"What Dunbar-Struggs Means To Me"

by
Ralph McCormick

As President of the Junior Class at Dunbar-Struggs High School, it is not only my duty, but a privilege to express my feeling about Dunbar High School. Dunbar represents East Lubbock of the past and East Lubbock of the future. A great number of influential people have graduated from Dunbar and made something of themselves. Dunbar is the greatest institution of learning that Lubbock has.

The staff at Dunbar cares about the success of each student. The students can feel free to talk to their teachers on a friend-to-friend basis as well as a student-teacher basis. Dunbar means pride, joy, learning, caring and sharing. It is different from other schools in the sense that there is a welcome feeling in the atmosphere.

It bothers me for elected representatives to label Dunbar as "non-productive." Dunbar is a far better school than any other in the city.

(Editor's Note: For the next two weeks, the Southwest Digest will allow this space for the students of Dunbar-Struggs High School to express in their own words what the theme, "What Dunbar-Struggs Means To Me," let us hear from you about this efforts, and continue to support them).

a host of segregated facilities. In addition, the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission is investigating charges that city officials "used racially offensive language when addressing Blacks." The actions were prompted by a suit brought by a group of Black and white firefighters.

Anti-Terrorism Law Aims At White Supremacist Groups

Boise, Idaho - Faced with the growing prospect of becoming the home base of some of the nation's most racist white supremacist organizations, legislators in Idaho last week, introduced a bill which would outlaw terrorist training. Several white supremacist groups have established themselves in Idaho in recent years with the vowed intention of training whites in so-called "survival techniques." However, many authorities believe this training includes everything from racist messages to learning how to rob banks to methods of assassination. The founder of a white church group known as the Aryan Nation, Richard Butler, charged that the legislation would violate his group's constitutional rights.

Ex-Congressman Mitchell Denies Wrongdoing In Bribery

Baltimore, Md. - Former Congressional Black Caucus member Parren Mitchell of Maryland has denied any wrongdoing after his name was mentioned in a massive bribery investigation. The probe stretches from a bankrupt company in New York's depressed South Bronx to the Pentagon and to the White House. A company known as Wedtech is accused of bribing various officials, law firms and consultants in order to obtain military contracts. While not directly accusing Mitchell of a crime, leaked reports suggest that as head of the House Small Business Committee, Mitchell dropped an investigation into Wedtech dealings after $100,000 was paid to a relative's law firm. Mitchell has also threatened to sue any news organization reporting alleging any wrongdoing by him.

Murder Indictments Considered In Attack On Blacks In Queens

Queens, N. Y. - According to law enforcement officials a special grand jury in Queens, New York is considering murder indictments against a group of whites who attacked three Blacks in the Howard Beach section of Queens last December. One Black died as a result of that attack when he tried to flee and was struck by a car. Reportedly three murder indictments are being considered against whites who were not originally charged in the incident. Earlier charges were dropped when the two Blacks who survived the attack refused to cooperate with the police charging a cover-up. The two later agreed to cooperate after a special prosecutor was named.

Tambo: Freedom is the Road to Peace in South Africa

by U.S. Rep. Gus Savage

The most important occurrence in our nation's capitol recently was not President Reagan's State of The Union address two weeks ago, for it was the same half-warmed, poorly seasoned stew which has left most Americans undernourished. Instead, the most important occurrence was the visit here of Oliver Tambo, President of the African National Congress (ANC) the Black liberation movement of South Africa.

Tambo, honored the Congressional Black Caucus (CBC) with a private discussion of current conditions and strategies regarding the creation of a non-racial democracy in South Africa and in Namibia. Following his discussions with the CBC and other "old friends," Tambo met with Secretary of State, George Schultz, the first high-ranking U.S. official to engage in any such dialogue with the leader of a group labeled "terrorist" by the Reagan administration.

Ironically, it is the 75-year-old ANC that the Reagan administration labels "terrorist," not the brutally oppressive, minority South African government. The administration has previously refused to engage in dialogue with the outlawed has embraced violence as a means of achieving freedom from the barbarically racist and hostile, apartheid South African government, and accepts the support of communist influences to sustain its "life or death" struggle.

While administration officials allowed an audience with Tambo, they do not seem to understand when he says, "I am not a terrorist at all. The leading terrorist (in Africa) is the South African regime." They do not seem to understand that these freedom fighters are defending themselves and their children against a murderous genocidal government from which there is no escape. According to Tambo, "these freedom fighters no longer have fear, for their only alternative to freedom is death at the hands of their oppressors."

