Zoo attack

OKLAHOMA CITY — A tapir pulled a zookeeper into its cage and bit her arm off as she tried to feed the animal Friday morning. The woman, who also suffered facial injuries and a punctured lung, was in critical condition and undergoing surgery after the attack at the Oklahoma City Zoo. The arm was detached about the mid-bicep level, said Allen Poston, a University Hospital spokesman. The arm was too mangled and contaminated and could not be reattached, Poston said.

Dash resigns

WASHINGTON — Kenneth Starr's ethics adviser, Watergate veteran Sam Dash, quit in protest Friday, saying the prosecutor "unlawfully intruded" on House impeachment proceedings by acting as an aggressive advocate for his report against President Clinton. Democrats pounced on Dash's resignation as ammunition against Starr.

Alien smuggling

WASHINGTON — Federal officials said Friday they had smashed an international ring that smuggled more than 12,000 Indians and other foreigners into the United States at $20,000 or more a person, using Russia, Cuba and other countries as transit points. It was the largest operation to smuggle aliens into the United States ever dismantled, they said.

Philanthropy is almost the only virtue which is sufficiently appreciated by mankind. — Thoreau

Area philanthropists honored for community contributions

West Texans of many ages were honored for their humanitarian work Friday during the National Philanthropy Day luncheon.

Kail

The Lady Rebels basketball team from Lee High School received the first Outstanding Youth in Philanthropy award from the Permian Basin chapter, National Society of Fund Raising Executives.

Getting young people involved in community work was a focus of the day, with a "Youth In Philanthropy" workshop presented before the luncheon.

The workshop was led by Kathy Agard of the Michigan Council on Foundations and K-12 Education and Philanthropy Project.

"I think young people are getting more involved in community work," Ms. Agard said. "We're working to put a structure in place to help them."

Young people are naturally idealistic "and we've realized that we need to get young people involved in philanthropy if we want to produce adults like the ones honored here today," she said.

Economist says young Hispanics will fuel economy

By Shay Templeton

The nation's economic future boils down to one key statistic: Youth.

Noted economist Ray Perryman, founder of the Perryman Group, made this assertion Friday night in an address to the Midland Hispanic Chamber of Commerce.

Hispanics, who likely will become the nation's new majority in the next millennium, will continue to be a driving force in the economy, Perryman said.

Texas is among four states producing young successful workers, and young workers are essential to a good economy, Perryman contended. The other key states at this point are Utah, Oklahoma and Oregon.

Perryman

Much of the economic growth in Texas is due to the rapid increase in the Hispanic birth rate, which has helped fuel a 65 percent growth rate in Hispanic-owned businesses over the past 10 years.

The Hispanic community is producing the young workers who will perform the functions that drive the economy, whether it be in the technical fields, or as the nation continues to forge ahead in the global arena, he said.

"Emering opportunity of Hispanic businesses are the same for [illegible] other businesses," he said, "Ya'll run this show."

Twenty-nine Texas Hispanic chambers were represented at the meeting, as well as the board for the Texas Association of Mexican American Chamber of Commerce, TAMACC.

The Midland Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, which has been voted Hispanic Chamber of the Year four times, celebrated 14 years; its first director, Elviria G. Hernandez, emceed the event. Ms. Hernandez is now a city representative in El Paso.

Brian Adamcik/Reporter-Telegram

The Texas Association of Mexican American Chambers of Commerce convened in Midland Friday and today. Among those participating in discussions Friday were Tomasa Garcia, right, with the Denton chamber; Joe Morin, center, president of the association; and Marcie Delgado, Grand Prairie chamber.

In other business during Friday's annual banquet, MHCC's new chairman, Jerry Morales, officially took charge.

"As we move toward the new millennium, our theme will be 'Adelante Midland,'" Morales said. "Or, 'We will go together forward.'"

The local Hispanic Chamber of Commerce has taken on many worthy projects, Morales said. They include a $2 million beautification at the Garden City Highway entrance to Midland on the city's east side. Another project Morales pointed to with pride was the destruction of a former "crack house" and the forming of a community park in its place.

Other officers serving on the new board of directors will be:

Patrick Cordero, immediate past chair

Simulated plane crash fine-tunes airport firefighters

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

For firefighters, fire is both dangerous and exciting.

Uncontrolled, it propels them into immediate action. Theirs is a calling to save lives.

Salvaging property is secondary, especially so when their assignment is airport safety: responding to aircraft fires and crashes.

"It's the challenge, and there's a little hint of danger all the time," said Midland firefighter-paramedic David Hickman.

Hickman, 44, clad in his silvery "baked-potato" bunkers worn by Aircraft Rescue and Fire Fighting crew at Midland International Airport, instructed ARFF-qualified firefighters at their annual practice drill Friday at the Midland Fire Department's Drill Field east of town.

Their fine-tuned training, required by the Federal Aviation Administration, helps prepare them for battling aircraft fuel fires, especially airliner fires, crashes or other emergencies, at the airport or elsewhere within their response range. "You live on the edge," Hickman said of his fascination in taking on fires. "And it forces you to think — use your mind. It's challenging."

"It's a thrill to help other people, too. Our main concern is our flying public at the airport," Hickman said. "They are our priority."

At the drill field, ARFF Chief Vaughn Donaldson turned the valve that allowed hundreds of gallons of diesel fuel to flow into the blackened concrete practice pit. Another firefighter poured the primer — a few gallons of gasoline — into the pit.

And the fire was ready to start. Almost.

"You got a lighter?" fireman-paramedic Dean Stalder yelled to Donaldson.

"No," Donaldson replied. "I don't smoke."

"We got no fire!" Fire Capt. Ken Whiting said.

Somehow, Hickman got hold of a book of matches, and they were ready to ignite the water-and-fuel-filled pit to simulate an aircraft fire.

It was slow at first. But the fire soon billowed into rolling orange and flicking flames that emitted the ominous, mushrooming smoke associated with oil-field fires.

"It's pretty exciting. It's exhilarating," driver-paramedic Kris Morgan said later.

Joining the Midland firefighters was

District attorney to seek death penalty for Odessa couple charged in toddler's death

ODESSA — A second suspect indicted in connection with the 1995 beating death of an Odessa toddler turned himself in to authorities Friday morning.

Carlos Cain Hinojos, 23, and Cynthia Jolynn Graves, 23, were both charged by an Ector County grand jury Thursday with capital murder, which stems from the Nov. 19, 1995, death of Ms. Grave's 2-year-old son, Brandon Layne Graves.

Ms. Graves turned herself in to the Ector County jail Thursday with her attorney. Police tried executing an arrest warrant for Hinojos that day, but were not successful finding him. He and his attorney reported to the jail at 9 a.m. Friday without incident, officials said.

Ms. Graves, who moved to Stanton before her arrest, was living with Hinojos when the toddler died, officials said. Hinojos was not the victim's father, though Ms. Graves is now pregnant with his child.

District Judge Bill McCoy ordered authorities to keep the couple in the jail without bond until their trial is held, since District Attorney John W. Smith is seeking the death penalty for the young couple, police said.

Autopsy reports indicate that the baby died of peritonitis — a severe bowel infection that eventually causes a slow, painful death, Smith said.

The toddler was beaten with such force that it

Man sentenced for death of Big Spring resident

By Rick López
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — A 28-year-old man found guilty of killing a Big Spring resident known among the community for his eccentric, vagabond lifestyle was sentenced to 17 1/2 years in prison for his crime, officials said Friday.

Howard County jurors convicted Raymond Cisneros of first-degree murder Thursday for killing James Neely, 51, by throwing him off a 30-foot overpass at Highway 87 and Interstate Highway 20.

An accomplice in the case, Dennis Boswell, 27, was initially charged with murder, but pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of manslaughter while the jury was deliberating Wednesday, Assistant District Attorney William Dupree said.

Boswell received 10 years probation, Dupree said.

The incident started the night of June 22, when the defendants were drinking and cruising near a truck stop.

Cisneros saw the victim and remembered that his girlfriend told him that Neely gave her a hard time at a laundromat where she used to work, Big Spring Police spokesman Sgt. Roger Sweatt said.

The men provoked a fight and eventually threw Neely over the overpass. A motorist who spotted Neely's body in the center marker of the Interstate called authorities, Sweatt said.

The case was initially investigated as an accident, but police received reports from witnesses who saw Boswell's pickup at the scene and remembered some of the numbers on his license plates, Sweatt said.

Eventually, the two defendants were arrested and charged in Neely's death.

Sweatt said that many people in this town of 23,000 knew the victim for his eccentric habits.

Though the man received a monthly disability check, he rarely had a place of his own, and when he did, it wasn't for long. He had relatives in California he could live with, but chose to call the streets of Big Spring home, Sweatt said.

"Many people got along with him pretty well," he said. "He had a few problems. I think he had post-traumatic stress from the Vietnam War, but he never got in trouble with the law.

"But these guys had a problem with him, and the next thing you know, he was dead."

Big Spring man given probation for sexual assault of Midland teen

By Rick López
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — A Big Spring man was sentenced to seven years probation for having consensual sex with a 13-year-old Midland runaway, officials said Friday.

Ruben Gutierrez, 19, was convicted Thursday of sexual assault stemming from a Nov. 3, 1997 incident he had with the Midland teen and her younger sister. Prosecutors said the man knew the girl's families for a long time and knew their age.

"He's been around the girls since they were in diapers. Even though it was consensual, he should have known better," Assistant District Attorney William Dupree said.

The incident started when he spent the night with the girl's family during a weekend visit to Midland. Before he left for Big Spring one morning, the girls' mother asked Gutierrez if he would give them a ride to school, Dupree said.

"Mom was tired from working all night, so she asked him if he would do her a favor," he said.

However, the defendant talked the girls into skipping school and took them to his house in Big Spring, where they spent four days without telling their parents where they were. Midland officials thought the girls were kidnapped and had launched a full search, Dupree said.

Once the girls were finally back home, the victim told her mother she had sexual intercourse with Gutierrez. The girl told police she was not harmed or injured, Dupree said.

"It was consensual, but obviously, we have to prosecute the case because the law does not provide consensual sex (with minors) as a defense," Dupree said. "These laws are there to keep adults from taking advantage of children."

Gutierrez must also pay a $3,000 fine as part of his probationary conditions, he said.

Lava begins to flow at Mexican volcano

COLIMA, Mexico (AP) — Lava began to surge up in the crater of the rumbling Colima Volcano Friday, leading experts to predict the smoking peak would stage a "low-intensity" emission of molten rock rather than the explosive eruption some had feared.

The appearance of the lava, detected during a helicopter flight by researchers over the 12,700-foot peak, forced authorities in southern Colima state to put off plans to allow residents of an evacuated village to return to their homes.

"The developments indicate that a low intensity lava flow has begun ... if it continues, it would overflow onto one of the volcano's slopes," the state government said in a press statement.

Such a flow would increase the risk to the village of Yerba Buena, on the volcano's southern flank about 5 miles from the crater.

All 140 residents of the village were evacuated from Yerba Buena Wednesday, after the volcano gave signals of an impending eruption stronger than any seen in decades.

In 1913 the volcano exploded, shattering windows and showering ash in towns several miles away.

However, geologists say that the current eruption will be more like a 1991 incident in which lava flows didn't reach the lower flanks of the peak.

No lava flow in recent history at the volcano — also known as the Volcan de Fuego, Spanish for Volcano of Fire — has reached towns or roads on the lower flanks.

Residents of two hamlets on the northern flanks of the volcano in neighboring Jalisco state who were also evacuated Wednesday will be allowed to return to their homes, authorities said. The release of lava through the crater may reduce pressure building up under the peak and reduce risks to those hamlets.

By Thursday, the lava had pushed aside blocks of old volcanic material measuring 160 by 60 feet that were deposited by previous eruptions.

POLICE REPORTS

'Operation Blue Talon'

ODESSA — Not wearing a seat belt in Odessa will be more dangerous than usual this holiday weekend.

"Operation Blue Talon," part of a nationwide "Buckle Up America" campaign, will be conducted Monday through Nov. 29.

The Odessa Police Department will join more than 17,000 Texas law enforcement officers and nearly 200 agencies statewide in increasing the enforcement of seat belt laws.

"One-fourth of all drivers and passengers in Texas are exposing themselves and their children to serious injury and even death, simply because they are not buckling up," said a Police Department spokesman.

"When a driver is unbuckled, 70 percent of the time children in that car will not be buckled up either. A child who is left unprotected by a seat belt or a car seat in a 30 mile per hour crash is just like dropping that child from a third-story window."

In order to help enforce the campaign, officers will be stopping drivers to write tickets for non-use of child safety seats and seat belts, the spokesman said.

DRILL: Heat from fire can reach 2,000 degrees

(From 1A)

Tonya Williams, a Lamesa firefighter and emergency medical technician. "I get to help people. I really love my job. It's always exciting."

In four simulated aircraft fires, the attack team manned the high-volume water-spraying hose, assaulted each fire, and extinguished the fires from slightly less than a minute to about 90 seconds.

In each instance, the hose was aimed at the base of the fire. A stand-by team was ready to help put out the conflagration or protect the closer-in attack team.

Two pumper units were running to build up water pressure in the firefighters' hoses that spray volumes of water.

"You have to go right up to the edge of the pit and start pushing the fire away from the corner," Hickman instructed the firemen.

While exhorting them to aggressively fight the fire, he warned them to be careful.

"Safety is paramount," Hickman said. "We've had a couple of guys get scorched. Make sure you are tucked up good (in the bunkers) — cover up good."

The heat gets to an alarming 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

"You've got to use aggressive techniques, guys," Hickman said. "Our main thing is to keep the fire off of the passengers — the crew and the passengers."

In a live fire or crash at the airport, the firefighters' response must be quick.

"If you can have an immediate response and get that fire put out, there may be people walking wounded, wandering around," Donaldson said. Being prepared is all important.

"We have a good system out there," Donaldson, 38, said. "We have a good (control) tower. We have well-trained personnel stationed out at the airport. The Airport Operations people, (Midland's Director of Airports) Ken Day and his bunch, do a great job out there. So, we are well prepared. And, statistically, flying an airplane is safer than driving a car.

"Statistically, we shouldn't even have any crashes, but you never know," he said.

Fighting fire is a "dangerous job. We would never risk a life just for property. Property can be replaced."

The risk-taking of a firefighter jeopardizing his or her life to save another would be an individual decision, Donaldson said.

"People (sometimes) will do it on their own, and we don't want that," Donaldson said. "We want people following the chain of command, especially at an emergency."

The training this week was to prepare the firefighters for aircraft emergencies.

"We just want to make sure everybody is qualified, and that they feel comfortable the way they are fighting fires ... so they will know what to do," said Battalion Chief Gary Chastain.

"Our goal is to make an access for the people who are on the plane to get them out to save as many lives as we possibly can," he said.

"Everything else is secondary. We haven't had a major airliner go down here, not yet," Chastain said. "So, we have been real lucky."

HONORS: Philanthropy expressed in almost every culture

(From 1A)

Another first-time award, Outstanding Philanthropic Family, was presented to the Roden/Deaderick family of Odessa.

Other honorees include Helen Greathouse, outstanding philanthropist; Ingrid Zeeck, outstanding volunteer fund-raiser; Barbara Tom Jowell, outstanding fund- raising executive; The Beal Foundation, outstanding foundation; Midland Downtown Lions Club, outstanding philanthropic organization; and Conoco Inc., outstanding corporation.

The luncheon gathering was addressed by Curtis Meadows Jr., director emeritus of the Meadows Foundation in Dallas, which has provided 72 grants in Midland and Odessa totaling about $4 million.

"I am pleased to be here to help honor these people who have done much for their community," he said. "They represent the true spirit of America and are the torchbearers of liberty and citizenship."

He told the gathering that the nation's philanthropic spirit is rooted in its beginnings, "a legacy that is an interwoven story of wealth and poverty, dreams and frustrations."

Philanthropy is expressed in various ways in nearly every culture across the globe and is taught by all religions, he said. When immigrants of various cultures and religions began spreading across the new United States, he said they brought with them their traditions, a suspicion of government and desire for freedom. They frequently populated areas before local authority was established and formed associations with their neighbors to address problems.

"This tradition of addressing issues outside government is a hallmark of our society and was felt so strongly we included freedom of speech, public gathering and religion in the First Amendment," he said.

It is why that the nation is home to 1.5 million non-profit organizations, churches and associations and 70 percent of all American homes contribute to charities and 100 million Americans volunteer 20 billion hours and $150 billion out of their own resources a year, he said.

"The challenge for society is to continue to seek to widen our sense of connectivity to an expanding group of others, connecting with others and journeying together to that place we all want to go. We cannot hope to solve the issues of our time without a sense of 'connectedness' to others outside our small circle."

Lee Lady Rebels Coach Elise Kail and Principal George Cooper accepted the team's award from Sandy Tisdale, who said that four years ago the team made a commitment to raise funds each year for a non-profit organization. Funds are raised by collecting pledges for a charity free-throw event held each fall during the team's regular season. This year the team raised $5,500 for the Boys and Girls Club of Midland.

Ray Unterbrink, retired director of Midland Association for Retarded Citizens, credited Helen Greathouse with helping construct the city's first six-bed group home for those with mental retardation. She has also funded other projects, he said.

"I believe she has influenced the field of retardation in the state of Texas," Unterbrink said.

Odessa Mayor Mike Atkins presented the Roden/Deaderick Family with its award, saying that "if you're a citizen of West Texas, you have probably, directly or indirectly, been a beneficiary of their kindness."

Receiving the award were Ted Roden, whose older brother Tom "Pinkie" Roden came to Odessa in the 1930s, and Roden's nephew, Franklin Deaderick, son of the Rodens' sister, Ann Roden Deaderick.

Atkins listed as beneficiaries of their generosity since the 1940s the Midland and Odessa chambers of commerce, Midland College, University of Texas of the Permian Basin, Boy Scouts, American Heart Association, Permian Basin Rehabilitation Center and Boys and Girls Clubs, among others.

Odessan Ingrid Zeeck was presented her award by Dr. Nathan Galloway, who said she has worked with various groups, including schools, churches, music and the arts and was honored by Odessa Heritage for her contributions to the arts. Other activities have included the Ector County Medical Society's mission to Central America and work with St. John's Episcopal School Board, Junior Service League of Odessa and the Midland Odessa Symphony and Chorale. She works with the Ellen Noel Art Museum and on the Texas Commission for the Arts advisory panel.

"She and her husband came to Odessa in 1968 and West Texas has not been the same. She has used her charm, intelligence and Swedish beauty plus a great deal of determination," Galloway said.

Barbara Tom Jowell was honored for innovative fund-raising initiatives, said Eileen Piwetz of Midland College, who received the fund-raising executive award in 1996.

"She is an eternal o[illegible]mist with enough energy, drive and d[illegible]mination for 10 people," Ms. Piwetz said. "I asked her two daughters to describe her, and they said she is a role model, a guide, a mentor, a confidante and a friend."

Paul Rea, a long-time United Way volunteer, presented the Beal Foundation with its award, which was accepted by Spencer Beal. Beal founded the foundation along with his parents, Carlton and Colleen Beal, in 1963.

Rea said that the foundation puts emphasis on start-ups, new programs and new projects for education, welfare and the humanities. Among those benefiting from the Beal Foundation have been Trinity School, Midland College, YMCA, High Sky Children's Ranch, PDAP, Rape Crisis Center, United Way, Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale, Casa de Amigos and Midland Soup Kitchen.

Midland Mayor Bobby Burns helped honor the Downtown Lions Club, citing their 75-year history in Midland — from putting in a wading pool in the young city's main park on Cloverdale Road, to selling bonds and entertaining troops during World War II, to helping raise funds to build Midland Memorial Hospital and to restore two engines for the Fire Department.

Burns said the group has donated a total of $1 million to various local charities and renovated the former Hodge Theater as its headquarters to house its eyeglass recycling center that provides free eyeglasses to the poor around the globe.

Independent oilman Arlen Edgar, chairman of the board of the Abell-Hangar Foundation, said that Conoco's philanthropic activity stems from its executive such as former regional manager Bob Irelan. Irelan, who retired earlier this year, made a substantial contribution to United Way of Midland before he moved to Bakersfield, Calif., Edgar said.

Edgar said that Conoco employees have been generous with their time and money, donating $160,000 to United Way of Midland this year, $47,000 to March of Dimes and donating 15,000 man hours to work on five homes for Christmas in April. They are also active with Meals on Wheels, Prevent Blindness, Multiple Sclerosis Society, Partners in Education, Hillcrest School, Keep Midland Beautiful, Petroleum Museum, Midland Community Theater and the Permian Basin Nike Open.

CHARGES: Authorities believe child was punched, kicked to death ripped a hole in his colon that was large enough to stick a finger through it. His injury caused an agonizing infection that killed the child within two to three days, Smith said.

The child also sustained massive head injuries and broken ribs from the alleged assault, police said.

Authorities believe that the baby was punched and kicked to death and struck with a weapon that was unknown to the grand jury and authorities, Smith said.

Child Protective Services had investigated the woman several times before her arrest, Smith said. He plans on subpoenaing their records, he said.

Attorneys representing the suspects said they are uneasy with the idea that it took authorities three years to arrest and charge their clients.

