WILL PERRYTON LOSE FINGERPRINT BUREAU

It has been reported to the Herald office during the past week that due to lack of support by the City of Perryton, the Bureau of Identification and Investigation, conducted by Officer W. J. Pottorff, will be moved from Perryton soon.

It is reported that the Commissioners Court of Ochiltree county has agreed to pay part of the expense, if maintaining this bureau providing the City of Perryton will pay the other half. Although numerous petitions have been presented to the city council and several delegations of Perryton business men have appeared before this body asking for their support, it has been denied.

The finger print bureau is not an experiment. It has proven to be very valuable since its establishment here and the fact that Perryton may lose this bureau is alarming, especially in view of the increasing number of petty and felony crimes being committed here.

WILL OBSERVE ARMISTICE DAY

AMERICAN LEGION POST TO CONDUCT BIG CELEBRATION HERE. NOVEMBER 11

The American Legion Post of Perryton is making arrangements for a proper observance of Armistice Day which will be Wednesday, November 11. The Spearman American Legion, the post of Beaver, Okla., and other neighboring posts and towns will join the Perryton post in celebrating this memorable day.

The program committee composed of G. Ward Moody, Jack Allen, W. L. McDivitt and Dutch Lorenz met with Commander Horace Lackey Monday evening of this week and a tentative program has been outlined. Revell will be sounded at 5:45 in charge of G. Ward Moody.

Raising the flag will be at 8:00 at the court house lawn. The parade will start promptly at 10:00 o'clock and it is hoped that the merchants and business men in general and the various organizations of the city and community will cooperate in the matter of staging a mammoth parade and it is thought there will be many floats to be entered by the business men. Possibly prizes will be offered for the first, second and third best decorated floats, but this will be determined later.

Armistice program will begin at the high school auditorium promptly at 10:45 o'clock and during this program from 11:00 to 11:02 will be observed in honor of those who have paid the supreme sacrifice.

Congressman Marvin Jones will be the principal speaker and a part of the program will be rendered by members from visiting posts and neighboring cities. The program will be concluded promptly at 12:00 o'clock.

Between the noon hour and the football game bombs will be fired by the firing squad of the local post, and various games for the children will be held, likely on Main street, among which will be tricycle races for children under six. Tow-sack races and possibly a fat man's race. It has been definitely decided that the women will be given an opportunity to enter these games and contests and a rolling pin throwing contest will be a feature of the program and only the women may enter. Reasonable cash prizes will be offered the winners of the various contests. If W. T. Fieson, former secretary of the Chamber of Commerce can be located, possibly a badger fight will be staged.

THERE'S THE "HIDDEN QUART" IT STAYS UP IN THE MOTOR AND NEVER DRAINS AWAY....

The first time you use Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil, a pint to a quart will cling to, penetrate and combine with metal surfaces and stay up in your motor. This "hidden quart" never drains away! Because of this, Germ Processed Oil gives you sure protection at all times that no other oil can give.

From the first fill on, you'll always have that "hidden quart" worth its weight in gold! Fill now with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil at any station displaying the Conoco Red Triangle.

Small half of all your motor wear occurs while starting. The "hidden quart" of Germ Processed Oil stays up in your motor even after your car stands idle for weeks... and gives safe lubrication while you're starting. It stays up in cylinders to form a strong piston seal, which makes starting easier and quicker. Other oils drain away, leaving parts unlubricated. The "hidden quart" has saved hundreds of motorists costly repair bills by protecting motors when thru accident crankcases were emptied miles from town.

Only Germ Processed Oil gives you the extra benefits of the "hidden quart"... for only Germ Processed Oil has penetrative lubricity, the ability to penetrate and combine with metal surfaces.

Parent-Teacher

The Perryton Parent-Teacher association met Monday evening, September 28, in the school auditorium with an attendance of one hundred and fourteen.

Mrs. D. Caldwell, the president, gave a very interesting message. In it she told of the "Standard of Excellence" required of the Parent-Teacher Association. Some of these requirements are: a membership of at least 90 per cent of the number of homes and 90 per cent of the number of teachers in school; a monthly average attendance of adults at the meetings to equal at least 40 per cent of the membership; state and national dues for each enrolled member must be sent by the local treasurer to the state treasurer; publicity plans of the state must be followed and news of the activities furnished regularly to the local papers so that the record book can be kept. This is entered in the district contest and the winner taken to the state contests and from there the first choice goes to the national meets.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Reality" was the lesson-sermon subject in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 27. James 1:17 furnished the golden text. "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning."

