

City Water Tied To Plan 10,000 Acre Feet More By 1985

Colorado City stake in the revised Texas Water Plan is simply a matter of being thirsty in 15 years or having water to meet its needs, an expert said here Friday.

The hour of decision comes at the same time in 1985 to the entire South Plains, where water levels will be so sufficiently depleted that its entire agricultural industry will be suffering unless new sources are obtained.

Critical importance of the Texas Water Plan was pointed to this immediate area Friday for Lions in Civic House by Jack Fickessen, Austin, assistant to the executive director of Texas Water Development Board.

Voters will have their say as to whether the plan moves toward reality or dies a sudden death when they vote Aug. 5 in the special election concerning state constitutional amendments.

Proposed Amendment No. 2 on the August ballot will be "yes or no" concerning the plan which proposes to provide sufficient water for Texas for the next 50 years.

Bond issues are proposed to finance the approximately the 3.5 billion dollar Texas share in the overall 10 to 11 billion dollar project.

Main source of the additional water will be overflow waters of Mississippi River at the mouth of that giant river as it enters the Gulf of Mexico.

"If we don't develop our own water resources to the fullest," Fickessen told the Lions luncheon, "and get additional water from the outside, it is evident we will not progress."

"We just won't be able to grow. We can't!"

One segment of the proposed water plan -- the Trans-Texas Division bringing Mississippi River water across the northern area of our state for the huge West Texas area -- is expected to have a main distribution terminal in the Lubbock area and a line extending from Archer County to Abilene and directly to Colorado City area.

"We figure you (here in Colorado City area)," the engineer stated, "will need 10,000 acre feet of water per year out of this system for your needs right here."

"That's in addition to your current sources."

One of the main reasons for the water plan and the effort for passage of the constitutional amendment in the Aug. 5 election is for continuing strong and viable agriculture for Texas in the years ahead.

Importation of water from the Mississippi for municipal and industrial needs, the engineer said, will allow full development of local sources and shifting of for specific agricultural use.

Infact, estimates are that when the project is finally completed, Texas will be able to irrigate 9.7 million acres -- 2 million more than now being irrigated.

However, even with the imported water, irrigated acreage by the year 2020 will still fall short of the 16.6 million acres of irrigated production Texas A&M researchers say will be needed to provide food and fiber needs for the projected population.

Texas' population is expected to triple to 30.5 million persons by the year 2020. Municipal and industrial water need will jump from present 2.5 million acre feet annually to 12 million.

In the same period, the state's agricultural requirements will increase from 12.5 million acre feet annually to 16 million.

That means, Fickessen emphasized, that the 32 million acre feet of water needed by Texas in 2020 will be about 12 million acre feet more than the state can supply from its own sources.

Therefore, the plan proposes to go over to the Mississippi for runoff water that is not being used and is allowed to flow into the ocean.

Texas today has 157 major reservoirs of 5,000 acre feet or more. Sixty-seven more are proposed in the state plan, construction timed according to actual needs.

The 3.5 billion in bonds would not be issued immediately, but at stages along the 50-year period to 2020 as the needs require.

"We don't expect to use any bonds until 1975," he said.

"But if we, the people of Texas, approve 3.5 billion in bonds now, we will have gone a long way toward convincing the federal government we are ready -- financially ready to pay its share of this project."

Life Saving In Oil Field Training's Pay-Off

A Forsan oil field worker maybe alive today thanks to first aid administered by Frank

Bertl, engineer technician for Sun Oil Company. It happened recently when Charles Meyers, member of a contract pulling crew for Forsan Oil Well Service, was changing tubing slips on the Hart Phillips No. 37 well.

Myers, overcome by hydrogen sulfide fumes, was pulled away from the well.

Bertl immediately began administering mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, reviving the stricken worker.

Bertl, who lives here at 936 Rusk with his family, learned the life-saving technique in safety meetings conducted regularly by Sun Oil Company.

He is the father of four -- Denise, Teresa and Jeff, all here at home, and another son, John, who is attending Northwest Michigan College in Traverse City, Mich., before transferring to Texas A & M in the fall.

Nos. 5 & 6 Injured In 3rd Major Car Wreck

Third major wreck in three days in the Colorado City area Friday sent two persons to the hospital with injuries.

They raised the traffic toll in the three-day chain-of accidents to one killed and six injured.

