True Essentials of Success

Self-Confidence, self-respect and self-control—these constitute the true essentials of success.

True success is not a matter of accident. It is attained only through earnest effort and constant perseverance. A bank account, steadfastly maintained and added to is the first and most important step.

HEAVY RAINS BREAK LONG DROUTH IN THIS SECTION

Last Friday, this section of the state was visited by an inch rain; which was followed on Saturday and Sunday by about two inches, giving the ground a thorough soaking, and breaking a drouth which had gripped this section for several months.

Farmers are optimistic, feeling that they have a good chance yet to make a bumper crop, with such a splendid season to start on—and why not? It is just now cotton planting time. A "million dollar rain," yes!

Later: It continues to rain. It rained practically all night on Wednesday night.

Rev. Sam Steele and wife, of May, were here Sunday, visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Joyce. The two families are old friends, having met some 40 years ago in the May community (but May was not there then). Rev. Steele has resided in that community for fifty years, and has pastored one Baptist church near May for thirty years.

There have been many changes in the past fifty years, and it is interesting to listen to Rev. Steele talk of conditions as they were a half century ago. He has a son, Geo. Steele, who resides few miles south of town.

JOINT MOTHERS' DAY SERVICE HERE SUNDAY WEEK

The churches of the town will hold a joint service on the streets here Mothers' Day, May 10. Rev. Collins Presbyterian pastor, will make an address, and the band will give some special numbers appropriate for the occasion. The services will be held at nine o'clock in the morning in order to get through for Sunday School at 10 o'clock. A joint service was conducted here last year and it was very impressive.

I. L. Patterson, and family of Delhi, Colorado, are visiting his father, D. N. Patterson, and sister, Mrs. John Price, of this city. Mr. Patterson formerly resided here, but left here in 1916. He paid the Review office a pleasant visit and subscribed for the Review this week.

Dewey Eddington and Homer and Elmer Phillips of Echo were here on business Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Flippen, John Keller, Elmer Triplett, R. McKenney, Pat Shirley, Lonnie Eddington, Good Woodridge, G. B. and W. F. Gaines, were among the many visitors from the Cross Cut section this week.

BIG DELEGATION WILL GO TO MINERAL WELLS CONVENTION

It is difficult to estimate the number who will go from here to attend the West Texas C of C Convention at Mineral Wells next week, but if all go who are planning to do so, there will be several hundred in the Cross Plains delegation, it is figured. Some will remain for all three days, while others only plan to spend a day or two. The Convention opens Monday and runs for three days.

The Cross Plains sponsors, Mrs. R. F. Townsend, as Madame and Miss Pauline Bond as Miss Cross Plains, accompanied by their escorts, R. F. Townsend and Paul V. Harrell, plan to leave here on Sunday.

The band is arranging to leave here Monday evening or early Tuesday morning, in order to be in the big joint concert with all the represented bands, at nine o'clock Tuesday morning.

The big pageant will be staged on Tuesday night, and on Wednesday the Cross Plains band will contest for the first honors in the second year class. The Cross Plains delegation will be especially interested in these features.

A large number are planning to drive to the Convention city Sunday in order to be on the ground Monday morning, while some will not go until Tuesday. Those who have not made reservations, should make arrangements to camp while there. Camp lots and equipment may be rented at the various camp sites, including tents, cots, etc.

The big delegation parade will come off at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. Be sure to follow the Cross Plains Band in this parade.

Cross Plains headquarters will be at the Johnson & Johnson Drug Store. For detailed information, see F. M. Gwin, secretary of the Cross Plains Chamber of Commerce.

BAND CONCERT SUNDAY ENJOYED BY THE HUNDREDS

Hundreds of people were out early Sunday afternoon, to get a good location, and hear the band concert, but many were unable to get close in, so large was the crowd. The weather was very threatening, but it did not move the crowd. They were there to enjoy the concert—and those who did not enjoy it were not there.

BUYS BRICK FOR NEW COLD STORAGE PLANT HERE

The Barry Bros. who have Ice plants at a number of towns in this part of the state, are putting in cold storage plant here. They have just placed an order for 30,000 brick for the cold storage plant here, placing the order through a local firm. They plan to be ready to handle the turkey crop this fall. Work on the storage vault and ice room is already under way. The concrete foundation has practically been completed.

Cross Plains has long needed a plant of this character. They are building just north of the railroad track on east side of main street.

STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT BEGINNING IMMEDIATE IMPROVEMENTS

District State Highway engineer, Geo. Franklin was in town Wednesday in company with Federal highway engineer, Sexton, and with supt. H. L. Vestal and F. M. Gwin, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce made inspections of the necessary grade improvements to prepare for the application of an asphalt top on highway 23 from the corner of main and 8th streets in Cross Plains to the city of Coleman. Mr. Vestal stated later that according to instructions grading will begin Monday at this end of the line and all property owners along the route of this highway should take immediate steps to remove or bury to a good depth all gas and water lines running from the street to private residences thus saving delays and unnecessary damage after the work begins.

An engineering crew has begun work this week on the preliminary surveys for the new State Highway from Cross Plains to Putnam and it is understood this road will also be under construction as soon as the surveys and other preliminaries of right of way etc. can be disposed of.

COLUMBUS' MAP FOUND IN PARIS

Original Drawing Used in Plea to Spanish Queen Discovered.

