SENATE ASKS PROOF OF TEXAS G.O.P. OIL FRAUD

Senate Democrats and Western Republicans To Fight Tariff Hike

UPPER HOUSE CONVENES TO FINISH TASKS

Coalition Plans Battle To Last Ditch Against Higher Rates

CONFERENCES HELD

Farm State Solons Meet To Map Program; Both Claim Victory

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. (AP)—With one of the oldest party issues—the tariff—to settle once more, the senate half of the special session will resume work tomorrow after a two and a half month recess to complete the emergency legislative program recommended by President Hoover.

The house, which started last January formulating the first tariff legislation in seven years and sent the completed measure to the senate in May, will not meet until Sept. 23. Then it will adjourn over three day periods until the senate returns the bill for adjustment of differences.

Coalition Formed

The eve of the reconvening of the senate found the Democrats and Western Republicans organizing to limit the revision to agriculture, or—failing in that—to carry on a vigorous drive to wipe out proposed increases in industrial import levies and, in some instances, to reduce existing rates.

Both groups expressed confidence that they had enough votes virtually to rewrite the bill to their liking.

Senator Smoot of Utah, tariff spokesman for the regular Republicans, said he was "ready for the fight."

Both Senators Watson of Indiana and Robinson of Arkansas, respectively the Republican and Democratic floor leaders, were out of the city, and party predictions were left to their lieutenants.

Borah Joins Fight

Senator Borah of Idaho met with eight other Republican Independents and discussed the bill for an hour, after which he said the "main point is to confine the revision to agriculture."

He said he had discovered no defections from the 38 Democrats and Western Republicans who voted for his resolution limiting revision last June and thought possible it would pick up an additional vote or two. He had not definitely decided, however, to reintroduce the resolution, which lost by only one vote two and a half months ago.

Another meeting of the farm group will be held tomorrow.

Seven Charges Filed In Fatal Amarillo Affray

AMARILLO, Texas, Sept. 3. (UP)—One charge of murder, three charges of affray and gambling, and three charges of public disturbance had been made tonight following the death of Sam T. Hutton, former Dallas painter, in a South Amarillo dice game yesterday.

J. M. Hughes was held in the Potter county jail without bond pending the setting of a date of an examining trial for murder. He was alleged to have broken Hutton's neck. J. A. Peterson, companion of Hutton at the game, S. S. Holliday and F. Bates entered pleas of guilty to disturbance charges and were fined. They also were required to make $500 bond as witnesses in Hughes' trial.

Edison Still on Road To Complete Recovery

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 3. (UB)—Heckling his family from his bed with gentle jibes about keeping a well and healthy fellow prostrate, Thomas A. Edison continued to improve today.

He is completely out of danger, his son, Charles, announced. Mr. Edison, who has had a cold, contends he never was in danger, and, according to the son, is anxious to ride his old 1913 model Ford to his laboratory and punch the clock.

Horse Fly Starts Three-Ring Circus on West Texas Farm

Everything Happens at Least Once and Dog Bites Farmer Twice

BALLINGER, Texas, Sept. 3.—The horse fly bit the horses; the team ran away; two children narrowly escaped; the farmers wife was hurt and the dog bit a man twice. Aside from that it will be a long time before folks stop talking about what a horse fly did here recently.

The fly was at ease and so were Ed Heath's horses when Ed drove into Oscar Lea's farmyard, but it wasn't long before the fly got restless, and so did the horses.

"Fliers," said one of the Lea boys, and he went to stop the team. But the horses had started to run as he grabebd the bridle of one. He let go after being dragged over a considerable part of the yard.

One of the younger Lea children was playing directly in the path of the animals. Lea made a dash and picked the child up. The horses made a dash, too, toward another child. Mrs. Lea sprinted to the spot in time to save the child but was herself badly trampled. Heath started after them. But he tripped on the chain holding an excited dog. The dog did his part nobly by biting Heath twice.

That was about all that could happen, and the horses stopped.

W. E. DEVER OF CHICAGO DIES

Famous Former Mayor Had Notable Record

CHICAGO, Sept. 3. (AP)—William E. Dever, 67, mayor of Chicago from 1922 to 1926, died today.

Mr. Dever had been ill for nearly a year with a stomach disorder and had been confined to his north side home for the greater portion of that time.

He had been to a clinic at Rochester, Minn., on two occasions for treatment.

Elected mayor in 1922, when a split in Republican ranks enabled the Democrats to carry the city, Mayor Dever chose his cabinet from among the civic and business leaders of Chicago and carried through notable constructive legislation and epochal public improvements.

It was during his regime that Wacker drive, the city's famous double deck boulevard, was constructed and that legislation permitting straightening of the Chicago river was enacted.

Though an ardent foe of prohibition, Mayor Dever directed the closing of an estimated 7,000 saloons during his term.

Young Hijacker Follows Crowd Out Front Door

Apparently disconcerted at seeing customers and employes flee from the store as he announced that he was going to "hold up the place" and pointed a gun at them, a young hijacker pocketed his pistol and fled along with them about 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Grant Street Drug store, 2319 Grant street.

The young man had been loitering about the place for almost two hours, employes said. He appeared very restless and could not stay in one place. Finally he entered the store and said, "I'm going to hold you up." The occupants fled from the place. The would-be hijacker had evidently not expected to be left alone, for he turned and ran also.

Plainclothes Officer Elmer Thornton and W. P. Timmons were called. They arrested a suspect, believed to be a companion of the transient robber, in a park nearby but could find no trace of the young man. The suspect was lodged in the city jail, pending investigation.

BURK HALTS WATER SALES

Shallow Wells Ordered Closed by City

By MARJORIE MATHIS
The Record News Staff

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Sept. 3.—Acting upon the recommendation of Dr. I. D. Russell, city physician, members of the Burkburnett city commission Tuesday night continued their war on the typhoid epidemic here by stopping the sale of all shallow well water within the city limits, the order to become effective Wednesday morning. A weekly test of all other water sold within the town was also ordered by the commission, and instructions given for a thorough examination of every possible source of infection.

Three New Cases

The orders were given after Dr. Russell had reported to the commissioners that three new cases of the disease were registered with him Tuesday, bringing the total number of infections to 53. The physician declared that he had been able in the majority of cases to trace the infection to the drinking of shallow well water already found by official tests to be contaminated. Efforts to close the wells or to persuade neighboring householders to discontinue the use of the infected water have so far been unsuccessful, Dr. Russell said.

Although the city government is marking time to await the coming Wednesday morning of W. N. Dashield, district sanitary engineer, who is being sent by the state to spend a month in cleaning up the town, progress in combatting the disease was reported from various sources in the course of the commission meeting. R. P. Reagan, city manager, told the commissioners that steps were taken Tuesday to make improvements at the city water station suggested Monday by Dr. J. C. Anderson, head of the state public health department, after his inspection here.

Mr. Reagan said that the method of chlorinating the water had been altered to follow the ideas of the state official and that various sanitary improvements have already been effected. He explained that the physician did not implicate the public water supply as a source of infection but had suggested the improvements in a general sanitary survey. It was brought out that the city is considering the installation of a new plant in another location, so that changes now are temporary measures to meet the immediate emergency.

Dr. Russell announced to the group that a supply of typhoid serum sufficient to immunize 500 applicants has been ordered from the state. The state will supply Wichita county through the county health officer, who in turn distributes the drug to local physicians, it was explained. The city physician said that Burkburnett doctors have decided to handle their own charity cases rather than hold one free clinic for inoculation. He announced that all the physicians have volunteered their services and that the serum and the physician's care will be given without charge for the inoculation of any indigent person or family.

Ten Fairs Slated During September

SHOWS CROWD CALENDAR FOR THIS MONTH

Frederick and Medicine Park Expositions Officially Open Season

HORSE RACE CARDS

Harmon County and Lawton Festivals Start Today; Premiums Listed

September this year is show month, for west and northwest Texans and Oklahomans, alike. Fairs and expositions, according to announced plans, will continue through October, November and even December, but the major celebrations, 10 in number, are to be staged this month by Texans and Oklahomans.

As if they were prologues, serving as introductions to the real show, the Frederick, Okla., Free fair and the All-Indian fair at Craterville, Okla., last week, started the theatrical ball rolling and ushered in the September fun season with a real bang. The success of the two ventures has been acclaimed by officials of the two cities, who report that attendance and interest this year were greater than in years past. The Indian fair, unique in the United States, attracted nation-wide attention.

Ten Fairs Slated

Similar success is anticipated at the 10 September fairs and expositions, which will begin today with the Harmon County fair at Hollis, Okla., and the Lawton fair at Lawton, Okla. The Harmon County fair will last for two days; the Lawton celebration three, through Saturday.

Dates for the remaining celebrations in Texas and Oklahoma centers are given in the accompanying fair calendar.

Exhibits were all in order, and jockeys were giving their horses a final workout at Hollis Tuesday in anticipation of the first day of the Harmon County fair. Officials declared the farm exhibits this year will eclipse those of any previous year. Besdies a series of horse races, automobile races will be staged Thursday, the second day of the fair. In addition, fireworks displays will be seen on the fair grounds each night, and the Tidwell shows will offer amusements of various kinds.

Racing Programs

Horse racing will, as usual, be the big feature of the Lawton fair, and more than 20 horses were straining at their bits in the fair ground stables Tuesday, awaiting the opening races when the gun-

Tommy Cochran Goes To Quarter Finals After Bitter 21-Hole Battle

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Eight players, equally divided between the home guard and out-of-town experts, Tuesday survived two rounds to the quarter-finals in the second annual invitation golf tournament of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club. The local defenders who came through were Tommy Cochran, Fred T Couper Jr., L. T. "Bobby" Burns and Morris Norton; the invaders were Gus Moreland and Jack Jackson of Dallas, Bob Alexander of Munday and Jack Parr of Electra.

Cochran, the tournament medalist and a former state amateur champion, and Buddy Raines of Stamford, a former West Texas titleholder, engaged in the feature match of the day, a grueling contest that required three extra holes before the local crack won, 1 up on the 21st green. After winning their first round contests in the morning, with comparative ease, Cochran and Raines settled down to a great duel in the second round in the afternoon.

After halving the first two holes Cochran took the third with a par 4 and the fourth with a par 3. Raines won the fifth with a par 4; the sixth and seventh were split, and the Stamford sharp squared the match with a birdie 4 on the eighth. Cochran was 1 up at the turn with an eagle 3 on the ninth.

Raines Takes Lead

They halved the tenth and Raines again squared the match on the eleventh with a 4. He shot a par 4 on the thirteenth to take the lead, 1 up, and another par 4 on the fourteenth by Raines put Tommy 2 down. Tommy regained a hole with a par 5 on the fifteenth. They halved the sixteenth with par 4's and each was one over par 4 on the seventeenth. By this time, it had been noised about the club that Cochran had a great fight on his hands, and the gallery was augmented to more than 50 as they started for the eighteenth. Tommy had made a great recovery on the SANTANDER, Spain, Sept. 3. (US)—The Graf Zeppelin, the world's most famous dirigible, hovered over this town at 9:10 o'clock tonight (4:10 p. m. E. D. T.) and then disappeared in the direction of France and Friedrichshafen, with the home hanger still 600 miles to the east.

The visit of the Graf to Santander was a tribute paid to the Spanish royal family by the great German air conqueror, King Alfonso, who recently returned to Spain from England, appeared on the terrace of the royal summer residence and peered up into the night, waving a hand at the blinking lights in the motor gondolas of the Zeppelin, which ploughed onward at about 75 miles an hour.

Helms Is Denied New Sanity Trial

EASTLAND, Texas, Sept. 3. (AP)—Attorneys seeking to save Henry Helms from the electric chair Sept. 6 were defeated here again today when Judge George L. Davenport refused to hear a motion for a new sanity trial.

The judge said attorneys had not filed their motion until Helms had already been returned to the penitentiary at Huntsville. He ruled there was no merit to the motion and held the statutes of Texas did not provide for such proceedings.

Helms, convicted for participating in the "Santa Claus" bank robbery at Cisco Dec. 23, 1927, was found sane by a jury here last week.

Phone Call From Paris Orders Work From Barber for Gotham Notables

NEW YORK, Sept. 3. (AP)—Louis Airco, barber for former Governor Smith, Mayor Walker and other notables, was awakened at 5 a. m. His wife was poking him in the ribs:

"Get us," she said, "someone in Paris wants to talk to you on the telephone."

"Paris?" Louis was amazed. "Someone trying to kid me," he thought as he ambled to the phone.

But it was Paris, and he recognized the voice. A haircut? Sure, Louis always pleases his customers. Sure he'll be right over.

So Louis sails Friday on the Leviathan to meet William F. Kenny, millionaire utilities magnate and contractor and personal friend of former Governor Smith, at Southampton to give him a real American barbering.

"I've been in Europe all summer," Kenny told Louis over the transatlantic telephone, "and I have not been able to get a decent haircut, and I want to look presentable when I get back home."

Louis has been cutting Kenny's hair for the last 20 years.

Hoover's First Six Months As President Prove to Be Busy Ones

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. (AP)—A half year will have passed into history tomorrow since Herbert Hoover on the rainy afternoon of March 4 was inducted into the presidency.

It has been a busy six months. After the selection of a cabinet and the reorganization, in part at least, of all of the 10 big governmental departments, he initiated a number of new projects and in the carrying forward of these his work in many respects has just begun.

This work has kept the president close to his desk in the executive offices at the White House. During the summer while millions of his fellow citizens have been frolicking at seashore or mountain resorts or traveling abroad, he has confined his recreation to short week-end trips to a fishing camp on the headwaters of the Rapidan river in Virginia.

By so doing the chief executive in addition to looking after the general run of the nation's business has placed more than a half dozen commissions at work studying as many different questions. One of the first to be appointed was the commission in law enforcement. To this he assigned the duty of studying enforcement of all laws, including the statutes dealing with prohibition.

A start at reorganizing the American diplomatic corps also was made. One of his first appointments in this field, Charles G. Dawes, no sooner was accredited

FRED W. STRANG DIRECTED TO SUBMIT FACTS

Fort Worth Promoter Appears Before Committee on Patronage

NEW 'TEAPOT DOME'

Oil Companies Seek Control of Government, Witness Says

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. (US)—Fred W. Strang, Fort Worth oil promoter, was directed by the senate patronage investigating committee today to submit a list of witnesses and specific charges in connection with his allegations that Republican politicians are reaping a harvest from oil receiverships in Texas.

Appearing before the committee last week, Strang made the general assertion that vast properties in the Lone Star state are coming under control of these politicians and their henchmen through the manipulation of receiverships. He intimated he was in possession of material which would furnish a sensation rivaling that of Teapot Dome.

Appearing before the committee again today Strang charged that the oil companies are seeking control of the state and federal machinery.

It was at this point that Chairman Brookhart, sole member of the committee present, directed the witness to submit a list of specifications and witnesses. The committee's future course will then be determined, Brookhart said.

"Men who have owned great properties are now bankrupt. They are fighting lawsuits and receiverships," Strang told Brookhart. "Invariably property worth $500,000 to millions winds up the same way."

"Do you mean that the oil companies are seeking control of the state and national government in Texas?" asked the senator.

"There is no doubt of it," Strang replied. "The further you go into it, the further it extends. There is no end."

Strang has admitted to the committee that he was fined $500 on a charge of oil frauds conspiracy and is now awaiting trial on a mail fraud indictment returned at Fort Worth last June.

WALTHALL HINTS AT LABOR LAW VIOLATIONS IN ASYLUM HERE

SHORTAGE OF MONEY BLAMED

Hospitals Fire Help, Overworking Others

AUSTIN, Sept. 3. (AP)—About 20 employes have been taken from the payrolls of the state hospitals at each Austin, San Antonio, Wichita Falls, Terrell and Rusk, as a result of Governor Moody's pruning the appropriation bill, R. B. Walthall, chairman of the board of control announced today.

Nurses, attendants, waiters and other employes are being placed on 12 hour shifts, in likely violation of the 9-54 hour law, he said.

Payroll budgets at the institutions are being rearranged in order to keep as many as possible of the employes, he said.

SOMERVILLE SAYS PROBE IS UNLIKELY

Dr. C. W. Castner, superintendent of the Wichita Falls State hospital, was out of the city Tuesday night and confirmation or denial of a statement by R. B. Walthall, chairman of the board of control, that employes at the institution here had been dismissed, was unavailable.

Mr. Walthall made the statement at Austin adding that the employes had been dismissed from several state hospitals in Texas, including the one at Wichita Falls, as a result of Governor Moody's pruning of the appropriation bill. He also added that remaining employes are likely being kept on the job in violation of the 9-54 hour labor law.

Wayne Somerville, county attorney, said that in the event such was the case it was probable that no action would be taken as the 9-54 hour law was not applicable in cases of "great public calamity or extraordinary emergency." The lack of funds, he said, created an emergency that would have to be met, someone being necessary to take care of the patients. An investigation would have to be made as to the cause of the labor law violations, if any, before anything definite could be said, he concluded.

