos that threatens its very existence.

Business watchers attribute the shifts to the company's top officers-Cook, and UP's chairman and chief executive officer, William M. Matthews Jr. They say that as Cook Industries' successes mounted, Cook delegated more and more authority to his top management. With that delegation of authority went the internal controls that could have prevented Cook's current status.

The situation at Union Planters is different. Matthews' 16 and 18-hour days already are legend in the area. And his one-man-rule manner has turned off many townspeople, as well as colleagues. But in the three years he has spent at the Memphis bank, he has been able to turn a nearly hopeless situation around.

Just last week, Union Planters reported its second quarter results, and the numbers gave further proof that the bank is, indeed, on its way to financial recovery. The company's parent, Union Planters Corp., reported net income of $471,193, or 15 cents a share, for the quarter. That put the firm's first half earnings at $784,559, or 25 cents a share, compared with a net loss of $2.7 million, or 86 cents a share, a year before.

Through the profit figures are small by major bank standards, they nonetheless are significant advances by UP. First of all, they represent operating earnings. And secondly, they look extremly good when compared with the massive deficits that had been commonplace at the bank.

The turnaround hasn't been easy, Matthews says, citing a 33 per cent cut in employes and a key trimming in the savings account interest rate last December. But so far, his decisions have been accompanied by a Midas touch-everything is turning to gold.

"I had to be aggressive to turn this bank around," the 44-year-old executive says. "The situation when I came here was just unbelievable."

"We had low-level employes, making $12,000 a year, who were wearing diamond rings and driving to work in Continentals. Nobody in the previous management ever thought to ask how they could afford it. Now we have enough ex-employees in jail to open a branch."

Matthews' aggressiveness also is paying off in the electronic banking area, where UP has taken a huge lead in Memphis that argues well for its future. Matthews claims, as do some bank analysts, that UP is in the forefront of banks in the country in electronic banking.

Across town, at Cook Industries, things aren't as rosy, and information is much more difficult to get.

The apparent demise of Cook Industries began a few month ago, when in the period of few weeks, a corporate empire was nearly brought to its knees.

The company was required to disclose information about questionable payments abroad to start things off. Then, in rapid succession, it announced that it had a loss of $27.4 million or 7.47 a share, in the first nine months of its fiscal year; that its expected a deficit of $60 million for the fiscal fourth quarter; and that the top two officers in its agriproducts group the ones responsible for huge losses were resigning.

Trading in Cook shares on the American Stock Exchange was halted and the company began to sell off many of its assets and lay off employes. Rumors began to circulate that the company would scale back sharply and become basically a cotton firm, leaving the much more volatile grain business altogether.

Ned Cook has refused to comment on the developments throughout the turmoil, choosing instead to allow commodities experts and the press to speculate on the company's future.

government responsible

WASHINGTON, D.C.--This past week the subcommittee on Health of the Ways and Means Committee started consideration of a measure recommended by HEW proposing to contain hospital costs.

On March 25, 1976, we wrote about soaring costs of hospital care. It is the Government's attitude that the high cost of health care is a rip-off by the doctors, hospitals and all other facets of the business. In some instances this is undeniably a factor but it has been encouraged by the Government itself.

The problems in our medical pricing system have been largely created by the Government, yet, the basic truth is continually ignored.

The admistration is telling us all the drastic things we need to do to curtail the "devasting inflationary trend" of hospital costs. As usual, the blame for the evil complained of is laid at the doorstep of private enterprise and not at the network of Government controls. There is no acknowledgement anywhere that the problem is further Federal meddling, added to all the previous meddling. Never is there any indication the Federal Government is largely the problem, not the solution.

Studies by both government and private institutions find that Federal involvement in the public health-care field has virtually wrecked the medical pricing system. Government programs have unleashed a surge of demands into the medical economy over the past decade, producing spiraling inflation now being experienced.

Between 1965 and 1975, taxpayer dollars released into the system by Medicare and Medicaid increased from around $7 billion to $41 billion. All that money, bidding for medical resources, would have had an inflationary effect in any event but the impact was made particularly acute in the case of hospitals, through the special emphasis of Government programs on hospital care.

From the standpoint of the consumer, hospital care (and other medical services) is perceived as "free" or virtually so. Normal restraints on demand have been abolished and the pricing system is no longer able to perform its usual function of sorting out priorities. As a result, the sky is the limit. Under methods now used, hospitals are paid a daily rate, related to their own cost of operation. The hospital administrator can no longer deny requests for higher wages, more supplies and other intensive costs on the ground that money is lacking.

