President Whacks Budget To Surprise $97.9 Billion

Broad Program Voiced In State Of Union Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today a surprise budget cut to $97.9 billion, even below the current level. And he told Congress he will slash output of weapon-making uranium by 25 per cent —a move he challenged the Soviets to match.

In an unusually brief yet meaty State of the Union message, prepared for personal delivery at a joint session of Congress, Johnson also declared "unconditional war on poverty in America." He ticked off his specific policy ideas for the first time since he became President seven weeks ago following the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Johnson's proposals — many requiring action by Congress— were aimed at problems ranging from the depths of poverty to the height of the moon.

UNDER KENNEDY'S

For most taxpayers, the biggest surprise probably lay in the budget disclosures. At $97.9 billion, the first Johnson spending plan would be $500 million smaller than the latest estimate of spending under Kennedy's final, record - setting budget.

Johnson described his budget as "efficient, honest and frugal." And he said it will maintain "the full strength of our defenses" while providing "the most federal support in history for education, for health, for retraining the unemployed, and for helping the economically and physically handicapped."

Endorsing some two dozen proposals in about 2,900 words, the chief executive urged Congress to bring his programs "to a fair and final vote." He called for the strongest civil rights bill in 100 years, enactment of a massive tax cut by Feb. 1, new steps toward disarmament and selective increases in overtime pay rates.

MINIMUM WAGE

Other Johnson programs — many inherited from Kennedy — included broader minimum wage coverage, hospital insurance for the aged, an end to discriminatory immigration quotas, a bigger housing program, and a determined effort —preferably in cooperation with the Soviet Union — to put a man on the moon by 1970.

Prosperity at home and peace in the world were the broad goals cited by the President, who sought to balance conciliation and determination in discussing cold war problems.

"We intend to bury no one— and we do not intend to be buried. We can fight, if we must, as we have fought before ——but we pray we will never have to fight again," the President said.

MAJOR POINTS

As for specific administration policies, Johnson made these major points in the election year address intended to set the tone for the 1964 congressional session:

— Federal spending in the 1965 fiscal year that begins July 1 is scheduled to total $97.9 billion — comfortably below Johnson's announced target of $100 billion. Forecast revenues of $93 billion indicate a deficit of $4.9 billion, or less than half the fiscal 1964 estimate.

—Production of enriched uranium, used in nuclear weapons and small reactors like those in nuclear submarines, will be slashed 25 per cent by June 30 — the first cutback since the first atomic bomb was dropped in 1945. Said Johnson: "We call on our adversaries to do the same." And he justified the decision by declaring: "We must not stockpile arms beyond our needs or seek an excess of military power that could be provocative as well as wasteful."

DISCRIMINATION

—"As far as the writ of federal law will run," said the President, "we must abolish not some but all racial discrimination." He emphasized that he wants a civil rights law that will include a ban on discrimination by private businesses serving the general public—the most controversial item in the measure now pending in the House.

—"This administration here and now declares unconditional war on poverty in America," Johnson declared. He said he will propose cooperative federal-state-local programs to promote "better schools, better health, better homes, better training and better job opportunities."

—He asked Congress to set up special committees empowered to increase the time-and-a-half overtime pay rate in industries "where consistently excessive use of overtime causes increased unemployment." He did not name any industries or suggest alternative overtime pay scales.

NEW PROPOSALS

—The United States, Johnson announced, will make "new proposals," which he did not specify, at Geneva disarmament talks later this month.

—He is determined to try to put a man on the moon by 1970 — "in cooperation with other powers if possible, alone if necessary." This echoed a September proposal by Kennedy for a joint American - Soviet moon program — an idea that got a cool reception in Moscow.

Johnson's message, the shortest State of the Union report since 1934, cited these broad goals of national policy: "A nation that is free from want and a world that is free from hate, a world of peace and justice, freedom and abundance, for our time and for all time to come."

STRATEGY MOVE?

Kingpin Bid By Romney

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan Gov. George Romney's sudden availability for a draft for the Republican presidential nomination may be more of a strategic political move than a tactical one.

In announcing to a National Press Club audience Tuesday that he would have a duty to accept a genuine draft, Romney—in the view of some observers—could well have been making a calculated power play.

Recent statements by the governor indicate he wants to play a more important role in national politics.

TO MICHIGAN

In an interview with The Associated Press, Romney said:

"What happens nationally has an important bearing on what happens to Michigan, and I certainly hope to pursue a course of activities that would permit me to have some influence on what might happen nationally in 1964."

If it had not been - certainty before, Romney assuredly will be placed in nomination on the first ballot at the San Francisco convention next July — probably as Michigan's "favorite son."

Since he can be expected to draw a number of votes from other state delegations, the governor may find himself playing an important role in deciding who gets the nomination.

He could to this by throwing his support to one candidate or another if a deadlock develops.

Or, if his strength picks up on the second ballot, Romney might go all the way to the nomination as a compromise candidate standing somewhere between New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, and Arizona Sen. Barry Coldwater.

Romney has made no secret that he has reservations about some of Goldwater's views, especially regarding civil rights, right-to-work laws and foreign affairs.

While he doesn't share all of Goldwater's views, Romney doesn't happen to share all of Rockefeller's either.

Citizens Waging Battle To Cut Street's Traffic

HOUSTON (AP) — Residents of a four - block stretch of Wycliffe Street are waging a campaign to discourage through traffic on their street.

Their efforts Tuesday brought on two clashes with the law.

The father of a small boy who was critically injured by a car Friday was arrested on a simple assault charge after flagging down a trucker.

Then, later in the day, police dispersed a group of women who were hailing cars and passing out handbills asking that motorists use West Belt Drive instead of their street.

The residents have complained to the city council and police that motorists are using their blocks of Wycliffe en route from one major street to another.

THREE STRUCK

And they say three of the 127 children living in those four blocks have been struck by cars and injured in the last two years.

James E. Cornett, father of the injured boy, was charged after a truck driver he flagged down, Carl R. Clements, 25, filed a simple assault complaint against him.

Cornett said he stopped three trucks Tuesday morning and asked the drivers to use another street. He said two of them agreed.

But Cornett said Clements told him he would use any street he wanted to.

"I grabbed his shirt and got eyeball to eyeball with him," Cornett said. "I told him what I thought about him."

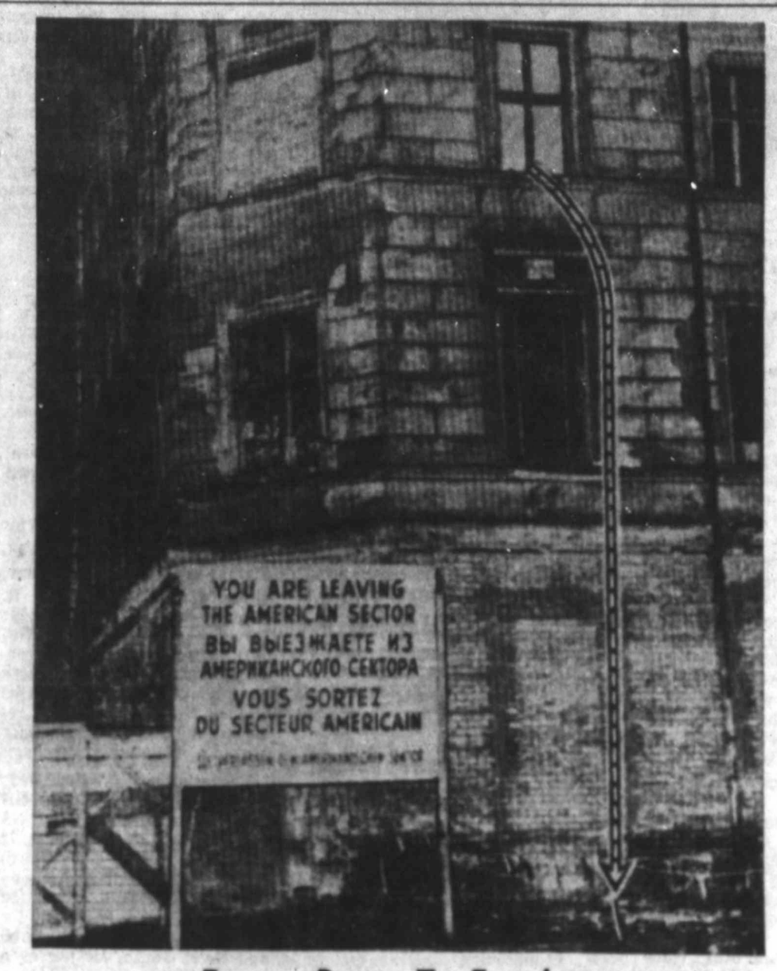

UNDER BOND

Cornett was arrested at home, then released under a $25 corporation court bond.

Cornett said he was looking forward to his Jan. 31 trial.

"We've tried the legislative and executive branches of the city government, now we'll try the judicial," he said. "We've waited and waited and waited—something has to be done to slow down the traffic."

Traffic inspector Otto H. Vahldiek Jr. said an ordinance prohibits impeding the flow of traffic. He said Wycliffe is a public street and open to any automobile except commerical trucks weighing more than 3,000 pounds.

Escape Route To Freedom

Dotted line from second floor indicates escape route by rope used by a middle-age East Berlin couple and their three sons from an abandoned borderline apartment Tuesday night in a successful escape to freedom into West Berlin. Friedrich Motter, 58, his wife, Helene, 50, and their sons, 9, 14 and 24, made the break under cover of a snowstorm. Motter and his sons suffered rope burns. Mrs. Motter broke an ankle. How To Duck Bitter Fight GOP's Pressing Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prime question faced the Republican high command today as it assembled for strategy sessions looking toward the November elections:

How to pick a presidential nominee without going through so many bitter donnybrooks that the party would be disunited for the November showdown?

This issue was not on the formal agenda of the Republican National Committee as it assembled for four days of talks on how to get out the vote, how to attract financing, how to cut down Democratic margins in big cities such as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia.

HARMONY ISSUE

But the harmony issue was on the mind, for example, of Ray C. Bliss, Ohio Republican chairman and GOP powerhouse. In effect, he posted over his state's May 5 primary a "please keep out" sign addressed to major aspirants for the presidential nomination.

The Ohio plan is this: The delegation will go to the national convention pledged to Gov. James Rhodes as a favorite son. Ohioans are expected to vote for him on the first ballot—where they might jump after that Bliss was not prepared to say.

AVOID FIGHT

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, electioneering in New Hampshire, remarked that he might find it desireable to enter Ohio's primary. Bliss expressed the hope that Goldwater and all other major candidates would abstain, in the interests of avoiding a "divisive" fight.

A similar plan is under way in Wisconsin. There Rep. John W. Byrnes has agreed to run as a favorite son.

The Democratic National Committee, convening here Saturday, has no such worries about slugging matches for the presidential nomination, since President Johnson is considered a sure bet.

The big question, not likely to be publicly decided before the convention, is: Whom will Johnson choose as his running mate?

STOCK SOARING

For this spot, the stock of Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps and brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy is, at the moment, soaring.

An opinion that Johnson will be easier to beat in November than Kennedy would have been was voiced Tuesday by Republican Gov. George Romney of Michigan. Preserving his official stance as a non-candidate, Romney informed the National Press Club he was amenable to a draft—as he said any concerned citizen would be duty-bound to be.

Court Reverses Itself; Torres Sentence Stands

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday withdrew an earlier opinion it had handed down and reversed itself thereby confirming the conviction here in 118th District Court of Joe Torres, charged with murder.

