Wife held in killing

A 34-year-old Big Spring woman is in custody at a local hospital today in connection with the early morning shooting death of her husband. Lonnie Joe Brown, 34, was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace China Long at 6:30 a.m. today, victim of a single .22 gunshot wound to the head. Brown was found in bed in his trailer home on Matt Loop off of Jeffrey Road, Long said. Brown's wife, whose name Sheriff A.N. Standard declined to release until he can consult with the district attorney's office about possible charges, remains in custody at a local hospital. "She has been committed to a local hospital with charges pending," Standard said. Long confirmed Brown's wife was admitted to Big Spring State Hospital. No motive in the shooting has been established, Standard said.

Humane Society

Members of the Big Spring Humane Society, in a special meeting Tuesday night, voted unanimously to accept a donation of land on which to relocate the society's Adoption Center. The land, to be donated by Stan and Sue Partee, consists of approximately 10 acres north of I-20 and is described as a portion of Sec. 29, Bl. 33, Twn. 11N. The first priorities, said a Humane Society spokesperson, are to build a road into the property and to drill a water well. Members refused to speculate as to how long it would take to complete the relocation, but said that building the fences and renovating the building on the property would probably take some time. "A lot depends on how much help the community will give us," said one member.

The tamale scam

If the tamales you bought from two girls aren't any good "they aren't ours" says Father Robert Vreteau, pastor of the St. Thomas Catholic Church in Big Spring. Vreteau said two girls have been going door-to-door selling tamales and representing themselves as selling the goodies for the church. "Yes, we make tamales and we sell them . . . in fact we're making some now for a festival in July — but our tamales have never been sold outside of the parish. These girls are representing themselves as being from the church and they are not." Vreteau became concerned about the tamale sellers after receiving a call from a local business that told the priest the tamales they bought from the church were no good.

Ex chief's disability fight to continue

By BRADLEY WORRELL

Members of the local firefighter's pension commission voted Tuesday to fight a ruling by the state Firemen's Pension Commissioner in favor of a former Big Spring fire chief. Carl Dorton was recently awarded a decision for an undisclosed disability claim in the state pension commissioner's court. The former fire chief's attorney Hardy Wilkerson said Dorton was entitled to the firefighter's benefits because of three back surgeries he underwent while serving on the fire department. All of those surgeries were the result of injuries suffered in the line of duty. "I don't think we've argued his disability was work related," City Attorney Gene Shotts told trustees Tuesday. The question is how extensive those injuries are, particularly since he took another job after retiring from the fire department, Shotts said. Dorton currently serves as 911 administrator. The dispute between Dorton and the Big Spring Board of Trustees of the Firefighter's Relief and Retirement Fund will now go to district court in Austin. Trustees had sought to block Dorton's attempt to receive disability benefits. The board voted 3-2 in June of 1988 to deny Dorton's disability claim, but Dorton won two cases against the board in the state pension commissioner's court. The trustees voted 5 to 1 Tuesday to appeal the state pension commissioner's decision to district court in PENSION page 3-A

Officials look to the 1990s

By BRADLEY WORRELL

A commitment to forward-thinking in education, medicine and government is needed for Big Spring to prosper in the 1990s. That was the message a panel of educators, health experts and local officials in city government told the final class at the Leadership Big Spring conference Tuesday at the Brandin' Iron Inn. The speakers shared their goals for the city in the coming years. Police Chief Joe Cook said the police department is currently "cursed with youth," but said he hopes veteran officers will emerge from his staff in the 1990s. The average commissioned officer on the police force has 4.7 years experience, he said. "We're going to make some mistakes . . . until we have some experience under our belts," Cook said. "I'm amazed we don't make more errors than we do." Cook was asked what could be done to keep trained officers in Big Spring, but declined to answer the question. Howard College President Bob Riley shared his goals for the college for education in the 1990s. "We'd rather be a good junior college than a mediocre four year school," Riley said of the college's plans for the 1990s. Although the school once considered a mission change to a four year school, "We're content with being a quality junior college," he said. Riley told members of the Leadership Big Spring conference that he does not expect the mission change of the University of Texas at Permian Basin to affect Howard College significantly. "It will have a dramatic effect on Midland and Odessa junior colleges," he said. Asked how the school was doing in efforts to recruit minorities, Riley replied, "We're not there, we're not where we want to be . . . It's something we're working on." The college will continue to have an active minority recruiting program in the future, he said. Dr. Don Crockett, a practitioner with Malone & Hogan Clinic, told Leadership Big Spring members that medical care locally and nationally may change drastically in the future. "The medical care you receive now may not be the medical care you'll receive in the next 20 years," he said. Priorities in health care may have to change because the funding to provide wide-range medical care for everyone may not exist years from now, he said. Crockett noted the expense in medical bills has soared for patients and medical insurance has sky-rocketed for doctors.

Big Spring word whiz correctly spells 'sumptuous'

By MARIO CRISTALDI
Herald Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Big Spring word whiz Carvell Nguyen had no trouble in the first round of the National Spelling Bee, correctly spelling "sumptuous" this morning. After asking for a definition and a re-pronunciation, the 13-year-old eighth-grader calmly spelled the word, meaning costly or magnificent. Nguyen spelled 67th in the 222-speller field, as the first round of competition began today at the Capital Hilton Hotel in downtown Washington. Some of the words spelled correctly in the opening round were

He said Tuesday that he planned to rely on his strategy from past bees — including his trip to the national bee in 1987.

Bush: Let Europe be whole and free

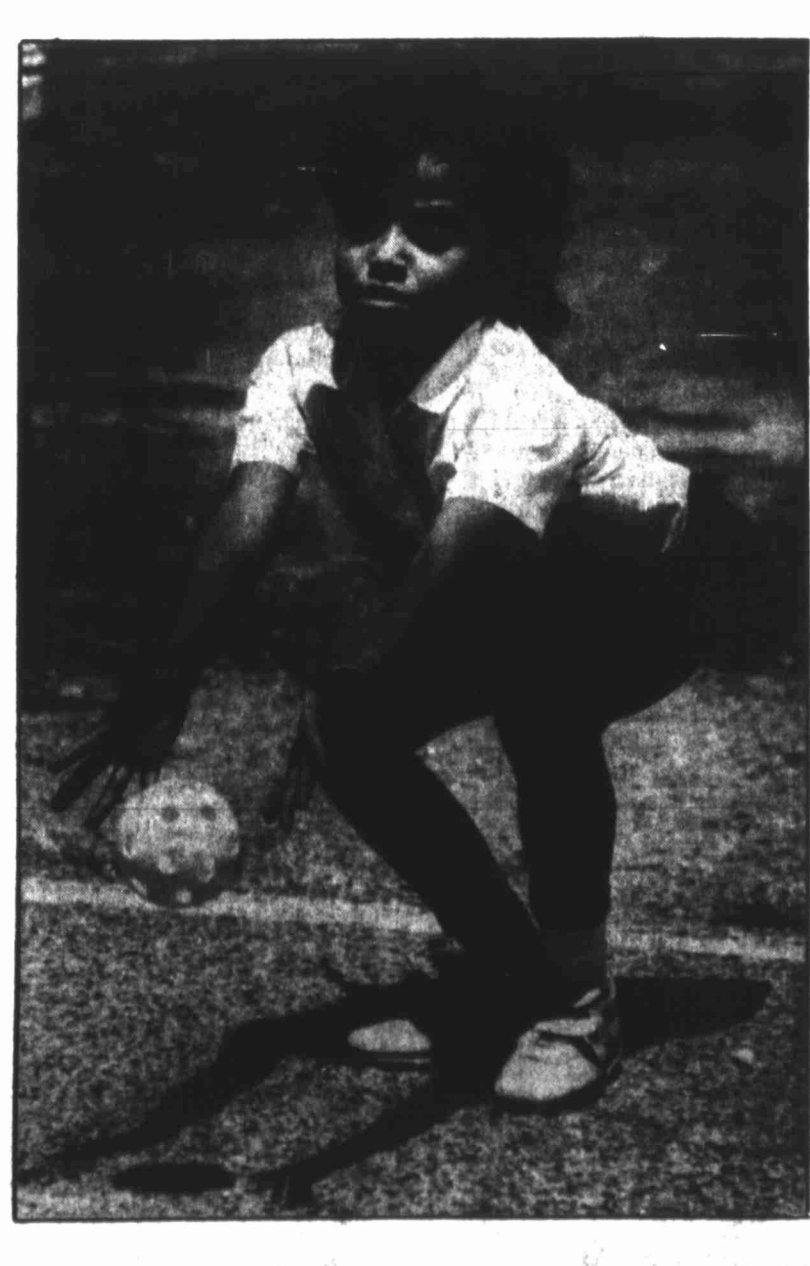

By TERENCE HUNT
Associated Press Writer

MAINZ, West Germany — President Bush today challenged the Soviet Union to bury the Cold War by ending the division of Europe, starting by tearing down the Berlin Wall. "Let Europe be whole and free," he declared. In a major speech clearly aimed at Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, the president said popular demands for democratic reforms are sweeping through the communist world, forcing a re-examination of Cold War fears and security precautions. "The world has waited long enough," said Bush, who plans to visit Poland and Hungary in July. "The time is right. Let Europe be whole and free." "The Cold War," he said, "began with the division of Europe. It can only end when Europe is whole." Triumphant after his debut at the NATO summit in Brussels, Belgium, the president spoke in the Rhine River city of Mainz before an audience in the Rheingoldhalle theater. Four blocks away, about 250 demonstrators protested Bush's visit under a heavy police

Chief begins hunger strike

PATTON VILLAGE (AP) — The town's police chief began a hunger strike in an attempt to convince the governor not to sign a bill he claims will starve his town and other "poor" cities in Texas.

David Broussard said his hunger strike was "the only thing left to do" to protest House Bill 243, which instructs cities with populations of less than 5,000 that revenues from traffic fines can fund no more than 30 percent of their overall budgets.

Broussard, who began his hunger strike of "coffee and water" last Thursday and has lost about seven pounds, said he hopes his action will rally enough support from small towns to convince Gov. Bill Clements to veto the bill.

Patton Village, a Montgomery County town of about 1,300 north of Houston, currently receives about 65 percent of its almost $300,000 budget from traffic fines, officials said. The town includes a small stretch of U.S. Highway 59.

Mayor Judge Lennon said the bill discriminates against small towns and fails to recognize Patton Village's efforts to clean up its policing activities on the highway.

Ms. Lennon also is concerned the legislation jeopardizes the town's future, since some officials believe it will be used to slash all sources of city money.

Broussard said 900 cities in Texas also will be affected.

Extension service offering ag tour to South Texas

By DON RICHARDSON County Extension Agent

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service offices of Howard, Midland, Martin, Andrews and Crane Counties, in a multi-county educational program effort, is planning a special agricultural tour for area agricultural producers and other interested individuals on June 26-29 to South Texas.

This tour is planned to provide an opportunity to learn more about cotton insect identification and management programs before our area reaches the critical insect problem stages. Tour participants will have the opportunity to visit the Laureles Division of the famous King Ranch, where extensive farming operations have been recently introduced.

management tips plus other cotton farming practices will be demonstrated to those on the tour.

On the second day of the tour, participants will have the option of going on an eight-hour Deep Sea Fishing trip or returning to the King Ranch for an extensive tour of their Norias and Santa Gertrudis divisions to view the cattle, horses and wildlife operations.

The tour group will return home on June 29.

A complete agenda for the South Texas Agriculture is as follows:

Thursday, June 15 — Deadline to Register for tour ($50 registration fee must be included with each registration form).

Consumers bemoan legislative failures

AUSTIN (AP) — Some important battles were lost in the 1989 legislative session when efforts to improve such areas as insurance, banking and pesticide regulation fell short, say consumer groups.

"It has not been a good session for consumers," said Tom Smith, director of Public Citizen-Texas, Tuesday.

Rebecca Lightsey, legislative liaison for the Texas Consumer Association, agreed, saying, "I think this is one of the worst sessions that consumers have seen in a very long time."

Consumer protections backed by the groups were removed from insurance reform legislation in the House; some utility reform proposals died, including one to reduce ratepayers' costs when nuclear power plants are decommissioned; and a measure requiring local investment by banks failed.

Pesticide regulation could be weakened because the Legislature took sole pesticide regulatory authority away from Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, placing it instead with a regulatory panel headed by Hightower, said Ms. Lightsey.

