Throw Bootleggers In Jail, Cut Out Light Fines, Forget Light Wine--Miss Blanton

What Her Brother Does or Says Hasn't Got a Thing in the World to Do With Her Policies, Woman Candidate Makes Plain

By Associated Press.

DENTON, Texas, April 13.—Miss Annie Webb Blanton of Denton, candidate for congress from the 13th district, who is serving her second term as state superintendent of public instruction, opened her campaign here this afternoon for the unexpired term, in an address in the 16th district courtroom, which was filled to capacity.

Miss Blanton declared her brother, Congressman Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene, had been fighting the people's fight, but says he did not want to be elected because of him or defeated because she is his sister. She said that the government printing office case in which he was reprimanded was one where he only quoted in the records the affidavit of another man. She denied that the whiskey flask case, given publicity recently, was a new matter and read from the congressional record if Jan. 12, 1922, to show that the matter had been up then.

Favors Bonus

Miss Blanton told her hearers that if they did not want her to vote for the soldier bonus they had better not send her to congress.

"I am for it," she said. "I believe we should take care if the sick and wounded."

She declared herself in favor of union labor but not in the right of union labor to keep other people from working.

"If that kind of a stand is one for open shop, then I am for open shop," she said.

Likes Dean Law

She also declared in favor of revising the Volstead act, making it conform as nearly as possible with the Texas Dean law, with prison penalties for violations, instead of small fines.

"I am not in favor of light wines and beers," she said. "I believe I can do as much for the rural people as any one can. I went out as state superintendent and have helped the country boys and girls."

Opposition to the Cummings bill, limiting the rights of the state railroad commission, was expressed. Disarmament reduces national expense and extravagance, she said.

"Statastics show 92 per cent of the national revenue is expended for the army and navy," she declared. "We have found by experience that we can raise and train an army in a short time. We are all in favor of disarmament."

Her work as state superintendent was outlined and she told her hearers if they wanted a figure head in congress not to send her.

Reily and Radicals—
A Sane Viewpoint—
Just a Hard Fight—
By H. N. F.

GOVERNOR E. MONT REILY of Porto Rico is credited to Missouri but is a former Texan. He has been under fire ever since his inauguration. Now he has been indicted by a Porto Rico grand jury. Governor Reily is not a tactful person. He has never learned that honey is a magnificent fly catcher. There are many factions on the island. Governor Reily picked the radical faction and he has been in trouble ever since. He is in bad with the aristocrats; he is in bad with the Democrats; he is disliked by the conservatives; he is all right with the Republicans and the Porto Rico socialists are for him to a man. President Harding is his friend so why should he worry.

FORMER GOVERNOR JAMES M. Cox of Ohio is on the road again. This is his latest, "If we had lifted our voice for international co-operation we would today be prosperous. As one surveys conditions at Washington he finds little ground for hope of stable prosperity." Regardless of this the business trend is ever upward and conditions today are vastly better than they were in the summer and fall of 1921. This may not be the political viewpoint; it is the independent viewpoint, sustained by facts and figures.

CONGRESS REFUSED TO appropriate 30 cents to enforce the civil service law. Representative Tom Connally of Texas offerred an amendment to a pending appropriation bill for making an amendment of 30 cents for the enforcement of the civil service statute. Congressman Connally is a rough rider. His amendment was a lance thrust. Every Republican voted to bury the amendment. They are incensed because of the attacks of Democrats upon the administration for infractions of civil service regulations. There are thousands of Democrats who are holding fat jobs; there are thousands of hungry Republicans who feel that they are entitled to these jobs. It is a noisy fight of the Ins to stay in and of the Outs to break in. There is no great principle involved.

ACCORDING TO THE NEW York Sun the United States has the largest collection of adult unmarried men in the world. There are 1,350,088 of these unanchored bachelors. Now a Washington woman insists that Uncle Sam is missing a large bet and that a federal tax on bachelors would yield the national treasury 20 to 25 million dollars a year. Woman has the ballot. She is man's equal and should share with him the responsibility of government. This calls for equal tax payment. If the bachelor man is to be taxed why not a tax on the bachelor girl? Equal rights and equal taxes for all.

Spudderville's Opening Day Crowd Sits Thru All Without Grumbling

All Seemed to Think History Was Merely Repeating Again

More than 4,500 Wichita Falls fans, their baseball appetite whetted by several months anticipation of another year of the grand old game, and by several weeks contemplation of what the mightiest ball club Wichita Falls ever turned out would do to the measley opposition, turned out yesterday afternoon only to see history repeat itself and their favorites mauled all over the lot by the little respected Giants of Dallas.

"Spudderville" slowly recovered fro mthe stupor into which it was thrown by the sight of the helplessness of its boasted sluggers at the hands of Lefty Swartz, and the facility with which its stage affrighted fielders misconnected with their chances, only to sit miserably through the rest of the game to its dreary ending at the wrong end of a 10 to 1 tally.

Not Usual Crowd.

It was not a Wichita Falls baseball crowd, was the crowd, after the denouncement which sent Dallas far into the lead. It had plenty of pep during the first two sessions, and did not show a disposition to do more than gently chide when the Giants first forged into the lead by a two-run margin. But when Dallas tilted their total count to five in the succeeding canto, the crowd subsided, and entirely failed to prove their

TARIFF SCORED BY DEMOCRATS

Bill Denounced as Un-American

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The democratic fight on the administration tariff was opened today by Senator Simmons, North Carolina, ranking member of the senate finance committee, who characterized it as "the most un-Americanized bill ever framed." He predicted that its operation would "penalize our export business, which will mean in the end the curtailment of production and increased unemployment on the farms, in the factories and in the mines."

At the same time senators of the republican agricultural tariff bloc had the first of a series of meetings to consider rates in the measure which were fixed by the finance committee majority, Senator Gooding, Idaho, chairman of the bloc, said it was planned to take up immediate valuation at the meetings.

"There is a strong sentiment in the senate for American valuation," he said. "I do not want to put all our members on records as favoring it, but many of them are strongly impressed with the principle."

FARM BLOC HAS PLANS OUTLINED FOR BIG DRIVE

Purposes Economic, Not Political, Says Capper

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Legislation providing long term credits for farmers, reduction of railroad rates, adequate tariff protection for agricultural products and development of the Muscle Shoals projects as a fertilizer producer were announced to the Senate today by Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, as among the objectives of the agricultural bloc. Other legislative aims of the bloc detailed by Senator Capper, who recently succeeded to the leadership of the organization included measures to give the farmers representation on the federal reserve board, to restore state control over state railroad charges and to brand all fabrics and cloths with the amount of wool or cotton contained.

Defends Bloc

Defending the bloc the Kansas senator said the "purposes of the farm bloc are economic, not political."

"There are certain interests which I regret to say have powerful spokesmen in the esatern press, who are want to cry 'wolf, wolf,' at the farm bloc," Senator Capper added. "These interests simply seek to escape too close a scrutiny of their own motives by creating a furor in the public mind.

"The charge has been that the farm bloc seeks class legislation and that its aim is to profit agriculture, no matter at what cost to other industry. The men who make that charge lose sight of the fundamental fact that agriculture is basic ,that what contributes to it prospertiy and well being, unquestionably benefit all industry. When agriculture is profitable, the nation is prosperous.

Farm Aid, Aids All

"It is not class legislation to demand that agriculture have as good credit facilities as any other business; that farmers be encouraged to work together to improve their marketing conditions; that the market gamblers and speculators and the selfish class which has grafted off of the farmer for many years be unmasked and controlled.

"The farm bloc does not recognize the right of any class to have an advantage at the expense of another group, or of the population as a whole. The interests which oppose it fight the farm bloc because it does not tolerate their net piracies. Vested interests have been blooksucking the farmer enough."

The next step to be taken by the bloc, the senator said, would be to enable enactment of farmer credit legislation.

SMALL SMOKE THROWS THREE PENNSYLVANIA TOWNS INTO DARKNESS

By Associated Press.

BERWICK, Pa., April 13. — A fourteen-inch garter snake last night threw the towns of Berwick, Bloomberg and Danville into darkness for several hours.

Electricians were called to the lower end of Berwick by a report that a pole supporting the high tension line was on fire. The reputile had caused a short circuit between the wire and cross arms and there had been sufficient resistence in the snake's body to set the cross arm afire, the electricians reported.

RUSSIANS SLAY NUMBER OF U. S. RELIEF DRIVERS

Famished Populace Seizes Horses For Food

By Associated Press.

PARIS, April 13.—A number of American drivers of relief wagons in Russia have been killed in the streets by the famished populace, who seized the horses for food, according to reports received today by American relief organizations in Paris from the Ufa, Bashker and Tchyliabui famine districts. Two drivers for the American relief administration were killed this week, the report said.

Several other employes of this relief administration fearing their lives have quit their posts, the reports added. The danger has become so great that it is no longer safe to venture into the streets. People are being killed every day, it was said, and the natives, maddened from starvation, strip the clothes from the bodies of their victims.

The reports said the Americans were feeding 150,000 suffering people in the Ufa district, but that the death rate was continuing unabated.

Cholera, small pox, typhus and other diseases wer raging in the hospitals, which are destitute of supplies and extremely short of helpers. Bitter cold and the complete absence of fuel are adding to the suffering.

The hospitals nevertheless are choked with patients suffering from serious intestinal troubles due to lack of food. The report said people were eating bark, roots, hides, dogs, cats and even human flesh.

MAN LOSES LIFE IN TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

By Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 13.—J. Hill White, foreman, was blown to pieces today in an explosion of 20,000 pounds of black powder in an ammunition salvage magazine near the general ordinance depot at North Charleston, ten miles from here. The cause of the explosion, which was felt in a radius of several miles, had not been determined tonight.

AVIATOR WHO FELL TO DEATH AT CROYDEN KNOWN BY WICHITAN

News of the death of Capt. Sir Ross Smith, world famous Australian aviator, with his companion, Lieut. Bennett, in a flying accident at Croydon came as a distinct personal shock to at least one Wichitan—Capt. R. S. Healy, who served with the Australian expeditionary forces in Egypt and Gallipoli. During this service Capt. Healy, the Smiths, Bennett and others of their group became fast friends.

