The "Fly Catechism."

After the close of the Spanish-American war and Cuba came under our direction and control we had an excellent opportunity to prove the modern scientific theories concerning the propagation and the infection of disease through the instrumentality of the mosquito. The proof was conclusive and all the world has profited thereby. Now we have discovered the dangerous character of the fly in communicating and spreading disease and fly exterminating campaigns are going on in all the world. The Indiana (Indiana) Board of Health has prepared a "Fly Catechism" to teach people the lesson of the danger of the fly. It is as follows:

1. Where is the fly born? In manure and filth.
2. Where does the fly live? In every kind of filth.
3. Is there anything to eat for the fly to eat? No.
4. (a) Where does he go while he leaves the vault and in manure pile and the spittoon into the kitchen and dining room. (b) What does he do there? He wades on the bread, fruit and vegetables; he wades his feet on the butter and sautes in the buttermilk.
5. Does the fly visit the patient sick with consumption, typhoid fever and cholera infantum? He does—and may eat on you next.
6. Is the fly dangerous? He is man's worst pest and more dangerous than wild beasts or rattlesnakes.
7. What disease does the fly carry? He carries typhoid fever, tuberculosis and summer complaint. How? On his wings and hairy feet. What is his correct name? Typhoid fly.
8. Did he ever kill anyone? He killed more American soldiers in the Spanish American war than the bullets of the Spaniards.
9. Where are the greatest number of cases of typhoid fever, consumption and summer complaint? Where there are the most flies.
10. Where are the most flies? Where there is the most filth.
11. Why should we kill the fly? Because he may kill us.
12. How shall we kill the fly? (a) Destroy all the filth about the house and yard; (b) pour lime into the vault and on the manure; (c) kill the fly with a wire screen paddle, or sticky paper, or kerosene oil.
13. Kill the fly in any way but KILL THE FLY.
14. If there is filth anywhere that you cannot remove call on the Board of Health, and ask for relief before you are stricken with disease and perhaps death.—From Farm and Ranch.

Open Letter

Mr. F. Holekamp,
Sec. Chamber of Commerce
Junction, Texas.

Dear Sir:—I would like to know how you are getting along with your Bond Issue? And how soon you expect to get started on the work to the Kerr county line, and would also like to know if you have had the matter of this highway up with Kerr county people. If so, with what result?

From some cause I have been unable to interest those Kerr county people in this proposed Highway, and if I do not get some satisfactory reply from them within the next two or three weeks I will go up there and spend a few days and try to get a Good Road Organization started, and get them to work.

There have been several San Antonio people who have gone through to Colorado in their automobiles, but on account of the rough roads some have gone by the way of Waco while a number of others have gone through by the way of Kerrville and Junction. We are expecting a party of automobiles to leave here about the first of August for Colorado, and if the roads are not too bad I am going to try to get them to go by Kerrville, Junction, Menard and San Angelo.

Please give me what information you can along this line, and if I can be of any assistance to you in any way, don't hesitate to let your man & be known.

Yours very truly,
D. E. Coys,
Sec. San Antonio Chamber of Commerce.

We have a complete stock of ammunition and solicit your trade. Come and see us.—Junction Hardware Co.

TEXAS STATE NEWS

Emory—G. R. Kerr, who was so badly wounded by V. E. Sims in the encounter here in which the latter was killed, is still living, though slight hopes for his recovery are entertained, for one shot penetrated the lungs, and he has suffered from a hemorrhage ever since. He also got one bullet in the left leg and another in his arm.

Texarkana—John Reneau, aged 7 years, was gored by a vicious cow the other afternoon while playing baseball in a lot. His injuries are not necessarily fatal.

Fort Worth—When Mrs. Weaver, 2105 Terry street, went out on her back porch late the other night she was attacked by a Mexican. He seized her, choked her, tried to stab her and ease her with a handkerchief. She struggled free and escaped without physical injury. Her dress was cut in several places.

Austin—The executive offices proclaimed a reward of $250 for the arrest and conviction of an unknown negro in connection with the killing of Robert Kniecht in Fort Worth July 1. The reward was offered at the request of the Fort Worth City Commission, which has named a similar sum for bringing the slayer to justice.

The governor also ordered the transfer from the penitentiary to Gatesville reformatory of Phillip Casey, who was given two years in Harris county on conviction of the charge of horse theft. Subsequent to conviction it was found he was under 16 years of age and the transfer to the juvenile institution is ordered accordingly.

Houston—Four thousand acres of land and the townsite of Penn City, located on Green's Bayou and Buffalo Bayou, has been sold by Judge John G. Tod to a steel corporation, headed by Edward F. Goltra of St. Louis.

The name of the townsite will be changed from Penn City to Steel City. The consideration for the 4000 acres is stated to have been $300,000. It is reported that a $10,000,000 corporation will soon begin the construction of a mammoth steel plant on the property.

Fort Worth—Mrs. L. A. Garlington was driving to Fort Worth the other morning, coming in from beyond Riverside. A few horse fly stung her horse and it ran away and she fell from the buggy. One of her lower limbs was broken and she was brought to the Medical College Hospital in the Robertson mansion ambulance. She was not otherwise seriously injured.

Laverna—Miss Emma Dickow, the daughter of C. W. Dickow, a prominent German farmer near here, fell from the top of a wagon load of hay and was instantly killed last Tuesday evening.

