Federal Reserve Banks Reduce Rediscount Rates To Increase Business Funds

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

President Bridwell of the chamber of commerce urges Wichitans to attend the district meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce here Monday morning. These district meetings are being held under the new plan of organization of the West Texas body which is now getting under way throughout the section.

There is a belief that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce can be made to serve the needs of its section better than it has ever done in the past and the representatives who will gather here Monday will come together with this serious purpose in view. Wichita Falls is one of the largest cities in West Texas. The president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is a Wichita Falls man. Wichitans ought to give the organization to best the support they can and it will show an encouraging interest if a large number of Wichitans attend the district meeting at the Wichita club Monday morning.

Young Democrat clubs are being organized throughout the state of Oklahoma. Without knowing much about these clubs Talker would say that the enlistment of the interest of young men in political affairs is a good thing. Young men and young women are more likely to see political needs and opportunities in the light of the present and future than are those of the older generation who look too much into the past.

The successful institutions these days are those which make an appeal to youth. This applies to political parties as well as business institutions. If the young men and young women of Texas would become more actively interested in politics we would have less attention paid to differences of the past and more to the problems of the present and the future. Talker would like to see some move in Texas for the more active interest of young people in party affairs, both in the Democratic party and in the Republican party.

It seems to Talker that here in Texas we leave party affairs too much to the control of a few and that there is not enough interest on the part of the rank and file. Of course, none but the rank and file are to blame for this condition of affairs for only a few voters attend the precinct conventions which are the starting point of the party organizations.

A city election is to be held in Wichita Falls next month and so far no candidates have announced for councilmen or mayor. There is street talk of an anti-city manager ticket being placed in the field. This will not be a bad thing for it will call into review as could hardly be done so well in any other manner the accomplishments or the lack of accomplishment of Wichita Falls under the city manager form of government.

If the city manager plan has been a good thing it can easily be defended. If the results have not been good, then it is all right to talk about a change and to make it if the voters can be convinced they have made a mistake. Open and frank discussion never hurt any good cause.

Organizations of independent merchants are being formed over the state and a state-wide meeting is to be held in Dallas next week to plan a fight against the chain stores. Political action in the form of taxes and restrictive laws are said to be planned against the chains.

The last eight or 10 years have brought a mighty development of mergers, combinations and chains of almost everything from banks to fruit stands. They have brought almost a revolution in commerce and industry and they are affecting society in other aspects. The present movement is a stirring of those who feel that their business is endangered by the chains. It was inevitable that the development of the chains would bring opposition. We are likely to hear a lot more about it and them.

This is the day of the school bond election in the Wichita Falls independent school district. The proposal is for a bond issue of $100,000 be used mostly in providing room for the beginners' classes of 6-year-old children. Setting the enrollment age at six years instead of seven as formerly will add hundreds of pupils to the enrollment in the Wichita Falls schools.

This is a matter that ought to be of especial interest to parents having children who will start to school next fall, although it ought to be of interest to everybody. If such parents would vote for the bond issue it would have a larger affirmative vote than the total vote in most of Wichita Falls school bond elections.

Voting boxes will be open at the Reagan junior high school and at the old city hall at the corner of Ninth and Ohio.

For a number of years there has been talk of the desirability of a tariff on imports of crude oil. Movements have been started to obtain such a tariff but they never got very far because of the differences of opinion among the large body of independent producers. The present plight of the industry on account of overproduction has brought independent operators together, probably as they have never been united before, to demand whatever protection a tariff can give them. They are going after a tariff in a manner that ought to bring results.

TEXAS BRANCH SETS RATE AT FOUR AND HALF

Policy of Unified Lower Scale Calculated To Quicken Trade

'WARNING' YEAR AGO

Restriction of Funds Going Into Speculation Began Feb. 7, 1929

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. (US)—The national movement toward lower money rates, intended to stimulate the quickening of business already evident in many directions, was set in full swing toda with rediscount rate reductions by four federal reserve banks in the interior.

This evidence of determined and unified low rate policy came just a year to the day after the famous federal reserve board "warning" that marked inauguration of the final effort to restrict the flow of funds into speculation.

The board approved these reductions:

Chicago, from four and a half per cent to four per cent.

Cleveland, Dallas and Minneapolis, from 5 per cent to 4½ per cent.

Only one bank—St. Louis—was left on the 5 per cent level. Chicago's drop to 4 per cent following New York's reduction to that figure yesterday, appeared to foreshadow 4 per cent rates, ultimately, for the system generally.

Four per cent is expected to be the minimum for any of the banks, it was understood in reserve quarters, as danger is seen in any extreme artificial easing of money. The movement toward that level, is generally regarded as sound policy.

COTTON TOUCHES SEASON'S "LOW"

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. (AP)—Near demoralization reigned on the New York cotton exchange today as the first price of cotton futures tumbled $3 to $3.50 a bale, sinking to the lowest levels of the season. Since mid-January when the present depression period began, cotton has declined about $12 a bale.

There were no bearish developments to account for the selling. The prevailing impression was that the market was feeling the effects of factors which had been apparent since last fall, but which had not dislodged any great quantities of cotton, as holders evidently felt that the market would be sustained by federal aid agencies.

Recent developments, however, apparently had completely undermined confidence and cotton came out in large volume. The demand from spinners was less active, indicating they had sufficient supplies for some time.

Texas Banker Believed Accidentally Killed

TEXARKANA, Texas, Feb. 7. (AP)—Believed fatally shot when a shotgun discharged as he crawled through a fence last night, Will Eubanks, 40, assistant cashier of the First National bank of New Boston, 20 miles west of here, was found dead in the yard of his home today. His body was found by his son and two negroes following a search that lasted the entire night.

Britain Ready to Match U.S. In Cutting Down on Sea Forces

LONDON, Feb. 7. (AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald of England today laid his cards on the London naval conference table beside the spectacular hand that Secretary Stimson of the United States delegation uncovered last night.

Their similarity shows that Great Britain and the United States, the world's greatest naval powers, are in closer accord on the age-old question of sea armaments than ever before.

MacDonald's full statement, with facts and figures on Great Britain's policy at the London conference, backed by full authority of the dominion delegation and approved by the British cabinet, was as unexpected as Stimson's.

It definitely proposes the abolition of the submarine; a battleship holiday until 1936, with the ultimate hope that battleships may be ruled off the seas like submarines; tonnage limitation for small cruisers; combination global and category limitation to maintain equilibrium between the fleets of the various nations, also further limitation of tonnage and gun caliber for aircraft tons to 100,000 tons, with the maximum size of these ships reduced to 25,000 tons each.

The proposals regarding aircraft carriers provide the only clash of British and American policy except for minor matters which spokesmen say can be easily adjusted.

Telegram Endorsing Oil Tariff Plan Bears Signatures of 130 Wichitans

Day's Developments Indicate Entire Mid-Continent in Sympathy With Duty on Foreign Importations

Developments in the fight for an import duty on crude oil and refined products came in rapid succession Friday.

The finance committee of the house of representatives will hear the plea of a delegation of Mid-Continent operators Saturday and southwestern senators are making efforts to relieve the oil situation by action of the upper house.

Signed by approximately 130 Wichita Falls companies and operators, a telegram was dispatched Friday to Wirt Franklin at Washington, endorsing the efforts to obtain a tariff. Mr. Franklin heads the Mid-Continent delegation in Washington.

Small Wells Lose

The telegram sent from here pointed out that owners of small pumping wells are operating at actual losses. Sentiment favorable to the "refining in bond clause" was expressed. This clause would allow free entry of foreign crude which is to be refined at American ports strictly for the foreign markets.

Guinn Williams, representative in congress from this district, Friday assured Texas oil men of his assistance in solving their problems. Mr. Williams wired W. M. McGregor, president of the First National bank, who had joined with Dudley S. Golding, Walter D. Cline and W. C. Cole in asking the representative to support the oil tariff.

Indicative of the widespread pressure being brought to bear upon national lawmakers for favorable and immediate action on the tariff plea, State Senator Clint Small of Wellington Friday introduced a resolution at Austin memorializing

CALIFORNIA ACTS

LONG BEACH, Calif., Feb. 7. (UP) — State-wide curtailment of oil production was approved here today by Signal Hill operators who appointed a committee to make a survey and apportion ratios.

All but 15 operators in this field were represented at the meeting.

Eastland Prisoner Faces Trial at San Marcos

It is alleged that Newton was a member of a gang that invaded San Marcos, held citizens at bay with guns and rifled the bank of $24,000 cash and $18,000 in government bonds. Newton was one of seven indicted by the county grand jury. Two of his brothers were included.

SCHOOL BOND VOTE TODAY

$100,000 Issue to Provide For New Pupils

A school bond election on a $100,000 issue to provide adequate facilities for approximately 1,000 children who will be added to public school rolls next September due to the new law admitting 6-year-olds will be held in Wichita Falls Saturday. The election was ordered by the board of education a month ago after several citizens had petitioned for one.

The polls will be at the old city hall, Ninth and Ohio, and at the Reagan Junior High school, Eleventh and Broad, according to W. W. Brown, secretary of the board. Voting will begin at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. School officials said Friday a light vote was expected.

The bond issue will have no effect on the present tax rate or valuation of property due to its small size, present financial arrangements being adequate to care for the bonds, it was said. The present inadequate facilities for children in public schools and the added handicap of admitting 6-year-olds were stressed in pointing out the necessity of carrying the election.

W. A. Reid, Robert Dunaway and James Bachman will be in charge of the polls at the city hall, and J. M. Baber, L. P. Webb and Miss Carrie Simmons in charge at the Reagan school.

SAN ANTONIO INVESTMENT HOUSE CLOSES

CREDITORS UNPAID

J. E. Jarratt Company Assets Described As Frozen in Petition

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 7. (AP)—J. E. Jarratt company of San Antonio, one of the largest investment banking houses in the Southwest, capitalized at $1,250,000, today was placed in the hands of a receiver by United States Judge Duval West on the application of one of the concern's officers.

R. J. McMillan was appointed receiver by the federal court which fixed his bond at $50,000.

Assets Frozen

Inability of the firm to liquidate so-called frozen assets prompted the legal action to protect the interests of creditors and stockholders alike, according to the petition itself and formal statements of John E. Jarratt, president, and Warwick F. Field, one of the vice presidents.

The petition did not reveal the amount involved beyond the capitalization but at the San Antonio offices of the concern it was stated that a condensed financial statement would be given the press just as soon as completed.