Paris.—Paris has made a new discovery in the archives of the National library. It is perhaps due to the fact that after years of inadequate lighting facilities electricity has finally made a triumphant entry into its dim stacks, but from whatever cause a discovery of peculiar interest to Americans has been made. Hidden away among many old manuscripts a French scholar has found . . . but it is better to give the story in the words of George G. Toudouze, who tells it in Le Figaro.

"Once upon a time—this is not a fairy tale—there was stowed away in a box in the National library in Paris a superb manuscript map, measuring about a yard long and a little less than three-quarters of a yard high. It was a planisphere design, painted and written on pure parchment. This map had been acquired in 1849 at a sale of the effects of Comte de Challus, for the modest sum of 250 francs. Once added to the possessions of the library it was left hidden away until the learned Konrad Kertschmer, master of geographic sciences in Berlin, happened to glance at it. He there and then pronounced it 'a Sixteenth century Portuguese map.' Under this categorical description it continued to slumber undisturbed in its retreat.

German Savant Missed Mark.

"But it chanced that one day Charles de la Ronciere came across it and his interest was at once arrested by the splendid specimen. A Portuguese planisphere? of the sixteenth century? What did this strange description mean? After prolonged analysis, De la Ronciere was able to announce that Konrad Kertschmer had absolutely no idea of discrimination—date, author, origin, value, everything had escaped his appreciation. For, far from being a Sixteenth century Portuguese map, the manuscript map in the National library is none other than the one which Christopher Columbus had designed with his own hands and presented to Ferdinand and Isabella on the field of Santa Fe, during the siege of Granada, the last stronghold of the Moors in Spain. The great Genoese had come to solicit from his Catholic majesties a few small vessels to make the voyage across the unknown Atlantic. This is the actual map on which the future discoverer of America had, in order to convince his royal patrons, inscribed in totality all known geographical points of the time.

"By a clever series of deductions, De la Ronciere has been able to re-establish many facts which had escaped the eye of the German geographer. The presence of the Cape of Good Hope is the proof of work posterior to 1488. Also, there are Italian terms and a detailed panorama of Genoa which, first, prove the author to be an Italian and, secondly, a Genoese. Again, we know of the existence of such a map on the testimony of a little clerk in the service of Cardinal Mendoza, who, hidden behind a chair—happy indiscretion!—had witnessed its presentation by Christopher Columbus to the Spanish sovereigns, during the famous siege of Granada, in 1491.

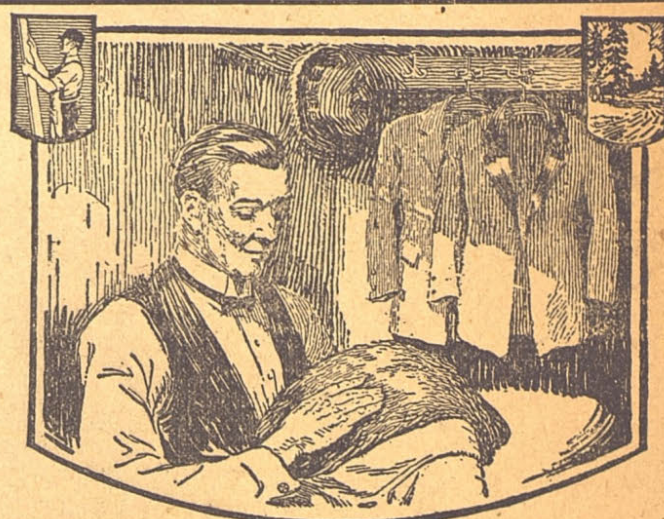

Character of Work Indicates Date.

"On the planisphere the designer has mentioned Granada, seen from the outside, which would indicate that he was ignorant of the interior, as he had mentioned the interiors of other cities, such as Seville. Moreover, in front of the besieged stronghold he had marked out a little town. This town is Santa Fe, built between July 14 and September 14, 1491, to serve as a military base during the siege, which came to an end January 2, 1492 with the triumphal entry of their Catholic majesties into Granada. Christopher Columbus was included in their suite. Therefore, the map must have been planned between July 14, date of the foundation of Santa Fe, and January 2, 1492. Columbus would never have designed the exterior of a captured city if he had become familiar with its interior.

"This map, dated by its contents and identified by these details, is therefore the very one on which, to the sound of the Spanish cannon bombarding the walls of Abou-Abdallah-Boabdil, the finger of Columbus traced out for the attentive Isabella the route of the Great Adventure.

Faint Lines Confirm Discovery.

"While De la Ronciere was making this identification a ray of sunlight which stole through a nearby window suddenly confirmed the astounding discovery by permitting the reading of a faded inscription, so pale that in places it was entirely obliterated. This inscription marks far out in the distance from the west of Ireland a land which Columbus named, in his peculiar Latin 'The Isle of the Seven Cities, where it is said, one may find silver in the sands.' . . . This land, on the faded map, is North America.

BIG RAINS PUT NEW LIFE IN BUSINESS HERE

Saturday was a busy day in Cross Plains, following the fine rain on the day before. Many farmers needed implements—and about 30 planters were sold in addition to many other implements, including cultivators, harrows, etc. And equal number were sold on Monday and they are still buying 'em. The people of this section were not broke—that is most of them were not, but they were and are conservative in their expenditures. But there are many things that some of us needed, which we had promised ourselves we should have when it rained. The writer put on a broad smile and boldly marched over to a dry goods store and purchased a new pair of socks.