Shortly before Healy sailed for America in 1919 to make his home, and a brief time before Sir Ross Smith and his brother, Capt. Sir Keith Smith, started on the flight from England to Australia which made them famous, and gained them knighthood, the party had a farewell meeting in London. Sir Ross Smith and Lieut. Bennett, an engineer, who was planning to accompany them, were killed in an accident to the ship in which the Smiths were planning an early start for a flight around the world. Capt. eHalys acquaintance with his brother Australians developed as a result of a call to the Record News office for details of the accident carried in the Associated Press report.

MANY HUNDRED FAMILIES LOSE HOMES IN BLAZE

Estimated Damage Near Million Dollars

By Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., April 13.—Berkley, a suburb of Norfolk, was swept by fire today which destroyed more than 100 houses, covering an area one mile in length and average from two to four blocks in width. Five hundred families are estimated to have been made homeless and the damage will run to nearly a million dollars.

NORFOLK, Va., April 13.—Unable to check flames in three groups of frame houses in Berkley, a suburb of Norfolk, involving more than 30 dwellings, the Norfolk fire department late today called on the Portsmouth and the Navy yard fire forces for assistance. The fire started from a blaze in an abandoned lumber yard, and the southwest wind carried sparks which ignited in five different places simultaneously.

The blaze originated in the Tunis Lumber mills on the southern branch of the Elizabeth river and three steamers in the river were burned, catching from sparks.

The fire quickly spread to the north the sparks being carried 100 yards or more. Most of the houses in the path were negro homes, and made of wood. At one time there were different fires. Although the fire departments, both civilian and naval, from all the cities and towns in the vicinity of Berkeley were called into service, they were helpless against the spreading flames which soon reached Liberty street, one of the oldest business streets of the town. One block there was completely wiped out. A negro Baptist church also was destroyed.

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—The remaining manslaughter charge against Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle who was acquitted last night by a jury after six minutes of deliberation, was dismissed by the district attorney.

Williams, United States district attorney, said today after a conference with Gavin McNab, chief counsel, that he understood Arbuckle would plead guilty to the federal charge of unlawful possession of liquor growing out of the Hotel St. Francis party that was followed by Miss Rappe's death. The penalty for such an offense is a fine, the maximum being $500.

EPIDEMIC CAUSES HEAVY STOCK LOSS IN WESTERN TEXAS

Special to the Record News

FORT WORTH, April 13.—Stockmen are unable to account for the mysterious disease which is destroying large numbers from the herds of west Texas during the past few days. Observations are that the contraction of the strange disease is heavier around watering places. The epidemic seems to take the nature of blood poisoning. It has never been noticed prior to the heavy rains of last week.

The livestock sanitary commission dispatched two men today to the infected districts to investigate the condition.

HORNSBY TO HANG AT BELTON TODAY

By Associated Press.

BELTON, Texas, April 13.—George F. Hornsby, condemned to die on the gallows tomorrow for the murder of J. N. Weatherby of Brownwood in October, 1920, was baptized in the county jail this afternoon by Rev. Ross A. Marcus, pastor of the first Christian church.

The prisoner broke down the ceremony, and weeping bitterly, protested his innocence. He soon regained his composure, however, and talked without any show of nervoosness over the fate of the morrow holds in store. He ate heartily three times today and congratulated the sheriff upon the meals prepared.

Big Town Slicker Puts One Over Wichita Sleuths When He Steals Motor Meter as They Look On

"Ye Gods, sergeant, some one stole your motometer, and I had my eye on the machine all the time we were in there," exclaimed Patrolman White to Sergt. Dave Mays of the police force as the pair stepped out of an Ohio street cafe, Thursday afternoon.

"It is gone and I was looking out the front most of the time myself," remarked the veteran sergeant, as he verified the loss of the newly acquired accessory.

The two "laws," whose trade it is to prevent thefts from other people in the downtown section had no clues to aid them in their search Thursday night.

Pies Hurled Back and Forth With Catsup Bottles and Mustard Jars As Pair Argue Over Bowl of Soup

Dispute over a bowl of soup between a customer and employe in the Majestic cafe on Ohio street Thursday night was the cause of a sham battle in which catsup bottles, salt cellars, mustard containers, pies and dishes of all kinds are said to have figured. Officers arrived on the scene as the smoke of combat was clearing, due to the fact that ammunition was exhausted. Officers arrested A. P. "Pink" Rhodes, local service car driver, and Jim Chee. The latter, a Chinaman, was said by officers to be connected with the ownership of the cafe. No one was seriously injured.

ACTION DESIRED BY G.O.P. SOLONS

Delay on Measures Causes Unrest

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Continued delay of the tariff and bonus bills in the Senate is irritating Republicans in Congress, and among Republicans in the House there is insistence for tariff and bonus action before election. Passage of one without the other would not be satisfactory, because the Republicans want to report both to the people.

The tariff is to have right of way, as the bonus bill is not needed until October 1. This is contrary to the original plan, but bonus advocates believe that few more than a dozen will vote against a bonus bill.

Leaders desire that every moment be devoted to getting the tariff measure reported out of the Finance committee. The blame for this delay is being laid on Senator Reed Smoot. Chairman Fordney, author of the tariff and bonus measures, believes Senator Smoot is causing the delay. Mr. Smoot combatted the Fordney plan of American valuation.

SPUDDERVILLE—

kinship wth the bunch which helped Spudders of old to overcome an even larger lead by a better club from Dallas.

In the sixth a feeble attempt at encouragement was made, and in the seventh the crowd rose to its feet—apparently more through following of an honored custom than through any hopes of what might come to pass on the field.

Crowd Didn't Beef

Lifeless though the crowd might be, it did not show a disposition to kick. It seemingly took defeat in the first game of the season as a matter of course and precedent, and strove to glean from the flashes of real class displayed by the Spudder machine an ankling of what it had to expect. Work by Fred Beck, Tex McDonald, and by Adams and Tanner, even though there were rough spots in the handling of a couple of chances by the latter, seemed to indicate that the combination would settle down into a real machine. Work of the outfield, except for the stick, was satisfying, as was the work behind the bat. Dorrough did not look so bad to the crowd, until loose support rattled him, while Knadler even looked good. Although he showed plenty of stuff, Ruth failed to cover himself, in the opinion of the crowd, with glory. With Reliable Abe Bowman, Joe Newkirk and Jumbo Ramsey, to say nothing of young Steve Mokan, still to see, the crowd was not prepared to condemn Spudder flinging entirely without a few more looks.

Estimates on the attendance will remain only estimates for several days to come. On instructions from Doak Roberts, president of the league, opening day attendance figures will not be announced until all the clubs have had their opening. This order is probably a result of past history, which nearly always showed some club which opened late overtopping the top figure of the first openings. Last year 4,105 saw Dallas maul the homelings. This year the crowd on the field was smaller, but the stands, which were overflowed held a thousand more, and it is believed that the attendance is about a standoff.

Opening Day Festivities

Festivities prior to the opening game were of the briefest. B. Frank Johnson, as usual, made a brief speech. He presented a floral horseshoe, inscribed "Good Luck" and presented by the Wichita Falls Floral Co., to Walter Salm in the name of the fans. As usual this proved a Jonah. Then the silver bat and ball, similar to the one voted by fans to Bob Bescher last year as the most valuable man of the club, was displayed, with the announcement that Dave Paul would again be the donor.

This year, however, the bat goes to the Spudder regular with the heftiest swatting average, and the ball to the regular pitcher with the best winning average. Frank Collier, new mayor but veteran flinger, was then presented. Frank had warmed up with Smiler Bischoff was a wide one, and the crowd advised that he be taken out. The prior to the game. His first one next was over, however, and Spencer lined it out to McDonald, who tossed it to Beck. Rabbit Dorrough then stepped into the box, and the worst rapidly came about.

DETROIT CRIME WAVE SUBSIDES TO RIPPLE

DETROIT, Mich., April 13.—Detroit's crime wave that reached its crest in 1920, has subsided to a ripple, according to Dr. James W. Inches, police commissioner.

"Passing of the orgy of spending, heavy sentence assessed against persons convicted of crime, and regaining by Americans generally of their common sense are the factors responsible for the passing of the crime wave," Dr. Inches asserted.

The head of the police department pointed out that there were 58 per cent fewer crimes in this city during 1921 than in the preceding year. The percentage is based upon the major crimes—hold-ups, burglaries and homicides.

8 EX-GOVERNORS OUT FOR SENATE

"Gubernatorial Bloc" Found in Senate

WASHINGTON, April 13. — The political pathway that leads from a governor's chair to a senatorial toga will be watched with interest during the coming primaries, when thirty-five senators stand for re-election.

There are twenty-three former governors now in the senate and eight of them must go before the voters this fall. Senatorial observers are wondering whether their number will be diminished in the bitter campaigns just ahead or if the total will be increased.

There can be no doubt that the gubernatorial chair has been an easy stepping stone to the senate or that once adorned with senatorial robes the former governors have shown exceptional statesmanship and law-making ability.

In the ranks of the "Governor's Bloc" are leaders on both sides of the senate. There is Hiram W. Johnson, twice governor of California and leader of the senate's "irreconcilables." By his side stands Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, friend of labor and foe of foreign alliances. There is Arthur Capper, former governor of Kansas, now chairman of the powerful senate agricultural "bloc." In all there are sixteen Republicans and seven Democrats.

OUSLEY SHOWS KLAN METHODS

Reads Warning Sent One of Victims

Special to the Record News.

MT. PLEASANT, Texas, April 13.—Clarence Ousley, candidate for U. S. senator, exhibited here today a photographic copy of a Klan warning issued in due form upon Klan stationery and under the Klan seal which had just been furnished to him as evidence of Klan methods. Omitting names, the warning reads:

"Sir: You have brought into disrepute the good name of one of our young girls—eye witnesses have established your guilt. To shield this little girl, you will be handled by this organization. Do not disregard this warning. You are hereby commanded to leave this county, and not return and do so at once.

"Knights of the Ku Klux Klan."

(SEAL.)

Is It Ignorance?

"I have been careful," said Mr. Ousley in comment, "not to condemn the avowed lawful purposes of the Ku Klux Klan or of members who affirm their adherence to the law. Here is trustworthy evidence of the downright lawlessness of this particular Klan. This threat of violence is a bold violation of the plain letter of the law. Worse than that, it is usurpation of the functions of the court and of the whole process of government under law.

"Let us analyze it. There is a deal of ignorance in the land and possibly these men don't realize the enormity of their offense against the law and the one hundred per cent Americanism which they profess.