With headquarters here, the concern maintained branches in Fort Worth, Dallas and Houston, in Texas, and also in New York City, where Warwick F. Field, the petitioning vice president, is in charge.

Heavily Involved

The petition, filed in the name of Field, recites in part that "The defendant corporation has become heavily involved and many of its assets are what are known as frozen assets" while "many thousands" of dollars of notes and accounts are past due with creditors threatening to bring suit.

The petition further recites that the credit of the concern has been impaired as a result of "the unusual financial crisis existing throughout the United States as a result of what is commonly called and designated the crash of the stock market."

According to the allegations set forth in the petition, one of the largest national banks here, which has been accustomed to extending a large line of credit to the defendant corporation, began to call the loans of the investment house after the crash in stocks and this in turn, prompted other banks to curtail lines of credit previously enjoyed by the firm.

Wichitan Heads Omaha, Neb., Hotel In Deal for $2,000,000 Hostelry

Joseph Huckins III, manager of the Kemp hotel since 1923, has moved with his family to Omaha, Neb., to assume management of the Paxton hotel, 420-room hostelry built in 1929, which has just been purchased by Mr. Huckins and his father, Joseph Huckins Jr., of Oklahoma City, it was announced Friday.

Addition of the new hotel at Omaha, which was constructed at a reported cost of more than $2,000,000, will add to the Huckins string of hotels one of the outstanding houses in Nebraska and the Middle West. It is an 11-story edifice, modern in the latest sense, and stands on the site formerly occupied by the old Paxton hotel, an historic landmark in the Missouri valley. It was purchased from the Kitchen Brothers' Hotel company at an unnamed figure.

Development of the Huckins hotel system, which already included 10 large hotels in the South and West, dates back to a beginning in 1883, when the Huckins house, a 150-room establishment, was built at Texarkana, Ark. It has spread gradually to include the Kemp, in this city, 225 rooms; the Huckins at Oklahoma City, 450 rooms; the Sir Francis Drake, San Francisco, 500 rooms; the Westbrook, Fort Worth, 300 rooms; the Manning-Huckins and Marion at

NONSTOP JURY SHOWS STRAIN

Brady Peers Seem Tired And Disheveled

COURTROOM, Austin, Feb. 7. (AP)—A verdict in the John W. Brady murder trial was only a far-away possibility late today. The jury still was in disagreement—after having been out more than 70 hours.

If there was any deliberation of consequence all day, it escaped notice of watchers who frequently went across the street to peer up into the jury room. Each time, four or five jurors were standing at the windows, dishevelled and tired and idly looking about.

Only Judge J. D. Moore seemed to have any hope that the jury would decide whether Brady, 10 years ago a middle-aged justice of the third court of civil appeals, was sane when he fatally stabbed Miss Lehlia Higsmith, 28, with whom he had been going about for years.

Judge Moore allowed it to become known that he had no intention of discharging the jury soon, and that he did not plan to ask any questions of it for a long time yet.

DALLAS, Feb. 7. (AP)—W. Gregory Hatcher, state treasurer, in Dallas today, demanded that a "thorough investigation" be made immediately of his office. He asked the investigation when shown reports from Austin in which he was charged with "general inefficiency and incompetency."

AUSTIN, Feb. 7. (AP)—A special report of Moore Lynn, state auditor, sent to the legislature today by Governor Moody, in which charges of irregularities in the comptroller's department were charged, stirred the special session of the legislature to consider an investigation.

When the house adjourned for want of a quorum there was pending a resolution by Representative Alfred Petsch of Fredericksburg calling for the appointment of a special committee of four members of the house and three senators to investigate what Petsch's document claimed were "serious charges of official misconduct against certain officers."

The resolution named 13 charges of "specific violations of the law" against the comptroller and 11 complaints of "general inefficiency and incompetency," against the treasurer.

Money Unaccounted For

Lynn, appearing before the senate on invitation of that body, admitted, when questioned by senators, that his report alleged that approximately $60,000 of state funds handled by the comptroller's department had not been satisfactorily accounted for.

Senator Archie Parr of Benavides said:

"Mr. Lynn, I want to know if it is true, as rumored around here, that a state department is $60,000 short?" Senator Parr asked.

"This special report I have given congress to put a protective duty on crude. The resolution was referred to the federal relations committee of the senate.

Previous reports said Gov. Dan Moody had telegraphed President Hoover asking him to take some action toward reviving the oil market.

A wire from Enid, Okla., told of endorsement of the tariff plan by the chamber of commerce there. The Enid group also recommended that W. G. Skelly, Tulsa independent, be designated a member of the United States Chamber of Commerce from the southwest oil territory.

Text of the telegram sent Mr. Franklin by Wichita Falls operators follows:

"We are the owners and operators of small pumping wells in this area and at present prices are operating at an actual loss. We heartily endorse your efforts to obtain a tariff on oil and refined products, it being our idea that the refining in bond clause is desirable. A tariff should so regulate importation of cheap foreign oil that abandonment of small producing properties in this country can be avoided."

Oklahoma Roads In Bad Condition

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 7. (UP)—Highway 66 west from El Reno and highway 41 to the western part of the state both are impassable, it was announced today at the highway department.

Traffic to the west is being detoured over highway 81 to Lawton and west on highway 70.

Traffic to McAlester and points east should take highway 18 from Shawnee to Stratford then highway 19 to Ada, 12 to Calvin and highway 3 into McAlester.

No. 3 is closed between Holdenville and Calvin. No. 73 is closed between Crowder and Canadian. Large forces of men are at work on these two highways and they are expected to be open to traffic by noon Saturday.

No. 73 is closed between Atoka and the Pittsburg county line and No. 70 between Boswell and Soper, and probably will be closed for several days.

All other roads are in fair condition, highway officials said.

Lima Bean Urged as Second 'Money Crop' for Fertile Wichita Valley

Kemp Tells Junior C. C. of Possibility of Heavy Production Here, and of Good Market for Heavy Yields

Belief that the Wichita valley can be made one of the richest agricultural districts in the United States through intensive cultivation for production of the lima bean, and that definite plans for wide experimentation with its growth in this area in 1930 should be formulated at once, was expressed by J. A. Kemp in a talk before members of the Junior chamber of commerce at the membership luncheon held at the Kemp hotel Friday noon.

Describing his observance of methods used in California for production of lima beans in commercial quantities, Mr. Kemp added that he had a quantity of the seed sent here last year for testing. A small area in the Weeks small-farms community was planted with this seed, he said, and while it was planted too late to permit maturity of the maximum crop, the experiment offered ample proof that the lima bean will grow rapidly and with heavy fruition in the soil to be found here.

Advantage Here

"We have a strategic advantage for the development of this commodity in the Wichita valley," continued Mr. Kemp. "California is the only state in the union which is able to raise the lima bean in commercial quantities. There are perhaps 100,000 acres in the San Fernando valley devoted to its culture. Texas soil and climate is admirably adapted to its growth, and while California can not plant until in the month of May, we can put our seed in the ground here at least 30 days earlier than that. Last year's experiments demonstrated that lima beans will mature quickly here. For that reason, we can put our crop on the market ahead of that coming from the only other section in the country devoted to this product.

"Wholesalers of food products declare that the demand for lima beans is practically unlimited, and that during the past year they were unable by a large margin to supply the quantities desired. The lima bean is said to be the most popular of the many varieties, but it can not be grown in the north because of short seasons. It is quite probable that in this community we can harvest two crops annually, marketing the first in July, and the second in October. California's crop goes on the market normally in September.

Seed to Be Provided

"Aside from the growth of cotton, I believe that the lima bean should constitute our main crop in this area, and that we should take steps at once to develop it throughout the valley."

Members of the Junior chamber of commerce were urged by Mr. Kemp to interest themselves in that organization's active promotion of the proposed agricultural venture. Plans have been made, Mr. Kemp said, to procure seed for the use of farmers in this section, and to provide for the planting of large acreage on as many farms as possible with lima beans during the coming spring.

William McKemie Jr., F. L. Randel, Pat Hardage, Judge A. D. Montgomery, Cecil Putty and P. R. Freeman were elected Friday as alternate directors of the Junior chamber of commerce. They will be eligible to act as directors in the absence of any of the regular members.

A. L. Hecht and Roy E. Carter were announced as leading candidates for the suit of clothes offered in the membership drive which was conducted during the past month. Each secured 100 memberships. Adjudication of the matter was referred to the board of directors. According to Paul Hines, chairman of the drive, the organization has 293 members for 1930, with the probability of receiving several more soon.

Progress of the canvass being made of the city by the Junior chamber of commerce in the interest of the proposed open forum was reported by Overton Abernathy, chairman of the committee to which the canvass was assigned. Evidence of public interest in providing the season of lectures, which will be open to the entire citizenship of this section, was shown in the forum of tentative pledges for more than $600. Presentation of the matter to members of all civic organizations will be continued during the coming week, Mr. Abernathy said.

Demonstration Farm

The demonstration farm now being established near Lake Wichita will be known as the Wichita Falls Junior chamber of commerce demonstration farm, according to J. L. Randel, chairman of the agricultural committee.

Walter Nelson Jr., expressed the belief that the campaign staged during the closing days of January by the Junior chamber of commerce for payment of poll taxes had materially increased the enrollment in the county. Only 4,000 persons had paid the tax on Jan. 23, Mr. Nelson said, while the total number reported as having paid by Jan. 31 was 15,400.

Reporting his attendance at the Texas Association of Junior chambers of commerce convention held at San Antonio last week, Mr. Nelson said that a junior chamber of commerce conference will be held at Waco on May 3.

Plans of the luncheon reception committee for the year were discussed briefly by Judge Irvin J. Vogel, chairman. Rev. H. T. Wood, new pastor of the First Christian church, and Dudley B. Foy, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce, were introduced to the membership. Musical entertainment during the luncheon was furnished by Frank Byrd's Bluebird orchestra.

C.-C. TO PUSH MARKET PLAN

Surface Moisture Delays Truck Planting

Efforts to establish marketing facilities for vegetable produce grown in this community will be resumed at an early date, according to members of the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce. Work will be based upon information compiled through a three-months' study of the situation last spring, and every possibility exhausted for the establishment of a market which will offer profitable outlet for homegrown produce in quantity, it was said.

Purchase of seed for spring planting of both truck and farm crops, which is usually well under way at this season, is only beginning now, according to seed dealers in the city. Complete cessation of all activity on the farm as a result of January's frigid weather, and the consequent continued surplus of surface moisture, has precluded the possibility of beginning work toward crop production, it was said.