With the prospects of a good crop, the business outlook is very promising, and in addition, the oil industry here is developing into a big business, and with such a promising future, the pessimist had better move camp. Folks are ready to work now and smile while they work. When good people populate a good country, it's hard to keep them down. Watch Cross Plains and surrounding territory grow and develop.

Are you an asset or liability?

THE BENEFITS OF TOTAL ABSTINENCE

LESSON TEXT—Dan. 1:1-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's meat, nor with the wine which he drank."—Dan. 1:8.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Four Sensible Boys.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Benefits of Total Abstinence.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Sound Mind and a Sound Body.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Some Benefits of Total Abstinence.

I. Daniel and His Companions in Captivity in Babylon (vv. 1-4).

They were carried away to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar in the first siege of Jerusalem. At the command of the king certain choice young men, including the seed of the king and of the princes, were carried away that they might be made skillful in wisdom, and cunning in knowledge, understanding science so that they might be trained to stand in the king's palace.

II. The Trial of Daniel and His Companions (vv. 5-13).

1. Their Conscience Tested (v. 5).
By the appointment of the king, a daily portion of the king's meat and of the wine which he drank was arranged for them. This was contrary to the custom among the godly Jews. Being contrary to the Jewish customs, they could not conscientiously partake of them. It should ever be borne in mind that conscience is the groundwork of human character.

2. Their Change of Name (vv. 6-7).
Among the Hebrews most significant names were given to children. Daniel means, "God is my judge." The significance of this name was that all the problems of life were submitted to God for His decision. God was made the arbiter of his life. This was the secret of Daniel's life. No doubt this expresses the purpose of his parents in giving him the name. His name was changed to Belshazzar meaning "Bel's prince," the one whom the chief god of the Babylonians favors. Hananiah means, "gift of" or "beloved of Jehovah," and his name was changed to Shadrach which signifies, "flamed by the sun god, Rak." Mishael means, "who is as God" and his name was changed to Meshach meaning, "who is like the goddess Shesach, the gentle one." Azariah means, "Jehovah is our help," and was changed to Abednego which means, "the servant of Nego." Back of the change of names was the attempt of Satan to wipe out the name of the true God, and have these young men lose their separation and thus become assimilated among the heathen.

3. Their Religious Life (v. 8).
This involved their refusal to eat meat and to drink wine which was contrary to their teaching. In the case of Daniel, at least, it also involved praying three times a day.

4. Their Courtesy (vv. 8-13).

Daniel seems to have been the spokesman for the company. Although Daniel's heart was fixed, he did not forget to be a gentleman. He requested to be excused from this meat and drink in order that he be not defiled. Christians should learn from this to be courteous even in times of great trials. God had brought Daniel into favor and tender love with those who were over him.

III. The Success of Daniel and His Companions (vv. 14-21).

1. Their Physical Health (vv. 14-16).
A test was made for ten days, and it was shown that they were fairer in countenance and fatter in flesh than those who indulged in the king's meat. Godly and temperate living pays. It is obligatory upon God's children today to conscientiously abstain from that which is contrary to His law. It means total abstinence from intoxicating liquors, and everything which would injure the health.

2. Mental Growth (vv. 17-20).

Daniel and his companions were found to be ten times superior to their comrades in matters of wisdom and understanding. It is always true that those who abstain from indulging in the use of strong drink have clearer minds and are mentally better equipped for their work than those who indulge.

3. The Social and Political Preference (v. 19).

They stood before the king.

4. Their Temporal Influence (v. 21).

They were all advanced to positions of influence and Daniel became president of the college of wise men, and the prime minister of the nation.

5. Spiritual Insight (v. 17).

Because of Daniel's loyalty to God, visions embracing the entire history of the world came to him and Nebuchadnezzar's dream was revealed.

Do Right

Do right, and God's recompense to you will be the power of doing more right. Give, and God's reward to you will be the spirit of giving more. Withhold from God and the accounting will follow.

Society

Society is a more level surface than we imagine. Wise men or absolute fools are hard to be met with; and there are few giants or dwarfs.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

COCKLES OF THE HEART

The old clock, standing so tall in the wide hall, struck.

"You'd Better Go Up"

before the warm ashes and a few remaining bright coals in the old fireplace.

They sat all around the fireplace, every one of them, and there were many of them.

"Shall we call her?" they said to each other.

"Yes, we might as well," they said.

"No one has ever really known about us," said some of them.

"Well, we won't tell the way we began," the rest of them added.

"Yes, let us call her," they agreed.

"You'd better go up and fetch her down here. It will be cold in her room. She has the window open. Good and healthful for sleeping but a bit chilly for sitting by quite so early in the summer."

It was a very big Cockle who spoke to a very little Cockle.

The little Cockle stood up and started to go upstairs. The Cockles were dressed in little shell suits which made them look like little sea mollusks or mussels or shellfish as far as their costumes of shell were concerned. Their happy little faces were wrinkled up into funny little smiles and they all looked so dear and funny and jolly and lovable that if you had seen them you couldn't have helped but love them.

The little Cockles seemed to know the room. Opening the door gently, they spoke.

"Maggie," he whispered, "come on downstairs by the fire."

Now Maggie, as you know, is not fond of spending too much time in bed and she loves an open fire, so the very moment the little Cockle spoke Maggie was up and ready. She is too, you know, rather a light sleeper.

The Cockle took her by the hand and led her downstairs where she sat in the center of the circle of Cockles.

