B-36 Bomber Crash Kills 15 In Spokane

SPOKANE, Wash. — (AP) — A B-36 crashed on takeoff from Fairfield Air Force base early today, killing 15 of the 17 aboard.

Two other crewmen suffered serious burns.

The giant, 10-engine bomber crashed in a farmer's field half mile northwest of the base, and burst into flames.

The plane was attached to the 328th Squadron, 92nd Bomb Wing.

The plane fell on the farm of Ernest Alf who told a reporter: "We were awakened by this awful crash and as we got out of bed all we could see was a big fire. It looked like it was only a block away from the house but it was a half mile."

"I could tell from the shape it was a B-36 but it was all burning."

A few minutes after the crash Alf said the bomber "is all flat now."

The B-36, world's largest bomber and America's foremost atom bomb carrier, skidded through a fence that rings Fairchild and bits of it were strewn through Alf's field.

Pieces of the plane were scattered over a wide area.

Fairchild said the plane normally carries a crew of 15, but had two extra men on board this morning.

TV Expense May Prevent Station Here

Pampa has been allotted a television channel by the Federal Communications commission, but Coy Palmer, manager of radio station KPND, said today that TV here was financially impossible for the immediate future.

"It would cost more to sponsor a 15 minute television program than all advertisers pay for radio advertising in a month," Palmer said. "KPND has no plans now for television."

Pampa is not large enough to support a TV station, Palmer asserted unless "somebody wants to be a philanthropist."

Officials of station KPAT declined to comment on any television plans.

Bill Hopkins, operator of Hawkins Radio Laboratory, 917 S. Barnes, estimated it would take $350,000 to open a station here.

However, he was hopeful for the 35 persons owning sets in Pampa. A station at Amarillo, expected to go into operation March 1, 1953, would give Pampa a good reception, he said.

He said a station here was now picking up Oklahoma City part of the time.

City Annexes Recreation Park; To Buy Rest Rooms

Recreation Park is now in the city limits.

The action bringing the 120 acres of the park with the boundaries of Pampa came this morning when the commission passed an emergency ordinance annexing the area.

The move will permit running a sewer line to the park and will reduce fire insurance rates on buildings there.

The ordinance was passed a few moments after the city authorized calling for bids on a rest room at the park after a lengthy discussion on how to legally pay for it. The structure will be paid for out of the general fund.

The question on paying for the building came up after the commission elected to build only three rest rooms in three city parks.

Hwy. 60 Member Drive To Be Ended In Area This Week

Drive for membership in the Texas branch of Hwy. 60 Assn. will be concluded this week, W. B. Weathered, co-ordinator of the chamber of commerce's highway committee, said today.

The committee heard a report on the national convention to be held here May 15-16.

Weathered said the membership drive would have to be completed so that the rolls could be turned over to the national organization.

Two hundred ninety-three members have signed up in the Texas branch, including Amarillo, 60; Canadian, 37; Hord, 67; Miami, 27; Pampa, 80; Panhandle, 16; and Texico, N. M., 6.

Newcomers Are Due Welcoming Tea

Newcomers to Pampa will be welcomed to the city with a tea at 3 p. m. Monday, April 28.

Mrs. Gene Fatheree, chairman of the hospitality committee of the chamber of commerce, said the committee would attempt to contact all persons who have come to the city since September. If newcomers are not contacted, they should call the chamber of commerce office by April 24 to say they will come to the tea.

Presidents of various local clubs, PTA officers, church leaders and Girl Scout officials will be at the tea to talk to the newcomers.

WE HEARD...

County Atty. Bill Waters fell over a fence while inspecting some of his property. The resulting wound required six stitches. He now is the second county jurist limping around. County Judge Bruce Parker sprained his ankle last week.

because bond money allocations were not sufficient to cover the cost of building them.

It was learned that the Rodeo Assn. would be one of the bidders on the Recreation Park rest room and expects to enter a bid of $2500 on a concrete block structure.

Additional use of the park this year plus an urgent request two weeks ago from the Rodeo Assn. swung the commissioners over to building the rest room.

It is the first money spent on the park in several years by the city. Fencing, amounting to approximately $6000 is to be put up soon by the county. City Manager Dick Pettin told the commission.

A motion to buy the three large rest rooms to be located in Central, Lions and S. Hobart parks, with the option of building a small one within 90 days, was passed unanimously by the commission. The three rest rooms will cost a total of $18,777 and will be taken from the $21,000 allotted for them in the $275,000 civic improvement bond issue.

Pepin also reported the city's latest water well, being drilled in the south field, is expected to develop up to 1000 or 1200 gallons per minute. He quoted the drilled, H. H. Heiskell, as saying water was plentiful and would be available at a low cost.

Moose To Sponsor Circus In Pampa

The first circus in Pampa of the 1952 season will arrive Friday afternoon in Recreation Park under the sponsorship of the Loyal Order of Moose.

For two days and nights trained animals and acrobats of the Walker Bros. All Star circus will perform in the park arena with a possible fifth performance on Sunday afternoon.

The circus carries trained animals including Nobel Hamlets performing dogs, ponies and elephants and Clark's trained bears.

Part of the show will include

Smolton, the European high wire artist working with balancing poles more than 20 feet in the air.

Also on the circus' bill are the acrobatic teams of Reo and Irma, the Sanchez family and Mel Hall.

The Walker Bros. show is different from others in many respects, Moose officers said — one of the differences being that no gaming concessions are connected with it or travel with it at any time.

Tickets went on sale today in various stores and at the Moose home, 403 E. Brown.

Fee Increase Approved...

Funds obtained from a $1 increase in the fee for filing a civil case in the county and district courts will be used to maintain a Gray county law library.

The county commissioners Monday approved the fee increase from $4.35 to $5.35. Lawyers said this would provide from $200 to $300 a year.

Members of the Gray County Bar Assn. are lending and donating books to a library establishment in the basement of the Combs-Worley Bldg.

Clifford Braly, president of the association, said W. J. Smith would be library chairman. A three-man committee will be in charge of the library.

Smith said the library would benefit the county, county officials, lawyers and the general public.

Noting the fees would be far from sufficient to keep up a library, Smith said lawyers are donating their own money and lending books to get the project underway.

About 2500 books already are in stock, Smith said. Rules will have to be established on who may use the library.

Personalized pamphlets emphasizing American good-will dropped in great number into Russian territory via balloons is one way to deal a telling blow toward the war-intended Communists according to Imre Kovacs, who spoke here last night at the Knife and Fork club dinner.

Kovacs said he had proposed such a solution to the state department but without an active directive by the public he received no favor on the theory. The people are now responding, however, Kovacs said.

The action must be taken in the next couple of years Kovacs maintained as 1954 may be too late. He believes Communist stalling in Korea and other troubled areas is only leading up to a death blow which would be aimed at crippling 50 of our key industrial cities.

Retaliation
If a retaliation blow of 200 million dead was dealt the Reds for 100 million Americans the balance would then be 600 million Communists to 50 million U. S. Citizens and the end result would be Red domination of the world.

Factory-Built Homes Said To Be Increasing
Charles Grimes, sales manager for Universal Homes, Amarillo, today described the growth of factory-built homes over the nation in an address to the Pampa Real Estate board at noon. These factory homes include Mobil Homes and Gunnison Homes available in this area.

According to building industry statistics, the sale of factory-built homes has doubled each year for the past 15 years.

Thousands Are Homeless In 8-State Area

OMAHA — (AP) — The maddening Missouri river today mauled its way down a soggy valley of misery.

The maddened river, having reduced to ghost towns several communities along its rich valley while chasing thousands of families from their homes, swept on toward man's greatest challenge to the biggest Missouri river flood ever recorded.

But the Missouri wasn't alone in spreading misery.

The Mississippi, too, had swept to record crests in Minnesota and Wisconsin, while in other states smaller streams tossed punches.

The Red Cross estimated that in an eight-mile area where the waters are raging, a total of 18,939 families and some 76,000 persons have had to flee their homes.

This figure covers the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Kansas and Missouri.

10 Biggest
At Washington, the Red Cross said a big Missouri smash through at Omaha-Council Bluffs — raising the total of homeless families to 20,000 — would place the Missouri flood among the 10 biggest in 71 years of Red Cross relief operations.

There was a somewhat disheartening report from the weatherman. He was predicting showers for eastern Nebraska and western Iowa Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

The job the Twin Cities faced is best described by two men who have been, and are, in the middle of the battle to beat the might of the Missouri at this focal point.

These were their comments:
Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of Army engineers: "The greatest flood the white man has ever seen on the Missouri river."

Rip and Roar
Brig. Gen. Don G. Shingler, Missouri river Division Engineer: "We're in a hell of a lot of trouble. The river is coming with a rip and roar."

All along the Missouri valley where the river had struck to date, man has been a loser. Only in the matter of saving human life has man scored a win over the Missouri. Beyond that, his lands and homes have been mercilessly mauled. Army engineers estimate a million and a quarter acres are under the waters of the Missouri and its tributaries.

Authorities agree that the damage so far is in untold millions of dollars and mounts hourly as the river spreads its misery over the land and through a abandoned homes.

Kovacs asserted that only through communication of our Christian love can Red propaganda be defeated.

Freedom
"Had there once been a united Christian front, Hitler, the fascists, nor the Communists would ever have had a chance to rise to power by one or kill us off by one."

Kovacs gave four reasons for Communism. The ignorant mind, frustrated mind, crooked mind and the hungry stomach.

"The Communists have lied," he added and to quell the diabolism of its followers are teaching a "hate American" propaganda.

Childress Man Killed By Car Bomb

CHILDRESS, Texas — (AP) — A prominent Childress dairyman was killed early today by what appeared to be a car bomb.

Hoyt Hill, about 41, owner and operator of Hill dairy, was killed when his pickup truck exploded. It was believed he had just stepped on the starter.

Sheriff Kermit Waters said Police Chief Roy Hassel said demolition experts have been called from Fort Sill, Okla.

Officers said a preliminary investigation indicated the explosives were nitroglycerine.

Chasing of the 1952 Chevrolet truck were hurled 150 feet away and the entire city was shaken by the blast.

School Tax Here May Be Increased

Voters in the Pampa Independent School district may be asked to approve a tax rate hike from $1 to $1.50 before the end of the current school term.

School board members last night talked about a rate hike but did not formally vote on the issue. The district is now levying the maximum rate, $1, and would need the approval of voters before a new maximum is set.

The schools need additional revenue to maintain the $10 a month increase voted teachers last year and to keep up its building program, officials said.

