BALTIMORE — Doctors at Johns Hopkins Hospital removed a 180-pound ovarian cyst from a 40-year-old West Virginia woman, a hospital spokeswoman said. The patient was in guarded but stable condition Friday, said hospital spokeswoman Meg Kabis. "That is abnormally, abnormally abnormal," said Dr. Raymond Kaufman, chairman of the obstetrics-gynecology department of Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. Unless the patient is extremely obese, most cysts can be detected with a pelvic exam when they are 3 or 4 centimeters in diameter and "a couple of grams" in weight, he said.

Local auto insurance rates jump

■ Many Midland drivers will pay $95 more a year, the second highest increase in the state.

By John Powers
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

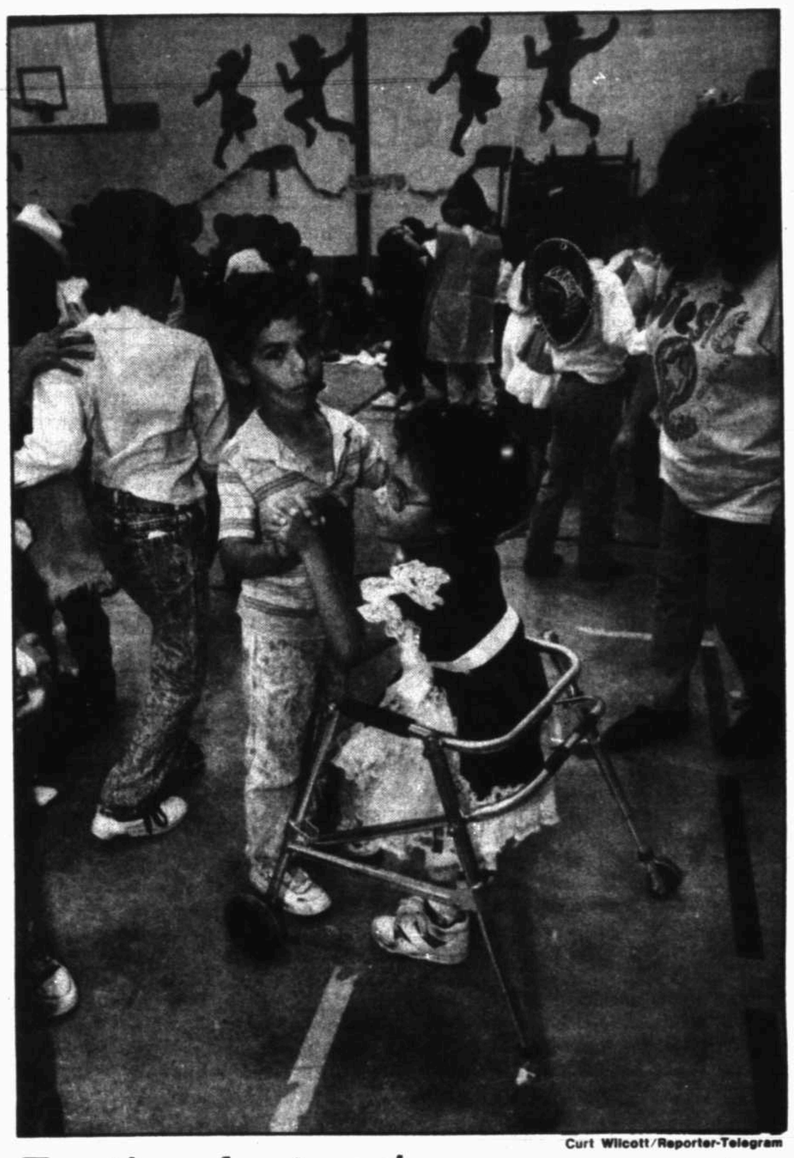

AUSTIN — Typical drivers in Midland County will pay $95 more a year for auto insurance beginning July 15, the second greatest dollar increase among the state's 52 auto insurance rating territories.

Coverage will increase from $536 a year, which is in the low- to medium-range in the state, to $631, for a 17.7 percent increase. That is more than double the statewide average hike of 8.7 percent.

But once new rates are in effect, local car owners still will pay in the mid-range, as rates will range from a low of $538 to a high of $881 for typical drivers in the rating territories.

The biggest dollar and percentage increase, $114 or 20 percent, came in Maverick and Val Verde counties on the Mexican border. Insurance company officials have cited the increasing number

Amoco sells interests in 22 oil, gas fields to Apache

By John Paul Pitts
Business & Oil Editor

Apache Corp. said Friday that it had acquired interests in 22 oil and gas fields in the Permian Basin from Amoco Producing Co.

The $542 million acquisition is not expected to result in the loss of jobs according to Amoco.

The purchase by the Denver-based company includes producing properties in 11 states, but the bulk of the properties are in Winkler and Andrews counties in West Texas and Lea and Eddy counties in New Mexico.

The purchase price included $515 million in cash plus two million shares of Apache stock and certain other considerations.

The sale, one of the largest in the Permian Basin in recent years, represents Apache's return to the Permian Basin, after selling operations here in 1988, on the ballot. Voters can vote for either one individually or for both.

In addition, the MISD school board has three seats up for grabs Saturday. Incumbent George Staley is running unopposed in District 5. Jack Hightower and Leon Keller are vying for the seat in District 3, while the District 6 race has drawn three candidates — Jerry A. Weant, Gary Willis and Lex Crawford.

On the municipal ballot three men have filed for the two at-large seats up for grabs. They are J.D. Faircloth, John Castro and Hugh White III. Faircloth and Castro are the incumbents.

District 1 voters have a choice between James Devenport and Steve Scott to succeed retiring councilman Bill Williams. The District 2 race is between Jose Alfredo Zertuche and the Rev. Michael Richard De Vaughn.

Three candidates are vying for the District 5 position on the Midland County Hospital District Board: David Mandell, Jean Pittman and Michael Roadcup. Running unopposed for re-election to the hospital board are the Rev. Sylvester Ferguson, Margaret Williams and Dr. Stephen Wisenfeld.

State commissions to crack down on illegal industrial waste disposal

■ TWC and TRC compose hit list of West Texas companies who dump waste down Class 2 wells.

By Brian Pearson
Staff Writer

ODESSA — The West Texas companies on the hit list do not know it yet, but the Texas Water Commission has been watching them illegally dump industrial waste down Class 2 wells.

Odessa-based TWC investigators for the past six months have been sneaking around in the brush in an 18-county area — including Midland and Ector counties — watching the covert disposal show.

The responsible parties include oil companies, transportation operations and well owners who allow the dumping to occur, said Bill Lockey, director of the Odessa TWC office.

TWC allows Superfund water to be injected in Class 2 wells

By Brian Pearson
Staff Writer

ODESSA — The Texas Water Commission allowed the dumping of wastewater from two federal Superfund sites here down a disposal well permitted for oilfield brine.

Although the disposal was legal, a local TWC official said Friday that his office has been investigating the well site for possible violations of commission dumping rules.

Bill Lockey, an Odessa-based TWC regional director, said he was not consulted when the commission authorized dumping 10,860 gallons of purged groundwater from the Chromium I and II sites.

"It's a case where the left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing," Lockey said. "Nobody bothered to talk to my office."

The non-hazardous wastewater was pumped into a Class 2 disposal well operated by Wilson Systems of Midland.

The site, located southwest of downtown Odessa near the intersection of Interstate 20 and Farm-to-Market Road 1936, received the wastewater in January and February.

Disposing of the waste in a Class 2 well, which is permitted solely for brine disposal, requires state authorization.

Herculean camera to be used to capture skyline

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff Writer

Imagine a 10-by-30-foot photograph of a landscape or skyline that details scenery greater than the human eye.

"I estimate the pictures to be eight to 10 times stronger than the human eye," said Randy Hahn, 36, photographer and inventor of the world's largest camera.

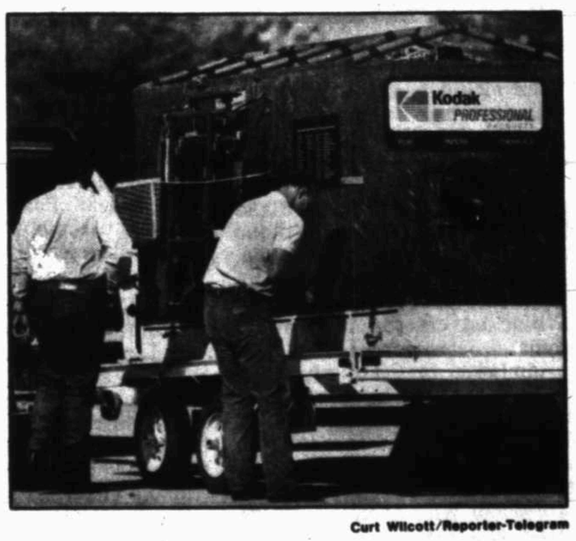

"From two miles away in Dallas I can show you a three-drawer orange and white filing cabinet in the window of a building," Hahn said of a picture made from the camera.

"The pictures are sharper than the things you can see with your eyes," he said.

The camera, called L.G. Hercules, measures four by four by eight feet and weighs 2,600 pounds empty. It can shoot a 40-by-60-inch negative, although Hahn prefers a 20-by-60-inch negative because of the more aesthetic dimension of prints.

"The reason I built the camera so big is because the bigger the piece of film I have the better photograph I can take," Hahn said.

OIL: Amoco sells interests in 22 fields to Apache and will probably result in a district office in Midland.

(From 1A)

Roger Plank, a spokesman for Apache said the acquisition would definitely require a district office in the Permian Basin. He speculated that it would probably be located in Midland but said it was too early to say for certain.

Amoco said the holdings it sold included net proved reserves of 63 million barrels of oil and 288 billion cubic feet of natural gas.

About 45 percent of the reserves are contained in 20 fields in West Texas and two fields in Southeast New Mexico, according to Apache. Neither company had a compiled list of the fields affected by the sale.

Apache estimates total proven and probable reserves at 133 billion barrels of oil equivalent.

The purchase of extensive oil reserves brings a new dimension to Apache which has previously been a natural gas producer. "This purchase will bring us from a company with 20 percent oil production to 40 percent oil production," said Plank. He noted that the Amoco purchase would double Apache's production.

The sale represents 4 percent of Amoco's proven U.S. reserves on a barrel of oil equivalent basis and about 8 percent of its domestic production.

"We feel the purchase is a perfect fit for Apache," said Ray Thompson, a spokesman for Amoco.

Said Thompson: "All told, the properties will account for 9 percent of Amoco's Texas production, but we will still be the largest producer in the state."

Raymond Plank, Apache chairman and chief executive officer said, "From its inception, it has been our goal to grow Apache profitably and with integrity for our shareholders. This transaction, however represents a leap in growth equal to our first 37 years in business."

No jobs are expected to be lost in the acquisition. With a doubling of production, Apache is expected to retain most of the Amoco employees. Amoco field personnel have been assured that they will be retained, but if some Amoco supervisors are not retained Amoco has made provisions to retain them.

"We have intentionally maintained a number of vacancies in West Texas in the event that Apache did not retain some supervisors, and they will be offered jobs at other locations with Amoco," said Thompson.

Amoco put together the package of producing properties about one year ago and put them into a production subsidiary which it offered for sale. "We put together an extensive package to make it more attractive to buyers rather breaking it into smaller packages," said Thompson.

The divestiture follows two significant acquisitions made by Amoco in the past two years. Those acquisitions were Dome Petroleum in Canada and a significant portion of Tenneco's Mid-continent production.

Said Patrick J. Early, president of Amoco Production Co.: "The sale is part of our strategic plan to produce oil and gas more efficiently by selling non-strategic assets. Many of the properties are relatively small for a very large company to operate efficiently. They are profitable, but pose a higher cost for us to keep them in our portfolio."

The package includes interest in wells which produce a daily average of 28,000 barrels of oil and 117 million cubic feet of natural gas in 1990. Amoco operates approximately 74 percent of the wells. Leases include: 285,000 net acres and 730,000 net undeveloped acres.

Also included in the acquisition are a number of drilling prospects and secondary and tertiary recovery projects.

"The purchase allows us access to strategic opportunities such as horizontal drilling and enhanced oil recovery," Ray Plank said.

A provision of the sale calls for Apache to have access to Amoco seismic data.

The sale is expected to be completed by July, and Thompson said royalty owners would be contacted individually by Apache Corp.

Following the Amoco purchase, Thursday Apache Corp. announced Friday that it would sell $51 million worth of natural gas properties to Maxus Energy Corp., of Dallas.

That sale includes interests in about 300 wells and Apache's Perryton district office. Recent net production from the wells averaged 25 million cubic feet of gas and 550 barrels of condensate per day.

"With this property sale, we are exiting a region that is not an area of focus to Apache and are generating cash that can be used for other purposes," said Ray Plank.

"I wanted to take landscapes and skylines for people to enjoy," Hahn said.

Hahn came to Midland Thursday to focus on the Midland skyline in conjunction with a Midland Chamber of Commerce photography contest.

But Hahn can't do it himself as the camera takes a minimum of two people to operate. For optimum performance, four people are needed — including one for crowd control since the giant camera always seems to attract a group of curious onlookers, Hahn said.

In addition, two vehicles and two trailers are needed to transport the camera and equipment to the desired location.

"What the camera does is unique ... I feel it is much greater than I am," said Hahn, who added that the work of the camera is something to be shared with everyone.

Although Hahn is the inventor of the camera, he attributes its success to 71 people who have helped make it possible.

"I started working on it in '81 and actually built it in one night on Easter '89," Hahn said.

"It took many years to collect the parts and took a lot of time to figure how to put extra or scrap parts together and make them function," Hahn said.

The camera cost about $80,000 — not counting time put into the project, Hahn said.

So far Hahn has set up the camera about 20 times including for shots of the Guadalupe Mountains and Big Bend National Park. He intends to set up about 10 more times this week before heading to Utah to shoot some more.

"The response I've had from people about these contact prints make me feel these are needed," Hahn said.

Currently none of the giant photographs are on public display.

"I'd like to see these prints in every post office, train station, airport, visitor centers ...," Hahn said.

Hahn is in the process of creating an even larger camera, one that will be 9-by-12-by-5 feet.

ELECTION: Polling places listed

Arts celebration this weekend

Staff Report

The eighth annual Celebration of the Arts gets under way today.

Presented by Arts Assembly of Midland, the COA Festival runs from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. today and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday at Midland Center, Centennial Plaza and the Midland County Courthouse lawn.

Admission to COA, which includes today's 8 p.m. to midnight street dance, is $2 for adults, $1 for children 5 to 17 and free to those under 5. Admission gates are set up at the intersection of Loraine Street and Wall Avenue, Loraine Street and Texas Avenue and at the Main Street entrance to Midland Center, 105 N. Main St.

This year's arts and crafts booths feature works by 70 artists.

Special activities are planned in the Children's Activity Tent and Children's Stage on the south lawn of the courthouse.

Today's festivities start with a Run for the Arts featuring a 5K Walk and 5K Road Race at 8:15 a.m. and a 1-mile Children's Fun Run at 9:15 a.m. All races begin at Centennial Plaza.

The Cinco de Mayo Parade, which begins at 11 a.m. at Nobles and Lamesa, ends downtown at the COA at noon.

Continuous live entertainment will be presented by 39 groups and individuals from three stages — Centennial Plaza, Midland Center and the children's stage.

In case of inclement weather, outdoor activities and booths will be moved to the lower level of Midland Center, and the street dance will be held in the Midland Hilton ballroom.

WELLS: West Texas companies on hit list

been informed and we have documented it as well, that illegal waste has been disposed of in Class 2 wells," Lockey said.

Class 2 wells, which are permitted solely for brine disposal, usually are abandoned oil wells that have been bored out, although some of the wells are constructed from scratch for disposal.

But some may have been used as geologic graveyards for solvents, toxic metals such as lead and chromium, acids, transmission fluid, gasoline and other hazardous wastes, Lockey said.

He said "enormous amounts" of industrial materials have been pumped down the holes during the past six months.

"Anything in the world could go down these wells, which are for the most part unmanned," Lockey said. "Anybody in the world could drive up to a well, hook up their hoses and unload their waste."

The materials, he said, probably would not pose an environmental hazard if the Class 2 wells, some of which reach depths of 8,000 feet, are in proper condition.

However, if the casing is unsound, the waste could leak into the surrounding soil and migrate upward into an aquifer, Lockey said.

He said it is unknown how powerful of an environmental time bomb the illegal Class 2 well dumping will be for West Texas. There are between 5,000 and 6,000 of the wells in Midland and Ector counties alone.

"These Class 2 wells have created no telling how many environmental hazards in the West Texas area," Lockey said. "The problem is that this is the oil patch area and unless someone is affected by Class 2 disposal they really don't care."

To preserve the element of surprise, Lockey declined to disclose the companies on the hit list or when the TWC will begin doling out fines.

"I can assure you I will pursue any avenue I can muster to protect the environment," Lockey said. "We feel we have enough evidence to do what we think needs to be done.

"We've got records, receipts and all showing where the companies took the waste."

Companies that generated the waste, transportation operations and well owners all could face fines of up to $10,000 a day per violation, Lockey said. Austin-based commissioners would assess the fine.

The only problem may be jurisdiction. Although industrial waste falls within TWC territory, the Texas Railroad Commission handles Class 2 wells.

But Mark Henkaus, regional directorfor the Railroad Commission in Midland assured that his agency will work with the TWC in a joint attack on the violators.

In addition to TWC penalties, the Railroad Commission also could hit the companies with fines of up to $10,000 a day per violation, Henkaus said.

Some of the violators are based in Midland and Ector counties, Henkaus confirmed, but he said he will not name them until after the crackdown begins.

"They are corporations," he said. "These aren't mom-and-pop operations. We're looking at more than one company."

He said slightly fewer than a dozen companies have been identified throughout the West Texas area.

Lockey said the waste in the wells likely will stay there because it would be difficult and impractical to pump it out.

Besides curbing a potential environmental threat, Henkaus said the TWC and Railroad Commission also want to keep close track of industrial waste.

Henkaus said Class 2 wells make attractive hazardous waste disposal sites because of the cost.

It costs between 25 cents and 50 cents a barrel, or between $50 and $75 a truckload, to dump in a Class 2 well, Henkaus said.

CECOS International of Odessa is the only company in the area operating a commercial Class 1 well, which is permitted to receive a variety of hazardous wastes.

Dan Spencer, CECOS regulation compliance manager, said his company charges between 35 cents and 45 cents a gallon, or an average $1,750 a truckload, for hazardous waste disposal.

The cost depends on quantity and shipping distance, Spencer said.

Harry Spannus, executive vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, said he has no evidence of area oil companies illegally dumping industrial waste.

"I know of no one doing it that is a member of this association," Spannus said. "No one in their right mind would do that without knowingly violating current law.

"I don't know anybody who would do that, but that doesn't mean it's not happening."

TWC: Water dumped down well

(From 1A)

The wells, which run up to 8,000 feet deep, usually are abandoned oil wells that have been bored out, although some are built from scratch.

The Texas Railroad Commission, which regulates Class 2 wells, had the final say in the recent dumping.

The Railroad Commission, though, simply followed the TWC's recommendation, Lockey said.

"If our people say it's OK, then the Railroad Commission usually goes along with it," he said. "The Railroad Commission is not at fault here."

If he had been consulted, Lockey said he would have pointed out that the well has had casing problems and the operation has been under surveillance by his investigators.

Mark Henkaus, regional director for the Railroad Commission in Midland, said Wilson Systems corrected the problems after they were discovered in January.

Officials of Wilson Systems, 619 W. Texas Ave. in Midland, declined comment.