Torres was found guilty by a jury in the 118th District Court of the murder of Andrew Garcia Perez. The jury fixed his punishment at 15 years in prison. He appealed the verdict to the appellate court, alleging that he was not permitted to show that Perez was a "quarrelsome, contentious and overbearing" man. The court, in its earlier opinion, sustained Torres' appeal and reversed the case.

Gil Jones, district attorney who had prosecuted Torres, filed a motion for a rehearing in the case. He appeared personally to argue the motion when it came before the court.

He contended that the defense had been permitted to show that the victim was a "violent and dangerous" man and that by so doing, the court nullified the impact of the defense being permitted to show that Perez was "quarrelsome, contentious and overbearing."

The appeals court, in its ruling, upheld Jones' argument and reversed its earlier opinion.

If Torres is to evade going to the penitentiary for the 15 years assessed against him, his attorneys will have to file a new motion for rehearing. They have 15 days in which to do this. Torres is at liberty on bond.

The slaying of Perez was April 18, 1962.

Ailing Nehru Said Improved

BHUBANESWAR, India (AP) —Ailing Prime Minister Nehru was reported feeling better today after a restful night, and an associate said he might be back on the job in another day.

The Indian leader, 74, here for the annual meeting of his ruling Congress party, canceled all engagements Tuesday. Doctors ordered him to bed, saying he was suffering from weakness and high blood pressure.

Doctors summoned from New Delhi advised Nehru to take a complete rest and accept no engagements for two weeks, the first announcement. Later "two weeks" was changed to "for the present."

EXCELLENT HEALTH

But Kumarawami Kamaraj Nadar, Congress party president, visited Nehru today and reported to the party session that the prime minister was "in excellent health and excellent spirits."

Nehru wanted to attend today's session, Kamaraj said, but the doctors advised "at least one more day's rest."

Since March, 1962, when he suffered a serious illness, Nehru has appeared to age by 10 or 20 years. Although officials insist there is nothing vitally wrong with him, outside medical men have speculated that he suffers from hardening of the arteries, common in men his age. His own doctors have declined to comment.

The prime minister appeared listless on his arrival here Monday and took little part in a committee meeting drawing up the convention agenda.

Nehru had flown to this city 800 miles southeast of New Delhi after delivering a speech more rambling than usual to the International Congress of Orientalists Saturday.

U.S. REBUFFED

Britain Ignores Cuba Trade Plea

LONDON (AP)—The British government says it won't stop the sale of $11.2 million worth of British buses and spare parts to Cuba because they aren't strategic goods.

The Board of Trade, Britain's equivalent of the U.S. Commerce Department, shrugged off U.S. criticism of a deal that will help restore the Castro regime's crippled public transporation system.

"Manufacturers are at liberty to sell as and when they find the opportunity," said a Board of Trade spokesman. "There has never been a boycott on the country by Britain. That is the situation and we don't see any reason to depart from this at present. We have quite an extensive trade with Cuba."

BUSES, PARTS

Under a five-year credit arrangement, Leyland Motors Ltd. will sell 400 buses and $1.1 million worth of spare parts to Cuba. The company said it expects an order for 1,050 additional buses.

"You would look damned silly going to war in a bus," said Leyland's managing director, Donald Stokes, today. "Anyway, we haven't any war with Cuba and we buy sugar from them."

Stokes said the company in April will begin shipping about 100 buses a month by East German freighters. He said his company had turned to Communist shipping because of the U.S. blacklist on ships that carry cargo to Cuba.

A spokesman for Leyland indicated the manufacturer would be happy to accept further orders from Havana.

DOESN'T HELP

Commenting on the sale at a news conference in Washington, State Department press officer Robert McCloskey said: "It certainly does not help our efforts to isolate the Cuban regime and thereby weaken its economy."

Cuba's bus transportation system has been badly hurt because it can't import spare parts from the United States for its many U.S.-built vehicles. Cuba has been gradually replacing buses with vehicles made in Communist bloc countries.

To enforce its embargo, the United States has banned from its ports foreign ships carrying cargo to Cuba. Under 1962 legislation, the President also is empowered to withhold foreign aid from any nation trading with Cuba.

One of the truly beautiful parchments in the Americana Historical Document collection is a picture of that famous ship, the U.S.S. Constitution, or "Old Ironsides."

A ship with a wonderful fighting record, she earned her nickname because, although a wooden-hulled vessel, enemy cannon balls seemed literally to bounce off her sides.

This is one of the outstanding of The Herald series of historical items, and you will want it in your home. It is offered for only 26¢. There remain seletcions of all other documents at the same price.

Lodge Declines Wisconsin Bid

Explosions Rock Dallas Building

DALLAS (AP)— A 35-year-old lather died early today of injuries suffered when electrical explosions and fires tore through a subbasement of the Dallas Federal Savings and Loan Building Tuesday.

Cancer Society Unit Elects Officer Slate

The final step in organizing the Howard County Unit of the American Cancer Society, Texas Division, was taken last night when by-laws were adopted and officers elected.

Dr. Louise Worthy was elected president; Dr. Melvin A. Porter, vice president; Mrs. Jack Irons, secretary; and Walter Ross, treasurer. Thirty-nine directors were elected, with 19 to serve one-year terms and 20 to serve two-year terms. Future elected directors will serve two-year terms.

The first step taken was the adoption of by-laws as recommended by a committee headed by Dr. W. A. Hunt. In the absence of Dr. Hung the by-laws were read, and their adoption moved, by M. A. Webb. Officers for the unit were set up in by-laws, and election was by the board of directors. Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, acting as temporary chairman, presided until officers were elected.

DR. LOUISE WORTHY

The report of the nominating officers was read by the chairman, Dr. C. B. Marcum. Three doctors, to bring the total to 10 for equal division among the one- and two-year directors, were nominated from the floor and approved.

Future monthly meetings will be held on the first Tuesday in each month, with the next coming Feb. 4 at 7:30 p.m., at the First Presbyterian Church. Officers or directors may change a meeting date when necessity arises, and may call special meetings of the board.

Regular monthly meetings, as set out in the by-laws, are to be held, except during June and July, and eight members will constitute a quorum for transacting business. The unit may not have fewer than 15 directors or more than 40.

R. C. Taylor, field representative of the American Cancer Society at Midland, told the 40 present that a district crusade training meeting was to be held in Odessa Feb. 7, and invited as many as possible to attend in preparation for the annual fund-raising crusade possibly in April or May.

Five major committees are to be set up for operation of the unit and these will be named at the next meeting by the president. Those present last night were asked to express preferences in committee work.

Mrs. Alton Underwood, acting secretary until the permanent secretary was named, read the minutes of two pre-organizational meetings.

Admits Forgery

A 17-year-old girl has admitted she wrote and cashed eight or more forged checks in Big Spring in the past three months, Aubrey Standard, deputy, said today. Standard said the girl's statement has cleared up a number of forgery cases on which officers have been working. Another woman, who is an adult, is also involved with the girl, Standard said. This woman is being sought. Charges will be filed in the case, he said.

One Volume Back On Shelves

Volume 9, Encyclopedia Americana, which disappeared mysteriously from its place on the shelves of the Howard County Library earlier this week, has just as mysteriously returned to its niche, Mrs. Opal McDaniel, librarian, reported.

Volume 9, with Volume 18, was reported missing Tuesday. So far no word from the latter volume has been received.

Mrs. McDaniel is hopeful now that the wandering No. 9 has returned safe and sound, that No. 18 will be back, too. She reiterated that if the missing book, which is worth more than $10, is returned, no questions will be asked.

The librarian pointed out that the set of reference works is made almost worthless by the missing volume. She asked whoever "borrowed" it to bring it back at once.

Rites Set For D. L. Gilstrap

Mr. Gilstrap was a pumper and gauger for Humble Oil and Refining Company for the past 15 years, and he had worked in the oil fields since the age of 12. He came to Big Spring in 1962 from Ackerly.

Pallbearers will be Truitt Shipley, Lonnie Kemp, L. D. Smith, Billy Wills, Paul Gordon, Rayford Boyd, James W. Shaw and Thomas J. Sherrill. Other friends will be honorary pallbearers.

Firemen Answer Call On A Flat

Firemen answered three calls Tuesday including two to area gins where burr pits had ignited.

The first call was at 1:55 p.m. to the Keaton-Acuff Gin, 111 NW 2nd. The flames were under control within 45 minutes, and damage was minor.

A tire blew out on the fire truck answering the second call—at 7:30 p.m. to the Fairview Gin, eight miles north of town. Firemen said they continued driving the truck. The tire was changed about an hour and one-half later after the fire was extinguished.

Pasture land a a fence post on property owned by Charlie Creighton burned about 5:25 p.m. during a grass fire. The burned area is located west of town and north of the Sahara Drive-In. Firemen said they had the flames under control within an hour.

Insurance Men Are Organizing

The Big Spring Association of Life Underwriters has the requisite number of members to apply for a charter from the State Association. More than 25 persons — the number required for a state charter—attended a meeting of the local association at noon Tuesday at Coker's Restaurant. The meeting was presided over by Walter Stroup, president.

Tuesday's meeting was the second meeting of the association. The organizational meeting was held Dec. 14, 1963. Spokesmen for the association said the local group will apply for a state charter after the next meeting — Feb. 4.

TRUCK INTRUDES
At 2308 S. Monticello

Runaway Truck Crashes Into House

James H. Alford, 2308 S. Monticello, was comfortably settled in a reclining chair watching television in his living room about 8 a.m. today.

Minutes later, the peace and quite was shattered when a 1½-ton milk truck crashed into the living room. Mrs. Alford was in an adjoining bedroom. The vehicle apparently slipped from its handbrake, rolled down the 1400 block of Marijo, and crashed into the house, police said.

She said the impact sent a doorknob flying into her husband's knee. Otherwise, he was unharmed by the unusual intruder. "A post went through the window of the bedroom," Mrs. Alford said. The impact also knocked the television set to the floor.

Investigating officers estimated damage to the front of the house, living room, north bedroom and television set at $850. The front of the truck, owned by Gandy's Creamery, 404 NW 8th, had about $350 damage. Damage to milk and eggs in the truck was estimated at $600.

According to police, the unoccupied truck slipped from its handbrake while Norris Ray Busby, 28, 1202 College, was delivering milk at 1401 Marijo. The vehicle, facing south on the east side of the street, rolled down the street across Monticello (which runs perpendicular to Marijo) into the house.

Mrs. Alford said there were no injuries. "I was too excited to realize what was happening." She said Busby, concerned that someone might be injured, rushed down the street to the damaged house.

Locations of other accidents investigated Monday by police and drivers involved: 200 block of South Gregg, Joe Jacobs, 600 E. 14th, and William McAdoo, 4202 Parkway; Fourth and Goliad, Rufus Stallings, Knott, and Elbert Warren, Backfork, Ark.; Gibson's Discount Center, Joseph Edmiston, 706 Lancaster, and Wendell Ware, 1400 Princeton.

Zoning Commission Okays Three Bids, Denies Three

The planning and zoning commission Tuesday approved three requests and turned down three others for zone changes.

The commission was divided on a request by Al Milch, agent for the Kentwood Development Corp., who had asked for a zone change from MF (multiple family) to NS (neighborhood service) for a 150-foot tract at the southeast corner of Twenty-Fifth and Birdwell Lane. Milch said he had a contract with Shamrock Oil Co. for locating a service station on the site.