Members agreed a new elementary school was needed to take care of the increasing enrollment in the primary grades. Supt. R. A. Kinard said half-day sessions may be necessary for some classes in the fall because of crowded conditions.

H. Raeburn Thompson, re-elected president of the board, said the school system must match city's steady growth. "We must have new revenue," he said.

Herman Whitley, re-elected vice president, said a bond issue for a new elementary school might be required.

The board hopes to get a group of citizens behind the tax rate election.

In other business, the school board approved of the school election returns sworn in a new member, Gene Green, paid bills, approved use of school facilities by the Hwy. 60 Assn. at the standard fee, disapproved a Moose request to hold an indoor circus on school property and granted permission to the Negro community to build a wading pool next to the community center.

In the organization of the board, Frank Smith was elected secretary, replacing A. C. Troop.

Ragsdale Is TEC Manager

William Ragsdale has been appointed manager of the Pampa office of the Texas Employment commission.

The announcement was made today by Wayne A. Grant, district director, naming Ragsdale successor to L. P. Fort who resigned the post Saturday to enter private business.

Ragsdale has been an employee of the commission since 1940. His employment was interrupted by a tour of duty with the armed forces during World War II and he has been stationed in the Pampa TEC office since his discharge from the Army.

Ragsdale is executive officer to the 474th Field Artillery Observation Bn., National Guard.

Bert Howell Inc. now offers complete plumbing service for all your plumbing needs. Call 152 or 4872. Visit them at 119 N. Ward.

A resident of McLean for many years, he announced his candidacy several weeks ago. He ran for the post four years ago but was defeated.

"I feel that I am qualified to take care of the county's affairs, if elected, and will appreciate any support I may get in the primary."

I have also received quite a bit of road building experience under two former county commissioners," Tibbets said.

The candidate has a daughter, Mrs. L. F. Giesler, McLean; and one son, O. J. Tibbets, who is stationed at Cambridge, Mass., with the Air Force.

3 Teen-Agers Held On Theft Charges Here

Action was pending this morning on two juvenile theft cases involving three Pampa teen-agers.

A 13-year-old boy was to appear before County Judge Bruce Parker this afternoon to answer charges of theft in Pampa and McLean. According to Juvenile Officer H. A. Doggett, the youngster had stolen more than $500 in less than a month in cash and checks.

Doggett said all the money, $300 in excess of $5 had been reported to owners. The money had been taken from three places in Pampa and one in McLean. The McLean theft involved more than $500 in cash.

Returned
In the other case pending two youth, 14 and 16 years old, were held after a long-range, week-end spree over three states with at least 11 thefts.

They were arrested Monday in Wheeler by Wheeler County Sheriff Gus Dorman and returned to Pampa Monday afternoon.

The pair, parolees to Doggett, signed statements last night admitting petty thefts in Pampa, Berger, Panhandle and White Deer.

Caught
According to Doggett and Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard, the two began about 1 a. m. Friday with a stolen 1950 model car and $33 taken from one of the boy's stepfather. They traveled as far east as Fort Smith, Ark., returning to Pampa Saturday through Oklahoma. Next phase of the trip Saturday night took them to Amarillo, Berger and Phillips where at least six thefts and break-ins were made. In Berger, the pair broke into a laundry, a Ford garage, a liquor store, a barber yard and took gasoline from a creamery truck and tools and cigarettes from another truck.

A service station was broken into in Panhandle and another in White Deer. Returning to Pampa, they broke into a Plains Feed store 804 E. Frederic, Saturday.

Housewives Get Spring Cleaning Tip

Pampa housewives got a tip today from Fire Chief Ernest Winborne on spring house cleaning.

Winborne stressed the close relationship between spring house cleaning and fire prevention as Pampa planned its annual clean-up drive to open April 21 and last Civic organizations throughout the city have been asked to participate in the week-long drive to clear away and health hazards.

"A good job of spring cleaning means more than a mop and freshly starched curtains," the chief said. "Fire hazards accumulate during the winter and too often are forgotten by the housewife until it is too late."

"We in the fire department are much more interested in preventing fires than putting them out."

Chief officers, as pointed out by Winborne, were yards of newspapers and magazines stored in closets, attic basements or other out-of-the-way places; old furniture or mattresses stored in the attic or closets.

Jaycees Hear Concert Report

Dan Poole, organizational director for the Community Concert Assn., today told Jaycees how the association was bringing music to 1078 communities in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Poole is in town from his New York City headquarters to help the Pampa Community Concert Assn. conduct its membership drive this week. Tonight at 6 in the Parish house, the concert group is holding its annual membership dinner.

Sonntag To Appeal Court Decision

Attorneys for ousted Lefors football coach, Frank Sonntag, said yesterday afternoon they would appeal the decision of Judge Lewis M. Goodrich in throwing the case out of 31st District court for lack of jurisdiction.

April 4 Judge Goodrich ordered the case removed from the docket on grounds that Sonntag had not proceeded along the proper channels provided by the school system and therefore prohibited the court from having jurisdiction in the $28,000 damage suit.

The judgment came during a hearing of a motion for dismissing the case entered by Atty. Arthur Teed, representing the Lefors school board.

Atty. E. O. Northcutt, Amarillo, tend to file our petition with the Court of Civil Appeals as soon as the judgment is signed."

Judge Goodrich delayed signing the judgment until at least April 25 to give Northcutt an opportunity to elect one of two routes—appeal his decision, or go through a series of hearings provided by the school laws of Texas.

Northcutt indicated on the date of the hearing for dismissal his client would appear before the Lefors school board on Tuesday, April 8, and file a written request for a hearing.

MRS. JOE DUNHAM

We don't know who staged the first barbecue, but we're glad there are people like Mrs. Joe Dunham to perpetuate the custom — for barbecues are about the nicest thing that can happen at mealtime.

With hot summer nights just ahead, every cook wants to get out of the kitchen, and food cooked outdoors, whether on a barbecue pit, modern charcoal broiler, or camp fire, just takes on new magic.

On the first warm spring nights, you will want to try these outdoor recipes. Broil chicken, steaks, hamburgers, frankfurters, or ribs — any are delicious —

BARBECUE SAUCE
1/4 cup vinegar
1/2 cup water
one tablespoon sugar
one tablespoon prepared mustard

1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
one thick slice of lemon
one sliced peeled onion
two pods of garlic
1/4 cup oleomargarine
1-2 cup catsup
two tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

1-1/2 teaspoons liquid smoke (optional).
Simmer first 11 ingredients 20 minutes, add catsup and next two ingredients and bring to boil.

SKILLET POTATO SALAD
Dice and fry four strips of bacon until crisp; remove bacon, and cook 1-2 cup sliced onions in drippings until tender. Add one cup undrained condensed cream of celery soup, 1/4 cup milk, 1-2 tablespoons vinegar and two tablespoons minced sweet

LOAF CAKE
two eggs
one teaspoon baking powder
one cup sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
one teaspoon vanilla
1-2 cup milk
one cup sifted cake flour
one tablespoon oleomargarine

Beat eggs with mixer or rotary beater. Gradually beat in sugar. Stir in vanilla extract. Sift flour with baking powder and salt, and add gradually to mixture, beating after each addition. Scald milk, and oleomargarine and add hot milk all at once. Beat and turn into well-greased (7x11x1 1/2) pan. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees for 35 minutes.

ICING
nine tablespoons brown sugar four tablespoons cream or top milk five tablespoons melted butter or oleomargarine
1-2 cup coconut
Mix ingredients and spread on warm cake, then place under broiler and brown.

Killebrew-Keehn Vows Exchanged In Amarillo Ceremony

MIAMI — (Special) — In an impressive double-ring ceremony Thursday, April 10, at 8:30 o'clock, Miss Mary Jean Killebrew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Killebrew, 214 North McManis, Amarillo, became the bride of Mr. William Ramsay Keehn, son of Mrs. Annie Keehn, Miami.

Rev. George E. Turrentine, pastor, read the service in the Tenth Street Methodist church. Arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums banked the altar.

Mrs. E. D. Duncan, Miami, sister of the bridegroom, played a prelude of nuptial selections and accompanied Miss Barbara Keehn, also a sister, who sang "I Love You Truly," preceding the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer," as a benediction. The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

The bride wore a suit of white linen with brown accessories. Her corsage was a brown orchid. The matron-of-honor, Mrs. Glen Bill Walker of Canadian, wore a brown linen suit with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. Ed Gill, Amarillo, was best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Killebrew chose a blue gingham suit, with black and white accessories. Her corsage was of red roses. Mrs. Keehn, mother of the bridegroom, also wore a blue suit, with black accessories and an identical corsage.

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom were seated at a reception in the church parlor. Centering the serving table was an arrangement of pastel flowers and foliage. The tiered wedding cake topped with wedding bells, and the punch bowl completed the appointments. Mrs. O. R. Patterson, Amarillo, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the serving table. Miss Joy Killebrew, sister of the bride, secured names for the bride's book.

In addition to the wedding party, guests were W. A. Magee, Canadian, grandfather of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Killebrew, and two sons, College Station; Mr. Jim Killebrew, Canadian; Mr. Jim Ramsay, Kerrville; Mrs. Lida Ramsay, Pampa; Mrs. Harold Osborne and two daughters, Pampa; and Miss Peggy Ramsay, Amarillo.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left for Kerrville where they will be at home at 712 East Garrett St.

Mrs. Keehn was graduated from Amarillo High school, and has been employed with the Bell Telephone Co., Amarillo.

The bridegroom, who attended Miami High school, is with the engineering department of the Magnolia Oil Co., and is stationed at Kerrville.

Robert Hoffman To Present Recital
MIAMI — (Special) — Mrs. Robert Hoffman was hostess recently to the Gleaners' class, with Mrs. J. T. Webb assisting her.

After roll call, which was answered with each member telling her favorite song, with its history, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Wayne Maddox, who gave a program on marriage problems, in the form of a true and false quiz.

Mrs. Rene R. Ratliff had charge of the recreation period. She presented two Easter flower contests, and gave prizes to Mrs. W. F. Locke and Mrs. James McCormick for the most correct answers.

Members of the Jaycee-Ettes will meet Wednesday noon in the Schneider hotel for a luncheon. Mrs. Jack Vaughn, president, announced today.

A short business meeting will follow the luncheon.