Bill Colbert, spokesman for the Austin-based TWC office, said Lockey was contacted about the dumping after it was proposed last November.

"He wasn't crazy about the idea," Colbert said. "But the people here felt the disposal was OK."

International Technology Corp. of Houston proposed the Class 2 well disposal. The company collected the purged groundwater for sampling in September 1990 and stored it in tanks until it was dumped, Colbert said.

The TWC in January determined that the sample was nonhazardous and qualified for Class 2 well disposal, he said.

"It's a whole lot of water and a little bit of chromium," Colbert said.

The Environmental Protection Agency classifies material as hazardous if it contains more than 0.1 milligrams of chromium per liter. The samples tested by the TWC contained less than 0.03 milligrams per liter.

TWC officials earlier this year said the $12 million cleanup of the two Superfund sites is expected to begin by mid-year.

Chromium I and II, located in northwest Odessa, are among 29 remaining federal Superfund cleanup sites in Texas.

Chromium I consists of a series of contaminated wells in a 300-acre area of residential, commercial and industrial properties located west of County Road West.

Chromium II is a series of contaminated wells within a 200-acre area located west of Andrews Highway.

In September 1984, officials recommended that both sites be placed on the National Priorities List, a directory of national hazardous waste sites. The sites are eligible for federal cleanup funds through the Superfund program.

AUTO: Insurance rates going up automobile thefts, particularly along the border, as one reason for rising insurance costs.

The State Board of Insurance approved the rate increase for private automobiles, along with a statewide average 15.5 percent jump for commercial vehicles, on April 24 after a four-month argument about higher insurance rates with Gov. Ann Richards.

The increase for a typical driver in each of the territories, announced by the board Friday, will vary by individual situation.

Typical driver examples are based on the average insurance cost for a medium-priced 1989 automobile, not used for business purposes but driven to and from work, with no male driver under the age of 25 and no unmarried female driver under age 21. The coverage for the typical driver is $20,000/$40,000 bodily injury and $15,000 property damage, $5,000 personal injury protection, $50 deductible on comprehensive and $200 deductible on collision.

Insurance industry reform was a cornerstone in the campaign of Richards, and she soon will appoint a majority of members to the three-person state insurance board.

Richards appointed Claire Korioth to the board, and later named her board chairman, after the term of one member expired Jan. 31. She also called on the other two board members, appointed by former Gov. Bill Clements, to resign and threatened to place the board under state conservatorship for mismanagement if they did not.

Richard Reynolds, whose term expires Jan. 31, 1993, has refused to resign, but James Saxton Jr. resigned effective last Wednesday.

Richards said at a press conference Wednesday, after the House had approved a sweeping insurance industry reform bill, that she has someone in mind to replace Saxton but was not ready to discuss the appointment.

LOCAL/AREA REPORTS

Fire damages Asbury church

Staff Reports

A two alarm-fire at Asbury United Methodist Church, 106 W. Dakota Ave., late Friday afternoon damaged the attic above the kitchen-fellowship hall area and resulted in smoke and water damage elsewhere in the church.

The sanctuary was not damaged by fire.

The fire started in the attic about the vent leading to the ground-floor hot-water heater.

"There's nothing suspicious," said Cheryl Kellogg, arson investigator for the Midland Fire Department.

Ms. Kellogg said that the fire resulted in "moderate" damage in the attic and "heavy smoke, heat and water damage throughout the rest" of the church.

Midland firemen were alerted to the blaze at 5:31 p.m. about 1½ hours after the church's pastor, the Rev. Ken James, had left the church.

"I did not see anything unusual when I left," said James, who has been pastor of the 1954-built church since last June.

The church does have fire insurance, James said.

It is doubtful that church services will be held this Sunday due to the strong odor of smoke that would be difficult to tolerate, James said.

Margaret Thomas-Mouton, director of Area Methodist Outreach Services, said that there was "smoke damage" in the church's AMOS area but none of the food products was damaged.

"But there was no power — they (TU Electric workers) cut off the power — to the church," Mrs. Thomas-Mouton said, "and we had to move the food to freezers and refrigerators" at Luby's Cafeteria and the First United Methodist Church.

Men jailed

Two men were being held without bond Friday after Drug Enforcement Administration agents arrested them for possession and distribution of crack cocaine, federal court records show.

The men, Walter Lee Jones and Terence Steward, ages unknown, were afforded an initial appearance Friday before U.S. Magistrate Robert R. Sykes following their arrest Thursday.

A detention hearing for the men is scheduled for Wednesday before Sykes. Meanwhile, they will remain at the Midland County Central Detention Facility.

According to the criminal complaint filed against the men, Jones sold a quantity of crack from his business, J&J Detail Shop, to undercover agents on Thursday.

Agents and Midland police officers returned to the business, at 100 S. Lee Street, to execute a search warrant and found 30 rocks — about four grams — of crack on the premises, the complaint states.

Steward was holding the crack for Jones, according to the complaint.

Officers arrested the men after executing the search warrant, federal court officials said.

Drug case

A Midland man was free on $7,500 bond Friday following his arrest Thursday for possession of crack cocaine with intent to distribute, jail officials reported.

Sheriff's deputies arrested Kenneth Wayne Marion, 27, around 4:30 p.m. Thursday while executing a search warrant at an apartment at 4315 W. Neely Ave, reports show. Deputies reportedly found 17 "rocks" of crack during the search.

Marion's arrest followed a Midland Crime Stoppers tip.

Author kills himself

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Jerzy Kosinski, who survived the Nazi occupation of his native Poland and went on to write the satirical "Being There" and "The Painted Bird," committed suicide Friday. He was 57.

His body was discovered in his Manhattan apartment by his wife, Katherina von Fraunhofer-Kosinski, said police spokeswoman Officer Janice Swinney. He had a plastic bag pulled over his head and was in the bathtub, she said.

A Midland judge sentenced Joshua Matthew Brodnex to 50 years in state prison on Friday for attempted murder in the shooting last October of David Posey.

Because Brodnex, 26, had prior felony convictions, he faced from 25 to 99 years or life in prison on the attempted murder charge. Attempted murder, a second-degree felony, usually carries a punishment range of two to 20 years in prison.

"I think the punishment assessed by the court reflected the violent nature of the crime and the defendant's character, as reflected by his prior convictions for sexual assault, forgery, unlawfully carrying a weapon and burglary of a building," prosecutor Ralph Petty said after the sentence was imposed. "I was very pleased with the judge's decision."

Judge John Hyde sentenced Brodnex in 238th District Court following a four-day trial. A seven-man, five-woman jury found Brodnex guilty Thursday of gunning Posey down on Oct. 27, 1990.

According to testimony, Brodnex had been having an affair with Posey's wife Barbara, who was separated from Posey. The shooting came following Mrs. Posey's resumption of her relationship with her husband, witnesses said.

According to testimony, Brodnex shot Posey with what police believe was a .22-caliber rifle outside a house at 405 W. Nobles Ave.

Posey suffered gunshot wounds to the face and shoulder and was left without the use of his left arm, according to testimony.

To support his claim, Morgan called Brodnex's mother, Curtis Moore, and one of Brodnex's former Boy Scout leaders as character witnesses.

Mrs. Moore described her son as humble, caring, quiet and hard-working.

The former Scout leader, Midland attorney Matthew Blair, testified that he was Assistant Scoutmaster of Brodnex's Scout troop in the early 1980s, when Brodnex was a teen-ager.

"Josh exhibited a lot of very good leadership skills," Blair said. "To my recollection he was a very kind and compassionate Scout."

Although Blair said he'd been disappointed to learn about Brodnex's trouble with the law, he said he thought Brodnex could become an upstanding and productive member of the community if given the chance.

"Somewhere deep down inside I think there is a seed of good," Blair said. "I think Josh has a lot of character and ability and that if Josh were to put it to good use would probably stand him in good stead."

But Petty described Brodnex as an incorrigible criminal and an unlikely candidate for rehabilitation.

"He's simply not going to learn," Petty told Hyde. "He's violent now, willing to kill. His character is not going to change. The protection of society demands that you assess a harsh punishment."

Brodnex's indictment, returned Jan. 24, 1991, includes enhancement paragraphs that outline some of his previous convictions. According to the indictment, Brodnex was convicted of sexual assault on Sept. 8, 1989, and of forgery on Dec. 10, 1986.

Morgan, who argued for the minimum sentence, said he would appeal his client's conviction.

Advocate critical of Texas schools

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff Writer

A football coach is likely to be paid substantially more than an elementary school teacher with a masters degree in Texas, according to Darvin Winick.

Winick

Winick, a member of the Texas Business and Education Coalition, brought his hard-hitting message to an audience of Midland school board trustees, administrators and business leaders Friday.

"Some school districts will pay a longtime teacher with a masters degree $28,000 and will pay a football coach $50,000," Winick said. "Not only that, there is performance pay for coaches, but not for teachers or principals."

Winick said funds are raised and honors are given to marching bands and athletic teams, while "no such honors are given to a merit scholar."

The education coalition member decried Texas school districts which have been known to "water down courses, such as fundamental math so students can play football."

"I am distressed at the signal we send to teachers when the band director makes more money than the elementary school teacher," he said. "There is no mandate — the state doesn't say you have to have a band."

Likewise, Winick said, "the state does not say you can't have merit pay or stipends for the teachers."

Winick said teachers and students could "not be blamed for faults in the system."

He also said productivity, gauged by teacher cost per pupil has decreased dramatically over the past 40 years.

"In 1950 we spent about $500 per student annually. In 1990 we spent about $1,600," he said.

'The whole system is not very good. We can capture the world market for twirlers. Americans may have the best twirlers to fill every twirler job there is, but we have to get others to fill engineering jobs. It's time to shake things up.'

— Darvin Winick, Texas Business and Education Coalition

Midland school district superintendent Joseph Baressi Jr. noted that state mandates requiring 22 students to one teacher ratio at the elementary school level probably contributed to higher student costs.

"The fact of the matter is — that kind of loss of productivity is unacceptable," Winick said, "for whatever reason. We are trying to fund a system that won't work."

The speaker used the analogy of the advent of the telegraph causing the demise of the Pony Express being similar to public education in Texas.

"It's the greatest description I've seen of what we have done," he said. "The Pony Express was afraid that telegraphs would put them out of business. So, they tried to breed faster ponies."

Winick said site-based management and parental choice were the best options to restructure Texas education.

"Most problems in education are caused by the community," he said. "Social promotion, a concept which began in the 60s and 70s was parent-driven."

The speaker explained that social promotion was a concept which "moved kids by age group up through the grades."

"The idea was to keep them with their peers and it also made better football teams," he said.

Winick said too much money is being funneled into "entertainment activities" such as bands and athletics. He challenged businesses to support education and for parents to get involved in instructional — rather than just extracurricular activities.

John Castro said that in Midland, "There is more participation for the Confederate flag issue than education."

Winick said that the main issue was raising expectations for students. "Don't just intercede," he said. "Raise expectations for every student."

Learning to speak a foreign language fluently was one of Winick's suggestions to boost American education. "Also, every student should pass fundamental biology and chemistry," he said.

"As a society, school by school, we accept very low percentages on test scores," Winick said.

Ernest Angelo said Midlanders "either think there is no problem or if there is a problem they don't think it is their responsibility."

Winick said "Benchmarks," the Texas Research League publication, has all the school districts listed and ranked by performance. "That's where you start," he said. "You can compare your district to other districts. If you haven't done so as a community or chamber, do it."

The education coalition member said his organization simply "provides the framework for school districts to get started."

He said school districts need to concentrate on education. "I know of a school which raised money to hire a choreographer for its band. Yet, this school does not have a decent science lab."

Baressi said, "Football teams and bands are more important entertainment for many Midlanders than the symphony or theater."

The Midland superintendent also said that it is a misconception that a lot of money is spent on the bands and football teams. "It may be because of their high visiblity," he said. "But, we pay less than the state average for each student. Out of 1,500 districts in the state there is not a district which spends the same as we do that has (test) scores higher."

"You may be better than 50 districts," Winick said. "But that is not very good. The whole system is not very good.

"We can capture the world market for twirlers. Americans may have the best twirlers to fill every twirler job there is, but we have to get others to fill engineering jobs. It's time to shake things up."

Midland needs a Hospital District Board member with creative solutions to growing problems.

Midland needs Jean Pittman.

Successful Businessperson
- Has run a successful business in Midland for 10 years.
- Survived the economic downturn by making tough decisions.
- Learned to solve problems with creative solutions.

Tough Decision Maker
- First class quality healthcare must continue but not at all costs.
- Creative solutions to indigent care must keep taxes in check.
- The answers to our problems are to think smarter and develop alternatives - not just cut services or roll back the clock.

Creative Problem Solver
- Midland County taxpayers would pay $40 for an indigent patient in an out patient clinic - about $140 if they come to the hospital. That could save taxpayers $40,000 per month!
- The Hospital District could save hundreds of thousands of dollars caring for indigent mothers before they require expensive hospitalization.
- Our Hospital's service area should be increased to paying patients from outside Midland to help generate more revenues and more improvements to quality for each of us.

Smith tells how to get government contracts

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

Midland business people flocked to Midland College Friday to learn "How to Sell Goods and Services to the Federal Government."

The workshop, presented by Midland College's Business and Economic Development Center, its director Jerry Jones, U.S. Rep. Lamar Smith, R-San Antonio, and his Midland office coordinator, Lori Jons.

The federal government is the largest purchaser in the world, Smith noted, adding that last year, the government spent $184 billion with small businesses, including $11 billion in Texas.

"There's no reason West Texas businesses shouldn't get their fair share," he commented. "There are incredible opportunities for small businesses with the government."

Smith said the conference was designed to introduce local business people to the idea of doing business with the government and to encourage them to take the initiative and go after government contracts.

Doing business with the government would give local businesses broader markets, would increase the area workforce and give workers additional skills, he noted.

Jones observed that, when people think of doing business with the government, military needs first come to mind, but "the government buys all kinds of services, products and items" and gave as an example a contract Goodfellow Air Force Base in San Angelo has available, a million-dollar contract to deliver mail. He noted that the government encourages small businesses by doing "set asides," setting aside certain contracts for small and minority businesses.

He noted that the Permian Basin receives less than $1 million quarterly from government contracts. "I think it should be over $1 million, or even $2 million."

He cited a local company that exports tumbleweeds to Japan, and commented that "If we can export tumbleweeds to Japan, we can export items to the U.S. government."

The congressman acknowledged that the thought of doing businesses, with its rules, regulations and bureaucracy can be intimidating, but said he stands ready to help.

"I see my role as a liaison between government agencies and local businesses," Smith told the group. "I also see myself as a watchdog, making sure that contracts are awarded fairly, and that small businesses are not undermined in their attempts to get contracts."

He called the all-day seminar "a beginning. After today, the major part of the process is taking the initiative to go after contracts. You can't win if you don't compete, and small businesses have to compete if they hope to win government contracts.

"Don't be discouraged by the bureaucracy. Don't get discouraged if you go after contract after contract and don't get them. Keep at it. The government will come through."

Lawyer: Hale held illegally

Staff Report

Bryan Allen Hale's attorney filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of his client Friday, claiming that Hale is being held unconstitutionally.

Hale, the former Glenwood Psychiatric Hospital administrator arrested April 8 on charges of receiving child pornography, is being held at a federal prison in Springfield, Mo. He was sent there April 19 to undergo a psychiatric evaluation to determine his competency to stand trial.

His attorney, Glen Aaron II, said in the petition, filed Friday in U.S. District Court, that Hale has been in Springfield long enough and that he should be returned to Midland immediately.

Hale's transfer to Springfield was a government ploy to prevent his release on bond, according to the petition.

Hale could easily have been evaluated on an out-patient basis locally, the petition states. His continued incarceration deprives him of due process of law, a right protected under the Constitution's Eighth Amendment.

U.S. Customs agents arrested Hale on April 8 at his Glenwood office for receiving and possessing child pornography.

If convicted on the federal charges, Hale could face up to 10 years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

Hale, who has been replaced at Glenwood, also is charged in state court with burglarizing a Glenwood employee's Odessa home.

Goddard Young Astronauts chapter receives award

Staff Report

Goddard Junior High School's Young Astronauts chapter was recently received an honorable mention award in the Young Astronaut Council's national "Exploring Planet Earth" competition.

The chapter's award featured a certificate affixed with a gold seal, which was among the cargo of a recent space shuttle flight.

National winners for the junior high school level of competition were Creighton Prepatory School of Omaha, Neb., and, the Midland Center for the Arts of Midland, Mich.

Wendell Butler, president of the Young Astronaut Council, commented in his award notification to Ronald Morris, Texaco employee and chapter leader, "The judges were particularly impressed with the imagination and intitiative shown by your chapter members in their research on their hometowns and by the design, illustrations, narratives and production of their fascinating guidebook. It is clear the students enjoyed it."

Municipal elections set across the state

By Suzanne Gamboa
Associated Press Writer

El Paso Mayor Suzie Azar faces a stiff challenge Saturday in her bid for re-election in a race that has made far fewer waves than most of the other municipal elections across the state.

"This is the first year the city doesn't have any kind of proposition on the ballot, usually we have some kind of controversial issue that gets the voter interested," said Helen Jamison, El Paso County elections administrator. She is predicting a turnout of 50,000 to 55,000 voters, or about 30 percent of registered voters.

Voters across the state were to go to the polls Saturday for municipal elections. Some of the major races include those for mayor in San Antonio where incumbent Lila Cockrell faces nine challengers and in Austin where an ex-mobster wants the office for protection from police. Other big-city mayoral races are in Fort Worth, where city council member Kay Granger is the favorite, and Amarillo where Mayor Keith Adams faces two challengers.

Longtime U.S. diplomat Bill Tilney is seeking to unseat El Paso's Azar, contending his international experience would make him more qualified to lead El Paso during a period of free trade with Mexico.

Mark Lozano, who wants to give every El Paso resident a $100 tax rebate and cut city officials' salaries, and City Hall volunteer Sandra Theodore bring up the rear of the field, but could force a runoff.

Austin's mayoral race has grabbed national headlines thanks to candidate John Johnson, an ex-mobster who was once under the federal protection program. He said he wants to be in the public eye to avoid harassment from authorities. Johnson is one of seven candidates hoping to succeed Lee Cooke, who is not seeking another term.

City Councilman Robert Barnstone and Travis County Commissioner Bruce Todd lead the field.

And in the Panhandle, incumbent Adams faces unemployed handyman R. Michael Hopkins and Bobby Cash. Cash is making his second consecutive run for mayor, but Adams is the heavy favorite.

One of the big issues in the race is the possible expansion of the Pantex nuclear weapons assembly plant. Adams believes new jobs can be created in the Panhandle as part of Department of Energy's reorganization of the nation's nuclear weapons plants.

Navy will locate ships at homeport

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy will station a fleet of minehunters at Naval Station Ingleside by the fall of 1994, officials said Friday, ending months of speculation about the fate of the nearly completed homeport near Corpus Christi, Texas.

Although the move results in only about half the number of sailors originally expected at Ingleside, Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said the decision "virtually guarantees the viability of our homeport and gives us a base on which we can build for the future."

The 25 ships will include 14 mine counter-measure ships, a coastal mine hunter, seven reserve mine hunters and three reserve training frigates, the Navy said. Congressional officials said 2,250 to 2,500 active-duty sailors will accompany the fleet.

The homeport had been built to accommodate a battle group, including the battleship USS Wisconsin and the aircraft carrier USS Lexington, and 4,700 sailors. But the Lexington is being decommissioned and Defense Secretary Dick Cheney wants to mothball the Wisconsin as part of the Pentagon's plans to reduce the size of the military.

