WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate committee wound up its first session inquiring into charges against Sen. McCarthy today with the chairman banging the Wisconsin senator into silence and thundering he was "out of order."

Calm Whitaker Faces Death In Electric Chair

HUNTSVILLE (AP)—Walter Whitaker Jr., handsome young Air Force cadet, faced a midnight date with the electric chair today for the murder of his sweetheart.

The State Board of Pardons and Paroles yesterday turned down a petition for commutation to life imprisonment.

The formal denial came after Whitaker's mother and father, prominent Wetherfield, Conn., residents, made an eleventh-hour appeal for their son's life.

Whitaker, 23, was sentenced to death for the February, 1953, strangulation murder of Joyce Fern White, attractive, freckle-faced 18-year-old Lubbock High School student and choir singer.

"I'm ready, but I'm not willing," Whitaker told a newspaperman yesterday in a death cell interview.

He grimaced a little as he talked sofly and quietly.

"I loved the girl and I had no reason to kill her," he said, adding that he believed the jury convicted him was prejudiced because of adverse publicity.

He said newsmen reporting the crime lacked integrity and "blatantly" the news "to gain public opinion for the girl and against me."

The district attorney in Lubbock, he said, told his father that the case was murder without malice, but after the news came out "with these glaring charges," the district attorney was forced to file a charge of murder with malice.

Whitaker testified at the trial that Joyce told him on the night of her death that she was pregnant and that he had agreed to take her to Clovis, N. M., and marry her.

En route, he testified, she told him she was not pregnant.

"I was ready to marry her," Whitaker told a newsmen yesterday. "But when she told me she was not pregnant, my world came tumbling down."

"All my life I have had an obsession about babies. As a child I liked to keep babies, baby sit. In this girl I saw the opportunity to have a baby of my own. Suddenly my whole world came tumbling down on me, and suddenly I had a persecution complex which I know I wouldn't have today in the same circumstances."

Whitaker, dressed in the white cotton clothes given Texas prison inmates, said he had been feeling well and had a good appetite.

He had a Bible and an American hymnal in his cell. The Rev. Raymond McAfee, local Episcopal minister, has visited him in his cell.

Prison officials said he had scored the highest of any inmate ever in the prison system on the mental test given all prisoners.

The Board of Pardons and Paroles has had a policy of keeping "open" until the hour of execution all death cases.

Mrs. Whitaker planned to see her son again today. "I still think his life will be spared," she said last night after she and a younger son—15-year-old Bruce—visited in the death house.

Eisenhower Says EDC Vote Setback

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower last night called the French Parliament's scuttling of the European army project "a serious setback."

But he declared the United States never will quit the fight for free world security against any Communist threat.

"We have our setbacks, we are disappointed. But we must not be discouraged," the President said emphatically in a speech at the Iowa State Fair in Des Moines.

At Army Court-Martial

Cpl. Claude Batchelor of Kermit, Tex., 23-year-old former Korean War Prisoner, sits in court at Ft. Sam Houston, San Antonio, before start of his court-martial on charges of collaborating with the enemy and informing on his buddies while a prisoner of war.

With him are his mother, Mrs. G. L. Batchelor (left) of Kermit, Tex., and Mrs. Portia Howe (right) of Alden, Minn., whose son, Richard Tenneson, a POW who decided to remain with the Reds, is reported to be in Red China. (AP Wirephoto.)

Judge Rules Cpl. Batchelor Was Not Pledged Immunity

By WILLIAM G. BARNARD

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The trial judge ruled today that Cpl. Claude Batchelor was not promised immunity by the U.S. Army if he would return to the Allied side.

On the basis of this ruling, Lt. Col. Donald L. James Jr., law officer, or "judge," in the court-martial of Batchelor, turned down a defense motion that all charges against Batchelor be dropped.

Batchelor is charged with collaborating with the enemy and telling on his buddies while he was a prisoner of war in Korea. He at first chose to stay with the Reds but changed his mind.

His attorneys had contended that the Army promised immunity from prosecution to the corporal while he was in Indian custody in the Panmunjom neutral zone if he would return to the Allied side.

The attorneys said the promise was broadcast.

James said he found in the broadcast "at most a promise that the prisoners of war would not be punished because they had not elected to return sooner."

Batchelor came home from Indian custody Jan. 1. His trial opened at Ft. Sam Houston here yesterday.

Batchelor, captured by the Communists in Korea, was one of an original group of 23 Americans who decided not to come back.

While in Indian custody at Panmunjom, Korea, last Jan. 1, he changed his mind and returned to the Allied side.

Lt. Col. Kerlin J. Bragdon, defense attorney, said the Army made a loud-speaker broadcast at Panmunjom Dec. 22 to persuade Batchelor and other unrepatriated Americans they would not be punished if they returned.

To this contention, Bragdon pegged his formal motion for dismissal of all charges.

Every officer of the eight-member court-martial panel is a decorated veteran of the war in Korea. President or "foreman" is Col. Charles W. Stratton, 51, now stationed with the Artillery School Command at Ft. Sill, Okla.

Joe Westbrook, defense lawyer, revealed to reporters yesterday he was waiting to see whether the Army will meet his request to bring Col. Edward S. Dickenson of Big Stone Gap, Va., to San Antonio as a witness.

Dickenson was the only one of the original group of unrepatriated American soldiers, besides Batchelor, to decide to return to the Allied side. He was given a court-martial on charges similar to those against Batchelor. In May he was convicted and sentenced to 10 years at hard labor.

Westbrook said he felt Dickenson would be a hostile witness but wanted him to testify in order to bring out certain facts.

Final Report Shows Shivers Winner By 92,406-Vote Margin

By The Associated Press

The final report on Saturday's Texas Democratic run-off primary gives Gov. Allan Shivers a whopping 92,406-vote margin over Ralph W. Yarborough.

The unofficial Texas Election Bureau said some 2,500 votes in 20 counties were uncounted. With 234 counties of Texas' 254 complete, Shivers had 773,890 votes and 681,284 for Yarborough, the Austin attorney who now has twice failed to unseat the conservative Shivers.

Shivers defeated Yarborough in 1952 by a vote of more than 300,000. He led in the July primary, after receiving the blessings of incumbent Eisenhower, by 23,737 votes.

Although Democratic nomination in Texas has since the Civil War nearly always meant election, Republican Tod Adams of Crockett said yesterday he would open his race against Shivers between Sept. 15 and Oct. 1.

Dislodged Car Rolls Over Tot; Injuries Fatal

A parked car became dislodged Monday afternoon, rolled down an incline and fatally injured 15-month-old Glenda Fay Hyden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hyden of Luther.

The baby died in a hospital here at 3:50 a. m. Tuesday, approximately 10 hours after the parents had found her in the path of the car at the family home at Luther. She never regained consciousness.

Services will be held at the Eberly-River Chapel at 5 p. m. Wednesday and burial will be in the City Cemetery. Lyle Price, minister of the Church of Christ at 14th and Main, will officiate.

Glenda was playing in a sand bed and her brother, Joe Stephen, 34-months, was playing nearby. Mr. and Mrs. Hyden had gone down to check a tank a short distance away when Stephen came running to them, obviously frightened.

His parents at first thought he might have been bitten by a snake but he had no marks. When they took him back toward where he had been playing, they noticed the car had become dislodged from its parking place and had rolled about 15 feet. They could see nothing wrong until they went around in front of the car. About seven feet away, in the path marked by the car tires, lay Glenda in the sand bed. They rushed her to the hospital.

Besides the parents and her brother, Glenda is survived by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hyden and Mr. and Mrs. Ivy McMurray of Luther.

U. S. To Alter Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today the United States will reappraise its foreign policies in the light of the French move killing the European army.

He called for a prompt meeting of the NATO Council to work out a new philosophy.

Dulles spoke in the wake of action by the French Parliament killing the idea of the European Defense Community under which six Western European countries would have set up a joint army.

The secretary said that now the three Western Powers—namely, the United States, Britain, and France—must move quickly to do everything possible to restore sovereignty to West Germany "and to enable it to contribute to international peace and security."

He attributed the defeat of EDC in the French National Assembly to "nationalism, abetted by communism" and said that the effect has been to "endanger the whole of Europe."

President Eisenhower last night called the French action "a serious setback" in the fight against world communism but made it clear the United States does not intend to quit the fight for free world security.

In a speech at Des Moines, Iowa, the President said: "We have our setbacks but we must not be discouraged."

Dulles' 650-word statement was handed to newsmen in the State Department press room only hours before he was due to leave for Manila to wind up negotiations for an eight-nation Southeast Asia Defense Alliance.

NATO, whose council Dulles wants to meet soon, is the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, a combination of 14 Western nations joined to guard against Communist aggression.

Dulles called the EDC situation a tragedy, cautioned against "narrow nationalism" in American reactions to it and said that what is now required is a study of the situation in the light of what has happened.

He said he had told the NATO Council last April that if the EDC project collapsed an "emergency situation" would be created, calling for a special meeting.

And, he added: "That condition has arisen, and the United States believes that there should promptly be a special meeting of the NATO ministerial council, as well as early consultations with Chancellor (Konrad) Adenauer (of West Germany). We shall move accordingly."

On the problem of reappraisal of U. S. foreign policy, about which Dulles at several times had warned France, the statement said:

"The French negative action without the provision of an alternative, obviously imposes on the United States the obligation to reappraise its foreign policies, particularly those in relation to Europe."

The need for such a view can scarcely be questioned since the North Atlantic Council of Ministers has itself twice declared with unanimity that the EDC was of paramount importance to the European defense it planned.

"Furthermore, such review is required by conditions which the Congress attached this year and last year to authorizations and appropriations for military contributions to Europe."

French Reject EDC, Defense Cornerstone

By PRESTON GROVER

PARIS (AP)—The Western coalition against communism reeled today under France's crushing rejection of the European army plan, but Allied leaders rushed forward new rescue plans.

By a 319-264 vote the French National Assembly voted last night to postpone debate indefinitely on the six-nation European Defense Community Treaty, signed 73 months ago after long and troublesome negotiations to add German soldiers to Western military strength.

The vote on the procedural motion was a clear-cut death blow to the plan which France herself originally proposed. It would have joined 12 German divisions in an internationally controlled force with French troops and those of Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

For three years EDC had been a keystone of Western defense policy. President Eisenhower termed the French vote a "serious setback" to the free world. Moscow's Communist party organ Pravda was jubilant.