If administration officials truly understood the plight of Black South Africans, whose children are brutalized and murdered, who are denied the right to vote, who are denied free access, free speech and the freedom of assembly, who are denied these basic freedoms by a violently paranoid, White South African minority, could they persist in their unrealistic demand for the ANC to renounce violence?

And as for communist influence, ask yourself, why not? For to whom else can they turn? Certainly not to a hypocritical U.S. government which sends hundreds of millions of dollars (illegally) to aid Contra "freedom fighters." They certainly cannot turn to our European allies who turn a blind eye to South Africa while refusing to adopt our limited sanctions package.

The sooner our government renounces its own hypocrisy toward White South African barbarism, the sooner it can stop worrying about communist influences on the ANC and the need for violent Black South African revolt.

Letter to Editor

Congratulates DeLeon & Matthews

Dear Editor:

After attending the school board meeting in which the board members voted (5-2) to file for unitary status, and hearing remarks regarding the pros and cons this type of status might bring, I must say that I firmly believe Leota Matthews and Linda DeLeon voted in the best interest of the students in the LISD school system.

Let's hope the school board chair does not punish those members for having a difference of opinion (like Gib Lewis & Rep. Buzz Robnett), and voting the way they felt was best for their district. We cannot afford to have a "rubber stamp" school board or continue to repeat "past sins."

If unitary status becomes a reality in the LISD school system, then parents, students, and community

Lame Duck Administration Lets Economy Drift Lower THE LEGACY OF RONALD REAGAN

Dr. Walter E. Hoadley, former chief economist for the floundering former first bank in America, Bank of America, addressed the aged but agile Commonwealth Club of California for the fifteenth time. Rivalled only by Ronald Reagan as its most selected speaker in number of appearances, the senior research fellow, at the right-wing think tank, Hoover Institution, had named his new year economic outlook speech for the U. S. economy, "1987: Shocks and Surprises Ahead?"

Apparently, Dr. Hoadley had never read any of the columns by this writer over the previous decade in which we have covered his new year's predictions. The shocks and surprises could have been only his own had he read our repeated observations of a Ronald Reagan Presidency. The Commonwealth Club of California, a premier podium for persons of profound public opinion to put forth their learned thoughts is to be congratulated for prying out over 190 radio stations in the country as well as its over 16,000 dues paying members, the contents of this particular Dr. Hoadley's speech.

Summarized, the Reagan years have been a disaster to the U. S. economy. Not that Dr. Hoadley had the strength to say such a thing. He merely made note of the problems in America that have placed the U. S. economy in a precarious position on the age of a plateau. Near a disaster. Presumably so that the next President of the United States (a Democrat?) can be blamed for the current sorry state of affairs.

A man who uses wit with words, Dr. Hoadley admitted the Reagan Administration will be viewed by Congress as a "lame duck" and possibly drag its feet on any progressive legislation to push the economy out of its aimless direction. "With no major boom/bust in sight," Hoadley sees the need for the U. S. industry to grow more competitive in the world economy. The only true program which can put U. S. industry and workers back in the driver's seat in the world economy.

Everyone can agree with Dr. Hoadley on this high note, but what of the Presidential placed obstacles that stand in the path of progress of the U. S. economy? They are not new to our readers, but the revelation of them to a Ronald Reagan worshipping audience by a Ronald Reagan worshiper is worth mentioning to the masses who have suffered under the devastating dictatorship of Ronald Reagan. Because of his Reaganomic results, economic stagnation and oppression is finally being recognized by the American white middle class.

The growing foreign trade deficits reflect the fat overpaid salaries of incompetent racist insulated white American management's inability to develop, produce, market and manage equal products in a world market. "Merger mania" as many suspects forced corporate managers to at least think they might lose their jobs to consolidation if not from internally promoted minority management. By not allowing American minorities

An Educator's Opinion

Saying Yes to Saying No

We'll call him Roger. He begins his day with a half-pint of vodka. At noon, he smokes a joint. Early evening brings the chance to mix the poisons—to share good times with his buddies over a case of beer and a nickel bag of marijuana.

Roger is in seventh grade. And Roger is not alone.

The average age at which children first experiment with drugs continues to spiral downward. Fourth graders report intense peer pressure to chug a few beers, take a joint, snort coke, pop uppers.