Mrs. Robert Howard Miami Club Hostess
SHAMROCK — (Special) — Robert Hoffman, a staff member of the Musical Arts conservatory, will present a piano concert at Shamrock's Clark auditorium here May 1, according to Robert Reeves, Band director, with funds benefiting the local band.

Reeves said he was a personal friend of the pianist and considered him an excellent pianist. Hoffman studied at Sherwood Music school in Chicago, where Reeves met him.

Hoffman has appeared in concerts throughout America and in Europe. He is a former pilot for the U. S. air force.

Tickets may be purchased from members of the Irish band.

NEW YORK COTTON
NEW YORK — (AP)— Cotton futures were lower today under pressure of liquidation and hedging. Losses extended to about $2 a bale before the market recovered partially on trade buying and short covering. Increased May deliveries were influenced by reports of good rains in Texas over the extended week-end holiday, although they were not believed to include the drought affected western portion of the state.

One private report said that for the three days Friday through Sunday rains in North Texas were as high as two inches. In Texas 2 1/2 inches, and in Central Texas up to 1 1/2 inches.

Increased local and New Orleans selling in the final hour caused prices to close near the lowest levels for the day.

Futures closed $2.75 to $2.40 a bale lower than the previous close.

Issue In Strike Sidestepped

The dangers that result from a failure to understand the fundamentals of unionism are being demonstrated for us all today. Strikes, threats of strikes and confusion on the entire labor front are taking a prominent part in the daily lives of all of us.

We are reaping the whirlwind as the result of sowing the seed.

In all of the current battles between management and the union bosses the real issues are left out. Instead, there is an attempt to prove on both sides that certain things can or cannot be done in the matter of additional "benefits" for the employees.

Thus far, we have not seen anywhere a report that there has been a discussion on whether the use of force and coercion is valid and justifiable. Yet this is one of the real issues in all of the strikes now going on.

No one yet has brought up the point that there is no way in the world in which "the union" can improve the lot of "the workers" other than at the expense of other "workers." That it is possible for one group to obtain a temporary and artificial advantage through the use of force and coercion is not denied. But this advantage must come at the expense of all those outside the group who are producers or who are living on the production of themselves or others.

There is a vast misunderstanding, on the part of both management and workers, to the effect that in private business, like war, the gains of one are at the loss to another. Such, of course is not the case, as all history shows.

Under a true free enterprise system the gain (production) of one would be added to the sum total of all and would, in some part be shared by all. Anything that interferes with this free exchange will mean that there is just that much less to be shared.

Aside from his own consumption of food and what clothing he wears, the manner of his shelter, entertainment and personal gratifications, there is NOTHING that the producer can do with his production other than to share it in some manner with all other producers. And the more efficiently he produces, the less he wastes in time and material, the more there is for all to share in. The man of great wealth that has come as the result of natural, not artificial, productive methods has no choice but to somehow share this wealth with others. He cannot even consume it without some benefit to others if the wealth is real wealth.

Thus, to argue that the strikers against the Western Union Telegraph Co. should get this or that amount of increase is foolish. There can be no true settlement of what each worker is worth until we have a free enterprise system where the worker and the entrepreneur both put their wares in the open market and get for them what the open market will pay. Then, and only then, will it be possible to determine what a man is "worth" an hour and what a commodity or service is "worth."

For instance the union demand in the telegraph strike will, by company figures, amount to an increase of 50 cents an hour for each employee. To meet these demands the company would have to have a 30 per cent raise in rates. Such a raise would drive the public into the hands of competitors and before long the company could not exist unless there were some sort of government subsidy. When this time comes, how is the worker benefited?

Iowans Nix Socialization

According to leading Administration spokesmen, the people of the country want and need compulsory federal health insurance—which is a polite phrase for socialized medicine—but are being blocked by selfish groups in and out of Congress.

A short time ago Representative Martin of Iowa decided to find out what the people really are thinking about current issues. He sent questionnaires to his constituents, and one query was: "Do you favor socialized medicine?" Of the thousands of voters who replied 91.7 per cent said "No."

The overwhelming "No" vote existed in every occupational group. Opposition to socialized medicine was voiced by 96.6 per cent of the businessmen replying, 86 per cent of the laborers, 93 per cent of the white collar workers, 94.8 per cent of the farmers, and so on down the line. Mr. Martin's district is largely rural, but it also includes several sizable communities.

This hardly looks as if the American people are panting for socialized medicine, or for any variant of the scheme. Iowa is a fairly representative state, Mr. Martin's constituents are typical Americans, and in all probability a similar question asked elsewhere would get practically the same results.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

"Rise of Empire" In U.S.

I want to quote and comment further from the "Rise of Empire" by Garret Garret and published by the Garret Printers, Ltd., Caldwell, Idaho.

In the last chapter of this book under the heading of "The Lost Terrain" the author observes:

"Between government in the republican meaning, that is, Constitutional, representative, limited government, on the one hand, and Empire on the other hand, there is mortal enmity. Either one must forbid the other or one will destroy the other. That we know. Yet never has the choice been put to a vote of the people.

"The country has been committed to the course of Empire by Executive Government, one step at a time, with slogans, concealments, equivocations, a propaganda of fear, and in every crisis an appeal for unity, lest we present to the world the aspect of a divided nation, until at last it may be proclaimed that events have made the decisions and it is irrevocable. Thus, now to alter the course is impossible. If that were true, then a piece of writing like this would be an exercise in pessimistic vanity.

"Who says it is impossible? The President says it; the State Department says it; all globalists and one-worlders are saying it. 'Do not ask whether or not it is possible. Ask yourself this: If it were possible, what would it take? How could the people restore the Republic if they could?' or, before that, how could they recover their Constitutional sovereign right to choose for themselves?

"When you have put it that way you are bound to turn and look at the lost terrain. What are the positions, forgotten or surrendered, that would have to be recaptured?"

Think For Themselves

Then the author goes on to point out that if we are to return to a republic, the individual must learn to think for himself. He puts it in this manner:

"The height in the foreground is a state of mind. To recover the habit of decision the people must learn again to think for themselves; and this would require a kind of self-awakening, as from a deep sleep, in the depths of the mind. This is so because thinking has been laid under a spell. The hypnotic powers are entrenched, combative and dangerous. But once the self-awakened mind has regained that first height it would see not only that there is an alternative course but that the noxious emanations of fear and the fog of propaganda the view of it is fairly clear."

Then Mr. Garret says:

"If we are completely able to defend the United States itself, why do we have to rely upon allies?"

"The Pentagon itself has plotted an alternative course. That fact is not disclosed by the government, on the ground that to disclose it would be, in its opinion, contrary to the public interest. Military support for the government's course, that may be disclosed, 'since it is in the public interest.' If it is denied that the Pentagon has an alternative plan, the answer is that in such case the people ought to fire the General Staff and get a new one. If it is still permitted for people to say what they will defend and how they will defend it—to choose, for example, whether to save the United States or save the whole world—why should they have the military information there is? Why should the government withhold part of it? Whose property is it? Does it belong to the Government or to the people? Strategy must be secret. We do not speak of strategy. We speak of national policy."

"In a speech to the National Women's Democratic Club on November 20, 1951, President Truman said: 'You remember what happened in 1920. When the people voted for Harding, that meant a tremendous change in the course the United States was following. It meant that we turned our backs on the new-born League of Nations... I think most people now recognize that the country chose the wrong course in 1920... Since I have been President I have sought to steer a straight course of independent foreign policy matters on the sole basis of the national interest. The people I have chosen to fill the major positions concerned with foreign policy have been picked solely on merit, without regard to party labels. I want to keep it that way. I want to keep our foreign policy out of domestic politics.'"

"So far had the American mind been conditioned by the infatuate phrase, bi-partisan foreign policy, that this extraordinary statement was vacantly received. What is the President saying? He is saying that because in his opinion the people once voted wrong on foreign policy, they ought not to vote on it at all any more. Let them leave it to the President. It follows logically that the people have no longer anything to say about war and peace.

"On this height, where foreign policy once more shall be debated by the people who may have to die for it, let the wind be loud and merciless. Let those who have brought the country to this impasse, who so misunderstood the nature of what they have done that they find no ignominy in having brought national security to rest upon the good will of boughten allies—if it is so; who petted and nourished the Russian aggressor and recommended him to the affections of the American people as a peace-loving collaborator; if they can justify themselves to the free and disinterested intelligence of the people, so that the people knowingly choose to go on with them, then there will be nothing more to say, or to do, but decently to perform the obsequies of the Republic. Until this is settled it will be useless to discuss domestic policies because what is at stake in the first case is the fate of the republican form of government."

In explaining how our domestic policy becomes subordinate to foreign policy, the author writes: "That happened to Rome. It has happened to every Empire. The consequence of its having happened to the British Empire are tragically apparent. The fact now to

"It needs hardly to be argued that as we convert the nation into a garrison state to build the most terrible war machine that has ever been imagined on earth, every domestic policy is bound to be conditioned by our foreign policy."

"The voice of government, is saying that if our foreign policy fails we are ruined. It is all or nothing. Our survival as a free nation is at hazard."

"In that case there is no domestic policy that may not have to be sacrificed to the necessities of foreign policy—even freedom. It is no longer a question of what we can afford to do; it is what we must do to survive. If the cost of defending not ourselves alone but the whole non-Russian world threatens to wreck our solvency, still we must go on. Why? Because we cannot stand alone. The first premise of our foreign policy is that without allies we are lost. At any cost therefore we must have them. If our standing of living falls, that cannot be helped."

"We are no longer able to choose between peace and war. We have embraced perpetual war. We are no longer able to choose between the circumstances of the battlefield. Wherever and whenever the Russian aggressor attacks, in Europe, Asia, or Africa, there we must meet him. We are so committed by the Truman Doctrine, by examples of our intention, by the global posting of our armed forces, and by such formal engagements as the North Atlantic Treaty and the Pacific Pact."

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

You can know a man for ten years and not know how he runs a knot up on his tie. You can sit near him in maybe two dozen restaurants and never notice whether he likes his meat lean or fat, rare or well done. And if he never notices because if you like his work and the way he does it, the other things are unimportant. That's the way I am about Howard Lindsay, a playwright, an actor, a director, and, for all I know, a button collector. I like his work and the way he goes about it. There are times when he hits the wood a better lick than at the piano, and in these "times of shoddy work" it's healthy to have him around.