So far as could be learned, most of the growers who have raised large crops of vegetables in this section during the past few years will be in the field again this spring. One of the largest producers, Solon R. Downing, has turned his attention to dairying however, and will raise no vegetable produce for commercial purposes.

It is expected that mulch paper farming, and other methods of forcing growth, will be used much more commonly in the Wichita Falls area in 1930 than it was during the past year. Numerous growers used mulch on their gardens in 1929, and reported material improvement in quantity and quality of production, as well as the elimination of much cultivation before crops matured.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. (AP)—There was a renewal of general heavy selling and a break of approximately $3.00 per bale in cotton today with all months making new low records for the season. May contracts sold off from 16.00 to 15.34 or 57 points below the closing quotation of yesterday and closed at 15.35 with the general market closing weak at net declines of 39 to 57 points.

The opening was barely steady at an advance of 9 points to a decline of 1 point with present crop positions relatively steady on the somewhat steady showing of the foreign markets. There was considerable price fixing for the trade as well as covering but the initial demand was readily supplied and after selling up to 15.74 for March, and 16.37 for October on the initial buying, prices soon turned easier.

The lowest prices were reached in the late trading when March sold at 15.05 and October at 15.79 making net declines of 43 to 60 points.

Closing quotations were a point or two up from the lowest on covering.

The selling seemed to come from practically all directions and there was talk of freer spot offerings, which, however, were not definitely confirmed. The decline was again attributed chiefly to a loss of confidence among holders owing to reports of a continued poor trade demand, recently reduced estimates of world's consumption, and the failure of the lower prices to bring in more aggressive support.

Liverpool reported covering with Manchester and continental buying in that market. The Bombay market was unchanged and Egyptian cotton in Liverpool was reported steadier, although, Alexandria was lower. Manchester spinners of American cotton are reported to be voting on a proposition to reduce working hours to 35 hours per week, for eight weeks from March 3.

Exports today 20,623, making 5,106,310 so far this season. Port receipts 12,615. U. S. port stocks 2,339,769.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7. (AP)—Cotton broke into new low ground for the season today when active positions sold off $2.50 a bale below yesterday's close under extensive liquidation and short selling induced by fears of an increase in acreage. No other influence appeared behind the rather drastic decline which carried March contracts below the 15-cent line to the lowest prices reached in several years. The option sold to 14.85, or 362 points below the high point reached last September. May traded off from 15.79 to 15.08, and closed at 15.15, or 58 points down. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 50 to 55 points.

Liverpool cables were relatively steady and the market here opened higher in sympathy. First trades showed gains of 7 to 9 points but the market turned easier after the start under renewed liquidation and by the end of the first hour active months showed declines of 14 to 18 points from yesterday's close.

The market was on the downgrade under continued liquidation and short selling. Before offerings were absorbed all months had traded into new low ground for the season. March traded off to 14.87 and July 15.31, or 63 to 71 points down from the early highs. The market rallied a few points at the end and last prices showed net losses of from $2.50 to $2.75 a bale.

Receipts 20,206; for week 102,203; for year 7,519,078, last year 8,168,178. Exports 417,476; last year 2,213,854. Stock on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 120,730; last year 124,857. Spot sales 9,113; last year 14,147.

Canadian Pacific's Spectacular Gain Features Stocks in Day of Decline

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. (US)—Skyrocketing advance of Canadian Pacific 17⅝ points featured an irregular stock market, today, in which professional selling offset the favorable influence of reduction in rediscount rates. Chicago followed the New York example as expected and other districts are expected to lower their rates in the near future. Steel finished a point lower as a result of continued pressure while Gillette recovered 3 points. Can gained 2⅝, General Electric lost 2⅝, Union Carbide dropped 1, Paramount declined 2½, and Foreign Power lost 1¼. Railroads held in good style with Central gaining a point and Baltimore & Ohio advancing 1½. Anaconda recovered fractionally while other Coppers ruled strong. Oils remained unsteady. The call rate was held at 4 per cent throughout with somewhat lesser amount of funds available. Turnover dropped below the 3,500,000 share level.

Even if the rediscount rate cut was not fully discounted bearish professionals made it appear so. In so far as future developments are concerned the stock market has not discounted the lower rate. Every indication warrants belief that the main influence to the rate fluctuations is international rather than domestic. If that were correct then some day, in the distant future, there will be witnessed bigger and broader markets on the stock exchange than ever before in history. In the meantime the main influence of the lower rate should be witnessed in the bond market. That is being built up in very impressive style so that by late spring or early summer at the latest it should be in shape to absorb any kind of a foreign issue that may be offered.

Wires from Florida continued to exude the bearish sentiments of the professionals hibernating there. Thus far the much touted "bearish opinion" of the "economist" has not come up but there was further reports of it being issued over the week-end. It is doubted it will have as much influence as the opinions did when powerful interests were ducking out of stocks in October. The selling of Gillette was somewhat offset by the official statement from the company expressing confidence that the new razor and blade it will introduce will strengthen its position in the industry.

There was further quiet picking up of tobacco shares. Indications are that advance of the price of cigarets may be announced by important companies in the near future. Railroads continued to be boosted with Western Maryland joining Alleghany and a few others in the group that evidenced pool operations. United Corporation and Electric Bond & Share remained the subjects of most favorable talk in the utility group. Pool work continues in General American Tank but the interested group apparently is having difficulty in getting their pet started. Oils remained the subject of disturbing advices but some buying in Skelly resulted from report that annual statement, to be issued next week, will show net of approximately $5.25 a share.

That powerful interests still have considerable bullish ammunition they can use from time to time to offset disturbing tendencies was indicated by the action of Canadian Pacific. Buying was influenced by report of splitup was offering of rights to stockholders within a week or so. General report was the stock would be split on a four for one basis although one rumor mentioned a two for one exchange. American Can was mentioned as likely to benefit from recapitalization plans as the management was said to be discussing a split up. The most important recapitalization of all, that of U. S. Steel, is not expected for several months at least.

Sterling and other currencies reflected the lowering of rediscount rates by easing off under quiet offerings. The peseta again dropped heavily due to disturbing political advices. Cotton remained somewhat irregular although better support was evidenced. Professional covering for the week-end caused recovery in wheat and other grains.

TEXAS CASH PRICES

FORT WORTH, Feb. 7. (AP)—Exporters reduced their bids slightly today while milling wheat was stronger on the cash grain market. Other grains showed little change. Wheat and barley were slow, but fair demand reported for corn, oats and sorghums.

Exporters bid $1.21@1.22 for ordinary export wheat delivered Texas gulf ports.

Other bids and offers, basis carloads delivered, freight paid, to Texas common points:

Wheat—No. 1 ordinary hard milling $1.23¾@1.24½; No. 1 hard 13 per cent protein $1.24¾@1.25½; 14 per cent $1.28¾@1.29½.

Oats—Unchanged.

Barley—Unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 7. (AP)—Wheat prices came tumbling down today. Buying support gave out after previous speculative sellers engaged in a stampede to get away from new risks arising because of federal farm board moves to establish a wheat stabilization body with emergency power to incur losses payable from government funds. Contribution to late reactions today from wheat price upturns, was notable dearth of North American wheat export business as well as severe breaks in wheat values at Buenos Aires.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅛c higher. Corn closed unchanged to ⅛c up; oats ⅛ to ¼@⅜c advance, and provisions showing 10 to 12 cents again.

Export business in North American wheat today totaled hardly 200,000 bushels, and most of this pittance was from Canada.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. Country offerings of corn were light, and eastern demand fair.

Provisions advanced in response to upturns in the value of hogs.

300 AT OLNEY C.-C. BANQUET

Josh Lee Main Speaker At Annual Dinner

Mrs. Frank Hutchison, Miss Ruth Hutchison, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Bell, Mrs. C. A. Montgomery and Miss Mary Potts.

The principal address given by Mr. Lee was preceded by vocal solos given by Mrs. S. M. J. Benson Jr., accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Merle Gruver.

New Directors

New directors for the chamber of commerce in 1930 were announced as follows: S. J. Marcell, A. T. Anderson, Charles S. Richardson, J. V. St. Clair and Dr. Fred Harrell.

At each place at the banquet tables were placed printed reports of the activities and accomplishments of the chamber of commerce during 1929, compiled and prepared by Merle Gruver, general manager of the Olney chamber.

Among the outstanding works of the chamber reported by Mr. Gruver were those in the field of actual progress and benefit secured for the city through the efforts of its officers and members. A new telephone system was sponsored by the chamber and assistance was given in obtaining a water rate reduction and the establishment of a better water supply for Olney, the report showed. The chamber has also worked toward obtaining a milk ordinance for the city.

Many Activities

In the field of agriculture, the chamber took the lead with the organization of a Long Staple Cotton Growers' association and notable developments in the dairying and poultry raising industries. Encouragement was given throughout the year toward industrial development, concentrating mainly in deep oil exploration. Efforts were made and will be continued in 1930 toward securing a creamery and an airport for Olney, according to the report.

Other work during the past year included improved tourist service, assistance in conventions and in the county fair and in the building and maintenance of highways in the city and county.

Special attention was called to the importance of the deep oil development program under consideration by the chamber and at each place was put a printed outline of the proposed activities in this field in the Olney district.

Jury Fails to Act In Charges Against Boy

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Feb. 7. (UP)—The puzzle of what to do about Jimmy Ashton, the 11-year-old boy who killed Margaret Pennington, 14, as she sat at the dinner table, still confronted local authorities tonight after a coroner's jury failed to recommend specific action. The jury merely found that the girl came to her death by a gunshot wound suffered as she and her parents were eating the evening meal at their home in Santa Margarita.

'Death Valley Scotty' Bursts Myth Of His Fabulous Mine in Desert

'Thar Ain't No Gold in Them Thar Hills,' Famous Prospector Says in 'Confession'

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7. (AP)—The mysterious desert "gold mine" of fabulous wealth which western legend for years has credited to the ownership of "Death Valley Scotty," picturesque survivor of the bonanza days, floated off into the land of burst bubbles today as the result of a "confeession" by Scotty himself.

At the same time Scotty admitted that the recent report that he had lost $6,000,000 in the stock market didn't have as much solid reality about it as some people thought, although he did say that he was broke, washed up and cleaned out as the result of security speculation.

For 40 years Scotty, whose real name is Walter Scott, has lived the life of an uncrowned king in the barren Southern California desert. The story that he had a hidden gold mine in the desert gained wide credence from the spectacular fashion in which he made excursions into the outer world, spending money lavishly.

This fictitious cloud of wealth he dissipated here with the simple statement that "thar ain't no gold mine; thar never was."

