Seventeen issues on the ballot for election day

By Nancy Young
Managing Editor

Local voters will join other voters across the state in going to the polls Tuesday to cast ballots in a special constitutional amendment election.

Seventeen issues are going to be decided by Texas voters. Voters may obtain a sample ballot at the county clerk's office.

Seven polling places will be available in Tuesday's election in Gray County. Precinct 1 voters will vote at Lefors Civic Center at 103 N. Court in Lefors. Presiding Judge is Jeff Kent with Karen Nobles as assistant.

Precincts 2, 10 and 13 will vote at Lovett Memorial Library, 111

N. Houston. Augusta Brown is presiding judge and Susie Wilkinson is assistant.

Grandview-Hopkins School will be the place of precinct 3 voting. Presiding judge is Linda Babcock and assistant is Marion Johnson.

Voters in precincts 4 and 5 will vote at the Lovett Library in McLean. Catherine Dorsey is presiding judge and Bill Graham, Jr. is assistant.

Precincts 7, 11 and 12 voters will vote at the lobby of M. K. Brown Auditorium. Peggy Rodriguez will be presiding judge and Lindon Sanders will be assistant.

Precinct voters in voting precincts 8 and 9 will cast ballots at the Calvary Baptist Church at 900 e. 23rd. Maxine Hawkins is presiding judge while Don Boddy is assistant.

Voters in precincts 14 and 15 will cast ballots in the foyer of Travis School at 2300 Primrose. Clara Quay is presiding judge and Lori Hukill will assist.

Hours for voting will be 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

It's time to fall back today

Remember that hour that the government took away from you last spring? They're giving it back today. Daylight Savings Time officially ended at 2 a.m. today. Be sure to turn your clocks back like Ginger Craig, left, and Michelle Cochran the Regional Eye Center on this Halloween day.

New federal rules centralize child support

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

"Local people can best handle local affairs" says Matt Winslow of the Texas Attorney General's Office. But in all likelihood the federal government will be regulating the child support procedures in all 50 states.

Texas Attorney General John Cornyn and U. S. Sen. Phil Gramm are both actively opposing the new federal rules which require a centralization of the collection and disbursement of child support payments while decreasing the number of cases handled locally. Both officials said enacting of such a procedure could cause problems by bringing an end to efficient local operations.

District clerk's offices in the 254 counties of Texas, along with Domestic Relations Offices in a handful of counties, currently collect the child support payments, and disburse them to recipients. If Texas is forced to enact the new procedure establishing the State Disbursement Unit, the way child support payments are received and disbursed will be drastically changed. Approximately 385,000 cases involving 570,000 children and $1.4 billion in child support will eventually be shifted to the SDU.

Texas has filed four exemptions to the new procedures because of the state's size and the volume of child support cases handled by its more populated counties.

Three requests for an exemption for Texans have been turned down by the federal government. Both Cornyn and Gramm are pushing for an exemption, but Winslow said the office is not optimistic about receiving the fourth one either.

If the SDU system, brainchild of the federal government, payments on Attorney General child support cases collected by the counties must be redirected to the SDU but not all child support payments.

In a confusing decision, the federal government has stated that payments received by the counties on non-Attorney General cases sent by employers on obligations established on or after Jan. 1, 1994, must also be redirected to the yet to be established SDU.

"I am extremely disappointed in the requirements of this unfunded mandate. It makes our job more difficult in trying to find the funding to pay for it, and it makes the job of local officials much more difficult in trying to implement confusing child support rules. They are asking us to reinvent the wheel and pay for it ourselves," said Representative Rob Junell.

Attorney General Cornyn said, "If it were my choice, I would not implement the SDU. I want to keep control at the local level. But since over a billion dollars in federal aid is tied to the SDU, my hands are tied." He continued, "However, as my office implements this mandate, I have two guiding principles-no disruptions to child support payments and the expense to the taxpayers must be kept to a bare minimum."

Gramm said the mandate comes from a 1996 Welfare Reform Bill provision which was requested by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Federation of Independent Businesses and several employer groups. He said companies that have to send payments to numerous counties to meet the child support obligations of their employees asked for the rule.

He said all he wants the federal government to do is to let Texas run the program with local operations where people can literally deal with another human being on the local level and where a program can be kept going that Texas has spent a lot of money to develop.

Cornyn also feels the size of Texas as in relation to the size of such states as Vermont should be considered in the implementation of the procedure.

Gramm said that the big (See CHILD SUPPORT, Page 2)

Pampa DA to represent area on state bar council

Pampa's district attorney is preparing today to head south for a meeting with a section of the state bar association.

District Attorney John Mann will be in Austin Friday for his first meeting with the State Bar of Texas Criminal Justice Section Council.

"It is the body of lawyers within the state bar who shape, formulate and promulgate various programs, legislation and policies for the criminal law section of the Texas State Bar Association," Mann said.

Barry Macha, the district attorney in Wichita Falls and immediate past chairman of the council, called Mann earlier this year to tell him that his name had been placed in nomination and asked Pampa's DA if he would agree to serve on the council.

"I said, 'Why sure,'" Mann said.

Judge Molly Francis, a district judge in Dallas, is the new chair person of the council. The council is comprised of a cross section of prosecutors, defense lawyers and judges.

"It's really pretty good," Mann said.

This will be Mann's first meeting with the council.

"I'm looking forward to it with great anticipation," Mann said.

Belief in ghosts and witches up this Halloween

WASHINGTON (AP) — More people apparently believe in ghosts and witches than two decades ago.

A third of the people surveyed in a new Gallup poll said they believe in ghosts, three times the number who said that two decades ago. One of five said they believe in witches, twice the rate of the late 1970s.

Almost nine of 10 people in the new poll said they have no objections to Halloween on religious grounds.

In medieval times, and in some countries today, the souls of the dead were thought to return to their homes on the eve of All Saints' Day — or Halloween. Halloween customs were brought to this country by Irish immigrants in the 1800s.

The most popular costumes for trick-or-treaters this year will be Batman, Star Wars characters, witches and Pokemon and Disney characters, according to the poll.

The telephone poll of 1,005 adults was taken Oct. 21-24.

Hearing delayed in death penalty case

PORTALES, N.M. (AP) — A death penalty hearing for a Farwell, Tex., man who pleaded guilty to killing an elderly New Mexico man has been delayed until Wednesday.

The hearing was postponed this week after the defense decided to put an Albuquerque psychologist on the stand to testify about tests he did on Michael Treadway. The delay will give the prosecution time to prepare a rebuttal.

District Attorney Randall Harris said he had repeatedly asked the defense for information on the evaluation but had not received it.

He asked state District Judge Bill Bonem to disqualify the testimony. Bonem ruled the psychologist could testify because of the gravity of the case, but pushed back the proceedings to give Harris more time.

Treadway pleaded guilty Oct. 19 to first-degree felony murder and other crimes in the December 1997 shooting death of Everett Clint "Red" Prather, 73, who was selling goods at a marketplace on the Texas-New Mexico border.

Two other Texans, Ronald Armstrong and Billy Galvan, pleaded guilty last year to being accessories to robbery in Prather's death.

Commissioner says Texas must produce more natural gas

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — With a number of new gas-fired power plants being built across the state and the country, Texas needs to increase production of natural gas, Railroad Commissioner Charles R. Matthews said Thursday.

Natural gas accounts for about 10 percent electric-power generation now, but that figure will rise to more than 40 percent, according to a forecast by the National Coal Council.

Matthews said his jaw dropped when he saw that forecast. Existing supplies and pipeline capacity would not meet that kind of demand, he said.

Matthews, a former Garland mayor whose 6-year commission term expires next year, spoke to the Permian Basin Petroleum Association's annual meeting in Midland.

Electric-utility deregulation has prompted many nonutility generators to jump into the business of building gas-powered plants and selling the power. By next summer, those generators are expected to begin operating plants that will produce 5,800 megawatts of electricity — and it will take an estimated 750 million cubic feet of natural gas per day to keep the plants running, Matthews said.

"But drilling and completions in Texas are barely offsetting production declines," Matthews said. "Texas production is flat, while the national production is up 19 percent."

Nonutility generators have even bigger plans for gas-fired plants down the road. They have 9,200 megawatts under contract in Texas and have announced plans for facilities to produce another 17,000 megawatts, Matthews said.

To meet that demand, he said, the state would need at least another 500 wells producing an average of 3 million cubic feet of natural gas a day.

Texas sits atop a reservoir of 30 trillion cubic feet of natural gas, so the supply is there, Matthews said. The bigger problem is stimulating production, he said, which is more closely tied to the price of gas.

On Thursday, the price of gas for December delivery dropped 25.8 cents to $2.96 1/2 per million British thermal units. Gas producers struggled with low prices last winter — an unusually mild one in the northern United States.

Prices fell again Thursday after release of forecasts of warmer-than-usual U.S. weather for early November.

employers wanted to write only one check instead of several to the various district clerks, and that ended up being put into the bill. While the cost of disbursing employees' child support payments will be removed from the employers if this procedure is changed, the counties will probably be faced with the additional expenses to change the program.

Gray County District Clerk Gaye Honderich said her office makes direct deposits daily to the child support fund for the cases which are regulated by the Attorney General's office. The money is wired to Austin on a daily basis. While the law requires the procedure be completed in two days, she said the money is sent the day it is received. She said the payments which have to be sent to the Attorney General's office per state law have a turn around of eight working days.

Child support checks which do not require attorney general intervention and are directly paid to the district clerk's office are mailed the following day.

Matt Winslow of the child support division said today that the new SDU which will have to be established if Texas loses the fourth request to not comply with the federal mandate will be operated by an outside vendor. He said $55 million was budgeted for next year, and the first bids were $65 million for the procedure. He said the bids were revamped and the agency is awaiting on new bids in the second round.

Winslow said while the national chamber, NFIB, and many large companies had initially been in favor of the change, they are now opposed to it because they say the way congress passed it will not reduce their workload.

"It did not solve any problem. It just created a lot more problems. It is going to be a waste of time and money, and the payments will be delayed as district clerks will have to send them to the SDU and then the checks have to be sent to the children. It will just delay the amount of time."

He said if the request by Texas is denied that the state office will work with the Texas congressional delegation for a delay in the implementation.

Harris County District Clerk Charles Bacarisse said centralizing child support processing will increase bureaucracy and could result in late and missing checks. He said that the federal officials have been more focused on process than outcome and what works best. He said the goal is getting the money to the children, and Texas is doing it.

Weather focus

PAMPA — The sun should shine today with cooler temperatures. The high today should be 74 degrees with southwest wind 5 to 15 mph.

Monday should be sunny with a high of 75.

Tuesday will be partly cloudy with a high in the mid-60s.

Pampa reported 0.02 inches of moisture Friday night with a high Friday of 72, a low Friday night of 38. Saturday's high was in the mid-60s. The low Saturday night was 40.

STATEWIDE — Isolated rain was reported along the Texas coast early Friday, and more showers moved inland during the afternoon.

Badly needed precipitation was predicted for much of the state over the weekend.

In South Texas, temperatures in the 70s and 80s dominated the landscape in the afternoon hours Friday. Mid-afternoon readings ranged from 79 degrees at Junction, Galveston and Rockport to a warm 89 at McAllen.