"We've heard that you wondered about the Cockles of the Heart," they said. "We belong to that family. We can't tell you how we began and when first we were spoken about or anything about our origin for that is a great secret and no one has ever been able to discover the answer."

"But we are going to introduce you to some of the family. We warm the innermost parts of people's hearts. We sit by fires late at night and we store up lots of warmth of the fire and we also carry away little packages of pleasant, loving family thoughts and speeches which have been left by members of a family before they have gone to bed."

"These we take about and give them to others to scatter. When people do kind things and say kind things that they really and truly mean and when those who have heard them, say:

"Ah, what they said and what they did has warmed the cockles of my heart," they have received some of our warmth. We only scatter our warm, loving, kindly, happy sincere gifts to those who want to really touch the innermost parts of their loved ones' hearts."

"We wear our suits of hard shell for those who don't mean what they say can't receive anything from us—they cannot have our real warmth."

"You love to speak of the cockles of your heart so we came to see you. Your mother warms the cockles of your heart by the beautiful, unselfish, thoughtful loving things she does. You warm the cockles of the hearts of your family by the sweet love you show them."

"That's why we came to call on you. But we must be off now. We're busy, we're thankful to say."

And as Maggie started up to her room the Cockles all walked straight up the chimney, forming the shape of a huge heart and waving to her as they, each, disappeared.

What Moses Did

"Now, Charles," said the Sunday school teacher, "can you tell me one of the remarkable things Moses did?"

"Yes, ma'am," replied the bright youth. "He broke all the Commandments at the same time."

AILMENTS OF YOUNG GIRLS

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound School Teacher's Experience

Evanston, Wyoming.—"A few years ago I had troubles every month such as girls often have, and would suffer awfully every time. I was teaching school and it made it hard for me as I had to go to bed for two or three days. One day my mother suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it did wonders for me. In the course of a year I married and after my first baby was born I got up too soon and it caused a displacement. This troubled me so that I could hardly walk or do my housework. I knew what the Vegetable Compound did for me before so I took it again. It strengthened me and now I have five little kiddies. The eldest is six, the baby is five months old and I have twin boys three years old and a boy of five years. I do all my own housework, washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I owe my health to your wonderful medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. VERBENA CARPENTER, 127 2nd Avenue, Evanston, Wyoming.

Solution of Last Week's Puzzle.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

MRS. URQUHART GETS REWARD

Mrs. Urquhart of Omaha wants every housewife to share her good fortune in possessing a handsome reward. Here is what she says: "This is the way I did it. I answered an ad by writing for a free 10¢ bottle of Liquid Veneer and I found it so wonderful for dusting and polishing that I told fifteen of my friends about it and the makers sent me entirely free and postpaid, a great big, beautiful $2.00 Liquid Veneer Polishing Mop." Then Mrs. Urquhart goes on to say: "I am very proud and pleased with the reward given for what I have done, so will take great pleasure in showing it to friends."

Twenty thousand of these $2.00 Mops are going to be given away to housewives. Write for a free 10¢ bottle and ask for descriptive circular 15 telling how easily you, too, may have one of these mops. Address Liquid Veneer Company, Dept. L, Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Coleman business men have gone on record as favoring employing a paid secretary for their Chamber of Commerce, and a committee has been appointed to carry out the expressed desire. A Chamber of Commerce has just been organized at Clyde. Good for Clyde.

Appeals to Boyhood

It's great to be a boy—no matter where you live, but the boys who live in Hamilton, Ohio, know one fine thing about their town that not every fellow can boast of. If you live in Hamilton, you've a chance to get a good baseball, or several of them absolutely free every spring. And what could be finer than that? Bright and early on a nice spring morning each year a certain store in that town gives away 1,000 baseballs. The balls are carried to the roof and the crowd gathers in the street below.
Then, says a writer in Good Hardware, the balls are tossed down, one at a time, to whoever's lucky enough to get them.

And it's rumored that never yet has one of the balls tossed into the crowd of fellows below been lost!

Work on Omnibus Top

John Payne's biographer says that all Payne's translation of "The Arabian Nights" was done on the tops of omnibuses, says the Detroit News. "Those were the days of horse omnibuses, and passengers by them anywhere in London must often have looked on with perplexity at the foreign-looking nearsighted man—oblivious of the movements and the roar around him—raising now an Arabic manuscript, now a sheaf of flimsy foolscap to his eyes. He boarded the omnibus without troubling where it was going went wherever it chose to carry him and got out only when it refused to carry him any further."

For Open-Air Vacation

Spend your vacation out of doors!
This is the only guarantee of a happy, healthy vacation, says a writer in Hygeia. Weeks of planning and weeks of saving for a summer holiday are all well spent if the worker can come back to his task with quieted nerves, hardened muscles and a new zest for his job. The best way to accomplish this is to spend as much time as possible in wholesome—not over-strenuous—exercise and in rest, outside of the strange shelters built by man.

Making Progress

The West Texas Utilities Co. is just completing connecting the Peerless Carbon Black Plant at Pioneer, with a 30 K. W. load, which will supply them with both power and lights. This is quite an improvement, and the plant looks like a little city at night. The West Texas Utilities Co. is also using power extensively in the oil fields on pumping.

Cross Cut, Burkett, Cottonwood and other neighboring towns are making and effort to induce this company to give them service, and no doubt such connections will be made in time.