Lawmakers also turned away a proposal to allow chemicals to be pulled off the market when they are found to harm people, she said.

The blame for the burial of consumer-oriented bills lies with the House, said John Hildreth, director of the Southwest regional office of Consumers Union.

"Although the Senate was responsive to many consumer issues, the House consistently locked up good bills in committee, or gutted good bills," he said.

Smith said, "We have had to fight every step of the way to make sure that the abuses have not gotten worse ... It's time that consumers begin to fight back and protect their rights."

Some bills termed harmful by consumer groups also fell, Hildreth noted. Among them was a measure that would have changed the way utilities figure the federal taxes they pass on to consumers, a bill the groups said would have cost ratepayers $1 billion.

Bills targeted by consumer groups were not the only ones that did not make it through the Legislature before the session ended at midnight Monday.

A noted failure was lawmakers' inability to reach agreement on reforming the state workers compensation system, which has been criticized for high rates and low benefits. Gov. Bill Clements has said he will call a special session on that issue.

Among other casualties were bills to:

- Reform the way candidates finance their campaigns.
● Change the way judges are selected.
● Reduce the state's take from betting on pari-mutuel horse racing, pushed by some as necessary to attract large, lucrative tracks to the state.
● Revise Medicare supplement insurance laws.
● Ban the sale of certain assault-type rifles.
● Issue permits allowing people to carry concealed handguns.
● Stop the so-called revolving door, a practice in which state employees quit their jobs, then go to work representing private companies before the state agency where they once worked.
● Make English the official state language.
● Allow spousal maintenance — alimony — after divorce.

Wright still unbeatable as candidate, opponents say

By The Associated Press

Even if a House Ethics Committee investigation prompts House Speaker Jim Wright to resign his leadership role, the Fort Worth Democrat still would be an unstoppable congressional candidate as far as Republicans are concerned.

"Jim Wright was elected 34 years ago when Texas was a Democratic state," said Steve Hollern, GOP chairman in Wright's home district of Tarrant County. "His influence over the years has continued to grow. He's able to attract some Republican-leaning votes."

In recent years, Wright's home district — once staunchly Democratic — has elected two Republican presidents, a Republican governor and a Republican senator. But Wright never has feared Republican opposition.

Wright was elected to the House in 1954, and in the 15 general elections since 1960 he has run unopposed seven times. In the eight other elections, he won an average 68 percent of the vote.

The last time the Republicans were even close was in 1980, when Fort Worth businessman Jim Bradshaw garnered 39 percent of the vote. But last year, after the ethics probe began, no Republican faced Wright in his re-election bid.

"As a county chairman, my position would be, 'Why would we want to go out and run a candidate if we (only) can jump from 31 to, say, 38 percent?'" Hollern said.

Now with the House Ethics Committee investigation stealing headlines, even Wright's colleagues are indicating the speaker may step down.

Wright is being investigated for 69 violations of House rules. He said Tuesday he would announce this week whether he intends to resign.

But while Texas politicians already are speculating about who could replace Wright, it's unlikely anyone could beat Wright for the 12th Congressional District, Hollern said.

"I think if Jim Wright decides not to stay in Congress ... the whole ball game changes," Hollern said Tuesday. "If he stays there, I don't think we can beat him."

"Any time that district does not have Jim Wright as a Democratic candidate, at that point there will be a recharacterization of the district, and I think we would do very well," Hollern said.

Avon says 'no sale' to Mary Kay

NEW YORK (AP) — Avon Products Inc. has told Texas-based Mary Kay Corp. that Avon isn't for sale and sees no potential benefit from combining the two cosmetics sellers.

James E. Preston, Avon's chairman and chief executive officer, stated in a letter Tuesday to John Rochon, Mary Kay vice chairman: "We strongly believe our opportunities will be better achieved by Avon continuing with our business plan."

In the letter, released by Avon, Preston indicated Mary Kay has had a longstanding interest in Avon.

"As I told you last January, we see no advantage to combining our operations through some form of leveraged buyout or other arrangement," Preston said.

The reference was to a Jan. 11 New York dinner meeting between Preston and Rochon, Avon spokesman John Cox said. The two had no other face-to-face contact and spoke by telephone only once, to set up the meeting.

During the meeting, attended only by the two executives, Rochon extolled the advantages of being a private company and asked Preston to take Avon private and unite with Mary Kay.

Rochon has been given much of the credit for the financial success of the 1985 leveraged buyout of the Dallas-based door-to-door cosmetics company.

Rochon also told Preston an LBO could provide Preston with a financial windfall, allowing him to leave the company in a few years several million dollars richer, Cox said.

Preston replied that he wasn't interested and even if he were contemplating a leveraged buyout he wouldn't need Mary Kay to do it, according to the Avon spokesman.

Although the meeting occurred in January, Avon had been aware of Mary Kay's possible intentions earlier.

The first hint came two years ago when Joel Stern of the investment firm Stern Stewart & Co. approached Avon about the possibility of buying Mary Kay. He said he was working as a consultant for Mary Kay, according to Cox.

Avon's management evaluated the idea and decided the two direct sellers wouldn't make a good match, he said. Plus, Avon sales representatives probably would have reacted negatively because, in some areas of the country, the Mary Kay sales force is the main competition.

Several months later in 1987 word came to Avon that someone was preparing a hostile bid, Cox said. At about the same time, a public relations firm Avon had hired resigned the account on the grounds there might be a conflict with another client's business. The other client was Mary Kay.

Over the two years, Avon has been told Mary Kay has searched unsuccessfully for investment partners to help buy Avon, Cox said. Avon also learned Mary Kay wasn't interested in Avon's international business, due to concerns about the risk of currency fluctuations.

Avon has learned that Mary Kay started buying Avon shares last Nov. 10.

Wright waits on committee ruling

By STEVEN KOMAROW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Jim Wright intends to delay announcing whether he will resign until after the House ethics committee rules on his motion to dismiss key charges against him, his spokesman said today.

"It's a day-to-day thing. He's waiting for the committee," said Mark Johnson, the speaker's press secretary.

The funeral for Rep. Claude Pepper may delay until next week a committee meeting scheduled for Thursday, and the speaker seemed to indicate he did not want to make news during the mourning period.

"It's a matter of decorum," Wright, D-Texas, said this morning when asked whether he'd have an announcement today.

One of the speaker's staunch defenders said Tuesday the pressure on Wright to quit appears overwhelming.

"I believe it's probably too late to change things in his favor," said ep. Charles Wilson, D-Texas. Although "justice would be served by following the game to the end," Wilson said, he expected his friend to step down.

The heat continued as CBS and The Washington Post, quoting unidentified sources, said the Justice Department's public integrity section was launching a "preliminary criminal investigation"

Pepper's body to lie in state

WASHINGTON (AP) — The body of Rep. Claude Pepper will lie in state in the Capitol Rotunda as a tribute to a half-century political career in which he championed the elderly and the poor, his former colleagues promise.

Pepper's political odyssey, one of the longest in American history, ended Tuesday with his death at age 88. A Florida Democrat who served as a state representative before his election to the U.S. Senate in 1936, Pepper later served in the House after 12 years out of office and became its oldest member.

"He was always a voice for the voiceless and a helping hand for the helpless," said House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas. Wright said the House will adopt a resolution today so that Pepper can lie in state Thursday.

The Senate was also expected to approve the resolution today, Wright said. Lying in state in the Rotunda is the highest final honor an American can receive. It has been accorded presidents, and more recently to the unknown soldier from the Vietnam war.

Pepper had been hospitalized since April 6 suffering from an undisclosed stomach ailment, which a spokesman in his office said Tuesday was cancer. He died at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, where he returned a month ago after an interim stay at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

Pepper's colleagues said he used his opportunities to the hilt, and to the service of his least powerful constituents.

"In the bosom of that small, gentle man beat the heart of a giant — a heart that felt the pain of a world where children go to sleep hungry and where the old die alone," Rep. Joe Moakley, D-Mass., said.

"He was not just a witness to the century, he helped shape the century," said Rep. David E. Bonior, D-Mich.

The timing of Wright's announcement, if it comes, could be affected by the death Tuesday of Rep. Claude Pepper. The House legislative schedule was being truncated to accommodate the state funeral on Thursday for Pepper, who was the oldest member of Congress.

Not waiting for Wright's final decision, some of his own lieutenants are scrambling to move up in the ranks. The pressure on Wright and the power game there is no basis to her decision," he said.

But trustees noted that if the relief and retirement fund were to begin paying Dorton disability compensation immediately rather than in 15 years when he would be eligible for retirement pension, the board would be approving more than $150,000 in benefits to Dorton.

"He stands to realize a difference of 87 percent," Condray were made all the more intense by the announcement last weekend that Rep. Tony Coelho of California, the House Democratic whip, would be resigning. Coelho's resignation followed reports he earned nearly $7,000 from a junk bond investment for which he never had to put up any of his own money.

"It is in the best interests of the institution and the Democratic Party to get this mess behind us," said Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan. "Regrettably, that involves the resignation of the speaker."

Wright was charged last month by the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct with violating House rules in 69 instances.

The most serious of those involve allegedly accepting improper gifts — including a no-work job for his wife — from a developer friend, and circumventing House rules on outside income through bulk sales of his book "Reflections of a Public Man."

The speaker has repeatedly insisted that he broke no House rules or any laws, and he has vowed to fight for the honor of his wife, whom he contends earned her pay.

The ethics committee was scheduled to meet Thursday to consider Wright's motion to dismiss those charges. "I'm convinced our motions are legally well grounded," he said Tuesday.

He said.

The pension board voted to hire the legal services of Van Os, Deats & Rubinette of Austin to try the case in federal court. Trustees chose the services of the three-partner firm instead of two other Austin law firms that were considered because of the smaller legal fee and because the company is familiar with the case. The firm tried the case before the pension commissioner.

Board chairman Paul Brown, trustees Carl Condray and Steven Hedges — all members of the fire department — voted to pursue the case in district court, as did lay members Bill Laster and Robert Von Rosenberg. the 222 competitors in this year's bee, 120 are girls and 102 are boys. Girls have won the national title 35 times compared to 29 championships won by boys. On three occasions co-champions were declared.

DIVERSE: More than half of the spellers are in eighth grade, the cut-off point for participating in the contest. In addition to the 112 eighth-graders, the field includes 66 seventh-graders, 31 sixth-graders, 11 fifth-graders and two fourth-graders. The youngest finalist is nine-year-old Lisa Ishimaru of Sacramento, Calif. At 15, Philadelphia's Zach Horan and Minneapolis' Ben Vos are the oldest contestants.

FAMILIAL: Good spelling must run in families, because five of the finalists have an older brother or sister who has participated in the national bee.

INDOMITABLE: Perseverance also is a trait of many of the bee finalists. Seven of this year's contestants are making their third try at the spelling trophy, and another 30 are attending their second national bee.

Weather

Scattered thunderstorms rumbled from Colorado to Michigan early today, dumping heavy rain in the Midwest and causing some flooding, while warm weather lingered over parts of the East.

In central Wisconsin, flooding in North Fond du Lac near the south shore of Lake Winnebago forced the evacuation of about a half dozen dwellings, officials said.

In southwestern Michigan, flooding was reported in Jackson and Lansing areas. Flood watches were in effect this morning for lower Michigan and northwest Ohio.

Heavy rain during the six hours ending at 2 a.m. EDT included more than an inch in Muskegon, Mich., and about three-quarters of an inch in Lander, Wyo., and in Detroit.

In the 24 hours ending at 9 p.m. EDT, Hopkins, Mich., had 4 inches of rain and Hamilton, Mich., received 3.75 inches.

Elsewhere, late Tuesday thunderstorm winds gusted to 59 mph at Midland, Texas, downing trees and power lines, and thunderstorms in Florida spawned a tornado Tuesday afternoon in Pasco County, but no major damage was reported.

interesting," said Nguyen, who planned to get about an hour of last-minute studying in Tuesday night.

The contestants who began matching words in today's "spellingdown" emerged from local bees that involved an estimated million students from across the nation. The field was expected to narrow dramatically after a full day of spelling, and the bee will continue Thursday until a new champion is crowned.

Last year, the bee was decided after a total of 935 words, with 13-year-old Rageshree Ramachandran finally outspelling fellow Californian Victor Wang in a dramatic finish.

