FDR Appeals To Voters Of America To Elect Liberals

Several Names Are Mentioned By President

Chief Executive Takes Another Shot At Dictators; Says New Deal Is On Right Track

(By The Associated Press)

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 4.—President Roosevelt tonight urged the American people to elect on next Tuesday candidates "known for their experience and their liberalism."

The president, speaking from the library of his home here, also appealed for election of candidates "without regard to race, color or creed."

Republicans Are Rapped

His 3,000-word address, broadcast over three national radio chains, rejected the "negative purposes proposed by old-line Republicans and communists alike—for they are people whose only purpose is to survive against any other fascist threat than their own."

The president urged the re-election of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman in his home state of New York and others on the state ticket, mentioning Senator Robert F. Wagner, candidate for re-election, and Rep. James M. Mead, candidate for the short senatorial term, by name.

Praises Murphy Record

He also took occasion again to praise the record of Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan in handling Michigan strikes, saying he had substituted negotiation for risk of bloodshed. Murphy is opposed for re-election by former Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, Republican.

Without mentioning Lehman's Republican opponent, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, by name, Mr. Roosevelt said pointedly:

"We need more active law enforcement, not only against the lords of the underworld, but also against the lords of the overworld."

Must Win Their Spurs

He said the state could not afford to supplant "seasoned leaders like Governor Lehman with men, no matter how sincere, who have yet to win their spurs or prove what they really know or where they really stand in the fight for social justice. Those who truly and sincerely join the struggle for social justice, economic democracy for it's own sake do not throw stones at veteran fighters in that cause."

Mr. Roosevelt took another shot at dictatorships and declared the New Deal did not assume for a minute that "all we have done is right or all that we have done has been successful, but our economic and social program of the past 5½ years has definitely given to the United States a more stable and less artificial prosperity than any other nation in the world has enjoyed.

"The very fact," he added, "that the business slump beginning last fall and running into last summer did not become a major economic disaster like the slump that ran from 1929 to 1933, is the best kind of proof that fundamentally we have found the right track."

He said he had been happy in the last six months to see "how swiftly a large majority of business men have been coming around to accept the objectives of a more stable economy and of certain necessary

Hitler's Best Girl Friend Denies All Romance Rumors

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 — Fraulein Leni Reifenstahl, film actress and director, frequently referred to as one of Adolf Hitler's few women friends, arrived today on the Europa with a laughing denial there was anything romantic about their friendship.

She's wedded to her professional career, Fraulein Reifenstahl said, tossing her curly auburn hair and flashing her hazel eyes. As for the idea that she is Hitler's closest woman friend—

"I read that since many years," she said. "But to me it is not humor. It is because I work in the films and in order to do that I have to see Hitler sometimes.

"Hitler is not difficult to see in Germany."

"Then there's romance between you and Hitler?"

"No, no," she laughed, "none at all."

She was here on a holiday, she said.

Press Sponsors Are Chosen At Friday Clinic

By OPAL McMAHON
Avalanche Staff Writer

Chairmen of sponsors' groups in the West Texas Scholastic Press clinic were elected Friday afternoon and student officers will be elected in the concluding session this morning of the two-day program that has attracted attendance of approximately 200 students and teachers.

Chairmen elected were: Printed newspaper division, Mrs. J. N. Browning, sponsor of the Amarillo Sandstorm; mimeograph, Miss Sylvia Smith, Sudan; page in downtown newspaper, Miss Fannie Mae Rees, Floydada; annuals, Mike Barrett, Kermit.

Official In Each Division

The chairmen were elected after decision was made to have an official in each division rather than one chairman of the entire sponsors' group. Mrs. Ross Ayers, sponsor of the Lubbock High school Westerner World, is the retiring chairman of the sponsors of school publications.

The Texas Technological college journalism department sponsors the clinic.

Friday's program was concluded with a banquet and dance at Hilton hotel. James Martin, business manager of the Amarillo Sandstorm and president of the student group in the clinic, was toastmaster.

Chas. A. Guy, editor of Avalanche-Journal publications was principal speaker. Editor Guy emphasized three points: That "you'll never make a newspaperman or woman unless you work, work work"; that one cannot expect to graduate from a journalism school and start at the

Strike Averted As Rail Wages Remain Same

Major Railroads Cancel Order For 15 Per Cent Reduction; Federal Aid To Be Sought

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 4—The nation's major railroads cancelled an order for a 15 per cent wage cut for approximately 930,000 employes today in the hope their action would expedite government aid.

The decision forestalled a strike of the workers and cleared the way for drafting legislation to help the carriers.

Withdrawal Was Asked

Withdrawal of the pay reduction notice was recommended last Saturday by President Roosevelt's fact-finding board. J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, and George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Excutives association, conferred with Mr. Roosevelt Monday.

They announced then he had promised to support a legislative program to aid the rail lines and had expressed confidence an informal committee of six, representing labor and management, could present one to the next congress.

Alluding to these developments, Pelley informed President Roosevelt by telegram today "the railroads are taking this action not because they agree with the conclusions reached by the fact-finding board, but because they recognize the gravity of the situation and because they hope that out of it will come, through the cooperation of all concerned, a sounder and more equitable transportation policy."

To Map Legislation

The association's legislative committee planned to meet in Washington tomorrow to start work on a remedial legislative program.

Earlier in the week, Pelley mentioned a six point program fostered by the association. It included revision of the Interstate Commerce commission's rate-making procedure, low rate government loans, abolition of reduced government freight rates, repeal of the long and short haul rate law and new regulation of water transportation.

Hull To Refuse Jap Proposals

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Cordell Hull, secretary of state, indicated today the United States would not abide by Japan's intention to link Japan, China and Manchoukuo together politically and economically.

In a formal statement, he also gave the world to understand this country would not accept any denunciation by Japan of the nine-power treaty guaranteeing China's independence and the open door of commercial opportunities there.

He served notice the United States stands on the existing treaties dealing with Japan and China. The American attitude, he said, is governed by the generally accepted principles of international law.

He did not indicate what action the United States would take and denied reports he was consulting

We Hope They Deliver Him A Morning Paper Up There Today—So He Will Know

(By The Associated Press)

CLAREMORE, Okla., Nov. 4.—Will Rogers' friends—including cowboys, actors, aviators and the president of the United States—joined Oklahoma today in dedicating a memorial to Claremore's famous son who once observed "I never met a man I didn't like."

The audience of more than 20,000 persons, gathered on a windy hilltop in front of the newly-completed $200,000 Rogers museum, was in itself an unprecedented tribute to a private citizen.

President Pays Homage

President Roosevelt broadcast from Hyde Park, N. Y., his "grateful homage to the memory of a man who helped the nation to smile."

"After all," said Mr. Roosevelt, "I doubt if there is among us a more useful citizen than the one who holds the secret of banishing gloom, of making tears give way to laughter, of supplanting desolation and despair with hope and courage. For hope and courage always go with a light heart."

The president's speech was the climax of a celebration which included the unveiling, by Mary Rogers, of a heroic bronze statue of her father made by Jo Davidson, American sculptor.

From New York to Pittsburgh to Hollywood and back to Claremore, a national radio network switched to pick up pleasant memories of Rogers voiced by friends of stage, screen, business and government.

"Anytime you gave him a biscuit, he'd want to pay you back with a barrel of flour," said Eddie Cantor with a choke in his voice. Cantor spoke from New York.

Peachy, 12, Refuses To Go Back To Her 60-Year-Old Hubby

(By The Associated Press)

ASHLAND, Ky., Nov. 4—Ruth "Peachy" Whitt Howard, child bride, said today she was "not going back to that Wilburn (her 60-year-old husband)" and added: "I want my mommy."

Interviewed in the county jail where she is awaiting a hearing tomorrow on a juvenile delinquency charge, "Peachy" pointed a finger at her closely cut black hair and said:

"See my scars? Wilburn and his kids beat me and I'm going to tell when I go to court."

Wilburn Howard, who can neither read nor write, is free on $1,000 bond pending a hearing. He has 10 children by a previous marriage.

Howard and "Peachy" were married April 11 last at Ironton, Ohio.

"Peachy" says she is 14, her mother gave her age as 16 when the marriage license was secured but Boyd County Attorney Clayton Smoot said school records show the girl's age as 12.

Man Who Figured In Sensational Death Of Showgirl Brings Forth Bride Of A Year

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—Henry Huddleston Rogers, jr., son of the late H. H. Rogers, multi-millionaire Standard Oil executive, has been married secretly to Diana Taylor, a dancer, for more than a year.

"I'm not saying when or where we were married," he said today at his Bedford village home, "because I don't want to drag her through the mire I've been in."

"When Evelyn died, I thought I'd die, too," he said, referring to Evelyn Hoey, the showgirl who was shot to death in Roger's Pennsylvania farmhouse in 1935. "But I didn't know Diana then."

A coroner's jury found that Miss Hoey "died at the hands of a person or persons unknown."

Mrs. Rogers is a tall, slender blonde with brown eyes and a quiet manner.

Rogers said a portrait of his great-great-grandfather, Henry Huddleston, of Bedford, Mass., hanging over the mantel in the

Arms Plants In United States To Be Opened

Steps Also Will Be Taken To Cut Down Delays In Building Ships; Secrecy Maintained

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 — The magnitude of the United States' effort to re-arm swiftly in a troubled world was emphasized today with disclosures that long-unused arms plants are to be reopened and steps taken to cut down delays in construction of warships.

President Roosevelt, at Hyde Park, N. Y., made known that a $22,000,000 World war ordnance plant at South Charleston, W. Va., would be reopened and devoted to a secret purpose, and that the New Orleans navy yard would be used again after being inoperative since 1921.

Mean Large Saving

These steps, Mr. Roosevelt said, are part of a general program of utilizing dis-used, government-owned land and plants, so far as possible in the re-armament program, instead of buying private property for the purpose. This, Mr. Roosevelt said, would mean a large saving for the government.

Mr. Roosevelt's remarks about delays in warship construction were of intense interest here. He said the government was striving to reduce the time that elapses between appropriations for warships and completion of construction. A major reason for these delays, he said, is the fact that designs have rapidly changed during the construction of ships.

Face Possible Delays

Mr. Roosevelt made these remarks when asked about published reports that the navy faced possible further delays because navy officials are split on matters of design.

Earlier in the day, the navy disclosed the transfer of two officers on its key board of inspection and survey, but denied the transfers were due to any criticism the two men had made on ship designs.

The two officers are: Rear Admiral H. L. Brinser, board president, who is to be transferred to the navy's general board; and Cap-

The clergyman was jailed here and will be taken to Seguin Monday, opening day of the county's grand jury session.

County Attorney Denver E. Perkins said Mr. Ekrut made a detailed statement in connection with the cases involving alleged assault upon an 11-year-old girl and attempted assault upon a 13-year-old girl.

Occurred In August

Perkins said the alleged offenses occurred in August. Mr. Ekrut's statement said the two girls had visited in the minister's home, Perkins disclosed.

The charges were filed before Justice of the Peace H. C. Hartmann at Nixon.

Mr. Ekrut was married at Stockdale March 12, 1937, and went to Nixon six days later as pastor of the Nixon Baptist church.

Sam Gardner Slain In Affray At Gin; No Charges Filed

By DAN TARPLEY
Avalanche Staff Writer

LEVELLAND, Nov. 4 — Sam A. Gardner, about 45, farmer of Locketville about 15 miles southeast of here, was shot to death a few minutes before 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Less than half an hour later C. N. Ticer, also a farmer of that community, walked into the sheriff's office here, surrendered a pistol.

In a justice of peace hearing tonight Ticer was ordered released without bond, with no charge having been filed against him. Several witnesses placed on the stand under oath said they believed Ticer had acted in self defense and that Gardner was "not normal."

Ticer, who voluntarily took the stand to tell his version of the shooting, said when he was at the Locketville gin office this afternoon, Gardner approached and beckoned to him. He said he went with him to purchase a sack of pecans, then went to Gardner's car with him. They got in it and Gardner drove his car and trailer to the scales at the gin.

When sitting in the car on the scales Gardner unexpectedly asked Ticer "Why were you following me last night?" Ticer said.

"I wasn't," Ticer said he replied. "Gardner called me a liar and cursed me and produced a gun from a holster inside his shirt.