Mr. Little, local manager, states that they are adding new customers rapidly. It is estimated that they have a greater per cent of customers in Cross Plains per population, than any town they serve, and the existing relations are most pleasant. The West Texas Utilities Co. advertise service—not only service, but courteous service And any individual, firm or corporation which builds upon that basis is sure to succeed in a great way. That is just one reason why this company has grown and builded as it has.

church will preach from time to time.
Present plans of Unification between will be discussed. Both sides will be represented by able speakers.

MAKE MOVE TO PREVENT FIGHTING IN THE BALKANS

FRANCE AND GREAT BRITAIN ARE EXERTING PRESSURE TO PREVENT WAR IN THE BALKANS

REPORT SERBS MOBILIZING

Dislike for Bulgars and Jealousy Among States Prevail

London.—France and Britain are exerting pressure to prevent war in the Balkans.

Through diplomatic channels the two great powers of Europe are urging the rulers of the effervescent Southeastern States of Europe to avoid international incidents which might lead to conflict. The Bulgarian disorder and subsequent authorization of a temporary increase in the Bulgarian militia has stirred the Balkans in a manner unparalleled since the July and August days of ultimatum in 1914.

Jealousy among the Balkan States and dislike of Bulgaria, one of the enemy countries during the war, combine to create a dangerous situation in the most turbulent and threatening corner of Europe.

Serbia, the dominant member of the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, almost monopolizes the peaceful offices of France and Britain. Reports received in London and Paris that Serbian troops are mobilized on the Bulgarian frontier have alarmed Western Europe, which suffered the bloody horror of the war after other premonitory outbursts in the Balkans.

Greece, too, is reported to be reinforcing her outposts along the Greco-Bulgarian frontier.

In every Balkan capital French and British diplomats have delivered supplementary explanations of the Council of Ambassadors' action in authorizing the increase in the Bulgarian militia. Despite this the sister States of Bulgaria insist that such an increase may endanger them and they must prepare for the emergency.

Adding to the unrest the Bulgarian charge against Moscow and Serbia in connection with the cathedral bomb explosion. Serbia is angered by the suggestion that the Bulgarian terror received a Serbian blessing and all the Balkans are frightened at the possibility of a Communist revolt boiling up in Bulgaria and flowing across her borders.

PREDICT DISCUSSION OVER STATE HIGHWAY BODY

The Meeting Is to Be Held at A. & M. College on April 30 and May 1

Austin, Texas.—With the receipt of the program for the spring meeting of the Texas section of the American Society of Civil Engineers, it was being predicted in Austin Friday that there will probably be a heated discussion over the State Highway Department. This subject is specifically on the program without being assigned to any particular person, thereby being left open to all, and combined invitation-program has significant statement: "There will probably be a very interesting discussion in regard to the status of the State Highway Department."

The meeting is to be held at A. & M. College on April 30 and May 1, with the engineering faculty of the A. & M. College as hosts.

John A. Norris of Austin, chairman of the State Board of Water Engineers, is president of the Texas section, and he is also on the program for a report on the work of the Board of Water Engineers. He will describe the joint topographic and hydrographic work with the United States Geological Survey.

B. F. Williams of Austin, State Reclamation Engineer, is also on the program for a report on the work of his department, pertaining to reclamation by levees.

The seventh subject on the program is stated in this language:

"A discussion on the engineer of Texas as affected by the policy of the State Highway Department."

After the new Highway Commission made a number of changes in the engineering staff, both in the office and over the State, some of the engineers became critical and they have condemned the commission. Others have defended it. This is the situation to provoke the discussion at the coming meeting.

Tighten Up on U. S. Borders.

Washington.—Plans for tightening up the American border and coast line through closer and more active co-operation of the Federal departments charged with shares of the work were outlined at a conference between representatives of the Departments of the Treasury, State, War, Labor, Justice and Agriculture. INTERNATIONAL LAW HUGHES SUBJECT

Court of International Justice By the United States Will Not Be Delayed Much Longer

Washington.—World peace can ultimately be effected only through the clarification and codification of international law, and this is to be accomplished only through a great conference of representatives of all the Nations of the earth, former Secretary of State Hughes, as president of the American Society of International Law, told members of that association at their annual meeting recently.

Speaking on "the development of international law," he asserted that the United States must lead the way toward such a conference, and reiterated his hope that "the appropriate support of the permanent court of international justice by the United States will not be delayed much longer."

It was not his purpose to restate the reasons he believed the United States should support the permanent court, Mr. Hughes said, "but to simply emphasize the incalculable advantage of having such a tribunal to aid in the development of international law, to reinforce the law-abiding sentiment through recourse to the exercise of its jurisdiction and acceptance of its decision," and added: "Not improbably the Nations may thus be led to avail themselves more readily of the necessary international legislative processes to perfect the law and to satisfy enlarged conceptions of international justice."

Every suggestion intended to be helped should be accepted and dealt with, no matter what trying situations and trials of patience may result, Mr. Hughes insisted, declaring that "we must not fail to remember that no progress can be made unless we have an atmosphere of endeavor and a disposition which lifts us above captiousness." It is in this spirit, he added, that "we consider the development of international law, not as an exclusive, or all-sufficient remedy, but as an important means of correcting the evils that afflict us."

HEAT RECORDS MADE FOR MIDDLE WEST

At Same Time Montana Is Blanketed With Seventeen Inches Snow.

Chicago, Ill.—The Middle Western States are sweltering in record-breaking heat for April while Montana dug itself out of a record-breaking spring snowstorm.