"It shows that there are tremendous problems with respect to my client's (alleged involvement)," said Jeff Hinkley, who represents Ms. Graves. "All of us — including myself — are bothered to such a degree that we can't find the appropriate words to describe it."

John Hoestenbach, who represents Hinojos, said that police probing the case were eager to name his client as a suspect because he was the person who took the baby to the emergency room of Medical Center Hospital.

Hinojos was arrested two days after the child's death on charges of sexual assault, because the doctor who initially saw the victim thought the boy was a victim of rape.

However, charges were dismissed after the medical examiner's report was received by the District Attorney's Office and showed his death was caused by other circumstances, Smith said.

"I think it's strange that it's taken them all these years to come up with an arrest warrant," Hoestenbach said. "So was the fact that they had to bring in outside experts before they felt secure enough to bring it to a grand jury."

Smith defended the criticism heaved against his office and Odessa Metro Homicide Unit, which took so long to present the case to a grand jury because the nature of the crime requires extra careful investigation, he said.

"They require more detail than your first-degree felony cases. We took a lot of steps that we wouldn't normally have to," Smith said. "I wanted to be absolutely sure that this was a strong case."

The prosecution's presentation to the grand jury took three hours, he said. The biggest obstacle in his investigation was the lack of witnesses, Smith said.

"Anytime you have a child's death where the only two witnesses are the suspects, you're not going to get much information," he said.

Hoestenbach said that his client feels like he's been branded a murderer with the publicity of the case, but as the trial process gets rolling, his client gets closer to his chance for redemption.

"He has been badgered by police for three years. So were his families, friends, and employers ... it's been relentless," Hoestenbach said. "In a way, the arrest came as a great relief for my client. Finally, the accusations against him will have to stand up in a court of law. It will give him the chance to clear his name."

Hinkley has filed a motion to have a bond hearing for his client, who he says possesses no threat to the community if she is released from jail until her trial is held.

"She has a job, she lives with her parents ... I believe that she doesn't pose a threat to anyone. She's never been in trouble or in any other circumstance," Hinkley said. "She's shocked, she's dismayed, but she's a strong girl and surviving the storm with us.

Ms. Graves' daughter is living with Ms. Graves' parents, Hinkley said.

Two men locally sentenced to death penalty await execution

By Rick López
Staff Writer

ODESSA — While Ector County prosecutors are seeking the death penalty in the case of a young couple arrested for the death of a 2-year-old boy, an Odessa man awaits his execution day.

In 1995, a jury gave Michael Dean Gonzalez, now 25, the death penalty for an April 21, 1994, stabbing death of two senior citizens. The man stabbed two robbery victims with a butcher knife, Ector County District Attorney John Smith said.

Gonzales arrived at the Huntsville prison on Dec. 11, 1995. A date for Gonzalez's execution has not been set, said Glen Castlebury, a spokesman for the criminal justice department.

Though no Midlanders are on death row, a Midland County jury rendered the death penalty for a Plano man who kidnapped and strangled a 7-year-old Dallas girl on Sept. 3, 1993.

It was reported that the killer, Michael Blair, now 28, abducted the girl, Ashley Estell, as her parents watched her brother play soccer.

A Collin County district court judge moved the trial from Collin County to Midland because of the publicity it received there. It was the first death penalty handed down in Midland since a 1983 change-of-venue case from Lubbock.

Before that, it was 1962 when a Midland man was sentenced to death. He was eventually released from prison after serving more than 30 years in a state penitentiary, according to Reporter-Telegram archives.

Castlebury said that a total of 446 Texas inmates are on death row. Ten of them — who were convicted between 1977 to 1992 — are scheduled for execution between December and January.

However, it is uncertain how many of them will actually be executed and how many deaths will be delayed by appeals, he said.

"We usually don't know which appeals have been filed, exhausted or turned over," Castlebury said. "The date's never the one they set during the trial."

In fact, death row inmates stay locked up for an average of 10 years before they are executed, Castlebury said. It's unusual to see someone put to death before several years have lapsed, he said.

"The only way (a new inmate) will be executed is if they are volunteers and waive all of their appeal rights," Castlebury said. "If not, during those 10 years, they'll have at least two or three dates set for them, but they'll be scrubbed within their stay."

In recent years, legislators have helped speed up the process by passing a law that requires inmates to file all their appeals simultaneously, Castlebury said.

Usually, a convict can appeal on the basis of a mistake in the court proceedings, new evidence or constitutional rights. Before the new law, they could file each appeal individually, which would extend the execution date.

However, the average wait is still between six and eight years, he said.

"Everyday, a case comes in and you see the same thing. You don't know when the day's coming when they actually do it," Castlebury said.

KOSA-TV announces layoffs

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — KOSA-TV, in an effort to reduce costs, has cut five positions and canceled its 6 a.m. newscast.

Benedek Broadcasting, which owns KOSA, expects 1999 to be a weak year for advertising revenues and asked its 22 stations to cut costs.

KOSA General Manager Andy Lee said the five positions were primarily in production and worked on the early morning broadcast.

"Our company believes 1999 will be a difficult year and felt it was appropriate to prepare for it now rather than in the first or second quarter next year," he said.

"We're not doing anything different than others have done. Texaco has done it, IBM has done it, Calloway Golf (a club manufacturer) just did it."

States approve tobacco settlement, but industry still faces big problems

Associated Press

'If the tobacco companies think for one minute this is going to buy them any peace in Massachusetts, they are sadly mistaken.'
— Lori Fresina, spokeswoman for the Massachusetts chapter of the American Cancer Society

NEW YORK — Forty-six states on Friday unanimously embraced a $206 billion settlement with cigarette makers over health costs for treating sick smokers, eliminating a big threat to the industry.

But Big Tobacco, which said it would sign the agreement Monday, still has plenty to worry about.

The industry faces individual and class-action lawsuits by smokers and their families. The Justice Department is reportedly conducting a criminal investigation into whether the industry misled Congress about tobacco's dangers. Cigarette prices are expected to rise 35 cents to 40 cents a pack to pay for the settlement.

And tobacco companies also face the prospect of renewed efforts in Congress to tighten the reins on tobacco, including putting the Food and Drug Administration in charge of regulating tobacco products as a drug.

Anti-smoking advocates were unhappy that the deal extracted fewer concessions from the industry than a broader $368.5 billion agreement reached in 1997 that later died in Congress.

"The deal concedes far too much to Big Tobacco and provides far too little to protect public health," American Lung Association chief executive John Garrison said.

Under the deal — the biggest civil settlement in U.S. history — the tobacco company payments will be distributed to the states over 25 years, beginning in the year 2000, and will also help finance anti-smoking research and education programs.

The companies also will give up billboard advertising, cartoons in ads, branded merchandise sales and other marketing tactics that critics say makes smoking more appealing to children. The tobacco billboards will come down by April.

"Joe Camel and his ilk are in intensive care and will be gone by April," said Christine Gregoire, Washington attorney general and leader of the state negotiators. (R.J. Reynolds actually stopped using Joe Camel in advertisements a year ago.)

The plan had been negotiated over five months between the nation's four biggest tobacco companies and attorneys general from eight states.

Gregoire called the settlement "a great victory but it is not the end of the war. Most people now realize the war against tobacco won't be won in one decisive engagement," she said.

She said the attorneys general intend to support efforts to get Congress to pass comprehensive legislation on tobacco including FDA authority.

Public health advocates vowed to fight in the state legislatures to make sure the money goes to public health and tobacco control efforts.

"If the tobacco companies think for one minute this is going to buy them any peace in Massachusetts, they are sadly mistaken," said Lori Fresina, spokeswoman for the Massachusetts chapter of the American Cancer Society.

The tobacco companies issued a two-sentence release saying they had been told all the states had agreed to the deal and that they intend to sign it Monday.

The tobacco companies who negotiated the settlement are Philip Morris Cos., R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corp. and the Lorillard Tobacco Co.

A fifth smaller company, Liggett Group Inc., was a late addition to the settlement. Liggett was the first tobacco company to settle with the states but it could have suffered financially if it were left out of the new agreement.

Massachusetts and Maryland, which had been considered potential defectors from the multi-state agreement, were among those waiting until the last minute to sign on.

Maryland Attorney General J. Joseph Curran said "the tobacco industry is being brought to its knees and forced to help reverse the public health disaster it created."

Georgia Attorney General Thurbert Baker said his state felt "there are many things that this agreement accomplishes, particularly in the public health arena, that we could not achieve through our lawsuit in Georgia."

Four states — Florida, Minnesota, Mississippi and Texas — had reached settlements for a combined $40 billion before this proposal was created for the remaining 46 states and Washington, D.C.

For state attorneys general, the choice was to take the deal with the billions of dollars that would come with it or fight the tobacco companies in court for a better deal while risking the chance of losing.

And there were other considerations, too, especially a provision that lets tobacco companies continue to sponsor a sporting event, such as a series of auto races.

"We were able to gain protection for the sponsorship of NASCAR, which is an important institution in South Carolina," said that state's attorney general, Charlie Condon.

Starr adviser quits, protesting impeachment testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kenneth Starr's ethics adviser, Watergate veteran Sam Dash, quit in protest Friday, saying the prosecutor "unlawfully intruded" on House impeachment proceedings by acting as an aggressive advocate for his report against President Clinton.

Democrats pounced on Dash's resignation as ammunition against Starr. House Judiciary Committee Chairman Henry Hyde defended the independent counsel, saying that "if he had not agreed to testify at our request, we would have been compelled to subpoena him."

In a letter to Starr objecting to the prosecutor's testimony Thursday before the Judiciary Committee, Dash said: "You have violated your obligations under the independent counsel statute."

"You have no right or authority under the law, as independent counsel, to advocate for a particular position on the evidence before the Judiciary Committee or to argue that the evidence in your referral is strong enough to justify a decision by the committee to recommend impeachment," Dash wrote.

Starr disagreed with Dash's interpretation.

"I believe a fair reading of the testimony yesterday ... is that I described what was in the referral" to Congress setting out the case against Clinton, said Starr. "If one reads the grounds that are set forth in the referral, one will see that what I was doing yesterday was explaining it."

"Reasonable minds can differ," he added.

Dash, chief counsel to the Senate Watergate Committee a quarter-century ago, drew a distinction between Starr's Sept. 9 written referral to the House and his forceful testimony Thursday to the House Judiciary Committee.

'You have no right or authority under the law, as independent counsel, to advocate for a particular position on the evidence before the Judiciary Committee or to argue that the evidence in your referral is strong enough to justify a decision by the committee to recommend impeachment.'

—ethics adviser Sam Dash, in a letter to Kenneth Starr

Dash said that "you have ... unlawfully intruded on the power of impeachment" by using congressional testimony to "serve as an aggressive advocate for the proposition that the evidence in your referral demonstrates that the president committed impeachable offenses."

Dash said Starr had "only one narrow duty," which is "to objectively provide for the House substantial and credible information that may constitute grounds for impeachment."

Starr said he respected Dash's difference of opinion. "I love Sam. I respect him. I admire him. He's a total man of principle. I have really profited from his judgment. I think it was a matter of principle. It was so important to him," Starr added.

Criticism of Starr was immediate.

"Here's the final word from a giant of American jurisprudence on the methods, motives and ethics of Ken Starr," said Jim Jordan, a spokesman for House Judiciary Committee Democrats.

"Sam Dash's criticism of Ken Starr's appearance before the House Judiciary Committee is right on target," said Rep. Marty Meehan, D-Mass. "Ken Starr's willingness to make a case for impeachment just reinforces the concerns many of us have had about his judgment."

"After Sam Dash resigned, what else do you need to know about Ken Starr?" said Washington white-collar defense lawyer E. Lawrence Barcella, a former federal prosecutor. "That pretty much says it all about this prosecution."

In his testimony to the Judiciary Committee, Starr gave no indication that he had a serious disagreement with Dash. Starr hailed Dash's "great wisdom during my tenure," noting that the Watergate figure had consulted on the impeachment referral that accused Clinton of abuse of his presidential powers.

"We were guided by Sam Dash, who had very strong views on that," Starr said.

Dash was instrumental in breaking a months-long stalemate between Starr's office and Monica Lewinsky's lawyers, hosting a breakfast meeting at his home in late July that brought the two sides together and led to the deal that secured her cooperation.

A registered Democrat, Dash has long said that if Starr didn't heed his advice, he would not stay on as Starr's ethics adviser. He has been a lawyer for nearly five decades and teaches at Georgetown University Law Center.

In his two-page letter, which begins "Dear Ken," Dash said that his "decision to leave has nothing whatsoever to do with the many unfounded and misinformed attacks on your conduct as independent counsel. Through most of your tenure, I have been fully informed by you and your staff on all major decisions. ... Where I disagreed, you showed your willingness to be open to my advice and you came to different decisions."

Dash said that Starr and his staff had conducted themselves "with integrity and professionalism."

Dash recently came under attack for the $400 an hour Dash charged the government for his services as Starr's ethics counselor. Dash has said he worked many hours without charging.

Feds dismantle largest immigrant-smuggling ring yet

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Federal officials said Friday they had smashed an international ring that smuggled more than 12,000 Indians and other foreigners into the United States at $20,000 or more a person, using Russia, Cuba and other countries as transit points.

It was the largest operation to smuggle aliens into the United States ever dismantled, they said.

"Let all those who flout the nation's immigration laws be warned: We plan to take swift and decisive action against smuggling whenever we discover it," Attorney General Janet Reno said at a news conference.

Twenty-one people have been arrested in the United States, Puerto Rico and the Bahamas as part of "Operation Seek and Keep," a yearlong smuggling and money-laundering investigation led by the Immigration and Naturalization Service. A federal grand jury in Dallas charged 31 people in three sealed indictments that contain 58 immigration and money-laundering counts.

The organization's alleged ringleader, Nick Diaz, also known as Nitin Shettie, was arrested by INS officials in the Bahamas last week and is in custody in Miami. A second alleged leader, Navtej Pall Singh Sandu, was arrested in Puerto Rico; while a third, Niranjan Maan Singh, is being sought. He is believed to be in India.

Officials said the organization, a loose confederation of three separate cartels, specialized in smuggling Indian nationals through Moscow to Cuba, where they were dispatched to Ecuador, the Bahamas or Mexico before being smuggled into Texas, Florida and other U.S. points by land, sea or air. The ring also smuggled aliens from Afghanistan, Pakistan and Syria, the officials said.

"Cracking a multimillion-dollar alien smuggling ring whose operations spanned four continents is an impressive achievement that underscores INS' commitment to defending the integrity of this nation's immigration laws," said INS Commissioner Doris Meissner.

The ring, whose take was estimated at nearly $220 million, smuggled more than 12,000 foreigners into the United States over the last three years, Meissner said. The illegal immigrants were detained in secret houses in New Jersey, Florida and elsewhere until their families or prospective employers paid their smuggling fees. Aliens whose smuggling fees were paid by an employer worked for that employer until the debt was paid off, officials said.

Reno criticized the "unscrupulous employers ... who wanted cheap labor and fearful workers who could easily be manipulated."

Officials would not name the employers or specify their industries.

But U.S. Attorney Paul Coggins of the Northern District of Texas, where the investigation began, said numerous worksite enforcement actions will result: "We have approximately 1,000 leads across this country in connection with the unscrupulous businesses that placed orders for these illegal aliens."

While most of the smuggled aliens remained on the East Coast, INS said its investigation identified aliens or employers in 38 states. Some of the aliens are being held as material witnesses, Coggins said.

Smuggling profits were shipped to India through Dallas, the Bahamas, Canada, Dubai, Ecuador or the United Arab Emirates, INS said.

The governments of the Bahamas, Canada, Ecuador, India and Panama cooperated in the investigation, which also involved the FBI, U.S. Customs Service, Internal Revenue Service, State Department and U.S. Postal Inspection Service.

After beginning its arrests last week, INS discovered that some of the aliens were being housed in transit countries. Through information provided by INS, Bahamian officials found 31 Indian nationals, and Ecuadorean officials found 30 being held at a smuggler's residence.

The U.S. government is working to give Cuba information about smugglers and 37 Indians held in transit there.

The immigration service used new authority granted under the 1996 immigration law to intercept electronic communications, monitoring more than 35,000 calls during the investigation.

The case also marks the first time federal prosecutors have used money-laundering statutes to dismantle an alien smuggling operation and seize assets, Coggins said.

Boston transit authority pulls 'Psycho' posters

BOSTON (AP) — Posters promoting the upcoming remake of Alfred Hitchcock's "Psycho" will be checking out of subway stations and buses, unlike some guests at the Bates Motel.

On Thursday, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority said it's pulling them down following more than a dozen complaints from offended riders.

"It was creepy. I was troubled by it," said Steve Adams, the state's assistant treasurer who was taking the subway to work last week when he came across one of the posters.

They show the silhouette of a woman behind an opaque shower door with blood pooled near the bottom.

Universal Studios plans a Dec. 4 release for its remake of "Psycho," directed by Gus Van Sant. Anne Heche fills the role Janet Leigh played in Hitchcock's 1960 original, with its nightmarish scene of a woman repeatedly being stabbed in the shower at a secluded motel.

This time, House GOP uses seniority to pick chairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans decided to fill three vacant committee chairmanships on Friday with the men next in line by seniority, including two lawmakers who were passed over for the posts when Newt Gingrich was speaker.

The selections, endorsed by Speaker-to-be Bob Livingston and ratified by voice vote of House Republicans, were closely watched by fellow legislators wondering how much power Livingston is trying to accrue for himself. He is widely expected to allow committee chairmen more independence than did Gingrich, R-Ga., who at times ordered changes in committee-written legislation.

In the 106th Congress that convenes in January, GOP Reps. Larry Combest of Texas will head the House Agriculture Committee, Bill Young of Florida will replace Livingston as chairman of the Appropriations panel and David Dreier of California will head the Rules Committee. The three — along with all other committee chairmen — will have to be formally approved by the House.

Livingston, whom Gingrich vaulted into the Appropriations chairmanship over longer-serving legislators four years ago, said Friday's decision did not mean he was strictly adhering to the seniority system.

"I don't have any hard and fast rules that have guided us," Livingston, R-La., told reporters.

But with House Republicans facing deep ideological divides even as they prepare for a new Congress in which they will have a razor-thin 12-seat majority, some analysts say Livingston had little real choice but to go pick chairmen who were already next in line. To do otherwise could ignite factional battles at a time when Republicans are preaching their need for unity.

"It's hard to believe he could pick chairmen other than by seniority without opening a big can of worms," said Joseph Parker, a political science professor at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The system of using seniority for committee chairmanships was installed early in this century in reaction to the powers that Speaker Joseph Cannon accumulated for himself.

Democrats abandoned it in the 1970s as Watergate-era lawmakers demanded congressional reforms, and Gingrich chose Livingston and a couple of other relatively junior lawmakers to head committees when he became speaker in 1995. Even so, most committee chairmen under the Democrats and under Gingrich were also the senior members of their panels.

As it turned out, Young, Combest and Dreier are widely popular among House Republicans. And with conservatives willing to allow Livingston a honeymoon period, the selections — all of which were known for some time — never threatened to evolve into internal GOP fights.

Combest, 53, just elected to his eighth two-year House term, seemed next in line to take over the Agriculture Committee two years ago.

But that year, Gingrich persuaded former Rep. Bob Smith, R-Ore., to run anew for the House because Republicans feared they would otherwise lose that seat to Democrats. It had been held by GOP Rep. Wes Cooley, who was beset by scandal.

For his trouble, Smith was promised the Agriculture panel chairmanship, and Combest was given a subcommittee chairmanship instead. Smith won but decided not to seek re-election this year.

"It does give me pleasure now that it's finally occurred," Combest said Friday.

In an irony, Young was among several more senior Appropriations Committee members whom Gingrich ignored in appointing Livingston to head that panel in 1995. Gingrich chose Livingston because he believed he would do a better job of fighting for the spending cuts Gingrich wanted as a GOP hallmark.

Like Livingston, Young, 67 and just elected to his 15th term, has long operated within his committee's tradition of working closely with the panel's Democrats and eschewing ideology in favor of deal-making. Though a moderate on some issues, Young has chaired the committee's National Security subcommittee, and his strong pro-defense views have kept him in good standing with party conservatives.

Dreier, 46, is an 18-year House veteran who will replace the retiring Rep. Gerald Solomon of New York to head the Rules Committee, which sets the procedures by which bills are considered by the full House.

Dreier, a conservative, has an easygoing manner and is telegenic and articulate enough that some colleagues thought he might run for an even higher GOP leadership job in the jockeying that followed Gingrich's recent announcement of his resignation from Congress. He did not.

Black farmers discuss settlement proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for black farmers suing the Agriculture Department for discrimination are meeting with plaintiffs around the country to gauge support for a settlement deal of at least $125 million.

About 300 farmers attended a meeting Friday in Durham, N.C., participants told The Associated Press. Attorneys also met with plaintiffs Wednesday in Selma, Ala., and Thursday in Pine Bluff, Ark.

John Boyd, president of the National Black Farmers Association, said he had talked with about 15 farmers who went to Friday's meeting. "I think the farmers are going to take it," Boyd said of the prospective deal.

Attorneys are assessing support for a settlement that would give each of the 1,000 plaintiffs about $50,000 as well as resolve any outstanding debt with the government. The average plaintiff's debt is estimated at $75,000 to $100,000.