At the same time he asserted his source of money had been A. M. Johnson, millionaire insurance man from Chicago, and that he was, in truth, Death Valley's press agent par excellence.

He took occasion to laugh at jealous miners who sought to track him across western waste lands in the hope of locating his fabulous gold mine.

The Chicago millionaire owns a large amount of property in Death Valley. A million dollar mansion being built in the desert and heralded as belonging to Scotty in reality is owned by Johnson, the prospector said.

CHICAGO "ANGEL" RELUCTANT TO TALK

CHICAGO, Feb. 7. (INS)—Albert M. Johnson, Chicago millionaire named by "Death Valley Scotty" as the latter's financial backer, was interviewed at his Sheridan home mansion here today.

Johnson appeared reluctant to discuss his association with the picturesque Californian, confining himself to blunt denials of published reports.

"The story that I am related to Scotty is false," he began. "I am not related to him. Neither have I adopted a son of Scotty. However, I am sending the boy through school—merely because I like him.

"Scotty is an old friend of mine and I have spent many vacations with him in the mountains of Death Valley."

The Chicago millionaire also spiked rumors that Scotty's building program was being boomed as a hotel project.

"I do not intend to make a hotel of Scotty's castle in Death Valley," Johnson said.

He declined to comment when asked if he had made a great deal of money by the rise of Santa Fe railroad stock after Scotty's sensational transcontinental record trip.

HALL-MILLS WITNESS DIES

Cancer Claims Life of Jane Gibson

JERSEY CITY, Feb. 7. (UP)—Jane Gibson died today of cancer and thus ended the life of the woman whose testimony provided the most dramatic moment of the century's most publicized murder trial.

Her death in the charity ward of the Jersey hospital came seven and a half years after the celebrated September night when, astride a mule in De Russey's lane, she passed near the crabapple tree under which on the morrow would be found the bodies of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir singer-sweetheart, Eleanor Mills.

$60,000 STATE MONEY 'LOST'

Comptroller Blamed For Discrepancy

you covers that question thoroughly," was Lynn's reply.

Pressed by Senator Parr for a more specific answer to his question, Lynn said:

"We do not charge that any department is short, but we do find approximately $60,000 of the state's money unaccounted for satisfactorily by the comptroller."

Propriety Questioned

Lynn was dismissed by the senate, after the senators questioned the propriety of their conducting an inquiry such as they started unless Comptroller S. H. Terrell were present or represented by counsel. It was contended that an investigation which might result in the filing of impeachment charges should originate in the house.

Senator Walter C. Woodward of Coleman declared he believed the charges serious enough, if true, to warrant impeachment proceedings, but said that he believed it improper for the senate to air the matter and cause to be started rumors that might reflect on the honesty and integrity of anyone.

"Personally, I am Sam Houston Terrell's friend and do not hesitate to say that I have always found him a courteous and apparently an efficient official, he said. "These charges as recited in the auditor's report are not levelled at him personally, but at the department, in which there are a large number of employes. I believe that they should be investigated in order that the department accused may be exonerated of any wrong doing in the event they are not true, but I think the inquiry should start in the house, where I understand a resolution proposing an investigation is now pending."

In the house, Representative Coke R. Stevenson of Junction argued that the comptroller should be given an opportunity to answer the criticisms placed on his department by the auditor before an investigation were undertaken.

"I am willing to give Sam Houston Terrell until the middle of next week to answer these charges satisfactorily and if he fails to do so by next Thursday, then I would support impeachment proceedings," Stevenson said.

Fans Suck Poisonous Gas From Mine Where Explosion Takes 17 Lives

HELPER, Utah, Feb. 7. (UP)—While hastily repaired fans sucked poisonous gasses from the explosion-wrecked Standard Coal mine near here tonight, searchers sought more bodies to be placed under sheets with the 17 already found.

The explosion, gathering force as new pockets of gas were ignited, ripped through the drifts and slopes of the mine in the village of Standardville at 9 p. m. yesterday. So isolated is the village in the Barren hills northeast of here that news of the disaster did not reach the outside world until today.

Twenty-nine men were in the mine when the roar of the blast informed their families of the sudden tragedy.

Men staggered out of the mouth of the mine soon after the explosion. Hardly had the fans started to remove the death laden gas than rescuers piled down into the debris-strewn mine. One by one they brought up 17 bodies and then came upon a small room where they found alive five men who had barricated themselves against the gas.

Wind Refuses to Blow For Lindy's Sail Plane

LEBEC, Calif., Feb. 7. (US)—Like a sailor becalmed in the doldrums was Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today up here in the Tehachapi mountains. The wind just wouldn't blow, no matter how much Lindy and his companions tried to pipe it up by that old seaman's device of whistling for it. And so there wasn't a chance for him to take off in the sailplane which he has been piloting above this rugged country for the past few days.

Sunday Menu Should Give Housewife Day's Freedom

By MRS. ARCH DAWSON
Written Especially for The Record News

The Sunday menu suggested will be appreciated by the housewife who plans to do most of her work on Saturday in order that she may have time to enjoy the association of members of her family and friends and for church duties.

The fish balls may be made ready for the deep fat frying; the sweet potatoes steamed and placed with seasonings in a glass baking dish; the cocoanut macaroons baked; the fruit salad molded; the Denver biscuit made and placed in the refrigerator and the ham steamed.

If the housewife possesses a waterless cooker, the ham, beans and potatoes may be cooked Sunday morning with very little attention.

The ice cream can be made early Sunday morning and placed in a mechanical refrigerator or purchased from a nearby store.

If an additional course is desired, a fruit cocktail would be simple and pleasing.

All measurements in recipes given are level.

Ham, Beans and Sweet Potatoes Cooked in Waterless Cooker

Soak whole or half of large ham in cold water for several hours. Remove skin and place in bottom of cooker and sear sides slightly; add three cups of boiling water and place directly over low flame and cook one hour; open cooker and place six peeled medium sweet potatoes on rack over ham; put string beans in top pan and place on top of cooker. Put cooker on base and cook about an hour. Open again and remove sweet potatoes to a buttered baking dish. Steam ham and beans another hour.

1. Place ham in a baking dish. Pour 1-3 cup peach sweet pickle syrup and 1-3 cup stock over ham and brown slightly in oven.

2. Add pepper to taste to beans and if additional seasoning is desired add a little stock and cook directly over fire a few minutes.

3. Pour 2 table spoons melted butter over sweet potatoes, which have been placed in a casserole; sprinkle with 3 tablespoons sugar, a few grains nutmeg and the grated rind of 1-2 orange and pour over the juice of one orange. Bake until glazed.

Spiced Baked Ham

Soak ham if salty in cold water a few hours. Plunge ham into boiling water for 10 minutes. Reduce the temperature and cook below boiling for two hours. Remove from water and peal off the skin. Bake one hour, basting frequently with equal parts vinegar and water. Take from oven and rub the fat surface with brown sugar. Insert cloves all over the ham at intervals of two inches. Bake until tender without more beating. This ham may be served garnished with broiled sliced pineapple or baked red apples and parsley.

Cocoanut Merangues

Whites four eggs.
1-2 teaspoon vanilla.
1 cup fine granulated sugar.
3-4 cup cocoanut.
1-2 cup chopped nuts.

Beat whites until stiff and gradually add 2-3 cups of sugar and continue beating until mixture holds its shape. Fold in remaining sugar, vanilla, cocoanut and nuts. Shape with a spoon on pastry bag and tube of wax paper. Place on a baking sheet and bake in a very slow oven for 30 minutes. Slip paper or a damp cloth and let steam until they may be lifted from paper.

Waffles

2 eggs.
4 Tablespoons melted shortening.
1 1-2 cups sweet milk.
2 cups sifted flour.
4 teaspoons baking powder (level).
1 teaspoon salt.

Beat yolks, add milk and most of flour sifted, then add melted shortening. Just before ready to cook add rest of flour and baking powder sifted together and fold in well beaten whites of eggs. Cook on a hot, greased waffle iron. Chopped nuts or cocoanut is a pleasing addition. If used, add just before the egg white is folded in.

Alamo P.-T. A. Observes National Anniversary

Presidents of Alamo P.-T. A., of the 13th district and of the city council joined Friday in celebrating at Alamo school the anniversary of the founding of the national congress of parents and teachers in Washington in 1897. The Zundelowitz orchestra, under the leadership of Miss Minnie Baker, played a number of beautiful selections and outstanding addresses were given by a number of officials.

The meeting was opened by Miss Dorothy Warren who gave the hundredth Psalm of thanksgiving and praise.

In the business meeting, C. H. Clark, president of the school board, asked the support of Alamo patrons in the school bond vote. Mrs. J. Newton Huff, finance chairman, gave a brief report and Mrs. C. L. Baum took the room count, Mrs. W. A. Mangum winning the first attendance prize and Miss Jennie Lee Rue the second.

The brown velvet drop on the auditorium stage was draped round a door made to appear the cover of a book on which was printed "History of the P.-T. A." Mrs. T. H. Lawson, program chairman, opened the doors, stating the pages of the history were dedicated to "the renewal on this day of all noble memories, all high and holy traditions of the past. Remembered be our mothers," she continued, "who founded this national parent-teacher association and died in faith, not having received the promises, but seeing them afar off."

Mrs. Frank Creighton, president of the 13th district, stepped from the book to explain the purpose of founder's day and the importance of the parent teacher movement in the educational, religious, philanthropic, and social life of our country. She told of the results already attained and the possibilities for the future.

Opening the next chapter of the history, Mrs. R. P. Willis, president of the city council, outlined the scope and purpose of country and city councils.

Mrs. A. J. Newby, president of Alamo P.-T. A., gave the introduction to the final chapter, introducing Mrs. R. J. Claypool, historian of the association, who listed the achievements of the school and stressed the friendly spirit that has always prevailed in Alamo school.

Dr. J. W. Cantwell briefly responded to Mrs. Lawson's gracious recognition of the many visitors.

Mrs. Fred Carter, one of the pioneer presidents of Alamo Mother's club, conducted the ceremony of lighting the 33 candles on the beautiful birthday cake prepared by Mrs. C. A. Morris and Mrs. Newby read the birthday wish of Mrs. Morris for the club.

An opportunity was given those present to make a special silver offering for state and national extension work and after this, a refreshment plate carrying out the school colors of red and white and valentine suggestions, was served to the following:

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Emotional outbursts do not pay. We have experienced them, we have read of them and we have observed them.