There were sad and troubled French legislators today who said now no one could be sure whether West Germany could be kept oriented to the Allied side with a fighting force the North Atlantic command has been seeking for so long.

Only limited steps can be taken immediately unless the United States and Britain take a bold decision to go ahead without France.

Many of the same French deputies who voted down the plan to put German soldiers into a European army have declared they would vote also against any immediate rearmament of West Germany, even if she were to pledge her troops to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Many deputies who supported the European army were to vote against German rearmament without the controls EDC would have provided.

American diplomats and military leaders here did not take too seriously the unofficial talk heard in the United States that America and Britain might go ahead alone with the rearming of Germany if France tried to slow the pace again.

But critics here were aware that American veterans already have been reflected in congressional curbs put both on the quantity of money voted for Europe and the manner in which it could be spent.

With the idea for a centrally controlled European army derailed, American, British, West German and French officials prepared to find a replacement as quickly as possible.

A British Foreign Office spokesman said that talks would be begun. See EDC, Page 6, Col. 1

PICTURE TITLE TURNS OUT APT

FOLLANSBEE, W. Va. (AP)—Sylvia O'Neil, cashier at the Ohio Valley Drive-in Theater here, was calmly counting receipts last night. Suddenly two men with hooded sacks approached her cage.

One man pointed a gun at her and ordered her to turn over the money. She did, to the tune of $172.40.

The feature picture was titled "She Couldn't Say No."

Pipeline Project Planned To Link Texas, Wyoming

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Plans for a $72 million dollar project linking oil fields in Texas, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico, were announced yesterday.

Announcement was made by Bert Clardy, Dallas, public relations spokesman for three companies.

Clardy said a 10,000-barrel-a-day gasoline refinery in Albuquerque and a similar installation near Phoenix would be linked by pipelines to oil fields in the four states. The pipelines would be capable of carrying about 100,000 barrels of crude a day.

Oil would come from existing pipelines in Wink, Tex., and Guernsey, Wyo.

Clardy said commitments already have been made to begin taking delivery of crude by Jan. 1, 1956. He said the refinery and pipelines would provide a market for New Mexico crude that cannot be sold at present and will spur developments in the San Juan Basin where the only outlet for crude is by truck.

The companies involved are the Navajo Refineries of Albuquerque, the Arizona Refineries of Phoenix, and the Ar-Mex Pipeline Co. Jack Frost of New Mexico is president of all three companies.

Gasoline Prices Here Stabilized

Gasoline prices apparently have "stabilized" in Big Spring around the 22.9 and 24.9-cent levels.

Gulf, Texaco, Phillips and Humble products distributors today reported those prices for regular and ethyl grades of fuel. Magnolia prices varied, ranging upward from 22.9 and 24.9 for the two grades.

Shell stations posted 22.9 and 24.5 prices. Condon prices were unchanged at 22 cents for regular and 24 for ethyl at stations where premium stamps are offered and 27 and 29 where no stamps are given.

Exchange Of Dead In Korea To Begin

SEOUL (AP)—Bodies of 193 Americans killed in the Korean War will be returned to Communist North Korea tomorrow morning for final burial on U. S. soil, the Communists said today.

The Reds also advised the U.N. Command they will return seven Allied bodies of unknown nationality during the first daily exchange of bodies. The transfer is expected to run more than a month.

The Allies will give the Reds 5000 Korean bodies and 100 Chinese bodies tomorrow.

Glen Brown Has Ample Parking, Free Delivery

Complete food stocks, friendly service, ample parking space, and free delivery are outstanding features at Glen Brown Grocery, 904 W 3rd.

And the home-owned grocery is one of the more popular of its type in the city. Glen Brown, owner and manager, has many years experience in attending to the food needs of the public.

Though the store is small in comparison with huge super markets, it contains practically anything that can be found elsewhere.

All kinds of canned goods, fresh vegetables, boxed items, drugs and sundries are handled at the store, along with an extensive selection of meats.

If the customer cannot immediately decide on what to purchase, store personnel are always ready with table suggestions. The customer's problems are those of the store, Brown explains.

A huge parking space has recently been graded off adjacent to the grocery. Those who complain about not being able to find parking places will enjoy visiting the store where there is no parking problem.

For housewives who do not have the car at the time they need to visit the store, Brown also has a solution. All these women have to do is pick up the phone and call. Free and quick delivery of the desired order will follow.

Brown stresses that calls should be made for small purchases as well as large. Any size deliveries is made to any place in town at any time desired during business hours, Brown stresses.

The store phone number is 4-7811, and the establishment is open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Collector Joins IRS Staff Here

J. A. (Jim) Scrimshire has assumed his duties with the Internal Revenue Service office here.

He will serve as collector for the Big Spring area, replacing Joe Gordon, who moves over as an internal revenue agent, still out of the Big Spring office. Other agents here are Ben Hawkins, agent in charge of the office, and Sidney Clark.

Scrimshire has been with the service for four years, having been stationed previously at Abilene and Amarillo, and then for three years at Borger. He and Mrs. Scrimshire have one son. They reside at 2008 S. Monticello and are members of the First Baptist Church.

NO-D-LAY Clay Cleaners Set For Fall Garments

When August begins to fade establishments grid for increased activity.

Autumn and winter clothes are brought out of storage for use in the colder weather ahead and taken to the cleaners to get them ready for wear.

A local concern prepared to offer A-1 service in cleaning and pressing all kinds of garments is the Clay No-D-Lay Cleaners, located at Fifth and Johnson Streets in Big Spring.

Clay's No-D-Lay, owned and managed by Harvey Clay, has been catering to people of the community for the past quarter of a century.

Most of that time, the establishment was situated at 307 1/2 Main Street. Several months ago, the concern moved into roomy, new quarters at Fifth and Johnson.

The present establishment, built especially for a cleaning and pressing concern according to specifications drawn up by Harvey Clay, is one of the most completely equipped shops of its kind in this area.

All types of the latest cleaning and pressing equipment were incorporated in the construction of the shop, in order that expert service could be given the public without a loss in time.

Plenty of parking space is available around the building, so that the customers can call at the plant and leave or pick their orders without the necessity of leaving their automobiles.

Business telephone number of the concern is 4-8911.

Communist Troops Rushed To Tibet

TAIPEH, Formosa (U)—The Chinese Nationalist T'aipei News Agency said today 20,000 Communist troops are being shifted hurriedly to Tibet to suppress a fresh series of uprisings.

Taipei, which claims extensive mainland contacts, said the Tibetans were angry over high taxes and the action of the Communists in forcing the Dalai Lama to leave his capital of Lhasa for a visit to Peking.

Seventy-nine Connecticut high schools have courses in driving.

Formosa Sideswiped

TAIPEH, Formosa (U)—The typhoon which sideswiped Formosa Sunday drowned at least one fisherman and 40 fishing boats still are unreported, authorities said today.

'55 HD 'Cycles, Whizzer Bikes Now On Display

New 1955 Harley-Davidson motorcycles and Whizzer bikes are being displayed for the first time at the Cecil Thixton Motorcycle and Bicycle Shop, located at 908 W. 3rd Street in Big Spring.

With the announcement of its 1955 models, Harley-Davidson starts its second half-century. The new models again reflect Harley-Davidson leadership in its field.

Among new features on the 74 OHV models are brilliant new color designs, an entirely new tail light—of horizontal rather than vertical design—a license plate bracket which incorporates an adjustable, hooked slider which fits over the top of any size license plate and holds it securely; an "O" ring and hose clamp arrangement which has been devised to attach the manifold to cylinder head intake shoulders; new Timken bearings on the sprocket shaft; a rubber-mounted headlamp which minimizes breakage and vibration; and aluminum sealing plates for oil-tight joints between rocker arm covers and cylinder heads.

The new machine comes in seven standard and one special color, two of which are for police models. New colors include Aztec Brown, Atomic Blue and Hollywood Green. Because of their popularity, three of the former colors have been retained—Black, Pepper Red and Anniversary Yellow.

Both the 74 OHV and the 55-cubic inch sports model machines are reasonably priced and liberal trade-ins are allowed by Thixton, longtime dealer here.

The new Whizzer bike boasts a five-inch automotive-type rear brake; will go from five to 40 miles per hour and gets up to a hundred miles on a gallon of gasoline.

New Custom Tappan Range Is Shown At Smith Butane

The new custom Holiday model Tappan butane gas range, with a 30-inch chassis, is now being shown at the S. M. Smith Butane Company, main office of which is situated on the Lamesa Highway at the entrance to the city.

The range boasts, among other features, a 24-inch Visualite oven with automatic clock control, concealed venting, automatic pre-heat one-piece slides, interior light with a double-pane shock-resisting glass window in the door.

Tappan's new model has a fluorescent lamp behind the glass panel on the cooking top, an automatic self-winding electric clock, a one-piece top and switch panel, stain-resisting titanium porcelain finish, oven-heat control dial on the center chrome panel, "bake" and "broil" signals on the center chrome panel plus a decorative chrome strip between the main top and back panel. The range is so designed that it can fit in any size kitchen. It's overall height is only 47 inches. Among other things, it boasts a full width spacious storage drawer below the oven.

It has circular plastic switch handles and streamlined, full-width, all-chrome door and drawer handles.

Its broiler compartment has a porcelain extra-deep and slotted grill—easy to clean.

Other models of the Tappan butane line are on display at the Smith concern.

GOP Eager To Ride On Coattails Of Ike

CINCINNATI (AP) — Republican party leaders grabbed President Eisenhower's political coattails firmly today in an effort to translate the I-Ike-like appeal of 1952 into congressional victories at the polls in November.

If an apparent majority of members attending the GOP National Committee workshop sessions here have their way, the Eisenhower personality may be pumped into nearly every critical campaign area in the country by on-the-spot and television appearances and by radio appeals.

Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, told a news conference yesterday Eisenhower is going to be more active in this non-presidential-year battle for control of Congress than any president in the last 30 years.

While there was doubt Eisenhower would attempt to match the whistle-stopping activities of Democratic former President Truman in 1950, Simpson insisted that "before this campaign is over, by way of personal appearance, television and radio, the President will have done more to influence the election than any president has done in the last 30 years."