The offer, which farmers said was made recently by government attorneys, is significantly higher than the $15,000-per-farmer offer the agency made this summer, plaintiffs said. But the total would be far less than the $3 billion the farmers initially sought.

Laura Trivers, a spokeswoman for Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman, said, "Settlement discussions are going very well and the secretary is both eager and optimistic that this lawsuit will be settled in the near future."

The proposed deal still faces obstacles.

"People left with mixed emotions," said Philip Haynie II, a Heathsville, Va. farmer who attended Friday's meeting.

Some farmers feel a settlement should include an offer of land, Haynie said, since the government foreclosed on many of the farmers' property as their debts mounted.

"For individuals who have lost their land to foreclosure, nothing can be done about that," Haynie said. "A person in that situation has really come up short."

Attorneys also are working to include language that would shield the settlement from taxes, farmers said.

The lawsuit — claiming discrimination through denial of farm loans, crop subsidies and other benefits — was filed last year, shortly after the Agriculture Department admitted its own process of resolving discrimination complaints had been in disarray and caused a huge backlog.

Woman's arm bitten off by tapir in zoo attack

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A tapir pulled a zookeeper into its cage and bit her arm off as she tried to feed the animal Friday morning.

The woman, who also suffered facial injuries and a punctured lung, was in critical condition and undergoing surgery after the attack at the Oklahoma City Zoo.

The arm was detached about the mid-bicep level, said Allen Poston, a University Hospital spokesman. The arm was too mangled and contaminated and could not be reattached, Poston said.

The woman's name wasn't released until her relatives could be told.

Zoo officials aren't certain why the Malayan tapir named Melody attacked the keeper, who was feeding the animal before the zoo opened. The tapir's 2-month-old baby was also in the cage.

"As I understand it, she opened the door to push the food in and the female grabbed her arm," said Steve Wylie, zoo executive director. He said the tapir dragged the keeper into the enclosure and began mauling her.

A groundsworker ran for help and a group of employees managed to drag the keeper from the cage.

A tapir is piglike in appearance and about the size of a donkey. It is related to the horse and rhinoceros. Tapirs browse on twigs and are herbivores.

The animal, which can weigh several hundred pounds, is found in the jungles of Central and South America and Southeast Asia.

The tapir at the Oklahoma City Zoo will remain on display.

Who's that in the mirror? Why, it could be the next president

By Ron Fournier
Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — George W. Bush's scene-stealing performance at the Republican Governors Association this week fanned speculation about another Bush presidency. But it hardly dulled the ambitions of his fellow governors.

Election Day produced 31 Republican governors — 31 men and women who wake up every day, look in the mirror and see the next president of the United States.

Said Rich Galen, a GOP consultant and ally of House Speaker Newt Gingrich: "Every one of these guys hums, 'Hail to the Chief' while they're shaving."

Gov. Tommy Thompson of Wisconsin wasn't overheard humming anything at the three-day RGA conference that ended Friday, but he sounds like a man who won't concede anything to Texas Gov. Bush. "He's the frontrunner. He's got the great name. But front-runners get picked on first," Thompson said.

So no one else is giving up. Indeed, the governors preened all week — trying to impress operatives, party donors, political reporters and each other.

The likes of Thompson, George Pataki of New York and Pete Wilson of California hope to be ready if Bush doesn't run — or gets in the race and fails.

Others, such as Tom Ridge of Pennsylvania, are angling for any spot on the national ticket. Ridge asked at least one fellow governor to support him as a potential vice presidential pick when the time is right.

Bush, the governor of Texas, was all the rage.

"I haven't made up my mind yet," he said at a joint news conference with his brother Jeb, the governor-elect of Florida. "I'll make it up later on."

But his advisers are already studying how to form and staff a presidential campaign. They expect his decision next spring. A formal announcement, if he decides to run, might wait until June.

He will soon get some foreign policy experience. Bush's office said Friday he will travel with two other governors to Israel this month to learn more about the Jewish state.

One associate of former President George Bush claims the father recently said of his son, "The boy is running."

Bush's boy acted every bit the candidate. And was the talk of the conference.

"He's appropriately and clearly positioned as our candidate in 2000," said Gov. Frank Keating. The Oklahoman, a Bush backer, was easily re-elected Nov. 3 after telling voters he would complete his term unless asked to be a vice presidential candidate.

Lump Keating in with Ridge and a long list of other governors who would be glad to settle for second best. The group includes John Rowland of Connecticut and Christie Whitman of New Jersey.

Whitman travels often out of state to increase her national profile, which shrank after a closer-than-expected re-election race in 1997. Rowland raised his political value after rebounding from near-death poll numbers in 1997 to win big on Nov. 3. Keating is the new RGA chairman.

Michigan Gov. John Engler says he isn't interested in running for president or vice president. Some view him as a potential campaign chairman.

Thompson, the popular Wisconsin governor who championed welfare overhaul, says he has not decided whether to run but believes he can raise enough money if he does. He convened several meetings here with GOP operatives to discuss possible timetables and campaign strategies.

Thompson is said to believe he can wait deep into next year before committing to a presidential race, then could raise $10 million by year's end.

He doesn't sound like a man conceding anything to Bush.

"The front-runner has to decide first, then a lot of people will follow," Thompson said in an interview in his hotel suite.

"He's going to be tough to catch but you remember that Bob Dole four years ago was way ahead and then stumbled in Iowa and New Hampshire," Thompson said.

Wilson failed miserably in his 1996 campaign but thinks he will be in better position after leaving the governor's office in January. However, even some of his allies play down his chances.

Pataki also considers himself presidential material, especially after winning a second term as New York's governor. Still, he is viewed by many party regulars as a perfect vice presidential candidate. His state is critical to the GOP ticket, especially now that Democrats have strengthened their hold on vote-rich California by electing Gray Davis governor.

In a slap at congressional leaders who produced disappointing results Nov. 3, the governors argued all week that their Election Day successes prove that they hold the key to the White House: a pragmatic, bipartisan and issue-driven approach to politics. And they say the message is best delivered by a chief executive who improves his state, not a Washington insider who passes bills.

"I just want some Republican governor to get elected president because it would be good for the country," said Thompson, sliding his hands across a polished table in his hotel suite. The presidential strategy sessions had occurred right here. "I'd be more than glad to support George Bush," Thompson quickly added.

Then came a pause, and a tiny smile.

"But I'm not ready to yet."

Move from assisted suicide to euthanasia could mean bigger trouble for Kevorkian

DETROIT (AP) — Dr. Jack Kevorkian's legal luck could be waning, now that he has moved from assisted suicide to euthanasia and videotaped himself injecting a terminally ill man with a deadly dose of drugs.

Kevorkian's attorneys are disavowing his actions, assisted suicide advocates say he's gone too far, and legal experts say his latest move has a good chance of landing him behind bars.

"He may well be convicted," University of Michigan criminal law expert Yale Kamisar said Friday.

Longtime lawyer Geoffrey Fieger said Kevorkian did not consult him or his partner, Michael A. Schwartz, about the Sept. 7 death of Thomas Youk, 52, who suffered from Lou Gehrig's disease. In an interview for CBS' "60 Minutes" and in the videotape of the death, Kevorkian says he injected York with a lethal combination of drugs. CBS plans to air the tape Sunday night.

Kevorkian has said he wants to be prosecuted for euthanasia. Fieger said Kevorkian has not asked him to handle the case, and the assisted suicide advocate may be planning to represent himself.

"He may very well see this as the high noon," Fieger said. "I think he's actually under the belief that he's not simply a doctor now. I think he wants to be a jailhouse lawyer."

Four times, Kevorkian has been acquitted in assisted suicide cases. He claims to have participated in more than 120 deaths since beginning his assisted suicide campaign in 1990.

But now, experts say, Kevorkian faces much greater legal peril.

"This case is certainly pushing the envelope," said Patrick Keenan, a University of Detroit Mercy criminal law professor. "This is over the top."

In past cases, Kevorkian has made sure that his clients pulled a string or otherwise started the carbon monoxide or intravenous chemicals that caused their death, Keenan said. In this case, Kevorkian says he administered the lethal injection.

Prosecutor David Gorcyca said authorities hope Kevorkian's videotape will help them decide whether to charge him — and with what.

Gorcyca and police would not say whether they are moving to subpoena the tape. But he said Kevorkian's on-camera statement that he administered the deadly drugs differentiates this case from past assisted suicides.

"It's now black and white. There is no gray area," he said.

Kevorkian did not return messages Thursday and Friday seeking comment.

But he told The Oakland Press of Pontiac that he relishes a fight.

"I want a showdown," he said. "It's time to end the circus. I want to be prosecuted for euthanasia. I am going to prove that this is not a crime, ever, regardless of what words are written on paper."

Pastor of Odessa's First Baptist battles cancer, radiation

Ernest Easley tells congregation of illness last month, will continue to receive treatment until late December

Date: Tuesday, October 20, 1998

"Come for a ride on the emotional roller coaster with me!"

ODESSA — On the evening of October 25, Dr. Ernest Easley, pastor at First Baptist Church of Odessa, stood before his congregation and dropped a three-word bombshell:

Squamous Cell Carcinoma.

Though many in the congregation might not have immediately known what it meant, they knew cancer when they heard it. Easley spent the better part of the next half-hour explaining to his church membership what he would undergo over the span of the next two months. It wouldn't be fun. High doses of radiation to the tonsils and throat never are.

There were tears of sadness, warm ovations of support and encouragement from those in the sanctuary that October evening. And since that evening, there have been prayers and stories that Easley's ordeal is serving as an inspiration

'It is easier to walk with God in the dark when you walk with God in the light'

Dr. Ernest Easley, of First Baptist Church in Odessa

Editor's Note: On Oct. 25, Dr. Ernest Easley spoke to his congregation at Odessa's First Baptist Church and told them he had been diagnosed with Squamous Cell Carcinoma. The following are excerpts from that message:

What I want to do is to try my very best to bring you up to date, and I really want to try to eliminate some rumors. I understand there are some rumors flying around the city. About me. Rumors that I am dead and my Barbara Gibson, a member of the Cornerstone Christian Fellowship, encouraged church leaders to put the following Biblical passage on a billboard west of Midland.

Billboard calls for repentance, rain in return

By Jimmy Patterson
Staff writer

It's fairly obvious, the billboard by the side of the road. The message contained on the simple black on white canvas grabs the attention of readers traveling from Midland to Odessa on Business 20, about a quarter-mile west of Loop 250.

"Dear Permian Basin,
If my people will pray and seek my face,
And turn from their wicked ways,
Then will I forgive their sin,
And heal their land."

Through the simplicity of the message, what is perhaps most startling is that it is signed, "Love, God."

It's not everyday that God takes out a message on a billboard.

Though God may indeed be ultimately responsible for moving Barbara Gibson, a congregant at Cornerstone Christian Fellowship, to make the sign possible, it was the leadership at that church that okayed Mrs. Gibson's request.

"We've been experiencing a drought, both spiritually and physically," said Richard Spencer, pastor at Cornerstone. "If God's word is adhered to and if people repent and seek God, then he will heal their land. We need both spiritual rain and physical rain."

Spencer said one of the main goals of Cornerstone is to "challenge people to find a need and to

True-Lite searches the Basin for talent; plans in the works for Christian show

By Georgia Temple
Staff Writer

A talent search is underway by True-Lite Christian Fellowship's choir.

"It's not a competition," said choir member Mirenda Wallace. "We have a talent show planned as a fund raiser so that we can get together and know fellowship with one another."

Brian Adamcik/Reporter-Telegram
Mirenda Wallace is in charge of the Christian talent search.

Set for Dec. 5 at Christian Life Center, 2901 W. Kansas Ave., the talent show is "for all different kinds of churches and different kinds of denominations," Ms. Wallace said. "It's not just for the choirs. It's for the youth, the elderly."

Skits, poetry readings, songs and dances are welcome in the show, Ms. Wallace said. "Some type of a talent, like a short skit, a poem. I have a lady that's going to do a tambourine and dance."

Thus far, the response has been disappointing, Ms. Wallace said. "I was thinking about canceling it.

Baptist conservatives declare independence

■ Split from moderate Baptist General Convention of Texas initially takes 500 churches.

By Jim Jones
N.Y. Times News Service

HOUSTON — A few miles north of the San Jacinto Battlefield where Texans won their independence from Mexico in 1836, another small band of Texans declared their independence this week.

About 500 Texas Baptist conservatives met at a church in east Houston and officially formed a breakaway state convention as an alternative to the moderate-controlled Baptist General Convention of Texas. The new group will be called the Southern Baptists of Texas.

Although the group of Texas conservatives was small, it was just as enthusiastic as the Texans led by Sam Houston — a Baptist, by the way — who defeated Gen. Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna's larger army and won the decisive Battle of San Jacinto 162 years ago.

Conservatives broke away from the much larger Baptist General Convention of Texas because the state group refused to go along with the conservat-

Tyler's 'Saint Maybe' addresses atonement

By Jimmy Patterson
Staff writer

Anyone familiar with Hallmark Hall of Fame presentations knows one thing: the writing is always top notch. Regardless the storyline, Hallmark's dialogues are seldom anything but quality.

In the series' 198th presentation, "Saint Maybe," (Sunday, 8 p.m., CBS, KOSA-Ch. 7), that quality continues. Though far from flawless, performances from the presentation's principle actors are strong enough to forgive the show's ultimate predictable conclusion, characters that lack full development and a pace that drags on a couple of occasions.

Based on Anne Tyler's novel by the same name, "Saint Maybe" follows the maturation of Ian Bedloe (Thomas McCarthy), who begins as a meddling teenager to a guilt-ridden young adult and finally to his role as a mature, repentant man who has altered his entire life as a way of working toward his forgiveness.

Ian's brother, Danny (Jeffrey Nordling), marries the beautiful, yet mysterious divorcee, Lucy. Such a union into the staid Bedloe household is simply unheard of. Ian and his mother, Bee (Blythe Danner), are fairly certain the marriage won't work and Ian sticks his nose where it shouldn't be. His unfair and unfounded conclusions about Lucy (Mary-Louise Parker), lead to a double tragedy.

As it so happens, a depressed Ian happens by a storefront church, the Church of the Second Chance. Thinking he hears his late brother's voice coming from the congregation, Ian wanders in and asks for the congregants' prayers. Following a post-service session with Rev Emmett (Denis O'Hare), Ian sets out to change his life, dropping out of college and assuming the responsibility of raising Lucy's three children. As a result, Ian grows up faster than his original blueprint had called for.

The plot from that point is fairly predictable,

Relationships, the glue of life

The ancient city of Pompeii lies at the foot of Mt. Vesuvius in Italy. For years Pompeii was a flourishing port and a prosperous trading city. However, in 79 AD, an eruption of Mt. Vesuvius buried Pompeii under cinders and ashes that preserved their ruins. According to a story I heard from Glenna Salsbury, 1997-98 President of National Speakers Association, most of the 20,000 dwellers escaped, but about 2,000 were left behind and perished.

Kituku

The ruins of Pompeii were discovered in 1748 and archeological excavations have revealed the habits and cultural practices of the dwellers. Some of those who perished were grasping personal or family treasures. A man's skeleton was found clutching a beautiful bronze statue. A woman's skeleton held a bunch of jewels, and a couple held a wooden hatch filled with treasures.

This scenario comes to mind every time I get unexpected mail, fax or e-mail on how to be successful. The messages emphasize how much money to make, where to go for vacation, what kind of house and neighborhood to live in, what model of car to drive or what treasure to buy for loved ones. These things are measures of success in our times.

Different cultures and generations have had different measures of success. In my grandfather's days, a big piece of land and large herds of livestock, not stocks, were measures of success. In some cultures, the number of storage barns one had for yams was a measure of success. Body size, in particular being overweight, was and still is a reflection of how successful one is in some cultures.

Our generation did not initiate material possessions as a measure of success.

However, in many cultures, success had another angle; happiness in one's life and in the lives of those held dear. These cultures, while stripped of modern measures of success, have intact and thriving relationships. Family ties are their

The Good Book: Nehemiah

(Part 14 of 52)

Overview:

Nehemiah was a Jewish palace servant of the Persian King, Artaxerxes. After hearing about the plight of Jerusalem, Nehemiah requested leave from the king's court to travel to Jerusalem to help his people. Nehemiah returned to Judah with financial assistance from the King in 445 B.C. As governor of Judah, Nehemiah oversaw the rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem and instituted social and religious reforms.

Theme Passage:

Nehemiah 1:7-10 (A prayer of Nehemiah to the Lord) "We have offended you deeply, failing to keep the commandments, the statutes , and the ordinances that you commanded your servant Moses. Remember the word that you commanded your servant Moses, 'If you are unfaithful I will scatter you among the peoples; but if you return to me and keep my commandments and do them, though your outcasts are under the farthest skies, I will gather them from there and bring them to the place at which I have chosen to establish my name.' They are your servants and your people, whom your redeemed by your great power and your strong hand."

BAPTISTS: Moderates have distanced themselves from national convention

ives' rise to power in the national Southern Baptist Convention.

For several years, Texas conservatives who agree with the strict conservatism of the national convention had tried to take over the state convention. When they failed, they decided to form their own, alternative convention.

Moderates in charge of the Baptist General Convention of Texas have slowly distanced themselves from the national convention, voting to send less money to the national body, establishing theology training schools with a moderate base, creating some of their own mission programs and printing a small amount of church literature.

The Texas moderates still send money to the national convention. But they appalled national conservatives by also backing the Cooperative Baptist Fellowship, a moderate organization formed as an alternative to the national convention.

Unlike some other religious groups, Southern Baptist state and national bodies are not bound together by church law.

They cooperate voluntarily. Baptists refer to the arrangement as a "rope of sand."

But many Baptist moderates — in Texas, Virginia and other states — believe they've had that sand kicked in their faces since the conservatives' rise to power in the 1980s.

For example, no moderates who disagree with the conservative leaders are appointed as trustees of the national convention's missionary organizations, seminaries, publishing houses or other agencies.

Some moderate leaders, such as Russell Dilday, have been fired or forced out because of their stands. Dilday was fired as president of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth four years ago by conservative trustees who disagreed with his moderate beliefs.

Now Dilday is a professor at moderate-led Truett Theological Seminary, part of Baylor University in Waco. He was re-elected this week as president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

All six Southern Baptist seminaries, once run by moderates, now are headed by presidents who go along with the conservatives' literal interpretation of biblical teachings.

Texas Baptist moderates rebelled against that.

And now Texas Baptist conservatives are rebelling against the moderates. They say they have no choice, that the Texas moderates are slowly seceding from the national convention.

Their claims were given more credence this week when Baylor University Chancellor Herbert Reynolds, one of the most aggressive moderates, said Texas Baptists should consider withdrawing all support from the national convention.

Reynolds told 1,100 people at a breakfast on the final day of the annual meeting that their group, with almost 3 million members, is already equivalent to the ninth-largest denomination in the nation.

He proposed joining with other moderates in the United States, and perhaps in Canada, Mexico, and Central and South America, in forming a Baptist Convention of the Americas.

The Rev. Miles Seaborn of Fort Worth, who led efforts to start the new conservative group, said he was not surprised. He said Reynolds' proposals give more reason for his group to secede.

Whether the Southern Baptists of Texas will draw many churches and financial support away from the giant Baptist General Convention of Texas won't be known for several years. Most of the better-known conservative pastors of larger churches in Texas were conspicuously absent from the conservative group's constitutional convention.

The Baptist conservatives are starting small. But smaller groups have started major movements. Just ask Sam Houston.

EASLEY: As radiation continues, discomfort intensifies for Odessa pastor to others in the church community. So much of an inspiration, in fact, that many have expressed how another person's cancer has changed their lives.

———

Squamous Cell Carcinoma.

The name itself elicits shudders of fear and feelings of an uncertain future.

It was one morning when Easley was shaving when he first noticed his neck didn't look right. At first it was thought to be a simple infection. Antibiotics were prescribed, but the swelling didn't shrink. A referral to a specialist was next. Then Easley was called into the specialist's office for consultation: a sure sign that the minister's life was about to change.

On Oct. 11, two weeks before Easley broke the devastating news to the church family he leads, he had delivered a sermon entitled "When Life Crumbles In."

Julie Easley, speaking from the couple's temporary residence on the campus of Houston's M.D. Anderson hospital, a facility world renowned for its cancer treatment, said earlier this week, "We listened to that sermon again recently and it was like God was saying to us, 'You preached that sermon, so go out and show them how to live it.' "

Less than 24 hours after he talked about life crumbling in was when Easley first heard the words Squamous Cell Carcinoma.

While prognosis for a recovery is good and doctors have said eradicating the malignancy via radiation should eliminate the need for surgery, the road ahead will be a difficult one.

Monday night, Easley, a graduate of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary who also holds a Doctorate of Ministry from Atlanta's Luther Rice Seminary, was weak but experiencing throat pain due to the radiation. Imagine spending four unprotected hours in a bright July sun, and then walking outside shirtless the next day in the same sunlight. That's the sort of pain Easley's throat is bearing during the treatments.

Tuesday morning, at a prearranged time to discuss his story via telephone, Easley's pain had worsened since Monday night. Mrs. Easley instead spoke at length about the road they and their three children have been down since receiving the news.