◆ ◆ ◆

We remember among our first hazy memories the excitement of a camp meeting; it was almost hysteria that brought people shouting up a sawdust trail.

◆ ◆ ◆

A man whom we knew in our teens used regularly to get converted at the annual church revival,—a lost sheep saved each year when a passionate plea from the evangelist, emotional music from the audience and impromptu ejaculations from the excited old patriarchs touched his emotions.

◆ ◆ ◆

And less than a month afterward, the same emotional fervor, tempted in another way, made him a joyous backslider.

◆ ◆ ◆

How many tempestuous souls in an outburst of anger have uttered words that cut their best loved like swords, leaving scars that in their stricture bound down forever a trust that could not grow again.

◆ ◆ ◆

The field of politics, the happy hunting ground of those speakers who play to the emotions, has always a crop of eager listeners.

◆ ◆ ◆

Unbiased, unprejudiced men and women who see the errors on their side as well as on another, fight shy of emotional intoxication.

◆ ◆ ◆

For one may become drunk on words when, forgetting the fault in his party, he dilates on the sins of the other.

◆ ◆ ◆

It seems to be an impossible thing to keep a political party from digging up dead issues.

◆ ◆ ◆

Emphasizing "no discussion of past history" and "no rancour in our hearts," we heard speakers Thursday evening go back into past history and enthusiastic listeners express appreciation with the revival of an old battle cry, "Pour it on 'em!"

◆ ◆ ◆

There are too many sane, sound and educated people on earth for men like—let us say Heflin—to sway the councils of the nation.

◆ ◆ ◆

Weighed by the best judgment of an educated nation, we reiterate, emotional outbursts do not pay.

Happy Marriage Usually Based On Compatibility

Why Compatibility Is the Foundation Stone of Marriage—Does a Husband Prefer a Well-Dressed Wife or Money in the Bank?—Jack-of-All-Trades

Dear Miss Dix—Would it be wise to choose for a life partner one who has the same outlook on life that I have, one who cares for the same things spiritually and materially that I do or one who is of an opposite personality from mine? One who disagrees with me on almost every subject, especially my ideals of life —BETTY.

Answer—Compatibility is the one most essential thing in marriage. With it marriage is a harmonious duet, sweetly sung in tune. Without it marriage is nothing but a jarring discord that rasps the nerves of the two performers beyond endurance.

It doesn't matter how fine and noble and honorable and true and anxious to do his duty a man is, or how good and conscientious and domestic and thrifty and faithful a woman is, unless they are congenial they will make each other wretchedly unhappy if they get married. Each may be a model of all the virtues; they may respect and admire each other's good qualities; they may even love each other, but they will make a failure of marriage unless they think alike and have the same habits and tastes.

Why, it is nothing but the lack of congeniality that makes so many households nothing but a place of strife and quarrels and that sends so many people to the divorce courts. Nine times out of 10 there was nothing really wrong with the man and woman who couldn't get along together except that they had nothing in common.

The husband wanted to go out at night to some place of amusement. The wife was an Alice-sit-by-the-fire who desired no livelier entertainment than staying at home and watching the baby breathe. Or the wife was a gay little thing whose feet ached to dance and the husband couldn't be pried out of his easy chair at night. The husband was a dime-nurser who wanted to put every penny in the savings bank, while the wife wanted pretty clothes and to have good times.

The man was a student and loved intellectual discourse. The wife was a Dumb Dora who never read anything more than the society column in the newspapers. The husband loved good food. The wife thought it a sin and a shame to waste time and money in the kitchen. One thought one way about politics, the other the other. One had one creed, the other another.

And so on and on and on. And quarrels and spats and never-ending arguments and discord. Every word the fighting word. Each afraid to speak because they knew it would start something. Disillusion, misery, yet both husband and wife honorable, upright, well-meaning people.

But let these people separate and marry their own kind and they are perfectly happy. The man who likes to step out is happy with the wife who is ready to clap on her hat and gad wherever he wants to go. The intellectual man is happy with the highbrow wife who reads the same books that he does and speaks his language. The frivolous wife is happy with a playboy husband and the man who likes to eat is happy with a wife who loves to cook.

It is because compatibility is the very foundation stone of a successful marriage that it is a mistake for people to marry out of their own class either in age or social position or to marry a man or woman of different nationality. Occasionally love can bridge the gulf that lies between the old and young, the poor and rich, the aristocratic and plebian, but this does not often happen and, generally speaking, people are happiest when they marry those near their own age and who have been brought up with the same tastes and habits and politics and religion and ideals.

The people we like best and whose society we enjoy most are those who agree with us, not those who differ with us. None of us like being with those who never want to do the thing we want to do, who never fall in with any plan, who never enjoy the book or play we are crazy about or like the people we like. They get on our nerves. We get tired of arguing and disputing with them and turn from them to some one who is more congenial.

It is one of nature's little jokes that the attraction of opposites that draws people together before marriage repulses them after marriage. Don't let her play this merry jest upon you, Betty. Pick out a man who thinks as you think and who likes his steaks cooked rare or done as you do. The really happy couples are those who ride the same hobby horses.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—A lot is written about married women getting slouchy after marriage and neglecting their personal appearance, and they are always advised to keep themselves looking as attractive as possible. That means, of course, the spending of enough money to keep well dressed. Which do you think a man would prefer, a wife who spends money on her clothes and the beauty shops or one who goes shabby and saves the money that such things cost? —MARIE.

Answer—Both. I think the man would like his wife to look pretty and attractive and well dressed and still put the money in the savings bank, but inasmuch as this cannot be done and you cannot make a dollar work overtime, the woman is wise who steers a medium course and plays both ends of the game from the middle. By which I mean that she is neither extravagant nor neglectful of her personal appearance, but saves judiciously and spends judiciously.

Looking at the matter from the wife's point of view, it is a matter of business to her to keep her husband in love with her and thinking she is the only woman, and this she cannot do unless she keeps herself looking attractive. Every day and all day long he is thrown intimately, on the street and in his office, with pretty young girls who are manicured and painted and permanent-waved and dressed up to the minute and if he comes home to a woman who is dowdy and frowsy and looking like heck you can't blame him if he wonders what made him marry her. If a woman wants to be kissed she has to keep herself kissable.

And at such a moment a man is not going to sit down and think that his wife has saved him $20.89 by not having her hair shampooed or her fingers done or getting a new dress at the bargain sale. He isn't going to be grateful to her for saving his money. He is just going to be disgusted with her for the way she looks. The country is full of deserted wives who went shabby and worked their fingers to the bone and stayed at home and got dull saving the money to help their husbands get a start and who were forsaken for blonde flappers after husband got rich.

So, Marie, the best investment you can make of part of your money is to keep yourself dolled up and in the running with husband.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Has Benefited This Woman

Millions today are eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

The cause of constipation is the lack of roughage in food. Add sufficient roughage and constipation disappears. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is nearly all roughage.

Here is a letter from Mrs. H. Gilbert, 107 E. Knight Ave., Collingswood, N. J., which will be interesting to many sufferers:

"I had a very serious operation in October and when I came from the hospital my main trouble was constipation. One day I said to the doctor, 'I am going to eat ALL-BRAN,' and since I started I have no trouble whatever. So you see I can't praise it enough and am always telling my friends what it did for me."

You will enjoy the nut-like flavor of this delicious, ready-to-eat cereal. It is rich in iron, and when eaten with milk or fruit juices, adds important vitamins to the diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is an essential in any reducing diet. It means every-day health to people all over the world. Your grocer has it in the red-and-green package. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Travel Club Elects New President At Meet Friday

Mrs. T. M. Conrey was leader in the meeting of the Travel club at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Friday morning, with Sweden the continued topic of study.

In the short business meeting preceding the program, Mrs. Arch Dawson was elected president to take the place of Mrs. W. F. Pagan, resigned.

"Swedish Life in Town and Country" and "The Tree of the Folkungs," were the readings preliminary to the program and the first number given was a paper by Mrs. Will McKemie on "Historical Prominence Developed in the Folkung Line," in which she told of the prominent members of the old family that came out of the old Viking age in the 12th and 13th centuries, producing the famous kings who brought Sweden out of heathenism into Christianity.

Mrs. Conrey gave an interesting review of two short stories of Heidenstan's. "Characteristics of Swedish Literature" were discussed in a splendid paper by Mrs. Henry C. Fulcher. Mrs. Fulcher, after giving a brief historical outline of Swedish literature commented on the language and on the fact that the literature of the country is practically built on the sagas, the superstition and the life and customs of the people.

An open discussion of the interesting program closed the meeting. Members present were Mesdames John T. Bonner, T. M. Conrey, C. H. Clark, W. W. Cook, E. T. Duff, Arch Dawson, W. W. Fraser, H. C. ## Daily Editorial

IF CONAN DOYLE is correct in his belief that there are established channels of communication between this world and the next, some medium imbued with a sense of humor might dial in on Commodore Vanderbilt's wave length and inform the old grouch that he not only enjoys the dubious distinction of ordering George Westinghouse from his door, but also of snubbing a cabinet officer and presidential candidate as well.

The incident has doubtless slipped the commodore's post-mortem memory. And besides he was so busy at the time opportunizing the late sixties that a certain letter, written in sprawly boyhood script, may never have reached his eye.

The envelope was postmarked from a little Georgia town. The civil war had utterly impoverished its folk.

Stores had no stocks and customers had no cash. Lawyers and doctors, unable to collect fees, were reduced to patch-pants extremity. Even the community's leading attorney mainly depended upon the earnings of a gangly lad, who picked up a few occasional pennies selling Cincinnati Inquirers at the depot.

Between trains, the youngster read of the prodigious fortunes which A. T. Stewart and John Jacob Astor and Jay Gould were accumulating from real estate, railway building and gold speculation.

But above all, his imagination followed the spectacular career of Vanderbilt, to whom Fortune had been a personal hand-maiden, showering millions and mansions and added might upon her sudden favorite.

And gradually a bold and daring plan grew in the child's mind.

For months, "the gang" had sought to collect the price of a baseball outfit, but their combined scrapings remained insufficient.

NOW ALL OTHER resource failing they gravely drew a promissory note, signed it in common and appealed to the great Vanderbilt for a loan of $2.50 on that ingenious pledge. They solemnly swore to repay the debt at the rate of ten cents per month at current interest.

They knew of no one else with $2.50 to spare and reluctantly explained the necessity of floating the loan abroad.

But Mr. Vanderbilt was evidently conserving his capital for prior investments and couldn't take on any extra fiscal burdens at the moment.

They never heard from him. But another generation of Vanderbilts was fated to hear from the boy.