"Beyond any question," Simpson said, "as the President considers the picture, his actions between now and the election will reflect the realization that he must have a Republican-controlled House and Senate."

The general reaction among National Committee members was one of hope that Eisenhower would put on the kind of vigorous, personal campaign that Simpson outlined.

Simpson said Eisenhower can be expected to make an appearance in Kentucky.

Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, chairman of the Republican Senatial Campaign Committee, said in an interview that a "special effort" will be made there to save the seat occupied by Republican Sen. John Sherman Cooper, who is opposed by Democratic former Vice President Alben Barkley.

State Chairman John Felkens said Michigan Republicans still are counting heavily on a personal appearance by Eisenhower in their state to help Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson in his battle for re-election.

Dirksen said he thinks the Republicans may pick up five Senate seats. They now have 48, to 47 Democrats and 1 Independent.

Simpson said he is shooting for a net GOP gain of 20 in the House, where the lineup stands at 218 Republicans, 213 Democrats, 1 Independent and 3 vacancies.

Although he declined to pinpoint the races, Dirksen said the five Republican Senate gains might come from New Mexico, Montana, Delaware, Ohio, Illinois, Minnesota and Iowa.

Simpson predicted Republican House gains in some of these states, as well as in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, California and Kansas.

Soviet-Indian Fest Staged In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—A big Soviet-Indian friendship fest was staged at Moscow's Bolshoi Theater last night.

The occasion was the opening performance by a group of Indian dancers making a goodwill tour of the Soviet Union.

The orchestra played the Indian and Soviet national anthems. The theater was decorated with both countries' flags.

Six Post Bonds In Martin Cases

STANTON (SC) — Six of the seven men indicted by the Martin County grand jury Saturday on charges of felony theft of county funds had executed bonds Monday for their appearance at the October term of the District Court, as is required by law.

James Herndon, a local general contractor, posted $5,000 bail on the three indictments returned against him; James McMorris, former county judge, made bonds of $500 each on the six new indictments naming him; his two brothers, Whit McMorris and M. H. McMorris, also indicted, executed the required bail, as did Joe Froman, county commissioner, on three indictments, and Stanley Lewis, former county commissioner on two indictments.

Oliver Vaughn, another former commissioner named in two indictments had made arrangements to post bail in the amount of $5,000 it was indicated Monday.

New Type Postal Savings To Start

A new type of postal savings is becoming effective on Sept. 1. Postmaster Elmer Boatler said that old accounts would not come under the new one automatically.

The new arrangement provides for 2 per cent compounded interest after one year whereas the old certificates were 2 per cent simple interest.

In order to qualify for the new type, holders of existing postal savings must cash in their accounts and re-invest in the new ones. After Sept. 1, 1955, the interest on the savings will begin to compound.

There are 265 postal savings accounts on record at the office here. Limit on the amount of savings accounts is $2,500.

Melbourne and Sydney, Australia are the only cities in that country with more than a million population.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Your heart is about the size of your doubled fist.

In times gone by it was common for people to speak of "heart failure" as the cause of the death of various persons. This custom still exists in some places, but the term is used far less often nowadays. There is "heart failure" (that is, falling of the heart) whenever a person dies from any cause.

If a person's death is due to the failure of the heart to function properly, it is now usual to say that he has been the victim of heart disease.

Several forms of heart disease exist, and they take the lives of more persons than any other illness. They account for more deaths in North America than cancer, pneumonia and tuberculosis combined.

Anyone who suffers from high blood pressure should consult a good physician about the facts which have been learned during the past two or three years. It is now possible, in most cases, to bring about a safe reduction in blood pressure simply by taking tablets. One kind of tablet—perhaps the most important—is derived from the roots of a plant grown in India.

Your heart is about the same size as your doubled fist. Double your fist and see how big a heart you have!

When we think of all the work a heart must do, the organ may seem rather small. It will, however, do the work it is supposed to do unless it is injured or becomes diseased.

One cause of heart injury is violent exercise. A college athlete usually can stand the strain of sports but a man or woman of middle age must take special care. It is common for doctors to advise their patients to give up such games as tennis and handball after reaching the age of 35 or 40.

The death rate of a country is a key to its progress. In North America, Canada has the lowest death rate, and Panama is the most healthful country in Central America. The United States also has a low death rate, having only a slightly higher rate than Canada. Mexico's death rate, on the other hand, is 80 per cent higher than that of Canada.

Tomorrow: Public Health.

Fishing May Be Rigged, But No Trick To Ike's Skill With Skillet

Long time ago we read somewhere—it must have been in Plutarch's Lives—of an incident in the love affair between Anthony and Cleopatra. It seems that like a good many other men of great and low degree Anthony loved to fish.

Well, Cleopatra saw that he got in plenty of his favorite sport—maybe it was only his second favorite. To make sure her lover pulled in enough fish to satisfy Anthony, she instructed her slaves to dive under his boat and attach live fish to his hook, unbeknownst to him.

As any fisherman can well imagine, Anthony was in an angler's heaven. But one day one of the slaves with a pishy sense of humor attached a gutted and dried fish to Anthony's hook, and Cleopatra's pleasant little deception came to an end.

This sidelight on history came to mind on reading of President Eisenhower's first day of trout fishing at his Colorado retreat. Within 25 minutes after he had caught five beauties, and in no time at all he had his daily limit of 10. While part of this was going on, 25 or 30 tourists standing on a highway nearby would yell, "Yes, Ike!" everytime he landed a trout.

But residents of the area—there are always scoffers present—threw a little cold water on Ike's luck, if not his skill. They said the stream had been well "salted" three or four days before Ike's fly-casting exercises. They said 400 trout had been dumped in the stream to make sure the President had a good run for his money.

Oh, well; it couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

After the big catch, the nation's No. 1 angler repaired with friends to a nearby stand of pine, donned a huge white apron, and proceeded to fry up the trout in butter and bacon drippings, first being careful to dip them in cornmeal.

There was at least no shenanigan in that. One of the pleasant things about Ike, a quirk that stamps him as a real man, is that he fancies himself a first rate camp cook.

It's pretty hard to spoil a skillet full of trout.

Now That It's Over, Welfare Of Texas Is Concern Of All Texans

It may take a little time for Texas to recover from the convulsions it suffered in the scrupulous gubernatorial campaign. A lot of people in the state have never experienced anything like it.

It can be said to the credit of good Americans and good Texans, though, that once the fight is over and the decision has been declared, they generally accede to the will of the majority.

One thing can be said for Saturday's primary: the turnout of voters was bigger than any other previous election, and it is good that as many citizens spoke up as they did.

There is no cause for undue jubilation in the Shivers camp, nor for undue bitterness among the Yarborough forces. There is too much at stake, in the welfare of our state, to let political-campaign bitterness carry over needlessly.

Although Governor Shivers proceeds with the endorsement of a majority of the voters, he still is faced with a very substantial minority thinking. This is to be honored and respected, we think, and given its bearing in issues that affect the development of Texas.

Many things have to be done, and of course it is now the responsibility of the Shivers administration to set the course toward their accomplishment.

A water conservation program that will work, and that is fair to all the state, must be undertaken by the administration and the Legislature. The delicate problem of school segregation is going to have to be faced, and will call for all the statesmanship that the officials—and the people—of Texas can muster. These are among the major tasks ahead.

Texas must proceed in orderly growth, performing the services incumbent upon it, and at the same time maintaining a fiscal situation that is sound. This can be done. The "loyal opposition" can assist in this, as well as those who happened to be on the side of the majority.

Let us forget the bitterness, the personal issues that arose in moments of heat. Let us be humble victors and graceful losers. The job of bettering Texas is big enough that everybody needs to lend a hand.

French-Arab Differences Affect U.S. Air Strength In Morocco

PARIS — American dependence on France in the defense of the West is even more evident in French Morocco than it is here in metropolitan France. In that strategic area where the United States has invested more than five hundred millions for essential air bases the French exercise tight control over the whole American operation.

This presents both armen and diplomats with some acute problems, particularly as tensions have grown between the Arabs and French. The French are fearful that the American operation will become so big that they will be overshadowed and thereby their hold on the Arab population will be further weakened. One result of this fear is a ceiling imposed by France on the number of planes and men allowed to operate from these bases.

This ceiling is a serious handicap in the operation of the three bases in French Morocco—Sidi Slimane, Nouasseur and Ben Guerir—now functioning. When a fourth base, Bouharrat, is completed next April it will not be able to operate if the present ceiling of 7,400 men is still in force.

The delay in negotiating a status-of-forces agreement is not solely the fault of the French by any means. Partly it resulted from bureaucratic crossed wires between the State Department and the Pentagon in Washington. Ambassador Douglas Dillon did some insistent prodding and it has looked in recent weeks as though an agreement would be reached both on the ceiling and on the demand for taxes which the French have insisted must be paid on all material coming into the bases.

But, if in the present crisis over EDC, Franco-American relations are upset, then this agreement may once again be sidetracked. If the process of agonizing reappraisal comes down to reprisals taken back and forth across the Atlantic, the French could be even more restrictive about the Moroccan bases. That is one reason why such an eventuality must be avoided, despite the deep sense of frustration American officials feel at French delay of any decision on the "German problem."

American relations with the Arab world are directly involved and this will come to the fore when the question of independence for Morocco is pressed before the United Nations in September. In the past the United States has worked with France to keep this out of the U. N. Assembly. Publicly the American position has been one of neutrality.

But it will be increasingly difficult to maintain such a position if France must use more and more force to hold Morocco in check. That is the American dilemma, with the realization always in the background of what the bases mean to the security of the West.

As part of the retaliatory strike of the Strategic Air Command they are aimed at Russia's oil fields and oil production centers. Until the recent troubles developed they were considered more secure than any bases in Europe and they constituted, therefore, a second line of defense. The bases which may be built in Spain as a result of the agreement of some months ago supplement but do not supplant the Moroccan bases.

Nominally, under the tentative agreement, the French are in command of these bases and the Tricolor flies alongside the Stars and Stripes. They are responsible for external security around the bases and, in theory, when they are ready they will take over the air defense.

There is a larger concern in this matter of the relationship among Americans, Arabs and French. That is the effect is has on the American position in the Middle East. American bases just as vital in the security picture are in Libya and Saudi Arabia where the consciousness of Arab nationalism and Arab independence is at least as great as in French Morocco.