Wichita Falls—Ham and bacon from peach-fed hogs are among the delicacies which are promised here when hog time begins around as a result of the plentiful crop of peaches in this section. Many farmers whose peach trees are over-loaded are making no effort to pick the fruit, saying that it would be unprofitable to do so at the present market prices. The best price that can be secured for peaches is a dollar a bushel for the choicest grades, and out of this must be paid the expense of picking, hauling to town and marketing. Twenty-five cents will purchase a bushel of as fine peaches as ever tickled the palate of the most exacting, if one will but take the trouble to go out into the country to buy them.

Corpus Christi—The majority contest case which has been on trial in the district court here since July 11 came to an abrupt close when opposing sides rested without making arguments. Judge Hopkins announced he would take the case under consideration. A decision is not expected until next week. P. R. Sutherland is contesting for the seat of Mayor Clark Pease.

Eagle Pass—Capt. C. W. Hartup, Sieg, Rohleder, A. Anlin, Frances Thorne and Mike Wippt, who have been in the Carderario country, at the noted hot springs the past three weeks for their health, returned to Eagle Pass last night. They report seeing a few bands of roving rebels, but conditions very quiet in that section.

Taylor—During a light shower and thunderstorm on Tuesday three horses on the farm of C. G. Anderson farm were struck and killed by lightning. A barn of Henry Priesmier in the same locality was struck and burned, and, with its contents of forage and implements, was entirely consumed by fire. Mr. Priesmier's loss is about $2000, partially covered by insurance.

His alleged partner in the crime was tried at Edinburg, found guilty of murder and criminal assault and twice sentenced to hang. The case is now pending before the appellate court.

The prisoner was brought to Corpus Christi three weeks ago by Sheriff Ryan of Cameron county and placed in this jail for safekeeping. He is charged with a murder in Brownsville. Trevino was sent here by Sheriff Glesener of Hidalgo county to identify Gonzales.

Carlsbad—About the busiest place around Carlsbad just now is the orchard of the earliest variety of the way. The Tracy orchards are shipping from one to two cars daily to various markets. They are packing all their fruit after the California system, each peach being wrapped and all shipments made in refrigerated cars.

Galveston—As the result of a bitter political fight at Texas City for the office of constable, George Scott and D. Timberlake is held on a charge of murder. Scott and Timberlake were rival candidates. Following a political meeting the other night Scott received a pistol shot wound through the body. He was brought to Galveston and lingered until this morning at 2:40 o'clock.

Dallas—The refusal of Mrs. Georgia Meyer to elope with H. Cohen caused him to kill her and shoot himself, according to the story of Mrs. Meyer's mother-in-law.

Cohen's body was found in Mrs. Meyer's room. Cohen sat beside her with a bullet wound in the back of his head, which the police say was self-inflicted. Cohen was still alive this afternoon, but had made no statement except that he wished to die.

Horace Meyer, the dead woman's husband, said he did not know Cohen knew Mrs. Meyer. The mother-in-law, however, said her daughter-in-law had told her that about six months Cohen had been importing her to elope with him.

His wife is a stage employe here and he was about 25 years old and good looking.

Laredo—Teitaro Fujifawa, a wealthy Japanese, claiming to be the owner of a large hotel in Kansas City, according to his American wife, arrived here recently from the City of Mexico and was detained by the immigration authorities pending instructions from Washington, as he has no passport. Fujifawa is in the last stages of consumption and in a very weak condition, having gone to Mexico for his health and was carrying in a Pullman stateroom. He was taken to the hospital in Nuevo Laredo pending advice from Washington.

Galveston—S. T. (Toke) Hanson, cashier of the City National Bank and a well known business man, dropped dead while on the way to his bank from his home, 1718 Church street. Acute indigestion, combined with heart failure, is given as the cause. He survived by his widow and two children, father and mother, two brothers and three sisters, the last named of Clifton, Texas.

Dallas—It required little less than two hours the other morning in Judge Barry Miller's court to secure four convictions and sentences as many defendants to serve terms in the state penitentiary. In each case trials were had. No arguments were given. The cases and sentences are as follows: Jesus Flores, sodomy, jury verdict of guilty, punishment fixed at five years in the state penitentiary. Billie Gordon, DuPont Tompkins, burglary, jury verdict of guilty, punishment fixed at two years in the state penitentiary.

Pleasanton—Business men and citizens of Pleasanton in general are preparing to have a big time when the railroad makes its advent into the city. Among the many things that will be on hand in connection with the big barbecue is an exhibit of Atascosa county farm products. Already the farmers are bringing in much stuff to contest for prizes that will be offered for the best along these lines. Corn, peaches, tomatoes, plums, cantaloupes and other vegetables are being marketed at the real estate offices in the city and will be preserved for exhibit at the big festival that will later be arranged for the county at Pleasanton. It is also expected a fair association will be secured to furnish amusement for at least three days after the railroad is opened.

San Antonio parties have agreed to contribute to this undertaking and Vice-President Ponder of the San Antonio, Exotic & Gulf Railroad, says excursions will be arranged.

NO STOP MAIL FLIRTING

Postmaster General Issued Order Regarding Use of General Delivery Windows.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Approving individual action taken by postmasters of many large cities, Postmaster General Hitchcock has issued a general order which has the avowed purpose of checking the names and addresses of mail carriers carrying on filtration and clandestine correspondence. Any persons who wish mail at general delivery windows, instead of home addresses, may hereafter be required to give their reasons in writing.

Many complaints have been received by the Postoffice Department that service at general delivery windows was being improperly used by minors, particularly young girls, and by residents ordinarily served by mail carriers.

