

Tuesday Date for Joseph's Formal Opening

JOSEPH DRY GOODS COMPANY HAS GROWN FROM A SMALL STORE STARTED BACK IN 1919

When D. Joseph came to Ranger Jan. 19, 1919, to go into business he had visions of one day having the finest dry goods store in Ranger, in Eastland county or in North Central Texas. Today that vision is being realized with the formal opening of his store, which is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 17.

When Joseph started in business in a little store on Rusk street, with a store known as "The Winner," he felt that he would not be on a side street long.

It was nearly two years later, on Dec. 11, 1920, that he moved from the building then at the rear of the Killingsworth, Cox Hardware store to his present location in the Hodges-Neal building, the most substantially built structure in Ranger and one of the two really fireproof buildings.

Back in the early days of Ranger, and of the Joseph Dry Goods company, which supplanted The Winner, Ranger was a hectic town, and business was booming, but uncertain, but the store prospered.

At that time he had a partner, A. Williams, who continued in the business until 1929 when his interest was purchased and the control and management of the entire store was taken over by the present owner.

But the owner's vision of expansion did not end with the purchase of his partner's share of the business and developing it into Ranger's foremost department store. This year he has purchased the building, which is a modern, fireproof brick structure of three stories, with an 85-foot frontage on Main street.

After purchasing the building he began plans for taking out one of the partitions that divided it into one large store in the center, which was occupied by his store, and two 20-foot stores on each side. This gives the store much more display and storage space and makes it one of the most convenient.

Mens clothing to be found in the department include: Curlee suits and overcoats, Yale suits and Malory hats. In the boys department are such brands as Knickerbocker Brand suits and Tom Sawyer clothes.

Mrs. Adamson says that in order to get that sleek, finished look that today's fashions demand, your undergarments must fit properly.

In the lingerie department will be found Knickerbocker, Vanity Fair, Loras, Lorraine and Eastern Isles lingerie as well as such well known brands as Rogers, Carters, Gordon and David's.

The infants wear department has Asher Knits and Mrs. Kier's baby shoes are handled.

He will be glad to advise with you in regard to your foot troubles. He and Martin will personally assure you that your shoes are properly fitted. As far as is known neither has had a complaint from their fitting service.

White also has a thorough knowledge of fitting clothing and can intelligently give advice as to the colors to wear to become you best. He will be glad to meet all the old customers of the Joseph store as well as new customers and to assist in any way he can in the selection of clothing.

He says that he has never met a stranger.

Mrs. Anna Rippey Has Been With Joseph's 12 Years

Mrs. Anna Mae Rippey is manager of the ladies ready-to-wear and foundation departments of the Joseph Dry Goods Company, and is the oldest employee of the store from a standpoint of service, having been first employed 12 years ago.

She has complete charge of the ready to wear department, in which will be found a most generous array of the season's most successful styles, which will make your choosing easy.

A large selection of new fall coats, in fact the largest ever assembled in Ranger, is now ready for your selection.

Mrs. Rippey says that she has styles that are new when they are new and she invites the ladies to pay the department a visit while the stock is as complete as it is now.

Among the coats and suits one will find Redfern, Betty Rose, Billy Daw, Brieststein and Hollywood coats and suits, made by some of the most famous makers of clothing.

In the dress department will be found Ellen Kaye, Klaffer and Aobel and Reich dresses. Snyder knits, Bradley knits, Hercules knits, Marinette knits and University frocks.

In the millinery department, like in every other department of the Joseph store, will be found names that are well known, including Lakewood, Lewis, and Shirley Texple; while among the foundation garments are American Lady, Carters, Model Brassiers, and Gypsy Bands.

YOU CAN'T SEE THE DOUGHNUT FOR LOOKING THRU THE HOLE

(Reprinted from the September, 1935, issue of the West Texas Today, official publication of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce).

There is an old saying, trite but true, that the City of Happiness is in the State of Mind. Or, to give it a more modern version, conditions are governed by the state of mind of the people.

West Texas was discovered, was settled and was developed by sturdy pioneers who had faith in the future of the country which could not be shaken by any obstacle, no matter how difficult surmounting it might be. We of today are sometimes a little prone to sit around and grumble over conditions far surpassing the luxuries the wildest imagination of our forefathers could conceive in their wildest dreams, and conditions are governed largely by the viewpoint taken.

Take the little City of Ranger as an example that can possibly be localized in any of the smaller West Texas towns.

Just a while back the people were deploring the fact that three unused stories on the town's largest building were being removed, but compare this with the constructive things that have been overlooked almost daily by those same people.

1932-1935

Back in 1932, which is considered by some about the low point in the late unlamented depression, there was really something to be alarmed about, but that is all past now.

In 1932 there was but one bank in town, and deposits in it had dwindled to a low ebb. To prevent any further withdrawals checking against any account was limited to $5 a day for each customer. People exchanged "cold checks" in payment for merchandise and service. Today the bank is loaning money, all restrictions on accounts have been lifted and the bank is doing a wholesome, normal business, not as large, perhaps, as during the boom days, but a more conservative, sounder business.

In 1932 there was but one automobile agency in Ranger, and it was selling but a few cars. Today there are three bustling, wide-awake agencies, each selling so many new cars additional salesmen have had to be added to the staff of each to dispose of the used cars taken on trades.

In 1932 all the ice consumed in Ranger was shipped in from Fort Worth. Today a new, modern ice plant supplies the needs of the town.

Since 1932 the enrollment in the Ranger Junior College, one of the 17 municipal junior colleges of the state, has increased 100 per cent, with indications that this

D. Joseph and Entire Personnel of Store Will Greet Visitors; Dr. H. A. Logsdon Will Make Address

D. Joseph, owner and manager of the Joseph Dry Goods company, is inviting the entire public, including everyone in this section of the county, to the formal opening of his enlarged store, which is to be held on Tuesday night, Sept. 17.

A good program has been worked out for this opening, which is to celebrate the addition of 20 feet of floor space to the width of the building and 20 feet to the balcony in the rear, in which part of the stock is carried.

The program which will open the entertainment part of the official opening will begin at 8 o'clock, lasting for about an hour.

Opening the program will be music by an orchestra, after which Hall Walker will introduce the personnel of the store, after which

... and Sudden Death!

MERRILY WE ROLL ALONG!

(Like the gruesome spectacle of a bad automobile accident itself, the realistic details of this article will nauseate some readers. Those who find themselves thus affected at the outset are cautioned against reading the article in its entirety, since there is no letdown in the author's outspoken treatment of sickening facts.)

BY J. S. FURNAS
(Reprinted by Permission of "The Reader's Digest")

Publicizing the total of motor injuries—almost a million last year, with 36,000 deaths—never gets to first base in fanning the motorist into a realization of the appalling risks of motoring. He does not translate dry statistics into a reality of blood and agony.

