Largest Show to Date Set for Quarter Horse Breeders

Early indications are that this year's Quarter Horse Show to be held in connection with the Collingsworth County Free Fair Friday, September 1, will be considerably larger than last year's said, Horace Small, chairman, said this week as he announced plans for the event.

This is the third annual show to be held here and is approved by the American Quarter Horse Association.

Notices have been sent to approximately 250 quarter horse breeders and owners throughout the southwest and at least a hundred animals are expected in the show, which in its short history has become one of the outstanding shows of the Panhandle.

There will be both performance and halter classes although horses entered in the performance event do not have to show at halter, Small said.

There is a $5 entry fee and $5 performance fee, and the deadline for entries is show time. Those mailing entries, however, should address them to Horace Small at 1410 Dalhart Street, Wellington.

There will be handsome trophies and ribbons for all classes and trophies for the barrel race, which will be the performance event.

Cliff Campbell will be the ringmaster and Frank Anderson is secretary.

Johnny Stevens of Matador will judge the show.

There will be classes for mares and stallions foaled from 1961 down to 1957 or before. There will also be three classes of geldings, those foaled in 1959; 1957 and 1958; and 1956 or before.

A grand champion mare, stallion and gelding will be chosen.

Wildcat Site East of Lutie Set by Monsanto

Collingsworth came in the oil and gas spotlight again this week with the announcement that Monsanto Chemical Company, one of the nation's largest industrial complexes, will drill a wildcat seven miles east of Lutie on land owned by Mrs. T. T. Fain of Canyon and managed by her son, Everett Fain.

This test is considered a rank wildcat, and is six miles from the nearest production.

According to the intention filed with the Pampa office of the Texas Railroad Commission the well will be drilled to a depth of 3,000 feet, which will take it into the dolomite.

The location is 660 feet from the south line and 1980 feet from the west line of section 16, block 12. This is about 13 miles northeast of Wellington on a direct line, and is just north of FM Highway 1439.

This block was first worked up about a year and a half ago by Grardige Corp., of Breckenridge, a new firm but noted among oil men for its strength. Also interested in the venture and buying a share in the block was the Abercrombie Oil Company of Houston, one of the major Texas operators with most of its drilling operations in the Gulf Coast area.

Monsanto Chemical, which operates world-wide, acquired an interest in the drilling block during the spring, and operating through Lion Oil Company, which it owns, began picking up additional leases to consolidate the block.

Complicating this step considerably is the fact that in this area are two sections which were leased several years ago by Fort Worth operators, and then assigned in 5 and 10 acre tracts. These leases are held by owners from Maine and Quebec to California and Hawaii.

None of these owners, so far as is known, has ever seen his lease. No royalty or mineral rights were involved in the sale, and while some of the leases were dropped after a year or two, a number are still drawing rental money.

Lion Oil Company and Monsanto Chemical have been able to buy part of these lease tracts, according to instruments filed in the office of the county clerk, Mrs. Lorene Jenkins.

This location is approximately 4 miles from any drilling activity of recent years, and that was at Aberdeen.

Officers Out to Hunt Their Own Lost Property

Local law enforcement officers are especially eager to locate a bob-tailed Charbray steer.

It is (or was) owned jointly by Sheriff John Rainey, Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Hodge and Police Chief Troy Marsh.

The 600 pound animal has been missing several weeks, but the officers first thought someone was enjoying a practical joke. They also remembered the former owner said the animal was breachy.

But to date, they have found neither hair nor hide, particularly the latter since it is admissible as court evidence.

"It would be embarrassing if the steer is stolen," Marsh remarked.

Bobkitten Killed on Road Near Buck Creek Bridge

Modern transportation was too much for one of the area's creatures of the wild, a bobkitten run over Friday night, August 4, just south of Buck Creek Bridge on Highway #3.

Ed Haynes, in charge of maintenance for the Highway Department, brought the dead kitten to town Saturday morning. He estimated its weight at around 15 pounds.

Bobcats are seldom seen along well traveled roads of the area.