Hammer Snapped On Hand

"He had the gun in his right hand and I grabbed it," Ticer said. "He tried twice to shoot me as we scuffled and both times the hammer of the pistol snapped on my hand, cutting it." He showed wounds on his hand to investigators and to the justice of peace.

In the scuffle in the car, Ticer said, Gardner was thrown into the back of the car and Ticer was in the front seat leaning over the back of it. He said he took the pistol away from Gardner and told him to remain inside the car.

Reached For Rifle

"He was partly outside the car and reached for a Winchester rifle in the car," Ticer said. He said Gardner was dragging the rifle backward in what he believed were attempts to get ready to shoot.

Ticer said he shot once.

Gardner fell to the ground outside the car. Ticer said he went to his home, told his wife what had happened, then went to the sheriff's office immediately and surrendered to a deputy, telling his story.

"I didn't want to do it," Ticer said. He told investigators he had known Gardner several years and had "liked him."

"I did it to save my own life," he said. Ticer has three sons and a daughter.

Tells Of Meeting

Ticer told of meeting Gardner "about 10 days ago" on the road at night. "I was pulling a trailer," he said, "and met Gardner. He turned his car toward me and came close enough to hub my trailer. The next night we met again on the road and I had to drive into a ditch to avoid a collision. Later I asked why he did it."

"When you see me coming you better take out through the field."

Showers Check Several Fires Over Country

(By The Associated Press)

Rain sweeping out of the west Friday revived the spirits of a force of more than 8,000 men striving to stem the spread of forest fires in 13 states.

Showers checked several large blazes in Alabama, Mississippi, and western Tennessee. Heavy winds whisked a rain storm toward the menaced areas of the arid midwest.

Losses Are Heavy

Losses of more than $300,000 were calculated in the broad territory between Missouri and the Atlantic seaboards and Michigan and the gulf before the sudden change in the weather spurred hopes the tide of battle was turning.

A promise of rain cheered fire fighters in West Virginia, where State Forester D. B. Griffin estimated one-fourth of the state was dotted by flames. At least 60 outbreaks were counted. Many were out of control.

Light Rain Reported

Light precipitation was reported in western Kentucky. The major conflagrations in that state were in Harlan and Pike counties. Some 7,500 acres were charred. Damage was placed at $200,000.

Six forest fires were reported in southern Indiana. One, in Washington county, was out of control on a three-mile front. Foresters fixed the loss at $100,000.

A tornadic wind toppled a radio tower at Harrisburg, Ill., as a rain storm swept eastward. In nearby Wayne and Hamilton counties experts and volunteers reported they had a wood and prairie fire "about under control." Gov. Henry Horner proclaimed a state of emergency in prohibiting the kindling of fires in the timber lands.

To Ask Proclamation

Michigan's conservation director, P. J. Hoffmaster, announced he

Tower Guard Tells How His Fire Halted Prison Break

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4—James C. Lucas and Rufus Franklin, Alcatraz prisoners charged with the hammer murder of a guard, listened in court today while a low-spoken tower guard told how his gunfire halted their break for freedom.

Guard Harold Stites told of the action around his tower after Royal M. Cline, carpenter shop guard, had been fatally beaten in the escape attempt May 23.

Coming Through Wire

Stites said he was in his tower when he "saw three prisoners coming through the (barbed) wire."

The three, Lucas, Franklin and Thomas E. Limerick, had just broken a window in the carpenter shop in an effort to get to the guard tower where they hoped to obtain guns for the break.

"One, I couldn't tell which, threw an iron bar through the window," Stites said. "I picked up the pistol and fired the first shot into the window casing of the door.

Shot Killed One

"The next man, Limerick, threw a piece of iron through the window. I fired a shot at him and he fell." (This shot killed Limerick).

Stites said after Franklin threw a piece of metal through the window "I fired a shot that hit him."

"Lucas was up to the door," the guard continued. "He threw an object. I fired two shots at him and missed.

"Franklin crawled up and threw

WHITE COLLAR STANDARD

IT sounds incredible but it's true that with all the young unemployed there are in this country there are fields of opportunity being neglected. Take the word of Miss Helen Harris of the New York division of the National Youth administration who has claims and cases to back her claim.

According to Miss Harris, 42 per cent of the young people are being trained for clerical jobs, though there are openings for only 8 per cent. And only 13 per cent are learning trades—where opportunity is greatest.

Why is it that such a high percentage of young people are preparing themselves for white collar unemployment instead of learning a trade they will be able to work at? There are probably two reasons—snobbishness and lack of foresight on the part of schools and young people.

A smart young man or woman would study unemployment statistics—and try to fit himself and his abilities into a field that isn't overcrowded. But young people aren't encouraged to use that much common sense, by the older generation—particularly their own parents.

For parents have a false set of values. They want their sons and daughters to have jobs that they can brag about. They want it so badly they let their children prepare themselves for jobs that don't exist.

SALT RISING BREAD

HERE'S a recipe for Texas salt rising bread, sent through the courtesy of Mrs. Carl L. Svensen who says it was used for many years by her mother, the late Mrs. B. C. Rix, and was really good.

The day before baking, at noon, set your rising in the following manner: Take a cup full of sweet milk, boil thoroughly, add to this enough corn meal to make a thick paste. Place a cover on the bowl, set this inside of a tin bucket, cover closely and place in the hot sun. At night cover with a thick cloth, to keep from getting chilled. Next morning heat to the boiling point a quart of sweet milk.

Make a well in the middle of your pan of flour, pouring one-half of this boiling milk into the flour, scalding it, let stand a few minutes, cool the balance of the milk and add to the scalded mixture; stir in enough flour to make a sponge, add one tablespoon of salt, when sufficiently cooled add the rising.

Cover it tightly and keep warm. When light, which should be in one or two hours, add flour enough to make into loaves. Place in small baking pans and let get very light; bake in a hot oven about 45 minutes. Try this in hot weather only.

Thanks Mrs. Svensen.

Blond Beauty From Italy

Rare as the old coins of Caesar is blond beauty in Italy. Isa Miranda was a typist in Milan until a beauty contest started her to Hollywood. There for a year she has worked patiently perfecting her English. Now she is ready to star in "Hotel Imperial," in which she plays the part of a slavey. Honey-colored hair tops her luscious pink and white complexion.

Frenship P-TA Has Social And Business Gathering

A business meeting of Frenship Parent-Teacher association Thursday night at the school was followed by a social hour in which parents and teachers and some of the students played forty-two and Chinese checkers and other students played table tennis or skated.

CORRECTION

Patty June Ross, instead of Betty Jean Ross, played on a Harmony club Mozart division program Friday night at 1811 Ninth street.

WASH WASHING UTENSIL

Always wash and dry a washboard after using. Naturally, this is particularly important to the life of one not rustproof. All, however, remain in better condition if thoroughly cleaned of soapy, soiled water each time used.

TREAT ENAMEL WITH RESPECT

Permanent chipping and marring of fine enamelled surfaces often comes from careless usage. Don't chip ice in the sink and by all means avoid knocking the surface with heavy cooking utensils.

Bridge School Ends Here Last Night

With the admonition against playing the club convention at bridge parties, W. F. (Rufus) Steele Friday night told the bridge school that the convention is a fine method for finding a game forcing bid at the level of one or a slam bid at the same level. It is a good convention for foursome games in the home where all players understand what is meant by an opening bid of one club.

One of the main advantages is that the convention on the first round withholds important suit information from opponents. While the club convention is not a part of the Culbertson system, which Steele has been teaching this week at the American Legion hall, it probably will be adopted at the 1943 session of the Bridge Congress, owner of the Culbertson system.

Rules Are Unchanged

All rules of the Culbertson system will remain unchanged until 1943. Highpoints of the lessons for the entire week will be summarized in the woman's section of the Sunday Avalanche-Journal.

"Students of my school here, most of them expert card players from the beginning, now have an understanding of a system which is uniform all over the world. I believe they will insist that the Culbertson system be played correctly in Lubbock and, if I return after the first of the year, I am expecting even more enthusiasm than I encountered this time," Steele said Friday.

Steele will leave Sunday for Big Spring where he will rest a week, then conduct a school under auspices of the new Elks club.

Four Members Of Alleged Crime Syndicate Face Possible Death Sentences

Plead Innocent To Indictments

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. (AP) — Four members of an alleged "crime syndicate," facing possible death sentences, pleaded innocent today to three kidnaping indictments accusing them of a series of abductions in which they allegedly demanded a total of $425,000 ransom and killed Arthur Fried, young White Plains, (N. Y.) business man.

Four others were held in bail totalling $95,000 as material witnesses.

Confess Taking Fried

Assistant District Attorney Jacob J. Rosenblum said the prisoners confessed they took Fried from his home last Dec. 4, held him captive in the basement of the Ukrainian hall on the lower East Side, killed him and cremated his body in a furnace.

The penalty for conviction in the Fried case would be death in the electric chair or 20 years to life in prison.

The four men were named as William Jacknis, 27; Demetrius Gula, 30; John Virga, 34, and Joseph Stephen Sacoda, 28, a Sing Sing convict.

Gula and Sacoda were charged with the Fried kidnaping in one of the three indictments, and all four were named in the other two indictments accusing them of kidnaping Norman Miller, 19-year-old college student, and Benjamin Farber, of Brooklyn.

Demands Were Lowered

Rosenblum said the gang demanded $200,000 for the return of Miller but finally accepted $13,000 and sought $25,000 for Farber but released him for $1,900.

Those held as material witnesses were Gula's father, Dennis, 52; Jack Werner, 53, described by Rosenblum as chef and bartender at the hall and a man described by himself as a Greek Catholic priest and another bartender.

Rosenblum said he had no corroberative evidence to prove the story of the cremation, and he suggested the kidnapers might have invented that part of the story in the hope of escaping the death penalty through failure of the state to establish the corpus delicti.

The four former convicts pictured above who Chief G-Man J. Edgar Hoover claims were involved in three hitherto unrevealed kidnapings and one murder in New York, have been turned over to New York authorities by federal men. Left to right are William Jacknis, Joseph Sacoda, John Virga, and Demetrius Gula. Killed and cremated while the kidnap gang was demanding $200,000 ransom was Arthur Fried, White Plains, N. Y., business man, missing since last Dec. 14, Hoover said. Kidnaped and released on payment of ransom, were Benjamin Farber and Norman Miller. The four also are accused of three robberies.

Theater For The Housewives Is The Idea Advanced By Actress; Benefits Are Told

CHICAGO, Nov. 4. (AP)—Over Irish stew and madeira, actress Gertrude Lawrence today warmed to an idea that she considered was a honey.

It was that housewives might profitably take a leaf from the book of the flowering labor and other group theaters and have a fling at the sock and buskin themselves.

Maybe the talent of Middletown and Suburbia wouldn't always be so hot, but a lack of histrionic finesse would be more than offset, Miss Lawrence believes, by benefits she counted off on her slender expressive fingers.

"I think a theater for wives would be of much value," asserted the star of "Susan And God." I doubt that it would do a great deal in the way of stimulating interest in the theater, generally, but locally it would be an excellent substitute for many of the activities that now engage women outside the home. It would be grand sport. And what an outlet for their feelings; how the women could dramatize their troubles."

Texas Ranger Will Stand By Pal But Not When He Has To Go And See A Judge

Will a Texas ranger stand by a brother ranger when the other is "on the spot?"

No, said Frank Mills.

In a modified way, said Capt. Mannie Gault.

The two rangers, who see nothing exciting in chasing criminals, took time out to be bothered when Mills found police had tagged his automobile for "overparking."

"When we came down here you said you would take the lead in anything that came up, so I'd like you to go over and talk to the judge," said Mills.

"I meant I'd do that under ordinary circumstances, but not when you run your neck out," said the captain.

Gault later agreed he would "go in after you and watch it all."

Crop Acreage Now Is Being Measured By Speedometer

ATLANTA, Nov. 4. (AP)—William F. Callander, chairman of the federal crop reporting board, shifted his favorite pipe today and told how crop acreage is estimated by speedometer.

Of course it's not an ordinary speedometer, Callander said. It's a special instrument invented by a federal worker years ago, and it will check acreage of a dozen crops at a time.