The lesson-sermon embraced the following verses from the Bible (Psalms 93:2-5): "Thy throne is established of old; thou art from everlasting. Thy testimonies are very sure: holiness becometh thine house, O Lord, for ever."

Included in the service were the following citations from pp. 335 and 492 of the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Reality is spiritual, harmonious, immutable, immortal, divine, eternal. Nothing unspiritual can be real, harmonious or eternal. For right reasoning there should be but one fact before the thought, namely, spiritual existence. In reality there is no other existence, since Life cannot be united to its unlikeness, mortality."

BRUNK'S COMEDIANS HERE NEXT WEEK

Miss Delpha Trussler, leading lady with Brunk's Comedians, will open a week's run here Monday in a huge new tent theatre which will be located just across the street from the city hall.

This season, Brunk's opening play is "Johnny Get Your Gun," one of the latest comedy hits, a society Western comedy that will be presented in Perryton just as it was in New York, where it played for one entire season.

While a great deal of care has been taken in selecting the best royalty plays, other features have not been forgotten. Mr. Brunk has engaged June Collier as orchestra leader and he has selected some of the best musical talent for his ten-piece orchestra who play a concert each evening at 8:00 o'clock, and many of those attending the show say the orchestra alone is worth the price of admission to the entire show.

The play, vaudeville and music will be different every night, with doors opening at 7:20 and the show starting promptly at 8:20 o'clock.

"THE BEAT" OFFERS NOVEL LOVE TRIANGLE

In keeping with the popular demand for novelty on the screen, something new in the way of film entertainment is promised with "The Beat," which opens next Monday at the Ellis Theatre, with Sally O'Neill in the title role.

Whether this picture should be classified as a romantic comedy, or a comedy drama, or a dramatic romance, is hard to say. It has plenty of action, a joyous and "different" sort of love story, bits of sheer pathos, and dozens of hilariously funny situations—a melange that makes it thoroughly enjoyable.

A penniless cinderella from the Bowery is taken to the home of a wealthy author, who is looking for a heroine for his next novel. The girl's dual romance with the writer and his younger brother, the jealousy her coming arouses in the two society girls who have already marked the author as their matrimonial prey, and the resulting complications, all keep the interest at a high pitch.

Allen Dinehart, noted Broadway stage star, who makes his screen debut in the film, enacts the role of the author and Frank Albertson that of the brother, while June Collier and Virginia Cherrill play the two society girls. William Collier Sr. is also featured while Farrell Macdonald, Mary Forbes, Albert Gran, Louise Mackintosh and Margaret Mann complete a distinguished supporting cast. John Ford directed this Fox Film version of the original stage play by Maude Pulton. In addition to his role in the picture Collier also acted as stage director.

OF COURSE YOU WANT YOUR BOY TO WIN

If any one told you that you were making it needlessly hard for your boy or your little daughter to get on in school you wouldn't believe it could be true. But are you giving your child, or your children, the good light they need for their home studying?

In many of the schools light is still poor, so it is especially important to provide good light where children's home work is done.

See that the lamps they use are of sufficient wattage to give plenty of light and that there can be no glare in their eyes, either direct or reflected.

Poor light makes concentration difficult, brings on fatigue and drowsiness quickly, is damaging to young eyes, and is often responsible for faulty posture, which is a danger to be guarded against.

Let our home lighting consultant tell you how to light your home for your children's benefit and for your own comfort. This is a free service. You have only to write or phone us to obtain it.

We shall be glad also to send you a free copy of our interesting booklet, "How to Light Your Home."

CHAPTER LI—Continued

When the attack began on the 21st it was found that the Germans had withdrawn the night before, and the Twenty-sixth moved forward with little or no opposition until it reached the new German line at l'Hermitage-Epiéds-Mont St. Pere, east of the Soissons-Chateau-Thierry highway. On the 22nd it captured Trugny and got a foothold in Epiéds, but was forced by a strong German counter-attack to retire to Bretul wood. The Fifty-second brigade was also driven back to its starting point.

The attack renewed on the 23rd was successful, one regiment reaching the Epiéds-Mont St. Pere road, but in the afternoon it was forced to retire. That night the Fifty-second brigade was replaced by the Fifty-sixth brigade. Twenty-eighth division. When the latter launched its attack the morning of the 24th, it was found that the enemy had withdrawn and he was not again encountered until the pursuers, including part of the Fifty-first brigade, Twenty-sixth division, reached Croix Rouge farm.