It was raining and cold the other afternoon in New York and, after ten years of movies, I decided to go to the play. I decided to go to the play at his house. I wanted to sit down by a fire and take my time getting to know him. It worked out fine. He had an empty apartment and we spent it talking about a hundred things, none of them comic. He has a five-story house on the upper East Side and it has an elevator, a fireplace in each of the important rooms, and the furniture is good, solid, comfortable Victorian, running to deep cushions and red velvet. There isn't even the finger-mark of a professional decorator in the place and the $100,000 stack of it up against any house in New York. It is a house that wasn't decorated; it was assembled. It gathered itself together over a long period of time. When they needed a sofa, they went out looking until they found one they wanted, if it took a year. They had a blank wall for longer than that, until in Paris a year ago they found it. It is a rare piece, which experts have told them is worth $10,000. If that is true, the Lindsays are the only people alive who ever got anything from France for a tenth of its value.

He is married to actress Dorothy Stickney and his collaborator in the writing and/or producing of plays is Russell Croft. Between them they have turned out a clinking lot of first-class new plays, including "Life With Father," longest-run play in the history of the theater anywhere at any time. About any and all of these Lindsay has an amazingly honest point of view and a directness of comment that is rare and desirable.

This season's success, "Remains To Be Seen," has closed in New York but it is on the road now and doing handsomely. Currently, as producers, they have "One Bright Day," by a new playwright, Sigmond Miller. We talked about Miller and, in consequence, new plays, new playwrights. He is an organization for them. He works with them and others help him. This is not a new thing, but it is a new crutch. It is a hardworking group in which established, successful professional workmen give to aspiring but demonstrably talented writers the benefits of what they, the veterans, have learned.

"I'm a turning-up kid came along and I'd never shut the door in his face, but we couldn't as it turned out. He's a Young Playwrights Society fellow and he's got a lot of friends. He's a mature man. He needed only a little guidance to make his point. I dream of finding a dozen more. The theater is like what some of the critics did in this case. It shows that they, too, while having exacting standards that have raised the level of the American theater, find the modern to encourage. They found fault with portions of 'One Bright Day' but encouraged Miller to try again. He was helped enormously by this result."

"In raising the standards in New York, the critics, thanks to being read elsewhere, have raised the road standards. It's death to send out a second-rate company now. You send out the best you have, a terrific facsimile. We have with the exception of myself, a role easy to fill, the intact company out with 'Remains To Be Seen.' Janis Paige, Jackie Cooper, the work is on. They opened in Cleveland. I think they will do good business because people respond to a good play properly played."

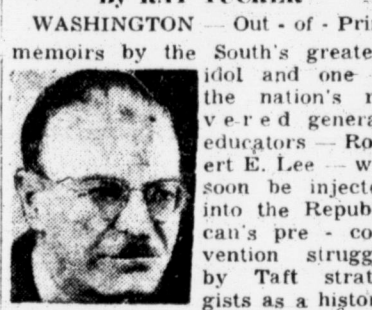

Once you see how a man lives, you recognize some of the philosophy that motivates his life and, consequently, distills down into his work. Now, after ten years, I know Howard Lindsay lives and have a clearer understanding of the

If You Solve Their Problems—

National Whirligig.. Taft Will Use Robert E. Lee Quotes To Woo Southern Votes

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Out of Print memoirs by the South's greatest idol and one of the nation's revered general educators—Robert E. Lee—will soon be injected into the Republican's pre-convention struggle by Taft strategists as a historical warning against the military man to the presidency.

Lee's deep fear that "military statesmen" and "political generals" tend to become "great tyrants," is meant to be the Ohioan's biggest bombshell against the Eisenhower candidacy.

It is designed to weaken his hold in the south, where he is supposed to be gaining in what has been regarded as "Taft territory" since the senator's father sat in the White House.

In the last few weeks "Ike" has picked up numerous delegates in Dixie areas that were expected to support his principal rival for the nomination, Taft. He is anxious to check a possible stampede in a section devoted to such heroes as Lee, Jackson and Longstreet.

By HENRY McLEMORE

I never get annoyed when I find that people I know have completely idiotic weaknesses. This tolerance on my part is not due to the fact that the passing of the years has given me understanding of my fellow human beings; but is based on the realization that I have several cards missing from my own mental deck.

I am chock full of phobias, phantasies, and phentergics, the latter word being one I made up on the spur of the second. I am afraid of people who don't take the cellophane oil lamp shades for fear the lampshades will get dusty any more than I can wonder why a rich Hollywood star puts leather patches on the elbows of his sport coats when he could well afford to buy a hundred sport coats at a whack. I know he's trying to look English and doesn't, but who am I to raise an eyebrow?

My own weakness is eighty-four thousand times as silly as the weaknesses I have mentioned. My weakness is the reading and memorizing of how to remove stains from clothes. This weakness goes back a long time. The fact that I have never even tried to remove a stain from a pair of trousers, a napkin, a tablecloth, a necktie, or a chiffon dress, has never dulled my interest.

I have read almost every book that has ever been written on stain removing. If any one of you readers happened to spill a quart of loganberry juice over the high school principal's suit right this minute, all you would have to do would be call me. I'd have the answer.

Soak the principal in cold water, not hot, because hot water sets high school principals just as it does blood.

To continue with the advice:

Indeed, so popular is Eisenhower reported below the Mason and Dixon line that Sen. Richard B. Russell's backers might not have entered him in the Democratic contest, if they had been sure that the GOP would choose Eisenhower. They believe that the general could carry enough southern states to defeat President Truman or a hand-picked heir.

That is the political background of the persistent search for the confederate hero's remarks after some Lee expert first reported them to Taft headquarters. Incidentally, the book is obtainable only from libraries, collectors, and dealers specializing in rare, historical works. The Taft scouts had to hunt hard for it.

The volume is entitled "Memoirs of Robert E. Lee." It was written by A. L. Long, and published in 1886 by J. M. Stoddard & Co. of New York, Philadelphia and Washington. Long had been military secretary to Lee, and chief of artillery, Second Corps, Army of Northwestern Virginia. He was assisted by Marcus J. Wright, formerly brigadier-general of the Army of Tennessee, and the U.S. agent for collection of Confederate records.

"There is something highly attractive," begins the passage per-factory. He comes home looking like the bottom of a movie seat. Why fret? Just put him on a linen sheet, place 100 pounds of ice beneath him, and then scrup the gum off him. Then rush him to a hospital for treatment of shock, but be sure not to re-freeze him. To re-freeze thawed small boys is as dangerous as re-freezing lamb chops, ice cream, or devilled crabs.

Candle drippings have caused untold misery to Americans. There is no reason to fear candle wax. As soon as it drops on you, bid your hostess good night, stop by a stationery store and buy an acre or two of blotters, run-home-and-get-in-between the blotters. Then press yourself with an electric iron. She heave from the iron will melt the wax from your clothes and no one will be any the wiser except your neighbors, who will hear you scream as the wax leaves the cloth and goes into you.

Chicken gravy stains cause grief to many otherwise strong citizens. Real chicken gravy is almost yellow with richness, has little bits of egg yolk frolicking in it, and is the avowed enemy of the vest, the necktie, and the part of the pants that the napkin is never over. Thanks to my interest in the removal of stains, I was consulted on this problem, even when I was so young that I had never heard of the Morris Plan.

If you don't dare go out at night because of chicken gravy, lean your head on my shoulder and while you are sobbing, I'll tell you what to do.

Mix one teaspoonful of tetra-fikidoodle (any drug store in Tibet will have it) with 100 gallons of yogurt. First air the stained garment. Then shake it. Then brush it. Then look at it carefully and decide whether or not it is worth all this trouble. Drop the garment in the solu-

Rubber Stamp Medicine

(Christian Economics)
(Condensed from the Intelligence Digest, London)

Is Britain to become a nation of hypochondriacs? Doctors in that country, swamped by people suddenly aware of every ache and pain, think it is distinctly possible. An immediate effect of the great rush for free treatment is that the minor ailments are diverting the doctors' attention from much serious illness.

Another headache for conscientious British physicians is the absolute abandonment of family responsibility when illness strikes. With the state providing from conception to the grave inclusive, the young and healthy no longer feel called upon to make the slightest effort to provide for the sick or aged.

Unhappily this "couldn't care less" philosophy is spreading to the doctors themselves. Medical men of Britain are throwing in the sponge at a rate unheard of in the profession's history.

Those who continue at it never know what government edict to expect, what the civil servants will demand of them next. They have no incentive to increase their knowledge and achievement.

The man prepared to curry favor with ruling officials is the one who gets ahead. The rubber stamp expert can avoid hard work and devote his efforts to drawing the maximum income from the state.

The general practitioner in Britain, no longer able to be the traditional family doctor, able and anxious to render service, is now inclined to think only of getting the maximum number of "units" in his practice. He must do this to live, even though it is impossible for him to give this maximum number the proper care in the water of trivial complaints.

An easy way out for him is to send patients to the hospitals. He can do this with the stroke of a pen, and thus escape responsibility and save wear and tear on his own health and nerves.

Naturally, consultants and specialists in the hospitals are overburdened and must also find a way out. The easiest trick is to unload cases on the generalists.

Some of the most pungent comments on the British medical experiment in recent months are those of George U. Wood, administrator of Oakland Park Hospital, upon his return to the United States after studying medical and hospital conditions in England.

"I was simply amazed at how far England has gone toward medical regimentation," he declared. "The worst of it is that the younger generation has been so completely indoctrinated with socialism that the young men are more interested in getting something for nothing than in fighting to regain their lost freedom."

Mr. Wood continued: "Lured by the hope of getting a variety of doses, even those who had the independence to go to other parts of the world are flocking back to England. Even the Dutch and the French are now spending their vacations in the British Isles in order to get 'free' medical care."

and training are military. "I think the military and civil talents are distinct, if not different, and full duty in either sphere is about as much as one man can carry off himself to perform. I shall not do the people the injustice to accept high civil office, with whose questions it has not been my business to become familiar."

Tyrants. "Well, but, general history does not sustain your view. Caesar, and Frederick of Prussia and Bonaparte were great statesmen as well as great generals."

"And great tyrants," he promptly responded, "belong only to the rule in republics, where I think we should have neither military statesmen nor political generals."

A husband and wife came to a bank to open a joint account. Being in a hurry, the man made out his signature card and left.

Bank Official—Let me see this. This is to be a joint account, is it not?

Wife—That's right. Deposit for him—checking for me.

YOUNG UNCLE SAM—Bruce Bastian, 11, takes time from his kite flying in Chicago to look over a new pictorialization of Uncle Sam. "Uncle Sam, 1952" is the $2000 prize-winning conception of Elliot Freeman of North Hollywood, Calif., who was one of 402 artists to submit entries in a contest sponsored by a Chicago community newspaper. The youthful "Uncle" wears a red-and-white-striped business suit, and a star-studded vest.

