Vanguard Gets Off Ground, Hurls Satellite Into Its Orbit

Irishman's Holiday

A. 1. C. Hugh Butler McCauley, native of Coleraine, North Ireland, shows some of his Irish souvenirs to Mrs. Majorie Brown. McCauley dug out the genuine shillelagh, which he holds, and the twisted walking cane which Mrs. Brown tests, in preparation for his observance of St. Patrick's Day today. The cane was made from a bush trained to grow in the twisted shape in old Ireland. McCauley came to this country in 1954 and later enlisted in the U. S. Air Force. He is now serving in the finance and accounting section at Webb AFB.

Dynamite Blasts Hit Jewish Centers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Vandals dynamited the Jewish community center here last night and the blast was linked to school integration in an anonymous threat on a federal judge's life.

A man identifying himself as a member of the "Confederate underground" made the telephone threat against Dist. Judge William E. Miller, whose orders brought "first step" desegregation in Nashville schools last fall.

A dozen Negro first-graders were admitted to six white schools last September amid violent crowd protests climaxed by the midnight dynamiting of Hattie Cotton School.

Last night's blast came only a few hours after a similar explosion caused $30,000 worth of damage to a Jewish center in Miami, Fla.

Although the Nashville center was crowded with children a few hours before the blast, there was nobody in the modern half-million-dollar building at the time of the explosion at 8:07 p.m.

The dynamite was set off just outside the plate glass entrance doors. It blew in the doors, smashed the entrance hall ceiling and shattered windows in the building and in houses for blocks around. Damage to the center was estimated at $6,000.

Rabbi William B. Silverman of the Jewish temple said his first report of the blast came from the anonymous telephone caller. He quoted the caller as saying: "We have just dynamited the Jewish community center. Next will be any other nigger-loving place or nigger-loving person in Nashville. And we're going to shoot down Judge Miller in cold blood."

Silverman notified Judge Miller, a Methodist, of the call, and Miller called the FBI. Deputy sheriffs and FBI agents were posted at his home. Nashville police stationed guards at the temple.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Dynamite explosions damaged Jewish centers here and at Nashville, Tenn., yesterday.

Police were examining the wreckage for clues to the identity of the terrorists.

An anonymous telephone caller linked the Tennessee incident to school integration and threatened that a federal judge "would be shot down in cold blood."

The Miami blast came at 2:20 a.m., doing at least $30,000 worth of damage to the school-recreation annex of Temple Beth El, located in the southwest section of the city. Doors were blown out, a hole torn in a concrete wall and a kitchen ceiling, the roof lifted and walls shifted on the foundation.

The Nashville explosion, shortly after 8 p.m., smashed the front doors of the Jewish community center. It ripped down the ceiling of the reception hall and broke panes of glass. Damage was estimated at $6,000.

There were no injuries in either dynamiting.

Almost as soon as the roar of the explosion died at Nashville, Rabbi William B. Silverman of the Jewish temple there got a telephone call warning. "The temple is going to be next." The caller also told the rabbi Federal Judge William E. Miller "would be shot down in cold blood."

Miller last fall ordered Negro first-graders admitted to some Nashville schools. Their admission was followed by a blast which wrecked Hattie Cotton School there.

Police are guarding the judge's home and the temple.

It was the first such incident at Miami since a wave of terrorism in 1951 when several synagogues and Negro homes were bombed and dynamite was found at a Catholic church.

SEXTON'S MILLIONS

'Common Law' Wife Jumps Into Fight To Break Will

CLEBURNE (AP) — Mrs. Windell Shipley, 32, filed a contest today of the will of oilman J. E. Sexton, claiming she was his common law wife and that he was the father of her daughter, 16.

Another contest also was filed in County Court today by the sister and four nieces of Sexton.

Both contests claim the will leaving his fortune to a Cleburne rest home operator, Mrs. Agnes Kirk, 40, is a forgery.

Sexton's fortune has been estimated as low as 5 million dollars and as high as 60.

Mrs. Shipley claimed in her petition that Sexton fathered her daughter, Shirley Titus, a Cleburne High School sophomore. It asks for half of the estate Sexton acquired after the girl was born. Titus was Mrs. Shipley's maiden name.

The contests were filed about three hours before the deadline of 10 a.m. required under state law to contest the will.

Sexton died in Feb. 28 in a Jacksonville rest home where he had resided four years.

The petition by the sister and nieces, who were cut off with $100 each, claims that the principal Sexton holdings are in East Texas.

Sexton came to Cleburne and entered extensive ranching operations in the Klondike area south of here shortly after oil was discovered on the East Texas land and his late brothers owned.

The petition of the sisters and nieces reads that in event the instrument is not proven to be a forgery it was made by Sexton "as a result of persuasion and divers fraudulent practices and importunities".

Mrs. Kirk's a petite, shapely, blue-eyed mother of six.

Mrs. Shipley claimed she began associating with Sexton "around the age of 15 and that the relationship terminated when she was about 17½ years of age.

She is represented by the Fort Worth law firm of Robert Ivey and George Cochran.

The heirs are represented by three law firms, Rex Houston and Gordon Wellborn of Henderson, John Smith and Earl Roberts of Longview and Willard Baker and Jack Altaras of Cleburne.

Sexton's sister is Mrs. R. E. Silbey of Overton. The nieces are Mrs. Mozelle Silbey Pitner of Henderson, Mrs. O. L. Jacobs of Overton, Mrs. W. C. Beard of Raymondville and Mrs. Q. C. Murphy of Longview.

The case will go into probate court tomorrow when attorneys will present motions. Johnson County Judge H. G. Littlefair will rule on the petitions after which appeals are expected to go to a district court.

The petition filed by the sister and nieces asked that all litigation be transferred either to Cherokee or Rusk County.

Attorney Gean Turner of Cleburne was left $10,000 and named administrator of the will by Sexton.

Mrs. Kirk has said she wants only to carry out Sexton's wishes by using the money to build a new, modern rest home at Cleburne. Mrs. Bessie Richardson, in whose restaurant the will was witnessed, was left $1,000.

Mrs. Shipley said she had received an anonymous phone call telling her to "drop the case or else."

The estate includes ranch land and interest in 378 East Texas oil wells.

TB Assn. Sets Annual Meeting

New officers and directors for the Howard County Tuberculosis Assn. will be elected at the organization's annual membership meeting Tuesday evening.

The dinner session is scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Colonial Room of the Howard House, said Jim Smith, the current president.

Dr. B. Broadrick of Big Spring is to speak on tuberculosis diagnostic work and will show several X-ray pictures and slides. Kay Kearns, occupational therapist at McKnight State Hospital, Carlsbad, will discuss rehabilitation of tuberculosis victims.

Mrs. Clyde Thomas Jr. is program chairman for the activity. Mrs. J. T. Isbell is dinner chairman. Mrs. Ross Bartlett is in charge of decorations and Mrs. R. L. Reeves in charge of invitations.

Spring Weather Is Cut Short By New Cold, Drizzle

March appeared in no mood Monday to adhere to the theory that spring should now prevail as a reward for six weeks of unpleasant weather since Groundhog Day.

The skies were overcast, there was an early morning fog and some slight drizzle. A chilling wind was blowing and temperature was down to an uncomfortably low level. It was around 34 at 8 a.m. and had not warmed up any at noon.

The forecast calls for a continuation of the same dreary weather for all of today and Tuesday with occasional showers on tap for this afternoon and tomorrow.

High for Sunday, which proved to be an ideal spring day indeed, was 77. Many residents took advantage of the fine weather for outings and the crowd at Lake J. B. Thomas was large. Many boats were in operation.

Girl Hurt In Cycle Mishap

Helen Whitt, daughter of T. E. Whitt, 1614 Settles, was slightly injured Sunday when a motorcycle on which she was riding overturned, but doctors said her injuries were not serious.

Miss Whitt, 18, was riding on a motorcycle being driven by Ole Stigen of Ft. Sill, Okla., when it overturned at the corner of Cedar and Canyon. She was rushed to Big Spring Hospital by a Nalley-Pickle ambulance for treatment.

This morning, doctors said she sustained cuts and bruises on her leg and back, but none was considered serious.

Stigen was uninjured, police officers said.

Also Sunday, an accident occurred at 9th and Scurry which involved cars driven by Grace Grandstaff and Mary Click, 901 Abrams. Kenneth Shelton, a student at Texas Tech, and Marie Mitchell, San Angelo, were in an accident at 407 W. 3rd.

Alejandro Guzman, Vincent, and Jacinto Martinez, 1501 W. 5th, were drivers of cars colliding at 4th and Presidio.

Estate Life Put Into Receivership

AUSTIN (AP) —A District Court placed Estate Life Insurance Co. of Amarillo in the hands of a temporary receiver today with instructions that the firm be rehabilitated if possible.

A hearing on a temporary restraining order which tied up all assets and records of the firm was scheduled for 9 a.m. March 26.

The order issued by Judge Jack Roberts in 126th District Court "directed" state liquidator James Williamson "to rehabilitate, reinsure, recognized, conserve of liquidate the affairs of the company as the case may be."

King-Size Carrots

Cindy Hale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crockett Hale, 1203 Mulberry, displays two giant carrots which were belatedly harvested from the Hale yard in Forsan. Cindy planted the carrots last spring at their place on the Royal Oil & Gas Co. lease. Recently, her father was transplanting grass from the Forsan place to their residence in Big Spring and unearthed these giants. The carrot in Cindy's left hand weighed 2 pounds and the other 2½ pounds. The unusual vegetables were sound and good despite their long sojourn in the ground.

DR. HAROLD COOKE

McMurry College President Is Dead

ABILENE (AP) — Dr. Harold Cooke, president of McMurry College, died during the night in his sleep.

He became president of the Methodist college in January, 1943.

Before that, he had been a prominent Methodist minister.

Dr. Cooke, 67, was a civic leader, minister and educator.

He took over at McMurry Jan. 1, 1943, when the school had only 160 students and 3 buildings. It now has 6 new buildings, another under construction and plans for 2 others. The enrollment is more than 900.

Bishop Frank Smith of Houston persuaded Dr. Cooke to take the presidency of McMurry as "the best opportunity to build a great educational institution in the Methodist Church."

Dr. Cooke directed a financial drive in which $893,000 was raised in 1952 to buy what is now Dyess Air Force Base and present it to the government.

Dr. Cooke was Methodist pastor at Liberty for 7 months, then studied law and was admitted to the bar at Texarkana in 1912. He was with a Beaumont law firm until the fall of 1913 when he returned to the Methodist ministry.

He married Miss Erie Kimball at Houston Sept. 2, 1914.

Churches he helped build include McAshan Memorial Church at Houston and churches at Dallas, Tulsa, Phoenix, Ariz., Knoxville, Tenn., and Memphis, Tenn.

Surviving are his wife; three sons, Dr. Harold Cooke Jr., industrial chemist at Louisville, Ky.; the Rev. Charles J. Cooke, Methodist minister at East Setauket, L.I., and the Rev. John B. Cooke of Dallas; and two daughters, Mrs. Eschol Hudnall of Sherman and Mrs. Kenneth W. Guebert of Lake Jackson, Tex.; and two sisters, Mrs. Lawrence Koelemay Sr. of Shreveport, La., and Mrs. R. A. Goodwin of Nederland.

. . . Dies in his sleep

Sense Of Loss Follows His Death

Methodist leaders have expressed a sense of loss as well as shock at the passing of Dr. Harold Cooke, McMurry College president for the past 15 years.

"He was one of great," said Dr. Jordan Grooms, First Methodist pastor.

"It is a great loss to Methodism as well as to McMurry," said Dr. W. A. Hunt, whose father had nursed McMurry from a foundling institution into a well-rooted college.

A substantial number of Methodist pastors and laymen from here were planning to attend the last rites for Dr. Cooke, who was a well known figure here. It was through his efforts that the late Mrs. Dora Roberts gave half a million dollars to McMurry less than a decade ago.

"I don't suppose there was a church, large or small, in the entire conference that he had not visited," recalled Dr. Grooms, who had been cited for an honorary degree by McMurry during Dr. Cooke's tenure as president. "He simple drove himself night and day for McMurry and others."

Hard-Luck Navy Breaks Its Jinx

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Navy's Vanguard rocket hurled the second U.S. satellite into orbit around the earth today.

With its back to the wall after two highly-publicized failures, the Navy launched the Vanguard on one of the most perfect flights ever seen at the nation's missile test center.

Belching fire and smoke, the slender gray-green rocket left its launching pad at 7:16 a.m.

Two hours and 23 minutes later, President Eisenhower told the world the trouble-plagued Vanguard had succeeded in the space mission for which it was created.

His announcement that the Vanguard's tiny "moon" was circling the earth with the Army's Explorer I and the Soviet Sputnik II touched off a celebration in Navy circles here and among personnel of the Martin Co., which built the rocket.

The Army launched Explorer I with the Jupiter-C missile here Jan. 31.

In sharp contrast to previous Vanguard countdowns, today's preparation of the rocket went off with perfect precision.

There was only one hold and it was due to trouble in a tracking station, not because of any malfunction in the rocket itself.

The firing originally was scheduled for 7 a.m. It was just 16 minutes off this pinpoint schedule when it blasted into a clear blue sky.

So smoothly did the rocket make its way into space, observers here were certain long before the President made it official that the Vanguard had done its job.

Test-range instruments indicated that the rocket's three stages and the small "moon" in its nose separated successfully. Cmdr. Vincent Thomas told reporters in Washington.

John P. Hagen, director of the Vanguard project, flashed a broad grin and sighed, after hearing a telephoned description of the Vanguard's smooth flight.

The Vanguard thundered off its launching stand to the cheers of watchers who had seen two previous firings end in flames and discouragement.

In Washington, Dr. Hagen said the 3½ pound satellite was cast into such an ideal orbit that it may remain aloft 5 to 10 years.