A cold front entered the Panhandle during the afternoon and was moving south at 10 to 15 mph. It was warm ahead of the front, and cool temperatures were reported behind it. Readings ranged from 64 at Dalhart to 88 at Wink and Fort Stockton.

Temperatures were in the 70s and 80s across North Texas, where skies were partly to mostly cloudy. It was mostly sunny in the Big Country around Abilene. Patches of light rain were reported in the Lower Valley, west of Brownsville.

Thunderstorms were in the forecast across the state on Saturday, with low temperatures possibly dipping into the 30s in the Panhandle.

Janice Sackett 1999 Artist of the Year

Versatile, talented and energetic, Janice Sackett has worked in art for years and has shared her expertise with hundreds of school children since she began teaching in 1957.

She is honored as this year's Artist of the Year by the Pampa Fine Arts Association. Her exhibit at the White Deer Land Museum will open Sunday, Nov. 7 with a reception for the public from 2 to 4 p.m. The exhibit will continue to Jan. 1.

Sackett grew up in Hale Center learning art from her mother. She earned a bachelor of science degree in art education and commercial art and a masters degree in art with specialty in pottery and jewelry making both from West Texas A&M University. Her teachers have included Dr. Emilio Caballero, Chris Gikas, Isabell Robinson, Francis Stephens, David Rindlisbacher, Mary Lee Hu, Eleanor Moty, Jon Birdsong, James Ivy Edwards, San do, Gail Wilkerson, and Jane Marks.

Her exhibit includes jewelry, pottery, china painting, oil paintings, sculpture and even quilts, quilted jackets and knitted sweaters. Her subjects range from a small, purple people eater she sculpted for her younger students to some very large paintings. Sackett uses a wide variety of subject matter, painting portraits, landscapes, animals, birds or flowers with equal enthusiasm. She uses more pastel shades in her intricate china painting, sometimes accenting with touches of gold, and incorporates bolder shades in her oil paintings.

Sackett retired from Pampa High School in 1988 after teaching art there for 26 years. She also taught at Clarendon College-Pampa Center, Pampa and Lee Junior Highs one year, and Grandview-Hopkins, Claude and Sweetwater Junior High for two years. She gave some lessons as a volunteer at St. Matthew's Day School.

Sackett loves to teach, and now the classroom is in her home. She has children from kindergarten through junior high for hour lessons on Mondays and Thursdays, teaches adults china painting on Tuesday in Amarillo, Friday in Pampa, and will teach in Panhandle in November and December. She enjoys introducing children to the various mediums, showing them the many ways to finish a ceramic piece, giving them guidelines in drawing and painting. She reserves oil painting for older junior high students.

Internet: The great rumor mill in action

Mark Twain once said that, "A lie can travel halfway around the world while the truth is putting on its shoes." People communicated by telegraph back then, so you can imagine what he would have to say today.

It is now as easy to communicate over the Internet with someone across the globe as it is with someone across the street. And where you once had to wait for the evening news to find out what was going on in the world, you can now get up-to-the-minute updates in just a few clicks.

Technology has brought the world to our fingertips — and that's a good thing. But it's also brought a few problems, of which we should all be aware.

For instance, over the past year, I've had over 3,000 people contact me about two specific rumors they read about on-line. Both rumors have to do with Internet access, and both rumors are completely false. The first has to do with a Bill 602P supposedly being considered by Congress. The bill is supposedly being sponsored by a Congressman Schnell, and supposedly will give the Postal Service the authority to tax the Internet.

Well, first of all, there is no Bill 602P in Congress — bill's don't have letters, they only have numbers. And secondly, there is no Congressman Schnell. It's a rumor. The same can be said about a purported plan by the FCC to allow long distance companies to tax our Internet access. I've contacted the FCC, and it's simply not true.

The bottom line is that the Internet is a marvelous tool, and something which has helped open new worlds to millions of people. But like any other tool, we've got to be careful — not only in how we use it, but in what we're asked to believe.

Help for Carolinas headed overseas

Think this through: People who have lost everything in eastern North Carolina to the floods can get help from the U.S. government in the form of loans at interest.

I dare say many of those who lost their homes had not paid off their mortgages. The obligation to pay the mortgage remains even if the house that has been mortgaged is gone or rendered unlivable. So in essence, the federal assistance consists of an offer to most folks to make two mortgage payments instead of one.

Now contrast this with foreign aid. Israel will receive as a gift some $3 billion. In addition, the Clinton administration has asked Congress to provide $1.9 billion to pay for the withdrawal from the West Bank areas called for in the Wye agreement. Some $400 million of that will go to the Palestinians and $300 million to Jordan.

I'm all for peace in the Middle East, but why should American taxpayers — including those devastated by the floods in North Carolina — pay for it? How can congressional officials tell their own people, "You can borrow," while telling foreign governments, "Here is a gift?"

This situation seems to me to be as clear evidence as anyone could want that most of the people in Washington have just lost contact with reality. They are so used to dealing with special-interests groups inside the Beltway that they no longer think clearly about what it is they are doing. They seem able to handle each topic in total isolation from every other topic.

Charley Reese

Syndicated columnist

It would be a good idea if Americans broke the spell by telling them that they should attend to America's needs first and foremost. It is, after all, pathetic to see the suffering of Americans in the Carolina flood areas while Washington blithely gives away their tax dollars to foreign governments.

There is nothing in the U.S. Constitution which could remotely be interpreted to authorize taxing Americans and giving the money to foreigners. Foreign aid is a hangover from the Marshall Plan to rebuild Europe after World War II. Like all government programs, it took on a life of its own so that here we are with no Cold War and no enemies really capable of attacking the United States, and Congress continues to hand out in the forms of grants and loans some $12 billion a year to foreign governments.

That's nonsense. Look at your own tax bill. It must take all the taxes paid by thousands of Americans to fund this annual foreign aid appropriation, which most years gets virtually no debate in either the House or the Senate.

What's missing is a sense of priorities, a listing from the most necessary to the least necessary of all the claims on the available federal dollars. Bearing in mind that all expenditures should be of general benefit to all citizens, foreign aid should be at the bottom of the list.

Instead, each year it sails through practically unnoticed, while Americans are shortchanged. I'm sure many of the people who have lost homes, businesses and farms would appreciate a federal grant. And if you argue the government should not be in the business of giving away the taxpayers' money, then I'd say, "Fine. Stop giving it away to foreign governments." The North Carolina governor has asked for a grant of $5.2 billion. Let's see if he gets it.

I doubt that most of the people offered federal loans are aware of the giveaways in the foreign aid appropriations. I'm sure if they were, they would be less than happy about the situation.

But nothing will change unless the American people demand that it change. Politicians vote for foreign giveaways because there are powerful lobbies which support them and because, by and large, the people back home pay no attention to the subject.

They should. People have power; they just don't often use it.

Consumers see results of tort reform

Mark Stiles
Guest columnist

Almost five years ago when I was serving in the Texas Legislature, I offered a simple amendment in the 74th Legislature to a bill regulating insurance rates. My amendment required reductions in rates as savings from various tort reform measures were realized.

Despite the skepticism of opponents of tort reform measures, consumers have been the big winners as the savings from regulated insurance rates alone have totaled almost $3 billion.

We believed that insurance companies were paying out millions for unwarranted lawsuits which they, in turn, collected from consumers in the way of higher and higher premiums. If we could preserve consumer's legal rights but reduce the abuses in the civil justice system, we reasoned, there should be tremendous savings. By my amendment, those savings to insurance companies would be returned to consumers. That amendment has paid off handsomely for the people of Texas and should be re-enacted in the next legislative session.

At the time, the best estimate government auditors could produce was that Texas consumers and businesses would see savings of about $700 million over five years. With the recent announcement of $685 million in insurance savings in the coming year, savings to Texas consumers has totaled more than four times what was estimated in 1995, nearly $3 billion dollars. Despite the skepticism of opponents of tort reform measures, consumers have been the big winners as the savings from regulated insurance rates alone have totaled almost $3 billion.

Of course, the regulated insurance market is just one part of our healthy Texas economy. Although no one has yet studied this complex issue, we can take the evidence at hand and assume that there have been reductions across the board in the cost of goods and services as the expense of frivolous lawsuits has been profoundly reduced.

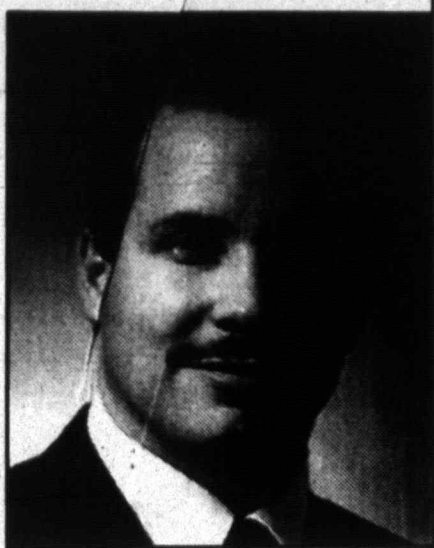

My amendment and, indeed, the entire tort reform effort is an object lesson in how Democrats and Republicans can work together for the public good. Unlike many political venues, here in Texas the legislature worked hand in hand with the other party to pass fair and balanced reform measures under the able leadership of the late Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and Gov. George Bush. Lawsuits have not disappeared since 1995, nor should they. Sometimes a lawsuit is the only way to get justice and right a wrong.

But too often in the past lawsuits were not being used to compensate the injured party but to lavishly enrich the plaintiff and their attorney. Filing a lawsuit had become like buying a lottery ticket — but with better odds of winning a jackpot. Worse, our laws had tilted to favor those bringing lawsuits putting even innocent defendants in an impossible position where they were increasingly settling lawsuits instead of fighting frivolous cases in court. The decision to settle instead of play a legal hand dealt from a stacked deck inevitably drove up the cost of insurance as well as the cost of goods and services. Greed had taken over a good part of the Texas civil justice system and the rest of the world had heard. Newspapers from the Wall Street Journal to the London Observer featured editorials ridiculing Texas. One editorial branded Texas as a "lawyer's paradise."

That continues to change as the legislature addresses the lawsuit abuses that continue to creep into our civil justice system. Our reputation around the world has improved, the business climate in Texas has improved, there is still plenty of work for lawyers, and Texas consumers have taken home nearly $3 billion in insurance reductions. Those who complain that government never works should look again at Texas tort reform and the money it has put into the pockets of Texas consumers and the integrity it has returned to the law.

Letters to the editor

Mode of speech has changed in America

To the editor,
Our modes of speech have changed! Good is sometimes referred to as evil! Evil is sometimes referred to as good! A portion of a prayer prayed by a pastor in 1996 before the Kansas House of Representatives:

"We have lost our spiritual equilibrium; and, inverted our values."
"We have ridiculed the absolute truth of Your Word; and, have called it moral pluralism."

"We have endorsed perversion; and, called it alternate lifestyle."

"We have exploited the poor; and, called it the lottery."

"We have neglected the needy; and, called it self-preservation."

"We have rewarded laziness; and, called it welfare."

"We have killed our unborn; and, called it choice."

"We have neglected to discipline our children; and, called it self-esteem."

"We have abused power; and, called it political savvy."

"We have coveted our neighbor's possessions; and, called it ambition."

"We have polluted the air with profanity and pornography; and, called it freedom of expression."

"We have ridiculed the time-honored values of our Forefathers; and, called it enlightenment."