IT'S your DEAL Learn How To Discard

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"My husband and I play two-hand Canasta a lot," relates an Iowa correspondent. "He manages to go out concealed in nearly every hand. How does he manage to do this so often? Is there some trick to it? Is there any defense against it?"

There are various ways of playing two-hand Canasta, but I will assume that "my" correspondent plays the most popular form. In this variant, you draw two cards from the stock pile instead of only one (just as in the game of Samba). Since you discard only one card at each turn, your hand tends to grow bigger all the time. In any game of two-hand Canasta you have no partner to help or inform. Therefore you don't gain very much when you put a meld down on the table instead of keeping it in your hand where your opponent cannot see it.

That is, you don't gain very much as long as the hand continues. When the hand ends, of course, you are better off if your melds are on the table instead of in your hand.

A large part of the skill in two-hand canasta consists in keeping melds in your hand as long as possible. If you put them down too quickly, your opponent knows too much about your hand. If you don't put your melds down quickly enough, your opponent may meld out and catch you.

If your opponent is not good at melding out quickly, you can keep your melds in your hand until you are yourself ready to meld out. You have all the advantage of concealing your melds and none of the risk that your opponent may meld out before you do.

I suspect that this is exactly what is happening in a certain Iowa home. The lady doesn't concentrate on melding out quickly, and the gentlemen can safely keep his melds concealed until he is ready to meld out.

The best defense is to work hard towards melding out quickly. Don't keep odd cards in your hand. Build up melds. You cannot afford to discard "safely". If you do, your hand will become a junk pile and you will never get into out position.

European DPs Fail To Join Defense Army

HEIDELBERG, Germany —(AP)—After a year of effort, only 220 European displaced persons have been recruited into the U.S. Army. The quota for these aliens was set at 12,500. Army authorities frankly doubt they will ever get even a tenth of them. It looks like the ambitious program to bolster American defense forces with European DPs is heading for failure—from a military standpoint at least.

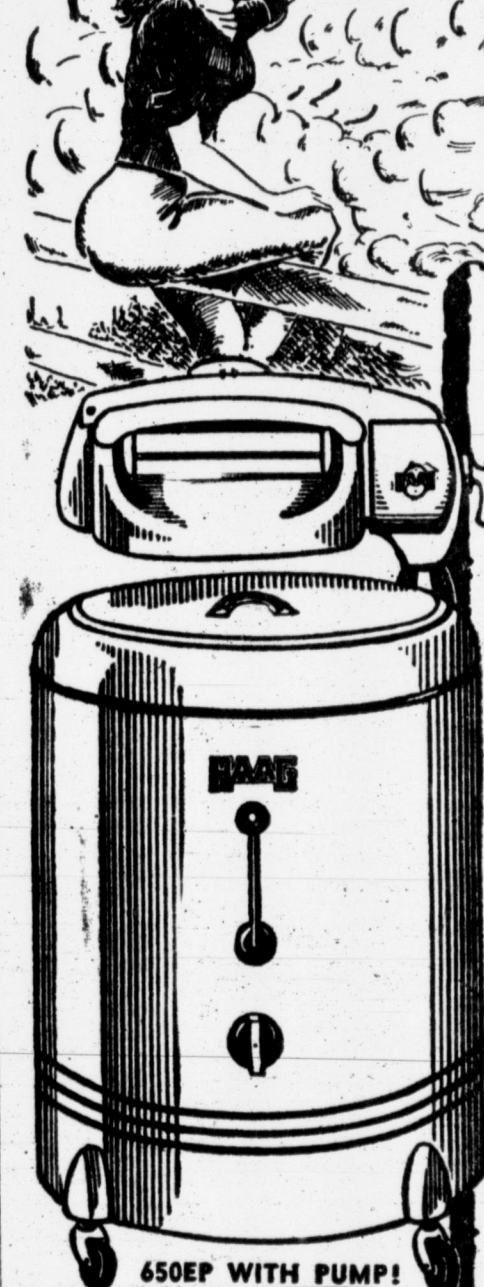

was passed by Congress with the sponsorship of Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., (R-Mass.), many expected that Europe's young refugees from war and communism would flock to the American colors by many thousands. They were offered a chance at American citizenship after five years of military service—and full equity of pay and other treatment along with Americans while in the army.

A spokesman at the army's European headquarters here gives this explanation for the meager result: Five thousand aliens from 11 countries have applied to join the U. S. Army, but 1000 of them never showed up to pursue their applications. About 750 failed to meet requirements of age (18-35), no dependents and that they must not be a citizen of Germany or any country in the North Atlantic Treaty organization. Another 1500 failed to pass the high physical, intelligence and aptitude tests. "A good number" (the army wouldn't say how many) was rejected as security risks—suspected of affiliation with Nazi, Fascist or Communist organizations. There still are 1199 applications pending and perhaps 180 new applications coming in each month.

Texas League Settles Into Usual Pitchers' League Form

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The Texas League has settled into its usual pattern — it's a pitchers' league.

Last night was a good example. There were three shutouts and in two of them hurlers turned in four-hit jobs.

Four clubs are tied for the lead after three days and nights of struggling.

Sugar Ray Is 3-1 Favorite

CHICAGO (AP) — Ray Robinson's middleweight title defense against mauler Rocky Graziano tomorrow night is expected to be a savage slugfest that will fall far short of going the scheduled 15 round distance.

Houston Wins Trophy

Also Monday night Oklahoma City beat Tulsa 4-0 and Houston skunked San Antonio 5-0.

Houston has won the opening day attendance trophy for the second straight year. The Buffs drew 7,581 for their home opener last night, which is more than 1,600 better than Dallas did in the first round of openers Saturday night. Dallas drew 6,225.

Extra Innings

Elroy Face made his pitching start in the Texas League with a seven — hitter against Dallas. The slender Fort Worth right-hander, a graduate of the Western League, was backed by an 11-hit attack.

Beaumont and Shreveport have played three games and each has been decided by one run. With the bases full in the tenth, Joe Koppe booted a ground ball and John Gray came home for the winning Beaumont run yesterday.

LBS Injunction Is Not Granted

DALLAS (AP) — The Liberty Broadcasting System "will continue to broadcast major league baseball games in 1952," Gordon McLendon, network president, said yesterday.

McLendon made the statement from his office here after a federal court in Chicago refused to force the "L" major league clubs to let LBS broadcast "game-of-the-day."

Judge John P. Jones refused to grant LBS an injunction directing the clubs to make their games available for broadcast.

The network has filed suit against all major league clubs except the Chicago White Sox, Brooklyn, and Cincinnati, alleging violations of antitrust laws.

"We will continue to present as always the best games available to use in the face of this conspiracy," McLendon said.

"Our failure on this preliminary motion is merely one small incident in what must be considered a long litigation."

24 Years in National League
NEW YORK (AP) — Q. What was the second greatest total of home runs hit in a single season in the majors?
A. 59, by Babe Ruth of the Yankees in 1921. He later, of course, bettered his own mark by hitting 60 for the all-time record in 1927.

Q. What was the lowest average to win a big league batting crown?
A. .306, by Elmer Flick, of Cleveland, to win the American League title in 1905.

Q. Who holds the record for most bases stolen in one World Series game?
A. Homer Wagner, of Pittsburgh, in the 1909 Series against Detroit, with three.

Field Ready For T-O Golf Battle

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — The second annual Texas - Oklahoma Invitational Golf Tournament will be held here May 28 through June 1 with a field of more than 300 of the two states' top amateurs expected to compete.

A one-day pro-amateur sponsored by the West Texas Pro-Amateur Association will precede the tournament.

Henry Cooper of Wichita Falls, a North Texas State College student, won the title last year. He is expected to defend his championship.

Top Oklahoma golfers expected to enter include Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, 1950 National Amateur champion, and Ken Rogers of Oklahoma City, 1952 Houston Tournament winner. Among the Texans will be Rufus King of Wichita Falls, Dick Martin of Dallas and Carl Vandervort of Fort Worth. Billy Maxwell of North Texas State, the 1951 National Amateur champion, may enter.

Max Bishop, former American League infielder who is baseball coach at the U. S. Naval Academy, played first base, second base and shortstop for the Boston Red Sox in 1925.

It's 'Play Ball' For The Major Leagues Today

Most Clubs Have New Faces To Offer Their Fans

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP) — A quarter of a million fans in eight cities were expected to jam ball parks today and listen to the cry of "play ball" as the 1952 major league baseball season got underway.

Despite the loss and impending loss of such topnotch performers as Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio, Bobby Doerr, Gerry Coleman, Monte Irvin, Willie Mays and others, the new season gives promise of new thrills and excitement to match those of previous campaigns.

All clubs will present new faces. Such new names as Billy Reed, Ed Mathews, Toby Atwell, Dave Williams, Bob Del Greco, Dick Hall, Scooter Koshorek, Jim Fridge, Her Rodriguez, Jim Rivera, George Schmees, Leo Thomas and Clint Courtney were expected to appear in opening day lineups.

Managers Optimistic

The managers were optimistic. With Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians brashly predicting an American League flag, Manager Charlie Dresen of Brooklyn said his Dodgers ought to win in the National League.

The odds-makers agree with Dresen and Lopez and have installed the Indians and Dodgers as favorites. Each club is a 9-5 favorite to win the pennant.

The Giants and Yankees are second choices, the former at 5-2 and the latter 2-1. Philadelphia and St. Louis are given an outside chance in the National, as are Chicago and Boston in the American.

President Truman, the nation's fan, and only switch hurler since William Howard Taft started the presidential pitching custom in 1910, tossed out the first ball in Washington where the Senators engaged the Red Sox. A crowd of 32,000 expected to see a pitching duel between Mel Parnell (18-11) Boston's premier southpaw, and right-hander Bob Porterfield (9-8) of the Nats.

The day's largest crowd of some 32,000, including Queen Juliana of the Netherlands, was expected to attend the Tigers-Browns opener in Detroit. The veteran Dizzy Trout (9-14) was Detroit's pitching nomination. He was opposed by Ned Garver (20-12).

The Cardinals, who inaugurated the night opener in 1950, again will raise the curtain with an after-dark affair in St. Louis before 20,000 at Boston where the Dodgers were guests of the Braves. The Braves will feature a rookie-infused lineup behind ace southpaw Warren Spahn (22-14). The Dodgers depended on their veteran array including lefty Prescher Roe (22-3).