The national event is sponsored by Scripps Howard Newspapers. Nguyen is sponsored by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Prescription for disaster

The Federal Aviation Administration insists that the image of overworked, overstressed air-traffic controllers is largely a creation of an overheated media. But a recent survey of controllers and their supervisors at the FAA's 84 largest facilities indicates that the controllers' problems, and those of air travelers, are serious indeed.

The survey, conducted by the Government Accounting Office, disclosed widespread discontent among the thousands of men and women who sit at radar screens across the country, guiding commercial airliners and other planes to their destinations. Most of the respondents spoke of steadily declining morale because of understaffing and poor working conditions.

Stories abound of outdated equipment, inadequate training, cramped work space, long work hours and intolerable traffic loads. An air-traffic control supervisor was quoted as saying there are times at major hub airports "when the system teeters on the brink of being unsafe."

That warning was underscored recently by the the National Transportation Safety Board, which blasted the FAA for its "inadequate, ineffective and unresponsive" management of air traffic in Southern California. The NTSB's broadside came on the heels of its finding that air-control deficiencies were largely responsibility for two airliners coming perilously close to each other Orange County last February.

According to the NTSB's investigation, the FAA failed to do anything about the many problems at the Coast Terminal Radar Approach Control facility at El Toro, even though it was aware of an unusually high rate of operating errors there during the last 14 months. The facility, which tracks most of the air traffic between San Diego and Los Angeles counties, is plagued by staffing problems and poor working conditions. Controllers have been working scheduled overtime since 1985, and six-day work weeks are commonplace. The dilapidated building in which they toil is often hot and stuffy and it is crammed with antiquated equipment. The FAA expects 31 persons to work in a control room of approximately 304 square feet.

The FAA says that conditions at El Toro are being improved. Then again, the FAA offered similar assurances four years ago when a survey among air-traffic controllers reflected many of the same problems documented in this year's GAO report.

This disparity was noted by several members of a congressional subcommittee, which held hearings last week on the declining margin of safety in the nation's skies. Rep. James Oberstar, D-Minn., reminded FAA witnesses that the agency has repeatedly promised to rebuild the air-traffic control system since 1981, when most of the controllers were fired after their illegal strike. Alarming experiences demonstrate that the FAA has reneged on that promise year after year.

As a consequence, many inexperienced controllers are using outdated equipment to deal with air traffic that has increased by as much as 40 percent at major airports during the last eight years. This is a prescription for disaster.

Mailbag

Elections could be better

To the editor:

The letter that was printed in the Herald about two Sundays ago from Gary Smith, 1404 Lancaster, was very rewarding and 100 percent true.

I, as a citizen of this city, am in a way disappointed how some things are handled and done. Seems this city has an attitude of "I don't care."

To me, this city would have a much better turnout at the polls if the candidates, while out campaigning, would go out and talk with all citizens, as many as possible, at places such as their jobs, churches, shopping malls, and not just hand out cards with their names and pictures on them. Half or more of the citizen voters don't even know or have never seen the candidate before.

The way the situation is done at the polls isn't very satisfactory. That is, having voters go to two places to vote. It's very unfair for the ones especially that don't have transportation. That's one reason a lot of these candidates lose votes. Seems like this city would try to come to a decision to have one place and only one place to go and vote. For instance the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum is very ample space for all precincts, right?

And some of these candidates that have held office year after year seem to have a "for granted" attitude, not giving others a chance. After all, one person won't live forever, so why not resign and give others a chance to show what they can do? Some we never see after election. I myself worked at the Northside Fire Station as an alternative judge, have worked as a judge, clerk and floor watcher many times before for the last 20 years. And this is the first time we've had a member of the Police Department to be there on a complaint. And over a misunderstanding, not harrassment like was printed in the newspaper. But, honestly, just figure the census of Big Spring and the figures of voters that voted, it's just peanuts.

Anyway I congratulate the winners.

Praise for retiring teacher

To the editor:

While on a recent visit home, I was pleased to read the article on Stanley Blackwell in the Big Spring Herald. I had the pleasure of having Mr. Blackwell as my vocational agriculture instructor at Coahoma High School for two years and, on numerous occasions since graduation, the chance to visit with him at 4-H and FFA events.

Stanley Blackwell taught more than vocational agriculture, he taught leadership, maturity and individual development. He encouraged his students to seek their highest potential and gave them the necessary support when needed. He unselfishly gave his time driving thousands of miles and spending countless hours looking for livestock and taking students to contests around the state, all with one goal in mind — helping to create a better citizen.

Through his genuine concern for students, he has touched and shaped the lives of many young men and women across the state, helping all of us to be just a little bit better.

This letter is so short to tell you all the many things that Stanley Blackwell did as an educator and it is sad to see Stanley retire; however, I can think of few people anymore deserving of the opportunity. I wish Mr. Blackwell the very best of luck in all his future endeavors.

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire Witching provides assurance.

A visiting reporter, Bear Mills from Pampa, wrote an article for the Herald Monday about a 10-acre lot being donated to the Big Spring Humane Society by Stan Partee.

In the story, he quoted Margaret Lloyd, Humane Society board member, as saying, "Right now we're looking for a good water witch," because a well will have to be drilled on the property.

"Is 'water witch' a brand name?" asked Bear.

Heads raised and mouths gaped throughout the newsroom. How is it possible for a man to have lived 30-odd years and be ignorant of water witching?

Witching has its roots in antiquity, when it was used to find minerals as well as water. Most witchers, or dowzers, use a Y-shaped stick, metal rod or wire. Holding the forked end in both hands, they walk around until the stick dips or quivers. When it does, that's the spot to dig on.

I had my first experience with witching in the Appalachian hills in the '50s. The dug well that supplied the farm house had gone dry once too often, and my father was prepared to drill a deep well. Because he was from Kansas and new to country superstition, and maybe because he was stubborn, he ignored the advice of the neighbors to hire a witch. Instead he carefully studied the land and told the driller where to put the well.

The neighbors weren't a bit surprised when the driller hit salt water at 140 feet. Even the driller told me the well should have been witched.

He grudgingly gave in for the second well and we all gathered around and watched the witcher go to work. It was a very dramatic moment when the stick quivered and the site duly marked.

The well was a good one, deep enough to supply plenty of water, and not so deep that it hit the salt layers. I won't say that made my father a believer, but it sure impressed the rest of us.

My mother discovered some time ago that she also had the gift. She was never confident enough to mark a well, but it came in handy when we had to find water or sewer lines for repair. She would walk across the property with her wire rod and when she said, "Here," I'd stake. It worked every time.

Unfortunately I do not have the gift. I'd follow Mom but my sticks never quivered. Maybe it is because I have a bit of a problem relaxing with the unexplainable.

Skeptics and unbelievers may scoff. I'm sure it is possible to hit water without a witcher. But wells are expensive and my feeling is, why take a chance? It's a little extra insurance, like crossing your fingers.

So I agree with Margaret. We don't want to take any chances of getting a dry well. Water witchers, please call the Big Spring Humane Society, 267-7832.

I promise to tell you the results of our search for water in a later column.

Bring the fun back into eating

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Freelance writer Diane C. Arkins did a column recently that included this line: "Grocery shopping has become more terrifying than the latest Stephen King novel."

Ineed.

Hardly a day passes there isn't word from some group of researchers concerning the latest thing that's bad for us.

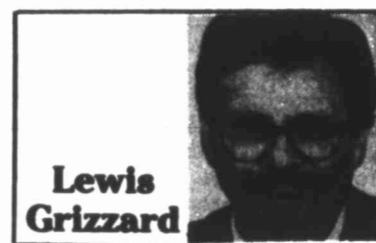

"I have this awful premonition," wrote Diane C. Arkins, "that chocolate cake is next on the researchers' hit list."

But can we always trust these researchers to be correct? It appears not.

Remember cyclamates? They were found in diet soft drinks and researchers said they could cause cancer. You were drinking diet drinks to improve your health in the first place, then somebody comes along and tells you that was not the smart thing to do.

But did you hear the latest? Cyclamates may not be bad for you after all. That's what new research has indicated, and you wonder why these people don't make absolutely sure about such things before they scare us to death.

But this isn't my primary point here. Do you know who the real losers are in the business of researching what's good for us and what they made laboratory rats drink diet sodas for 17 years before finally deciding the ingredients weren't bad for us after all.

"They made these poor rats drink what would be a human equivalent of about a case of diet drinks a day. Can you imagine having to drink a case of diet soda a day for 17 years?"

I can't drink two of the darn things before my mouth feels as though a small band of Chinese soldiers had camped there overnight.

I may have shot my share of rats, but I'm older now and hold more of a high opinion of animal life than I did in my youth.

What's next for lab rats? Is a researcher going to hold one underwater for 10 minutes and then say water is harmful to your health because the rat died?

I think researchers should do two things:

1. Give it a rest. Take some time off before you do anymore research. The public needs some relief.
2. When you resume, give the rats a break and use a cat or a duck or an occasional opossum.

Or use each other and see how you like it on the other end of a diet soda enema.

Marine deaths were preventable

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

BEIRUT — Buried in the rubble of Beirut is an American tragedy that could have been prevented. The truth is buried even deeper in the locked files of the Pentagon.

At 6:20 a.m. on Oct. 23, 1983, a pickup truck carrying two tons of cyclonite explosives careened into the Marine Corps barracks in Beirut and killed 241 Marines. It was the worst surprise attack on U.S. forces since Pearl Harbor.

Yet, it should have been no surprise to people inside the Pentagon. They received explicit warnings that the attack was coming. The military brass ignored the warnings and then covered up their negligence. U.S. intelligence had proof that the assault was instigated by Iran, but the perpetrators have gone unpunished.

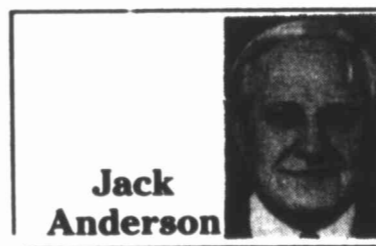

Knowing all this, two years later Ronald Reagan let himself be talked into selling arms to the regime that murdered our Marines.

From sources in Washington and Beirut, we have now learned that the Pentagon knew enough to save lives. We will reveal the details in a two-hour, prime-time TV special airing Wednesday, May 31. Here are the highlights.

U.S. intelligence learned that in June 1982, Ali Nawai, an attaché from the Iranian Embassy in Bern, Switzerland, secretly bought 300 tons of cyclonite explosives in Brussels and shipped them to Iran.

By March 1983, the National Security Agency was intercepting alarming communications that clearly indicated that Shiite terrorists, fanatically loyal to the Ayatollah Khomeini, planned to bomb the U.S. Embassy in Beirut.

The Pentagon's anti-terrorist expert, Noel Koch, went straight to then-Secretary of Defense Casper Weinberger with the warning. Koch later described what happened in a private letter to Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, of the Senate Intelligence Committee. He said Weinberger asked him to brief the Joint Chiefs of Staff and formulate a plan of action.

But the Joint Chiefs apparently were too busy to listen. Koch was shuffled off to underlings who twiddled their thumbs while he briefed them.

Then, on April 18, 1983, a car packed with cyclonite explosives rammed into the embassy, demolishing part of the building and killing 17 Americans.

Koch flew immediately to Beirut. He assigned an undercover team to find out why his warnings had been ignored. The team brought back a secret report on the foul-up with a warning that more attacks would come.

"This led to denials, ass-covering and all-around outrage that the survey (by his undercover team) had been done at all," Koch wrote bluntly. "Thus it was decided that there were no problems and, even if there were, they had been fixed. The report was swept under the rug."

Koch resumed his efforts to warn the Joint Chiefs. Four months later, the underlings submitted to another briefing, but the chiefs were still too busy to listen.

On Oct. 10, 1983, a spy satellite intercepted an alarming message from the Iranian foreign ministry to its ambassador in Damascus, Ali Akbar Mohtashami. It was clear that Iran was planning another major terrorist attack on Americans in Beirut. The Marine Corps barracks were blown up 13 days later.

Koch told Cohen that the Joint Chiefs launched a secret study

"to discover those things that we had tried for nearly a year to tell them about terrorism."