"God's people have risen up all over the world (literally) expressing their concern and commitment to pray for our family during this time. All social, political and denominational barriers have fallen to the floor. It's interesting how something like this puts everything in perspective. You'll never know how much your love and prayers mean to us. We can't talk about it without bawling."

Mrs. Easley guesses she opens between 80 and 150 letters with well wishes daily. And she communicates with hundreds of people regularly via e-mail updates, keeping them informed of the latest in the pastor's condition.

"The mail and the e-mail has been a great support," Mrs. Easley said. "He has a very competent staff at church and everybody does their job and takes care of everything. He feels really good about that."

Substituting in the pulpit during Easley's absence will be a variety of ministers from across the country.

This weekend, Easley is scheduled to receive the Alumni of the Year award from his alma mater, Dallas Baptist University. Mrs. Easley said if he is feeling well enough, they will attend the ceremony honoring him.

"I spent the morning with our personal calendar in my lap and a bottle of Liquid Paper Correction Fluid in one hand and a Kleenex in the other. It was a sad revelation as I realized how drastically our lives would change for the next 2-3 months — typically our busiest months of the year. It was very emotional as I saw dates for Jessica's Cross Country meets, school choir concerts, Merry Marketplace, family deer-hunting trips, the Baptist General Convention of Texas, ensemble rehearsals and solo dates, my study club meetings, Thanksgiving, Ernest's 41st birthday on Dec. 8, decorating for Christmas (which I always do in a very major way), our Annual Holiday Open House, Christmas Shopping trips, 7 performances of the Living Christmas tree, 3 weeks of Christmas parties, a family ski trip and, of course, Christmas. I'm tired just thinking about it.

"But you know, God has a way of slowing us down. Our life has come to a screeching halt. I guess He knew we needed a break."

Mrs. Easley reiterated earlier this week that, "the most frustrating part is being away from our children and what's going on in their lives. Our daughter has a big basketball tournament this weekend. We have all kinds of things that go on in our lives that we know we're missing. Even though we hate it that we have to be here, we know this is the place we need to be."

"It was a beautiful drive through West Texas as we made our way to our new temporary home ... Houston. The weather was beautiful and Ernest (an avid deer hunter) enjoyed scoping out the deer along the countryside.

"No, this isn't how we planned to spend the last couple of months of this year, but we keep reminding ourselves that God knew about this all along! He's been gettin' us ready. And you know what? We're ready. (Right now, we're ready to get this over with so we can get back to our home, to work and to our church family.) It's really true that if you walk with God in the 'light' you have no problem walking with God in the dark. Because really, the dark days don't seem so dark when Jesus is in the room. If this is how He planned to use us, we're ready to get on with it. I don't want to miss a thing."

Many people who experience an unplanned illness say it serves only to strengthen what faith was already in place. Mrs. Easley said her and her husband's faith was already solid, but their situation may serve to help others.

"It's always been on the forefront of our mind that people are watching how we're responding," she said. "We're already seeing some results. It is deepening the faith of people around us," she said. "We are all living testaments all the time. But we think this is something where people are looking closer than usual."

Prayers by the hundreds and thousands come from well-wishers. And they are paying off big time.

"It's amazing," Mrs. Easley said. "People know his treatments are at 3:45 every afternoon. The other day we were walking to one of his treatments and all of a sudden, his pain just left. He said it must have been the tea I had given him. I told him, 'I don't think so, this is the time when everybody is praying for you.' "

Loss of appetite, soreness in the neck and mouth, and severe fatigue resulting in the need for as much as 18 hours of sleep a day are some of radiation's side effects ahead for Easley. Getting him through the pain will be the joy that will come with an anticipated January return to First Baptist — and to his regionally telecast services seen each week on KOSA-Ch. 7.

The day he returns to the pulpit is a day Dr. and Mrs. Easley will soon firm up in ink in her day planner. And the couple hopes and prays that Mrs. Easley's Liquid Paper Correction Fluid is not needed.

"Yesterday began Week No. 2. The 'eating' issue is really becoming a problem. His taste buds are pretty well fried. He compares it to holding your nose while you eat. Try it and you'll know, sort of, how he feels. Although it doesn't hurt him to eat, nothing has much taste so the desire is not there. Other than that, nausea is the only other side effect. We've got to keep these under control so he will eat and keep his strength up. I tell you these things so you can pray specifically. He has three appointments today. Every Tuesday he meets with the entire team of doctors for what they call a 'clinic.' They examine him again, evaluate his progress and make adjustments in the treatments if necessary.

"Eleven o'clock is our favorite time of each day because that's when the mail arrives. It has been wonderful to hear from all of you. The personal notes are especially meaningful. Our address here is 1600 Holcombe Blvd., Houston, TX., 77030.

"Keep us on your prayer list. I'm keeping you updated whenever there is anything new to say. If you don't hear from me, it's because nothing has changed.

"Have a great week. We love you."

SIGN: Weather crew backs billboard meet it. This is what all of this boils down to."

(From 1B)

Mrs. Gibson answered that challenge.

"There were actually two things that inspired the sign," Mrs. Gibson said. "No. 2 was the drastically falling oil prices that have caused so many to lose their jobs, with companies shutting down and going broke, and I saw with it the drought as a sort of 'double-whammy' judgment from God, like a one-two punch. Out here, if you aren't in farming or ranching, which the drought hit hard, you're related to the oil business in some way, so between the drought and the oil crash, God has definitely been getting everyone's attention.

"I was very concerned about it and I began to pray about it and I asked the Lord what was going on with the drought. I had studied for several years in the Bible and found there to be several rain Scriptures. I got my study out and I saw that when God's people are pleasing Him, He opens up the heavens and there's rain. When they go into rebellion he shuts up the heavens and there's no rain. And I realized we have a problem. We have a nice conservative town with a church on every corner and I wondered why this was happening to us. One morning I woke up and as I usually do I was praying. As I was praying, the thought fell into my mind to put a billboard up on old Hwy. 80."

Mrs. Gibson took her thoughts to Spencer and the elders at Cornerstone Christian Fellowship, and told them that God wanted a billboard up on old Highway 80.

"He wants to call people to repentance," Mrs. Gibson said. "He wants to bring revival to Midland. That was the main thrust of it and (Spencer and the elders) supported it wholeheartedly."

The Scripture passage printed on the billboard is from 2 Chronicles, 7: 14.

"We've had comments from several people in town," Spencer said. "A local geologist who goes to a Catholic church called to say it's the finest thing he's seen in Midland since he's lived here." Another example of the sign working through people comes from the congregation at the Cornerstone Church of God in Christ. When a local television station inadvertently reported that it was that church that was responsible for the sign, church leaders there also spoke of how they had been moved by the message of the sign.

Two bits of irony: on the reverse side of the sign, facing eastbound traffic on Business 20 is an advertisement for KWES-Ch. 9's weather team.

And, prior to putting the larger sign up on Business 20, Mrs. Gibson had taken out an advertisement on the "Billboard By The Day," located on eastbound Wall St. at the Bankhead Highway intersection. That sign contained an abbreviated version of 2 Chronicles 7: 14.

Mrs. Gibson was told by a spokesman at "Billboard By The Day" office that representatives from the company have to go and retrieve letters daily that have blown off or fallen off. However, the Scripture from 2 Chronicles stayed on the Billboard By The Day for 10 days. Not once did a single letter blow to the ground, even though the winds persisted throughout the time the message was up.

"We believe (the billboard) is making people take a good, hard look at God's work," Spencer said. "We have enough adverse signs in our world. It's good to see a positive sign."

JESUS VIDEO: In another effort to evangelize people in Midland, Cornerstone Christian Fellowship is making an effort to have delivered to every household in Midland the Campus Crusade for Christ's "Jesus" video. Campus Crusade officials say the non-denominational story of Christ on video results in a 50 percent conversion rate for those who view it.

The effort to deliver the video to 42,000 Midland homes will cost $162,000. Cornerstone has so far raised $90,000. Those interested in helping with the project should contact Cornerstone Christian Fellowship, 1610 W. Wall.

HALLMARK: Despite shortcomings, message is positive

but the religious overtones of the 2-hour movie are clear: atonement is a gift from God, but it is a gift that also must be earned. It is not possible to achieve forgiveness through a simple, 'I'm sorry.'

"I think the religious note that enters the story reflects the fact that people today seem to be reaching out for something that's beyond themselves, beyond the reality of day-to-day life" said Danner, who plays Ian's mother. "That yearning for a dose of humanity and spirituality is partly a reaction to the computer age, things being so mechanical and cold. I think a lot of us feel like we're drowning -- life is just so fast and so noisy and so impersonal. I think the peace that Ian Bedloe achieves is something a lot of us envy. It has become cliché to talk about being 'centered,' about being 'grounded,' but that's what Ian needs — and gets."

Pre-publicity notes compare Ian's character to that of Jimmy Stewart's in "It's A Wonderful Life," and the comparisons are certainly not hard to see.

Strong performances are turned in by Parker, as Lucy; Edward Hermann, as the Bedloe father, Doug, and Mccarthy's Ian, who ages from 18 to 38 as the story progresses.

The message is a worthwhile one, and despite the film's obvious conclusion and neatly tied-up ending, it's a 2-hours well spent.

"Saint Maybe" is suitable for the entire family, though the story line may not interest those under 12.

REJOICE!
The Lord your God is with you, he is mighty to save. He will take great delight in you, He will quiet you with his love, He will REJOICE over you with singing. Zephaniah 3:17
$37.95
Sterling Silver
Brand New From Anita Goudeau's Workbench!
Inspired by her friend Shari Horne's deep love for the LORD and humble desire to dedicate her musical gifts back to him in praise and worship, Anita sat down at her workbench. She took a straight rod of silver and the ring of the hammer filled the shop. She hammered and shaped and fired until a beautiful treble clef emerged. But she wasn't finished. She wanted more than just a symbol for music. Look carefully. Can you see the dove representing the Spirit of God giving the gift of beautiful music? Shari won't part with her original piece but you can share the powerful message she inspired. REJOICE! is for anyone who loves music and loves God.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll have: 5-Dymanic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Nov. 21, 1998:
Problems with authority figures and bosses are likely to emerge this year. You strongly consider working for yourself or becoming more independent. Either option could work for you. You have a lot to offer. You have high energy and will succeed at whatever you put your mind to. Work on communications; carefully think through ideas. If you are single, romance will be important, though you could be uncomfortable once the relationship demands a stronger commitment. Keep communications open and caring. If attached, work on self-expression and responding to each other. CAPRICORN knows how to influence you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ Confirm plans. Someone might not understand what you say, but he means well. Still, frustration could cause you to lose your temper. Play it cool, and allow others to make their own mistakes. Take responsibility for a work-related matter. Tonight: Out and about.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★ A child throws tantrums because he doesn't understand. Your efforts to gain clarity don't help, as a partner seems to work against you. Recognize that all is muddled now. Pull back and think. Let a loved one express what ails him. Be sensitive. Tonight: Try a new place.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ You might not be OK solving someone else's problems. Work and mundane matters disrupt your personal life. Take a hot domestic issue into consideration. It might be time to pull back and think. Bring friends and family together later. Tonight: Be with an easygoing friend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★ Try as you might, you have a hard time completing tasks. Others want more of you. A misunderstanding with a co-worker involving an errand upsets you. Do what you can to make time for friends and loved ones; everyone will benefit. Tonight: Somewhere you can forget it all!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ Careful with spending! You are the king or queen of your finances, and it is your rule that counts. Confusion surrounds a risk, a child or a loved one. News from a distance requires some thought. Walk in someone else's shoes to understand him better. Tonight: Slow down.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★ You are more volatile than you realize, with your ruler, Mercury, going into retrograde. Confusion surrounds decisions. You don't feel comfortable with a domestic matter. Your temper flares; carefully choose your words. Tonight: Do what you most love.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★ A little care goes a long way. Maintain a high profile, yet curb your temper. Think before you say words you can't take back. Honor feelings, but know when to express them. Confirm plans, and don't stand on ceremony with someone who is far away. Don't get mixed up. Tonight: Head home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★ Use caution with friends and funds, separately and together. Be open to the possibility that you can make a mistake and that others are also capable of the same. A friend could be upset; be understanding. Get together later for munchies with friends. Tonight: Be with your favorite people.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ What you thought was a piece of cake proves otherwise. Don't take authority figures for granted. They could be irritable and on edge. You also could find that confusion or a misunderstanding is prevalent. Use your magnetism to keep others calm. Tonight: Indulge some.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★ Keep a very low profile during the daylight hours. You need to rethink plans and confirm messages. A potential misunderstanding could be upsetting; you could be extremely sensitive. You'll feel an energy shift later in the day. Tonight: Do your own thing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★ A partner has a strong reaction and lets you know. Perhaps an assumption you made really isn't accurate. You need some time to clear it up. A friend also triggers this partner's emotions. You could feel like you are burning the candle at both ends. Tonight: Take a night off.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★ Dealing with bosses and relatives proves challenging. A partner wants things his way. A misunderstanding could last longer than you want. Carefully choose your words; they could come back to haunt you. Make plans to have fun. Tonight: With your friends.

What do you bid now?

Q 5 - Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ A Q J 10 6 5 ♡ Void ◇ Void ♣ Q J 9 7 6 5 2

Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with four hearts. What action do you take?

Q 6 - Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ J 9 8 5 2 ♡ J 8 7 3 ◇ Q 9 ♣ 3 2

Partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What action do you take?

Arnold to attend Ventura's inauguration

Arnold Schwarzenegger said he would 'absolutely, positively' attend Jesse Ventura's inauguration.

ST. PAUL, Minn. — An even better-known body will attend inauguration ceremonies for "The Body."

Arnold Schwarzenegger plans to attend the Jan. 4 swearing-in ceremonies for Gov.-elect Jesse Ventura. Ventura said Thursday that the two dined together last week and Schwarzenegger said "absolutely, positively he was coming" to the inauguration.

Ventura, a former professional wrestler nicknamed "The Body," appeared with Schwarzenegger, a former Mister Universe, in "Predator" and "The Running Man" in 1987.

TORONTO — Brian Orser, a pro figure skater and two-time Olympic silver medalist, has lost a legal battle to prevent the public disclosure of a palimony suit filed by a former boyfriend.

Orser said Thursday he may have overreacted in trying to protect his privacy. Since Tuesday's ruling, he said, "I have received a tremendous outpouring of public support which has been a great comfort to me."

In court papers, Orser, 36, feared his career would be ruined by the revelation that he was homosexual. But Ontario Court Judge Susan Lang wrote that such a disclosure "would not attract any public stigma" in today's society.

Toronto banker Craig Leask, 35, sued Orser in January, seeking monthly $5,000 support payments, property and access to Orser's vacation home. The lawsuit could be affected by a case before Canada's Supreme Court on whether Ontario's alimony laws should include gays and lesbians.

LOS ANGELES — Michele Lee's star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame is on familiar ground for the "Knots Landing" actress.

Ms. Lee, whose star was unveiled Thursday, grew up around the studios. Her grandfather lived at the Knickerbocker Hotel and her father owned a deli called Jack and Eddies on Vine Street.

"I used to come here a lot as a little girl," she said. "So this brings back a lot of memories for me."

Ms. Lee appeared in all 344 episodes of the CBS series that ran from 1979-93. Fellow "Knots Landing" stars Ted Shackelford, Kevin Dobson, Donna Mills and Joan Van Ark showed up for the unveiling.

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. — It's perhaps the most enduring image of the nation's 40th president: Ronald Reagan in stride, cowboy hat in hand with dusty boots and denim jacket, after a horseback ride.

Former first lady Nancy Reagan and Gov. Pete Wilson pulled a red, white and blue shroud from the 7-foot-6 inch bronze Thursday night at the Ronald Reagan Presidential Library. With an adoring look, Mrs. Reagan grabbed the bronze hand and said, "Hello Ronnie."

The 87-year-old former president, stricken with Alzheimer's disease, didn't attend the ceremony at the library 60 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

"I broke tradition and did not use a straight, stoic expression or have him wearing a business suit because I wanted to put as much life and personality into the bronze as I could," said sculptor Glenna Goodacre of Santa Fe, N.M.

The bronze is the second casting of the sculpture titled "After the Ride. The first has been on display at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City.

EDINBURGH, Scotland — Woofie, a dog under a death sentence for chasing and barking at a postman, won a reprieve Friday with help from Brigitte Bardot.

The French actress was among the dog's supporters at a brief hearing before an appeals court.

"I think that this is the right justice. I was here to give support and would come back again if it was for another Woofie," Miss Bardot said.

The 3-year-old collie-boxer mix got into trouble for chasing and barking at a postman in Peterhead, 30 miles north of Aberdeen.

The court ruled owner Terry Swankie didn't understand his rights when pleading guilty to violating the Dangerous Dogs Act. Swankie expected to pay a fine but was told the law left no alternative but death for the dog.

JAKARTA, Indonesia — Protests and riots in Jakarta prompted another international singer to cancel a concert in the Indonesian capital.

Puerto Rican pop singer Ricky Martin canceled a charity concert scheduled for Tuesday, The Jakarta Post reported Friday. Promoter Adrie Subono said it would be insensitive for Martin to do the show at a time of tense social and political conditions.

Martin, 26, is best known for his France '98 World Cup theme song, "The Cup of Life," which became a hit in Spanish, English and French.

Spanish signer Julio Iglesias called off a Jakarta concert last week after deadly clashes between student protesters and soldiers.

Psalms an added treat on Thanksgiving menu

By Richard N. Ostling
AP Religion Writer

There's a curious twist when it comes to being thankful, many preachers have observed.

People who have little are often keenly grateful for what they have, while those in more affluent circumstances — and that includes most Americans — often find it difficult to express their gratitude.

So it's not surprising that Thanksgiving, that quintessential American holiday, had its origins in bleak times.

The first fest was in 1621, after the Plymouth Colony had survived a ruinous winter during which half its members died. Theirs was truly a harvest to be thankful for.

Abraham Lincoln proclaimed the first national observance in 1863, when the United States were disunited in bloody civil war. Each succeeding U.S. president continued the annual custom. Congress officially fixed Thanksgiving Day as a legal holiday in late 1941, as the nation was pulling out of the Depression and entering World War II.

Besides the fact that times are good, some Americans may struggle to give thanks because so many of us are urbanites and suburbanites, whereas harvest festivals of thanks are built into the culture of peasants living close to the land.

It's no accident that the finest thanksgiving poems in existence, in the Bible's Book of Psalms, were written for an ancient farming and herding culture. Psalms is a complex mixture of many human emotions: love, despair, contempt, joy, reverence, relief, and, yes, thanksgiving.

During the joyous harvest celebration of Tabernacles (Sukkot), Jews recite the Hallel Psalms, numbers 113 to 118, which are also good readings at the Thanksgiving dinner table. As for Christians, the Liturgical Press' new International Bible Commentary says the Psalms have always been central for public prayer in church and for private devotionals.

The commentary says that the Psalms of national thanksgiving include the grouping of Psalms 65, 66 and 67, also appropriate readings for

■ Testaments

Thanksgiving. These Psalms all follow the same general structure of a call to give thanks, a declaration of God's saving actions, a recalling of past national distress, and God coming to rescue the people.

Psalm 65 expresses thanks especially for deliverance from drought. In Psalm 66, the people of Israel remember that God enabled them to escape from bondage. Psalm 67 sees a plentiful harvest as an occasion for not only Israel but all peoples to praise the divine Provider. Its poetic lines echo across thousands of years:

"Let the nations be glad and sing for joy. ... Let the peoples praise thee, O God; let all the peoples praise thee! The earth has yielded its increase; God, our God, has blessed us. God has blessed us; let all the ends of the earth fear him!"

Thanksgiving 1998 falls just days before the 100th anniversary of the birth of C.S. Lewis, the late British literary scholar whose entertaining books about Christian beliefs are still amazingly popular. In his work "Reflections on the Psalms," Lewis wrote that events like traditional festivals of harvest thanks often attract the sort of person who is "practicing Pagan piety, making his bow to the Unknown — and at other times Forgotten — on the great annual festivals."

But festivals also draw the devoutly thankful. And Lewis felt those in our day who might be closest to the spirit of the ancient Psalmists are farm laborers. For them, Lewis wrote, there is a true "religious" element but it is all mixed up with social pleasure in community togetherness, the beauty of worship and song, the memory of such observances stretching back to childhood, and anticipation of a good dinner or a day of well-earned rest after harvest toil.

The ancient Jew "had never heard of music, or festivity, or agriculture as things separate from religion, nor of religion as something separate from them. Life was one."

And so it is, Lewis suggested, for those moderns who worship God, rather than the Unknown or the Forgotten.

SERMON: Easley speaks to congregation about experiences, expectations skeleton is crushed and I have throat cancer, and that I've been at M.D. Anderson in Dallas. At the risk of creating some new rumors, I want to try tonight to eliminate some rumors.

I would encourage you to get a piece of paper out. We're gonna take a few notes tonight. It's not a message, it's more of a report to you around three thoughts.

The first thing we're going to talk about is what I've experienced. The second thing is what I expect. No. 3 is what I encourage you to do tonight. So using those three little thoughts together, I want to share with you what's been going on.

It was the first week of October, early one morning I was shaving and I noticed that this right lymph gland was swollen. I went to the doctor and he gave me a week's worth of antibiotics. After a week's worth of antibiotics, the swelling was still there. He suggested I see a throat specialist just to be on the safe side. On Friday the 9th, I saw a specialist.