Milch's request was turned down on a motion by Brown Rogers, seconded by Joe Jackson, with Chairman Horace Reagan and J. D. Jones also voting against the proposal. George Elliott and J. B. Little voted in favor of the request.

Disapproval came after a group of 14 home owners protested the change. Included among those against the change were Jack Murdock, Melvin Coleman, Mrs. Melvin Coleman, Mrs. Henry Tarom, Mrs. David L. Robb, Mrs. H. B. Perry, Mrs. Alvin Huskey, Mrs. Robert Boadle, Mrs. Bruce Frazier (who also spoke for Mrs. Nell Frazier), Mrs. C. E. Campbell (who also spoke for Bo Bowen) Mrs. Dale Smith, C. E. Campbell, Luther Bean, and Rodney R. Roberts.

Ernest Lillard, director of public works, said notices of the hearing were mailed only to Mrs. Nell Frazier, Al Milch and the Kentwood Development Corp. as they are the only property owners within a 200-foot radius of the affected property.

The property of Bruce Frazier lies within the 200 foot area, but is outside the city limits, Lillard pointed out.

Milch, speaking on his own behalf, said he was under the impression the persons who opposed the previous request wanted the service station located in the Kentwood Addition. The agent said he had 25 people with him at the time he made his last request (for property across the street north of the affected property), but that he did not have anyone with him at the Tuesday meeting. He departed the hearing after the home owners objected.

Other requests for zone change that were turned down: (1) For a change from 1F-2 (single family residential) to NS (neighborhood service) for property bordered by McEwen, Sixth Street and Linda Lane, requested by Mrs. Samuel R. Myers for use as a beauty shop; (2) For a change from R (retail) to PRC (planned recreational center) for a 1.78 acre tract south of Avondale Drive and east of Wasson Road, requested by Hank McDaniel for use as a miniature golf course.

Requests that were approved: (1) for a change from GR (general residence) to NS (neighborhood service) for a .72 acre tract bordered by North Nolan, IS 20, North Goliad and Northeast Eleventh, requested by W. A. Moore Jr., agent for S. A. Wilson, L. D. Rockwell and G. F. Smith, for use as a service station site; (2) for a change from 1F-2 (single family residential) to R (retail) for a 32.57 acre tract south of Marcy Drive and east of US 87, requested by J. Y. Robb Jr., agent for South Mountain Land Co., for use as a shopping center; (3) for a specific use permit for a planned retail district on Birdwell Lane on the west side of the street opposite the 7-11 store, requested by Ed Fisher for a 210 x 100 foot commercial building.

Longer Parking Fixed For Fringe Area Meters

City officials recently converted a number of one - hour parking meters to four-hour meters on the fringe area of the downtown section, according to Roy Anderson, assistant city manager.

Anderson said new parts for 117 old manually - operated Duncan meters will provide for parking from 12½ minutes to four hours in the fringe area. The cost for each new part is $7.09, and the total cost for conversion is $829.53, Anderson estimated. He said installation was performed by city crews.

Numbers and locations of meters converted: 200 block of Johnson — 13 on the east side of the street, four on the west side of the street; 300 block of Johnson — eight on the east sie of the street, 10 on the west side of the street; 100 block of Runnels — four on the west side of the street; 400 block of Runnels — three on the west side of the street; 500 block of Main—19 on the east side of the street; 100 block of Scurry—six on the east, and 15 on the west side of the street; Second, between Gregg and Scurry—five on the north and eight on the south side of the street; Second, between Runnels and Johnson — one on the north and five on the south side of the street; Fourth, between Lancaster and Scurry—six on the south side of the street; Fourth, from Runnels to Johnson—five on the north and five on the south side of the street.

Anderson said the conversion was made at the request of a committee of downtown merchants, who met several weeks ago with the city commission.

The second phase, not yet begun, will involve changing parking time from one hour to two hours for meters located around the courthouse.

Weather Forecast

Occasional rain is expected Wednesday night from southern New England to northern Florida and extending westward through the Ohio and Tennessee valleys and the east Gulf coast region. Snow is predicted for the Great Lakes area and the upper Mississippi valley with snow flurries in the northern Rockies. The north Pacific coast will have light rain and drizzle while showers are expected on the Texas Gulf coast. It will be cold throughout the nation except for Florida and southern California. Tells About Club Magazine

Sam Anderson, chairman of the magazine committee, told Rotarians about the start and progress made by "The Rotarian" and "Rotaria Revista" at Tuesday's meeting.

Anderson had prepared a group of color photographs, taken from issues of the magazine over several years, and projected these on a screen, assisted by Sebron Williams.

"January is Rotary magazine month," he said, "but I have been asked to lead off with this program."

He said the annual budget for publishing the magazines, distributed to over 400,000 homes of Rotarians, hospitals, libraries, and other public places, ran to more than $1 million. Paper costs about $215,000, engravings $25,000, and printing $218,000.

"The Rotarian magazine is included in our dues in the United States and Canada, but is sent by subscription to other countries," Anderson said. "Many clubs take extra subscriptions to the magazine for libraries, hospitals, and schools.

"Articles printed in the magazine about work done by clubs have been used to sponsor similar projects in countries around the world, especially for youth activities."

Scouters Plan Thursday Meets

Two Scouter meetings are set for Thursday evening.

The district committee session has been set for 7:30 p.m. at Cosden Country Club by R. L. Tollett, district chairman. He has urged his chairmen to report committee memberships at the meeting.

Cubbers will meet at the same hour at the Old Student Union Building on the HCJC campus. W. D. Broughton will be in charge and Warden Mayes will give us a background on the history of Scouting, looking toward the observance of Blue and Gold banquets in February. Gene Campbell, a special guest for the evening, will compare present Cubbing programs with those of several years ago, and Mayor George Zachariah will evaluate the importance of Cub Scouting to the community. There also will be a discussion period, a film, songs and games.

Birdwell In Pickle's Post

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally appointed Sherman Birdwell Jr. of Austin today as employer representative on the Texas Employment Commission.

Birdwell succeeds J. J. Pickle, who resigned to make the successful race for U.S. representative from the 10th District.

Birdwell will serve the unexpired term which ends Nov. 21, 1966.

"Sherman Birdwell brings to the Texas Employment Commission a wealth of business experience and public service," Connally said. "The state is fortunate that a man of his ability has accepted this important responsibility."

Born in Buda, Tex., in 1908, Birdwell is a member of a pioneer Central Texas family. After graduation from the University of Texas, he worked for two years as an accountant in Chile. He later managed his father's general mercantile store in Buda, helped organize the National Youth Administration in Texas and served as the first congressional secretary to then congressman Lyndon Johnson.

For the past 17 years he has been a partner and business manager of the Cook Funeral Home in Austin.

Orthodonist Searches For The Perfect Face

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Harvey Peck, 26 and single, is a girl watcher with a cause. He is looking for the perfect face.

Peck has been studying girls —just their faces; other aspects of girl watching are for amateurs—for a year. He still has a year to go on his project.

Nonetheless, Peck was reached some tentative conclusions, to wit:

"American and international beauties have a tendency toward a toothy, full profile, rather than a straight profile."

A toothy, full profile is sort of a pout. Perfect examples of the type, says Peck, are Sophia Loren, Brigitte Bardot and Doris Day.

MANDIBLES

They lack the orthognathic profile, he says. On the other hand, there's nothing whatever wrong with the vertical and forward growth of their mandibles.

To put it another way, they don't have straight line profiles, but their jaw bones are lovely, just lovely.

Now Peck wants it understood that a pretty pout is not a prerequisite for beauty. For example, there are Grace Kelly, Elizabeth Taylor and Debbie Reynolds. They have straight line profiles.

So far, Peck has examined the faces of 35 women. None of the aforementioned lovelies was included, but he concentrates on recognized beauties such as models and beauty contest winners.

A few males, including actor Troy Donahue, also are participating.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Peck spends about 15 minutes with each project participant. He positions them in a device to hold one's head steady and then photographs them in repose, smiling and in profile. He also takes X-rays of their heads.

This is serious work for Peck, a resident orthodonist at the Boston University Medical Center. He says results of his study, titled "A Photographic and Cephalometric Study of Facial Symmetry and Balance," may provide orthodontists with a guide to the ideal face.

Peck says it is possible to change the lower face profile of a child up to the age of 14 through orthodontic therapy.

In addition, appliances may be used to alter vertical and horizontal growth direction of a child's jaw bones—the key to facial shape.

Peck hopes his research will produce a master chart that "will tell how well balanced are the faces of these people others look up to as beautiful."

'PEACE MAINTENANCE'

Fledgling Pickle Outlines Views

WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas' newest congressman, Rep. J. J. Pickle, outlined today his views on matters of local and national concern.

He succeeded U. S. Dist. Judge Homer Thornberry.

Pickle, 50, told a news conference:

"First, I want to represent the 10th Austin District to the best of my ability."

He said maintenance of peace is the nation's first goal, and he emphasized the importance of providing job opportunities for the unemployed.

EMPLOYMENT

"I was with the Texas Employment Commission for a period," he said, "and I want to do whatever I can to bring about full employment."

Asked whether he is a liberal or a conservative, Pickle laughed, and said:

"My father, who's 88 and still hale and hearty, always said that I and my brother Joe, who is editor of the Big Spring Herald, have one common fault. We talk too much.

NOT EXTREMIST

"I think, from a philosophical standpoint, you could count me from the middle to the conservative side. I'm not an extremist either way.

"I'm a conservative on money matters, and a liberal regarding human problems."

Asked, then, how he would vote if those two courses should conflict, he said he would decide that when such a question arose.

His father is J. B. Pickle, a retired grocer and real estate man in Big Spring.

Pickle was asked whether he would sign the petition to force the civil rights bill out of the rules committee for a House vote.

ACCOMMODATIONS

Making clear that he did not like the public accommodations section of the civil rights bill, Pickle said:

"I think the people expect action on this and other matters. I think they have a right to expect action. I don't think any committee ought to indefinitely hold up legislation."

He made it clear he would sign the petition, if that should become necessary to bring about a vote on the civil rights bill.

Pickle's pretty dark-haired wife, Beryl, helped him put up his name-plate in his third-floor office doorway in the Cannon Office Building, next door to the suite of Rep. Ed Foreman, R-Tex.

The couple were guests of President Johnson on the flight from Austin Sunday night.

"I'm spoiled," she said, when asked about the trip. "That was plush traveling."

Says Connally Just Made It

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. John Connally would not be alive today if it had taken five minutes longer to get him to the hospital after he and the late President Kennedy were shot Nov. 22, says Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Tex.

Pickle, the new congressman from the 10th District in Central Texas, told a Washington reporter Tuesday:

"You know, the governor lost a lot of blood when he was wounded. He undoubtedly would have died if it had taken five minutes longer to get to the hospital there in Dallas.

"He also probably would have died if he had not been hunched up, even though he probably did so involuntarily, because that helped stop the flow of blood."

Pickle said the governor is continuing to progress satisfactorily, but may have to undergo an operation on his wrist to prevent stiffness.

He said he learned of the governor's close call during a visit at Parkland Hospital in Dallas a week after the shooting.

Dairy Facts Not Gloomy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Dairy Association said today that facts about milk consumption do not justify much of the gloom that has persisted in the dairy industry in recent years.

This gloom, it said in a report, grew in part out of the fact that milk production has been in excess of market demands, with surpluses going into government hands under a dairy product price support program.