The gadget, attached to an automobile dashboard, has a series of buttons marked "corn," "peanuts," or what have you. As the driver arrives at the beginning of a field of corn the operator pushes the button marked "corn" and releases it when the field ends. At the same time the operator can check whatever type of crop is growing on the opposite side of the road.

Only one measurement is taken, roadside lineage, and if this year's crop shows ten per cent more miles in peanuts than last year, then the state acreage is reported up ten per cent.

Writer Says There Is Something Menacing About New York

LONDON, Nov. 4. (AP) — J. B. Priestly, the writer, whose latest play was unsuccesful on Broadway, feels there is "something hostile, even menating, in the atmosphere of New York."

Writing in the current issue of "Time and Tide," Priestly acknowledged that previous successes from his pen "were dismissed as dreary trifles over-there." But he said he was bewildered about the recent failure of his play "I Have Been There Before," because all his friends who saw it in London predicted it would be a New York smash.

Of New York Priestly said, "I have always felt there was an inexplicable sense of menace, a faint foreboding of tragedy as if something above those great towers were plotting against the soul of man."

The author also observed, "I never sleep properly there."

HITLER IS GODFATHER

BERLIN, Nov. 4 (AP)—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's five months old daughter, Edda, was baptized today by Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller, head of the Prussian Evangelical church, at Goering's Karinhall estate. Adolf Hitler was godfather.

Man Killed As He Objects To Having Car Parked On Lawn

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP)—A motorist killed Donald Warden, 27, last night because he objected to having a car parked on his front lawn.

The slayer and his three companions, all unidentified, fled after the shooting.

A quarrel developed when Warden told the men to move their car, one wheel of which was parked on the lawn. Three of the men engaged Warden in a fist fight. The fourth opened fire with a pistol.

Four-Year Search Is Ended And Rich Holdup Is Solved

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. (AP)—Ending a relentless four-year search, police marked "solved" today the $428,000 Rubel ice plant armored car holdup in Brooklyn in 1934, with the indictment of seven men and a woman.

Six were charged with participation in the robbery; the woman with harboring the gang in her Manhattan rooming house; the seventh man, a doctor, was accused of treating one of the bandits for a shotgun wound received as he fled.

Arraigned on charges of robbery, grand larceny and assault were Stewart Wallace, Joe Kress and Thomas Quinn.

Dr. Harry Gilbert and Mrs. Madeline Tully, the rooming house operator, were arrainged as accessories after the crime.

Also indicted were John Oley and Percy Geary, now in Alcatraz, and John Hughes, a fugitive.

You Can Do As You Please But It's Much Cheaper To Appear

When you get a court summons you have the alternative of showing up in court or doing as you darned well please.

But officials prefer that you answer.

A Lubbock man was charged with speeding.

Authorities said he did not appear when notified to do so.

Results: He executed bond Friday morning in two cases, one of $100 after pleading not guilty of excess speed and one for $200 on a failure to appear charge.

The cases were in the court of Walter Davies, justice of peace.

Life Spared At Final Minute

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 4. (AP)—Twenty-nine anxious minutes after a confessed kidnaper was scheduled to die in Missouri's lethal gas chamber, three attorneys arrived at the state prison early today after a six-hour drive through a blinding rainstorm with papers which spared his life for at least 10 months.

By telephone, they had succeeded in having the execution hour for Oscar Ralph Ashworth, 37, delayed from 12:01 to 1 a. m., while they threaded their slippery way by automobile the 225 miles from St. Joseph, Mo., to the prison here.

Arrive With Writ

At 12:30 a. m., they arrived with a writ of error, automatically staying execution.

"I am going to pray all day," the distraught Ashworth mumbled gratefully to Warden J. Frank Ramsey when informed he would not have to die today for kidnaping a seven-year-old St. Joseph girl and attempting to assault her.

Adding to the drama of the night, two crocks which hold the deadly fumes in the death chamber broke during preparations for the execution of another man, Byron King, convicted of slaying George Speer, St. Louis taxi driver, in a $3.50 holdup.

All-America Drum Major Quits School To Turn Professional

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 4. (AP) — Louisiana State's All-America drum major, Steve Borne, quit school today to turn his skill at baton-twirling and goose-stepping into cash.

Steve will turn professional. First, he will teach the fine art of drum-majoring at a Vicksburg, Miss., high school. He has an offer, following that, for a similar job at Chicago.

Borne, 18 years old, won the national high school drum-majoring championship at Cleveland in 1936, along with the title All-American drum major.

Steve, in winning his title twirled three and often since has duplicated the feat of juggling three in the colorful shows presented between halves of L. S. U. football games.

His brother Irwin will take over as head drum major.

Lingering Indian Summer Has Adverse Effect On Trade

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. (AP)—Retail trade in many sections of the nation was adversely affected during the past week by lingering Indian summer, said Dun & Bradstreet today in their weekly business survey.

The review added, however, "there was evidence that the public was in a better mood for buying than in many months.

"Against the 1937 week, which included heavy election day sales totals, retail volume was estimated to be off 6 to 18 per cent."

FARMER IS SHOT

BENTONVILLE, Ark., Nov. 4. (AP) —Charles Nowlin, 49, farmer of near Gravette, was shot and instantly killed by a posse of state police and sheriff's officers today when he refused to surrender on a peace disturbing charge.

Pace-Setters Of Gridiron Face Tests

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 — The nation's leading football teams, having laid foundations for their claims to top ranking, tomorrow enter upon the second and more vital phase of their campaigns. From now until the season's close, pace-setters will be called on to face rivals bent on undermining those foundations and building reputations of their own out of the remains.

The week-end program is made up in almost equal parts of neighborhood, historic and intersectional struggles. To enumerate the outstanding items of those component parts is a comparatively simple task. They are:

Game Rooted In 1869

1. Neighborhood: Southern California vs. California at Los Angeles. In addition to attracting the day's biggest crowd, 85,000, this game brings together the deadlocked leaders in the Pacific Coast conference.

2. Historic: Rutgers vs. Princeton at New Brunswick, N. J. This is important as a renewal of the rivalry that started all this intercollegiate football excitement back on Nov. 6, 1869.

3. Intersectional: Navy vs. Notre Dame at Baltimore. This one finds the Irish gunning for their sixth straight victory of the season, with Minnesota, Northwestern and Southern California looming in the background.

From under a pile of past-performance sheets, this observer pops up with the appended predictions (probable attendance figures in parentheses):

Southern California—California ($5,000)—California has put on just enough pressure to beat back each rival in turn. The Trojans have looked progressively better since that opening setback by Alabama. The Trojans, though straddling a fence might be just as comfortable.

Pittsburgh-Carnegie Tech ($6,000) — Despite the fact the Skibos pointed for this one there hardly can be any choice but Pitt.

Navy-Notre Dame ($8,000)—Navy is big, but lacks fire and inspiration. Notre Dame.

Northwestern-Wisconsin (35,000)—Northwestern. Its defense has surrendered only three points.

Alabama-Tulane (20,000)—Despite the Green Wave's Bronco Brunner, a vote for Alabama—but wavering.

Fordham-St. Mary's (45,000)—This reputedly is Slip Madigan's best St. Mary's team in several years. But it also is a green team. Fordham.

Yale-Brown (35,000)—Ignoring a hunch. Yale in a battle.

Minnesota-Iowa (45,000)—The Gophers' rebound from that Northwestern defeat may take on awesome proportions. Minnesota.

Texas-Texas Christian—T. C. U. should get a good workout on pass defense, but has all the weapons to win.

Villanova-Auburn—Wildcats, on superior scoring punch, over a disappointing Auburn team.

Michigan-Pennsylvania — Michigan.

Syracuse-Colgate—Colgate's pass defense should be good enough to stop Sidat-Singh.

Stanford-Washington—Washington.

Ohio State-Purdue — These two have played six times since 1919 and Purdue hasn't scored yet. Ohio State.

Boston college-Indiana—Boston college on scoring power.

Harvard-Chicago—The Harvard offensive "shell game" with a pigskin should baffle the boys from the midway.

Holy Cross-Temple—Holy Cross.

Oklahoma-Kansas State—Oklahoma to continue all-winning.

Rutgers-Princeton—Princeton but by no means a breeze.

Here and there:

East—Manhattan over North Carolina State; Columbia over Virginia; New York U over Lehigh; Penn State over LaFayette; Dartmouth over Dickinson; Army over F. and M.; Wesleyan over Williams.

Mid-West—Michigan State over two-touchdowns-a-game Missouri; Nebraska over Kansas; Iowa State over Drake; Western Reserve over West Virginia; Mississippi over St. Louis.

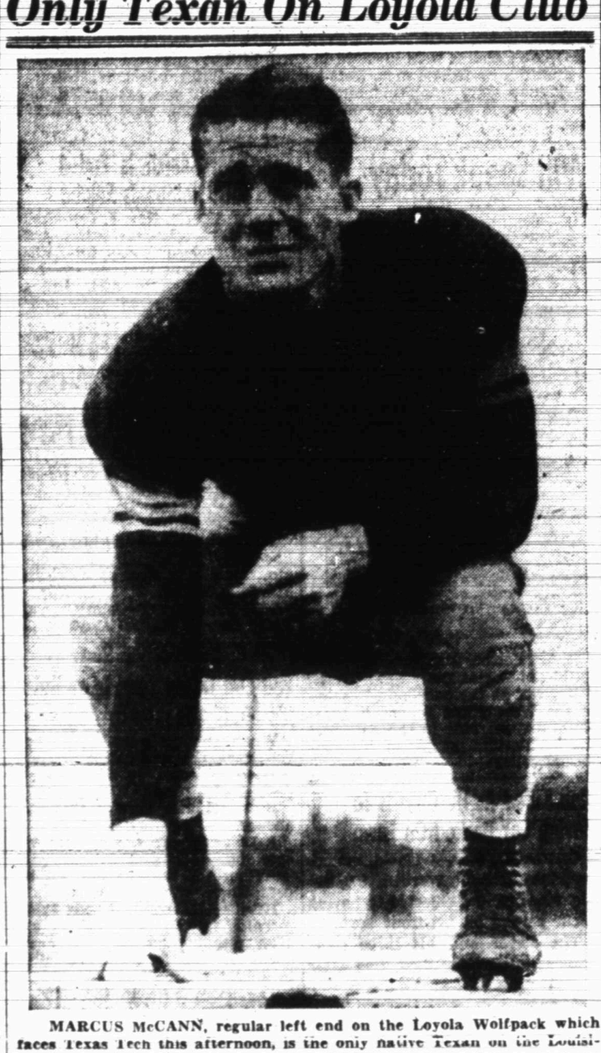

South—Louisiana State over Mississippi State; Georgia Tech over Kentucky; Georgia over Florida; North Carolina over V. P. I.; South Carolina over Duquesne; Centenary over Arizona; Clemson over George Washington; Wake Forest over V. M. I.; Tennessee over Chattanooga; Vanderbilt over Sewanee.

Southwest — Texas A. and M. over Southern Methodist; Baylor over Texas; Rice over Arkansas.

Far West—U. C. L. A. over Washington State; Oregon over Idaho; Santa Clara over San Francisco (Sunday); Utah over Colorado.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Great Lake trout weighing up to 39 pounds have been caught this summer in Upper Waterfon lake, Alberta, Canada.

Only Texan On Loyola Club

MARCUS McCANN, regular left end on the Loyola Wolfpack which faces Texas Tech this afternoon, is the only native Texan on the Louisiana team.

Big Crowd Participates In Rally At Tech Gymnasium

School spirit rides high on the Tech campus as the undefeated Red Raiders begin the sprint down the home stretch in the race for national honor and recognition.

Approximately 2,000 students and towns people gathered in the Tech gymnasium Friday night to participate in the largest pep rally staged this year, in preparation for today's game with Loyola of the South! The rally was broadcast over 23 stations of the Texas State network as a part of the All Texas Football Roundup program.

The first 30 minutes of the program were broadcast from Southern Methodist university, and as the cheer leaders urged "Show up S. M. U!" the crowd responded with an outburst that shook the building. "The reputation of the Raiders has been kept dark too long," declared student president James Huffman, who presided over the rally. "Let's get together tonight and shove them to the front where they belong!"