The South tore free from carpet-bag exploitation. Defeated, but unconquered, she slowly resumed her place as an economic factor and a producer of genius.

The boy, on whom Vanderbilt wouldn't waste a thought, came North to bat in the Big League, and the first ball he slammed was a four-bagger. He built the Hudson tunnels. He became Woodrow Wilson's campaign manager and landed the Princetonian in the White House. He served two terms as secretary of the treasury.

He couldn't negotiate a $2.50 loan, but he succeeded in floating Liberty Loans by the billions, and history saw his decision control foreign obligations, compared with which Vanderbilt and Astor wealths are small change.

And if all this weren't enough to tickle the Olympian gods, the hour arrived when, as director-general of all American railroads, the New York Central and allied lines were compelled to accept whatever rules and regulations his dictatorial authority empowered William G. McAdoo to issue.

A lion can never foretell when a mouse will come in handy.

Mr. Taft Steps Down

IT IS with a feeling of deep regret and the realization of duty well done that the nation sees the curtains drawn on the public life of William Howard Taft.

Mr. Taft holds the unique distinction of being the only man who has been both president and chief justice of the United States, the two highest honors within the gift of a nation. He has served faithfully, tirelessly and capably.

After unbroken years of service, Mr. Taft is entitled to the rest that comes with retirement. The nation joins in wishing the retiring chief justice quick improvement in health and many more years in which to enjoy that calm philosophy of life that has always endeared him to his countrymen.

In selecting Charles Evans Hughes as Mr. Taft's successor, President Hoover has made a choice that will prove popular with the public. Mr. Hughes unquestionably possesses one of the most brilliant legalistic minds of the day. His record as governor of New York state, an associate justice of the supreme court, as secretary of state and in his numerous other high positions of public trust has been one of achievement and honor.

President Hoover acted wisely in appointing Mr. Hughes immediately upon the resignation of Mr. Taft. Clearly, he was the logical choice for the chief justiceship, and to have delayed matters might have brought about the risk of attempted political interference. As it came about, Mr. Taft retired and Mr. Hughes was named almost within the hour and thus the business of the nation's highest court does not face interruption.

The nation welcomes Charles Evans Hughes to the chief justiceship of the supreme court and at the same time it regrets the retirement of William Howard Taft from public life.

Congress Honors a Confederate

TIME heals all things, as a sage once said in the fullness of his wisdom. It is significant, especially just at this time when the nation is paying tribute to the memory of Abraham Lincoln on the anniversary of his birth, that congress paused the other day to honor a confederate veteran on his 89th birthday. That veteran was Representative Charles Manly Stedman, a fine old gentleman from North Carolina, and the last surviving civil war soldier in the halls of congress.

Members from North and South alike, all his friends, paid tribute to this venerable congressman who, as a major in the confederacy, surrendered with Lee at Appomattox. He is retiring at the end of his present term.

Until he died and left him a few months ago, one of Representative Stedman's closest friends was the late Senator Francis M. Warren of Wyoming, the last federal army veteran in congress. They were cronies, joking and calling each other "Johnny Reb" and "Damned Yankee." These two gray-haired men, walking arm in arm toward eternity with the faltering steps of age, personified the spirit of the present generation, far removed from the strife of 1861-65.

The sectional bitterness that divided the nation up to a generation ago is no more. The bloody shirt is no longer waved. Time has healed the wounds that were opened at Gettysburg and Shiloh. There is no North, no South.

Congress' action in honoring the venerable Major Stedman in an hour when the nation bowed its head in tribute to the memory of Lincoln was more than mere proof of this statement—it was a beautiful gesture, symbolical of the united nation that rose from the ashes of the civil war.

No Sleep for 12 Years

THE WORLD WAR did some horrible things to the men who were wounded. But we have not yet heard of anything more dreadful than the plight of the Hungarian war veteran, described in recent newspaper dispatches, who has not been able to go to sleep since 1917.

An injury to his brain left him with incurable insomnia. He has not been asleep since. Every so often he collapses from sheer exhaustion, and lies in a semi-conscious condition for a few days while his tissues recuperate. Then his siege begins again, terminating in a short time in the same way.

Sleeplessness is one of the most fearful curses that a malicious fate can bring to anyone. Imagine this man's suffering—condemned to sleeplessness, not for a few days or weeks, but for 12 long years! The most mutilated of ex-soldiers, it would seem, is better off than he is.

Byrd Will Bring Them Back

PROBABLY it is a little bit early to be harboring any very extensive fears over the fate of Admiral Byrd's party. Their situation is not exactly rosy, to be sure; but efforts to relieve them have already been set in motion, and the radio will keep the world posted as to their condition. In addition, Byrd's New York representatives say that reports of a food shortage have been considerably exaggerated.

Most important of all, however, is the fact that the party has Byrd himself. If any man can bring a group through a trying situation in the antarctic, Byrd is the man. We have a strong hunch that this likable and capable naval officer will bring his men back with colors flying.

Letters From One's Dear Public

As per the agreement entered into between the editor of here and his subscribers, the following are excerpts from some letters in reply to the recent column titled, "Why I Think I Ought to Go to Heaven." The replies, while abundant, were disappointing, most of the critics "pulling their punches," as D. Parker, the oracle, would put it. Many of the letter-writers, one means to say, acted in the kibitzer manner, proffering one or two straight-from-the-shoulder wallops but winding up their missives along sentimental lines like this: "But I wish you go to hell because I've always wanted to meet you some day."

Mr. J. J. Pollard, the vice president of the Pollard & Bagby, Inc., of Richmond, Va., avers: "Another reason why you will go to hell is because you are so consistent. You have never said anything good about anyone. P. S.—I might add that no one has ever said anything good about you."

Herbert Schencker, of 1507 Popham avenue, Bronx, N. Y., contends: "You are bound for hell because you always knock people."

"Any person," indignantly writes Betty Shipman, of 359 W. 52nd street, N. Y., "who admits that he kicked a woman right back because she kicked him, stamps himself as a no-good, which you certainly are."

"I assure you," assures B. M. Knobel, of Washington, D. C., "that you will meet many of your friends in Hell because of your creed."

"I hope you roast in hell for all the people you've roasted up here," writes J. K., of Pittsburgh, Penn.

"You are bound for Heaven because you helped such unfortunates as Truly Shattuck, Sammy Levy and 'Miserable One' when they were in distress," writes Mrs. G. Carter of Chicago, "but when you invaded the privacy of the Lindbergs you put yourself on a greasy pole headed for Hades!"

William Darcy, of 54 Front street, N. Y., thinks Hell is too good for "people like you" and suggests a fitting punishment would be to force us to become a prohibition enforcement agent.

"My dear Mr. Winchell," writes H. E. G., from New Haven, Conn., "I just read your 'Heaven' column in The Register and note how you put down the commendable things you've done 'but all our own righteousness are as filthy rags,' according to God's word, 'which endures forever.'"

"Personally I don't care where you go," writes Wm. T. Luck, of Salem, Va., "but may I quote from the book upon which such beliefs are generally based?—'The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself: God, I thank Thee that I am not as other men are.'"

"You rate a place in Hell because you keep reminding us that you were once a hoofer in vaudeville when we are all trying our best to forget it."—Hy. D. Seigel, state assembly, Albany, N. Y.

"You will go below because you are too much of an 'I' man and you're not an optician, either!"—J. Resnick, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"You will go to hell," writes Bessie Croydon, of Los Angeles, Calif., "not because there are no halos in Heaven for you, as Lillian D. told you, but because there are no halos up there big enough to fit your head!"

"Dear Mr. Winchell," affectionately writes Wm. Altes, of 960 Kelly street, Bronx, N. Y., "you will certainly go to hell if you don't stop wasting perfectly good space with the drivel your so-called column occupies!"

"Dear Mr. Winchell, my reason why I think you should go to h—— is that you certainly are most insulting the way you say those nasty things about Rudy Vallee, who I think is a real American boy, and I guess I ought to know."—Albert Hailporn, Yale '27, 37 W. 72nd street, N. Y. C.

"If you don't keep that mugg Rudy Vallee out of the column I hope you go to Hell!"—Michael Griffin, 320 57th St., Brooklyn.

"You are certain to find a warm spot down there," writes Gertrude Haslup, of New Orleans, La., "because you are always praising George Jean Nathan, who is a devil in Sheik clothing."

Edward J. McQuade, of 81 Sackett St., Providence, R. I., writes: "You make me sick trying to give the impression that you do not like to get gloriously drunk when up here we hear the wildest tales of how you can be found in the corners of any night club on Broadway plastered to the gills, and other things about you that you wouldn't dare to print in the paper so why should I even bother to waste my time is what I'd like to know."

"Because you are such a gossip is one reason you can go to hell!" writes Mary Ann Grandbois, of Montreal, Que.

"My dear Mr. Winchell, I would not condemn you to hell for the one thing I hold against you, but it certainly was a sacrilege that no one can deny. Being a mother and knowing with what reticence a woman divulges the secret of 'the act of God' I can never forgive you for making known that Anne Lindbergh is to become a mother. True it is of immense interest to the world, but it was out of place in your column and certainly should not have been made public at such an early date. Are all newspaper men so mercenary?"—Virginia Berg, Lamar, S. C.

J. M. Alden, of Box 165, Madison, Wis., forwarded a lot of reasons but failed to "keep them clean" as was urged.

Readers from Cleveland, Wichita Falls, Texas; Scranton, Pa.; San Francisco, Baltimore, Akron, Louisville, Kansas City, Kokomo, Portland, Maine; Superior, Wis.; Tampa, Fla.; St. Louis, Buffalo, Springfield, Mo.; Worcester, Mass.; Glen Falls, N. Y.; Sherman, Texas; Columbus, Ohio; Atlanta, Evansville and Detroit were abusive enough but space does not permit. Mrs. Winchell's little man therefore closes the discussion but thanks all concerned for promptly responding, which made quite an impression on King Features, the syndicate handling our act.

"LOVEJOY"

By: Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER XXXI

Lovejoy picked up the telephone. Her little fluted mouth had lost all its prettiness in a sarcastic smile.

"All right, Tom," she said bitterly, "if Norrie is so necessary to your happiness, I'll keep her. . . . I just telephoned an ad for a new housemaid to the morning paper. But I'll cancel it."

But before she had a chance to give her number the front door bell rang, and Aline's voice came floating up from the lower hall:

"Hail! Hail! The gang's all here! Where are you?"

"We're upstairs, collecting things to drink!" Tom called down to her. "We'll be right with you!"