"Basing minesweeping operations and training the Navy's reservists at our brand-new, $150-million homeport makes sense for the Navy and for Texas, both of which have invested heavily in the creation of this facility," Gramm said. "This is an innovative solution to the problem of making our investment at Ingleside pay, even in the face of sharp, congressionally mandated reductions in our armed services."

Gramm said most of the vessels the Navy plans to station at the homeport are units of the Naval Mine Warfare Command headquartered in Charleston, S.C.

The coastal mine hunters, 188 feet long with a crew of 45, are all under construction now in Savannah, Ga., and Gulfport, Miss., Gramm said. The ocean-going mine counter-measure ships are 224 feet long and carry a crew of 73. They are being built in Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

Man detained in connection with Mexican officer's death

SAN ANGELO (AP) — A Redford man remained jailed today in Reeves County in connection with the shooting of a Mexican police officer.

Pascual Levario-Quiroz, 24, has been charged with felony false claim and misdemeanor illegal entry.

He was arrested Tuesday and ordered held without bond after Mexican Federal Judicial Police told U.S. officials he was involved in the shooting.

Border Patrol spokesman Don Barfield said Thursday that Mexican police believe Levario was one of 10 suspected drug traffickers who led police on a high-speed chase in El Mulato, Chihuahua, across the border from Redford.

Barfield said the residents had reported occupants of a vehicle firing guns into the air and endangering local children. Police tried to approach the vehicle and the chase ensued.

"During the chase, the vehicle turned over," Barfield said. "As the Judicial Police approached the overturned vehicle, they were fired on and one policeman was killed."

One of the suspects was killed in the crash.

"Five of the individuals were apprehended and four escaped," Barfield said.

Barfield said Mexican authorities notified U.S. officials. Levario-Quiroz was arrested at a U.S. Border Patrol checkpoint near Marfa.

Levario-Quiroz is the brother of Juan de Dios Levario-Quiroz, who shot and wounded U.S. Border Patrol agent Paul Conover in 1982, Barfield said. Conover spent 15 weeks in an El Paso hospital recovering from the Rio Grande shooting.

Juan de Dios Levario-Quiroz, also known as "El Gato," was killed last year in an attempted escape from a Mexican prison.

"Another brother was killed several months ago in Odessa in a shoot-out," Barfield said.

U.S. Marshals Service spokesman Steve Baalog said in a telephone interview from Pecos Thursday afternoon that a hearing is pending for Pascual Levario-Quiroz.

Two school districts challenge school finance law

AUSTIN (AP) — Two wealthy suburban Dallas school districts challenged the state's new school finance reform law Friday, asking a judge to declare it unconstitutional.

The action by the Carrollton-Farmers Branch and Coppell school districts marked a turning point in the long-running battle over school funding.

Previous challenges to the school finance system came from poor districts that want the same chance at education funding as their wealthier counterparts.

The current system, scheduled to be replaced by the new law beginning next school year, allows wide funding disparities because of its reliance on local property taxes.

The new law will shift hundreds of millions of dollars in local property tax revenue from wealthier to poorer school districts within new education taxing districts drawn largely along county lines.

That change is at the heart of the challenge by Carrollton-Farmers Branch, which is in Dallas and Denton counties, and Coppell, in Dallas County.

State District Judge F. Scott McCown, who is overseeing the case, said last month after the measure was signed into law by Gov. Ann Richards that he would assume it is constitutional.

However, McCown also said he would consider any challenges to the measure.

Carrollton-Farmers Branch is estimated to lose $14 million next school year under the law, and Coppell, an estimated $4 million to $5 million, said their lawyer, Earl Luna.

"It is unconstitutional to use taxes from one district to pay educational costs in another district," said the cross-claim filed for the districts by Luna.

They also said the minimum local property tax required by the law is an unconstitutional state property tax.

The school districts are asking that the new law not be enforced, and that state spending on non-school items be restricted until officials fund a constitutional school finance system.

Lawyers for poor school districts said they had not decided on whether to challenge the new law.

But Al Kauffman, lead attorney for poor school districts that filed the original lawsuit challenging the school finance system, said they would oppose the motion by the wealthy school districts.

"My general feeling is that their position is that they have a constitutional right to not be treated equally with everyone else, that the constitution gives them some superior position ... Needless to say, we disagree with that," said Kauffman, who is with the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

Attorney General Dan Morales defended the new law, saying lawmakers worked hard to develop a constitutional system.

"The final compromise is not perfect, but it is the best that can be expected and should pass constitutional muster," he said. "It's time to get education out of the courts and back into the classrooms."

The suburban school districts said that creation of the county education districts is a "subterfuge" by the Legislature, because their sole purpose is to levy, assess and collect taxes.

The school districts said the law also violates the state constitution by not providing for an election to set the tax rate in the new districts.

The law requires provides that each county taxing district will be governed by a board consisting of school district members.

Luna said he and McCown discussed a variety of possible hearing dates in June, and that one would be decided upon after other lawyers in the case are consulted.

Senate OKs life sentence without parole

AUSTIN (AP) — Two nominees to the state Board of Pardons and Paroles were confirmed by the Senate on Friday after blistering comments that strayed to perennial issues far beyond the qualifications of the nominees.

The vote to confirm Peggy McAdams and Kenneth Coleman, both of Huntsville, was 24-4. They needed only two-thirds of those present, or 19 votes.

Their reappointment by Gov. Ann Richards on April 3 became the center of a controversy after reports of the early release of murderers from prison.

Senate concern with criminal justice was underscored Friday with its approval of a bill to provide life without parole in capital murder cases.

That measure was sent to the House on a 28-1 vote.

Some lawmakers have decried decisions to parole killers, especially Ms. McAdams' losing vote to release James Cross Jr., who was convicted in the 1965 slaying of University of Texas student Susan Rigsby of Dallas.

But others have defended the nominees, saying they simply followed laws passed by the Legislature to relieve prison overcrowding.

Ms. McAdams said earlier that Cross had built up so much "good time" that he has a mandatory discharge date of September 1992. Her vote was to parole him this September.

Coleman told a Senate committee he had voted to release a man convicted of the murder of a woman. The man, who was paroled, later committed suicide while he was under investigation for the murder of another woman, Coleman said.

Sen. Ted Lyon on Friday described Ms. McAdams and Coleman as "good people ... who have made some serious mistakes."

"But the blame for their mistakes doesn't just rest with them ... our system of criminal justice in Texas is in about as sorry a condition as it could possibly be," Lyon said.

Lyon, D-Rockwall, was joined by Sens. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin; Rodney Ellis, D-Houston; and Eddie Bernice Johnson, D-Dallas, in voting against Ms. McAdams and Coleman, a former prison warden.

Tornado Alley: Nation's twister breeding ground

By Randolph E. Schmid

WASHINGTON — The struggle to rebuild homes, businesses and lives in Kansas and Oklahoma is a powerful reminder that the middle of America is the world's most vulnerable region to the tornado, one of nature's most vicious spectacles.

The 22 deaths in last week's storm compares with just 53 tornado fatalities nationwide during 1990. And that low toll occurred despite a record 1,126 twisters across the country last year, the most since comprehensive record keeping began in 1950.

In an average year, there are 786 tornadoes and 82 resulting deaths in the United States.

Tornadoes occur over much of the Earth, but records show no place has more than the central part of the United States — commonly called Tornado Alley.

The area has the perfect combination of ingredients for these storms, according to Howard Bluestein of the School of Meteorology at the University of Oklahoma.

One important thing is a "rapid change in wind speed and direction with height," along with lots of warm moist air at low levels and much cooler air higher up, he said. That change in wind speed is supplied by the jet stream, a high level river of fast-moving wind that often loops over the region.

Warm, moist air moves north from the Gulf of Mexico and meets warm dry air moving downward from the Rocky Mountains. The two types of air collide along a boundary called the Dry Line, Bluestein said, and dry air can move above the moist air, forming a cap called an inversion.

Something triggers a change, perhaps an upper level storm, causing the moist air to break through the inversion. That generates a powerful storm as the moist air with its pent-up energy rises into the colder region above the inversion, its moisture condensing into clouds, Bluestein said.

When the rising air encounters the jet stream, it can begin spinning, causing tornadoes to develop.

Meteorologists have attributed the decline in tornado deaths in recent years to increased public awareness of the danger of the storms, which are most common in May and June but can occur in any month of the year.

The unsettled weather as winter changes to spring helps create frequent storms. Hot weather stirring the air also helps, with 60 percent of all twisters occurring between noon and sunset, according to the National Center for Atmospheric Research.

The typical tornado is only about 50 yards wide and travels about two miles on the ground — 87 percent of the time heading toward the northeast, researchers report.

But while an individual twister may cover only a small area, tornadoes often come in groups and destruction can be total as winds whip about at hundreds of miles per hour.

The familiar funnel cloud is the most common sign of a tornado, although adjacent winds can also cause severe damage.

Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable. The American Meteorological Society, a scientific group usually reluctant to enter public policy, took last month called for storm shelters to be built in mobile home parks.

The group said more than one-third of tornado deaths between 1985 and 1989 were people in, or fleeing from, mobile home parks.

Northern Sudan losing its cover

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Environmentalists say the forests of northern Sudan are being cut so rapidly for firewood, which provides 70 percent of the nation's energy, that the entire region soon may be a desert.

They see little hope for Africa's largest nation to change conditions that have caused almost perennial drought in some regions over a decade.

Worldwatch Institute, an environmental group based in Washington, said in its 1991 report that firewood shortages had become a crisis in many parts of the Third World.

In Sudan, only 1 percent of the power comes from electricity. Wood is the source of heat and light for nearly all Sudanese, who also burn agricultural refuse and animal dung.

Sudan has 215 million acres of forests, a total area larger than Texas and Oklahoma combined. Two-thirds is tropical rain forest in southern Sudan, which has been in the grip of civil war for eight years.

Deserts already cover nearly one-third of the nation's 1 million square miles.

Drought is chronic in the capital, Khartoum, a northern city at the confluence of the Blue Nile and White Nile.

Many residents call it Dust Town. Dust is everywhere. The only spots of green are the farms of Tuti Island in the Nile and a few trees along the bank.

Mohamed Ahmed Kurak, an environmentalist, attributes it all to "overcutting and indiscriminate burning" of the northern forests.

A study by the Danish development agency Danida said northern Sudan, where three-fourths of the country's 26 million people live, lost enough forest land to the desert in 1989 to supply one-fourth of the nation's wood needs for a year.

Unless haphazard destruction of forests is stopped, "firewood, the main source of energy for the overwhelming majority, will disappear within five years," said Hassan Osman Abdel-Nour, director of the government Sudan Forests Corp. "Many places will witness cycles of desertification."

He said Sudan would have to spend $2 billion more annually for kerosene and other products if the people have no wood to burn. Sudan is in economic crisis and uinable to pay the $13 billion it already owes.

"We expect the drought cycle (to continue) due to the lack of a green cover," Abdel-Nour said.

Poll results dissapoint state bar

SAN FRANCISCO (NYT) — Most people do not know what the Bill of Rights is, and almost half mistakenly believe that if they are accused of a crime they must prove their innocence, according to the nation's first "legal literacy" survey.

The poll by the State Bar of California was intended to find out how much people know about their basic legal rights. The results released Wednesday in honor of Law Day showed that an alarming number flunked the test.

'The health of our legal system depends upon the public understanding and respect of the law.'

— Robert Oliver, California Bar Association vice president

Robert Oliver, vice president of the State Bar, called the results "disturbing and truly disappointing."

"The health of our legal system depends upon the public understanding and respect of the law," Oliver said.

For the survey, 440 randomly selected California adults were quizzed on their knowledge of auto-accident laws, consumer rights, divorce laws and an assortment of other topics.

No one got all 24 questions correct.

Only 47 percent of those canvassed accurately identified the Bill of Rights as the first 10 amendments of the Constitution. And 48 percent know that if they are physically threatened by someone else, they cannot legally respond with deadly force.

The phone survey was taken in March and has a margin of error of plus or minus 5 percent.

Overall, those surveyed were correct on an average of 14 of the questions, or 58 percent.

Study: Oceans may create clouds

NEW YORK (AP) — Oceans might be able to limit how warm they get at the surface by creating high-altitude clouds to give them some shade, researchers say.

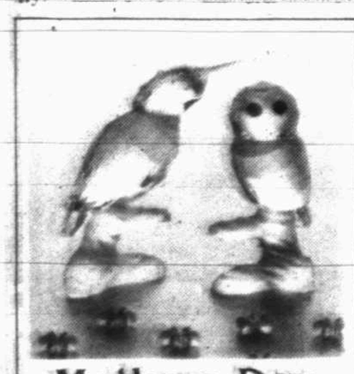

As a result, oceans may not get any warmer than about 89 degrees Fahrenheit as a monthly average, the study says.

Scientists said it is not clear whether that effect would act against global warming, the expected result of a buildup in the atmosphere of heat-trapping gases.

The work is presented in Thursday's issue of the British journal Nature by Veerhabdran Ramanathan and William Collins of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography in La Jolla, Calif.

The cloud-shading effect had been suggested before, but the study provides experimental evidence, Collins said in a telephone interview.

The scientists studied the response of the tropical Pacific Ocean in 1987 to an El Nino effect, a recurring event in which the tropical Pacific warms temporarily.

Latest odds

LOUISVILLE, KY. (AP) — Final preliminary wagering Friday on the 117th running of the Kentucky Derby installed Hansel as the 9-5 favorite of the crowd at Churchill Downs.

Second in the wagering was Strike the Gold at 4-1, the same odds as set in the morning line on Thursday. He was follow by Fly So Free at 5-1 and then Best Pal, 6-1; and Corporate Report, 7-1.

The five-horse field of Wilder Than Ever, Fortysomething, Green Alligator, Paulrus and Another Review was listed at 14-1. Then came Alydavid, 18-1; Sea Cadet, 19-1; Quintana 23-1; Los Mountain and Main Minister, each 60-1; and Happy Jazz Band, 99-1.

Preliminary Derby wagering was at $907,286 — $687,517 on win-place-show bets and $219,769 on exacta wagering.

Tom the Knick?

AUSTIN (AP) — The name of University of Texas basketball Coach Tom Penders has surfaced as a possible successor to New York Knicks Coach John MacLeod, according to several published reports.

With MacLeod's announcement that he would take the head coaching job at Notre Dame, Penders' name popped up in New York City newspapers and The National sports daily.

Penders said he hadn't been contacted by the NBA team.

"I know nothing about it," he told the Austin American-Statesman. "The Knicks are not even on my mind right now. I'm really happy here, but I probably would listen if they called."

117th Derby wild, wacky

■ With race day at hand, no clear-cut favorite has emerged in the Run for the Roses at Louisville.

Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Racing fans throughout the land today could be dancing to a Happy Jazz Band, one of the "impossible dream" starters in the Kentucky Derby.

They could be toasting a colt who would be racing's newest hit — Fly So Free, whose owner, Thomas Valando, has published the scores from such Broadway smashes as "Cabaret" and "Fiddler on the Roof."

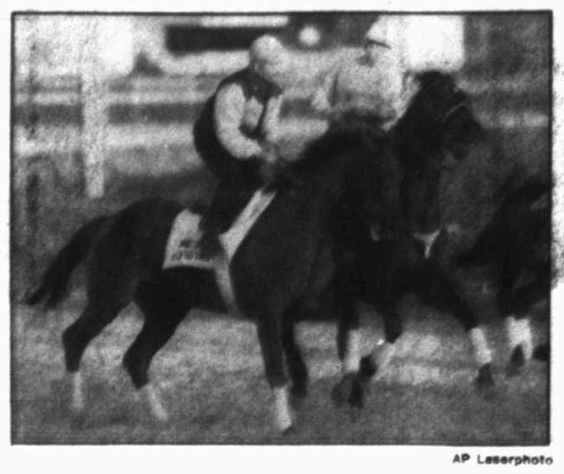

Happy horse players could be bombarding juke boxes or calling disc jockeys for "The Unicorn." Green Alligator got his name from a line in that song, which goes: "Green alligators and long-necked geese, humpty-backed camels and chimpanzees."

In coming years, one of the tales told about the 117th Derby at Churchill Downs will be about Sea Cadet, who was born with a tail worthy of the name — just a six-inch stub.

Sea Cadet's trainer, Ron McAnally, just smiles at jokes about his tailless colt. After all, he had Silver Ending (fifth in the 1990 Derby), who got his name from gray hair in the tip of his tail, and he trained one-eyed Cassaleria, who was 13th in 1982.

This is the 50th anniversary of Whirlaway's Derby victory. The Triple Crown winner was known as Mr. Longtail or The Flying Tail.

Ah, the Kentucky Derby. It's wonderful — and wacky.

AP Laserphoto

Fly So Free gets a little frisky as exercise rider Robert Caputo and outrider Mina LaRue try to keep him in check at a Friday morning workout.

There can be a fairy-tale quality about the race, and this year a fairy tale was the source of one starter's name.

The woodman was the father of Hansel and Gretel of storybook fame, and Woodman is the father of Hansel the colt.

The four leading contenders Saturday are Fly So Free, the Florida Derby winner; Hansel, who has won two straight races, including the Jim Beam; Strike the Gold, who upset Fly So Free in the Blue Grass, and Best Pal, a good second to Dinard in the Santa Anita Derby.

Dinard would have been favored Saturday, but he cannot start because of a tendon problem.

Spectacular Bid, the 1978 2-year-old champion, won the 1979 Derby as the favorite. No juvenile champion or favorite has won the race since then. Fly So Free was 1990's best male 2-year-old and he is the likely post time favorite.

Best Pal is a gelding. The last gelding to win the Derby was Clyde Van Dusen in 1929.

Corporate Report and Alydavid did not start as 2-year-olds. The only Derby winner unraced at 2 was Apollo in 1882.

"The Big Four all have chinks in their armor, so we thought it was worth a try," said Phil Gleaves, the trainer of Happy Jazz Band, who will be looking for his first stakes win and could go off as the longest shot in the field.

Donerail paid $184.90 when he won in 1913. There was a winning payoff of $72.40 on Gallahadion in 1940, and Proud Clarion paid $62.20 to win in 1967.

The 1971 Derby was won by Canonero II, a member of a six-horse mutuel field. The other five field horses that year were the last five finishers in the race.

Green Alligator is a member of a five-horse mutuel field, despite having won the California Derby. The mutuel field is the coupling of horses that would be long shots because there can be no more than 12 betting interests.

Every Derby also has its human stories.

For only the third time, and the first time since 1984, a woman will ride in the Derby. Andrea Seefeldt, 27, will have the mount on Forty Something.

Pairings settled

Lee vs. Coronado; MHS vs. Monterey

Staff Report

LUBBOCK — Lubbock Monterey became the District 3-5A baseball champion Friday with a 9-3 intra-district playoff victory over Lubbock Coronado, and now both Midland Lee and Midland High can prepare for the bi-district playoffs with particular opponents in mind.

Eighth-ranked Lee (18-8), the District 4-5A champion, will take on 3-5A runner-up Coronado (17-11), while MHS (13-10) puts its second-consecutive 4-5A runner-up squad on the field against ninth-ranked Monterey (25-6) when a pair of best-of-three series begin in the Tall City Friday, May 10.

Both series will move to Lubbock next Saturday (May 11), where double-headers will be played, if necessary.

MHS and Lee each lost coin-flips in determining bi-district sites.

The Rebels host Coronado at 4:30 p.m. next Friday at Johnson Field. Saturday's action begins at 2 p.m. on Coronado's O'Banion Field.