The 9-54 hour labor law provides that women employes shall not be on active duty more than nine hours per day, or 54 hours per week, unless certain conditions prevail, among which are those listed above. About two years ago Charles McKemy, state labor commissioner, charged Dr. Castner with violation of the law in connection with labor conditions at the institution here. The matter was quickly cleared up when Dr Castner admitted certain irregularities and corrected them to conform with the labor statute.

Don't Sew a New Patch on an Old Garment, Says "Renter" in Appeal for Adequate Water Bond Issue

Wichita Falls, Texas.
Judge J. W. Akin and George D. Fairtrace.
Gentlemen:

I am a renter—eight years in Wichita Falls—spend my salary here and help to keep up the city as much as any home owner of my earning capacity.

We renters pay an indirect tax which is no less expensive than a direct tax.

I am for the water bonds teeth and toe nails. And if I owned city property, from a selfish standpoint if from no other, I would be stronger, if possible, for the bond issue. The property owners ought to shoulder this bond issue and jump at the chance, for they are the ones who will be benefited financially.

Many would locate here who now are satisfied to pass on after reading the "soft water" sign at our filling stations. "Soft water" suggests hard water which suggests hardened arteries, high blood pressure, kidney and stomach troubles —so on they go.

But I, as a consumer and indirect taxpayer, am for the bonds, regardless of who pays the bill. I will cheerfully pay $1 per month more on my water bill for pure, soft water. The fact that so much bottled water is being used here, by those who are able to buy it, is conclusive proof that they know that our city water is not fit to drink.

Many of us cannot afford to buy drinking water from Arkansas. How can we expect Wichita Falls to grow in population and depend upon buying our drinking water from the Ozarks?

How about going fifty-fifty on the water bonds—raise one-half by taxation and the other half by raising the water rate?

I believe these bonds will carry I believe that the sentiment in favor of them is growing. The city officials view it as a necessity and not as a luxury.

A smaller amount, as some suggest, in my opinion would be like sewing a new patch on an old garment.

Yours for Adam's ale as pure as it can be made,
AN INTERESTED CITIZEN.

TEN FAIRS ON MONTH'S SLATE

Regional Shows in Center Of Interest

shot is heard Wednesday afternoon. Lawton, with the best track in the state, with the exception of the Oklahoma City track, is always a favorite spot for these events. Also, the Oklahoma City track only in the state offers larger prizes than are offered every year at the Lawton races. Prizes this year will run into several hundred dollars, officials said, as much as $300 being offered for first place in some of the events.

Besides the horse races the usual exhibits will be open to the visitor, and automobile racing and carnival shows will offer other attractions.

Wednesday, the opening day, will be set aside as "School Children's day." Schools in the city will close, and no admission will be charged the pupils. Thursday will be "Lawton day," when all stores in the city will close; Friday will be "Farmers' day," which will be featured by an agricultural parade through the streets; and Saturday will be "Soldiers' day," when troops from Fort Sill will stage a program of horse racing and riding, and artillery maneuvers.

Greer County Fair

It has been announced that $2,000 in premiums will be offered exhibitors at the Greer County Free fair, the next celebration, which will be held Sept. 11-14. Already, according to B. E. Davis, secretary of the chamber of commerce, 20 merchants' exhibits are being arranged for the fair. Besides these there will be the usual number of agricultural exhibits. A well-rounded program of auto racing and other amusement features has been planned, Mr. Davis said.

The day after this event opens, Sept. 12, will be marked by the opening of two fairs, both in Texas. They are the Collingsworth County fair, which will begin its three-day stand in Wellington; and the Baylor County fair and Golden Jubilee, which will open at Seymour. The Seymour fair likewise will last three days.

A feature that is expected to draw the interest of hundreds at the Seymour fair is the Golden Jubilee, which will be a reunion of all pioneer citizens of Baylor county. At least 50 of the first or early settlers of the county have signified their intention to attend the Jubilee. The Jubilee was arranged by Baylor county officials as a part of the fair so that both events could benefit the other.

San Angelo Show

The next event on the program, the West Texas Exposition at San Angelo, Sept. 16-21, will include in its scope all towns and cities in this region. Extensive preparations for this event are being made. A new steel and concrete grandstand to seat 3,000 people will be on the fair grounds to receive the hundreds expected to attend; and a new group of stables have been built to receive horses entered in the races. Interest in the exposition is not centered exclusively in San Angelo's trade territory, officials point out, virtually all towns in the West Texas area having signified their intention to play some part in the show.

The annual Jackson County Fair will open at Eldorado, Okla., near Altus, with a "Community Day" celebration Sept. 18. On the same day the Young County Fair will open at Graham, Texas. Both fairs will last through Sept. 21.

Horse racing and football will furnish the fun for the Oklahomans at Eldorado. In addition, the number of livestock, poultry, and agricultural exhibits has so increased that fair officials are looking for a larger structure to house them. If matters come to the worst, it is said, a large tent will have to be erected for the displays.

At Graham, the crowds will be kept merry with polo games, a rodeo, a negro battle royal, and other amusements. Numerous repairs are being made on the fair ground buildings, and the grounds are being cleared for action.

The concluding events for the month will be the West Texas Fair at Abilene and the Wichita County Fair at Iowa Park.

The Abilene fair will rival the San Angelo Exposition in scope. There will be the usual agricultural exhibits, livestock, poultry and domestic and fine arts displays. In addition an automobile show and a manufacturers and merchants display will be held. Amusement features, besides races of all kinds, will include concerts by the Simmons University Cowboy band, and various shows.

Plans are well under way for the Wichita County Fair. Committees, appointed last month by the fair board, are now working out premium lists for the various exhibits and planning a comprehensive program of races, shows and other amusements.

BEARDEN SUIT SET DEC. 9

Anson Judge to Preside in Oil Land Case

Trial of three suits involving 600 acres of Young county oil land and growing out of the attempt of Lee Bearden, legally declared dead several years ago, to regain a share in his father's estate, was set for Dec. 9 in the 30th district court at Graham Tuesday. Two of the suits, in which all the Bearden heirs and the lessors of the property are named are brought by Mrs. Anna Bearden 88 years old, through her guardian. All of her children, grandchildren and in-laws are named in the petitions. The third suit was entered by Lee Bearden against his children and others among whom his alleged share in the inheritance was divided after he was declared dead by a Young county court. The total estate involved is valued at around $250,000.

When the case was called in the 30th district court Tuesday, Judge Allan D. Montgomery declared himself disqualified to try it on the grounds of previous legal connections with one of the defendants. By agreement of counsel on both sides, Judge W. R. Chapman of Anson was invited to hear the cases. In a long distance telephone conversation Tuesday, Judge Chapman agreed to act and will sit in Graham on Dec. 9, it was announced.

American exports and imports in July attained the greatest volume since 1920, exports amounting to $401,000,000, as against $378,984 in 1928, according to department of commerce figures.

BURK DOCTORS FIGHT TYPHOID

Physicians Adopt Plan For Handling Serum

These "shots" of the serum may be had at the office of any doctor at any time, he declared.

The health officer suggested to the commissioners that the employment of a public health nurse would prove effective in preventing the spread of the disease. He reminded the group that the county commissioners court has offered its services and might be asked to help meet that particular need.

Mr. Reagan asked the commissioners to assemble again Wednesday night to hear the plans of the district sanitary engineer after he has had an opportunity to inspect conditions. The commissioners indicated during the meeting that they are prepared to adopt stringent ordinances for enforcing any sanitary measures suggested by the state official. The Tuesday evening meeting was attended by Mr. Reagan, Mayor S. T. Smith, V. R. Peevey, Dave Barrow, Sam Cooper and Walter Duvall, commissioners.

COURT PLEDGES AID IN TYPHOID FIGHT

Members of the county commissioners court Tuesday afternoon put the court at the service of the directors of the fight against the typhoid fever epidemic at Burkburnett, declaring themselves ready to reassemble in special session at any call. In the absence of any definite demands, the commissioners were unable in their meeting Tuesday afternoon to take immediate action, but they declared the court ready to do its part in supplying serum, nursing service, and medical attendance to any section of the county involved.

F. R. Knauth, commissioner representing the Burkburnett section, who Monday brought Dr. J. C. Anderson, head of the state department of public health in conference with the court, said that Dr. M. A. Beckman, county health officer, would be asked to help in handling the situation outside the city limits of the town and that student nurses at the Wichita General hospital would probably be called upon to help in the administration of the serum. Mr. Knauth announced that he would push the proposed general clean-up of the town and urged that John L. Mizell, dairy expert, be asked to help clear up defects in the sanitary regulations governing the Burkburnett milk supply.

In the course of the meeting Tuesday the commissioners accepted the bid of the Morrison supply company to install new pipe in the county courthouse. The contractors agreed to complete the work within 15 days after the signing of the agreement.

The court also posted a permanent $25 reward for the arrest and conviction of persons stealing brass name plates from the concrete bridges of the county or any other county property. The order was passed upon the report of the loss of several of the brass plates within precinct 1. The commissioners said the plates were probably taken to be sold for junk.

HE SUFFERED FOR TEN YEARS

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief in 2 Months — Doctor Recommended It

Constipation is dreaded not only for its own insidious self, but because of the many serious conditions and diseases it causes. Mr. Lind was a sufferer—but read how he found relief.

"For the past 10 years I have suffered from piles. At times I have been unable to work. I have tried suppositories, ointments, etc., but to no avail.

"Two months ago my grocer called my attention to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I began taking it regularly. Immediately the pain and annoyance from the piles was relieved. I found that it requires very little ALL-BRAN to give nature a fair chance to effect a cure."—WALTER J. LIND, R. 2, Box 137, Appleton, Wis.

Don't neglect constipation. At any time its poisons may take terrible toll from your health and well-being. Protect yourself. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal. ALL-BRAN brings sure, natural relief. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It sweeps the intestine clean and stimulates normal action.

Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Also try the recipes on the package. Results guaranteed. Doctors recommend it because it is 100% bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants, and dining cars. Sold by all grocers.

Traffic cop gets summons

Even he can't get away with it

"DON'T try to put anything over on Nature," is the way a cop would express it. "Sooner or later she'll get you. Give you a ticket and lay you up in a place where you'd rather not be.

"Even cops can't get away with it. Like everyone else, if they don't pay attention to the warnings they get a summons that lands them in the doctor's office.

"What the doctor advises is Nujol. Says Nujol will regulate you just like you regulate traffic. Keep things from getting in a jam. Help them move along easy and regular.

"The doctor is right. Just ask the healthiest men on the Force. If they need Nujol—with all the exercise they get—what about all the fellows that roll by in their cars?

"Just take a tip from me. You may have the best intentions in the world. But everybody gets tied up at times. Nature can't always take care of things without help.

"That's where Nujol comes to your rescue. Just as it does, regularly, for thousands of other people.

"Our Medical Chief tells me that Nujol isn't a medicine. It contains absolutely nothing in the way of medicine or drugs. It's simply a pure natural substance (perfected by the Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Avenue, New York), that keeps things functioning at all times as Nature intends them to. Normally. Easily. Regularly. Without any extra effort and strain on your part.

Nature's law O.K.

"It not only keeps an excess of body poisons from forming (we all have them), but aids in their removal.

"It's these poisons that play havoc with you. Give you that dull feeling. Drag you down. Make you about half on your job."

Start Nujol today. Keep it up for the next three months. It won't cost you much—not more than the price of some smokes.

Worth a try, isn't it? Nujol can't possibly disagree with you or upset you. It is so pure and harmless that doctors recommend it for little babies, very old folks, invalids, and others who are easily upset by more drastic methods.

You'll find Nujol at all drugstores. Sold only in sealed packages. Get some on your way home today.

Pioneers of Yesterday Leaders of Today

PIONEERING in Texas fifteen years ago was just plain hard work, stimulated with courage and guided by vision.

Leadership today is the same thing.

The Texas Electric Service Company through its predecessors and under its present management pioneered transmission line electric power service in this section of Texas fifteen years ago. By so doing it pioneered the development of the smaller communities. It laid the basic foundation upon which many communities have and are developing.

Transmission line electric power service is necessary to sound community development. It is the most dependable and economical form of electric service for the home and business as well as for industrial use.

The Texas Electric Service Company owes a definite responsibility to its customers to make possible the widest and most economical use of its product.

In line with this company's policy of studiously regulating its business, voluntarily, for the greatest convenience, economy and satisfaction of its customers, its management has been working for more than a year and a half on a change in its domestic rate which is now in effect. This rate opens up to everyone the fullest use of electricity at surprisingly low cost—lower than ever before in the history of electric service in this community. In future advertisements we shall try to make clear to you just how you can most effectively use electricity in your home.

HIGHER BUDGET IS FORECAST

But Expenditures in 1931 May Not Be Greater

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. (UP)—Although President Hoover has issued strict instructions that governmental expenditures in the next fiscal year must not exceed those in the current financial year, it was learned on high authority today that estimates now being prepared by the budget bureau for submission to congress in December are expected to aggregate more than those in the present budget.

This does not necessarily mean, budget bureau officials explained, that the government will spend more in the fiscal year 1931 than it will in the current fiscal year which does not expire until June 30, 1930. Supplemental estimates sent to congress after submission of the regular budget already have increased the volume of government expenditures by about $50,000,000.

For this reason, it was pointed out, the 1931 budget now in course of preparation may be as much as $50,000,000 higher than the last budget sent to congress but expenditures still would be on a level basis for the two first years of the Hoover administration.

The 1930 budget which went to congress last December contained estimates of government expenditures for this fiscal year totaling $3,672,369,904. Since then, however, supplemental estimates for such diverse things as prohibition, cruiser building, farm board, extermination of the Mediterranean fruit fly, and tax refunds have increased the volume of government expenses by $44,271,480, bringing the total already appropriated in this year to $3,716,741,393.

Rich Americans, Broke on England's Bank Holiday, Make Air Dash for Cash

LONDON, Sept. 3. (US)—The century old British customs of "bank holiday" placed one party of rich American tourists in an unenviable dilemma.

In an obscure village 300 miles from London, John W. Huiss-Drexel, his wife, and their 13-year-old son were stranded without sufficient money to continue their tour or even to buy a meal.

By motor car they drove to the nearest big city where Drexel's bank had an agent. But the bank was closed. Unaware of the "bank holiday" they rapped and knocked at the bank without response, and then the painful truth obtruded itself upon them: The bank was closed. All banks were closed and they had no money, and benig complete strangers they could not raise any.

But Huiss-Drexel Junior came to the rescue with a marvelous suggestion. Why not hire an airplane, fly back to their London hotel, where they were known, cash a check and return?

Leaving Mrs. Drexel, John and John Junior, with pilot, flew to London called at the hotel, acquired "the wad" and flew back recouped financially for their journey.

It was a 600-mile air dash for cash, a record which still stands in the old country.

Organized Hoboes Demand Freedom Of City's Subways

NEW YORK, Sept. 3. (UP)—Up in Union Square at the base of the statues of Washington and LaFayette, a new political party rose out of the heat and dust last night. Its founder was Dapper Dan O'Brien, king of the hobos.

From an historic rostrum, Dapper Dan announced the new party was conceived in hunger and dedicated to the proposition that both Democrats and Republicans would bear watching. He proposes to have them watch each other while the hobo party goes marching on.

Dapper Dan's first objective is to be elected mayor of New York and last night many were the proselytes he made from the Communists and the Workers' party by coming out flatly for freedom of the subways—both as a means of transportation and as bedrooms.

"We have freedom of speech, freedom of the press and freedom of the seas,' said Dapper Dan, his voice liquid with emotion. "Why not freedom of the subways; down with the five-cent fare; down with all fares."

PACKERS MAY RETAIL MEATS

Cattle Men Said to Be in Favor of Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. (AP)—F. E. Mollin of Denver, secretary of the American National Livestock association, said today at a hearing before the department of agriculture that he had been instructed by his organization to favor the packers entering the retail meat market business and also to handle related products. Mollin also represented eight state cattlemen's associations.

The hearings were called at the request of the attorney general to obtain the views of organized agricultural interests on the modification of the packers consent decree which prohibited the packers from entering the retail meat market field.

Dayton Moses of Fort Worth, Texas, president of the Southwest Cattle Men's association, said he was in favor of abolishing the decree entirely. In this case he was joined by J. H. Mercer, secretary of the Kansas Livestock association.

In the petition of the packers for a sweeping modification of the consent decree, now before the supreme court of the District of Columbia, the packers asked that they be allowed to own and operate retail meat markets, and own any interest in any public stockyard market company or stockyard terminal railroad, and manufacture, distribute or otherwise deal in any of the commodities named or included in the decree.