Traffic Laws

Public opinion could force the adoption of uniform traffic laws throughout the country, thereby saving countless lives, a spokesman for one of the nation's automobile insurers said recently.

"The lives that could be saved by such a reform could never be counted, nor could the pain and suffering that would be spared untold thousands ever be fully documented," he declared.

A look at the past year's highway traffic toll indicates that such a program would be based on fact rather than fancy. Reports show that violations of traffic laws figured in more than 80 per cent of all personal injury accidents last year. "We believe," said the spokesman, "that in at least some of these cases confusion and misunderstanding of the law caused the violations."

As an example of this, he pointed out that signal lights mean different things in various parts of the country. One state stipulates that an amber light is a walk light for pedestrians while in a neighboring state, the amber light merely denotes caution before the red signals are flashed. In one state a motorist stops immediately when the amber lights come on because he knows it is a walk light. If he did the same thing in the next state the car behind would slam into him.

Warning signs differ from state to state, speed limits change radically and road markings vary. In one state it is proper to make a right turn on a red light; in another, this constitutes running a red light. Reporting procedures vary from town to town and many towns even fail to report non-fatal accidents. The varied interpretation of operating-under-the-influence laws throughout the country make national studies on this complex safety problem nearly impossible.

The need for uniform traffic laws in the nation is only too obvious to the public which must cope with this dangerous state of confusion.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

Big move is on to suppress moonlighting, which is the science of one man working at two places, while another fellow who couldn't hold down either job, revels in unemployment reward.

My equal-righteous neighbor says there are lots of cases where a man has to work at one job to support his family, and another job to help support the U. S. and other needy governments.

But he claims it is rankly unfair to load down some men with work while others get to hog all the benefits of paid leisure.

My thankful heart neighbor says some people all the time are running down the government, but he is pretty well pleased with it.

Says these discontented citizens just don't remember how tough it was back when folks had to cope with their troubles by themselves.

Whereas, nowadays, a man gets out of a job, wants his fellowman to love him, desires a fancier house or a better place to fish, and Washington snatches the problem right out of his hands and gives it an egghead hypo.

A lot of the drag has been taken off of Progress by fixing it so old people of 62 can now retire on their little bread-and-margarine pensions and get out of youth's way.

My time-tuckered neighbor says he is highly in favor of this development, as he is getting tired of hearing untempered brains harping on what a mess his generation has got the world into.

Says getting unharnessed early will preserve him longer to enjoy watching the present crop of high-torque youth getting its ears dried off.

Little Miss Caroline Kennedy gets considerable press mention these days, and there is no doubt she is more interesting than Berlin or taxes.

But my repeating grandpa neighbor says too much Caroline will be bad public relations for the Kennedy folks on account of people with cute youngsters of their own are apt to resent somebody else's kids getting over-noticed.

Says lots of formerly good friends now dodge him, since he practiced up to where he can beat them in a grandchild picture draw.

Big university has decided to drop its course in Contemporary Civilization, because of not being able to find anybody to teach same.

My civilimpid neighbor says this is pretty embarrassing, and with nobody to teach Civilization, it may die out, which could be for the best, but we would miss it.

Says some folks don't actually use it much any more, going around only partly clothed, cooking in the yard, etc., but Civilization is still a comfort to people who don't like to hunt and fish.

A Rev. Mr. McNaspy says there is a cultural explosion going on, as he notes more New York people go to art museums than go to watch baseball.

My culture-expert neighbor says we don't have a museum nor a baseball team around here, so we don't have this handy means of measuring the community's culture level.

Says we still just use the regular old American yardstick to appraise people's culture; you got money, you got culture.

Mrs. T. D. Connelly, Judy and Rhonda, and two of Mrs. Horton's great grandchildren, Terry and Shebra Howard, all of Odessa, returned home Monday after a week's visit. Mrs. Connelly is Mrs. Horton's daughter, and she also visited her sister, Mrs. W. D. Cleveland.

Guests over the week end were Mrs. Mack Horton of Lillie, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGarry and three children of Oklahoma City; a brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Horton of Amherst; Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Shipley of Littlefield; Mrs. Horton's sister, Mrs. F. A. Rush of Vernon and the latter's son, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Rush of Pampa.