The Bulldogs entertain Monterey at 4:30 p.m. Friday at Angels Stadium, then visit Lubbock's Lowrey Field at 1 p.m. the next day to decide the series.

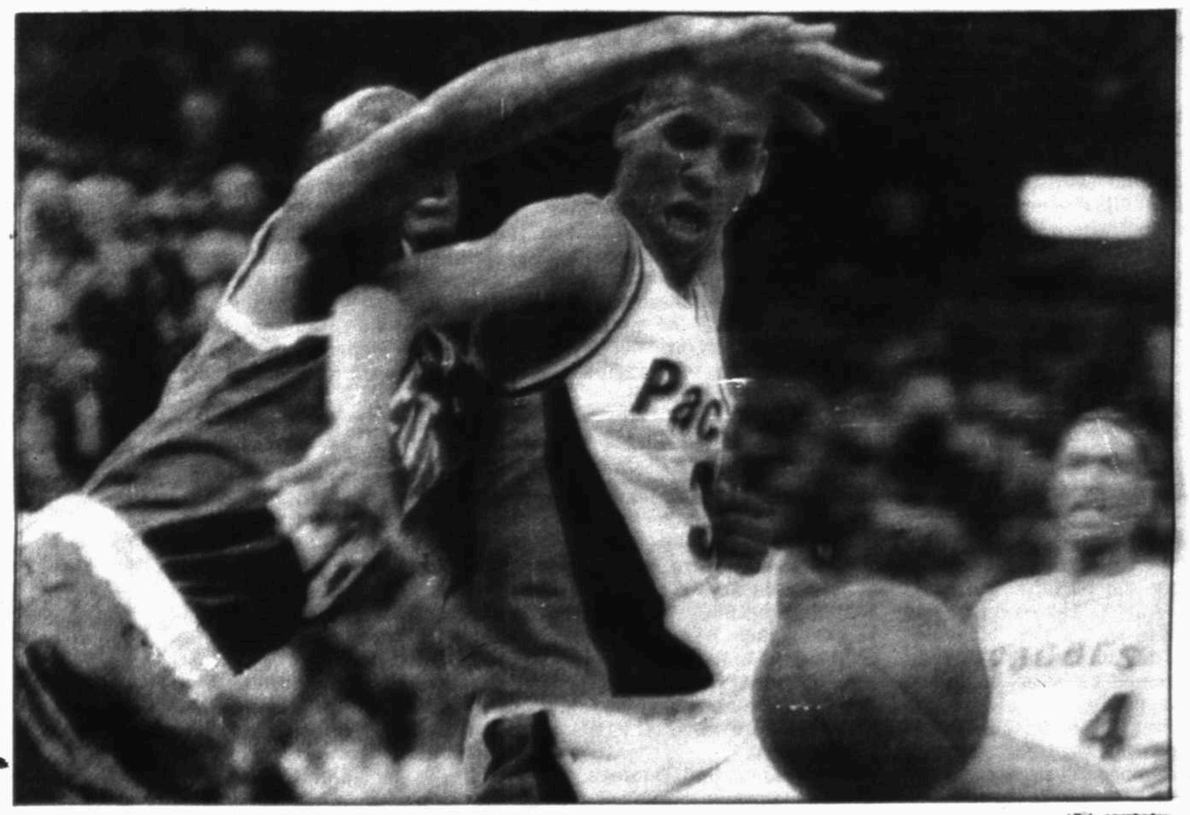

Monterey and Coronado had to have a one-game playoff to determine the post-season seedings after the two schools finished the season with identical 9-2 records in 3-5A.

Tim Whalen, assistant athletic director for the Midland Independent School District, said a recent pronouncement by the University Interscholastic League forbids bi-district games being played Monday through Thursday.

Also, MHS took a 10-8 decision over Fort Worth Southwest at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene Friday night as both teams tuned up for the postseason.

Brian Rounding pitched two innings and picked up the win, while Dewayne Culpepper got the save.

Bulldogs Mike Melzer, James Madrid, Tyler Beard, Jeremy Burton and Adrian Mills each had two hits.

Bulldogs look for edge in spring

■ Midland High and Odessa Permian are the only District 4-5A teams to conduct spring football drills, and the Bulldogs hope that translates in fall success.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

Midland High and Odessa Permian are the only two District 4-5A football teams conducting spring drills this year, and MHS head coach Davis Corley is hoping the Bulldogs will make the most of it.

"I understand all the reasons why the other schools in the district aren't having spring training, and it all boils down to the particular needs a team has," Corley said. "The starting time of school and availability of players all play a role in your decision.

"We have two quarterbacks (Antwan Goodley and Geoff Simmons) who have little experience and we felt the more repetition they have, the better off we will be next fall.

"Simmons went straight golf for a while and is now back in football while Goodley was a backup last year and played defense. They need the work."

Corley is basically pleased with what he has seen after one week of spring workouts.

"Things are going pretty good. The kids are working hard and we've got a lot of teaching done," Corley said. "We've gone back to a lot more technique this year. We've divided the team up in two strict platoons with offensive players working together and the defense working together.

"We've already decided that next fall we will be playing some kids both ways, but this will put us ahead in the area of each person's speciality. Everyone is going to have to learn a backup role, but we are working hard this spring in the areas where the kids will be used most."

Corley has been pleased with progress made in Week 1 in the offensive skill positions.

"Both Simmons and Goodley are coming along and fullback

Fog, wind pose problems at MCC partnership

■ Two teams shoot first-round 69s to take the early lead in the annual Midland Country Club golf tournament.

By Jimmy Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor

Morning players had to deal with a dense fog.

Afternoon players had the wind blowing balls astray.

Despite all the natural distractions, the 236 players participating in the 20th annual Midland Country Club Invitational Partnership somehow muddled through the course.

Two of the teams didn't let the conditions bother them at all. Tournament director Dennis Sledge and partner Mac McGee, along with Andrews' natives Kenny Thompson and David Burgen, each combined to shoot 69s, good for the low first-round totals in the two-man, low ball, no handicap event.

Fourteen other two-man teams are within five shots of the co-leaders after 18 holes in the 54-hole tournament.

"It was a little tough with the wind," co-leader David Bergen said. "My partner and I played awfully well on the front nine. We had seven birdies between us. We got to four under and putted our way out of it."

Three teams are tied for third, one shot behind the co-leaders. Steve Earsley-Charlie Snuggs, Chad Williams-Darrell Johnson and Carl C. Beach-Phillip Karper were all in with 70s.

Kelly Cox and Allen Waddell, and Michael Michalka and Lynn Conine are tied for third with 71s.

The Championship Flight consists of the Top 28 teams through the first 36 holes. For the final round, the Championship Flight is narrowed to the Top 10 teams. The remaining teams previously in the top category then form the President's Flight and First Flight, based on scores.

Bob Wiggins and Tim Wollenman, leaders in the second flight with a 70, fired the low round for players competing in the 2nd-thru-9th flights.

Jack Swallow and Mike Canon — competing in the seventh flight — led that division with a 72.

"I've heard three 69s have won this thing in recent years," Bergen said of his and Thompson's chances. "This course plays tough, though. It's not bad, but getting off the tee is critical.

"We're happy with our record, I'm just sorry we had to throw those birdies away with our miscues."

Saturday's forecast doesn't mention fog, and winds should be somewhat calmer than Friday when the championship flight tees off at 8:30 a.m. today. The extreme humidity of the first day, though, did leave an impression on those who suffered through it.

"I don't know what you'd call it, because you couldn't see a thing," MCC assistant professional Terry Lester said of the early morning fog.

Before the heavy mist cleared, consideration had been given to briefly postponing the morning tee-off times. The postponement was cancelled, however, due to the large number of golfers on the course.

"Some of the guys drove up to the tee to check on pin placement," Lester continued, "but it didn't matter because once they got back to the tee box, you

Pacers have right Person

Associated Press

NBA Playoffs

INDIANAPOLIS — Chuck Person boasted before the game that Boston couldn't stop him. He went out and backed up his words with action to keep Indiana's bid for its first playoff series victory alive.

Person scored 12 consecutive points for Indiana down the stretch as the Pacers overcame a 13-point deficit in the third quarter and beat the Boston Celtics 116-113 on Friday night to even their first-round playoff series at 2-2.

The deciding game in the best-of-5 series will be played Sunday in Boston with the winner facing either Detroit or Atlanta in the second round.

Person, who had 39 points in Indiana's Game 2 victory but was held to six in Wednesday's loss, began his streak by hitting a basket with 4:42 left to cut Indiana's deficit to 105-102. He tied the game by making a 3-pointer with 4:22 remaining.

"I had a long talk with him yesterday," Indiana coach Bob Hill said of Person. "I told him, 'You can't go out there and not be aggressive, be yourself. ... That's what he did. He stayed in the game. He hit big shots. He got rebounds."

"I have to give a lot of credit to my teammates. They did an outstanding job. We have shown that we can win under pressure," Person said.

Baskets by Person gave Indiana two-point leads twice before Kevin McHale, who led the Celtics with 24 points, tied the game for the last time at 109 with 2:50 remaining.

Person then stole the ball and made another 3-pointer, giving him 30 points for the game, to put Indiana ahead to stay, 112-109 with 2:06 left.

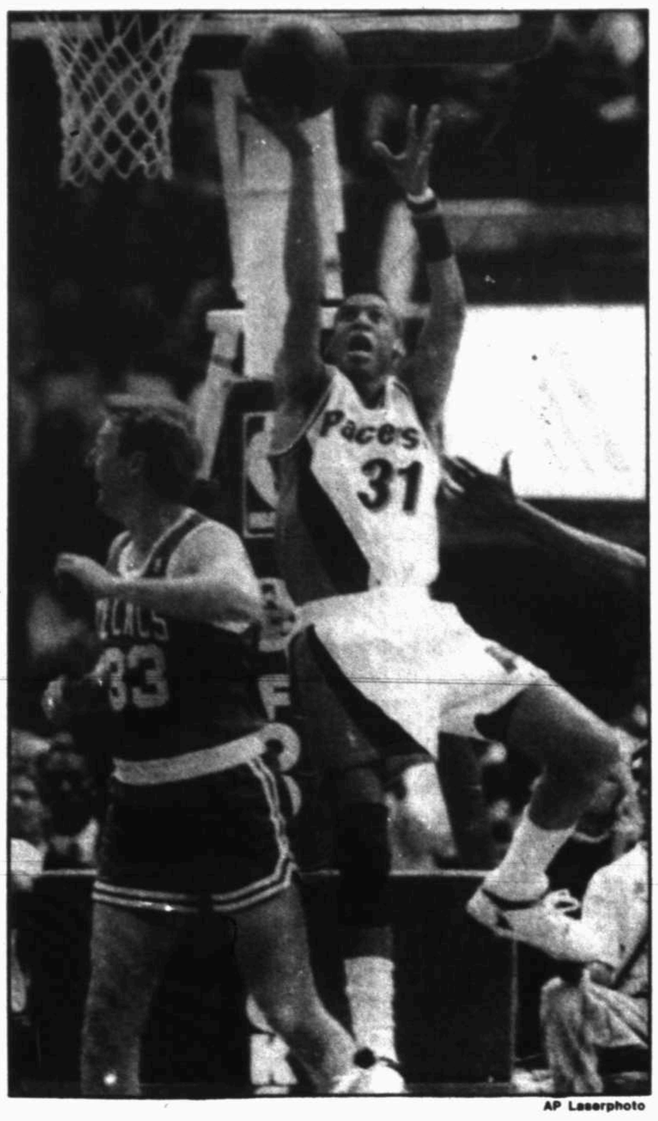

Warriors 110, Spurs 97

OAKLAND, Calif. — Tim Hardaway scored 32 points and the seventh-seeded Golden State Warriors eliminated the San Antonio Spurs in four first-round games.

The Warriors stayed with their four-guard offense most of the way to beat the Midwest Division champions for the third game in a row, and advance into the Western Conference semifinals against the Los Angeles Lakers.

Golden State led 80-64 in the the third quarter and 82-73 going into the fourth before the Spurs pulled within 84-79 on Willie Anderson's driving layin with 9:53 to play.

After a Warriors timeout, Richmond's 18-footer followed by a 3-pointer by Hardaway put Golden State up 89-79 with 8:59 left.

Day stays at Arkansas

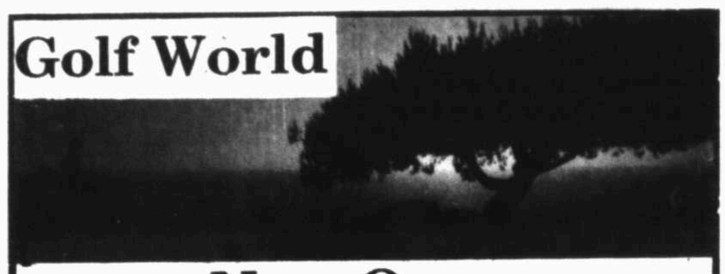

Associated Press

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — Todd Day, Arkansas' leading scorer and a second-team All-American last season, announced Friday that he would come back for his senior season with the Razorbacks.

Day, a 6-foot-8 forward from Memphis, Tenn., had been contemplating for weeks whether to stay in school or forego his final season and declare himself eligible for next month's National Basketball Association draft.

He had been projected as a first-round draft choice if he turned pro.

"I have decided to stay in school, get my degree, and help my friends and teammates make the University of Arkansas proud next year," Day said at a news conference at the Broyles athletic complex.

Bruins go up 2-0 over Penguins in OT

Associated Press

BOSTON — Vladimir Ruzicka, who had four assists, scored on a rebound at 8:14 of overtime to give the Boston Bruins a 5-4 victory and a 2-0 lead over the Pittsburgh Penguins in the Wales Conference final Friday night.

Dave Christian backhanded a 25-footer from the left of the slot. Pittsburgh goalie Tom Barrasso saved it, but Ruzicka collected the rebound 10 feet to the right and put a forehand by the fallen goalie.

The Bruins can reach the Stanley Cup finals for the third time in four years by winning Sunday and Tuesday nights in Pittsburgh. A fifth game in the-best-of-7 series, if necessary, would be in Boston next Thursday night.

Boston outshot the Penguins 8-1 in overtime after being behind 33-22 after three periods.

The Bruins, who led the NHL with a 5-0-12 overtime record, are 1-2 in overtime playoff games. The Penguins lost their first playoff overtime game after winning one in each of the first two series.

Boston nearly scored while shorthanded 1:17 into overtime. Dave Poulin's shot from the left point was tipped by Boston's Jeff Lazaro in the slot but hit the post.

During a Boston power play, Barrasso broke his stick, but Ron Francis filled the crease to save Ruzicka's shot at 3:21 of overtime.

Craig Janney tied the game at 4 with 3:11 left in the third period while Boston enjoyed a two-man advantage following penalties to Peter Taglianetti for tripping and Gord Roberts for high sticking.

Divac should be available for LA

Associated Press

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Vlade Divac has raised the level of his game for the playoffs. But now, the Los Angeles Lakers center has to contend with a sore left wrist.

Divac fell in practice Thursday and sprained his wrist, an injury which kept him out of practice Friday and will sideline him Saturday. However, Dr. Robert Kerlan, who examined Divac, expects the 23-year-old Yugoslavian to be available to play whenever the Lakers begin their second-round series.

It's a good thing, coach Mike Dunleavy said.

"We're the kind of team that needs all of our players healthy if we're going to make a run at the championship," Dunleavy said. "Obviously, we hope he's all right. (But) you can't avoid contact."

The Lakers assured themselves at least five days off when they beat Houston 94-90 Tuesday night to sweep their best-of-5 series.

"It's good to have a couple days off," Dunleavy said. "But you don't want to have too many days off, it can hurt you as far as timing is concerned."

With that in mind, Dunleavy put his team through a rugged practice Thursday after the team took Wednesday off.

Divac, who is right-handed, was instrumental in the sweep of the Rockets, averaging 16 points, 10.3 rebounds, 3.3 blocks and playing inspired defense against Houston center Hakeem Olajuwon.

"He played consistent basketball in all three games," Magic Johnson said of Divac. "I think he'll be all right for the next series."

"Vlade has learned a lot since last year," James Worthy said. "He wasn't as knowledgeable about fundamental defense."

Meanwhile, reserve center Mychal Thompson expressed the opinion that NBA teams don't need a dominant player in the middle to be successful in the postseason.

"New York and Houston proved that just having a great center isn't going to advance you in the playoffs," Thompson said. "This is a team game, not a center's game.

"You've got to have a team, you've got to have some other thoroughbreds."

MHS: Line consistency needed

(From 1B)

Eddie Redic has been impressive. Our running backs Thomas Acrey and Robert McKee have also been looking good."

But that doesn't mean that Corley is set for the fall season.

"Our offensive and defensive lines need to be a lot more consistent," Corley states. "We've seen some good things from these youngsters, but they are inexperienced. I'm glad we have two more weeks to work in these areas.

"Our defense really hasn't played well this spring. They play well for three or four downs and then have a break down. The whole defense needs to play better. And we haven't been tackling very well this spring."

The Bulldogs held the first of three scrimmage sessions Thursday and came back in shorts on Friday. Corley plans to hold another scrimmage next Thursday.

The Bulldogs will end the spring grind with the annual Bill Mims spring game on Thursday, May 16, at 7 p.m. at Memorial Stadium.

Corley is considering a unique approach for the spring game, one that was used by Angelo State last spring.

"We're thinking about a game that will pit the offense against the defense. The offense can score points just like they do in a game while the defense can earn points by stopping a drive, producing a turnover and things like that.

"We think it will be fun and will fit in with what we've been doing this spring."

Bucs win pitching duel

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — Zane Smith pitched a four-hitter to outduel Pete Harnisch and Orlando Merced hit his first major league home run to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 1-0 victory over the Houston Astros on Friday night.

The National League East-leading Pirates have won 10 of their last 12 games and six of their last seven at home. The game was played in 1 hour, 45 minutes.

Smith (3-1) retired the first 12 hitters he faced and pitched out of a fifth-inning jam with the help of two key defensive plays. Smith, who has allowed two earned runs in his last 22 innings, has a 1.53 ERA since Montreal traded him to Pittsburgh last Aug. 8.

Harnisch (1-1) lost despite allowing one other hit besides Merced's third-inning home run, Mike LaValliere's single in the second. Harnisch, obtained from Baltimore in the Glenn Davis trade last winter, has a 1.07 ERA in his five Houston starts.

Dodgers 7, Phillies 1

PHILADELPHIA — Ramon Martinez pitched a four-hitter for his third consecutive complete game as the Los Angeles Dodgers beat Philadelphia, ending the Phillies' five-game winning streak.

National

Martinez (4-1) struck out four and walked three, but his scoreless streak was snapped at 22 innings.

Martinez gave up six runs in three innings in losing to San Francisco on April 16, and hadn't allowed a run since as he shut out San Diego and the Giants in his previous starts.

Mets 3, Giants 0

NEW YORK — David Cone retired the first 16 batters and finished giving up four hits over eight innings as the New York Mets beat San Francisco, sending the Giants to their fourth straight loss.

Cone (3-1), hit hard in his last start by Pittsburgh, struck out nine and walked none. John Franco, who gave up one hit, finished for his sixth save.

Cardinals 4, Reds 2

CINCINNATI — Ray Lankford and Ozzie Smith singled home ninth-inning runs as the St. Louis Cardinals rallied against Cincinnati's bullpen for a victory over the Reds.

Starter Norm Charlton took a 2-1 lead into the seventh, but Randy Myers came on to give up a game-tying single to pinch-hitter Craig Wilson. It was the second consecutive game and third time this season that Myers has failed to hold a lead.