"The warning says that there were eye-witnesses to the misconduct, but they did not face the accused. They testified in secret and the condemnation was pronounced by a secret tribunal. These have been the methods of the most infamous crimes of history against human rights and personal liberties.

"The Ku Klux society may have other motives than are here revealed. This particular Klan may have performed worthy deeds. But the men who made this threat are law-breakers.

Why Not Resent Act?

"Moreover, I ask red blooded white men what they think of other white men who will witness an affront to a young lady and not resent it upon the spot. No jury will convict and no community will condemn any manly act in defense of a woman's honor or good name. No masks or rituals are needed to punish men who are guilty of such misconduct. No brave man will wait for a Klan meeting to resent an insult to a woman.

"I still believe that no statute against paraders will stop this devilment. Nor will mere denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan avail. The thing to do is to search out and punish by due process of law, the individuals who thus violate and despise the law.

Doesn't Want Klan Vote.

"I have one other comment to make. Since I first condemned mob law in my speech at Wichita Falls and since I spike of the Ku Klux at Whitesboro, I have been told that I will lose the votes of the Klansmen. If so, then so be it. Office is not so desirable that I will try to purchase it with approval of lawlessness. There are some grave economic issues that I am trying to discuss and I would like to see them wisely determined but graver than economic issues is the issue of law and order and I repeat that the Ku Klux Klan must live up to its professed purpose of law under the constitution or it will perish."

NEGRO GETS 2 YEARS

A jury in the 89th district court Thursday sentenced Ed Byers, negro, to two years in the state penitentiary following his plea of guilty to a charge of assault with intent to rob. Byers was alleged to have attempted to rob another negro here last year.

The sentence given by the jury was that recommended by County Attorney Fulton after the negro had made his plea of guilty.

DAVIS-WILLIAMS CASE UNDER CONSIDERATION

Judge E. W. Napier of the 78th district court Wednesday afternoon took under consideration a motion for an instructed verdict for the defendant in the case of B. W. Davis against J. F. Williams. The trial of the case with jury opened Wednesday morning.

The plaitiff asks for $5,500 for the alleged conversion of property in 1919. He alleges in his petition that he rented a lot in Burkburnett from the defendant for $25 a month and moved a large amount of oil property there.

10 BID ON CONTRACTS

Severa lcontractors from out of town have made inquiry at t he county engineer's office regarding specifications of the concrete roads to be built from this city to the Clay county line and five miles north of Electra, according to information Thursday from Copnty Engineer Isbell. The sub-contracts for the construction of the roads will be let next Monday by the county commissioners court providing satisfactory bids are received.

Mr. Isbell said that he expected 10 bids for the contract would probably be received by Monday.

ROUND-UP WILL IMPORT STEERS

Strickland Hunts 'Em In New Mexico

Hugh Strickland, one of the arena directors of the Round-Up, which will be produced by Tom L. Burnett, at the ball park, May 3, 4, and 5, departed yesterday for Magdalene, N. M., in search of a certain type of Longhorn Mexican steer for use in the bulldogging contest of the round-up. The type of steers ordered by Mr. Burnett will make the bulldogging part of the Round-Up anything but child's play. This type, which is said to exist in great numbers on the Major's Ranch, west of Magdalene, is a very fleetfooted and vicious type of Longhorn, and it will take the best of bulldoggers to be able to down them after they have been caught.

Such noted bulldoggers as Yakima Canutt, who won the bulldogging event here last year, Mike Hastings, Jim Massey, Roy Quick, Loyd Saunders, John Henry, Soapy Williams, Delbert Bledsoe, Fred Atkinson and other noted steer wrestlers who were contestants in the Fort Worth rodeo in March, are expected to enter the contest here.

The work of advertising the Round-Up, which will take in a radius of 150 miles of the city, is getting ahead rapidly and it is expected that the greatest crowd ever attracted to the city for a similar event will be on hand.

Ten-Year Sentence For Theft of Car

For the theft of a Ford automobile John Hinton, widely known by officers in the county, must serve 10 years in the penitentiary. A jury in the 89th district court Thursday afternoon, after one hour deliberation, returned the sentence which records of the district courts show to be the heaviest penalty ever given in the county in an automobile theft offense.

Hinton was plainly surprised when the sentence was announced. Accompanied by his wife he walked back to the jail a few minutes after the verdict was announced.

The convicted man, according to officers, is wanted in other counties in Texas and Oklahoma on similar indictments and charges. There is a charge involving the interstate shipment of stolen property pending against him in federal court here at the present time.

"I will get you another hot one," C. L. Smith of Newtown testified Hinton told him after the Ford was taken from him by its owner "and you can have it after we hide it and let it cool for a while."

According to Smith's testimony Hinton sold him the car last fall a short while after it was stolen from Homer Brown, a farmer living near Burkburnett. Hinton did not take the stand in his own defense.

Calomel Good But Treacherous

Next Dose May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Bones.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate. —Adv.

COURT HOUSE WALKS NO LONGER MAY BE USED AS ROLLER RINK

Further use of the sidewalks which surround the courthouse as a pavilion where roller skaters may try their skill has been prohibited.

Signs were placed on the grounds of the courthouse Wednesday morning which read: "Five dollars fine for skating on walks or trespassing on yard, by order of commissioners' court." announced to the kiddies of the neighborhood that henceforth no roller skating will be permitted on the premises. It is understood that the order became necessary to prevent the ruining of flower beds which border the walk, and which have recently been trampled by skaters.

Louis Jernigan, in charge of the courthouse grounds, intimated Thursday that he plans to make the courthouse grounds even more attractive this summer than they have been in the past, and the order of the commissioners' court, which will be stringently enforced, is a step in this direction.

YOUTHS COMING FOR CONFERENCE

Several Hundred Will Be Entertained

Plans for the Older Boys conference which is expected to draw several hundred boys of high school or working age here the latter part of this month, are being worked out by Lee Clark, superintendent of schools, and J. E. Lewis, state boys work director for the Y. M. C. A.

The boys who come here will be drawn from a district bounded by Amarillo, Lubbock, Decatur and Breckenridge.

The object of the conference, in brief, was explained to Rotarians at their Thursday luncheon. It is largely on the invitation of the Rotary club, the speakers explained, that the conference is coming here.

OBREGON'S NEXT STEP.

President Obregon of Mexico has warned rebels and revolutionists that petty disturbances in the Aztec must end. He has published a decree and that decree is the last word. Stern justice will be meted out in the future. Diaz was compelled to stand the rebels and the bandits up against the wall and a firing squad made short work of them. Obregon has been merciful. He has pardoned many rebels. Now it will be the firing squad for those who plot against stable government as well as for those who loot the property of their neighbors. There are times when iron handed rule is necessary.

DEMOS ALARMED.

Democrats of Oklahoma, Democrats who call themselves conservatives, are alarmed. They have been told that the socialists in that state number from 60 to 100 thousand and that they are going to register as Democrats and hold the balance of power in both the primary and general elections. These socialists have a program. It calls for the nomination and election of Mayor J. C. Walton of Oklahoma City as the next governor and the indorsement of the principles of the Farmer Labor Reconstruction League which drafted Walton as its ticket head. There are thousands of Democratic and Republican farmers and laborers who are members of this league. All the old line Democrats are opposed to the program. All the old line Republicans are opposed to the program but if the league has 100 thousand votes and all these voters register as Democrats and enter the Democratic primary there is going to be a smashing of old leaders and old faces in the good old summer time.

THE BONUS CHANGE.

Congressman Joseph W. Fordney predicts that the senate finance committee will report the bonus bill in the very near future with just one change. This change is the elimination of the alternative proposition with regard to land reclamation. That President Harding will sign the bill when it reaches him also is regarded as reasonably certain by Congressman Fordney. President Harding has told the Michigan congressman that he regarded the bill passed by the house as good and that he would sign it if it passed the senate without substantial modification. Ten Texas congressmen voted against the bonus bill. Captain Royall A. Watkins of Dallas, speaking for the American Legion of Texas, promised to punish the immortal ten. How will they punish them? Is it possible that there will be a former service man entered as a candidate for congressional honors in every one of the ten districts. If so there is going to be something doing in the political fields away down here in Texas.

Many of the Titans of the petroleum game are telling the people that an oil famine is coming some day. Of course this has nothing to do with the 350,000-barrel well brought in in the Hull field near Houston. Petroleum scouts say that the well has the largest production of any in the field and is the biggest active producer in the Gulf coast country. If crude was on the protected list it would place millions of dollars every year in the pockets of American oil producers. But crude isn't on the free list and the joke of it is the party of high protective tariffs is in absolute control of all departments of the federal government.

HOPE FOR JONES.

Representative Martin B. Madden of Illinois is chairman of the house committee on appropriations. Madden has sounded the news that all wasteful expenditures and extravagant methods of administration are to be eliminated. He has tackled a man's job. There is one billion dollars of interest on the war debt to be raised annually and the best that he can do will be to hold expenditures within three and a half million dollars. This will be a reduction of one and a half billion. Martin B. Madden is a successful business man. He had accumulated a million dollars before he invaded the political arena. He has been a member of congress twenty-four years and his latest announcement is that he has found ways of curbing costs of government operations and hopes for a saving of almost two billions a year. There appears to be hope for Jones.

Lest we forget the senate committee put crude oil in the free list. Lest we forget the free trade Democrats put it there first and lest we forget the protection Republicans put it there last. When is a protectionist a protectionist?

FIRST AID TO FLU PATIENTS

How Little Town Fought Epidemic

By M. JESSIE LEITCH.

There had been a great deal of influenza in the little town.

Every women who knew anything about nursing, and a great many who didn't, had been helping take care of others until the entire town was like a community centre.

Women shaking rugs, hung out of their upstairs window to ask the butcher boy about his mother's temperature.

The minister made soup all day long in the parish kitchen, and the lawyer delivered it in his flivver.

The bank manager and the heads of various lodges conferred about the poor families in the lower end of the town, and school girls hurried home to help their mothers take care of sick neighbors' babies.

There was a house at the end of the streets, a great, empty-looking, weather-beaten house, where a woman and six small children lived. She was a woman who went out working by the day, and her children did things after school all round town to earn odd pennies.

Mother Finally Stricken.

One by one the children had been ill, and one by one they recovered. The woman struggled along taking care of them as best she could, and the very day the sixth child was well enough to sit up in a chair the poor mother went to bed. By nightfall she had a high fever, and was babbling in delirium.