In its flight at 18,000 to 19,000 miles an hour, its egg-shaped orbit will swing it as far as 2,500 miles out into space and as close to the earth as 400 miles.

Because it is so small, the satellite itself cannot be tracked except by its radio voice. But its traveling companion in space, the five-foot long third stage of the Vanguard rocket, should be visible to observers at sunset and sunrise.

THIRD STAGE

The third stage trailing the satellite is a cylinder about 20 inches in diameter weighing about 50 pounds.

Three minutes after the little moon went into orbit, tracking stations were picking up the high-pitched tone of its radio signals.

Dr. Joseph Kaplan, chairman of the U.S. Committee for the International Geophysical Year, congratulated Hagen and his Vanguard co - workers and praised them for "patience and courage" shown in the sometimes heartbreaking job of preparing the intricate rocket for space flight.

Hagen wore a broad grin and a green St. Patrick's Day tie.

The launching was primarily an experiment in the capability of the three-stage rocket to climb 200 or more miles and then angle into a horizontal course.

SHEER PROFIT

If it succeeded also in depositing the 6.4-inch sphere in its nose into an 18,000-m.p.h. orbit, this would be sheer profit with the Vanguard satellite joining with Explorer I and with the Soviet Sputnik II in looping the earth.

The 72-foot Vanguard started up from its launching stand, belching flame and smoke at 6:16 a.m.

The missile climbed vertically for more than 10 seconds, a beautiful sight in the morning sunlight.

The giant rocket put out a trailer of white smoke, and part of the rocket could be seen to break away.

This may have been the first stage falling away from the main part of the rocket.

The missile then put out a pink trail of vapor.

Observing that it was St. Patrick's Day, one newsman said "They must have fueled it with distilled shamrocks."

The count-down proceeded with amazing smoothness, even more rapidly than had been the case with the Army's much simpler Jupiter-C rocket that put Explorer I into the skies.

For an hour before the launching the tall gantry crane, or working tower, was rolled away leaving the Vanguard rocket fully exposed to view.

Fifteen minutes later the rising sun highlighted the missile and the frost accumulating on its midsection, icy cold from its liquid oxygen content.

The rising sun pinpointed a huge weather balloon 72 feet tall, the same length as the Vanguard rocket, floating at an altitude of about 40,000 feet.

LAUNCHING DESCRIBED

In the bright sunlight the dull gray-green exterior of the rocket gleamed, and its titanium-tipped classic nose shone with a faint brownish tinge.

The Air Force gave the launching time as 7:16 a.m.

At that time there was a pin prick of light at the base of the rocket and then a flash, a burst of smoke and then a large billowing puff of flame.

The rocket rose majestically, slowly at first.

The weather was just right. There was no wind.

The Vanguard climbed vertically for 10 seconds and then angled to the southeast.

When the 44-foot first stage fell away, the rocket was at an altitude of 35 miles. Vanguard experts said the first stage probably fell into the ocean about 275 miles from this launching site.

The 11-ton Vanguard three-stager is two feet taller than the Jupiter-C, only one-third as heavy, and is 45 inches in diameter at the base compared with a 70-inch diameter for the first stage of the Jupiter-C.

The round satellite in its nose weighed only 3¼ pounds as against 30.8 pounds for the 80-inch long, 6-inch diameter cylinder of Explorer I.

The newest and smallest of the satellites contained two radios, one powered by solar cells designed to draw their energy from the sun and the other by conventional batteries.

The sun-powered radio, operating on 108.03 megacycles at about 5 miliwatts, was geared to send back information on the temperature of the satellite's aluminum skin. The other would broadcast internal temperatures on 108 megacycles at 10 miliwatts.

The baby moon's companion satellite would be the Vanguard-spent third-stage rocket, a tube 18 inches in diameter and 5 feet long.

The Vanguard was built by the Martin Co., Baltimore, Md. The Naval Research Laboratory was in charge of the project.

Rebels Take, Lose City As Indonesian Revolution Spreads

SINGAPORE (AP)— The Indonesian army said tonight insurgents had been driven out of the main part of Medan, Sumatra's largest city, and that Jakarta government forces had regained control of the airfield and harbor there.

There was no immediate confirmation from rebel forces who announced capture of the city of 300,000 in North Sumatra yesterday after seven hours hard fighting.

Indonesian army headquarters admitted a revolt had broken out in the city of 300,000.

Earlier, the Indonesian news agency Antra had quoted the army as conceding the fall of the city to the insurgents but the agency later said this report was a mistake.

The rebel reports said U. S.-trained Maj. Boyke Nainn Golan led the revolt of some 2,000 troops. Five regiments of government troops were reported in the Medan garrison, and Golan was the commander of one of them.

The outbreak in Sumatra's largest city raised speculation here whether the rebellion might spread to North Celebes and other islands seeking to upset President Sukarno's concept of a guided democracy which admits Communists to a voice in the government.

Obviously alarmed over the turn of events, Sukarno ordered reinforcements dispatched to the Medan area.

In North Celebes, in East Indonesia, the rebel commander, Lt. Col. Ventje Sumal, was expected to launch an offensive soon. There also were indications the strongly anti-Communist garrison in West Java might join the spreading revolt.

Neutral South Sumatra also showed signs of swinging over to the rebels. A broadcast from the capital of Palembang denounced the government's attack on Central Sumatra, and the South Sumatran commander, Lt. Col. Barlian, held long conferences with his staff on the situation. And in a speech urged negotiations "to halt further destruction."

Sukarno announced that his forces had captured the town of Siak Sri Indrapura in Central Sumatra. He claimed the seizure consolidated the central government's control of the east coast of Central Sumatra. The rebels still hold the west coast and its big port, Padang.

Sukarno also authorized the U.S.-owned Caltex Oil Co. to resume operations in the Central Sumatran oil fields around Pakanbaru. The company suspended operations when the Jakarta forces invaded.

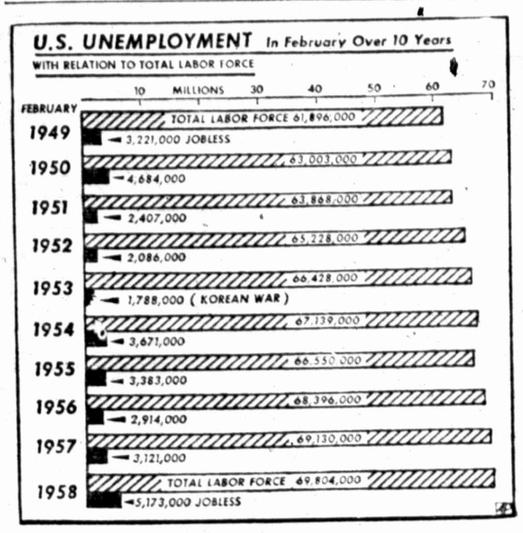
Shaver Scheduled To Die Tonight

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Time was running out today for Jimmie Shaver, 33, twice saved from the electric chair by late reprieves. He is due to die after midnight for the rape-murder of a San Antonio child, 3.

A report by the Pardons Board at Austin said that no action was scheduled before it.

Justice Hugo Black of the U.S. Supreme Court denied Shaver another stay Saturday.

"As God is my witness, believe me I am innocent," Shaver has said. He was convicted of murdering Chere Jo Horton after taking her from a tavern July 4, 1954.



10-Year Picture

This chart traces the trend of unemployment in relation to the nation's total labor force in the month of Feburary over a 10-year span, 1949 through February of 1958. Source of figures is the Bureau of Labor Statistics in Washington. The term "total labor force" includes all persons, employed and unemployed, regarded as available for employment, plus all in the U. S. armed forces. As of February 1958, total in armed forces was listed at 2,644,000.

Bridges To Present RFC Revival Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said today he will lay before President Eisenhower tomorrow a proposal for revival of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. on a standby basis.

Bridges, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, expressed confidence the economy will turn upwards soon. But he added in an interview that the upturn might be threatened if some big business enterprise were to crash financially. He mentioned railroads specifically.

"We have established almost every kind of setup needed to step in and help the economy except one to take care of a threatened crash of a big business, which could have a terrific psychological impact," Bridges said.

"We have provided for small business, we are stepping up public works to help provide jobs and we are providing for the economies of other nations through mutual security.

"I think we should revive the RFC on a standby basis and have it ready for action if it is needed. It saved many situations in the past and it could do so again if it became necessary."

The RFC officially went out of business June 30 last year, although its lending activities were halted Sept. 28, 1953. It was established in January 1932 during the major depression. From then until it died, it loaned more than 50 billion dollars to banks, railroads, factories and most other kinds of American business.

Bridges' proposal topped a series of weekend moves designed to bolster an economy which many members of Congress were saying was fundamentally strong but which needed a stimulus.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), who has been active in pushing through the Senate a series of antirecession measures, told reporters he thinks things are looking up somewhat.

"I have a great deal more confidence in the economic outlook now simply because the wheels have been set in motion and the government is actively at work to combat unemployment," the Senate Democratic leader said.

"The immediate problem is 5,200,000 men and women who need jobs. We are moving rapidly — in cooperation with the executive agencies — to find ways of creating those jobs."

Johnson said he thinks a potential two million jobs are represented in measures pending before Congress. He pointed to a housing bill, a highway bill, the 1½-billion-dollar omnibus rivers and harbors bill and proposed acceleration of civil and military public works.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) and a group of Democratic colleagues proposed 50-year, low-interest loans to states and cities to finance public works projects such as streets, sidewalks, schools, hospitals and libraries.

Senators Monroney (D-Okla), Magnuson (D-Wash) and Payne (R-Maine) called for a 75-million-dollar emergency airport construction program.

Bridges and Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate's Republican leader, demanded that overseas buying under the foreign aid program be curbed and more purchases made in labor distressed areas at home.

An aide said Sen. Carlson (R-Kan) is working on a tax-cutting bill which in its present form would chop in half withholding taxes for the last six months of the year. The Senate rejected a series of tax-cutting efforts last week.

Mothers Help Korean Veteran Note Birthday

DETROIT (AP)—Two weeks ago Korean War veteran Eugene Dougherty wept when none of 40 invited guests showed up at his first birthday party. Yesterday Dougherty wept tears of joy.

Some 25 women from the suburban Hamtramck Blue Star Mothers staged a surprise birthday party for Dougherty, 23. The party all but swept Dougherty, his wife Grace, 19, and his son Richard from their small flat.

Dougherty, who says he never had a birthday party before, called newspapers March 2 when invited guests failed to show up for his party. Resultant stories aroused sympathy throughout the nation.

The Blue Star Mothers, headed by Mrs. Josephine Skopowski, chapter president, saw to it that Sunday's party was different.

When the last of the mothers poured into the small flat, the Dougherty kitchen overflowed with Polish sausage, sauer kraut, cheese cakes and a big birthday cake.

"This is wonderful, wonderful," said Dougherty, who maintained he did not know of the surprise party. "It's a perfect surprise."

The Blue Star Mothers first learned of Dougherty when he advertised he was lonely in the Army and wanted somebody to write. They wrote enclosing small gifts, food packages and checks.

The mothers kept up correspondence with Dougherty through the Korean War and afterwards when he spent two years in a hospital at Battle Creek, Mich., recovering from tuberculosis.

Many of the mothers were on the invitation list for Dougherty's party March 2.

Mrs. Skopowski said she was unable to attend because of two prior commitments.

Dougherty augments his government disability pension with a window washing business.

'Professional' Irishmen Draw O'Brien's Ire

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Pat O'Brien, — that's right, Pat O'Brien — said today he can't stand professional Irishmen.

"You know the kind," the actor told a reporter, "the guy who cries in his green creme dementhe the minute a high-pitched whisky tenor breaks into 'Ireland Must Be Heaven.'"

His remarks startled his colleagues on the Columbia sound stage where he is making "The Last Hurrah," a story of a famed Irish political boss. His coworkers boast such fine Italian names as Spencer Tracy, Frank McHugh, Jimmy Gleason, Edward Brophy and director John Ford, who changed his name from Sean O'Feeney.

"I know this set looks like a road company of Dublin's Abbey Players," said O'Brien, "but I still hate professional Irishmen."

O'Brien admitted his hi-fi collection includes a dozen albums of Irish songs but only "because my kids like them."

The O'Brien children are named Mavourneen, Sean, Terry and Kathleen Brigid. His wife picked the names, O'Brien explained.

Pat also drives a big limousine painted kelly green but that, he said, is just a coincidence.

"It was the only color in the salesroom when I was ready to buy."

Another O'Brien peeve: the guy who is a rabid follower of Notre Dame football although he never saw or attended the school.

O'Brien's biggest pain is the guy who uses expressions like "begorrah."

"I spent time in Ireland and I never once heard the word."

Substance May Aid Spacemen In Breathing

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO (AP) — An Army research official said today that space medicine pioneers are "working toward" development of a substance that will make breathing, eating and drinking unnecessary on space flights or for surviving on other planets.

James B. Edson, assistant to the Army's director of research and development, forecast that the "normal rate of engineering development progress" will make possible landings on the moon and Mars and flights to faraway stars within 10 to 15 years.

Any unpredictable creative breakthroughs, he said, would tend to shorten the time schedule.

Writing in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, he said the first manned expedition to the moon probably will make their first base a hole in the ground.

"It may be a natural cave or fissure, providing protection from hot sun, cold nights, cosmic rays and meteors," he said. "It should grow into sealed caverns, in which pressure will be maintained just high enough to keep the blood from boiling.

"But the moon pioneers may not need oxygen. The space medicine people are working toward the development of a synthetic nutrient which could be injected into the bloodstream, making breathing as well as eating and drinking unnecessary."

He said a moon base would have important military implications in deciding the outcome of any terrestrial power contest.

"Prevention of exclusive lunar occupation by another power may someday become a major objective of U.S. foreign policy and of our technological effort," he said.

Within the next two or three years suitably selected and trained men can confidently embark on space trips of several days duration, he said.