Under the postal regulations, postmasters may require all persons to furnish in writing their names and addresses and statements of their reasons for preferring to receive their mail at the general delivery. In addition, minors may be required to furnish the names of their parents, that they may be notified and have an opportunity to control the delivery of mail to their children.

Postmasters at offices not having city carrier service may notify the parents of minors in all instances and have written to him for help.

Father Dalton attracted attention a few months ago through a "school of matrimony" he established in connection with his church to encourage marriages among the young people of his parish.

"The only women who express a willingness to marry farmers are older women who find themselves alone in the world," Father Dalton said today. "But the farmers who are looking for wives are younger men and they do not marry such women."

"One man who wrote to me was three big farms, another was 650 acres and had a fine house. The farmer showed me that he had $75,000 in the bank. Can you tell me why it is that a woman will not give a preference to a man of this consideration, but will choose instead some struggling bank clerk in the city who lives from hand to mouth?"

MISSOURI NEGRO ON WAVE
Black Race Steadily Decreasing in That State Past 10 Years.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 20.—The report of Frank H. Hiller, state registrar and secretary of the state board of health, shows there were 6275 births in Missouri in February and 4062 deaths. The birthrate was nineteen to the thousand population, while the death rate was only 12.3 a thousand.

The statistics show that ninety more negroes died in February than were born, although the complete list of births may not have been forwarded.

This adds strength to the belief that the negroes of Missouri are decreasing steadily and that this has been going on for the last twenty years. William P. Evans, state superintendent of public schools, in his annual report, comments on the fact that the number of negro children of school age has been decreasing in the last ten years.

Tuberculosis shows a heavier mortality among negroes than whites. Of all deaths which occurred among them, 12.21 per cent were from tuberculosis, while the average for the state for this disease is but 10.69 per cent.

LONG HUNT AFTER LEPER

Immigrant Who Flew From Michigan Found in Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 30.—After a chase that covered several states and lasted several weeks, Sam Isen, a leper, was apprehended in Buffalo. What is believed to be a pronounced case of leprosy, was located here. He has been isolated.

Isen, who also is known as Joe Meyers and Joseph Mayerovitch, has been sleeping at the headquarters of the Jewish Charities for nearly a week and has come in contact with scores of people.

He was under observation in New York when he disappeared, and was traced to Cleveland, then to Bay City, Mich., and Ann Arbor, and finally to Buffalo. A superficial examination made by Dr. Edward Clark, representative of the health department, satisfied him that Isen is suffering from leprosy.

A bacteriological examination will be made. If the early diagnosis, the state and federal authorities will be called upon to take charge of the case.

Isen has a wife and three children in Bay City. He came to this country from Russia three years ago as a stowaway.

LORIMER DELIVERS ADDRESS

Never Again Expects to Become a Candidate for Public Office, He Says.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 30.—Declaring that he would take no part in the national campaign this fall and that he never again expected to become a candidate for public office, William Lorimer, whose election to the United States Senate was recently declared invalid, addressed several thousand friends at Orchestra Hall last night, who had gathered to welcome him home.

"Not one Senator outside of the investigating committee read the records in my case," said Mr. Lorimer. "I am not a candidate for public office and never expect to be. Election to office is not the sort of vindication I demand. I shall not speak during the coming National campaign. I do not want it said that I tried to injure Mr. Taft or Mr. Roosevelt. But when this election is over, when the heat of the Presidential campaign has cooled, I shall appeal directly to the people of this state and county in an effort to get the truth before every man, woman and child. There shall be no peace if I will not tell the truth to the people."

'BULL MOOSE' SUITS TEDDY
Ex-President Accepts That Trade-mark for Third Party.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 30.—The stamp of approval has been placed on the term "bull moose," as applied to the new party. Theodore Roosevelt's Oyster Bay neighbors made up their minds to employ the name. There had been some doubt as to whether the former President approved or not yesterday, when in a speech at New York he said:

"I see that the bull moose is a pretty vigorous animal." The Colonel put in several hours at exercise today. He has about completed the address he will make at the Chicago convention. In this he will make his ideas on important control about his most important theme. The report of the Stanley steel committee will be used as a basis for some of his remarks.

EARTHQUAKE KILLS MANY

Destructive Shock on Peruvian Department Last Forty Seconds, Making Ruins of City.

LIMA, PERU, July 30.—A destructive earthquake occurred this morning at Pura, capital of the department of Pura, the most northerly of the Pacific departments. The shock lasted forty seconds and the city is said to be almost in ruins. While advice from that district is meager, it is reported that a number of children were killed and many persons injured. Among the latter was Mr. Blacker, agent of the South American Insurance company.

The dry bed of a river was torn open and jets of water were thrown out. Pura is San Miguel de Pura lies 120 miles north, northwest of Lambayeque. It has a population of 12,000.

Texarkana—Three men were buried when a sewer trench caved upon them, two being unhurt, the other suffering a broken collar bone, fractured leg and other injuries, which may cause death.

GIRL MEETS A BIG BEAR

Miss of Twelve Saved by Swiftness of Her Pony.

COLVILLE, Wash., July 30.—Edith Cattle, 12 years old, who lives near Black Lake, twenty miles east of Colville, while riding her pony to town was met in the main road by a large brown bear, which refused to recognize any law of the highway.

The horse became terrified and plunged into the deep woods. The little girl clung to the reins until she regained control, and returned. The bear still persisted in disputing the way until she rode within 200 feet of him, as near as the horse would go, and gave a scream, which so astonished the bear that he shook his head and ambled into the woods, leaving Miss Edith to ride into town unmolested.