Fur seal skins taken at the Pribilof islands during the summer season of 1929 totaled 39,253, the largest seasonal catch recorded since the government took over sealing operations in the district in 1910.

Candy Bar Killer Presents Problem For Psychologists

OTTAWA, Kan., Sept. 3. (US)—Is a moral imbecile responsible for his acts?

That question and others relating to the psychological motives that move men to crime will be threshed out at the trial of Ray Pennebaker, 28-year-old candy bar murderer.

Pennebaker is being studied by alienists and psychologists from Kansas City and Topeka, who pronounce his case one of the strangest they have ever encountered. He seems devoid of any moral sense and is apparently a murderer without a motive.

Pennebaker is charged with murder in connection with the death of his wife's niece, Elva Barnes, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Barnes of this city. The little girl died after eating a candy bar plugged with strychnine that Pennebaker is alleged to have intended for his wife, Florence, 19 years old.

The recent admission by Pennebaker that his first wife, Mrs. Thelma Davis Pennebaker, died of strychnine poisoning in November, 1927, has complicated his case and also heightened the interest of criminologists in the young farmhand.

Pennebaker insists that he gave his first wife poison by accident, that he took the wrong bottle from the medicine chest when she was ill.

Pennebaker has long had a craze for candy bars. He would eat them constantly, his wife said, and give them to her. Recently when Mrs. Pennebaker decided to visit her sister, at Ottawa, her husband drove her to the train at Lenox, Iowa. As she boarded the train he handed her a candy bar. "Eat this at Kansas City and think of me," he said.

However, Mrs. Pennebaker saved the candy and when she reached the home of her sister gave it to the Barnes children. Immediately after eating the bar, two of the children were stricken with convulsions and one died. Pennebaker then was brought here to face a murder charge.

'Five and Ten' Dry Law Described as Successful

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. (UP)—Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, expressed satisfaction today at the operation of the Jones "five and ten" enforcement law, which became effective six months ago today.

When the law was passed critics said it would inflict extreme punishment on minor prohibition offenders but Lowman said today this had not proved to be the case. "Apparently the courts have used discretion in exercising their power to make the penalty fit the crime in dealing with convictions under the Jones law," Lowman said.

Coffee...From the Mountains of Central America With a Flavor That's Different

Have you tried these coffees whose rare tang and full-bodied flavor, experts agree, are not duplicated anywhere else in the world? Never "flat" or "thin"

IF you are tired of having coffee turn out "flat" or "weak" and tasteless, no matter how carefully you make it, it will pay you to read this through.

In the high volcanic districts of Central America grows a coffee that leading experts concede is not duplicated anywhere else in the world. It has the tangiest flavor, the richest, mellowest body of probably any coffee known today.

No matter how you make it, women say, this mountain coffee always gives a full, rich flavor that can only be described in one way—good coffee.

We don't want to tell you how good it is. We suggest that you try it and see for yourself why thousands of women are turning to this particular coffee in place of all others.

Seventy-nine years ago Folger & Co. imported their first cargo of Central American mountain coffees to San Francisco. Travelers who first tasted it in the famous Bohemian restaurants of that city were captivated by its rare flavor. They wrote back for shipments, because it was unobtainable anywhere else. Thus its fame spread. In a few years, solely because of its unusual flavor, it became one of the world's most sought coffees. Today two great roasting plants are required to supply the demand here and abroad.

What Makes the Flavor

Ordinarily when you change from one brand of coffee to another, you note little difference in taste. That is because 70% of all coffee sold in the United States today (regardless of brand names) is of one common type, grown in the same general region. Hence Nature has given it the same common flavor. So-called "blending" and special roasting processes (in spite of advertising talk) can not change it. For roasting coffee merely brings out whatever flavor Nature has already put in. It is a different type of coffee that makes Folger flavor different—the rare mountain coffees of Central America.

Compare the Taste

Get a pound of Folger's Coffee from your grocer today. Drink it tomorrow morning. The next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning drink Folger's again. Then decide which you like best. If, for any reason, you do not choose Folger's, your grocer will gladly refund the full purchase price. We will pay him. That's fair, isn't it? You risk nothing—so why not order Folger's now for the test?

Junior Forum "Rush" Entertains 80 Guests

The younger social set started things with a whirl when the Junior Forum inaugurated rush week for new members with a bridge party at the Forum clubhouse Tuesday afternoon.

The punch bowl, presided over by Mrs. T. A. Hicks, where punch was served intermittently during the afternoon, was set in a bed of red and yellow blossoms and green leaves. Ivy in trailing lengths made a particularly graceful decoration.

In the games, the high score was won by Miss Calista Morrison, who received a lovely orchid and gold powder bowl. The second prize, won by Miss Zona Marie Ehlert, was a French novelty powder bowl in French gray and black.

Among the guests registering were Misses Jennie Louise Hindman, Margaret Spangle, Zona Marie Ehlert, Mary Meredith, Cecelia Terrell, Marjorie Vincent, Virginia Belle Walker, Lena Mae Lesley, Margaret Norwood, Mizelle Hodge, Bertha Mae Kruger, Lee Ellen Boardman, Sadie Shain, Louise Glen Patillo, Lucille Carter, Kathleen Alexander, Emma Elizabeth Miller, Jeannette Moore, Elizabeth Weldon, Kathleen Colligan, Marian Proctor, Frances Carter, Elizabeth Hines, Mary Louise Clark, Louise van Emden, Martha Ellen Hines, Calista Morrison, Marjorie Hines, Dorothy Smart, Mary Louise Staley, Laura Mae Costley, Kathlyn Hill, Katherine Stewart, Peggy Durkin, Ruth Keevil, Margaret Biedenharn, Sibyl Hancock, Margaret Dale, Jessie Lucile Raley, Genevieve Fritz, Eloise Hawkins, Jane Adams, Geneva Taylor, Lida Lea, Dorothy Reed, Don Ruth Coffee, Mathilde Donnell, Mary Elizabeth Donnell, Lucille Elkins, Mary Virginia Barron, Elizabeth Smith, Syble Wiley, Noreta Sims, Mary Tancred, Iva Lee Eubanks, Frances Gardner, Alva Ruth Walker, Retta Bernard, Mary Stamfli, Edna Ladd of Vernon, Mildred Miller, Joline Woods, Corinne Tucker, Mary Delaney, Mildred Sherrod, Betty Love Rugeley and Mesdames Woodard Bass, W. Bridge Luncheon and Program

Saturday will close the "rush" week features and it is hoped that all new members in the city will try to enter by that time.

The bridge luncheon on that day will begin promptly at 12:30 o'clock. R. L. Marquis, president of State Teachers college at Denton, will make the luncheon address with the subject "Youth." Mothers of the Junior Forum members or other interested members of the forum may make reservations for this luncheon.

Mr. Marquis was the principal speaker at the first district breakfast held at the state federation meeting at Denton last year. Those who have heard him will remember not only his reputation as a leading educator, but as a most interesting talker to people of all ages.

Arrangements will be made for members to be at the door to take checks for membership dues from new members. Year books will be on hand for them and for any forum members who pay dues on that date.

A Daily Illustrated Poem For Children

By Wymond Garthwaite

NURSIE!

I don't think that I
Should have to have a nurse for me at all
A nurse is only meant
For children that are very very small.

And I'm not small a bit,
'Cause now I'm wearing trousers, don't you see;
And if I have a nurse,
Why, all the children's going to laugh at me.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. N. CASON

School starts Monday. We hear people asking, "Are you glad that school is starting?" and the answers are many. Some don't care, some are glad and some sorry. It is the the little tots who are going for the first time who are most excited over it.

◇ ◇ ◇

Starting to school seems to mothers, something like crossing the Alps. There's a definite change when the child who has always been at home becomes one of the school children. He has entered "Italy." Particularly is this so with boys. Boys develop interests foreign to most mothers when their daily lives cross with other boys.

◇ ◇ ◇

The child that at 7 will walk the main street of the city with his arm around his mother's waist, is ashamed to do so when he is 9. And always then there is a little hurt in a mother's heart. Schooldays, however, do not mean parting days, if a mother will watch the child's interests.

◇ ◇ ◇

Parents and teachers associations have brought mothers more into schools and made a closer tie.

◇ ◇ ◇

We wonder what life would mean in the world as it is now, if it were not for public schools. We think of them as places for character building. Trifles—such little things show character. And youth is even more observant than age.

◇ ◇ ◇

A child is the truest judge of a teacher. By the pupil's regard, you may know them. A teacher who cannot enforce order without flying into a passion, is not worthy of his or her place. And pupils know when rules are backed by character, and respect the ruler accordingly. They do not care for the over-indulgent, who lets them go their own way.

◇ ◇ ◇

It is good for them to go under discipline. We never had any respect for Lucy Ashton's motto,
"Vacant heart and hand and eye
Easy live and quiet die."

◇ ◇ ◇

Cows may follow that motto; we do not set our aims by the placid cow.

◇ ◇ ◇

Children will learn in school that life sometimes drops her merry mask. They will have small tragedies, but if they are of the right mettle, those tragedies fit them to face a future.

◇ ◇ ◇

Never have school girls and boys had the advantages they have now. More is offered them in the way of free education; more in social life and far more in athletics.

◇ ◇ ◇

We think of the long, lofty halls, the big gym, the spacious assembly hall with the sweeping velvet curtains and the lovely mural over them out at the high school and Junior college, and are glad for the opportunity there.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

PLAYING SICK

We all are familiar with the lady who produces a sick headache whenever she is faced with an unpleasant obligation.

Usually she gives excellent reasons for her illness and is herself entirely convinced that her indisposition necessitates complete rest and seclusion. She is too ill to lift her head and an adoring friend or relative waits upon her with affectionate concern. It is a wonderful system and works as long as service and devotion are at hand.

Children who use the same dodge are generally far less self-deceived. They employ the method in the most obvious ways. Jane has an earache until after it is time for school. Johnny never feels eye strain until he must sit down to do his arithmetic. Their bluffs soon are called.

But occasionally even young children play sick with an unconscious skill which is baffling. Betty, Joan and Elsie had been playmates for a week or more when Betty and Joan decided they would stand no more of Elsie's domination. They asserted their independence and left Elsie to join them on their own terms.

This was too much for Elsie. She began to "feel sick all over," retired to bed, and actually developed a slight temperature. There were no other symptoms of illness. Her mother gave her a book and told her to lie quietly.

Next day her two little friends, who missed her in their play, came to call on her. At once Elsie was her laughing, energetic self again, clamoring to dress and go out to play.

Don't let your child play sick and get away with it. Treat the illness which is not a real illness in a business like way; let there be neither love nor glory in it for the sick one.

Reign of "Heavy" Parents at End, Says Dorothy Dix

If Parents Wish to Control the Modern Generation of Self-Sufficient Children, They Will Have to Treat Them as Grown Men and Women, and as Their Equals

From all over this fair land of ours comes the despairing wail of parents that they cannot control their children. Boys and girls in their teens defy their authority and jeer at their opinions and mock their counsel. Johnny and Mamie run with a wild crowd and stay out at nights until it is a scandal in the neighborhood. They smoke and drink and pet, and there is not a thing that their fathers and mothers can do about it.

Assuredly the reign of the heavy parents is at an end. The domestic czar, whose word was law, has been deposed along with the other autocrats. No longer do children tremble before their parents' wrath. They laugh at it. In the old melodramas the crisis of the tragedy was reached when the stern father threatened to turn his disobedient son or daughter out of doors, but such a gesture becomes a joke when made to cocky young people who are not only making their own living but generally helping to support the family and who would like nothing better than a good excuse to get away from home anyhow.

Therefore, inasmuch as all the old methods of managing children have failed in these days of the self-determination and self-expression of youngsters, I often wonder why parents do not try treating their children as regular human beings and appealing to them as man to man and woman to woman, having like feelings and reactions to their own.

I believe that this plan would work and that boys and girls would gladly accept the advice of their parents if they put forth their suggestions as the result of experience instead of trying to enforce their opinions as arbitrary commands. It is one thing to say to a child, do as I say. And another thing to explain to him or her why a certain course is a wise one to follow.

To begin with, the parents who wish to control their children must sell themselves to their youngsters as they would to any stranger whose viewpoint they wish to influence. Most parents do not consider this necessary. They are under the delusion that their children regard them with awe and reverence and as the fountain of wisdom. In this belief they are sadly mistaken. No eyes are so keen as a child's, no estimate so merciless as its summing up of the characters of those about it.

Little Johnny and little Susie have mother's and father's numbers to the last figure and they know just exactly how much their judgment is worth, how modern or antiquated are their opinions, how much they are swayed by temper and prejudice.

Half the time when Johnny doesn't go to father for advice, it is because father has made a mess of his own life and hasn't qualified for the role of oracle. Half the time when Johnny refuses to be guided by father, it is because father hasn't gotten a new viewpoint in 20 years and is living by the Grover Cleveland traditions. And Johnny knows it.

Half the time when Susie won't listen to mother, it is because she knows that mother hasn't any more intelligence than a hen and that she thinks that everything is wrong that is different from what they did when she was a girl. So the parents who want to manage their children must prove to them that they are wise and tolerant and fair and up-to-date and that their viewpoint on life is worth adopting.

Also, if, instead of trying to enforce the old slavish obedience on their children, parents would abandon the arbitrary attitude and talk things over with their youngsters they would get better results. For there are none of us who do not resent being ordered about, and it just naturally makes us get our backs up to be told to do this or not to do that without knowing why.

But even very small children are amenable to reason, and when fathers and mothers will take the trouble to explain to a child why it is best and wisest or necessary to do a certain thing, it is very seldom that the child will adopt the suggestion without protest. It is the difference between peremptorily forbidding it to do what it wants to do and showing it why it cannot have that particular pleasure.

It is the custom to speak of the youth of today as a forward and headstrong generation which will not harken to the counsel of its elders, but when this is the case it is generally because the elders issue ultimatums to them instead of parleying with them diplomatically and trying to get their point of view. Not long ago a case that proved this contention came under my notice.

A pretty young flapper, who was very strong for the modern theory that she had a right to live her own life in her own way, felt very much in love with a young man who was about everything that was undesirable in a husband, but he was handsome and had a way with him and the girl was determined to marry him. Instead of forbidding the marriage, which would have resulted in an elopement within 24 hours, the girl's father said to her:

"Of course, I don't think that Tom is a suitable person for you to marry, but you may be right and I may be wrong. I want to be perfectly fair about this thing, so let's make a list of the qualities that your husband would have to possess in order to make you happy and another list of the ones that would be certain to bring unhappiness on you. We will count 10 points for each quality and at the end of two months if you have been able to give him enough credit marks to offset the debit ones, why, I'll give my consent."

The girl agreed, and before the time was up she came to her father and told him that she had found out that Tom would be a total loss as a husband and she was through with him.

I get hundreds of letters from girls who tell me that their mothers forbid them to pet and kiss, but they don't tell them why. Or that their mothers object to their staying out until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. Or that their mothers scold them for drinking and going on wild parties when all the other girls do it.

And the girls defy mother and pet and drink and continue to go on wild parties and stay out late, but perhaps it would stay some of them on their reckless course if, instead of reading the riot act to them, mother would sit down quietly and tell them that it isn't the boys that a girl needs to protect herself against, it is her own nature, and that she can get as irresponsibly drunk on kisses as she can on hooch and that a wild party isn't worth paying for by a lifetime of shame and remorse.

All of which comes to saying that in dealing with modern children we have to deal with them as human beings and not look upon them, as parents used to do, as marionettes that we could work by pulling the string.—DOROTHY DIX.

GOLD FISH ARE PROVED DUMB

Scientists Explore Brain of Japanese Fantail

By SAM LOVE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 3. (UP)—The gold fish's last remaining pretense to privacy was stripped from him today while some of the world's most eminent brain specialists, gathered here in the ninth International Congress of Psychology, attempted to ascertain what, if anything, a Japanese fantail thinks about.

The results, to the lay mind, seemed to confirm the long-standing belief that gold fish are very dumb. Exhaustive experiments, reported in a paper by R. H. Wheeler and T. Perkins of Kansas, revealed that a gold fish knows whether it is daylight or dark but takes little interest in more complicated current events.

Not Startling Theme

While this discussion was not the high point in today's sessions of the 1,200 delegates from all over the world, it ranked in interest with "maturation and practice in the coordination of pecking reactions in chicks" and the "development of post-rational head nystagmus in squabs."

It was also less likely to cause reverberations than the presidential address of Dr. J. McKeen Cattell, who opened the sessions with a flat statement that "the objects of the science are more ideal than the objects of the churches; their practices are more Christian."

The eminent Dr. A. A. Brill of New York attracted the greatest interest of the day with his paper on "maladjustments," in which he psycholanalyzed several cases and described the cures obtained through application of psychology. Dr. Brill contended that many of the odd and even startling antics of a high school sophomore or subdeb flapper may be traced back to something that had happened to the subject between birth and the age of four, when his parents thought that all they had to do was make him eat his spinach.