Koch concluded his letter: "I never spoke out about events leading up to the disaster in Beirut. It seemed proper not to — simply because it could only cause more pain to people already suffering the unbearable pain of the loss of people they loved. Internally, I made my views known. But who would wish to say to someone that their loved ones died because those to whom their lives were entrusted placed a higher priority on personal interests, career interests, bureaucratic interests? Better to agree, as we generally do, that it was nobody's fault."

A HERO'S TREATMENT — On our recent trip to Beirut, we learned more about the man who blew up the Marine Corps barracks in Beirut. He was a 24-year-old Lebanese Shiite cleric studying to be a holy man, just like his mentor Khomeini. His body was destroyed in the blast, but a grateful Khomeini has erected two memorials to the suicide bomber. One is in south Lebanon and the other in the holy city of Qom in Iran. Khomeini also ordered compensation for the bomber's family, and they now live comfortably on the charity of the ayatollah.

MINI-EDITORIAL — The wheels of international bureaucracy are moving slowly toward a ban on ivory. Maybe in October, an international conference will approve the ban. In the meantime, African elephants are dropping under the guns of poachers who steal the tusks and leave the elephants to the buzzards. At this rate, by the turn of the century, the only elephants will be in zoos. The only elephant will be in zoos. The only elephant will be in zoos. The only elephant will be in zoos. The only way to save the elephants is to stop buying ivory, today.

Congressman employs girlfriend

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Davis says his hiring of his girlfriend for a $28,000 a year job on the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee is ethically sound.

Davis, 56, R-Mich., acknowledged Tuesday he has been living with the 28-year-old staffer, Brook Ball, since earlier this year. Miss Ball was hired Jan. 1 on Davis' recommendation and he moved into her Virginia apartment in late January or early February, shortly after separating from his wife, Marty Davis.

"We checked with the ethics committee before we hired her to make sure there was nothing wrong with doing it," Davis said. "The answer was very clearly there is nothing wrong with it."

Disclosure of the relationship between Davis and Miss Ball prompted a flurry of accusations between the congressman and his wife of 12 years. The congressman has filed for divorce, and he and Mrs. Davis have been sparring in court over how much support he should be required to pay.

Rabbits infected with AIDS virus

WASHINGTON (AP) — A technique for infecting white rabbits with the AIDS virus has been developed by federal scientists, providing researchers with a laboratory animal to test drugs and vaccines for combating the fatal disease.

Dr. Thomas J. Kindt of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases said Tuesday that because of the new technique, laboratories everywhere will be able to use the New Zealand white rabbit as a model for studying infections of the human immunodeficiency virus, which causes AIDS.

Research into AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, has been severely handicapped because there has been no animal model to test treatment agents for the disease.

Kindt said the rabbit now can provide that model.

Spill continues to ravage wildlife

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Dead animals are piling up in refrigerated trailers on the coast as officials collect evidence of the vast damage caused by the oil spilled from the tanker Exxon Valdez.

The carcasses of 22,818 migratory birds, 733 sea otters and 51 birds of prey, most of them bald eagles, had been collected, tagged and stored by Tuesday at four coastal cities.

"It's a morbid milestone we have reached this week; more than two months after the oil spill from the Exxon Valdez, we are still counting its victims," said Walter Stieglitz, Alaska regional director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The gooey fingers of the spill have drifted more than 500 miles from Prince William Sound across the Gulf of Alaska and beyond Kodiak Island. About 11 million gallons of oil spilled from gashes in the Exxon Valdez when it ran aground March 24.

CBS reporter awarded degree

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — When CBS-TV correspondent Harry Reasoner gives the commencement speech for the University of Minnesota's College of Liberal Arts, he will receive the journalism degree that eluded him for almost 40 years.

Reasoner, 66, who grew up in Minneapolis, attended Stanford and Minnesota but never earned enough credits to receive a degree.

But during the last few years, he received the credits he needed by submitting about a half-dozen classes worth of independent study to Minnesota's School of Journalism. His grades were not disclosed.

"The oldest B.A. in the history of the University of Minnesota," Reasoner, who will receive his degree June 11, said by telephone from New York.

"About 20 years ago, the Board of Regents gave me a distinguished alumni award, which was slightly bigger than the Congressional Medal of Honor, and I said, 'Why don't you just give me my bachelor's degree?'"

"They said, 'Why don't you take Reporting and Public Affairs 101?' I let it pass."

BEIJING — The famous portrait of Chairman Mao overlooking Tiananmen Square faces off with a 33-foot statue erected Tuesday. The statue, dubbed "The Goddess of Democracy" by students, is modelled after the Statue of Liberty.

Chinese farmers support hardline

BEIJING (AP) — In a new twist, thousands of farmers and workers today marched in support of Premier Li Peng's hardline policies at a government-sponsored rally opposing the pro-democratic student movement.

The first pro-government demonstration in China's six weeks of political upheaval occurred as Communist authorities pressed ahead with tactics aimed at intimidating and discrediting students occupying central Tiananmen Square.

Farmers and workers wearing straw hats marched to a stadium in Huangcun, a village southwest of the capital, under banners saying "We support Li Peng" and "We oppose the small group causing turmoil."

Li is the main target of protesters, who demand he resign for imposing martial law in Beijing on May 20 and ordering a crackdown on tens of thousands of students and workers who have taken to the streets to demand a freer China.

The rallying farmers expressed support for the Communist Party's "four principles," which include allegiance to the dictatorship of the proletariat, socialism, party rule and to Marxist-Leninist-Maoist thought.

The Beijing Foreign Affairs Office informed foreign journalists of the march and several others in suburban sections of the capital.

Under martial law regulations that have been widely ignored, foreign reporters are forbidden from covering student demonstrations.

On Tiananmen Square, China's symbolic center of political power, about 10,000 die-hard student protesters today entered the 18th day of a sit-in, resisting government demands that they disperse.

They planned a march to the Public Security Ministry tonight to protest the reported arrest Monday of three labor leaders sympathetic to the student cause. The three were involved in trying to establish an independent labor union, which is illegal in China's 40-year-old Communist system.

"We are now basically waiting for the government to take the initiative," student leader Mo Bin said.

U.S. Marine helicopter crashes

TOKYO (AP) — A U.S. Marine helicopter crashed upside down into the sea during night training exercises off Okinawa, and 14 Marines were missing today and feared dead, U.S. military spokesmen said.

Authorities said eight other Marines on board the CH-46 Sea Knight helicopter, based in Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii, were rescued shortly after the 11:55 p.m. crash Tuesday about 30 miles south of Okinawa's Kadena Air Force base.

The names of the missing were withheld pending notification of next of kin, the Navy said. The cause of the accident was under investigation.

The Sea Knight helicopter had just taken off from the USS Denver, said Marine Master Sgt. Jake Rodrigues, spokesman for U.S. Forces, Japan.

Argentine president pressured

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The looting of groceries and rioting that have wracked Argentine cities for a week, claiming at least 11 lives, are putting pressure on lame-duck President Raul Alfonsin to step down early.

Six more people were killed Tuesday and 70 wounded as troops sought to halt the looting, much of it by women driven desperate by the economic crisis.

The country's largest labor coalition and most influential business group on Tuesday asked President-elect Carlos Menem to take office before Alfonsin's six-year term expires on Dec. 10.

The crisis stems from Alfonsin's failure to combat the $59 billion foreign debt, a national budget deficit worsened by the many inefficient state companies and months of chronic inflation that could top 70 percent for May.

The inflation has sparked layoffs, food and supply shortages and declining real wages that has left retirees living on the equivalent of $25 a month.

"The country is dying of hunger. Factories are closing. People are unemployed," Adolfo Perez Esquivel, head of the human rights group Peace and Justice Service and the 1980 Nobel Peace Prize winner, said.

Helicopter strikes cable car wires

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP) — A sightseeing helicopter struck the wires supporting a moving cable car about 200 feet above the Niagara River, but no injuries were reported.

Canadian Aviation Safety Board teams were expected to arrive today to investigate Tuesday evening's accident, which occurred above the churning Whirlpool Rapids.

The Niagara Falls, N.Y.-based helicopter carrying three tourists and pilot Mark Felderstein passed within 250 feet of the Spanish Aero Car, struck the cables and sheared off its landing gear.

The impact swayed the cable car that was carrying 17 passengers, but it returned safely to its base. Felderstein landed the copter safely on a golf course.

Cable car tour guide Roger Barnsley said he noticed the low-flying craft for several minutes before the impact.

'Soldier of Fortune' worker killed

MAE SOT, Thailand (AP) — A U.S. citizen working for the magazine Soldier of Fortune died today of gunshot and shrapnel wounds after he was caught in fighting on Burma's border with Thailand, police sources said.

Lance Eugene Motley, 32, was brought to Mae Sot hospital Tuesday night and died this morning, medical staff at the hospital said. His hometown was not known immediately.

Police said Motley apparently crossed into Burma three days ago with Karen rebels and went to their camp at Kaw Moo Ra, which has been besieged by Burmese troops since May 18.

Fighting has been raging in jungle areas of this border region since Burmese troops launched an intensive offensive last October against Karen rebels fighting for autonomy from the central government.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Neil Klompfuss said only that an American citizen died this morning "after an incident on the Thai-Burma border." He refused to release details.

Fearless fowl

RIO GRANDE, Ohio (AP) — A fearless fowl named Judy refused to be cooped up following a record-setting flight at the 18th annual International Chicken Flying Contest.

Judy flew 542 feet, 9 inches Saturday to win the contest at the Bob Evans Farm in southeast Ohio. Her flight shattered the 10-year-old mark of 302 feet, 8 inches and won $1,100 for her owner, John Salyers.

But Salyers was unable to bring Judy to the trophy stand to share in the award ceremony. During her flight, Judy swept over the flying course, an adjacent field, and so far into the nearby woods that Salyers was unable to find her.

"I lose one or two every year that way," said Salyers, who has entered chickens in the meet for nine years. "Two years ago, I had the longest flier here and I never did find that chicken."

The rest of the 228 contestants were not as anxious to flout the law of gravity.

The average chicken entered the mail-box launching chute, flapped its wings hysterically and settled on the ground a few feet away.

Salyers said he had no secret for training flying chickens. "I don't mistreat them," he said. "They're pretty wild. I just go out and say, 'Shoo!' That scares them, I guess, and they take off. But there's no training a chicken so you'll know which one will fly and which won't."

No more moonshine

NEW STRAITSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Federal revenuers have taken the moonshine out of the New Straitsville Moonshine Festival.

The New Straitsville Betterment Association had a temporary permit from the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms to make moonshine whiskey for the last seven festivals, but that has been lifted.

"The bureau says they can't legally give us a permit to make moonshine when they're trying to stop it," said Kenny Burgess Jr., secretary of the association.

The 18th annual festival runs Wednesday through Monday in New Straitsville, a south-central Ohio community which for years called itself the moonshine capital of the world.

Of the 47 stills smashed by federal revenuers in the 1930s in Perry County, 32 were in or around New Straitsville, Burgess said.

Festival organizer Betty St. Clair said she needed permission from the bureau just to make the mash, a concoction of cracked corn, sugar, yeast and water that is run through the still.

"I think it's silly. There are no free samples," she said of the decision to halt the moonshine.

Ms. St. Clair remembers being asked by a policeman where she was from during a trip to the 1934 World's Fair in Chicago.

"New Straitsville?" he said. "Oh, you're from down there where they make that good moonshine," she said.

Graduation present

FREDERICK, Md. (AP) — Hood College President Martha E. Church received a present from each of the 283 graduates at commencement, but they all got her the same thing — again.

As Ms. Church handed out the diplomas Saturday, each student passed her a Lego block to be used, according to a note from the seniors, for a new library the school is building.

She appeared relieved, said Don Schumaker, the college's assistant director of communications. "She was expecting jelly beans or cat food. Her nickname growing up was Junior Jelly Bean, and she has two cats, Rama and Pita," he said.

It was the fifth year that Hood seniors have conspired to surprise Ms. Church on graduation day. In past years, they've given her pennies, marbles, pieces of a jigsaw puzzle, even live goldfish in little plastic bags.

Key positions in Bush administration still vacant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lacking an assistant secretary for inter-American affairs, Secretary of State James A. Baker III had to put in 40 hours negotiating with leaders of Congress on U.S. aid to the Nicaraguan Contras.