Figures exclude the pain and horror of savage mutilation—which means they leave out the point. They need to be brought closer home. A passing look at a bad smash or the news that a fellow you had lunch with last week is in a hospital with a broken back will make any driver but a born fool slow down at least temporarily. But what is needed is a vivid and sustained realization that every time you step on the throttle, death gets in beside you, hopefully waiting for his chance. That single horrible accident you may have witnessed is no isolated horror. That sort of thing happens every hour of the day, everywhere in the United States. If you really felt that, perhaps the stickful of type of Monday's paper recording that a total of 29 local citizens were killed in week-end crashes would rate something more than a perfunctory tut-tut as you turn back to the sports page.

An enterprising judge now and again sentences reckless drivers to tour the accident end of a city morgue. But even a mangled body on a slab, waxily portraying the consequences of bad motoring judgment, isn't a patch on the scene of the accident itself. No artist working on a safety poster would dare depict that in full detail.

That picture would have to include motion picture and sound effects, too—the flopping, pointless effort of the injured to stand up; the queer, grunting noises; the steady, panting groaning of a human being with pain creeping up on him as the shock wears off. It should portray the slack expression on the face of a man, drugged with shock, staring at the Z-twist in his broken leg, the insane crumpled effect of a child's body after its bones are crushed inward, a realistic portrait of a hysterical woman with her screaming mouth opening a hole in the bloody drip that fills her eyes and runs off her chin. Minor details would include the raw ends of bones protruding through flesh in the compound fractures, and the dark red, oozing surfaces where clothes and skin were flayed off at once.

Those are all standard, everyday sequels to the modern passion for going places in a hurry and taking a chance or two by the way. If ghosts could be put to a useful purpose, every bad stretch of road in the United States would greet the oncoming motorists with groans and screams and the educational spectacle of ten or a dozen corpses, all sizes, sexes and ages, lying horribly still on the bloody grass.

Last year a state trooper of my acquaintance stopped a big red Hispano for speeding. Papa was obviously a responsible person, obviously set for a pleasant weekend with his family—as the officer cut into papa's well-bred expostulations: "I'll let you off this time, but if you keep on this way, you won't last long. Get going—but take it easier." Later a passing motorist hailed the trooper and asked if the red Hispano had got a ticket. "No," said the trooper, "I hated to spoil their party." "Too bad you didn't," said the motorist, "I saw you stop them—and then I passed that car again 50 miles up the line. It still makes me feel sick at my stomach. The car was all folded up like an accordion—the color was about all there was left. They were all dead but one of the kids—and he wasn't going to live to the hospital." Maybe it will make you sick at your stomach, too. But unless you are a heavy-footed incurable, a good look at the picture the artist wouldn't dare paint, a first-hand acquaintance with the results of mixing gasoline with speed and bad judgment, ought to be well worth your while. I can't help it if the facts are revolting. If you have the nerve to drive fast and take chances, you ought to have the nerve to take the appropriate cure. You can't ride an ambulance or watch the doctor working on the victim in the hospital, but you can read.

The automobile is treacherous, just as a cat is. It is tragically difficult to realize that it can become the deadliest missile. As enthusiasts tell you, it makes 65 feet like nothing at all. But 65 an hour is 100 feet a second, a speed which puts a viciously unjustified responsibility on brakes and human reflexes, and can instantly turn this docile luxury into a mad bull elephant.

Collision, turnover or sidewipe, each type of accident produces either a shattering dead stop or a frashing hange of direction—and, since the occupant—meaning you—continues in the old direction at the original speed, every surface and angle of the car's interior immediately becomes a battering, tearing projectile, aimed squarely at you—inescapable. There is no bracing yourself against these imperative laws of momentum.

It's like going over Niagara Falls in a steel barrel full of railroad spikes. The best thing that can happen to you—and one of the rarer things—is to be thrown out as the doors spring open, so you have only the ground to reckon with. True, you strike with as much force as if you had been thrown from the Twentieth Century at top speed. But at least you are spared the lethal array of gleaming metal knobs and edges and glass inside the car.

Anything can happen in that split second of crash, even those lucky escapes you hear about. People have dived through windshields and come out with only superficial scratches. They have run cars together head on, reducing both to twisted junk, and been found unhurt and arguing bitterly two minutes afterward. But death was there just the same—he was only exercising his privilege of being erratic. This spring a wrecking crew gried the door off a car which had been overturned down an embankment and out stepped the driver with only a scratch on his cheek. But his mother was still inside, a splinter of wood from the top driven four inches into her brain as a result of son's taking a greasy curve a little too fast. No blood—no horribly twisted bones—just a gray-haired corpse still clutching her pocketbook in her lap as she had clutched it when she felt the car leave the road.

On that same curve a month later, a light touring car crashed a tree. In the middle of the front seat they found a 9-month-old baby surrounded by broken glass and yet absolutely unhurt. A fine practical joke on death—but spoiled by the baby's parents, still sitting on each side of him, instantly killed by shattering their skulls on the dashboard.

If you customarily pass without clear vision a long way ahead, make sure that every member of the party carries identification papers—it's difficult to identify a body with its whole face bashed in or torn off. The driver is death's favorite target. If the steering wheel holds together it ruptures his liver or spleen so he bleeds to death internally. Or, if the steering wheel breaks off, the matter is settled instantly by the steering column's plunging thru his abdomen.

By no means do all head-on collisions occur on curves. The modern death-trap is likely to be a straight stretch with three lanes of traffic—like the notorious Astor Flats on the Albany Post Road where there have been as many as 27 fatalities in one summer month. This sudden vision of broad, straight road tempts many an ordinarily sensible driver into passing the man ahead. Simultaneously a driver coming the other way out at high speed. At the last moment each tries to get into line again, but the gaps are closed. As the cars in line are forced into the ditch to capsize or crash fences, the passers meet, almost head-on, in a swirling, grinding smash that sends them careening into the others.

A trooper described such an accident—five cars in one mess, seven killed on the spot, two dead on the way to the hospital, two more dead in the long run. He remembered it far more vividly than he wanted to—the quick way the doctor turned away from a dead man to check up on a woman with a broken back; the three bodies out of one car so soaked with oil from the crankcase that they looked like wet brown cigars and not human at all; a man, walking around babbling to himself, oblivious of the dead and dying, even oblivious of the dagger-like sliver of steel that stuck out of his streaming wrist; a pretty girl with her forehead laid open, trying hopelessly to crawl out of a ditch in spite of her smashed hip. A first-class massacre of that sort is only a question of scale and numbers—seven corpses are no deader than one. Each shattered man, woman or child who went to make up the 36,000 corpses chalked up last year had to die a personal death.