Murphy Is Surprised

The red-coated Matador band and Ned Bradley's orchestra followed the practice of saluting with music every speaker at the conclusion of his address. Great was the surprise of tackle A. B. Murphy when at the conclusion of his address the orchestra members arose, and to the tune of "Flat Foot Floogie" extolled in song the praises of "big Red Murphy."

Presented as "Tech's number one supporter" was Judge J. A. Raley. Said he, "we may be only 12 years old, but our school spirit is unexcelled anywhere." Sitting side by side, members of the Raiders and the Wolfpack heard Line Coach Dutchy Smith declare "The Loyola team is the best coached, best drilled and most precise in the Notre Dame style of play that I've seen anywhere," while Coach Pete Cawthon followed up with "Coach Mullins has his team ready to eat raw meat."

Larry "Moon" Mullins, when presented, complimented the citizens of Lubbock and the students on their spirit and friendliness toward his players and himself, but prudently declined to predict the outcome of the game.

Other numbers on the program were songs by the DFD club trio, composed of Virginia Knapp, Ina Bacon and Merle Haynes, and by Brunette Beard, co-ed songstress; speeches by Captains Frank Gunick and Murphy.

The program originated through facilities of KFYO, affiliate of the Texas State network.

Spur, Flomot Play To 26-26 Deadlock

SPUR, Nov. 4 (Special)—For four hard-fought quarters the Spur Bulldogs and Flomot Longhorns battled tooth and toe-nail here today only to leave their District 4B argument unsettled through a 26-26 tie.

Accent was on offense as the contenders for the loop championship raced up and down the turf of Jones Memorial field. It was first defeat for each team in conference play.

Amonette, star backfield of the Steers, scored all his team's touchdowns. Pete Wilhoit and Hurst, Bulldog backs, each scored twice. Billy Haralson added two extra points for Spur.

Post Overwhelms Ralls, 37 To 0

POST, Nov. 4. (Special)—Post's Antelopes ran roughshod over the Ralls Jackrabbits here tonight, winning, 37 to 0, in a non-conference game.

The Antelopes prevailed in every department, running up 10 first downs to Ralls' one, and gained 190 yards to 39 on the ground.

Justice, Smith and Jenkins each scored two touchdowns for Post. They and Carr and Satterwhite were outstanding for the locals. Barton paced the visitors.

Lineups: Post—Wood and Foreman, ends; L. Bean and McGehee, tackles; Ferguson and Miller, guards; Lane, center; Satterwhite, quarter; Carr and Smith, halves; Justice, full. Ralls—Stevens and Cowley, ends; Boiston and Farrington, tackles; Blanton and Maken, guards; Brown, center; Mann, quarter; McCandliss and Littlefield, halves; Barton, full.

Crimson Tide Is Underdog In Clash With Greenies

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 4. (AP)—For the first time in six years, Alabama came to town an underdog today, prepared for a bruising encounter with Tulane's double-barreled football team on Legion field tomorrow.

The Green Wave's steady gridiron rise, contrasted to Alabama's listless play against mediocre opposition, has established Tulane as a distinct favorite with some bettors giving the Crimson Tide three points.

Bears Hope For Comeback Luck Against Mavs

AUSTIN, Nov. 4. (AP)—Baylor university of Waco and the University of Texas, two grid aggregations which have played through as many thrillers and upsets as any teams in the Southwest conference, meet here for the 30th time tomorrow.

Although they have lost eight straight games, Coach Dana X. Bible's Texas Longhorns have been picked by some to kick the dope bucket and add a 22nd victory to their feud with the Waco eleven.

Coach Morley Jennings' hard-fighting Bears, however, had other ideas and, led by their great triple-threater, Billy Patterson, may wreak revenge on the ill-fated Steers for a lop-sided defeat by Texas Christian last week.

Cooler weatner was in prospect for the tilt—a possible aid to the reserve-less Longhorns.

Owls And Razorbacks Meet In Tossup Contest Today

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 4. (AP)—Jinxed by injuries, Rice institute, doggedly defending a Southwest conference title it won last year, meets Arkansas's Razorbacks here tomorrow in a tossup conference game.

Key men were either left at home or riding the bench as Rice took its final tuneup. No Ernie Lain will be in to throw his touchdown passes; no Capt. Jess Hines, no Jack (Red) Vestal, no Earl Glassie.

Not up to par were Olie Cordill, and Doug (Scat) Sullivan. But ready were E. Y. Steakley, the dash man who churned into a starting berth last week with his performance against Auburn, and Jake Schuehle, veteran fullback.

Meanwhile, Arkansas, its game improving weekly, planned the usual aerial snow built around Ray Eakin, and the ground game that has been pestering enemies surprisingly well.

Mustangs Are Crippled For Challenge Of Texas Aggies

DALLAS, Nov. 4. (AP)—Two great runners lead the ground-eating Texas Aggies on to the very birthplace of Southwest forward passing—Southern Methodist's Ownby stadium—in a conference battle of power vs. passing tomorrow.

Equipped with Dick Todd, one of the nation's foremost climax runners and John Kimbrough, the 211-pound sophomore line rammer, the Aggies, coming fast after a wobbly start, were slightly favored to knock over an erratic Methodist eleven.

The Methodists were badly crippled by the absence of Capt. Charlie Sprague, a line power at his end post. Baccus was due to start at the weak wing with Bailey, a converted backfielder, also scheduled to try a position he has never played.

Mighty Horned Frogs Scrap Tulsa's Golden Hurricane

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 4. (AP)—The mighty Texas Christian university football squad went through a stiff workout today in preparation for its non-conference battle with the University of Tulsa tomorrow.

Just as if his team were not favored overwhelmingly, Coach Dutch Meyer put the Horned Frogs through a brisk drill.

At fairgrounds pavilion, meantime, Coach Vic Hurt was giving his Golden Hurricane a similar practice.

Tomorrow the fans will be watching for Christian's Quarterback Davey O'Brien and Fullback Connie Sparks to lead the offensive drives with big I. B. Hale and Kl Aldrich sparking the forward wall.

Tulsa's backers were fearful that Forrest Gregory, fine guard might not be able to start because of injuries.

George Farmer, regular halfback, was definitely out.

CINCINNATI, (AP)—The Reds have the heaviest battery in the major leagues when Ernie Lombardi catches the heaves of big Jim Weaver.

Jumbo Webster Takes Over Role Of Trouble Shooter; Second String Is Active

By TOM MILLER
Avalanche Staff Sports Writer

McCOLLUM FIELD, Lamesa, Nov. 4.—Capt. Jumbo Webster's deft ball carrying ability charged an otherwise stalemated Lubbock Westerner eleven with scoring finesse in one quarter here today to down a scrapping Lamesa team, 14 to 0, before 3,000 wildly cheering spectators.

The victory was the third for Lubbock in as many starts against District 1 competition. It was Lamesa's third loss, while in a fourth the Lamesans were losers to Pampa on penetrations.

The Westerner second team played the Golden Tornadoes on even terms in the first half in which neither was able to score. When Lamesa kicked off for the second half, Webster was in Lubbock's lineup for the first time during the game.

Immediately he set out to place the Westerners in position for one touchdown and scored one himself.

Sets Up Touchdown

Wayne Pipes took the post-intermission kickoff, sliced from the toe of Bob Crawley, on Lubbock's 46-yard line. Webster picked up three yards, then was stopped in midfield on line thrusts.

On his third try the big fullback lumbered to a first down on Lamesa's 42, then charged through the line for three more yards. Howard Alford found a staunch wall of resistance for no gain, but on two attempts at end and tackle Webster made another first down on the 26.

Alford picked up two yards after Lubbock incurred a five-yard offside penalty and Webster carried to the 22.

Jackson Scores Standing

From there Leete Jackson went over untouched on a double reverse for a touchdown. A gaping hole was left in the wake of a deceptive maneuver in which Webster handed the ball off to Alford, who in turn gave it to Jackson.

Jackson outstripped a pair of Lamesa secondaries. Joe Bob Foster placed the try for point squarely between the uprights.

The ever threatening Crawley took the Lubbock kickoff on his 20-yard line and fought his way back to the 30. After he had found the Westerner line impregnable on a try at center, Crawley drifted back and connected Fullback J. V. Anderson with a 12-yard heave and Anderson ran five more.

Punt Return Nets 27 Yards

A five-yard Tornado off-side penalty and two incomplete passes forced Crawley to kick. He booted high and straight to Webster on the 23, the Lubbock pilot scampered back to midfield.

From there he, Leete Jackson and Howard Alford teamed to score again. Jackson started with a six-yard stab and Alford picked up a first down on Lamesa's 34.

Alford was tossed for a loss, but a Tornado lineman was off-side, drawing a penalty. Webster and Alford made another first down on the 22.

Jackson gained seven yards in two tries, then lateraled on a third to Alford, who went to the nine. Webster backed up for a running start and plowed his way over the goal line. Foster again was accurate with his kick.

That ended scoring for the afternoon, but not the thrills, in which the Tornado eleven shared honors.

Jackie Vaughn and Crawley constantly put fear into Westerner hearts with their combined triple-threat ability. The heavier Lubbock crew had trouble stopping them time after time.

Vaughn punted phenomenally in the first half, once hitting the coffin corner inside the Lubbock five. Another of his kicks was good for 57 yards. He averaged 43 yards a try on six punts in the first half. Crawley took the kicking burden in the second half.

Lubbock's first team was in the game little more than one chapter, but without Webster, they were no more aggressive during their tenure than the shock troopers. J. B. Privitt and Howard Martin, aided by Alford and Jack Lovin, carried the brunt of Lubbock's offense.

Martin Boots Well, Too

Another good kicking performance was given by Martin, who got off four attempts for an average of 40 yards in the second period.

Jackson and Harold Parsons played well during their short stays in the contest.

Jerry Nash, Joe Pytell and Pat Farris led the first stringers defensively, while Ernest Winter, Billy Phillips and Avon Sewalt starred for the starters.

End Bobby Smith was one of the outstanding players on the field both offensively and defensively. He instinctively diagnosed Westerner plays and was instrumental in stopping many. His helpmates were Capt. Charles Jacobs, Leroy Holliday and Oscar Boswell.

Witnesses Tell Of The Dynamite Squad Activities In Republic Steel Strike

Plot To Blast Property Told

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (AP)—Two witnesses told the house committee investigating un-Americanism today that a "well-known communist" had directed the activities of a dynamite squad during a strike at the Republic Steel plant at Warren, Ohio, in June, 1937.

The witnesses, Lester J. Abele of Cleveland, and Edgar Herzog of Elyria, Ohio, said the man was Gus Hall, also known as Arva Halberg. They added Hall was "top man" at the Warren headquarters of the Steel Workers Organizing committee, a CIO union, and also was on the payroll of the communist party as an organizer.

Confessions Given

Abele, adjutant of the 73rd brigade of the Ohio national guard, testified that three members of the dynamite squad confessed they had received instructions to blow up property of the Republic Steel plant, home of non-strikers, railroad tracks and bridges, "highly volatile" tanks of benzol owned by Republic Steel, the municipal electric light plant, and a reservoir which supplied the city with water.

Abele, who said he assisted in obtaining the confessions, asserted that seven of eight men indicted pleaded guilty to a charge of possession and use of explosives. He said the eighth was Hall, who, he continued, later pleaded guilty to a lesser charge and was fined $500. Four were sentenced to the state penitentiary for one to 20 years and three were paroled, he said.

top; and that newspaper work is partially ordinary, routine work and one should not "enter this business expecting to wind up a war correspondent, a crack Washington correspondent, or an expert on movie stars and murder mysteries."

Newspaper work "will keep you in such close contact with humanity that you may look a president in the eye without trembling, and a dunce in the face without laughing—because it will teach you that the rich and the poor, the famous and the infamous, the 'biggest shots' and the 'littlest' shots are all pretty much the same under the skin," he said.

Awards Are Announced

Cecil Horne, head professor of journalism at the college, announced first place clinic awards based on last year's newspapers: Printed division, Westerner World, portable typewriter given by Hester's Office Supply company; page in downtown newspaper, Eagle's Tale, Canyon High school, $5 in office supplies given by Baker Printing company; mimeograph division, Cowboy World, Lubbock Junior High school, $20 in mimeograph supplies given by Lubbock Printing company and three other A. B. Dick company dealers, at Abilene, Amarillo, and El Paso.