Domestic Battle Erupts In Gunfire

LEAGUE CITY, Tex. (AP)—A domestic argument erupted in gunfire which killed a teen-age mother and narrowly missed a neighbor woman late yesterday.

The flurry ended after a deputy sheriff snatched a pistol from the young husband of the slain woman, who also was accused of threatening to kill the officer and an ambulance driver.

Sheriff Paul Hopkins said Norman Donaliski, 21, shot and killed his wife Virgie, 17, after a dispute over custody of their 4-month-old son.

Donaliski was charged with murder and taken to the county jail in neighboring Galveston.

Hopkins gave this account:

A friend of Mrs. Donalski, Alice Mangum, 16, dashed from the couple's home to the house of a neighbor, Mrs. Byrdie Williamson, as the young parents argued.

They heard shots and Mrs. Donaliski later was found lying in her front yard. She had been shot four times with a .38 caliber pistol. An overnight bag packed with her baby's garments was clutched in her hand.

Moments later Donaliski approached the Williamson house with the infant in his arms. As Mrs. Williamson stepped to meet him, Donaliski fired through the screen door. The shot missed.

Donaliski returned to his home and Deputy Sheriff Fred Greiger arrived. Donaliski ran outside and thrust a pistol against the officer's back.

Greiger said he was told: "I'll kill you if you make a false move."

The deputy then was herded into the Donaliski house. Donaliski forced Greiger to pick up the baby and take him to another neighbor's home.

They recrossed the street to where Mrs. Donaliski lay in the yard, and Donaliski diverted his weapon toward ambulance driver Jack Rowe as he halted at the curb.

"Take my wife to the hospital or I'll kill you," Greiger quoted him as telling Rowe.

It was then that the deputy seized the gun and handcuffed Donaliski.

Mrs. Donaliski died as the ambulance was taking her to a hospital.

Buffalo's Homemade Snow Covers All

By DICK WHALEN

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Take a mass of cold air out of northern Canada and pour it across the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Ocean.

Give one chunk of it a spinning motion as it flows down Lake Erie toward Buffalo and Niagara Falls, soaking up moisture from the lake.

Then duck.

Because if you're one of 1,089,230 people living in metropolitan Buffalo, you're in for snow—huge quantities of it—from one of Buffalo's homemade snowstorms.

The storms are peculiar. They are brewed right in the city's backyard, Lake Erie, and they strike in a narrow belt, sometimes only five miles wide.

When they hit hard, everything stops. The railroad yards, second largest in the country, are paralyzed. Industry is crippled. Traffice grinds to a halt.

The storm everybody here remembers as THE storm is the St. Patrick's Day blizzard of 1936.

It started March 17, just three days before spring, and poured 27.4 inches of snow. The city had exhausted its snow removal money, and emergency funds were appropriated to cart the stuff away. Troops were called in to help.

The lake storms deliver about half Buffalo's snow, and Buffalo averages 6 feet of snow a year, nearly twice as much as any other major American city.

This is how U.S. weatherman Bernard Wiggin describes the effect of a typical Lake Erie snowstorm:

"It's like a garden hose spraying show over western New York. Sometimes the hose points toward Jamestown, down near Pennsylvania; sometimes toward Buffalo; most of the time it swings back and forth, spraying snow in a belt about 10 miles wide and 30 miles in from the lake."

Snow removal is a major problem. Buffalo spends about $600,000 a year on it. The private citizen, confronted with snow-plugged driveway, sidewalk and doorway, has to combine a resourceful nature and a strong back to get to work or to the store.

Officers End 'Space' Trip

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Five Air Force officers returned from "outer space" at 9 a.m., today after "orbiting" the earth at a simulated speed of 17,650 miles for five days.

About all the Air Force would say for the time being is that, cumulatively, the men lost one pound.

The five include Maj. Russell Brewington, 33, of Houston, "flight commander," and Capt. Dan Fulgham, 30, of Pasadena, Tex.

All volunteered for the test, conducted by the Wright Air Development Center near here.

Col. J. H. Rothrock, vice commander of WADC said the men showed no apparent ill effects.

Purpose of the test, similar to one conducted last August, was to determine how well a crew can function and maintain peak efficiency over long periods in cramped quarters.

Triple Murder, Suicide Suspected

BUTLER, Pa. (AP)— Three men and a woman were found shot to death yesterday on a farm 12 miles south of this western Pennsylvania community. Police said evidence indicated the tragedy was a triple murder and suicide.

Police Capt. E. L. Fontaine said McCamey apparently killed the Graffs and Reed with a shotgun, then took his own life. Fontaine said McCamey was mentally retarded and apparently was disgruntled because he had been ordered to leave the farm where he had lived since he was eight years old.

AFTER 17 YEARS, MAN SAYS HE'S TIRED OF EVADING ARMY

In 1941, a 17-year-old soldier went AWOL from Ft. Knox, Ky. Saturday night, he turned himself in and said he was tired of running.

Calvin R. Clark, 34, told officials at Webb AFB that he wanted to straighten out the matter after all these years. Webb officials transferred him to the city jail Saturday night where he was charged with vagrancy.

Clark, who gave his home as Belton, said that he left the Army in 1941 at Ft. Knox and since that time, he has been dodging the military constantly.

Webb officials today dispatched a set of his fingerprints to Washington for vertification. Webb officials said that the statute of limitations on AWOL servicemen was seven years.

Usually in such a case, his records will be removed from government files and he will be given a release from the Army.

New Episcopal Diocese To Hold First Meeting Here

St. Mary's Episcopal Church of Big Spring was slected as site for the first Diocesan Council of the Diocese of Northwest Texas, to be held in March 1959, at the final session of the Episcopal group as a missionary district.

The action was taken Sunday, during the 1958 convocation at Odessa. The group brought to a close the 48 years of existence as a Missionary District. The Jurisdiction was established Oct. 12, 1910, as a missionary field of the Episcopal Church with the Rev. Edward T. Temple as the first bishop.

The delegates meeting in a special convocation Sunday approved a petition which will be submitted to the General Convention of the Episcopal Church due to convene in Miami Beach, Fla., Oct. 5-17, for ratification, and permission to create out of the present Missionary District the new Diocese to be known as the Diocese of Northwest Texas.

The present missionary bishop, the Rt. Rev. George H. Quarterman, will be installed as the Diocesan Bishop in a special meeting to be convened on Oct. 31, in St. Andrews' Episcopal Church, Amarillo, with the Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church, the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherill, S.T.D., as the officiant. There are now four other jurisdictions in the state of Texas that are independent Dioceses, Dallas, West Texas, Texas, and New Mexico & Southwest Texas. The new Diocese will remove from the list of dependent jurisdictions the last of Texas churchmen.

Attending the Convocation from St. Mary's Church were Ralph McLaughlin, junior warden, Fred Dolph, E. L. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Lawrence Jr., Dr. and Mrs. M. W. Talbot Jr., Grover Cunningham Jr., and the Rev. and Mrs. William D. Boyd.

The Rev. Boyd was re-elected for the fifth year as chairman of the council of Advice, top administrative committee of the District, and as the clerical alternate to attend the General Convention in October. Other highlights of the convocation included the adoption of a budget amounting to $101,379 for the year 1958, and the admission of St. Nicholas' Church, Midland, as a new parish.

The guest speaker for the convocation was the Rt. Rev. Everett H. Jones, D. D., bishop of the Diocese of West Texas, from San Antonio. Bishop Jones was a member of the committee that surveyed the district in 1944 for the purpose of determining whether to dissolve the district or to maintain the jurisdiction. He is the senior Episcopal Bishop in the state of Texas and in his address to the delegates described the many highlights of the growth of this jurisdiction, paying particular tribute to Bishop and Mrs. Quarterman for their untiring efforts in leading the churchmen of the district to the status of a Diocese.

Road Problems Are Discussed

Discussion of routine road maintenance problems occupied attention of the three members of the Howard County Commissioners Court Monday morning.

P. O. Hughes, the other member, was at the session for a few minutes but had to leave to make a trip to Shreveport, La. R. H. Weaver, county judge, was in county court where a jury criminal docket opened.

Hudson Landers, Earl Hull and Red Gilliam devoted the morning session largely to discussion of road work with Walter Parks, county engineer.

Sheriff Miller Harris appeared before the court with a request that his department be provided with the second of two new motor cars on this year's budget. The sheriff said that it was urgent that one of the present cars be traded soon.

When the docket was sounded 13 cases were announced as ready and one case was continued for the term.

Conservatives Meet Sets Off Speculation

AUSTIN (AP)—A hush-hush meeting of conservatives held here this weekend touched off new waves of speculation which the conferees did nothing to curb.

A spokesman for the group was James McNees, a Dallas attorney and business man. He said merely that a meeting was held to "unify" conservative political groups.

Was Gov. Daniel in on the meeting?

McNees would say that the governor did not participate.

Do the conservative unifers have a name?

No, it does not, McNeese replied.

Is it then something that might be described as a "conservative" parallel to the DOT (Democrats of Texas)—a liberal-labor group that also does not work with the SDEC.

Goodness no, said McNees, his band of conservatives and the DOT should not be mentioned in the same breath. There are no parallels.

Were State Democratic Chairman Jim Lindsey or state organizer Jake Pickle included in the weekend meeting?

No, was the reply.

McNees said his group began meeting at 2 p.m. Saturday and held several sessions until last night.

They agreed mutually to give out no details of the meeting, no names of the participants, and no objectives except the one included in a brief prepared statement—it said in effect that the meeting was held to coordinate the work of all conservative groups.

The speculation was that this meant the ultra-conservatives — some of whom are at odds with Gov. Daniel, and all of whom would like to see a strong opponent in the field against Sen. Ralph Yarborough. That is presuming Yarborough will seek re-election.

The liberal DOT, headed by Mrs. R. D. Randolph of Houston, is well-organized throughout the state and has held firmly to its line of opposition to the official party organization.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

The Detroit Lions of the National Football League expect to sell every one of their 45,555 reserve seats for all six league games in Briggs Stadium before the season opens next fall.

The club sold 39,844 season ducats last year and the demand to see the champions is greater than ever.

Only 7,000 bleacher seats will remain for gate sale each game.

Hank Watkins, the one-time Abilene coaching aide who is now serving in a similar capacity at the University of Houston, says his school may build their own grid stadium, seating about 50,000, one day soon.

He adds Rice Institute, which makes its stadium facilities available to the Cougars, isn't very happy about the arrangements and, besides, the UH people would like one on its own campus. Make no mistake, the money is there.

Watkins also states that a 10,000-seat basketball gymnasium will probably be built on the Houston campus in the not-too-distant future. The school recently acquired 35 acres of land for just such a facility.

Jan Loudermilk, Big Spring's all-state basketball center, was named to the all-opponent team of the Plainview Bulldogs, chosen recently by Bob Clindaniel, the Bulldog mentor.

Others honored on the team were Jim Curtsinger, Hereford; Curtis Jimerson, El Paso Austin; Johnny Cleveland, Dumas; and Warren Tipton, Borger.

Clindaniel said Jimerson was the best player his Bulldogs faced all year.

It's obvious Clindaniel didn't hold Pampa in too high esteem. The Harvesters won the District 3-AAAA title but Bob picked no member of the squad on his quintet.

If the Big Spring Steers had picked an all-foe club, I'm almost sure Bill Reeves of the Plainview club would have made it. Fact is, Reeves might have been the outstanding player the Steers met all year.

Patrons of track and field sport can't convince themselves that Bobby Morrow is a better man in a short sprint than Duke's Dave Sime, even though the Texan has enjoyed far greater success than the Carolinan.

The two are scheduled to resume their much-debated dueling, after a two-year lapse, here April 5, a race that is attracting interest around the world.

Among the latest to sound off that Sime hasn't realized his potential is Prescott Sullivan, a San Francisco writer, who writes that "the hard-luck kid of the 1956 Olympics (meaning Sime) may still be the 'fastest human'."

Sullivan concedes that, from the American point of view, the prettiest sight of the 1956 Olympic Games in Melbourne was that of 'tow-headed' Bobby Morrow winning both the 100 and 200 meter dashes.

For some reason, tho, he added that the brilliance of the Texan's victories was dimmed by the thoughts of Sime, who failed to make the team.

Sullivan scolded the U. S. Olympic committee for sticking by its rules and omitting Sime from the squad, adding that every other country saw to it that its best athletes were in the Games.

Sullivan says Sime's record indicates that he is the fastest man who ever lived.

An injury suffered in Berkeley, Calif., robbed Sime of the chance to earn a trip to Melbourne. Sullivan suggests Dave would have made it, after all, had the Olympic Committee not insisted on picking its team as early as five months ahead of time.

It appears Morrow is going to have to convince everyone all over again, and April 5 here may be as good a time as any.

WORD IS GOING OUT: 'BEWARE THE YANKS'

By MIKE RATHET
The Associated Pre

Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra have started to get the bat squarely against the ball and today the word went out: "Beware the Yankees."

The New Yorker sluggers snapped their slumps and unleashed their lethal power yesterday, leading the American Leaguers to a 4-1 exhibition victory over the world Champion Milwaukee Braves. It was the first meeting between the two teams since the World Series.

Mantle and Berra aroused the entire Yank cast from its lethargic play and lifted New York's Grapefruit League record to 4-5. The Yanks got some solid pitching from veteran Art Ditmar and youngsters Ryne Duren and Al Cicotte, who combined for an eight-hitter.

Mantle stroked two doubles, scoring twice and accounting for one run driven in. Berra slashed a double, added a single and picked up two RBIs.

Cleveland's Indians also got a boost when ace pitcher Herb Score finally made his exhibition debut. Sidelined last year when a batted ball struck him in the eye, Score suffered an ankle sprain early in spring training.

He gave up two runs and four hits in a three-inning stint as the Indians bowed to San Francisco 6-5. Johnny Antonelli won it.