She said she was not afraid of the animal, because she was riding a swift horse, and had the curiosity to make a close observation of the big animal.

This Is So. We wish to state in an open and vigorous way as words can express that the Hunt's Cure will positively, quickly and permanently cure any form of itching skin disease known. One box is guaranteed to cure. One application affords relief.

MOTHER'S SACRIFICE FAILS

Young Son's Hood Was Mysteriously Absorbed, and Transfusion Failed to Stay Malady.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 30.—Prolonged sacrifice of blood by his mother failed to save the life of Frank Glover, 12 years of age, who succumbed this afternoon to a malady which doctors were unable correctly to diagnose.

The youth was stricken several weeks ago. His affliction took the form of a mysterious blood absorption that left him weak. Physicians got their work with their diagnosis, the boy must have blood, but here they were balked until young Glover's mother answered their anxious queries.

"Frank shall have my blood," she exclaimed. "I am strong and my blood will make him well again." She thought her blood transfusion had begun. Each day Mrs. Glover was strapped on an operating table close to her son. An artery in one of her arms was opened, a tube inserted, then it was directed into the arm of the sick boy.

Strength returned quickly as the new life blood poured in and it was thought he was recovering. But several days ago a change for the worse occurred. The doctors found that the malady was absorbing the new blood faster than it could be supplied. Mrs. Glover demanded that the transfusion should be continued. But the doctors knew there was no hope, and despite the mother's pleas, they gave up. This afternoon the boy collapsed and in a few minutes he was dead.

SEA MONSTERS' N A DEADLY FIGHT

Hundreds Watch Fierce Battle of Shark and Jewfish.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 30.—Two huge fish, a shark and a Jewfish, fought to their death Tuesday off the Santa Monica pier while hundreds of fishermen looked on.

Both sea monsters followed a school of mackerel inshore and as soon as they sighted each other the battle was on. During the contest, which lasted an hour, both fish were nearly entirely out of the water. Then they disappeared for a few moments, when both again came to the surface dead.

With gaff hooks they were hauled on to the pier. The shark, measuring six feet in length, weighed 142 pounds, while the Jewfish fraction over seven feet, tipped the scales at 225. Both were frightfully mangled. The shark's head was chewed to a pulp, while the Jewfish's body was nearly severed by the sharp teeth of the shark.

THIS NEGRO GIVEN LIMIT

Holds Up Girl and Escort With a Revolver, and After Trying Young Man, Makes Girl Yield to His Demands—Leers at Girl While She Testifies, and Denies Her Story.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 30.—Less than twenty minutes after the case of William Ellison, Lockland negro, in the hands of the jury, a verdict of guilty of criminal assault on the person of Miss Edna Towner, a pretty white girl of 19 on the night of July 27, was returned. The case was on his way back to the county jail, having been sentenced to serve twenty years in the penitentiary for the crime.

Homer Kunz, the girl's escort, and Miss Towner were both on the stand, their testimony being practically the same. Miss Towner testified that she and Young Kunz were walking along the street near the Millersock bridge when approached by a masked man carrying a revolver. The man demanded of "hands up" they laughed, thinking it a joke, but soon discovered it was not, and they raised their hands over their heads.

It Was No Joke. The negro then forced them to walk down along the creek bank. He then robbed young Kunz of the dime and tied his hands with a piece of cord. Then he turned to the girl and searched her hands and neck for ring or necklace and felt over her legs to see if she had any money in her stockings.

"He then insulted me terribly," the girl said, and finally he forced her to move away from where Kunz was, and telling Kunz to keep his back turned, assaulted her. Her undergarments were introduced in evidence. The girl said that the negro kept the gun at her head and she was afraid to resist. Young Kunz was also afraid to assist her. The negro finally led her back to where Kunz was and said: "You do — well to marry her." He then made off and the girl gave the alarm.

Negro Was Insolent. Ellison looked smugly at the young girl as she was testifying, and when he took the stand he denied her charges. He said that he had been living with a white woman named Martha Washington who had left him. On the night of July 2 he saw a man and a woman walking along and thought he recognized "Martha" in the woman so followed them. They disappeared, and, thinking that they had gone along the creek bank, he walked that way and came upon Kunz and Miss Towner, he declared. He denied that he had made any attempt to assault the girl, and declared that the story had been invented by them.

Ellison's demeanor upon the stand was sneering and insolent, and when asked if he had not been in trouble of the same sort or other difficulties before, he sullenly refused to answer.

Temple—Ten carloads of eggs were shipped from here to northern markets recently. Each car contained 400 cases, making a total of 120,000 dozen in the shipment.

FARM NOTES

BENEFITS OF FAIRS.

R. T. Hughes. To the close observing and thinking farmer the fair is quite an education within itself. Taking the Dallas fair for a basis we may itemize in this way: First, the farmer is naturally interested in livestock of all kinds. He will like to go to the stock pens first and go through all of them, noting the good and bad points and comparing them with his stock at home, and if he finds anything there that is better than the stock he has at home it is but natural to want the better stock, and as a rule he resolves to dispose of his and replace them with the finer stock he has seen at the fair. This of course applies to all kinds of stock and all kinds of farm fowls as well.

Then he will be interested in farm machinery and implements, taking note of the various improvements in this line, and if he is one of the progressive kind he will make more resolutions, with a view of installing some of the new machinery and farm appliances, displacing some of the old machinery or old method of doing things, thereby putting his farm in better running order and on a better business basis.