At the same time sections of South Dakota and Nebraska were heavily damaged by a severe wind and rainstorm, while parts of Texas were praying for rain to help the cotton crop.

Almost every variety of weather catalogued by the Weather Bureau was found in some section of the country, much of it unseasonable for that section.

The soaring mercury broke heat records for April 23 at Chicago where it went to 86 at 4 p. m., and at Milwaukee, where it reached 84. Two heat prostrations were reported from Milwaukee, while St. Paul, which reported an 80-degree temperature at noon, also reported two deaths in Hennepin County attributed to the heat.

Nebraska and South Dakota each reported heavy damage from a violent wind and rainstorm, followed by a steadily rising temperature which at Omaha reached 89 degrees.

Indiana and Southern Michigan each were in the grip of a hot wave. Indianapolis reporting a temperature of 88 degrees and Southern Michigan temperatures ranging from 87 to 89 degrees.

Butte, Mont., sent word to the sweltering people in the Middle Western States that it was blanketed with seventeen inches of snow, which has partly paralyzed transportation, telegraph and telephone facilities in the city and surrounding territory.

Free Collins' Body.

Cave City, Ky.—The body of Floyd Collins, cave explorer, who died from hunger and exposure when trapped in Sand Cave late in January, has been freed from its natural underground prison and moved from the rock that pinned it to the ground, to the bottom of the seventy-foot shaft.

New York.—The Roosevelt Memorial Association has announced that Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, George Bird Grinnell of New York, editor of Forest and Stream, and Martha Berry of Mount Berry, Ga., have been awarded the Roosevelt medals for 1925.

Debate on Women's Effectiveness.

Hot Springs, Ark.—Miss Jane Scherer of Beaumont, Texas, arguing the affirmative side of the question that "Women Are More Effective in Their Contact With the Public Than Men," won over Miss Julie Pallet of New Orleans in a debate before the district convention of the Southwestern district convention of the National Electric Light Association and the Arkansas Utilities Association. Miss Pallet presented the negative.

AMERICAN BUSINESS DECLARED SOUND

We Find a Persistent Growth in the Roving Army of Desperadoes Flouting the Law at Every Turn.

Augusta, Ga.—The business situation of the country is "fundamentally sound" and "need cause no anxiety," since "the menace of inflation" has been removed by the conservation of business men," the executive council of the American Bankers' Association declared in a resolution just adopted.

"But in so far as our business prosperity has been the result of a revival of agriculture, caused by undue diminution of crops in other countries of the world," the resolution sets forth, "the effect is likely to be temporary, but in so far as it has been due to rehabilitation of Europe and the liquidation of old indebtedness on the part of our agricultural population, the results attained are likely to be permanent."

Adoption of this resolution, refusal to reopen for discussion the questions of the association's attitude toward the practice of branch banking, and launching of a movement for the creation of an endowment for economic scholarships in the principal colleges and universities, marked the proceedings of the council the third day of its four-day spring session.

Declaring the "sentimental coddling of criminals after they are behind the bars," the protective committee submitted a report regarding banks in an effort to put a stop to bank robberies, to survey their criminal code with a view to more rigid enforcement of laws, the abolition of indeterminate and suspended sentences, ending abuses of the parole system and Federal restriction of the manufacture and sale of firearms capable of being concealed on the person.

"We find a persistent growth in this roving army of desperadoes flouting the law at every turn," the protective committee report said. The consistent growth in the operations of the hold up man, the report continued "is convincing proof that the dangers of banditry threaten to become a permanent menace."

Establishment of a foundation fund for scholarships in economics at the principal colleges of the country, in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the association, was approved by the council.

ALL PUBLISHERS TO SUE ON BOOK CONTRACTS

Mandamus Suits Will Be Filed in Next Two Days.

Austin, Texas.—Practically every one of the publishing houses which obtained the highly valuable textbook contracts from the State of Texas last December have retained counsel in Austin to institute proceedings to save these contracts from the repudiation decreed by the State Board of Education when it ordered them ignored in requisitioning books for the schools for the next scholastic session.

It has been stated by one of the lawyers engaged that the hope is to file the mandamus suit within the next two days and ask the court to advance it. It was further indicated that an injunction will be asked to preserve the present status pending the outcome of the main mandamus which will test the validity of the contracts.

J. L. Goggans of Dallas has been in Austin conferring with local counsel regarding the coming litigation, he having been retained by one of the firms having the contract to furnish drawing books for the public schools of Texas. In addition to Mr. Goggans the following Austin firms have been employed to represent the contractors named:

Batts & Brooks, to represent Charles Scribner's Sons, D. C. Heath & Co., Silver, Burdette & Co., Row, Peterson & Co., and others yet to be announced.

Charles L. Black, to appear for the B. F. Johnson Publishing Company and the MacMillan Company, W. A. Keeling, former Attorney General for W. H. Wheeler & Co. of Chicago.

D. K. Woodward for Lairlow Bros. Counsel for the various book houses will not join in one consolidated petition for mandamus, but each will proceed separately, though the facts are almost identical in every case.

Bring Inquiry to Texas.

Chicago, Ill.—Assistant State Attorney John S. Shabbaro announced that he would go to Texas to investigate the circumstances surrounding the late illness of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, mother of William N. McClintock.

Sells Motorist He Hits Insurance.