The Friday injuries were caused at 6:01 p.m. when a truck-tractor-tank loaded with asphalt and a 1964 Buick collided at intersection of U. S. 80 East Business Route and State Highway 208 at the east city limits.

Treated at Root Memorial Hospital were Jerald Flynn Ballenger, 38, and Lula Mae Ballenger, 60, both of 2001 Preston Rd. Sweetwater.

They were passengers in the car driven by Derotell Ballenger, 55, of the same Sweetwater address.

Police reported the Ballenger car was traveling west on U. S. 80 when it was in collision with the 1963 White truck.

Point of impact was the car's front and near the truck-tractor's rear wheels.

After the crash, the Buick was dragged more than 50 yards under the truck tank.

Driver of the truck was James Estes Cody, 804 Magnolia, Big Spring.

Thursday three persons were injured in a car-trailer crash on Interstate 20 approximately 15 miles west of Colorado City.

Joe Fuentes, 22, of Westbrook was driver of the car which was in collision with the rear of the house trailer hitched to the car of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Van Raam of Waxahachie. Both were traveling east.

Fuentes, who received severe injuries in a previous accident which resulted in a fatality, was moved from Root Memorial Hospital to Veterans Administration Hospital in Big Spring after receiving emergency treatment.

He had cuts and internal injuries.

Mrs. Raam, 56, was moved to a Big Spring Hospital for treatment of a severe eye injury. She also had a broken collar bone.

Her husband, also 56, received minor injuries.

Officers were busy for several hours picking up a stock of hardware items in the Raam vehicle which were scattered across the highway by the collision.

Interstate 20 traffic was routed through Colorado City for part of two days after a truck carrying 40 cases of 900-pound aerial bombs Wednesday plunged off the Colorado River Bridge on Interstate 20.

A bomb disposal team from Fort Hood supervised recovery and moving of the bombs to Big Spring Webb Air Force Base. The job was completed Thursday.

Killed in the truck was Jimmie L. McGee, 22, of Collins, Miss., and injured was Nicolas Solaz, 48, of Colorado City, who was driver of a farm tractor that was in collision with the truck.

Temp Sizzles At 108

The week got hotter until it became a sizzler.

Monday was agreeable temperature-wise with a high of 84 days.

But Tuesday the thermometer climbed to 92 degrees, then up to 93 Wednesday.

Thursday the heat wave was up to 103 and a sizzling 102 at 5 p.m.

And, Friday the official temperature on Courthouse lawn was 108 -- 24 degrees hotter than when the week started.

In case you are wondering, the thermometer still registered 107 Friday at 6 p.m.

Red Cross instructor Milton Bodzin, left, supervises as City Patrolman W. R. Upshaw places a splint on the arm of Mrs. Frank Bertl Jr. as Police Chief Jesse Browning watches. They are three of the 18 who completed the 10-hour course taught last week in City Hall. Other graduates are J. L. Latham, Truman Henderson, Bill Henderson, Brian Blair and Frank Fitch, all police; Mmes. J. C. Brown, Ben Givens, Colyn Smith, J. H. Guelker, Roy Iglehart, Rosa Hamrick, Jerry Howell, L. L. Schafer, Billie Norman and Maggie Hamrick.

Meeting to Start New Center Plan

A meeting Monday will develop plans for converting the old Wallace school into a Community Center.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the old school building on Wallace St. on the city's immediate south side.

Willie Dawson, Robert Bracy, L. C. Devorce and Ernest Biggers are the steering committee which called the Monday night meeting.

"We are urging all citizens interested in this project to attend the meeting," the committee stated. "This will be a community project and its success will depend upon the interest and support and volunteer work of our citizens."

The idea for converting the old school building, which once was the city's negro school before the present Wallace Elementary was built, into a community center has developed spontaneously in the last few weeks.

Mrs. Hettie Wallace Branch, who owns the building which was originally named for her family, has offered to donate use of the building for the community project.

She also has offered to finance materials necessary to start improving the building.

Her enthusiasm has brought quick response from other citizens and the Community Action Program board of directors.

Immediate improvements required for the building include plumbing and fixtures for two restrooms (the building was never equipped with restrooms) and electrical wiring and outlets.

Bids are being taken for these materials and dealers can obtain specifications at the CAP office in the City's Community Center on East 10th St.

Leaders for the project expect to enlist volunteers to donate labor to carry out the project.

"This will be a true community project," they said, and volunteers will decide its success.