The farmers cannot go to the fair and see all of the new improvements in this line, and if he is one of the progressive kind he will make more resolutions, with a view of installing some of the new machinery and farm appliances, displacing some of the old machinery or old method of doing things, thereby putting his farm in better running order and on a better business basis.

BEE KEEPERS DEPARTMENT

FREE BEES. HANDLING CREAM ON THE FARM.

A. F. Bonny. When more people learn how to handle dairy products and make them into saleable products of high quality the great value of the dairy cow will be appreciated. The fact that so many can not make good butter and cannot meet the requirements of clean milk of good quality, keeps the price of dairy products down and makes the business of dairying unprofitable for those who do not know how.

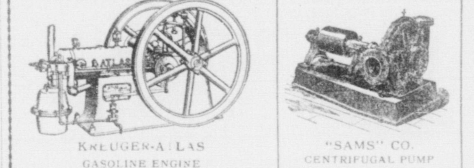

Good butter can not be made from poor cream, nor will poor cream be accepted at fair prices at creameries. This is shown every day where poor cream is offered. It doesn't pay to produce poor cream. Our agricultural colleges could do a great deal more for farmers by teaching more dairying. There is need of more lectures and more demonstrations on dairying, especially on how to handle the milk after it has been drawn. But there is an abundance of timely information upon this subject, the great question being how to get people to read and heed it. "One man can lead a horse to water," but 10 can not make him drink. In a little saying, but it is as true today as it was when it was first uttered. People must be forced to learn by necessity. As conditions get more intolerable upon farms when the manager does not know, he will learn or leave the farm for someone else to manage.

I had to be prepared to do it, of course, and illustrate a decoy hive I have used for several seasons. I have, presume, caught a dozen swarms with it, while the first cost, without the frame, was nothing but an hour's work at a time when I could have done nothing else.

Where one end and back of the box join, I put a loop of strong galvanized wire to hold it up; then cut a long, narrow hole in the cover at the end opposite the loop; fasten the cover on with shingle nails, and it is ready to go up, any time after the middle of May in the corn belt. A frame comb is all right in it. If it is on hand, but is not really necessary. Have a little swinging or sliding door to cover the entrance, and when a swarm goes in, go up at night, or just at dark, blow a little smoke at the entrance, take the box down after closing the door, dump the bees in front of the hive they are to occupy and you have made a start in the ancient and honorable art of beekeeping.

FEAR OF REVENGE IN ROSENTHAL CASE

Witness Arrested on Perjury Charge Following Statement at Coroner's Hearing.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Fear of revenge at the hands of East side gangsters, ever-present in the minds of witnesses in the Rosenthal murder investigation, today temporarily blocked efforts of District Attorney Whitman to draw closer the lines about the men who assassinated Rosenthal eight days ago.

It apparently averted by the presence of gangsters in the Coroner's court, John Reiser, a barber, known to the sporting fraternity as "John the Barber," retracted at the coroner's examination a statement he is alleged to have made a few minutes earlier to Mr. Whitman that he had seen "Bridge" Weeber and Sam Paul, both of whom are charged with complicity in the murder. The prosecution charges it was in Weeber's gambling house near the scene of the murder that the gang congregated to go to the place of the killing. It was to connect Weeber more closely with the case that "John the Barber" was placed on the stand.

Fails in His Attempts.
Having failed in his attempts to get desired statements from the witnesses, District Attorney Whitman obtained an adjournment of Weeber's examination for forty-eight hours. The examination of Sam Paul was likewise put off.

It is at the door of the "police system" that the district attorney places the responsibility for the murder of the man who shot and killed the police were exacting tribute from gamblers, and Mr. Whitman has admitted he will make it easy for those under arrest if he can get the evidence which he desires against the police.

Police Should Help.
"You are the one to defend the reputation of 10,000 policemen, their real defense rests in the unraveling of this murder mystery and you have under your direction a small army of detectives and a fund of money applicable to detective work."

"The newspapers have printed my autobiographical statement to the effect that I do not charge the police department with the murder of Rosenthal. The insinuation that I am moved by a desire for publicity in attacking the large body of policemen, said Senator Maroon. "It is still a burning question, and it is to our eternal disgrace that we should have heard a weaker nation as we have Colombia."

Herman Rosenthal charged that he had been forced into partnership with a police lieutenant, and that other gamblers were in a similar situation. Just as he was about to testify on this subject and give details and names, he was murdered publicly and dramatically. You demanded that I continue to demand that his charge be investigated. How? By what means? He is dead. He has taken the other names with him.

"In the face of this murder will other gamblers rush forward to tell? Will guilty policemen confess? Is this inquiry one that can be conducted except by the agency of detectives, which branch of the public service is under your charge and direction?"

Immunity Sought.
Aaron Levy, counsel for Louis Libby and William Shapiro, alleged owners of the "murder car," intimated that his clients were glad to do all they knew if the district attorney accepted them as witnesses. He asserted they themselves were innocent of any part in the crime.

Sam Paul, who delivered the message to Deputy Commissioner Dougherty after bringing Rose to headquarters, late today was closeted with the deputy commissioner and Inspector Hughes. Five other men later joined Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and Sam Paul. The conference lasted a couple of hours.

Dougherty said after this talk that he believes the men who committed the murder are still in New York City.

FIERY FLOOD IMPERILS CITY

Oil Tanks Burst and Fiery Deluge Rushes Toward Ohio Town.

NEW STRATTSVILLE, Ohio, July 29.—Hundreds of men battled to raise a dam against thousands of gallons of blazing oil which rushed down a hillside and threatened to engulf many homes and business places.