Talks About Monkeys

Prof. Heinrich Kluver, of the Institute of Juvenile Research, Chicago, took up monkeys and enlivened his paper with motion pictures. Professor Kluver was not interested in monkeys as ancestors. He has spent two years with all kinds of monkeys trying to see if they get the idea of "brighter than," "faster than," "larger than," "heavier than," etc. Professor Kluver concluded that the Simians do get the idea and will react to it, even if the stimulus objects are changed.

The paper of Dr. C. S. Stoltenberg of the department of anatomy, Stanford university, revealed that there is an increase both in the time and number of head movements of squabs from the age of five days to 25 days. After the age of 35 days, there is no change in head movements. And the squabs, incidentally, are pretty good sized pigeons by then, too.

Madame Saida, Former Kansas City Girl, Wins Famous Scandal Suit

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 3. (AP)—Turkish courts today condemned the Princess Chivekiar to pay $5,000 damages to Madame Saida, the former Sidi Worth Spreckles, Kansas farm girl and divorced wife of John D. Spreckles Jr., San Francisco millionaire, in the final outcome of the famous Turkish scandal libel suit.

In her action Madame Saida, who was once Princess Suad Chakir, charged the Princess Chevekiar had misused her name in a divorce suit against her husband, Selim Bey, The Egyptian princess, Chivekiar, had charged unfaithfulness and cited Princess Suad Chakir as corespondent.

A moonlight ride on the Bosphorous in 1924 was the origin of suits and counter suits embroiling Madame Saida and the Egyptian princess.

In April, 1928, Princess Chivekiar was fined five lire (about $1) by the penal court of Stambul for insulting the American born former wife of Prince Suad Chakir.

Princes Chivekiar, former wife of King Fuad of Egypt, sued her husband Selim Bey for divorce for his alleged indiscretion in taking the Bosporous ride with the Kansas princess. A fine of ten Turkish pounds was assessed against her in 1926 in a suit brought by a Madame Saida.

German Satire on American Life Is Center of Dispute

BERLIN, Sept. 3. (UP)—Owing to protests received from many quarters, the police were forced today to consider the advisability of preventing any further performances of the play entitled "The Happy End" at the Shiffbauerdam theater.

The play, a bitter satire on American life, was presented for the first time last night and provoked a violent demonstration when the curtain rose on the final scene and showed the author's idea of what the church in America would become 20 years hence. The setting revealed a church adorned with colossal glass paintings representing "Saint Ford," "Saint Morgan," and "Saint Rockefeller." The inscription above the altar read: "Bethlehem's steel is best."

The plot of the play concerned itself with a version of gangland in Chicago in which the crooks were finally converted by the Salvation Army to the religion of "Saint Ford." The majority of the audience sat through it quietly until the church scene, when the singing of a hymn "Hosanna Rockefeller; Hosanna Henry Ford!" brought forth loud cries of protest. The partisans of the play, however, were as numerous as those who disapproved and a violent controversy developed.

Punished Girl Starts Fire Fatal for Eight

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 3. (UP)—Because she objected to being whipped Rosebud Ankton, 15-year-old negro inmate of the industrial settlement home here, started a fire that resulted in the death of eight children and the destruction of the home Sunday, she confessed to police today.

The smaller children were beaten often by authorities of the home, Rosebud told police. "I just decided I wouldn't stand for it so I set fire to the place; I didn't mean to burn any of them to death," Rosebud said.

COWBOY BAND BEGINS WORK

Three Wichita Boys Listed As Members

ABILENE, Texas, Sept. 3.—The Cowboy band of Simmons university begins pre-school rehearsals Saturday, Sept. 7, in preparation for what is expected to be the greatest year in all its history. Calls have been issued to more than 100 bandmen to appear for these rehearsals, enough to make two well rounded bands. Many others are expected to be on hand when school starts the 17th.

With this wealth of material, new and veteran, Director D. O. Wiley proposes to build the supreme musical organization of the Southwest. Manager G. B. Sandefer is planning travels which will spread the fame of the band and the name of the West Texas cowboy far and wide.

Fred L. Haskett, Dallas promoter who sponsored the Cowboy's trip to Washington last March, is arranging for a tour of Europe by the band next June.

Harry Hays., Ralph Anderson, and Wilson Gray of Wichita Falls were among those called to appear in Abilene for the Cowboy band rehearsals.

'Crime School' for Boys Investigated

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 3. (UP)—Oklahoma county officers today were attempting to unearth reports of a "crime school" in operation here employing about 75 boys to steal from homes in Oklahoma City and surrounding towns.

Three boys, arrested in Okemah with a stolen car, are reported to have told the county attorney's office about the school.

The boys said they were taught to enter homes. Officials in the gang, called the Oklahoma Theft association, have a question mark tatooed on their index finger, the boys said. They had been sent over the state to make a "big cleanup" and were to return and sell their loot to "the big fence," the boys said.

Pierce-Arrow fineness reflects In These New Colorings

WHEN the new Autumn colorings for Pierce-Arrow were being created—the work of artists who are masters of color and design—especial care was given to harmonizing the interiors with the exteriors. A remarkable richness of tones throughout is the altogether charming result.

So striking was the slender grace of the new Straight Eight line—so completely did it outmode the bulk and stodginess of other fine cars—that fineness of detail was somewhat taken for granted. The added new colorings, however, lend emphasis in this particular.

There will never be enough Pierce-Arrows to become commonplace—because mass production is not compatible with Pierce-Arrow standards. But people who own the instinct for fineness usually own also a Pierce-Arrow—or ultimately mean to. And such are the people who will particularly appreciate the new Pierce-Arrow colorings.

Daily Editorial

PRESIDENT HARVEY, of the borough of Queens, puts it up to Henry Ford to suggest a method for disposing of thousands of abandoned automobiles, which begin to clutter national roadsides.

Prosperity refuses to ride in rattletraps. And the cost of junking 'em so far exceeds the market value of obsolete parts and rusted metal, that there's no place left for unsalable derelicts except the rubbish heap.

With twenty million vehicles headed for such ultimate desertion, Henry is asked to solve a problem which might well have given the Cumean Sibyl chronic insomnia.

We can pile 'em on bonfires—but where is there room to bury all the debris?

We can melt 'em down—but who'll pay carriage charges to reduction plants?

Coastal cities can load the nuisances on barges and dump 'em at sea—but at whose expense?

The situation is a ward of legislation. And, depend upon it, covering statutes won't be long in the making.

And yet 20 years ago, there was not an intelligence in high finance that would admit America could absorb even a million cars per decade!

In 1910, the average man would no more believe that he'd soon be sitting at his own steering wheel than you now visualize a private hangar beside your garage.

But long before 1940, every last one of us will be traveling in skytaxis or flitting around the continent on floating flivvers.

THE EXPERIMENTAL chapter of aviation closed with Eckener's globe-trotting trip. Safe, sturdy, moderate-priced planes are crowding round the corner. New principles and materials have crept into their construction.

All-metal models have already shown samples. And, to cap the climax, a Spaniard, Juan de la Cierva, has demonstrated that his four-bladed, doubly-stabilized, autogyro is a practical helicopter, will rise without take-off and land shocklessly in straight descent at any point the pilot selects.

We're on the eve of mass production, popular prices and backyard competition. And you're slated to join the swarm shortly destined to darken heaven and race to business at two hundred miles per hour.

However, if that prospect doesn't thrill you, the several promises of indefinitely prolonged life, issuing from the late physiological congress, should rouse you to realization of a general scientific conspiracy against every traditional notion man ever entertained.

Medicine feels assured that the human mechanism can be kept in working order years beyond present averages of endurance.

It isn't necessary to die so early.

Pathology, armed with sterilizing rays, stimulating chemicals and resurrecting magic, is busy dipping therapeutical and surgical lore in rainbow dyes.

The hearts of dead animals have been restored to action by sound waves, vibrating two and a half million to the second.

And, mirabile dictu, cancer, treated from a fresh angle, has begun to yield to a "smothering technique."

Leprosy is officially on the run. And the latest tricks shaken from electricity's sleeve, enable surgery to saw through skulls and perform brain operations in less time than it takes to read about it.

If this sort of thing keeps up, the only permanent baffle left will be the Charlie Ross mystery and the Rothstein case.

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"He who waits for tomorrow loses the opportunity of today."

Do today the things you know you should do and you increase the ability for doing greater things tomorrow and all the days to come.

George Bernard Shaw says there is no such thing as a typical American. Is it possible he hasn't seen any of the people who pose for the illustrations in vegetable oil advertisements?

Walter Camp Jr. says his new bride, Ruth Elder, isn't going to make any more professional flights. Well, well, is that so?

Perhaps We've Got Too Much Common Sense

EVERYBODY knows that common sense is an extremely valuable trait. But the ability to be foolish in the right way, sometimes, is worth every bit as much.

Perhaps that needs a little explaining.

A news story from Tokyo the other day remarked that 17 officers and enlisted men of the Japanese navy would have committed suicide if the Graf Zeppelin had not completed its flight across the Pacific safely.

These Japanese sailors were members of the ground crew at the Kasumigaura air station, near Tokyo. They helped take the Graf Zeppelin out of its hangar, on the day that a gale jammed the ship against the hangar entrance and damaged a motor gondola; and they felt themselves to blame.

So, if the ship had come to grief on the next leg of its flight, they would have felt that the only way for them to atone for their blunder would be to kill themselves.

You cannot possibly imagine a group of Americans feeling that way about it. Committing suicide to clear one's honor is peculiarly a Japanese custom. There is no common sense to it. It is, from our viewpoint, utterly foolish.

Yet back of that custom there lies one of the most admirable traits in the Japanese character.

In order to feel that way about things, a man must have a code of honor so high and so strict that he does not care to keep on living if it be in any way stained. He must be deeply convinced that it is better not to live at all than to live below his moral standard. He must, in other words, have an ideal of conduct for which he is always ready to die.

This works out, with the Japanese, in a way that seems to us almost insane, sometimes.

Two or three years ago a Japanese warship sent a landing party ashore at a Chinese port to escort Japanese civilians to safety. The officer in charge was ordered under no circumstances to fire on the Chinese mob unless the mob fired first.

The mob did not fire; but for two miles it hooted and cursed the Japanese, shouting all kinds of hard names, flinging decayed vegetables and handfuls of mud.

The officer carried out his mission and took the civilians to safety. Then he went to his stateroom, drew his revolver and shot himself.

His code did not permit him to endure insults without striking back. He had been insulted and had not been able to retaliate; so there was nothing left for him but suicide.

Now that, of course, was utterly foolish. But it was also magnificent. It was a thing no American would have done. But the high code of honor that lay back of it was a thing that every American might envy.

It is just possible that we sometimes have a little bit too much common sense to be really high minded.

Judge It on Its Merits

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S suggestion that the various states take over the 190,000,000 acres of public lands now held by the federal government is a proposition that needs serious consideration.

It is rather unfortunate that wets and drys, in many cases, are tying the thing up with prohibition. It has been suggested that this may be a "feeler"—a prelude to suggesting that the individual states take over, in the same way, the matter of prohibition enforcement.

Those who see it in this light will, of course, judge the public lands proposal by their prohibtion sentiments. If they are wets, they will favor it; if they are drys, they will oppose it.

But the question is so important it should be considered strictly on its own merits. It will be disastrous if a major policy like this should be decided on because of its supposed connection with an utterly unrelated issue.

A Veteran's Mystery

IT WOULD be interesting to know what the story was that George Marco, of Schenectady, N. Y., carried to his grave with him. Marco recently died, in his 80's. After his death it was discovered that he had been a civil war veteran with a distinguished record—a fact that he had kept secret throughout his life. For 40 years he had had a job in a Schenectady armory. He watched the soldiers march off to the war with Spain, and he watched them march off for the war with Germany; but he never revealed to any of them that he, too, had been a soldier.

Why did he keep that secret? Service in the civil war is something that most men are highly proud of. What hidden reason made George Marco keep his war record a dark secret throughout his life?

The Panama Canal Pays

IT ISN'T so many years ago that certain pessimists would shake their heads when anyone mentioned the Panama canal. "Oh, yes," they would say, "it's a great engineering achievement, and it's a military necessity—but it's costing like thunder, and it'll never pay its own way. It will always be a drain on the government purse."

You don't hear much of that kind of talk now. Last year, for instance, the Panama canal set a new high record. It carried more tonnage than ever before, took in more money—$27,127,000—and rolled up a neat profit for the year of $18,000,000.

Evidently that canal was an extremely good business venture.

CHATTY—GODDESS OF GAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of: "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," etc.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N, INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

READ THIS FIRST

Charlotte Chatterton, nicknamed Chatty, is a born gossip. Her mother, a widowed dressmaker through Mrs. Van Nuys, a wealthy customer and old friend of the family, gets Chatty a position as switchboard operator at the Van Nuys offices. Chatty meets Billie Langenau, a file clerk, and Agnes Herford, private secretary to Mr. Van Nuys. Chatty falls in love with a young bond salesman, David Jordan, but when she gossips and causes Agnes to resign her position David drops Chatty. Chatty has dates with Bryant Dunning, a new salesman, who is married but says he has left his wife. Chatty has many parties at Winnie Talcott's house. Winnie is Mr. Van's new secretary.

One day Chatty overhears David talking on the phone about taking a new position at the Midas bank. Later she sees him copying names. Wishing to get even with him, and believing him stealing the bond buyers lists, Chatty tattles to Mr. Van. Mr. Van is very angry, as he has given David permission to copy the lists. Chatty has to apologize to David or leave. She leaves, and is unsuccessful in getting another position. She continues to have dates with Bryant Dunning, although her mother urges her not to do so.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XLIII

Chatty didn't understand herself. It was queer and very disturbing to think a great deal about herself and not be able to know why she did certain things.

She confessed freely to her mirror that she loved David Jordan devotedly. She would have been perfectly willing to lie down in the street and let him walk on her, if it would make him happy.

Yet she clung to Winnie and to Bryant, and went with him often; not as often as at first, when he had demanded every night in the week, but several times in each seven days.

When she was with him, she was half happy, half content.

Unless something was said that made her think of David. She tried to put David out of her mind when she was with Bryant.

But David had an uncomfortable way of coming before her mental eyes. One night, in a dark road, parked for conversation, a cigaret and a little petting, an amazing thing happened.

Bryant had just slipped an arm around her and drawn her close to him.

"You are so sweet, little one!" he murmured, his lips caressing her hair. "I—I—" He turned her head around almost firecely, and kissed her.

Just as his lips pressed hers, Chatty thought of David. And by some miracle of the mind, it was not Bryant, but David who held her in his arms; not Bryant's smooth shaven and carefully massaged and dolled-up face, but David's much rougher cheek under her hand.

Under the moon, in the shadow of the trees of the infrequented lane, it was David who made love to her, caressed her, held her tight—tight.

Chatty's return of Bryant's kiss was so unusually loving, so much what he had hoped for, and so surprising, that he started back from her—then gathered her into his arms again!

"Chatty, Chatty!" he cried. "Oh, girl, I want you—"

But the spell was broken. It was not David, but Bryant; Bryant, smelling of cold cream and gin and too much perfume!

Chatty pushed him away.

"Don't!" she said, crossly. "Let's ride—"

Bryant Dunning was wise in the ways of a certain type of girl; the Winnie type. He made the mistake of thinking Chatty really belonged, by nature, to the heedless flapper class, the kind of girls who think only of the moment, reckless of consequences, heedless of the world's opinion, thinking of the pleasure of the moment the only thing worth while.

Such a girl, when she pulls away, argued Bryant, is only sparring for time. Well, the way to handle 'em is to give 'em their heads! Every time they went out together, Bryant told himself, she was a little freer with him. At first she permitted only a kiss or so in an evening. Now he could kiss her as much as he pleased—and he pleased a great deal.

So Bryant agreed with her now. "Sure, if you want to ride, we'll ride, but better get your evening's supply of kisses while the getting is good, because when I start the bus, she's going to travel!"

"You funny boy!" Chatty ran her hands lightly through his hair. "I didn't mean to be cross. I was just thinking of—"

"Of whom?" asked Bryant, curiously.

"David!"

"Oh, yes, David. Wonder, how he's getting on?" Bryant had no idea that David was so much in Chatty's heart and thoughts. He was too conceited to imagine a girl could kiss him and think of another man at the same time, or find his kiss a joy because it seemed to come from another man's lips!

"I don't know," answered Chatty. "Let's start!"

Bryant threw the machine into gear. "Ever see him?" he asked.

"Never!" answered Chatty. That she saw him every day was nobody's business.

Going into Billie's the next day, Chatty was surprised to find George Mayhew. She hadn't seen him for a long time, and Billie had been noncommital about him.