Philadelphia expected 25,000 to watch the Athletics tangle with the world champion Yankees and try to end right-hander Vic Kacich's jinx over the A's. Raschi (21-10) the Dodgers depended on in their encounter with the Indians, Billy Pierce (15-14) was Chicago's pitching choice to oppose Cleveland's Early Wynn's (20-12).

Cincinnati envisioned a 30,000 sellout in its traditional opener against the Cubs. Herbie Wehner (7-17) was the Red's pitching selection. He was opposed by southpaw Paul Miner (6-17). A last-minute substitution for right-hander Bob Rush.

Hugo Bezdek, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates from 1917 through 1919, was born in Prague, Czechoslovakia on April 1, 1894.

Judo Experts To Tangle On Mat Card Wednesday

Barefooted Sesus Oyama of Tokyo, Japan, a master of the judo chop as well as a jillion other judo jerks, will be favored to cop a judo jacket match from George Lopez, a Mexican with Japanese ancestry at the Southern Club tomorrow night. The two will meet in the main event of a three event card starting at 8:15.

Something new for local fans, the jacket match in one of the roughest forms of wrestling known. In it each contestant wears a course, strong cloth jacket. His opponent may make all the use he is capable of performing with the jacket. And this fact, coupled with the jujitsu and judo that these two boys know, means plenty of action.

Both of the boys have the black belt, which is about fifth rating in judo. Seventh is tops. Sesus is a full-blooded Japanese, while Lopez is half Japanese and half Spanish. Lopez was in the Japanese islands a couple of years ago taking some more lessons in judo from the great Hyama, master of judo. He should be ready.

In the supporting card, one of the most colorful attractions to the area recently, killed off Scotty McFarland of Edinburgh, Scotland, will battle a two out of three fall, 45 minute affair with Johnny Pavich.

And in the preliminary, Benny Trudell, the canny Canadian, meets Ray Degen of Mexican in a 20-minute opener.

Last Call For Batboys

It's last call for the Oiler Batboy contest. Midnight tonight is the deadline for entry letters of 50 words or more.

The six finalists, selected from the letters received, will be announced in tomorrow afternoon's Pampa Daily News along with a voting ballot. From there on, it's up to the six finalists and their friends to pick the lucky boy who will serve as batboy for the Pampa professional baseball team this summer.

A good summer of entertainment, plus an Oiler uniform and season passes, go to the winning boy. The runner-up will serve as batboy for the visiting team, while the third place winner is alternate batboy. The other three finalists will be given an official league baseball autographed by each member of the Oilers.

Shamrock — (Special) — Coach Scott McCall's 1952 gridmen get their first real test Tuesday or Wednesday afternoon when they tangle with the tough senior team at Denver field here. Officials are waiting until the turf is dry for the tough test.

After a week's practice, the 1952 team has begun to shape up. Norrell Perkins and George Hendrick, stars of the 1952 basketball team, look like sure shots for starting end positions. James Henderson and Paul Cooper are slated to hit the seniors from tackle posts. Cooper, now a junior, was one of the better tackles last season, but played understudy to Dwayne Hager and Billy Harris.

Opening in the guard slots will be Ronald Settle and Bobby Johnson. Settle being a halfback last fall and Johnson a reserve lineman. As a halfback, Settle gained more than 200 yards in five combats.

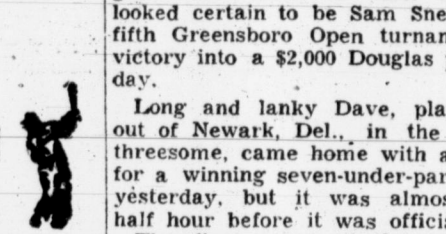

Kay Nunn, understudy in 1950, has come into his own now and looks like a good bet for the starting center post.

Backfield
Cavorting in the backfield starting crew will be Jack York, understudy to Charles Francis last fall. York, a very accurate passer, is expected to provide Shamrock with a great quarterback for 1952 combats. He is also a good runner and signal caller.

Don Carlton and Jimmy Pennington, only regulars from the 1951 crew, will be at halfbacks as usual. Both scored 74 points to lead the Irish scoring last fall. Pennington gaining 1,013 yards and Carlton 882, after being out the first five games.

Punch-Drunk Bums Tossed Out By Hoople

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Star of the Old Orioles

Egad! The annual tussle for the old gonfalon has started, and here is the surefire forecast my millions of readers have been awaiting with bated breath:

American Indians
Yankees White Sox
Tigers Browns
Red Sox Athletics
Senators Cubs

It will be the Indians versus the Phillies in the Fall classic. I'm expecting a blank finish in the American League, with the Indians winning by a whisker. Cleveland has the pitching, and the club hit under its norm last year. This year, despite the batting school in Tucson, the Lake Erie lads will clout the horsehide just a bit over their heads. Ergo, a pennant!

Yankee luck has run its course. The White Sox lack pitching. In the National League it will be the Phils by five games. This team too played under its rating last year, and is much improved. Brooklyn is still punch drunk from its key of 1951. The Giants just haven't got it.

One of the more interesting teams to watch will be the ambitious Browns under Hornsby and Veeck — up and coming!

Fuchs Can't Find Workout Location

NEW YORK (AP) — Manhattanites on a mid-town stroll these bright spring afternoons may be startled to see a modern Tarzan in his underwear tossing a big iron ball around underneath the 59th street bridge.

They shouldn't be alarmed. It's only Jim Fuchs, the world's greatest shot putter, tuning up for the Olympics.

"It's a shame but there's not a place in town to train," the former Yale University athlete said today. "All the stadiums are in the suburbs. I can't put the shot in Central Park—it's against the law."

WARREN'S ARM UP

By Warren Thorne—News Sports Editor

QUESTION: Who was voted the most valuable high school football player in Texas in 1946?

THEY'RE OFF!

Today the major leagues break away from the starting gate in the start of another pennant chase. It's improbable that any could be any more dramatic than the National League race last year. It doesn't seem very long ago that we sat in our car and listened as Bobby "The Great Scot" Thomson smacked that historic home run. Yes, baseball, the national sport, dominates the sports pages the year around. And today, the major leagues, where nearly every red-blooded American boy hopes someday to play, start another 154-game scramble.

This should prove to be a most interesting year in the majors. There are going to be a lot of questions that the final averages can answer, such as:

Can Casey Stengel guide the Yankees to their fourth straight world championship with the bunch of youngsters he's got?

How much effect will the loss of Joe DiMaggio have on the Yankees?

Can Rogers Hornsby pull the Browns up with his driving tactics?

What can Eddie Stanky do with the Cardinals?

Can the Go-Go White Sox win with hustle again?

What effect will the army have on baseball?

Will the brilliant freshmen of 1951 be as good in '52?

And many, many other questions.

That sophomore jinx could play havoc with a lot of clubs. Many are depending strongly on those great youngsters of last year to help them again this season, ball-players like Minnie Minoso of the White Sox, Gil McDougall of the Yankees, Glen Labine, George Spencer, Jim Busby, Elba St. Claire and others. The Army has already taken care of the sophomore jinx connected with youngsters Willie Mays and Chet Nichols.

Veterans
Old fading veterans come through again, fellows like Bob Feller, Preacher Roe, Enos Slaughter, Johnny Mize, Saul Rogovin, Vern Stephens and others.

And then there are the medical cases like Luke Easter's knee, Hal Newhouse's arm, Curt Simmons' shape since getting away from the service, Marty Marion's aching bones, and the gap left by Monte Irvin's injury.

And then, of course, Lady Luck has a big share of the say. All things have to be considered and we have tried to do just that and have come up with the following answers (and we remind you won't want to be reminded at world series time):

First, the American League, because it has fewer question marks and looks surer. Our choice is the Cleveland Indians on the strength of that great pitching staff, a sounder, more experienced infield and a good knee under Luke Easter. If they don't do it this year, nobody ever should.

Al Lopez has one of the best aggregations of players in the past decade and should wait home.

Second place goes to the ever-powerful Yankees, missing the great sprinkling of rookies. They can be counted upon to pick up some National League castoff again in late July, but it won't be enough to pull them to their fourth straight title.

Third place belongs to the Boston Red Sox, filled with youngsters and a new manager. They've been shoddy this spring, but should be up there after looking at the rest of the league.

Question Mark
Fourth place we look for a fight between the White Sox and the St. Louis Browns. The Sox are a great question mark as are the Browns. Both can be counted upon for great hustle, and that desire to play should force the rest of the league into the cellar spots with Washington on the bottom, Philadelphia next and Detroit in sixth.

Now, for that National League chase. We've never had any love for those Bums, but we're picking them. They possess almost the same club as had such a long lead last year—but managed to blow it. Missing is Don Newcombe, sure, but the other clubs have lost something too, with the possible exception of Philadelphia. New York is the only team that could come close to Brooklyn last season, and they are missing their great outfield duo of Irvin and Mays—plus the Brat, Eddie Stanky.

After Brooklyn it looks like a ratrace for second, third and fourth. The teams battling for it don't appear hard to choose, New York, St. Louis and Philadelphia. But the Phillies are the "X" part of the formula. How much can they return from their drop of last year? And how much will Curt Simmons help them?

We're going to pick the Cardinals, Phillies and Giants in that order to finish out first division. The rest of the league will be so far behind they can hang them up by Fourth of July, we're afraid.

Anyway, it's the Braves, Cubs, Reds, and Pirates in that order. As we said before, don't remind us about this at world series time!

Baseball Banter
Some things you may not have heard about baseball, or have forgotten. Home plate in the game's pioneer days was made of iron and was circular and flat, covering a space equal to one square foot. The baseball used in 1845 weighed three ounces.

The modern ball shall weigh not less than five nor more than five and one-fourth ounces, avoirdupois. It says in the book, "Moreover, its weight has been unchanged since 1872."

Baseball was strictly amateur in 1838. No player was allowed to play who received money for his services. There have been some changes, haven't there, Mr. Musial and Mr. Feller?

The first enclosed park was Union Grounds in Brooklyn, opened in 1862. Compiling of averages was introduced in 1885.

The next year Robert Adly of Rockford, Ill., was credited with being the first player to slide while stealing a base. The mask was invented in 1875 by Fred W. Thayer and first used by James Tyng of Harvard.

Yates called him a sissy.