Three tanks of crude oil on a hill above the city were struck by lightning and their flaming contents were launched directly at the city's business center.

Every able-bodied man of area volunteered and by night work the citizens raised a dam which diverted the oil to a creek. Most of the men were overcome by heat and the rapid work.

GIRL BANDIT ROPED HIM

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 29.—A blonde woman wearing a white dress threw a rope around the neck of Walter Harrison, a taxicab chauffeur, and held him while her two men companions tied him to a wheel of his machine and rifled his pockets, according to the story told by Harrison to policemen of the Pace Boulevard District at 2 o'clock in the morning. The robbers got $25, he asserted.

The woman appeared to be about 25 years old, Harrison said, and was described as a blonde with dark hair of white. The men wore blue serge suits. One appeared to be about 25 years old and the other about 30.

The robbery occurred at a lonely spot on Olive street. Harrison bore the imprints of the rope about his neck.

PANAMA CANAL OURS

Great Britain's Protest on Plan to Let American Ships Go Through Free Toll States Up Discussion in Senate—Sure to Get Adverse Decision if Question Goes to The Hague.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30.—Senator Smith of South Carolina, on the canal toll bill, contended in the Senate that the purchase by this government of the Panama zone changed the relations of the United States with Great Britain and superseded the Hay-Pauncefote treaty of 1901. He expressed the belief that the United States now has a right to use the waters of the Panama canal in any way it pleases, as if they were inferior waters of the United States.

Question of Arbitration.
Whether to submit to arbitration a question which pertains only to the internal domestic affairs of the United States, or whether by a strict interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty a precedent should be established that may hereafter be embarrassing, were declared by Mr. Smith to be the real question before the Senate. The Panama bill was not formally before the Senate, the speech being made during consideration of the sundry civil bill.

Senator Lodge declared that while he believed the United States had the right under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty to give the canal to American ships, yet he believed it would be impossible to obtain an international court unbiased enough to rule in favor of this country. The interests of all other nations, he said, would weigh against the claims of the United States.

As to American Territory.
The opinion that the canal strait was American territory and that the canal was therefore American water was advanced by Senator Smith and concurred in by Senator Lodge. The latter declared that when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was made no one expected that the United States would acquire the canal zone.

Senator Smith called attention to the fact that the United States never had given up its reservation of the claims of Colombia for redress for the loss of Panama.

"The fact that it has not been arbitrated does not relieve the United States from its responsibility," said Senator Maroon. "It is still a burning question, and it is to our eternal disgrace that we should have heard a weaker nation as we have Colombia."

MOTHER OF 10 JOINS NUNS

Four of Her Sons Bro to Become Jesuit Priests.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 30.—After rearing a family of ten children, four of whom will be ordained priests in the Jesuit order, Mrs. Sarah Scott of Springfield, has taken her final vows as a nun in the Order of the Visitation. Mrs. Scott will be living in her life in the convent as Sister Mary Ignatia.

Mrs. Scott's husband died several years ago. Five of the children have first class diplomas. The only surviving daughter lives in Chicago. Three of the sons already are professed scholastics in the Jesuit order.

A fourth son, who has cared for Mrs. Scott, shortly will begin his novitiate as a candidate for the priesthood with the Jesuits, now that his mother has entered the religious life.

San Antonio.—R. A. Campbell, who was arrested by a United States marshal last week and charged with having in his possession several checks bearing the forged endorsement of Maj. Robert Wolfe, United States Army, quartermaster at Fort San Houston, was taken before United States Commissioner R. L. Edwards this morning for an examining trial. He waived examination and was remanded to await the action by the December grand jury in bond of $1000.

Dallas.—Weak from the loss of blood with a gash several inches long on the left side of her throat, Mrs. Gust E. Wehrmiller, age about 25 years, was found at her home, 1428 Moss street. On a chair near by was a razor. Mrs. Wehrmiller did not explain how the cut was inflicted.

The wound was not cut and sewed up the gash, which, he said, severed small veins and one small artery. It went into the windpipe, but not through it. He could not tell when the gash had been inflicted, but thought it must have been cut in the morning. He said she was in bed this morning.

WASHTUB ROUTE TO BEAUTY

Dr. Paulson of Michigan Offers Unique Health Receipts.

The use of the washtub as a way to both health and beauty was strongly endorsed by Dr. David Paulson, of Hillsdale, Mich., in his health lecture on "How to Postpone Your Own Funeral."

Dr. Paulson had an array of washtubs on the platform when he spoke, and he himself bent over them and went through the motions of washing out "father's socks." He demonstrated the proper and the improper manner of performing this very important task. The speaker said the washboard should be up above the waist line, so that the chest will be thrust out and the lungs filled with air as the half hose are scrubbed up and down the board.

Not only washing, but ironing and sawing wood were recommended as means of preserving feminine beauty and health. Fresh air was dwelt upon, the speaker declaring that it is "good for everything but corns."

BOSTON, Mass.—In spite of the complaints of hot weather in Boston, it was so cold in one place in the city, the other night that a plumber had to be called to thaw out the water pipes. This was at a big clothing store, which maintains three bubbling drinking fountains. Some mischief maker mixed salt with the ice that covered the coils and everything froze up.

A Word to Our Friends In South Texas

WE DON'T BELIEVE there is any question but that Texas is on the eve of the most prosperous season in all her history. Prospects were never brighter. With bumper crops assured, with wonderful developments going on all around, there will be an influx of outside capital, farm and city property will increase in value and Texans will literally have "money to burn."