Hot As It Is

IT'S TIME TO CHECK YOUR WINTER HOME HEATING

Summertime is the best time for Wellington residents to check their home heating needs, according to B. J. Thogmartin, local Lone Star Gas Company manager.

"Cold weather has a way of sometimes hitting without much warning," the Lone Star manager said. "In the interest of your health and convenience, Lone Star is urging all homeowners to compare their existing heating equipment with the family's needs."

Mr. Thogmartin pointed out that by checking now, the homeowner can avoid last minute calls for equipment and service during cold weather when heating contractors are experiencing their busiest season. Lone Star is offering special discounts on gas heating equipment during its annual pre-season heating sales campaign in August and September.

Vented gas heating equipment with its automatic controls is recognized as being safe and dependable and is most economic to operate, said the Lone Star manager.

Lone Star is stressing fresh air heat which minimizes stale air and stuffiness in a home. It aids also in controlling the amount of moisture released in a home by body heat and such-day-to-day living habits as bathing and cooking.

The gas company's engineers point out that this stale air condition is controlled to a degree in older homes by air leakage around windows and doors. In newer homes, which have tighter construction and more insulation, normal outside air leakage usually is insufficient.

But, in new gas central heating installations, provisions for adequate outside air can be made easily by providing a fresh air intake in the return duct system, the engineers reported.

Lone Star is offering a special discount on gas lights with the purchase of a vented gas heating system during the heating campaign, the Lone Star manager said.

Reunion a Well-Run Organization Bringing Together Twelve Families

The first week end in August every year the twelve children of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. Z. Land gather at the Land camp ground on Buck Creek for a family reunion.

Six years ago when the group started gathering there, little was there except the lovely grove of trees. Over the last six years the ones who live close enough come for week ends to work. They have built permanent picnic tables through the center of the grove and on the north side is a large barbecue pit. They have also dug a well, by hand, which flows continuously from the time the first one arrives until the last one to leave shuts off the motor. The well is fenced with a high fence to be made safe from small inquiring hands. The continuous stream of water provides many hours of entertainment for the small children as they build many lakes and dams.

To the north of the well is an enclosed shower. Water for the shower is stored in barrels on top of the shower frame. It is a chilly shower perhaps but who could complain on a hot August night. On the south side of the camp ground is the sleeping quarters and everything from cots, sleeping bags to house trailers are set up here. Around 6:30 on Saturday evening supper is served. This consists of stew which has simmered all day in an old fashion iron wash pot, hung low over a bed of coals. The stew is made by Jiggs Land of Amarillo. Served with the stew is sour dough biscuits made by Pete Land of Hedley, also fried potatoes and many other things.

Even dish washing at the Land camp is made easy by two large vats placed near the well. Water for dish washing is heated in the vats by a portable butane bottle.

Any one who dares to doze off before midnight is awakened by the smell of old fashioned ginger bread baking. This is baked in the dutch ovens and served around midnight with steaming cups of coffee. Along with the smell of gingerbread is the smell of slowly cooking barbecue which is being prepared for the noon meal on Sunday. Barbecue chef is Pete Land of Clarendon.

Zebbie Land of Pampa is in charge of the barbecue chicken.

Breakfast is served just about sun up Sunday morning with the same cooks preparing the meal.

Much visiting and taking pictures goes on during Sunday. After the noon meal is served the group begin loading the trailers and cars for the trip home and looking forward to next year's reunion.

Local T-Patchers Home from Training

NORTH FORT HOOD, Tex. —Toughened T-Patchers from Wellington returned sun-bronzed and chigger-bitten from their second week in the field Thursday to prepare for their return home Sunday.

The National Guardsmen of Texas' 36th Infantry Division, upon their arrival at their home armories, will have undergone their most intensive 2-week training period since World War II.

Realism was marked not only in weather and warfare, but in wonder, too — whether or not the Guardsmen would be suddenly called to active duty while in training here.