Sponsors Irked By Babe's Absence

CORPUS CHRISTI — (AP)

Babe Didrickson Zaharias was apparently on her way to Bakersfield, Calif., today for the next round of the cross-country Weather-vane Women's Golf Tournament. But in Corpus Christi, backers of a charity golf show were still wondering what happened.

The great Babe was entered in the one-day Corpus Christi tournament for women professionals, but failed to show up. The crowd of about 1,500 — many of them lured by the magic name of the Babe alone — was frankly disappointed.

Mrs. Sam E. Wilson Jr., president of the Corpus Christi Crippled Children's Hospital and a sponsor of the event, was more than disappointed.

Oral Contract
"The gallery that bought tickets to the tournament is certainly entitled to an explanation for her absence," Mrs. Wilson said. She said there was only an oral contract.

"We hope to have the women professional golfers back next year," Mrs. Wilson continued.

"But if Mrs. Zaharias' name is on the list, there's one thing for sure. We'll have a contract next time."

Mrs. Zaharias was reported a little sore over her showing in the Weather-vane at Houston Saturday. She ended in a four-way tie for fifth place.

But other members of the touring golfers said she told them Saturday night in Houston she would see them next day in Corpus Christi.

She didn't.

Big State Opens Season Tonight

By The Associated Press
The first of Texas' Class B baseball leagues opens the season tonight. This is the Big State League which has this opening schedule:

Temple at Austin.
Longview at Texarkana.
Waco at Tyler.
Wichita Falls at Paris.

Thursday night the clubs change stances for the second round of opening games. Austin will be at Temple, Texarkana at Longview, Tyler at Waco and Paris at Wichita Falls.

Tomorrow night the second Class B league — the Gulf Coast — will open the season with Laredo at Laredo, Texas City at Galveston, Port Arthur at Corpus Christi and Harlingen at Brownsville.

Thursday night Brownsville goes to Harlingen and Galveston to Texas City. The second round of opening games will be completed Sunday when Laredo goes to Port Arthur and Lake Charles to Corpus Christi.

President Howard Green of both leagues has forecast an increase in attendance and anticipates the openers in the two circuits will average 3,500.

A banquet is scheduled tonight at Dimmitt, out in the Texas Panhandle. The people will pay tribute to a man unique in the coaching field. He quit his job because he was too successful — not just in winning but in attaining an affection of the people that brought too great a load.

Most coaches move on because they either are asked to or get better jobs. John Blaine was in the coaching field. He quit his job because he was too successful — not just in winning but in attaining an affection of the people that brought too great a load.

There never was a more successful coach. Blaine had two undefeated championship teams in one sport — basketball. His boys team won 36 straight games, the state Class A championship and the championship of both Class A and Class AA in what was called a divisional title. His girls team won 28 games and the state championship for the third straight season.

He also had a football team last fall that won 10 of 11 games, going to the regional play-off. His track team was runner-up in the state meet at Dimmitt.

Blaine was at Dimmitt High school 18 years when he suddenly handed in his resignation.

The reason he quit: he felt the burden of coaching all sports at Dimmitt High school was too great. But he couldn't quit any of them because the boys and girls just wouldn't hear it — and Blaine couldn't do it because he wasn't about to hurt the kids.

He's going to continue coaching but the next job he has it will be in just one sport.

Dimmitt High school officials offered him a raise in salary and told him he could coach either boys or girls — he could coach just what he wanted to. But Blaine said he couldn't quit any of them if he stayed at Dimmitt.

Superintendent R. S. Vestal says he's having trouble getting a new coach. Since Blaine quit without another job and after his greatest year, those who do not know the circumstances think there must have been friction or that the material is running out.

"Both assumptions are quite erroneous," says Vestal. "There certainly was no friction. We'd like to have Mr. Blaine with us forever. There is plenty of material for winning teams. Besides we don't require anybody to win every year. We do want a man like John Blaine."

How can a coach quit his job without another one even in view?

Blaine, in the first place, is financially independent. He owns three farms and is fixed for life. He doesn't have to coach or teach school unless he wants to. But he loves coaching and to show just how good he is at it Vestal said when a new coach is hired it won't be one but two. It will take a couple to handle all the work John Blaine did.

A. C. Gonzalez, the Del Rio attorney who liked baseball so well he bought himself three clubs in three different leagues, now has added a fourth.

The way that man is going he'll own more ball clubs than some of the major league clubs with their chains.

Gonzalez has acquired the Danville, Ill., franchise in the Mississippi-Ohio League. That gives him Danville and Chicago, Ill., in Class D; Sweetwater, Class C and Paris in Class B.

Gonzalez has ambitions to own a club in the Class AA Texas League, then that would complete the cycle for him. That is, unless he also went after a major league club.

Hints For Dog's First Litter
By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor

Ed Filbert no sooner had a bitch puppy than he was looking forward to the time when she would be old enough to have a litter of her own.

For the next 14 months, every one on the commuter train was briefed so that they knew as much about her progress as they did that of his children. Her morning, her distemper shots, how he kept her comfortable but isolated during her first season and now about her breeding and expectancy.

Ed had been very careful about having Lady examined for worms before she was bred. In this respect I was insistent that, if he was going to ask my advice about things, he would have her wormed only if examination proved it necessary. Too many dogs are wormed just as a matter of course and if they don't need it it does them more harm than good.

Ed had been sure to feed Lady carefully — enough of all the necessary foods with vitamins and minerals and additional calcium gluconate, a safeguard against eclampsia for whelping bitches.

We don't know exactly what causes eclampsia, but suspect it probably has something to do with the fact that the mother's system is robbed of calcium as the puppies which she is carrying grow and develop.

Well, the day the pups had started to arrive, the train couldn't get out to our suburban station fast enough.

"What should I do to help her?" Ed wanted to know. "Just leave her alone. I told him, 'and try to be as calm as you were when your kids were born.'"

Before we had arrived at the station we had a pretty good routine outlined.

It included a good warm place for bitch and puppies, preferably in some corner where she could feel secure with her family; a bed which she could leave and enter easily, but which the pups could not roll or crawl out of; good clean bedding over which clean newspapers or an old clean sheet could be spread until the whelping was over and the puppies all cleaned up and nursed; and warm milk with an egg in it for the bitch when she is ready to eat.

I told Ed, too, about the kind of whelping bed I like best — one with a strip of one by three around the top edge and overhanging inward so that if the mother happens to lie against the side of the bed she won't crush a puppy that may happen to be there. It will be safe under the overhang.

Of course I assured Ed that most natural processes take place so regularly that there is little need to worry.

As a precaution, however, I advised him to take the bitch's temperature every three hours after the last pup had been whelped to make sure that she had whelped all the pups she had been carrying.

If one is not whelped, infection may result and septicemia with serious consequences follow. If the temperature rises above 102 degrees Fahrenheit, taken rectally, the veterinarian should be informed at once.

Bulldogs Begin Spring Work Soon

BORGER — Coach Guy Gardner's 1952 edition of the Borger Bulldogs will open spring football practice here Thursday as Gardner and his staff begin a strenuous rebuilding job. Thirteen lettermen will be gone, including all but one member of the offensive team.

Key to success this year may ride on Royce "Bubba" Hillman, who will be replacing brilliant Cleyburne Bybee at quarterback. Hillman will be teamed with three other speedsters in the backfield. Toby Yovs, Dean May and Eddie Ward. They compose the main portion of the Bulldogs' track squad this year. Behind them will be J. D. Whisenant, a tough little ballcarrier.

Heading the list of returning lettermen in the line are Phillip Wright, and Bobby Covington. Dale McFarland at center, Red Arnsdal and John Huett are the other returning lettermen around whom Gardner will have to build his club.

Gardner plans an intra-squad game at the end of the 30 day workout period.

Turner, Gavilan Sign For Return

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Gil Turner and Kid Gavilan are all but signed for a welterweight championship bout in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium this summer — unless the Philadelphia's fiasco with Chico Varona last night upsets the apple cart.

Turner, unbeaten 21-year-old Negro beller at 145 1-2, won his 31st straight victory and 25th by a knockout when Varona from Havana, Cuba, weighing 143 1-2, refused to answer the bell for the seventh of a scheduled 10 rounds. The Cuban and his manager, Allie Zack, bitterly protested that Turner threw "17 low blows."

Varona told Referee Zack Clayton he was "sick in the stomach" and refused to leave his corner.

Simmons Signed To Phillie Pact

Simmons recently returned to the U. S. after serving with the 28th Infantry Division in Germany.

Ransom's 2 Birds Decided St. Paul

By HENRY RAMSON
As told to Frank Eck
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

My biggest golf thrill was winning the St. Paul Open in 1946. I had to birdie two of the last three holes to beat Lawson Little.

I birdied the 435-yard 16th with a three and had another three for a birdie on the 440-yard 17th. My rounds were 67, 68, 67, 66 for a 268 total, still a record for that tournament.

My next biggest thrill came last year in winning the world championship and first prize of $11,000 at the Tam o'Shanter course in Chicago. I beat Chick Harbert, 69-72.

In that tournament I guess I played the greatest stretch of golf in my career. During a five-hole span I was six under par. It's always a thrill making a hole-in-one. I've had five. My last came in 1946 at Pinehurst on the 190-yard 17th hole when a two iron shot went from tee to cup.

Another thrill was the time I shot two consecutive 62's at Houston, Tex., in 1943. I had 10 pars and eight birdies each day.

I Henry Ramson, as playing pro represents the St. Andrews Golf Club, St. Andrews, Ill. Born at Houston, in 1917, he is one of the many pros to come from Texas.

Sun Again, Derby candidate, beat his stable mate, Whirlaway, in the six furlong Sequenential Handicap.

Twenty years ago — Lefty Grove made his first attempt as a relief pitcher against the New York Yankees, and was belted for a home run by Lou Gehrig.

WARREN'S ARM UP

By Warren Vance—News Sports Editor

QUESTION: Who was voted the most valuable high school football player in Texas in 1946?

THEY'RE OFF!!

Today the major leagues break away from the starting gate in the start of another pennant chase. It's improbable that any could be any more dramatic than the National League race last year. It doesn't seem very long ago that we sat in our car and listened as Bobby "The Great Scot" Thomson smacked that historic home run. Yes, baseball, the national sport, dominates the sports pages the year around. And today, the major leagues, where nearly every red-blooded American boy hopes someday to play, start another 154-game scramble.

This should prove to be a most interesting year in the majors. There are going to be a lot of questions that the final averages can answer, such as:

Can Casey Stengel guide the Yankees to their fourth straight world championship with the bunch of youngsters he's got?