Braves 5, Cubs 2

ATLANTA — Greg Olson's two-out, two-run single in the sixth inning broke a tie as the Atlanta Braves beat the Chicago Cubs.

David Justice started the winning rally with a one-out walk from Shawn Boskie (2-2) and Sid Bream followed with a single.

Bream avoided a double play on a grounder up the middle by Terry Pendleton, who was thrown out at first, and Olson then singled in the hole to left field to break a 2-2 tie.

Expos 4, Padres 1

MONTREAL — Ivan Calderon drove in two runs to help Oil Can Boyd win for the first time this season as the Montreal Expos beat the San Diego Padres for their fourth straight victory.

Boyd (1-3) gave up four hits and one run in seven innings. Steve Frey pitched 1 1-3 innings and Tim Burke got the last two outs.

San Diego took the lead in the second inning when Fred McGriff, who played in Toronto last season, led off with his fourth homer.

Tigers drop Rangers in 11th

Associated Press

DETROIT — Rob Deer tied the game with a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth inning and Mickey Tettleton won it with a run-scoring single in the 11th as the Detroit Tigers rallied to beat the Texas Rangers 7-6 Friday night.

Alan Trammell led off the 11th by drawing a walk from reliever Brad Arnsberg (0-1) and moved to second on a balk. Mike Jeffcoat relieved and Lou Whitaker advanced Trammell to third with a sacrifice. Cecil Fielder was intentionally walked and Tettleton followed with a liner down the left-field line.

Mike Henneman (3-0) pitched two innings for the victory.

Blue Jays 5, Royals 1

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — David Wells stopped Kansas City for eight innings and the Toronto Blue Jays sent the reeling Royals to their seventh straight loss.

Kansas City has dropped all seven games at Royals Stadium. The Royals are one defeat from the team record for consecutive losses at home, last endured in 1974.

Wells (2-3) struck out three and walked one in ending his three-game losing skid.

American

Brewers 6, Twins 5

MILWAUKEE — Former Midland Angel Dante Bichette hit a two-run triple in the eighth inning on a frosty night and the Milwaukee Brewers rallied to beat the Minnesota Twins for their fourth straight victory.

Red Sox 7, White Sox 2

CHICAGO — Roger Clemens returned from his five-game suspension and ran into little trouble with either umpire Terry Cooney or the Chicago White Sox, pitching the Boston Red Sox to a victory.

Clemens (5-0) had his shutout streak end at 30 innings when Chicago scored two runs on three hits in the first.

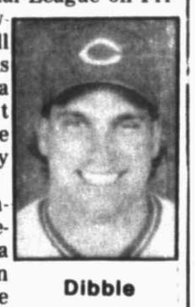

Yankees 5, Mariners 0

SEATTLE — Scott Sanderson pitched a three-hitter and rookie Hensley Meulens hit a two-run homer as the New York Yankees broke a four-game losing streak with a victory over Seattle.

Dibble draws suspension

Associated Press

CINCINNATI — Rob Dibble was suspended for four games by the National League on Friday for throwing a baseball into the stands and hurting a teacher, but delayed the penalty by appealing.

Dibble

The Cincinnati Reds reliever faces a total of seven games on the bench for two angry outbursts this season. NL president Bill White gave Dibble a three-game suspension and $1,000 fine last month for throwing a pitch behind the back of Houston's Eric Yelding, touching off a brawl.

Dibble appealed the first suspension and continues to pitch pending a June 17 hearing in New York. There was no hearing date set for an appeal of the latest suspension — his fourth from the league in the past three seasons.

Dibble declined to talk about the suspension before a game Friday night against St. Louis. Manager Lou Piniella said he didn't condone Dibble's outburst, and he hopes the reliever has learned from it.

"It's hurting the ballclub and it's hurting Dibble at the same time," Piniella said. "I'm sure Rob didn't intend to hurt anybody or the team. You've got to learn from those experiences. Certainly you should learn."

Both general manager Bob Quinn and controlling partner Marge Schott were traveling Friday and unavailable for comment.

"I think it's an overreaction," said Eugene Orza, associate general counsel of the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Nick Price urges on a birdie putt Friday in Irving.

Price's stance right

Associated Press

IRVING — Nick Price converted a little adjustment in his putting stance into a one-stroke lead Friday, halfway through the Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

"In this game, short putting is everything," Price said after a bogey-free 64 put him through 36 holes at 132, 8 under par on the TPC at Las Colinas.

And, he said, until a couple of months ago the short putts were driving him to distraction — and the long putter so favored by players on the Senior PGA Tour.

"I was so very, very frustrated I was considering it," said Price, who has scored only one victory in a nine-year career on the American tour.

"I really considered going to the long putter," he said.

Instead, he discovered he'd had most of his weight on his back foot, made an adjustment and has been putting much better for two months.

"No one, I don't care who he is or how well he strikes the ball, will do well in this game if he isn't a good putter," he said.

Pregnant Lopez ties course record

Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Nancy Lopez, expecting her third child in November, tied the course record with a 65 on Friday and took a 2-stroke lead after one round of the Sara Lee Classic.

A double-bogey at the 392-yard 14th hole was the only blemish on the LPGA Hall of Famer's tour of the par-72, 6,242-yard Hermitage Golf Course.

Lopez, with 43 LPGA Tour victories, leads Kris Monaghan who had a 67.

Debbie Massey, Susan Sanders, Dale Eggeling, Sherri Steinhauer, Cindy Rarick, Lori Garbacz, Tina Barrett, Laurie Rinker, Cathy Marino and Terry-Jo Myers were tied at 68.

Defending champion Ayako Okamoto of Japan had a 2-under 70.

Lopez matched the 65 shot by Amy Alcott during the first round of the inaugural Sara Lee Classic in 1988.

Lopez posted four birdies on the front nine with putts of 1, 5 and 10 feet and a tap-in to make the turn at 4-under 32.

She quickly went 5-under with a 12-foot putt for birdie at the par-4 10th and added birdies at the 12th and 13th before running into trouble at the 14th where she missed a 30-foot putt for par and then blew a 1-foot tap for bogey.

"I hit the ball well today, although my hands got real swollen before the round and once in a while I had a quick swing," Lopez said. "I hit my tee shots long and I felt pretty confident with my wrist-putting stroke which I have been working on.

Not even the double bogey could halt Lopez' march to the lead.

"After I took the double bogey, I just forgot it," Lopez said. "I knew if I let it bother me, I'd just fall back into the pack."

Lopez, who came back and birdied the 18th hole for her final score, said being pregnant may have helped her game.

"I like the feeling of being pregnant. It's a feeling of being excited, of being happy and feeling that nothing's a big deal," Lopez said. "I've always enjoyed being pregnant and, I don't know why, I seem to hit the ball farther when I'm pregnant."

Monaghan carded six birdies and had a bogey-4 at the 14th where she missed a 5-foot putt for par.

"I felt very steady out there," said Monaghan, seeking her second career tour victory. "It's great to have a good start in a three-day tournament. You're in the hunt right off the bat. When I play well the first day, I usually carry that through the whole week."

Lopez and Monaghan were able to able to forge their rounds on a day when 4-under 68s were the norm.

"The 68s are coming in like crazy," said Massey, whose play with the short-irons was the key to her success. "I hit some really good irons."

She also made some good putts, hitting birdies of 3, 4, 1 and 10 feet. Massey had a bogey on the 17th hole, but offset that with a tap-in birdie to close the round.

"The greens here are undulating and can get hard to hold."

49ers renew Young

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Steve Young, the backup to Joe Montana, has agreed to a new two-year contract with the San Francisco 49ers that will make him the highest-paid reserve in the NFL.

Sources said Young, who will be 30 in October, will be paid $4.5 million over two years. Earlier, he had asked to be traded.

Brickyard speeds expected to increase again

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — If you think speeds at the Indianapolis 500 have reached their limit, think again. The track opens for practice Saturday, and the biggest surprise would be if speeds aren't even faster than a year ago.

Tom Sneva had a record opening-day speed last year at 215.646 mph. Then Al Unser Jr. had the fastest unofficial lap in history at 228.502 in practice, and Emerson Fittipaldi set a record in qualifications with a four-lap average of 225.301 mph.

In the race, Arie Luyendyk smashed the former record by more than 15 mph, finishing the entire 500 miles at an average 185.981 mph.

All those marks are in jeopardy as the Indianapolis Motor Speedway observes the 75th running of the 500 this year. More than 40 cars had arrived at their garages by Friday, and some two dozen already had cleared the mandatory technical inspection by the U.S. Auto Club.

"Just going by practice test speeds this winter ... (Jim) Crawford, Emmo (Fittipaldi) were going 223-224, Tony Bettenhausen was 222-223 ... I would think it will be a couple miles an hour faster," said USAC technical chairman Jack Beckley, who is in charge of implementing the rules normally designed to slow the race cars, or at least slow the rate of increase in speed.

This year, it might not make any difference.

USAC adopted a couple of minor rules changes since last year. One of the changes eliminated an aerodynamic carbon fiber covering on the inside of the rear wheels, because it had retained too much heat and burned the bearings on several cars last year. Another mandated a cross-brace on the car's front suspension arms, top and bottom, to prevent the arms from possibly penetrating the cockpit in a crash.

Indianapolis 500

Neither is expected to affect the speeds.

"They claimed disallowing the closing off the inside of the rear wheel takes away 25 pounds of downforce, but some of the teams have told me they've gotten it back in other ways," Beckley said. "These guys are so clever. It's hard to slow 'em down."

Indianapolis is the fourth stop on the season's Indy circuit, and there have been different winners at each race so far — John Andretti in Midland's Hall/VDS entry at Australia, Unser at Long Beach and Luyendyk at Phoenix. All three will be here, along with former Indy winners A.J. Foyt, Mario Andretti, Rick Mears, Danny Sullivan, Bobby Rahal, Fittipaldi and Gordon Johncock. Former winners Sneva, Johnny Rutherford and the elder Al Unser are looking for rides.

Foyt, recuperating from the most serious injuries of his career in a crash at Elkhart Lake, Wis., last fall, already has said this year, his 34th at Indy, will be his last.

USAC approved 10 rookies to begin practice, including two who qualified last year — Buddy Lazier and Jeff Andretti — but were bumped from the starting lineup by faster cars. The 27-year-old Andretti is the youngest son of Mario Andretti, the brother of Indy veteran Michael Andretti and the cousin of John Andretti.

Big bonus possible for Irvan

Associated Press

TALLADEGA, Ala. — "Swervin Irvan" is back in the spotlight this weekend. Ernie Irvan, the surprise winner of the Daytona 500, has the opportunity to take step No. 2 toward a possible $1 million bonus in Sunday's Winston 500.

NASCAR

"The team's worked hard because of this bonus," Irvan said Friday between practice sessions on Talladega Superspeedway's 2.66-mile oval. "They've put a lot of work into our restrictor plate program and we proved at Daytona we have a good car and engine combination."

The bonus that is up for grabs is the Winston Million, a reward earned only by Bill Elliott in 1985, the first year that the series sponsor made the prize available to any driver who can win at least three of NASCAR's Big Four races — the Daytona 500, the Winston 500, the Coca-Cola 600 and the Southern 500.

The first driver to win any two of those races earns a $100,000 bonus.

Irvan, whose only other Winston Cup victory came last summer at Bristol, Tenn., kept himself in the forefront of the speculation this weekend by winning the pole position Thursday.

That proved again that the Morgan-McClure team has a handle on the restricted engines used only at Daytona and Talladega.

"Nothing would be better than to leave here with a chance at the Winston Million and eliminate everybody else from a chance to win it," Irvan said. "For me, though, it doesn't look very realistic to win three of four (for the bonus) because I've only won two races in my career. But that doesn't mean we're not going to give it a good shot."

Despite his win at Daytona — an outcome helped by a crash involving Dale Earnhardt and Davey Allison with only three laps to go — Irvan generally is not included among the favorites at most events.

"This is a tough sport," he said. "Even if I win here, some people might think it was a fluke because I just had a fast car. I didn't think Daytona was a fluke, but the more you win, the more credibility you and your team get."

Asked if the win at Daytona had changed anything for him, Irvan said, "I went to the White House for dinner and I never expected that to happen. A lot of avenues have opened up for me. Daytona is what did it."

"But, like anything else, you need to back it up," he said. "I think we did back it up by going back to Bristol and finishing second and winning the pole here."

Dellwood sets tourney

Staff Report

Dellwood Lanes will host a Doubles Squad Bowling Tournament May 16-19, with an estimated total purse of $2,000 up for graps.

Entry fee for teams bowling in the Thursday, May 16, squad will receive an entry fee discount and pay $30 a team, while other entries pay $40 a team.

The May 16 squad bowls at 9 p.m., and the May 17 squad begins at 6:30 p.m. On May 18 two squads are scheduled, at 3 p.m. and 11 p.m., while May 19 the times for the three squads are 10:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m.

The top 10 teams from squad events will qualify for the semifinals, which will be conducted immediated following the final squad May 19. Three squad winners (squads at 6:30 p.m. May 17, 11 p.m. May 18, and 10:30 a.m. May 19) receive semifinal berths automatically.

The tournament is handicapped at 90 percent of 200. For more information, call Cory at 697-7871.

INDELIBLE IDENTITY

The fingerprint . . . that one physical characteristic common to all of us, yet different in each of us. Before our birth, God gives this unique mark to every human being He creates. We do not choose our fingerprint. It is given to us in its final form. It is the indelible identity of our physical selves.

God has also given an undeveloped potential with which we may give birth to other personal identities. Here, we do have a choice . . . free will. It is up to each of us whether we will choose to further our talents and abilities. An artist, a writer, a musician, a teacher, an athlete—there is a myriad of possibilities.

As you worship God this week, pray that He will guide you to realize and develop your particular gift, and to use it for His glory. Choose to leave your mark on God's world. Nurture your own indelible identity.

RELIGION

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Group plans round table, Buddhist service

The Unitarian-Universalist Church, Neely and Midkiff, has two special events scheduled for Sunday.

First the church will sponsor a Round Table Discussion on "Affirmative Action, Multicultural Inclusion and the Politically Correct Movement" from 9:45 to 10:45 a.m. Sunday. Then, the church will sponsor a special Buddhist service from 11 a.m. to noon Sunday.

Matters to be discussed during the round table include such questions as: Has affirmative action hiring become a system of racial quotas? Should job test scoring be based on race? Should society aim for justice for individual people or justice for racial and ethnic groups?

Richard Bowden, local businessman, and Nick Johnson, local writer, will introduce and facilitate the discussion.

No offering will be taken.

Dr. Subhashita, an ordained Buddist minister, will present a sermon entitled, "The Birth, Enlightment and Death of Buddha." Subhashita is the founder of the Buddhist Study Center of San Diego, The Buddhist Digest and an interdenominational Buddhist Temple in El Cajon, Calif.

The public is invited to attend. Child care will be provided.

■ Local pastor to speak Thursday, Friday

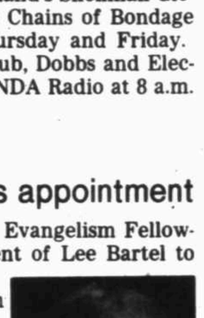

ODESSA — Donnie Brackens, pastor of Midland's Shekinah Glory Church, will speak on "How to Break the Chains of Bondage from Your Body, Family and Finances" Thursday and Friday.

He will be speaking at the Odessa Lions Club, Dobbs and Electric, at 7:30 p.m. both days. Brackens is on KNDA Radio at 8 a.m. on Sundays.

The public is invited to hear him speak.

■ Evangelical group announces appointment

The Mid-West Texas Chapter of The Child Evangelism Fellowship has announced the full-time appointment of Lee Bartel to serve as the area director.

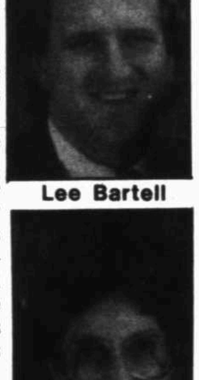

Lee Bartell

The Mid-West Texas Chapter stretches from Pecos and Alpine to San Angelo and Abilene. More than 100,000 children between the ages of 4 and 14 live in this 5,500 square mile area.

Bartel and his wife, Joy, join more than 2,000 full-time workers who serve in more than 100 countries world-wide in ministries associated with Child Evangelism Fellowship.

"CEF's focus is children," said a release from the fellowship's Mid-West Texas Chapter. "It ministers to adults by training them to be more effective in teaching children. Then, by conducting various neighborhood meetings during the summer and the school year, children are reminded that adults are interested and care for them. The summer meetings are called 5-Day Clubs., while the weekly meetings during the school year are called Good News Clubs."

Joy Bartell

The Bartels, who have two children, Carah and Caleb, previously were invloved in a CEF ministry in Omaha, Neb., where he served two years as the area director and three years on the CEF Nebraska State Board. At the time, they were operating a family-owned printing shop. bartel also served as the chairman of deacons for Faith Bible Church and as adult Sunday school teacher there.

Bartel is a deacon and youth leader at Midland Bible Church and Mrs. Bartel is a Sparks director in the Awama program and a children ministries leader.

Mrs. Bartel, who was born in Morocco, Africa, is the daughter of a missionary. Bartel grew up on a farm in North Dakota.

For more information on CEF call 685-1310. The mailing address is 725 Dormand, Midland 79705.

■ Fannin Baptist plans 'Preschool Day'

Fannin Terrace Baptist Church has designated Sunday as "Preschool Day."

The preschool teachers will be recognized during the morning worship service. Director of the program is Diane Pharr.

Then, May 12, in addition to being Mother's Day, has been designated as "Children's Day," when all of the children's teachers will be recognized.

The church is planning to have a "Marvelous May Program" every Sunday in May.

■ Musical group in concert at Bethel UMC

Glory Bound, a musical ensemble from St. Paul United Methodist Church, will be in concert at Bethel United Methodist Church at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Bethel UMC meets at Alamo YMCA, 901 Midland Drive.

The music team is composed of Teresa Crosby, Earl Levy, Dennis Burge, Chris Cunningham and Glenn Curry.

"They are no strangers to Bethel, having sung at the young church's constituting service two years ago as well as several times since," said a release from Bethel UMC. "The music ranges from country gospel to contemporary Christian. While the style is informal and lighthearted, the team is openly serious in its commitment to Jesus Christ."

The Rev. K.C. Blackketter, pastor at Bethel UMC, said of the group, "Glory Bound is more than a performance, it is a ministry. Your spirits will be uplifted by the message as well as the music."

Refreshments will be served during the fellowship time. Dress is very casual. A nursery will be provided. For more information call Bethel UMC, 682-2626.

■ Crossroads church plans special services

Sam Soleyn of Albuquerque, N.M., is speaking at special services today and Sunday at Crossroads Christian Fellowship, 410 S. Pecos St.

Soleyn was a minister in the Church of Christ for 12 years. In addition to his law degree, he has a master's degree in speech and English. He practices law in Albuquerque.

Service times are 7 p.m. today and 10 a.m. Sunday. Cecil Robinson of Crossroads invites the public to attend.

■ Women's Aglow meets Tuesday at Royal Inn

Guest speaker for Women's Aglow Fellowship Tuesday is Kathryn Gregory, a nurse for the past 23 years.

"She will share her thoughts about the call God has on her life and the lives of her family," said a release from Women's Aglow.

The dinner meeting begins at 6:30 p.m. at the Royal Inn. Ms. Gregory will speak at 7:30 p.m. All interested parties are invited to attend.

■ Victory church announces special services

The Victory Family Church is holding special services Sunday at the Ramada Inn, 3100 W. Wall Ave., at 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Bob Miller and his wife, Debbie, invite the public to attend.