Have you noticed the contrast in these existing conditions?
Opposite! Like right! Wrong! Or left! Right! Up! Down! Etc., and etc.

It boils down to: American! Un-American! Preceded by the United Nations! UN preceding anything creates the opposite! Happy! Unhappy! Dore! Undone! Etc., and etc.

Opposite! Is! Is not! Isn't!

All of that — to say this: There is positively no way that our America can continue to condone the United Nations. United Nations and United States of America — opposite!

I am meaning "what" I'm saying — get our us out of the UN! Get the UN out of our us!

Note: U.S., that's me and you! Us! Also, it's our United States!

What is the big deal about licensing guns?

To the editor,
An infomercial for the National Rifle Association has been broadcast in recent weeks and, while the spot probably did nothing but further strengthen the pro-gun faction and further alienate gun control advocates, it did bring up a question that is no doubt unanswerable by NRA members. During the ad, a law in Canada was condemned for being a step toward completely disarming a nation. The law, however, did not ban anything. It simply called for the licensing of certain firearms. The association's dissension to this law, then, begs the question: Where was the NRA when the licensing of automobiles and dogs was mandated in this country, and why are they not currently fighting these restrictions to freedom?

It is highly unlikely that there are many NRA members who would turn their heads while their high-school-aged children went joy-riding without a driver's license. Unlikely also is that any in such a conservative group would look favorably on dogs running around without licenses or vaccination certificates. And no, they would probably not say license sedans but not pickups; license German Shepherds but not Bloodhounds.

It's true, the Constitution does not mention automobiles; probably because they didn't exist in the 18th century. Nor does it mention dogs — which did exist back then — but that's likely because no one thought something as innocuous as owning a hound dog needed to be covered in the nation's charter. Somewhere along the line, though, it was decided that laws needed to be established to address this volatile issue. So where were the watchdogs of freedom when the right to own a dog was so severely restricted?

Perhaps the answer to another question will help put gun control into its proper perspective. Did licensing signal the beginning of the end of dog and car ownership in this country? Since even the staunchest NRA member would likely answer no to this question, why is such a big deal being made over the licensing of guns?

CC-Pampa Center offers opportunities for advancement

To the editor,
I am writing in response to the letter you ran in the Sunday, Oct. 17 edition, in which the writer was very upset about the cost to build the new Clarendon College-Pampa Center.

I think this would be money well spent. I graduated in May 1990 from the Secretarial Science Program offered at Clarendon College in Pampa. I live in McLean, and after applying for a grant which was accepted, I was able to become a full-time student at the age of 26. I enjoyed the secretarial classes very much, under the instruction of Jan Haynes, and I attribute my job position that I am holding currently to this wonderful program in Pampa, Texas.

Ten years ago when I attended the Clarendon College-Pampa Center, the building was getting old and run-down, so I know by now there is a great need for a new facility! Freshmen are not the only students who would be interested in attending college in Pampa.

Clarendon College offers many basic, as well as, special programs including secretarial, nursing, etc., for any age.

I have been the business manager for McLean ISD for three years, and I feel without a doubt that I was able to acquire a job such as this only by receiving the best training from the secretarial program. I also have friends who completed the course with me during this same time, and they all have wonderful jobs, too.

Gray County Jail inmates need access to law library

To the editor,

I would like to do a follow up on the Gray County Jail. Rules violated and laws twisted to fit the Gray Co. Jail administrations' misconduct of authority. There is only one way for inmates to do anything about it, well two.

First is to file a grievance about it to the jail administration. That is the sheriff's staff which is only to be filed 13 with no prevail or adequate solution. According to the jail standards commissions of Texas, an inmate is entitled to file a grievance and should be able to see in writing from the grievance board the outcome. State Law for prisoners. Not in Gray Co. Jail. Myself and several other inmates never receive any form or fashion of compliance.

Second way is to just sit back and allow things to continue on the way they are, or to get worse which is what I see in many instances.

I can not quote the rules and regulations, laws or standards, because I do not have access to the legal books that have these in print. The last ruling I quoted came straight out of one of these books which an inmate had to buy for himself.

State and Federal law #2, which is being broken, is the right to have ample time in the law library in order to defend yourself. Gray Co. Jail administration does not think we have that right as prisoners in their jail. The law states the we, as people of this great nation, not just Texas, have the right to defend ourselves, or assist our attorney on our behalf. How can we do that if we can't read the books? I myself, and I am positive that I'm not the only one, have went to court and been convicted without an attorney and was not allowed the use of the law library at all before-hand.

Does the word justice just stand for us, the ones that don't have the money to hire an attorney to stay incarcerated because we are ignorant of the law? Or does it mean justice for all, you, me and the sheriff and his staff. The jail administration says they will get us to the law library when they have time and the man power. They don't say that when it's time for us to go to court though. They handcuff and get you right over there, no hesitation at all nor are they ever short of staff.

Hoover Volunteer Fire Department earns 1998 Life Safety Achievement Award

The Hoover Volunteer Fire Department was recently presented with a Life Safety Achievement Award for 1998 by Residential Fire Safety Institute. The award was announced by Patrick Coughlin, executive director of RFSI.

The award recognizes local fire prevention activities that contributed to reducing the number of lives lost in residential fires. The Hoover VFD qualified for the award in 1998 because it recorded zero fire deaths in structures during that year.

Although residential fires in the U.S. account for only 20 percent of all fires, they result in 80 percent of fire deaths. The RFSI is committed to reducing that number. A total of 903 fire departments in the U.S. and Canada received the 1998 Life Safety Achievement Award.

"Experience tells us that fire prevention activity and public education can significantly reduce life and property loss from residential fires," Coughlin said. "Prevention and education are very cost effective compared to the traditional approach of relying on fire suppression. The Life Safety Achievement Award recognizes fire departments for their fire prevention efforts and encourages them to continually improve those efforts."

RFSI is a public interest group whose mission is to reduce residential fire deaths and injuries. RFSI advocates the use of residential fire sprinkles, smoke alarms and public awareness of fire safe behavior. Its principal program is Operation Life Safety, which assists fire departments with implementing residential sprinkler/smoke alarm programs. Membership includes the U.S. Fire Administration, National Association of State Fire Marshals, International Association of Fire Chiefs and private industry associations with an interest in residential fire safety.

State and Federal Law #3 is prisoners being held in lock-up segregation cells. Their rights being violated and denied. The rule and law states they are to have one hour everyday, seven days a week — even if they are in there 365 days — out of cell recreation of some sort, rec yard or library what ever is available. They are denied church services. These inmates under direct orders of the newly appointed chief deputy Jim Scott are not allowed that time. As I said, I am not allowed access to the legal material to quote these rules and regulations according to state and federal laws.

It is also my belief that there are inmates being discriminated against on being able to work these fines off day by day. Myself, I have 60 days in here day for day with only eight work days there are others besides myself.

I am not writing this in order to achieve self-achievement or an easy out. I'm doing this because I believe if they enforce the law, they need to obey the law!

I just wonder if the sheriff knows what's going on up here in his jail. I have only seen him up here when there is a major disturbance and believe me it has to be major.

I believe this place needs to be investigated by somebody. And I also believe I will be harassed by the sheriff's staff now that I have made it public news. Thank you for your time.

Think about it before you pass judgment

To the editor,
The following is a letter you may or may not wish to print in your newspaper because of its remarks, which are entirely my opinion.

I have one question for the people of the Texas Panhandle, "Are you stupid or what?" In my opinion, the people of the Texas Panhandle are not smart enough to know when they are being cheated and robbed.

You may remember me, I'm the offender at the Jordan prison unit that you think of as dirt, scum or worse. That's okay, at least I know when I'm being wronged. I put myself where I'm at today by my actions, knowing what the outcome might be. I wasn't sitting at home thinking everything is all right and "they" will protect me.

I guess that it's okay if the state steals money from me, just so long as it is not a criminal that does it, because that is what is happening, in my opinion. You have someone working on this unit who operates a department within a department that has to show reason for its need of funds. Now someone, either here on this unit, which some records show, or at Huntsville, is changing or, to use what I believe to be the correct term, falsifying records to show that offenders need programs that TDCJ has. State law says that falsifying records to show that every offender must attend one program for substance abuse, whether they need it or not, after that then other drug programs are there for offenders that need them. Now if TDCJ forces every offender to take these other programs, they have something to show the public as to why they need the money. If the people of the state of Texas were smart enough to know when to stop TDCJ from building more prisons, then how can those same people not see they are being robbed blind by the very people who say they are protecting them? I'm a convict, you don't have to believe me. Find out for yourself, unless you're afraid of what you'll find.

I'll help you get started by giving you some facts and figures. First from Sept. 1, 1998, to Aug. 31, 1999, TDCJ was budgeted $54,764,345 for the On-the-Job Training; that is $13,039.12 per offender to be trained to do a job like sew parts of a boot or shoe top together, as is done here on the Jordan Unit. That $13,039.12 to show an offender how to do a job for about 10 minutes, then let that offender practice at it for about a month to get good at it. Six months later they receive a certificate showing they can do that job and it only cost the taxpayers only a measly $13,039.12. I wonder how many people make much more than that in a year's time at their jobs.

Then you have the health care system for offenders, that is run by an university, last fiscal year they were budgeted $249,489,324 for the care of offenders. That's on top of what they receive from each offender that goes for a new medical problem that is not chronic. They receive $3 from the offender each time they go see the nurse to see if they will allow the offender to see the doctor. Their budget said there were 116,063 offenders in the system, or projected, that means by their own paperwork the health care provider received $5.29 per day, per offender. Now if each of those offenders only goes to see the doctor four times a year then the health care provider receives an additional $1,392,756 a year. Where does all the money go?

Those are just a couple of the methods I believe that the people who run the Department of Criminal Justice use to steal your money.

Now you may be mad at me for expressing my opinion and you can contact this unit, write hate mail to me, or contact friends, or in this case, probably family members that work here, and have them retaliate against me, but it still does not change things. It won't stop the state from stealing your money or it won't stop me from going home, don't worry about my parole, this state would never give it to me anyway, I'm smart enough to know that. You can write to whoever you wish about me, but just remember one thing, you will probably be talking to the very same people who are stealing your money. I believe all you have to do is open your eyes for a change and you will see the light through all of the lies.

I have but one last thought for you to ponder, if the state will treat its own people that bad, by stealing from them, what kind of treatment are they giving offenders? Now you may think good, treat them bad and make them angry, just like this letter has you, but the offender will be released sooner or later. The state on the other hand will still be stealing your money right out from under your noses, in my opinion, and then you have two problems. One is you're broke and the second is the offender is now on the street.

For those that try to see what is happening, I wish you good luck, but for the rest who think so badly of me without even knowing me you'll get what you deserve, especially if you believe in the Bible. Think about it before you pass judgment on me.

Kairos is powerful prison ministry

To the editor,
I am writing today in regard an article that Richard Douglas, "Unit Reporter" wrote and was published in last Sunday's paper. I appreciate the photo and accompanying article of the graduates of the Prison Fellowship Book of John class. We are proud of all of our ministries here on the Jordan Unit. Douglas also wrote about Kairos. In the article, he mentioned that, "Kairos does not push any religion, and that they believe all religions lead to God." This is false and this Chaplaincy Department would not see much value in having a faith group come to the Unit that held such a belief.