"Why, George, old thing!" she cried, putting out both hands. "You are a sight for sore eyes. Where have you been keeping yourself?"

"Been away on business!" answered George. "Chatty, what you been doing to yourself? You look so much thinner!"

"The weight of the cares of an irresponsible life!" answered Chatty, lightly. "I am a lady of leisure—and how. Maybe that's why I'm thin—don't get enough to eat!"

"Chatty! You are not serious!"

"Of course not, goose! But I am out of a job—haven't a concealed job about your person, have you, George?"

Billie came into the room just then, and he did not answer. To Chatty's amazement, Billie looked positively beautiful. There was a light in her eyes and a smile on her lips, a sparkle to her face Chatty hadn't seen since—well, just how long was it since she had seen her look like that?

Not since the last time she and David and Billie and George had had a quiet, wholly innocent and nonalcoholic party.

So Chatty knew! Billie's heart had been empty, with George away. She could talk all she wanted to about it being a platonic friendship, and her duty to her husband she no longer loved or lived with, but Chatty knew.

Poor Billie! To love a man and not be able to marry him. Nobody need tell her anything about that. Only—well, it was more hopeless for Billie than for her. At least neither she nor David was married.

There was a queer little comfort in the thought. Suddenly a freezing jealousy assailed her—that girl! The girl who wouldn't marry unless her man made ten thousand a year! How much did David make? Was that why he had left Van Nuys—to make money enough to marry the girl for whom he had once—oh, so long ago, before Chatty knew him—bought flowers across the street from the hat shop?

"George, how much do bank officers make a year?" she asked.

"What officers?" asked George.

"Well, a cashier, or an assistant cashier or—or—or a bookkeeper."

"I suppose a cashier of a big bank makes ten or fifteen thousand; an assistant from five to ten, and a bookkeeper from three to five," answered George. "Why? Want a job as a cashier?"

"Cashier in a movie is about my speed!" confessed Chatty, ruefully. "Guess you didn't hear what I asked about a job. Your ears were all in your eyes when Billie came in!"

"Didn't I? Sorry!" answered George. "What did you ask?"

"If you had a job concealed about you! Need one the way the cat's fleas need powder! If you've ever lived through the morning after the night before, with a head like a beehive and a stomach that's a cross between a railroad wreck and something the cat dragged in, you'll remember how you wanted the ice water. Well, the way I want a job is like that!"

George laughed. "Your description is vivid, if unpleasant. I'm sorry, Chatty, but I haven't any jobs to hand out—"

"Poor old Chat!" Billie laid her hand on Chatty's arm. "She's really up against it, George. Chatty, I think I can get you a job, or at least tell you how to get it, if you will eat a little humble pie—"

"I'll walk on my knees to anyone who will give me a job!" cried Chatty. "Do spill it, there's a dear!"

"It's Mr. Van Nuys! Now, just a minute—" she raised her hand as Chatty started to speak. "We've had three phone girls in three weeks, and they are all impossible. If you'll go to Mr. Van Nuys and come clean, I think he'll take you back. You know, Chatty, you did what he told you to—with David, I mean!"

She glanced sidewise at George.

"Yes, yes, I know!" Chatty put in, hurriedly. Somehow she didn't want her affairs discussed with George, at least, in her presence.

"Well, you go tell him you've reformed! Eat humble pie! Talk pretty. Make promises and make them to keep. Swear you'll never listen in, talk, chatter, make trouble. Dress in your quietest dress and leave off the war paint. And I believe he'll give you the job back!"

"I—I don't know if I can!" sighed Chatty.

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Pity the poor rich man. Rich men's children are sometimes pitied because they are so closely watched by governesses and tutors, but give a thought to father, who is under the stern finger of his public relations counsel. Witness, for instance, this story of an American Croesus, who bought a world-famous painting a few years ago. In-as-much as he intended to bequeath the painting to a museum, the millionaire thought it would be a fine idea if the public were acquainted with the fact that he had bought it. It was a very expensive piece of art. The matter of publicity was passed on to the public relations counsel, who immediately vetoed it. "Times are hard," he told his employer, "and it won't help public regard for you if it becomes known that you have spent so much money." So the painting remained unheralded for many years, until the present era of prosperity brought the public to its current devil-may-care attitude.

Served Him Right

One of the platform men at the Times square subway station has become the object of taunts and gibes. Said taunts and gibes, he maintains, are entirely unjust, for what is supposed to have happened to him never occurred. His is the job of stuffing passengers into the cars. It takes a burly, experienced fellow to do the trick, and he is that. In less than a trice he can pack much human flesh into as little space as possible. But recently, the story goes, the human pack turned on him. It caught him up and swept him into a car, where he was forced to ride to the next stop—Seventy-second street.

Big Business

This is a true story about a famous theatrical producer and an equally famous writer of what the profession calls musical comedy books. For two years the producer had been trying to get the services of the writer. But the author chap was very elusive, and always had more work ordered than he could find time to do. It is next to impossible to find him, for he maintains several residences, and usually lives in none of them, preferring to vagabond about from hotel to hotel.

The dull summer months came, and the producer called in his press agent. "You're drawing a salary and have nothing to do," he told this employe. "I want you to find Joe Blank and bring him to me. I want him to write a musical comedy."

So the press agent began a search that evening—for nighttime was daytime to the writing fellow. The publicity man finally located his quarry at dawn—sleeping peacefully in an exclusive hotel.

"My boss wants to see you right away," he said.

"All right," said the writer.

To make sure there would be no hitch, the press agent went to the hotel the next morning—later in the same morning, really—and clung like a leach to the hunted author. Together they had breakfast during lunch hour, and together they went to the office of the famous producer.

There they were met by the boss' secretary. "Mr. Green has left a message," she said. "He says he's sorry, but he had to go to a ball game."

The Golf Dog

The public golf links at Van Cortlandt park is again safe for duffers. Frank Conroy and his dog have been eliminated. Frank had trained this mongrel, which was more of a bulldog than anything else, to be a hunting dog. Frank would hide himself in the rough, taking great care not to frighten the wild golfers that frequented the countryside. The golfers would drive, splash and putt, and Frank's dog would watch the little balls with an unerring eye. When a ball landed, the dog would retrieve it for Frank. And Frank made lots of money selling almost new balls cheap. The police finally got him, and he has been sent to the workhouse. The dog was too smart, however, and eluded capture. Perhaps, like a squirrel, he is gathering golf balls and burying them in anticipation of his master's return, but this is not held likely.

Subway Is Covered

A favorite metropolitan pastime of the last few years is dying out. No longer do countless hundreds drape themselves over fence railing and gaze spellbound at subway diggers working far below street level. For the new subway—as far as its Manhattan length goes, at any rate—is now covered over. In some places paving has again been laid down, and Eighth avenue again looks like a street. Here and there are mysterious holes, where strong-looking machines pour limitless quantities of concrete below. Just where the concrete goes, nobody on the surface knows, but from the amount that is used, I have a dark suspicion that they are merely filling up the tunnel again.

A year or so ago one of the most entrancing scenes in all New York was behind Pennsylvania station, where the subway trench reached a truly terrifying depth. At night one could see men no bigger than gnomes working under eerie flood lights. It looked like the abode of Vulcan. It was a particularly difficult part of subway construction, for an underground stream of no mean size had to be dealt with.

However, there are always enough excavations under way to keep New York's rail birds amused. We stand and gaze, entranced, at a skyscraper's basement, just as I have seen Germans looking at displays of cog wheels and monkey wrenches in store windows in Dusseldorf and Dortmund.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Calvin Coolidges Go Literary

(The scene is a room in the Coolidge home. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge are both at work on magazine articles).

Mrs. Coolidge: Calvin, stop that!

Mr. Coolidge: Stop what?

Mrs. Coolidge: That drumming with your fingers. I'm trying to write.

PHILLIPS

Mr. Coolidge: I wasn't drumming with my fingers; that was a boy going past the house rubbing a stick against the picket fence. And I wish you wouldn't interrupt me when I'm trying to think.

Mrs. Coolidge: I'm sorry, Calvin.

Mr. Coolidge: And please stop tapping your foot on the floor, Grace.

Mrs. Coolidge: Was I?

Mr. Coolidge: Yes. Now let's each help the other to concentrate by being very quiet.

(The door-bell rings after a few moments).

Mrs. Coolidge: Answer the bell, dear.

Mr. Coolidge: You answer it, Grace.

Mrs. Coolidge: I'm right in the middle of a paragraph.

Mr. Coolidge: Well, that's better than being where I am. I'm caught between two clauses for the want of the right word.

Mrs. Coolidge: You're in a better position to answer the door than I am, Calvin.

Mr. Coolidge: It's much easier to answer a door from the middle of a paragraph than between two clauses. You answer it this time and I'll answer it next time.

Mrs. Coolidge: Oh very well, but if the American rejects this story it will be your fault.

◆ ◆ ◆

Mr. Coolidge (as Mrs. Coolidge returns): Who was it?

Mrs. Coolidge: The letter-carrier.

Mr. Coolidge: Any checks for me?

Mrs. Coolidge: Nothing for you at all. But—look!—here's a nice one for me.

Mr. Coolidge: What's the American paying you per article, anyhow?

Mrs. Coolidge: I don't think I should tell you.

Mr. Coolidge: Why not?

Mrs. Coolidge: It might make you dissatisfied.

Mr. Coolidge: I think I'll ask for more money on general principles. If I knew what you were getting, though, I'd have something to base.

Mrs. Coolidge: Now, shush, Calvin. No more talk. I want to get back to work.

Mr. Coolidge: I guess I'll start typing my stuff now.

Mrs. Coolidge: Now Calvin Coolidge, you know very well I'll be wanting that typewriter in a few moments.

Mr. Coolidge: But you had it all morning and . . . .

Mrs. Coolidge: You had it all day yesterday and last night. It's my turn now.

Mr. Coolidge: I'll just start and when you get ready I'll quit.

Mrs. Coolidge: No sir. Once you get started typing it'll be impossible to stop you. Anyway, we ought to have two typewriters.

Mr. Coolidge: Two typewriters, Grace? Where's your Vermont thrift?

Mrs. Coolidge: We've outgrown the one-typewriter stage. When you were the only author in the family one machine were enough but. . . .

Mr. Coolidge (tartly): I'm still the only author in the family.

Mrs. Coolidge: You wouldn't think so if you read the advertisements for my last article.

Mr. Coolidge: What was your last article about?

Mrs. Coolidge: Didn't you read it?

Mr. Coolidge: No.

Mrs. Coolidge: Brute!

Reducing the Legs

Many of the young women who are anxiously writing me, inquiring as to the best way to reduce, would be perfectly willing to let Shylock take his pound of flesh, if only he would take two pounds, and take it from their thighs or calves.

How many times one sees a woman, attractive in every other way except that the calves, ankles or thighs are too heavy. When fat accumulates in some one portion of the body rather than being distributed evenly over its entire surface, it is an indication that the circulation is defective through the fatty area.

In these days when walking is not very fashionable, and we find so many who indulge in overeating and over-drinking, it is a real problem with many women to avoid over-large limbs. The fat has a tendency to seek out the legs as a resting place, where it is perfectly revealed through sheer silk hose.

There is no substitute for exercise to keep the legs shapely. Walking, swimming and dancing are all beneficial and safe exercises for keeping the lower legs in symmetrical proportions. Daily walking, if persisted in, will bring about a most satisfactory change in the contour of the lower limbs. If hikes were more fashionable, they would add a great deal to leg beauty of America. Dancing, whether of the ballroom type, the aesthetic, or the acrobatic, will not only be found enjoyable but will have a beneficial effect upon the leg muscles. Swimming can be highly recommended for the leg muscles, since the kicking movement used from the various strokes employs all of the leg muscles and tends to normalize the outline. It also has the result of making long smooth muscles without any bulging of line.

When the leg muscles have not been used for a long time they lose their tone and will seem stiff and unwilling to work when you first begin flexing them, but once you have taken them through the preliminary training, their strength will be increased, and you will find it a positive joy to indulge in any form of swift, light movement, such as dancing, playing tennis or handball.

Where the legs have really become clogged with fat, it is sometimes advisable to use other adjuncts to the exercise to increase the circulation. Among the simpler methods which can be employed are alternate hot and cold applications, massage and vibrators.

I never advise operating upon fatty tissue for its removal unless it is in the form of unsightly circumscribed fatty tumors. One should also be very careful to use a well balanced diet to keep the blood in a good condition so that it will dissolve and carry away the fatty deposits. Those who have unshapely masses of fatty tissue are usually those who over-indulge in starchy foods, and do not employ enough of fruits and salads.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Cornbread

Question—Mrs. J. asks: "What is the food value of cornbread made from unbolted cornmeal?"

Answer—The unbolted, unrefined cornmeal is a healthful food and is placed in the starchy class the same as all grain foods. When this bread is used it should be taken in combination with the non-starchy vegetables and not with meat, fish or fowl.

Childbirth

Question—M. M. C. asks: "Will you please write an article giving your views on childbirth (first child) at the age of 39 as compared with the woman of 28? Is it exceedingly risky for a woman to bear her first child after the age of 35? Please also state if you think a woman who has led a sedentary life has taking a greater chance than the woman who has led a more active life."

Answer—Theoretically, it should be more difficult to bear a child at the age of 39 than at 29, but by actual observation I have found that the woman at the older age can have almost a painless childbirth if she will diet and exercise properly during pregnancy. Some of the easiest births I have observed have been with women around 40 who have trained properly for this important event in their lives.

Fruits

Question—J. H. G. writes: "Kindly state in the column what fruits do not contain acid. Or, if all fruits do contain acids, does cooking destroy acid, so I am very desirous of knowing which fruits do not contain acid, either cooked or uncooked."

Answer—Fruit acids are changed somewhat by cooking. Also, dried fruits have less acid than when fresh. Many people are afraid of using fruit because of the acid, but could do so if they understood how to use the fruits properly. It is better to use only the stewed fruits with meals, and take fresh fruits by themselves, making an entire meal of one kind of fruit. Practically all fruits contain some acid but because of their effect upon increasing the flow of bile, their final reaction in the body is alkaline. If you have over-acidity of the stomach, you will find that a fruit fast of a few days will greatly benefit you.

Officer Faces Charge of Murder

BAY MINETTE, Ala., Sept. 3. (UP)—Deputy Sheriff L. D. Henderson was held on a murder charge here today, following the slaying of Jake Kellar, 45, during a row between Kellar and deputies who were searching his car for liquor.

In the car with Kellar at the time were his wife, a neighbor and his wife.

Kellar was said to have struck Henderson with his fist as the deputy stood on the running board of the car. A fight followed and Kellar was shot through the heart. The deputy claimed he fired in self-defense.

The death of Kellar is the third in prohibition enforcement shootings recently in southern Alabama.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 3. (UP)—One man was killed and two injured, one of them seriously, today when a Waco biplane, piloted by Willis Young, went into a spin and crashed into the ground near here.

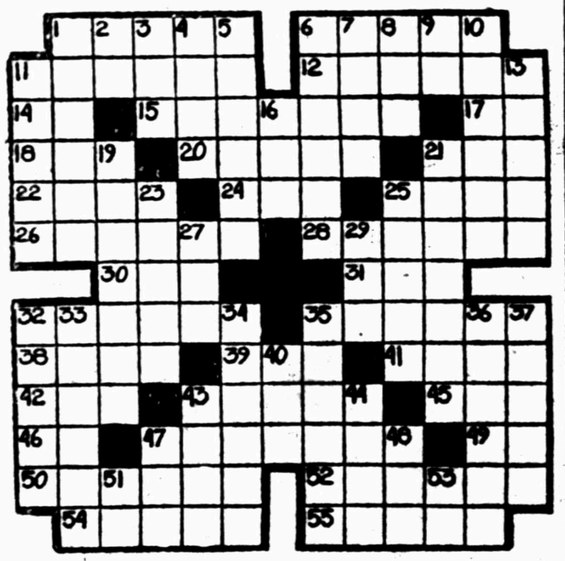

C. B. Adsit, a highway inspector employed by the county, one of the passengers in the plane, was killed.

E. W. Gothwals, of Raytown, a county highway engineer, suffered a fracture of both legs and a possible skull fracture. Young was injured slightly.

BENTON AND SULLIVAN LEAD SPUDS TO 18-1 WIN OVER STEERS

LESTER WHITE IN FINE FORM

Gullic, New Gallowayman, Clouts Home Run

Special to The Record News

DALLAS, Sept. 3.—The Spudders today looked like the direful hitting team that for three years has inspired fear in the hearts of opposing clubs. Hammering 21 hits, the Wichita Falls club trounced the Steers, 18 to 1.

Rabbit Benton and Dick Sullivan, each with four hits, paced the Spudder attack. Sullivan included a triple and a double in his quartet of blows. Gullic, new Wichita Falls outfielder, clouted a home run.