For more information call 684-0833.

Road ahead blurred for beaten Southern Baptist moderates

By George W. Cornell
AP Religion writer

"It's hard to tell anybody exactly how to get there, because we don't know for sure where we are going," remarked the Rev. Charles Wade of Arlington, Texas, concerning the path being explored by Southern Baptist moderates.

"But we need not be frustrated because of the lack of a road map."

Wherever they're headed, they've suspended their long, losing battle with fundamentalists, who in 12 years have solidified their rule over the Southern Baptist Convention, the nation's biggest Protestant denomination.

Rather than surrender, however, some moderates seek working room outside the establishment. They are uncertain whether this points to an eventual break from the 15 million-member body.

"Our deliberate intention is not to start a new convention," said the Rev. Daniel Vestal of Dunwoody, Ga., head of an interim steering committee of a recently formed national organization of moderates, The Baptist Fellowship.

"But I'm not going to be naive or dishonest and say that is not a possibility. ... What will happen in the future, only God knows."

Moderates say fundamentalists have virtually pushed them out of the denomination, disqualifying them for posts in it.

But the denomination's fundamentalist president, the Rev. Morris Chapman of Wichita Falls, Texas, said they "are choosing to disassociate themselves."

"They have no one to blame but themselves," said Chapman. "They have chosen to do this. ... Their heart's desire is to have their own denomination when it seems to be feasible."

In any case, the new fellowship has called a national constitutional assembly May 9-11 in Atlanta's Omni Coliseum, and planners predict it will draw up to 10,000 Southern Baptists.

"This will be a historic meeting for Baptists who believe in freedom and who believe in creative, voluntary ways of doing missions," said the Rev. Ken Chafin of Louisville, Ky., program vice chairman.

'They have no one to blame but themselves. They have chosen to do this. ... Their heart's desire is to have their own denomination when it seems to be feasible.'

— Rev. Morris Chapman, Southern Baptist Convention president

Plans for the Atlanta assembly were to enact a constitution and bylaws, set policies for a new center for world missions and elect a permanent coordinating council to conduct business between annual assemblies.

Already substantial forces and financial support are being channeled into the alternative operation, as the clampdown tightens within the official household to enforce fundamentalist compliance.

Several staff executives have been forced out for not adhering to the fundamentalist line, sometimes silenced from protesting under threat of losing financial benefits.

Seminaries have come under tightened restrictions, with accreditation of one of them under investigation. Galleys of a history book on the way to publication were ordered shredded.

Fundamentalist rules imposed for interpreting the Bible were at the core of the new policies, along with various conservative social positions and rejection of women in the ministry.

Expanded regulations call for a literalist view of Scripture, such as believing Adam and Eve were real individuals, that all biblical miracles are factual history and named authors wrote biblical books attributed to them.

Chapman has said believing "within those parameters" is a prerequisite for denominational employment.

Among national headquarters officials fired or forced out of their posts in the last year were top executives of Baptist Press, the head of the influential Sunday School Board and the convention's registrar.

The Rev. Lee Loyd Elder, 57, was forced to take early retirement from the Sunday School Board presidency as soon as a successor is found or at least by next Jan. 31, but with special compensation if he doesn't make a public fuss.

The Rev. Lee Porter, recording secretary since 1977, agreed under pressure to quit that role after fundamentalists objected to a talk he made to some students. He also was demoted from design editor to a lesser post.

Earlier, Baptist Press director Al Shackleford and managing editor Dan Martin were dimissed from the news agency, which serves about 30 Baptist weeklies.

A major factor in Elder's removal was a planned history of the Sunday School Board by church historian H. Leon McBeth of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

Trustees ordered it scrapped, claiming it tilted against the dominant fundamentalist bloc. Copies were shredded except for a file copy. McBeth called it an attempt to "manage history."

Moderates have taken initial steps toward an alternative publishing house and seminaries. Baylor University in Waco, Texas, the world's largest Baptist university, said it planned to establish a seminary if fundamentalists "continue to destroy" Southern Baptist seminaries.

The May assembly of moderates in Atlanta, coming just a month before the denomination's June convention there, may indicate what moderates may do next.

Scholars debate what Jesus really said

Associated Press

A group of Bible scholars sat around a big U-shaped table, discussing whether Jesus actually spoke the "Golden Rule" — "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Funk

Amid voiced doubts, one professor laughed, saying: "If he didn't say it, he was probably the only Jew of his time who didn't."

Nevertheless, although the Gospels repeatedly quote Jesus as expressing the idea, his speaking it was classified uncertain because it was regarded common and not particularly distinctive of him.

So was similar counsel — to "love your neighbor as yourself." It is attributed to Jesus in the Gospels but is also contained in Jewish law of the Old Testament and thus its voicing by Jesus is classified indefinite.

This is a sample of the rigorous sifting done by scholars of the Jesus Seminar to determine by strict historical evidence what quotations ascribed to Jesus were actually, originally his own and which weren't.

"We looked for things that particularly identify Jesus, that identify a single face in the Galilean crowd," said New Testament scholar Robert Funk, founder and head of the controversial project.

"We had to be really hard-nosed. If we were uncertain, we would exclude rather than include. We have been extraordinarily cautious to admit to the data base only sayings which we were relatively certain came from Jesus."

The approach is called "methodological skepticism," Funk said, and it means questioning every piece of evidence and not accepting any quotation that doesn't pass the various critical tests.

After six years work, the group of Protestant and Roman Catholic scholars has completed its examination of the four New Testament books about Jesus — the Gospels — and found a mix of sayings, some considered real, some not his own.

In the system of weighted averages used, Funk estimates 30 percent of the sayings attributed to Jesus were voted "red", definitely his, or "pink," probably his, and 30 percent "gray," questionable, but with views like his.

The other estimated 40 percent of the sayings were voted "black," that Jesus himself never said it, but it was borrowed from common lore or put in Jesus' mouth by the early church community that formulated the Gospels.

This conclusion has riled many ordinary Christians, but Funk said that is because the church has "failed in its education program to keep people informed about advances in biblical scholarship."

However, he added in an interview that others find such probing "not only doesn't hinder faith, but opens up understandings that they find refreshing and helpful, that strengthen faith.

"Telling the truth has a salutary effect on a lot of people."

With an estimated 60 percent of the sayings ruled definitely or likely those of Jesus or expressing his sort of ideas, Funk said the project can clarify the genuinely historical character of Jesus.

Previously some Bible scholars, influenced by views of the late famed Albert Schweitzer, Bible analyst and missionary doctor, had given up the search for the "historical Jesus" — his special, distinct individuality.

"We think the clues to the historical Jesus are in the Gospel on balance," Funk said, and the project has winnowed out "a considerable amount of material to work with in forming a profile" of that historical person.

"We haven't yet done it and are still working on the data base, but that is the implication in the future," he said. "The results are rather impressive.

"A great many New Testament scholars have doubted that anything could be traced back reliably to Jesus. They would color everything black. Some conservatives would color everything red.

"The fact is that in six years, we have found a substantial number of parables and sayings we could color red or pink, which is very important substanial evidence of just who the historical Jesus really was."

About 200 Bible scholars from across the country have been involved in the project, about half of them participating actively, Funk said. A few withdrew because of objections in their denominations.

Some other scholars have criticized the evaluating method used.

"We had disagreements about nearly everything," Funk said. "There was always some spread of opinion, of judgment about different matters. Only on very rare occasions did we have 100 percent agreement on anything.

"That's part of the scholarly enterprise."

He said he considered the averages used in classifying the sayings as fairly representative of views of New Testament scholarship, but added, "Somebody sometime may come along and redo our work and find different results."

Most of the parables, much of the Sermon on the Mount and key lines of the Lord's Prayer were classified as originating with Jesus, along with many pithy epigrams, paradoxes and retorts in the first three Gospels.

But virtually all the quotations attributed to him in the highly interpretative Gospel of John were considered added by the early Christian community.

Funk, 60, of the Weststar Institute in Sonona, Calif., has written numerous books on the New Testament and taught at several universities but now devotes all his time to the Jesus Seminar, which next takes up evaluating Jesus's deeds.

The institute's Polebridge Press is to publish the Gospels in the seminar's color-coded form this fall, along with a new translation called the Scholar's Version, including the non-canonical Gospel of Thomas and a document called "Q," considered a common source for material in Matthew and Luke.

Relief inadequate in Bangladesh

The World

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — Corpses were strewn along Bangladesh's ravaged coastal belt as the official death toll from the devastating cyclone rose Friday to nearly 100,000 people, with estimates up to three times that high.

Relief operations appeared vastly inadequate to the scale of the disaster, which may have left 1 in 13 Bangladeshis homeless, according to a senior official.

Only eight helicopters were available to drop supplies for millions of people in the stricken areas, relief officials said. The government has asked for 20 helicopters from the United States and other countries, as well as speedboats.

The first foreign flights began arriving with aid, but officials said the assistance promised by Friday was about a third of the immediate need.

Khawja Shamsul Huda, director of the Association of Development Agencies in Bangladesh, said only $19.2 million in aid had been pledged, mainly from the United States, Japan and European nations. Saudi Arabia has flown in three aircraft, carrying mostly tents and blankets.

Destruction from the storm is estimated at $1.42 billion.

National newspapers said the final toll may reach 300,000 with waterborne diseases and starvation stalking those who lived through eight hours of nature's fury on Tuesday.

The Red Crescent, the Muslim equivalent of the Red Cross, said the death count from the storm stood at 99,256. The U.S.-based relief organization CARE International estimated at least 100,000 have died.

With water receding in some areas, the extent of the carnage from the killer cyclone and accompanying tidal waves began to emerge on 65 islands and coastal areas of the Bay of Bengal.

Bodies of men, women and children lay in stacks among bloated animal carcasses as the country's tiny helicopter force tried to ferry in food and water to the millions who survived the storm.

Their misery was compounded Friday by rain that fell on the afflicted area, drenching an estimated 100,000 people whose homes had been demolished and who have no shelter whatsoever.

Rains and high winds also lashed the capital and the weather bureau predicted rain, thunderstorms and gusting winds in several parts of the country over the next 24 hours.

Huda's organization is an umbrella body for several hundred non-government groups that regularly provide help to this impoverished country. These organizations often serve as aid channels for private and government funds.

Huda said the organizations were waiting to hear specific requests from the government, which only has issued a general appeal for help. Destruction is estimated at $1.42 billion.

Prayers in memory of the victims resounded from mosques throughout the country. Prime Minister Khaleda Zia declared Saturday a day of mourning.

Officials of the Red Crescent said 55,000 deaths were in the district around the port of Chittagong, a city of 300,000 and the country's key industrial center.

The nearby island of Sandwip took the brunt of the storm. It was completely submerged under sea water. One unofficial count placed the death toll there at 20,000.

Elsewhere, more than 9,000 people died in the southern district of Cox's Bazaar, a tourist resort area also endowed with rich fishing grounds near the frontier with Burma.

Ten million people have been affected by the storm, according to Relief Minister Luftar Rahman Khan. At least 90 percent of them lost their homes. Rice fields, shrimp farms, salt beds and livestock were wiped out completely.

The storm was the deadliest to hit Bangladesh since 1970, one year before it gained independence from Pakistan, when a cyclone in the same area killed at least half a million people.

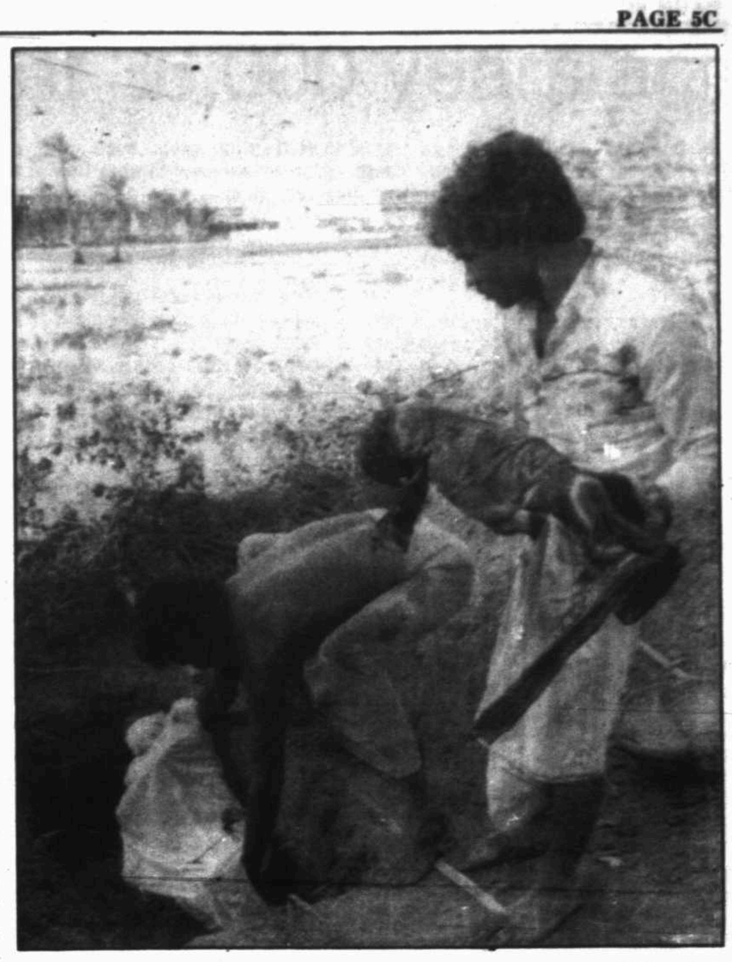

Only eight helicopters were available to drop supplies for millions of people in the stricken areas.

— Relief officials, Bangladesh

But this coastline has been a killing ground before and since. The government has data on at least eight severe cyclones that have hit the coast in the past 200 years.

After a cyclone in 1985, the government erected storm shelters of stone and brick mounted on earthen platforms and built flood embankments on some exposed islands.

But the measures have proved inadequate given a lack of resources, the size of the population in the area and a low-lying land vulnerable to the storms.

Two men bury the bodies of their children in a simple grave in the flooded Patenga district of Bangladesh Wednesdqay after they were killed when the most savage cyclone on record hit the improverished nation. Officially more than 37,000 people are said to have died, with an unofficial toll of over 100,000.

Iraqi troops leave northern Iraq; cholera found in refugees

SIRSENK, Iraq (AP) — Hundreds of Iraqi troops withdrew Friday from an expanded allied security zone set up in northern Iraq to protect hundreds of thousands of returning Kurds. A cholera outbreak was reported among refugees on the Turkish border.

The Western relief organization Doctors Without Borders on Friday said 100 cases of cholera were reported in the past week. It said three people had died of the disease.

Amid growing unease in Turkey over the presence of foreign troops, the government closed its border to Iraq for three hours, briefly blocking the movement of humanitarian aid to the Kurds.

In other developments:

—The U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, Sadako Ogata, said in Geneva she had run out of funds to help Iraqi refugees and that humanitarian efforts in the Persian Gulf were in "dire jeopardy." She criticized governments for a poor response to an appeal by UNHCR for $238.5 million.

—UNHCR spokeswoman Sylvana Foa said the agency was "very, very concerned" over reports that Kurdish refugees were being persuaded to leave Turkey by "false assurances" they would be safe even outside the security zones created by American, British and French military forces.

—IRAN'S INTERIOR minister, Abdollah Nouri, said foreign countries should be ashamed of the meager help they have provided Kurdish refugees in Iran. A report Friday by the U.N. Disaster Relief Organization said Iran may soon face an influx of as many as 600,000 more Iraqis — Shiite Muslim refugees. Iran already is housing more than 1 million war refugees.

More than 600 Iraqi soldiers, including Republican Guards, were seen passing through the hillside resort town of Sirsenk on Friday, apparently on their way to Mosul, Iraq, about 80 miles south of the Turkish border.

They headed south in a a rag-tag convoy of jeeps, dump trucks and troop carriers. Some of the trucks broke down, and one had to be towed part way by the U.S. Army's 3rd Battalion of the 325th Airborne, which was manning positions on the road.

"What a circus," said Lt. Col. John Abizaid, commander of the 3rd Battalion, as he surveyed the passing Iraqis.

Abizaid and other officers said the number of Iraqi troops in the zone surprised them. The troops were withdrawing on allied orders from positions near Amadiyah, east of Sirsenk. Allied troops took over Sirsenk on Thursday.

"WE THOUGHT there were a couple of companies in the valley, but this looks like a battalion," he said.

"It's a Mexican stand-off," said Army Capt. Robert Street, from New Madrid, Mo., describing allied encounters with Iraqi soldiers. "In this operation, we're not going to give an inch."

One Iraqi soldier, Muhammed Hussein, 26, from Baghdad, was walking toward Mosul. He said he had been posted in Amadiyah.

"I'm glad I'm leaving," he said. "But we will be back."

On Thursday, allied troops expanded the security zone to form a 50-mile strip east from Zakho.

ALLIED OFFICIALS said the military was also planning to enlarge the zone to the south, but no timetable was set.

U.S. Marines from the 24th Marine Expeditionary Unit on Friday moved south along a main highway toward Dohuk, Iraq's northernmost provincial capital, to prepare for a move into that city.

The aim of the expansion is to encourage more Kurds to come down from their squalid mountain camps, to which they fled last month when Saddam Hussein bore down upon the Kurdish rebellion that followed allied victory in the Gulf War.

Friday's cholera report was the first confirmation of large-scale cases of the disease among refugees. About 100 cholera cases have been treated at the Cukurca camp just inside Turkey since April 27, said Claire Marchand, a spokeswoman for Doctors Without Borders in Paris.

A communique from the group blamed the outbreak on lack of sanitation and clean water. Doctors fear the disease will spread quickly among refugees already weakened by malnutrition.

CHOLERA, AN intestinal infection that causes vomiting and diarrhea, can kill a person in 10 hours, but is easily treated with rehydration salts, intravenous fluids and antibiotics.

At 7.a.m., Turkish officials shut the only land crossing into Iraq to aid vehicles and armed soldiers for three hours Friday.

One truck, driven by Canada's 14th Field Ambulance, carried U.S. Air Force Lt. Col. Richard Williams, a doctor bound for Zakho to treat a Kurdish man with an urgent heart problem.

"I've been waiting for over an hour," said Williams, of Nashua, N.H. "We've got to get to this guy."

Turkish officials said they had decided to enforce regulations requiring special documents from vehicles making the crossing.

The move came after a Turkish newspaper said U.S. forces were smuggling arms across the border to Iraqi Kurdish rebels. U.S. and Turkish officials denied it, but the report caused a storm in Turkey, long engaged in guerrilla battles with its own restive Kurdish population.

Archaeologist: Man in New World at least 36,000 years ago

OROGRANDE, N.M. (AP) — Man may have arrived in the New World more than 36,000 years ago, far earlier than is widely believed, according to evidence found in a cave in the southern New Mexico desert.

But the find and estimate of its age was expected to attract skepticism from some scientists.

The burned bones of extinct animals, butchering tools, charcoal samples and roasting pits dated to at least 36,000 years ago were found in the cave 14 miles east of Orogrande on Fort Bliss' MacGregor Firing Range in south-central New Mexico.

"We have found the first American Indian," archaeologist Richard MacNeish told the Albuquerque Journal in a telephone interview Monday.

"This is the earliest well-documented stuff in America. The very earliest we've found in the New World," said MacNeish, director of the Andover, Mass.-based Andover Foundation for Archaeological Research.

The prevailing anthropological theory is that man likely came to the Americas across the Bering Strait from northeast Asia about 14,000 years ago, or not more than 17,000 years ago. Nomads could have crossed the strait during the late stages of the Ice Age when a land bridge connected Asia and present-day Alaska.