Kairos Inc., states that, "Kairos is a ministry of the church, a ministry of the apostles whom Jesus, the Christ, has called into community and sent forth into the environment of the correctional institution. Kairos has been called the best example of the early church in existence today. The objective of Kairos is to impact the correctional environment through the action of the leaders, as apostles of Jesus Christ, in all areas of human activity in the prison."

I feel as a chaplain in TDCJ that Kairos is one of, if not the most, powerful Christian ministries we have in our prison system. I am very thankful for the volunteers who give many hours, spend tens of thousands of dollars and give of themselves to our inmates. This is just part of the great team of whom have heard the call of Christ: "I was in prison and you visited me" (Matthew 25:36).

'Community Camera' program needs work

To the editor,
The children in our community, attending the Pampa Elementary Schools raised $15,313.57 in the annual Jump Rope For Heart, to benefit the American Heart Association. These children worked timeless hours in efforts to collect money for heart treatment. In return, the Heart Association rewards our schools with equipment, educational resources and prize incentives for children.

SACKETT

Sackett purchases a wide variety of greenware and keeps over a dozen trays of mixed paints for her china painting. Each tray contains many shades of one color, such as a tray of green.

"Art is the universal language everyone can understand," said Sackett. When asked about understanding contemporary art, she replied, "At least look at the color and design, have an open mind about it and try to enjoy it." She will include some modernistic sculpture at the show and a contemporary ceramic piece.

Sackett's husband Floyd is an assistant principal at Pampa High School and former Chamber of Commerce manager. Their son Ed lives near Orlando, Fla. A photographer, he has often photographed at Give Kids the World Village, a world of fairy tale buildings, at Kissimmee, Fla., part of the Make-A-Wish program. Sackett has been asked to design and paint two tiles from Ed's photos that can be copied and used as gifts to parents of the children invited to the center. One of tiles showing a giant's castle will be on display during the art exhibit at the museum. Sackett has been asked to give china painting lessons in the Village museum in January and is really looking forward to this special class.

Son Ed's wife is Susan, and they have one daughter, Lindsey, 9-years-old. The artist is excited about a second granddaughter expected in January.

Sackett has won several first place awards for her ceramics and pottery. She belongs to a number of professional education and teacher organizations and has been president of two chapters of the Texas Federation of Porcelain Art, served as Texas State treasurer and corresponding secretary of the World Organization of China Painters, and is a member of the International Porcelain Artists and Teachers, Inc. She has conducted art workshops and seminars in the Texas Panhandle and for District XVI of the Texas State Teachers Association.

The artist received a first place award for a portrait she did of an Indian girl the World Organization of China Painters competition and this hung in the WOCP Museum in Oklahoma City for a year.

For several years Sackett conducted a clay workshop for children at Chautauqua, then took the pieces home and fired them for the children. She also gave china painting demonstrations at the Pampa Fine Arts Association tent during Chautauqua and received a special PFA plaque for her contributions.

On the evening of Oct. 7, the top six money collectors from each school were recognized for their outstanding efforts. When the Pampa News was called to cover this event, we were told there wasn't anyone to be sent. We were also told to come by and pick up a "Community" camera, which was done. The camera that was obtained from the news office did not even have batteries therefore rendering it useless.

Personal cameras were quickly located so that our hard working students could be seen by the community. It is very disappointing that our newspaper could not allow 15 minutes of their time to make this recognition special for our children. I realize that it was after office hours. However, if the community is expected to cover its own news stories, the "community" camera should be in working order. Maybe your new program needs some minor changes to make it more effective, so news of such a worthwhile and meaningful event for children will be covered in the future.

NORFOLK, Va. — Navy Airman Ethar R. Robertson, a 1997 graduate of Shamrock High School in Shamrock, Texas, is among more than 370,000 active duty Sailors celebrating the Navy's 224th birthday while forward deployed to Yokosuka, Japan, aboard the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk.

The Navy was created by the Continental Congress on Oct. 13, 1775, after George Washington appealed for its formation. Every Oct. 13, Sailors mark the date as a time for ceremony and reflect on the deeds of the men and women who previously served and have given today's Sailors their legacy of honor, courage and commitment.

Robertson joined the Navy in August 1997.

NORFOLK, Va. — Navy Airman Adam R. Wright, son of Rick and Sylvia Wright of Shamrock, recently returned from six-month deployment aboard the aircraft carrier USS Theodore Roosevelt, homeported in Norfolk.

During deployment, Wright's ship helped conduct the NATO bombing and airstrike missions against military and strategic installations in the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia. The vessel also participated in Operation Southern Watch in the Arabian Gulf.

Wright graduated from Samnorwood High School in 1996 and joined the Navy in November 1997.

The National Dean's List recently announced students named to its 22nd Annual 1998-99 edition. Published by Educational Communications, Inc., it is the largest recognition program and publication in the nation honoring achieving college students. Students were selected for the honor by college deans, registrars or honor society advisors and, to be eligible, must rank in the upper 10 percent of their class, be on their school's dean's list or have earned a comparable honor. Listed students are eligible to compete for $50,000 in scholarship awards funded by the publisher.

Students named to the publication include: Alison R. Brantley, Kevin L. Coe, Carlyn A. Dyer, Wendy Gorton, Amanda L. Jacobs, Christine L. Jason, Brandy Kempf, Alicia Lee, Dianna McCoy, Melissa Price, Adrienne K. Ragsdale, La Von L. Reagan, Shaylee J. Richardson, Heather A. Robben, Scott E. Rose and Jeramie K. Smith, all of Pampa.

Caleb M. Heatwole and Lisa R. Hill, both of Canadian; Heather D. Crump, Terrence R. Eatmon and Curtis J. Whatley, all of Groom; Brandie Lynn Neal and Tracy M. Tucker, both of Lefors; Shelly Davenport of Miami; Emma L. Swigart of Mobeetie; Trey Hart of Shamrock; and Lindy D. Howell of White Deer.

NEW YORK (AP) — Two days after the New York Yankees won their 25th World Championship — third in four years — the city saluted the team with a parade.

George Steinbrenner hoisted a broom from a parade float. Darryl Strawberry broke down in tears. And millions of fans staged another Broadway revival with a blizzard of confetti. A half-dozen floats carried the players, eliciting wild screams and chants of "Let's go Yankees!"

Forty-five minutes before the parade's noon start, fans were lined six and seven deep on the sidewalks along the financial district's narrow streets. Police Commissioner Howard Safir generously estimated the crowd at 3.6 million, topping the crowds for the 1996 and 1998 parades.

GOLF

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Paul Azinger pulled a tam o'shanter cap snugly over his head and rolled up his trousers to knickers-length, revealing a garish pair of argyle socks — all part of a poignant tribute to his close friend, Payne Stewart.

In a gripping service at a church where Stewart finally found peace, he was remembered above all for his passion, for his wife and two children, for the three major championships he won, for the Ryder Cup team he would have captained and for the game that made him such an endearing figure.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Jacobs and John Mahaffey shot 6-under 65s to share the first-round lead at the Pacific Bell Senior PGA Classic. Bruce Summerhays was a shot back in third, while Dave Stockton, Lee Trevino, Gary Player and Jim Thorpe all had 67s. Defending champion Joe Inman was in a group of seven another shot behind.

JEREZ DE LA FRONTERA, Spain (AP) — South Africa's Retief Goosen shot a 4-under-par 68 for a 14-under 130 total and a one-stroke lead over Ireland's Padraig Harrington halfway through the Volvo Masters.

Harrington (65) was followed by Scotland's Colin Montgomerie (65), New Zealand's Michael Campbell (65), England's Anthony Wall (65), Spain's Miguel Angel Jimenez (67), and Argentina's Jose Coceres (64) at 135. Sergio Garcia shot a 68 for 137 and England's Lee Westwood fired a 68 for 140.

OLYMPICS

PARIS (AP) — The chief adviser on U.S. drug policy turned conciliatory and said there was a role for the IOC in creating an international agency to combat drugs in sports. However, Barry McCaffrey repeated his opposition to a "unilateral" solution from the International Olympic Committee. He earlier derided the IOC proposal as "crazy," but was less combative in this round of talks.

McCaffrey was wrapping up a six-day trip to four European countries to discuss drug control. McCaffrey said the European Union and European governments are not encouraged by the IOC's drug agency plan. The United States backs an alternative international agreement.

McCaffrey noted the U.S. Olympic Committee had agreed to start an independent agency for American athletes.

GENERAL

NEW YORK (AP) — Harvey Schiller resigned as president of Turner Sports and is expected to become chief executive officer of YankeeNets, the holding company of the baseball and basketball teams.

Schiller, the former executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, had been with Turner Sports, a division of Time Warner Inc., since 1994.

He also is president of the NHL's latest expansion team, the Time Warner-owned Atlanta Thrashers.

Pampa pounds Palo Duro

By Lacy Plunk
Pampa News writer

AMARILLO — Pampa running back Thomas Long gave Palo Duro defense a little taste of true Harvester offense at Friday night's game.

Long rushed 74 yards and for three touchdowns, helping Pampa to defeat the Dons 21-7 in a District 3-4A prep football contest played at Dick Bivins Stadium.

The victory pulls the Harvesters into a third place tie with Caprock, who lost 27-24 to Dumas. Pampa's record is 5-4 overall and 2-2 in district play. Palo Duro falls to 0-9 overall and 0-4 in district.

Long, who has rushed for 673 yards for the season, got Pampa on the board first in the first quarter when he capped a four-play, 16-yard drive with a 3-yard run that brought the score 6-0.

Palo Duro took a 7-6 lead at the half when Dwight Mayberry scored on a 2-yard run. The touchdown was set up by a 68-yard fumble returned by Jerrod Wilbon to the Pampa two-yard line.