The call did not come. But as they climbed the rock-hewn hills and fired on the vast valleys of this 322-square mile military post, the T-Patchers proved they were ready.

Humor rose with the rumors that first week. Men of the 2d Medium Tank Battalion set the mood with chalk-scribbled slogans "Berlin Bound" and "Castro Cannery" on their turtlets.

For the most part, the rest of the division responded in the same spirit — if not in the same manner.

The 67 Wellington Guardsmen from Company E of the Division's 1st Battle Group, 142nd Infantry, along with a rifle and weapons platoon in Shamrock. Company commander is Capt. Willard R. Haral.

They trained long hours in combat courses — squad tactics, weapons firing and the rugged Army Training Tests which completed the squad-level training for the division.

This means that the 36th Division is at its highest state of readiness in peacetime history. Back at their home armories, units will immediately move into the higher platoon-level type training.

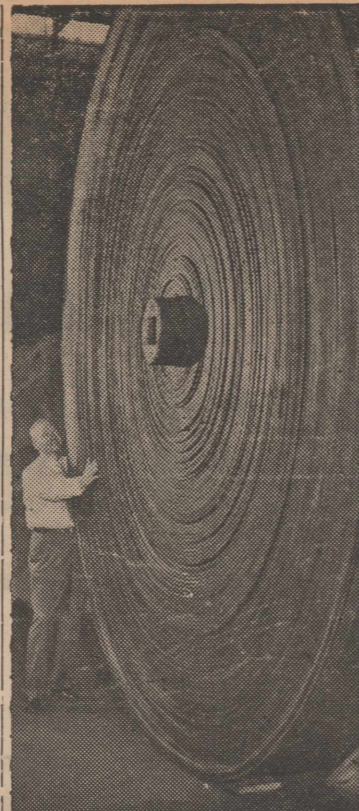

The Guardsmen can expect more drills this next year at home too.

"We could well prepare for more week-night and more Sunday drills, and possibly extended summer active duty training next year," said Maj. Gen. Carl L. Phinney, division commander from Dallas.

As for the past training period here, Gen. Phinney praised his T-Patchers for their ranking accomplishments.

"Our men made good progress on the Army Training Tests, and did what I think a first class job in all categories," he said.

This marked the 14th summer encampment of the 36th since its reorganization after World War II, and General Phinney's eighth as division commander.

Wellington Stocker Likes Coast Calves

By ELMER SUMMERS
Agriculture Editor
The Houston Chronicle
WELLINGTON—L. C. Hill, 41, tells me I am here in the heart of the best stocker-feeder part of Texas, or possibly the entire United States.

Hill, a tall, friendly man, speaks with restraint. But he impressed me as knowing as much about stocker feeder cattle as any other person I ever met.

He feeds out about 1600 steers annually. He also looks after some 2500 acres of partly irrigated cropland, which he owns. This cropland produces wheat and cotton.

He buys his stocker feeder steers in October at average weights of 410 pounds each and sells them to feedlots the next October. The steers gain about 350 pounds each.

He makes more profit from mixed or crossbred calves he buys from Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and the Texas Gulf Coast than he does from the West Texas regions. Calves from the Southeastern states are cheaper. They can be bought from 19 to 20 cents a pound as against 25 cents for West Texas calves; and the southern calves gain as rapidly as the others.

At the feedlots last October, he sold his West Texas calves at an average weight of about 760 pounds for 22 cents and his southern calves for 20 cents. As I figure it, this means he made a net profit of $9.10 per head more on the southern calves than on the West Texas calves.

More Profit on Southern Calves

Here are the figures! A West Texas steer weighing 410 pounds, cost 25 cents a pound, or a total of $102.50 delivered. Sold a year later at a weight of 70 pounds at 22 cents a pound, or a total of $167.20, a profit of $64.70.

A southern or Texas Gulf Coast steer at 410 pounds bought for 20 cents a pound (although Hill said he had bought some for as low as 19 cents delivered), cost $82.00. Sold a year later at 760 pounds for 20½ cents a pound or a total of $155.80, a profit of $73.80.