A car careening and rolling down a bank, battering and smashing its occupants every inch of the way, can wrap itself so thoroughly around a tree that front and rear bumpers interlock, requiring an acetylene torch to cut them apart. In a recent case of that sort they found the old lady, who had been sitting in back, lying across the lap of her daughter, who was in front, each soaked in her own and the other's blood indistinguishably, each so shattered and broken that there was no point whatever in an autopsy to determine whether it was broken neck or ruptured heart that caused death. Overturning cars specialize in certain injuries. Cracked pelvis, for instance, guaranteeing agoniz-

You Can't See—

year it will go well over 125 per cent above the enrollment of 1932.
Since 1932 the Church of Christ has constructed, and paid for, a $40,000 brick building, which is one of the most beautiful small buildings in the town. Another church has paid off the indebtedness against its brick building and the mortgage against it, which was made before the depression, has been burned. The other churches in the town are in better financial condition than in many years.

School, Stadium, Clinic
During the past year a $40,000
recreation building and auditorium has been added to the buildings in the school system. It has a maple basketball court, a large stage and a seating capacity in the auditorium for 1,500 people.

Plans have been drawn up, too,
for a native rock football stadium
to seat 6,000 fans, and it is expected to be completed in time for the 1936 season.

Since 1932 a beautiful clinic
building has been constructed,
which contains the offices, laboratories, x-ray room, library and diet kitchen for four physicians and one dentist.

The school system has purchased a two-story, brick building, adjacent to the high school and Junior college building, which is to be converted into a girls' dormitory for the Junior college, and which will also house the manual training and industrial arts departments.

Back in 1932 the football fans were bemoaning the fact that the high school football team would never be any good again, as the town was slipping rapidly, and the football team was following.

At that time the team had not won a district championship in six years. Since 1932 the team has never lost a conference game.

The same ones who have moaned over the closing of a filling station or the moving of a tailor shop, have overlooked the fact that there has not been a major business failure in the town, during the past three years, and that a hardware store, an ice plant, a book store, an electric shoe repair shop, an ice cream parlor, a retail tire agency operated by one of the largest manufacturers and distributors in the nation, two automobile agencies, an electric refrigerator and washing machine agency,
not to mention several small grocery stores, several new filling stations and a couple of small cafes, have opened for business.

At the low point in business activity the largest theatre in Ranger, as in many West Texas towns, was dark. Today it is running seven days in the week, with capacity crowds on many nights, and in addition another picture show is operated on Saturdays to take care of the rural theatergoers who flock to the town on Saturday to see Westerns.

City Finances
Even the city finances now show
a much healthier condition than in 1932. At that time the employees were being paid in script and much of the equipment belonging to the city was worn out and in need of repairs. Few, if any, payments were being made on the town's bonded indebtedness. Today the city is running on a cash basis and all bills are paid currently, with regular payments being made to reduce the bond interest. Only this year a new police car has been bought. The fire chief has been given one new truck, the street department has purchased a new tractor and new trucks and new pumps and motors have been added at the water pumping station,
in addition to more than two miles of new water lines in the city. All this has been paid for in cash,
with a cash balance being maintained in all funds in the local bank.

Postal receipts in Ranger have run higher each month in 1935
than on the corresponding month in 1934, with the exception of two months earlier in the year, and the total receipts for the fiscal year ending July 31, showed an increase over the corresponding period of a year ago.

A recent check-up showed that practically every business in the town was doing a larger retail business this year than last, and many had larger sales during the first six months of 1935 than they had shown during any similar period since 1932.

Those who cannot see any improvement these days cannot see the doughnut for looking at the hole and can't see the improvements going on around them for the tears in their eyes from crying over trivial losses.

Joseph Dry Goods—

venient and largest stores in the town.

The new addition to the store gives it a 65-foot frontage on Main street, with a depth of 135 feet with a balcony 65 feet by 50 feet in the rear.

When he began remodeling
Joseph knew that a man experienced in arranging stores could probably do a better job than he could, so he hired an architect to do the planning. The architect planned wisely, it has been proved,
by utilizing space that was previously going to waste, and making a better display of every department in the store.

The office has been moved from the right side of the store to the center, near the rear, where it is about equi-distant from every part of the building.

At the extreme left as one enters is the men's department, with the shoe department in the rear.
Either department can be reached through the main entrance, or through the entrance to the men's department, just west of the main entrance.

The ladies' ready-to-wear departments, millinery departments, piece goods departments all have ample display room, with the alteration department conveniently located in the rear and the dressing rooms and ladies rest room adjacent to the ready-to-wear department.

The new arrangement gives the

ON TEXAS FARMS

CARRIZO SPRINGS—Truck
growers in Dimmit county are fast learning that by simply spray applications of blue stone to pruned
grapes in the winter, and later Bordeaux spray after the fruits are set, that they will be assured of good crops of grapes, according to a report received from A. L.
Sebesta, county agricultural agent.

He also reports that another evil, cotton root rot, has been corrected through the use of cotton resistant root stock.

WHARTON—A wide, level, well grassed lawn, a walk of cement laid to resemble cobblestones including yaupon, wild peach,
Spanish mulberry, Indian currant,
and 137 nursery shrubs all growing luxuriantly, helped Clementine Judd, 18-year-old 4-H club girl in Wharton county to win a trip to the Farmers' Short Course as the best yard demonstrator for the county.

Ruth McDonald, garden demonstrator for the El Campo 4-H club, won a trip to the short course this year by winning first place in the county wide contest for garden demonstrators. She canned 392 containers of vegetables, 133 cans of fruit and fruit juices, laid 104
feet of sub-irrigation tile, staged two rows of tomatoes and gathered 1,840 pounds of vegetables.

WELLINGTON—“There is a use for everything, even rusty nails,” said Mrs. John Jones, bedroom demonstrator of North Wellington Home Demonstration Club
in Collingworth county.

She dyed some scraps of ratine
in the water where one-half gallon of rusty nails had been boiled.

The light brown ratine was used to make slip covers for the cushions of wicker chairs. In order to give a tailored appearance to the cushions a heavy cord was stitched around the boxing. “The harmonizing light cushions make the bedroom look light and cool for summer time,” Mrs. Jones commented.

Remodels Store—

the orchestra will again play selections.

J. E. Meroney, president of the chamber of commerce, will introduce the speaker of the evening.

Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, mayor of Ranger, will deliver the principal address, which will be a dedication of the new addition to the Joseph Dry Goods company store, which makes it one of the largest in Ranger, and one of the most completely equipped of any in this section of the state.