As I held on for dear life, (the specialist) took five needle biopsies from my neck. As the doctor looked at the extractions that came out of my throat, he turned to me and said, "Ernest this looks good. It looks like you've got an infection. It does not look serious. It does not look like you have cancer. I'm gonna send this to the pathologist. You go home, enjoy the weekend. On Monday, I'm gonna call you. You can come here and we'll go over the report together." I walked out of that doctor's office with a peace, and a calmness and the assurance from this doctor that it was apparently not cancerous and that things were going to be all right.

That following Sunday I stood in this pulpit and preached to you from the 46th Psalm on the subject of, "When Life Crumbles In," never realizing that on the next day, my life was going to crumble in.

So Monday afternoon I walked into the doctor's office never dreaming he would tell me that the pathologist's report revealed that I had Squamous Cell Carcinoma, which is a very serious cancer.

I have to be honest with you. When the doctor told me of that report, I did like any honest, red-blooded American man would do: I fainted. I said 'Doc, wait a minute don't say anything else, I'm passing out.' He laid me in that chair, put a cold wash rag on my head and let me lay there for 10-15 minutes.

On Thursday night, all four of the doctors (at M.D. Anderson) met to review my case. On Friday they told us that all were in agreement: surgery would not be necessary but that radiation would be sufficient to eliminate this cancer that I have.

'I am going to preach a series of sermons next year on smoking cigarettes. And I'm not going to be for it. Let me tell you something, if you've got to smoke a cigarette, I want to encourage you for the sake of your loved ones, innocent people, you ought to lock yourself up in an airtight closet and smoke your cigarette and then shut that door as quickly as you possibly can.'

— Erneast Easley,
pastor, First Baptist Church-Odessa

Obviously, these have been very difficult days for me and my family. To be diagnosed with cancer at 40 years old will knock the props right out from under you.

And may I say to you that you will never know what your prayers, your notes, your faxes, your e-mails have meant to Julie and me. Periodically through the day, she'll bring me a stack of e-mails to read and as I read them I smile, I weep, I pray and I rejoice in the people of God and in the encouragement and the prayers that have been offered up. The e-mails from people in churches across America and even beyond our continent have been overwhelming, as I have received e-mails from the Methodists, the Presbyterians, the Nazarenes, the Pentecostals. I've received e-mails from the independent Baptists and from the liberal Baptists. I've received e-mails from the moderate Baptists. I've received e-mails from the fundamental Baptists. I've received e-mails from the charismatics, to name a few.

(Editor's Note: Dr. Easley revealed during the service that doctors feel it is possible his cancer was contracted as a result of second-hand smoke)

I'm going to preach a series of messages next year on smoking cigarettes. And I'm not going to be for it. Let me tell you something, if you've got to smoke a cigarette, I want to encourage you for the sake of your loved ones, innocent people, you ought to lock yourself up in an airtight closet and smoke your cigarettes and then shut that door as quickly as you possibly can.

And I suppose my hatred for the tobacco industry has doubled in the past seven days.

I wish every one of you — and you teenagers in particular that are experimenting with cigarettes and chewing tobacco — I wish I could fly you with me to M.D. Anderson in Houston and to walk with you through the hallways of teenagers that look just like you, of adults that look just like me, that are dying because of an addiction to nicotine and cigarettes and chewing tobacco.

The second thing I want to talk to you about is what I expect to happen to me. I have before me six to seven weeks of intense radiation treatments.

One of the permanent side effects will be that my saliva glands will be destroyed, leaving my mouth as dry as the desert. With no saliva, my teeth will require daily flouride treatments to prevent tooth decay.

My doctors have assured me there are medications available that are going to help produce enough moisture in my mouth so that I can once again preach.

It's going to be a very slow, a very painful and a very progressive process for me, but after consulting with my doctor, the very best thing for this type of cancer is for me to have these 60 plus radiation treatments at M.D. Anderson. If there are any complications, my team of doctors will be there to help me.

The bad news is that I am going to be in Houston through Christmas. The good news is that I am going to be in the best cancer center in the world.

My prognosis is really good and just for the record, in case you're wondering, I do plan to return and I do plan to be your pastor for many years to come.

The third thing I want to talk to you about is what I encourage you to do as a church. Two things I want to say to you as far as encouragement from me to you. I want to encourage you to continue praying. Your prayers have carried Julie and I this far. It is your prayers that will carry us to the end of this situation we've got the next few months. I want to ask you to continue to pray for Julie as she stands by my side to help me through this. My wife has spiritual steel in her soul. She has been a steady rock and with her by my side I believe with my heart that I am going to overcome this thing and I believe with all my heart that I will be better for it. So pray for Julie.

I also want you to put on your pray list our children. Our children want me to be in the very best place in the world that I can be in so that I can receive the very best treatment available so, encourage them and pray for them. But I please encourage you to give them some space.

In this matter of praying, I want you to also continue to pray for my healing. I believe with all my heart that God can heal this. And I believe with all my heart that God will heal this. Psalms 103, Verse 1, the Bible says, "Bless the lord, oh my soul and all that is within me, bless His holy name. Bless the Lord oh my soul and forget not all his benefits."

And now He's gonna list a few (benefits): "Who forgives all your inequities, who heals all your diseases, who redeems your life from destruction, who crowns you with loving kindness and tender mercies, who satisfies your mouth with good things so that your youth is renewed like the eagles."

So that's the first thing I want to encourage you to do: I want to encourage you to continue praying.

The second thing I want to encourage you to do is participating. I'm asking you to continue your faithfulness and the worship and praise and study in the Word of God. You be present when the church gathers each week as a testimony that you love Jesus and you love His church.

Before we leave I want to give you one Bible principle I have learned in the last two weeks. I have a feeling I'm going to be learning a lot of Bible lessons over the next few months. But there's a Bible principle I want to share with you and I want to encourage you to write it down. I've learned these last three weeks that it is easier to walk with God in the dark when you walk with God in the light.

I'm telling you, it is easier to walk with God in the dark times, in the uncertain times, in those times that you can't see which way to turn, when you walk with God when things are going your way, in those days when you can see where you're going. When your blood pressure's down and your bank account's up.

I woke up on Monday morning not knowing I had cancer and I was walking with God and I was trusting him. I went to bed Monday night knowing that I had cancer and I was walking with God and trusting him. I woke up Monday morning not knowing I had cancer and I gave praise and glory to God. And on Monday night when I discovered that I had cancer, I went to bed praising the Lord and thanking him and trusting him. And I'm telling you I've learned that you can praise the Lord and give glory to God even through tears.

It is easier to walk with God in the dark if you will walk with God in the light.

Black churches face financial pinch

Associated Press

ATLANTA — A national survey of 141 black Protestant congregations showed 54 percent of the members believe their churches face serious financial problems. The two-year study was conducted at the Interdenominational Theological Center, a consortium of six seminaries sponsored by black Protestant denominations.

The report said the typical black congregation has an average attendance of 250 and an annual budget of $181,500. It spends 77 percent of income on basic local programs and operations, with little left for outreach ministries.

One purpose of the survey was to determine if the churches can fill the gap in light of cutbacks in government assistance programs, said management consultant Walter Collier, the lead researcher. With a median household church offering of $1,930 annually, Collier said, expanded outreach efforts are unlikely.

The report said 41 percent of church members do not believe they receive sufficient financial information. And the researchers said many congregations do not keep adequate financial records.

Childbirth Classes for Expectant Teens
Expectant teens tend to have different concerns than older mothers. Many are not comfortable in a class with older couples. Also, the healthcare needs for younger women are different than those of older expectant mothers. That's why its very important that pregnant teenagers get comprehensive prenatal care and instruction.

Mary Ellen Green, Instructor
Certified Childbirth Educator
International Childbirth Education Association
At the Birthplace our goal is to obtain better outcomes for babies and their mothers. This includes shorter, more comfortable labors with fewer complications, and greater satisfaction.
Mary Ellen will assist a laboring young woman throughout the entire labor, providing emotional support, practical comfort measures, and help to make the birth experience a positive memory with rich rewards and feelings of accomplishment.
Early Pregnancy Classes
One weekly meeting anytime during the first and second trimester.
Cost: $5
Lamaze Classes
6 weekly meetings during the eighth and ninth months.
Pizza Wrap-Up Party at last class!
Labor Support
At the time of delivery. Classes start Monday, November 23 7 - 9 p.m.
The cost is $30 for the 6-week Lamaze classes. Sign up as early in your pregnancy as possible. To register, call the Birthplace at 822-3300.

Sunday

✔ From Soul to Mouth

The Rev. Rainbow Johnson returns Sunday to speak at the 11 a.m. celebration at the Discovery of Life Church, 2311 Elizabeth. The minister will facilitate a workshop from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Sunday. Her topic will be "From Soul to Mouth, 21 days to Prosperity." The program assists in the discovery and healing of negative money attitudes.
"We can consciously connect with God, the source of all our good, and no longer live from hand to mouth but from soul to mouth," said Ms. Johnson. A former minister of New Vision Church of religious Science, Austin, Ms. Johnson has been published in Science of Mind magazine. The workshop is on a love offering basis.

✔ Fall Faith Convention

ODESSA — Christian Faith Center, 8860 N. Andrews Highway, is hosting its 1998 Fall Faith Convention and building dedication Sunday through Wednesday. Guest ministers include Tommy Barnett, First Assembly, Phoenix, Ariz.; Tommy Burchfield, Columbus; Jesse Duplantis, New Orleans, La.; Mario Murillo, San Francisco, Calif.; and Charles Nieman, Abundant Living Faith Center, El Paso.
Service times are 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday and 7 p.m. Monday through Wednesday. Doors will open an hour before services.
A nursery and children's services will be provided. For more information call 1-915-368-7714.

Monday

✔ Widows' Group

A widows' support group and Bible study meets from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Mondays. The group is being led by Connie Staton. For more information and to find out where the group meets call Ms. Staton, 686-7638.

Wednesday

✔ Communion service

In celebration of Thanksgiving and the newly established full communion relationship between the Presbyterian Church, USA, and the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America, a combined service is planned for 7 p.m. Wednesday at Grace Presbyterian Church, 2801 N. Garfield St. The congregations of First, Grace and Trinity Presbyterian churches will be joining with the congregations of Hope and Midland Lutheran churches for the worship.
A free-will offering for the St. Andrews mission fund will be collected. Child care will be available for infants and toddlers.
The public is invited to attend.

Thursday

✔ Thanksgiving service

The public is invited to join in a special service at 10:30 a.m. Thanksgiving at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1001 W. Tennessee Ave. Child care will be provided. Also, National Bible Week is being celebrated at the Christian Science Reading Room, 201 W. Wall Ave. Free copies of the Thanksgiving day lesson-sermon are available there. The reading room is open weekdays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Upcoming Events

✔ Habitat for Humanity

Dan Smith, Pacific Regional Director for Habitat International-South Pacific, will be speaking at 9:30 a.m. Nov. 28 at Grace Lutheran Church, 2801 N. Garfield St.
Smith first became involved with Habitat here. He worked in New guinea and is now based out of Fiji. Mabel Kuizon of the Philippines Habitat will accompany him on his visit to Midland. Habitat for Humanity International is a non-profit, ecumenical Christian organization dedicated to eliminating poverty housing worldwide. Habitat works in partnership with people in need throughout the world building simple, decent shelter that is sold to them at no profit through no-interest loans. To date, the organization has built over 66,000 homes worldwide.
For information about the Midland Habitat for Humanity call Alynda best, 686-8877.

✔ Spanish Eucharist Service

La Santa Eucaristia, the Holy Eucharist in Spanish, will be celebrated at St. Nicholas' Episcopal Church, 2900 Princeton Ave., Sundays at 5 p.m. beginning Nov. 29, which is the first Sunday of Advent. The Rev. Bernardo Martinez, vicar of St. Michael the Archangel Episcopal Church, Odessa, will preside and preach at the service. For more information call the parish office, 694-8856.

✔ Ground breaking

Led by Bishop Wallis Ohi, the members of St. Nicholas' Episcopal Church will hold a ground breaking ceremony at 2:30 p.m. Dec. 6 on the Loop 250 site where their new church will be constructed. The seven-acre tract is located between Crestway and Crestfield streets, east of Big 5 Sports. Parking will be available on the church's property on the east side of Crestway at Loop 250. All are welcome to attend the event.

✔ Hanukkah Party

Temple Beth El Sisterhood is hosting its annual Children's Hanukkah Party at Barnes & Noble Bookseller on Dec. 6. Children from all faiths are in, concluding with a snack. For more information call Gayla Adams, 687-4026.

KITUKU: What would we hold close to us if today was the last day?

(From 1B)

social security, and the well-being of the youth is their assurance for a bright future.

Material possessions do make life easier, but they cannot provide inner peace.

One's search for the meaning of life, fulfillment, identity and worth can not be achieved through possessions. Ponder this. Money can buy a bed, but it can't make you fall asleep in that bed. It can buy the best food, but not the appetite to enjoy the food. Money can buy a house, but not a peaceful and happy home. It can buy medicine, but not healing. Money may provide the means of prolonging life, but it's purse can do nothing to assure eternal life.

Relationships with God, family and community is what matters. That's the glue of life. There is one ingredient for solid relationships ... love for God and fellow human beings. The three enduring virtues are faith, hope and love.

The Bible says, "The greatest of these is love." It is that love that motivates us to care, have compassion, forgive and provide a crying shoulder for wounded souls.

It is love that develops from the basics of life and is not based on the artificiality of material gain.

The story of Pompeii brings back memories of my loved ones who have passed on. I know that what my heart cherishes most is the quality times we spent together. We made and told personal stories together. We came through triumphs and disappointments. We took trips and shared hand-me-down items.

We made family rules and then changed them as our family's needs evolved.

Memories of cherished relationships are treasures that lighten the hearts of our loved ones, when our lives are petrified in life's catastrophes like the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius.

The scriptures say, "Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

If Mt. Vesuvius were to erupt in our front yard today, what would we hold on to as a demonstration of the memoirs of our hearts' treasures?

TALENT: Renovating choir facility, other parts of True-Lite Fellowship spurred interested in having talent show

(From 1B)

"I don't know if people are just too busy or not interested. I sent the letters out four or five weeks ago. I sent out like 75 letters and may have gotten 4 or 5 responses."

The letter read, in part: "We the members of the True-Lite Christian Fellowship Church Choir cordially invite you to join us in sharing our talents with others around the community in a talent show. Our theme for the talent show is 'Break Dividing Walls,' so be thinking of ways to be a blessing to others."

Those wanting to participate should call Ms. Wallace, 689-5014, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. or Albert Hall, 683-2760, between 6 and 10 p.m.

Choir members also passed out flyers to friends and coworkers, Ms. Wallace said. "I don't know if they're still trying to get people interested at the churches and get everybody together before they contact me."

The idea of a talent show as a fund raiser began with the choir, Ms. Wallace said. "We're trying to redo our church.

"We have a very small congregation, and the church is in the process of adding on to the church. So, as a choir, we wanted to help out. And in helping out, we decided to have a talent show as a fund raiser. At the event, we were going to take up a love offering and whatever we get from that will go to the church to help with the building fund."

The primary goal of the show for Ms. Wallace is to help foster cooperation — not competition.

"Competing against one another — your church doesn't do this, but mine does; we have this and you don't. That type of stuff. Even little stuff as far as annual meetings and anniversaries."

The talent show is, Ms. Wallace said, "So we could get together and get to know what each other is about and invite each other to special events because we are one. Not just my family, but my family as a whole. And I think part of that whole problem is that we don't know each other, we don't communicate with each other enough. And we need to break down these walls that we have amongst each other."

Sweden's Catholics get Swedish priest

Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — For the first time in 400 years, Sweden's Roman Catholics will have a Swedish bishop.

The Vatican has named the Rev. Anders Arborelius as bishop of the Stockholm diocese, which covers all of Sweden. Arborelius was born in Switzerland of Swedish parents and grew up in the Swedish city of Lund.

He replaces Bishop Hubertus Brandenburg, a German, who is retiring at age 75.

Arborelius will become the first Swede to head the church in Sweden since the Protestant Reformation swept the country in the 1500s. The Reformation changed Sweden from an almost entirely Catholic country into one where Catholics were banned.

Until 1860, no native Swedes were allowed to be Catholics and today the church claims only about 2 percent of the population — about 165,000 people — and most of its priests are foreign-born, according to the Stockholm diocese.

Chaps at Q-school

LA QUINTA, Calif. — Two former Midland College golfers, Steven Young and Chad Campbell, are still in contention of gaining their PGA Tour cards after the third of six rounds at the tour's National Qualifying Tournament.

Young, a No. 1 player for the Chaps in 1996 and 1997, dropped from being tied for 19th to being tied for 34th after Friday's third round. Young shot 71 to move his three-round total to 209. As it stands right now, Young is in good position to earn his tour card with the top 35 and ties earning their cards.

Campbell, a state medalist in 1992 for Andrews High School, fired a 69, but stands at 212 after three days. The former Chap all-America is tied for 64th and is three shots out of the top 35.

The top 35 players plus ties in the tournament receive PGA Tour exemptions for 1999. The next 50 earn full exemptions to the developmental Nike tour.

Lee gets another shot at Eagles

EL PASO — Midland Lee football players were all pre-teens back in 1990 when El Paso Andress shocked the world of District 4-5A football by knocking the Rebels out of the state football playoffs.

LEE

Well, these two teams of history play again here today (1 p.m. MST) at the same Andress Stadium, the site of that 21-21 tie where Andress advanced past Lee by a 5-3 advantage in penetrations. Gone now is the penetration tie-breaker for playoff games. They go for overtime these days.

And Lee isn't expected to need overtime this time around, being salted as a 28-point favorite.

Things don't change much in the Sun City. Allan Sepkowitz is still the head football coach at Andress and he is meeting his old foe once again.

"It's been a while since we've played each other, but things don't seem to change much," Sepkowitz said. "Lee is still the same old Lee. As usual, they have a strong defense and they look to have enough firepower on offense and another great offensive line."

Sepkowitz does own an 18-15 win over a District 4-5A opponent this year, beating Midland High back in September. It is that game that Sepkowitz is calling on when he faces Lee today.

"We got a little taste of what we are in for against Lee when we played Midland High," Sepkowitz said. "District 4-5A always has tough teams. (Midland High-'s Shemond) Davis had over 200 yards rushing against us and Lee hasn't even given up 100 yards rushing (to a running back) this year."

In addition, Sepkowitz may be without his star running back Cheron Figgs, who is saddled with an ankle injury. Figgs missed Andress' bi-district playoff game against El Paso Bel Air last week.

"I don't think he (Figgs) will be able to go this week," Sepkowitz said, but added, "I don't know if it will make much difference for us or not. We feel like we have to throw the football to stand a chance."

So, that puts quarterback Adam Moseley on the hot seat. Moseley is one of the top passers in Class 5A and is starting for the third year. He didn't have to throw that much against Bel Air in a 37-20 bi-district win after taking a 16-6 lead in the

Stanton rolls as QB Herm sets 2A mark

SWEETWATER — Along the West Texas plains, where the Buffaloes roam, there is now one Buffalo that stands above the rest of the herd.

Stanton's Kyle Herm is now to Class 2A touchdowns as Reggie White is to NFL sacks. Herm passed New Deal's Toby Howell as the all-time Class 2A touchdown passer with two touchdowns Friday night in Stanton's 58-0 win over Eldorado in the area round of the Region I-2A playoffs at the Mustang Bowl.

"It feels great, especially the way we did it by coming out and winning a playoff game by 58," Herm said. "It's a great feeling knowing all the work you've done for all these years is paying off. Hopefully we've got four more weeks of football left."

Herm now has 78 career touchdown passes in his

EL PASO — Odessa Permian never skipped a beat against the El Paso Montwood Rams here Friday night in the 5A Big School area playoff round, romping to a 55-7 victory.

Permian scored on eight of 11 possessions. In fact, Permian had 21 points after only seven offensive plays in the first quarter.

Permian ripped off 42 first-half points, breaking open a 7-7 game early on. And they did it in record fashion.

Quarterback Leland Morris' 66-yard TD pass to Mark Gonzales in the second period gave Morris Permian's single season passing mark of over 2,000 yards. He is the third quarterback in Permian history to crack the 2,000 yard barrier, passing the three QBs in front of him.

Also, Desmond Hill had a 67-yard punt return, the first punt return for Permian since 1993 when Mojo did it against Midland High.

MHS girls win first skirmish for supremacy in city hoops

By Lee Passmore

BIG SPRING — If this was only Act I for the Midland High and Midland Lee girls basketball teams, one wonders just what kind of drama lurks ahead in the ensuing chapters.

Friday's game between the two Midland schools wasn't even staged in their hometown, but as a warmup act it served its purpose. The Tall City schools took over at Howard College for the featured game on the second day of the Pizza Innvitational to determine who would play for tonight's tournament championship.

In front of a sparse crowd, the two previously unbeaten teams played to deadlocks after the first two quarters before things really got interesting in the second half. Lee scored the first 15 points of the third quarter, but Midland High steadily rallied and eventually overtook the Lady Rebels to hold on to a 68-65 win and claim round one of the fight for city bragging rights.