John B. Sullivan, sponsor of the Hamilton High School Trail, gave the invocation. The Hill-Billy band of which Dr. C. C. Craig, Dr. F. G. Harbaugh, and Dr. Marshall Harvey are members presented a program. The women's physical education department of the college offered a skit and the Lubbock High school chapter of Quill and Scroll, a stunt. After the banquet, Mrs. L. H. Kirby, Lubbock High school physical education teacher, directed dances including Virginia Reel, Lambeth Walk, and Big Apple. She was assisted by Betty Jean Jones and Jane Ann Floyd.

Shuffler Will Speak

R. Henderson Shuffler, news editor of the Odessa Daily News-Times, will deliver the first address in this morning's session, opening at 9 o'clock in the engineering auditorium at the college. His subject will be "The Profession of Journalism." Sullivan is to speak on "Keeping Up Interest of Staff Members," and Mrs. Elithe Hamilton Beal, Iraan High school sponsor, is to speak on "School Newspaper as a Publicity Source for the School." Mrs. Ayers is to lead a discussion on value of Quill and Scroll, international honorary journalistic society.

Committee reports will be heard, resolutions adopted, and officers elected for the student group. A nominating committee named several candidates Friday night but planned to decide on other nominations before this morning's meeting. Leon Hughes, advertising manager of the Westerner World, and June Reynolds of Borger were named presidential nominees.

To Attend Game

The group will attend the Tech-Loyola of the South football game this afternoon through courtesy of the college athletic department.

The opening session of the clinic was conducted Friday afternoon in the engineering auditorium. Prof. Horne welcomed visitors. R. C. Hankins, Avalanche-Journal city editor, reviewed the collection and writing of news for Friday's Evening Journal, illustrating with carbon copies of stories and with copies of the newspaper. Mrs. Browning spoke on "Copyreading and Proofreading." Mrs. Ayers spoke on "Laboratory Procedure and Textbook for High School Journalists."

Group discussions were held in various divisions. Discussion leaders included Joseph B. Cowan, journalism instructor at the college; Miss Eula McCorkle, Junior High school sponsor; R. A. Mills, sponsor of the Tech yearbook; and Miss Maureen Howie, Odessa sponsor. Members and alumnae of the Women's Press club of the college entertained with a tea in the home economics tea room for visiting girls and women sponsors.

A meeting of Quill and Scroll members was postponed until this morning.

The winners in newspaper competition in the clinic for last year were determined by the journalism faculty of the college, with some students aiding under supervision of the faculty. The winners had been announced several months ago, but award of prizes postponed until the clinic meeting.

Frenship Eleven Ekes Out On Meadow Team, 7 To 0

With threats bogging down on the five and eight yard lines earlier in the game, the Frenship eleven pushed over a touchdown in the final quarter to defeat the Meadow crew, 7-0, yesterday in a conference game played at Meadow.

The touchdown came after a drive down the field when Bennett took Robertson's pass in the end zone for the score.

The game, eliminating Meadow from the class C race, enables Frenship to meet Cooper Wednesday for the District 2C championship.

Women's Demo Chief Defends Relief Clients' Voting Right

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (AP)—Mrs. Thomas F. McAllister, women's chief for the Democratic national committee, defended tonight the right of relief workers to vote.

Some persons, she said in a broadcast over CBS, would deprive citizens of suffrage, "simply because they have been forced by circumstances beyond their control to seek the assistance of a protecting and humane government."

The ordnance plant at South Charleston has been idle for some 18 years. It will not be used for the manufacture of armor plate, as intended when it was built, but Mr. Roosevelt was unwilling to say what it would be used for.

The decision to open the plant quieted an argument whether the government should sell it—an argument which several times has reached congress.

The New Orleans naval station, actually at nearby Algiers, La., represents an investment carried on naval records at $4,669,941. Members of the Louisiana congressional delegation have suggested repeatedly it be used for torpedo production or as a repair plant for such vessels as destroyers and submarines.

The fact that Hull twice mentioned China and Japan was interpreted to mean that, even as he will refuse to concede Japan the right to make a peace in China prejudicial to the nine-power treaty, so he will also refuse to recognize the right of China to make a peace with Japan which would injure the rights of the United States and other nations.

It is thought possible the time might come when China, tired of the war, might seek to make peace with Japan.

It was pointed out here that neither Japan nor China has the privilege, by her own action, to get rid of the nine-power treaty.

Rain checked forest flames in southeastern Missouri, Ranger Dudley Gilmore estimated at least 30,000 acres of land were burned over, including fields of unharvested grain. Fast work by 200 CCC workers saved the town of Rombauer. A downpour stopped flames spreading toward Fagus.

Showers were promised within the next 24 hours in eastern Alabama, Tennessee, northern Georgia and the western reaches of the Carolinas. Rain was needed in those states and Virginia to quench fires.

Olton Beats Cats On First Downs

OLTON, Nov. 4. (Special) — The Littlefield Wildcats lost their second game as a result of a tie tonight as the Olton Mustangs held them to a 7-7 draw.

With penetrations being tied at one all, first downs and yards gained from scrimmage decided the game in favor of the Mustangs.

In last week's game with Ralls, Littlefield again lost the game on penetrations, when the game ended in a deadlock. Tonight's defeat almost eliminates Littlefield from the district and practically cinches the northern half of the district race for Olton, undefeated in three conference games.

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Nov. 4. (AP)—Coach Harry Mehre, suffering from a cold, will sit by a radio at home here and listen to a broadcast as his University of Mississippi team plays St. Louis University in Missouri tomorrow.

Mehre's physicians said he could not make the trip. The team, 32 strong, left tonight with Weems Baskin, end coach, in charge.

New Deal Comes From Behind To Lick Roosevelt, 15-6

An over-confident New Deal Rural High school eleven was forced to retaliate in the second half of its game Friday afternoon with Roosevelt Rural High school to win 15 to 6.

Earlier this season New Deal had taken the Roosevelt party 36 to 0. As a result of the New Deal confidence, the invaders were trailing a Roosevelt eleven 6 to 0 at the end of the first half.

The New Dealers perked up in the last half to score 15 points and limit the Roosevelt team to not a single first down.

Harvey and Exum were outstanding in the New Deal backfield and McDonald and Hayslip in the line.

had a spot in their hearts for old Bill," declared George M. Cohan.

Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth publisher, said he could visualize his old friend, "looking down now and saying, 'shucks, folks, you oughtn't to have done this."

Jones Gives Summary

From Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, who made the dedicating address, came this summary of the life which ended in an Alaskan airplane crash three years ago:

"Will Rogers was a friend alike to the mighty and the weak—a friend for friendship's sake.

"He was strong and brave and true. He rode straight and hard, and played the game square."

Irvin S. Cobb, Fred Stone, Gov. E. W. Marland of Oklahoma, and Gen. Roy Hoffman, chairman of the Will Rogers memorial commission, added their words of praise.

On 59th Anniversary

The gray stone structure was dedicated on the fifty-ninth anniversary of Rogers' birth at nearby Oologah.

It will house Rogers' own collection of saddles, quirts, spurs and other trappings of the range, along with Indian and pioneer curios.

Mrs. Betty Rogers, the humorist's widow, his daughter Mary, and his sons Bill and Jimmy, came from California for the ceremonies.

The rites ended on the notes of a song dear to Rogers' horse-loving heart. As Walter Harrison, Oklahoma City editor, declared Rogers' memory would live on "like a bright glowing flame," a cowboy quartet chanted:

"Old faithful—we rode the range together—

"Old faithful—in every kind of weather—"

Tonight Claremore presented for its thousands of visitors a pageant of 20 episodes, bringing before them Rogers' life from his boyhood on the prairie, through his rodeo years, his career with Ziegfeld's Follies, and his adventures as America s unofficial "ambassador of good will," to his last Alaskan flight with another famed Oklahoman, Wiley Post.

Hockley Affray Fatal To One

Ticer quoted Gardner.

Sheriff Ed Hofacket, W. C. Rogers and F. A. Crockett, regular deputies, and T. T. McDermett, special deputy, were Hockley county officers conducting the investigation until Burton S. Burks, district attorney, accompanied by Victor H. Lindsey, his assistant, arrived.

No Bond Recommended

In the hearing, Burks recommended to the justice of peace that no bond be asked for Ticer.

Witnesses said Gardner had been acting strangely and that he had been carrying a gun about three weeks. Several said they had seen him in possession of a pistol and that they had seen a rifle in his car. He had taken a bale of cotton to the gin this afternoon to have it ginned.

Gardner had been jailed late last week on a simple assault charge on a negro, had pleaded guilty and was fined. He had been ordered released Monday. Sheriff Hofacket said he was out of the state and that his chief deputy was in New Mexico, at the time of the man's release.

Gin Manager Witness

E. L. Harris, manager of the Locketville gin and farms owned by Aubrey Locket of Wilbarger county, was the first witness at the hearing conducted by W. R. Baker, justice of peace. He said Gardner was a renter of Locket. Both the Locket farms and the gin are owned by the Wilbarger county man.

Harris said about three weeks ago Gardner entered his office and accused him of talking to his (Gardner's) brother relative to Gardner's condition. Harris denied it and Gardner called him a liar, Harris said. Gardner accused him of stealing and said he was severing business relations with him and the gin.

Communicated with Locket

Harris said he communicated with Locket relative to the matter. Burks said he also conferred with Harris and Locket about the relation. Harris said Gardner had said he would "kill anybody who signs a complaint against me."

Burks, however, went to Levelland Sunday to sign a lunacy complaint, but found Gardner in jail.

Harris said Gardner returned to him early this week and apologized for his actions "and was nice as could be." Harris further testified Gardner was back at the gin office Thursday and that he believed Gardner had been drinking. He said Gardner had a gun and that he had seen Gardner carrying whisky.

First Trouble Described

Harris said the first "trouble" with Gardner was about three weeks ago when Gardner approached a customer. Gardner was said to have carried a car pump. Harris said Gardner recently had been considered a dangerous man and had "terrorized the community."

The sheriff, under oath, told of going to Gardner's residence soon after hearing of his recent actions.

"When I drove up, he invited me in after having turned on the light," Hofacket said. "He told his wife and children to go into another room, then he switched off the light. He said Mexicans were after him. He said they were crawling about the house, looking for him.

Avoided The Highways

"He told me he always avoided the highways and entered his residence from the back way so that they wouldn't see him.

"We found no evidence of such things."

Hofacket said he had a letter purportedly written by Gardner and that it was "pointless." Many of the sentences were said to be unfinished.

Hofacket said he found Gardner's body near the gin office without a gun. He said, however, a scabbard was on the body. On returning to his office here, he found Ticer. Ticer showed the sheriff the hand wounds and said he had been bitten on the arm and leg. Hofacket said he understood Ticer had no gun until after he took that of Gardner. He said he believed Gardner was "insane and a dangerous man."

Dr. C. M. Phillips of Levelland reached the body at 5:15 o'clock this afternoon. He said the man was dead, but that the body was warm.

Saw Part Of Scuffle

Several witnesses saw part of the scuffle between Ticer and Gardner. Harris said he saw them fighting in Gardner's car.

R. S. Carmichael, gin bookkeeper, said he saw Gardner make a movement "apparently for the rifle," just before the shot was fired. He said in the last three weeks when Gardner came to the gin there was a "state of confusion" and he believed Ticer "had to do it."

Carmichael told a story he said was told to him by Gardner. Gardner told him, he said, he had made a pot of "son-of-a-gun" and had taken it to a field to feed negroes at noon (several days ago, evidently). Gardner said he told them it would cost them 15 cents. Those who refused to eat were threatened with being charged $6. The negroes ate it, Carmichael said he was told.

Had Solicited Help

A Ropesville deputy said Gardner had solicited his help once in dealing with negroes. He said Gardner threatened to file a complaint against one for violation of a common carriers' permit law and had told several negroes to "chip in" and pay the fine. He said Gardner collected several dollars from the negroes and asked him to take it. The deputy refused it, he said.

When asked if he believed Gardner was dangerous, the Ropesville officer said, "I was scared of him, myself."

The pistol surrendered was a .32-.20 Smith & Wesson.

McDermett said Gardner was in possession of an old model .38 single action "tumb buster"—when he arrested the farmer last week on the assault charge. When asked about the man's mental condition McDermett said he believed the farmer was "much off."