But artifacts from the earliest reliably dated site in the New Mexico cave have been radiocarbon-dated at between 36,000 and 42,000 years old, the Journal reported Tuesday.

Russell Barber, a professor of anthropology at California State University at San Bernardino, said Tuesday in a telephone interview that he did not think it incredible that a site was found in the time range MacNeish is talking about.

"But it's something at least half of the archaeologists in America will resist and even, I'm sure, find it difficult to accept," he said.

"The proof of the pudding will be in the site — how good the dating is, and the association between the dates and the archaeological materials," Barber said.

He said MacNeish is a "very skilled, very respected archaeologist."

MacNeish said tools made of stone "completely foreign" to the geology of the site were found in the cave, along with other objects and animal remains "so large that something or somebody had to carry them in."

"It had to be man," MacNeish said.

Other items found in the cave included a broken projectile tip embedded in a bone from an extinct horse, determined to be 25,420 years old, give or take 620 years, MacNeish said.

A clay-lined fireplace was dated at 35,000 years old, he said.

Animal bones found at the site included those of extinct horses, miniature camels, tapirs and saber-tooth tigers. MacNeish said people who used the cave likely were nomadic hunters.

There are 22 stratified levels at the cave site, containing pottery from around A.D. 1200 at the higher levels down through 14 levels identified as belonging to the Ice Age and earlier, MacNeish said.

MacNeish has been directing an Andover project on early agriculture in the Southwest for the past several years and found the cave last year.

MacNeish found a spearhead three years ago near Picacho Peak in the Las Cruces area west of Orogrande that he said showed evidence of a hunting site there for the 12,000-year-old Clovis Culture.

For the past 50 years, many archaeologists have considered the Clovis Culture the earliest known appearance of man in the New World. It was named for the eastern New Mexico city where the first remains of the prehistoric culture were found, including characteristic projectile points that have since been found at many other sites.

La Raza says older Hispanics often poor, ill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A healthy and financially secure retirement is out of reach for many Hispanics, says a study that blames language barriers and poor outreach efforts for keeping elderly Latinos from participating in social programs.

The National Council of La Raza, a Hispanic advocacy group, says Hispanics are the fastest-growing segment of the nation's elderly population.

Yet Hispanics are more likely to be poor and ill than the general elderly population, and they're less likely to be served by programs such as those provided under the Older Americans Act, La Raza said Tuesday.

"There is a misconception that because Hispanic families take care of their elderly, older Hispanics have little need for services," said La Raza president Raul Yzaguirre.

"Yet the reality is that the need for services and programs for the Hispanic elderly is greater than ever. The economic pressures faced by Hispanics of all ages affect the care families can give to their older members. Accessing services and programs which supplement family care ... is critical for Hispanics," Yzaguirre said.

Rep. Albert Bustamante, D-Texas, said one problem facing elderly Hispanics is that many live in rural areas that have limited health care resources. And many others simply cannot afford health care, he said.

"The economics are so vastly different that they have to do without," he said.

According to La Raza, Hispanic elderly are less likely that non-Hispanics to receive Social Security, public or private pensions, or incomes from interest and other assets. As of 1988, only 77 percent of Hispanic elderly received Social Security, compared to 93 percent of whites and 89 percent of blacks.

La Raza said data from the Administration on Aging also indicates that minority participation in Older Americans Act programs declined from 22 percent of clients in 1980 to 16 percent in 1988.

The report also found that Hispanic elderly have lower rates of health insurance coverage and suffer disproportionately from illness or disability. And Hispanics are more likely to rely on families for care.

Bush denies Paris trip to delay release of hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush on Friday vigorously denied going to Paris in 1980 to clinch a deal with Iran that would delay the release of American hostages and scuttle Jimmy Carter's re-election.

"Was I ever in Paris in 1980? Definitively, definitely no," Bush said in response to a reporter's question about allegations of such a deal. Visibly angry, he declined to answer a follow-up question of whether he had ever met "with any Iranians."

"That's all, but please print it. And let's try to stop this rumormongering that's going on, stop repeating rumors over and over again," Bush said.

Meanwhile, the administration opened the door to a visit by former Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr whose new book implicates Bush and the Reagan presidential campaign in an effort to delay the hostages' release in 1980.

The administration decided to grant Bani-Sadr a visa for his book-promotion tour, after 10 days of withholding permission, and he scheduled his arrival from Paris for the weekend.

The book alleges that Reagan's presidential campaign made a deal with Iran's ruling clerics, in which they would delay the release of 52 American hostages until after the elections in return for $40 million in U.S. arms.

The book, "My Turn to Speak," cites an American arms dealer, Richard Brenneke, who testified in a U.S. court in 1988 that Bush attended a meeting in Paris on Oct. 20, 1980, at which the terms of the deal with Iran were concluded.

The issue, which had cropped up in the past, was revived last month when a former Carter administration official, Gary Sick, published an article saying two years of research had uncovered considerable circumstantial evidence that the Reagan campaign brokered a deal with Iran.

Sick described his findings on Thursday to 10 congressional Democrats who are considering whether to call for a formal investigation of the affair.

Bush spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said such a review would make Democrats "look foolish."

Fitzwater called Sick "the Kitty Kelley of foreign policy." Kelley is the gossipy author whose most recent work was a controversial biography of Nancy Reagan.

Fitzwater said he could vouch for every day of Bush's 1980 schedule. "The president was on the campaign every day that period," Fitzwater said. "He was on the campaign and he never went to Paris. And anybody who wants to give me a date I can prove it."

Unemployment rate drops unexpectedly

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's unemployment rate unexpectedly improved in April for the first time in nearly a year, falling to 6.6 percent.

President Bush embraced Friday's government report as good news, and some analysts said it could mean the recession is nearing an end. But even Bush acknowledged the data might contain statistical quirks, and said it "should not be taken as proof everything is perfect."

"There's some statistical problems with it ... but generally speaking, I put it down under the category of good news," Bush said. He said his economic advisers still expect an economic recovery to start by the end of June.

"I think most forecasters are talking about that, or maybe a month or two later," Bush said. He spoke to reporters on Air Force One before leaving on a trip to St. Louis.

The 0.2 percentage point decline in the civilian jobless rate, from March's rate of 6.8 percent, was the first decrease since last May, when the rate fell from 5.4 percent to 5.3 percent, the Labor Department said.

The number of unemployed Americans seeking jobs decreased by 300,000 in April, to 8.3 million — still 1.4 million higher than last July, when the recession began.

At the same time, the report showed that U.S. businesses continued to cut jobs last month, with non-farm payrolls dropping by 125,000.

The differing evidence — unemployment dropping with layoffs mounting — prompted some analysts to dismiss the report's seemingly bright news as a fluke.

But other economists noted that the numbers can vary widely because they are derived from different surveys, one from a household check of job holders and seekers and the other from a survey of employers.

In addition, the Labor Department said there was growth in self-employment and in government occupations, which would not show up fully in the payroll survey.

Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, cautioned against calling a one-month swing a turning point.

"To signal a clear change in direction, we should have at least two consecutive months of significant change," Mrs. Norwood said.

Still, some analysts said the data might be an indication the recession was nearing an end.

"There are definitely encouraging signs in this report, not that the recession is over, but that it's playing itself out," said Robert Dederick, chief economist at the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago.

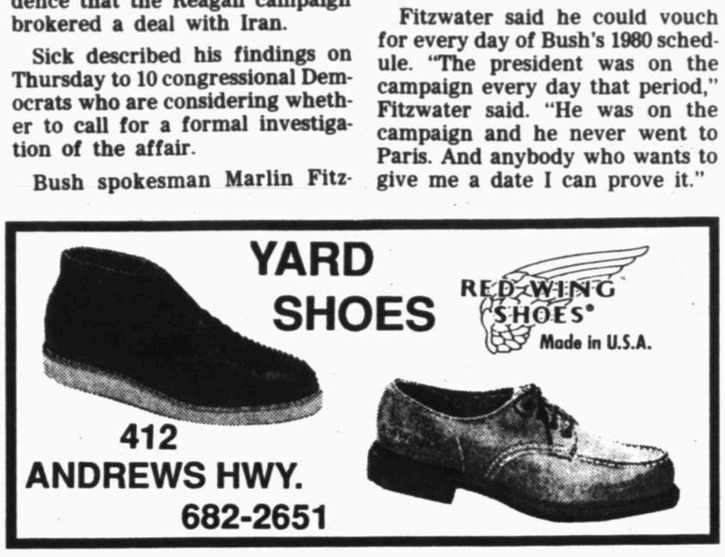

"The light on the economy has not turned green, but it's turned amber. It's just about bottoming out," said Jack Albertine, who heads an economic forecasting firm in Washington.

However, Robert Brusca of Nikko Securities said what looks like encouraging news should be written off as an aberration.

"Occasionally, when you draw large samples, you get flaky results," Brusca said.

"You're still losing 125,000 jobs. That's not exactly what I would call good news. ... Things aren't improving — they're not even stabilizing," Brusca said.

Even so, April's 125,000-job loss was considerably less than the payroll declines of the previous six months.

■ New Hampshire leaves bill unpaid

NASHUA, N.H. (AP) — A Wisconsin hospital complained that New Hampshire's governor has failed to keep his promise to pay $200,000 of a highly publicized bill for a young boy's bone-marrow transplant.

The state's foot-dragging in paying Derek Annese's surgery captured headlines across the country in 1989. The 8-year-old Nashua boy died in March of complications resulting from the procedure.

The state paid more than $150,000 and cannot pay the remaining $200,000 for the boy's three trips to Wisconsin without changing state regulations, Gov. Judd Gregg's office and the state Medicaid program said.

Derek had a bone-marrow disease that would have led to leukemia and certain death had he not had the transplant last May at Children's Hospital in Milwaukee, the only hospital in the country doing transplants in which the donor's marrow does not match that of the recipient.

Dr. William Barbaresi of Hampton, who was the boy's pediatrician, said out-of-state hospitals will be more leery about caring for poor children from New Hampshire if the bills are not paid.

"No hospital in the country in their right mind is going to accept a New Hampshire Medicaid patient," he told The Telegraph of Nashua.

■ Exxon terminates settlement offer

DALLAS (AP) — Exxon Corp. and the state of Alaska formally withdrew from the $1 billion Exxon Valdez oil-spill settlement Friday, killing what would have been the largest settlement of an environmental-damage case in U.S. history.

The developments set the stage for lengthy court battles in what was the nation's worst oil spill. Civil and criminal proceedings are possible.

The action came a day after the Alaska House of Representatives rejected the 11-year deal for the company to pay state and federal cleanup efforts that remain from the March 24, 1989 spill in Prince William Sound.

Alaska Gov. Walter J. Hickel said the state sent a letter to Exxon informing the company of Alaska's withdrawal. Exxon sent a similar letter to Alaskan officials.

■ Democrats to soften civil rights bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic leaders, faced with eroding support for a civil rights bill, are planning to soften the measure in hopes of reviving its prospects against another presidential veto.

The leaders are considering attaching three amendments to somewhat dilute the job discrimination bill when it reaches the House floor later this month, sources familiar with their private discussions said Friday.

The changes would include a monetary limit on punitive damages that could be awarded to victims of job bias, and language designed to head off President Bush's argument that the bill would lead to use of racial quotas in hiring — a contention denied by sponsors but one that has cut into the broad congressional support for the bill.

■ Interviews conducted in rape case

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Police detectives completed what may be final witness interviews Friday in their investigation of the alleged Kennedy estate rape, and the chief said investigators were confident about their conclusions.

"I think we know what happened up there that night," Police Chief Joseph Terlizzese said.

After reviewing their evidence and finishing reports next week, police will set up a meeting with the Palm Beach County state attorney. Terlizzese said police likely will make a recommendation to State Attorney David Bludworth on whether to file charges or dismiss the case against William Kennedy Smith, 30-year-old nephew of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

'Star Wars' probe back in space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Discovery's astronauts poked a "Star Wars" probe back into space Friday for 24 hours of tests on the end of the ship's outstretched mechanical arm, and got ready for a complex repair job.

Ground teams devised a last-ditch plan to get data from three scientific instruments that have been virtually idled because of two data recorders that have not worked since almost the beginning of the flight.

The repairs, which the seven astronauts planned to attempt Saturday, involved splicing cables and rerouting the flow of data. Details were radioed to the crew Friday so they could go over the procedures. The work was expected to take two to three hours.

"We're either going to get 100 percent of what the recorders would have been getting or we'll get nothing," said NASA flight director Bob Castle.

The principal investigator of one of the instruments affected by the recorder trouble, Ed Fenimore, desperately hopes the plan will work. So far, he's gotten "zero data" from his X-ray detector, which he has been working on for 13 years.

"It's coming down to a real few final minutes. It's like a poker game where you put all the chips in," said Fenimore, an astrophysicist at Los Alamos National Laboratory in New Mexico.

As Discovery whirled around the world at 17,500 mph, the probe's infrared sensors and television cameras focused on the planet and atmospheric light, or aurora. A camera on the shuttle's 50-foot arm also occasionally displayed scenes from 160 miles below.

One shot showed thunderstorms off Africa, and Mission Control's Brian Duffy complimented the crew on the video's quality.

"Yeah, you know I can tell that you're right, looking out the window now that you mention it," astronaut Richard Hieb said as he finetuned the probe's sensors. "I've been too busy looking at the procedures to gawk here."

"You've got to stop and smell the roses," Duffy said.

"Some of us are gawking and smelling," replied shuttle commander Michael Coats.

Earthquake rattles parts of six states

Associated Press

A minor earthquake rattled parts of Illinois, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Kentucky and Missouri late Friday. No injuries or damage were immediately reported in region criss-crossed by the New Madrid Fault.

"It was very slight," said Clint Simpson of the National Weather Service in the Chicago suburb of Rosemont.

The quake measured 4.6 on the Richter scale, said John Minsch, a geophysicist at the U.S. Geological Survey in Golden, Colo. It struck at 8:19 p.m. CDT, centered in southeastern Missouri about 10 miles west of New Madrid, Mo.

"It was felt over a number of states, but we haven't had any reports of damage," Minsch said, adding that it might not have struck the New Madrid Fault.

"We haven't had time to check," Minsch said. "But it was in the fault zone."

Tom Ridickas, coordinator for the Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency office in Collinsville, felt the tremor.

"The building began to talk to me," he said. "It started to make sounds I'd never heard before."

"It shook the walls and lasted maybe two or three seconds," said Memphis, Tenn., resident Chris Wetzel.

"I was sitting in the chair at Take One Video eating an ice cream and waffle cone, and it felt like someone was shaking the chair behind me," said Sheriff Donald Ray of Jackson County, Ark.

"We just felt like a tremor, and then it was 25 or 20 seconds and then another tremor," said LeAnn Holmes, an announcer with radio station KOKR-KNBY in Newport, Ark. "I thought somebody was trying to break into the radio station."

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. Thus a reading of 7.5 reflects an earthquake 10 times stronger than one of 6.5.

An earthquake of 3.5 on the Richter scale can cause slight damage in the local area, 4 moderate damage, 5 considerable damage, 6 severe damage. A 7 reading is a "major" earthquake, capable of widespread heavy damage; 8 is a "great" quake, capable of tremendous damage.

The San Francisco earthquake of 1906, which occurred before the Richter scale was devised, has been estimated at 8.3 on the Richter scale.

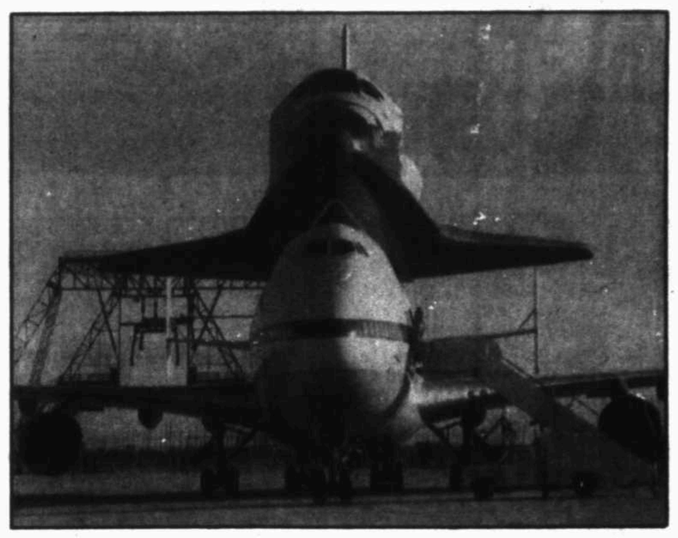

Dredge scoops up Japanese torpedo

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — A World War II vintage Japanese aerial torpedo was scooped from the mud nearly 50 years after it apparently missed its target in the Dec. 7, 1941, attack on the U.S. Pacific Fleet, a Navy spokesman said.

"I suppose you can make the assumption it's been there since the attack," said Joel Keefer, a spokesman for the naval base here.

The harbor near Ford Island was being dredged when the torpedo was scooped from the mud, Keefer said Thursday.

Workers notified Navy explosives experts who moved torpedo to a safer area, he said. The ordnance team will determine if the torpedo can be disarmed, Keefer said. If not, it probably will be carried out to sea and destroyed.

NASA's newest space shuttle Endeavour sits atop the Boeing 747 Shuttle Carrier at Palmdale, Calif., Thursday, awaiting departure to Johnson Space Center in Houston, en route to Kennedy Space Center, Fla. Takeoff was delayed a day because of air turbulence between California and Texas. The shuttle was grounded again on Friday in West Texas due to bad weather.

West Texas weather grounds Endeavour

FORT BLISS (AP) — The new space shuttle Endeavour is waiting out bad weather at Biggs Army Airfield on Fort Bliss and may be in West Texas for the weekend.

Endeavour, strapped to a modified jumbo jet, was headed across the country to Kennedy Space Center and was scheduled to make a refueling stop at Biggs. It landed at 9:22 a.m. Friday.

"It's going to be here as long as it takes for the weather to clear," said Tony Cuciniello, Fort Bliss spokesman. "They're talking about it being here all weekend."

Endeavour was built to replace the destroyed Challenger. It rolled off the assembly line last week.

A note to you from Jack Hightower:

Dear Neighbor,

I am a candidate for place three on the Board of Trustees for the Midland Independent School District, and would like for you to consider supporting me in that effort.

I am a life-long resident of Midland, having attended public schools here - graduating from Midland High School in 1948. Four of my five children have graduated from Midland Schools, and one son, Chris, is a seventh grader at Alamo Junior High.

Sometimes school affairs seem to be caught up in politics of one sort or another, but what school should be mostly about is students learning and teachers teaching. We need to encourage and support our teachers - seeking input from them regarding decisions that directly effect them, and to attract and keep quality teachers.

As for the students, I believe that every single child has a right to receive a quality public education as these students are our hope for tomorrow.

As a taxpayer, I have concerns about excessive spending of tax dollars, and if elected will promise to carefully evaluate expenditures of your tax dollars.

I feel that I am qualified by training and experience to represent you on this most important board and I ask you to consider these qualifications as you elect a person to represent our district.