"In 1963, dairy farmers had a commercial demand for milk that was over 10 billion pounds higher than in 1950," the report said. "But the amount of milk marketed by farmers in 1963 increased about 18 billion pounds over the 1950 level, thus creating the pressure of a sizable surplus pushing against any price improvement."

Much of the surplus was said to reflect not a decline in consumer demand for milk as such but for some dairy products, such as butter.

Equal Cotton Prices Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has been asked by two groups to pass cotton legislation that would enable domestic users to buy U.S. cotton at the same rate available overseas.

A government export subsidy is responsible for keeping the overseas price beneath the domestic price, which the government supports at a high level.

The plea for elimination of the present two-price system came Tuesday from a 30-member National Cotton Advisory Committee, called by the Agriculture Department, and from a conference of cotton growers and farm leaders.

However, the groups disagreed on whether growers, handlers or mills should receive payments that would permit reduction of cotton prices for domestic use.

A House-passed bill would authorize payments to textile mills to put the cost of cotton to them on a par with prices paid by foreign buyers.

A bill pending in the Senate —the Talmadge-Humphrey Bill —would reduce cotton price supports. The bill would make a payment to cotton growers to make up for their loss of income.

The Cotton Advisory Committee said most of its members favored some sort of domestic payment, but they disagreed on who should get it.

Chamber Banquet Saturday, Tickets Still Available

Officers have been elected, committee chairmen appointed, and plans made for the coming year by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, Manager Carroll Davidson said Tuesday. The annual banquet, at which new officers and directors will be installed, will be held Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Goliad Junior High cafeteria.

"Tickets for the banquet are moving slowly," Davidson said. "At this time only about 200 have been sold. We urge all who plan to attend to get their reservations in before Saturday so we will know how many to prepare food for."

Speaker for the banquet will be Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi, director of the School of International Studies, Bradley University. He is former Minister of Finance of Hungary.

John L. Taylor, incoming president, has announced his committee chairman appointments for the new year, and says all have accepted.

These appointments, some with co-chairmen, and their board coordinators, are: Advertising and Promotion, Russell Bennett, chairman, and Winston Wrinkle, coordinator; Agriculture, Malcolm Patterson, chairman, and Carlton Chapman and D. The banquet will be catered by Don Newsom. Tickets are available at the Chamber office, and reservations may be made by telephone.

The speaker is internationally - known. He was born in Hungary, but is now an American citizen. He holds two doctorate degrees from the Royal Hungarian University of Budapest—one in political sciences and the other in jurisprudence.

He participated in the anti-Nazi underground movement in Hungary during World War II, served as under-secretary of the treasury, and minister of finance in Hungary until 1948, when he had to flee the country.

"Dr. Nyaradi has a unique knowledge of the Soviet Union, as he spent seven months in Moscow negotiating a Russian reparation claim against Hungary," Davidson said. "During these conferences he came to know personally more Soviet leaders than any other statesman or diplomat. He is also well acquainted with many leading personalities in the United States, Europe, and the Middle East. He has established himself as an educational and civic leader in the United States. During his frequent trips abroad, and through his contacts with leading personalities overseas, he follows closely the political and economic developments in several critical areas of the world."

JFK's Farm Guides Kept

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration will be guided by three conditions the late President John F. Kennedy laid down last year for new federal farm-aid programs.

The conditions were that the programs should maintain farm income, should not cost the government excessively and should reduce surpluses.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said these guide lines will continue to be used by the White House and his department in the drafting and recommending farm legislative proposals and in administering farm programs.

Freeman supplied this information regarding the new administration's farm program standards in a statement made before a wheat subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee. The subcommittee is considering emergency wheat legislation for the 1964 crop.

Oil Production Shows Decrease

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — U. S. oil production dropped last week despite a good gain in Louisiana's output, the Oil and Gas Journal said Tuesday.

Total production average 6,499,515 barrels daily, a drop of 9,825 barrels a day from the previous week.

Louisiana production under the January allowable will average about 1,491,825 barrels a day, compared with 1,470,270 daily for most of December, the trade magazine said.

Oklahoma production last week slumped 34,750 barrels a day average, to an average of 512,600 daily. It forecast a good increase for next week.

Figures for other states, with previous week's output in parentheses, were: New Mexico 299,500 (296,000); Texas 2,618,450 (2,614,200).

The bidding:

South	West	North	East

Opening lead: Six of ♠

That a passive attitude at the bridge table is not necessarily a negative attribute is aptly illustrated by today's hand. South, the declarer, saw no reason to embark on his own campaign when he had at his disposal a method for putting the opponents to work for him.

West led his fourth best spade against three no trump and East's ten drove out declarer's queen. A count of the combined assets revealed that eight quick tricks were available—two spades, four hearts, and two clubs. Both the diamond and club suits offered prospects for developing a ninth trick. However, there was a risk involved for, if South made a wrong guess, he might well establish a setting trick for the opposition. This thought induced a reluctance in the declarer to do his own washing, and presently he evolved a plan to secure assistance.

South began to run the heart suit, cashing the ace, king, and queen. Having stripped his opponents of hearts, he now abandoned the suit in favor of playing the ace and another spade. It was his purpose to throw West into the lead, even tho this would permit the latter to run the spades for, at the conclusion, West would be forced to open up one of the minor suits for South.

West proceeded to cash three spade tricks, and on the last two declarer discarded two diamonds from dummy and a heart and a diamond from his hand. West was reluctant to lead away from his diamond holding for fear of establishing the king in South's hand, so he exited with a small club. The seven was played from the dummy and, when the queen appeared from East's hand, declarer had his ninth trick.

Note South's wisdom in not cashing the fourth heart early in the play. Had he done so, he would have been obliged to discard a club from his hand on the fifth spade, in which case East could have blocked the declarer from taking three club tricks by merely playing low when West leads the suit. South wins the trick with the nine of clubs, but he has no transportation to dummy to cash North's ace.

'ENCOURAGED'

My critic thinks we are at liberty to worship with instruments of music (and I suppose anything else we want) without its being authorized in Scripture. He said, "it is encouraged in the Psalms, such as in 147 and 150"; but he did not claim the New Testament encouraged it.

". . . Praise him with stringed instruments and organs" (Psalms 150:4). This was more than encouragement; this was clear authority for the use of instruments of music in worship, at that particular time. Of course that was under the old covenant, and this covenant was done away in Christ (Gal. 4:21-30; Col. 2:14).

Now, if we were at liberty to use instruments of music in Christian worship, it would be clearly authorized. When God allowed this kind of worship, he clearly authorized it. If such were allowed today, it would be just as clearly authorized. If not, why not?

LBJ's Lasting Impression Told By TV Contestant

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon Johnson made a big impression on Daniel Garcia of Cotulla, Tex., 36 years ago.

The impression was square on the seat of Garcia's pants.

Garcia appeared Monday night on the CBS television show "I've Got A Secret." His secret was a spanking from Johnson, then Garcia's teacher in the 6th grade at Welhausen School in Cotulla.

After the program, Johnson invited his former pupil here to talk over old times.

Tuesday Garcia faced his old teacher across another desk, at the White House. When newsmen arrived at Johnson's office, the President and Garcia were deep in conversation.

"This is quite a television performer," Johnson said. "He's giving me some instructions, trying to polish me up."

Garcia said he was spanked for clowning while teacher Johnson was out of the room.

"I wasn't the first one to do it, but I was up there the longest," he said.

"He came tiptoeing in behind me. When the kids stopped laughing and roaring I knew something was wrong. I looked around and saw Mr. Johnson.

"He took me to a private office and spanked me, with his bare hand."

Garcia said he believed the teaching job was Johnson's first, and that the pupils all had great respect for their teacher.

Johnson became principal the next year, and was already coaching the volley ball, baseball and basketball teams, and helping out with the coaching of high school teams in Cotulla.

A Devotional For The Day

Now I beseech you, brethren, for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake, and for the love of the Spirit, that ye strive together with me in your prayers to God for me. (Romans 15:30.)

PRAYER: O Father, I would join all praying men and women around the world. Fill me with the sense of unity experienced only in Thy presence and by Thy power. Help me to serve Thee in my own place, as others in their places are also serving Thee. In the Savior's name I pray. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

For The Least Of These

Much has been said and written about the double standard of justice, one applied to those who can afford to hire expert defense counsel and the other to those who cannot. The standard is not consciously applied by the courts, to be sure, but is reflected in the course of the judicial process and in the severity of punishment rendered.

The conscience of lawyers has long been troubled by this situation. That conscience has best been expressed by the work of the National Legal Aid and Defender Association. Now the association has received a $2.4 million grant by the Ford Foundation for a five-year nationwide experiment.

Only 110 defender offices exist in the United States today. Many of these offices have only one lawyer, working part-time with inadequate funds, and none can provide counsel for all poor accused persons. While court-appointed counsel is available to the poor, lawyers and judges agree that this system leaves much to be desired. The fundamental weaknesses in the court-appointed counsel approach are the nominal fees permitted and the lack of time or money to conduct proper investigations and prepare cases adequately for trial.

Maj. Gen. Charles L. Decker, who has just retired as the Army's judge advocate general, became the new career director Jan. 1 of the "Defender Project" which the Ford Foundation will finance. The program has three parts: Development of "model" defender services for indigent persons in a few major cities; establishment of new defender offices in as many as eight populous counties; and aid to law schools in attracting, through fellowships and student internships, outstanding law graduates to the defender service and in strengthening curricula and research in criminal law.

Every citizen—not just lawyers and judges—is involved in this problem and in its solution. He speaks across the centuries to us in Matthew: "Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

Looking At Lobby Loopholes

When Congress undertook its latest self-reorganization 18 years ago, it also passed a companion law designed to curb lobbying abuses by subjecting such activities to the cleansing light of publicity. And if Congress ever gets around to self-reform again, it should include a complete revision of the lobby-control law.

The 1946 Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act has proved to be a dud. The few million dollars reported by several hundred lobbyists is but a fraction of the pressure-group business in Washington.

The poorly drafted law was made all but meaningless by Supreme Court interpretation in 1954. The court held that an organization that spent its own, rather than solicited, funds does not have to make the prescribed quarterly spending reports. Nor does an organization which claims lobbying is not its "principal function." And a lobbying group does not have to report spending to generate "grassroots" pressure on congressmen.

The law requires reporting of expenditures only in direct contacts with congressmen. This excludes committee testimony preparation, "informational" activities, and all lobbying before administrative agencies.

It is hardly surprising that there have been only four prosecutions and one conviction under the act in 18 years. The law in fact made no agency responsible for checking the accuracy of spending reports or enforcing registration. The Justice Department set up a compliance unit for awhile, but now only acts on complaints.

The result is that lobbying is virtually unregulated in Washington. Lobbying cannot (nor should it) be prohibited, as it comes under the constitutional right of petition, but certainly a more effective registration and reporting law could be written. The best such law devisable would not, of course, eliminate abusive pressures and unethical influences, but it could help bring public opinion to bear against them.

Outlook Is Good For Johnson

WASHINGTON — The traditional prophecies ushering in a new year are more than a little futile in 1964. By any political reading with even a shadow of objectivity President Johnson has established such a solid political base that he seems bound to take the big decision of the year.

This, it must be quickly added, is barring events now totally unforeseen. For we learned in the melancholy end of 1963 how little store may be placed in the best laid plans of mice and men.

SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER'S candidacy adds a footnote of confirmation to a political reading that was fairly evident before. That candidacy was relevant to the Kennedy administration. Regardless of how small the justification in fact, it would have been mobilized as an attack on the dangerous "liberalism" of the Schlesingers and the Galbraiths.