During its offensive action beginning with the 18th, the Twenty-sixth division had progressed nearly eleven miles and had captured 250 prisoners and four pieces of artillery. Since its occupation of the sector, July 10, it had suffered about 5,000 casualties. The division was relieved, together with the Fifty-sixth brigade, Twenty-eighth division, by the Eighty-fourth brigade, Forty-second division, which took over the sector on the 25th. The Eighty-fourth brigade, Forty-second division, replaced two French divisions, which were pinched out by the shortening of the line. On the 27th, the Forty-second occupied the entire front of the First corps, about two miles in extent.

Enemy Fights Desperately

The enemy's defeat in front of the Twentieth corps (American First and Second divisions and First Moroccan division), was the principal cause of the withdrawal of his armies, but he fought desperately from position to position and his retirement was being skillfully conducted to save men and material from capture.

In the counter-offensive of July 18 no operations were ordered for French or American troops east of Chateau-Thierry, leaving them an opportunity to readjust their lines. On the 20th, patrols from the Third division discovered that the Germans had withdrawn across the Marne the night before and the division at once advanced its line to the river. The night of July 20 the Germans further withdrew to the line Charveves-Ridge, north of Mont St. Pere, connecting with their line of resistance in front of our First corps.

July 21 the Fifth brigade crossed the Marne in pursuit, capturing Mont. St. Pere and driving machine guns out of Charveves. The Sixth brigade waited for the bridge to be completed at Metz and the morning of the 22nd one regiment crossed the river and captured Jaulgonne. The Germans were contesting every step, and while the First battalion of this regiment reached Le Charmel it was compelled to retire by successive positions to Jaulgonne.

On the 26th operations planned in co-operation with the French Thirty-ninth and the American Forty-second on its left where only partly successful. The Forty-second captured the strongly held Croix Rouge farm, but the French Thirty-ninth division could not advance. The leading battalions of the Fifth brigade entered Le Charmel, but not being able to debouch from the town they were withdrawn after dark. During the night the hard-pressed Germans retired to the Ourcq, leaving machine guns behind to delay our advance.

July 27th the French Thirty-ninth division took up the pursuit followed by the Fifty-fifth brigade, Twenty-eighth division, which relieved the French Thirty-ninth that night at Courmont. The Fifth brigade, Third division, advanced on the right to protect this movement and occupied a line running south-east from Courmont through Villardelle. During the morning of the 28th, the Fifth brigade captured Roncheres, and the Twenty-eighth division reached the Ourcq, but was unable to hold its gains north of the river. On the 29th the Third division occupied an irregular line beyond Roncheres, but neither that unit nor the Twenty-eighth division on its left was able to make material progress against the Bois des Grimettes that day.

Third Division Relieved

The Third division was relieved by the Thirty-second on the 30th and retired south of the Marne. It had taken a decisive part in stopping the last German offensive and had advanced ten miles through difficult country, stubbornly defended by the enemy. It had suffered casualties to the number of about 6,000 officers and men.

The Forty-second division, as we had seen, had come from the French Fourth army to the Marne salient and had relieved the Twenty-sixth division in the First corps. In the advance that followed it had gallantly captured Croix Rouge farm on the 26th, and on the following day had cleared the Foret de Pere, captured Villers-sur-Pere and had reached the Ourcq. July 28th the Forty-second established a line beyond the Ourcq and on the 29th the Fourth division, in support of the Forty-second division, captured Sergy, while the latter took Seringues-et-Nesles.

The enemy made a determined stand along the Ourcq river and some of the hardest fighting of the period occurred at this time. August 3, the Fourth division relieved the Forty-second. The Third corps (Bullard), with the American Twenty-eighth and Thirty-second divisions, relieved the French Thirty-eighth corps on the right of our First corps. Once established beyond the Ourcq, our two corps advanced rapidly toward the Vesle river, meeting with little opposition.

CHAPTER LII

I attended a conference of commanders in chief at General Foch's headquarters Wednesday, July 24, 1918, to discuss plans for offensive operations.

Present were General Foch, Pétain, Weygand and Buat; Field Marshal Haig and General Lawrence, and General Conner, chief of operations, Boyd and Hughes and myself.

There was pronounced good feeling and confidence. General Foch gave a resume of the general situation. He proposed no definite plan, but submitted his remarks as the basis of discussion.

The main point was that the fifth German offensive of the year had been checked and the allied counter-offensive, beginning July 18, had transformed it into defeat. It was the general opinion that every advantage should be taken of this fact and that the allies should continue their attacks with as much vigor as possible.