How much effect will the loss of Joe DiMaggio have on the Yankees?

Can Rogers Hornsby pull the Browns up with his driving tactics?

What can Eddie Stankey do with the Cardinals?

Can the Go-Go White Sox win with hustle again?

What effect will the army have on baseball?

Will the brilliant freshmen of 1951 be as good in '52?

And many, many other questions.

That sophomore jinx could play havoc with a lot of clubs. Many are depending strongly on those great youngsters of last year to help them again this season, ball-players like Minnie Minoso of the White Sox, Gil McDougald of the Yankees, Clem Labine, George Spencer, Jim Busby, Elba St. Claire and others. The Army has already taken care of the sophomore jinx connected with youngsters Willie Mays and Chet Nichols.

Veterans
And then can some of these old fading veterans come through again, fellows like Bob Feller, Preacher Roe, Eppie Slaughter, Johnny Mize, Saul Rogovin, Vern Stephens and others.

And then there are the medical cases like Luke Easter's knee, Hal Newhouse's arm, Curt Simmons' shins, and others. The Army has already taken care of the sophomore jinx connected with youngsters Willie Mays and Chet Nichols.

Sponsors Irked By Babe's Absence

CORPUS CHRISTI — (AP)

Babe Didrickson Zaharias was apparently on her way to Bakersfield, Calif., today for the next round of the cross-country Westervane Women's Golf Tournament.

But in Corpus Christi, backers of a charity golf show were still wondering what happened.

The great Babe was entered in the one-day Corpus Christi tournament for women professionals, but failed to show up. The crowd of about 1,500 — many of them lured by the magic name of the Babe alone — was frankly disappointed.

Mrs. Sam E. Wilson, Jr., president of the Corpus Christi Crippled Children's Hospital, a sponsor of the event, was more than disappointed.

Oral Contract
"The gallery that bought tickets to the tournament is certainly entitled to an explanation for her absence," Mrs. Wilson said. She said there was only an oral contract.

"We hope to have the women professional golfers back next year," Mrs. Wilson continued, "but if Mrs. Zaharias' name is on the list, there's one thing for sure, we'll have a contract next time."

Mrs. Zaharias was reported a little sore over her showing in the Westervane at Houston Saturday. She ended in a four-way tie for fifth place.

But other members of the touring golfers said she told them Saturday night in Houston she would see them next day in Corpus Christi.

She didn't.

Some things you may not have heard about baseball, or have forgotten: Home plate in the game's pioneer days was made of iron and was circular and flat, covering a space equal to one square foot.

The baseball used in 1845 weighed three ounces. The modern ball "shall weigh not less than five nor more than five and one-fourth ounces, avoirdupois," it says in the book. Moreover, its weight has been unchanged since 1872.

Baseball was actually amateur in 1839. No player was allowed to play who received money for his services.

There have been some changes, haven't they, Mr. Musial and Mr. Feller? . . . The first enclosed park was Union Grounds in Brooklyn, opened in 1862.

Compiling of averages was introduced in 1885. The next year Robert Adley of Rockford, Ill., was credited with being the first player to slide while stealing a base.

The mask was invented in 1875 by Fred W. Thayer and first used by James Tyng of Harvard.

Yates called him a sissy.

A banquet is scheduled tonight at Dimmitt, out in the Texas Panhandle. The people will pay tribute to a man unique in the coaching field. He quit his job because he was too successful.

Not just in winning but in attaining an affection of the people that brought too great a load.

Most coaches move on because they either are asked to or get better jobs. John Blaine was indeed different. He resigned as coach of all sports at Dimmitt High school without a new job in view and with everybody pleading with him to stay.

There never was a more successful coach. Blaine had two undefeated championship teams in one sport — basketball. His boys team won 26 straight games, the state Class A championship and the championship of both Class A and Class AA in what was called a divisional title. His girls team won 28 games and the state championship for the third straight season.

He also had a football team last fall that won 10 of 11 games, going to the regional play-off. His track team was runner-up in the state meet last spring.

Blaine was at Dimmitt High school 16 years when he suddenly handed in his resignation.

The reason he quit: he felt the burden of coaching all sports at Dimmitt High school was too great but he couldn't quit any of them if he stayed at Dimmitt.

Superintendent S. Vestal says he's having trouble getting a new coach. Since Blaine quit without another job and after his greatest year, those who do not know the circumstances think there must have been friction or that the mascot is running out.

"Both assumptions are quite erroneous," says Vestal. "There certainly was no friction. We'd like to have Mr. Blaine with us forever. There is plenty of material for winning teams. Besides, we don't require anybody to win anything. We do want a man like John Blaine."

How can a coach quit his job without another one even in view?

Blaine, in the first place, is financially independent. He owns three farms and is fixed for life.

He doesn't have to coach or teach school unless he wants to. But he loves coaching and to show just how good he is at it Vestal said when a new coach is hired it won't be one but two. It will take a couple to handle the Golden Gloves champions of that nation.

Amateur boxing regulations in Europe call for bouts in 10 weights, necessitating the addition of two more fighters and forcing some changes in the team lineup.

Thus, Davis was moved up from 126 pounds to 132 pounds, 4 ounces, the lightweight division. His Irish opponent will be Dave Connell, a veteran of 10 years of Irish boxing and a member of the European Gloves team that visited Chicago last year.

There have been 14 international bouts since 1931, but this will be the first time a Golden Gloves team has left American shores. All previous meetings were in Chicago, where the Americans scored nine team victories to one for Europe. There have been four ties.

Fighters making the trip are Davis, flyweight Kenneth Wright, bantamweight Jack Corvino, light welterweight Isaac Vaughn, welterweight Herschel Acton, light middleweight Bill Tate, middleweight Carl Blair, light heavyweight Sherman Overton, and heavyweight Ed Sanders. Coaches Johnny Behr and Fred Caserio will accompany the team along with Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, founder of Golden Gloves international activity.

Salas, Carter In Rematch May 14

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Lairo Salas, a scrappy little battler from Monterrey, Mexico, gets another shot at Jimmy Carter's world's lightweight boxing title May 14 in a rematch of their April Fool's Day thriller.

The beetle-browed Salas, at 34 a veteran of five years in the ring, won his second chance with the sharp punching New Yorker when he floored the champion in the last stanza of their 15-rounder here, although losing a unanimous decision.

Tommy Upton, shortstop for the Washington Senators, is studying at the University of Southern California for a master's degree in mathematics.

Hints For Dog's First Litter

By JOE STETSON

Dog Editor

Ed Filbert no sooner had a bitch puppy than he was looking forward to the time when she would be old enough to have a litter of her own.

For the next 14 months, everyone on the commuter train was briefed so that they knew as much about her progress as they did that of his children. Her morning, her distemper shots, how he kept her comfortable but isolated during her first season and now about her breeding and expectancy.

Ed had been very careful about having Lady examined for worms before she was bred. In this respect I was insistent that, if he was going to ask my advice about things, he would have her wormed only if examination proved it necessary. Too many dogs are wormed just as a matter of course, and if they don't need it it does them more harm than good.

Ed had been sure to feed Lady carefully — enough of all the necessary foods with vitamins and minerals and additional calcium gluconate, a safeguard against eclampsia for whelping bitches.

We don't know exactly what causes eclampsia, but suspect it probably has something to do with the fact that the mother's system is robbed of calcium as the puppies which she is carrying grow and develop.

Well the day the pups had started to arrive, the train couldn't get out to our suburban station fast enough.

"What should I do to help her?" Ed wanted to know. "Just leave her alone," I told him. "and try to be as calm as you were when your kids were born."

Before we had arrived at the station we had a pretty good routine outlined.

It included a good warm place for bitch and puppies, preferably in some corner where she could feel secure with her family; a place where she could leave and enter easily, but which the pups could not roll or crawl out of; good clean bedding over which clean newspapers or an old clean sheet could be spread until the whelping was over and the puppies all cleaned up and nursed; and warm milk with an egg in it for the bitch when she is ready to eat.

I told Ed, too, about the kind of whelping bed I like best — one with a strip of one by three around the top edge and overhanging inward so that if the mother happens to lie against the side of the bed she won't crush a puppy that may happen to be there. It will be safe under the overhang.

Of course I assured Ed that most natural processes take place so regularly that there is little need to worry.

As a precaution, however, I advised him to take the bitch's temperature every three hours after the last pup had been whelped to make sure that she had whelped all the pups she had been carrying.

If one is not whelped, infection may result and septicemia with serious consequences follow. If the temperature rises above 102 degrees Fahrenheit, taken rectally, the veterinarian should be informed at once.

Bulldogs Begin Spring Work Soon

BORGES — Coach Guy Gardner's 1952 edition of the Bulldogs will open spring football practice here Thursday as summer unless the Philadelphia's fiasco with Chico Varona strenuous rebuilding job. Thirteen lettermen will be gone, including all but one member of the offensive team.

Key to success this year may ride on Royce "Bubba" Hillman, who will be replacing brilliant referee to answer the bell for Cleyburne Bybee at quarterback. Hillman will be teamed with three other speedsters in the backfield, Toby Yows, Dean May and Eddie Ward. They compose the main portion of the Bulldogs' track squad this year. Behind them will be J. D. Whisenand, a tough little ballcarrier.

Heading the list of returning lettermen in the line are Phillip Wright, and Bobby Covington. Dale McFarland at center, Red Arndall and John Huett are the other returning lettermen around whom Gardner will have to build his club.

Gardner plans an intra-squad game at the end of the 30 day workout period.

My next biggest thrill came last year in winning the world championship and first prize of $11,000 at the Tam o'Shanter course in Chicago. I beat Chick Harbert, 69-72.

In that tournament I guess I played the greatest stretch of golf in my career. During a five-hole span I was six under par.

It's always a thrill making a hole-in-one. I've had five. My last came in 1946 at Pinehurst on the 100-yard 17th hole when a two iron shot went from tee to cup.

Another thrill was the time I shot two consecutive 62's at Houston, Tex., in 1943. I had 10 pars and eight birdies each day.

(Henry Ransom, as playing pro, represents the St. Andrews Golf Club, St. Andrews, Ill. Born at Houston, in 1911, he is one of the many pros to come from Texas.)

Sun Again, Derby candidate, beat his stable mate, Whirlaway, in the six furlong Sequenecentennial Handicap.

Twenty years ago — Lefty Grove made his first attempt as a relief pitcher against the New York Yankees, and was belted for a home-run by Lou Gehrig.