A response and appreciation will be made by D. Joseph, followed by an inspection of all departments of the store. No goods will be sold at the formal opening, the store closing for sales at the regular hour, 6 o'clock.

In formally opening the store
Mr. Joseph hopes that everyone in Ranger, including all his customers and those from the rural communities who do their shopping in the city, will pay the store a visit, both for the program and for the inspection that is to follow.

Earlier in the year Mr. Joseph purchased the Hodges-Neal building, in which the store has been located since December, 1920, and immediately began plans for expansion and improving his store.

His faith in the future of Ranger, his ability to foresee the future and plan for a large business than has been enjoyed in the past,
is directly responsible for the expenditure at this time of the large sum required for remodeling and improving to the extent that the Joseph Dry Goods store has been improved.

A number of the merchants of Ranger, as well as the manufacturers of standard merchandise
handled through the Joseph store,
are today extending their congratulations and good wishes to Mr. Joseph and the entire personnel of the store in their achievement.

store a “big town” appearance, so often found in the larger cities,
but so seldom seen in the smaller localities and, as one Rangerite expressed it, just recently “Joseph's is a store of which any city could feel proud.”

Relief Business Will End Soon

AUSTIN—Sounding another alarm that the days of “relief
business” in Texas are numbered,
the Texas Relief commission has informed district administration offices that the school lunch program which last year aided in providing lunches for 51,000 children weekly, will not be resumed this year.

Following up repeated suggestions that citizens look to their own resources, officials have urged that Parent-Teacher associations,
men's and women's service clubs,

church societies, and other organizations continue the school lunch program in communities where it is still needed.

“With our funds definitely limited, we would not be justified in making plans for a year's program for needy school children when we probably could not carry it out,” Mrs. Val M. Keating, director of Social Service, said in recommending that private, local organizations continue the lunch program.

Last year the Relief commission
sponsored projects in 94 schools, furnishing daily lunches for 150
children a week, and jointly sponsored projects with local organizations in 721 other schools, furnishing lunches for 42,091 children a week.

... and Sudden Death!

instead of the abdominal cavity
that is filling with blood.

Flying glass—safety glass is by no means universal yet—contributes much more than its share to the spectacular side of accidents. It doesn't merely cut—the fragments are driven in as if a cannon loaded with broken bottles had been fired in your face, and a silver in the eye, traveling with such force, means certain blindness. A leg or arm stuck through the windshield will cut clean to the bone through vein, artery and muscle like a piece of beef under the butcher's knife, and it takes little time to lose a fatal amount of blood under such circumstances. Even safety glass may not be wholly safe when the car crashes something at high speed. You hear picturesque tales of how a flying human body will make a neat hole in the stuff with its head—the shoulders stick—the glass holds—and the raw, keen edge of the hole decapitates the body as neatly as a guillotine.

Or, to continue with the decapitation motif, going off the road into a post-and-rail fence can put you beyond worrying about other injuries immediately when a rail comes through the windshield and your head with its splintery end—not as neat a job but thoroughly efficient. Bodies are often found with their shoes off and their feet all broken out of shape. The shoes are back on the floor of the car, empty and with their laces still neatly tied. That is the kind of impact produced by modern speeds.

But all that is routine in every American community. To be remembered individually by doctors and policemen, you have to do something as grotesque as the lady who burst the windshield with her head, splashing splinters all over the other occupants of the car, and then, as the car rolled over, rolled with it down the edge of the windshield frame and cut her throat from ear to ear. Or park on the pavement too near a curve at night and stand in front of the tail light as you take off a spare tire—which will immortalize you in somebody's memory as the fellow who was mashed three feet broad and two inches thick by the impact of a heavy duty truck against the rear of his own car. Or be as original as the pair of youths who were thrown out of an open roadster this spring—thrown clear—but each broken a windshield post with his head in passing and the whole top of each skull, down to the eyebrows, was missing. Or snap off a nine-inch tree and get yourself impaled by a ragged branch.

None of all that is scare-fiction; it is just the horrible raw material of the year's statistics as seen in the ordinary course of duty by policemen and doctors, picked at random. The surprising thing is that there is so little dissimilarity in the stories they tell.

It's hard to find a surviving accident victim who can bear to talk. After you come to, the gnawing, searing pain throughout your body is accounted for by learning that you have both collarbones smashed, both shoulder blades splintered, your right arm broken in three places and three ribs cracked, with every chance of bad internal ruptures. But the pain can't distract you, as the shock begins to wear off, from realizing that you are probably on your way out. You can't forget that, not even when they shift you from the ground to the stretcher and your broken ribs bite into your lungs and the sharp ends of your collarbones slide over to stab deep into each side of your screaming throat. When you've stopped screaming, it all comes back—you're dying and you hate yourself for it. That isn't fiction either. It's what it actually feels like to be one of that 36,000.

And every time you pass on a blind curve, every time you hit it up on a slippery road, every time you step on it harder than your reflexes will safely take, every time you drive with your reactions slowed down a drink or two, every time you follow the man ahead too closely, you're gambling a few seconds against this kind of blood and agony and sudden death.

Take a look at yourself as the man in the white jacket shakes his head over you, tells the boys with the stretcher not to bother and turns away to somebody else who isn't quite dead yet. And then take it easy.

Southern Pine Seed Crop Is Larger

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. — The bumper crop of seed produced this year by southern pines, will be boon to reforestation, the Forest Service of the Department of Agriculture reported recently. Forestry officials said that natural reforestation is much cheaper than artificial transplanting, and urge landowners desiring to get a good stand of trees to scratch up the surface of the ground with a plow or harrow early this fall to aid in germination.

Building Permits Show Some Growth In Ranger in 1935

Although building permits in the City of Ranger since Jan. 1, 1935, have not been high, they have been representative of the improvements that have been going on in the city, it was revealed today.

According to records at the city hall building in Ranger since the first of the year has amounted to approximately $12,000 or an average of nearly $1,500 a month. And the records do not include work done on the Guaranty State Bank building, or the D. Joseph store, which will bring the total much higher.

Building permits issued since the first of the year include more than $6,500 on the Southern Ice company plant, which includes the building only and not the equipment that has been installed.

The Magnolia filling station, which is operated by A. L. Stiles and now in the course of construction at the corner of Pine and Commerce streets, constitutes the second largest building project on which permits have been issued. It calls for an expenditure of $4,500. The Sinclair Filling Station on the new highway through Ranger has been built since the first of the year and called for an expenditure of $350.

The two other permits issued recently are to Elmo Decker for remodeling his filling station at the corner of Pine and Rusk streets which accounts for another $150 and the erection of Alex's cafe at an expense of $150.