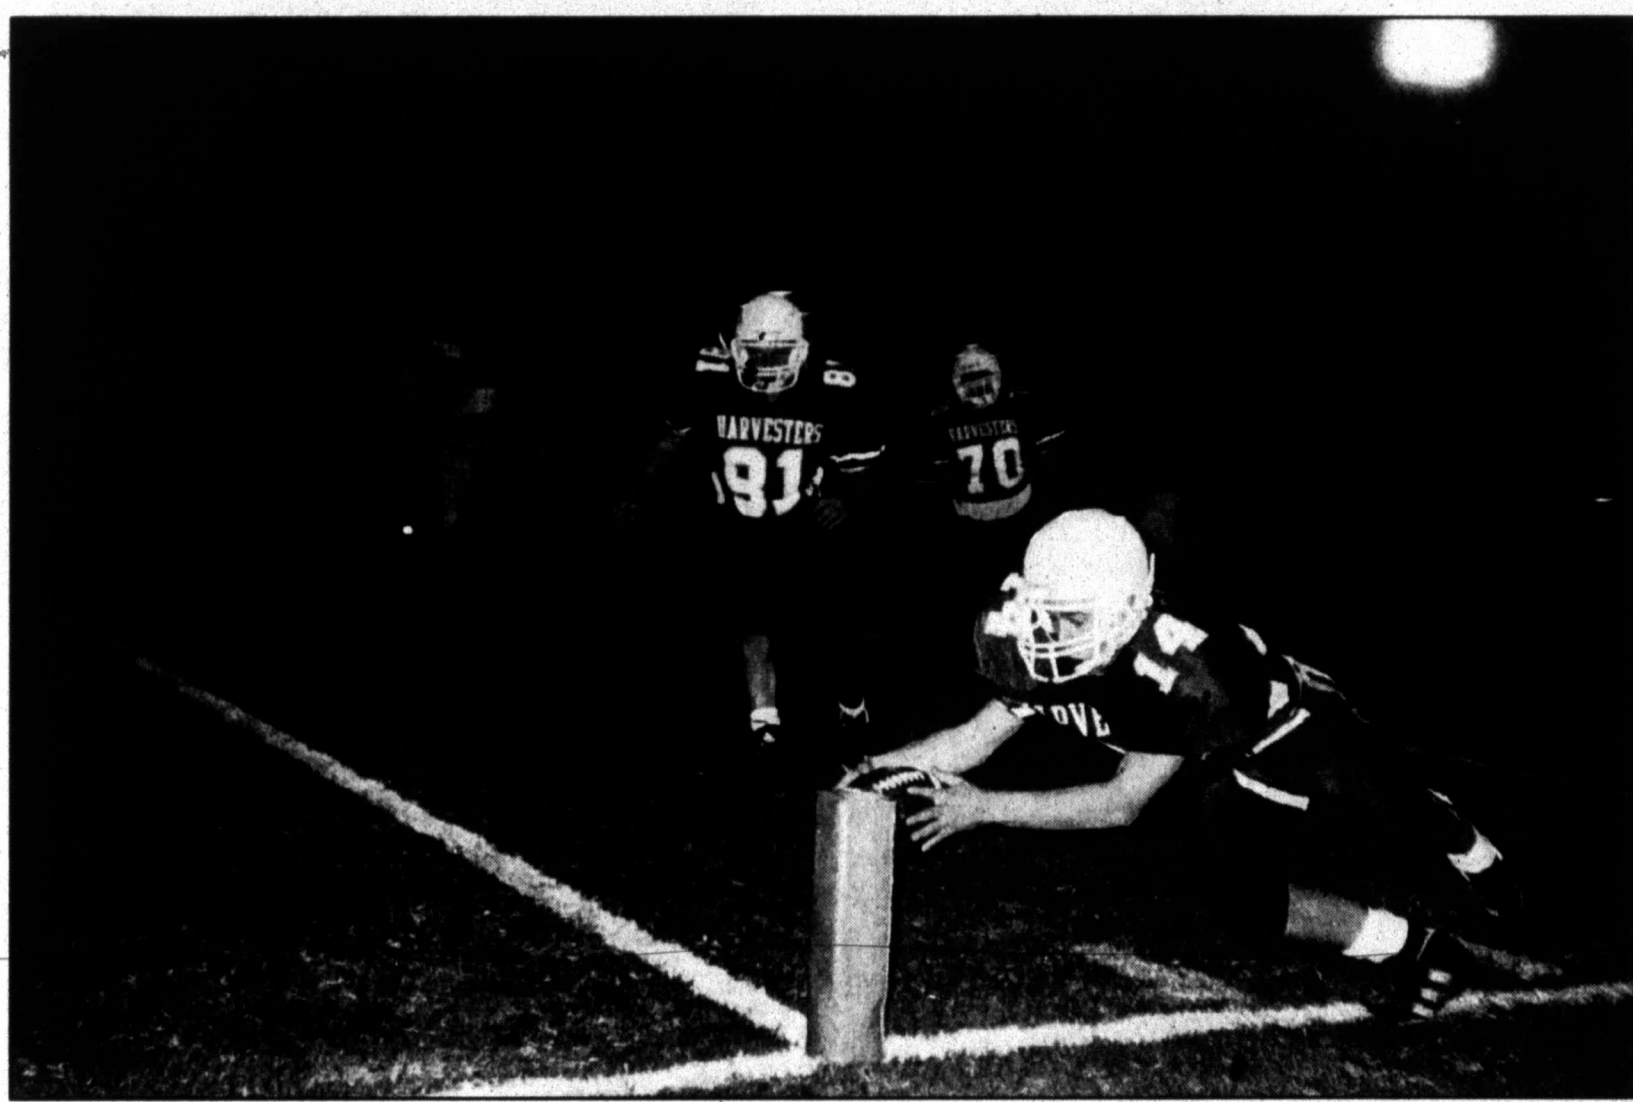

Long brought victory back in sight for Pampa when he scored from 8-yards out in the third quarter. He also ran in the two point conversion to bring the score to 14-7.

The Harvesters shut out the Dons with a fourth quarter touchdown that consumed 10 minutes and covered 99 yards. Long capped off the 21-play drive by barging into the end zone from one yard out.

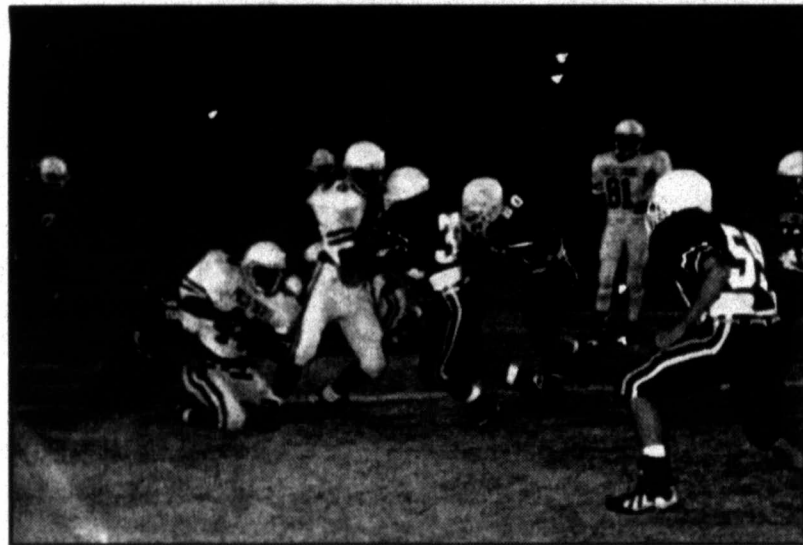

Pampa has built a reputation over the years for playing a sound defensive game and moving the ball on the ground. They stuck with this plan against Palo Duro and gained 293 yards on the ground. The Harvesters held the Dons to 115 yards overall.

Eric Mims was the leading rusher for Palo Duro, gaining 67 yards on five carries.

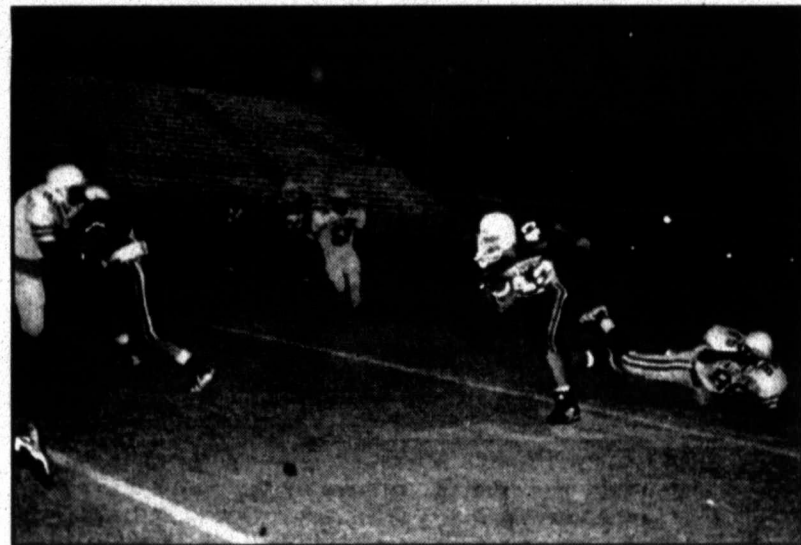

Pampa had 69-offensive plays to 38 snaps for the Dons.

Harvester Junior Varsity downs Palo Duro Dons

By GROVER BLACK
Pampa News Correspondent

After a defeat only six weeks ago by the Amarillo Palo Duro Dons, the Pampa Junior Varsity players went into Thursday night's game with payback on their minds.

Payback turned to anger when the Dons ran the kickoff back for a touch down, however, in the opening minutes of the game.

The Harvester JV defense stood fast against a two point conversion attempt.

A determined Pampa offense took possession of the ball and drove down field until Chris Lewis carried it into the end zone for the first Harvester JV touch down.

The extra point attempt failed and the score was tied, 6-6 through the second and third quarters.

Palo Duro made it to the four yard line with first and goal to go, but Pampa's defense held fast, denying the Dons a touch down.

The Pampa defense, chanting "El Norma, El Norma," held again in the fourth quarter as Palo Duro drove to within two inches of the goal line.

The Harvester JV defense led by Lewis, Abel Shorter, Aaron Willis, Oscar Ortega and David Signala held the Dons to one touch down Thursday night, while the Pampa offense was able to dominate the Palo Duro defensive squad.

The second half belonged to the Pampa offense led by Elledge, Michael Galloway and Tyler rose. Elledge drove in another six more points to make the score 12-6.

Pampa's Ortega made a 45 yard run for another six points, bringing the score to 18-6.

The Harvester Junior Varsity travels to Borger Thursday to take on the Bulldog Junior Varsity.

Close racing fun for drivers at 230 mph

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Motorsports Writer

FONTANA, Calif. (AP) — While watching the Champ Cars circle the two-mile California Speedway oval at speeds topping 230 mph, you might expect that the drivers are holding their breath most of the time.

Actually, they're enjoying themselves.

"It's a lot of fun," said sensational rookie Juan Montoya, who goes into Sunday's season-ending Marlboro 500 trailing Dario Franchitti by just nine points in the duel for the CART FedEx Series championship.

"At Michigan, it's easier to run side-by-side, but this kind of race is good because you have to work a lot on the car. It's a nice game."

Max Papis came within half a lap of winning the race in July at Michigan Speedway — a virtual carbon copy of its sister track in Fontana — before running out of fuel.

"These races are never boring," Papis said. "There's a lot of overtaking and you have to be ready for it all the time."

Papis, who has yet to win a race in his four seasons in CART, was asked if his showing at Michigan makes him feel like a favorite here.

"For me, in my heart, I'm always the favorite," the one-time sports car star said. "Michigan is just the proof that we can do a good job."

Although the spotlight this week is mostly on the championship battle between leader Franchitti and Montoya, Papis would love to steal some of the thunder in the season's only other 500-mile event.

"Our success at Michigan really doesn't give us any kind of distinct advantage," said Papis, completing his first season with Team Rahal and coming off a career-best second-place finish two weeks ago on the temporary street circuit in Surfers Paradise, Australia.

"The only thing I haven't been able to accomplish this season that was a goal of mine coming in was to win a race," said Papis, who replaced new boss Bobby Rahal in the cockpit following Rahal's retirement as a driver.

"I know a lot of people have told me that I won Michigan, but I am not looking for moral victories. I want my name on paper as having won a race."

Practice began Friday and Papis' Reynard-Ford was second only to Englishman Mark Blundell's Reynard-Mercedes. Blundell turned a fast lap of 235.292 mph, while Papis hit 234.747, both in the first of two sessions.

Montoya, who leads everyone this season with seven victories in 19 starts, was third overall at 233.539 in the morning and led the slower afternoon session — marked by gusty winds — at 230.707 in his backup Reynard-Honda.