Then it was that Martha Lind, the stern-faced woman who wore black silk all the year round, and had scarcely a word for her next door neighbor, took a basket and went down to the weather-beaten house with more softness in her heart than her stern face indicated.

A little twelve-year-old daughter was trying to keep her mother from getting out of bed. She looked very much frightened.

Martha Lynn took one look around the little room, produced her basket of linen, and said: "The first thing to do is to make the bed. This bed is too big and too low, anyway. Isn't there a single bed around any place?"

There was, and it was dragged into the sick room.

"Send one of the boys down to the woodshed to cut four blocks, six inches high, with a hole bored in the middle of each to set the leg of the bed in," orderer Martha.

When the blocks came she placed each leg of the bed in the hole in the block, and the bed was thus raised almost five inches higher. This made bending over the bed less hard upon the nurse.

Martha believed, as all efficiency experts do, in saving time and energy. Therefore, when she made a bed she did it in such a way that she only had to walk around the bed once instead of running around it each time to tuck in a sheet or a blanket.

How She Made the Bed

First she protected the mattress with an old blanket, and because she had a delirious patient, with a rubber sheet, which she placed under the blanket.

She stucked in the lower sheet smoothly, but used no pins, for pins tear the sheet.

She explained to the little daughter of the sick woman that often wrinkles in the lower sheet cause the beginning of pressure sores, or bed sores, when one is ill a long time. That is why the sheets must be smooth and dry underneath a patient.

She did not tuck the upper bed clothes in very far under the mattress, because if she had done so the lower sheet would have been loosened each time the upper sheets were disturbed.

Finally she bound a pillow in upright position against the head of the iron bed, lest the patient should strike her head against the iron while she was delirious.

And then, because one never leaves a delirious patient alone, she lifted her into the fresh bed, and sat down beside her to wait for the doctor's coming.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

By THORNTON W. BURGESS
(Copyright by J. G. Lloyd.)

Ever since it was light enough to see at all Blacky the Crow had been sitting in the top of the tallest tree on the edge of the Green Forest nearest to Farmer Brown's house, and never for an instant had he taken his eyes from Farmer Brown's back door. What was he watching for? Why, for Farmer Brown's boy to come out on his way to milk the cows. Meanwhile Sammy Jay was slipping silently through the Green Forest looking for Buster Bear so that when the time came he could let his cousin, Blackey the Crow, know just where Buster was.

It was all a part of Blacky's plan to find out if it was true that Farmer Brown's Boy really was afraid of Buster Bear. He and Sammy would make a great fuss there on the edge of the Green Forest, and then when Farmer Brown's Boy came to find out what it was about they would lead him to where Buster Bear happened to be, and then they and all the other little people who were hiding near would see what would happen. Blacky didn't have the least doubt that Farmer Brown's Boy would come. He had called him that way many times before, sometimes going on and sometimes just for a joke. You see, Blacky had found out a long time before that Farmer Brown's Boy is like a great many other little people—he has a great deal of curiosity.

By and by the back door of Farmer Brown's house opened and out stepped Farmer Brown's Boy. In each hand he carried a milk pail. Right away Blacky began to scream at the top of his lungs. "Caw, caw, caw!" shouted Blacky. "Caw, caw, caw!" And all the time he flew about among the trees near the edge of the Green Forest, as if so excited that he couldn't keep still. Farmer Brown's Boy looked over there as if he wondered what all the fuss was about, as indeed he did, but he didn't start to go over and see. No, sir, he started straight for the barn.

Blacky didn't know what to make of it. You see, smart as he is and shrewd as he is, Blacky doesn't know anything about the meaning of duty. You see, he never has to work, accepting to get enough to eat. So when Farmer Brown's Boy started for the barn instead of for the Green Forest Blacky didn't know what to make of it. He screamed harder and louder than ever, until his voice grew so hoarse he couldn't scream any more, but Farmer Brown's Boy kept right on to the barn.

"I'd like to know what you're making such a fuss about, Mr. Crow, but first I've got to feed the cows and milk them," said he.

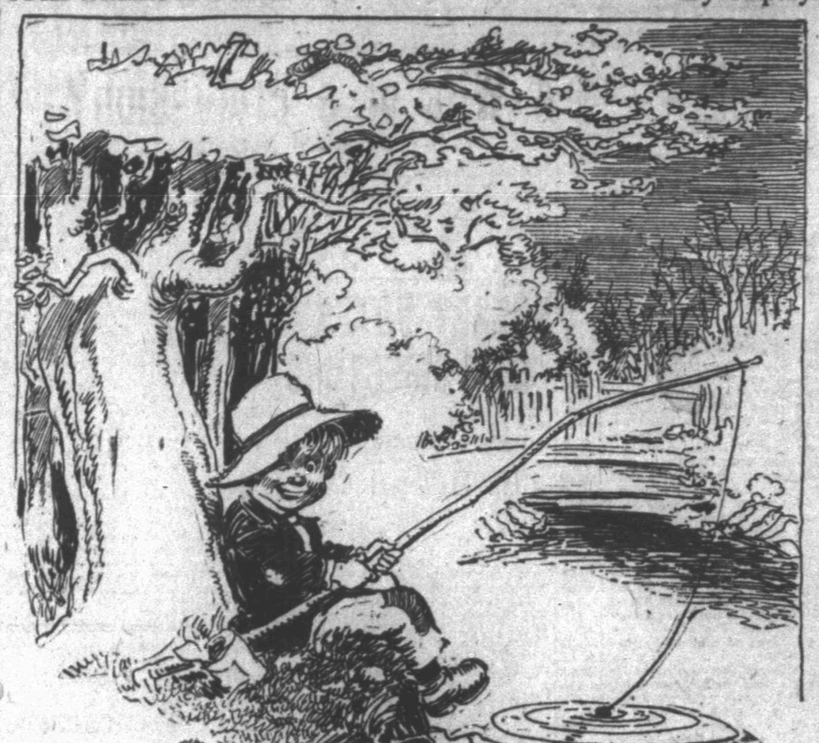

Now, all this time the other little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows had been hiding where they could see all that went on. When Farmer Brown's Boy disappeared in the barn Chatterer, the Red Squirrel, snickered right out loud. "Ha, ha, ha! This is a great plan of yours, Blacky. Ha, ha, ha!" he shouted. Blacky couldn't find a word to say. He just hung his head, which is something Blacky seldom does.

"Perhaps if we wait until he comes out again he will come over here," said Sammy Jay, who had joined Blacky. So it was decided to wait. It seemed as if Farmer Brown's Boy would never come out, but at last he did. Blacky and Sammy Jay at once began to scream and make all the fuss they could. Farmer Brown's Boy took the two pails of milk into the house, then out he came and started straight for the Green Forest. He was so curious to know what it all meant that he wouldn't wait another minute.

Now, there was some one else with a great deal of curiosity. He had heard the screaming of Blacky the Crow and Sammy Jay and he had listened until he couldn't stand it another minute. He just had to know what it was all about. So at the same time Farmer Brown's Boy started for the Green Forest this other listener started toward where Blacky and Sammy were making such a racket. He walked very softly, so as not to make a sound. It was Buster Bear.

Go West, Young Woman

By DR. FRANK CRANE
(Copyright, 1922, by Frank Crane.)

A lady writes to me from New York a letter from which I select the following:

"This is no doubt an unusual letter and may seem a joke to you, but it is a tragedy in my life.

"I am a dressmaker, 36 years old, have never had a beau, and am facing old age alone, which does not appeal to me at all. Some people say there are many things in life for a woman besides marriage. To me, however, marriage is and always has been the main thing. Yet I have never had an offer.

"I have always lived in New York city and am contemplating leaving New York to look for a husband. Could you advise me in what city and state I would have the best chance?"

Why not?

Why is this not a sensible request, and why should this lady be brushed aside with a cheap attempt at wit? I am entirely of the lady's opinion that marriage is about the most important thing in any normal human being's life.

I once heard a man say—and he had been married twice and ought to know—that he could wish for his children no greater good fortune than congenial and happy marriage.

Perhaps more men and certainly more women owe their success and their contentment to good luck in marriage than in any other cause. And by the same token more sheer wretchedness has been caused by an unfortunate marriage than by any other thing.

All this being the undoubted case, why should not a young woman of sound sense look around for those circumstances where the prospect of successful marriage is best?

And in deciding this matter one point should be kept in mind, and that is that the older centers of population are unfavorable for unmarried women. That is to say, for such as have only their personal attractions to offer and do not possess the additional of plenty of money.

This is true for the same reason that the older centers of population are unfavorable for young men who want to make something of themselves.

Horace Greeley advised young men to go west. The spirit of that advice still holds good.

If I were a young woman and lived in New England or New York, or any of the older and more settled communities, I would, other things being equal, pack up my things and go to Seattle, or Winnipeg or Denver and points west.

And this for the simple reason that the market is better in those regions. There are more he men there who appreciate wives who can be helpmates for them in the carving out of their fortunes.

There are fewer dudes, lounge lizards, and decadents, all of whom regard women as playthings.

There is perhaps a still better field for the unmarried woman in Australia and New Zealand.

These are countries of pioneers, and the pioneer is usually the soundest of the human stock.

Therefore I say that if I were a red-blooded young woman I would take my courage in my hand and go west, where the chances are better of finding the pioneer type of man, of building my future in his rugged companionship, and of becoming the mother of virile and normal children.

WHEN YOU NEED ADVICE

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

It is, of course, a most important thing to be willing to take advice and to be able to recognize when one needs advice. It is even more important, when advice is needed, to seek out people really competent to give it.

But this is something a great many persons do not appreciate. Recognizing clearly enough their need of advice, they seemingly do not give a moment's thought to the qualifications of those they ask to advise them.

Which holds true even as regards matters vitally affecting their welfare. And again and again the consequence is great suffering and loss.

There are people, for example, many people, who, when assailed by unmistakable symptoms of ill-health, seek advice from almost anybody except those best qualified to give it by virtue of long training and experience in the treatment of disease. Forgetting or ignoring the physicians in their community, they run about asking advice from any friend they chance to meet—the corner druggist, or perhaps some self-styled "healer" who has blatantly advertsed his marvelous curative powers.

Thus it often happens that advice, not merely useless but positively harmful, is given and accepted. And when at last the progress of illhealth compels resort to the trained medical man whose advice should have been sought in the first place, it sometimes is too late for reparative action.