The pressure often proves persuasive: Eleven is now the average age of first-time users of marijuana and alcohol. For many, this early experimentation marks the beginning of the end. Among today's high schoolers, a fourth regularly smoke marijuana; two-thirds use alcohol, half of them on a daily basis; nearly a fifth have tried cocaine. The rate of teenage drug abuse in the United States outranks that of all other industrialized nations. Of the 10 million alcoholics in the country, 3.3 million are children. The "me decade" of the 1970s has given birth to the narcotized decade of the 80s.

How to nullify this trend? For starters, admit that the drug problem belongs to all of us. Acknowledge that its solution will emerge only when all of us work in concert. School employees, parents, public officials, and other concerned citizens must pull together. We must forge coalitions that teach children how to say no—and that reach out to those who are suffering and dying, those who have already said yes.

Our new NEA publication—Student Drug and Alcohol Abuse—points to the potential of comprehensive community-based projects. Richard L. Towers, the author of this volume, urges the formation of school-community action teams. Each team would include school employees, parents, clergy, a police officer, a nurse or physician, representatives from drug rehabilitation centers, perhaps even a rescue squad technician. Their task: to educate themselves, then develop a plan for dealing with drug abuse in their school and community.

The state education department of Maryland makes seed money available to schools that wish to initiate such projects. And in Massachusetts, the Governor's Alliance Against Drugs Campaign focuses on establishing advisory groups that serve as links among law enforcement agencies, schools, health centers, and business. Prevention efforts target the elementary school population.

These are admirable initiatives. But neither is the "one true solution." Each state—each community—must forge a strategy adequate to its unique needs and consonant with its resources. But whatever the approach, the advice to remember is that of adolescent psychiatrist Dr. Kurt Glazer: "The one thing not to do is to do nothing."

America's schools are heeding that advice. Michigan's Southfield Senior High makes faculty members and concerned citizens available to counsel troubled youngsters on a one-to-one basis. This strategy, developed by counselor Susan Pierce and math teacher Iva Gould, rests on the tenet that among the keys to student well-being is regular contact with an adult who knows that toughness and compassion are in no way incompatible.

Junior high and middle schools in Oakland, California, spurred the nationwide spread of "Just Say No" clubs. First Lady Nancy Reagan deserves the gratitude of the entire nation for her dedication to forwarding the mission of these clubs: to bolster the capacity of students to resist peer pressure and find the courage to say no to nicotine, dope, and alcohol.

Project Charlie (Chemical Abuse Resolution Lies in Education) staff in Edina, Minnesota, drive home the "say no" message through a 35-lesson curriculum that includes parents in the effort to promote students' self-esteem and convince them that chemicals corrode confidence—and competence.

These programs represent a beginning. A promising beginning. They should not, however, blind us to the insight that Secretary of Education William Bennett so succinctly expressed upon issuing the report Schools Without Drugs: "We have to get tough, and we have to do it now."

Exactly. In this instance, toughness is kindness, tolerance is cruel.

South Africa: The Cesspool

South Africa is the last cesspool of
White minority domination
And I'm telling you now—it's a funky situation.

The so-called economic sanction against Botha's regime
Is just another automatic bureaucratic smoke screen...
The quiet diplomacy, of destructive engagement has been given a second wind
Because the cowboys that run the country want us to think that apartheid is our friend.

South Africa is the last cesspool of
White minority domination
And I'm telling you now—it's a funky situation.

The price of Black South Africa's freedom

will never be free
While the executive cowboy Klansman puts on the whole armor of White supremacy.

Divide and Conquer—that's the name of the game
For the warm lies between Pretoria and Washington are one and the same.
And until the backs of the powers that be,
are up against the wall,
Limited sanctions are really no sanction at all.

Because South Africa is the last cesspool of
White minority domination—
And I'm telling you now—
IT'S A FUNKY SITUATION!!

Quick & Easy Meals

by Mildred

Mildred B. Griggs, Ed.D.

As fall and winter descend upon us, with those cold north winds, there's nothing better for lunch than a hot cup of soup to go along with a sandwich.

This week's column features three hardy and delicious tasting soups, just right to take along in your thermos. The recipes are nutritious and guaranteed to stick to your ribs. All of you parents packing a lunch for the kids will feel especially good sending something warm and satisfying for lunch with them. Until then, good cooking.

HAMBURGER VEGETABLE SOUP

1 1/2 lbs. lean ground beef
1 can (10 oz.) tomatoes
1 can (8 oz.) unsalted tomato juice
1 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup thinly-sliced fresh carrots
1 cup diced raw potatoes
1 package (10 oz.) frozen cut green beans
1 package (10 oz.) frozen whole kernel corn
1 bay leaf
1/2 teaspoon dill weed
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon thyme
6 cups water

Brown meat in large skillet. Pour off fat. Add remaining ingredients. Bring mixture to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 1 hour or until vegetables are tender. Stir occasionally. Remove bay leaf before serving. Makes 8 servings.