Franchitti, who didn't take the series lead from Montoya until winning in Australia, was 11th overall at 232.269 mph.

"It was a good day," Montoya said. "We were just trying to find a nice race car, but it's very difficult to find out how fast you are until qualifying because everybody drafts each other in practice."

"I'm not too worried about speed, though," said Montoya, who went into today's qualifying with a series-high seven poles. "My main goal is trying to beat Dario."

Franchitti, like Montoya, looking for his first series title, said, "We're just trying to get our work done and be ready to race on Sunday. We'll be ready."

Blundell was pleased with his fast lap, but readily admitted he had some help.

"It's hard not to get at least a little tow out there in practice," Blundell said. "But I don't think we had too much help, so I'm pretty pleased. We should be in good shape for qualifying."

Rookie Naoki Hattori of Japan was airlifted to a nearby hospital for precautionary tests after crashing during the morning practice. Dr. Steve Olvey, director of medical affairs for CART, said Hattori was awake and alert and had no apparent injuries.

Wildcats whip Lynx; clinch district title

CANADIAN — Canadian revenged last year's 10-0 loss to Spearman at Friday night's game by stealing a 58-20 victory over the Lynx.

Canadian was led by its defense early in the game before scoring on eight of nine possessions. The only hiccup in the streak was on a desperation pass that resulted in an interception on the last play of the first half.

The teams traded turnovers to open the game and then traded punts before the Wildcats took over on their 20 with 7:23 left in the first quarter and drove seven plays to go up 7-0.

Wildcat running back Eric Hall finished off a long drive with a 45-yard TD scamper on the left sideline. And after receiving a perfectly timed pitch, raced in for the score.

Spearman did get within one point, but Canadian's defense continually put pressure on Lynx quarterback Aaron Winegarner, completing four sacks and controlling the line of scrimmage.

Winegarner did his best to keep his team in the game by throwing three touchdown passes, including one to Jordan Brock on the last play of the first quarter that brought Spearman back within 7-6.

However, Canadian drove 61 yards in nine plays to go up 13-6 on a 3-yard TD run by Hall and then Wildcat Eddie Schwartz recovered a fumble by Winegarner on Spearman's next offensive play to put the Wildcats on the Spearman 20-yard line.

Winegarner had eluded two possible sacks on the play and had the ball knocked loose from behind. Canadian then scored on a 1-yard run by Hall on a fourth-down play after Spearman's defense had held on three straight plays from the 1.

Winegarner led Spearman to a touchdown at the end of the first half, but Canadian already posted 34 points on the board.

Wildcat quarterback Derek Maupin was taking care of things through the air. Maupin completed seven of 13 passes for 140 yards and two touchdowns to Coleman Bartlett that covered 17 and 24 yards.

Canadian rushed for 332 yards and passed 140 for 472 total yards, and was virtually flawless other than a fumble on the first play of the game and an interception that closed the half.

Perhaps hidden in the offensive explosion was the performance of the Wildcats' defense.

Spearman was held to just 169 yards of total offense and 67 yards rushing.

Eric Hall scored five touchdowns and rushed 136 yards, but the leading rusher for the Wildcats was George Peyton, who scored on a 35-yard run with 49 seconds left in the first half to give the Wildcats a 34-6 lead and finished the game with 174 yards on 24 workmanlike carries.

Canadian maintained its flawless 4-0 record for district play while Spearman dropped to 3-1.

Jacobs, Mahaffey tied for senior lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Although John Mahaffey took a share of the first-round lead at the Pacific Bell Senior PGA Classic, it was clear his mind wasn't entirely on golf.

"This is Payne Stewart's day," said Mahaffey, who shot a 6-under 65 Friday to tie John Jacobs. "There were grown men crying. It hits really close to home."

Thirty-four players shot par or better over the 6,575-yard Wilshire Country Club course where Stewart was honored in a post-round ceremony with a bagpipe player and many kind words.

A memorial service was held in Orlando, Fla., for Stewart, the PGA Tour player who was among six people killed Monday in the crash of a Learjet.

"I played a really great round," Mahaffey said. "It was extremely difficult to play golf today. We have trained our minds to focus on the job at hand, but when I wasn't hitting a golf shot my mind was somewhere else."

Bruce Summerhays was a shot back in third, while Dave Stockton, Lee Trevino, Gary Player and Jim Thorpe all had 67s. Defending champion Joe Imman was in a group of seven another shot behind.

Mahaffey, in his second season on the Senior PGA Tour, was 5 under on the back nine and had eight birdies in all.

Mahaffey, who won 10 times in his 27 years on the PGA Tour, needs to win less than $115,000 in the final two tournaments of the season to post his first career $1 million year.

Jacobs played errorless golf, posting six birdies without a bogey. His 30-foot birdie putt at No. 9 and a 22-footer at No. 12 keyed his steady round.

"Somewhere in the Belfry in the middle of England, Payne had a boom box. He'd go running up and down the halls, pounding on our doors to make sure we heard Bruce Springsteen singing 'Born in the U.S.A.'," Floyd said.

"This course is difficult for me," Jacobs said. "It's a straight driver's course. I only hit three drivers today and was scared each time I picked my driver out of the bag."

Jacobs' 66 was one of the best starts for the Los Angeles native during a year in which he was sidelined six weeks by two minor operations on his elbow.

"I'm very happy with a 66," he said. "I've come out of it a little the last couple of weeks and it only hurts to hit a wedge. But everybody out here has some pain."

Thorpe joined the senior tour this year and is playing in his 35th tournament. He hasn't won a senior event, but has posted two second-place finishes and has been in the top 10 eight times.

"I drove the ball well and hit a lot of fairways," Thorpe said. "The greens are the fastest I have seen since I left Augusta."

He also thought of Stewart on a day when the PGA Tour's two events canceled play so players could attend the memorial service.

"I think Payne would have wanted us to go ahead and play," Thorpe said. "I believe it was the right decision to play."

At the memorial service, Hubert Green said, "I loved him on the course. I loved him off the course. This is really hard for me to stomach. We lost a great person. Payne, we'll never forget you."

Raymond Floyd followed Green to the microphone on the green and had difficulty fighting back tears.

"Such a tragic loss to golf and we lost a friend," Floyd said. "He brought grace and dignity to the game. He was caring, loving, sharing."

Floyd recalled Stewart as his teammate on the 1989 Ryder Cup team.

"Somewhere in the Belfry in the middle of England, Payne had a boom box. He'd go running up and down the halls, pounding on our doors to make sure we heard Bruce Springsteen singing 'Born in the U.S.A.'," Floyd said.

The Pride of Pampa

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

The Pride of Pampa— the Pampa High School marching band.

As the 114-member band performs at half-time of the high school football games, the pride of Pampans builds within the community. The talented band members have performed their lively, action-filled routines with their Spanish and Latin American marching show.

Wowing the audience with their lively performances, the musicians also pleased the judges at the recent Regional UIL Marching Contest in Amarillo on Oct. 16. The band returned to Pampa with a Division I rating which is the highest rating in the UIL system. All three judges awarded the band a superior rating in their separate judgments at the regional competition.

After being judged one of the top bands at the contest, The Pride of Pampa High School Band traveled to Odessa last weekend to participate in the Area competition. Fourteen high school marching bands from the regional areas of Lubbock, El Paso, and Odessa as well as Amarillo's region, competed in the competition.

While the Pampa band did not advance on to the state competition, they were rated in the top half of the competition.

The UIL solo and ensemble competition is set for Nov. 11 for freshmen. Upperclassmen will compete Nov. 15, as will be all-area competition.

When basketball games begin, a newly formed Jazz Band will be performing at basketball games during the current school year.

The PHS band has enjoyed a steady growth the last four years. Band supporters say that if the band continues to grow at the rate it has the last two years there will not be enough uniforms to suit out the entire band next year. Band boosters say the band uniforms are over ten years old and beginning to show lots of wear and tear.

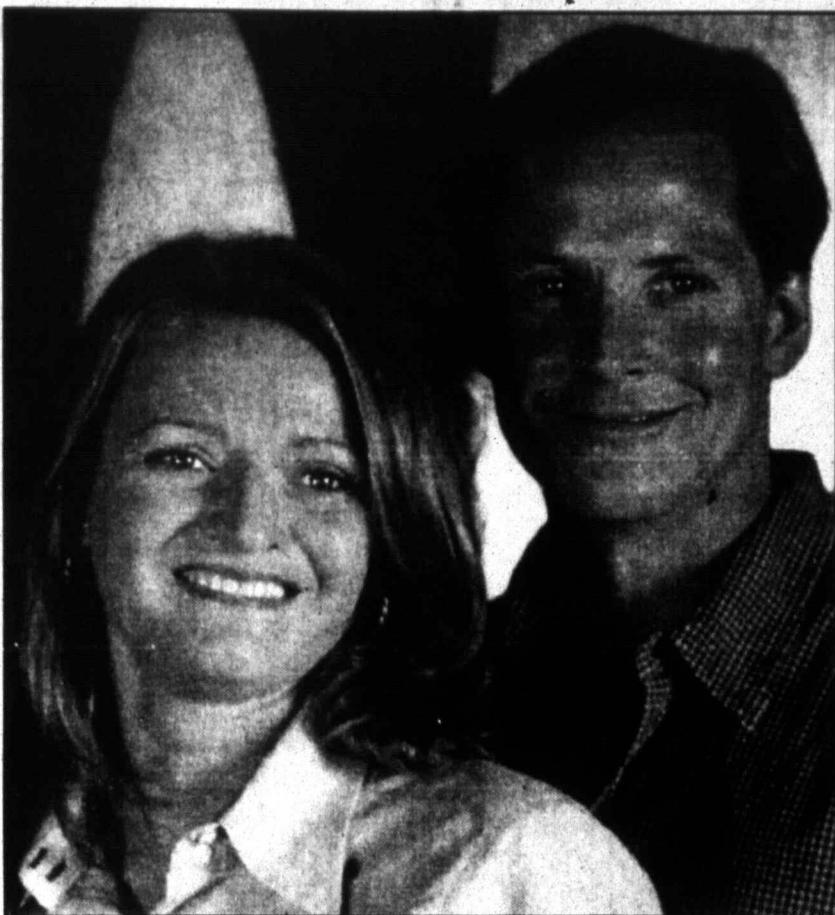

An Amanda Jacobs Memorial Uniform Fund has been started to assist in raising money for uniforms, according to organizers.

Amanda Jacobs, a former PHS band member and a graduate of Pampa High School, was killed several weeks ago in a car accident. A memorial uniform fund has been established in her memory.

Anyone wishing to make a donation to the fund should send it to Amanda Jacobs Memorial Uniform Fund, % The Pampa High School Band Booster, P. O. Box 2031, Pampa, Tx 79066.

The Pride of Pampa Band is under the direction of Bruce Collins, Jason Jones, Roger Myers and Julie Collins.

Christine Lynn Hildenbrand and Joseph Todd Reed

Hildenbrand-Reed

Christine Lynn Hildenbrand of Canyon and Joseph Todd Reed plan to wed Nov. 5 in Zion Lutheran Church in Pampa.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hildenbrand of Pampa. She graduated from Pampa High School and is currently attending West Texas A&M University.

The prospective groom is the son of Eugene Reed and Paulette Kirksey, both of Pampa. He graduated from Pampa High School and is currently employed with M&H Leasing Co., Inc.