Other people, perhaps properly appreciative of the importance of consulting a physician when one is ill, are singularly unappreciative of the importance of seeking advice in the right quarter when it is a question of conserving their financial health.

They are well aware that as the years advance their earning power will lessen. They know that at any time circumstances may make it impossible for them to earn anything whatever. So, working hard, they gradually add to their savings, until at last they perhaps have a considerable sum available for investment.

But now, instead of consulting investment experts—bankers and brokers of long-established standing—they rashly turn their money over to glib-tongued strangers who promise big returns. They do not ever make inquiry as to the financial trustworthiness of these rainbow-painters. They are obsessed by the rainbow and the pot of gold at its foot.

Too frequently a day of bitter disillusioning comes to them. Their savings swept away, they must needs begin all over again, if they are not too old to make a fresh beginning. This all because they neglected to comply with the precautionary rule: "When in need of advice seek it only from those who are acknowledged authorities in the matter concerning which advice is sought."

In human affairs in general this is a rule which should invariably be observed. Non-observance of it may not always mean serious consequences. But the chance of serious consequences resulting from its non-observance is too great to be taken lightly.

Rippling Rhymes

SUPERSTITION

I broke a mirror t'other day, and dropped a fork upon the floor; and Aunt Elisa rose to say, "Misfortunes now will make you sore; no man can flout the fates that way, and not find life a beastly bore. It's ill to break a looking glass, it calls up all the imps of gloom, and many evils come to pass when forks are strewn about the room; your luck's forsaken you, alas, you're walking hand in hand with doom." That morning, by the early mail, I got a letter from a gent who long ago had borrowed kale, and now he paid me every cent; so what did dropping forks avail? What force was in my aunt's lament? I met a broker and he said, "You know that oil well stock you bought? We all supposed that it was dead, too dead to skin, we brokers thought; and now it's soaring overhead, in every market it is sought." Then I rebuked my mild-dewed aunt when to my cottage I repaired; "This sign-and-omen stuff is cant, and bunk and piffle," I declared; and wearily she hear me rant, and merely crossed her hands and glared. "Your spiel," she muttered, "is no good; you talk like one who has the mange; the omens are not understood by one whose wits are wild and strange; if you were wise you'd knock on wood—your present luck is bound to change." —(Copyright, 1922, George Matthew Adams)

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS

By GEORGE BINGHAM

Frisby Hancock spent some time by the roadside this morning trying to convince his mule that a stump in the fence corner was not going to jump out at him.

As he was passing the Gander Creek graveyard one dark night last week Jefferson Potlocks reports that both his horse and his imagination ran away with him.

The Horse Doctor was summoned to the home of Clab Hancock yesterday, but after examining Clab couldn't find anything hurting him except his conscience.

THE DAILY STORY

Copyright, 1922, by W. Werner.

SPRING HOUSECLEANING

On the second Monday in April, Mrs. Lott began to clean her attic, which was preliminary to a thorough renovation of the whole house. For thirty years—in fact, ever since her daughter Cora could remember—Mrs. Lott had opened up household operations on that day. The attic caught it first, then the chambers, then the lower rooms, then the cellar and, lastly, the woodhouse.

When Cora Lott followed her mother into the attic she knew that there would be no turning back until the huge job was finished. One could get tired, ache as from the rack, lose one's appetite and one's hope in life, but the cleaning of the Lott premises must go on just the same.

Mrs. Lott was inexorable. She had lost her chief interest in life when her husband died and thus escaped her unreasonable rule. Perhaps Cora's lot was all the harder because her father had not lived for, as she was the one thing left for her mother to boss, she received a double share. The girl literally dare not call her soul her own. She ate what her mother ordered, wore what she selected, came and went as at a despot's beck and call. But nothing in Cora's line was as hard to bear as the orgy of spring house-cleaning.

Even at thirty-two one is still young enough to feel the youthful call and stir of April, to get a touch of spring fever, to long to be out in the yard watching things grow or off on the hills seeking for arbutus and blood root. There is nohing like a country April when the weather is fine. And the weather was fine this morning. Poor Cora, under the musty eaves, could look through the small window at the gently greening treetops and hear the joyous outpourings of a bluebird.

"Four days for the attic," she thought dully—"it takes so long to handle over all this old rubbish—a week for the bedrooms, another week, maybe more, for downstairs, a week for the cellar and the woodhouse—four weeks at least of this wonderful time wasted. Yes, wasted. If I do get a chance to sit down for a minute on the porch I'm too tired to notice anything. Oh, I wish that mother and I had a small house—just a few rooms and nothing in them that we didn't use."

There was such a house within her range of vision. It was a pretty little gray house facing another street. Its back yard adjoined the Lott premises and a man was working there now spading his garden. He was a slender, dark man, full of vigor, as one could see by the way he used the spade. He whistled as he worked.

Cora had known Elmer Kane all her life, but she was not allowed to speak to him because her mother and his had had trouble. Elmer's mother had died a few months before, but Elmer lived on in his house, cooking some of his meals, getting some at the restaurant and letting old Mrs. Apply do the weekly cleaning.

"What are you mooning out of that window for?" demanded Mrs. Lott.

And Cora turned, blushing guiltily. Mrs. Lott eyed her daughter angrily. She was a sharp-eyed, sharp-nosed, sharp-tongued old woman. Cora was slender and dark and sallow with pretty, gentle ways.

Cora plunged her head in under the eaves and dragged forth an old box full of rubbish, worthless stuff which Mrs. Lott yet considered too good to burn or carry out to the woodhouse and which in consequence must be handled every spring.

Perhaps something of the futility or burden of her huge task impressed Mrs. Lott with new meaning, for she groaned aloud and sat down heavily on a rickety chair. The chair crushed under her and she came to the floor with a thump. Cora ran to her and tried to help her to rise. Mrs. Lott was stockily built and of good size and Cora's slender arms could not lift her, especially as she was a dead weight.

"I feel sick, Cora," she said. "Maybe I'm going to have a shock or something. Wouldn't it be awful if I should have to die up here in this attic and it not cleaned?"

Cora was frightened and pale. There was no telephone in the house and only women in the houses round about. But there was Elmer Kane. She ran to the window and thrusting out her head called for help. Elmer heard her and looked up. He dropped his spade, cleared the fence with a bound and came running to the house. Cora heard his feet on the stairs. "Help's coming, mother," she encouraged. "Help's coming."

Ordinarily Mrs. Lott could not have borne the sight of her enemy's son in her house, but she was now too sick to care. Cora and Elmer carried her down to her bedroom and Elmer summoned the doctor.

The doctor was grave and reserved. He ordered a nurse and told Mrs. Lott to make up her mind to stay in bed for a while.

"But my housecleaning," she groaned. "It's the second Monday in April, Doctor, I've begun housecleaning every year for thirty years on the second Monday in April and never stopped till it was finished."

"There'll be no housecleaning for you this year," said the doctor, brusquely. "Your house doesn't need cleaning. It is called the cleanest house house in town."

Elmer came over that evening to inquire about Mrs. Lott. The nurse was in charge upstairs and he sat on the side veranda with Cora, sometimes watching her sad, sweet face, sometimes watching the silvery trickle of the April shower.

"Do you know," she said, piteously, "mother's getting worse instead of better? The doctor says her heart has been bad for a long time and that she would never have got through the spring housecleaning."

"Poor girl," murmured Elmer, "it's very hard for you." He reached out and grasped Cora's hand. It clung to his willingly, and they sat silent, troubled, yet not without hope.

Cora tried to ask her mother if she cared if she married Elmer, but Mrs. Lott had ceased to care about such things. Even the fact that her house must forego its annual cleaning had ceased to interest her.

A week after her death Cora and Elmer were quietly married at the parsonage and Cora went over to live in Elmer's house.

It was a beautiful April evening and the daffodils were golden and green. Elmer picked a handful and gave them to his bride. Then they sat down on the green bench under the apple tree and Elmer put his arms about Cora. "Don't look so sad, dearest," he said.

Cora tried to smile, but she was thinking of the long years during which her mother had lost the best part of the spring in housecleaning. Poor mother. As for the thirty-two springs she had made Cora miss—Why, this one would make up for them all!

A Wife or a Profession?

BY CAROLYN BEECHER

(Copyright, 1922, by Carolyn Beecher)

Chapter I.

If it is true that constant dropping will wear away a stone, so also is it true that the constant and reiterated suggestion to another's mind will in the end find lodgment. Especially is this so when one loves the one who proffers the suggestion.

Annette could not imagine that a married woman should not care for her husband. When she ceased to care, it was the end. One late afternoon as she and Howard drove in from the country she had consented to accompany him on a call he wished to make. A boy had been injured by a motor car and he had performed a delicate operation. As a result the boy had recivered and had been sent home. But Howard wished to know if he was receiving the proper care and so planned to visit him uncalled.

On the way back Annette watched the sinking sun. It set in a cloudless sky and left no glint of gold or color on the edges of the light clouds. A pale gray twilight swept by a cold wind, settled down over the country.

"That is the way my life would be—cold and gray and without color—if you failed me," she said to Howard as she called his attention to the drabness of the closing day.

"But I shan't fail you, dear," he said, and then was lost again in thought.

The light grew dim. Annette shuddered. She saw only gloom, chillness and ugliness. Why had she come on this ride? She seemed to be wrapped in the twilight's gray light. It was the hour of weariness, of depression, for her as for all nature.

"I'm cold, Howard. Drive faster!" He had taken the runabout, as he always did for any professional calls. "If you had been sensible and used the limousine I should have been more comfortable."

Howard made no answer, except to accede to her request to drive faster.

"Do talk to me! What in the world are you thinking of? You have scarcely spoken since we started."

"I was thinking of that lad."

"I know it. Don't you see that I am right in insisting that you should not make these calls? You forget me, forget that I am your wife and you have a duty toward me, because your mind is on those others—like that boy."

Suddenly, almost before she had stopped speaking, a shape loomed dim before them. Then a quick setting of brakes as Howard saw the man in the road. But too late! The car had hit him.

Both jumped from the car, and as Howard turned the lights on him they saw him huddled at the side of the road where he had been thrown.

Annette stood silent and looked at the human wretchedness before her—the red, swollen hands, the emaciated form, and the body that still shook with terror.

"Are you hurt?" Howard bent over him.

A shudder passed over the man's body. He raised his eyes with a glance of longing. He was practically uninjured, yet he so nearly had reached the eternal peace of the grave.