All-in-all, though not very large the building permits issued to date, and the construction on which costs have not as yet been computed, show a healthy, steady growth and a confidence in the future of Ranger by those have

Pour Pens Will Be Put On Exhibition At New Museum

AUSTIN.—Four writing pens will be the No. 1 exhibit in the American Legion-University of Texas $1,275,000 museum to be erected in Austin.

The first pen was used by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in signing the Connally-Patman bill providing coinage for 1,500,000 centennial half dollars sold to supply funds for the museum. No. 2 is the pen used by Gov. James V. Allred to sign the $3,000,000 appropriation bill, including $225,000 for equipping the building.

Vice President John N. Garner, Texan and honorary doctor of laws at the University of Texas, used the third pen to sign the resolution by which the federal government agreed to furnish $300,000 for the museum.

The fourth pen was used by President Roosevelt to sign the second deficiency appropriation bill. It was furnished the President by Congressman J. P. Buchanan of Brenan.

Milk Production Per Cow Shows An Increase In Texas

DALLAS, Tex.—Milk production per cow in both Texas and the United States was much higher on Aug. 1 than at the same time last year, according to reports of the Department of Agriculture.

Texas daily production averaged 10.6 pounds daily per cow against 8.9 pounds a year ago. The 1925-32 average is 9.8 pounds.

United States production on Aug. 1 averaged 14.1 pounds per cow daily, compared with 13 pounds a year ago. The 1925-32 average for the United States is 14.53.

The increase in milk production this year more than offset the reduction of the number of milch cows during the past year. The total production is about five per cent higher than a year ago.

B. C. Johnson Bit By Rattlesnake On Ranger Golf Course

B. C. Johnson of Ranger, who was bitten by a rattlesnake Tuesday afternoon while playing golf on the Ranger Country Club course, was reported today to be resting comfortably, after spending a night in extreme pain.

Johnson and Jimmy Gray were playing the eighth hole, according to Gray's story when Johnson hit one into the rough, just at the edge of the fairway. Gray's shot carried almost to the same spot and when Johnson stepped into the rough for his second shot he stepped on the snake. The rattler struck and then rattled.

Johnson became frightened and started to run for his car, but Gray overtook him and quieted him. A tourniquet was placed about his leg below the knee and the bite lanced with a knife to let the wound bleed freely. Within 10 minutes after he was bitten he was at a local hospital for treatment, Gray said.

Centennial Book Gives Homecoming Idea to Attorney

Eastland county will be off to a flying start in the undertaking of attracting Centennial tourists from all parts of the Southwest and the nation when Boyce House's book about the great oil boom in this section appears.

This was the opinion expressed by District Attorney Grady Owen Saturday.

"There isn't any doubt but that the book will be read by thousands of people all over the United States and it will be reviewed in newspapers of the North and East," Owen said.

"This will draw attention again to the many exciting and interesting events that occurred in this county back in 1917 to 1920 and when thousands of outsiders flock to Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio and other cities for Centennial celebrations, many of them will want to visit our county."

"It might not be a bad idea for Eastland county to have a homecoming next year and invite back all the thousands who were here during the boom. We could have a pageant that would re-enact the history of our county. With the impetus that the book should give, Eastland county can have a celebration that will rank in interest with all except those in the very largest cities in 1936."

The Centennial visitors will spend large amounts in Eastland county, the county will receive valuable publicity and a revival in oil activities can be stimulated by bringing to the attention of the world the opening up of new oil territory and the results obtained from acid treatment of the wells.

S. M. Fowler Has A Modern Orchard In Eastland County

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Fowler, who live about one-half north of Olden on the main line of the Barkshead highway, have one of the most up-to-date and modern orchards and truck farms one will find in this part of the state.

The Fowlers moved on the nine-acre tract four years ago and have added to the place a number of fruit trees, grapevines and other things.

The orchard consists of 1,000 grape, all bearing, and which are grown from the stump rather than on trellis. This method, says Fowler, is better because one can get to the vegetation and also is able to cultivate the individual plants better.

There are in the neighborhood of 300 bearing fruit trees. The Magnolia and Harrison fruit is grown in large quantities.

"The demand is more than the supply," said Fowler, "we are selling them at $2 per bushel and cannot fill the orders. The fruit is of splendid variety and are extra large in size."

Mrs. Fowler takes an active interest in canning fruits and vegetables and she says nothing goes to waste on the place.

There are pecan trees, pear trees, and all sorts of truck. Mrs. Fowler said she sold $30 worth of beets from a small patch near the water tank.

The place can be irrigated and a portion of the truck farm is irrigated when needed, water being supplied from a 60-foot well.

Last year a large part of the peachorchard was destroyed by the cold weather and drought, but a small orchard had already been planted on the southwest side of the peach trees they become blistered and are easy victims for worms. He has worked out a scheme which will overcome this trouble to a large extent. He leaves all limbs next to the ground and especially on the southwest side to keep the hot blistering sun off the trees as much as possible.

NEW U. S. RADIUM SOURCE TO YIELD CHEAPER SUPPLY

By TED H. MALOY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The United States may break the Belgian radium monopoly and give the precious metal to the world in quantities and cheap enough to meet medical needs under plans revealed to the United Press by J. H. Hardy, Coloradoan owner.

Hardy hopes to begin extraction of the pitchblende ore from his mines at Jamestown, Colo., within the year, either under private enterprise or government contract.

The vein, found in four of Hardy's five mines, is the only one in the United States, he said. He discovered it 17 years ago while watching the milling of flourspar from one of the mines. He noticed a thin, dark line on the outer rim of ore on a jug table and wondered what it was.

The fine line of metal was of a specific gravity near that of gold. Hardy could see from its position on the table. For three months he and trusted assistants worked at night attempting to classify the new substance.

Finally the mining experiment station of the United States Bureau of Mines at Golden, Colo., determined it was uranium in the form of pitchblende.

The discovery was beset with difficulties. First, radium interests denied there was sufficient ore to permit commercial operations, then a partner drafteed with some $300,000. Overcoming these things took time.

Engineers appointed by the Colorado Manufacturers and Merchants Association and the Denver Chamber of Commerce established that the pitchblende ore was present in commercial quantities. Waste ore used in the tests revealed one pound of pitchblende or 0.128 milligram of radium per ton.

With that established Hardy spent the last 15 years clearing titles to the 400 acres of land along Jim Creek. He is finished now and ready to begin operations.

It has been suggested that the industry be in effect a government monopoly, the government advancing funds for the extraction of pure radium, then renting the radium to smaller hospitals and clinics toward control of the 125,000 persons dying annually in the United States of cancer and other malignant diseases which respond to radium treatment.

The method of operation is being considered. Hardy said, however, that the mines could be operated commercially for their other products of gold, silver, lead and chemical by-products and the radium of the final extractions could be produced cheaply enough for its more extensive use.