The turmoil in the Moslem world is reflected in the violent broadcasts directed against the French by Radio Cairo, Radio Karachi and Radio Jakarta. The French protectorate in Morocco is the No. 1 target of propaganda calling for vengeance and blood to be shed for blood. In this angry chorus the Communist voice from Radio Budapest is hardly more than an echo.

The Arabs are closely watching what America does in Morocco and, therefore, it becomes more and more difficult to maintain a neutral position. Yet, if, for example, the United States should side with the Arab countries at the U. N. over the Moroccan issue, the French would be almost sure to tighten up on American base operations.

That is why in the view of Ambassador Dillon and responsible officials here it is important to conclude the status-of-forces agreement as quickly as possible. This may turn on whether the French are able to come up with proposals for political reforms in Morocco similar to those made for Tunisia. If such proposals were made prior to the U. N. session, tensions would be eased and a showdown between French and Arabs might be averted. While that is the earnest hope, the fear is that it will be lost with so much else in the angry uproar over EDC and the threat to the very existence of the Western alliance.

French Proposed EDC Idea But Then Wouldn't Endorse It During Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is an ABC on what President Eisenhower has just called a "major setback" in the fight against communism: the French refusal last night to join a single European army.

The Western Allies decided on a military alliance when, after the war, it became apparent the Communists were determined to take by force what they couldn't get otherwise. Big example was seizure of power in Czechoslovakia.

The Allies created NATO—North Atlantic Treaty Organization—under which they pledged to help one another in case of attack. Each member would keep its own army but there would be a general staff for planning.

West Germany was not included in NATO. There were obvious reasons. This country, Britain and France — still keeping occupation troops in Germany—have not restored her independence or what Lacking sovereignty, she can't rearm. So long as she is defenseless, the Russians have a soft spot for attack. The Russians have opposed not only NATO but rearming of Germany. The Allies faced a question: How to let Germany rearm but in a way to prevent her becoming a menace to her neighbors some day. In June 1950 the Communists showed how far they were willing to go in aggression with their attack on South Korea.

Four months later, on Oct. 26, 1950, Rene Pleven, then French Premier, proposed a plan which in that early stage won approval of the French Parliament. It was the single European army idea, called EDC — the European Defense Community.

This is how it shaped up: six European countries—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands—would pool their armies in a single European army under a unified command of their own choosing.

Except for West Germany, all these EDC countries were already members of NATO. But whereas the other NATO allies would keep their individual armies, the EDC countries no longer would have national armies of their own.

This single European army—made up of troops from the six EDC countries—would be part of NATO's defense planning.

On May 27, 1952, the six EDC countries' foreign ministers signed an agreement to set it up. This did not by itself create EDC. It couldn't come into existence until the parliaments of all six countries approved.

Four of them—West Germany, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands — gave approval. The Italian Parliament didn't approve but was expected to when the French did. The French Parliament, rent with factions, balked.

Russia tried every trick to keep EDC from being born. Communists in the French Parliament, following the Russian line, fought EDC approval. French Nationalists, who wanted France to keep her national army and not merge it in EDC, fought it too.

In addition, there was French fear of Germany rearmed under any circumstances, and fear, no matter how EDC was unified, that Germany would control it. Russia played on these French worries.

The United States and Britain looked upon EDC as essential for defense of Europe, making use of German manpower, and at the same time keeping Germany from becoming a menace as she might with her own national army.

Although France had proposed EDC four years ago and France agreed to set up EDC two years ago, no French premier chanced asking Parliament, with its hostile mood, to vote on it. The French would have felt safer tied into EDC with Germany if Britain would join EDC also. Britain wouldn't.

At last the present French Premier and foreign minister, Pierre Mendes-France, decided to put EDC to a vote in Parliament. First he tried to get the other five EDC countries to agree to changes in the 1952 agreement which would have made EDC more a fiction than a reality.

He suggested, for instance, that EDC be on trial for eight years and that anyone of the six members could veto what the other five wanted to do. The other five turned him down.

No lover of EDC, Mendes-France asked Parliament to vote. It did, last night, against EDC. That wrecked it.

Being On Summer Radio Show Is Form Of Hiding

NEW YORK (AP)—"Where have you been keeping yourself?" My friends have been asking lately. "Haven't seen or heard from you in ages. You hiding from somebody?"

This burns me up. Hiding? Not exactly. I've just been appearing weekly on a summer replacement show.

Maybe that is a form of hiding. They say that the two most anonymous jobs are: 1 Acting as a stand-in target for a professional knife thrower while his wife is away having a baby, and 2 Appearing on a summer fill-in radio or TV show.

Well, anybody know a knife thrower about to become a father? I'm now, as we say in the trade, "at liberty." Some nasty old sponsor bought our time for another show, and off the air we went. How deeply this will cripple the National Broadcasting Co.'s network only time will tell. But so far NBC hasn't even developed a limp.

It wasn't a bad little show. It was one of those four-member news quiz panel programs.

You know how they select the panel? Well, they pick 1 a pretty, witty, charming girl, 2 a smart clever girl, 3 an anchor man who is good at wisecracks and 4 the "uh-uh" man.

The "uh-uh" man plays a vital role. He is the needed area of ignorance. If he ever gets a right answer, it is by accident. His duty is simple and stern. He must know so little that any member of the audience can turn to his wife and say, "Listen to him, honey, I thought you always said I was the dumbest guy in the world."

I am not going into the reasons why I was picked for the panel. But at the end of the first show the engineer said admiringly, "Boyle, your last 'uh-uh' was worthy of a Barrymore."

The program got off to a good start. "Variety," the Bible of the entertainment field, gave it a fine pat on the back. All the letters the network received—including the 27 I wrote in longhand myself—were highly favorable.

In fact we thought we might last as long as "Uncle Tom's Cabin" until last week, when we were told:

"This is the last one, kids. Sorry. You're terrific, great, wonderful. But you're only sustaining, and a sponsor wants this time for another show. Maybe we can try again at a later date—maybe next summer."

Well, if it was to be the last performance, I decided it should be our best. I did my part. I managed to get in 48 "uh-uh's" a new record for a half-hour panel quiz show.

Wetumkans At Least Got Excuse For Annual 'Circus Day' Party

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

While Texans were warming up their political left-overs Saturday, the folks up at Wetumka, Oklahoma, were having a lot of real fun observing their fifth annual Sucker Day.

Sucker Day has become quite an event, quite an occasion in Wetumka.

Several years back a hot-shot grafter by the name of F. Bam Morrison, shaffer up in Wetumka one day and introduced himself as the advance man for a circus that was coming to town on a day that he set.

He became friendly with a cafe owner and agreed to divert the business of all the circus folks to that cafe for all their meals. He became friendly with a service station operator and assured this Wetumkan that the circus would buy all its many thousands of gallons of gasoline and all its lubricants at this station. He called at a feed store, glowingly described the immense herds of horses and elephants and other hay-burning animals, and assured this feed dealer he would get all the business from the circus in this line. It was very important, F. Bam Morrison, told the dealer, that he should order plenty of carloads of hay in plenty of time to have it on hand on circus day.

The grafter then called a second cafe and promised this man exclusive hot-dog rights on the circus grounds, and warned him to order thousands of buns and hot dogs because such business was always brisk with circus crowds. Down at the town's leading hotel Morrison made advance reservations for the circus performers that just about took up all the rooms they had.

Of course the hotel proprietor couldn't charge such a fine guest as the circus advance man for his room and board, and when Mr. Morrison was in need of check-cashing, everybody in town was anxious to take in on the act, and nobody declined to take checks he wrote on out-of-town banks. They were honored to cash his checks!

Circus day came. One man had thousands of hot dogs and buns on hand. The service station operator had his tanks full and a fleet of tank trucks parked nearby to see that the supply didn't run low and that the circus would have plenty of gasoline. The feed dealer had hundreds of tons of hay and other feed ready for the animals. One dealer had bought thousands of pounds of horse meat for the lions and tigers and leopards and panthers. The hotel had been so sorry, he had told prospective guests, but every room had been reserved for circus folks.

The cafe owner had sent to Oklahoma City and Tulsa for extra cooks and his refrigerators and pantry had been stocked to the last speck of space with such food as he had been told the circus folks preferred. All the bootleg whiskey that had ever been in Wetumka before probably wasn't more than a fraction of what the "leggers had on hand for circus day.

People came into town from all over that part of the country.

In fact everybody was there except the circus and F. Bam Morrison. Finally it dawned on those folks that the grafter had played them for suckers, sure enough, and that they were again going to get a good, long look at all those checks that F. Bam Morrison had signed with such a flourish.

The man who had the hot dogs gave them away, thousands of them. The lion and tiger meat was thrown out for the dogs and cats of Wetumka. And everybody in town started calling everybody else "sucker!"

By the time a year had rolled around, the citizens of Wetumka decided to preserve memories of the community experience for posterity and so they inaugurated "Sucker Day" and their fifth annual Sucker Day was observed Saturday with a big parade and street banners and decorated buildings and floats and reminiscences and jokes—and five hot dogs.

They even sent F. Bam Morrison an invitation to be with them as their guest of honor. They promised him immunity from prosecution, and they really wanted him for a guest of honor.

But F. Bam Morrison couldn't get there. The last they heard from him, the Wetumkans said, was that he was in jail in a Missouri town where he had talked the sheriff out of a $100 loan with which to pay a $50 fine and make a $45 circus filmflam restitution. But Morrison did telegraph the Wetumka hay dealer asking a loan of $25 to enable him to get to a carnival with which he had been promised a job.

So it is that Wetumka has proven that when a community gets played for a sucker the best thing to do is to make the most of it.

FRANKLIN REYNOLDS

Matter Of Fact — Joseph And Stewart Alsop

Administration Making Direct Move On American Air Defense

WASHINGTON—After nearly two years of backing and filling, the Eisenhower administration is finally showing signs of tackling the American air defense problem in a serious way.

The difficulty that has to be surmounted is the same that has caused the delay to date. An honest and adequate air defense program can eventually add from $5 billion to $8 billion annually to our military expenditures.

Most of the increase in outlay will come the second year. The increase can of course be slowed down by slowing down the program. It can be made less honest and less adequate, in short. But even a half-measure program is likely to increase the 1956 military budget—by around $2.5 billion and it will be opposed by all those who give budgetary and fiscal convenience a higher priority than national security.