In the context of the Johnson administration the net effect will be a bruising fight sharpening the deep split in the Republican party. The Eastern (Rockefeller) wing will make the case that since President Johnson is weakest in the big-city states only a moderate can hope to win by appealing to the minorities holding the balance of power in those states. This is the line Governor Rockefeller is already taking. A shattering fight reaching a climax at the San Francisco convention will make it difficult, if not impossible, to unite behind any candidate.

BUT WHILE the President's solid base owes a lot to the deep divisions in the opposition camp, Mr. Johnson has within the short space of six weeks shown a sure political touch in aligning the often-hostile power groups in his own party. He has come down hard on the two issues that can re-elect a President—peace and prosperity. His own special touch is the folksy vocabulary of the conservative, the economizer, when it comes to taxes and spending.

ON WHAT HE calls the peace offensive the President is going all out. While it is unlikely, a meeting with Premier Khrushchev in the months just ahead is not ruled out. This is the conviction of those at the highest level charged with carrying out foreign policy.

In short, the President is taking the peace offensive with the utmost seriousness. However close he may have been before to the awesome seat of power he knows now at firsthand the weight that night and day rests on him and on him alone. But, to put this on the most expedient level, he also knows that every poll shows a large majority of the American people want to try to find an honorable way back from the nuclear precipice.

THE NEW PRESIDENT must take greater risks than the man he succeeded. The nuclear test-ban treaty was a comparatively innocuous ratification of a decision that both sides had come to — in view of the enormous overkill in both arsenals further atmospheric explosions would would serve no useful end.

It was, however, a beginning. To go on from there, if the President is truly in earnest about his peace offensive, will mean mutual concessions for which the American public is little prepared. But perhaps with his zeal, his common touch, his tireless energy, President Johnson can build on the hopeful past.

Billy Graham

I read your answer about the Supreme Court's decision on prayer. But, after all, isn't it true as the President said—that prayer is a private matter? W. W.

Faith is a private matter, worship is a private matter—but that doesn't mean that it is not right and proper that we should express them publicly. The Supreme Court based their decision on that portion of the Constitution which says that the government shall not engage in the establishment of religion. But what they did, in a desperate effort to avert entanglement with religion was to get deeply involved with it—in making a ruling which has tremendous bearing on our religious life.

There is a difference between 'freedom of religion,' and freedom FROM religion. The Constitution of the United States speaks of "decent respect for the opinions of mankind." This respect applies to majorities as well as minorities, and although religious bigotry is to be abhorred, sincere religious faith is part and parcel of the American Dream. May it always be so!

1964 To Be Endless Workout For Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — For President Johnson 1964, which will be the most intense year of his life, is like being condemned to a gymnasium. It is going to be an endless workout. That seems to be the way he wants it.

Johnson was 46 and President Dwight D. Eisenhower 64 when they had their heart attacks in 1955. It laid them both up for months. Thereafter Eisenhower carefully paced himself through six more years of the presidency.

JOHNSON did the opposite. Starting the day after he left the hospital, he invited newspaper reporters to his home. He gave the impression of a man raring to go, which is probably the exact impression he wanted to give.

At any rate, he seemed to take his heart attack as an invitation to pitch harder.

After some months of rest that year Johnson returned to his job as Democratic majority leader in the Senate and resumed his hectic pace. Then in 1960, when he had to campaign for the vice presidency, he outdid even his Senate energy.

JOHNSON, in his almost three years under President John F. Kennedy, continued to spread his physical effort like jam over days and nights as he whipped around making speeches and on foreign trips assigned him by Kennedy.

In all this, since Johnson was a completely secondary figure in the Kennedy administration, he was not under severe tension. Kennedy was the one who had to endure that. He was the one who had to make decisions and do the struggling.

Now Johnson gets the full load of the physical and mental activity which go with the presidency, plus its tensions. In short, 1964 will be the greatest year of strain in his life.

JUST THE physical part of it is a kind of physical torture: The handshaking, the reception lines the speechmaking, the banquets, maybe trips abroad, battles with Congress, the need to stay in camera focus.

On top of it all, will come the campaign for election.

In less than two months in office he has put a far heavier physical strain on himself than even the very active Kennedy.

Johnson seems unable to sit quietly and, so far as newsmen are concerned, to stop talking. He bounces in and out, up and down, consults with advisers, holds instant news conferences, meets with his Cabinet, hunts deer, gives personally conducted tours of his Texas ranch, keeps talking, has barbecues, strolls the streets, makes pronouncements, orders people around — he's noted for that — and keeps talking.

THERE'S NO reason to think this won't be his routine for the rest of the year. How does all this set with a man who had a truly bad heart attack eight years ago? So far it seems to have worked all right.

Just a month ago one of his doctors, looking back over Johnson's eight years since the attack, says, "He has done beautifully. I don't know of anyone who gets up earlier, goes to bed later, works harder, and gets more done without any trouble than the President. He tolerates stresses that most people can't."

Leap Year Brings Maidens' Schemes

NEW YORK (AP)—Here it is Leap Year again, and millions of maidens are scheming against the peace of mind of millions of bachelors.

Many will land a man, but a lot of them won't.

What is the difference between those who will succeed and those who will fail?

The difference is between good and bad feminine psychology.

SOME GIRLS look at the crop of unmarried males and are dismayed at the start.

"It's hopeless," say these girls. "All the best men are already married."

As a married man myself I can subscribe to the partial accuracy of this observation. But it reflects a defeatist attitude.

Certainly it is true that on the whole married men are more attractive than bachelors. But they weren't born more attractive. They were made more attractive by the civilizing influence of the women they married.

A WISE girl realizes that this is the real challenge of matrimony — to take a mediocre, scrubby, forlorn bachelor and build him into the better man only she can help him become.

It is bad psychology for a girl to let a marital prospect suspect that she is looking for a walk to the altar chiefly in order to escape the long daily trek to her job in the office. No man likes to feel that his main function in life is to buy pork chops and pincurls for a Lazy Jane.

What are some examples of good feminine psychology?

WELL, FIRST of all, don't overdo that "mystery woman" act, girls. Don't be too unapproachable. Let your fellow know pretty quickly that you're fond of him.

Remember that while no man wants to be smothered, they all hanker to be mothered a bit.

As the average employer is too busy to spend his entire day patting an employe on the back, the employe looks forward to getting at home the petting he doesn't get at the office.

He wants from a potential wife the security, encouragement and approval he doesn't receive from his boss on the job.

BACHELORS are wild things, and must be tamed with care.

The way to win a bachelor is to wine him and dine him and treat him with kindness and give him the feeling that life with you will be better and safer and — above all — more comfortable, than life is without you.

If you do this, he'll eat out of your hand, never miss his lost freedom, let you mold him as you will. Then in some future Leap Year other single girls in his office will look at your husband and say:

"Gee, what chance have I got? All the best men are already married."

New Chemical Compounds Combat Cancer

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Why is the mustard treatment used for cancer?

Do not keep the public, your public, in the dark. I am sure if people were to know the truth they would work closer with the doctors.—MRS. T. A. G.

This isn't a matter of keeping the public in the dark.

Rather, it involves a vast chemical problem that as yet has been only partially solved.

The mustard treatment is the use of nitrogen mustard and chemically similar compounds to combat cancer. Some of these chemicals are now being employed in other ways. Perhaps the most interesting is their use to enable animals to tolerate the transplantation of organs. Exactly how the chemicals work is not well understood, but medical researchers are laboriously putting some of the pieces of the puzzle together.

There are several hundred chemicals, most but not all of them synthetic substances, which under certain circumstances can cause cancer.

Curiously, some of these also can combat cancer. But this is likewise true of X-ray, which is used to cure cancer. At the same time, under other circumstances, too much X-ray exposure, over a long period of time, can cause cancer.

Why? We don't know, because basically we don't know the exact process by which cancer starts. Viruses, heredity, chronic irritation, chemicals, all these things evidently have something to do with cancer. Or let's say they have something to do with some cancers. It remains possible that the final answer will be that several combinations of things will prove to be "the causes of cancer."

Cancer, after all, can best be described as a process in which cells begin multiplying at an excessively rapid rate, and the cells no longer maintain their proper form.

Nitrogen mustard and other such chemicals interfere with this rapid multiplication of cells. They are useful in such diseases as Hodgkin's Disease and leukemia, in which the multiplication of cells does not take place at some single point, and the "cancer" thus cannot be removed surgically.

Likewise, techniques are being perfected whereby circulation to a certain affected area of the body can be shut off temporarily (as in a leg) and the powerful chemicals infused in that area alone, to attack cancer cells.

True, these chemicals have a high toxicity, and must be used only in amounts small enough so they do not cause undue poisoning of the patient.

Around The Rim

Hugo's Seeing Things Again!

It is time for Hugo Gernsback to take his annual peep at the future, and when Mr. Gernsback peeps into the future, it's as though one has had ice cream with dill pickle topping just before retiring for the night. All sorts of weird things seem to rise like the Genie from Aladdin's lamp.

ONE OF HIS forecasts has to do with the instant electronic newspaper, which really is a possibility now except for some pretty formidable price factors. Hugo calls his electronic newspaper Rafarnews, and essentially it involves the broadcast of a news page and reception of it on a microfilm. The theory is that your receiver takes all this in, rolls the facsimile so that you simply press the button in the morning and, presto! your paper is enlarged on a screen for your perusal. By pressing a button, you can call up any page you want, and when you are finished with the paper, you file it away for future reference. In time, this will make present newspaper production archaic, he forecasts, for newsprint will be passe. Because it takes fewer people to put out a paper, salaries will go up (good news), he said. But, alas, Hugo is more familiar with scientific forecast than with newspaper costs. Gathering all the news and getting it to the page stage is where the big cost is.

BUT SO MUCH for this relatively mild star-gazing. Hugo says that within a century chemi-genetist scientists will develop a method to whiten the skin of color for all who desire it. Alter the genes through a simple method, he says, and black can be made white, thereby removing a basic source of friction. This isn't all, either, for he predicts that sex can be determined by taking a certain pill 24 hours before mating.

He also sees, within a little more than a century, a pocket size computer which can take all sorts of information and supply instant answers. "The key of the miniature computer lies in its super micro-electronic memory; it has over 100 billion separate molecular atomic cells, each with different information."

HUGO FORESEES the time, around 2222 AD, when interplanetary travel will take place with blinking speeds. Getting from the earth to the moon will take about 12 hours, he says, because the earth's atmosphere will make his "radiotic or laser power beam" transmission inefficient. Once on the moon, however, the space vehicle (shaped like a huge doughnut which will climb on the beam shot through the hole) can zip through space at a leisurely 110,000 miles per second. Thus, the trip from moon to Mars will take about 7.3 minutes.

STILL ANOTHER prognostication is electronic weather control. The nub of Hugo's little glimpse here is a series of space mirrors, a mere 100-miles in diameter. These will be focused so as to reflect the sun's energies to the dark side of the earth in just such a way as to maintain perpetual spring or summer over all the temperate zones, or to set up patterns in the stratosphere, from whence comes our weather, to set in motion great air currents. All of this can be done more or less automatically by feeding information into a computer which will control the space mirrors electronically. Care must be exercised not to shine these on the polar ice caps, says Hugo. No sir! This would put the coastal cities under 100 feet of water. You couldn't pass a blunder like that off by saying: "Oops!"