Hill says a net profit of $20 a head, after deducting every expense, is about average, although losses of $25 a head have occurred.

Hay Is an Expensive Item
However, last year profits running as high as $50 a head were reported by some of the Wellington area stocker feeders.

A stocker feeder operator should not be confused with a feed lot operator. The stocker feeder conditions or matures steers for the feedlot operator, who then finishes the steers for the packers.

The stocker feeder obtains most, or all of his calves, at weaning time from cow and calf operators. The Texas Gulf Coast and the southeastern states ranchers are cow and calf raisers.

Hill thinks cow and calf operations are excellent for the southeast states and the Texas Gulf Coast. This is because there is an abundance of grass between calving and weaning time in the Spring and summer.

But for stocker feeding it is a different story. Southern cattle have to be fed expensive hay because southern grasses fall apart and decay during the rainy weather season. They have little nutritive value.

Brahman Crosses Favored
Hence a year around stocker feeder operation in the south will likely turn out unprofitable. Expensive hay will eat up the profits.

Hill says he is particularly impressed with the stocker-feeder performance of Southern calves of 20 to 30 per cent Brahman cross. All in all he says they are thrifter and gain faster than the other cattle. But he said feedlot operators are reluctant to take steers of more than 30 per cent Brahman because they are unable to obtain a good government grade on them.

He said mixed breed cattle primarily are now going to Arizona and California, but an increasing amount of them are showing up in Kansas and Iowa feedlots.

Stocker Feeders Double Production

If fed a full 120 days, Hill thinks the mixed breed cattle will come out of the lots with possibly 75 per cent grading choice and the other 25 per cent one half "good" and the other half "standard".

The Wellington area began originally as a cattle country. Then between 50 and 60 per cent went to farming. Possibly 40 per cent of its ranching is a cow and calf operation but now 60 per cent is stocker feeder.

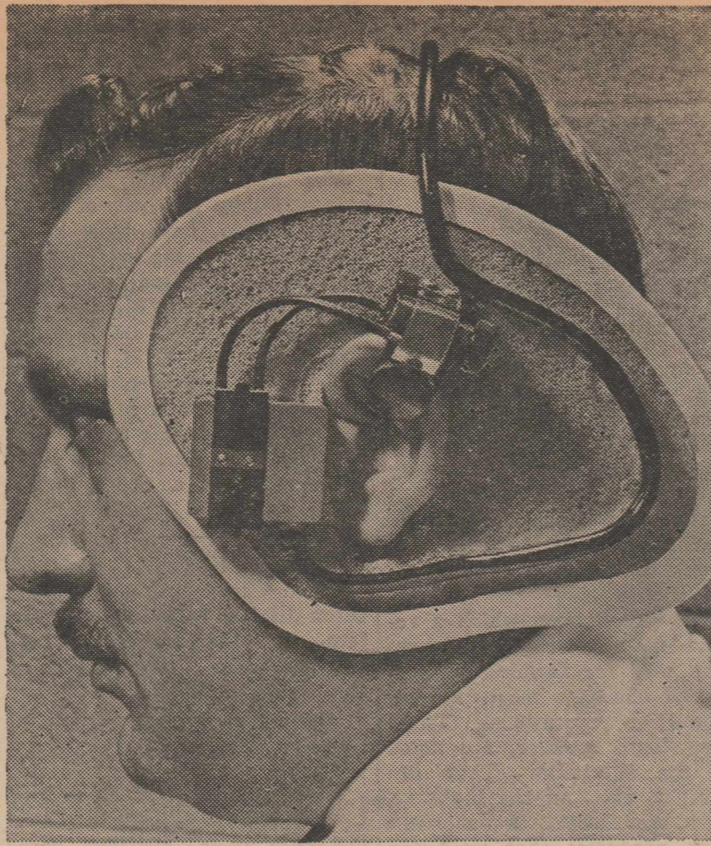

The reason for this, Hill explained is that three steers each with an average weight gain of 350 pounds, can be raised on the same acreage as a cow and calf, the calf weighing only 500 pounds.