On Par With Enemy

General Foch said with satisfaction that we had now reached an equality in numbers of combatants and an actual superiority in reserves. As the enemy would soon be required to relieve a considerable number of tired divisions from the active front, the allies would rapidly gain further superiority through the constantly increasing number of Americans.

All information went to show that the enemy had two armies, so to speak. Foch continued, one an exhausted holding army and the other a shock army, already weakened, maneuvering behind this frail front.

Unquestionably we had material advantage in aviation and tanks, and to a smaller degree in artillery, and this would be augmented by the arrival and armament of American artillery personnel.

As to the reserve strength behind the allies it would soon be powerful indeed if the rate of 250,000 per month at which the Americans were pouring in could be maintained. One could sense an approaching crisis on the enemy's side possibly not so very remote, because of the difficulty he was having in keeping up the effective strength of his units.

Allies Now Hold Initiative

Beyond these advantages of material force in our favor there was also the moral ascendancy we had gained by our recent victories and his failures. Foch felt as we all did, that the allies now held the initiative and that from this time on they should abandon the defensive attitude that had been so long imposed upon them and continue the offensive without cessation.

He then pointed out the following offensives which it was evident would be indispensable to later operations:

The release of the railroad Paris-Avicourt in the Marne region by the French; the Paris-Amiens railroad by a concerted action of the British and French; the Paris-Avicourt railroad in the region of Commercy by the reduction of the St. Mihiel salient by the American army, which, by reduction of the front would bring us within reach of the Briey region and permit action on a larger scale between the Meuse and Moselle.

Further offensives were foreseen having in view the release of the mining sections to the north by definitely driving the enemy from the region of Dunkirk and Calais.

No one suggested that the plans of the moment or those to follow might be carried so far as to terminate the war in 1918. Concerning that part each should play Foch asked expressions of opinion of the respective commanders in chief as to how these or any other operations, we might propose should be conducted.

Marshal Haig gave his views and plans, which agreed with the general outline suggested, as did General Pétain, who wanted further to consider the possibilities. As far as these preliminary operations applied to the Americans, they were simply a restatement of the plans we had been leading up to ever since our entry into the war. I, therefore, advised that details of organization and supply were receiving every consideration in the preparation of the American army to do its part.

While at General Foch's headquarters, I arranged with General Pétain for the expansion of the First corps, then operating in the Marne sector, by which four American divisions were to be placed in the line with two in reserve. It was my hope that this would be the basis for the preliminary formation of an American army on this front. En route to Chaumont I stopped to call on Liggett and apprise him of the possibility of additional American divisions for his corps.

Expedition to Russia

The supreme war council was prone to listen to suggestions for the use of allied troops at various places other than the western front. One of these, on which the British seemed to be especially insistent, was to send troops to help the so-called white army in Russia to keep open the communication through Murmansk in the Archangel.

I was opposed to any such idea as it would simply mean scattering our resources, all of which were needed on the western front. But President Wilson was prevailed upon to help and I was directed to send a regiment provided General Foch had no objections. As apparently he had already considered the question, he gave his approval and a regiment was accordingly sent. The Three Hundred and Thirty-ninth infantry, Lieut. Col. George E. Stewart commanding, together with one battalion of engineers and one field hospital, were designated for the service.

In view of the prospect for the early assembly of corps and divisions to form our army, it became urgent that the organization be hastened with all possible speed. The outlines had been determined and members of the First army staff were at work on the details.

My formal order creating the First field army was issued July 24, to take effect August 10, with headquarters at La Ferte-sous-Jouarre. Immediate consideration was given the improvement of the general supply system. Although the recent reorganization had helped it had been my purpose for some time to make changes in personnel in the S. O. S., particularly in the position of chief, which demanded great administrative ability. After much thought the choice fell to General Harbord.

In the next installment General Pershing tells of an inspection tour.

DIRECTORS SEE WIDE VARIETY MARX HUMOR

The Four Marx Brothers do not miss a trick when it comes to providing comedy on the screen. In fact, Director Norman McLeod, who bossed their most recent and most frolicsome opus, "Monkey Business," coming to the Ellis Theatre for two days beginning on Friday, sees in their efforts on the screen every known comedy method, ranging from slapstick to subtle satire.

McLeod can be called the perfect analyst of comedy methods. He began by drawing the comical line cartoons for Christie comedies several years ago. Then he became a title writer and subsequently a gag man, scenarist, and director.