Washington unveiled a slugger in Neil Chrisley, who struck three homers in a 10-6 victory over Detroit. St. Louis defeated Cincinnati 6-3; Los Angeles knocked off Boston 5-1; Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 6-5 in 10 innings; and Chicago's White Sox clubbed Kansas City 8-2.

Chrisley drove in six runs with his three round-trippers, one a grand slammer, as the Nats routed Paul Foytack with five runs in the first.

Stan Musial's three-run homer, highlighting a five-run eighth, brought the Cardinals their victory. Veteran Hal Jeffcoat was the victim.

The Dodgers received good pitching from Don Drysdale, Danny McDevitt and Jackie Collum, who limited the Red Sox to five hits.

Pittsburgh won when Phils' third baseman Willie Jones uncorked a wild throw in the 10th with runners on first and second. Roberto Clemente legged it home.

AT NM A&M

Charley Johnson Fits Into Plans

STATE COLLEGE, N. M. (SC)—Hopeful developments in some positions and problems in many others are reported by New Mexico A&M College Head Football Coach Warren Woodson with spring training one third completed.

"From day to day we're finding good players on our squad for some positions," Woodson says. "We still have problems in filling line positions—guard and center are wide open."

Woodson is encouraged by Aggie passing in practice so far. Newcomer Charles Johnson, of Big Spring, is working out well at quarterback, the head coach says, while top potential receivers so far are ends George Mulholland of Philadelphia, Pa., a sophomore, freshman Bob Kelly of Carlsbad, N. M.; and newcomer E. A. Sims of Abilene.

Both Joe Kelly, junior from Carlsbad and an Aggie standout for three seasons, and Lewis Kelley, sophomore from Abilene, are "firt rate" at fullback in Woodson's winged-T, the coach observes. "And I mean by that," he adds, "They'd play with any ball club I ever coached."

Junior Skeetter Pettes of Las Cruces is exceptionally promising backfield material because of his speed, while Roosevelt Davis, sophomore from Atlanta, Ga., and Bob Hawley, freshman from Chanute, Kans., are brightening the outlook for filling the tailback spot.

At tackle Woodson is encouraged by the play of Bill Lockie of Rockdale, Texas, an A&M letterman as a freshman and a sophomore, and newcomer Burley Pruett of Abilene.

To fill one open guard position Woodson is considering moving Bob Cerny, sophomore from Artesia, N. M., to guard from tackle. Bob Andrews, sophomore from Clovis, N. M., is a good contender among those working out at center but may also be moved to guard.

Among other players from the 1957 A&M squad, Kenneth Herrmann, freshman from Waterville, Kans., is an end candidate and Jim Craft, junior from Odessa, Texas, is working at end but may be moved to wingback to fill a gap there. Quarterbacks Ricky Alba, freshman from Deming, N. M., Mickey Folz, junior from Phoenix, Ariz. and Bill Catanese, junior from Norristown, Pa., are battling for position.

"Depth is a problem—we just don't have it," Woodson says. "Right now we're working on developing good starters for every position."

The coach, who assumed his duties at A&M Feb. 1, also indicated Aggie punting is ragged.

Practice so far has been marred by rains but the coaching staff is continuing its plans for the annual spring intra-squad game ending practice the evening of April 1.

Logart Faces Virgil Akins

By The Associated Press

Cuba's Isaac Logart and Virgil Akins of St. Louis clash Friday in the semifinals of the welterweight elimination tournament.

They will be fighting for the right to meet Vince Martinez for the vacant welter crown. Each will receive $20,000 for the radio-television 12-rounder.

That's the biggest purse ever for the two and a far cry from the days in Cuba when Logart fought a main event for $1.50.

Logart is a 7-5 choice. The fast-moving, fast-punching, 24-year-old has won three straight and 15 of his last 17 fights. Akins, 30, has won 9 of his last 11, the final two by kayos over ex-welter king Tony DeMarco.

This is their third clash. They fought twice in 1955. Akins took the first by split decision while Logart won the second by a comfortable margin.

At New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight, welterweights Jimmy Archer and Johnny Gorman, a couple of New Yorkers of Irish descent, clash in the television 10-rounder.

Archer, 23, is the 3-1 choice over the 22-year-old Gorman. Jimmy has a 17-2 record, Gorman 25-7-1.

Du Mont will telecast at 10 p.m. EST.

The postponement of the Eddie-Machen-Zora Folley heavyweight clash results in an unexpected TV payday for middleweights Willie Vaughn of Los Angeles and Jimmy Beechman of Washington. Wednesday night they will fight in Washington.

BS Keglers Lead In State Meet

SAN ANGELO (SC—Big Spring bowlers are leading in four divisions of the Texas State Bowling Association tournament, which got under way here last weekend.

Sammy Varano Big Spring and Webb AFB tops A singles with 626. He leads the second place entry by seven pins. Varano also ranks second in Class A all-events, with 1780.

Tom McGreevy of Big Spring is third in that division, with 1752.

In Class A team play, the aggregation representing Clover Bowl of Big Spring is out front with 2822.

In Class D doubles, the Big Spring team of Kappas and Wilson is setting the pace with 1076.

In Class D all-events, Wilson of Big Spring leads with 1653, almost 100 pins ahead of the second place entry.

Five more weekend sessions are carded in the tournament, which will be attracting the finest keglers from throughout the state.

Excitement Too Much For High School's Gym

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich. (AP)—Strange things are happening in this small community at the tip of Michigan's Lower Peninsula.

Four senior girls at Harbor Springs High School had their hair dyed orange and black, four women teachers had theirs dyed a fiery red and five men teachers had new brush cuts.

And that's not all—the floor of a favorite town dance hall has settled four inches.

The event that touched off this bizarre course of events is the school's basketball team which advanced to the state quarter-finals in the Class C Tournament Saturday night after a so-so 12-5 season's record.

The ercitement reached fever pitch when the team defeated Traverse City St. Francis 63-47 at nearby Petoskey.

Two Harbor Springs fire trucks picked the team up and brought it back to town where sirens wailed, horns blared and fireworks went off as most of the town's 1,412 residents turned out to cheer in subfreezing weather.

The celebration was climaxed by a dance at a vacant restaurant. But, unaccustomed to the weight of some 200 persons, a cedar post bracing the floor began to crumble. The celebrants evacuated the place.

The floor had sunk four inches by the time the last of the merry-makers got out and moved to the high school gymnasium where the celebration continued.

The four girls who dyed their hair the school colors vow they won't change it until the team has won or lost the championship.

The team meets Crystal Falls Wednesday night.

Cage Tourney Opens Tonight

GARDEN CITY (SC) — Two games are on tap here tonight in the opening round of the Garden City Independent basketball tournament, which is scheduled to continue throughout the week.

Nabor's Paint Store of Big Spring challenges Todd Drilling Company of Odessa in a 7:15 p.m. bout. At 8:30 p.m., Forsan and the Ace Builders of San Angelo square away.

The San Angelo College Independents, composed of players who did not play for the SAC Rams, challenge Sterling City in the first game while another Big Spring entry, Elliott Drug, tries Garden City in the second engagement.

No games will be played Wednesday. Semi-finals are scheduled for Thursday and Friday nights while the finals are on tap Saturday.

Gonzales Narrows Hoad's Margin

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Pancho Gonzales narrowed his deficit in the pro cross country tour to two matches yesterday by defeating Australian tennis star Lew Hoad, 6-0, 7-5.

Hoad apparently had other things on his mind at the opening. He had just been advised of the birth of a 7-pound, 12-ounce girl to his wife in Melbourne Australia. It was his second daughter.

Gonzales' victory left the tour standings: Hoad 20, Gonzales 18.

Where'll I Play Gil, Says Stengel, Meaning Kubek

By ED WILKS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — "One of these days now," said Casey Stengel, "I gotta figure where I'm gonna play McDougald this year."

What he had in mind when he talked of Gil McDougald was the problem of finding a place to play Tony Kubek, that bright young man from Milwaukee who draped the Braves in crepe in the third game of last fall's World Series with his bat, then decked 'em in ermine with his errant throw in the seventh and decisive game.

"Now that Kubek, he plays good ball for me and this club wins the pennant," said Stengel, "so you gotta say I gotta give him a chance at a job.

"He plays left field and center field too, when Mantle's out, and third base and shortstop and he can play second base," said Case. "What he can play best, I don't know.

"Now if he can play shortstop—I mean if he can cover that ground out there—with his age why I could have me a shortstop for 10 or 12 years.

"I gotta play him, but if I do than I gotta bench Carey or Lumpe (at third) or get rid of Richardson (at second). And if I play him at second or short, why, I sorta got me a pretty good infield out there with Carey or Lumpe (at third), McDougald-Kubek (short and second) and Skowron, or Carey or Lumpe, Kubek-McDougald and Skowron."

Some guy mentioned at this that McDougald was no real problem. Casey snorted. "He's the best I remember for tough spots," said Case, speaking of McDougald's versatility.

"You take an outfielder and he says he can play all three outfields and it don't mean nuthin' because they're mostly all the same. But you take McDougald and you say he can play third or short or second and you got somethin' because you play 'em all different and the throws are different, don'tcha know.

I'll tell you somethin' about him to show you how good he is any place.

"I won the pennant," said Case, "every place he played."

Ford's Extended Slump Is Ended In Pensacola Meet

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Doug Ford's slump on the pro golfing circuit is ended.

The 1957 Masters champion won his first title in nine months with a two-stroke victory in the $15,000 Pensacola Open tournament yesterday.

The Mahopac, N. Y., veteran cinched his win in dramatic fashion by sinking a 53-foot shot from between two traps to the left of the 18th green. The usually restrained Ford leaped and jigged when the ball hit the flag and dropped into the cup.

The birdie three on the par four 400-yard 18th gave Ford a 72-hole total of 278, 10 strokes under par.

Ken Venturi, who had pulled even with Ford on the 15th hole, finished in a runnerup tie with defending champion Art Wall Jr. at 280.

Ford had taken a one-stroke lead over Venturi at the end of the second round, which he shot in 65. Venturi in 66. The New Yorker extended the lead to three strokes in Saturday's third round.

Levelland Shades Scorpions Twice

Levelland's contingent won two West Texas Roller Hockey games from the Big Spring Scorpions, 4-1 and 4-3, here Sunday afternoon.

Following league action, the teams engaged in a practice tilt and Big Spring came off the surprise winner, 5-1.

Lewis Perkins led the Levelland charge, scoring four goals. Don Gillespie had three and Jerald Perkins and Manager Robert Ford one each.

Wayne Thompson also performed for the visitors, who were playing without the services of Ken and Stan Ritchie and Arlis Brothers.

Don Chapman and Tex Wamble each tallied three points for Big Spring while Eugene Walker got two and Leon Byrd one.

Harold Caldwell, Freddie Ross and Bill McMahan also performed for the Scorpions.

The local team visits Midland March 30 for another match.

Showdown Week Is Here In Tourneys

By DON WEISSS
The Associated Pre

Comes now showndown week in major college basketball for 10 surviving teams.

Regional champions Temple, Kentucky, Kansas State and Seattle are left in the National Collegiate tournament, started with 24 teams. Semifinals and finals will be held at Louisville Friday and Saturday.

There are six survivors in the National Invitation Tournament at New York—Bradley, Xavier of Ohio, Dayton, Fordham, St. Bonaventure and St. Johns of New York. Twelve teams started. Two more will be lopped off tomorrow night. The semifinals are Thursday night and the finals Saturday afternoon.

Here's the lineup at a glance:

NCAA-Temple 26-2 vs. Xavier 16-11, Dayton 23-3 vs. Fordham 15-8 Tuesday night. Bradley-Xavier winner faces St. Bonaventure 20-4, Dayton-Fordham winner plays St. Johns 18-6 in Thursday's semi-finals. Winners to Saturday final.

Xavier got into the quarter-final bracket impressively, whipping Niagara 95-86, while Fordham romped past St. Francis of Pennsylvania 83-59. Third-seeded St. Bonaventure was a 79-75 winner over St. Joseph's (Pa.) after a first-round bye. St. Johns, in Saturday's other game, upset fourth-seeded Utah 71-70.

Temple, riding a 25-game winning streak that is the longest in the nation among major schools is favored to advance to the NCAA finals against Kansas State, the big, bruising Big Eight Conference champion.

But the way Kentucky's Wildcats, old hands at NCAA tournament competition, and Seattle, with its great Elgin Baylor, have been playing, there's no guarantee.

The Wildcats smashed a good Notre Dame team 89-56 Saturday night in the Mideastern regional final at Lexington, Ky. Seattle first snapped San Francisco's 20-game winning streak on Baylor's 35-foot jump shot at the buzzer, then rode Charlie Brown's clutch play to a 66-62 overtime victory over California in the Far Western regional.

Temple, led by All America Guy Rodgers, crushed Dartmouth in Saturday's title game 69-50 of the Eastern regional at Charlotte.

Kansas State, with three regulars 6-8 or more, overpowered Oklahoma State 69-57 in the Midwestern regional final at Lawrence, Kan.

The two small-school national crowns were determined over the weekend. South Dakota won the NCAA small college title, defeating St. Michaels (Vt.) 75-53 at Evansville, Ind., and Tennessee State won the NAIA championship for the second straight year, downing previously unbeaten Western Illinois 85-73 in the wind-up of a week of play at Kansas City.

IN ODESSA MEET

Southern Could Be Big Show Saturday

ODESSA (AP) — Eddie Southern won't be able to pursue the world's record in the quarter-mile in the West Texas Relays here next weekend but the great Texas star can still be the big show in this track and field carnival.

Southern, who did 46.2 to tie the national collegiate record in the 440-yard dash and then equalled the world mark with a 45.8 anchor lap in the mile relay of the Southwestern Recreation Meet in Fort Worth last week, will appear in only the relays here Saturday. The West Texas Relays do not have the quarter-mile.