"Naw, I ain't hurt—much. But why didn't you finish the job while you was at it?"

"So you want to die. Well, my poor fellow, we can't set our own time. Come! If you are not hurt you can ride on the fender. Where do you live"

"Anywhere it happens." The answer was surly, but the man was struggling to his feet.

"Get back in the car, Annette."

For the first time the poor wretch noticed her. With a sneer, he said:

"She ain't tickled to death to have you help me. I don't know as I blame her much, but the milk of human kindness is supposed to lie in the breasts of women. It's a lie! I tell you it's a lie. All they think of is themselves, their pleasures!"

Howard silenced him by starting the car, while Annette cowered in her seat, her thoughts busy. Why had she consented to come with Howard? Why had she let him come? It served her right to have this disagreeable incident happen.

Howard drove directly home. After Annette had left the car he said:

"And now, my man, where shall I take you?"

"One place's as good as another. To hell if you like!"

"Let him go, Howard! You aren't safe with such a creature," Annette who had waited to hear, said.

"He's safe enough, but I wouldn't answer for you in spite of your pretty face, Bah!" And he spat toward her.

"None of that!" Howard turned fiercely on him.

"Ah—ah—in love with her, ain't you?" Well, she'll do for you, make you of no account—like a woman did me. Remember what I say! I see it in her face."

"Take this and find a bed and supper." Howard pressed a bill into the man's hand, then turned to Annette. "He isn't all there, poor fellow." But the incident left an uncomfortable impression on them both.

$990 Judgment for Injury to Youth

For injuries to his son a jury in the 78th district court Thursday afternoon gave G. J. Jeffreys a judgment for $990 against Maurice Rosenblum. The case of the son, W. J. Jeffreys, who is asking for $6,000 damages will go trial this morning before Judge E. W. Napier in the same court.

The two cases are based on injuries sustained by the son while he was employed on an oil lease belonging to the defendant in the Burkburnett field in 1919. According to testimony introduced at the trial Thursday the son was caught in the cogs of a pump and was severally injured. The damages asked by the father were based on the loss of the son's services and expenditures made for treatment. The defendant was protected by compensation insurance.

BLACKS HELD ON BOND

Eugene and Lucille Brockman, negroes, were held under $1,000 bond each Thursday by United States Commissioner Lantz after they had waived preliminary hearings on charges of having violated the federal narcotic laws. The pair, who claim to be husband and wife, were arrested Tuesday by Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officer Tyler and Constable Frank Morgan at their home on Park street.

The officers secured 125 grains of morphine and cocaine in the house in which the two lived, they assert.

Weak Sisters Find Good Teams Easy---Spuds Lose

BAD LUCK JIM TAKES FIRST ONE HERE

Giants Hit Pill at Will And Local Muff Few

"Bad News" Jim Galloway brought his run-thirsty Giants to town for the opener yesterday and when they did battle with Walter Salm's Spudders, the clearing smoke left a wake of 10 runs to the credit of the visitors, while the lone counter, accumulated by the trusty war club of Tex McDonald, who doubled to right field after Adams had walked, saved the local ball tossers from a shut-out on the opening day.

Three hits were the total collection turned in by the local crew, one to the masterful mound work of "Lefty" Swartz, port-wheeler deluxe. He had everything today, and though he turned only one Spudder back from the pan, many of the outs were from pop flies, three of which were taken on foul territory.

Giants Hit Ball.

Miscues by Adams and Tanner were responsible for the first three runs in the fourth, but these three counters did not lose the ball game. The Giants hit the ball at will during the terms of duty of Darrough and Ruth. Knadler, who relieved Darrough in the fourth, stopped the slugging of the visitors until he gave way to Bischoff, a pinch hitter.

There were flashing bits of fielding, and two double killings were turned in, one by the locals, McDonald to Beck, the other Segrist to Galloway.

Beck Gets First Put-Out

The first inning started with Spencer grounding out to Beck. Summa looked too long into the sun on Allen's high drive to right and let it get away from him, Allen taking second on the play. Donohue attempted to duplicate Allen's feat, but Summa played the drive and held the runner on second. Galloway grounded out to Beck.

In the last half, "Lefty" Swartz had everything and the first two hitters, Adams and Summa went out on pop fouls. Donohue speared McDonald's long drive to right.

Segrist Hit No. 1

Segrist, first up in the second, beat out an infield hit when nobody covered the bag as Beck fielded the ball. Falk was out on a high foul which Adams took back of third. Stow drove a fast single down third base line, and fast fielding by Miller held Segrist at second. McDonald made a beautiful stop off Shangling's bat, forced Segrist at third and doubled the hitter at first with a perfect throw.

Miller's drive hopped straight to Stow for an easy out to first, and Falk threw Beck out at the same station. O'Brien got first blood for the Spudders with his smash to right, advanced to second when Tanner looked over four wide ones, but both were left stranded when Kitchens popped up to Stow.

Giants Score Twice

The Giants started the fireworks in the third. Swartz was out on a fly ball to McDonald, but Spencer beat out an infield hit and crossed the rubber with the first run of the season in Athletic Park when Allen doubled to deep center field. Donohue flew out to O'Brien, but "Bad News" Jim Galloway singled to right and Allen counted. Adams threw Segrist out at first.

Dorrough, first up in the Spudders' half flew out to center. Adams walked, but was caught stealing on a nice throw from Shangling. Summa flew out to Donohue.

Visitors Count Again

The Giants took on three more counters in the fourth. Adams gave life to Falk when he fumbled his hot grounder. Stow was an easy out to Summa, but Tanner booted Shangling's grounder, which looked like an easy double, and all hands were safe. Swartz was safe on an infield hit, which filled up the bags. Three markers came home when Spencer got his second hit of the afternoon, a terrific drive to the right field corner, which went for three bases. This finished "Rabbit's mound duty and Knadler went to the hill. He was out a moment later when Tanner threw him out at home as he attempted to score on Allen's drive. Donohue walked, advancing Allen to second, but Galloway ended the inning, Tanner to Beck.

The Spudders seemed unable to locate the shoots of the port sider, and the few solid knocks were driven straight into some waiting mitt. McDonald flew to left with a drive which Spencer took without moving from his tracks. Shangling took Miller's high foul and Beck flew out to center.

Knadler Stops Them

Knadler seemed to have lots of stuff and made short work of the charging Giants in the fifth. Segrist went out on a line drive to Beck. Tanner threw Falk out at first and Adams turned Stow back with a nice stop and throw.

Swartz seemed to be getting better as he went along. Galloway took O'Brien's short fly to right. Tanner was out Stow to Galloway and Kitchens hit a long fly to Donohue.

Adams threw Shangling out, the second time during the game. Swartz grounded out to Beck and Spencer was out when Beck made a nice play of his high foul.

Spudders Get One.

The lone tally accumulated by the homelings came in the sixth. Bischoff batted for Knadler, but was out, Segrist to Galloway. Adams took the count of four, went to second on Summa's infield out. Swartz to Galloway. It was a hard drive which rebounded several feet off the pitcher's right shin and only fast fielding stopped the hitter. Tex McDonald came through with his donation to the cause when he doubled to center and Adams left cleat marks on the counting station. Miller ended the inning when Stow threw him out at first.

Ruth's Bad Inning.

The seventh was an awful rout for Ruth who replaced Knadler. Allen, the first bitter whiffed the atmosphere. Donohue's infield tap started things, for Ruth plunked the Giant skipper in the back with a fast one. Galloway was forced at second, but Donohue never slowed up and counted from second on the play. Falk singled to right and Segrist was held at second. Segrist made a clean steal of the third cushion and Falk advanced as well. Stow walked and the bases were full. Shangling drove one to left on which Segrist and Falk came in, the catcher following a moment later when the Giant hurler stepped into one for two cushions. Spencer was counted out at the plate when he looked the third strike over.

Rally Falls Short.

A short lively rally opened the Spudders' half. Beck, first up, got a blow in the right garden. Swartz walked O'Brien, but a fast double play, Segrist to Galloway followed. The Giant third sacker made a nice stop of Tanner's drive, and his throw was perfect. Kitchens ended the inning with a fly to Allen which he took with one hand at this sh... tops. He drew a good hand on the play.

Beck made a nice stop of Allen's grounder and Ruth made a nice play at the initial corner for the first out in the eighth. Donohue got his second hit, but failed to advance when Galloway flew to Summa and McDonald took Segrist's pop fly.

Swartz Going Strong

The Spudders went out in short order in their half. Ruth popped up to Segrist. Adams flew to left and Swartz threw Summa out at first.

"Buddy" Tanner got his only putouts of the game in the ninth when Falk and Stow both hit flies. He raced far into right field for the first one and made a sensational catch. Kitchens camped under Shangling's high foul for the last out.

McDonald was out, Swartz to Galloway. Segrist juggled Miller's drive and the left fielder was safe. Beck flew out to right and Swartz climaxed his performance by striking out O'Brien for the final out of the game and his only victim during the entire nine frames.

Swartz was master of the situation at all times and therein lies the story of the game. The Giants seemed able to hit any kind of pitching and their 12 blows, three of which were for extra bags showed them to be a stronger club than many have predicted.

President Harvey wired final terms yesterday afternoon on the proposition which has been under consideration for several days.

It will probably be known some time today whether or not the American association youngster will come here.

INDIANS TAKE SECOND IN ROW

Speaker, in Spotlight, Brings Home Old Bacon

CLEVELAND, April 13.—Cleveland made it two straight over the Tigers here today, winning 8 to 3. Emhke had two bad innings. Uhle started to pitch for Cleveland, but was forced to retire at the end of the second inning as a result of being hit on his throwing arm with a ball thrown by Emmke in an attempt to catch Uhle off second. Shoe-string catches that ended in somersaults by Flagstead, Speaker and Jamieson were features.

Paul Sentell Introduces Himself To Majors by Chasing 14 Players Breaking Singing Lords Record

Special to the Record News.

CINCINNATI, April 13.—Paul Sentell, fiery Frenchman, who graduated only this year to the ranks of National league umpires, today won for himself the oppellation of the "Texas Tornado" when he ordered 14 recalcitrant Chicago reserve players from the bench. The action came as a result of a protested decision in the first inning.

Sentell in his second day of National league umpiring established a major league record for number of players banished from the field o. a single game. "Singing Lord" Byron, so-named on account of the twang of his grunts which designate strikes, balls, out and safes was titled-holder until today. Byron's feat was placed on record in 1917 in a game between the Boston and New York clubs of the National league, when he chased 11 Braves to the showers.