Lacking presidential appointees to 33 key jobs in the Defense Department, the Pentagon had to tell Congress it couldn't meet deadlines for decisions on mobile missiles, a scaled-down Star Wars, the cost of the new B-2 stealth bomber or the impact of a prospective arms treaty.

Lacking experts to run the huge Savannah River nuclear weapons plant in South Carolina, Energy Secretary James Watkins fears that the nation will run out of tritium, a key component for nuclear warheads, and frets "this is unilateral disarmament we're talking about."

One twelfth of the way into George Bush's four-year term of office, the government still lacks key players in key places.

By the White House's count, Bush appointees are confirmed and on the job in only 25 percent of the 447 key policy-making posts requiring Senate confirmation.

Charles G. Untermeyer, the White House personnel chief, acknowledges, "It is certainly taking longer than we would like."

But Untermeyer waves away the concerns expressed all over Washington that Bush's slowness in fielding his own team is keeping alive an image of a presidency that lacks mission, purpose and vision.

He offers an array of defenses and explanations:

- It is a "friendly takeover," so no harm is done if some Reagan holdovers remain aboard for a few more months. "We look upon them as people who are carrying on the policy that George Bush embraced," he says.

- Better slow than sorry. Untermeyer says he'd rather explain now why a job is still vacant than explain months for now that a bad apple was shoved in "because we were being pressured to name someone."

- It takes longer to find qualified women and minorities. The administration is pleased that so far 20 percent of presidential appointments have gone to people in those categories. To date, according to Ross Starek, deputy to Untermeyer, important jobs have gone to 36 women, 13 blacks, seven Hispanics and three people of Asian heritage.

- Some of the still unfilled jobs have unusual technical requirements, such as the assistant secretary of commerce who serves as commissioner of patents and trademarks. Untermeyer wonders aloud why such posts are political appointments in the first place.

- Background checks by the FBI are vital, but slow down the process. Untermeyer says they take one to two months; the bureau disagrees, saying it does the job in 22 days on average.

- The first months of a new administration are spent in making policy and the rest of the time in carrying it out. For policymaking, the key players — chiefly the Cabinet — are in place.

So, says Untermeyer: "The lack of an assistant secretary here or there has not kept George Bush from getting a budget compromise, settling the FSX (the joint U.S.-Japan jet fighter), working out the S&L bailout or developing proposals on child care, education and gun control. These are the hallmarks of an administration that is up and running."

Others dispute that view as rosy. At an agency where only four of 20 key positions have been filled, an official, who spoke on condition he would not be identified, said: "My sense is that the secretary has got to be frustrated. He has half a dozen major things on his plate and for the moment has only a few people to deal with them."

Other facts complicate the situation.

During a Senate Armed Services Committee hearing, Sen. John Warner, R-Va., had an aide read off some data Warner had assembled: 18 to 24 people had turned down the job of undersecretary of defense for acquisition. Most cited the pay level or a new ethics law with a stiff revolving door provision that keeps people who leave government from taking a job in an industry they dealt with while in government.

But Untermeyer says Bush is moving as fast as predecessors.

He says: "George Bush has nominated 156 people vs. 184 at this time for Ronald Reagan. He has announced his intention to nominate another 45 and has retained 13 Reagan appointees for a total of 214. So he's practically at the same level as President Reagan was eight years ago. The notion that we are 'slow' is with no fixed point of reference."

For all that, those in charge of running pieces of the government are not so patient.

At the Energy Department, slowness in filling key posts "is delaying getting the admiral's agenda off the ground," said Joseph W. Easton, executive assistant to Watkins, the retired naval officer named by Bush to run the department. "If you don't have your team together, how can you play the game?"

Court boosts handicapped schooling

BOSTON (AP) — Public schools must provide education for all handicapped children, no matter how severe the disability or how little they might benefit, a federal appeals panel has ruled in reversing a lower court.

The ruling last week by the three-judge panel of the 1st U.S. Circuit of Appeals was in a New Hampshire case, but it could affect public schools and handicapped children throughout the country.

Judge Hugh Bowens wrote the decision that reversed a ruling last year in U.S. District Court in New Hampshire.

The appeals court said the 1975 Education for All Handicapped Children Act "mandates an appropriate public education for all handicapped children, regardless of the level of achievement that such children might attain."

The judges also said, "A school district has a duty to provide an educational program for every handicapped child in the district, regardless of the severity of the handicap."

The case began in 1974 with a complaint filed in the federal court in New Hampshire on behalf of a boy identified as Timothy W.

The complaint alleged his rights under federal and New Hampshire law were violated by the Rochester, N.H., school district when it said the boy was not eligible for special education.

At later hearings, the boy's mother and therapists testified that Timothy could hear, see bright light and respond to music, touching and talking.

But a developmental pediatrician testified Timothy "did not have educational needs and could not benefit from an education."

The district court ruled last July that federal law mandates that before a child receives a special education, a determination must be made whether the child will benefit from it.

The court concluded that Timothy could not be educated.

The appeals court remanded its ruling to the district court until the school district develops a "suitable individualized program" for Timothy.

Rochester School Superintendent Raymond Yeagley said the appeals court decision will force the school district to shift resources from students who could benefit from education and focus them on less capable students.

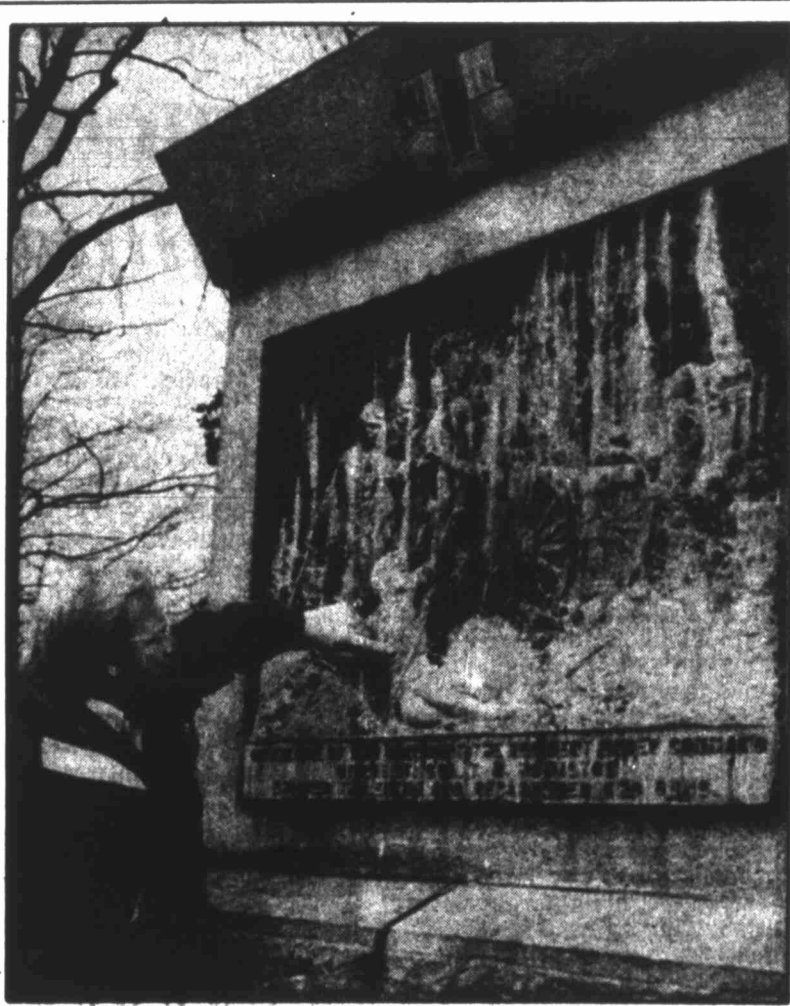

"School districts are getting to the point they are asked to do everything and spend more on education services than education," said Gwendolyn Gregory, deputy general counsel of the National School Boards Association in Washington.

The association had filed a brief in support of the Rochester school district.

Ms. Gregory said the appeals court decision could make a school liable for such medical services as physical therapy that could be considered education.

But Lorraine Greiff, spokeswoman for the Massachusetts Office of Handicapped Affairs, hailed the decision.

"I think it's terrific. How can you prove who is going to thrive and who isn't?" she said.

Since February 19, 1989, this innovative service has been available to Texas businesses only on an interstate basis. With AT&T MultiQuest Service, Texas business customers (otherwise known as sponsors) may offer value-added information services to callers originating long distance calls from Texas or elsewhere in the United States over AT&T's public switched network. A Texas caller, accessing the service by dialing the sponsor's 1-900 plus seven-digit number, can obtain recorded and/or live information by communicating with attendants, voice messaging equipment and computer data bases. Flat-rate, time sensitive usage charges will be billed to the caller for the sponsor's service.

AT&T is offering AT&T MultiQuest Service within Texas in response to requests by its business customers for a service that offers intrastate as well as nationwide interactive voice & data transport capability. Potential sponsors include entrepreneurial companies entering into new ventures that are information intensive, local mass announcement sponsors who want statewide as well as national coverage coupled with interactive capability and other information service providers.

The Texas intrastate AT&T MultiQuest Service will be tarified as an "add-on" offering to a sponsor's existing interstate AT&T MultiQuest Service. The intrastate AT&T MultiQuest Service costs will be recovered from sponsor usage charges set forth in AT&T's intrastate tariffs. The usage charges billed to the caller are determined by the sponsor as appropriate to the service being offered and are not tarified charges.

For more information about AT&T MultiQuest Service please call your AT&T Account Executive or AT&T's business consultants toll free on 1 (800) 552-0212. They can answer your questions regarding this service and how it can be of benefit to you.

Papa Joe's fast brunch

How to open an egg

By PAPA JOE REED

How about another brunch. You know, one of those mid morning meals.

They're perfect for the weekends. This way, you only have to cook two meals a day. This morning we are going to have "Eggs Benedict." Pretty fancy, huh? I notice that you're apprehensive about this dish. You needn't be. It has a fancy name, but it's easy to prepare. For your ingredients, you will need:

- English muffins (8)
- Milk
- Hollandaise sauce mix (1 pkg.)
- Eggs (8)
- Pepper and salt
- Butter
- Bacon
- Green Onions

Mix the hollandaise sauce mix with one cup of milk in a sauce pan. Cook and stir until it gets thick and bubbly; now keep it warm. Next, combine the eggs (beaten) with one third of the hollandaise sauce mix, seasoned with salt and pepper to suit taste. Pour the egg mixture into a large skillet. To scramble these eggs, you will want to let them cook without stirring, and let the uncooked portion flow underneath. Now stir in your fried bacon (chopped, of course) and continue cooking until eggs are done. Remove from heat, and spoon the egg and bacon mixture over toasted, buttered English muffins. Top with the hollandaise sauce. Now sprinkle chopped green onions and you have a brunch that will be talked about for a long time. Be honest. When was the last time you had Eggs Benedict for breakfast? Especially at home. You know, you keep learning and the family will think you are the greatest cook since Joe Reed Sr.

It's time for dinner and the question is what to have? Let's think about it for a minute. The secret of cooking is creativity. Usually you can condense it down to two questions. What to cook, and when to cook it? Let's see if we can scientifically determine this. It's evening. You had a good, filling breakfast, or should I say "brunch?" So tonight you will not want anything that is heavy and too filling. How about something light and refreshing? Also, fast and easy to fix. Let's fix a Meat and Cheese Salad. I'm talking about a complete meal in one dish. For this super duper salad, you will need:

- Bacon
- Vinegar
- Dry mustard
- Worcestershire sauce
- Cheese
- Luncheon meat (1 can)
- Salad oil
- Sugar
- Lettuce
- Green onions

First, in a skillet, fry six slices of bacon until crisp. Drain off grease, crumble bacon and set aside for the moment. Next combine a quarter cup of salad oil with three tablespoons of vinegar, a teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, a half teaspoon sugar, and a half teaspoon of dry mustard. Be sure to mix this very thoroughly. Now in a large salad bowl, combine torn lettuce leaves, a half cup of grated cheese, and three tablespoons of green onions (sliced). Remember the bacon? Sprinkle it all over the salad. Be sure to shake the dressing up real good, and pour over the salad. Now toss the salad to coat all the ingredients. Slice the lunch meat in thin slivers and garnish over the top of the salad. Elapsed time? About 20 minutes, and you have a meal that's not only beautiful to see, but tasty as well. Next week, it's a Hamburger Bake and Quick Cobbler.