Terra Dawn Carnes and Jeffrey David Brown

Carnes-Brown

Terra Dawn Carnes of White Deer and Jeffrey David Brown of Arlington were wed Oct. 9 in First Baptist Church of White Deer with the Rev. John Collis officiating.

The maid of honor was Bana Carnes, sister of the bride of Pampa. The bridesmaids were Leslie Ramming of Pampa, April West of Rio Rancho, N.M., and April Hammer of Amarillo. The flower girls were Whitney Brown and Brooklynn Brown, both daughters of the groom of Joshua.

The best man was Larry Brown, father of the groom of Burleson. The groomsmen were Ray Brown of Amarillo, Greg Long of Hurst and Chris Keller of Pampa. The ring bearer was Eric Clifton of White Deer.

The ushers were Shelton Watson, cousin of the bride of White Deer, and Eric Brown, brother of the groom of Fort Worth.

Music was provided by pianist Joselyn Watson, cousin of the bride of White Deer, and vocalists Whitney and Dillon Dossey, cousins of the bride of Tulsa, Okla.

A reception was held following the service in the church with Tara Kirby and Heather Asencio of White Deer and Trisha Brown, sister-in-law of the groom of Fort Worth, serving the guests.

The bride is the daughter of Robert and Regina Dye of White Deer and is the granddaughter of Bill and Roberta Klapper of Pampa and Gene Watson of Pampa.

The groom is the son of Larry and Arlene Brown of Burleson and is the grandson of Bill Brown of White Deer and Rol Holisfield of Liberal, Kan.

The couple planned a honeymoon trip to Lake Texoma and intend to make their home in Arlington.

Best to follow cleaning instructions 'to the letter'

More and more labels on garments are indicating that dry cleaning is the method of choice garment care.

Consumers should be aware of the risks and responsibilities associated with dry-clean-only clothing. Silk is one fiber that often challenges consumers. Due to the cost of silk, many consumers are asking if silk can be safely washed. Unless the care label states that the item can be hand-washed, silk products should be dry cleaned. Dry cleaning solvents do not affect the silk fiber, which normally has a natural sheen.

Water, on the other hand, can damage silk. Most common are water marks left on the silk fabric. Water also weakens the silk fiber by 20 percent. Other items such as hair spray, perfume and cosmetics cause most of the problems for owners of silk shirts and blouses. In a recent test, Good House Keeping put silk shirts to the test and washed two silk shirts and dry-cleaned two silk shirts. The shirts washed in water lost color, faded and did not return to the same lustrous appearance as the dry-cleaned shirts. One even shrank.

Though the cost of dry-cleaning is considerably greater, the dry-cleaned garments performed better, retained their color, appeared better pressed and did not shrink. Care labels are placed in garments by manufacturers to provide the best method of care for that particular fabric in order to maintain the appearance and quality of the item.

Consumers not following those instructions have no recourse of action should the garment not perform as expected.

They should also remember that when purchasing a fine fabric that indicates "dry-clean only" that the cost of dry cleaning should be considered in the lifetime cost of the garment. To figure these costs, take the purchase price of the item, find out the average dry-cleaning fee and multiply that fee by the number of times per year you anticipate having the item dry-cleaned. Add that figure to the purchase price and the result is the "real" cost of the garment. Some items will end out costing double the purchase price. Weigh the cost of care before making an apparel purchase.

For more information on care labels, call or come by the local County Extension Office for publication L-5191, "Care Labels and Your Clothes."

Kim Elaine Wilke of Amarillo and Dustin Dunlap

Wilke-Dunlap

Kim Elaine Wilke of Amarillo and Dustin Dunlap of Pampa were wed Oct. 2 in Trinity Church of Lubbock with Terry Hall, of Oak Crest Baptist Church in Midlothian, officiating.

The matron of honor was Elisa Nichols of Liberal, Kan. The bridesmaids were Stacy Sewell of Amarillo and Manda Dunlap and Tammi Allen, both sisters of the groom of Pampa.

The best man was John Collingsworth of Lubbock. The groomsmen were Brandon Brashears, Gary Metts and Chad Chairez, all of Amarillo.

The ushers were Jeff Hall, cousin of the groom of Midlothian, Matt Elliff and Justin Long, both of Amarillo, and Steven Beckham of Pampa. Beckham also served as candlelighter.

Registering the guests was Jacqueline Wilke, sister of the bride of Mesa, Ariz.

Music was provided by soloist Gordon Essary of Lubbock.

A reception was held following the service at the church with Sherri Brosch, aunt of the bride, and DeAnn Brosch, Kathleen Brosch and Christi Carpenter, all cousins of the bride of Slaton, serving the guests.

The bride is the daughter of Martha and Glenn Vaughn of Lubbock and Larry and Machille Wilke of Phoenix, Ariz. She graduated from Texas Tech University in August 1997, receiving a master of science degree in nutrition. She is currently a registered dietician employed at Amarillo VA Healthcare System. In addition, she volunteers with American Cancer Society.

The groom is the son of Sharon Dunlap and Durward Dunlap, both of Pampa. He graduated from Texas Tech University in May 1999 with a bachelor of business administration degree in management and marketing. He is currently employed at Dunlap Industrial Engine.

The couple planned a honeymoon trip to Nassau, Bahamas, and intend to make their home in Amarillo.

AGRICULTURE

Lack of moisture slowing fall planting in some areas

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — For the state's wheat producers, the trick is receiving rainfall and the treat is completing fall planting, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

Extension agronomist Dr. Billy Warrick of San Angelo said while most Texas wheat producers have finished planting, some regions are still awaiting much-needed rainfall.

He said there has been very little planting in West Central Texas because of the lack of moisture, and producers can only afford to wait for rainfall until mid-November.

"We are in a critical period," Warrick said. "We have two weeks remaining in the desirable planting window."

He said the disadvantage to planting late in the window is that producers lose fall forage.

"This is one aspect of wheat that is often overlooked," Warrick said. "But when you miss the opportunity for grazing, you miss a huge potential for income."

He said the forage availability, in turn, has an impact on stocker cattle investments.

"These investors are counting on grazing," Warrick said. "If there is low forage availability, then investors have to look to more expensive options, like feedlots, that reduce their bottom line."

He said producers who plant outside of the window will need to increase their seeding rates in attempt to produce average yields.

District extension director Bob Robinson of Amarillo said planting is 95 percent complete in the Panhandle.

"Producers began planting in mid-August and where moisture is available, the crop is making good progress," he said. "The irrigated wheat is in really good shape."

Robinson said many areas, including the eastern region of the Texas Panhandle, are in desperate need of rain.

"Moisture is always a problem," he said. "We had really good moisture the first half of the year, but the past 90 days have not been good."

In East Texas, district extension director Tony Douglas of Overton said the moisture shortage has delayed winter pasture development. "Despite the lack of rainfall, wheat planting is complete," he said.

District extension director Lin Wilson of Corpus Christi said a lack of moisture is also affecting agriculture in the Coastal Bend.

"Some oats are up," he said. "But they are still in need of rain."

Wilson said winter pastures are being prepared and planted, and rainfall is needed.

Wilson said pecan quality has also been affected by dry conditions.

The following specific livestock, crop and weather conditions were reported by district extension directors:

In the panhandle soil moisture is short to very short. Cotton harvest is under way. Soybean, corn harvests are nearly complete.

Sorghum producers waiting for a freeze to dry down crop. Wheat planting almost complete; greenbugs present in some fields. Cattle doing well.

On the South Plains soil moisture is short to adequate. Pastures and ranges in fair to good condition.

Livestock organization seeking nominations

FORT WORTH — Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association is seeking nominations for Dectomax Young Cattle Raisers Award.

Beef cattle producers, auction markets, ag lenders and other agribusiness organizations may nominate young people actively engaged in the cattle business for this special award.

The winner will receive a travel scholarship to spend the day with a cattle-industry mentor of their choice in the U.S. All young people nominated will receive an invitation to a special young producer's session during the TSCRA annual convention in March in Houston.

Last year's winner, Mary Lou Bradley of Childress, flew to Arizona to spend the day with a producer who built his own packing operation. Eligible young people should be between the ages of 20-39, with an active role in producing beef cattle. This includes sons and daughters, employees, customers and friends. Parents are encouraged to nominate hard-working, deserving children.

A committee of experienced ranchers will evaluate the nominees based on commitment, sound management and vision. The overall winner will be announced during TSCRA's annual trade show. Each nominee and sponsor will receive a bottle of Dectomax courtesy of Pfizer Animal Health.

TSCRA's objective in this joint effort with Pfizer Animal Health is to provide young producers with a program to improve their ability to convert challenges into opportunities for growth, development and prosperity," said Steve Munday, TSCRA executive vice president. "In turn, we believe these young men and women are going to share their knowledge as leaders of our industry. We thank Pfizer Animal Health for its continuing support of TSCRA and our industry."

Nominations are due by Nov. 1. For an application or for more information, call Sharla Ishmael at 1-800-242-7820, ext. 134.

Farmers, elevators could benefit from grain-testing system

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — North Dakota farmers irked by inaccurate and burdensome tests for grain damage could benefit from new technology that seeks to streamline the process, a Fargo company says.

Bandy Technology Systems has developed a system that enables elevators to essentially test for sprout damage with the push of a button, said president Mark Bandy. The company also has received $25,000 from the North Dakota Agricultural Products Utilization Commission for research on a vomitoxin testing system for wheat and barley.

APUC provides grants to developers of North Dakota farm products.

Farmers complain that they often get unfair prices for their crops because existing testing systems are inaccurate. The testing process also is complicated for elevator managers who do not have the technical expertise, Bandy said. The sprout-testing machine is on the market, he said. The systems cost from $10,000 to $30,000.

"Both of those systems replace laborious, inaccurate testing systems," Bandy said.

The Market Forecaster

By George Kleinman

WHEAT (BULL/BEAR)

Outlook: In the last stocks report a whopping 200 million bushels of grain was added to supply by the Government with a stroke of a pen (100 corn and 100 wheat). Prices will most likely remain in a trading range in the coming weeks while the lows on tested. Look for Minneapolis wheat to remain relatively much stronger than the Chicago or Kansas varieties. The spring wheat harvest, which was quite delayed this year, is now close to over. There have been yield problems in Canada and the Dakotas and a protein shortage should improve the spreads. Longer term, this market feels as if it is getting closer to a major bottom.

Strategy: Consider selling all cash wheat and simultaneously purchasing call options for March. In this way you can maintain ownership of cheap wheat, but free up cash to pay bills. Your downside risk is limited (something storage cannot do) yet you maintain full upside potential. Use the current at the money calls, to establish positions. If you took our previous recommendation you own the 270 December calls at 12 cents or lower, which is less than the cost of storage and interest.

Traders: Traders who took our previous recommendation are spread with the purchase of December Chicago wheat and the sale of December corn (at under 60 cents premium to the wheat). Risk to 50 cents difference (on a closing basis) and expect the spread to eventually widen to 85 cents for a profit potential of over

CORN (BEAR)

Outlook: As I mentioned in our last column, the fundamentals appear to be quite bearish for corn. The USDA reported corn feed usage for June through August fell by over 10%, a whopping 100 million bushels. Feed usage for wheat was down dramatically as well, with this one stroke of the pen adding a huge 200 million bushels of "new" feed grains to an already burdensome supply. Some private analysts are looking for an even larger final crop than the September report which already calls for a very large 9.4 billion-bushel crop. The corn ending stocks is a large number as well, 1.8 billion bushels and the highest in 12 years. HOWEVER, our objective of under 200 before the completion of harvest has already been reached and there are reasons to become a bit less bearish. For one, the harvest is winding down and the market generally bottoms on seasonal basis about this time of year. For another, the funds are short a massive amount of corn at the Board of Trade, over 300 million bushels, and they will buy back or roll ahead in the coming weeks. For now the bear remains in the box, but it is an old bear and may be joined by the bull shortly.