SATURDAY, MAY 4, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Although savings may be difficult to accumulate this summer, you will be delighted with the extra cash you have made by October. A work associate may help you reap modest gains through an investment. Show your gratitude in meaningful ways. Your loved ones will give you full credit for improving their lives next December. You are more determined than ever to achieve a long-sought goal!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A career change is possible. Give top priority to artistic and creative ventures. A self-improvement project will boost your earning power. Try to arrange a meeting with a prominent person.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your advice is much sought-after today. Expect to hear several versions of a domestic spat. Be careful not to choose sides. A relative will express gratitude for past favors. Be modest.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Do not let the memory of an old heartache overwhelm you. Forget the past and look to the future. You can solve a recurring domestic problem. Close friends give you valid suggestions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A long walk leaves you feeling refreshed both physically and mentally. If entertaining this weekend, invite people of all ages. A neighbor may need help but may be too embarrassed to ask for it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Get routine chores out of the way before lunch. Your social plans get a nudge from friends or relatives. Singles may be wondering if the time is right for marriage. Avoid making impulsive decisions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may feel like the victim of too much advice. Seek solitude. Answers come from within. Drop a line to a friend or relative who needs some special attention. Count your change when shopping.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your home could use some beautifying touches. Check magazines and stores for new ideas. A relative or neighbor offers help when you need it most. Be wary of get-rich-quick schemes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov.21): An excellent day for making decisions. Take action to fulfill some personal wishes. Offer to run an errand for someone who is pressed for time. Be more imaginative in romance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Important financial transactions are best postponed. You may not know all you should concerning an agreement or contract. A short trip could provide a pleasant diversion this afternoon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A relaxed, reflective mood helps you find new solutions to old problems. A conversation with a relative could also bring greater peace of mind. You may have to change certain social plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): See that youngsters are learning to be productive citizens. A project to beautify your home increases its value. A potential romantic partner thinks you are fantastic.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Keep a low profile today and be extra patient with someone who is moody. An outsider's discovery could shed new light on a domestic problem. Comparison shoppers can find some real bargains.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are determined, industrious and thrifty. Their self-discipline and reliability will make them popular with both teachers and fellow students. Although these Taureans are usually good-natured, look out when their patience wears thin! Wise parents will help these youngsters develop their organizational skills. Otherwise, they may not reap all the rewards they deserve for their hard work. Misplaced papers and forgotten deadlines can prove costly.

Harris says Grand Ole Opry's old home most wonderful stage

Harris

The 44-year-old singer performed three nights on the famous country music stage, recording an album and doing a special to be broadcast later this year on The Nashville Network.

"When all is said and done, it's probably the most wonderful stage acoustically and ambience-wise that I've ever played on," she said in an interview earlier this week.

"People who have seen me play live have told me that it's the best they've ever heard me and the band sound. It's just naturally a musical place."

The Opry was presented at the auditorium from 1943 until 1974 when a new concert hall was built. The Ryman is now a tourist attraction and is used occasionally for TV tapings.

Harris' hits songs include "If I Could Only Win Your Love, "Making Believe" and "Blue Kentucky Girl."

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Country musician Randy Owen has donated a prize bull to Clemson University for genetic research.

The $2,500 Polled Hereford bull, raised on Owen's farm in Alabama, has been placed with 25 cows that make up one of the state's oldest registered Polled Hereford herds, researcher John Spitzer said.

Owen is lead singer with Alabama, the country band whose hit songs include "Mountain Music," "Down Home" and "Pass It On Down."

"He is very sincere in trying to improve the breed," Spitzer said.

"We needed to replace the aging bull in the herd but didn't have the money," he said. "Thanks to this gift, that herd now has a top-quality bull."

RED CLOUD, Neb. (AP) — A segment of Garrison Keillor's live radio show will be set in this town in south-central Nebraska where writer Willa Cather grew up.

Keillor

The two-hour show will focus on writers such as Miss Cather, who used the region as the setting for many of her novels and stories, including "My Antonia," "O Pioneers!" and "Song of the Lark."

Pat Phillips, director of the Willa Cather Pioneer Memorial and Educational Foundation in Red Cloud, said the producer of "Garrison Keillor's American Radio Company" asked her to select possible dates for the show.

Keillor, a humorist and story-teller, would read from Miss Cather's works and talk about the region, Ms. Phillips said.

DETROIT (AP) — Ol' Blue Eyes has sent seven music cassettes to a grieving fan whose music collection was damaged by his embittered former wife.

"I was kind of taken aback. I was thrilled," said Arthur Mossner, 45. "At least somebody cares. ... I always figured there is no substitute for class, and that's why I've always been a Sinatra fan."

Frank Sinatra mailed the music to Mossner's attorney, Michael Conway in Troy and wrote: "To Arthur Mossner. Enjoy!" It was signed: Barbara and Frank Sinatra.

Court records show that Mossner's former wife, Barbara, was so angered by her 1983 divorce that she damaged his 400-record collection and drew a mustache and glasses on a poster of Sinatra.

Troops mobilize after Contras launch attack

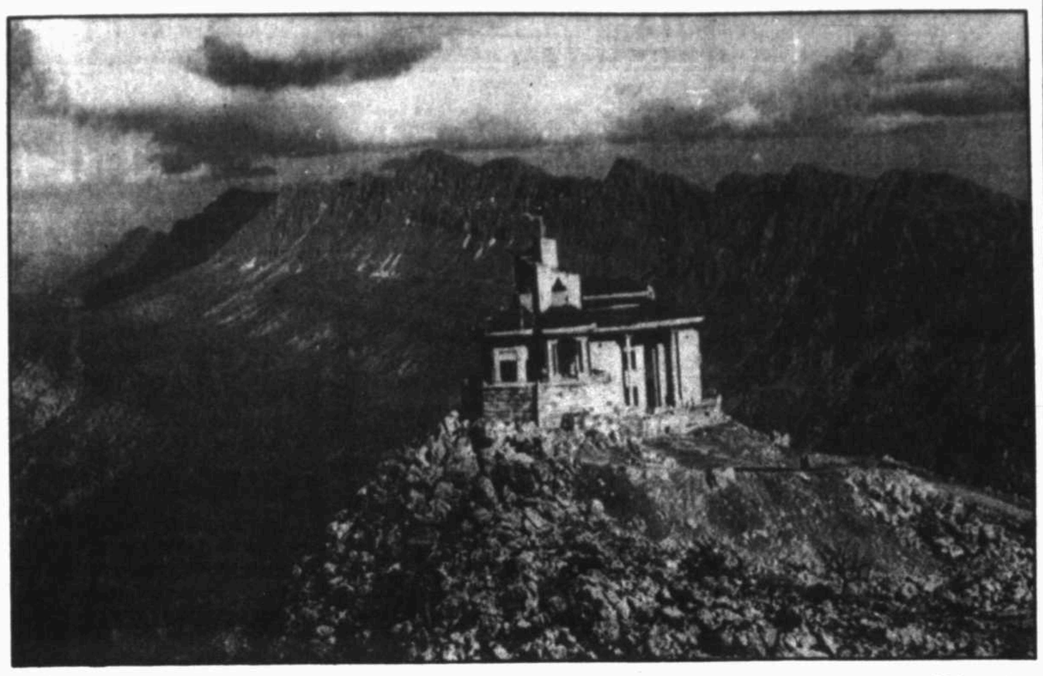

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Government troops were mobilized Friday to pursue renegade Contra rebels who attacked a group of soldiers building a road in northern Nicaragua, an army source said.

There were no casualties during the attack Thursday, said the source, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The soldiers were working on a project to build 30 miles of access roads to remote Nicaraguan farming areas. The government began the roads two weeks ago, saying they would help in the distribution of farmland to former Contras as the planting season approaches.

The rebels were carrying combat rifles, said the source. Contra leaders had ordered their fighters to turn in their weapons following last year's election of President Violeta Chamorro, who unseated the leftist Sandinista government.

An undetermined number of Contras have taken up arms again, saying Ms. Chamorro's government has broken promises to provide them land and aid.

Lonely at the top

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein may not be able to visit his mountaintop retreat in Northern Iraq after this week when Allied forces expand the security zone deeper into the region. Iraqi state radio reports that Saddam's forces would blow up his lofty, luxury getaway should the Allies try to use it as a military outpost.

The World

■ Accused sailor claims discrimination

SUBIC BAY NAVAL BASE, Philippines (AP) — One of two sailors accused of plotting to sabotage a carrier during the Gulf War claimed Friday that the charges — now dropped — had been brought because of the sailors' Muslim beliefs.

Airman Apprentice Abdul H. Shaheed, 22, of St. George, S.C., and Seaman Apprentice James L. Moss, 21, of Columbus, Ohio, were cleared Thursday of charges they planned to sabotage the aircraft carrier USS Ranger and kidnap its skipper.

At a news conference at a hotel outside Subic Bay naval base, Shaheed said "the situation would not have occurred if I weren't a Muslim, but Muslims are peaceful-loving and they didn't understand that."

A Navy spokesman at Subic, Robert Coble, said charges were dropped after further investigation found insufficient evidence to proceed. He said the two sailors would be reassigned.

Moss' defense lawyer, Lt. Victor Bernson, said the prosecution's chief witness, Airman Apprentice Gregory Jones, "had a credibility problem." Bernson did not elaborate.

A statement from the two sailors said they were elated.

■ Belfast, British leaders hold talks

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Leaders of two Protestant parties met Friday with the senior British official in the province to lay groundwork for talks on Northern Ireland's political future.

James Molyneaux of the Ulster Unionist Party and the Rev. Ian Paisley of the Democratic Unionist Party had no comment after their three-hour meeting with Peter Brooke, the Northern Ireland secretary.

On Tuesday, Brooke met leaders of the Social Democratic and Labor Party, supported by a majority of Roman Catholics in Northern Ireland, and the non-sectarian Alliance party.

All four parties are expected to sit down together next week, but no announcement emerged Friday of a date for the meeting.

The politicians initially are talking about possible arrangements for restoring self-government, suspended in 1972.

Later, Brooke wants consultations with the Irish government on relations between the two parts of the island.

■ Committee OKs Iraqi asset releases

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — A U.N. committee on Friday refused an Iraqi request to free $1 billion in frozen assets, but ruled that nations wishing to release Iraqi property for food or other humanitarian purchases can do so if they wish. "If a country decides to unfreeze a specific portion of assets for a specific food distribution, it is possible," chairman Peter Hohenfellner said after a closed session of the U.N. Security Council's sanctions committee.

Hohenfellner, the Austrian ambassador, said up to $1 billion in banks assets could be released for food purchases, medical aid and other emergency needs, with strict U.N. monitoring.

But the sanctions committee took no formal action on Iraq's request to reclaim the $1 billion. Neither did it respond to Iraq's requests it be permitted to sell $942.5 million worth of oil, and to receive food shipments that were impounded after the embargo was imposed last August.

■ Exiled royal family visits Bulgaria

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) - About 20 000 people crowded Sofia's main boulevard Friday to welcome Princess Maria Luisa, the first member of Bulgaria's royal family to visit since they fled after the 1946 communist takeover.

To the music of a brass band, the 58-year-old Maria Luisa, now a resident of Madison, N.J., was met at the airport by Konstantin Trenchev, leader of the anti-communist Podkrepa trade union.

"I am very happy and very touched by the reception," she told reporters, her arms overflowing with flowers. "After 45 years I came just to see my motherland."

Outside the main hall of the airport, about 1,000 royalists held flowers, flags with the royal symbols, and posters reading, "We love our Tsar Simeon," and "Simeon is the only chance."

Maria Luisa fled with her brother, King Simeon, when Soviet-backed communists took over this Balkan nation in 1946. Simeon now lives in Madrid, but has never given up his claim to the throne.

■ Leaflet praises attacks on Israelis

JERUSALEM (AP) — A leaflet from the fundamentalist Islamic Jihad organization praised Palestinians on Friday for attacking Israelis and rejected Western peacemaking efforts in the region.

Two more Palestinian deaths were reported Friday from army gunfire.

In Hebron in the occupied West Bank, the body of Issam Shehdeh Kafisheh, 21, was found in a field. Arab reports said he was shot in an overnight clash with Israel troops.

Israel radio said a military patrol surprised masked Palestinians blocking a road with rocks and fired when they ignored an order to stop running away.

In the occupied Gaza Strip, hospital officials said Hassan Abu Jarad, 19, died of a bullet wound he suffered in a clash with Israeli soldiers a year ago.

At least 821 Palestinians have died at the hands of Israelis in the 40-month-old uprising against Israeli occupation of land seized in the 1967 Mideast war. An additional 377 Palestinians have been killed by fellow Arabs, most on suspicion of collaboration with Israel. Sixty-five Israelis have died in the violence.

Another immolation marks Korean unrest

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A radical student lit himself on fire and jumped from a second-story window on a college campus Friday to protest the fatal police beating of a fellow demonstrator.

The immolation, the third by a student protester this week, came as radicals planned nationwide protests Saturday demanding the government disband a specially trained police unit accused of beating a protester to death.

The beating death, the immolations and the widespread protests they have triggered represent a serious challenge to President Roh Tae-woo, who already removed a Cabinet minister in an unsuccessful bid to stem the demonstrations.

An alliance of 40 radical student and dissident groups said they would stage anti-government protests across South Korea on Saturday.

Government officials said more than 20,000 police would be deployed to block protests expected in Seoul and about a dozen other cities.

Political unrest mounted Friday after a student poured paint thinner over his body, set it ablaze and jumped from a second-floor window of one of his school buildings before 200 demonstrators.

Witnesses said the student, identified as Chun Sei-yong, a 20-year-old sophomore at Kyongwon University outside Seoul, shouted "Down with Roh Tae-woo!" before acting.

He died several hours later at Yonsei University Hospital in Seoul where the body of a student protester beaten to death by police last week was kept.

The Kyongwon student reportedly left a will, in which he hoped his death would produce "many warriors" to fight against the Roh government.

It was the third self-immolation by a student protester this week. One student died Thursday of burns he suffered a day earlier. A woman student remained in critical condition with self-inflicted burns.

The fatal beating April 26 of Kang Kyung-dae, a Seoul college student, by police during an anti-government protest sparked the violent nationwide protests.

Students vowed to continue the protests until the entire Cabinet resigns.

In an unusually swift move, Roh fired his home minister earlier this week and expressed "his deepest regret and sympathy for the victims." But dissidents said the action and remarks by Roh were not enough.

Tens of thousands of students shouting for the overthrow of what they called the "murderous Roh government" have clashed with police in Seoul and elsewhere almost every day this week.

The protests have created the worst political crisis for the Roh government since it was installed in 1988.

Dissident leaders predicted that more than 500,000 people would take part in Saturday's protests. They asked people to wear black ribbons on their lapels or chests to support the anti-government protests.

Officials of the top opposition group, the New Democratic Union, led by Kim Dae-jung, said they would parade in cars through Seoul streets on Saturday, blowing horns, in support of the protest.

Saturday's planned protests were called to press for the dissolution of plainclothes police units involved in last week's brutality. The units are specially trained in martial arts.

On Friday, thousands of church and civil leaders issued statements or staged sit-ins and hunger strikes to denounce police brutality.

Korean newspapers said about 3,100 professors joined in the protests by either issuing statements denouncing the government or taking part in sit-ins at more than 90 colleges and universities.

In Seoul, 30 students attacked a police substation with firebombs shouting "Oust the Roh regime!" and were driven back by police hurling tear gas grenades, said the national news agency Yonhap.

In 1987, a student's death prompted massive nationwide unrest that resulted in the end of Chun Doo-hwan's authoritarian military-backed government.

Roh, a former general and aide to Chun, won elections to succeed him. Roh cannot run again for president.

Peace talks critical, religious leaders say

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Religious leaders met Friday with President F.W. de Klerk and warned that violence that has killed 101 people this week would escalate if talks on ending apartheid break down.

But the government and the African National Congress, the largest black opposition group, appeared deadlocked on major issues as the ANC's May 9 deadline approached for the government to take steps to end the township carnage. which has left more than 600 people dead this year.

Police and soldiers patrolled black townships near Johannesburg, separating black factions trying to continue the savage street clashes that also have forced hundreds of people to flee their homes in recent days.

Most of the fighting involved supporters of the ANC and its main rival, the Zulu-dominated Inkatha Freedom Party. Both groups oppose apartheid, but differ on the policies of a non-racial South Africa and are struggling for power.

Chronic violence has increased in the days leading up to the ANC deadline. It has threatened to halt talks on ending white minority rule if the government fails to respond satisfactorily.

"The possibility of an escalation of violence after (May 9) was ahead of us and our feeling was that we should talk to the leaders," the Rev. Frank Chikane, head of the anti-apartheid South African Council Churches, said after the hastily called, 90-minute meeting with de Klerk in Cape Town.

He refused to give details of the talks, which he called "complex and sensitive." Other participants said both sides appeared willing to work out a solution. There was no immediate government statement.

In Soweto, crowds of rival blacks armed with spears, knives and axes taunted each other Friday as police armed with machine guns and rifles kept them apart.

On April 5, the ANC publicly demanded specific government steps on ending the violence by May 9.

PART-TIME INCOME AVAILABLE
The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several distributorships which need to be filled with qualified, responsible individuals.
OFTEN ASKED QUESTIONS:
Is it worthwhile for adults also?
Yes! Our current carrier force is already 90% adult and 10% youth. Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:
• ADULTS who have full-time jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
• MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a carrier, you do not need daycare!
• COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
• SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends.
How much money can I make as a carrier?
Depending on the size of the distributorship from $300 to $700 monthly! Some make even more!
How long does it take?
The actually delivery takes 1 - 2 hours Monday - Saturday, and 2 - 3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many carrier's choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subscribers' papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!
When do papers have to be delivered by?
6 a.m. Monday - Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.
Do I ever get a day off?
The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, carriers do take days off by finding a friend or family member to substitute for them!
RESERVE YOUR DISTRIBUTORSHIP NOW!

EXCEPTIONAL VALUE YOU DESERVE

S-10 BLAZER "The Mini Suburban"

CHEVROLET'S 4-DOOR S-BLAZER	VS	FORD'S EXPLORER
CHEVROLET'S WARRANTY 3 Year/50,000 Mile Bumper to Bumper	VS	FORD'S LIMITED POWERTRAIN WARRANTY

SOME OF CHEVY'S IMPORTANT ADVANTAGES OVER FORD EXPLORER

- Larger V6 4.3 liter vs. Ford's 4.0 liter
- 230 ft. lbs. torque vs. 225 ft. lbs. torque
- 2 MPG advantage with automatic transmission
- Larger fuel tank for more cruising range with automatic transmission
- S-10 has 4-wheel anti-lock brakes which are standard equipment vs. Ford's rear wheel only anti-lock brakes.
- Chevy's cargo floor is 3" longer
- Chevy's Blazer has a wider & higher rear opening area for cargo
- More maximum payload 1497 lbs. vs. Ford's 1050 lbs.
- More towing capacity 6000 lbs. vs. Ford's 5500 lbs.
- Chevy 4x4 has a standard Insta Trac system that lets you shift in and out of 4-wheel drive without stopping or backing up vs. Ford's touch drive which requires stopping & reversing to disengage front hubs.

NOW May Just Be The Best Time To Buy A New Car, Truck or Van!

HERE'S WHY:

You AUTO Buy Now

DEALER INVENTORIES ARE HIGH

Dealers anticipated better sales earlier this year, and inventories are much higher than expected. When dealers say they are overstocked and have to move cars out, it isn't hype.

FINANCE RATES ARE FAVORABLE

The Permian Basin is getting stronger every day. The Midland Auto Dealers are wanting to make it even better by offering better selections and better prices. And since interest rates have been coming down, you'll find financing rates in your favor.

DEALER COSTS

Dealers pay interest charges for every day a car sits on their lot. Current larger inventories mean the dealers are now eager to sell.

TRADE-IN ALLOWANCES ARE GOOD

Dealers want clean, quality trade-ins to keep for their used car inventory. Consequently your current car is worth more as a trade-in than in recent times.