"Through a careful choice of characterization for themselves, the Marx Brothers have combined all modes of comedy within their own entertainment," says McLeod.

"Groucho uses smart wise-cracks. Chico attends to the dialect comedy. Harpo handles pantomime and Zeppo plays straight to the three with situations as his forte. There you have the main methods of securing laughs.

"Groucho, with his heavy moustache and his long cigar is the wise fellow. His dialogue is carefully combed so that practically every speech is a laugh line, ranging from smart chatter of the sophisticated type to puns. He also makes use of what seems idle and incoherent chatter which many leading comedians employ altogether. He also upholds the satire in the picture's humor—including take-offs.

"Chico plays the dumb fellow who doesn't understand and gets things mixed. His comedy lines contain many puns. He never speaks out of dialect.

"Harpo is one of the world's greatest pantomimists, the earliest and longest-lived form of comedy. His art is purely slap-stick.

"Laugh situations have always been the backbone of screen comedies. The four boys combine forces for this.

"Zeppo, as is the case with most straight men, is often overlooked when one weighs the comedy of a production. However, the foil is always important and being one for three comedians is no easy task."

L. A. Estes, father of Mrs. T. D. Moss, had charge of the services at the Christian church Sunday morning and evening.

BROOMCORN MARKET REVIEW

High quality broom-

corn dry weather, in-

from 60 per cent to 80 per cent of the crop has been harvested and baling is expected to be general the coming week. In Illinois fully 90 per cent of the crop is reported on the shelves, but probably not over 20 per cent of the crop in southern sections has been baled to date with a lesser percentage in the northern sections.

The dry, hot weather, while cutting production in many sections and lowering the quality as regards growth has been advantageous in sections where crops have matured. In most districts, therefore, baling has progressed under favorable conditions and corn is being prepared in dry, merchantable condition with a minimum of stain, mold, rick burn, etc.

Shipments from the Lindsay district showed a decline from the week previous out storage stocks increased. The bulk of the corn already has been moved, the combined storage and shipments from the district about 400 carloads. Trade estimates on remaining stocks vary between 100 and 200 carloads. In the west central Oklahoma sections, shipments for the week totaled about 100 carloads with about 10 cars in temporary storage awaiting shipments. Shipments out of Liberal, Kansas, consisted of both old and new crop broomcorn amounting to about 8 carloads.

Terminal markets continued quiet with dealers operating largely from the field direct. Receipts for the second week in September were 30 carloads, and shipments 8 cars. For the previous week 21 cars were received and 20 shipped. A year ago the inbound movement was 25 cars and outbound 6. Receipts consisted of both dwarf and standard brush and included truckings from Oklahoma and Colorado.

Prices at Lindsay were generally unchanged with an extreme range from $50.00 to $117.50 per ton. Considerable corn sold between $80.00 and $100.00, ranging from good to choice but the bulk of sales were medium grade from $70.00 to $85.00 per ton. West Central Oklahoma markets sold dwarf up to $85.00 the bulk of sales ranging between $55.00 and $65.00 per ton and up to $65.00 to $70.00 for good with choice higher. Common corn sold around $45.00 to $55.00 per ton. Texas markets ranged from $40.00 to $80.00 with medium grade around $50.00 per ton. Illinois quotations ruled from $95.00 to $110.00 per ton for choice. Good was quoted at $80.00 to $90.00; medium $70.00 to $80.00 and common $60.00 to $70.00 per ton and bulk of sales around $85.00 per ton. Wichita prices were based on field quotations and ranged from $50.00 to $120.00 per ton with bulk of sales $80.00 to $100.00 per ton with choice corn scarce and a shade higher.

Howard Holt, W. B. LaMaster, C. W. Callaway and J. H. Stansberry were in Pringle Monday attending to business.

WILL SHE VISIT YOUR STORE?

MRS. HOUSEWIFE has many interests competing for her attention. She can devote only a small part of her day to shopping. Obviously she cannot visit ALL the stores in an effort to shop to her best advantage.

Therefore she selects those stores which have given her advance information through the advertising columns of her newspaper. She has learned that it is always more efficient, and usually more economical, to do the greater part of her shopping right at home with her copy of the Herald.

It is not enough for you to give better values or service in your store. You must let Mrs. Housewife know about them. It is not enough to employ good salesmen. You must do your preliminary selling in Mrs. Housewife's own living room. The wise, modern shopper reads the Herald for guidance. Is your message there?