The United States produced radium for a while from carnotite at Denver but the process was so expensive that when the richer pitchblende deposit was discovered in the Belgian Congo the operations in this country were closed down. The Denver plant produced

Hitch-Hiker is Menace As Well As Nuisance

It is impossible to drive anywhere in America today without encountering a patient, droop-shouldered chap who stands by the roadside and continuously jerks his thumb across his chest.

He is the hitch-hiker, one of the strangest products of the auto age, and he is getting to be a prominent part of the American landscape. He is also getting to be an intense pain in the neck.

Just why it should be considered proper for a man to stand by the roadside and beg free transportation from total strangers is something of a mystery. If he should amble up to a pedestrian and say "I want to take the next train to Bingville—would you mind slipping me three ninety-five?" the pedestrian would lose no time in telling him where to go; but put the pedestrian behind the wheel of a car and let the hitch-hiker make a request which amounts to precisely the same thing, and neither party sees anything especially odd about it.

But the hitch-hiker is something more than a nuisance. America is full of nuisances anyway, and one more or less hardly makes enough difference to be worth talking about. There are times and places when the hitch-hiker is an actual menace to public safety.

For instance; the police at Wichita, Kan., got curious recently and took all the hitch-hikers they could find down to headquarters to be fingerprinted. They found that two of every five had criminal records.

For another instance: murders of motorists by hitch-hikers have been recorded recently in Oregon, Virginia, Nebraska, New Mexico, and Oklahoma. Oklahoma, as a matter of fact, ascribes more than half a dozen recent killings to hitch-hikers while Oregon has had three.

It might also be remembered that when Pretty Boy Floyd was finally hunted down and killed in Ohio he was in the process of hitch-hiking across the country.

The ordinary American is a pretty good-natured sort of person, and it is this fact that the hitch-hiker trades on. He collects a great deal of free transportation, promotes the existence of a vagabond class which does the country no good, and creates a fine opening for a lot of old-fashioned highway robbery.

As an individual, the hitch-hiker may be a likable chap. As an institution, he is getting to be pretty trying. One wonders just how much longer the American motorist will put up with him.

New High for Peacetime Appropriations

Chairman James B. Buchanan of Texas of the House appropriations committee estimated that the first session of the 74th congress made available to the government approximately $10,250,000,000 "to care for emergency and ordinary running expenses." This sets a new high for peace time appropriations, according to the press correspondents who handle the Washington job. Well, $10,000,000,000 to place the American people on their feet, so to speak, and to save millions from starvation is not so bad. It is for a noble purpose and the industries of the country are moving forward to greater heights and the millions are taken from the relief rolls of the nation.

This government spent $36,000,000,000 for World War purposes and the international financiers of America loaned another $12,000,000,000 to foreign individuals and foreign governments. The heavy borrowers of the war loans practically repudiated principal and interest. They left the American people with the bag to hold. "There is a vast difference between $10,000,000,000 for home relief and the $48,000,000,000 which was the cost of the World War and the loans made when peace came to "to bring about recovery in foreign climes and foreign peoples." Americans will pay the war debt, including the war loans made by the government. They shouldered the burden and they will never repudiate their obligations. Why is it akin to criminal to spend billions to bring about recovery in this republic and restore the government and the people to former grandeur and prosperity to all concerned?

Europe Playing Game of Bluff; "Call" is Due

The international poker game will probably go on and on until at last one or another of the players decides to call somebody's bluff.

It is hard to avoid the feeling that everybody concerned has been doing a tremendous amount of bluffing of late. So far, few important bluffs have been called. The interesting question is what will happen when someone shoves a stack of blue chips out to the middle of the table and demands a look at the hands.

You might say that Adolf Hitler set the style when he announced that Germany was through with the military clauses of the Versailles treaty and would arm henceforth to suit herself. This was a bluff, pure and simple; Hitler wasn't ready to fight. But nobody had quite nerve enough to call him. Germany today is rearing as the result of having defied the world on a pair of jacks.

Then we come to the Japanese in the Far East. Japan announced that she was going to take over Manchuria and as much of China as she wished, and added that she would build as big a fleet as she pleased.

Everybody looked at the ceiling, scratched his head—and tossed in his cards. Maybe Japan was bluffing, maybe not; nobody tried to find out.

Next in line is Signor Mussolini. With many flourishes he declares that Italy is going to overrun Ethiopia. Will any European nations try to stop him? Then, he says, he will fight, no matter who his enemy may be.

This sounds more like a bluff than either of the other two cases. Italy's ability to finance a colonial expedition in Africa is in doubt; how much more doubtful must be her ability to finance a major European war! It is hard to escape the conclusion that Il Duce is running a magnificent bluff.

Last there is Great Britain; and if Mussolini's war-like attitude looks like a bluff, so it must be admitted, does the arched-back pose of the British lion. Italian naval and air strength in the Mediterranean is greater than England's; furthermore, it has not for more than a century been England's custom to fight a major European power without first lining up one or two husky allies.

What can come out of a poker game of this kind is beyond guessing, he one inescapable conclusion seems to be that if you talk tough enough and act as if you had 'em, the world powers of today will believe you.

Statesmen are nervous and uncertain—and any poker player will tell you that a man in that shape is fairly begging to be bluffed.

U. S. Desires Peace—But Keeps Powder Dry

The United States fleet having maneuvered extensively in the Pacific and the United States army having gone through its war-like paces in the Adirondacks, this summer might be recorded as the one in which Uncle Sam oiled up his squirrel rifle, whetted his bowie knife on his boot, and let the neighbors know that he was ready for anything anyone cared to start.

It looks, in other words, as if we have gone in for militarism in a big way. But the give-away—the straw that shows which way the wind really is blowing—was contributed not by the army and navy, but by congress.

Right at the tail end of everything, Congress passed an unprecedented new war-time embargo law. It didn't go as far as it might have but the law was unmistakably designed to keep the country out of war, and within certain limits it ought to be highly effective.

And as for the army maneuvers . . . well, by super-human effort we managed to get 36,000 soldiers, counting National Guardsmen, in one spot at one time. And just as we were getting through with this display of military might, Italy put on her own war games and paraded an army of 500,000 men—as if to remind us that our army is a mere pigmy compared with the armies of the other great powers.

FOR GOOD, LOW-COST Service

LOOK FOR THE FORD SIGN

THE Ford Motor Company very early decided that good service was as necessary as correct design and efficient manufacturing.

To give you service that measures up to factory requirements, Ford dealers' mechanics are factory trained. The modern, efficient equipment they use, such as the Ford Laboratory Test Set, saves you time and money. Charges are low, because uniform flat rates prevail. Perhaps one of the most noteworthy savings has been effected through the Ford Factory Engine Exchange Plan, which eliminates the old-fashioned costly overhaul.