Nutritious picnic sandwiches for busy summer days

Whether your favorite summer activity is boating, tennis, going for a swim or lying on a beach, chances are you're not going to spend much time indoors for the next several months. And that means most your meals will be eaten outside or on the run.

A well-balanced diet is essential for energy, and good nutrition is especially important as you become more active. But who wants to spend a lot of time indoors cooking? Luckily, you don't have to — you can prepare healthy meals-to-go that are low in calories, fat and sodium and high in great taste.

The deli is a great resource for this time of the year if you know how to choose wisely.

This week's Recipe Exchange features easy-to-prepare picnic favorites from Dorman-Roth Foods.

Bridal couple calls the shots for their wedding festivities

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that needs urgent attention. I have been living with a man for 11 years. I am divorced; "Jim" is not, but he's legally separated. Jim's family knows about me. I have been invited to their homes many times, and they have been invited to ours.

Dear Abby

Here's the problem. Jim's son is getting married, and Jim's estranged wife (I'll call her Judy) is having a dinner at her home for the bride and groom and has asked Jim to attend the dinner and act as the host.

Since Jim and I intend to have our own dinner for the bridal couple, I see no reason for Jim to attend Judy's dinner. He has given me all kinds of excuses why he should be there, so I finally agreed that he go, even though I would rather he didn't.

I also understand that the bride's parents plan to give a dinner. If they invite Jim and Judy as a couple, I definitely feel that Jim should not go because they plan on having another dinner to which Jim and I will be invited. I feel that Jim should refuse all invitations that include Judy since they are no longer a couple and are not living together.

Please advise me, Abby. What is the proper procedure? — UNSURE
DEAR UNSURE: The "proper procedure" is to do whatever pleases the bridal couple. It is quite clear that Jim's son wants his parents to appear at the bridal festivities as a "couple," so don't make it difficult for Jim or his wife. As unfair as it may seem, you should quietly defer to Jim where his family is concerned.

DEAR ABBY: I just gave birth to our second child and am still heavy and flabby. My husband desperately wants to go to Hawaii for our vacation. My problem is that I am very self-conscious about my body. He tells me to exercise, but I don't think that in one month's time I will feel comfortable in a skimpy bathing suit.

I want him to have a wonderful time, but he won't if he senses that I am miserable. I do not want to ruin the wonderful vacation that he has planned for just the two of us, but I just can't stop feeling depressed about it.

Should I go and try to fake a good time for his sake? — SELF-CONSCIOUS

DEAR SELF-CONSCIOUS: Buy some shorts and a halter top, or a pretty gauze "shift," and forget the skimpy bathing suits. Once you're on the beach, you will see all shapes and sizes — and discover you look better than most! Trust me. You won't have to "fake" a good time; you'll have one.

DEAR ABBY: A recent column contained a letter about a small child falling into a swimming pool and the CPR that saved him. Good. I'm glad the child is OK. But very young children should be taught some survival techniques.

A child of 2 months can be placed in an inch of water in the bathtub and taught to turn itself over, put its hands under its chest, and get its face out of the water so it can make a noise. By 2 years, my own children could all float on their backs!

When they were 3, I started teaching them to undress in the wading pool. Their sandals and summer shorts came off. Later, we used the same technique in deeper water.

As they grew older, the clothes became heavier and they learned to take off sneakers, shoes and winter boots. It was "fun," but when my 10-year-old son went through the ice in a swamp (a place he was forbidden to go!), I bought new boots and scolded him — but I had a living son!

Of course, children need to be carefully watched, but they also need to be taught how to take care of themselves in emergency situations — and they're never too young to learn.

I hope you think this is worth printing. — K.L. LENNOX.

Pistons must stop Jordan

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Pistons have mixed emotions about turning the NBA Eastern Conference final into a one-man show.

The Pistons and Chicago Bulls meet tonight in Game 5 at The Palace with the best-of-7 series tied 2-2.

That's mainly because one man, either Chicago's Michael Jordan or Detroit's Isiah Thomas, has been dominating while the other has been held in check.

Jordan scored 32 points as Chicago won Game 1 and 46 as the Bulls overcame a 14-point deficit down the stretch to win Game 3. Thomas, who had a total of 14 points in those two games, scored 33 and 27 in the games the Pistons won.

The storyline seems obvious: stop Jordan and you can beat the Bulls. It's a story that irritates some of Jordan's teammates.

"We don't wait around to see how Michael Jordan is going to or how we can compliment him," reserve center Dave Corzine said. "Michael Jordan doesn't control the emotions or play of this entire team. He's just one of five players."

Oh, really? Jordan scored 17 of the Bulls final 23 points in Chicago's comeback win in Game 3. He had an ordinary 5-for-15 shooting day and just two field goals in the last 43 minutes of Game 4.

"When he's not going good, I think it does shift the pressure from the defense right back onto them," Detroit guard Vinnie Johnson said. "When you've got a guy like him, a guy quarterbacking the whole game, playing and controlling everything for 46-47 minutes, you do wait for him. You do look to see what he's gonna do."

"When you depend on a guy like that for that much all the time and a team is defending him, you can find yourself standing around wanting him to put on a show."

The main difference between Jordan and Thomas is that Jordan thrives on his offensive fireworks displays. Thomas doesn't. Thomas, in fact, conducted a hasty closed-door meeting following Game 2, telling his teammates they had to pick up more of the slack.

"All I know is I don't want to lose," Thomas said after Game 4. "I've been playing this game for a long time — about 26 years — and I know what I have to do. I got my points today. I got to take the ball to the basket."

"But I don't have to score to be effective. In Game 3, I was effective, but I didn't score and we were up by 14 with seven minutes left. The reason we won (Game 4) was our defense, not my scoring."

The Pistons also do better when they can force Chicago's starters into foul trouble. That allows the Detroit bench to take over.

CHICAGO — Chicago's Dave Corzine (40) and Detroit's Joe Dumars (4) lock arms as they chase after a loose ball during Monday's NBA playoff game. Tonight at 7 the two teams will battle in game five.

LA gets rest after sweep

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, the first team in history to enter the NBA Finals without a loss, are taking a 100-mile trip to Santa Barbara. But they won't be on vacation.

The Lakers completed their sweep of the Phoenix Suns in the Western Conference finals with a 122-117 victory last Sunday.

Because they swept the Suns and the Eastern Conference finals won't be finished until Friday night at the earliest, the Lakers will have nine days off to wait for the Finals, which begin next Tuesday night.

The Lakers were scheduled to practice today through Friday at Westmont College in Santa Barbara and return to the Los Angeles area Saturday.

Should the Pistons win the Eastern Conference finals, they'll have the homecourt advantage in the Finals and the Lakers will fly to Detroit on Sunday afternoon for the first two games of the best-of-7 series.

Should the Bulls beat the Pistons, the Lakers will have the homecourt advantage and the first two games will be at the Forum.

The Bulls and Pistons are tied 2-2 heading into tonight's fifth game.

"I look at this as a good opportunity for us," Riley said after Tuesday's practice at the Forum. "We had a long layoff in '82 and nine days in '87. I think the players can use it to their advantage. It's a time to prepare, replenish and hone." Riley said the Pistons went into the Eastern Conference finals after a long layoff, and Detroit coach Chuck Daly said, "they weren't as strong in that first game."

Riley said he has planned long practices and possibly a simulated game.

In polishing off the Suns, the Lakers ran their playoff mark to 11-0. They don't seem to have any great preference which team they meet for the title, aside from the fact that they would have the homecourt advantage against Chicago because they had a better regular-season record than the Bulls.

"I would say I'd only prefer Chicago because it gives us the homecourt advantage," Riley said. "It's not as if we feel we can beat them easier. Both teams are tough."

Asked to compare the two, Riley said: "Detroit's got the defense and the matchups. They match up against us maybe better in key positions than anyone in the league."

"Chicago has enthusiasm, a sense of destiny and Michael Jordan."

Although two of Magic Johnson's closest friends, Isiah Thomas and Mark Aguirre, play for the Pistons, Johnson earlier said he'd like a series against Jordan and the Bulls.

MC Connection working wonders for Giants

By The Associated Press
Ruth and Gehrig. Mays and McCovey. Mantle and Maris. Now, Mitchell and Clark.

Kevin Mitchell and Will Clark swung their big bats again Tuesday night, each hitting three-run homers that sent the San Francisco Giants over the New York Mets 10-3 for their fifth straight victory.

Mitchell leads the majors with 15 homers and 47 runs batted in. Clark leads the National League with a .368 average with 10 homers and 42 RBI.

Mitchell had been in a 3-for-24 slump and took pregame batting practice for the first time in nearly a month. Then, the Giants took batting practice against the Mets.

"I felt that my hands were getting slow and my timing was getting off," he said. "But I've got a man in front of me that can carry the world. If I can't do the job, he can."

Mike Krukow improved to 22-7 lifetime against the Mets. San Francisco leads the West by two games over Cincinnati while New York lost its fourth straight game and fell to 24-24.

"We're certainly better than a .500 club, but we're not even playing that good," Mets manager Dave Johnson said. "I think we've really hit rock-bottom — but I've said that before."

In other games, Montreal rallied past Los Angeles 5-4, San Diego beat Philadelphia 9-3, Houston downed St. Louis 8-4, Chicago got past Atlanta 3-2 and Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 2-0.

Ernest Riles also hit a three-run homer for San Francisco. The Giants lead the majors with 43 home runs and hit three in a game for the first time this season.

"We're playing our best when we need to be," Giants manager Roger Craig said. "When you get home runs from your third-, fourth- and fifth-place hitters, it makes it a lot easier for you."

The Giants got 14 hits, seven for extra bases. Clark got two hits with runners in scoring position and is batting 21-for-48 (.437) in those situations this season.

"Will is just unbelievable. When the game is on the line and we need a hit, he handles it as well as anybody I've ever seen," Craig said.

Krukow, 4-2, gave up three runs in 5 1-3 innings. David Cone dropped to 3-4 after going 20-3 last season.

Mitchell connected off Cone in the third for a 3-1 lead. Clark homered against Terry Leach for a 7-3 margin in the sixth and Riles homered in the eighth off Roger McDowell.

The Mets slipped to 2-6 on their West Coast trip with one game left in San Francisco. Hitting, rather than pitching, has been the biggest problem.

"Our pitchers can only hold them so long, and they've done a good job," said rookie Gregg Jefferies, now batting just .187.

Expos 5, Dodgers 4
Pinch hitter Mike Aldrete's sacrifice fly capped a four-run rally in the ninth inning and lifted Montreal over Los Angeles.

The Expos, held to three hits for eight innings by Tim Belcher, opened the top of the ninth with singles by Tom Foley, Andres Galarraga and Tim Raines.

Jay Howell, 9-for-9 in previous save chances, was met by Hubie Brooks' run-scoring single. Tim Wallach followed with a sacrifice fly and Mike Fitzgerald's tied it with an RBI single, chasing Howell, 2-3.

Aldrete, batting for Spike Owen, greeted Ray Searage with a fly ball that scored the go-ahead run.

Joe Hesketh, 4-1, got the victory, the Expos' ninth in their last 11 road games. Tim Burke finished for his 11th save.

Angels' rookie fires two-hitter at Brewers

By The Associate Press
American League opponents are starting to talk more about Jim Abbott's left arm than this right hand.

American League

Abbott won his third straight start, limiting Milwaukee to two hits over seven innings in California's 3-2 victory Tuesday night. The only hits off the rookie, born with a deformed right hand, were singles by Rob Deer in the first and Charlie O'Brien in the second.

"The only handicap I saw was us trying to hit the son-of-a-gun," Brewers manager Tom Trebelhorn said. "He shut us out. It speaks for itself. We had two hits and both of them were broken bats."

Abbott, 5-3, has a 1.69 earned-run average in his last three outings. But he still must put up with constant questions about his handicap.

Abbott was replaced by Greg Minton after walking the first two batters in the eighth. Minton gave up a two-run single to Robin Yount, but retired the next three Brewers to end the inning and Bob McLure pitched the ninth for his first save.

Claudell Washington's sixth homer gave the Angels a 1-0 lead in the first off Bryan Clutterbuck, 2-2. Jack Howell's RBI double in the fourth and Johnny Ray's run-scoring single in the seventh made it 3-0.