Favorite in Texas

A reputation for being an arbiter who runs the game according to the dictates of his own conscience has preceeded Sentell to the Majors.

He was dean of Texas League umpires previous to signing a National loop contract and as shortstop and pilot on the Galveston "Pirates" showed himself to be a capable leader and fighter of men. Paul's famous battles in the Lone Star circuit included one with Al Nixon, then with Beaumont and now with the Boston Braves, a battle royal with Pat Newman when that notable was directing the destinies of the Houston Buffaloes and a run-in with Johnny Frierson when the latter wore the regalia of the Fort Worth Panthers.

In the years gone by when the aggressive decision-caller played with the "Phillies" in the National league he was given credit for being one of the best rough and tumbler fighters in the league, regardless of weight.

He Walloped John

Incidentally he is the only man, so far as is shown by the records who ever soundly threshed John J. McGraw, leader of the New York Giants. However, as numerous Texas league fans recall and as probably even the boss of the Giants hasn't forgotten himself, the venerable Pat Newman, who shook a wicked pair of fists himself, once laid the "Little Napoleon" low with a single to the right jaw.

But the palm goes to Sentell as the "fightenest" baseball player and the "ball-playingest" fighter that ever held a Texas league contract.

NEW YORK, April 13.—New York reversed yesterday's score, beating Brooklyn 4 to 3. Douglas kept the Brooklyn hits well scattered. The Giants won the game in the second inning, largely on Vance's wildness. Meusel hit his second home run of the season in this inning, but no one was on base. He also hit two singles.

EWOLDT HURT IN GAME AT FT. WORTH

He Will Be Out for Weeks With Bad Right Leg

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 13.—Third Baseman Ewoldt of the Shreveport Gassers, was injured during the Fort Worth-Shreveport game here this afternoon, when in making a quick start, he snapped a bone in his right foot. Ewoldt will be out of the game for several weeks. During an exhibition game between the St. Louis National and Shreveport last month, the Gasser captain was hit on the foot by a line drive off the bat of Milton Stock of the Cards. The injury at the time was pronounced only slight, but today, Ewoldt broke the bone in the foot.

CHEERO SPUDS! MIGHT'A BE WORSE

Every Gloomy Cloud Wears Bright With Season

Cheer up folks. It might a been worse. However, that old game would have had to go into extra innings to have been much worse.

But think of this. If there is anything in that old saying that a bad beginning makes a good ending, these old Spuds of our'n and Walter's clinched themselves a rag on the very first day. Reversing the English on said saying, Skipper Jim Galloway and the Giants are through for keeps.

One high-brow box-holder was heard to remark that Lefty Swartz who officiated on the mound for the visitors was "parsimonious." Whatever that is, it's just what he musta been for therein lies the whole story of the Giants' 10 to 1 win over Salt and company.

It was a good game in some respects as long as it lasted and gawsh knows it lasted long enough. Mayor Collier started it off well enough by pitching the first ball and ball is what it was for the pellet was wide of the plate. With the crowd yelling "take him out," Frank showed that his warming-up hadn't been wasted by shooting one to Kitch that would go for a strike in anybody's league. Spencer hit it out to Tex.

From then on it was a hit and run game, with Dallas doing most of the hitting and the home club's gardeners doing the greater part of the running.

"Pitching—aye that's the rub in Spulderville," quoth Bill Ruggles recently. But pitching wasn't the whole trouble yesterday—it is likely that Darrough might have gotten by well enough if he had had jam up support in the field in the beginning. After his support let a few slip through, however, they began to hit Rabbit to all corners.

The Spuds showed flashes that foreteils a form which will gladden the hearts of local fans when they get down to earth, however. Watch them today. They are not nearly as bad as they looked yesterday—the dropping of the opener by a log-sided score was merely a case of Dame History repeating herself.

SOME FAMOUS FIRSTS.

First putout, Beck.
First error, Summa (he won't make many.)
First foul, Jim Galloway (to left.)
First base hit, Segrist.
First double killing, Tex McDonald and Fred Beck.
First Spudder hit, O'Brien.
First stolen base, O'Brien.
First walk, Tanner.
First two-base hit, Allen.
First score, Spencer.
First caught stealing, Adams.
First Spudder score, Adams.
First Spudder two-base hit, McDonald.
First strikeout, Allen by Ruth.
First hit batsman, Galloway by Ruth.

It is probably a good thing that the Spuds got it all out of their system. They were pretty cocky after mistreating a succession of clubs of higher rating during the exhibition series. This will probably convince them that they haven't the world by the tail, and that they will have to get together and hustle to be up there.

Shipper Salm might scrape up a living as a prophet if he ever forsook baseball. "They say Dallas hasn't much of a team, but they look all right out there," a scribe remarked to him as Dallas was taking their final workout. "Look out for these sisters what tell you they are weak," Walter remarked.

Beck is an awful fellow with the stick, but is no shakes as a fielder, divers sport scribes have been informing the public. How about it, you that were out there yesterday? Remember his spectacular handling of Galloway's drive in the first?

"Peppery Paul" is what they called Umps Sentell down there. "Texas Tornado" has been suggested by one sport scribe as his probable cognomen in the National league. Paul had a hand in sending 14 Cubs to the showers in yesterday's game, establishing a new record. The boys were probably trying the recruit umpire out.

Danny Gross started with Houston as a regular yesterday. He played short. He kicked three. He got a two-base knock. He won't kick them every day.

Johnny Mokan, ex-Spud, continues to hit 'em out for Barney Dreffuss, George Gibson & Co. And he is about the only one who has done any great shakes of hitting for them so far.

Who invited the aeroplane? Neither players nor fans were interested in its appearance during a ball game. Moreover it seems that the aviators could find some other place to work out than above a gathering of some 4,500 people.

Adams' work, coming right after a hard ride on the train, convinced many fans that short will be well taken care of this year. Adams got in early Thursday morning.

Tex looked pretty good both in the field and at the platter. True, he only hit safely once, but that accounted for the Spuds lone marker. He hit 'em on the nose the rest of the time.

"It's a pity that bird can't hit," remarked a wise one as Bobby Stowfoed the plate for the first time. His drive speeded past Tex just inside the third sack.

Adams kept the birds in the press coop dodging during one of his terms. He sent two solid baskward shots in their direction in a single term at bat.

"Walter must have a handsome bank account—he doesn't seem to mind the prospect of having it clipped some," someone said, while Walter was giving one of the umpires an ear full of information with respect to one of the angles of the game. "Probably a fine would effect little change in Walter's feelings just at this time," guessed a companion.

Some debut in the majors for a recruit—that accorded Danny Clark. Sent in as a pinch hitter his first time out, Danny failed to connect, but so did Ty Cobb, and he can possibly be excused.

Danny tried it again yesterday, and did not hit again. Ty must believe in him however. Topper Rigney only kicked out yesterday. Maybe he will be the old Topper pretty soon.

VOLLEY BALL CLASH

The fourth period volley ball sharks made the fifth perioders again yesterday afternoon in two close series. This makes two sets that each sextette has copped and the final set will be played next week. A team was chosen from the boys to represent the High school at 2 p. m. tomorrow against an Iowa Park aggregation.

The following players will be at Iowa Park today and share in the game: Armstrong, Somerville, Blakney, Bartleff, Callahan, Ross, Ellis, Fleming and Carter.

HOPEFULS TO BURK

Coach McMillan's baseball hopefuls will invade the Burkburnett High School's lot this afternoon to try and repeat a defeat on the oil city boys. His lads are in the very best of shape and have been playing fast ball all this season and lost only one close contest to the Senior High nine a couple of weeks ago.

The following boys will accompany the coach to Burkburnett today: Lyle, Carrington, Woodson, Perry, Martin, Pearson, Walker, Glidwell and Damron.

HIGH TEAM TO IOWA

The high school nine leaves for Iowa Park today to meet the team that Graham Hi will put on the field at 1 o'clock. The boys have been working steadily and are ready to meet the Grahamites, in spite of the loss of Kinziar, captain and shortstop of the Red and Black nine.

The high nine will probably play with the following lineup: Kenley at first, Bashara and Neal will be given second sack and shortstop, and be shifted, Roberts at the hot corner, Baldwin, Haney, Clark, and Hembrie will take care of the outer gardens, while Ross will do the receiving from Bourland or Harris.

Black Man May Meet Jack Abroad

We hear the chatter that Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills, negro challenger, may clash in a London ring this coming summer. Dempsey's coming trip across the pond and the general opposition to a match between the white champ and colored aspirant in the U. S., are the main grounds for this rumor, probably.

The idea is mere talk of course but it brings to mind the fact that England never has had a colored fighter of prominence and has had few mixed battles.

The last white-negro boxing bout planned in London was to have been between Jack Johnson and Bombardier Wells. Johnson had just won the world's heavyweight crown by beating Jim Jeffries. Wells was at the height of his fame then. His weakness hadn't come to light. A bout between Wells and "Little Arthur" looked good. But the opposition that finally developed caused promoters to halt plans for the battle.

THEN HE BOUGHT THE CAR

Mr. Quizzer—But, my dear, if I buy a car I won't have enough money left to pay for my life insurance.

His Wife—But if you don't get the car you'll not be so likely to need the life insurance right away, so you can spare the money for the car.

On his last trip in, the mail carrier traveled so fast, he stripped the gear on one of the wheels of his watch.

Judges and lawyers deserve credit for persistence. They keep on trying.

Seems an unwritten law of the banquet-speaker fraternity that something or other must always "afford me great pleasure."

STOCK SHARES PASS MILLION

Good Friday Recess Prompts Sales

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Business on the stock exchange today passed the million share line for the tenth consecutive full session, but failed to reach the more impressive dimensions of recent days.

Tomorrow's recess (Good Friday) prompted additional selling to insure profits. This tendency was most manifest in the more representative steels, steel, motors and foreign oils, the latter giving evidence of renewed liquidation.

Domestic oils, notably the Standard Oil of New Jersey of California, were among the strongest issues, with Sinclair, Cosden, Pacific Associated and Tidewater, extreme advances in this division ranged from 10 to 28.

Report of thousands of acres of wheat drowned out by floods in middlewest were given a good deal of attention among traders and as a bullish factor were supplemented by continued unfavorable crop advices from some sections of the southwest, especially the western third of Kansas. Higher quotations at Liverpool counted also as a stimulus to buyers.