On the other hand, it is very hard to see how the obstructionist tactics that have worked so well until now, can continue to succeed hereafter. Nearly two years after the urgent need was first pointed out by the scientists of Project Lincoln, the Pentagon has at last set up a Continental Air Defense Command under Gen. Benjamin Chidlaw. The mere existence of such a command, specifically charged with specific responsibility for a life and death mission, will inevitably generate an almost irresistible demand for the tools that are needed for the job.

It has not been announced, but the National Security Council in effect prepared to answer this future demand even before the Continental Air Defense Command was set up. A new special commission composed of high officials and outside experts was named by the NSC, to study the nation's air defense requirements and report back this autumn.

This study has been going forward for some time in an altogether new atmosphere. There is none of the sleazy, interested outcry against "Moginot Line thinking" that was heard when an effective American air defense system was first proposed in the Lincoln report of two years ago. There is none of the defeatist talk, either, about an effective air defense being an impossible long-hair dream.

The brilliant success of Project Corrode has proven the value of the Lincoln scientists' designs for new early warning devices. Work has already started on the so-called McGill Warning Line, running across northern Canada. After Corrode, there is growing support for the once-ridiculed Lincoln proposal of a Far North Line, on the extreme continental fringe. And air-borne early warning devices have been developed with such success, that the planners even talk of detecting an attacking force almost at the moment of take-off, half-way 'round the world.

By the same token, important progress has been made with the other half of the air defense problem—the weapons of interception without which the best warning is useless.

Another of the Lincoln ideas that was once ridiculed and is now beginning to find acceptance is the use of "Hunter-Killer" aircraft. These will be planes of considerable size and range, perhaps even bombers. They will be able to exploit an early warning better than a short-range fighter. And they will be equipped with air-to-air guided missiles, probably with atomic warheads, to increase certainty of a kill.

The original Lincoln program, which was waiting for the Eisenhower administration when it took effect, had a maximum kill-rate of 80 per cent of all attacking aircraft as its supposedly over-ambitious target.

The present NSC commission is the fifth or sixth such body to review the Lincoln findings. In addition, a detailed technical review is being carried on, on behalf of the new NSC commission, by the Rand Corporation and the Johns-Hopkins University contractors of the Army's office of research on operations. And instead of being lowered, the air defense target has now been increased to a kill-rate of no less than 90 per cent of all attacking aircraft.

If nine out of ten attackers can be brought down in the "remote air battle," this country may not be damaged, but it will be neither crippled nor destroyed by A-bomb or even H-bomb attack. That is the incalculable increase of security which is now promised, providing the Eisenhower administration's policymakers are willing to take the budgetary consequences.

They were not even willing to look the problem in the face, until their complacency was rudely disturbed by the Soviet hydrogen bomb test and the appearance of new Russian long range jet bombers comparable to the best American types.

"One of them sardonically remarked, 'The megatons (of the H-bomb's power) did what the kilotons could not do.'"

Even now, however, no one can be sure whether his measures or an honest effort will be decided upon. In high Administration quarters, it is being said "that the country won't stand for the expense"—which is sheer nonsense, unless the policy of deceiving the country about the perils of the national situation is to be continued. At any rate, the problem is being looked squarely in the face, which represents great progress.

POTOMAC FEVER

WASHINGTON—Both Harry Truman and Adlai Stevenson will campaign for the Democrats. The Democrats are throwing all their weapons into this fight—both the brass knuckles and the rose petals.

Rod Poland proposes an alliance with France. The French have proved themselves valiant fighters. They've spent four years fighting their way out of the European army.

Rev. Grooms Speaks To Church Council

One of the outstanding events of World Council of Churches, held recently in Evanston, Ill., was the Holy Communion by all churches, races and creeds, the Rev. Jordan Grooms told the local Council of Church Women Monday afternoon. Their meeting was held at Park Methodist Church.

Delegates from 161 denominations from all over the world were present, and the songbooks were printed in five different languages, Rev. Grooms told the women. The processional of church leaders took 37 minutes and each group came into the auditorium singing "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" in his own language. Likewise, each spoke or prayed in his native tongue.

The organization was told that this is the first time in history that such a large group has banded together to demand peace. South India has led all other members of the World Council in gaining unity among her people of the church.

It was announced that the local council will have a mission study course open for all churches each Monday evening in October. It is to be directed by Mrs. Herbert Keston.

It is hoped that a delegate from each church will go to San Angelo to attend the leadership training school to be held on October 14. About 55 attended the meeting Monday evening.

Forsan Study Club Resumes Year With Breakfast Meeting

FORSAN—The Forsan Study Club met recently for its first meeting of the school year when a breakfast was held in the ranch home of Mrs. Hamlin Elrod.

Assisting Mrs. Elrod were Mrs. Walter Gressett and Mrs. Bob Honcutt. They served coffee from the buffet. The coffee service was on a wrought iron stand.

Appointments were pottery and centering the refreshment table was a crystal bowl on a wrought iron stand holding gold cyprianthems.

Individual tables were used and all were decorated with gold cloths.

Mrs. Bill Conger gave the club collect. Mrs. E. A. Grisson presided and made changes on the committees. Mrs. C. B. Long presented the program, an outline of the club yearbook which will be presented to the members at the next meeting.

Among the 22 attending were three new members, Mrs. L. W. Moore, Mrs. Paul Jacobs and Mrs. Bob Wash.

Visitors And Trips Make Forsan News

FORSAN—Guests of the Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Stagner and Mike have been his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stagner of Van.

Mrs. Joe T. Holiday accompanied her mother, Mrs. E. R. Estes to Roswell and Ruidoso over the weekend. Mrs. Estes remained in Ruidoso for a visit.

Mrs. M. M. Fairchild and Mary Ann visited relatives in Jal, N. M., and have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Story, Nancy and Ellabeth visited near San Angelo over the weekend with Mr. Story's father, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gray, Lynn and Galen were in Sweetwater Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Winget, Linda and Larry of Odessa were here visiting friends over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Garrett were in Snyder and Colorado City Sunday and Monday with friends.

Robert Glen Nix, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Nix is now in the VA Hospital at Waco.

The Latin Viewpoint

Beauty secrets from South of the Border are passed on to you and Lydia Lane by popular Mexican actress Katy Jurado. You'll be seeing Katy soon in "The Racers" for 20th Century-Fox.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Mexico Actress Gives Tips On Care Of Eyes

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD—Though Katy Jurado made thirty films in Mexico, it wasn't until she was chosen for "High Noon" and won an Academy Award nomination that she became well known in this country.

"They told me what to say and I said it," Katy told me at lunch in Beverly Hills recently. "But I didn't know what it meant."

But after working four hours a day for four months she is quite at home with our language and is most enthusiastic about the women in the United States.

"They don't grow old—it is wonderful in Mexico—you have to dress to the age which is on your birth certificate but here you dress to the age which is inside you," she explained.

Katy enjoys the independence women have here. "In Mexico a girl cannot go out at night without an escort," she said. "She has to wait until a man invites her."

Miss Jurado marvelled at the efficiency of the American housewife.

"I go to a party and see someone who looks as if she spent all day dressing herself and I find out that she takes care of her own house and children," Katy said. "In Mexico even with servants the women are not this attractive."

Katy had ordered chicken enchiladas which she seasoned with Tabasco sauce. "I like everything hot," she explained, "and fattening." The Latin man does not like girls as thin as they do in the United States and I am glad. I have big bones and they look best with meat on them. But when I make a picture I have to be thinner so before I start to work I go on a diet."

I asked her to tell me more about this.

"I give up bread and butter, anything made with corn meal, pork and highballs," she told me. "And then I eat green vegetables and grilled beef until I lose."

Katy's lashes are as long and thick as artificial ones.

Mexican women feel that eyes are the most important feature and as soon as they have a baby daughter they start to work on her lashes. You will see them brush their finger tips with a drop of oil from the castorbean and stroke the baby's lashes. If you start using oil as a child your lashes can't help but grow long and thick.

"But the Indians believe that you can make lashes grow at any age by cutting off the tips at the time of a new moon and brushing them regularly with castor oil."

"To me the eyebrow pencil is every bit as important as the lipstick," Katy confided. "And I think the women in this country should use more mascara."

I wanted to know how she applied her mascara.

"First of all I use good, black color," Katy said. "Then when you put the mascara on, you should be sure that the lashes do not stick together. The best way to do this is to apply a little at a time with a damp brush. Let each layer dry completely before adding another layer. Add as many layers as you like, but be sure with each application that the lashes stay apart."

"Tell me more about your ideas on make-up," I said.

"Make-up should be changed for the person you are with, for the time of day and for the light you are in," Katy told me. "When I have a date at night I try to find out where we are going because club I will use a different make-up if he is taking me to a dark night than if we were going to a ball game."

"And different men feel differently about make-up," she added very seriously. "If I am going with a man who is afraid of glamour, I play my make-up down."

"How about your perfume?" I wanted to know.

"Well, I assume most men like perfume when it is used with discrimination," Katy said. "It's better to underplay perfume than to run the risk of using too much. One rule I always follow is to apply it with an atomizer, spraying the hems of my dresses, my underthings and my hair."

"I rarely use it on my skin because the heat of the body often makes a perfume undergo chemical changes," she added. "But when you use it on your clothes you are sure to retain the true scent."

Katy looked at her watch and announced it was siesta time. "If everyone took a siesta each

Maternity Dress To Have 50th Birthday

By DOROTHY ROE

Today it's fashionable to have a baby and go on about your normal activities up to the moment of leaving for the hospital.

Fifty years ago things were different. Etiquette ruled that no lady appeared in public while in a "delicate condition," and the maternity dress was unknown. Most expectant mothers were sentenced to months of solitary confinement before the blessed event.

The woman largely responsible for changing the national attitude was a young widowed dressmaker named Mrs. Lane Bryant, who made the first maternity dress for one of her customers in 1904. Tomorrow, top members of the fashion and retailing world are meeting to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the maternity dress and the retailing chain built up by its creator.

Medical-Arts To Graduate Nurses

Graduation exercises for a class of vocational licensed nurses of Medical Arts Clinic-Hospital will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Howard County Junior College Auditorium.

Guest speaker will be Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of the college. Invocation will be by the Rev. William J. Moore. Mrs. Harold Talbot will sing "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Mrs. Omar Pitman.