Midland High (4-0) didn't get more out of the game not because it was a win, but because it faced the type of opponent which will present a challenge during the district season.

"Lee shot the ball extremely well to start the second half and at times I felt we should have slowed things down a bit offensively," said Midland High coach Jim Raughton. "I think we did lack a little patience."

Patient or not, it became quickly apparent that the Lady Dawgs were going to get their first serious challenge of the season from Lee (2-1). Neither team led by more than three points in the first half as

COLLEGE FOOTBALL'S BIG GAMES

Seminoles throw untested quarterback into fire against tough Florida defense

Marcus Outzen, a 21-year-old sophomore who has yet to throw a college touchdown pass, will start at quarterback for No. 5 Florida State against fourth-ranked Florida Saturday in Tallahassee, Fla.

By Brent Kallestad
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Marcus Outzen's boyhood dream comes true Saturday.

The 21-year-old redshirt sophomore, who has yet to throw a college touchdown pass, will be start at quarterback for fifth-ranked Florida State in its annual showdown against No. 4 Florida.

"This game has been on his mind for as long as he can remember, so it's going to be tough for him to not be in awe of the situation," Florida State offensive coordinator Mark Richt said. "It's going to be hard for him not to think about all the other things involved in this game."

Since he was 9, Outzen has fantasized about leading Florida State against its biggest rival. He sat in the stands with his dad, watching previous Casey Weldon, Charlie Ward and Danny Kanell lead the Seminoles.

He remembers Weldon's 76-yard touchdown pass to Lawrence Dawsey on the second play of Florida State's 45-30 victory in 1990.

"I was screaming at the top of my lungs," Outzen said. "Good plays, scoring points and winning games against Florida, that's the funnest thing I could be doing."

Outzen, who became the Seminoles' starter after Chris Weinke hurt his neck two weeks ago against Virginia, admits being nervous this week.

"Whether you like it or not, it's going to be physical once you get out there," Outzen said. "I guess I'm the bull in the ring. I'll have to be comfortable with it. That's my job to be comfortable with it."

Florida State (10-1) will be looking to extend the nation's longest home-field unbeaten streak to 40 games. Florida (9-1) will be looking to win at Tallahassee for the first time in 12 years.

OSU's talent doesn't scare Wolverines

By Rusty Miller
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Michigan sounds almost in awe of Ohio State. Certainly, that can't be based on the recent history between the two teams.

Players and coaches from the No. 11 Wolverines spoke this week almost in reverence of the seventh-ranked Buckeyes.

"This is a great football team, probably the best Ohio State team we've seen since I've been here," said coach Lloyd Carr, who has been on the Michigan staff for 19 seasons.

Offensive tackle Jon Jansen said, "You could make an All-American team just out of what they have."

And linebacker Sam Sword added, "They have enough talent to have an all-star team."

Yet it's the Wolverines who have won eight games in a row in this series. And it's Michigan that has blistered back-to-back top-10 teams Penn State and Wisconsin by a combined score of 54-10. And it's the Wolverines who have already clinched at least a share of the Big Ten title. And it is Michigan that has made life miserable for the Buck-

Chargers don't want holiday at home

By Oscar LeRoy
Sports Writer

The Trinity Chargers are hoping to be away from home for Thanksgiving this year.

Not that they don't want to be around their families and friends for the holiday, but a week from today, the Texas Christian Athletic League six-man championship game is in Arlington, and the Chargers hope to be there.

With a win against a familiar foe in El Paso Faith Christian in today's 1 p.m. semifinal game in Balmorhea, the Chargers just might be eating turkey dinner on the road.

The 6-5 Chargers come into today's game after a 94-48 win over Dallas Victory Christian last Saturday afternoon at Trinity's Coombes Field and winners of five of their last six games. One of those wins was a 45-0 romp of Faith Christian for the district championship. Faith Christian (3-7), meanwhile, defeated San Antonio Sunnybrook 49-42 to get to the semifinal game.

"I know they're going to come at us as hard as they can because I think we surprised them the last time we played them," said Trinity coach Karl Kitto about Faith Christian. "We jumped on them so fast that I think they were in shock. It was their homecoming and I don't think they were quite ready for what he had for them.

"They (Faith Christian) played well against Sunnybrook. At times I thought they were close to letting up and then they came back. Sunnybrook has a good team and they played better than they had been. Faith Christian forty-fived (45-point rule) them just a few weeks before."

The win over Faith Christian two weeks ago proved to be the first shutout of the year for the Chargers. Trinity allowed just 120 total offensive yards and only two first downs.

"Our defense has played unbelievable," Kitto said. "We hit them really hard in that game. In a stretch, we kicked off, they fumbled on the first play, and just two plays later we scored. Before they knew it, we had an 18-19 point lead in a minute-and-a-half.

"They say that defense wins championships, well our defense has done the job this year. Cory Mays, Dustin Truit, Carlos Callo, Daniel Valles, Matt Horne, and Michael Midkiff have all done a good job. It's really a tight group. If you look at them, they're all really close and we didn't have that last year."

The Chargers' defense will key on stopping 190-pound senior Faith Christian running back James Buster and backfield teammate Sam Dominguez. Faith Christian will rely a lot on its rushing game as its passing has been suspect at times.

"We're going to try to take them out of their running game by putting pressure on their quarterback," Kitto said. "Callo will take (Buster) out of his game. And if he doesn't get him, somebody else will. They (defense) tend to help each other out."

While the defense has been stepping up, the offense is clicking on all cylinders led by Nathan Pirtle, who ran over and around the Victory Christian offense last Saturday as he ran up 414 yards and seven touchdowns.

Pirtle credits the encouragement of both parents and coaches, plus his teammates up front for his recent success.

"The offensive line has made me who I am today," said Pirtle, who's just a sophomore.

The biggest thing the Chargers have to face is themselves. After already whipping up on Faith Christian earlier in the year, the Chargers have be careful of any letdown.

"They're ready. The mental toughness is there and I just can't see a letdown," Kitto said.

Looking at the rough start of the season Trinity experienced, Kitto can't help but be amazed at how far his young players have come.

"I just keep thinking where were we at this time last year and did we think we'd be here after the Grady game (a 40-2 loss)?," Kitto said. "The turning point is because our coaches have done an excellent job. Coach (Mark) Mays and coach (Jeff) Young have done a super job preparing our kids everyday."

Just to get to this point has even surprised the players.

"I never thought we could make it this far, being such a young group," said Pirtle about his team which has only four juniors and no seniors. "I just can't wait for the years to come."

The winner of this semifinal game will meet either Rockwall Heritage or Galveston Heritage in next Saturday's championship game.

OHIO: Loss vs. Michigan State humbled Buckeyes eyes for the last decade, going 8-1-1 in the series and continually deflating Ohio State's record, ranking and reputation.

The Buckeyes have had unbeaten seasons ruined three times in the past five years by the Wolverines. Not this year. Ranked No. 1 all season in both major polls, the Buckeyes (9-1, 6-1 Big Ten) dropped out of the national title picture with a 28-24 shocker at the hands of four-touchdown underdog Michigan State two weeks ago.

After past disappointments for unbeaten Ohio State teams against Michigan, some of the Buckeyes look back on the Michigan State loss as an advantage.

"That humbled us very much," Buckeye quarterback Joe Germaine said. "That may turn out to be a good thing."

Michigan (8-2, 7-0), established as an 11 1/2-point underdog early in the week, has admired Ohio State's talent before and then won this game. The last four times the Buckeyes have been ranked in the top-10 coming into the game, they have lost.

"I'm not going to say that all the breaks have gone against us," Ohio State coach John Cooper said. "We've had our chances, particularly here at home."

Just two years ago, second-ranked Ohio State pounded the Wolverines in the first half, running up a 220-62 advantage in yards and a 9-0 lead. But Michigan escaped with a 13-9 win thanks to its defense and Tai Street's short slant pass that turned into a 69-yard touchdown when Ohio State cornerback Shawn Springs slipped on the wet turf.

Ohio State is at home again, has a veteran lineup stocked with stars including wide receiver David Boston, Germaine, linebacker Andy Katzenmoyer and cornerback Antoine Winfield. Winfield contends that the Buckeyes have had more talent every year against their tormentors from the north.

Many would debate that, but the Buckeyes don't understand why Michigan dominates the series.

"I'm speechless," flanker Dee Miller said. "I don't know what's going on."

"In '95 and '96, I thought we were just unbeatable, to be honest with you," linebacker Jerry Rudzinski said. "I thought if we had a decent day of football, we'd come out on top. And Michigan proved us wrong."

The Wolverines come in as one of the hottest teams in the country, stretching their winning streak to 16 straight Big Ten games and 10 in a row against top-10 teams. The defense hasn't given up more than 10 points in a game since September.

Kansas State plays to earn more votes

By R.B. Fallstrom
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Instead of carrying Big 12 title implications, Saturday will be a day of posturing for Kansas State and Missouri.

The second-ranked Wildcats (10-0, 7-0) are already set to play Texas A&M in the Dec. 5 championship game in St. Louis. Now they get a chance to convince more poll voters that they're as good as others in the Big 12 Conference say they are.

"There's not any question in my mind that Kansas State is by far the No. 1 team in the country," Missouri coach Larry Smith said. "I don't care about all that computer (stuff)."

Kansas State's image suffers because of a weak non-conference schedule that featured the likes of Indiana State (66-0), Northern Illinois (73-7) and Northeast Louisiana (62-7). Continuing that dominance to only a slightly lesser extent in the conference, including a 40-30 victory over Nebraska last week that ended a 29-game losing streak in that series, hasn't meant enough.

The Wildcats trail Tennessee by 10 votes in the AP poll, and are third in the Bowl Championship Series poll, meaning they could be left out of the Fiesta Bowl matching Nos. 1 and 2.

"We have no control over that," quarterback Michael Bishop said. "All we can do is just keep winning.

"I feel if we finish undefeated and play well in Big 12 games, then I think we'll get those extra points that we've been looking for."

Bus Collision

COLUMBIA, Mo. — The Kansas State football team arrived hours behind schedule Friday night for its game against Missouri after one of the team buses collided with the team plane as it sat at Manhattan Regional Airport.

No one was hurt in the airport accident. The plane had minor damage, and the flight was delayed for about 4 1/2 hours as repairs were made.

The team arrived at Columbia Regional Airport at 7:15 p.m. Players boarded buses and left for their hotel without comment.

A 17-14 loss to No. 6 Texas A&M last week knocked Missouri (7-3, 5-2) out of the conference championship picture. The Tigers' special teams were to blame, with a missed 26-yard field goal attempt and two major mistakes on punt returns.

Now, Missouri's incentive is to end a 34-game, 17-season losing streak against Top 10 teams, to end a five-game losing streak to Kansas State and to impress bowl visitors. Representatives from the Alamo Bowl will be watching Missouri, which also could land in the Independence Bowl or even the Cotton Bowl with a victory.

With a win, the Tigers would reach eight victories for the first time since 1981 and finish in no worse than a tie for third overall in the Big 12.

Smith came to Missouri five years ago with a bit of a giant-killer reputation, with 12 victories over the Top 10. With the Tigers, he's still waiting for the next one, with an 0-12 record against top teams.

"I think our team believes it can win," Smith said.

Led by Heisman hopeful Bishop at quarterback, Kansas State enters the game with the No. 1 scoring team in the nation at 51 points a game. Bishop passed for 306 yards and two touchdowns and ran for 140 yards and two scores in last week's landmark victory over Nebraska.

That was his fifth consecutive 200-plus yard passing game. He's run for 12 touchdowns and passed for 20, with only two interceptions.

The Wildcats also have the nation's second-ranked defense and are allowing only 10 points per game.

FLORIDA: Outzen gets start

pleted 11 of 19 passes for 164 yards last week at Wake Forest.

"He'll get better," Florida State coach Bobby Bowden said. "Thank goodness he's got that one game because we saw some things in there that were very important to us."

Florida's Doug Johnson has thrown 41 touchdown passes in his college career — 10 in his last three games. But Outzen has beaten Johnson before, leading Fort Walton Beach High School to an easy 40-19 victory over Johnson's Gainesville Buchholz in a prep playoff game in 1995.

The rangy Outzen's quickness will present Florida defenders with some problems they wouldn't have seen with Weinke, who is not as mobile.

But he'll also have to make some improvements, such as finding wideout Peter Warrick enough times to make a difference. Outzen managed to complete just one pass to him, for a 10-yard gain, last week.

The quarterback position is always one that is under the microscope, especially when you start in a game like this," Richt said. "People will probably think the outcome will be decided on how he plays."

The winner has the chance to advance to a national championship game Jan. 4 at the Fiesta Bowl. However, before the winners can make travel plans for Phoenix, they'll need two of the three unbeaten teams ahead of the Florida schools — Tennessee, Kansas State and UCLA — to lose.

Big game in WAC features two run-oriented offenses

By John Mossman
AP Sports Writer

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. — It's a game that likely will determine the Mountain Division champion in the Western Athletic Conference. It also should have bowl implications for one of the principals.

So call it a big game, just don't call it Ken Hatfield vs. Fisher DeBerry.

"We're both intense competitors," Air Force coach DeBerry said of his counterpart at Rice, "but Ken and I are not going to play a dadgum play in the entire game."

Both teams deploy a ground-oriented option offenses, and DeBerry promises no departure from that style.

"You dance with the girl that brought you, you know," he said. "It's not going to be him outsmarting me or me outsmarting him. I don't think we'll outscheme each other. It's going to boil down to whose players execute the basic option attack the best, which team blocks and tackles the best."

Hatfield and DeBerry have a long-time coaching friendship that dates back to 1980 when Hatfield, then the Air Force head coach, hired DeBerry as his quarterbacks coach. DeBerry was promoted to offensive coordinator the next year, and together he and Hatfield developed one of college football's most productive wishbone offenses.

When Hatfield left the academy for Arkansas after the 1983 season, DeBerry was elevated to the Falcons' head coach, where he has remained ever since, compiling a 117-64-1 record and leading his team to nine bowl appearances.

Hatfield, in his fifth year at Rice where he sports a 26-27-1 record, is 139-89-4 in 20 seasons overall at AFA, Arkansas, Clemson and Rice.

DeBerry has had the upper hand since their parting, going 2-0 against Hatfield. The Falcons beat Rice 45-17 in 1996 and 41-12 last year.

There are multiple reasons to expect another one-sided game, not the least of which is the No. 20 Falcons' opportunity to clinch a spot in the WAC championship game on Dec. 5 in Las Vegas. The Falcons (9-1 overall) currently are tied with Wyoming at 6-1 in the Mountain Division, but the Falcons own the tiebreaker advantage and a win on Saturday would give them the division title.

A bowl berth also appears likely for AFA. Although the WAC champion has no guaranteed bowl destination, the Aloha Bowl and Oahu Bowl, which will be played back-to-back on Christmas Day in Honolulu's Aloha Stadium, both are interested in the Falcons.

Rice also remains in title contention, but the Owls need not only a victory on Saturday but a loss by Wyoming to Tulsa. Under that scenario, the Owls (5-5, 5-2) would claim the division crown based on having a better division record than either Air Force or Wyoming.

DIRTY AIR DUCTS COULD MAKE YOU SICK

IS THERE HELP FOR ALLERGIES WITHOUT DRUGS?

Dust, pollen, smoke, chemical sprays, mold, fungus and germs build up in your furnace ductwork. This creates a "chemical and biological soup" that could cause headaches, intensify allergies and aggravate those with breathing difficulties.

FORCE-FED GERMS

Each time your furnace comes on, it "force-feeds" this potentially unhealthy mixture of air into every room in your home. In fact, the Environmental Protection Agency found this air may be 25 times (and sometimes up to 100 times) more polluted than outdoor air. And since your home is probably closed up more than ever today, the problem can be even worse. Especially for the very young and the elderly.

BREATHE FRESH CLEAN AIR AND NOTICE THE DIFFERENCE

One of the best ways to clean furnace duct work is with a machine powerful enough to create a strong vacuum throughout the entire ductwork system.

We've spent a great deal of time and money investigating duct cleaning systems, in search of equipment that would perform to our very demanding standards.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

A large hose from our Power Machine is connected to your air duct system, the air outlet is sealed and a vacuum is created. Next, the "Aire-Sweep" is inserted into each duct run. This high pressure, high volume, compressed air breaks loose and dislodges caked-on dirt and contaminants at 100 psi, forcing the dirt and debris into the vacuum, where it is removed.

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST?

You can find out the exact requirements for your home with our FREE no-obligation estimate. Just call and have our clean air specialist come to your home and survey your system. And, of course, like all of our products and services you have ZERO RISK. Your satisfaction is 100% guaranteed.

CALL DURING THE NEXT 11 DAYS FOR $50 BONUS

Call Carol now and schedule your FREE survey and I will give you a $50 Cashiers Certificate™ as a bonus, which is good on any future Service Experts product or service. This bonus is yours to keep, even if you decide not to have us clean your ducts. There is absolutely NO OBLIGATION. It's just my way to introduce this extensive multi-thousand dollar duct cleaning system to my customers.

Yours for better health,

NBA Lockout

By The Associated Press

A look at the NBA lockout through Friday, Day 143:

GAMES LOST FRIDAY: 7.

TOTAL GAMES MISSED: 130.

EARLIEST ESTIMATED DATE THAT SEASON CAN START: Dec. 22.

NEGOTIATIONS: The sides held a formal bargaining session Friday from mid-morning into the evening.

PROJECTED PLAYER SALARY LOSSES (through Dec. 22): $298 million.

SATURDAY'S BEST CANCELED GAME: Chicago at San Antonio, 8:30 p.m. For the past five seasons, Dennis Rodman was involved in a Spurs-Bulls game while playing for one team or the other. This season, one of the biggest unanswered questions was whether he would return to the defending champs.

QUOTE OF THE DAY: "There really are no secret potions here, it's just about the overall dollars." — NBA deputy commissioner Russ Granik on Friday morning as he arrived for collective bargaining talks.

Bulldogs open by ripping Del Rio; Lee gets by Allen

Staff Report

It was a new season for the defending state champions, but it just turned out to be the same old song and dance Friday night.

The Midland High boys basketball team opened defense of its state Class 5A crown on the road in Del Rio, and can chalk up one pretender to the throne struck down, as the Bulldogs dispatched Del Rio 89-70 in their first game of the 1998-99 season.

The Midland Lee boys also opened on the road and had just as successful a beginning, defeating Allen 63-58 at Allen.

For anyone who watched the Bulldogs last season, how they won their opener was extremely typical. With two of last season's big three back, it's no surprise that they were relied on heavily.

Forward Jay Christian, a Rice signee, had a career-high 38 points, reminiscent of the efforts turned in last season by the graduated Kirby Lemons. Guard Charles Tatum, who has committed to Arkansas, was Mr. Outside to Christian's Mr. Inside, scoring 26 points and hitting six three-pointers. For good measure, junior Blake Johnston, the other returning starter from last season, added 11 points.

"We always play hard and good things are going to happen when you do that," said Midland High coach Jack Stephenson, who hasn't lost a game on the court since last year when MHS fell to San Antonio Taft, the same team the Bulldogs would come back and win the state championship against. "We started out playing about the same way we did at this point last season, which is good."

The Bulldogs will conclude their trip to Del Rio today when they play Laredo Alexander at 11:30 a.m. As should be the case with every one of Midland High's opponents this season, Alexander should be especially pumped to face the Bulldogs.

"I think that everybody plays better against us but then again I think they all did last year too," said Stephenson. "We're a big target for everyone."

Midland Lee 63, Allen 58

The Rebels went on an 18-4 run late in the third quarter to take the lead for good and never look back.

Best of all for Lee was its performance from the free throw line. The Rebels made 17 of 19 from the line, including several in the fourth quarter when Allen was forced to foul.

"We did some good things," said Lee coach Jon House. "We took two minutes off the clock and spread the floor out. We hit (free throws) at crunch time when they had to foul us."

Chris Packer and Jeramy Conaway each had 15 points for Lee while Orlando Castillo added 13. The Rebels will play Garland Lake View Centennial tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Lady Chaps blow out Blinn

By Lee Passmore
Sports Writer

One night later at the Lady Chaps Classic, the Midland College women's basketball team found a little more to be happy about Friday night.

Despite easily beating Phoenix College on the first night of the tournament, the Lady Chaps and coach Ron Jones weren't exactly thrilled with the 28-point victory. So they decided to come out and do everything just a little bit better against Blinn College.

Midland College jumped out on top early and rarely let up in rolling to a 91-53 victory over Blinn to become the only team in the tournament which is unbeaten through two games. On top of that, the Lady Chaps improved to 7-1 on the season.

MC fell behind 5-4 but after that embarked on an 11-0 run and never looked back as its margin was only cut as close as six points in the first half. Blinn simply couldn't contend with the Lady Chaps' defensive pressure and shot only 29 percent for the game.

"I think that we sustained our defensive intensity the whole night," said Jones. "We were real sharp mentally. We wanted to generate some offense and get the tempo where we wanted it."

Most of the field goals early for Midland College were layups, many of which were set up off defensive steals. Two players, Jhudy Gonzalez and Amie Kane combined to score the first 17 points for the Lady Chaps.

The pair carried Midland College offensively in the first half, when Gonzalez scored 22 of her game high 24 points and Kane scored 13 of her 15 as the Lady Chaps rolled to a 51-28 halftime lead.