The Goldwater Candidacy

WASHINGTON — More than the statement of a single individual's intention is involved in the announcement made by Senator Barry Goldwater that he will seek the Republican presidential nomination. It marks indeed the beginning of a critical period in the life of the Republican party. This is because many Republicans feel that the Arizona senator is the only one of their party's presidential aspirants who is committed to principles which are substantially different from those of the Democratic party.

THE REPUBLICAN party has always been predominantly a conservative party. It has fought vigorously against what it considers abuses of power and centralization of government. It has opposed efforts to put the government in business in competition with private enterprise. It has for decades insisted on fiscal soundness. But in recent years the Republican national platforms to a large extent have resembled those of the Democrats. Deficit spending has been acquiesced in, and there has been no concerted effort by either Republican or Democratic administrations to keep expenses or taxes down.

THERE ARE those politicians who say the Republicans would be better off to woo the independent or so-called "liberal" vote and to forget about the conservatives, as they would vote Republican anyhow. The conservative Republicans, on the other hand, argue that the independents, who today think largely along the lines of the Democrats, are bound to support the Democratic nominee rather than the Republican. It is the conservative vote, however, which has not been fully mobilized in any recent election by the Republicans.

Senator Goldwater declares flatly that the Republican party is different from the Democratic party. The Arizona senator says he wants to see a "clear choice" between candidates who espouse really differing viewpoints.

ONE OF THE main issues—perhaps the one that will prove most influential in the outcome of the next election if Senator Goldwater is nominated on the Republican side—is the "civil rights" controversy. On the surface, this appears to be mainly concerned with discrimination in schooling or in jobs, but basically the issue has deeper roots. It now has penetrated the private life of the citizens in the North as well as the South.

SENATOR GOLDWATER has spoken forthrightly on major issues and his views doubtless will be the target of attack by the other Republican candidates between now and the national convention in July. But the significance of his entry into the Republican contest is that millions of Republican voters happen to agree with him. If he should be turned down by the Republican convention, the party might lose a substantial number of votes.

IF, HOWEVER, senator Goldwater is nominated, can he win? Oddly enough, this is of less concern to most of the conservative Republicans than would seem logical. For if there is a continuing prosperity and a mood of international peace, no Republican candidate is likely to win. In the face of such a contingency, and looking more toward future elections, the strategy of the Republican conservatives will be to make as strong a race as possible this time in the hope of indoctrinating as many voters as possible with what they term an intelligent conservatism as opposed to what they describe as a reckless liberalism.

So more is at stake in the possible nomination of Senator Goldwater than the fortunes of a particular individual. It could fundamentally affect the future of the two-party system itself.

Birch Issue In The GOP

WASHINGTON — Mark Sullivan Jr., a handsome, silver - haired patrician, a pillar of Republicanism in this city, opened his Washington Post on the fateful morning of November 22, 1963, and was appalled by a story there.

He read that Dr. Melchior Savarese, a fellow member of the GOP Central Committee, was also a member of the John Birch Society. When he reached his brokerage office, Sullivan immediately fired off a letter to Carl Shipley, chairman of the Committee.

"DEAR CARL: If what I read in the Post this morning is true, will you please accept my resignation from the Republican State Committee for the D. of C. I'm sorry but I don't believe I care to serve on the Committee as long as a member of the John Birch Society is on it. Sincerely, Mark."

Sullivan's feelings were heartfelt and valid. Though he'd never met Dr. Savarese at the time, it seemed an unspeakable contamination of GOP respectability to have the slightest association with the Birch Society, whose leader, Robert Welch, had repeatedly called Dwight Eisenhower a Communist tool.

BUT SULLIVAN was not the only man of principle in the controversy. Dr. Savarese is a devout Catholic, a highly intelligent student of the Communist conspiracy, who had joined the Birch Society for one purpose—to fight this enemy of America and Christendom.

GOP CHAIRMAN Shipley's position was more complicated. If he had to choose between Mark Sullivan and Mel Savarese, he would have to stand by Sullivan, who rated higher in the local Republican hierarchy. But should he allow the Washington Post, a notorious anti-conservative organ, to force a test oath on Republican officialdom?

SHIPLEY TRIED for a compromise. He got Sullivan to agree to stay on the Committee if Dr. Savarese would resign from the Society, or at least suspend his activities. Shipley thought he had the doctor's agreement, too, and announced it to the newspapers. But, after a struggle of conscience, Dr. Savarese wrote:

"I could not resign from the John Birch Society, if I was to remain steadfast and loyal to my moral principles which caused me to join the Society in the first place."

NEITHER, upon further thought, was Dr. Savarese willing to resign under fire from the GOP Committee. To do so would be to plead guilty to the sweeping impeachment that all Birch members are social outcasts, and the Society itself a disreputable group. The doctor determined to stand and fight.

THERE THE matter rests until the 100-member Republican Central Committee makes a decision. Dr. Savarese and Sullivan met for the first time at a holiday party and held a cordial non-political discussion. Neither of them is likely to budge from firmly-held convictions. And this tableau of not unfriendly confrontation—each side adamant in its legitimate beliefs—fully represents both a Republican party and an American quandary as the election year begins.

D&D Installs New Officers

Miss Louise Kleitches, regional director of the Desk & Derrick, installed new officers of the Big Spring D&D Tuesday evening at the Cosden Country Club. The dinner and program were held in the Blue Room.

Mrs. S. Gorman, who was installed as president, introduced Miss Kleitches, secretary and bookkeeper for John I. Moore in San Angelo.

A small derrick was used for the installation service. As the officers were introduced, each lighted her station on the derrick the top light being illuminated by the president. Lighting was completed by the membership.

Those to serve with Mrs. Gorman are Mrs. Bob Darland, vice president; Mrs. J. R. Marcus, recording secretary; Mrs. Leon Kinney, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Kay Thornton, treasurer.

Miss Kleitches told the members, "No other organization of women has ever enjoyed the prestige and respect of its industry as has D&D. We have earned this, but we work for a breed of men who gave us the opportunity."

She said, "The course was set by the founder of the Big Spring D&D with 43 charter members. We are on location and rigging-up for 1964."

She concluded the installation by stating, "To keep the respect and prestige we now have is the goal to be renewed each year and strived for diligently each year."

A farewell speech was made by Mrs. Bob Fields, retiring noble grand, when Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 met at the lodge hall Tuesday evening. Also, she presented a gift to Mrs. Gordon Gross who has a perfect attendance record for six months.

The installation for new officers will be held Jan. 14 with Mrs. Horace Garrett, district deputy, and her staff conducting the service.

Mrs. Ben Mabe was elected to receive the Rebekah Degree and will be initiated Jan. 21. Thirty members were present.

Auxiliary Begins Member Drive

A membership drive will be conducted Thursday evening by members of the American Legion Auxiliary. Plans were completed Monday evening at a meeting conducted by Mrs. Leonard Barlow.

The group will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Tim Jones, 807 Gregg St., to conduct a telephone campaign encouraging prospective members to participate in auxiliary activities.

Mrs. Foy Dunlap reported on the blackeyed pea party held at the Legion Hut during the holidays. Assisting with the business was Mrs. Byron Hill, secretary.

WSCS Coffee Held Preceding Program

Following a coffee at the home of Mrs. Robert Hill, the Fannie Stripling and Sylvia Layman circles of the First Methodist Church WSCS heard a program on "The Christian Issues in Southern Asia." Fifteen members were served Tuesday morning by Mrs. Wayne Vaughn who presided at the coffee service.

Mrs. W. W. Patterson, study leader, questioned the groups to determine their knowledge of India. Afterward she told the history and discussed the religions of four Far Eastern countries. Missionary work was begun there in the 17th Century by the Catholics who stressed education; the first Protestant missionary was a German; and the first Baptist missionary, William Carey, Mrs. Patterson pointed out. She said the greatest difficulty encountered by the missionaries is the language barrier which exists between these countries. She concluded her talk with accomplishments in the fields of medicine, rural construction and agriculture during recent years.

The Hindu religion was Mrs. Clyde Cantrell's program topic, and Mrs. Walter Osborne told of the Buddhist religion.

The next meeting will be Tuesday with Mrs. Clyde Johnston.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

After years in West Texas wind and dust storms I have finally seen with my own eyes something that defies the gusty blow. It's part of the modern woman's makeup . . . her hairdo. With all the other brave shoppers not so modish in getup and their hair tied down with scarves or wind bonneus, a very attractive young woman whose hair was platinum tinted, walked or was blown across the street. While her body gave to the blow, her hair, backbrushed and sprayed to the roots withstood the best Old Mother Nature had to offer.

MRS. JACK JOHNSON gave a good description of the day and the shoppers when she called to her fellow coffee drinkers to join her in being "off like a goose in a storm."

Longtime neighbors and good friends braving the wind to sale shop were MRS. JUSTIN HOLMES and MRS. A. A. MARCHANT.

As a matter of interest to those among us who are devoted to the making and eating of scrapple, MRS. H. C. STIPP has offered a new discovery in the preparation of the old time goodie.

When she was in New Orleans during the holidays she planned to surprise her daughter-in-law with the scrapple recipe, but in getting her ingredients she forgot to get anything that would provide gelatin. She had given up on making the dish when her son remembered that grits always jelled well when cold . . . so she cooked the meat and seasoned the broth, so instead of adding corn meal she added grits and the result was wonderful. In fact, they liked it better than with meal. And you may too.

It's A Humdinger For Meat Loaf Molding

Dear Folks:

Have you ever tried baking a meat loaf in your old angel food cake pan?

It's terrific!

I sometimes use this method when freezing meat loaves. The reason for it is:

As long as I am making up a meat loaf recipe I always make enough for two. I set the second half of the meat loaf in my refrigerator until the first meat loaf is cooked.

HELOISE

By cooking it in an angel food cake pan I find it cooks much faster. The hole in the center of the pan speeds cooking.

Also, it's easier to cut! Try it.

After washing the dishes that night, I then have a clean pan.

I reach into the refrigerator, take out the ready prepared meat loaf and stuff it into the clean angel food cake pan.

Put this in your freezing compartment.

As soon as it is frozen, take the pan and turn it upside down, hold it under your hot water faucet letting the hot water run over the bottom of the pan. The frozen meat loaf will come loose from the pan.

Tear a piece of foil off and lay it on your drainboard.

Place the angel food cake pan upside down on top of the foil and in a few minutes the beautiful ring of meat will drop onto the foil. Remove the pan, fold the foil over and place it in your freezer again.

When ready to bake this meat loaf you can place it back in the same pan or bake it in a skillet. In the meantime you have that angel food cake pan if you need it for something else.—Heloise

Steers Record 2nd Win In 2-4A Play

By TOMMY HART

For a club picked to finish in the District 2-AAAA basketball cellar, the Big Spring Steers are doing all right.

Two starts, two victories. The second triumph came here Tuesday night at the expense of Odessa High and, in race track parlance, the Longhorns "win big." Final tally was 74-67 but the contest wasn't that close.

With a little more than five minutes to go in the engagement, the Longhorns boasted a 15-point bulge and coach Delnor Poss saw fit to make liberal use of his substitutes in the waning moments.

As usual, it was a good team effort on the part of the Steers. The Bronchos, on the other hand, depended almost exclusively upon their wheel horse, Terry Trippet, and it was too much to ask of the 6-3 senior.

Trippet scored 40 points, which nears the conference record. He made good on 16 of 18 free shot opportunities.

The Longhorns, now 10-4 on the season, hopped off to a 9-2 advantage. With three minutes to go in the initial period, the Bovines were out front, 13-3.