Diplomas will be awarded by Dr. Nell W. Sanders and benediction will be said by the Rev. Wesley Deats.

The eight nurses receiving diplomas will be Mrs. Joann Vinson, Mrs. Gladney Flynn, Mrs. Jimmie Ellis, Mrs. Vera Winn, Mrs. Loretta Franks, Mrs. Myrtle Banks, Mrs. Nelita Smart, and LaWan Mitchell.

day they would feel better," she said. "In Mexico I don't know a single person who has an ulcer or who needs sleeping pills."

"Do you think the siesta is responsible for this?" I asked.

"It has something to do with it," Katy answered. "And our 'manana' attitude helps, too. We are inclined to feel that tomorrow is another day—to enjoy this moment now. And a little of this, I think, will make you healthier and happier."

Mrs. Terry Patterson was awarded third place in the Art Exhibit held Sunday afternoon in Midland by the Summer Painters of that city. Her painting of "The Empress' Daughter" was her winning entry. This is the picture of an oriental figure with red dominating color.

There were 91 entries in the exhibition, all of which had been done in the last 12 weeks under the direction of Arnold Leonard of Roswell, N. M. Two other Big Spring artists, Mrs. D. W. Conway and Mrs. Aubrey Hethcox, attended the school.

Popular vote of the 300 who saw the paintings gave first place to Helen Simmons and second place to Alice White, both of Midland.

Local Youth Attend Hobbs Fellowship

The Young People of Trinity Baptist Church attended a youth fellowship held at the Central Baptist Church of Hobbs, N. M., recently.

The group presented a program using the colors gold for heaven, black for sin, red for blood, white for clean heart and green representing spiritual growth. This illustrated "The Bible Way of Salvation."

Master of ceremonies was Delbert Davidson. Speakers were Melvin Daniels and Kenneth Hammack. Representatives from Denver City gave a program entitled "Everyday Happening."

Special music was presented by the Trinityettes—Patsy Hayworth, Dixie Todd, Jay Turney and W. C. Brown, all of Big Spring and Donnie Spivey of Hobbs.

The closing sermon from Psalm 119 was brought by Rev. Whitman of Tabernacle Baptist in Crane. Forty young people and adults from Big Spring attended.

much of suburban Boston were without electricity. Telephone lines were down in scores of cities and towns in southern New England. In New London, Conn., City Manager Edward Hinkle ordered a state of emergency. Thousands of homes lost their power, scores of trees were uprooted blocking highways and tearing down utility lines. All along the shore, residents were asked or ordered to leave their homes.

Norwich and New London were among the areas hard hit in Connecticut. Both communities reported general power failure. The rising waters of the Shetucket River closed a bridge in the North.

Delegates Return From Hi-Y Camp; Rogers Is Officer

Delegates are back from the state Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y leadership training camp at Poesum Kingdom. Glenn Rogers, past Hi-Y president here and district president, was elected head of the camp council, composed of one delegate from each of the cities sending representation to the camp. There were youth groups from two dozen places from all parts of the state.

Leaders spent the entire last week in workshops, conferences, and on commissions to plan the events and activities of the approaching school year.

Attending from here were Rogers, Nancy Smith, Sally Coughlin, Kenda McGibbon, Tommie J. Williamson, Bennie Compton, Rodney Sheppard, Tom Henry Guin, Gary Tidwell, Clyde McMahon, Carroll Glenn, David Read, Janice Nalley, Janet Hogan, Peggy Hogan, George Oldham and Mrs. Lee Rogers were sponsors participating in the camp. One Friday Wade Simpson came to the camp and addressed the group on world service. Others who were there part time were Mrs. K. H. McGibbon, Mrs. H. W. Smith, Mrs. R. E. G. Cowper, Mrs. Dick Simpson, Marie Hall.

It was feared much damage had been done crops on Long Island, a big potato and truck garden center.

The Navy, carefully following the storm's progress, ordered numerous planes evacuated from the Quonset Point, R.I., Air Station. Submarine operations were canceled at the base at New London, Conn.

The hurricane began with winds ranging up to 150 miles an hour but it lost force last night as it surged up the Atlantic Coast, battering coastal areas and driving vacationists inland.

In New York, the Italian liner Cristoforo Colombo was unable to take aboard customs men, immigration officers and public health officials as it reached port.

The authorities were aboard a small cutter. The winds and high seas slammed the cutter against the side of the liner with such force that attempts to board the big vessel were abandoned.

Veteran government men said they believed it was the first time in at least 20 years this had happened.

Winds of 75 m.p.h. lashed the North Carolina coast yesterday to drive vacationists from the beaches. There was some damage, but no deaths or serious injuries were reported.

In North Carolina, wind and heavy rain damaged power and communication lines. Trees were blown down and a few houses lost their roofs.

Thousands of vacationists scurried from the beaches extending from below Wilmington, N. C., to Morehead City and on along the sparsely-settled outer banks. Some had difficulty getting away as high seas swept over low lands.

Well-worn residents of the area took every precaution against the storm. Exposed beaches were evacuated. The Red Cross, state and local authorities set up refuge centers and disaster organizations, most of which were not needed.

Michigan led the nation in highway deaths over the Fourth of July weekend with 33 fatalities.

During the emergency period, from noon Friday to noon Tuesday, Sept. 7, intensive air and ground patrols will cover state highways to seek out traffic violators.

Some 700 state National Guardsmen have been mobilized. They will draw full federal pay and allowances and will serve with local law enforcement agencies.

Saturday Vote Canvass Made

The canvass of returns of the Saturday run-off election today changed the total vote received by one candidate, but didn't alter the outcome of any of the races, Grover Cunningham Jr., county Democratic chairman, reported.

The canvass showed Earl Hull, who was re-elected commissioner of Precinct No. 4, received 830 votes, rather than 839. The nine-vote error was discovered in the absentee count.

Other totals, the same as unofficial returns reported Saturday night, included: For governor, Shivers 2,859 and Yarborough, 3,418; for Place No. 1 Supreme Court, Scott, 2,487 and Brewster, 2095; for court of criminal appeals, Davidson, 5,689; for sheriff, Slaughter 3,286 and Bruton, 2,970; for constable, Hill, 2,317 and Letour, 2,388.

For commissioner, Precinct No. 2, Gilliam, 894 and Thomas, 884; for commissioner, Precinct No. 3, Thorp, 693 and Stallings, 807; for commissioner, Precinct No. 4, Pollock, 565 and Hull, 830.

Ex-Prisoners Say Officer Helped Reds

FT. SHERIDAN, Ill. (U.S.—Four American soldiers have testified in a court martial that they helped a Communist officer escape from a North Korean POW camp, made propaganda broadcasts and led discussion groups for the Communists.

Fleming's trial before an Army general court-martial on charges he collaborated with the Communists entered its second day today with four more ex-POWs due to testify against him.

One of the witnesses yesterday, Air Force Maj. David F. MacGhee of Falls Church, Va., told the military court Fleming once went to the Communist camp commander and reported, "MacGhee has double-crossed you."

Fleming's wife Gloria, his daughter Patricia and son-in-law, Navy Petty Officer John Madden, sat in the courtroom.

Fleming, who has denied the charges, faces a maximum penalty of life imprisonment, dismissal from the service and loss of pay if convicted.

MacGhee said he once prepared a broadcast for the Red's Peiping radio in which he had coded a message, using the first letter of each word, which said: "Five thousand men at Pyongyang near Yalu River need medicine and clothing."

The Air Force officer said an American private tipped the Chinese Reds to the code and that Fleming then went to the Red commandant and told him that he, MacGhee, had double-crossed the Communists.

Soon after that, MacGhee said, he was transferred to a particularly brutal prison camp known as "The Caves."

Under cross-examination, MacGhee admitted that he had written what he called "slenderous statements" about 20 senior Air Force generals in order to save his life in a moment of panic.

MacGhee said Fleming had urged other prisoners to sign propaganda leaflets urging United Nations forces to surrender.

Sgt. Jose Mares of Albuquerque, N.M., testified Fleming once objected to signing a Communist propaganda broadcast until the text was revised to take out some of its more objectionable statements.

Texas Storms Bring Moisture, Kill Second Man

By The Associated Press

Rough weather that killed one man in Dallas, the second in as many days, had quieted down Tuesday.

But forecasts indicated more weather of a similar nature during the late afternoon and early evening hours. Isolated thundershowers were expected in South Central Texas and in the extreme south portion of East Texas.

Severe windstorms, called tornadoes by some, whipped out of towering thunderheads Monday evening and lightning that flashed from the ominous clouds killed Ovia C. Jenkins, 30, at Dallas.

Jenkins was working on a sewer project when he was hit by the lightning bolt. Another workman was only slightly injured. But several persons barely escaped severe injury as winds blew down awnings and knocked out plate glass.

Twisters were reported at Kana-wah, near Red River; at Woodland, in the same vicinity near Paris, Tex.; at Crockett in East Texas; and at Calvin, Okla., northwest of Paris.

Heavy winds ripped through Fort Worth and reached 85 miles per hour at Gonzalez, 65 miles east of San Antonio. But it appeared that Crockett received the most damage. About 80 houses were damaged, windows were blown out of the court house, a roof was blown from an ice plant, some 75 other structures suffered light damage.

Near record temperatures ranged from Greenville's burning 108 degrees to 107 at Dallas and College Station, 106 at Fort Worth, Waco, and Texarkana; 105 at Wichita Falls, Lufkin, and Mineral Wells on down to Marfa with a comparatively cool 89 degrees.

The highest reported temperature, however, was 109 degrees at Corsicana.

The Weather Bureau said cooler weather can be expected in the area from Wichita Falls eastward and as far south as College Station and San Antonio.

The tropical hurricane Carol, many hundreds of miles to the northeast and close to New York City, was causing a circulation of cooling winds in that big sector of Texas.

Austin and Mineral Wells had half an inch or so of rain. Lesser amounts fell in Dallas, Fort Worth, Abilene, Odessa, Amarillo and San Antonio.

San Angelo had a driving wind storm and 1.4 inches of rain. Nearby ranches got up to 2.5 inches. The storm knocked out 2,000 or so telephones.

Borden Outpost Flows New Oil In Lower Spraberry Section

Phillips No. 1 Quartz, approximately two miles southwest of the Je Mill Spraberry pool in southwest Borden, made new oil Tuesday after fracturing heavily.