Initial plans are for the old school to provide a place for youths and children to have recreation facilities that will give them a meeting place of good environment and help keep them off the streets.

Later, if the support and interest is sufficient, it is hoped that a day center can be provided for the children of working mothers.

Chamber Cultural Committee Hosts Book Review Thursday

"The Shadow of Blooming Grove" by Francis Russell is the next in a series of book reviews sponsored by Cultural Activities Committee of Chamber of Commerce.

The book, a biography of Warren G. Harding, 29th president of United States, will be reviewed by Bob Reilly Thursday evening at eight o'clock in Hesperian Room of Mitchell County Public Library.

The review will be the second by Reilly, local insurance representative and civic leader.

Last summer he reviewed "Nicholas and Alexandria" in a similar program hosted by the chamber cultural group.

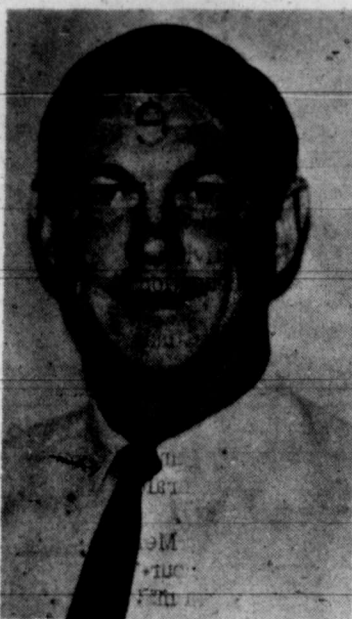

The 700 page biography "of the President who has come to be rated last in the hearts of his countrymen" chronicles a fascinating era in American history and provides a remarkable portrait—both comic and oddly touching—of the affable, good-hearted mediocrity who was "everybody's second choice" at the deadlocked Republican convention of 1920.

Harding's birthplace and to one of the mysteries of his life. It is Francis Russell's contention that this "shadow" haunted Harding throughout his career and was a factor in his lifelong sense of insecurity.

Russell deals, too, with the other mysteries and scandals of Harding's career: his love affairs with Carrie Phillips and Nan Britton; and the allegation that Harding was poisoned by his wife.

Critics proclaim the book as "the fullest and most absorbing account ever provided of the dark convention of 1920 and the dismal Harding Centennial celebration in Marion, Ohio, in 1965.

Title of the book refers to BOB REILLY, reviews book.

There will be no admission for the review which will be followed by an informal refreshment hour.

Academy Award Winner Stars In Movie Here

George Kennedy, Academy Award winner, stars in "Guns of Magnificent Seven", opening Wednesday at Palace Theatre.

The movie, third in the saga of the motley crew of paid gun-slingers who go down into Mexico to right wrongs for cash, will show four days at the local theatre.

He won his Academy Award for his role in "Cool Hand Luke".

Kennedy made his professional debut at the age of two in the road company of "Bringing Up Father" and had his own radio show on Long Island at the age of seven.

After 15 years in the army, he was signed as technical advisor for the recent "Bilko" series. He then began appearing as an extra and finally settled into the "heavy" division.

He gets away from playing "heavies" and instead portrays a man with warmth and integrity in his current film.

CONVERSATION CORNER

PROBABLY everybody in the world has a very personal idea of what utter luxury is.

Heard a famous movie star say via TV, the other day, that his idea of luxury is a boat on the water, a box full of bait, and plenty of time.

That sounds simple enough in light of the fact that he's rich and could just as well have said "A yacht in the Mediterranean, a box full of $100 bills, and plenty of gorgeous girls."

LUXURY's first and primary meaning is "expensive." But it also means something that pleases the senses and is hard to obtain. Yeah.

What is your idea of utter luxury? What thing—or state of being—pleases your senses most if and when you can manage it?

There must be a million joys. . . if people dared indulge themselves and heck with dignity and custom.

LUXURY can be the feel of running barefoot across the grass in the cool of the evening. . . wading in a clear and shallow stream or sitting on the bank of a river dangling the feet in the water.

Luxury can be just sitting still.

Luxury is not having to hurry.

LYING LATE a-bed is utter luxury to some of us. And there are people who feel rich during a bubble bath.

Breakfast in bed is "the most" to some men. Not to the man of the house on East 9th St. Even when he's sick and sure he's not long for this world, he gets up and plunks the breakfast tray on the table.