Thus a Wellington cattleman can raise more than twice as much beef as a stocker feeder than he can as a cow and calf operator. The stocker feeder steers on the average gain about 100 pounds during the winter and 260 during the summer from May 1 to October 15.

Hill says interesting changes take place in light boned, short haired steers from the south after they reach Wellington. Their bones get larger, their hair becomes long and their hides become loose like the packers want. In other words, after a few months here, the Southern cattle take on the appearance of native West Texas cattle.

It Worked for the Better

Because of the poor appearance of southern steers, packers, he said, prefer a 700-

MECHANICAL NURSE—This contraption is not meant for amateur radio enthusiasts. It is a device which automatically checks a person's blood pressure, pulse, breathing and temperature. Intended for use with critically ill patients, it signals medical personnel if trouble develops.

pound calf from Wellington over a 700-pound calf from the south. As feeder stockers, Hill says he finds the southern calves just as good, or better than native calves.

Farm technology and science Hill says, has had a terrific impact on agriculture in the Wellington area (Collingsworth County). Approximately 15 per cent of the farm lands are irrigated with wells 140 feet deep and flowing 750 gallons per minute.

But the biggest impact is that 6500 persons in the county are now producing 30 per cent more food and fiber than 20,000 did 40 years ago in 1920. Hill thinks the number will eventually level off to about 4500 persons.

He says this has worked out for the better. Those who moved to town improved their economic situation and those who remained on larger farm units also are doing better. Small farming operations just don't get the job done.

By arrangement, Hill grazes 1000 of his stocker feeders on the famed Mill Iron Ranch in the shadow of Wellington. He grazes these at the rate of one head to every 15 acres. He grazes the other 600 on winter wheat at the rate of one to every three acres.

He tells an interesting story about the origin of the Mill Iron. The ground was laid back in 1883 when two Englishmen, the Right Honorable Edward Majorbanks, Baron of Tweedmouth and John Campbell Hamilton Gordon, Earl of Aberdeen, bought 235 section (640 acres to section) from Earl Spencer and John Drew for about 13 cents an acre or $28,800.

Rancher Commutes by Airplane

The two Englishmen after a few years became discouraged to the late Col. William E. Hughes for $75,000. Colonel Hughes changed the name of the property from "Rocking Chair Ranch" to Mill Iron, which is a going concern. Its acting manager is William E. Hughes, a great-grandson of the founder. He is aided by two brothers, Charles and Lafayette.

Hughes has a residence on the ranch, about 15 miles from Wellington, but he also has offices in Denver. He commutes by airplane.

The late Colonel Hughes sold off parts of the ranch to its present size of 50 sections to settlers. The legal end of these transactions was handled by the late Judge E. H. Small, father of Attorney Clint Small Sr., of Austin. The late Judge Small continued to handle legal affairs of the ranch after the death of Colonel Hughes in 1920. Today, Clint Small Jr.,

also of Austin, handles the legal affairs of the ranch.

Clint Small Sr., is the father of Mrs. John T. Jones of Houston, Mrs. L. C. Hill is a cousin of Mrs. Jones.

Besides Collingsworth County, the Mill Iron has other land in Hall and Motley counties and at one time in Matador.

The first settlement in Baltimore was made in 1662.

Gilberts Home from Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilbert returned home last week after a three weeks vacation spent with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Lyon, Edd and Lou of Darien, Conn., and visiting various points of interest in the New York area.

In New York Harbor they went on a guided tour of the large aircraft carrier, the USS Essex, which carries 44 planes and 6000 Navy personnel. They also enjoyed sailing one day in the Lyon's sail boat, going out to Long Island.

The group visited several of the noted old Churches and other places of historical interest, and they enjoyed seeing the Broadway show, "My Fair Lady", attended the popular TV Quiz show, "Whom Do You Trust", and while over in the state of Rhode Island, saw the stage show, "Oklahoma", which they found to be much more popular in that area than in its home state of Oklahoma and this vicinity.