Odessa fought back in the third period to pull within four points of the locals, at 45-41, but the Big Springers were up to the challenge. At the end of the third round, it was 51-41, Big Spring.

The Steers connected 33 times in 72 attempts from the field, getting 39.5 per cent the first half and 50 per cent after the intermission.

Leading rebounders for Big Spring were DeeRoby Gartman and Albert Fierro, six each; Mike Peters and Simon Terrazas, five each; Charley West, Ronnie Banks, Don White and Monty Clendenin, two each; and Larry Seals, one.

Gartman didn't score much but he played a terrific game on defense and in the passing phase. Fierro led the Steers in scoring with 17 points and looked much better in all departments than he did against Midland Lee last week. Banks tossed in 15 points and Peters 14 for the Longhorns.

Outside of Trippet, only Dennis Brewster hit consistently for Odessa, collecting 14 points.

Big Spring beat the visitors badly from the field, getting 33 baskets to 24 for the Bronchos, who are now 13-5 for the year.

West was hobbled with four fouls much of the last half and finally went out for good with 2:03 to go in the game. The score was 72-58 at the time, however.

In the B team competition, the Odessans won by a score of 67-49. Terry Pieper counted 24 points for Odessa and Joe Jaure 20 for Big Spring in that one.

Rice Claws Raider Quint In SW Bout

By The Associated Press

Rice fought from behind to a 81-60 victory over Texas Tech and Texas A&M easily defeated Texas Christian 91-64 Tuesday night to stay in a tie for first place in the Southwest Conference basketball race.

Arkansas surprised Texas 58-53 and Southern Methodist defeated Baylor 85-65 in the night's other games. Both Arkansas and SMU won their first conference games and their fourth games of the season.

Rice and Texas A&M are now 2-0 in league play. Texas and Texas Tech dropped into a four way tie with SMU and Arkansas second place with 1-1 records. Baylor and TCU are 0-2.

Barry Rodriguez was the star of Rice's come-back victory over Texas Tech. With 24 seconds left in the game and Rice trailing by one point he drove down the free throw lane and flipped in a layup shot to make the score 61-60. Tech got the ball, Tom Patty's hurried shot missed, and Rodriguez took the rebound as the game ended.

Arkansas trailed Texas until only 1:57 remained in the game. Even then the outcome was in doubt until the Razorbacks' Orval Cook sank two free throws in the final seconds. Warren Vogel of Arkansas and Joe Fisher of Texas were high scorers with 17 points each.

Benny Lenox, one of the highest scorers in the conference, led Texas A&M to the victory over TCU. Lenox played only 28 minutes and scored 27 points.

Gary Turner and Bobby McKinley were high scorers for TCU with 15 points each. A couple of Aggie sophomores, John Beasley and Tim Timmerman, had 16 and 15 points, respectively.

Big Gene Elmore scored 23 points in leading SMU to victory over Baylor. Baylor's Winston Moore led the Bears with 20 points although he accumulated four fouls well before halftime and fouled out with 9½ minutes to play.

Carter Hot Again

BROWNWOOD — Big Walter Carter, former HCJC star, scored 30 points in a losing effort as HS-U defeated Howard Payne, 87-70, here Tuesday night.

Dempsey's Gloves Were Loaded, Says Kearns

NEW YORK (AP) — Another ghost from the past has risen to haunt Jack Dempsey. Now they are claiming he used loaded gloves in 1919 when he won the world heavyweight boxing title from Jess Willard.

The story is revealed in the memoirs of the late Jack (Doc) Kearns, his manager at the time, as published Wednesday in a copyrighted feature in Sports Illustrated. Dempsey denied it in the same article.

Kearns claimed he used plaster of paris and water in bandaging Dempsey's hands to insure a 10-1 bet of $10,000 that Dempsey would win it in one round. Kearns lost, for due to a comedy of errors Dempsey won in three rounds.

Dempsey's ex-manager said the fighter was "entirely innocent of what happened."

The article quoted Dempsey as commenting, "Ridiculous! I could take an oath. In fact I will. I hope to God I die right now, and my wife and children, too, if there is any truth in what Kearns said."

Dempsey was out of town and couldn't be reached immediately for further comment.

A month ago Benny Marshall of the Birmingham News wrote that Dempsey had been doped before his first fight with Gene Tunney in Philadelphia. At the time, Dempsey said he was not sick the day of the fight but added, "a doctor told me the next day, I'd probably been given a Mickey Finn and I probably was ill for three or four days after that."

Tough In Clutch, Hawks Win, 81-73

By PAT WASHBURN

When it comes down to the clutch and the going gets sticky, Buddy Travis and his Howard County Jayhawks are a hard lot to beat.

They proved that again Tuesday night. Playing the Lubbock Christian Pioneers, the Hawks broke a tight cold-shooting affair wide open with a full court press in the latter stages of the third period and coasted easily to an 81-73 victory.

This was the Hawks third victory without a defeat in the Western Junior College Conference, thus leaving them tied for first place with the San Angelo College Rams and the New Mexico Military Institute Bronchos. The Pioneers are 2-3.

In a game where the players seemed to just want to shoot the ball haphazardly and burn up time so they could get off the court, four boys hit the double figures for the Hawks.

Thomas Carter, the leading scorer on the team with a 15.0 average, turned in another fine scoring performance after a slow start in the first half as he buried 19 points. Eddy Nelson hit 17 along with Keith Bond, and big Jim Oldham had 12.

But the game's outstanding performance was easily turned in by LCC's Larry Christian. Christian hit seven of 15 from the floor and six of seven from the line for 20 points. Cliff Jonas and Larry Hays each accounted for 11 for the losers.

The game, even in the early stages, turned quickly into one of the most uninteresting contest the Hawks have staged in this campaign. The outside shooting on both teams was pathetic, rebounding was nothing to shout about, and the ball was given up frequently by a bad pass or a blocked shot. And then there was the occasional ragged playing, most of it in the last half.

If you've heard tales about how ragged Washington's army looked at Valley Forge, you couldn't have heard anything worse than what was seen at times in the Hawk's gym Tuesday night. It seemed almost as if a group of minstrels were out on the court chanting the once popular rock - and - roll song: "C'mon everybody. Let's do the hully-gully!"

PAT WASHBURN'S The Roundtable

A new resident of Big Spring talking about Steer football:

"Gee, they play tough football here in Big Spring. I'll never forget that first night I arrived here—the Steers were playing Wichita Falls and I thought, 'That Wichita Falls is real tough—the game won't even be a contest. Big Spring will get mopped up.' And then the Steers won and I was amazed.

"I saw that Angelo game. I'll never forget when those old boys from Angelo walked out on the field—that's undoubtedly the biggest high school team I've ever seen. I thought that Big Spring would get wiped out. But then the Steers just flat outplayed them and won—I could hardly believe it.

"That DON ROBBINS must be quite a coach. I look for him to move on in another couple of years. After all, look how successful he's been."

* * *

ABE MARTIN, TCU head football coach, talking about the 1963 Southwest Conference season:

"We had a great year, with two really fine teams. Texas won the national championship and Baylor was a great team. The rest of us were right up there close, too. We had the best race and the best football we have had in a long time. And it's going to be better next year.

"One of the things that made our great season was that no teams played exactly the same kind of offense.

"Baylor and Texas played entirely different styles, yet both of them were exciting. Two teams used the 'I' formation and the other four used variations of the T. Some ran tight and some split their ends.

"Every game was different—and interesting."

* * * *

JACK TITTLE talking about his brother, Y. A. TITTLE, famed quarterback of the New York Giants:

"My brother, Yelberton Abraham Tittle, just didn't happen to become a great passer. He worked at it. I recall his going out in the back yard at our home about three miles from Marshall, Tex., and hanging up that old tire with a rope. He'd get that tire to swinging and still hit it on the button . . .

"The most vivid memory of Y. A. as a kid was that he always wanted to win—or at least tie. We'd be playing marbles, tops, or football—touch or tackle—and he'd keep me playing until he won or tied me . . .

Y. A. got some real enjoyment out of playing . . . at LSU. The 1947 season was always the high point of my memory book because of the LSU-Ole Miss game. Opposing Y. A. that night was Charley Conerly, with whom he shared the quarterbacking on the Giants in 1961.

"Late in the game, with Ole Miss leading, 20-18, Y. A. intercepted one of Conerly's passes and had a wide open field for a touchdown that would have put the Tigers ahead. All of a sudden, I could see Y. A. was slowing down. It looked as though he were pulling up his pants—and that's exactly what he was doing. The last Ole Miss player with a shot at him had ripped off his belt. Finally, it was too much for Y. A. He stumbled and fell on the Ole Miss 30 and LSU didn't score. It was a 20-18 defeat, with one of the craziest twists you could imagine.

"There's two things that Y. A. has always been sensitive about—his baldness and his name . . . Y. A. hasn't always been bald. In high school, he had tremendously blond, curly hair. I think it was at LSU that he started getting bald. His belief is that his headgear caused it all."

Cop Blames Downdraft

EL PASO (AP) — A sudden downdraft seized a light Border Patrol plane and caused it to strike a Mexican on horseback, Dudley Clanahan testified at his murder trial Tuesday.

He was charged after the plane hit and killed Isidoro Rodriguez Chaparro, 23, a Mexican national, while officers hunted aliens suspected of being in this country illegally on Nov. 20, 1962.

Prosecutors finished presenting their case in the afternoon and Clanahan, 28, was among the first witnesses called by the defense.

Chaparro, one of two men pursued by officers, was killed in a remote ranching area 35 miles southwest of Marfa in far west Texas and about 30 miles this side of the Mexican border.

RADIO FOR HELP

Clanahan, testifying in a calm, deep voice, said he was summoned by radio to help two border patrolmen in a jeep hunt for wetbacks, as aliens who cross the Rio Grande illegally from Mexico are known.

In an effort to talk by loudspeaker with a companion of Chaparro, Clanahan said he descended within 40 to 50 feet of the ground. The downdraft caught his plane and the landing gear struck a horseman before he regained control only 8 to 10 feet in the air.

"The airplane felt like it was falling out from under me and to my right," he related, and it shook at the impact.

SIGHTING DUST

Efforts to recover pointed the craft's nose upward, Clanahan said, and he was able to see the horse but not Chaparro.

Two Border Patrol inspectors from Marfa, William Higgins and Richard Corcoran, told of calling for aerial assistance in the search after sighting dust kicked up in the distance by horses carrying two men.

Higgins said he and Corcoran gave chase in their jeep after stopping at a ranch house where foreman W. E. Holland refused to answer when they asked if the two men were wetbacks. They quoted him as saying "I don't like you fellows" and offering to bet their hunt would be unsuccessful.

THREE DIVES

Holland, his wife and a ranch visitor, Walter Holton, testified for the state earlier that they saw a plane dive three times toward Chaparro and his companion. After passing behind a hill on the third pass the craft appeared minus its left wheel, they said.

Higgins said Clanahan located a trail from the air so they could chase the two men and they drew within 10 feet of one — apparently Chaparro — before a tire blowout interrupted the jeep's pursuit through rough country. The other man escaped.

They lost radio contact with Clanahan for a time because of static, Higgins related, and when they again were able to talk, Clanahan reported "something was wrong with his aircraft."

FOUR WETBACKS

Higgins and Corcoran said they went to the area to check a report that four wetbacks were living in a cafe on a ranch adjoining that where Holland works.