His idea of luxury is early to bed and late to rise and reading the sports page with eager eyes.

LUXURY is a very personal thing. . . it is an attitude. Sometimes it's a dream. It doesn't just have to be diamonds, stocks and bonds, or a four-car garage in a walled estate.

Luxury can be ordering from the left side of the menu for a change.

Luxury can be a professional manicure along with "the works" at a beauty salon when a lady needs a lift.

Luxury can be a day or two of no-shaving for the average man.

LUXURY can be the pleasure of putting off until tomorrow anything you don't want to do today.

Luxury to young and gay couples must be a good and reliable baby-sitter.

But in case anybody ever asks me. . . make my idea of utter luxury a swank motel with a view of the mountains. . . and room service.

MAIL CALL brought a pleasant note from Alice (Mrs. H. L.) Berman, former Citian who lives now in Big D.

Alice is moving to a new apartment of Villager Road. She was happy over events in her family. Her widowed son Harold Berman, Dallas attorney, was married June 1 to a young woman from New Orleans.

"Irwin," Alice writes, "became a daddy three months ago to another little girl, Hava Ann, so now the twins are even. Both have two daughters." The Bermans twins, Dr. Irwin and Dr. Stanley Berman are building a new clinic in Santa Cruz, California.

SEEN LATELYS include Bob Fee Sr., Louise Paul and Seton Pickens at the Chamber office. . . Tex Keel on the downtown scene.

Saw Dr. J. Melvin Crymes wreathed in cigar smoke. Do you suppose his idea of luxury is a good cigar?

Had coffee with Ida Kirschbaum. . . Spied Betty Howell, Lena Baumann, Lovess Curlee, and Dorothy Jeffrey sitting in a row.

Nice Dan Pfeuffer, C-City Police Department, was coffee-breaking. So were Howard Cox and Arlene Morris. . . and Bill Holbert.

FAMILIAR FACES, various places, belonged to Mrs. Bennett Scott, Luna (Mrs. Henry) Bilberry) and Fanny Fay (Mrs. Orin) Feaster on the grocery shopping trail. . . Mamie (Mrs. Ross) Hargrove was headed for Corner Drug.

J. W. Hicklin was dental clinic visiting. Ditto Stan Shawn, son of the Wayne Shawns. Gracious and very pretty Mrs. Dell Riley is working at the Steakley Clinic while Shug Bynum is on vacation.

Chatted with Viola (Mrs. Jim) Hale of the LTNS (long time no see) department. . . Mrs. B. H. Gregory, too. And E. M. Owen.

CLOUD NINE circles the home of Mary Post Hart (Mrs. Bruce.)

Mary's daughter Martha Jo Post Cianciulli arrived in Midland by plane Tuesday where Bruce and Mary met her.

Martha Jo, wife of an Italian attorney she wed while teaching school in Italy, lives in Naples. Her old CHS friends will be glad to know that she's to be here about a month.

KNOW WHAT? C-City is in the process of establishing another colony—this time in Alaska.

Iva Reid Armstrong is here as guest of her mother Mrs. Ollie Reid and her husband's mother Mrs. Joe Armstrong while husband Angus (Gus) Armstrong is in Alaska.

Gus called Iva Thursday night to say he was to visit Billie Arnold Durham and her husband Harvey in Anchorage that night. Then he'll fly to Nome before driving to Teller where he'll be working this summer with Geophysical Research, subsidiary of Amerada Petroleum Corp. of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Iva's sister Doris Vaughn and her daughter Carla of Midland are also visiting Mrs. Reid so maybe there are several Cloud Nines around here.

BEFORE we leave Alaska let's do a roundup. Did you know Jasper Hart, son of Bruce, is now in Anchorage for six months on an offshore drilling project?

He'll fly back to Oklahoma where his wife Mary Louise and their children Joseph and Bryan are visiting, June 29, and take his family back to Anchorage with him. The family has been living in Metairie, La.

Odd angle—Jasper met Ted Brown in Seattle, Washington, by accident. Neither knew the other was living in Anchorage.

Nat Thomas Jr., his wife and daughter, Nina, you remember, have bought a home in Fairbanks. Nat's with an airline company.

FINALE for now—Jo McCollum Bushager and her husband Cecil Bushager are on leave from his job in Ethiopia with Halliburton International.