Another producer was added in the Moore pool, and Cosden had a fishing job on an east edge of the Oceanic pool just before drilling in to the anticipated pay top.

Phillips No. 1 Quartz, 1,976 from the south and 1,981 from the east lines of section 15-33-4n, T&P, was tested after treating the Lower Spraberry with 1,900 gallons of acid and then 21,000 gallons of fracture.

The treatment was through perforations from 7,200-90 and 7,205-7,246. In testing, the venture flowed 14 1/2 hours through half inch choke and made 488 barrels of oil lead.

Then in 24 hours of flow through a quarter-inch choke, it made 368 barrels of lead. Tubing pressure was 475. Operator then flowed 15 1/2 hours through quarter-inch choke, and made 234 barrels of oil. Tubing pressure was 450. So far, recovery includes 51 barrels of new oil. Operator shut down for tank room.

President Acknowledges Ovation

World Council Urges Trust Placed In God

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—A summing-up message from the World Council of Churches today proclaimed "to all who will listen" that only devotion to God can conquer the fears and "powers of evil" that plague the earth.

In its keynote message, the council's historic assembly declared that mankind's search for freedom, justice and peace is doomed to defeat unless men "turn from our ways to God's way."

"Nothing other than God can ever satisfy the heart of man," the message said. "Forgetting this, man becomes his own enemy. He seeks justice, but creates oppression."

"He wants peace but drifts towards war. His very mastery of nature threatens him with ruin. Whether he acknowledges it or not, he stands under the judgment of God and under the shadow of death."

The 1,000-word message, counted the cardinal document of the 17-day world Christian gathering, came as the assembly moved toward its final sessions today.

It declared that God, in Jesus Christ, is "the hope of the world." And it said that "only at the cross of Christ" can men find the answer to the "fear and distrust which at present divide our world."

"It is there that Christians must pray daily for their enemies," the message said. "It is there that we must seek deliverance from self-righteousness, impatience and fear."

"And those who know that Christ is risen should have the courage to expect new power to break through every human barrier."

The message affirmed the determination of the council's 163 denominations in 46 nations to seek greater unity to strengthen their faith. It said:

"We enter now upon a second stage. To stay together is not enough. We must go forward. As we learn more of our unity in Christ, it becomes the more intolerable that we should be divided."

The message said "we long ardently" for the fellowship of the churches not belonging to the council. The two larger ones are the Southern Baptist and Roman Catholic Churches.

And to its individual congregations, with some 170 million members, the council put some soul-searching questions. Among them:

Does your church speak and act against injustices which have subjected people in many lands to hunger, need and oppression?

Does your church act against segregation and discrimination as contrary to the will of God?

Does your congregation "live for itself" or work hard to make Christ known to others?

Do you forgive one another as Christ forgave you?

Unfortunate Skunk Finds Scent Scare Failure As Weapon

LYONS, Kan. (AP)—An unfortunate skunk made the mistake yesterday of wandering into Mrs. Paul Dring's garage.

Mrs. Dring and a neighbor, Mrs. J. M. Hoss, grabbed a garden hose and attacked before the skunk had a chance to go into action.

The animal retreated into an adjacent garage, whose owner, not wanting to get personally involved, called policeman John Bailey. Officer Bailey likewise decided he was not the man to tackle a drenched and presumably hostile skunk in an enclosed place.

Mrs. Hoss recalled that when she was a girl on the farm, there was a saying that if one could grab a skunk by the tail and get all four feet off the ground fast enough, the skunk couldn't use its scent artillery.

No one wanted to try it, so Mrs. Hoss did. She succeeded.

Holding the outmaneuvered skunk at arm's length, she instructed Bailey to do his duty. A bullet through the skunk's head ended the episode scentlessly.

The Abilene Reporter-News is sponsoring its first annual Soil Day, Tuesday, Sept. 7, on the Sam Beam, Jr., farm, two and a half miles north of Potosi on the Potosi farm-to-market road.

The Soil Conservation Service, implement dealers and others interested in soil and water conservation are cooperating with the Abilene newspaper in presenting a program designed to re-emphasize farm and ranch practices that will retain as much as possible of the limited West Texas rainfall on cultivated and range land; that will prevent wind and water erosion; that will rebuild the soil's fertility and that will increase the carrying capacity of virgin range land and old fields which have been abandoned after cultivation for a while.

These will be actual field demonstrations, using the latest types of equipment, in the construction and maintenance of terraces; there will be actual demonstrations of the plowing of grain sorghum stubble so that the crop residue remains on the surface as a mulch to retain moisture and to prevent wind erosion.

There will be demonstrations and lectures regarding summer and winter legumes that rebuild the soil; range practices that improve the native grasses, as well as the seeding of introduced grasses.

This is an all-day program to which farmers, ranchers, business people and all others who are interested are invited.

One of Stanton's best known and most popular families is moving to Odessa to make their new home. They are the Pat Orens.

Pat was with the White Motor Company in Stanton for a long while, and more lately returned to his old profession of butcher in the Friendly Food Stores.

Mrs. Oren has been a teacher in the City Schools, and son Jerry has been the printer's devil in the office of the Stanton Reporter.

Pat is employed by one of the larger grocery stores in Odessa; Mrs. Oren has accepted a much better paying job in the Odessa city schools, and Jerry, who will be a junior in the high school there, says he'll keep right on being a devil. He has signed up for devilment with the Odessa American.

At the masthead of his paper,

The Baird Star, Editor J. L. Ault, carries this motto:
"Tis neither Birth, nor Wealth, nor State, but the git-up-and git that makes men great."

Even in those Texas cotton-growing areas where there isn't any compulsory plow-up deadline on stalks, the chances are the specialists from the Extension Service will try to persuade the farmers to plow up anyway, and will attempt to prevail on them not to consider their harvest complete until all stalks are either cut or shredded and plowed under.

Such a call has already gone out to Central Texas where such a practice isn't compulsory, but where an increase in pink bollworms was noted this year.

In Northwest Texas, however, the chances are that the stalks will be left standing until after the first hard freeze, which is the custom in that section, because the hard freezes kill the bollworms on the exposed bolls on the plant.

Stalk destruction soon after harvest is recognized as an effective and cheap control of cotton insects, especially when done on a county-wide basis, and particularly with reference to the boll weevil and the pink bollworm. Cotton residues turned under also add organic matter and increase the water-holding capacity of the soil. Also, this early land preparation readies the land for winter legumes.

Entomologists and cotton specialists say several types of shredders are available, but that the important step is to cut the stalks into small pieces so that the residue is covered deep enough by plowing.

Lost 20 Pounds
With Barcetrate

"I lost 20 pounds, the first time I took Barcetrate," writes Mrs. Boyce Thomas, 2307 Maiden St., Vernon, Texas. "I don't have that stuffed feeling anymore and the blost and gas pains don't bother me at all. I think Barcetrate is just wonderful."

Barcetrate is the original grapefruit juice recipe for taking off ugly fat. Mix with grapefruit juice as directed on label. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the way to take off ugly fat, return the empty bottle for your money back. Get at any Texas drugist.

Four Men Fined In Martin Courts

STANTON (SC) — Two men charged with driving while intoxicated were fined $50 and costs each in the Martin County Court by Judge Bruce Frasier Monday. They were Leonard Chambers and Tommas Canava Valles.

Both men also were given suspended jail sentences of six months.

Otis L. Young, charged with carrying concealed a deadly weapon, a large butcher knife under his shirt, was fined $250 and costs by Judge Frasier.

J. D. Young, was fined $25 and costs on a charge of assault by Justice of the Peace Martin Bigson. He and the man convicted of carrying the knife are brothers. All the arrests were made by Sheriff's officers.

Deputy Sheriff A. C. Abernathy testified on the trial of Otis L. Young that when officers went to the Young home to place J. D. Young under arrest on a warrant early Sunday morning, that the other brother came up on the porch toward the officers and their prisoner. He said he saw the bulge of the knife under the man's shirt thought it was a gun, and grabbed it.

All the defendants entered pleas of guilty.

Postal Employees Under Group Insurance Plan

Postal employees come under the provisions of the government group insurance program as of Sept. 1. Heretofore, regular workers of the system have had no such benefits. Now, for 37 cents per $1,000 insurance semi-monthly, they can participate in the life insurance program which is open to all employees regardless of age or degree of hazard in occupation. Charge on a $5,000 policy would run $1.35 month, and the program includes double indemnity and accident benefits. It is not open to contract carriers, etc., but it is available to those past 65 years of age without charge but on limited benefit. The insurance remains in force upon retirement or the accrued equity may be applied to private life insurance upon separation from service.

Here's the car that's changing History

The sales standings of a generation have been changed—by Buick. For Buick today, is outselling all other cars in America—regardless of price class—except two of the so-called "low-price three." And each month's sales figures strengthen Buick's new position.

Here's the 3-way Bonus you get in Buick today

- 1. Advanced styling—styling you know is sure to show up on other cars in the years to come. So you know you have in Buick the car that's sure to stay fresh and new-looking long into the future. And that means you're bound to be way ahead at trade-in time.
- 2. Better Buy—for just a few dollars more than you'd pay for one of the so-called "low-price three," you get in Buick a whale of a lot more power, room, comfort, ride steadiness and solid durability—plus the new-day styling that includes the broad panoramic windshield.
- 3. Top Allowance—with our great and growing sales volume, we can—and do—share our success with you in the form of a higher trade-in allowance on your present car. Drop in, see and drive Buick the beautiful buy—and see for yourself how our volume business means a far bigger allowance for you.

Here's the fact that proves Buick's the Buy

This Buick V8 costs less than some models of the so-called "low-price three"!

Now's the time to make your buy because—

MISTER BREGER

Hall-Bennett Trophy Players Are Named

Champ Rainwater has completed his lineup for the Hall and Bennett trophy matches, which will be held at the Big Spring Country Club on Friday, the day the 23rd annual Big Spring Invitational Golf Tournament gets under way.

The team was selected on a medal-play basis and, judging from the 72-hole score the players turned in, could be one of the strongest local teams fielded here in years. It consists of Son Powell, who registered with a 299; James Underwood, 302; Earl Reynolds, 289; Jake Morgan, 292; Weldon Bryant, 300; J. R. Farmer, 303; and Tommy Hut, 304. Jeff Walker, with a 307, will serve as the alternate.