His voice was full of cheerfulness and his frown turned into a wide grin as he headed for the staircase with two bottles of Scotch in his arms.

Before she went downstairs Lovejoy ran into his bedroom to take a look at the shelf of his clothes-closet. . . . He evidently had bought a whole case of liquor the day before. There were eight quart bottles still left standing there in their water-marked paper wrappings.

He's always preaching economy to me, she thought with cold anger. But he spends money like a drunken sailor, himself!

She slammed the closet door on the bottles and went into her own room to add a touch of powder to her nose and a bit of lip-salve to her mouth.

Then she gave herself a little shake and went downstairs with a smile as wide and happy as Tom's smile had been a moment before.

Have to keep up the bluff that we're happy together, she reminded herself. Can't let the outside world know what a cat-and-dog life we're leading lately!

The living room was as noisy as a roadhouse. The radio was pouring out the peppiest kind of music, and the Goodsells were doing a more or less shocking dance called "the shag."

Jane's guest, a small blond woman in white silk, was lying almost flat in Tom's big easy chair, sipping a high-ball. Al Alderson sat at her feet, watching the Goodsells. A stocky gray-haired man stood behind her chair.

"You ought to get some of these silver ice balls for your drinks, Tom!" she was saying. "You just chill them in your ice box and drop them into the glasses—Tom, your tie's crooked. Come here and let me fix it!"

That remark bothered Lovejoy a little. She had seen Aline straighten Sam Oliver's necktie once upon a time and she remembered that Aline had kissed him when she did it.

Jane Goodsell saw the troubled look that she turned toward the dining room door and began to laugh.

"Now, Lovejoy, keep away from the dining room!" she cried, "don't ever interrupt your husband when he's having a necking party with your best friend—and besides I want you to meet Dave Beckett."

She introduced the stocky gray-haired man she had been flirting with over her husband's shoulder as she danced.

"Lovejoy, I want you to shake hands with Dave and call him by his first name," she said unsteadily. "I've known Dave ever since I was knee-high to a grasshopper—and let me tell you he's the salt of the earth!"

She slapped him on the shoulder. "Did you hear what I said about you, Dave?" she asked him, almost shouting into his face. "I said that they don't make 'em any better than you, Dave Beckett!"

She was very tipsy. No doubt of that.

Without stopping to introduce little blond Mrs. Beckett she walked uncertainly into the dining room.

"Here, you two!" she called out to Tom and Aline. "You've been out here alone long enough! You're making Lovejoy jealous! Tom, you haven't kissed me tonight!"

In the free-and-easy crowd to which they and the Aldersons belonged all the husbands kissed all the wives whenever they met like this.

"It doesn't mean a thing—it's just fun," Aline had explained to Lovejoy months before.

It was just part of the evening's program—the program of drinking punch or high-balls, playing cards for a tenth of a cent a point or dancing to the radio music.

Norrie had promised to be home at 10 o'clock to do the dishes.

But at 10 minutes after 10 they were still piled upon the table in the darkened dining room. Half-emptied bowls of chicken salad and baked beans. Plates of stale sandwiches and sticky Lady Baltimore cake.

In the living room the Chinese brass trays were filled with cigaret stubs and ashes. The dark polished wood of the piano top was covered with white rings where wet high-ball glasses had been set down.

There was a big hole in the black silk top of one of the bridge tables to show the place where someone had carelessly laid a burning cigaret.

"We're dying of thirst over here," Aline called suddenly from the card table where she was playing. "Tom went out into the kitchen about 10 minutes ago, Lovejoy, to get some more drinks. But he must have walked off the deep end or something!—Perhaps you'd better go out and see what's happened to him!"

Lovejoy laid down her cards and got up from the table.

Every light was blazing in the empty kitchen. The back door stood open to the cool fragrant darkness. And from the back porch came the low steady hum of voices.

She tiptoed across the kitchen floor and stood just inside the screen door, listening intently. . . Tom and Norrie Shane were out there in the darkness together!

"But I promised Lovejoy I'd wash them," Norrie was saying in her gentle voice.

"Well, you're not going to wash them!" Tom sounded very masterful and determined. "We didn't hire you to wash dishes around here—and Lovejoy ought to be ashamed to let you come back here to work at this time of night. You go upstairs and get some sleep."

Lovejoy ground her little teeth together. . . . It had been Norrie's own idea to come back here and wash dishes tonight. Why didn't she tell Tom so?

"Lovejoy didn't ask me to do them." Norrie's soft voice came out of the darkness. "I wanted to do them to help her out."

Lovejoy was standing beside the sink, drinking a glass of water a half-minute later when the two of them came into the kitchen.

There was nothing in her face to show that she had been listening to them. She smiled at Norrie from under her straight black eyebrows.

"Go up to bed, Norrie," she said with all the sweetness in the world. "We'll do the dishes tomorrow morning—you and I."

But the instant that Norrie was out of the kitchen her face darkened.

"I hope that he-man stuff of yours makes an impression on Norrie!" she said to him. Every word, as it fell from her lips, sounded like an icicle breaking.

"But I think," she went on, "that you might worry a little about me instead of Norrie, once in a while. . . . It doesn't seem to bother you that I have all the housework to do while she takes care of the baby."

Tom laughed.

"Yes—but you don't do the housework. You let her do it," he pointed out. "That's what makes me sore. You've been out of the house for hours every day since she's been here. Every afternoon I've come home to find her out here peeling vegetables and making salad for dinner—and you've been out gallivanting with Aline and some of the rest of your buddies—"

"Well, you won't find her peeling vegetables any more," Lovejoy interrupted him keenly, "because I'm going to hire a cook. I put that ad in the paper tonight, and I'm not going to take it out. . . . I'm through cooking meals for you and Norrie Shane. So just write that on your shirt-front!"

She snapped her fingers under his nose to show him what she thought of him.

Then she pushed past him and went back into the living room. Jane Goodsell had performed that elegant act known as "passing out of the picture." Her eyes were closed and her white face was covered with tiny beads of sweat.

"That girl is just liquid alcohol," Aline was saying cheerful to everybody in the room. "Come on, Larry, let's pour her into the car and take her home."

The next day Lovejoy's advertisement was in the paper.

"Housemaid wanted," it read, "One who can cook and will do downstairs work. See Mrs. Nicholson, corner of Tudor Road and Stallings Lane."

And that very night it was answered by the last person on earth whom Lovejoy wanted to see.

Use Heat for Pleurisy

A sharp stitch in the side which hurts when you take a deep breath, or cough, is usually the first indication of pleurisy. Since pain is a warning, one might say that in this case "a stitch in time saves nine," for the patient who has pursued the right treatment and recovered from it under capable direction is less likely to develop cronic pleurisy than one who does not have correct treatment during an acute attack.

Pleurisy is a serious disorder although the majority of cases recover, due to the power of the body to absorb the exudation which is thrown out during the disease. To understand what is meant by this exudation, it is well to remember that the lungs are enclosed in a lubricating casing called the pleura. This membrane is made up of two layers. One is next to the outer walls of the chest and one next to the lungs. In this way the lungs are free to move about in breathing instead of being attached to the rib walls. Between the two layers is the lubricating secretion. When the pleura becomes inflamed, an unusual amount of secretion is thrown out containing irritating fluids, and the pleura may thereby become roughened or attached together or to its surrounding tissues.

The pain comes when the two inflamed layers rub against each other causing a sharp stabbing sensation as though a knife were cutting through. In order to lessen the pain, patient tries to keep the affected side as still as possible, doing most of his breathing with the other lung.

There are two forms of pleurisy. The first, called dry pleurisy, has an inflammation accompanied by a thick exudation. The pain is almost constant, and when the affected area is pressed with the finger it is usually sensitive and the breathing is shallow. Many cases do not progress far, as the inflammation subsides, the tissues absorbing the exudate and repairs begin.

The second form is called pleurisy with effusion. After the pleura becomes inflamed and covered with the exudation of fibrin, a collection of serum ensues. At first this fluid is clear and later contains many white and red blood cells. There is some pain as the two membranes rub together, but when the fluids begin to accumulate, the patient complains of weakness and indigestion which are caused by the accumulation of the fluid in the chest. In some cases the pain is referred to the abdomen or to the shoulders.

After the absorption period there is often the danger of adhesions forming, and the two layers grow together and are held in this bonded condition by scar tissues, causing great pain in breathing. This is called chronic pleurisy.

The correct treatment for acute pleurisy is to put the patient to bed and strap up the affected side with adhesive tape which keeps it still so as to avoid as much pain as possible. The absorption of the fluid can best be assisted by applying heat especially from a deep therapy lamp. An electrical treatment called diathermy is the best way of all for applying deep heat to the pleura. This is best given in a doctor's office or by a portable apparatus which can be used in the patient's home. If you do not have this treatment available, apply moist heat from hot towels or hot water bottles. The heat assists the lymphatics to carry away the excessive fluids. After the pain has gone, try deep breathing as much as possible to prevent the formation of permanent adhesions.

Since over 80 per cent of the cases of pleurisy are due to tubercular infections, every method should be used to build up the body and avoid the development of tuberculosis in the future.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Colitis

Question—E. M. B. asks: "Will you kindly define "colitis" to me, that is, its causes, and is it in any way connected with tuberculosis? Can it be cured and should one having it go on a diet?"

Answer—The word "colitis" simply means inflammation of the colon. Such an inflammatory condition I have always found to be present in tuberculosis, but this is also true in all the other serious disorders. More poisons are absorbed through an inflamed colon than with one where the membrane is perfectly normal, and this tendency to the absorption of intestinal toxins is no doubt one of the principal causes of all disease. The only cure of colitis lies through dieting and the use of enemas.

Eggwhite and Coffee

Question—Mrs. M. K. asks: "What effect does an eggwhite mixed with ground coffee to make it clear, have on a person's health? My friends claim eggwhite gathers the caffein which makes the coffee safer to drink."

Answer—The addition of the white of egg or of the eggshell is supposed to make the coffee grounds settle, at least that is the reason given by most people who use the eggshell with their coffee. The simplest way to avoid getting a large amount of caffein in your coffee is to make the coffee quickly, without too much boiling. In making tea, the same rule should be used to avoid extracting the tannin from the tea.

Dry Hands

Question—Mrs. C. K. asks: "Will you please tell me what causes my hands to get so dry that they crack and sometimes bleed? I have tried many things on them but nothing seems to help."

Answer—Dry hands sometimes come from certain deficiency diseases, but, of course, the cause may also come from having the hands too much in water. Try rubbing cocoa butter into the hands several times a day and always after the hands have been in water.