They are guests of Jo's mother Mrs. Rube Hart. Then they'll go to their apartment in Louisiana to be near Jo's son Jay Doug McCollum for the rest of their stay in the States.

And did you know Mrs. Homer Hart is due back this weekend from a visit with daughter Gail Newell and her husband in Mississippi?

Gift Shower Honors Miss Donna Carter

Miss Donna Carter, bride-elect of Donnie Higginbotham, was complimented at a gift shower June 13 in parlor of First Baptist Church.

Hosting the courtesy were Mrs. Jimmy Harrison, Mrs. H. Jene Steakley, Mrs. Fred McKay, Mrs. Ben Elliot, Mrs. J. H. Kimbrell and Mrs. W. W. Paul.

arranged with a silver candelabrum.

Petits fours and magenta punch were served to approximately 50 guests who registered during the evening.

Wedding of the betrothed couple will take place July 3 at seven o'clock in the evening in First Baptist Church.

Guests were received by the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Bill Carter, and the future bridegroom's mother, Mrs. O. W. Higginbotham.

Mrs. Dwayne Crow of Lubbock, sister of the bride-to-be, presided at the registry.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Bubba Kennedy, Mrs. Gary Parker of San Angelo, Mrs. Jimmy Palmer and Miss Connie Carter, another sister of the bride-elect.

For the occasion the honoree wore a white linen A-line dress, complimented by a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Serving table was laid with a white organdy over a satin floor-length tablecloth. Appointments were silver and crystal.

Highlighting the table setting was a bouquet of pink sweet-bear roses combined with babies breath and eucalyptus

Deep Sea Fishing Marks Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Kaulfus and children, Sandra, Carolyn and Daniel, returned last week from a 1600 mile vacation trip to East and South Texas.

They toured Six Flags, attended a Casa Manana production in Fort Worth, visited relatives in Rosebud and Temple and made tourist stops at Freeport, Surfside Beach, Galveston and LaMarque.

Kaulfus and Sandra joined a fishing party for two days of sea fishing which resulted in a red snapper catch by Kaulfus that weighed over 16 pounds and measured 30 inches long.

The catch was the largest red snapper caught by anyone in the fishing party which included 75 fishermen. The local pair also brought in a string of smaller fish consisting of red snappers, trigger fish and blue runners.

For You

Sure, when E-T comes to town . . . it will all be especially for you. And you'll be glad, too.

Snyder Art Show Set

Eighth annual Fourth of July Art Show will be hosted in the Scurry County Barn in Towle Park.

Announcement of the show was made this week by Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

All artists in the region are invited to enter paintings in the show, according to Foy Nutt of Snyder.

Mrs. Dorn To Attend Workshop

Mrs. Landon Dorn will be in Abilene Monday and Tuesday for a "tuned in" workshop sponsored by Abilene Reporter News.

Mrs. Dorn will be representing Primary School teachers at the workshop at Hardin-Simmons University Student Center.

The two-day event has scheduled an extensive look at newspapers, its role in learning experiences of boys and girls and for broadening the teaching and learning process.

Highlighting Tuesday's session be a tour of Reporter News offices.

There will be four ribbons—first, second, third and honorable mention—and trophies for first place winners in each division including senior professional, senior amateur and junior divisions.

Classes will consist of landscape, still-life, portraits and contemporary. Both copy and original work will be accepted. Judging will be the morning of July Fourth, Nutt said.

"All paintings must be matted or framed and wired for hanging. Paintings should not be over two years old and not have won any awards in the past," he advised.

WATER

The project, of course, would be a federal-state program. U. S. Corps of Engineers are already in a long-range, thorough study of the Mississippi River water possibilities, not only for Texas but for other states within the river's feasible use area.

After the Texas plan is approved here, if it is in August, the rest will come through Congressional action.

Charles C. Thompson, president of City National Bank, is one of a large group of prominent Texans who are members of the Governor's Committee of 500 who are urging passage of Amendment 2 in August.

Yep! -- 35 Rainy Days

Figure it was a pretty wet season?

You don't have to check a late planting farmer to figure it out.

Just count the days moisture has been officially recorded for Colorado City and the picture becomes big as life.

In the first 168 days of 1969 rain in some amount fell 35 of 'em.

That's a wet 22 per cent - almost one fourth of the entire calendar. And that is unusual to say the least.

To be really factual about the whole moisture picture, there were a few more rainy days in some of the county areas outside of Colorado City.