Omaha, Neb.—John Rosenzweig, debonaire life insurance salesman, was arrested on a reckless driving charge. While Desk Sergeant Payne arranged Rosenzweig's bond, the salesman lectured him on the importance of life insurance, and before he was released had Payne's signature on the dotted line. Shortly after a collision with another machine, Rosenzweig explained to the disgruntled motorist that it was a miracle he wasn't killed and then sold him a policy.

PRESIDENT DEFENDS RESTRICTED IMMIGRATION

Breaking From Old Policy of Open Arms to Immigrants Will Bring Unification.

Washington.—Restricted immigration was defended by President Coolidge in an address to the Daughters of the American Revolution. This policy, the President said, still is experimental, but has every appearance of being permanent.

The break from the old attitude of open arms to immigrants from the Old World was a "revolutionary" change of policy, President Coolidge said, necessary "to bring about the spiritual unification" of the United States.

The President congratulated the D. A. R. on its immigration aid service at Ellis Island where the newcomer is assisted in finding occupation, learning the language and adapting himself to American institutions.

"There is a deeper significance to this kind of effort than at first thought may be apparent," the President said. "In the last few years we have entered on a new policy toward immigration. It is still rather experimental, but with every appearance of being likely to secure permanent acceptance. Restriction of immigration is nothing less than a revolutionary change from the older days when we boasted that this country offered refuge and opportunity, liberty and security to all who desired them. The policy of restriction seemed necessary in view of the certainty that unprecedented numbers would flow to us from Europe following the war; more than we could be sure of assimilating, more than the European countries could well spare. Had there been no limitations, the number of new comers among us in the last four years would probably have been several million greater. If we had been called up to receive and place such a number, it may well be doubted whether they would have found their condition here much better than it was in Europe. Certainly our problem of helping adjust them to the new conditions and the hard competition of such a situation would have been more difficult."

Had there been no restriction, the terrible post-war conditions in Europe might have driven 6,000,000 persons to these shores in the last four years, the President thinks—three times the number that actually entered.

"We may well doubt whether that would have been to the advantage of either them or the country," he continued. "The welfare of all the people will be promoted by a truly national life. In the last few years we have all realized as never before the need to bring about the spiritual unification of this great people. An 110,000,000 people, living together, may or may not constitute in the full sense a nation of 110,000,000. The war brought appreciation of this truth. "We confirmed our political union sixty years ago. We have all the time been struggling toward spiritual and moral unity. To gain and perfect it, we need just such interests and activities as these to which the Daughters of the American Revolution are so sincerely devoted. We need not only to draw the newcomers into our social structures, but we need also to make them contribute to its strength and beauty. We may gain much from them. In the diversification of our culture, the broadening of our interests, the development of literature and arts, the formation of a rounded, symmetrical national character, they can help us vastly. We shall best serve both them and ourselves if we shall fully recognize this mutuality of interest."

What Might Be Called an Active Man

The wharf at New Orleans was crowded with foot travelers, vehicles and freight piles. A brawny Irishman, driving a truck, locked wheels with another truck operated by a negro.

As the two trucks jammed the negro opened his mouth in profuse and highly disrespectful protest. But before he had freed six words of his speech unconsciousness shut off further utterance.

For the Irishman, with one flying leap had reached the earth. His left hand closed on the negro's ankle, and as the latter was jerked violently into space the enemy's right fist landed a wing shot squarely on the point of the law, and for the time being he knew so more.

Ten minutes later the victim half opened his eyes. A policeman was bending over him, applying first aid.

"What's the matter with you?" demanded the officer.

"A white man hit me," said the lark, "and I wants him arrested."

"What's his name?"

"I don't know what his name is, boss—never seed him befo' in my life."

"Well, then, what does he look like?"

"I don't rightly know dat, neither. Hit happen so quick-lak I didn't get a good look at 'im."

"Then how do you expect me to find him if you can't describe him?" asked the puzzled policeman.

"Boss, dat ain't goin' be no trouble," stated the negro. "You jest go look for the doin'est man they is in New Orleans!"

One day he was engaged on the telephone by the assistant cashier of the bank where he kept his checking fund.

"Mr. Abrams" stated the cashier, "I called you up to tell you that on the first day of this month your account appears overdrawn $108."

"So?" droned Mr. Abrams. "Say, young man, would you do it for me as favor?"

"Sure."

"Then, please, you should look at your books and tell me how stood the account on the foist day of last month."

In a minute or two the bank functionary was back at the phone.

"Oh, Mr. Abrams," he said, "on the first day of last month you had a balance to your credit of $322.25."

"So!" shouted Mr. Abrams. "Udd did I call you up?"

Where the Real Fault Lay

The tourist was one of that type which for some mysterious reason are more numerous encountered abroad than at home. He was doing the cathedral towns of England, not because he was particularly interested in English towns, or in English cathedrals either, but because the guide book advised him to do so.

Near the close of a glorious spring afternoon he stood on the greensward facing Canterbury cathedral with his legs planted far apart, his cap on the back of his head, his hands rammed deep into his trousers' pockets, his cigar stuck into one corner of his mouth, and on his face an expression betokening profound boredom.

The celebrated Canterbury chimes were ringing for vespers, filling all the air with silver melody, when a side door of the cathedral opened and there issued forth a little, plump, pink-cheeked, benevolent clergyman. He approached the visiting stranger and in cultured tones said to him:

"I take it, sir, that you are a stranger?"

"Hey?" inquired the American, cupping one hand about his ear.

The clergyman raised his voice:

"I assume, sir, that you are not a resident of these parts?"