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

The latest Aireyism: "Come in come in," Guy greeted the stranger. "Come right on in, you won't be noticed . . ."

Guy has been unusually spritely lately, but the reason is not obscure. Junior, you know, arrived last week—and Friday mother and child were removed from the Clinic to the Airey palace, the air of which, Guy predicted, will henceforth be pierced by manly little shrieks, the which Guy has described to us at great length, and with the pride fathers know.

And among other things Guy said a brother of his had written, dubbing Guy Junior the Crown Prince and in the course of the next 5,000 words that Guy delivered in praise of his youngster he defied the world with "And he's NOT going to be a ball player."

Well, Guy kept on talking about Junior, and, seeing there was no use trying to get any baseball news out of a man in that condition, we gave up hope and started talking about Junior ourselves.

"Well, just what are you going to make out of your son, then?" we asked.

"Well," says Guy, "He'll start out in life by being a retired capitalist and then . . ."

As the reign of J. Alvin Gardner as president of the Spudders drew to a close last year, he promised the Spudder fans of 1930 would see new faces, and watch new forces at work on the diamond in the coming season.

His promise has been lived up to. Only four of the old guard—Crouch of the catching staff, Outfielder Fitzgerald and Wiltse and Steengrafe of the pitching crew—will be back this season. The remaining niches in the nine will be filled with new material, fresh and eager for a start at the 1930 pennant. The fans will be given new players to figure out, and hence there will be fresh conversation for the dinner table, new arguments for the barbers, and plenty of excuses for duels unto death.

For according to our notion, there are no two people on earth who agree to a fine edge on the merits or demerits of a player.

The old regulars with us in 1929 who had been dissected and culled over no end for a season or more, have drifted afar from our midst. Pete Lapan, the catcher, has gone to sunny San Antonio. Firstbaseman Stapleton was sold to Beaumont. Turgeon journeyed to Milwaukee, as did Shortstop Benton. Duke Herman, the doubtful third sacker, was purchased by the Williamsport, Pa., club. Bennett of the outfield was sold to the St. Louis Browns, and Sullivan, rightfielder, was sold to the Fort Worth Cats.

As for the departing pitchers, Payne was sold to Indianapolis, and Andy Messenger, the lanky, impressive, slow moving but accurate hurler who could never, alas, do much with a bat, will hold down the mound for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Larry Bettencourt, hard hitting infielder, was not included in the Big Four listed above as the regulars who will return. He was not a regular last year, joining late in the season. But he will return. He was a great favorite during his brief appearance in the latter part of last season. The club hasn't decided what it will do with him, the versatile Larry being a crack third baseman, and also available as a reliable utility man.

Weeks Park Golf Course Is Re-Opened

Although still a bit soggy, the Weeks Park Municipal Golf course was reopened for play Friday. The recent snow and rain not only put a stop to golfing on both local courses but caused a delay in the improvement program at the muny links.

Phil Hesler expects the abundance of moisture to have a beneficial effect and when spring comes the new grass tees and rebuilt greens will make the Weeks course unexcelled in this section.

In Your Own Back Yard

A few feet of wire fencing; a few posts; a shed that may be converted easily into a comfortable chicken house; and the "back yard poultry farmer" is on his way toward raising a brood for his own use or to market.

The eggs or chickens he will need, incubators of all sizes and kinds, feed for baby chicks or grown fowls, feeders, watering pans, everything the poultry raiser needs will be found in the handy classification, "Poultry, Eggs & Pet Stock" Classification, which is Classification No. 43, in the Classified Columns, on the Classified Ad Page.

Then there's the matter of a market for poultry, eggs and pet stock. The same Classified Ads that offer products also SELL them for you. It's an easy matter to place a Classified Ad that will reach your prospects and bring satisfaction.

But buy or sell, make "Poultry, Eggs & Pet Stock" in the Classified Columns part of your daily reading.

DEFEAT MAY WRECK STEERS

Texas Virtually Eliminated From Conference Race

DALLAS, Feb. 7. (AP)—Southern Methodist university reasserted its basket ball jinx over the University of Texas here tonight, defeating the Longhorns in a fast hard-played battle, 25 to 22. The defeat virtually eliminates Texas as a contender against the leading University of Arkansas quintet for the conference championship.

The game was almost a repetition of the last year's upset of Texas' championship hopes by the Methodist Mustangs. Texas, seemingly bent toward at least a tie with Arkansas for the title, came to Dallas overwhelming favorites to beat the Ponies. Like last year, their title hopes were blasted.

It was a nip-and-tuck go from the starting whistle, the lead seesawing almost to the end. A few minutes before the game ended, Texas took a four point lead and was tied as the final seconds ebbed away.

A long shot by Skeeters, high point man, in the overtime period, put the Ponies in the lead, and another basket, plus a free throw, gave them a five point margin. Texas' last minute rally netted only one basket, and the game ended, 25 to 22.

WHY ART!

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Feb. 7. (AP)—Art Shires, making his first public appearance since his return home, was put out of the game in the first half with four fouls tonight when his basketball team, the Trinity Pharmacy Cubs, was playing the Corsicana Triangles. His team lost 15 to 8.

ARKANSAS FIVE DEFEATS A. & M.

STILLWATER, Okla., Feb. 7. (AP)—Arkansas university won by 30 to 20 over Oklahoma A. & M. college here tonight in the first of two week-end intersectional basket ball games.

Stronger defense enabled the Porkers, leaders of the Southwest conference basket ball race to maintain a lead over the Aggies after the first few minutes of play. After a tie, six all, the visitors held a wide margin. The Aggies spurted only once to cut the lead to 19 to 14, midway of the second half. Scoring was well divided, the high point man, Prewitt of Arkansas, getting only eight points.

ESTELLINE FIVE BEATS DENTON

Plainsmen Stop Visitors In Thriller, 24 to 23

Special to The Record News.

ESTELLINE, Texas, Feb. 7—The Estelline High school basket ball team tonight stopped the onward march of the Denton High school quint, which had marched victoriously through Northwest Texas on a road trip. Tonight the score was 24 to 23 in favor of Estelline. Last night the Denton cagers defeated the Harrold five, 37 to 21, at Harrold.

Tonight's game was a hair raiser. Baccus, forward, and McCollum, center, led Estelline's scoring spree with eight points each. Dittrich and Zeretyke, with four and nine points, respectively, starred for Denton.

The lineups:

| Estelline (24) | G. | F. | P. | Denton (23) | G. | F. | P. |

Golfers Tie for Lead in Houston Best Ball Event as Tourney Opens

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 7. (AP)—Ten teams shattered 70 over the tricky Rio Rico country club course Friday in the pro-amateur best ball event. Friday's play marked the start of the Houston open $2,500 tournament and judging from the way the professionals cracked par wide open some great golf will be offered during the 72-hole grind carded for Saturday and Sunday.

Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J., paired with Joe Greenwood, Houston, Texas, junior champion of 1928, tied with W. H. "Whiffy" Cox, Brooklyn and A. K. Newby, Houston player. Both teams returned scores of 67, five strokes under perfect figures.

Sun Bakes Course

Friday's round was played under a burning sun that did much to bring the 6,100 yard bayou bound course into top shape.

Second round of medal competition starts Saturday afternoon.

Trailing behind the brilliant play of the winners came five teams with 68 while two other groups turned in 69 for the day. There were three teams with 70's and no less than 10 breaking under par with cards 71.

Tony Butler of Corpus Christi, paired with John Kattman, of Houston; Hermann Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., and Lew Pollok of Austin; Tom Creavy of New York and Jack Speer of Houston; Jack Burke, River Oaks, Houston and George "Runt" Young, Houston and Frank Walsh, Chicago and Jack Dold, Houston all had totals of four under perfect golf.

Charges of Theft in Dallas, Olney And Archer City Face Pair Held Here

Points in the solution of a car theft from Dallas, a safe-cracking at Olney Thursday night, robbery of a home near Huff in Archer county Friday morning and various thefts from Archer City homes were being collected by Wichita Falls police Friday night following the arrest here of two men in connection with illegal sale of washing machines.

The complexity of the case was not made evident until late Friday upon the arrival of Archer county officers in search for the same two men wanted here on the washing machine charge. It so happened that police here and the Archer county officers were planning to make the arrests at the same time. Investigations made by City Detective Fred Fountain had established a case against the two men and Chief of Police Frank Burns had the Archer county officers wait at headquarters while the arrests were made.

Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney, obtained confessions from the prisoners to the theft of the car from Dallas and to the robbery of the home of H. A. Evans near Huff in Archer county. The two men, Mr. Anglin said, went to the Evans home Friday morning ostensibly to demonstrate a washing machine. Finding no one at home, they took a radio set, a valauable rifle and a shotgun, all of which were recovered after the arrest.

The car was confiscated and Dallas officers notified of its recovery. The two men were later released to the Archer county officers, Deputy Sheriff Anderson and City Marshall Kinkaid of Archer City, who took them to Archer City Friday night for questioning there in connection with the Evans home robbery and several others said to have occurred in that city. They will also be questioned in connection with the cracking of a garage safe in Olney Thursday night, when about $300 was taken.

The washing machine charge here was said to involve fraudulent disposal of the machines resulting in loss to the company represented. It was thought the men sold the machines and made payment to the parent company by worthless checks.

HOME STORES PLAN BATTLE

Meeting at Dallas to Open Chain Fight

DALLAS, Feb. 7.—For the first time in the history of Texas, as far as known, the small independent retailers, who make up the great majority of the state's business men, will ask aid, as a body, from their state legislature.

To show their earnestness as well as the gravity of the situation which they assert confronts them, they are organizing a statewide body with the frank announcement that they are going into politics for the purpose of saving their own commercial lives.

The continued encroachment of the northern and eastern-owned chain stores upon the business of the native Texan grocers, druggists hardware dealers, filling station owners, etc., is given as the reason why these independents are putting on their fighting clothes and marching forth to war.

The first gun is to fired on Wednesday, Feb. 12, when a meeting of independent merchants from all parts of Texas will be held at Dallas. There will be a meeting of the merchants at the Baker hotel at 2 p. m. and a mass meeting at City Hall auditorium at 8 p. m. The call is sent out by H. G. Harcrow, executive secretary of The Home Merchant's Protective league, the statewide organization now in the process of formation but already with members everywhere from Amarillo to Galveston and from Texarkana to El Paso, it is said.

The headquarters of the league are at 717 South Ervay street, Dallas, where Secretary Harcrow and his assistants are perfecting their plans for the meeting.