However, Southern will be running in the mile relay, 440-yard relay and 880-yard relay.

Southern will again be a co-feature because Bobby Morrow, Abilene Christian's Olympic sprint champion, will be in the West Texas Relays seeking to better his own record of 9.4 in the 100-yard dash and anchoring the ACC sprint and half-mile relays.

Texas, Abilene Christian, Houston, Baylor, SMU, Texas Tech and North Texas State make up the university field where Abilene Christian is defending champion. But Texas is favored.

The college division has drawn six teams—Texas Western, Sul Ross, McMurry, Howard Payne, Hardin-Simmons and East Texas State. East Texas is defending champion and an easy favorite to repeat.

The high school division will draw 40 or 50 entries and among those already in are Abilene, Andrews and Amarillo. Abilene has won both the Border Olympics and Southwestern Recreation championships and will be favored here.

Youthful Track Team Must Build For Future Years

Big Spring will score few points in any track and field meet this year but there is great interest in the sport at the local high school and the Steers should be ready to demand attention by 1959.

Of the 32 boys who have now checked out equipment, only Billy Bob Satterwhite—who runs the half-mile—is a senior and Billy Bob wasn't able to report for drills until the end of basketball season.

Sophomores dominate the team and some of those boys are learning fast. Coaches Harold Bentley and Curtis Kelley report progress all along the line.

The Longhorns visit Odessa this weekend for the West Texas Relays. Then comes the Amarillo Relays. On April 4-5, the Steers will be one of the host schools in the ABC Relays.

Bill French and Goose Russell weren't able to compete at Snyder's Canyon Reef Relays last weekend due to illness. French is a miler while Russell runs the half mile.

Mike Zubiate, a sophomore, has been clearing ten feet in the pole vault in this, his first year to try the event.

Here is a progress report on the members of the team, showing the times and distances each recorded in meets at Fort Stockton, the Border Olympics and Snyder:

Joe McWilliams, high hurdles, 17.4, 17.2 and 16.5.

Buddy Barnes, low hurdles, hit hurdles in first two meets and didn't finish, then was clocked in 21.4 at Snyder.

Gordon Bristow, low hurdles, 24.2, 23.6 and 23.1.

Robert Phelan, discus, 122 ft., 126 ft., and 130 ft.

Dannf Anderson, discus, 120 ft., didn't compete at Laredo and 128 ft.

Danny Anderson, discus, 120 ft., 6 inches, 41 feet 8 inches and 40 feet 6 inches.

Mackie Alexander, shot put, 38 feet 8 inches, didn't compete at Laredo and 40 feet.

Freddy Brown, 100-dash, 10.8, 10.4 and 10.3. Freddy has also cleared 18 feet 8 inches in the broad jump. He's only a sophomore and is regarded as a bright prospect.

Chuck Wolk, broad jump, 18 feet 9 inches at Snyder.

Benny Edwards, 44 yard run, ran the open in 54 flat and turned in 54.3 in the sprint medley at Snyder. He should be 'getting in the money' before the season passes.

David Abreo, 440 yard run, 57.8, 57.0 and 54.1.

Billy Bob Satterwhite, 55.2 while running the quarter for the first time at Snyder.

Billy Engle, 880-yard run, 2.10 at Laredo and 2.14.7 at Snyder. Engle also turned in a 56.5 quarter on the mile relay team at Snyder.

Gordon Dickinson, 56.7 leg on the mile relay team at Snyder. The Steers' mile relay team was clocked in 3.42.5 at Snyder, not good but showing promise).

Bud Bridges, mile, 5.15 at Snyder. He'll get better because he wants to show improvement.

Bill Thompson, who played basketball until recently, reported for drills and will run the quarter.

Jayhawks Host Meet Saturday

HCJC's Jayhawks, who led all junior colleges in the Fort Worth Recreation meet last weekend, hosts Webb AFB and Odessa JC in a triangular track and field meet here Saturday afternoon.

The Hawks, operating short-handed because they did not have one of their star high jumpers, scored seven points at Fort Worth.

Delbert Shirey placed second behind Houston University's Andy Anderson in the broad jump, clearing 21 feet 6½ inches. Anderson's winning effort was 22 feet 3¼ inches.

Shirey also tied for second in the pole vault with two others with a leap of 11 feet 7 inches. Frank Powell of Big Spring and TCU was one of those Shirey tied.

Placing first in that event was Olen Davis of Baylor, who cleared 12 feet 1 inch.

Donnie Anderson of HCJC was third in the 120-yard high hurdles. Calvin Cooley of ACC won the event in 14.3 seconds, a new record. Second was Joe Hill, SMU.

Wins AAU Meet

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Graham Plow Co. of Amarillo won the state AAU basketball championship last night with a 79-71 victory over La Rose Cleaners of Houston.

Lackland AFB of San Antonio won third by racing past Brooke Army Medical Center 103-64.

Outstanding Record

Capt. John S. Smith, left, of Webb AFB wears the Distinguished Flying Cross he received for outstanding service to the Air Force in Japan. At right is Col. Kyle Riddle, WAFB commander, who presented the award.

Distinguished Flying Cross Presented To Webb Officer

Capt. John S. Smith has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross at Webb AFB.

Col. Kyle L. Riddle, Webb commander, pinned the medal on Capt. Smith and read the citation of the award to a small group of military officials gathered for the ceremony.

"Capt. John S. Smith distinguished himself by exceptionally participating in aerial flight from Jan. 5, 1956, to July 30, 1957 as Chief of the Flight Test Division, Air Force Plant Representative, Shin Mitsubishi, Japan.

"During this period, Capt. Smith displayed outstanding skill and airmanship while participating in more than 500 test flights. By a complete and thorough knowledge of his aircraft and applicable emergency procedures, Capt. Smith prevented several serious aircraft accidents. On two occasions, despite serious malfunction of the aircraft he was flying, Capt. Smith displayed outstanding courage and skill in completing a successful landing, thus preventing the possible loss of lives and serious damage to the aircraft.

"By his exemplary airmanship and devotion to duty Captain Smith has reflected great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force."

Other officers present were Col. Charles H. Pierce, Col. Don R. Keefe, Lt. Col. Thomas S. Simpson, and Maj. Emmett L. Pettus.

Capt. Smith is a native of Austin. He is married to the former Geraldine Brown of Dallas and has two children: Judy Ann, 2, and Joni Beth, 6 months.

The captain is a graduate of the University of Texas with a BBA in industrial engineering.

Moore Denies He Influenced FCC

WASHINGTON (AP)— Col. George Gordon Moore swore today he "in no way, directly or indirectly," sought to influence the award of a television station license in Miami.

Moore, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, testified before the House committee looking into alleged influence in independent federal regulatory agencies.

The hearing room was only half-filled with spectators when Moore, a white-haired retired Army colonel, took the witness chair.

The committee previously heard some testimony—later contradicted—that Moore was supposed to have "engineered" the Federal Communication Commission award of Miami's TV Channel 10 to a subsidiary of National Airlines.

"I am appearing voluntarily, in order to be sure that the committee understands I have in no way, directly or indirectly, influenced or sought to influence the decision the FCC in award of a television license for Channel 10 in Miami," Moore said under oath.

"Since I have voluntarily made my files and records available to the committee's investigating staff I trust that the members of this committee are now aware that I have had no connection whatever, directly or indirectly with Channel 10.

"Furthermore, I have never discussed any matter with any member of the Federal Communications Commission at any time."

The subcommittee has been investigating charges of influence on behalf of various applicants for TV Channel 10. A federal grand jury also is looking into the matter, and the FCC has moved to reconsider its grant.

In a letter to Subcommittee Chairman Harris (D-Ark), Moore acknowledged a social acquaintanceship with G. T. Baker, National Airlines president. But he said allegations that he engineered the award to the National Airlines subsidiary had "no basis whatever in fact." He also said he has "no interest, financial or otherwise, in that or any other application" before the FCC.

Moore's denial came after A. Frank Katzentine, a Miami Beach radio station operator who lost his bid for Channel 10, testified a friend told him Moore arranged the grant to National. But last Thursday Alfred Barton, the friend, denied giving Katzentine such information. He said Katzentine misinterpreted a telephone conversation.

There also has been testimony that Moore was associated with two National Airlines directors in a Dominican Republic shipyard venture in which funds allegedly were furnished by dictator Rafael Trujillo. The two directors were named as George W. Gibbs Jr., Jacksonville, Fla., and John W. Cross of Washington—not the John Cross recently nominated to the FCC.

During the weekend, Harris and Rep. Joseph P. O'Hara of Minnesota, senior Republican on the investigating subcommittee, said they were against questioning Moore on this Dominican venture unless it relates to the Channel 10 case. Several committee informants said investigators had not established a connection between the two matters.

But Rep. Moulder (D-Mo) said the "understanding" while he was subcommittee chairman was that Moore's affairs would be examined more deeply. "They just haven't made any investigation of it," he said.

HCJC Expenses Follow Pattern Set By Budget

Expenses of operation at Howard County Junior College proceeded at the scheduled rate during February, the monthly financial statement of the college reveals.

Total expenditures from the general fund stood at $32,455.75 for the month, bringing the total disbursements from this fund to $212,657 for the fiscal year. At the current rate, the general fund balance will be able to carry through the regular term, and added revenues plus tuition for summer school should see the college through to the end of the fiscal year safely within its budget.

Balance in the general fund was $105,095 at the end of the month; the state and county fund $34,151.363; building and equipment $4,000; revolving funds approximately $6,500.

Receipts for February stood at $19,045, making the year's total $351,564 of an anticipated $373,634. Of note was the aggregate tax collection of $196,577 in the general fund and $65,535 in the interest and sinking fund, bringing the total within a couple of thousand dollars of the anticipated revenue from this source. The state subsidy has been paid in full.

By funds the February expense picture was as follows: General and administrative $7,515.28 ($39,401.84 September through February); instructional $12,738.37 ($77,262.69); library $1,446.19 ($9,466.29); transportation $105.57 ($1,766.64); auxiliary enterprises $6,657.09 ($26,227.20); refunds $352.70 ($1,969.30); plant operation $2,963.82 ($21,292.57); captial expenditure $580.00 ($29,376.20); fixed charges $96.72 ($4,804.67); total $32,455.75 ($212,657.10).

The interest and sinking fund receipts for the month amounted to $3,139.35, making a total of $65,535.65 for the year. During the month $4,000 in bonds were retired and $1,931.53 in interest, a total of $5,931.53. This brought to $30,796.03 the figure for the fiscal year, of which $16,000 is in bonds retired.

IGY Leading Man Out Of His Ignorance Of His Home World

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — IGY is leading man out of a kindergarten of ignorance about his home, the earth.

IGY means the International Geophysical Year, a great scientific hunt for knowledge. Halfway through, it already is turning up discoveries and challenging new ideas:

Space appears quite safe for human flights to the moon or beyond, say radioed reports from Russian and U.S. moons.

Maybe we've been robbed of an entire continent. For IGY scientists find evidence Antarctica could be just a collection of islands and mountains at the bottom of the world, not a huge land mass or continent as our schoolbooks say.

Our world is wetter than we thought, containing more ice than formerly estimated. If all this ice melted, it could drown New York, Los Angeles, London and thousands of miles of seacoasts under 40 to 300 more feet of water above present sea levels.

The sun's gas or atmosphere seems to reach out and envelop the earth, and the sun keeps firing X-rays at us.

Powerful and mysterious electric currents flow around the equator, 60 or more miles over our heads.

These are some main findings from nine months of IGY studies — a mere split-second in mankind's total recorded time on earth.

IGY is an 18-month "year" which began last July 1. It set 10,000 scientists from 67 nations exploring the earth, its seas, air, the space beyond, and its all-important warming sun.

Some fashioned Sputniks, Explorers and Vanguards to feel out space. Some scientists are floating on lonely ice floes in the Arctic Ocean, or living out a frigid year in the antarctic. Others man mountain observatories, check tide gauges on Pacific islands, study the earth's insides through earthquake recordings.

MEASURING WEATHER

Others launch thousands of balloons and hundreds of rockets to measure weather and air a dozen to 200 miles overhead; sail oceans to probe mysteries of the seas; study the Northern Lights, or puzzles of earth's magnetism and gravity.

Conceived and directed by scientists, IGY is motivated by a simple and beautiful idea: if scientists everywhere work together in studying the physical forces affecting our planet, we can make giant strides toward understanding weather, the oceans, space, the earth.

The results promise to be revolutionary.

IGY indirectly startled America into re-appraising its educational system, its need for scientists, its attitudes toward things intellectual. This shock came when Russia succeeded first in putting IGY man - made moons into the heavens.

Thrilling as they are, the man-made satellites are just part of the IGY adventure to piece together a new, more accurate picture and story of our entire planet.

Consider, first, the man-made moons. They're saying space flight looks reasonably safe for humans to land on the moon, or to build and live on satellite weather stations peering down upon earth to give global reports on weather, the birth of storms, and their path.

The moons found little hazard from tiny meteors, the size of sand-specks or larger, out in space. They also indicate man, if properly protected, could survive the hazard of cosmic rays, the intense radiation of atomic particles flung from the sun and distant stars or galaxies.

At the same time, they'll help answer the question whether dust from these meteors, which we see as shooting stars, helps produce rainfall by providing nuclei for raindrops to form around. They'll help tell how cosmic rays are influenced by the earth's magnetic fields, and hence help clarify the story of the earth's magnetism.

SUN'S X-RAYS

The sun spits out bursts of X-rays. These were measured by rockets flying up 75 miles high, a minute after a flare or explosion was spotted on the sun by IGY observers.

Will these X-rays sicken or kill astronauts? No, say the experts, for they are too soft. Space ship walls would soak them up.

Some IGY observations support the idea the sun's thin outer atmosphere extends all the way to the earth. And satellites show, by the drag effects, that the air at altitudes of 150 to 250 miles up is many times denser than had been thought.