The Spudders scored in every inning except the third. They drove Blankenship and Martina off the hill and continued their bombardment with Leopold pitching.

Lester White hurled superb ball and except for Flaskamper's triple and Rosenthal's single in the first inning held the Herd safely all the way.

Missouri Grid Outlook Bright

15 Letter Men Return for Tiger Eleven

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 3.—The 1929 University of Missouri football team will be built around a nucleus of 15 letter men, aided by seven provisional letter men, 14 reserves and 27 freshmen. These players survived scholastic difficulties, it was revealed today by the university registrar.

Only two players, Gilbert, a backfield letter man, and Kellersman, provisional letter man, who played tackle, were found ineligible for competition this year.

Headed by Capt. Johnny Waldorf, Coach Henry will have an entirely veteran team with the exception of a tackle. Seven backfield men are included in the array of gridiron talent which made sufficient scholastic averages last year.

Besides these athletes, Coach Henry is counting on quite a bit of help from the seven provisional letter men who are scheduled to return. Among this group are three tackles, two ends and two backs.

With the 14 reserves and 27 freshmen, a wealth of material is expected to be unearthed this year.

The letter men who are to return include J. Waldorf, center and back, Kansas City; P. Brayton, guard, Tipton; H. Campbell, end, Odessa; S. Cox, back, St. Joseph; R. Dills, back, Albany; H. Garner, back, Quapaw, Okla.; E. Hawkins, tackle, Columbia; K. Hursley, end, Kansas City; C. Hudgens, guard, Quapaw, Okla.; S. Kennedy, back, Kansas City; L. McGirl, guard, Odessa; L. McCaulley, center, Granite City, Ill.; W. Oldham, back, St. Joseph; R. Smith, center, Sapulpa, Okla.

The provisional letter men: W. Nash, back, St. Louis; L. Kilgroe, tackle, Hot Springs, Ark.; O. Lindenmeyer, tackle, Lake Forest, Ill.; J. Baker, tackle, Sikeston; R. Morgan, end, Newton, Kan.; J. M. Gladden, end, Houston, and K. Reece, back, Mountain Grove.

The reserves are H. Austin, end, Mount Vernon; G. Buchholz, back, Kansas City; F. Bittner, back, Greenfield, Iowa; J. Doarn, back, Kansas City; W. Frankenfeld, back, St. Charles; C. Terwilleger, end, Kansas City; W. Warden, tackle, Kansas City, and L. Derry, back, Poplar Bluff.

The freshmen expected to return this year include G. Allen, end, Excelsior Springs; R. Armstrong, guard, Dallas, Texas; L. Aubuchon, back, St. Louis; O. Boeckmeier, end, St. Charles; W. Buell, back, Vandalia; F. Crane, back, Kansas City; G. Edminston, back, St. Louis; G. Escheu, back, St. Louis; B. Forrester, tackle, Kansas City; R. Haines, back, Pierce City; C. NEW GRID HEAD AT DARTMOUTH

Several Other Shifts Made In Eastern Schools

By JOHN W. HEISMAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—New coaches for old jobs or old jobs for new coaches—put it whichever way you like. Every new season a number of colleges announce the acquisition of a different coach and some who make a profession of football coaching shift to another institution.

Announcement of such changes may be seen in the daily papers at various times throughout the nine months intervening between the close of one season and the commencement of the next, but few, even of those directly connected with football, can keep up with all of them. Still, those who like to figure on this or that team's prospects and chances for an approaching season take into reckoning not alone what they think of new material and the team's schedule but also who the coach may be. Hence a review of the changes will be wanted by many.

Not a great many coaching changes have taken place in the East this year but, on the whole, they have been rather important. Thus the withdrawal of Jesse Hawley from Dartmouth is a matter of concern not alone to the famous New Hampshire institution but to the entire world of football, for Hawley has proved himself time and again one of the ablest and most experienced coaches in the game.

Cannell Is Experienced

But Jackson Cannell will undoubtedly make a fine effort to fill Hawley's shoes as head coach at Dartmouth. He played quarter on several good green teams, assisted both Spears and Hawley by handling the backfields for a number of years, and even acted for one year in the capacity of head coach. Cannell should now be ripe.

For the first time in six years a new head coach will greet the University of Virginia squad when it reports for duty. Earle Neale resigned the position last spring and his successor will be Earl C. Abell, who was head coach at Colgate last season. The Cavaliers will find, I am sure, that they have signed up an entirely capable man.

At Colgate Abell's work will be taken over by Andy Kerr who, for the past three seasons, has been head coach at Washington and Jefferson. Kerr is a veteran of many years' campaigning. He will doubtless teach Colgate the Warner system, as he assisted Warner for many years at Pittsburgh and has himself taught it for years.

Almost at W. & J.

At W. & J. they will put in alumni coaching for the first time. Bill Amos, crack fullback of the last four seasons, will act as head coach and will have the assistance of Hal Ride, an outstanding tackle for the presidents of the past five years. Both these men played under me in 1923, and I have to say that they were not only fine players but smart boys and good sportsmen as well.

Other changes at eastern institutions include the following:

At Vermont Capt. W. V. Rattan, formerly of Texas Christian college, will be in charge, while at the University of Buffalo Jay Lee, of Notre Dame, will handle the reins. At American university, in Washington, D. C., Coach G. B. Springston retires and Walter H. Young, of Ohio Wesleyan, assumes office. At Massachusetts Agricutural college Coach McGeoch will not be back but in his stead will be seen H. M. Gore, a graduate of the institution. Robert Duffy departs from Dickinson and H. W. Griffith, of Penn State, comes to the rescue.

Spud-Panther Forfeited Game Ruled 'No Contest'

DALLAS, Sept. 3. (AP)—Yesterday's Fort Worth-Wichita Falls baseball game, forfeited to Fort Worth when the umpires accused a Wichita Falls player of dilatory tactics was declared "no contest" by William B. Ruggles acting president of the league, here tonight.

This decision reverses that of Umpire Cecil Grigg and upholds the protest which Manager Jim Galloway filed when the game was forfeited. Ruggles found the forfeit unjustified and, since the game had not gone the legal minimum, he declared it "no contest."

Galloway Is Blamed

Ruggles said that the umpires exonerated the Wichita Falls club of any charge of "stalling" as a club but charge that Manager Galloway shifted pitchers to delay the game until darkness forced it to be called before the legal minimum had been played.

Fort Worth was ahead at the time. A short time later the forfeit was declared when Outfielder Gullic of Wichita Falls failed to catch what looked like an easy fly. This was considered an overt act by the umpires.

Gullic, on the other hand, testified, Ruggles said, that he misjudged the ball in the darkness, and also contends that he heard someone tell him to drop the ball. The umpires exonerated the Wichita Falls team on this point and Ruggles ruled that Gullic's position was too far from the bench for the words to have been uttered by Manager Galloway.

And, Furthermore—

"It is the fact," Ruggles' ruling continued, "that the forfeit resulted from the actual act of an irresponsible player that the acting president holds should not result in charging the Wichita Falls club with a loss in a game that all evidence shows could not possibly have resulted in either a victory or a defeat." (The umpires testified that the fifth inning of the game could not have been played because of darkness.)

Ruggles said that the Wichita Falls club would be required to show that a $50 fine had been levied and collected from Gullic.

As to the charge that Galloway changed pitchers to delay the game Ruggles said:

"Manager Galloway acted within his legal rights, however open to criticism for lack of sportsmanship in using a practice common in baseball that cannot be severely condemned. Whatever disciplinary action is due Manager Galloway is left up to the Wichita Falls club."

As the Wichita Falls and Fort Worth clubs do not meet again this season, the protested game declared "no contest" of course cannot be played. A victory is taken from Fort Worth and a defeat from Wichita Falls in the standing of the teams.

This gives the Spudders 66 games played, 41 victories and 25 defeats for a mark of .621, and two games ahead of Houston. It leaves the Panthers with 68 games played and 34 victories and 34 defeats, for .500

MACKS DEFEAT CHAMPS, 10-2

Third Straight Win Boosts Athletics' Lead

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3. (AP)—The Athletics completed their rout of the Yankees here today by plastering the champions with a 10 to 2 defeat which gave the home forces three straight in the series and increased the Mackian pennant lead to 14½ games.

The three triumphs over the holiday ran the Athletic string to 12 victories and only eight defeats in hand-to-hand combat with the fading champions of 1928. The season's series between the two will be wound up at the Yankee stadium on the last two days of the season, when results apparently will have ceased altogether to matter.

George Earnshaw fairly breezed to his 20th victory. The Philadelphia right-hander thus became the first major league pitcher to reach the 20 mark.

One of the four hits off Earnshaw was Gehrig's 29th home run, hit in the fifth inning. Score:

Another Malady to Plague Public

LOS ANGELES.—In this day of many wrong numbers and strained ears, telephones are going to be responsible for a new disease which will ravage the phone-using public, according to Dr. Perry Mulliken of Hollywood. Telephone ear is the name of the malady, and Dr. Mulliken says it is caused from the constant use of a telephone by the left ear. This causes people to listen intently with their left auditory nerve, developing this nerve to its utmost. While this nerve is being developed, however, the right side is being slighted, with the result hat it gradually loses its sensitiveness. This could be remedied by an alternate change from left to right in the instrument, he says.

During the season of 1927-1928 more than 6,450,000 hunting licenses for the taking of wild game were issued throughout the United States to sportsmen. Revenue from these licenses amounted to more than $9,300,000.

JONES AND HOMANS TIE FOR NATIONAL AMATEUR GOLF MEDAL

COLLEGIAN AND BOB SHOOT 145

Dennis Lavender Eliminated With 167

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Sept. 3. (AP)—Somebody must let loose a few good old fashioned college cheers before the battle of Pebble Beach began for the national amateur golf championship.

For the second successive day an undergraduate club swinger jumped out of the pack to give the defending champion, Bobby Jones, a fight for scoring honors. Today bespectacled, deliberate Eugene V. Homans of Princeton university, took over the lion-taming role from Gibson Dunlap, Los Angeles collegian and sensation of the opening round. After a half gale had swept hopes all over the seaside course, Homans was tied with Jones for the medal and lead in the 36th hole, two-day qualifying test.

Before the wind gathered full force to ruin most prospects of low scoring Homans finished with 72-73—145. Jones, playing under less favorable conditions, wound up with 70-75—145.

Fighting gamely in the wake of the Georgian, Dunlap finished with 69-78—147. The Los Angeles youth at no time was in danger of repeating his record performance of the opening day, losing control of his tee shots and on several occasions narrowly escaping disaster on the ocean's brink.

It was the third time in his career that Jones has figured in a tie for the qualifying medal. The Georgian, who has won the title four times in the last five years, deadlocked with Fred Wright Jr., of Boston, at the Engineers club in 1920 and again in 1923, at Flossmoor with Chick Evans of Chicago. Jones won the medal outright in 1926 at Baltusrol.

CLARENCE HUBBY ONLY TEXAN TO SURVIVE

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Sept. 3. (AP)—Clarence Hubby of Waco was the only Texan to win his way into the match play rounds of the national amateur golf tournament, during the qualifying play which ended today.

Hubby, with 155, gained the select circle, but Dennis Lavender of Abilene, A. K. Barbee of Waco, J. J. Ballard Jr. of Fort Worth and Gibson Payne, Charles Dexter and Alvin Herold of Dallas failed.

Hubby played steady golf, adding a 78 to his 77 of yesterday for 155. He was out today in 37, one over par, but required a 41 on the back nine, having difficulties at the 11th, 15th, 16th and 18th.

Payne was off his game, missing putts frequently and finding many traps.

Payne's total for the two days was 162.

Lavender had a disastrous second nine today taking two sevens on the way in for an 84 after going out in 39. This gave him 167.

Ballard had a 170, Barbee 186 and Dexter 167.

Edwin McClure of Shreveport shot 176.

Electric Men Fly To Frigidaire Convention

Six Texas Electric Service company salesmen who chartered airships to attend the Frigidaire convention in Galveston over the weekend were back on the ground in Wichita Falls Tuesday with stories of their aerial adventures. With the aid of J. G. Groves, local agent for the Southwest Air Fast Express, the salesmen obtained two T. A. T. ships out of Fort Worth and covered the distance between Fort Worth and Galveston in less than three hours each way. They flew in a pair of passenger cabin ships, arrived at the convention ahead of time Saturday and were able to stay over until Monday before starting on the return trip, according to an account of the trip given by C. A. Spragins, in charge of the group.

The fliers from Wichita Falls included, besides Mr. Spragins, John Rogers, Bill Rogers, Sam Anderson, C. C. Riley and M. E. Coffman. They came back, Mr. Spragins declared, with a new formula for getting the most out of conventions.

Rubber Stop Signs To Replace Metal Markers

Replacement of metal stop buttons with new rubber stop signs at all intersections where the old type is now located will begin in the near future, it was announced Tuesday by Police Chief Frank Burns.

Several caution signs for use on streets near schools in the city have been received and will be installed within the next few days, under the direction of Traffic Captain Johnnie Sewell. These signs will also be of the rubber "flapper" type. A city ordinance requires that automobiles be held down to a maximum of eight miles per hour in school zones, Captain Sewell said. In order to enforce this ruling, it may become necessary to place police officers at the school crossings, he stated.

Besides common salt it has been calculated that the Dead Sea contains 1,300,000,000 tons of potash, 20,000,000,000 tons of magnesium chloride, 850,000,000 tons of bromides, and large quantities of other salts.

A Line on Football Prospects

Columbia graduates were ends and guards; plenty of good backs.
Illinois has 20 letter men for another Big Ten championship.
New York university has a stiff schedule and no Lassman or Strong around.
The Michigan men who finished 1928 with a rush are nearly all back.
Detroit's losses were heavy, but Lloyd Brazil is still there.
Colgate has 14 letter men and a squad of rangy, hefty men.
Pitt lost only three letter men and the freshmen are unusually good.
Purdue lost 17 stars, but still has Welch Harmeson and Caraway.
Lehigh lost Quarterback Elliott to West Point.
Auburn Poly expects a winning team this year. Many vets back.
Texas needs ends and linemen; 11 letter men graduated, but 14 remain.
Butler has 20 letter men to work on—eight backs and 12 forwards.
Northwestern prospects are for a fast, light team.
Oregon State lost Maple, Carlson, Eilers, Luce and Whitlock.
University of Washington has the best material in years.
Southern California is favorite to win on the Pacific coast.
University of Oregon is picked to win over the teams of the Northwest.
Carnegie's problem is an inexperienced backfield squad.
Penn line prospects are good this fall and that is unusual.
Nearly all the good linesmen at Villanova graduated.
Twenty-two veterans at Ohio State herald a good season.
Notre Dame will have better reserve strength than for several years.
Georgetown's problem is to replace Duplin and Dwyer, backs.
Nineteen letter men are back at Indiana, but Chuck Bennet isn't.

Frederick Finds Fences Shorter In National Than in Minor Loops

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—During his years with the Pacific Coast league and with Memphis of the Southern association last season, Johnny Frederick had never been known as a long distance slugger. Rather, he was a lad who hit to many fields and obtained his hits, whatever caliber they might be.

Then Frederick became a member of the Brooklyn Robins. Immediately his hitting assumed as much attention as his fielding. People began to know him as a home run swatter. Other people explained that he would never become a star because he was an almost consistent right field hitter. Perhaps he should tell his own story. Here it is:

"Some folks think I am hitting to right field because I can't help it. As a matter of fact, I am aiming the ball in that direction because I am playing a percentage.

"To tell the truth, I am a straight-away hitter. But when I got up to this league I found the right field fences were rather short. I decided that it might not be a bad idea to aim at them. Maybe that's the reason the folks are congratulating me on having 20 homers already in the big time, whereas I only hit seven with Memphis last year. They had longer fences down there, and besides I am working on the percentage now. A lot of my hits are going for a long distance, so why not make them count the most possible?"

Johnny is batting well over .300 and continues his habit of leading the league in doubles with more than 40.

Quite a performance for a lad who was purchased by the Robins because it was thought his ability to get on base would make him a good lead-off man.

Decision to appoint two other commissions already has been announced. One of these will study water power development in California. The other will take up the proposal to bridge San Francisco bay.

The army has been asked to examine its expense account and eliminate unnecessary items. Steps have been taken to relieve congestion in federal prisons and plans made to ask congress for $5,000,000 for additional prison facilities.

Transfer of prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department also has been considered and congress was requested to select a committee to study the proposal.

Eradication of the Mediterranean fruit fly in Florida has been undertaken and $26,000,000 will be sought to continue this work. A study of child welfare needs is under way. The federal farm board has been organized and begun to function.

The senate tomorrow will take up the tariff. This promises to develop many perplexing questions. The extra session is expected to run almost to the convening day of the regular session in December at which time a new budget, the first of the Hoover administration, must be placed before the legislators. With this work in the offing, those old in political life in Washington say that even though the first six months have been busy the president will have much more to do in those to come.