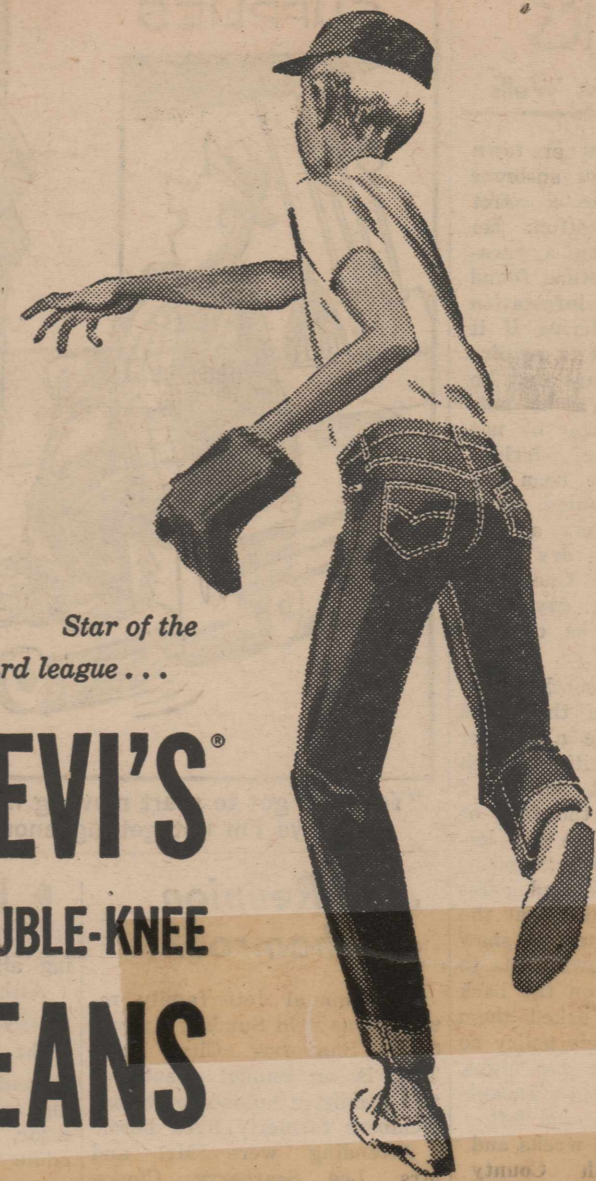

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert drove in their car to Oklahoma City and went on to New York City by Jet plane, making the return trip the same way.

Lonnie W. Fuson of Wellington received his master of education degree from the University of Oklahoma, Norman, at the commencement ceremonies Sunday evening, August 6.

He was one of 187 to receive masters of education. Fuson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fuson and a graduate of Wellington high school.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

Tom Berry was in town Monday looking for someone to help him make a count of insects in his cotton. He had been away on a vacation and on his return found some boll weevil infestation and he was wondering if it was heavy enough to require poisoning. He says that he lost about a third of his potential crop last year by not poisoning in time. Irrigation farmers have been using poison for some time. Better start making an inspection that dry land cotton regularly. One rain and a few cloudy days and the pests would be on the march.

A couple of smooth salesmen were in town this week and fixed up quite a number of our prominent citizens with a limited accident policy. I did not buy. On the face of the policy printed in big letters in red, it said: "Limited Accident Policy — read carefully." But I noticed that the salesmen did not seem to show any interest in allowing me to read what it said on the back of the policy. I asked them to leave me a sample policy so I could read it over that night, but they politely and pleasantly took their policy and left.

Only three more weeks and the Collingsworth County Free Fair will be open. The exhibits should be better than ever and I thought they were wonderful last year. There is something about a fair that has a fascinating appeal to the gregarious instinct in people as well as their pride in accomplishment.

Spent a delightful weekend at my brother-in-law's lodge at Lake Kickapoo near Wichita Falls. Such an outing makes you wonder if we will ever have such a lake within twenty or thirty miles of Wellington. All I did was loaf, swim, read and go boat riding. I read Frank X. Tolbert's "An Informal History of Texas" — a most interesting and informative narrative.

building for his congregation. "We have a building, but the University of Frankfurt has bought it. They are going to build a radioactive materials testing laboratory on the grounds, testing such materials as U-238. In return, they have given us a new site directly across the street," Seidmeyer said.