IGY explorations hold promise of discoveries which may one day make possible enurely new controls over weather, in ways as yet unpredictable. Weather forecasting, at least, is bound to improve.

Some IGY scientists are concentrating on whistlers, the strange radio signals created by lightning flashes, which apparently can travel thousands of miles into space and come back to earth. Apparently there are far-reaching magnetic fields, and electrified air, to guide them.

Seagoing scientists, the oceanographers, are mapping out buried canyons, valleys and mountain ranges through echo soundings of the ocean floors.

Arctic adventurers floating on an ice floe discovered an unknown mountain range near the North Pole. Does it channel ocean currents, play a role in affecting the earth's climatic changes? With a camera, they caught pictures of curious tracks on the Arctic Ocean floor, 7,000 feet down. Experts are still puzzling what form of life could have made them.

The sea is the richest form for food — its bounty depends upon ocean currents and turnover of deep and shallow water to refertilize sea life.

In Antarctica, a vast area covering five million square miles, Soviet, British and U.S. scientists are reporting evidence that part of it, at least, could be a vast chain of islands and mountains rather than land which — if the ice cover ever melted — would lie above sea level.

Moscow Legate An Old Hand At Poker Game

MOSCOW, March 15 (AP) — By the testimony of people who have matched chips with him, Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., a calm, tall native of Colorado, plays a highly adequate game of poker.

And there's evidence that Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Moscow, handles his cards with equal aplomb in the more crucial game of East-West diplomacy.

Now in his 20th year as a career diplomat, "Tommy" Thompson has brought into the tempest of Moscow diplomacy a background of solving difficult problems.

Thompson replaced Charles E. Bohlen last spring. Already he is moving familiarly in the circle his predecessor dominated — where there is a hard, fast give-and-take with Kremlin leaders at informal meetings.

Bohlen was an acknowledged master at such get-togethers. Thompson has proved an apt pupil, and frequently at receptions here takes the lead in the verbal exchanges. Sometimes they turn up valuable grist for the diplomatic mill.

"There's a difference," one Western diplomat noted of Thompson's meetings with Nikita Khrushchev, Premier Bulganin and other Soviet bigwigs. "The U.S. ambassador perhaps does more listening than Bohlen did, but he does his share of answering too."

Thompson returned recently from consultations in Washington, which has been showered with Soviet invitations to a summit conference. The United States position is that top-level talks without careful advance preparations on lower echelons would be fruitless. But it doesn't insist on a foreign minister's conference as a precondition.

This situation may place additional responsibilities on Thompson, who as ambassador is a key figure in any serious preliminary spadework through diplomatic channels.

A&M Entry Suit Hinges On Plea

BRYAN, Tex. —Trial of a suit of two women seeking to enter all-male Texas A&M hinged today on a plea by the state.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Leonard Passmore Jr. and college attorneys pleaded last month the case is a suit against the state and cannot be undertaken without the state's permission.

Dist. Judge W. T. McDonald was to hear the plea today.

Mrs. Barbara Tittle and Mrs. Lena Bristol, both of Bryan, sought to enter Texas A&M for the spring semester but were turned down.

Pretender Sails

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Don Juan of Bourbon, pretender to the throne of Spain, headed for New York today aboard a 66-foot sailboat. He said the trip with eight other men is "purely a sporting adventure" with no political overtones.

Cancer Experts See Major Breakthroughs In Future

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top cancer experts believe "important breakthroughs may be expected in the not too distant future" in the fight against the disease.

Their hopes were expressed to the House Appropriations Committee during recent closed - door hearings on the fiscal 1959 budget of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The committee made public their testimony today.

Dr. John R. Heller, director of the National Cancer Institute, said research programs "are providing a momentum which was unknown in the cancer field a few short years ago."

The expected breakthroughs in research, he said, "may lead to better understanding of the origin and nature of cancer; they may open direct and short paths to drug cures; they may point the way to widespread prevention of cancer through immunization."

Virus studies, Heller said, have reached the point where development of a vaccine may be "around the corner." He said that "when we get a vaccine, we can prevent cancer."

Heller told the committee it already is possible to produce a vaccine against cancer in animals and that in 80 per cent of the cases tested, the animals treated have been protected against cancer, particularly leukemia.

"If we can produce a vaccine against leukemia in animals," he said, "there is hope that we can produce such a vaccine for humans."

Heller said there is "grave suspicion that excessive concentrations of automobile exhaust (fumes), which contain what we call polycyclic hydrocarbons, will produce cancers in the human." "Some animals exposed to such fumes, he added, have become cancerous.

Reds Hand Back Missing Pilot

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — The Communists today handed back a U.S. jet pilot shot down over the Red side of the Korean truce line.

Capt. Leon Pfeiffer of Kenosha, Wis., appeared nervous and tense but in good health as he spoke at a brief news conference.

"I am happy to be back," he said, smiling weakly. "It is a wonderful feeling. I am very tired."

Pfeiffer parachuted March 6 after his F86 Sabre Jet was hit by Red ground fire.

He was not hurt and was returned to U.N. control at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission. Air Force security officers took him to Seoul to question him about his experiences.

Pfeiffer's plane veered over the truce line during maneuvers with the South Korean army on the U.N. side of the demilitarized zone. A Sabre Jet flying with Pfeiffer's escaped. The U.N. Command acknowledged that both planes had violated North Korean air unintentionally, but it accused the Reds of making "an unnecessary armed attack."

IMPERIAL

It does the Doctor's heart good!

"Automobiles were just automobiles," the doctor told us yesterday between calls, "until I walked into the showroom and saw that Imperial. I knew I'd have to have it. I went home and thought about that car—I even dreamed about it. Then you people drove one up to my door and said, 'Try it out today, doctor. Give it a run for its money.'

"I remember every minute of that trial run. We climbed some hills and took some tight, fast turns together, and spent a half hour on a muddy, rutty backwoods trail. I never remotely imagined a car could act like this one did. It was beautiful driving every minute. Easy. Restful. Quiet . . . but somehow very exciting. I had a feeling of really great power under the most perfect control—made me feel like a better driver than I'd ever been."

Join the doctor—and the thousands of other fine-car buyers who are switching to the triumphant Imperial this year.

Sought Russsian Sub

This is the Seawolf, the U. S. Navy's atomic-powered submarine, which had a rountine training cruise converted into a search for what might have been a Soviet submarine off the Atlantic coast. It's the first time the Navy has ordered an atomic sub to conduct what is very much like a war patrol. Whether the search eventually identified the reported unidentified sub as Russian cannot be disclosed.

IT'S LIBRARY WEEK

Trend Toward 'Serious' Type Of Reading Noticeable Here

The emergence of an usual character is offering hope that America may be recapturing the art of reading.

He is the "serious" reader, and librarians place more store in his tribe than in the rising circulation figures.

Mrs. Opal McDaniel, librarian for the Howard County Free Library, said that the trend in this direction is unmistakable. This does not mean that a majority of those coming to the library are looking for long-haired tomes, quite the contrary. But those wanting something in philosophy, science, finance, history, biography and the great works of literature are growing in numbers.

This is reflected in the types of books being ordered, even down to volumes for the juvenile shelf. As old books are retired, they are replaced by a better (literary quality) volume.

Where fiction once held an overwhelming dominance in adult orders, the material is receding and heavier items are taking its place.

Among younger people, Mrs. McDaniel credits teachers with stimulating a demand for better type of reading materials. Among the older folk she cannot account for it but is grateful nevertheless.

"We have one executive who devours about everything on the professional list," she said. "Among the older teen-agers and even collegiates, there is a big demand for everything on the subject of science, particularly rockets, missiles, etc., and certainly for science-fiction.

"We have several people who go in for reading of the great classics, some who come and read most of the day."

In this respect, she credits the Great Books group here with having stimulated a lively interest in more serious reading. This group is sponsored by Howard County Junior College, but its influence extends to those who make use of the county library.

At the present time the county library does not have a reading discussion group. Once it sponsored the American Heritage group, but interest dwindled.

Librarians elsewhere have reported similar trends to reading of material with enduring qualities. It could be that the public is on the verge of a great rediscovery — that nothing can take the place of good writing.

Public Urged To Visit Libraries

This is National Library Week — seven days dedicated to an effort to arouse a renewed interest in the art of reading. Local libraries are cooperating in the campaign and are pressing all residents of Big Spring to visit them and avail themselves of the book opportunities offered.

The Howard County Junior College Library has prepared a 'catalogue of books on its shelves of special interest to special groups.

Perhaps a good list to start with would be those classified as "Guides to Good Reading."

Here are the titles in this group:

"The Guide to Good Reading" by Lyman Abbott. "How to Read A Book," by Mortimer J. Adler; "The World's Best Books—Homer to Hemingway," by Asa Don Dickinson; "Bookman's Manual" by Bessie Graham; "Living with Books," by Helen Haines, and "The Best Books of the Decade 1936-1945."

This being the season for such things, perhaps the reader is interested in gardening. The HCJC library list of available looks on this subject (which are available to the public and not restricted to the student body of the college) include:

"Better Homes and Gardens Garden Books," "Complete Book of Garden Magic" by Roy Biles; "Southwest Gardening" by Rosalie Doolittle; "Complete Home Landscaping and Garden Guide" by Raymond Karbobo; "The How and Why of Better Gardening," by Lawrence Manning; "Garden Planning and Building," by Henry S. Ortloff; "Popular Mechanics Garden Book," "Botany for Gardeners," by Harold Rickett; "Ten Thousand Garden Questions Answered," "Constant Spry's Garden Note Book," and "Woman's Home Companion Garden Book."

Woman Tortured By Invading Thug

ARTESIA, Calif. (AP) — A housewife says a man gagged and stripped her, hung her by the wrists from a garage rafter, beat her with a rubber hose containing a razor blade, and burned her with a cigar.

Sheriff's deputies said the woman, Mrs. Norma Wheeler, 40, still hysterical, gave this account yesterday:

She entered the family garage suburb about 9 p.m. Saturday to get a cardboard carton. Her husband, David, a trailer salesman, was away on business. Their 9-year-old daughter was asleep in the house.

The stranger grabbed her, muffled her scream with one hand, stuffed a cloth into her mouth and bound it with a cord around her head.

He ripped off her only garment, a housecoat, and ordered her to clasp hands as in prayer. Laughing continuously, he bound her wrists, threw the cord over a rafter and pulled it until her feet barely touched the floor.

He puffed a cigar a few moments, then, mouthing foul language, inflicted 15 burns on her. He took a three-foot length of garden hose, attached a razor blade to one end and beat the now hysterical victim on the legs.

Then, pounding her on the back with his fists, he asked, "How would you like me to cut your toes off?" He snapped open a switchblade knife, advanced and said, "Well, this is it."

A car pulled into the driveway, apparently to turn around, and the attacker ran out the door and disappeared.

Mrs. Wheeler managed to wriggle free. Her husband returned about 11:30 p.m. A physician treated her.

Mrs. Wheeler described the man as 38 to 40, and 6 feet 3, with curly blond hair.

AF Stronger Despite Cut

DALLAS (AP) — Gen. Thomas White, Air Force chief of staff, said last night the Air Force grew stronger last year despite being cut to 850,000 men.

He said the Air Force now has enough striking power to wipe Russia off the map "two or three times."

White was to keynote today's opening luncheon of the four-day American Rocket Society-American Society of Mechanical Engineers joint aviation conference.

Sessions will be divided into three parts, air transport, challenges of high speed flight, and rockets.

Rear Adm. Rawson Bennett, chief of naval research, and Wernher Von Braun, the Army's chief missile scientist, will talk tomorrow.

Demos Accused Of Low Speed On Jobless Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn today accused Democrats in Congress of dragging their feet on a three-year-old Eisenhower proposal for special aid to areas of chronic unemployment.

"Their amazing lack of concrete action stands in sharp contrast with their pious words about the plight of jobless workers," Alcorn said in a speech prepared for a Republican women's national conference.

Alcorn said the Democrats, who control Congress, should stop trying to "sow the seeds of panic" over the recession and get to work on President Eisenhower's proposals aimed at economic recovery.

Eisenhower will discuss the economic situation tomorrow in a speech to the roughly 1,700 women gathered for the two-day conference. Vice President Nixon and Cabinet members greeted the women at a reception last night.

Alcorn, listing steps Eisenhower has taken to reverse the recession, predicted the "effects of these actions will be felt strongly in our economy during the weeks and months ahead."

The President's antirecession proposals will have "strong Republican support," Alcorn said, adding: "The Democrat leadership in Congress could make a real contribution to quick economic recovery by taking immediate action on these proposals and by permitting immediate action upon several additional important administration recommendations which have been pending for some time."

He said Eisenhower's recommendations for tax relief and other help to small business have been either ignored or enacted in part.

Practice Alert

DALLAS (AP)—Some 2,000 members of the Ground Observer Corps took part in a practice alert yesterday in a zone from 30 miles west of Lubbock to Abilene and from San Angelo to Childress.

Business Credit Stimulates Texas

DALLAS (AP)—A survey indicated yesterday "easier business credit is beginning to have a stimulating effect" among Texas manufacturers and distributors.

The Texas Factors, Inc., survey covered the Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio areas.

The survey found "inventory adjustments downward have already been made by many industrial companies in the three Texas areas."

It added: "Generally, inventories are not too high—or at least, not felt to be higher than normal trade would warrant."

Out Of The Show

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Hodges, 10-year-old singer in "The Music Man," is out of the show with chicken pox. His replacement, Konnie Tourso, has never had the disease and has been exposed. So a standby is being readied to step into the role if Ronnie, too, gets the pox.

European Visit Fosters Treasure Of Memories For Big Springer

By HELEN HURT

A sentimental journey that took her thousands of miles from home still seems like a dream to Mrs. J. R. Petty, 1013 Sycamore. But it was a very real adventure, and she has the souvenirs and pictures to prove that it happened.