"(Gonzalez and Kane) were open to shoot so it just kind of happened that way," said Jones of the pair's early offensive surge. "It's not like we necessarily planned it that way."

Midland College seemed to coast after taking the lead and not letting go, leading by as many as 27 points in the first half. The surge continued in the second half as the Lady Chaps led by as many as 41 points. After that, Jones used several different combinations with various players off the bench, giving Blinn a chance to make the score more cosmetically pleasing.

MC only hit four shots from the field over the final 12 minutes as things got a little sloppy with the game already decided.

"I think we shot well the first 30 minutes of the game," Jones said.

Natalie Goodall scored 13 for Midland College while Julie Rampley added 12. Lakesha Jones was the only scorer for Blinn in double figures with 17 points.

The four players in double figures is indicative of the type of offensive balance Jones is seeking. Taqita Hunter, who led the Lady Chaps a night earlier against Phoenix College with 18 points, had only seven against Blinn but also had a game high 12 rebounds.

"We're no different from any other team in trying to be more consistent and get better," said Jones. "We've had a lot of injuries but we've seen a little bit of improvement each week."

The Lady Chaps will close out their own tournament this afternoon at 3 p.m. when they host Hill College, which lost to Phoenix College 86-68 in Friday's first game. Rhonda Rajsich led Phoenix with 24 points while Shannon Meece added 17. Casie Jackson led Hill College with 17 points while Rochelle Morris added 13.

Today's first game will be at 1 p.m., when Blinn takes on Phoenix College.

Jacks fall after duel of goalies

By Ted Battles
MRT Correspondent

It was hockey's version of Sandy Koufax vs. Bob Gibson, Randy Johnson vs. Roger Clemens at the Jack Shack Friday night as Corpus Christi's Jayson Genick and Odessa's Michael Tornquist pitched nine inning shutouts.

The Central Division Icerays sent 4,234 fans home muttering under their breath by taking the WPHL extra inning shootout, 1-0. Genik blocked all three shots by the Jackalopes while Dave Shute, Chris Robertson and Vadim Sharapov slipped shots past Tornquist.

The red light never went on after the last goal, but referee Steve Cruickshank ruled it edged into the net.

For Tornquist, in his second season in the WPHL, it was a heartbreaking loss. In his last two starts, he had allowed just one goal in six periods, but the young Swede demonstrated he's ready to lift some of the load off Billy Pye's shoulders.

Despite a loss to Abilene and the shootout loss, Jacks head coach Joe Clark felt it was a successful home stand. "We were 4-1-1, giving us nine out of a possible 12 points.

The Jacks not only held the WPHL's best offense scoreless for 60 minutes, but Tonrquist matched Genik, a 24-year-old out of Winnipeg, save for save and then some.

Tornquist (2-0-1) weathered a barrage of 46 shots while Genick (2-0-0) turned away 36.

"There were a lot of shots, but not many of them were quality shots," said Clark. Nevertheless, both goalies were flopping around like beached seals.

Of course, both goalies had a lot of help from the defenses. Just how tough it was, Corpus Christ was 0 for 3 on power plays and Odessa 0 for 4. Each suffered through a power play in which they never got to launch a shot.

"Considering we were missing two centers, Bo Andersen and Christian Wibner, we played well against a really strong team," Clark said.

Good news perhaps for the future was the return to action of Joakim Blink, who suffered a compound leg fracture last October and was playing his first game in over year.

"He held up well. I let him rest for a couple of shifts in the second period, but he's back," Clark advised.

The Icerays improved to 13-5-1 while the Jacks, who begin a road trip in San Angelo tonight, are 9-6-3.

Last year at this time, the Jacks were 3-14-2 with a 6.15 goals against average. This season, the Jacks have a goals allowed average of a shade over 3.00.

Chaps fire warning shot to WJCAC with victory against Howard College

Staff Report

ODESSA — It wasn't a league game for Midland College, but after the Chaps' win over Howard College Friday night in the Odessa College Classic at the OC Sports Center, the rest of the Western Junior College Athletic Conference should take notice.

The Chaps' 75-62 win might be that big.

"It is a good win. You can't win the league in November but you can learn a great deal from it," Midland College head coach Pat Rafferty said. "We didn't win the league tonight, but for us to beat Howard, we had to do a lot of things right for an extended period.

"The win gave us a reference point of how good we can be. Howard College is a team to beat in the league."

Rafferty's team improved to 4-3 on the season and was impressive while doing it. Alvin Brooks led the team with 18 points while Ivan Gatto and Ricky Duff added 14. However for an important stretch in the second half, it was a group of freshmen that led the Chaps.

Brooks, Duff, Mike Stewart, Teohn Conner and Armon Whitaker — all freshmen — were in the game with 10 minutes to go and the Chaps up by 10. Over the next four minutes, they pushed the lead to 20.

"They made contributions over that stretch," Rafferty said. "We had some freshmen that stepped up and gave us good minutes."

Also giving Rafferty some good minutes was Eugene Costello. The freshman from Louisiana had just seven points, but was very instrumental in getting MC (4-3) off to a good start.

"Costello got us out of the game and established the tempo and demeanor defensively. That got us out of the gate," Rafferty said. "I thought we were good defensively all night. I credit Costello with that."

Today, MC must rebound from its big win for a 6 p.m. game against AAU Taco Villa.

Players, owners make progress

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Progress finally occurred in NBA labor talks Friday, with players and owners making several compromises during the longest negotiation session of the 143-day lockout.

"I would say there has been some movement from both sides," commissioner David Stern said after about 9 1/2 hours of meetings ended shortly before 11 p.m. EST. "I think it's fair to say that there's an evident spirit of an attempt to reach (agreement) on both sides."

The sides will not meet again during the weekend, and no firm date was set for resuming discussions next week. But both sides agreed a resumption should be expected before Thanksgiving.

"You reach a point in negotiations when you have to take a breather, and we both felt that we kind of reached that point," deputy commissioner Russ Granik said. "We all want to have turkey with our families if we can, but other than that we realize that making the deal as soon as we can is more important than any other obligations we have."

Stern tempered his enthusiasm by pointing out that the sides remain far apart on many issues, but his comments were both surprisingly optimistic and clearly indicative there was real progress in trying to settle the most damaging labor dispute in league history.

"We reached a position where neither side was prepared to make any further movement, so we though it was a good time to stop," union director Billy Hunter said. "When you've been in a hotel for 12 or 14 hours, the air gets stale and your head gets cloudy."

Sources involved in the talks, speaking on the condition they not be identified, told The Associated Press each side had moved about a couple points off its desired salary percentages. The owners had been demanding 50 percent, while the players wanted 60.

The owners also agreed to accept, with several conditions, the idea of a percentage limit on the amount of an "escrow tax" that could be withheld from players' paychecks in years four, five and six of a seven-year deal, sources said. The players had already offered to withhold as much as 10 percent of their annual salaries in those years.

Owners continued to ask for a four-year rookie scale with a right of first refusal in the fifth year and a 5 percent limit, down from the old 20 percent, on yearly salary increases for players without Larry Bird exception rights.

"For the first time in a while, I feel real optimistic that a deal can be made," Miami's Alonzo Morning said.

By the time they broke for dinner, the sides had spent almost nine hours speaking face to face, making it longer than their 8 1/2-hour session on Oct. 28, when Michael Jordan tried to help broker a deal.

"There has been no acrimony," Stern said. "The only raised voices have been in the passion of the deal, and we're trying to see whether we can't make some progress. Everybody seems to be determined to sit here and sit here and sit here."

DALLAS — Andrews running back Shaud Williams was the only player from West Texas honored with Texas Football's Rawlings Gold Football Award.

Williams rushed for 2,395 yards and 32 TDs this past season for the 10-1 Mustangs, who finished the season ranked third in Class 4A. Andrews was knocked off last weekend in the bi-district round by No. 8 Stephenville. In the game, Williams' last as a Mustang, the senior rushed for 274 yards and five scores.

For his career, Williams rushed for 7,711 yards (which is good for second on the all-time 4A list) and 87 TDs. Others named to the team included Brownwood quarterback Colby Freeman, Cy Fair running back Ryan Beard and Arlington Lamar defensive lineman Cedric Hilliard.

GIRLS: Lady Dawgs win

the score was tied 15-15 after the first quarter and 32-32 at halftime.

That's when it looked as if the Lady Rebels were going to take over the game. They scored the first 15 points of the second half to go up 47-32, sparked by seven points off the bench from Heather Wells. KeKe Strambler, who led Lee with 18 points, then did her part by scoring the last seven points of the period for the Lady Rebels, who led 50-40 at the end of the quarter.

"I thought this was one of our better ball games so far, even though we've only played three games," said Lee coach Elise Kail. "We had a few mental errors, but we're going to have that early in the season."

If Wells, who scored 15 points, is Lee's instant offense off the bench, Midland High had more than a ready answer in sophomore Edrea Rogers. The Lady Dawgs stayed in the game in the third quarter thanks to Rogers, who scored six of Midland High's eight points in the period and finished with a game-high 26.

Rogers scored on a layup early in the fourth quarter which cut Lee's lead to 53-48, and although Strambler followed with a free throw to boost Lee's lead back to six, the momentum clearly had swung back to MHS.

While only a sophomore, Rogers played on the varsity last season in a similar role, but this season feels better suited to it.

"This year more than last year (she likes coming off the bench) because I have more experience to work with," said Rogers. "This year I'm a little more comfortable with what I'm able to do because I have a year under my belt."

Although Heidi Lange, a returning all-district player, didn't have a customary big game, she came through when it counted in the fourth quarter. The senior, who scored 10 points, hit a jumper to tie it at 55-55, then after Michelle Acosta hit two free throws to give the Lady Dawgs the lead, Lange hit a three-pointer to make it 60-55 and Midland High never looked back.

Rogers helped seal the win by hitting all four of her free throws in the final 16 seconds after Strambler and Debbie Yee missed three-pointers which would have tied the game for Lee.

STANTON: Buffaloes erase Eldorado

(From 1C)

three-year career. The senior QB will get yet more opportunities to keep breaking the record as the 11-1 Buffs face Albany at 7:30 next Friday again at the Mustang Bowl.

However in this particular game, Herm finished 11-of-16 passing for 184 yards, two TDs and no interceptions. Herm also added an electrifying 90-yard punt return in the first half which saw the Buffs take a 34-0 lead.

"To have 78 TD passes over the last three years is tremendous," said Stanton coach Mark Cotton. "Wherever he goes to college, if they don't give him the opportunity to play quarterback, something's wrong."

It didn't take the standout senior QB long to break the two-way tie with Howell. Herm had already scored on a 1-yard keeper to give his team a 6-0 lead, when on the next possession, Herm found a diving Austin Kelly with 5:06 left in the first quarter.

"That was a great catch," said Herm about his fellow senior's leap for the pigskin. "I heard somebody was on the field that took pictures of it."

"That's something we've worked on in practice," said Kelly about the record-breaking play. "It's just called an up and they (Eldorado defenders) bit on it. Kyle threw a great pass and my job is to go up and get it."

Herm, who later added a 21-yard TD toss to Maurice Martinez, said he tried not to think about the record much during the week's practice.

"I just tried to block it out," Herm said. "If it happens, it happens. I just know that if we play our game good things are going to happen."

Herm has been able to accomplish these feats thanks to some great help around him, such as the offensive line and big play receivers. This year those receivers include Kelly, Maurice Martinez and Chad Smith, all of whom caught passes against the Eagles (5-7).

"It's great to have receivers like that," Herm said. "Last year, we had Tyron Davis who caught who knows how many balls. This year, we have three guys who've caught 40 passes. You can't say enough about the receivers. They've stepped up."

"We lost Tyron who was a great receiver and we all had to step up," Kelly said. "I've done my part. And everybody else has too. There's not just one guy doing it."

No matter how far Stanton goes this year, no Buffalo fan will ever forget the magic Herm has created on the field the past three years. His teammates also have great respect for a player which stands no taller than 5-foot-10 but appears to hover over most of his opponents with his remarkable ability to make play after play.

"Herm has been a great leader," Kelly said. "I think his leadership is his best quality. And his athletic skills are amazing. You never know what he's going to do until the last second. He's always making you guess."

Herm's record shouldn't be overshadowed by the lopsided win over the Eagles. The Buffs are continuing to roll over opponents like they were rag dolls lying on Interstate 20. Stanton has now scored 110 points in two playoffs games and has allowed just 16 points and 14 first downs.

"I was a little worried about us before the game," Cotton said. "We didn't seem real emotional and somebody in the stands kept saying, 'it's going to be another Seagraves,' and that helped us get motivated.

"Tonight, I thought if we played well we might get 35, and we just had an exceptional night."

Now the Buffs have to guard against being too cocky and not get overconfident.

"In the back of your mind you have to wonder how good are you," Cotton said. "In this region, the big guns are still left. You've got Albany which is 12-0, Spearman is a tremendous football team, and you've got Seagraves."

2A Notes: Like Stanton, Albany also won in a shutout, blanking Amarillo Highland Park 27-0. Quarterback Tony Wheeler completed 8-of-11 passes and threw a pair of touchdowns while Albany's defense limited Highland Park to 114 yards.

Seagraves, the only team to defeat Stanton over the last 28 games, advanced to the next round by thrashing Iraan 54-6. Seagraves ran for 401 yards and took a 40-0 halftime lead while limiting Iraan to 100 yards on offense.

O'Meara captures PGA Tour Player of Year selection

By Doug Ferguson
AP Golf Writer

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. — Mark O'Meara will have to make room on the mantle for another trophy he never imagined winning at age 41.

■ Golf Roundup

O'Meara, the oldest man to ever win two majors in the same year, on Friday won the Jack Nicklaus Award over David Duval as the PGA Tour player of the year.

"Wow," he said upon accepting the award at the World Golf Village. "I never would have dreamed that when I was 41 years of age I would be ... accepting the player of the year award. A lot of people probably would have thought that at the age I was, maybe it wasn't possible. It just goes to show you golf is a game for everyone."

That wasn't the case on the Senior PGA Tour, where Hale Irwin made it a clean sweep after the greatest season ever on the 50-and-over circuit. Irwin also won the Nicklaus award, voted on by the players, as well Arnold Palmer and Byron Nelson awards for leading the money list and having the lowest scoring average.

Bob Burns was the Nike Tour player of the year.

The comeback player of the year award went to Scott Verplank on the PGA Tour and Jim Colbert on the Senior Tour. Steve Flesch won the PGA Tour rookies of the year, while Joe Inman won that award on the Senior Tour.

Sam Snead was awarded the PGA Lifetime Achievement Award.

O'Meara capped off a 1998 season that few thought imaginable at the start of the year, when the PGA Tour looked like it would be dominated by the youth of Duval, Tiger Woods, Justin Leonard and Ernie Els.

He won the Masters with birdies on three of the last four holes, then won the British Open at Royal Birkdale in a playoff over Brian Watts.

"I do take a few moments to glance at the claret jug and the Masters trophy," he said. "Who would have ever thought this would happen to Mark O'Meara? I'm very thankful for what's happened in 1998.

Davies devastates par-5s again for midway lead in elite event

LAS VEGAS — Laura Davies, using her length off the tee on the holes where it counted most, continued her domination of the par-5s Friday for a 5-under 67 and a four-shot lead midway through the LPGA Tour Championship.

Davies, who hasn't made anything worse than birdie on a par-5 in two days, had an eagle and three birdies on the long holes at the Desert Inn Country Club to move to 11-under after two rounds of the season-ending event.

"Obviously, if I keep driving it down the middle 280, 290, 300 yards on the par-5s, it's going to make this game pretty easy for me," Davies said. "I'm playing the par-5s like par-4s."

Tina Barrett shot a 66 to move into second place, while Karrie Webb was another shot back after a 69.

MHS earns 6 all-district honorees

Staff Report

■ District 4-5A Tennis

The Midland High tennis team, coming off one its most successful seasons in years, put six entries on the District 4-5A tennis team.

The Bulldogs, which finished the season ranked No. 10 in the state, has a strong contingency on the boys side as four singles players (Quillan Harris, Justin Brammer, Clayton Vandergriff and Travis Vandergriff) and one doubles team (Harris-Travis Vandergriff) were named to the first team. That is five of the 10 spots up for grabs, which was a district-high.

Midland Lee, which showed great improvement from previous years, also had a first-team selection. Marshall Viney and Trent Broach, Lee's No. 1 doubles team, were honored as the top choice.

On the girls side, only a Midland High doubles team (Drew Branum and Lindsay Hanlon) earned first-team honors.

Midland High's Diana Prieto (girls singles) and Matt Gray and Marlin Geib (boys doubles) were given honorable mention.

Abilene High dominated the girls' side with seven all-district selections, including all three doubles teams.

The players who walked away with all-district honors at the No. 1 positions were Broach and Viney (boys doubles), AHS' Mitch Aston (boys singles), Cooper's Laci Johnson (girls singles), and AHS' Sara Stevens and Rhiannon Torrez (girls doubles).

For the year, five 4-5A teams finished the season in the state's top 17. Abilene High finished fourth, Permian ninth; Midland High 10th, Cooper 15th and Central 17th.

The District 4-5A Tennis Team as selected by the district coaches:

All-District Boys Singles: 1. Mitch Aston, AHS; 2. Jason Yelley, Permian; 3. Quillan Harris, MHS; 4. Justin Brammer, MHS; 5. Clayton Vandergriff, MHS; 6. Travis Vandergriff, MHS and Jacob Herman, AHS.

All-District Girls Singles: 1. Laci Johnson, Cooper; 2. Emily Voss, Central; 3. Tracey Roark, Abilene; 4. Ashley Goodnight, AHS; 5. Megan Langston, AHS; 6. Kama Scott, AHS.

All-District Boys Doubles: 1. Marshall Viney-Trent Broach, Lee; 2. Jason Yelley-McClure Wallace, Permian; 3. Quillan Harris-Travis Vandergriff, MHS.

All-District Girls Doubles: 1. Sara Stevens-Rhiannon Torrez, AHS; 2. Tracey Roark-Ashley Goodnight, AHS; 3. Drew Branum-Lindsay Hanlon, MHS; Kama Scott-Blaire Bassett, AHS; Katie Hansen-Melissa Mann, PHS.

All-District Honorable Mention

Boys Singles: 1. Clayton Morgan, Permian; 2. Wes Longacre, AHS; 3. McClure Wallace, PHS; 4. Matt Frizzell, AHS and Doug Eckstein; 5. Jonathan Runion, Central; 6. None.

Girls Singles: 1. Sara Stevens, AHS; 2. Rhiannon Torrez, AHS; 3. Katie Hansen, PHS; 4. Anna McMinn, PHS; 5. Melissa Mann, PHS; 6. Diana Prieto, MHS.

Boys Doubles: 1. Matt Gray-Marlin Geib, MHS; 2. Wes Longacre-Travis Black, AHS; 3. Casey Bailio-Gage Hicks, PHS.

Girls Doubles: 1. Kadi Kirkland-Laci Johnson, Cooper; 2. Anna McMinn-Kate McMinn, PHS; 3. None.

LEE: Andress' star may miss game

(From 1C)

first quarter.

In fact, it was Figgs' backup, Garrett Armendariz who had the big night with 113 yards and two touchdowns.

"It's fantastic that I had a chance to step up and help my team become a bi-district champion," Armendariz said after the Bel Air game. "This offensive line is as good as it gets. Anyone can run behind a line like this."

Sepkowitz says the secret to playing Lee is "to try not to turn the ball over and stay out of an early hole. I think that's what most El Paso teams try to do against teams from that district. We've had the ability to mix up the pass and run this year and keep some balance. I would like to be able to to that, but you can't let one of those teams (4-5A) get on you early."

Even after an impressive 34-7 win over Lubbock Coronado, Lee coach John Parchman doesn't see this game as Saturday stroll.

"Andress is a speed team. They do everything fast," Parchman said. "They have the game breakers and that is what you have to be concerned with. The quarterback (Moseley) and split receiver (Rushbrook) have been among the state leaders all year and they are as good as we've seen. Their offense is predicated on making the big play.

"We've got to move the ball offensively and keep them from making the big play. If we do that, we should be OK."

The Lee offense clicked on all fronts against a stubborn Coronado team last week. Quarterback Jon Rogers threw for 156 yards and two touchdowns. Fullback Clint McNutt rushed for 88 yards and caught passes for 34 more. Wingback Eric Clodfelter had a 100-yard receiving game on just three catches and sophomore running back Cedric Benson had 98 yards to become the first sophomore in Lee history to crack the 1,000-yard rushing mark.

Lee is basically in good shape in the injury department. Punter Michael Wynn is still out with a broken collarbone, but Matt Segulja had a good night against Coronado in the punting department, averaging 38.8 yards on four punts.

REBEL YELLS: Lee, a team that has already traveled around 3,000 miles this year, heads for El Paso for the third time this season. The Rebels know the bus well... Sepkowitz appears to be offering classroom training for the El Paso area. Five coaches, who either coached with Sepkowitz at Andress or played for him, are head coaches in the El Paso area... Sepkowitz defeated former Andress assistant Bob Berryhill (Bel Air) last week in the playoffs. Berryhill was with Sepkowitz in 1990 when the Eagles eliminated Lee from the playoffs...