Appearing as the last prosecution witness, Albert Meyer of the Federal Aviation Agency described the spot where part of a plane's landing gear fell. He said it was close to several spots of blood at the point where Chaparro was reported to have been killed.

Trustees Set Couple Of Trips

LAMESA (SC) — Lamesa school trustees have scheduled trips to Lubbock and Abilene to view school construction in connection with the future expansion of Lamesa schools.

The board also accepted the resignation of Mrs. Ross Dunn as a second grade teacher at North Elementary and elected Mrs. Don Yarborough to fill the vacancy.

Current tax collections were reported 87.18 per cent complete with $617,849 collected to date.

Boosters Club To Sponsor NTSU Band Here March 6

The band of North Texas State University in Denton will make an appearance in Big Spring March 6 sponsored by the Band Boosters Club, Walter Stroup, president, said today.

Club members Tuesday voted to pay expenses for the visit to give local band members an opportunity to see and hear this band perform. The concert will be at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium. Tickets will go on sale soon at 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

Stroup will be in charge of tickets. Mrs. Jesse Reid will have charge of providing lodging and food for the North Texas band members while they are in Big Spring.

Success for the annual fruit cake sale was reported at the meeting, with just over $1,600 net profit. More than $6,000 worth of the cakes were sold. Nine students received prizes ranging from $5 for third place to $10 for first for their salesmanship in the drive.

Winners at the high school, in the order in which they placed, first through third, were Carol Burleson, Buddy Perry and Russell McKiski. At Goliad, top three salesmen were Stanford Stewart, Donna Wood and Nora O'Bannon. Sherry Stroup, Mike Hubbard and Molly McBride earned the prizes at Runnels.

Adults spearheading the drive at the various schools were: Mrs. Clayton Bettle, in charge of sales at the high school; Mrs. Birt Allison assisted by Mrs. John Newman, at Goliad; and Mrs. Stroup at Runnels.

Immediately after the business meeting, the 26 members present viewed color films of the high school and Goliad bands taken while the groups completed Dec. 7 in a marching contest in Odessa.

Co-Op Reports Strong Demand

Cap Rock Electric Cooperative finished 1963 with a strong demand and almost erased the consumption deficits piled up at mid-year.

December sales amounted to 4,188,335 KWH, only about half a million under the November level and well above the 3,187,319 for December of last year.

This brought to 76,190,380 the sales for 1963, or less than the 77,306,545 for 1962. Considering that through July, the system was running 12,000,000 KWH behind, the last half recovery was little short of remarkable.

At the end of the year there were 2,413 miles of line energized, no change for the month and 91 more than the year before. There were 5,469 members connected, a gain of seven for the month and 327 for the year.

New Officers To Be Installed

Mrs. Irene Mann, incoming president of the Big Spring Assembly No. 211, of the Social Order of Beauceant, will be installed at 6:30 p.m. today at the Staked Plains Masonic lodge rooms in downtown Big Spring. Mrs. L. J. Absher of Midland, a past president and ardent worker in the order, will be installing officer. Other officers will also be installed.

The installation will be made at the same service in which Ray Thomas is installed as commander of Big Spring Commandery No. 31, Knights Templar.

The Social Order of Beauceant is not an auxiliary of the Commandery, but is a comparable order for women.

The meetings will be open to the public, including children. A dinner will be served preceding the installation services.

Hal Burnett, Alpine, Grand Generalissimo of Grand Commandery Knights Templar of Texas, and Litt S. Perry, Abilene, Deputy Grand Commander of Grand Commandery Knights of Texas, will install Thomas and other officers of the Big Spring Commandery.

Pool Hall Law Okayed

LAMESA (SC) — City Council Monday approved on first reading Lamesa's first ordinance to regulate operation of pool and billard tables for profit.

The ordinance sets forth strict operational requirements, establishes hours which pool halls may remain open, provides for a $2.50 license fee per table a year, and outlines procedures for revocation of licenses.

In addition Malcolm Harp was named to a five-year term on the city park board and Ben Allen reappointed to a three-year tenure on the airport board. Odell Hilburn was appointed as an alternate to L. E. Petty on the electrical advisory board.

Council unanimously endorsed a resolution granting easements for the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority aqueduct here.

In other actions, council employed Municipal Code Co. of Tallahassee, Fla., to codify all city ordinances and opened bids on a group hospitalization plan in the first meeting of 1964.

DEAR ABBY

Be Thankful, But Be Firm

DEAR ABBY: I am an M.D. who has recently moved to a new, medium - sized town. In times past I have received gifts of liquor at Christmas from both colleagues and patients. I do not drink, nor do I serve liquor in my home. Neither do I want to give liquor to another person. I do not want to be identified with the drinking crowd, and yet to refuse such a gift may create bad feelings. How do you advise I handle this?

"TEETOTALING M.D."

DEAR "TEETOTALING": Return the liquor with the following note:

"Dear ——: Thanks for the Christmas 'spirits.' You were thoughtful and generous, but I don't use alcohol. And while I pass no judgment on those who do, I cannot bring myself to give it to them. I am just peculiar that way. I hope you understand."

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband doesn't approve of my writing to a stranger with a personal problem, so please put your answer in the paper and use a phony name. We have one child and my sister has three. Every Christmas we spend five dollars on a gift for each one of her children. She spends five dollars on a gift for our child. My husband says that either we should spend a total of FIVE dollars on all her children, or else she should spend $15 on a gift for our one. Maybe this will help you. My sister's husband makes more than mine does. What do you think?

"CHRISTMAS HANGOVER"

DEAR "C.H.": In making up your Christmas gift budget, allow "X" number of dollars for each family. Then divvy it up to provide a gift for each one. Naturally, the family with twelve children can't expect each child to be remembered as generously as the family with one child. This is the fairest system I know.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Please help me as I can't quit thinking about it and my school work is suffering. A boy called me up and asked if I remembered him. I got flustered and couldn't think, so I foolishly told him I didn't remember him. I guess he was embarrassed, because he said goodbye in rather a hurry. After he hung up, I remembered who he was. He is a doll from school and I DO remember him now. Well, when he sees me at school he just looks right through me. I want to let him know I do remember him and want him to call me again, but I don't know how. Should I call him up? Help!

MADE A BOO BOO

DEAR MADE: Don't call him. Ask a friend of yours to tell a friend of his that you DO remember him, and regret the boo boo on the phone, and hope he'll call you again. Then, start hoping.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO PATTI: When in Rome — watch out!

* * *

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Youth Asks Jury Hearing

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)— An Arlington State College student charged with threatening the life of President Kennedy will seek an appearance before a federal grand jury Thursday.

A lawyer representing the student, Russell W. McLarry, 21, said he and McLarry and a witness will arrive in Amarillo tonight to request an appearance before the grand jury.

The lawyer is Arthur Lee Moore of Fort Worth. The witness is Jim Wilson, an employe of the Dallas Times Herald and a night student at Arlington State.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Bill Hughes said the request would be considered after McLarry arrives.

Secret Service agents charged McLarry with threatening bodily harm to the late President before Kennedy was slain Nov. 22. McLarry, a machinist and part-time student at Arlington State College, said the remarks were made in jest.

Moore said he did not intend to put himself in a position "critical of federal law and its courts" but the statement attributed to McLarry was nothing more than "silly remarks," which would have been passed over had the President not been assassinated.

MANOLA GALLARDO ON WAY TO MURDER HEARING
Flanked by investigator Celeste Van Cleve, police Lt. Ken Thompson

Sister Charged In Murder Switch

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Spanish-born Manola Gallardo, unable to speak English, may have fatally stabbed multimillionaire William A. Bartholomae after mistakenly believing he had harmed her sister, Orange County Dist. Atty. Kenneth Williams said.

The district attorney's office dropped murder charges Tuesday against Bartholomae's sister-in-law, Carmen, 25, and booked her sister, Manola, 32, on suspicion of murder.

Bartholomae, 70, a yachtsman who made an estimated $11 million in ranching, oil and mining, died Sunday morning in the kitchen of his $500,000 mansion on Newport Bay.

The district attorney said Bartholomae died in a "real, choice battle" in which he was clawed and stabbed to death.

Williams said a lie detector test given Mrs. Bartholomae and further police investigation Tuesday led to her release and the arrest of her sister.

The district attorney said investigation gave this picture of the fatal stabbing:

Manola had just left the kitchen to take care of her sister's 3-month-old son. On her return, she saw her sister lying on the floor, Bartholomae leaning over her. She either thought Bartholomae had harmed her sister or was about to.

A scuffle ensued. Bartholomae was stabbed. Manola's left hand was nearly severed.

The lie detector test confirmed Mrs. Bartholomae's story that she fainted because of abdominal pains while her sister was out of the room, Williams said.

Miss Gallardo waived preliminary hearing and will be arraigned in Orange County Superior Court Jan. 16. Her attorney, Paul Caruso, said she would plead inocent.

Miss Gallardo came to the United States three months ago to help her sister care for her newborn child.

Tranquilizer, Hay Snare Elephant

LAREDO, Tex. (AP)—How do you catch a runaway elephant?

You chase it 21 miles, shoot it full of tranquilizers, and then tempt it with a delectable bale of hay.

Laredo officials learned the procedure the hard way Tuesday.

A full-grown elephant broke loose from a small carnival in front of a grocery store here, and headed for the country.

Police and trainers followed, recruiting a helicopter to keep up with the animal.

Space Testing Set For Bay

HOUSTON (AP)—Astronauts and engineers will take a Gemini space test vehicle into Galveston Bay next month or early March.

The craft will be a full-size model of the two-man space vehicle in which the next U.S. space flights will be made.

Peter Armitage, director of the test series, said Tuesday the capsule contains all working systems needed to keep an astronaut alive 36 hours after landing.

Engineers will spend about five weeks fitting the test capsule with instruments to measure its reactions to a water landing.

While the early Gemini flights will be water landings, a flexible paraglider wing will be added later to permit ground landings.

White Announces For Re-Election

GARDEN CITY — A. W. White, county commissioner of Precinct No. 3, started the Glasscock County political ball rolling today. He announced he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for re-election to the position he holds.

White currently is in a hospital in Big Spring where he is recovering from a respiratory ailment.

Lifting Of Race, Tuition Barriers Asked For Rice

HOUSTON (AP) — Rep. Albert Thomas, D-Tex., and 10 other Rice University alumni have asked in district court that trustees of the university be granted court authority to remove racial barriers and charge tuition.

The alumni's intervention plea, filed by the 11 former students Tuesday in Dist. Judge Phil Peden's court, supports the Rice trustees' petition. They asked court permission to interpret the 1891 indenture by which William Marsh Rice created a fund to endow the university.

The plea denies the claim of an earlier intervention by two other former students that the indenture must be interpreted strictly by the trustees.

A trial of the lawsuit has been set for Feb. 10.

The new intervention said the trustees seek an enlightened view of Rice's indenture to enable it to reach its place as one of the nation's leading educational institutions.

In Seventh Day

HONOLULU (AP) — The search for a missing C124 Globemaster and the nine men aboard entered its seventh day today as planes continued to cover selected areas in the mid-Pacific.

Workman Tries To Save Baby

NEW YORK (AP) — "I thought of my own baby," said Alfred Salerno, 19, explaining why he tried to catch a baby who tumbled from a fifth floor apartment.

The child, David Fisher, 1½, bounced off Salerno's chest and struck a sidewalk Tuesday. He died at a hospital.

Salerno, a utility workman, was in an excavation when he saw the baby tottering on a ledge. He got under the ledge just as the baby fell.