Case Of Self-Defense

"I believe it was a case of self-defense if I ever saw it," Burks said at the hearing.

Hofacket said he recently had talked with sons of Gardner, asking that the man be given medical attention or placed in an institution for treatment.

Ticer, a resident of the Locketville area seven or eight years, was a candidate for county commissioner two years ago. He was represented at the hearing by Alvin R. Allison, Levelland county judge and representative-nominate.

Gardner had been a resident of near Locketville about four years. He is survived by his wife; five sons, Marvin Gardner of Ropesville, and Clyde, James, Walter, and Duke Gardner of Locketville; and three daughters, Dorothy Gardner and an infant daughter, both of Locketville, and a married daughter in Oklahoma.

Funeral arrangements late tonight had not been made, said Davis-Mason funeral home.

Several witnesses said Gardner had been a "good citizen and farmer" until the last few weeks, but that he had become unbalanced mentally.

Aged Mexican Woman Carried To Her Final Resting Place In Home-Fashioned Coffin

In a home-fashioned coffin, built by strangers, the body of Severa Berciles, 65, of Charlott, Texas, near San Antonio, was buried in the Mexican cemetery late Friday afternoon under the auspices of the Salvation Army.

The woman died Thursday afternoon in a cotton camp on a farm west of town, a short time after she was stricken. She and her husband, Carlos Rivera, were with a group of Mexicans picking cotton on the farm. They had been here about three weeks.

Unable To Speak English

Unable to speak English, Rivera had to depend upon others of the party that could, to make known his requests. Their efforts to find help failed, when some one thought of the Salvation Army.

Envoy V. M. Vansyckle was appealed to for aid in securing a last resting place. "All we have to bury her in is a cotton sack," he was told. The officer told them he would get a coffin for her.

Coffin Maker Aids

Securing lumber at Army headquarters, the box was started. About that time Walter Hanrahan, Topeka, Kansas, called and asked for a night's lodging. He informed Envoy Vansyckle he was a coffin maker by trade and he deftly lined the box and covered it.

One of the party of Mexicans happened to have a prayer book which contained a burial ritual. He read it over the grave of the woman in the little cemetery southeast of town, and the coffin was lowered into the grave.

Flowers for the coffin were given by Army workers. Several of them attended the services.

supervision of private activities in order to prevent a return of the serious abuses and conditions of the past."

"But if there should be any weakening of the power of a liberal government next Tuesday," he continued, "it would resurrect false hopes on the part of some business men, now beginning to change antiquated ideas that if they can hold out a little longer no adaption to any change will be necessary."

Keeping Feet On Ground

The president said the New Deal was keeping its feet on the ground in working out hundreds of current problems and was doing it "without attempting to commit the nation to any 'ism' or ideology except democracy, humanity and the civil liberties which form their foundations."

Declaring modern interdependent industrial and agricultural society was like a large factory and the conveyor belts must be kept moving, he said dictators had realized that problem, but had kept the belts moving "at a terrible price to the individual and to his civil liberty."

"The New Deal," he asserted, "has been trying to keep those belts moving without paying such a price. It does not wish to run or manage any part of economic machine which private enterprise can run and keep running. That should be left to individuals, to corporations, to any other form of private management, with profit for those who manage well."

Grow In Strength

He said that as of today fascism and communism—and old-line Tory Republicans—were not "threats to the continuation of our form of government," but that if American democracy "ceases to move forward as a living force, seeking day and night by peaceful means to better the lot of our citizens, fascism and communism, aided, unconsciously perhaps, by old-line Tory Republicanism, will grow in strength."

The president warned the voters against false promises. He said that invariably before an election all parties are friendly to labor and the unemployed and are against monopoly. But he warned against those who say they are for the New Deal objectives but do not like the methods the administration uses to attain them.

He said when democracy struggles for its very life "those same people obstruct our efforts to maintain it, while they fail to offer proof of their own will and their own plans to preserve it."

Would Preserve Gains

Appealing for preservation of New Deal social gains he said:

"A social or economic gain made by one administration may, and often does, evaporate into thin air under the next one."

He said little was left during the Taft administration of the march of progress begun under Theodore Roosevelt, adding:

"Think of the great liberal achievements of Woodrow Wilson's new freedom and how quickly they were liquidated under President Harding.

"We have to have reasonable continuity in liberal government to get permanent results."

CHICAGO, Nov. 4. (AP)—Countess Merry Fahrney Pickering Van Eiszner Berlingieri Cassini, New York and Oak Park, Ill., patent medicine heiress, today asked the Illinois appellate court to reconsider its decision setting aside her third divorce, which leaves her with one too many husbands.

Her applications for a rehearing, filed by Attorney Frank E. Cantwell, denied the divorce from her third husband, Baron Arthuro Berlingieri had been granted last February on insufficient grounds, as ruled by the appellate court.

Sowell Funeral To Be Read Sunday

Sowell, who had been in ill health several months, died Thursday at the residence of a daughter, Mrs. Joe Snyder of Albuquerque, N. M., after going there a month ago in search of health.

The farmer, born at Buffalo Gap, near Abilene, moved to Lubbock about 1926, said family members.

Other survivors in the immediate family are Miss Evelyn Sowell, teacher in the Vega, Texas, schools, and Mrs. Maurice Snyder, of Carlsbad, N. M., daughters, and Edwin Sowell of Lubbock, a son who is manager of a grocery store.

Rev. E. E. White of Plainview, a presiding elder of the Methodist church, is a kinsman.

Today Is "Poppy Day"

ANNUAL "Poppy Day" sale to be renewed by the American Legion auxiliary in Lubbock today is a charity of the type to which practically all persons subscribe willingly and cheerfully—and for which there is a minimum of criticism.

Perhaps the chief reason why this particular solicitation stands so high in public opinion is the fact that practically every cent collected actually goes to worthy or charitable purposes.

In Lubbock and every other place the only outlay is 2 1-2 cents paid for each poppy. Of that sum, a portion is used for purchase of materials necessary to making the poppies. Hospitalized veterans assemble the parts, each being paid in proportion to the work he does. The work is distributed in proportion to the needs of dependents of the veteran. It gives him something to occupy his time, additional to the peace of mind which comes from being on a payroll. All above 2 1-2 cents paid for each poppy remains right here in Lubbock to aid needy veterans and their dependents.

The West Indies Problem

ANOTHER of the problems confronting a puzzled and harassed world—one of particular moment to the United States—concerns the future of British-owned islands in the West Indies.

Little has been heard of this particular problem thus far. It has been in the eclipse of other international crises of more immediate interest. But the problem is there just the same, holding potentialities of the gravest import to all the nations of the twin American continents.

As any school child knows, the West Indies are a chain of islands stretching more than 1,000 miles east and west below the southern tip of Florida. Some of the islands are independent. Some belong to the United States. Some belong to Great Britain, including the islands of Jamaica, Barbados and Trinidad.

Unrest has been growing among the natives of those British-owned islands. They complain they have been subject to oppression. They are fearful of what may happen to them should Britain go to war. They want to become a possession of the United States. So serious has the discontent become that Britain finally has appointed a commission seeking to improve the welfare of natives who have been forced to live in the most extreme poverty.

It probably is true that the natives are oppressed. Britain never has been philanthropic in her dealings with her colonies. She has gone just as far as she has believed was safely possible in the exaction of tribute. If the natives have been constantly at the edge of starvation, the whole blame belongs to Britain.

Of more importance, however, is the fact that any of the islands, properly fortified, becomes an ideal striking point for any point on the South American coastline as well as much of the eastern and all of the gulf coast of North America. It would permit an almost air-tight blockade of ports on the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea. It would throttle the Panama canal.

As yet, Britain has attempted no extensive fortifications on the island because the United States would not stand for it. That very absence of adequate protection would make them especially inviting to any foe with whom Britain might become involved in war. The islands would become legitimate prey, and they would be fortified.

Those possibilities obviously may lie far in the future. They may never become realities. But it would seem a far-sighted policy on our part as a nation to procure their freedom from European ownership if that possibly can be done. It would, at least, remove another of the Western Hemisphere's entanglements with Europe.

Chapter 33

The Unshorn Truth

Twice during Wednesday I was haled again to the death-chamber and put through my paces, but by now I was wary. I had told my story and was sticking to it.

Three times the next day I made the trip to the police station, sat for half an hour in a small, stuffy room, and submitted to a quick-fire battery of questions from a succession of plain-clothes men.

Dusk was falling as the car deposited me at the gates of the Chateau for the third time, and I was brain-and body-year. The hall was empty and shadowed, but as I turned towards the lounge, a movement behind the office counter halted me, and I saw the chasseur eyeing me from behind it, his eyes pale, luminous slits in the gloom.

At sight of him all the repressed irritation, the nerve strain of the last two days, suddenly came to a head. The thought of the brutal, beastlike crime he had committed cracked my self-control. I took a stride across to the counter and saw him flinch at my approach.

"You here?" I said in no very gentle voice. "I thought you'd have cleared out long ago. Surely you left Prague a trifle more hurriedly after the opera-house shooting?"

I could have bitten out my tongue next minute, but the mischief was done. He sprang back, his hand flew to his trouser-pocket, and next instant I found myself staring into the muzzle of an ugly-looking gun.

"Put it down!" I said sharply, but even as I spoke, a tall, angular whirlwind swept out from the office beside us. It was the housekeeper, her round, puckered face contorted with rage. "Are you mad?" she said sharply to the chasseur. "Put that thing away!" And as he obeyed sulkily, she swung round on me.

"This is too much!" she said furiously. "How dare you threaten my servants? I will not have it, do you hear? You, a criminal, a suspected murderer! I shall report you to the police."

"Report away, woman," I advised her. "It may be the last chance you have!" and I turned on my heel and stalked away.

I could have kicked myself for my stupidity, but I was too tired to do it. Body and mind alike were exhausted, and the one thing I craved for was food and bed. But as I turned to mount the stairs, I noticed, in the angle of the balustrade, a set of bookshelves, crammed with aged and tattered volumes.

A curtain was hanging behind them, concealing, I imagined, some wall cupboard, and I gave an idle tug to it.

It was no cupboard that the heavy plush concealed, but a small alcove, backed with a white-painted door on which a notice was roughly tacked, and as I read it, every atom of fatigue dropped from me. It ran: "The Innkeeps of France, Club Des Sans Clubs."

It might be the merest coincidence, for, after all, Hugo had said that there was a highly respectable club of that name but I sprinted up the stairs, two at a time, and rang for Amedee.

"Listen, friend," I said, when he rapped on the door, "That alcove behind the curtain in the lower hall—where does it lead?"

"Monsieur," he said, "it leads, one believes, to the cellars, but these many years the door has not been opened."

"What cellars?" I cut in sharply. "Under the house?" But he shook his head.

"Under the terrace. There is another door in the lower garden, but that, too, has never been opened, to my knowledge."

I was immensely elated, for it seemed that, after weary hours of inaction, I had stumbled on something big—the second meeting-place of that ill-omened club.

Confession

Once again that night, I was taken to the police station.

There were six men waiting for me in the stuffy little upper room, but I noted there was no sign of the juge, the commissaire, or Fleuriot. The fellow in charge motioned me to sit down opposite him at a big desk, on which were displayed a water-carafe and glass, a medicine bottle, and a couple of door-handles.

With a sinking heart, I guessed what was before me, and guessed only too well. For the next hour and a half I sat there, while first one, then another, then a third took it in turn to question me, whispering, shouting cajoling, accusing. I sat there, my brain dizzy and reeling, in that small, stifling place, with the unshaded lamp on the table glaring straight in my face.

At last the climax came. All six got to their feet, standing in a circle looking down at me, like a ring of accusing fates. Their leader pointed to the table on which lay a sheet of white paper, a pen, and an ink-well. "In one hour," said he, "we shall return to find your confession written there!" and one by one, silently and inexorably, they filed from the room.

I sat there, holding my head, conscious only that the spinning world was slowly steadying on its axis, and little by little I came to the realization that I was alone in an empty room, with the paper spread invitingly before me, and the pen lying ready to my hand.