When it became certain that their daughter Barbara, who is the wife of SFC. John T. Ervin, and her family would not be coming home from Germany for another year, Mr. and Mrs. Petty began to talk of spending Christmas with them overseas. Because of the amount of time involved, Petty reluctantly backed out and Mrs. Petty booked passage on the "SS United States." She sailed from New York on Dec. 6.

Four days later, she was greeted in Cherbourg, France, by the Ervins. It was her first time to see James Chris, but she was present Jan. 26 to celebrate her grandson's first birthday. John Ralph will be three in June.

CHRISTMAS REUNION

Christmas turned out to be something of a family reunion, itself, in Augsburg where Ervin is a paratrooper stationed with the 11th Airborne Division. Coming from their stations not far distant were Petty's nephew, who hails from Fort Worth, and a cousin (from Brownwood) who with his wife and baby shared the Yuletide, complete with gift-laden Christmas tree.

A round of sightseeing was limited both by Ervin's few days of leave and by the snow storms which descended prior to Mrs. Petty's departure, Feb. 18, from Bremerhaven. When she first arrived, she could see the beautiful green landscape, for the winter had been unusually mild. But the countryside soon assumed the appearance of a winter wonderland.

RENOWNED THEATRE

One of the highlights of her tour was the renowned Passion Play theatre at Oberammergau. The stage is sheltered separately from the huge structure that houses the audience. It is so designed that the backdrop is the majestic scenery of nature itself.

Mrs. Petty was told that in order to be considered for a role in the Passion Play, a person must have resided in Oberammergau for at least 20 years. On display was the vast wardrobe for the presentation which is staged only every decade; the next performance will be in 1960. Its origin dates back more than three centuries.

It was at Gormisch, in the Alps, that she had her first ski lift ride. This is a recreation center high in the mountains, and servicemen are made especially welcome. Visits in Munich and Bremen were enjoyable, but the trip to Dachau was memorable for quite different reasons. This was Hitler's extermination center, and still standing are the gas chambers, the vast ovens, and the mass graves where inhumanly fiendish acts to horrify the world were perpetrated.

PARIS SIGHTS

Paris recalls to Mrs. Petty the sidewalk marts banked high with gorgeous flowers of riotous colors. The Frenchman's own peculiar merchandising techniques interested the Big Spring woman. A typical scene is of the Frenchman pedaling his bicycle, to which he has tied a couple of unwrapped loaves of bread. Meat and other food hangs uncovered in the market places, and this sight takes a bit of "getting used to" for an American.

To the tourist headed for Europe Mrs. Petty offers emphatic advice: Make it an ocean voyage. Call it glamorous, thrilling, venturesome; a voyage is all of these and more. It is a continuous round of pleasant surprises, meeting charming people, magnificent meals, gala parties, recreation and relaxation.

Settled again into her routine, which includes acting as reporter for the Big Spring Rebekah Lodge, Mrs. Petty is enjoying her holiday over and over again by sharing it with family and friends. Now she feels content to wait for November, when the Ervins hope to be reassigned stateside after 33 months abroad.

Have A Cup Of Cheer?

Eggnog, punch or spiced tea will be in order for this serving bowl which Mrs. J. R. Petty acquired on her recent visit to Augsburg, Germany. Made to order, the attractive set of Bavarian pottery bears the official crest of the village and the name of the family. Note its lid, a unique feature for a punchbowl.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

If You Have A Figure, Show It, Says Betsy

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD—"The sack dress should be popular with women who have lost their figures or never had a good one!" Betsy Von Furstenberg told me. "But if you have a good figure, why not show it off. You may not have it too long!"

This popular young actress flew to the coast to star in a segment of "Have Gun, Will Travel" on CBS. "Here I am in a Western and I don't get to ride. I love horses and have ridden all my life."

Betsy, who is married to Guy Vincent, has two children and the youngest is six months old. "I had my two children in three years," she explained. "But I had no trouble regaining my figure. It may have been because I'm so used to exercise that it was no effort to begin again after having each baby.

"It's wonderful having children, but wearing the same type of clothes for so many months becomes monotonous. Maybe that's the reason I don't like the sack dresses—they remind me of maternity clothes."

We chatted about fashion and Betsy revealed she doesn't believe in adopting anything that she doesn't really like.

"Heels have never been higher," she observed, "but I never wear them. I feel so much better when my body isn't tilted forward. I don't like to walk in high heels—I don't feel comfortable."

Betsy said that her hair has always been a problem and that she can't convey her desires to her hairdresser. "It is frustrating to know what you want and not be able to explain it to someone. And I can't do it myself. I was born in August and I have been told that Leo girls all have hair difficulties. I guess the best solution is just to find a simple hairdo and stick with it. You can't feel comfortable if you think you aren't looking your best.

"I think it's terribly important to learn to feel beautiful whether you have regular features or not. It takes a lot of time, and I don't enjoy fussing with myself, but when you know you really look well it has an influence on your personality.

"But a girl who devotes all of her time to grooming may attract attention, but she won't hold it unless she has interests other than her own beauty."

Betsy was brought up in Europe and has a cosmopolitan view of women. "I think it is silly for anyone to want to look 18 forever. You have to take care of yourself. I'm all for that, but a woman is much more charming when she dresses for her age instead of working so hard to stay young."

Fashion Wise

Betsy Von Furstenberg flew out to the coast for a TV show and lunched with Lydia Lane — discussing fashions. After finishing a segment of "Have Gun, Will Travel" for CBS she returned to New York.

FASHION

A woman who is well dressed has always chosen what is becoming to her—not what is the latest fashion innovation. Let Leaflet M-68, "How To Be Well Dressed," help you to choose what is right for you. Tea Is Compliment For Lamesa Bride-Elect

LAMESA—A blue and white color scheme was carried out in decorations for the gift tea which complimented Cynthia Cason Saturday evening at the Woman's Study Club Building.

Miss Cason is the bride-elect of John Everett Agee. Their wedding will be an event of April 5 in the First Baptist Church.

Guests were received by the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Ben Cason; also Mrs. John Agee Jr., mother of the prospective bridegroom; Mrs. John Agee Sr., of Lubbock, his grandmother; and Lucy Stricklin, aunt of the bride.

Focal point for the white tea table was a simulated locket holding the couple's pictures, backed with white stock. Mrs. Jack Goodloe, Mrs. Terry Pipkin and Alma Ann Agee alternated at the tea table.

During the afternoon music was furnished by Mrs. Bill Woodard and Gloria Esmond.

Hostesses for the tea were Mrs. Holland Kinnison, Mrs. Jap Baldwin, Mrs. Ernest Barrett, Mrs. Mart Barrow, Mrs. Terry Pipkin, Mrs. Elmer Cope, Mrs. Eddie Lee, Mrs. Ross McDonald, Mrs. Lex Woodul, Mrs. Wayne Smith, Mrs. Elmo Murff, Mrs. C. HERE'S PROOF your customers rely on Yellow Pages when they're in a buying mood

HERE IT IS—the "Buyers' Opinion Survey" businessmen asked us to make. It's an accurate, unbiased report on how shoppers in a small city use the Yellow Pages of their telephone directory.

A city of 6,400, serving a typical trade area of 15,000, was selected for the test. Telephone users were asked three important "Yellow Page" questions. Here are the results:

78% look in the Yellow Pages to find dealers of nationally advertised brands and services.

92% depend on information in Yellow Page display advertisements when they're not sure which firm to call for the product or service they want.

67% say they're always able to find what they want in the Yellow Pages.

(In most cases where the customer could not find what he was looking for, a follow-up showed it was because the businessman was not listed under all the classifications he served or because he did not list all the national brands he handled.)

A new telephone directory is going to press soon. When the Yellow Page man calls on you, take advantage of his services. Review your Yellow Page advertising program with him. Make sure you're listed under all the classifications that can bring you business. Make sure your Yellow Page ads list every product, every service and every special or exclusive feature of your business.

A Bible Thought For Today

And walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given himself for us an offering and a sacrifice to God for a sweetsmelling savor. (Ephesians 5:2)

Revival Of Old Time Singing

A religious writer from the Associated Press reports "a heightened fervor" in church singing in America. Catholic, protestant and Jew, American congregations are singing the songs of their faith as never before in recent decades.

A specialist in the subject said: "There's been a great resurgence in church music, both in quality and emphasis. The people themselves are singing—not just the choirs and the cantors."

"The content of church music has advanced greatly in the last 25 years," said the Rev. Albert C. Ronander of New York, an authority on hymns. "The level of musical tastes in the church as a whole has improved. We're recovering the sturdy, vibrant singing of real Christianity."

This is good news for several years back a new kind of colorless, spiritless music invaded many churches. It might have been technically better, as music, but it lacked flavor, fervor and feeling; and in all too many cases new tunes had been set to old hymns to their detriment, with the result that congregational singing declined because the people in the pews did not recognize them.

Says the AP report: "Marking this development (of heightened fervor and congregational singing) has been a whirl of activity in reviving the old church plainsongs and powerful chorales, the introduction of contemporary works and the compilation of new hymnbooks."

We will settle for that phrase, "reviving the old church plainsongs," as the biggest single factor in the upsurge of interest in church music.

The Catholics have a special committee working on a new hymnal "with plans to reclaim long-lapsed hymns in the vernacular for use by American Catholics."

You can take music away from the people, but you can't take the people away from the music they can sing from their hearts.

Can You Have Cake And Eat It Too?

The antirecession move in Congress is currently taking the shape of a neat trick if you can do it—eat your cake and have it too. The trick consists in cutting taxes while stepping up expenditure of public moneys to get the nation off the dead center of economic torpidity.

Some of our political diagnosticians talk of spending additional billions of dollars in this laudable enterprise out of one side of their face while at the same time advocating tax reductions out of the other side.

Our national debt is close to $275 billion, the limit permissible until it was recently lifted, or put in process of lifting, to five billions more.

The Senate this week added about $800 million to the housing bill, and the rate of defense spending has been accelerated by something over a billion dollars additional. However, in this latter case, most or all of the accelerated spending will come from appropriations already made.

The technique of cutting taxes while spending more money is not as inconsistent as it sounds. Reducing taxes on individual and, perhaps corporate taxes is calculated to promote family and corporate spending in the marts of trade, thereby consuming more goods and materials, providing more jobs and thus increasing the volume of the tax yield. Of course some experts say this could be highly inflationary.

There was a recession starting in mid-1953. In August of 1954 a tax reduction (retroactive to January 1 of that year) was voted as part of a general revision of the Internal Revenue Code. At the time this reduction was voted the industrial production index was 10 per cent, or 14 points, below the high of 1953. Nine months after the cut, the index reached and then passed the 1953 high. Yet the tax receipts on individual incomes for 1954 were only $400 million below those of calendar 1953.

There's an election this year, and congressmen want to put their best foot forward. Some of the schemes proposed have been really wild, but unless Congress flips its lid entirely no serious attention will be paid to them.

The important thing is that Congress is aware of the situation and is working on it. There have been some signs that the administration, too, is aware of it, and beginning to bestir itself.

Cure Could Be Worse Than Disease

WASHINGTON—There's an old saying that "the remedy could be worse than the disease," and that's what might happen if all or even some of the various anti-recession measures being proposed in Congress were put into effect.

Senator Harry Byrd, Democrat, of Virginia, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, gives an inkling of what might occur when he says that if two pending bills, each providing $5 billion or more in tax reduction, are adopted, this might throw the federal Treasury $10 to $15 billion into the red.

There are about 5,200,000 persons now out of work but, if America embarks on what could result in a runaway inflation, the eventual "bust" could bring about an unemployment many times that figure.

The Eisenhower administration is not allowing itself to be stampeded by pressure for tax reduction and, when it comes up with a plan, it will be one that takes into account the long-range as well as the short-range aspects.

The psychological effect of a deficit of $10 to $15 billion might tend to bring such a pessimistic outlook for the long-range future as to discourage the very sentiment needed now for business recovery. The stock market would be one of the first institutions to reflect the coming of an inflationary spiral. For, if the 50-cent dollar of today were to be headed down toward a 25-cent value in the next few years, obviously prices of stocks would tend to rise commensurately. This would be an artificial upsurge that could in the end bring on a smash.

It is no surprise, therefore, that words of caution came from Secretary of the Treasury Anderson on Wednesday after his conference with President Eisenhower and his economic advisers.

There is need, of course, for tax revision, but it should be undertaken on a gradually changing rate basis and not just as a means of distributing purchasing power to individuals. It should include a method of stimulating the heavy-goods industries so that manufacturing corporations can begin to plan for new equipment and plants.

If it were merely a case of giving cash to the public generally, it would cost far less to aid certain distressed areas on a local basis. For most of the tax proposals would give a tax reduction to those who already have jobs and savings enough to continue a high velocity of purchasing. The unemployed, on the other hand, would not benefit by a tax reduction to individuals. Business itself would have to be encouraged somehow by corporate-tax reductions to create more employment. This would have an impact on industrial conditions generally.

Last year, when this correspondent was almost alone in defending the $71.8-billion budget of the President, there was a widespread pressure in Congress for reducing the spending. It resulted in an artificial restraint on the flow of defense expenditures. The sudden cuts and the modification of the system of government financing of defense contracts by advance payments threw many a business into an embarrassing position. The manufacturers were forced to borrow at high rates to pay bills the government customarily paid while the work was in process.

This weakness has now been remedied and the government is readjusting its method of handling defense contracts. It is speeding up the allocation of orders too. Defense spending is now estimated by Secretary McElroy at $11.7 billion for the first six months of 1958, as compared with half that amount for the last six months of 1957. There are also to be noted some marked increases in spending not only by the federal but by state and local governments for important projects previously put aside. There are signs, too, that retail sales have held fairly well throughout the country.