Gusev, Sydor lead Stars past Islanders

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Stars showed that a five-day layoff didn't make them rusty.

It was business as usual as rookie defenseman Sergey Gusev had his first NHL goal and assist and Darryl Sydor added a goal and an assist to lead the Stars to a 4-2 victory over the New York Islanders on Friday night.

"It was important to get off to a good start and get the first goal," said Sydor after the Stars took over first place from idle Phoenix in the Pacific Division.

"I thought we responded in the first period with some hard shifts. We're going to start playing a lot of games now so it's important to get on a roll."

The Stars also got a lift from Gusev, the 23-year-old Russian who was called up from Dallas' IHL farm team in Michigan earlier this week to replace injured right wing Jere Lehtinen. Gusev was playing his first NHL game of the season and 10th of his career.

"I wanted to play great tonight," Gusev said.

PERMIAN: Hill scores two times in rout

(From 1C)

an's Big Three attack of Morris, Koefie Powell and Roy Williams, had two touchdowns of impressive proportions. He also had a 50-yard TD romp on the second play of the game.

But the stars also came out. Williams caught a 17-yard TD pass from Morris and Powell scored on a 20-yard romp in that first half.

Powell came back with a 65-yard TD in the third quarter to give him 136 yards rushing in only eight carries. Morris ended the night with 179 yards passing for 2,064 this season, the new Permian record with more to come.

But some record breaking had to wait. Williams needed 43 yards receiving to take over the single season receiving mark from Lloyd Hill. But Williams got only one catch for 17 yards.

Montwood's Robert Rodriguez had 153 yards rushing, 107 in the first half, but it didn't translate into rolling over the scoreboard much. The Rams finish the season at 7-4.

"Permian has the best athletes in the state," said Montwood coach Tommy Moss. "They should win it all. They just strike so fast and so many ways that it is hard to stop them.

The win was Permian's 77th playoff victory, tops in the state at least until today when Plano plays. Plano and Permian came into the game tied with 76 playoff wins each.

Permian will meet the winner of today's Duncanville-Euless Trinity game at 1 p.m. Saturday in Texas Stadium. Permian lost the flip with both teams to force the trip to Irving.

Be sure to call for pipeline locations before you dig.

The number one cause of natural gas pipeline incidents is excavation-related activity. The great majority of these are unintentional and can be avoided. At least 48 hours before digging, leveling land or drilling, be sure to place a toll-free call to 1-800-344-8377 to locate any pipeline that may be in the area. After your call is received, a representative will be sent to mark the location of the line at no cost to you.

Making this call is important to the public, you and the pipeline. It can prevent dangerous situations, property damage, disruption of service and work delays.

How to recognize a natural gas leak.

There are several signs that can indicate a pipeline leak. They include:

- Distinctive odor associated with natural gas.
- Dead vegetation in an otherwise green area.
- A hissing or roaring sound.

What to do if you find a leak.

If you find a pipeline leak, your first concern should be for your own safety and the safety of those around you. It is important to take the following steps:

- Leave the area immediately on foot.
- Avoid creating sparks that could ignite the gas.
- Do not light a match, start an engine or switch electrical equipment on or off.
- Immediately call the pipeline operator. If it is a Lone Star Pipeline Company line, call us collect at (214) 741-1671.
- If it is a Texas Utilities Fuel Company pipeline, call us collect at (214) 969-7221.
- Call 911 or the local fire and police departments.

OWNERS AND FORMER OWNERS OF HOUSES AND OTHER STRUCTURES WITH FIBERGLASS OR ORGANIC ROOF SHINGLES MANUFACTURED BY GAF CORPORATION, GAF BUILDING MATERIALS CORPORATION OR GAF MATERIALS CORPORATION

YOUR RIGHTS MAY BE AFFECTED BY A CLASS ACTION PENDING IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF MOBILE COUNTY, ALABAMA

IN 1996, PENNY COLEMAN AND OTHER PROPERTY OWNERS, ON BEHALF OF THEMSELVES AND ALL OTHER SIMILARLY SITUATED OWNERS, COMMENCED A CIVIL ACTION, ENTITLED COLEMAN, ET AL. V. GAF BUILDING MATERIALS CORPORATION, NO. CV-96-0954, AGAINST DEFENDANT GAF BUILDING MATERIALS CORPORATION. ON SEPTEMBER 25, 1998, THE CIRCUIT COURT OF MOBILE COUNTY, ALABAMA, ISSUED AN ORDER PROVISIONALLY CERTIFYING THE ACTION AS A CLASS ACTION AND DEFINING THE PLAINTIFF CLASS AS: ALL PERSONS WHO HAVE OWNED, OR OWN AS OF THE DATE OF FINAL JUDGMENT, PROPERTY IN THE UNITED STATES OR ITS TERRITORIES ON WHICH GAF SHINGLES MANUFACTURED FROM JANUARY 1, 1973 THROUGH DECEMBER 31, 1997, HAVE BEEN INSTALLED. IF YOU OWN OR HAVE OWNED SUCH PROPERTY, YOUR RIGHTS MAY BE AFFECTED BY THIS ACTION.

GAF Shingles are any Organic Shingles or Fiberglass Shingles manufactured by GAF Corporation, GAF Building Materials Corporation, or GAF Materials Corporation (collectively "GAF") from January 1, 1973 through December 31, 1997. The Complaint in this action alleges that GAF manufactured, distributed and falsely advertised defective roofing Shingles to builders and property owners throughout the United States and its Territories. Plaintiffs have alleged that the Shingles prematurely crack and otherwise deteriorate when exposed to moisture, humidity and other normal climatic conditions. The Plaintiffs allege legal theories of negligence, strict liability, fraud, violation of consumer protection statutes and breach of express and implied warranties. GAF contends that its Shingles are not defective and denies liability. The Court has not made any rulings on the merits of Plaintiffs claims or GAF's defenses. If the proposed settlement is approved by the Court, no trial will occur. Under the settlement, if you own or owned GAF shingles that suffer certain damages prior to the expiration of their warranty period, you may be entitled to certain benefits upon proof of claim in addition to those already provided in the warranty.

TO OBTAIN MORE INFORMATION:

This Notice is a summary only. If you believe you are a member of this Class, you should call 1-800-414-4370 to obtain your copy of the more detailed Notice of Class Action. This number contains a recorded message that will be periodically updated to provide current information. Information is also available on the internet at http:/www.gafmc.com/settlement.

PARTICIPATION OR EXCLUSION FROM THE CLASS:

If you wish to remain a member of the Class, you do not have to do anything at this time. If you remain a member of the Class and wish to file a claim, you must do so within the time provided in the long form Notice of Class Action. Any judgment, whether favorable or unfavorable, entered by the Court will bind all Class members. Any Class member who does not request exclusion may, if the member desires, enter an appearance through counsel. If you wish to exclude yourself ("Opt-Out") from the Class, you must send a written and personally signed "Request for Exclusion", postmarked on or before January 22, 1999 to: GAF Materials Corporation, Warranty Claims Department, 1361 Alps Road, Wayne, NJ 07470. If you exclude yourself from the Class by this postmark deadline, you will not be permitted to participate in any Class benefits and will not be bound by any final judgment in this action. A hearing to consider the fairness, reasonableness, and adequacy of the settlement will be held on January 29, 1999 in the Circuit Court of Mobile County, Alabama, the Honorable Christopher Galanos, Presiding.

THE CLASS WILL BE REPRESENTED BY THE FOLLOWING CLASS COUNSEL:

You might be an automobile enthusiast if...

Borrowing a concept that will probably support Jeff Foxworthy well into retirement, here is a check list for those who think that maybe, just maybe, cars play too big a part in their life.

There are driving enthusiasts, old-car enthusiasts, hot-rod enthusiasts and racing enthusiasts. But all are automobile enthusiasts.

You might be an automobile enthusiast if....

...Your car payments are bigger than your house payments.

...You've actually got a "favorite set of curves".

...You can't drive past a store window without watching the reflection of your car as you go by.

...You have ever visited a junkyard while on vacation.

...You can spot the difference between a 1967 and 1968 Chevrolet Camaro — at 100 yards.

...You have been late for an important engagement because you were checking out yet another old car for sale.

...The only part of golf you care about is drag racing the carts.

...You can't walk away from your parked car without glancing back at it.

...You are loyal to the products that sponsor your favorite race driver.

...You throw away the sports section of your local newspaper when there is no racing news.

...You check with the cable company to make sure SpeedVision is available before accepting a work transfer to a new town.

...The route you choose has less to do with getting to your destination than making sure the drive is entertaining.

...You have covered your riding mower with race decals.

...You are ecstatic when new license plates are introduced that accent the color of your car.

...You would rather spend 13 hours driving than three hours in an airplane.

...You actually look forward to driving for 13 hours.

...You keep a mental check list of everything from scooters to semi-trucks that you want to drive someday.

...No matter what, if it has an engine, you will try to operate it.

...Your garage is bigger than your house.

...Movies are constantly ruined for you because you recognize vehicles that don't fit the time period.

...You can tell the difference between a Chrysler V-8 and a Buick V-8 — by sound.

...Your wife hides the good bath towels so you won't dry the car with them.

...You have ever cleaned car parts in the bathtub.

...You will park in another zip code, rather than risk a parking lot door ding.

...People ask you repeatedly "So how many cars do you own?"

...You have to pause to think about how many cars you own.

...There is some piece of automobile memorabilia in every room of your house.

...Your spouse threatens to leave if one more little car shows up in the china cupboard.

...You threw a party when the "55 mile-per-hour" national speed limit was repealed.

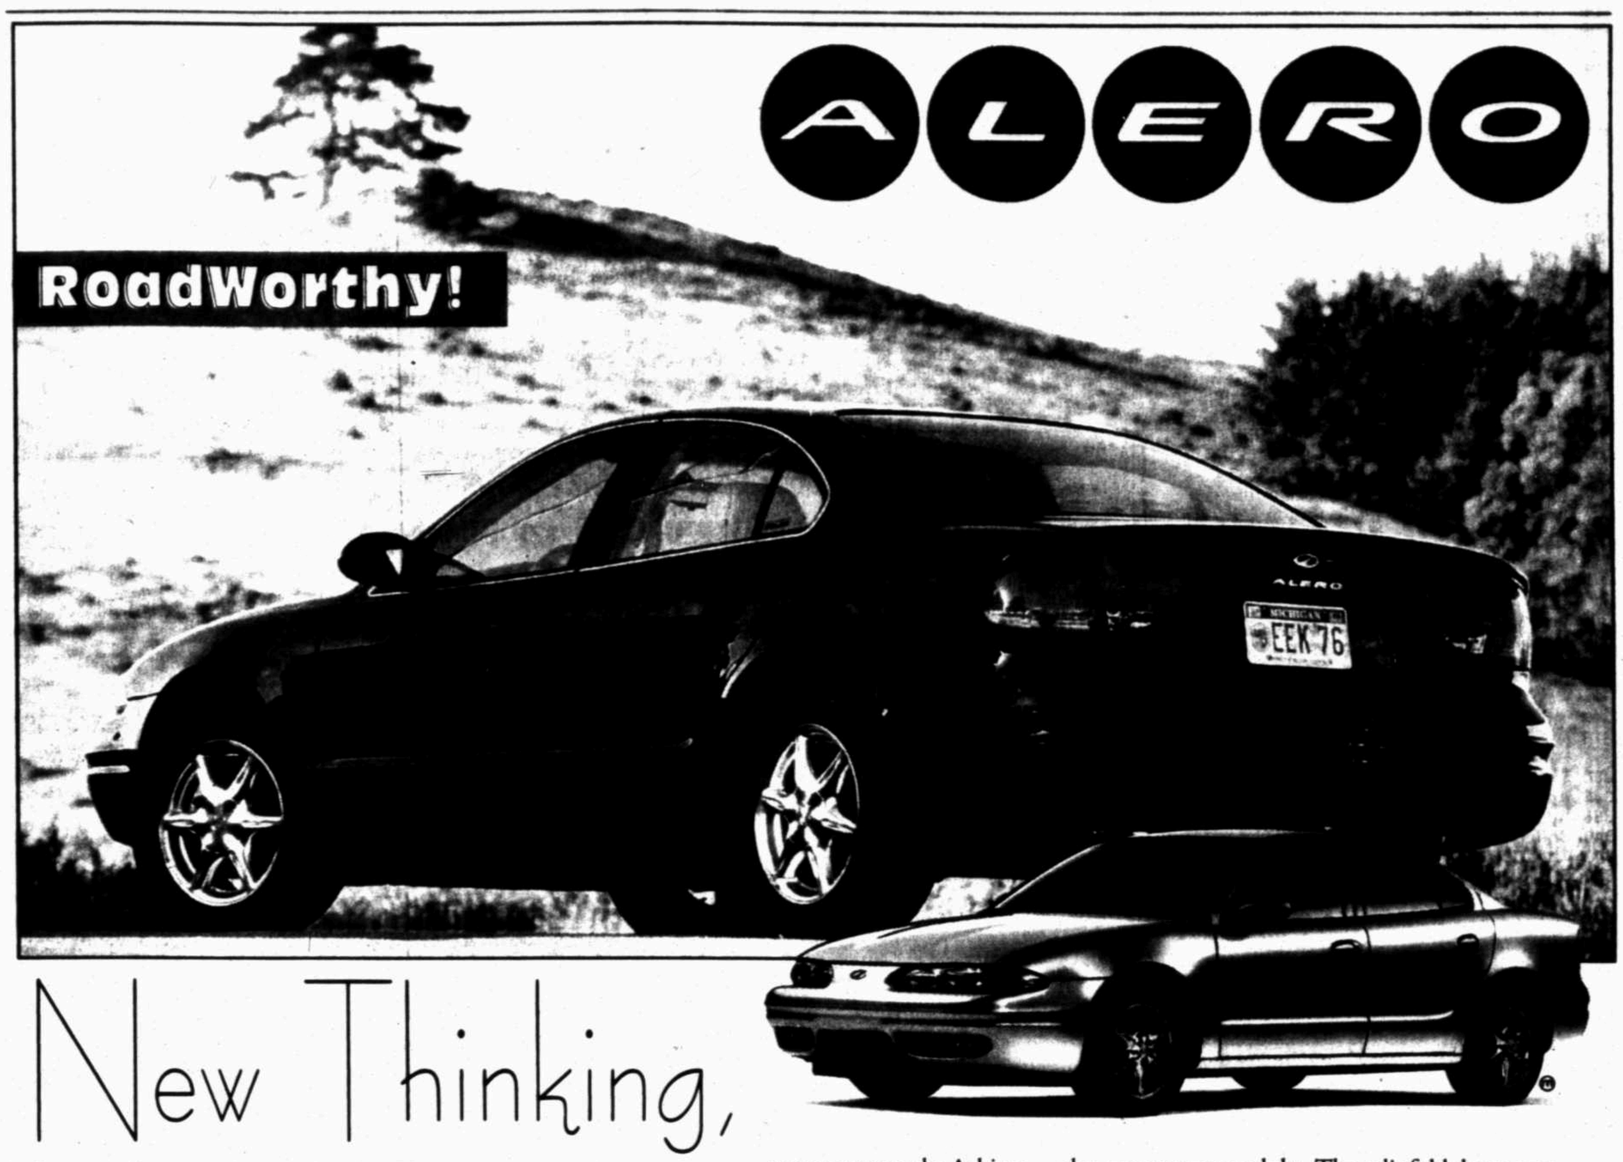
...The only reason you want to visit Europe is to drive on the Autobahn.

...You go to auto parts stores just to "browse".

...You've ever washed hubcaps in the dish washer. (By the way, it works great!)

And finally, you might be an automobile enthusiast if you recognize yourself in this column.

You might be an auto enthusiast if you've ever cleaned engine parts in your bathtub.



New Thinking, New Model

'99 Oldsmobile Alero sedan

By Ken Chester, Jr.

After the rumors of its impending demise in recent years, Oldsmobile is poised on the verge of a comeback.

The Oldsmobile Renaissance began several years ago under the charismatic leadership of then General Manager John Rock.

Today, fruits of the plowing, seeding and weeding of Oldsmobile during the 90's has brought a bountiful crop to market. The latest entry to be introduced is the all-new Oldsmobile Alero.

Available in coupe and sedan body styles, the Alero is built at General Motors' plant in Lansing, Mich. The newest addition to the Oldsmobile lineup is offered in three trim levels: GX, GL and GLS.

Consumers can choose between the base 2.4-liter Twin Cam four-cylinder engine or the $765 optional 3.4-liter V-6 engine that is standard on the top-of-the-line GLS model.

The four-cylinder engine makes 150 horsepower at 5,600 rpm and 155 lb/ft of torque at 4,400 rpm. The six cylinder generates 170 horsepower at 4,800 rpm and 200 lb/ft of torque at 4,000 rpm.

Designed to replace the Cutlass sedan and act as successor to the Achieva, the Alero takes aim at the import-oriented buyer who prioritizes functionality, but also desires refinement and performance in an attractively styled mid-market automobile.

The exterior sheetmetal reflects what are becoming common Oldsmobile styling themes: crystal-clear lenses for headlamps and liquid crystal tail lamps, low mounted dual air intakes split by a body-colored center panel, fluted side sculpting, round wheel openings and six-element wheels.

On the road, the Alero exhibits a nice balance of sport performance and luxury — beefy 225/50R16 Goodyear Eagle LS tires work with the suspension components to keep the sedan firmly attached to the road in spirited driving. The driver is reassured by a chassis that provides an experience that is solid and quiet while delivering nimble performance.

Inside the cabin, thoughtful touches greet the driver in placement and function of displays and controls. A comfortable center armrest enhances the driving experience. Rear seat passengers get dual cupholders and are treated to a roomy area that can carry two adults. The split fold down rear seat backs increase the utility of the small, but deep cargo area. Within the tidy engine compartment, all fluids are up on the top of the engine and are easy to see and reach. The engine hood is self-supporting without a prop rod.

By the numbers

Standard safety/security equipment for the Alero includes dual front airbags, all speed traction control, daytime running lights, four-wheel anti-lock disc brakes, side impact protection, PASS-Lock theft deterrent system and automatic door locks.

EPA fuel economy ranges from 21 city/29 highway for the 2.4-liter four-cylinder to 21 city/28 highway for the 3.4-liter six-cylinder engine.

Retail prices for the Oldsmobile Alero sedan range from $16,325 for the GX to $20,875 for the GLS. Destination charge is $525 additional. Dealers report improving local inventories of the model, so finding yours should not be difficult. ■

Sharp looks attract sharp buyers

With all else being equal, visual appeal sells vehicles

By Whitney MacDonald
Wheelbase Communications

Forget what she's been whispering to you in the dark. Sure, she's been reassuring you, cooing that it's the performance that makes the difference, that handling is everything.

But when it comes to driving, baby, size does matter.

Car manufacturers are planning the early millennium's newest vehicles by thinking big — big bodies, big interiors, and big emphasis on designing cars to appeal to every tribe in the Global Village.

That's why, for instance, manufacturers who once sneered at the word 'truck' are now scrambling to enter the sport-utility market, rushing designs far ahead of the two- and three-year planning stages.

This was the case with Cadillac's new Escalade, rushed to market in a scant 10 months, sporting an uncanny resemblance to the GMC Yukon Denali.

And rumors are flying that Porsche and BMW want to cash in on the sport-utility bonanza with their own versions of the hottest-selling vehicle types, second only to full-size and half-size truck.

Because so few sport-utility drivers actually see the dirt and dust of off-road adventure, more car/SUV hybrids like the Toyota RAV4, Honda CR-V and Subaru Forester will be rolling off the assembly lines in the coming years — perfect for someone who wants bulky athleticism with more agility.

Likewise, the Mazda MPV recently blurred the line between sport-utility and minivan with SUV-related style cues like higher suspension and aggressive lower-body cladding.

If impressive exteriors are capturing consumers, auto makers are also molding roomier interiors into medium-sized cars. Competitors have been rising to the challenge since Chrysler broke ground with its 'cab-forward' sedan design.

Debuting with the Concorde in 1993, Chrysler moved the windshield forward so its base rests near the front wheels, tucked the instrument panel in and shortened the engine compartment. With more room inside the car, the days of backseat passengers chewing on their shins were rapidly drawing to a close.

Miraculously, this design approach doesn't hurt the handling - in fact, in some way it improved. Because all wheels are pushed out toward the corners - making the bumper overhang shorter - the longer wheelbase creates a silkier ride.

Now that companies are neck-and-neck with customer scores on price, quality, and service, the emphasis begins to fall on design as a vehicles' main selling point.

So what are tomorrow's cars going to look like?

In general, car designers seem to be seeking a uniformity among their fleets, making their brand easily distinguishable with each other, yet setting them apart from the rest of the pack. The Chrysler Neon, for instance, has grown to resemble its big brother, the Intrepid.

After the ovoid overkill in the Taurus, Ford is bouncing back with a design scheme they call New Edge - essentially, a more conservative shape they hope will appeal to both their European and North America customers; it's partly composed of its American mom, the Ford Contour/Mercury Mystique, and its European dad, the Mondeo.

Rather than stay with those impractical curves and ovals, the buzzword now is angular, with a sharp, rising belt line moving from the front bumper and ending at the rear — a look Ford touts will appeal to a new generation of car buyers, luring them with a shell that's elegant, sleek, and just plain sexy.