Strategy: Hedgers: Corn users look to be a buyer on a scale down from under 200 basis December, looking to finish the program if the market trades as low as 185.

Traders: Traders are spread with the purchase of December Chicago wheat and the sale of December corn at less than a 60 cent premium to the wheat. Risk to 50 cent (on a closing basis) and expect the spread to widen eventually to 85 cents for a profit potential of over $1000 per spread. Aggressive traders are also short December from above $2.10. Lower your stop to break even with a profit objective of 195 1/2.

SOYBEANS (BULL)

Outlook: As we go to press, the harvest is winding down. At a time of the year this market should be under severe price pressure, it is holding up relatively well. This is despite good yields and estimates for a large 2.7 billion-bushel crop. Of course, prices are cheap but the real reason is demand and this potential sets the market up for a big rally in the year 2000. It has been my experience that large crops and low prices with extreme pessimism sets the market up for the opposite, high prices with optimism. This is because low prices build a large and sustained demand base which cannot go away easily. Domestic demand for soy oil and meal are at record high levels and the weekly export figures are running at five year highs. Export demand from China is starting to surface for the first time in three years, but right now the traders are focused on the harvest. I believe all the bearish supply news is 90% discounted in prices, which are scraping 20-year lows. This market is ill prepared for any supply shock, such as weather problems from South America this winter, or North America next spring. This market is very reminiscent of 87 and 94. Both years were record large crops with low prices and talk of burdensome carryovers. Both years were followed by two of the most dramatic bull market soybean runs in history. I would look to purchase November 2000 soybean futures, which are trading just over $5 per bushel. Be prepared to risk to the season lows and prepare to hold for a big move.

Strategy: Hedgers: No futures hedges are suggested as the government program is your best hedging alternative at this time.

Traders: Based on a previous recommendation we are short November 1999 futures from above 510. The profit objective is $4.65 or market by the middle of this week. Look to be a buyer of November 2000 at 502. Be prepared to risk 30 cents and hold for the long pull.

CATTLE (BULL)

Outlook: As we go to press, the live and futures markets are in a corrective phase as traders are disappointed the bids have dropped to 70. Disappointed at seventy? How many cattleman or traders (unless you read this column) even ventured to guess prices would have a 7 in front this year? Not many, as you could have cut the pessimism with a knife most of the year. Demand has decreased a bit, but should pick up on price breaks. The cattle numbers are still projected to drop into next year and mid seventies are in the cards late winter, my opinion.

Strategy: Feeders: No hedge protection is recommended at this time in either futures or options since the trend is your friend.

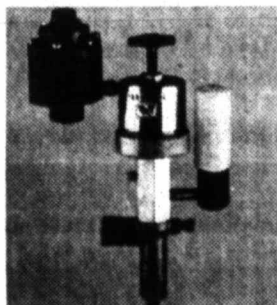

Cow/calf operators: Cattle feeders remain buy-hedged. If you took our previous recommendations you are long the January feeder futures at 78 and 79 with effective prices actually $5.50 to $7.50 lower than this (due to rollovers). Hold until you buy your replacement feeders.

Traders: Based on a previous recommendation you are long December futures in the 6450 to 6500 range. Raise your stop again to 6710 to lock in an additional profit and be prepared to hold for the duration.

Kids Who Sniff Inhalants Don't Recognize the Smell of Death

DEAR ABBY: I am a counselor at a residential home for teen-age girls. We've recently had a problem with a few of our girls "huffing" (inhaling) cleaning chemicals. We've had several discussions with the girls, separately and in groups, about the dangers of drugs and alcohol. Although the girls repeat our warnings to us and appear to understand, I doubt that they fully understand how dangerous it is. I overheard one girl say, "Plenty of movie stars do it."

I remember a column in which you once printed a list of celebrities who had died from alcohol or drug-related incidents. If you would reprint it, I would be most appreciative.
CONCERNED COUNSELOR,
VIRGINIA BEACH, VA.

DEAR CONCERNED COUNSELOR: Although I have listed the names of celebrities who died because of tobacco, I haven't previously published a list of celebrities whose deaths were substance-abuse related. However, the Center for Substance Abuse Prevention was able to provide me with one. The amount of God-given talent lost because of substance abuse is tragic:

Chet Baker, John Belushi, Kurt Cobain, John Coltrane, Dorothy Dandridge, Miles Davis, Jerry Garcia, Judy Garland, Andy Gibb, Jimi Hendrix, Billie Holiday, Brian Jones, Janis Joplin, Bela Lugosi, Keith Moon,

Abigail Van Buren
SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

Marilyn Monroe, Jim Morrison, Charlie "Bird" Parker, Edith Piaf, River Phoenix, Elvis Presley, Freddie Prinz Sr., Jean Seberg, Sid Vicious and Dennis Wilson.

I was shocked to learn that inhalant abuse is the fourth most common form of substance abuse among high school students, behind alcohol, tobacco and marijuana. While nine out of 10 parents refuse to believe their children would take such a foolish risk, a 1997 national household survey on drug abuse revealed that almost as many eighth-graders have abused inhalants (21 percent) as have used marijuana (22.6 percent).

Among the common products on the market with the potential for being abused: glue, nail polish remover, paint products, correction fluid, hair spray, gasoline, room deodorizers, markers, Freon, lighter fluid, gases (helium, butane, propane), computer sprays, cleaning agents and fire extinguishers. The effects of inhalant abuse include intoxication, short-term memory loss, hearing loss, limb spasms, bone marrow damage, liver and kidney damage, permanent brain damage and death.

Last August, a reader named Michael Richardson sent me a copy of a letter about "huffing" he had sent to his local newspaper. In part, it read:

"When I was younger, 20 years ago, three schoolmates got a kick from sniffing Pam, the nonstick food stuff. They are dead because of it. I understand that Pam and Scotch-guard are popular today.

"Many people do not realize that the solvents they get a buzz from are only carriers of the product in a spray can. The solvents help distribute the product uniformly on their intended surface.

"Pam uses oil to 'seal' and prevent food from bonding to the surface of a hot frying pan; Scotch-guard is a fluorocarbon compound used to 'seal' dirt from cloth; paint uses pigments and binders to 'seal' out the environment, preventing deterioration and rust.

"When these materials are concentrated into the human lungs they also 'seal' out the transfer of oxygen to the body. So while you're getting a buzz from the carrier solvent, you're also drowning from lack of oxygen. There is nothing anyone can do to help you; you're as good as dead, and that's it."

others come to the forefront. Another wants to acknowledge you for a job well done. Tonight: Buy yourself a treat!
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

 You make the right judgment call. Your timing is right on. Reach out to those at a distance. Your abilities to make others hear you and to make a difference come out. Use your striking personality to gain the connections you want. Tonight: Seek new knowledge.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 Your instincts are right on with associates and, specifically, an important partner. Choose to put 100 percent into your conversations. Make it OK to be vulnerable with a trusted loved one. When you get together, great decisions are made. Tonight: Do some bonding and make quality time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 Defer to others while keeping an eye on what you want. Though you might not want to be manipulated, you are sometimes prone to manipulate others. Be careful, as another reads you cold. He has the best intentions and does not want to hurt you. Tonight: Where your friends are.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 Listen carefully to feedback from a co-worker or a boss. It's not that either of you is wrong, but others have totally different views. Understand more of what is going on within you. Examine your professional goals. Say yes to a new exercise program. Tonight: In the limelight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 You sizzle with high-voltage energy. Creatively pursue a dream; think in terms of making it happen today. Seek additional resources. Take the next step, even if it involves more education or a special effort. Trust your ingenuity and follow your impulses. Tonight: Be spontaneous.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 You are building strong foundations. Stay focused on what is necessary for you. Expansion on the homefront, whether it involves a new roommate, a room addition or a new home, proves to be most positive. A partner nudges you in the right direction. The timing is right. Tonight: Togetherness counts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 You might feel that it is all about communication today. Evaluate what you want from others. Perhaps you negotiate away what you want for the sake of friendship, to maintain a relationship or to avoid confrontation. Don't. Do more for yourself now. Tonight: Accept an invitation out.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 You get a lot done today, and, though your ability to cruise through might not be directly related to your salary, somehow you end up with a bonus. You make out unusually well as a result. Think about spending more on your physical well-being. Tonight: Work as late as need be.

Africa trade bill loses key Senate vote, may be dead for year

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Friday rejected an attempt to move ahead on a bill promoting trade with Africa and the Caribbean, apparently dooming it for the year despite a fresh appeal from President Clinton.

The Senate turned to other matters after Majority Leader Trent Lott, R-Miss., failed to win the needed 60 votes to overcome delaying tactics by opponents and a barrage of amendments.

Democrats opposed what they characterized as strong-arm tactics by Lott in trying to limit their ability to amend the legislation. Senate Democratic leader Tom Daschle of South Dakota protested what he called "the level of complicity and the extraordinary demands of this body each and every day we legislate."

On a 46-45 vote, the Senate rejected Lott's efforts to limit the number of amendments that could be offered to the measure and to bring debate to a conclusion. The Senate had been debating the bill most of the week.

Opposition to the measure came mainly from textile-state senators, who claimed the reductions of tariffs and quotas for African-made products would hurt the U.S. garment industry, and from some labor groups.

Democrats voted as a bloc against the Lott's motion.

Proposed amendments ranged from a Democratic move to raise the $5.15 hourly minimum wage by $1 to an effort by Midwestern farm-state senators to ease agri-sub-Saharan Africa. Sponsors had modified it to also include Caribbean and Central American nations.

"Those who want to kill this cultural sanctions on Cuba.

The legislation, which has been considered for five years and passed twice by the House, would lower tariffs and quotas on products from the nations of bill have done a masterful job," said Sen. William Roth, R-Del., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and a key sponsor of the legislation.

He noted that the measure had been shunted aside — even though it had the support of Clinton, Lott and Daschle.

Clinton, at a joint White House news conference with Nigerian President Olusegun Obasanjo, said Thursday it was "vital that the Senate approve the African Growth and Opportunity Act, which is now pending."

"We need to recognize that barriers to trade are barriers to opportunity for Africans working hard to catch up to the global economy and for Americans who want to work with them," Clinton said.

Roth said the Senate's failure to pass the measure now would be "a major setback."

"It is inexcusable for this legislation not to proceed," Roth said in a Senate speech.

The Senate took up the African trade bill earlier in the week, but the legislation quickly got bogged down in partisan bickering.

For two years in a row, the House has passed the underlying legislation, designed to spur economic growth and private investment in 48 sub-Saharan countries. It keeps stalling in the Senate because of unrelated issues.

Roth and other sponsors hoped to amend the measure to give the same trade preferences to Caribbean and Central American nations. Under Lott's policy, that amendment would be allowed because it is germane.