Benches emptied in the fifth shortly after Gus Polidor was hit by an Abbott pitch. When Polidor reached third on a sacrifice and a groundout, Trebelhorn ran across the field and got into a heated argument with California manager Doug Rader. Players ran onto the field and the managers had to be restrained, but no punches were thrown.

Mariners 3, Yankees 2
Ken Griffey Jr. hit two home runs and Randy Johnson won his debut with Seattle.

Griffey hit a solo homer in the second and a two-run shot in the sixth off Jimmy Jones, who also made his American League debut. Seven of Griffey's nine home runs have tied games or put Seattle ahead.

Johnson, 1-0, was acquired along with pitchers Brian Holman and Greg Harris from Montreal last Thursday for left-hander Mark Langston. The 6-foot-10 Johnson, 0-4 with Montreal in six starts, allowed two runs and six hits in six innings. He struck out six and walked three.

Mike Schooler pitched the ninth for his 12th save in as many chances.

Orioles 6, Rangers 2
Phil Bradley drove in two runs with a seventh-inning single and the Orioles scored twice on Texas throwing errors for their sixth win in seven games.

Reliever Mark Williamson, 2-2, pitched 3 1-3 shutout innings to pick up the victory. Gregg Olson struck out the final two batters for his fourth save.

Texas starter Jamie Moyer, 3-5, gave up three runs on three hits before straining his left shoulder in the fourth inning and being replaced by Gary Mielke.

Athletics 4, Red Sox 2

Dave Stewart became the American League's first nine-game winner and Dave Parker homered and drove in three runs for Oakland.

Stewart, 9-2, gave up 10 hits and two runs in seven innings. Rick Honeycutt finished for his fourth save.

Lance Blankenship had three hits and an RBI for Oakland, while Parker drove in runs with a homer, a sacrifice fly and a double. Boston starter Mike Smithson, 2-4, gave up 10 hits and three runs in 4 2-3 innings.

Boston's Dwight Evans hit his seventh home run in the sixth.

Indians 6, Blue Jays 2
Pete O'Brien capped a five-run fifth inning with a two-run homer and John Farrell broke a personal four-game losing streak.

Farrell, 3-5, pitched a five-hitter for his first victory since a near no-hitter on May 4. He retired the last 13 Toronto batters and finished with seven strikeouts as the Indians won their third straight.

Twins 7, Royals 1
Wally Backman had three hits and two RBIs and the Twins scored all their runs in the second inning to halt Kansas City's five-game winning streak.

Kirby Puckett and Jim Dwyer also had three hits each for the Twins, who had 15 hits off four Royals pitchers.

Stan Clarke had trouble in his first major league start. He couldn't get anyone out in the second inning and was charged with all seven runs.

Defending champion rolls on

PARIS (AP) — Gabriela Sabatini, edging closer to a confrontation with defending champion Steffi Graf, became the first player to reach the third round of the French Open today, sweeping past Alexia Dechaume of France 6-3, 6-1.

French Open

The second-seeded Argentine was not at her peak on the Center Court at Roland Garros, but was still too strong for an opponent equipped with dangerous groundstrokes but lacking mobility and experience.

As Sabatini came off the court after her 72-minute victory, her half of the draw suddenly opened up as Helena Sukova, who seemed headed for a meeting with Sabatini in the quarterfinals, was upset in straight sets on a side court.

The fifth-seeded Czechoslovakian, who reached the final of the Australian Open in January, was beaten 6-1, 7-5 by Japan's Akiko Kijimuta, the 91st-ranked player in the world. Kijimuta had lost in the first round in each of her three previous appearances in Paris.

Sukova, who prefers harder surfaces than the clay of Paris, was the fourth of the 16 women's seeds to go out of the competition.

Sabatini moved up 5-2 and double-match point in the first set of her match against Dechaume but then got hit by four straight winners and lost the eighth game.

She clinched the set in the next game on a forehand topspin lob and forced Dechaume into errors in the second stanza to take a 5-0 lead.

Serving to save the match, Dechaume staged off a match point and a 6-0 whitewash, but capitulated in the next game when Sabatini converted the second of two more match points with an ace down the middle.

Wednesday's Center Court fans had a prospective tennis feast. Sabatini was being followed by Jimmy Connors, who took on fellow American Jay Berger. Then came No. 2 seed Boris Becker against Eric Winogradsky.

Graf, the top-seeded woman gunning for her sixth straight Grand Slam tournament title, faced Bettina Fulco.

Andre Agassi is trying not to think about becoming a hero by achieving what three generations of American players before him have failed to achieve — winning the men's title here.

"I would be lying if I said I didn't feel it," Agassi, the No. 5 seed, said when asked about the expectations of him becoming the first American man since Tony Trabert 34 years ago to win the title at Roland Garros.

"I do feel it but ... people can only expect 110 percent. As long as I give all I have, I feel people can't complain and criticize me if I lose. If I lose, they'll have to take me out on a stretcher."

The 19-year-old American, with trademark shoulder-length hair, denim shorts and multi-colored tennis shoes, looked anything but a loser in his first-round match Tuesday, drawing legions of fans as he outhit Johan Carlsson of Sweden, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1.

Ivan Lendl, the men's top seed, began his quest for a fourth French crown by defeating Patrick Kuhn of West Germany 7-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Other winners on the second day included Becker, a straight-sets victor over American Jim Pugh; No. 11 seed Alberto Mancini of Argentina, No. 15 Michael Chang of the United States and No. 16 Guillermo Perez-Roldan of Argentina.

In the women's draw, No. 6 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria, No. 7 Arantxa Sanchez and No. 8 Conchita Martinez, both of Spain, and Americans Lori McNeil (12) and Susan Sloane (16) also advanced.

But three seeds went out, the biggest upset caused by Raffaella Reggi of Italy who ousted No. 3 Natalia Zvereva of the Soviet Union, last year's beaten finalist, 3-6, 7-6, 6-2 after trailing by a set and 5-2.

Zvereva said her mind was not totally on the job and that she was distracted by a dispute with the Soviet tennis federation over prize money.

Home favorite Yannick Noah bowed out in four sets to Luiz Mattar of Brazil and hinted at retirement while No. 14 among the women, Hana Mandlikova, was beaten by Andrea Vieira of Brazil.

One player who more than hinted at giving up was Guillermo Vilas, the stocky Argentine who helped pioneer baseline topspin tennis.

Vilas said after his first-round defeat by Italy's Claudio Pistolesi that it may have been his last match "because I can't go on making excuses."

While 36-year-old Vilas is in the twilight of his career, Agassi has yet to reach his prime. But he already is a superstar and knows he has to give of his best to live up to his new responsibilities.

San Jacinto beats Florida team

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — San Jacinto College of Texas, behind 12 strikeouts by a pitcher riding the wind, moved into a winners' bracket showdown tonight against hard-hitting Northeastern Oklahoma A&M in the National Junior College World Series.

"The wind blowing in my face caused the ball to drop," Gator pitcher Jason Bullard said after he beat Brevard College of Florida, 7-2, Tuesday night in a stiff, unseasonable 20 mph wind.

Northeastern Oklahoma, which enjoyed a bye Tuesday, has scored 26 runs on 25 hits in its first two tournament victories — many of them coming on well-executed hit-and-run plays.

"Our philosophy is to put the ball in play," said Northeastern Oklahoma Coach Bill Mayberry. "But I worry about the bye. I like guaranteed situations."

Three teams remained alive in the losers' bracket after Tuesday's games.

Cochise of Arizona, which pummeled Iowa Western 16-4, has a bye

Wednesday. Wabash Valley of Illinois, which sent Dixie of Utah packing 9-7, will play Brevard Wednesday afternoon in a loser-out game.

Top-ranked San Jacinto, which is seeking its fourth national championship in five years, pounded 14 hits against Brevard Tuesday night.

Brevard got only six hits but stranded 12 runners against the Gators.

Bullard, 8-1, gave up a first-inning solo home run to Brevard's

Rich Tunison, then slammed the door on the Titans until the seventh inning.

Scott Bethea gave San Jacinto a 2-1 lead in the second with a two-run single. He doubled in another run in the third and came home on Randy Brown's RBI single for a 4-1 lead, with Brown singling in the fifth Gator run in the sixth.

The Titans made it 5-2 in the seventh on an RBI single by Eric Martinez, but Gator reliever Jason Ogden stopped Brevard.

San Jacinto made it 7-2 in the ninth when Chuck Foster's bunt squeezed in Chad Broussard and Tim Fiene came hom on a wild pitch.

Brevard starter Greg Ebbert, 5-3, was tagged with the loss.

Cochise pitcher Troy Bradford singled in two runs and held Iowa Western to four runs in seven innings to lead the Apaches past the Reivers, 16-4.

Bradford's two-run single in the seventh gave Cochise a 6-2 lead, all the Apaches would need to stay alive in the tournament.

Pitino leaving Knicks

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Pitino is going from pro basketball to probation.

Pitino resigned as coach of the NBA's New York Knicks on Tuesday and is expected to be named coach at the University of Kentucky later this week. The job at Kentucky, one of the most prestigious in college basketball, carries with it a three-year NCAA probation for recruiting violations under Coach Eddie Sutton, who resigned in March.

"I think right now, in the best interest of everyone, my job is to turn around the University of Kentucky," Pitino said Tuesday night after reaching agreement with the Knicks and being released from his contract. "That's my job right now. It's going to take quite a few years to do so."

It took Pitino two years to take the Knicks from near the bottom of the NBA to 52 victories and the Atlantic Division title. But it wasn't really what he wanted.

"I wasn't looking to get into professional basketball," said Pitino, 36, who led Providence College to the 1987 Final Four before joining the Knicks. "I wanted to be a part of the turnaround here with the New York Knickerbockers. I wish it could have lasted longer, but you have to know who you are and I think that's where my heart is."

So Pitino will head to the heart of Kentucky and the winningest college basketball program ever. A

Names in the news

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Julie Duffy lied about her bra size, Stacy Keach tried to convince producers he could sing and Jackie pretended to be an expert dancer, all in an effort to beat the competition for coveted parts.

In the latest edition of TV Guide, Duffy of CBS' "Newhart" admits altering her bra size when the part called for a fuller figure.

Keach, the actor who plays Mike Hammer, convinced producers of "Barnum" he could sing while walking a tightrope, and Estell Getty, of NBC's "Golden Girls," has been fibbing for years about being 5 feet tall when she's actually shorter. She still won't specify her height.

Then there are white lies committed in the form of an altered resume. Jackie, of NBC's "227," inflated her resume for a part in the Broadway musical "New Orleans" to say she took eight years of dance with Alvin Ailey and two years with Frank Hatchett, Gregory Hines' teacher.

DUFFY WINFREY

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Friends are the "chosen family" of talk show host Oprah Winfrey, who says she was abandoned by her blood relatives and abused as a child.

In an interview in the latest issue of TV Guide magazine, Winfrey said she was a child of a broken home, was shuttled from caretaker to caretaker, raped by a distant cousin at age 9 and repeatedly sexually abused by family friends.

SCOREBOARD
An travel day in the Eastern Conference final between the Pistons and Bulls, the clubs move to Chicago Stadium for Game 6 Friday.