No doubt, some of those farmers who just now have completed planting their cotton crops probably figure it the other way around. Maybe something like 133 wet days and 35 dry ones, instead of the U. S. Weather Bureau official count of 35 wet and 133 dry.

May, so far, has been the wettest month of the year both in amount of rainfall and number of days when moisture was recorded on Courthouse lawn. There is still time for June, however, to push ahead at least in the number of rainy days.

Total moisture in May counts up to 6.35 inches officially in 8 days of rain. In one stretch, starting May 3, rain fell 6 consecutive days in amounts ranging from a trace up to 1.45 inches.

Seven days so far this month, June, has seen rainfall, but the total is only 2.70 inches compared to May's 6.35. A couple of more days of moisture, will push its days total higher than May.

January has been the driest month of the year. During those opening 31 days, traces of moisture were recorded three days and .08-inch was counted on the 29th. That's all.

February had six days of rain and a total of 1.12. That was almost equal to March when 1.20 rain fell in six days.

April, like January, had only four rain days. It made most of 'em, though, for 1.74 inches of moisture and the third highest total of the six months.

All total, right up until now the rainfall adds up to 13.09 inches.

The best part about it for most farmers and ranchers is that it fell over 35 days in the six-month period. That's not true altogether, especially in the last few weeks when some farmers, mostly north and east of Colorado City, received almost that much in less than three weeks.

That kind of rainfall hurt. It ruined some crops already planted, kept numerous farmers out of fields too long and delayed their plantings to danger schedule with harvest dates and caused thousands of dollars of land and terrace damage.

The same rain, with lawns getting soaked at ready intervals and temperatures down, slimmed down the demands of municipal water and kept water bills from soaring.

Through it all, mostly in the June rainfall, the city's two lakes pulled in big catches of water sorely needed.

Lake Champion caught a total of 6.5 feet-raising water elevation from 2051.60 to 2058.10.

Lake Colorado City gained 5.7 feet, moving up from 2058.25 to 2063.95 elevation.

Sun has blistered Colorado City the last few days, sending temperature soaring to 103 degrees officially Thursday. Needless to say, that dries us out pretty quick.

In fact, there has been blow damage already in scattered areas of the county to young planted crops.

TESTING
designed to his particular capabilities.

During the spring and summer of 1968, Colorado City schools administered 40 psychological tests to determine intellectual ability of students. This year the number went up to 47.

These tests separate those who are educable mental retarded but who still can be taught a trade and trained to function in society and the "slow learners."

From these psychological tests students who have learning problems--such as distorted visual perception, visual motor problems, lacking of fine motor control and even emotional disturbances--are detected.

Speech evaluation is at the top of the list in the evaluations--a total of 871 during the last school all in the first six grades.

Four hundred sixty were tested in Primary School with 82 found to have defective speech.

Of 281 tested in Hutchinson Elementary, 35 were found with defective speech and at Wallace Elementary the count was 7 in 130.

On a percentage basis, that amounts to slightly more than one in every eight students.

To determine these speech evaluations, the specialists administered the Hejira Articulation--a quick screening device to break student skills into developmental age levels.