We are planning ahead; we are making preparations for the biggest fall and winter business in all the 44 years of this store's existence. Our buyers are now in the east making selections—buying direct from Mill and Manufacturer at lowest possible prices.

We expect to have greater and more complete stocks than ever before. The world's best merchandise wherever found will be assembled here in great variety. Every new and staple thing—in dry goods, women's and children's ready-to-wear, millinery, shoes, furnishings, men's and boys' clothing, etc.—will be here for you to select from. The most critical will find here everything that is pleasing, both in style and quality, and we want to say to you that no store will be able to make lower prices.

We are proud of the trust you people of Texas place in this store. We appreciate your confidence and patronage, and with quality—economy—satisfaction—as our watchwords, we aim to merit a continuance of your good will.

When in San Antonio we invite you to make this store your headquarters. Nowhere will you receive more courteous attention, better merchandise or stronger values.

LIVE LIZARDS AS NECKWEAR

LONDON, England, July 30.—The fad of several years ago of women wearing chameleons is coming in again, with the lizard for the wriggly pet. Live lizards have been sold by hundreds in London this spring. Many varieties of small green galliots and Austrian blue-throated and spotted-eye dalmatians are popular.

The creatures are twelve to eighteen inches long and have a gold collar around the neck and a chain. They crawl over the front of the dress and around the neck and sometimes are used as a live bracelet.

"They are fed on worms and are kept in a glass case when not worn. They need nothing more than worms and a small quantity of drinking water."

TRAVELS TO DIE NEAR GRAVE.

CADILLAC, Mich.—C. A. Boyce of Barrington came here in a dying condition and was taken to Mercy hospital, where he died a few days ago. Boyce wanted to die near Calum Lake cemetery as he possibly could, thus saving the extra expense and danger of a railroad wreck in having his body brought here from Barrington after death.

The Man Ahead

By John Wiltach.

There is one good way for a man to rid of his dignity. First he must take an upper berth in a railroad train that is due at some small town in the Middle West which is briefly mentioned on the map. Then he is obliged, as a general rule, to arise with the morning dew and be dressed by the time the whistle blows for the passengers to leave the car, at six o'clock.

Haywin Slott had gone through the average experience of one made to sleep in a cubby-hole perched near the top of the W. and H. Railroad special, which would arrive at Scanneville at the early hour mentioned.

At about half past five Haywin had awakened to find that he was as nervous as a harness rider who had previously practiced only on a hobby horse, and was now called upon to go up against the real thing.

The day before Haywin had secured the position of press agent for Allwin's new play "The High Score," which was to open at Scanneville in a week's time. He had had, in the last year, some newspaper training on a New York evening paper, but this was the first time he had been called upon to earn his living by means of a fertile imagination.

Naturally, he meant to make good at the very start, so that he would be in strong for the rest of the engagement.

Dangling his legs over the edge of the berth, he tried to make himself look presentable, but no one would have mistaken him for a well-dressed fellow when he jumped down for the porter to give him a brushing. His suit was wrinkled as a hat that had been substituted for a football, and his necktie looked as if he had put it on in his sleep.

Arrived at Scanneville, he hoped that some restaurant was open at this early hour.

Alas, he found the only store with swinging doors was a little bakery on the main street. It certainly did look like a bad show town.

Talk about "tank" villages! To Haywin this one looked as if it had been dead and buried and had just brushed off the dust for a short breathing spell.

And to think that he had been told to get enough interest aroused in the show he represented to warrant standing room only—on other people's toes!

Lost in these sweet dreams, Haywin nearly forgot that he had written to Mrs. Mellar, an old friend of his father, who lived in Scanneville, that he would visit her for luncheon the first day he arrived there.

He had looked forward to this, for he knew no one in the city, and she might be able to help him get his bearings.

First Haywin went to the opera house and waited for about an hour for the house manager, Mr. Barlow, to put in an appearance. Meantime he called up Mrs. Mellar. Fortunately she was at home, and expressed herself delighted with the idea of his appearing for luncheon.

As he hung up the receiver, Mr. Barlow walked into the office.

"So you're the man in advance of 'The High Score,'" exclaimed the house manager.

"Well, you're up against a tough proposition in this town as regards newspapers. They'd as soon have a press agent as an insanity expert at a murder trial. See what a chance you have got?"

"I have a few ideas up my sleeve," said Haywin.

"Are they typewritten?" the other returned quizzically.

"No, but I'm a mental slight-of-hand artist," and I can dip-ink on a machine for all I'm worth—which isn't much, however, at present."

"The situation in this city is this," proceeded Mr. Barlow. "There are two newspapers, the Sphero and the Current News. Now, if you can put a hot story across for one of 'em, the other'll use it just to keep in the running. The two editors are deadly enemies. The two editors have sworn to curse each other on sight! You'll have to play one against the other."

"Do you wish to go down to the basement and count your paper?" asked the manager. "If I were you I'd telegraph for a hundred more one-half sheet rights, to obtain a good window display."

"All right. I wish you'd ask my transportation agent to have my trunk brought right here to the theater. By the way, did you get any of the advance mimeograph matter used?"

"A few sticks a day, and a spread last Sunday. The house press agent will be around this afternoon, and you can cook up your plan of action with him."

After turning over his scene and property to the stage manager, and quarreling with the house electrician about the light plot, which called for more bunch lights and white curtains, he had been used to work the previous show, Haywin left for Mrs. Mellar's residence.

Going down Main street, he passed the one good hotel in town, and a brilliant idea flashed into his mind.

He walked in and asked for the manager.