The present recession wasn't "planned", as some Democratic senators are saying, but it is in part the direct result of the drive made early last year by some of the same Democrats to curtail defense appropriations. A change came when the first Soviet "sputnik" was launched late in 1957. The biggest economizers of last year in Congress are among those who would spend extravagantly this year and also would deprive the Treasury of billions of tax revenue. If politicans instead of economists are heeded, the "remedy" indeed may prove worse than the disease.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Powerful reasons for opposing Sen. Jenner's bill to curtail the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court fall into two main categories.

The first has to do with the subject matter of several Supreme Court decisions, hence with the areas where the bill would impose restrictions—those in which the high tribunal has sought to restore the balance in behalf of individual liberties. These liberties have been especially endangered during the last decade in the course of legislative inquiries into subversive activities and of administrative enforcement of "security" regulations.

The second category has to do with the function of the Supreme Court in the American judicial system. And here we shall let the lawyers speak:

"Without approving or disapproving any decisions of the Supreme Court," the American Bar Association House of Delegates declares it opposes the Jenner bill as "contrary to the maintenance of the balance of powers set up in the Constitution between the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial branches of our government."

An ABC On Jobless Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is an ABC on jobless pay — unemployment compensation (UC) — and how it started and where it is. There'll be plenty of talk about it in the next few weeks.

UC is not a dole. The federal government puts no money into it. Neither do the states. The money comes entirely from a tax on employers, based on their payrolls, and in a few states a tax on employes too.

The money goes into a fund administered by the federal government which invests it in interest-bearing bonds. Each state has its own account in this fund and draws from it as it needs to.

The fund now has about 8½ billion dollars. In bad years — recession years — more money is taken out than is put in. In the 1954 recession year the fund collected $1,136,000, and put out just over two billion dollars.

In the present recession, with unemployment climbing, the fund has put out over a billion dollars since September. When unemployment forces a state to exhaust its part of the fund, the government can lend it money.

Right now there are 5,200,000 unemployed. Over three million are drawing UC. But many workers have used up already all the UC payments for which they were eligible and now are entitled to nothing.

About 43 million workers are covered by UC. But millions of working people are not. And, if they lose their jobs, these people cannot turn to UC for help. For example: excluded are farm workers, self-employed, domestics and employes of nonprofit organizations.

The UC system was created by Congress in 1935 as part of the Social Security program, with the understanding all states would take part in it. All now do. But each state is allowed to make its own laws for handling UC.

Therefore, there's a wide variation among states on how much a jobless man can get and for how long.

Benefit payments range from a minimum of $3 a week in Mississippi to a maximum of $41 in Wyoming and $45 in Alaska. The average UC payment is $30 a week. A few states give additional amounts to jobless men with dependents.

The length of time a jobless man can draw UC varies too. Thirty-one states have a maximum of 26 weeks. Pennsylvania is the highest with 30. Florida has 16 weeks. Organized labor and some members of Congress call for 39 weeks for all states.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Oklahoma crime bureau was asked by Oklahoma City police to analyze water samples brought in by an 88-year-old man.

He complained his wife was trying to kill him by "poisoning the water I kept my false teeth in." He said his 66-year-old wife wanted to get rid of him because "she's got her eye on another man."

German Shillelaghs

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That since Ireland lost its great oak forests, most shillelaghs now come from Germany.

That there are more than 1½ million people named Smith in the United States, which probably explains why your neighbor may prefer to be known as Smythe.

That a poll recently showed the average corporation president is 50 years old, a college graduate, earned $68,000 a year, and his favorite card game is bridge. Hope they never poll us poker players!

That the reason playing cards are called "pasteboards" is: They are made by pasting together two thin sheets of specially treated paper.

That women's hosiery now comes in 450 tints and shades. Isn't that odd, considering that if a man buys a black car today they call him a show-off.

That smoking at one time was prohibited in New England taverns. Today it's all you can do to keep some people from lighting up in church.

That—what can a man believe?—there are more than 1,000 islands in the Thousand Islands. And most Panama hats are made in Ecuador.

That Robert Q. Lewis says: "A spinster is a woman who knows all the answers, but nobody ask her the questions."

That Irwin H. Kramer of the Hotel Edison, after talking to 10,000 guests, has reached this conclusion: "People will believe anything if you tell them it's a rumor."

That spring gardeners might hoe even harder if they realized weeds cost the national economy five billion dollars a year, or $100 a family.

That in the last seven years 4.7 million Americans left farms. But that was before the current recession.

Groucho Thinks Wit Should Not Be Analyzed

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Let the psychiatrists analyze wit. Groucho Marx will analyze the psychiatrists.

A University of Southern California psychiatrist recently declared: "A wit is an angry man in search of a victim. A witticism is his way of releasing suppressed hostility."

Since Groucho Marx is perhaps Hollywood's best-known wit, I asked him for comment. Here is his reply: "I don't know who the hell this doctor is, but I do know that one of the best ways to save time is to read no one's explanation of humor. This is a deadly subject when taken seriously, and has thrown many good men. I remain

"Morosely yours, Groucho". . . .

Shirley Temple turned down an offer to costar with Pat Boone in "Mardi Gras" for her old alma mater, 20th Century-Fox. It would have meant being absent from her family on a New Orleans location, and Shirley doesn't want that.

"Now if they want to make a picture about the San Francisco Chinatown New Year's, that would be different," she said, because then she could be near her Bay area home. . . .

Wonder if MGM is unhappy with Jerry Wald's "The Long Hot Summer." It covers some of the same ground as "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," which Metro is filming. Even to Orson Welles playing a Big Daddy.

"Summer" offers some strong dramatics, especially by Paul Newman. Now that Wald has touched on the raw life in a West Coast suburb ("No Down Payment"), New England ("Peyton Place") and Deep South ("Long, Hot") small towns, where does he go next? . . .

How's this for a hot combo: Frank Sinatra and Brigitte Bardot? The crooner says he's set to make a movie with the French sizzler. It ought to be a killer.

Famous Last Words Before The Eclipse

". . . I'm as good as I ever was. It's my audience that's no good."

". . . There's a big shakeup coming."

". . . The typical television viewer doesn't have a 12-year-old mind. He has an 8-year-old mind."

". . . Television is a monster. That little black box in the living room never tells the truth."

". . . That little black box never lies."

". . . All I want to do is go fishing."

". . . There's something big in the works for me next season, but I can't spell it out for you now."

". . . Television critics are a bunch of idiots who got their jobs because they can't hold down a regular reporting assignment."

". . . I don't care what the critics say, it's when you have the stage-hands laughing that you know you're going great."

Something A Rich Man Doesn't Have

One thing and another:

Pop may have led the more Spartan existence but Junior is more muscular, leaner and looks more masculine than his sire.

So says Dr. Edwards E. Hunt Jr., Harvard professor.

Modern youth has a broader neck, shoulders and waist than did their fathers, according to Dr. Hunt. On the other hand, their hips are narrower. They'd have to be, if four of them are to ride in the front seat of some of those jalopies.

No doubt, you—as have I—known people all our lives whom we consider lucky. They draw to an inside straight in poker and hit most every time. You get 50 chances at an electric skillet in the bridge club raffle. They buy the last one, and their names are called.

I never won a thing in my life but lately I've grown philosophical about it. There are other ways to be lucky, I think you'll agree. To often, I take for granted the breaks that come my way — good eyesight, the privilege of working at the job I like, good teeth with which to enjoy good food, the countless tangible and intangible things that make for a good life.

Who could ask for anything more?

The rich man may have a section of land, but I've got a lot. The Croesus has a roof over his head. It may be more elaborate than mine but mine keeps the rain out. The wealthy guy drives a car. Maybe his automobile is a little bit bigger than mine, but mine suits my needs fine. The nabob eats three meals a day. So do I.

Come to think of it, I may have something he doesn't have—a mortgage.

Say It Ain't So, Mike!

Before it is forever too late, this peasant today rushes into print with a petition to Prince Mike Romanoff to cease and desist from his present efforts to go legit.

It is inconceivable to us who years ago swore fealty to this royal-est of the Romanoffs that Mike is determined on a reduction in rank to the status of square. But that is the plain import of a bill now before Congress acknowledging once and for all that Mike entered the United States legally for permanent residence as of December 22, 1932.

That Mike, nature's self-made nobleman, should crave the benediction of the law in his sunset years is a lamentable triumph of conformity over rugged individualism. In his old free-wheeling, free-loading days, Mike was not so much without the law as above it. For him now to ask shelter within its arms is no less shattering to his loyal subjects than the abdication of King Edward VIII.

I never belonged to the glittering court circles that surrounded Prince Mike and supported him here and abroad in the '20s and '30s. I was but a muzhik who stood by the roadside, hat in hand, and cried huzzahs when he passed by, grateful for a harmless masquerade that added to the gaiety of nations.

Mike was a kind of self-made Robin Hood who felt the rich owed him a living. And since the rich agreed, everyone was happy and the days were filled with laughter.

He lived on the richest cuffs in the country, and many of us envied him for his imperial brass. It seems so sad now, as time is taking its toll of the Russian Romanoffs, that respectability it taking its toll of the American branch.

There is muted hilarity in the fact that Mike has been fighting before U. A. authorities to prove that he was born in New York City on February 21, 1893 (probably as Harry Gerguson) and Uncle Sam has been striving to prove Mike's old contention, that he was born abroad. Now, both are willing to settle for a lesser verdict, that Mike entered the U. S. A. legally as of 1932.

Probably where Mike went wrong—that is, got off the royal road—was at the point where he finally latched onto some money of his own. When he left New York, started that Hollywood restaurant and met with explosive success as a restaurateur, conservatism set in. Money of one's own is always a sobering experience. That's what did it, if you ask me.

I can only think of Browning's lament:

"Just for a handful of silver he left us,
Just for a riband to stick in his coat."

Why, many of us can remember a day when Mike made up his own ribands and decorations as he went along. He needed no hashmarks from the law.

The law is for those of us who plod in conformity from the cradle to the casket. It is not for Ariel, nee Romanoff.

I would remind the Prince there is such a thing as noblesse oblige before he puts himself irretrievably on the s[ide] of the law.

O, say it ain't so, Mike! Say it ain't so.

Unusual Background In Garment Strike

The story I'm about to tell is not only true but typical of New York's prince-and-pauper dress industry.

It was during 1933. President Roosevelt was fighting the depression. Garment workers were walking New York streets. General Hugh S. (Ironpants) Johnson (of whom the present TV-teethed generation hasn't heard) was trying to bolster employment through National Recovery Administration codes. Companies which increased employment were awarded the Blue Eagle, a banner symbolic of the NRA.

In New York, Grover A. Whalen, long the city's official greeter, a man whose triangled moustache was always as neatly set as the carnation in his buttonhole, was Gen. Johnson's aid. He exhorted dress manufacturers and jobbers to expand production, re-employ workers.

Suddenly, Whalen was confronted with a catastrophe. Julius Hochman, head of the Dress Joint Board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, told Whalen of plans for a strike. But, protested Whalen, that's against President Roosevelt's re-employment program. "We want to make work, not stop work," said Whalen.

But Hockman insisted the industry was disorganized. Manufacturers were cutting wages. Pay scales were disregarded. Union shops fretted—they were being undersold by nonunion dress manufacturers.

Hochman argued: The union wanted to organize the industry, to create order out of chaos. The strike would be for re-employment. The union would back the President, and Whalen would settle the strike. There'd be glory in that and the strike would take only four days. Whalen went to Washington, explained what was planned, was reassured.

Hochman called the strike. Headlines. Four days later the strike was over. More headlines. Later, Whalen said to Hochman, "When you said you could do it in four days, I didn't believe it."

Hochman replied, "I didn't believe it either."

Now, 25 years later, another quickie strike has been used to end laxity and re-introduce order into this chaotic industry. This time Herbert H. Lehman, former senator from and governor of New York, was the hero. He teamed with the industry's impartial chairman, Harry Uviller, to end a walkout of 105,000 workers. The wage agreement called for money increases of 11¼ per cent. But this was only incidental in settling the first strike in a quarter of a century.

Manufacturers were harried by wage chiseling. Piece rates were in pieces. The larger manufacturers, who abided by the agreements, were being undersold. This hurt the union. For complying manufacturers lost sales to nonabiders and, consequently, employed fewer union workers at full pay scales and at fewer hours.

After numerous discussions, the union (which alone can force order on the thousands of manufacturers, even as John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union rationalizes the coal industry) and the leading manufacturers' associations agreed to disagree. A strike. Headlines. Seeming confusion. Then a call for a mediator. In steps Governor Lehman. An agreement.

The 1958 strike, as the 1933 strike, was more than an effort to boost wages. It was an organization strike—to organize the manufacturers and subcontractors in an industry of thousands of small employers. Both strikes occurred when competition was cut-throat because of a business recession. If the New York manufacturers had been able to sell their products quickly and easily, if profits were rolling in, they'd never have invited a strike. They'd never have bothered about wage and piece-rate differentials.

But when the wage differentials hurt, when they were losing business, they squawked. The union-scale manufacturers found it preferable to grant a pay rise than to lose business continually to the nonabiders, the chiselers. So the union called a strike!

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Federal economy advocates in Washington recognize that they face a far more difficult fight on the budget this year than last year, when $2 billion in savings was effected.

The two prime forces for more federal speending are, first, realization by reason of the Russian sputniks that we are lagging behind the Soviet Union in such military development as missiles, and, second, the desire in almost every community to supplant an initial recession by prosperity. . . .

The problem is, however, to further both defense and economic recovery within a balanced budget if possible. Rep. Leslie C. Ahrends, House Republican whip from Illinois and a member of the economy bloc in Congress, says that the national assembly will become economy-minded again "if the people back home get busy and start prodding their congressmen."

Rep. Marguerite Church of Illinois, who is for reins on the national purse, reminded that the $6,295,000,000 requested for federal aid to state and local governments in fiscal 1959 "is only about a billion less than the entire federal budget in 1935." That was a year of pump-priming to cope with depression.