"Nope," said the American. "I hail from Nebraska. It's a durned good state, too—best in the Union. You ought to come out there some time, elder, and give us the once-over."

"Eh—quite so," said the reverend gentleman. "Then," he continued, "since you are newly-come to this place it must seem to you, even as it does to those of us who dwell in these cloistered and holy precincts, that the music of our glorious bells comes floating down to one almost like the voice of the Almighty Himself, seeking through the medium of their old brazen throats to communicate the message of peace, on earth goodwill to man, to us His children here below."

"Which?" inquired the visitor, inclining his head somewhat.

"Er—what I meant to say was," stated the clergyman, "is that one must carry away from here, after hearing our chimes, the conviction in his soul that really he has been in communication with Deity itself—that the voices of the angels have cried out to him. Er—is it not so, my friend?"

The American shook his head.

"I'm sorry, parson," he said regretfully, "but them d-n bells is making so much noise I can't hear a word you say!"

"How I Suffered with my Stomach and Catarrh of the Head"

Took Four bottles of PE-RU-NA

and now cannot praise it enough

Miss Emelie A. Haberkorn, 2251 Gravois Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes: "For over two years I was troubled with internal catarrh. I read a Pe-nu-na booklet and began taking the treatment. Tongue cannot describe how I suffered with my stomach and the catarrh in my head. I began to feel better as soon as I had used four bottles and now I cannot praise it enough. I now enjoy as good health as ever and would not think of doing without Pe-nu-na."

Dr. Hartman's famous remedy has become the standby in thousands of American homes for the relief of coughs, colds, catarrh and every catarrhal disease.

He Was Astonished

We had been much troubled by stray dogs tipping over the garbage pail standing on the concrete walk, near the back door. Their method was to knock down the pail, scatter the contents on the walk and eat what appealed to them.

I had so often had to clean up after them that one morning, hearing the familiar noise outside, I rushed out of the back door angrily stamping my feet and shouting, "Sh—sh—sh."

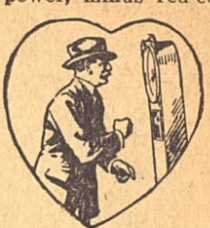

This time, however, it was our astonished garbage collector who faced me.—Chicago Tribune.

How to build up your Weight

TO BE under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

BILIOUS ATTACKS

From Which Kentucky Man Suffered Two or Three Times a Month, Relieved by Black-Draught.

Lawrenceburg, Ky.—Mr. J. P. Nevins, a local coal dealer and farmer, about two years ago learned of the value of Thedford's Black-Draught liver medicine, and now he says:

"Until then I suffered with severe bilious attacks that came on two or three times each month. I would get nauseated. I would have dizziness and couldn't work. I would take pills until I was worn-out with them. I didn't seem to get relief. After taking the pills my bowels would act a couple or three times, then I would be very constipated."

"A neighbor told me of Black-Draught and I began its use. I never have found so much relief as it gave me. I would not be without it for anything."

"It seemed to cleanse my whole system and make me feel like new. I would take a few doses—get rid of the bile and have my usual clear head, full full of 'pep' and could do twice the work."

One cent a dose.

Cameron Editor Dominoes

(Cameron Enterprise)

Admitting that they had all been guilty of more or less disloyalty to home merchants and home enterprises, the directors and committee chairman of the Commercial Club Monday evening promised to do better hereafter, so the home merchants and the home printers may expect better business in the future.

The question of civic loyalty came to the surface when some one mentioned the fact that Cameron was being over-run with agents and peddlers from the cities who are getting business rightfully belonging to the home merchants. It was suggested that the home papers be asked to start a "Buy It At Home" campaign. Then it was that one of the editors popped up and said: "If the members of the Commercial Club will have their printing done at home, the home papers will do the rest."

Then an experience meeting followed. Everyone admitted that he had been guilty of disloyalty to a certain extent and all agreed to "not do it any more".

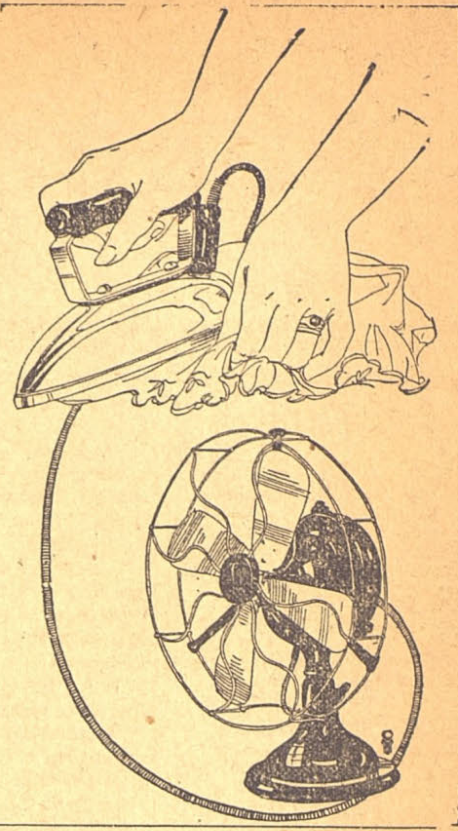

Cameron's prosperity, like that of every other town and small city in Texas, depends upon loyalty to home people. We must "live and let live" in Cameron, or move to one of the big cities and become city salesmen, unless the cityward tide can be stemmed.