As team captain, Rainwater was exempt from qualifying. Buster Tuttle, Lamesa, will serve as visiting captain. He has not yet announced the personnel comprising his team.

Of that number, 23, had turned in qualifying scores. Barney Barnard Jr., of Odessa and formerly of Lamesa, and H. L. Winkler of the Ranchland Hills Country Club, set the early pace with 73's and appear sure bets to rate the 32-man title fight. Par for the nine-hole course is 36.

Others who have already qualified and their scores include (player from Big Spring unless otherwise designated):

Those who have paid entry fees but who have not qualified include Doug Hill, Bobby Blumh, Luke Thompson, J. E. Foote, Harris Wood, C. G. Griffin, R. S. McCullah, Joe Connally, Clinton Parser, Frank McCleskey, Richard Pachall, Marvin Miller, Bob Wortman, Midland; Eddie Don Harris, Don Hoover, Bill Phillips, Wally Slate, Bernard Raines and Frank Hunt.

Club officials are highly confident that last year's entry list will be topped. In 1953, 117 took part in the tournament.

There is word not only Ernie Vossler but Bobby Malone and Dick Patton as well will represent Fort Worth in the tournament. Vossler is considered the best amateur in Texas at the present time. Patton is one of golf's longest hitters. Malone is a top-drawer left-hander and, incidentally, a bobby-soxer's idea of a golf star. He's an immaculate dresser and a good looking fellow.

There is word not only Ernie Vossler but Bobby Malone and Dick Patton as well will represent Fort Worth in the tournament. Vossler is considered the best amateur in Texas at the present time. Patton is one of golf's longest hitters. Malone is a top-drawer left-hander and, incidentally, a bobby-soxer's idea of a golf star. He's an immaculate dresser and a good looking fellow.

Club officials are highly confident that last year's entry list will be topped. In 1953, 117 took part in the tournament.

New Hurler

Jeff Davis (above), acquired from Tyler in a trade for Mike Rainey, won his first two starts for the Big Spring Broncs. He has also hit a home run and a triple. Davis broke in with Mt. Airy in the Blue Ridge League in 1949, where he won five and lost two games. He had a 13-4 record for the same team in 1950, was in the service the next two seasons and spent a month with Statesville in the Tar Heel League, where he won three and lost two, in 1953.

Mustangs Will Be Ready For Herd, Coach Warns

The Big Spring High School Steers are now putting in more than four hours daily training for their opening football game of the campaign a week from Friday night in Andrews.

Coach Carl Coleman has his Longhorns out on the drill field by the time the sun comes up and they work well into the morning. They check back in for blackboard reversals at 4 p.m. and hit the practice turf again shortly before 5:00.

It's a rigorous schedule and will get tougher as time progresses but Coaches Carl Coleman and Wayne Bonner cautioned their charges there is no alternative, that their first round opponent has been at the grind longer and will be ready for the invasion of the Steers.

In their first test, the Steers have little to gain and everything to lose. You that going up is the hardest. The Dodgers, who had been burning up the West like a prairie fire, ran afoul of an old Brooklyn killer from several seasons back last night and dropped a 7-5 decision in Milwaukee.

The Giants whipped St. Louis, 4-1, with Johnny Antonelli becoming the first National League pitcher to win 20 games. New York is now 2 1/2 games ahead of Brooklyn.

The Dodgers, who had been burning up the West like a prairie fire, ran afoul of an old Brooklyn killer from several seasons back last night and dropped a 7-5 decision in Milwaukee.

The Braves went into the seventh trailing, 5-4. After one out Bill Bruton bust out an infield single. A sacrifice put him on second. Joe Adcock walked and Thomson drilled one of Carl Erskine's offerings over the left field fence, 400 feet away.

Civilian Employees At Webb Compile High Safety Mark

Safety is the keynote among Webb's civilian employees, who have compiled a record of one million work hours without a single reportable lost time accident. The no-accident record dates back to August 1955.

Jolly O'Brien, Webb Ground Safety engineer, said civilians throughout Webb have been careful not to create accident hazards. They have pointed out existing hazards and have either corrected the condition themselves or recommended possible action to the proper authorities, O'Brien explained.

In a letter to Webb's civilian employees praising them for their record, the Wing Commander pointed out that the no reportable lost-time accident record represents "a staggering total of 1,024,000 working hours." This record, he said, is positive indication that Webb civilians have been adhering zealously to sound safety practices on the job.

O'Brien anticipates a duplication of the feat. He said, "I am fully confident that we'll be celebrating a two-year no accident record with over two million working hours in August a year from now."

Princess Warned To Avoid Theatre

EDINBURGH, Scotland, (U)—An unidentified man telephoned an Edinburgh newspaper today to "warn" Princess Margaret to stay away from a Shakespearean performance here tonight.

Police said they are taking normal security measures but they generally believed the man was a hoaxer.

The Princess, vacationing in Scotland, will be an honor guest at the Edinburgh Festival premiere of the Old Vic production of "Midsummer Night's Dream," which will tour in the United States this fall and winter.

The man who called the newspaper warned that "the National will be there," at the Empire Theatre opening.

Nationalists is a term applied to persons wanting Scottish independence or home rule, but they are not cohesively organized.

Legionnaires Ready For Record Parade

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Legion aimed its mammoth convention parade — its biggest ever or close to it — down historic Pennsylvania Avenue today. When it would end was anybody's guess.

Right up to the first "forward march" at 2 p.m., officials acknowledged they did not know how long the marchers would be stepping by. But, they predicted, it would be far into the night.

And they had plenty of advance statistics on the swirling mass of drum majorettes, legionnaires, ladies' auxiliary members and the fun-loving 40-and-overs:

Some 75,000 to 80,000 parading for 8, maybe 12, hours to the music of about 350 bands. Along the route perhaps as many as 700,000 spectators, some of them government workers given the afternoon off.

Ten parade divisions, each with its own marshal, made up of marchers, bands and floats from the 48 states, District of Columbia and abroad.

A hundred square blocks marked off on Capitol Hill for the parade's formation area, big enough to handle 100,000 marchers, and a dispersal area of 35 square blocks near Lincoln Memorial.

Legion officials said the parade would go on regardless of weather. Last night legion banquets heard Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek tell of China's Communist enslavement and Soviet Russia's actions toward her country since as far back as 1926.

The wife of Nationalist China's leader brought a sympathetic audience to its feet in applause when she said in measured words:

"Conquerors have come and conquerors have gone, but our way of life has withstood them and will continue to withstand the present brutal masters. . . .

"We Chinese will not be slaves long. This I promise you . . . for there are countless living and determined heroes on the mainland as well as on Formosa."

Also last night the legion was the receiving end of protests from two other organizations, the American Medical Assn. and Americans for Democratic Action.

The AMA hit back at what it called an "attack" by Legion National Commander Arthur J. Connel on the AMA's "stand against the admittance of non-service-connected cases to veterans hospitals." The doctors' group issued a statement saying that Americans "did not follow the colors to become wards of the government."

ADA, which calls itself a liberal political action group dedicated to the principles of the New and "Fair" Deals, protested as "scurrilous back-fence art" a painting displayed in the legion's National Security Room. ADA National Director Edward D. Hollander said the painting reportedly portrayed the ADA, former President Truman, the British Empire, labor unions and the lend-lease program as aiding Communists.

IT HAPPENED

Overheated Motorist

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A policeman who spotted a motorist whirling away at his stalled car with a baseball bat in 90-degree heat got a simple explanation.

"It got overheated," said the driver. "I guess I got overheated, too."

All the auto's windows were broken in the onslaught.

"I've cooled off now," the motorist told Officer Lyle Fagan as he drove away.

Wouldn't You Know

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A man walked into the Shively insurance agency and asked for a job.

George Hill, a partner in the agency, told the man to wait.

When Hill came back, the man—who had been standing by the cash register—was gone. So was $50.

The loss wasn't covered by insurance.

Stolen Book No Help

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—The thief who took a volume from the home of Walter W. Emerson Jr., also took a book.

The title of the book, Emerson said, is "How to Play the Harmonica."

Easy Payment Plan

GLENDORA, Calif. (AP)—This thief didn't even bring his own pistol.

Miss Lucille Palmer, clerk in a sporting goods store, told police that a man in a soiled T-shirt asked her to show him a .45 caliber automatic. He checked it to see that it would load properly, inserted a clip of bullets, pointed it at Miss Palmer, and took $35 from the cash register.

He walked out without paying for the pistol, a $72.50 item.

Red Regime Figures Begin Exodus From Guatemalan Asylum

GUATEMALA, (AP)—Supporters of ex-President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman who have been granted safe conduct to leave Guatemala are starting their exodus into exile.

Police said 17 others who "escaped" from foreign embassies where they hid out during last June's revolt against the pro-Communist government have given themselves up and been imprisoned in a jungle camp.

Seven followers of Arbenz left the Mexican Embassy for Mexico yesterday.

Arbenz and several of his top left-wing supporters still are believed to be among the hundreds of refugees in the Mexican compound.

The military government headed by President Carlos Castillo Armas has said the ex-President and top leaders of his regime who are wanted on criminal charges would not be allowed to leave the country.

In Buenos Aires, the Argentine government announced that five air force planes will fly to Guatemala Wednesday to pick up 120 refugees from the Argentine Embassy. They will be flown to the Argentine capital.

The remaining 12 refugees in the embassy will be taken to Argentina as conditions permit, an Argentine communiqué said.

Three Latins Held In Arms Smuggling

LAREDO, Tex. (AP)—U.S. Customs officers said here tonight that three natives of El Salvador — two men and a woman — were arrested at the international boundary yesterday trying to smuggle 20,000 rounds of pistol ammunition into Mexico.

The ammunition, for .32 and .38 caliber weapons, was concealed in false gas tanks on two new trucks the three were driving. Customs said the ammunition apparently was purchased in Dallas, San Antonio and Temple, Tex.

Custom officials said the three probably would be charged tomorrow with violation of the Neutrality Act.

Return Of Five U. S. Technicians Delayed

SAIGON, Indochina (AP)—Heavy weather forced back a U. S. Air Force plane which flew to North Viet Nam today to pick up five American air technicians the Vietnamese have promised to release from prison camps.

The plane flew to Sam Son, the POW exchange site, but was unable to land because of a typhoon.