For a moment a mad impulse seized me to give them a confession of another sort: "I, Rene Geiss," that was how I would start, "do hereby confess that I instigated the killing of Eve Monet; that I myself shot down in cold blood the American O'Donnell; that I personally instructed the chasseur to kill Mr. Venner."

I picked up the pen, dipped it in the ink, and drew a flourish on the paper.

It was a queer-looking flourish, uncommonly like the horn of a goat, and almost without realizing what I was doing I added a second line and then another and yet another; and slowly, as I drew, found something growing under my inexperienced fingers.

It was the head of a got, horned and bearded, its pebble-like eyes boring into mine, and those eyes were the eyes of Rene Geiss. And as I sat there, staring back into those expressionless eyes, I heard the door open behind me.

I swung round in my chair and saw the juge d'instruction peering in at me.

His eyes lighted on the table, and I thanked my stars that I had had the forethought to turn the drawing upside down but at sight of the pen, the ink, the paper, he rapped out a sudden oath. "The imbeciles!" he muttered. "I will have their skins for this! Monsieur Lumsden, this was done by no order of mine."

He moistened his lips. His face was pale and drawn and there was a worried look in his eyes. "Monsieur Lumsden," he said at last, "you must be aware that everything in these two crimes point to you as the murderer."

I nodded. "I grant you that," I said candidly. "What then?"

He scrutinized me with sharp, intelligent eyes. "Just this," said he. "Monsieur Lumsden. I have seen many criminals. Every detail of these two crimes point to you as the killer—and yet every instinct that I have cries out that you are an innocent man. But my instincts also tell me that although you are in no way guilty, you know a great deal more about these crimes than you will admit. You could, if you would, lead me to the murderer!"

I considered that for a long minute. "Monsieur le Juge," I said at last, "I appreciate your confidence and I won't betray it. It's true, as you say, that I believe I know who did the murders, but I have nothing to go on except a lot of wild surmises and crazy imaginings. There isn't a jot of tangible evidence that I could lay before you, and until I have something concrete to produce, I prefer to hold my tongue. Only, I'll tell you this: in my opinion, these three crimes were committed by three different people, but—" I broke off and looked him squarely between the eyes— "behind all three of them there is the same man."

"And that man?" he asked, but even as he spoke, there came again the click of the opening door and next minute Fleuriot stood beside the desk.

"I interrupt you?" he queried dryly.

"Not at all," said I. "Monsieur le Juge and I have had a most informative conservation, and I think I am right in saying that he now acquits me of complicity in both crimes."

"Famous!" he retorted with a tinge of irony. "I may say that his conclusion agrees exactly with my own—but all the same, Monsieur Lumsden, I should be glad of a little further conservation with you. You will perhaps allow me to offer you conveyance in my automobile?"

"I should be charmed."

As I made to leave the room the juge took a quick step round the desk towards me. Fleuriot was already out of earshot, and satisfying himself of that by a quick, sideways look, he caught my arm. "That man, Monsieur Lumsden," he said urgently, "the man at the back of the three crimes—can you not give me an inkling of whom you suspect?"

I shook my head. "Not for another day or two," I told him. "The thing's too serious to speak of lightly."

His grip tightened on my arm. "One little hint!" he muttered, and his voice was almost pleading.

I shook my head and he gave a sharp sigh, hesitating, his fingers toying nervously with the paper on the desk. And suddenly, as he stood, I saw him flick over the topmost sheet. His eyes lighted on the drawing it held and he started violently, taking a swift backward step, his horrified gaze scanning my face. "Not—" he stammered, "not he,

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

A CONFIDENTIAL memo sliding toward President Roosevelt's desk will convey the startling information that 32,000,000 Americans—one-fourth of the population—are living on federal, state or municipal governments. F.D.R. will also be advised that the figure may reach 52,000,000 in 10 years, despite comparative recovery.

The number of federal dependents is estimated at 21,700,000 people, including those obtaining most of their subsistence from W.P.A., C.C.C., N.Y.A., S.S.S. and other agencies not popularly regarded as being in the business of relief. The balance of the 32,000,000 consists of the 3,750,000 employes of various governmental units and the mouths they feed with their salaries. The extent to which Uncle Sam has assumed responsibility for his children astonished even the advanced thinkers who sponsored the survey, the first of its kind.

The doleful forecast for 1949 is predicted on discernible economic, social, industrial and population trends. They include such various factors as technological advances, reduced consumption of farm products resulting from changed eating habits, smaller demands for textiles because of woman's desire for a streamlined figure, loss of foreign markets, an increasing number of old folks whose industrial and agricultural wants will steadily decline. The long-time prospect appears dark indeed if these forebodings are borne out. It blots out bright headlines which report a current recovery expected to endure for three years at least.

FORECAST: The sole answer, in the opinion of Mr. Roosevelt's favorite planners, is the constitutional establishment of an economically totalitarian state. They don't relish that word "totalitarian", and they emphasize that under their scheme the federal government would regiment the use—and abuse—of money rather than personal liberties.

The banks, for instance, have billions—perhaps 50 per cent of their deposits—in governments or idle cash. They are waiting for a return of confidence and prosperity so that they can invest their funds in the so called capital goods industries—plants which pproduce other productive instruments and assets. The New Dealers, however, believe that the nation's capital plant has been overbuilt, and that all this idle money should be shifted into those industries which turn out consumption goods, provide service and communications, cater to the modern jazz spirit of America. In the latter field they see a slight hope of preserving the capitalistic system through maintenance of buying power. This philosophy underlies W.P.A., P.W.A., A.A.A., etc. Pour out the money!

F.D.R. has practiced this theory in a small way. He has borrowed from the banks to finance government expenditures totaling many billions. He cannot build up deficits through issuance of bonds forever. So the central idea in the memo mentioned above is for the government to assume, through a capital tax or otherwise major control of private funds and direct them into spending—some even say "spend-thrift"—channels. Watch for this memo when and if it reaches the publication stage. Even if it doesn't—and it probably won't—it forecasts a new attitude toward the problems of credit, taxation, investment, government control of money.

FURORE: The movie newsreels of that famous Munich conference threaten to precipitate a diplomatic "incident". They depict, even more vividly than newspaper dispatches, that Chamberlain and Daladier were diplomatic Cinderellas at the Hitler-Mussolini party. They reveal what a swallowing of the Czechoslovakian canary occurred there.

Showing of the movies has been barred in Great Britain because the audiences have invariably hissed. According to a confidential report from London, the "March of Time" screen record of the affair was so deleted that it was meaningless. Downing Street did not dare to buck popular indignation over the democracies' surrender to the hand-shaking back-slapping dictators—Hitler and Mussolini and Goering. The pictorial rebuke was too strong for the supposedly sturdy British stomach.

Now, here's where the possibility of diplomatic controversy enters: The film has been offered to the new American Archives department as the record of an historical event worth preserving and chronicling. The official archives, however, don't know whether they ought to accept a film which has caused such furor, in a friendly country.

REDRAWAL: The State department's private recommendations for amendment of the Neutrality act will probably precipitate a fierce battle between the isolationists and administrationists on Capitol Hill. Secretary Hull—and events appear to vindicate him—wants a far more "flexible" law than the one now on the books.

The present law requires that the President invoke the Neutrality act whenever he finds that a "state of war exists". In some instances that requirement would work a tremendous hardship on American manufacturers and exporters. Mr. Hull wants a broader definition of the circumstances under which the President—any President—must clamp down. He wants the act rewritten so that a Chief Executive would invoke the law only—and this is a quotation from the proposed amendment—"if it should appear to be in the public interest of the United States." Under that proviso a President would enjoy a latitude not now vouchsafed to him.

Fact is that the Neutrality act as now drawn threatens to involve us in more wars than it will keep us out of. With a European conflict scheduled for some time within the next two years—when Great Britain and France will have rearmed—a new law safeguarding America's shores will become the most important business before the House and Senate.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

PUBLIC announcements that the utility industry will spend two billion dollars in the next two years on a national defense construction program are so much applesauce. It can't be done.

The maximum amount ever spent by power companies for new construction in a single year was $919,000,000, in 1930. In 1931 the figure dropped to $596,000,000 and from there tobogganed steeply to the depression low of $129,000,000 in 1933. Expenditures hung under $200,000,000 for three years and then started to climb again, reaching about $400,000,000 in 1937. This year, despite all the ballyhoo about spending for construction last fall, the industry's total outlay will fall off to about $350,000,000.

Authoritative New York sources estimate that, under the most favorable conditions, with a friendly government attitude and government financial aid where needed, the utilities' construction budget for 1939 may reach $500,000,000 (including national defense installations). This would be a net gain of $150,000,000 over 1938, which is a nice little jump but a long way short of the billion a year Floyd Carlisle of Consolidated Edison of New York talks about. Physical as well as financial limitations make any such figure impossible. Mr. Carlisle is sharply criticized in some inner circles for "kidding the government and the public".

HELP: When the current campaign began, New York Democratic leaders snickered at the idea that they might need the help of the American Labor party. But coming down to the finish they are darned glad to have it. Last minute G. O. P. gains make the race too close for comfort.

If the Labor Party vote provides the winning margin for the Lehman-Wagner-Mead ticket, James A. Farley Co. will hear plenty about it in the next two years from A.L.P. leaders.

Texas Topics---By Howard Marshall

AUSTIN, Nov. 4 (AP)—Proceedings in Texas' suit against New Mexico over use of waters of the Rio Grande have been stopped until it can be determined whether a new version of the tri-state compact governing distribution of such waters meets approval of legislatures of Texas, Colorado and New Mexico.

The new compact, adopted by commissioners representing the three states, will be a subject for consideration by the Texas legislature which meets in January. It probably will be presented by Frank B. Clayton of El Paso, the Texas commissioner.

Satisfactory Arrangement Seen

Assistant Attorney-General Grady Chandler, who had charge of the litigation, which began in November, 1935, when Texas sought an order of the United States Supreme court restraining New Mexico from violating an agreement over use of Rio Grande water, says that in his judgment the new compact will be as satisfactory an arrangement as possible to work out.

"I think it would be as good as we could hope to obtain by a court suit," he said.

Until the legislatures act, hearings before an examiner of the Supreme court have been discontinued. A number had been held, the first in Albuquerque, N. M., in November, 1936.

"There never will be enough water from the Rio Grande to meet the wishes of everyone," Chandler said. "But that isn't the fault of anyone. The new compact is a compromise toward which every state made contributions."

SENATOR-NOMINATE Doss Hardin of Waco, who has a twin brother named Ross in the House of Representatives, intends to do something if he can persuade the next legislature to go along with him, about court procedure in civil suits under which many special issues may be submitted to the jury.

"Submission to juries of cases to be decided on large numbers of special issues results in innumerable perversions of justice," Hardin said recently. "Why, I have seen charges with as many as 100 special issues given to a jury, which is expected to arrive at the right answer in short order. Some charges would require at least a day for an able lawyer to figure out, and some he probably would never understand."

Hardin said the charges should be simpler and of a general nature in damage suits, for example, consisting merely in instructions to the jury to say whether the plaintiff was entitled to damages and, if so, how much.

Raps Complicated Charges

"The big insurance companies like charges with lots of special issues," Hardin continued. "Such charges have many holes in them and enable lawyers to beat around the bush.

"Sometimes the charges are so complicated jurors who want to give the plaintiff damages don't know how or think they have done so by their verdict and find out they haven't."

Hardin said he would introduce legislation to abolish special issues and "give the little fellow in litigation a chance."

GOV. JAMES V. ALLRED said the other day he would deliver a message on the condition of the state to the legislature soon after it convenes in January but at the time had not decided what he would say. Probably it will largely concern finances as many of his past messages have.

However, the governor admitted he didn't expect the legislature to be as interested in his remarks as it would be in those of the man who will take over the executive office Jan. 17, Lee O'Daniel.

"I like that idea advanced by someone," Governor Allred laughed, "the one about ex-presidents forming a sort of advisory committee to the president. It might be applied to governors."

Many Problems Unsolved

The governor said he knew there would be many problems with which he has wrestled for several years still unsolved when he gave up his office. One of them, he agreed in answer to a question, would be Padre Island.

About two years ago the governor asked the attorney-general's department and the land office to investigate titles to the 12-mile sand strip off the Gulf coast on the possibility the state had a good claim.

The survey was never made because, officials said, of insufficient funds.