HUNT FOR LOST AVIATOR FAILS

Maj. John Wood Missing in Desert Area

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3. (UP)—The Aero corporation here was advised tonight from Needles, Calif., that the airplane in which Maj. John P. Wood and Ward Miller set out on a non-stop flight to Cleveland, Ohio, had been found 25 miles from Needles, destroyed by fire.

Burrell Smith, one of the fliers who took off from here today to search for Wood after Miller had reported being thrown from the faltering ship, said there was no sign of Wood near the wreckage.

NEEDLES, Calif., Sept. 3. (UP)—Searchers late today found no trace of Maj. John Wood whose Los Angeles-Cleveland speed race plane crashed Sunday night near Piute Springs, in the desert 35 miles from here.

Wood's mechanic, Ward Miller, jumped in his parachute and was saved. No definite word from the isolated spot concerning Wood's fate led to the belief that he either had been thrown from the plane and killed or had landed with a parachute some distance away from the place Miller came down.

Meager reports indicated that the plane with which Wood had hoped to break a record, had been struck by lightning. Inadequate communication lines to Piute Springs made detailed information impossible.

Miller said he was stooping down adjusting his safety belt when the ship plunged into a tail-spin.

"In the fall, I was thrown clear of the ship and had presence of mind enough to pull my parachute cord," he added.

"When I saw the parachute open I lost consciousness and came to apparently hours later, lying on the desert.

"Then I got up and, after wandering about the desert, reached town. The last I saw of Major Wood and the airplane was when he went into that tail-spin."

seventeenth to avert disaster. He hooked his second shot out of bounds but a great approach and putt, with Raines requiring two on the green after getting on in three, gave Tommy another chance, though he was 1 down as they teed off for the eighteenth.

Cochrane shot a birdie 3 to take the eighteenth and square the match. Both shot par 4's and par 5's on the nineteenth and twentieth, and Cochran won at the twenty-first green with a birdie 3. Their cards:

Cochran had advanced to the second round by disposing of Chick Nolen, Wichita Falls, 6 and 5, and Raines defeated A. R. Cotton, Waco, 3 and 2.

Oother Favorites Win

There were no upsets and other favorites came through handily. Gus Moreland, the Dallas youth and winner of the recent Southwestern championship meet at Shreveport, eliminated R. K. Pond, Wichita Falls, 7 and 5, and Bob Peck, Lubbock, 4 and 3. Peck had put out Bill Rogers, Vernon, 4 and 3.

Bob Alexander, runnerup for medalist honors and "dark horse" of the tournament, was extended 2 and 1 by T. P. Duncan Jr., Wichita Falls, in the first round but defeated C. O. Davis, Wichita Falls, 5 and 3, in the second round. Davis won in the first round from George Seelander, Dallas, 1 up on the twentieth hole.

Fred T. Couper Jr., young Wichita Falls star, survived two hard matches, defeating H. F. Weldon and Orion Daniel, both of Wichita Falls, and each by 3 and 2. Daniel defeated Whitney Anderson, Vernon, 3 and 2 in the first round.

Bobby Burns, all-city runnerup recently played two hard matches and won from John Marriott, Electra, 2 up and Eddie Conner, Dallas 2 and 1. Conner defeated Horace Gooch, Amarillo, 5 and 4 in the first round.

Jack Jackson vanquished Joe Hutcheson, Houston, 2 and 1 and J. C. Wynne, Wichita Falls, 5 and 4. Wynne had a hard match in his first round, finally edging out C. H. Reid, Wichita Falls, 1 up.

Morris Norton was carried to the last hole before defeating Norris Russell, Denton, 1 up. Russell won his first round match unopposed by W. F. Fitzgerald, who defaulted.

Parr Shows Class

Jack Parr defeated Joe Greenwood, Houston, 2 and 1 and E. W. Marriott, Wichita Falls, 3 and 2, in two well-played matches in which the Electra youngster showed some fine golf.

Cochran will meet Couper in the upper half of the first bracket this morning in the quarter-final round. Burns and Jackson will clash in the second match in the first bracket.

Norton and Parr will meet in the top match of the second bracket, with Alexander and Moreland as adversaries in the lower half of the second bracket. The Alexander-Moreland match is held as the most important contest of the quarter-final round, with the victor a favorite to survive to the finals.

Semi-final rounds will be played this afternoon and the final 36 holes tomorrow.

Woman of 80 Given Bible as Oldest Person at Young People's Revival

Mrs. Martha Bradley, 80 years old, was presented with a Bible as the oldest person present at the young people's revival Tuesday night at the First Methodist church. Mrs Bradley, who has lived in Wichita Falls since 1882, was a pioneer member of the First Methodist church and is still a regular attendant at its services.

The beauties and delights of old age were pictured by the Rev. Pat Moreland, pastor of the Grant Street Methodist church, in his sermon to an audience that practically filled the main floor of the church. Jacob's visit to his son Joseph, was used as a scriptural basis. "We see the old and weary pilgrim," he said. "He has come across the dusty way to the richest court of the world. We see Pharaoh in all his magnificence get down and bend his knee that this silver-haired patriarch might put his hand on his head.

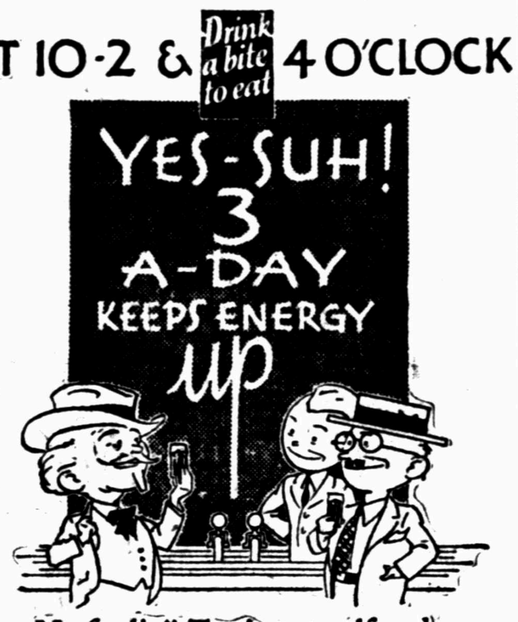

"In the sunset of his life, there come to Jacob his son and his grandsons. Fortunate is that one who has gone along the way with God through all the years. There are some things given to Jacob and to these older visitors here tonight that are not given to the youngest of us yet. There is character. Eighty years isn't long. Eternity passes by, and character remains. Most of us are in the young and impressionable years of life. We are either becoming bigger and finer or our characters are diminishing.

"There is Christian experience. The realest thing in the world is Christian experience. These buildings will tumble down and nations will rise and fall, but Christian experience will remain. Christianity is more than joining the church, more than morality, more than singing songs. It is associating with the greatest of all personalities—that of God.

"God's overshadowing providence is another blessing of the Christian. God didn't make the world and wind it up and go off and leave it. He isn't an absentee landlord. The greatest gift of all, however, is the great hope of immortality. Christianity and the hope of immortality gives us that deep and certain knowledge that after we trust in God there is nothing to fear in the darkness out yonder."

Mrs. George Thorburn and Lester F. Aldrich sang a duet, "I Surrender All," with Elizabeth Wright at the organ. Mr. Aldrich also led the congregational singing.

OIL MEN AT NOCONA REPORT

Gas Conservation Brings Small Production Loss

Representatives of seven major operating companies of the Nocona oil fields met with T. L. Coplin, deputy oil and gas supervisor for this district, in his office here Tuesday morning to submit and discuss reports of gas conservation measures applied in the Nocona territory during the past 30 days.

The seven companies represented in Tuesday's conference, Mr. Coplin said, represent practically all of the producing territory in which the state railroad commission found excessive waste of natural gas. Various methods have been utilized by the different concerns in experimentation with gas conservation, according to the reports made to Mr. Coplin. In most cases, it appeared that a material decrease of oil production accompanied the application of methods or devices designed to stop the escape of gas.

From the discussion held in Mr. Coplin's office, the method used by C. B. Clements of the Texas company, seemed to be more highly favored by those present than any other proposed. In involves the placing of a specially designed barrel, equipped with gas valve, at the bottom of the working barrel. With a minimum loss of production volume, it was said, complete stoppage of natural gas flow was effected.

For the purpose of taking full advantage of experimentation now under way toward the end of obtaining maximum gas conservation with a minimum sacrifice of oil production, those present Tuesday adopted a resolution calling for another meeting here Tuesday, Sept. 10, for further discussion, and the submission of a final report to the oil and gas division of the railroad commission.

Those present at the conference were C. B. Clements, Texas company; P. E. Dutton, McMan Oil and Gas company; A. M. Heplerberry, Humble Oil and Refining company; R. B. Kelley, Pure Oil company; W. H. Dougherty, Harris & Simons; C. W. Hanley, Gulf Production company, and C. E. Bloomer, Kahle & Gracey.

FAMED SLEUTH IN HOT WATER

Police Would Quiz Lucas Regarding Murder

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3. (UP)—The arrest of Dick Lucas, former detective lieutenant and head of the police shotgun squad, was ordered by the district attorney's office today after a raid on an apartment he was said to have occupied with a beautiful young woman.

Officers reported finding blood stains on walls and floors of the vacated apartment and said there were 18 rifles and revolvers as well as numerous empty whiskey bottles in the rooms. No charge has been preferred but authorities wish to question Lucas regarding the girl, who the landlady said he frequently beat and locked in a closet.

The district attorney's office has been checking his activities since he resigned under pressure when he was indicted as one of the officers who framed an asserted morals charge against Councilman Carl I. Jacobson. Two juries disagreed at his trial.

Lucas was head of the shotgun squad when it mowed down "Mile-away" Thomas, noted hijacker. Thomas' pals accused the officers of telling him there was liquor in a garage and killing him when he went to get it. Thomas got his name because his alibis always showed him to have been "a mile away." Lucas, one of the officers who returned William Edward Hickman from Oregon, fainted when he saw the slayer of Marion Parker hanged.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 3. (AP)—Continued absence of rain in the droughty sections of the Southwest together with low private condition and crop figures seemed responsible for a broadening of the recent buying movement and further advances in cotton here today. December contracts sold up to 19.85, making an advance of 37 points, from the closing quotation of last Saturday and 164 points from the low price of last month. Considerable realizing was encountered at this figure. December closing at 19.68. The general market closed steady at net advances of 14 to 25 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 7 to 12 points on the reports of continued dry weather in the Southwest and relatively firm Liverpool cables. Buying evidently was stimulated by a private report placing the condition of the crop at 58.6 and the indicated yield at 14,833,000 bales.

After showing net advances of about 22 to 28 points, the buying slackened somewhat and there were reactions of 8 or 10 points, but the market firmed up again after the publication of another private report, making the condition 57.9 and the indicated crop 14,788,000. October sold up to 19.50 and March 20.12 on this demand which seemed to reflect a broadening of commission house interest as well as further support from local operators and covering by some of the early sellers.

At the advance of about 34 to 42 points from Saturday's closing quotations, the demand again slackened and realizing became more active during the last hour. Prices reacted 16 to 19 points. The market closed steady.

Port receipts today 48,049. U. S. port stocks 684,420. Exports 29,734, making 228,024 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 3. (AP)—Cotton moved into new high ground for the present movement today, advancing over $1.50 a bale under trade and speculative buying. In final trading and December after selling up to 19.75 eased and closed at 19.61, or 18 points net higher. The general market closed steady at net advances of 16 to 23 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 5 points. Relatively higher Liverpool cables and the advance in the English market over the holiday accounted for the initial advance. By the end of the first hour active positions showed advances of 21 to 22 points with October 19.38 and January 19.71. The demand continued aggressive until after mid-session when October sold at 19.46 and January 19.81, or 30 to 32 points above the previous close.

In the final trading early buyers took profits. Active positions sold off 13 to 14 points from the top. October closed at 19.32 and January 19.68.

Scars Reunite Family

NEW YORK.—Fifteen years ago Loris Vernjan was torn from his mother's arms by cruel Turks in Armenia. At the time his mother scratched scars on her son's body with a knife. These scars have been the means of re-uniting the two. The mother came to America and the son wandered about Turkey. The marks were finally recognized by a friend of the mother's and the son was sent to America to be re-united with his mother.

All Groups Finish Higher in Day Of Active Trade on New York Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 3. (US)—Heavy profit taking at the close wiped out a good part of gains but all groups finished net higher on the average in more active trading on the stock exchange, today. Steel forged ahead to new high record level early in the day accompanied by Consolidated Gas, American Telephone and other Utilities. Industrials by Consolidated Gas, American Telephone and other utilities. Industrials and rails generally enjoyed good demand through the morning as last week's sensational close attracted buying orders from out of town. Continued profit taking finally had its influence and brought about the closing setback. Steel finished 1⅛ higher, however, with Smelting gaining 4⅛ for the day. Anaconda 1⅞, Columbia Gas 3, and Johns Manville 4⅞. Reading gained 7. Alleghany corporation 3¼ and Erie 2¼ while other Rails dropped with the result of the list in the last half hour. Oils were quiet and somewhat irregular. The call rate was held at 9 per cent throughout. Turnover increased to near the 5,000,000 share level.

Nine per cent call money made no difference. Nor did the report that investment trusts were withdrawing funds from the call market. Both factors were offset by belief that the investment trusts were using their funds to buy stocks. The effect of this feeling was enhanced by expectation that the federal reserve would continue to purchase bills and in that way tend to increase the available credit supply. The opinion expressed in the National City Review was entirely overlooked in the general enthusiasm although many of those who so enthusiastically are buying stocks in the immediate future may regret that they did not give the statement more consideration. In expressing doubt that the reserve will do any material good in its current policy the National City reflects a view held by many leading bankers and experienced economists.

The outstanding performance of American Telephone, International Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Public Service and other utilities not alone reflected investment demand but also operations by professional traders who expect several important merger developments in the utilities during the current month. One of the next companies to make important announcement regarding expansion of activity, it is claimed, will be General Gas & Electric. Early developments on the west coast combine that will take in Pacific Gas and Southern California Edison, are expected soon, also. Interests who have been active in utilities recently were instrumental in the buying of Guardian Fire Assurance. Report for the first six months, it is estimated, will show $10 a share earned.

Paramount Famous directors meet tomorrow and it is believed in banking circles that they will discuss the plan for combining with Warner Brothers. One and a half shares for one is the basis of exchange generally expected. Report of sales of Montgomery Ward and other mail order firms for August were fully up to expectations. Montgomery Ward showed gain of 47 per cent as compared with a year ago and others did correspondingly as well. Another Cutten favorite, Simmons, continued to reflect good demand. Sales are increasing and further gain is in prospect, it is believed, when the company introduces its new line of furniture. The new output will be made from a special composition, controlled by the company, and should be on the market by the close of this year.

Report from copper trade circles that some producers are advancing the price of the metal to 18⅛ cents a pound was instrumental in bringing some better demand for Anaconda and others. The advance in the price represents victory for the producers as consumers have been holding off in hope of further drop. Whether a temporary victory or not cannot be said but there is belief held by many that it might have been better for the industry from a long view outlook if the price were held at 18 cents a pound. At that price all the leading companies can show good earnings. There is plenty of metal for all demand.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 3. (AP)—Bullish cables did their best to lift wheat values to higher ground today but a heavy volume of late sales for profits and a large increase in the visible stocks counteracted the early buoyance and the finish was weak. In contrast, other grains withstood profit taking pressure and scored moderate gains, their strength attributable to growing alarm over the feed grain situation and diminishing corn crop prospects.

Wheat was unchanged to 1c lower at the last, while corn advanced ⅛ to 1¼c for the day and oats ⅝ to 1⅛c. Provisions were quiet and steady at 7c loss to 10c gain.

The week-end passed without interruption of the drought in Argentina, Australia and the domestic corn belt, and the weather news from both hemispheres had an elevating effect on wheat and corn. Export business picked up a little, with some orders from Australia and Argentina.

The visible supply of wheat increased 5,573,000 bushels to 182,400,000, more than double the 87,914,000 bushels in sight a year ago. Canadian county deliveries Saturday were 2,801,000 bushels, against 342,000 a year ago and receipts at Winnipeg today totaled 586 cars.

Private forecasts of the spring wheat crop were a little better than a month ago, averaging 212,000,000 bushels, and ranging between 205,000,000 and 220,000,000.

Corn crop estimates were as bullish as the trade had anticipated. Private forecasts averaged 2,509,000,000 bushels, a drop of 24,000,000 bushels since Aug. 1.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 3. (AP)—Cotton goods prices were firm and unchanged. Inquiries for many types of goods were current as cotton strengthened. Burlap cables were slightly irregular, with the market as a whole unchanged. Spots and afloats were quiet. Several mills formally opened spring 1930 worsted suitings and top-coatings.