Today we believe that Ford dealers and those garages which display the "Genuine Ford Parts" sign combine to provide the most complete, most satisfactory type of service available anywhere. Use these facilities and get the utmost in performance and economy from your Ford car or truck.

Your Ford dealer always lubricates your Ford in accordance with factory specifications. He has the modern equipment and skilled mechanics necessary to do good work.

Typical of the modern, scientific equipment used by Ford service stations is the Laboratory Test Set, which quickly and accurately checks engine and electrical performance.

At less cost than an old-fashioned overhaul, you can exchange your present Ford engine for a factory-reconditioned cylinder assembly. Many other units are also included in this service.

Transfer Accident Case to Abilene

Suit of Sam W. Garrett vs. Hartford Accident & Indemnity company has been transferred from 91st district court to the federal court in Abilene.

Garrett, former employe of the Lone Star Gas company, is suing from an award of the industrial accident board for injuries assertedly sustained while unloading line near Ranger on Aug. 14, 1934. Plaintiff was awarded $3.20 per day for 401 weeks by the board July 9, 1935.

Asserting he was unfamiliar with work of unloading lime, Garrett set forth in his petition that he labored without a mask and thereby suffered injuries to his lungs which resulted in tuberculosis. He became totally incapacitated from the disease on April 25, 1935, the plaintiff alleged.

SCRAMBLE FOR LONG'S POWER HAS BEGUN

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10.—Sen. Huey Long's death threw his all-powerful political machine into confusion today. Be both the surface of mourning a bitter contest for advantage and iterative postures of national guards awaited a summons to the capitol where the sub-leaders of the Long organization were taking precautions against untoward move by the square deal association or other anti-Long leaders.

The struggle was forecast within an hour of the senator's death by Leo Lester, vice president of the Square Deal. He warned members of the legislature to "heed the example of the man who just passed away."

Louisiana was assured a complete change in politics, most observers agreed. They saw the Long sub-leaders, none of whom approach the strength of the dead chief, fighting one another until all were politically dead. Long's organization was strictly a one-man organization.

Observers believed the change might not come until the 1936 state election though some thought it might come suddenly.

The whole strange system of political rule that Long devised and presided over so jealously, was doomed.

There was no leader to carry on. There were enemies on all sides.

Welding

... the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces of metal is by welding them together.

... and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco ...

That is just what we do in making CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish. When these tobaccos are welded together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobaccos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

OAK GROVE

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rice announce the birth of a son, Tuesday, Aug. 27. His name is Claude Lee and weighed eight pounds.

Mrs. Tommie Culwell of Okra visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Milford, here a few days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy B. Cannaday of Pleasant Hill were Sunday guests of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Cannaday.

The rains have done some damage to grain sorghum that was ready to harvest by sprouting in the field and some cotton had begun to open and that will be stained more or less and result in a loss to the grower, but the damage is negligible.

Grover Hastings and son, "Butter," of Pleasant Hill, were visitors in the home of his brother, E. B. Hastings, and family last Sunday.

DOUBLES IN CURVES

Obviously a specialist in curves, Pauline Richardson, above, comely pitcher of the Lansing City Transport Company's softball team, hurried her aggregation to the state championship of the girls' division in the Michigan tournament at Lansing. Belying appearances, Miss Richardson fully justified the appellation of "iron woman" by pitching the final three games of the tournament in a single day. A trip to Chicago for the national tournament was the prize.

ham, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bargsley and Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Mitchell.

Henry Bradford and son, Clark, Messrs Jack Beck, Ennis Jackson, and M. I. Lassiter had business in Breckenridge Wednesday of last week.

On Monday morning there was a hurry and scurry, for the school bus was to come. The great amount of muddy roads however caused much delay. After all these days of vacation the confinement of school hours are not desired by many of the students. But after all the pleasures of school life, especially daily companionship with other boys and girls, should balance the work.

IT'LL BE LIGHT MAV TEAM TO PLAY SPA CITY FRIDAY, OPPONENTS TO BE IN DARK

It will be one of the lightest teams ever bearing the colors of Eastland High School to play that will play the Mineral Wells Mountaineers Friday night at Mineral Wells.

It will be one of the most problematical type of play, too, that their opponents may expect.

This was indicated by the coach of the 140-pound average team, Johnny Kitchen, Thursday as he planned avenues of attack in the first Oil Belt Class A engagement.

Aerial play can be expected in big portions, the quiet coach indicated. "We'll throw more passes than we run," said the former pupil of Francis Schmidt, now at Ohio State.

The coach stated that the team possesses four or five passers and a like number that can receive the pigskin.

The team was due to receive rubdowns from an Eastland chiropractor Thursday afternoon. Outdoor practice has been engaged in by the team all this week. Last week blackboard drills were held in the school gymnasium.

Report $87,000 PWA Projects Are Approved

Report of the approval of an $87,000 permanent fair grounds project submitted to public works administration officials over a year ago were being investigated by H. C. Davis, Chamber of Commerce secretary, Thursday.

According to reports from what the secretary believed were reliable sources, the PWA has approved the fair grounds project, one for a county library at a cost of $10,000, and another for a $10,000 swimming pool.

The approval report was a surprise to the chamber secretary and others in Eastland. The projects had been submitted last year and nothing had been heard.

The fair grounds project includes plans for erection of a race track, gymnasium-auditorium, exhibit buildings and other structures.

The Chamber of Commerce last year sent representatives to Washington in behalf of the project. E. Bedford Jones drew plans for the proposed project.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

SALMON do not return to their birthplace to spawn because of any sentimental reasons, but because there is more oxygen in the stream at its source, and the young need this. It is only logical that a salmon would return to the same stream, since it does not ordinarily stray far from the mouth of the fresh water from which it emerged.

Joins Pioneers and Relates Some Interesting Bits of Family History

The following story about one of Ranger's pioneer citizens, and a pioneer citizen of the state, is being reproduced from the Fort Worth Star Telegram because of the interest it will have among the citizens in this part of the state:

"Mrs. F. E. Outlaw of Ranger, who came to Texas, 63 years ago and whose first married residence was a Stephens county log cabin covered with dirt, enclosed an interesting sketch of her family history with her application to join The Star-Telegram West Texas Pioneers Association.

"My grandfather, Robert M. Echols, was Senator from Walton county, Georgia, and was president of the Senate 10 years. He then was made a general and sent to war with Mexico and was thrown from a horse and killed. His body was placed in a metallic coffin and buried in one of Santa Anna's haciendas under a rosewood tree.