Min. Seidmeyer serves two congregations in the same church, one made up of German residents of the city, the other of American service personnel. Services are conducted separately. To serve the German congregation, Henry and Frances Seidmeyer have learned to speak German fluently.

"As a minister, Seidmeyer's work is not very different from that here. It's more evangelistic than here," he explained, but people are pretty much the same all over the world.

"There are some differences, though, in background and customs. As far as free will contributions for the church are concerned, that is a new experience, for in the state church they have been taxed through the years. This tax is taken out of their pay check each week like our social security," he continued.

There are two state churches in Germany, Lutheran and Catholic.

Is there an upsurge of religious feeling in Germany as is often claimed in the United States?

Seidmeyer said greater interest was found immediately after the war, but now that the country is becoming economically stable, "we find there is a tendency to be less interested in religion," he finds.

Here he digressed slightly: "You hear of the miracle of German economic resurgence.

To us who are there, it is no miracle at all. Somewhere I have heard that other people live to work. That explains why the German people have made such a comeback.

On this trip home, Min. and Mrs. Seidmeyer introduced to family and friends their four year old daughter, Cindi Renee, whom they have adopted since going to Frankfurt. She received her naturalization papers while the family was in Wellington.

Their two sons are Henry Earl, 15, and Robert Ellis, 10. In serving his congregation at Frankfurt, Min. Seidmeyer is only 30 miles from the town where his great-grandfather lived, Darmstadt.

Reared at Dallas, Min. Seidmeyer attended Southern Methodist University and Abilene Christian College. He was a minister of churches in Dallas, Gainesville and Seymour before going to Frankfurt.

He and his family have traveled extensively, and he has visited in 23 countries on four continents, conducting gospel meetings in many cities including Berlin and London.

Arriving Tuesday to visit Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Graham were their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Graham, Cynthia and Martha, of Harlingen. They also had as their guests last week end a grandson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gosnell and two small children of Norman, Oklahoma.

Vicki Jo Kendrick of Perryton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kendrick, is spending this week with Micky Ann Kendrick.

Farmers Advised to Ask for Gas Tax Refund

College Station — Farmers are reminded by County Agent Bob Lynch of their eligibility for a refund of the 4-cent per gallon Federal gasoline tax on that used for farming purposes. The claim should include all eligible gasoline gallonage purchased between July 1, 1960 and June 30, 1961.

The claim for refund should be filed on Form 2240 and not later than September 30, Lynch said.

The gasoline on which a refund may be claimed covers that used for farming purposes and includes most normal production operations. Three exceptions, however, are noted by the specialist. They are gasoline used on the highway, even though for transporting farm products; that used for processing, packaging, freezing or canning operations and that used for non-farming or personal purposes.

Records of fuel purchases should be kept to verify the refund request and care should be exercised to avoid inaccurate or excessive claims, Lynch said. He noted that Form 2240 does not apply to diesel and special motor fuels. Farmers who have questions regarding taxes on these fuels are advised to contact an Internal Revenue Service director.

Richmond Honors Fighting Secretary

An impressive statue of Mirabeau Buonaparte Lamar, valiant military hero and acclaimed Father of Education in Texas, stands in Richmond, Texas, southwest of Houston. Lamar served as Secretary of War and was the commander of the cavalry at the Battle of San Jacinto.

He was well known for his service both as president and vice president of the Republic of Texas, and was instrumental in securing a public endowment for Texas schools.

Suicides Up, TB, Flu down as Killers

Of interest from the 1960 provisional death rate estimates is that suicides accounted for 820 Texas deaths for a rate of 8.5, the same as 1959.

Suicides cause more Texas deaths each year—during the last few years—than tuberculosis or influenza, both former leading causes 30 years ago.

Homicides claimed 695 deaths in Texas during 1960, slightly less than the year before. Accidents, suicides and homicides, while claiming too many Texas lives, still rank far down the list compared to "natural" causes numerically.