Put all of this together and we have the crisis of rising hospital costs complained of by HEW, representing the Administration. Efficiency of operation is, in many cases, penalized while inefficiency in other instances is rewarded. Obviously, it should be the other way around.

From start to finish, the current mess in medical pricing is the creation of the Government itself and there will be little remedy until the fact is recognized, admitted and something done about it.

The rodeo is an activity that is quickly gaining recognition as a competitive sport.

Long confined to backwoods America, the rodeo now attracks throngs of admission-paying spectators to modern, indoor arenas.

Entire multitudes of persons attended last year's Scurry County Rodeo and the national finals of the American Junior Rodeo Association. The rows of bleachers were peopled with city-dwelling spectators one would not normally expect to find at such an activity.

The day of the archtype cowboy died a generation or two ago. Only on very large ranches does one even see quarterhorses employed in a roundup today.

This is the era of the professional and semi-professional cowboy who often travels a circuit in rodeo competition.

While the fabled old West may not have been like this, the modern rodeo helps spectators inured to Hollywood Westerns relive a nostalgically rich and largely bygone era.

Not only are the spectators allowed to vicariously experience the excitment, but the cowboys themselves do also.

Without the prospect of winning money, many cowboys might find themselves financially unable to compete. Without the rodeo contestants, the last vestiges of the old West might be found only in history books.

Several weeks ago, I embarked on a new project. I began growing a mustache.

Growing a mustache is something limited to approximately half the world's populace. It is not, however, limited, solely to men.

I have a great aunt who has a mustache almost as good as mine. But she is a woman and her mustache has a feminine appearance to it.

My mustache however, if it not exactly the most masculine product I have ever seen, is at least a laudable beginning. Being a natural blond, my mustache is also blond.

How many blond mustaches have you ever seen? Probably not very many. Mine is not easily seen either.

I had been carefully cultivating my mustache for a couple of weeks before anyone down here at the office even noticed it.

And even after my mustache was noticed, it was a couple of minutes before the laughter subsided.

Brain cells malfunction

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Will you please write about hardening of the arteries? Every time my husband is in the hospital or in bed for a few days he gets confused, doesn't know where he is or what he does or says. It's awful.

He is 74 years old and has been sick for a long time with several different things. I would like to know all I can about the confused way he gets. You can't reason with him then, and he thinks he's not at home when he is.

DEAR READER — This is a very common condition in our society. Whenever the brain cells are not functioning properly you may have confusion. One can see this when the brain cells are affected by medicine or drugs, as may occur even with excess alcohol.

Fatty deposits in the arteries build up and interfere with the normal blood flow to brain cells. This is the same disease that occurs in arteries elsewhere in the body. This may cause significant changes in personality, confusion and changes in behavior. The artery disease really decreases the oxygen supply to sensitive brain cells.

There are studies being done on how to cope with these conditions but I must say there is very little that can be done at present. It is probably important to spend time trying to help the person relate to reality. Be firm in saying what the facts really are. In other words insist that he is home when his mind is playing tricks on him and he thinks he is not. Enforce the idea that a visitor is not some imagined person from the past. These people have a hard enough time determining what is correct without reenforcing their fantasies.

Good medical care helps. Any anemia may decrease the ability to supply oxygen to the brain and make matters worse. Careful attention to nutrition and providing as normal an environment as possible is about the best that can be done.

The best approach is to prevent these problems in so far as possible. That means preventing atherosclerosis, the fatty-cholesterol deposits. Small strokes may also cause this condition and can best be prevented by controlling high blood pressure, avoiding obesity, eating a low-fat low-cholesterol diet, avoiding cigarettes and having a sensible exercise program.

I am sending you the Health Letter number 2-5 (Stroke: Cerebral Vascular Accident — Cerebral Thrombosis) to give you more information on problems of circulation to the brain. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019

DEAR DR. LAMB — My boys ages 7 and 9 pop their knuckles probably ten times a day or more. I have heard this will cause them to have large knuckles when they are older and also that they could get arthritis from it. Is this true or is it one of those tales we hear?

DEAR READER — No, it is not true. I suspect the person who has to listen to this habit thinks they should be punished in some way. A few years ago a physician and his son did a survey on knuckle poppers and arthritis. There was no evidence that knuckle popping caused any problems of any kind.

So it seems the biggest danger is that some exasperated parent or grandparent may be driven to commit mayhem if they do it too often.