Rice paper is regarded as the highest achievement in the paper industry, as far as purity is concerned. It is in common usage today as a wrapping for cigarets because it is least injurious to smokers.

TARZAN THE FEARLESS No. 72 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Nerves of iron. Muscles of steel. Delicate sense of balance. Perfect coordination of body and brain. These were the qualities begotten of Tarzan's free and dangerous life in the wilderness, and these were the qualities which stood him now in such good service.

With his injured arm hanging limply at his side, he made his way up the side of the Tree-God's face, clutching each protuberance and drawing himself slowly higher. Had the apeman been less calm, less courageous, he might have been tempted to hazardous haste.

Fortunately for Tarzan, the warriors and villagers still retained the position he had commanded. Their heads were bowed, and from their throats came fearsome wails and husky prayers. "Give us back the sun —the sun that gives life to the sacred trees."

Tarzan was almost atop the Tree-God's head when one of the warriors on the platform raised his eyes by chance and saw the dim outline of the ape-man. "The demon!" he shrieked; "the demon! Kill him!" Instantly he lifted his spear and hurled it savagely!

Another Reunion Is Planned For Vets

SHREVEPORT, Nov. 4 (AP) — The last reunion of the United Confederate Veterans has not been held.

Each year as the "thin gray line" meets, the rumor starts that it will be the last, but each year the veterans meet and prepare to meet again.

Next year the reunion will be held in Trinidad, Colo., it was announced today by Gen. J. W. Harris, Oklahoma City, commander in chief of the U. C. V.; J. Roy Price, Shreveport, commander in chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, and Walter L. Hopkins, Richmond, Va., adjutant general of the sons.

This will be the first time, it is said, that the Confederate veterans have met in their regular reunion outside the boundaries of the Confederate states.

BATTLE PROFIT SELLING

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Motors and a few specialties successfully combatted profit selling in today's stock market while rails and recently strong leaders stepped back fractions to a point or so.

The news, generally, was still fairly good, but traders, facing two holidays next week—election and Armistice days—inclined to lighten commitments and adjourn to the safety zone. In addition, the president's political address to the country later in the evening was awaited for possible market clues.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was off .3 of a point at 52.4. Transfers totalled 1,106,340 shares.

Hiram Walker put on a rising performance of its own, holding a gain of 3⅝ points at 53¾. Finishing moderately higher were Chrysler, General Motors, Texas Corp., Worthington Pump, Sharpe and Dohme, Union Carbide and Johns-Manville.

On the downside were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Consolidated Edison, North American, U. S. Rubber, Westinghouse, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, Eastman Kodak, Western Union, Douglas Aircraft and American Smelting.

Columbia Gas common lost ⅛ at 7⅞ and the preferred dropped 4 at 79 following filing of a government anti-trust suit against the company, one of the country's largest holding concerns.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4 (AP)—Increased selling and week-end liquidation erased early gains in the cotton market here today and final prices were steady, at net declines of 4 to 8 points.

Dec. sold at 8.58, Jan. at 8.47, March at 8.48, May at 8.31, July at 8.22, Oct. at 7.98, Dec. (new) at 8.01-bid; and March (1940) at 8.05-bid. Spots closed steady with middling 6 points lower at 8.68. Sales totaled 2,666 bales.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Increased December liquidation and hedge selling depressed cotton today. March sold off from 8.44 to 8.35 and finished at the low, with final quotations 3 to 8 points net lower.

The market opened with late months again relatively steady on foreign buying. More pressure in the near months, however, discouraged longs and the list turned heavier. December liquidation was more pronounced. Further private crop estimates pointing to larger production figures than a month ago disturbed sentiment somewhat. Poor spot demand brought in a little more southern selling. Trade buying was only moderately active with cotton goods markets reporting a barely steady undertone. Toward the close, spot house support developed at 8.35 for March.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4 (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8 points lower at 8.57 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 8.54 cents a pound.

Plea For Final Drive For Salvation Army Is Made

A vigorous plea for slightly more than $200 to put the Salvation Army's drive over the top was made yesterday by E. J. Parsons, chairman, in reporting the total was that much short of its goal.

The Army this week has been subjected to heavy demands for aid from transients, mostly cotton pickers, here for harvesting the crop and who are stranded. The Army's quarters on Seventeenth street have been crowded every night with men, women and children.

Hankow Taken Over By Japs

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, Nov. 4 — Japanese are rapidly converting Hankow into a military and commercial citadel in the heart of China.

The orderly withdrawal of Chinese troops before the city's fall Oct. 26 saved Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's political and military machines. The Japanese, however, gained an area which they are turning into a base within striking distance of every place from which Chiang can direct resistance.

Arrives By Plane

I arrived from Hankow by airplane tonight after eight months in that former center of Chinese military activity and once-prosperous trade crossroads for American and other foreign businessmen.

A few hours ago the Americans and other foreigners remaining at Hankow told me there was little chance of successful competition—for months at least—with the commercial organization Japan is building up in conquered central China areas.

This became evident shortly after the first Japanese troops landed at Hankow.

Vessels Are Docked

Within a few days there came hundreds of Japanese vessels—from sampans to sea-going merchantmen—loaded with Japanese goods. They arrived without incident even though Japanese military and naval officials have proclaimed the lower Yangtze river too dangerous for navigation.

And hereafter, Japanese announced, the Yangtze's chief purpose will be to serve Japan's armed forces. This virtually constitutes a slow strangulation sentence on non-Japanese shipping.

Despite the pessimistic outlook for American and other foreign business men, many of them were determined to hang on, hopeful that Washington would be able to reopen the door to Chinese trade.

Series Of Community Farm Meetings Started Friday

Tentative schedule of a series of community meetings over Lubbock county to acquaint farmers with provisions of the 1939 farm program was started yesterday at a meeting of community committeemen and others in the district court room.

Two meetings were definitely scheduled, Wednesday night at Cooper high school and Thursday night at Wolfforth. Both meetings will begin at 7:30 o'clock. A schedule is expected to be completed today.

County Agent C. C. Jobson spoke on the program, as did John W. Palmore, jr., assistant county agent and Walter P. Johnson, administrative assistant. They talked on the program and on regulations as outlined at the recent meeting here.

J. Lynn Mauk, district field man for the AAA, attended the meeting. He had expected to be in College Station but was ordered to remain in this area a day or two longer.

Former Resident Of Lubbock Is Killed In Auto Crash

Fred C. Oliver, sr., a former Lubbock business man and a resident of Los Angeles for 16 or 17 years, died about Thursday midnight from injuries received in an automobile crash about a week before, according to word received here Friday. Details of the accident were not given.

A son, Fred, jr., was reported seriously injured in the same crash.

The elder Oliver was in the cattle loan business in Lubbock for a number of years. He was associated with W. C. Rylander in the insurance business for about a year before moving to California, the latter said. The Olivers moved to the coast about 1921 or 1922, Rylander added.

Experiences While On Trip Through Europe Are Related By Speaker At ABC Session

Glimpses of his experiences on a three-months tour of European art and architectural centers the past summer and impressions of the trip were given American Business club members yesterday noon by F. A. Kleinschmidt, head of the department of arts and architectural engineering at Texas Technological college. President William Collins presided over the meeting.

Collins asked for several more volunteers for the "Big Brother" movement which the club is sponsoring. A total of eight men are in the group, J. Ray Dickey, James Wilson, Rex Blackburn, Dr. U. S. Marshall, Bert Pinson, Dr. M. M. Ewing and W. J. Spain, in addition to President Collins.

Pinson, chairman of a concession for the special train which the club is sponsoring for Texas Tech's football game at Albuquerque, said he had many requests for the concession rights.

Robert Walker was presented as a new member.

Speaker Introduced

Guy Wheatley introduced the speaker of the day. Kleinschmidt advised those planning a European trip to be careful about drinking water, especially in the smaller towns, where sanitary conditions are not of the best. Plumbing throughout the continent is old fashioned and many humorous incidents are to be seen.

Hotels generally do not include a bath with hotel accommodations, charging from 40 to 80 cents each. Kleinschmidt said he managed to secure a bath without having to pay for it when the maid left the bath room door unlocked over night.

Mr. and Mrs. Kleinschmidt were in Germany during the German-Czechoslovakian situation. In his opinion, he said, war was probably averted 7 or 8 or perhaps 10 years by Chamberlain's action.

Children marching "with a precise, military step," from dawn to after dark, was one of the saddest things he saw in Germany, the speaker said. The children carried knapsacks, weighing up to 15 pounds and many of them appeared undernourished.

"The people themselves do not want war—but the leaders do," said Kleinschmidt. "The people are too close to the last war to want one."

Envoy V. M. Van Syckle of the Salvation army made a plea for completion of the drive for a $5,000 budget. It lacks about $200 of the goal, he said.

Wave Of Burglaries Ceases Suddenly At Littlefield

LITTLEFIELD, Nov. 4. (Special)—A few nights ago Littlefield residents were wondering who would be next.

But a wave of burglaries caused by entry of a person, or persons ceased as summarily as it commenced.

Similar to several cases a few weeks ago in Lubbock, except that the person or persons responsible for breaking residences here went through doors rather than windows, several places were reported entered.

Close watch of officials was accredited with having halted the practice.

Lubbock burglaries, made after numerous screens had been slit, ceased after police had arrested two negroes. One of the negroes left town soon after being released.

A mushroom growing near a den of snakes was considered poisonous in early days.

Employes Will Dodge Penalty

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Senator Sheppard (D-Tex.) said today that federal employes would escape possible prosecution for contributing to campaign funds of senatorial candidates until a conflict over laws on this subject is settled.

Although the senate campaign funds committee headed by Sheppard contends these contributions violate federal law, members point out that the justice department ruled years ago government workers could make contributions for political purposes.

Conflicting Opinions

Sheppard predicted conflicting opinions probably would be submitted to the senate judiciary committee "for a decision." This would delay any recommendations that prosecutions be instituted until congress meets in January.

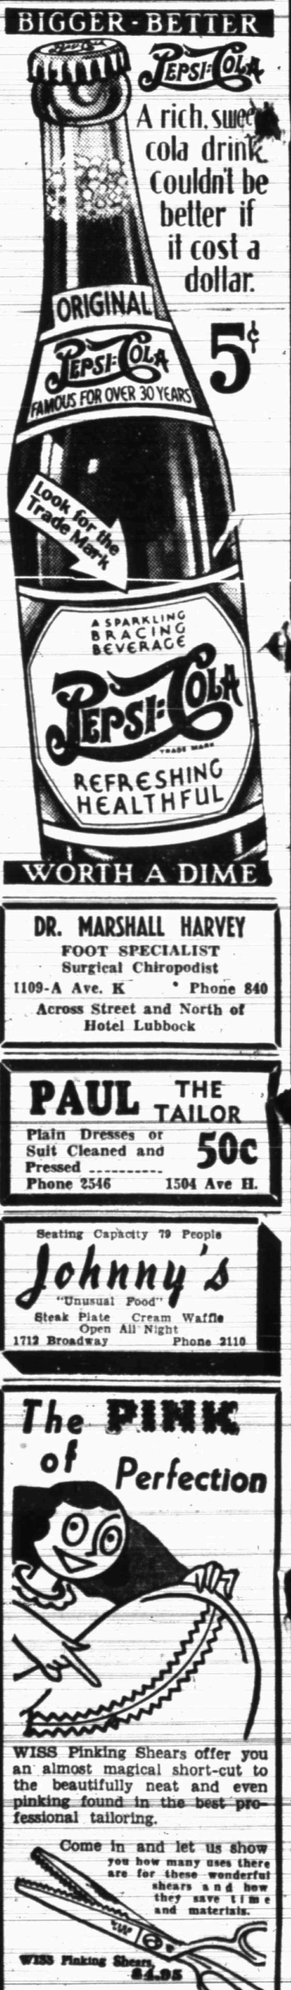

The chairman said his committee had approved action of Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind.) candidate for reelection, in turning over to the Indiana state Democratic committee $2,492.15 received from 34 federal employes.

"His action shows evidence of good faith," Sheppard said.

Sheppard reported committee investigators had completed their survey of political abuse charges resulting from the primary elections in Kentucky, Tennessee and Georgia, and had been withdrawn.

North Carolina has enough state-maintained highways to reach around the world two and one-half times.