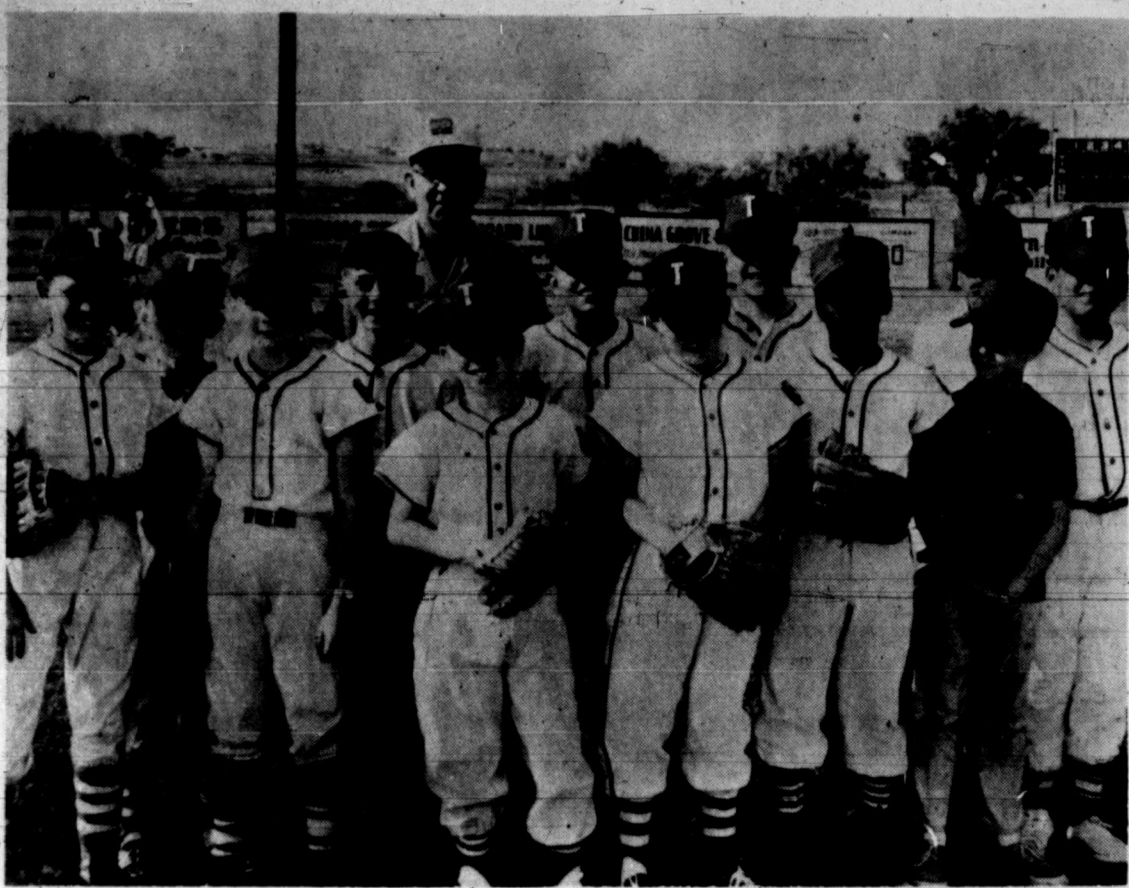

Oral Mechanical Structure & Function--a clinical test designed to assess oral language syntax and vocabulary. If the student has trouble in recall, there is an indication of possible other language problems or disabilities such as rhythm disorders (stuttering), language and voice disorders or hearing loss.

All of the evaluations amount up to a specialized field which, in the past, has usually been available only to those large school districts which have huge budgets.

What the board is learning from Keeth's report is that Colorado City schools--with an opportunity for these specialists now through the Region 14 center--are wanting to start fitting the moving into the program for the maximum benefit of students and teachers.

Impatient?

Sure you are. But it is only a short time on the calendar before you get what you have been asking for. It's in bringing it.

Randolph Receives Medal

Sergeant Randolph distinguished himself as a jet engine technician at Cam Ranh Bay Air Base.

He was cited for his professional skill and initiative in the performance of his duties.

The Commendation Medal was presented during ceremonies at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, Ariz., where he is now serving in a unit of the Tactical Air Command.

Randolph, a graduate of Midland High School, is the son of Mrs. Sibyl Collier of Midland and the husband of the former Shirley A. Cline of Colorado City.

ANNIVERSARY GEMS

Those of you who have fond memories of a wedding in June will find anniversary time rolling around soon. If it has been some time, it may be that this year's date will be a most significant one for you. Many years ago, the Jewelry Industry Council standardized a list of gifts for special anniversaries. This ended the confusion that had existed as to which year was the one to give china, silver, clocks, etc.

Most important, of course, are the anniversaries marked by a particular gem, such as the Diamond Jubilee for 60 years of marriage. Others are 10 years - diamond jewelry; 12 - pearls or colored gems; 14 - gold jewelry; 30 - diamond; 35 - jade; 40 - ruby; 45 - sapphire; 50 - Golden Jubilee; and 55 - emerald. Silverware is given for the 5th anniversary, silver hollowware for the 16th, and of course, the 25th is the Silver Jubilee.

While we usually think of these items in terms of wedding anniversaries, they are also appropriate for other commemorative occasions. I am reminded of this since it happens to be the 35th Anniversary of an organization that I am proud to belong to - The American Gem Society. This association of fine jewelers, gemologists and educators was founded in 1934 by Robert M. Shipley, "Father of the Gemological Movement in the United States". It is symbolized by jade - called "Jewel of Heaven" - which is representative of long, fortunate years.