STATS
In Chicago's five-game first-round victory over the Cleveland, Michael Jordan shot 51.8 (7 of 13) from the field, averaging 39.8 points. In the Bulls' six-game victory over New York in the Eastern Conference semifinals, Jordan scored at a 35.7 clip, shooting 55 percent (71 of 129) from the floor.
Through the first four games of the Eastern Conference final, Detroit has "held" Jordan to a 30-point average and 45 shooting (41 of 90). Jordan has had just one game in which he shot better than 50 percent — his 46-point, 16-for-26 performance in Game 3.
SEE YOU LATER
The New York Knicks on Tuesday released Rick Pitino from his contract as coach, paving the way for him to accept the head coaching position at the University of Kentucky.
Wildcats athletic director C.M. Newton offered Pitino the job last week. Pitino, who guided the Knicks to a 52-win season, their best since 1972-73, has been Newton's top choice for the job since Eddie Sutton resigned in late May.
Kentucky was placed on three years probation by the NCAA for recruiting violations, which included payments to players and academic fraud. With fringe benefits such as a sneaker contract, a basketball camp and a television show added to his base salary, Pitino could earn up to $1 million per year as coach of the Wildcats. He earned $400,000 as coach of the Knicks last season.
SEARCHING FOR A SUCCESSOR
New York, which advanced to the Eastern Conference semifinals before being eliminated by Chicago, must now begin a search for a new coach, its fourth in three years. Knicks general manager Al Bianchi has not named anyone as a favorite, but Dallas coach John MacLeod, former Mavericks coach Dick Motta, North Carolina State coach Jim Valvano and Chicago assistant coach Phil Jackson have all been mentioned as possible replacements for Pitino.
STANDING TALL
Detroit's Isiah Thomas, at 6-foot-1 the shortest player on either team in the Eastern Conference final, grabbed 10 rebounds in Game 4, an 86-80 Pistons' victory.
STAYING IN FRONT
Through 15 postseason games, the Chicago Bulls have yet to trail in any playoff series. They must win at Detroit on Wednesday to keep that streak intact.
SUPER SUBS
Detroit's starting front line of Bill Laimbeer, Mark Aguirre and Rick Mahorn played just 57 minutes Monday, combining for eight points and 13 rebounds. Reserve frontcourtmen James Edwards, John Salley and Dennis Rodman picked up the slack, scoring 29 points and grabbing 28 rebounds — 18 by Rodman — in 96 minutes, as the Pistons won 86-80 to even the series

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

U.S. Gov't. Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally"
Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

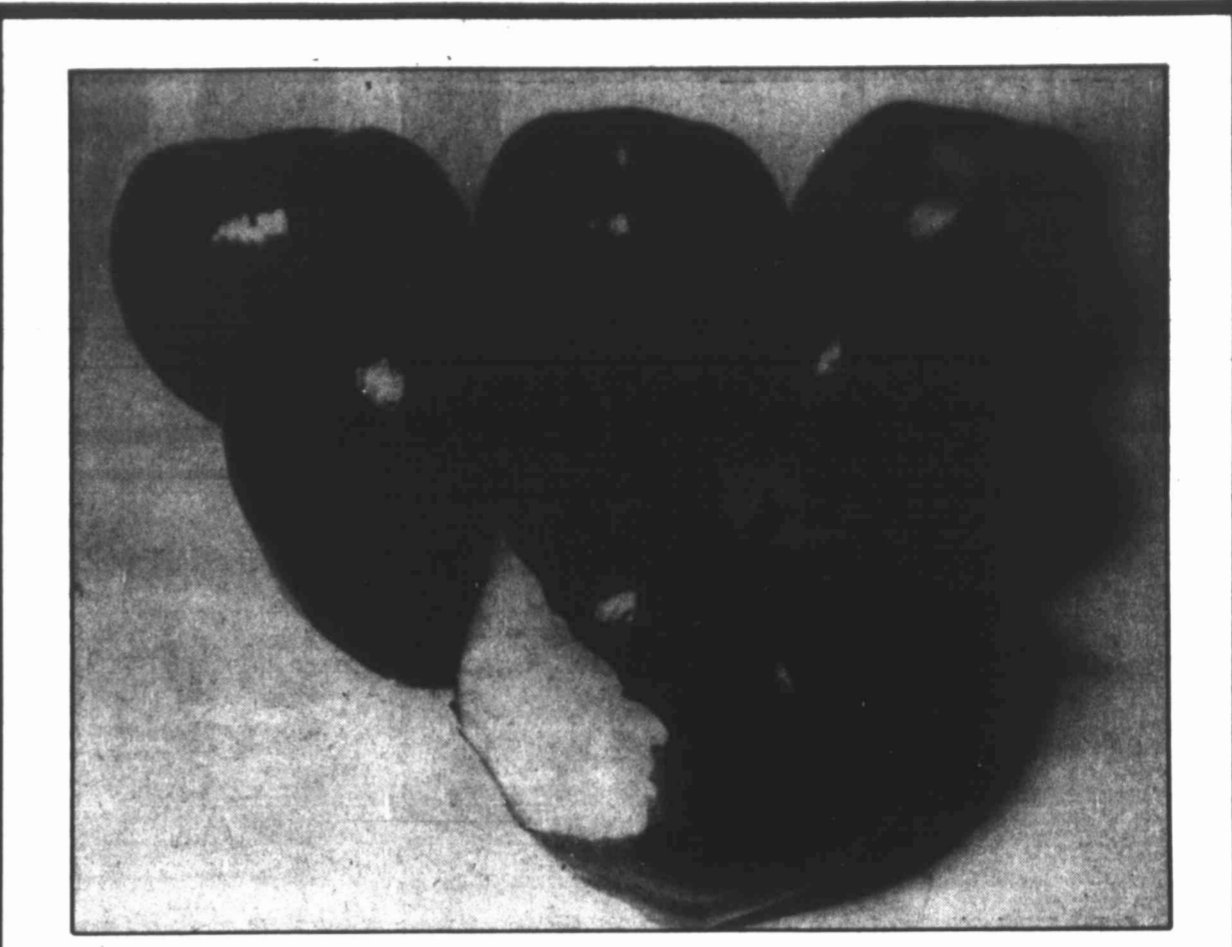

Flushes Fat Out of Body
The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat
According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a "lazy way" to lose weight because the pills alone "automatically" reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

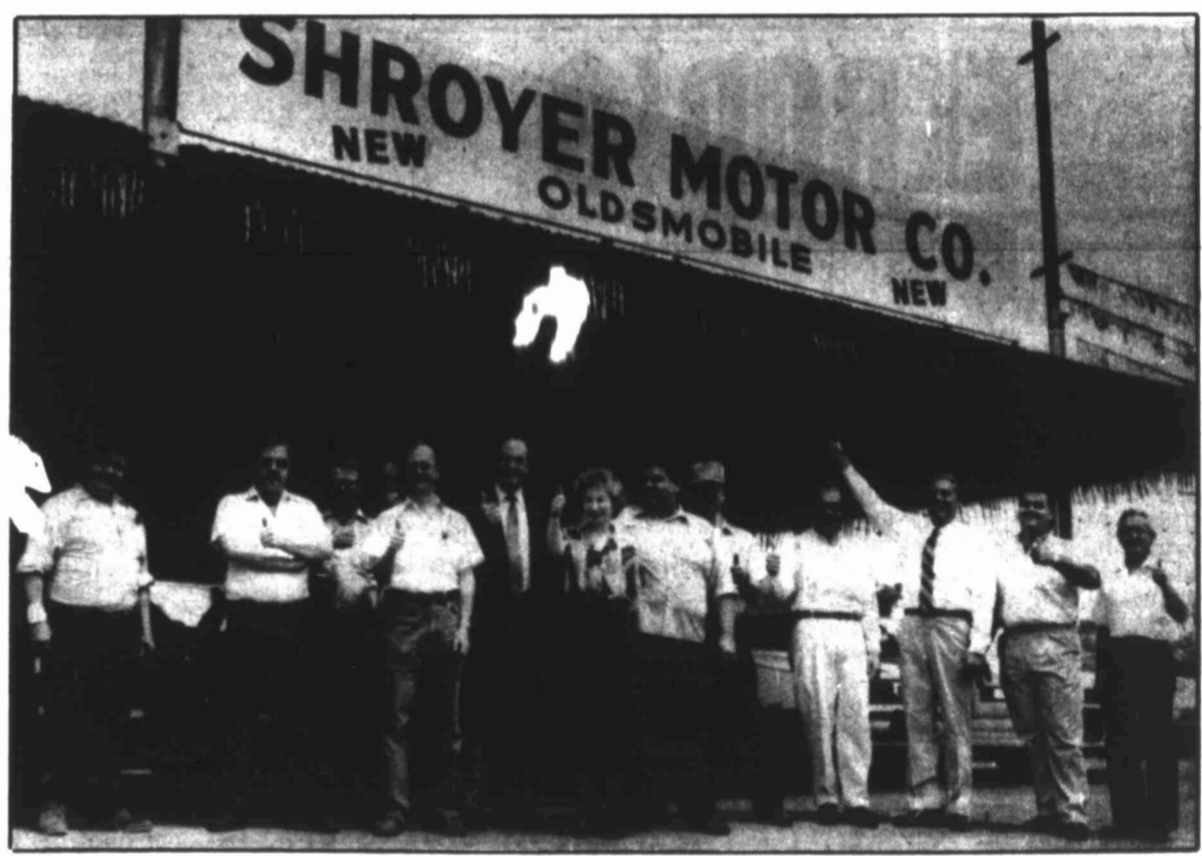

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public
If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W842, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free 1(800) 527-9700, ext. W842.

Our summer courses may be short, but they're still full of class.

Summer classes at U.T. Permian Basin last only six weeks, but you get the same amount of instruction as you would during a long semester. It's just concentrated. If you're interested in getting a jump on Fall and still having time for other Summer activities, U.T. Permian Basin Summer classes are for you. Phone 367-2210 for more information.

Saturated fat is out

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent

Saturated fat is out, unsaturated fat is in. That's the news from several major national food manufacturers and fast food chains.

And it's good news for health-conscious Americans concerned about reducing their risk of heart disease and stroke because artery-clogging saturated fat is a major contributor to these health problems.

The switch from saturated to unsaturated fat is an important step in the fight against heart disease. Remember, though, that total fat in most altered products remains virtually the same. Thus, consuming them may not help reduce cancer risk since cancer has been linked to both saturated and unsaturated fat intake.

Some companies have recently switched from beef fat, coconut oil, palm oil, palm kernel oil or lard to less saturated vegetable oils for some or all of their products.

Many companies have changed the type of fat used in some, but not all, of their products. Look for unsaturated vegetable oils such as corn and soybean oil. Avoid saturated fats like lard, beef fat and tropical oils such as coconut and palm oil.

Many fast food manufacturers also have switched from saturated fats for frying on all or some of their menu items.

To cut down fat consumption to 30 percent of calories — as recommended in the American Institute for Cancer Research Dietary Guidelines to lower Cancer risk — you still need to keep a sharp eye on snack and fast foods. However, no one is immune to temptation, so if you do indulge occasionally, consider those foods made with unsaturated fats.

Howard County
Union Oil of California has hung the dry hole sign on an unsuccessful Howard County wildcat located about 10 miles north of Big Spring, Union's No. 1 Hamlin was spudded on Feb. 22 and probed to a dry bottom at 9,250-ft. TD. It will be plugged and abandoned.

Pumping 107 barrels of oil per day plus 30,000 CF casinghead gas, the No. 3 Wolf is the newest producer in Borden County's Reinecke East Field.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Edited by Lea Whitehead

This sunny den with woodburning fireplace is a custom room addition designed and constructed by Bob's Custom Woodwork. For room additions or garage conversions, the firm carefully matches windows, trim and other features so that the addition looks as though it is part of the original house — and never looks "added on."

Remodeling Specialty at Bob's Custom Woodwork

Put your plans to work now for that dream kitchen. Or the added space a garage conversion can provide. Or a brand new room or bath addition.

The first step is to call Bob's Custom Woodwork and share your ideas with Bob Noyes.

As a general contractor, Bob's provides turnkey construction on all your major remodeling projects. That means his firm handles everything from slab to roof, including sheetrock, painting, electrical, plumbing and cabinets. Every detail — even little things like latches and special trim — is taken care of.

When you engage Bob's Custom Woodwork, you're entitled to the exclusive advice and counsel of Bob Noyes, who supervises every job.

For room remodeling, Bob's staff can remove walls as necessary, close doorways, change window locations, repair floors, and add or remove electrical or plumbing work.

For a kitchen renovation or updating, the firm will design and install new wood cabinets. They'll do major remodeling in kitchens — or smaller jobs such as installing microwave ovens, dishwashers, new counter tops or a skylight.

If you are adding or remodeling a bathroom, Bob's will order and install custom-made cultured marble vanity tops with one or more sinks; or tubs and whirlpools — all made of 90% crushed Israel marble, blended with polyester resin. Standard vanities, tubs and showers are also available.

Consider transforming a garage into a comfortable family room. Garage conversions by Bob's crew are designed to carefully match the style and materials in your home so that it never looks "added on."

Bob's Custom Woodwork accepts Visa and MasterCard, and helps arrange 100% financing. The firm is a member of the National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) and is a charter member of the Permian Basin Chapter of NARI Professional Remodelers.

Bob's Custom Woodwork is located in Building 913 at the Industrial Park. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, or by appointment. Call Bob Noyes at 267-5811 and get started on your remodeling ideas large or small.