"After the war his body was exhumed and sent back to Georgia. I received letters about him from different parts of Texas, and one from Oklahoma, a Hill County woman telling of having been at the ceremony when his body was brought home. Another letter was from an old man named Mason who lived at Big Spring, who said that when he was a boy he was my grandfather's page.

"Another letter was from an old man in West Texas, who said that after the war someone cut a limb from that rosewood tree and made a walking stick and gave instructions that it be sent to an heir of Gen. Robert M. Echols. I went and got it and it now hangs in my clothes closet.

"Eliel Melton, one of the martyrs whose name is engraved on the walls of the Alamo, was my grandmother's brother.

"My father was Capt. Troup Scott, a captain during the Civil War. He died after the memorable march to try to head off Sherman's army from Atlanta. He was sent home but lived for only a day or two, and my mother was left with five children and with everything gone. It has been about 63 years since we came to Texas. We spent one year in Rusk County and spent many happy years there in the old "Sand Flat" neighborhood, a few miles from Cleburne. Later we moved to Stephens county.

"Mrs. Outlaw then tells of her marriage to George Outlaw, a "Western cowboy who lived at Old Phantom Hill." They settled in Stephens County, their first home being a little log cabin covered with dirt. They soon built a home and Outlaw became a farmer. Later they moved to Breckenridge, then to Ranger and later to Sweetwater, where Outlaw died. Mrs. Outlaw then "came back to the old home and took up life again alone."

"Mrs. Outlaw concludes with the statement that "I would love to get a letter from every old friend I ever knew, if they have not all crossed over the river."

Elect Pastor of Strawn, Eastland Church Moderator

Rev. Charles W. Estes, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Eastland and Strawn, returned home Wednesday evening from Albany, where he was elected Moderator of the Presbytery of Abilene of the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Estes will serve for the next six months. The next regular meeting of the Presbytery will be held in April, 1936, at Snyder.

"At this meeting," said Rev. Estes, "a delegation was present representing 1400 members of the Presbyterian church in this part of Texas. Three young men have recently accepted pastorates in Texas, graduating from Princeton Seminary in New Jersey, a great added strength to the important work in this part."

"Much concern was shown in behalf of the needy fields and definite plan established to secure settled pastors for every field in the Presbytery. The Matthews Memorial Church, Albany, rendered a very great service in the manner of entertaining all delegates to this meeting. The Rev. Eugene H. Surface of Lamesa resigned to accept the position of Bible instructor in Trinity University, at Waxahachie."

Deep-Test Looms on DeLafosse As Humble Buys Land

It was said today by C. K. West when questioned about the reported deal, that it has been closed, subject to examination of title.

Such a deal would bring into the play there one of the leaders of major oil companies, and should a producer be brought in this section for years to come.

It was said today that under normal procedure in such a deal that drilling of a new hole will start in about a month. Pitzer & West re-

DeLafosse ranch, which may open a large new producing territory, now looms, it was said today.

Pitzer & West of Breckenridge, have sold to the Humble an undivided half interest in their lease of 5,400 acres on that ranch, the properties lying at the west edge of the county line, and a new test well be started after Pitzer & West got what appeared to be a 300-barrel well in a first attempt for production, the hole being ruined by a premature blast of nitrogen.

It was said today by C. K. West when questioned about the reported deal, that it has been closed, subject to examination of title.

Such a deal would bring into the play there one of the leaders of major oil companies, and should a producer be brought in this section for years to come.

It was said today that under normal procedure in such a deal that drilling of a new hole will start in about a month. Pitzer & West recently sunk a hole to 4,460 feet where pay was encountered in the Ellenberger lime. They will drill the new test.

With pay in the Ellenberger lime, Breckenridge would not only be furnished a large new area for production, but a new producing horizon. Success in the second test there will mean exploration in other sections for pay at that lower depth.

The purchase of half interest and the starting of a new hole on the DeLafosse ranch indicates judgment that oil in paying quantities is there both by a company that met with hard luck, once before, and the largest Standard subsidiary in Texas. It costs about $25,000 to sink a hole to the pay sand encountered.

Dinosaur eggs discovered in Mongolia have a market price of $5000 each. However, after paying transportation costs there and back, a U. S. housewife wouldn't save a thing.

"Camels don't get your Wind" FAMOUS ATHLETES AGREE

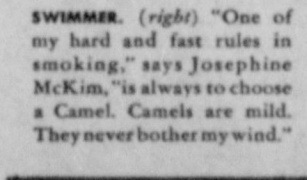

DIVER, (left) Harold "Dutch" Smith says: "After a meet, a Camel restores my energy. And what's equally important to me—Camels never interfere with my wind."

TRACK STAR, (right) James Bausch reports: "Camels are so mild they don't get my wind or cut down my speed and endurance. And Camel is a better-tasting cigarette."

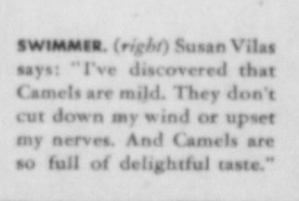

SLUGGER, (left) Lou Gehrig says: "Camels never get my wind or my nerves. I like their flavor. That famous saying, 'I'd walk a mile for a Camel' goes for me too."

SWIMMER, (right) "One of my hard and fast rules in smoking," says Josephine McKim, "is always to choose a Camel. Camels are mild. They never bother my wind."

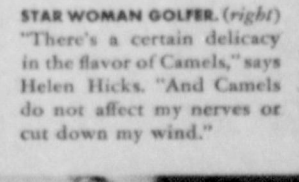

GOLFER, (left) Tommy Armour: "Camels never bother my nerves or shorten my wind. And a Camel combines mildness with rich flavor in such a pleasing way."

SWIMMER, (right) Susan Vilas says: "I've discovered that Camels are mild. They don't cut down my wind or upset my nerves. And Camels are so full of delightful taste."

TENNIS ACE, (left) Bill Tilden: "I must keep in 'condition.' So I smoke Camels. They don't get my wind or upset my nerves. And I never tire of their smooth, rich taste."

STAR WOMAN GOLFER, (right) "There's a certain delicacy in the flavor of Camels," says Helen Hicks. "And Camels do not affect my nerves or cut down my wind."

JANE FAUNTZ, Olympic Swimming and Diving Star. "Being both a swimmer and a diver," says Miss Fauntz, "I have to keep in perfect 'condition.' Since I started smoking, I have always smoked Camels. Camels are mild and made from naturally fine tobaccos. They do not get my wind or jangle my nerves. And as for taste—Camels have a most delightful and appealing flavor. They are so soothing and gentle to the throat."

Other champions agree with Miss Fauntz as to the mildness of Camels...their fragrance and flavor...their good taste. Athletes say Camels don't fray their nerves or get their wind.

● Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS — Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.