Action of corn market and the oats market showed sympathy with the wheat advance. Cash demand, however, for the feed grains proved slow.

Downturns in the value of hogs and a depressing effect on provision values.

BOND MART SLACKENS

NEW YORK, April 13.—Influenced by the more moderate tone of the stock list today's bond market showed a slight slackening of the previous sessions extra-ordinary activity and breadth, but the trend in most divisions was towards still higher levels.

In this particular foreign issues led, the strength of French exchange accelerating the rise of French governments, municipal and rails, including the recently listed Paris-Lyons-Mediterran railway and department of Seine 7s.

Mexican government 4s and both of the 5s denoted further accumulation, also the Dutch East Indies, Chinese, Japanese and South American groups.

Liberty bonds halted in their recent sensational rise, although most of the series closed at gains. Many domestic rails added a point to recent gains and others were better by substantial fractions. Total sales (par value) were $28,347,000.

PRICE OF WHEAT GOES FORWARD

Market Closes Three Cents Higher

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 13.—Big export business helped bring about a sharp advance today in the price of wheat. The market closed strong, 2 3-4 cents 3 1-2 cents net higher, with May 1.33 3-4 to 1.34 and July 1.23 to 1.23 3-8. Corn gains about 7-8 cents and oats 1-2 cent.

In provisions the outcome was unchanged to 10 cents lower.

European purchases of wheat today were estimated at 1,500,000 bushels including 1,000,000 bushels of new wheat. The fact that tomorrow would be a holiday, with all grain exchanges foreign and domestic, remaining closed, was a further influence toward an upturn in the market inasmuch as many speculators who had been on the selling side were apparently unwilling to take the risk of possible surprise developments before Monday with only a brief time on Saturday for any needed protection obtainable through buying.

Gains of 1 to 2 points accompanied the buying of Pacific's, Grangers, coalers and trunk lines, but the common and preferred issue in Gulf, Mobile and Northern led that entire division with extreme gains of 4 and 6 points.

Tobacco and food specialties, also Textiles and Leathers notably tobacco products, Loose Wiles, Jewel Tea, American Woolen, American Hide and the secondary automobile issues, particularly Pierce-Arrow common and pfd made substantial contributions to the market's constructive side. Sales amounted to 1,283,342.

Again eliminating the strike, which threatened to become a factor of great importance, the day's general news was distinctly encouraging. Before the opening of the market, cables announced the cut in the Bank of England discount to the lowest level since July, 1916.

Call loans opened at 4 per cent, that figure applying to renewals into next week. In private negotiations however, demand money was obtainable at 3 3-4 and even 3 1-2 per cent on approved collateral.

Contrary to expectation, foreign exchanges were not perceptibly responsible to lower British bank rate. Sterling eased a fraction from yesterday's high quotation and few of the continental remittances showed more than nominal changes from the previous day.

COTTON SELLS ON DRY WEATHER

Market 2 to 4 Points Higher at Close

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 13.—Trading was restricted in the cotton market today by the triple Easter Holiday which starts tomorrow. Fluctuations were unusually narrow. The market at its best being 2 to 4 points higher than yesterday's close and at its lowest 3 to 4 points under yesterday's close. May sold up to 16.68 after trading down to 16.62 in the early session. On the close, the May stood at 16.64 with the list at net losses of 1 to 2 points.

The dry weather may caused selling. The reduction to 4 per cent in the Bank of England rate caused much favorable comment but no buying to mention. The market remained steady on the large export movement, total foreign clearance from the country for the day amounting to 46,621 bales against only 6,867 this day last year. In the late trading the market had a distinct holiday feeling.

"It'll be safe to get this spit wet," the manufacturers told Miss Phyllis May. It's the new 1922 model for California beaches. This year's beach apparel will combine practically with appearance and it won't mean ruin if the suits should happen to get wet. Last season many suits were designed for beach wear only.

CATTLE PRICE TO GO HIGHER

Scarcity of Beef to Help Market

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 13.—The livestock industry has set the pace for agricultural readjustment and indications are that "it will continue to exert a dominant influence in the return of business to normal conditions," according to a quarterly report issued today by S. B. Stafford, president of the livestock exchange.

"Hog values are on a sound basis," says the report, "and continued light supplies may be expected.

"High sheep market all summer may be expected on account of meager supplies. The shortage is general throughout the country."

Better Cattle Prices.

"Cattle should sell at higher values. We are verge of scarcity of beef producing animals that would have become acute before now had not the depression caused an increase in marketing at the same time it curtailed consumptive demand. The approach of warm weather improves the outlet for beef. The only liberal supply of cattle now apparent will come from Kansas and Oklahoma pastures. Texas and the range country are far short of their normal quota. Aged western cattle no longer exist. Distillers fed steers will be missed for the first time this year. The east has been emptied of cattle by local slaughter houses during the period of high freight bills on shipped in supplies

Cows Double.

"The faith of the producers in the future of the livestock industry is shown by their active demand for breeding animals. Good cows have doubled in value since last year and now are bringing $.0 to $60 a head in the west.

"The lower grades of cattle have moved up sharply in response to an active demand for feeder cattle. Hog and sheep men have profited substantially by the upturn in values. Margins of $2 to $3 between buying and selling figures on feeding steers have netted the farmer more for his corn than he could have obtained from the elevator.

"The situation is full of promise for a profitable future. Every indication points to an increasingly profitable livestock industry and with it is bound to come a gradual improvement in general trade conditions."

DRILLING DELAY VERY EXPENSIVE

First Driller Gets Neighbor's Oil

Special to the Record News.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Delay in drilling into an oil structure or sands after they have been opened up may cause leases of from 5 to 50 per cent in the ultimate amount of oil produced from the well, according to a statement issued by the United States Bureau of Mines.

Oil is an underground nomad. It moves through the deep sand layers, propelled by the gas pressure behind it, ever searching for the opening through which it may spout or be pumped to the surface. The first wells penetrating the sand operate under high pressure, while those drilled after the gas pressure has been reduced almost without exception come in for a much smaller initial production.

In fields where small tracts form a "checker-board" drilling in any one tract forces the owner of the adjoining tract to begin an immediate drilling program. If he delays drilling, he will see oil which might have been his coming from his neighbor's well and the longer he delays drilling his offset well, the less oil will his well yield. It is only when a structure has not been "tapped" and has no faults along the edges through which the oil may seep that it is possible to conserve oil underground.

One of the "game laws" of the oil fields corresponds to an English law regarding deer which provided that, no matter how many differently-owned pieces of land the deer crossed in its flight, it was the property of the owner of the land on which it was killed. Regardless of the number of tracts under which the oil may pass in a structure, it belongs to the owner of the well through which it leaves the ground.

The men in the oil fields know this and knew also that the early driller gets the most oil. If an owner of a tract neglects to drill and thereby loses the oil which passes under his land to another well, he must accept his loss without complaint. It is an axiom of the oil fields that, if a man wants oil, he must drill.

COLLEGE STATION, April 11. Addition of a suitable designation for goat meat is to be added to the nomenclature of livestock products by a committee of Texans.

Dr. R. Youngblood, director of the Texas agricultural experiment station, A. & M. college, has accepted the appointment on a committe to decide the most appropriate name to designate the meat of the goat. The Sheep and Goat Raisers' association of Texas is conducting a contest in which a prize of high-class Angora buck is being offered by B. M. Halbert, breeder of Angoras at Sonora, Texas, to the person suggesting a name for goat meat which will be accepted by the committee as the most appropriate.

DR. MARTIN'S WIFE IS KILLED

Evangelist Gets Sad Message Here

Fatally injured in an automobile accident in Seattle Thursday afternoon, Mrs. S. M. Martin, wife of the evangelist conducting the revival at the First Christian church, died at 9 o'clock Thursday night.

Dr. Martin received word of his wife's serious injury and probable death, preached a sermon at the evening service, at the conclusion of which he announced to the congregation his wife's injury, and of his intended departure on the first train. When he returned to the William-Mary hotel, where he stayed here, he found the death message.

Dr. Martin left on an early morning northbound train for Seattle.

The revival, which was scheduled to run for a week or ten days longer, will come to a close.

SCHENCK WILL CONDUCT PROBE

He'll Be Present at Session Monday

When the special grand jury in the 78th district court reconvenes Monday, District Attorney W. F. Schenck, who since his appointment has not attended a grand jury session, will be in attendance, it became known here Thursday. Although no criminal cases are set here next week, County Attorney Fulton and Assistant District Attorney Sam Holliday, who were barred from the grand jury sessions before the adjournment was taken until Monday, will not attend the grand jury unless called for, it also became known.

Rumors that the district attorney's visit here Wednesday and Thursday was in connection with the supposed differences arising between Judge E. W. Napier, who called the special grand jury, and Fulton and Holliday, representing the district attorney's office, were not verified by Mr. Schenck.

Asked concerning his attitude, he said that he had no statement to make in the matter at this time, but added that he would return Monday to attend the session on that day. He expressed regret that the trial of criminal cases at Archer City next week would prevent his further attendance.

Wichita Youth Builds Sure-Enough Monoplane of Baby-Size but With Honest-to-Goodness Air Abilities

Did you see the baby monoplane in the lobby of the Kempt Hotel last night?

Well, it was there anyway. Baby in size, but man caliber in possibilities.

William Lewis, 1614 Tenth street, local student of areonautics designed, constructed and placed it on exhibition.

Young Lewis was with his ship last night and answered a thousand questions such as these:

"What kind of a motor is that?"

"A Lawrence, aircooled, two-cylinder model, purchased from the government."

"What is the horse-power?"

"It developes 40 at 1500 revolutions."

"How big are the wings?"

"Twenty feet over all, and about three and a half feet wide."

The ship is rigidly built of plywood and is fireproof. All the construction took place at his home, where he designed and produced every piece of it except the motor, wheels and propeller.

Weighing only 450 pounds when empty, it is one of the smallest in the world. It will attain a speed of 92 miles per hour with a landing speed of 40 miles. An hours flying will not consume more than three or four gallons of gas and one quart of lubricating oil.

Actual construction of the ship consumed about eight weeks. All the instruments, including the throttle, gas gauges, etc., are hand-made, as well as designed by the young mechanic.

Those who are not permitted to view the work now, will see it during the Wichita Aerial tournament, which will be held here April 22 and 23, at Call Field.