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, Sept. 3. (AP)—Cotton opened higher and continued its advance during morning trading until about 30 points or $1.50 per bale had been gained. Prices were a bit reactionary in the afternoon profits taking and the close was barely steady, 17 to 26 points net higher. The causes of advance were a strong Liverpool market, continued dry weather with excessive heat over the belt.

EGG SHORTAGE DEVELOPS HERE

Two Carloads Are Shipped In From Kansas

An egg supply which in this community has been inadequate both in quantity and quality during the current year, according to local produce dealers, has fallen far short of local consumption demands during the last few days, it was stated Tuesday. Two carloads of eggs have been brought from Kansas in the last two weeks by the Armour creameries plant here for local markets.

Too frequent prevalence of blood-rings has been common to many of the eggs produced in and near Wichita Falls this year, buyers stated. That factor, together with failure to bring eggs to the market while they are still strictly fresh, was said to have cut materially into the receipts which should have come to poultry men in this section. Gross production of eggs was short throughout the entire spring and summer, it was said, even without further large reductions of the supply as a result of poor condition. More systematic attention to prompt marketing, and better feeding of egg-laying chickens, would effect a desired improvement in egg production here, according to produce buyers.

Young turkeys from the spring hatch are now being marketed in small numbers. Many are being killed now for current demands, it was said.

WINTER WHEAT INCREASE SEEN

Bigger Acreage Forecast in Government Survey

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. (INS)—Based on reports from 20,000 farms, the department of agriculture today announced that the farmers of the nation show intentions to sow an acreage of winter wheat this fall 1.2 per cent larger than that of last fall. If these reports are representative, they indicate that farmers intend to sow about 43,271,000 acres of winter wheat this fall.

In the statement the department said the unusual dryness existing over a large part of the winter wheat belt at the time farmers were reporting intentions this year has continued and has become serious.

The acreage sown will be dependent on adequate rainfall during the remainder of the planting season.

According to the report the states of Ohio, Indiana, Minnesota, Iowa, South Dakota, Texas, Montana, Colorado, Washington, Oregon and California show increases in intentions to plant winter wheat, but Missouri, Illinois, Nebraska, Virginia, Tennessee and Oklahoma show decreases. Kansas shows the same acreage as planted last year.

The intended acreage of winter rye for grain is reported by farmers at 4.9 per cent greater than that sown last fall. Moderate increases are reported as intended in all important rye states west of the Mississippi river.

Trio Braves Atlantic in Sloop, but Quarrel at Journey's End Is Fatal

SEVILLE, Spain, Sept. 3. (AP)—Three men who sailed across the Atlantic ocean in the 36-foot sloop "Mary" fell into an argument when the hazardous voyage was over during which one of the trio killed another.

Dr. Francisco Caballero Franceschi was the skipper and Angel Carbo his entire crew when the sloop left New York on July 21 for Spain. Two days out Roberto Lopez, wealthy Porto Rican resident of New York, disclosed himself a stowaway.

The boat reached San Lucar de Barrameda at the mouth of the Guadalquidir river last Friday night. The next night, when the skipper returned to the sloop, an argument began with Carbo which ended in the doctor shooting the man. He fell overboard and the body has not been recovered.

Today the skipper and the stowaway were imprisoned to await an inquiry while the authorities dragged the river for the body of the sailor.

Dr Franceschi declared that the sailor, jealous of attentions the other two were receiving, while he was treated only as a helper, attacked him with a knife.

57,900 ATTEND VODVIL BILLS

Final Program Scheduled at Bellevue Tonight

With one more vaudeville program to be presented Wednesday night at Bellevue park, the attendance during the season at the weekly presentations was 57,900 persons, according to the annual report of summer park activities released Tuesday by C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent.

The recreational work of the department ended for the summer last Saturday, but the nightly motion pictures at the various parks will continue until next Saturday night and the final vaudeville program will be given Wednesday night, Mr. Bunnenberg said.

46 Ball Teams

In the field of baseball, a total of 46 teams were organized at the parks under the supervision of C. C. Frazee, who was summer recreational director and who will resume his duties as gymnasium director at the high school and Junior college Sept. 9. The report indicated that 900 games had been played and that 17 out-of-town trips were made by local teams, 16 of these games having been won and five lost. Attendance at the games totaled 4,375, and 789 boys played on the teams. Wichita Falls won the district American Legion league series and the North Texas Junior Texas Amateur Athletic federation championship.

A state T. A. A. F. baseball tournament in the 15-year-old class was inaugurated this summer, Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Waco, Austin, Houston and San Antonio participating. The local team was matched against the San Antonio players in the finals for the state title but was defeated two out of three games.

In swimming activities, the park department sponsored a "learn-to-swim" campaign in which 45 women were taught to swim and 250 boys an dgirls were given instruction. In a tri-city swimming meet, with entrants from Wichita Falls, Fort Worth and Denton, the local junior swimmers won all but one first place and all second places, or a total of 11 out of 15 places. The meet was held at Fort Worth. An attendance of 9,500 at Scotland park wading pool and 5,000 at O'Reilly park pool was reported during the summer. Fifty boys and girls were taught to swim at these pools.

Successful Season

The annual state tennis tournament of the T. A. A. F. was held in Wichita Falls this summer, 85 out-of-town players having been entered. An attendance of 350 was reported during the matches. Local tennis players entered in three invitation meets during the summer, one with Fort Worth at that city, one with Fort Worth here Aug. 18, and another with Oklahoma City at that city on Aug. 23 and 24.

The summer has been one of the most successful in the history of the park department, Mr. Bunnenberg said, and plans will be made for an even more extensive program for recreational work next summer.

DANCERS TO FEATURE FINAL PROGRAM

One of the features of the last of the season's weekly free vaudeville programs will be a series of dances by seven young ladies, one a military dance with the entire group, another a nature dance by Miss Edna Mae Shoop and the third a Russian dance by Miss Mary Louise Bailey.

Pippins' Poverty fiddle band will appear again on the program with their old time melodies, and Jake Avis will give a number of vocal solos. Francis Lyon, accompanied by Mrs. Beatrice Fleming, will also present vocal solos. Another singing number will be given by a group of Camp Fire girls, under the direction of Miss Mary McIlheran, executive.

Miss Olene Poe will be presented in a comedy tap dance and Paul Sisk, characterized as one of the most versatile musicians in Wichita Falls, will give a cornet duo in which he will play two cornets at one time. A reading, "The Lost Kitty," will be given by Mary Jo Scott and another, "Betty at the Baseball Game," will be given by Mary Evelyn Lewis. Concert numbers by the Playground band, under the direction of Paul Seeds, will complete the final bill.

Contagious Diseases Decrease in August

A sharp decrease in the number of contagious disease in Wichita Falls during the month of August was indicated by the monthly report of the city health department released Tuesday. Cases quarantined totaled seven and those released numbered eight.

The reports of the inspectors indicated that 24 cows, 272 calves, 314 hogs and four sheep were inspected by the department during the month. One cow was condemned, the doctor having discovered tuberculosis, and 70 livers were condemned. A total of 535 food inspections were made.

CANTWELL AT OFFICE

Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of the city schools, returned to his office Tuesday after being absent since last Wednesday noon with an attack of ptomaine poisoning. He was able to assume his full duties Tuesday.

Meet Mr. Robert Euler, new member of the theatrical family in Wichita Falls, now in charge of the Strand and Olympic theaters, with offices in the former. Mr. Euler came to this city from Abilene to succeed Charles Morehead, who left Sunday morning for the west coast.

◇ ◇ ◇

With reference to vaudeville entertainment in Wichita Falls during the coming season, the only definite decision thus far announced from the Dent theater offices provides for the return of Lillian Murray and Elmer Wright to the Olympic, with a company of 16 persons, on Sept. 15 for an indefinite engagement. Among the many small companies offering tabloid entertainment here in the last few years, the group headed by Miss Murray and Mr. Wright has been the only one which gained and held popularity. For those who like that sort of comedy-drama, the Olympic's choice of talent will prove highly pleasing.

◇ ◇ ◇

Persons who have read or seen "The Constant Wife," as produced on the legitimate stage by the inimitable Ethel Barrymore, probably will be glad to know that the screen version of that play, "These Charming Sinners," is not to be shown here this month, as indicated on the screen at the Majestic last Saturday. The engagement has been cancelled, according to the Dent theater management. It is difficult to believe that character portrayal as strong as that in "The Constant Wife" could be sacrificed even in Hollywood, for the sake of the baneful "happy ending." And yet synoptic reviews of the talking-picture production reveal that such pseudo-moralism was injected as a pure and spotless finale.

◇ ◇ ◇

The original play dealt with the same subject as that loudly proclaimed in Greta Garbo's enactment of "The Single Standard," namely, that of a woman's right to nourish amorous affairs outside the realm of conventional matrimony—as the opposite sex is said to do under a so-called double standard of morals. It did not profess a solution of that problem. But it did show the chastening effect, upon a moderately philandering husband, of his wife's ultimate decision to exercise for two weeks the same liberty which he had blandly enjoyed. Husband's capitulation before the unswerving determination of his wife, whose strength motivates the entire action, enabled the legitimate stage production to emphasize pointedly any moral lesson which may be drawn in the case. But when screened, the usual bromidic recipe of male-supremacy must be used, and the finely portrayed woman of astuteness and strength suddenly becomes just "the missus." We hope the cancellation remains effective.

◇ ◇ ◇

There is a strong, appetizing flavor of Gilbert & Sullivan comedy in one episode of the Marx brothers' feature now showing at the Majestic. The "song of the shirt," which follows silent Harpo's appropriation of that garment from the belabored detective, is set to the "Habanera" aria from Bizet's "Carmen," with antiphonal choral effects replacing the operatic solo form. It is followed with the famous "Toreador" song, the detective supplying a creditable baritone against a pleasing ensemble of voices in the chorus. The ridiculous parody follows closely in the vein of W. S. Gilbert's lines, written under Queen Victoria's sponsorship for the buoyant, rollicking melodies created by Sir Arthur Sullivan.

◇ ◇ ◇

Following the amazing success of Christopher Morley's revival of Victorian drama at the Hoboken theater, New York, the idea of reviving for talking-pictures the outstanding musical comedies of that period may occur happily to Hollywood's guiding lights. It's a long bet that "Mikado," "Pinafore," "Pirates of Penzance," or others of Gilbert and Sullivan's delectable concoctions would outshow many of the pieces now being gleaned from Broadway's crop for the new sound-films.

SCHOLARSHIPS NEEDED FOR 10

Students Unable to Register Without Aid

Registration of at least 10 prospective students at Junior college for the ensuing year's work will depend upon the creation of additional scholarships, according to information given Tuesday by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of city schools.

That number of high school graduates have filed definite application for scholarships which are not yet available, Dr. Cantwell stated, the facts showing that the applicants will not be able to register without the help of tuition grants.

Among the scholarships thus far provided, one was donated by the Junior Forum, it was stated. The matter has been presented before at least two of the local service clubs, in the hope that creation of Junior college scholarships might be incorporated in the programs of those organizations for the coming year. It was indicated Tuesday that definite appeals to such clubs, and other civic organizations, may be made during the coming week for all possible assistance in providing the $90 annual tuition for deserving applicants. At the outset of the last school year, Dr. Cantwell said, there were 32 full scholarships on file.

Active pallbearers were announced as follows: C. E. Baker, R. L. Rogers, Louis Pink, B. T. Wallace, Nick Anagos, and Leo Le Blanc.

Mr. Raymond was found dead in his home at 711 Holliday street last Thursday evening. An inquest found death to have resulted from natural causes.

225 ENROLL AT ACADEMY

Classes at School to Start Wednesday

Registration of students at the Academy of Mary Immaculate began at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning and continued steadily throughout the day to show a total of 225 pupils enrolled, according to information given by the Sisters of Saint Mary, under whose supervision the school is operated.

Of the 45 or more out of town students expected for the boarding school, more than 30 had arrived Tuesday afternoon. From eight to 10 days usually are required to complete the registration of pupils at the beginning of a school year, it was said, and the enrollment of at least 100 more pupils by Sept. 10 was predicted by those in charge. The complete enrollment last year was between 275 and 300.

Classes will begin Wednesday morning, Sept. 4, at 8:30 o'clock.

Hoo-Hoo Club To Entertain Visitors

Members of the Wichita Falls Hoo-Hoo club, lumbermen's organization, will entertain a joint meeting of committees representing the Southwestern Lumber association and the Texas Lumber association in this city on Sept. 23, according to plans laid at the bi-weekly luncheon at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon.

Raymond Gutzler was named chairman of a committee to arrange a special entertainment for the numerous visiting lumbermen who are expected to attend the meeting.

Officers elected on Aug. 20, including John Bowie, president; J. H. Crumpler, vice president, and Bill Ruggles, secretary, will be installed at the next regular meeting of the Hoo-Hoo club, which is set for Sept. 17.

Fourteen members of the organization attended Tuesday's luncheon

Terrell Goes to Meeting Of Nursery Growers

AUSTIN, Sept. 3. (UP)—Characterizing the Mediterranean fruit fly as the "most dangerous pest known to the fruit industry in any country," George B. Terrell, state commissioner of agriculture, left Austin today for Fort Worth where he will attend the annual convention of Texas nursery growers.

Commissioner Terrell said he hoped to receive valuable information at the convention regarding the pest and hoped to organize nurserymen into a unit to help combat it. He declared himself in favor of the quarantine against Florida fruit, saying that every possible means should be used to combat the fly.

Man Given Suspended Sentence Here In 1924 Recalled to Serve Term

Upon the petition of the defendant's brother in Fort Worth, supported by a letter from Judge George E. Hosey in the criminal district court at Tarrant county, a man who who has given his name as both V. S. Wimberly and F. H. Wimberly, now under arrest in Austin, will be brought back to Wichita county Thursday for the revoking of a five-year suspended sentence entered against him here in 1924.

Armed with a bench warrant from Judge P. A. Martin, Dick Morris, deputy sheriff, left Tuesday afternoon to bring the prisoner back before the judge. He was sentenced here for forgery in February of 1924, and two months later re-sentenced to two years imprisonment by a Tarrant county jury. The new sentence called for the revoking of the suspension, but local authorities were not aware of the second conviction until relatives of the defendant started a movement for his incarceration, George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney, explained.

The prisoner is a member of a well known family at Fort Worth where his brothers are the members of a prominent advertising firm.

Dividends and Advertising Go Hand-in-Hand, Abbott Shows

Dividends growing in proportion to the extent of advertising supporting the enterprises to which they accrue were cited Tuesday before the Ad club by W. S. Abbott with the reading of a list of advertising expenditures and corresponding dividends of national advertisers.

The discussion by Mr. Abbott was part of a round-table program in which each member of the club present advanced his views as to what constitutes the most effective advertising.

Entertainment included a reading by Miss Mabel Capps, expression teacher at the Wichita Falls Academy of Fine Arts, who gave Kipling's "If."

T. A. Bradley and W. S. Abbott, with another member to be named later by Don Ross, president, were appointed as a committee to aid airlines operating through this city in the promotion of more air travel and air express from this community.

Style, Not Service, Is Demand of Germans Now

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. (US)—Style rather than durability is what the Germans are now demanding in shoes.

In pre-war times, the Germans demanded shoes that would wear for at least two years, but now he wants them "snappy." Assistant Trade Commissioner Cook reported to the commerce department today.

Although American shoes have a reputation for style and quality, they cannot successfully compete with the home product, since German made shoes retail for an average of $4 a pair.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Sept. 3 (UP)—Enter the aerial Black Maria.

What's more the field management said it would lend planes to police whenever possible, and District Attorney Edwards accepted the offer.

Fishermen Happy

LONDON.—A new sounding system for locating schools of fish has made fishermen happy as well as properous along the English coast. The steam trawler Loughrigg recently returned with a record catch taken with the aid of an echo sounder. The sounder enabled the fishermen to keep the nets at the same depth as the fish at all times. Old methods did not provide for this, and the fish soon swam above or below the level of the nets.

Chicago Stock Market Enjoys Greatest Month

CHICAGO, Sept. 3. (US)—August trading on the Chicago stock exchange was the largest in the history of the exchange.

Also business for the first eight months of 1929 was more than two and one-half times greater than done during the same period in 1928.

During August a total of 8,290,700 shares were traded. The best previous month was July of this year when, 7,883,300 shares were traded in.

Niccolo Untersteiner, an Italian shepherd boy, grew tired of an eagle's depredations upon his lambs. He tethered a lamb beside a bush for a decoy and slew the bird with a club.

Still in Dark Ages

CANTON, China.—Natives here still use ancient methods to determine time. The age-old water clock, consisting of four large copper jars standing on steps one above the other is used. Water in the top jar trickles through each of the other three. It takes exactly 12 hours for the water in the top jar to trickle into the lower one. This clock is 600 years old.