"I want to engage the entire second floor of this hotel for Miss Fleming and the other members of 'The High Score' Company, which will arrive in exactly a week."

"The man who took his life trying to stop having a fit on the spot. My dear sir, the idea is impossible. Nearly all the rooms are engaged in advance by traveling men."

"Then I see that we must buy the hotel!"

"What?"

"This hotel for sale?"

"I don't know how that concerns you?"

The press agent smiled mysteriously and continued:

"You will think. Our leading lady, Miss Fleming, is the daughter of a millionaire, and has gone on the stage merely because of her love for me. She informed me that I must engage the lower floor of the best hotel—so that the members of the company could be in sympathy with her record with other women if I had to spend a small fortune."

"I don't suppose you're in any hurry?" questioned the manager, choosing his words carefully.

"Oh, not at all. I'll leave all the preliminary arrangements to you. Get in communication with the manager, and find out his price. I'll be in tomorrow morning. Good day."

Leaving behind him a trail of astonishment, Haywin left the hotel and stroled down the street.

He stopped at a telephone booth, called up the city editor of the Sphero, told him that the Scanneville hotel was going to be sold at auction, and then he rang off.

"That'll get things started," he muttered to himself. "I've done a good morning's work."

When Haywin arrived at the residence of Mrs. Mellar, an imposing brown stone front in the section of the city known as "Society," he was ushered in without delay.

Mrs. Mellar swooped into the drawing room and greeted him warmly. She had on a dainty sober white waist with an Irish point lace yoke, and elbow sleeves caught with a band of lace insertion. Her blue skirt was box pleated in front and saddle backed. It fell without the suspicion of a flounce.

The curiosity of feminine readers now satisfied, one may observe that she was a pleasant person who was not ashamed of living in a small city—but as proud of the town hall as a native.

"I'm so glad that you came here the first morning you arrived in Scanneville. How do you like our city?" she began.

"I can tell after I get a report of the business 'The High Score' does here. If we make money, I'd be willing to build a statue to the founder."

Mrs. Mellar laughed.

"I see you're a strange creature now you've become a press agent. But I suppose you're hungry, just like an ordinary mortal. Come right in to luncheon. I have some one here to meet you," she added, with a wise smile; "some one who may do you a lot of good."

Upon being ushered into the dining room they waited for several moments until the third member of the party, Mr. Belling, appeared with a polite excuse for being late.

"There was quite a commotion down at the Scanneville Hotel," he said to Haywin after introductions were over, "and I stayed to see the fun. It seems that the leading lady of 'The High Score,' which will play here in a week, wishes to buy the hotel because she can't obtain proper accommodations for herself and the company. Reporters are on hand grabbing every loose item of interest. There's a good story for you, all right."

"Newspapers are easy," said Haywin, laughing. "As long as a fake story is improbable enough, they'll fall for it as a cat will for a toy mouse."

"You don't have much respect for the press," returned Mr. Belling.

"No, I've been a reporter myself—and on a live, New York daily, at that. Any story that is good for a thrilling head-line'll get by the rewrite man. He won't stand for the leading lady losing her jewels, or having her pet dog poisoned by an understudy, but if the animal cries himself to sleep after the first night, he'll let you read to him, they'll print the yarn with a shriek of delight."

Mr. Belling tried to restrain a smile.

"Young man," he said gravely, "the press agent is the plague of the profession. By spreading fabulous tales to the credit of Baron Munchausen, he makes the actors and actresses appear like so many fools. Their dramatic art is lost to sight, and they are placed in the same class as side show freaks."

Haywin felt himself getting hot under the collar.

"I suppose you would have all modern advertisements put on trial before a jury on truth," he replied. "Do you suppose a newspaper investigates every paid advertisement that is sent in to it? It would print a notice of a nightly trip to the moon if the space was paid for! The press agent earns his salary by arousing the curiosity of the people and bringing them in flocking to his attraction. He's a paid reporter of the impossible, and should receive due credit."

"He should be sent to jail like a common spreader of libel!" exclaimed the other. "A press agent is a blot on the fair name of Journalism. He couldn't tell the truth if he tried."

Haywin laughed.

"That's a mistake. For example, in private, I will admit that 'The High Score' is a pretty poor examination of the dramatic art, only redeemed by the fine acting of Miss Fleming, the leading lady, who is a wonderful artist."

Then the play should be sent to the store house," retorted Belling. "I hope it goes there after a dismal failure in Scanneville."

"Not unless my imagination is forced into the electric chair," muttered Haywin under his breath.

Mrs. Mellar change the subject, and the conversation was diverted into other channels.

Still her two guests were both in such a mood that they couldn't agree on any one subject, and she was glad when the meal was finished.

Haywin excused himself immediately, pleading an important business engagement, and Mrs. Mellar went with him to the door, after she had shaken hands with Mr. Belling rather stiffly, and left that gentleman a fuming volcano.

There was a troubled expression on her face, as if she were keeping something back.

Elated by what she thought was a display of revived affection for her husband, Mrs. Mary Moloeczek, of Chicago, permitted herself to be carried for several minutes in a dazed room in her home until a murmured "ding" brought to her the startling realization that her admirer was not her husband, but Michael Matysek, 20 years old, a roofer, who had "snooped" home, John Moloeczek, the husband, believing that his wife was aware of the identity of the admirer, rushed into the room and struck Matysek, knocking him to the floor. Mrs. Moloeczek, screaming with fright and pursued by her irate husband, ran to the police station, where she asked for protection.

Matoeczek was pacified by the police and made to understand the true condition of affairs. Later Matysek was arrested.