CHEDDAR AND HERB SOUP

3 cans (10 1/2 oz.) Frito-Lay's® brand Cheddar & Herb Flavored Cheese Dip
1 can beef broth
1 can water
3 medium potatoes, cut in cubes
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
1 can whole kernel corn
1/2 cup chopped green pepper

Mix in kettle the Frito-Lay's® brand Cheddar and Herb Flavored Cheese Dip, beef broth and water. Simmer for 30 minutes. Add onion, celery, corn and green pepper. Simmer for 1 hour. Serve hot. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

2 cups canned tomatoes with juice
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 ribs celery, chopped
1/4 cup chopped parsley
Freshly ground black pepper
2 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
Salt to taste

Cook tomatoes, onion, celery, and parsley together until vegetables are tender. Place in blender and blend until smooth. Meanwhile, stir flour into melted margarine into a heavy saucepan. Cook stirring regularly, for about 5 minutes over very low heat. Stir in milk gradually, keeping mixture smooth. Stir in blended tomato mixture into cream sauce. Taste and add correct seasonings. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Mr. Adams, known as "H. M.", was born April 4, 1917 in White Rock, Texas to Harvey Manuel Adams, Sr. and Mary Adams. Mr. Adams lived in White Rock until he was seven when he and his family moved to Sherman. His early life was spent in Sherman.

and women a right to enter upper corporate echelon circles, corporations cut their own throats for new American competitive ideas.

"The trends in the racial and cultural roots and composition of our population pose some important challenges to every American," Dr. Hoadley holds out for the first time in any speech we have ever heard from his less than liberal lips. "The choice is (1) positive acceptable integration as Americans in common, drawing upon the vitality of men and women of all cultures and creeds, or (2) dangerous enclaves and confrontations based upon emotional rivalries and jealousies." The Reagan years have planted the seeds of the latter, which are close to reaping. Seeing the ugly heads of racism rear up in Howard Beach, New York, has no doubt impacted upon the most ignorant of economists.

Evidently, and impression has been made on the august group of Commonwealth Club Officers, also of which Dr. Hoadley is the new president, to opt for allowing a Black American speaker, Tony Brown, to address the Club in April, prior to the usual "Black time" in the summer slow session.

heaven - out of self; into Christ; into Glory.

Brother Adams took these first two steps in life and lived a beautiful life in Christ. Harvey Manuel and Yvette (Hess) Briscoe were united in Holy Matrimony in 1948, and to this union two beautiful children were entrusted, Micheal and Kevin Gatewood. The Adams' home was always known as "The House By The Side of The Road" where many young people were given food, shelter, and guidance. He was the coordinator for the Gospel Chorus and the Young Adult Choir in the Greater St. Luke Baptist Church (the latter now known as the Inspirational Choir). Mr. Adams was always willing to give his service and his finance in his Church, serving as a Trustee.

Now he has taken the third step where there is no more weeping, no pain, no sorrow, no disappointment. We know he is satisfied now, and that he is reaping his great reward reserved for the faithful.

His enthusiasm for his religion, his willingness to pay the price, and to do his best for his Lord was his life's purpose. It made him a radiant and happy person.

He now has fulfilled that purpose, and his friends and family, though they may weep awhile, should rejoice with him, and thank God for his sojourn here.

H. M. leaves to cherish his memory: his wife; three sons - Kevin Gatewood and Gene Gatewood, both of Lubbock,

Serving The Lord With Gladness

Last Sunday, I had the opportunity to worship and serve in three different worshipping groups. Two of the groups were excited about serving God and giving their best to the glory of His name. They gave of themselves in helping others in preparation for worship. The other group, to my surprise, was nonchalant. The preacher was disgruntled, caddish and inapprehensive. Some of the ushers were discourteous and unaccommodating to the visiting worshippers.

As I reflected prayerfully over the day, I thought of Psalm 100:2, "Serve the Lord with gladness, come before his presence with a song." How sweet it would be if all of us would realize that the true end of our life is to serve God. How can we ever fulfill the mission of our life without honestly trying to serve him? But how much depends upon the spirit of service. A glad heart is essential to the best service. If we think of him for whom the service is rendered, the "Mighty God," the "Father of Mercies," the "Prince of Peace," and the "God of all Grace," we would be glad to render unto him a sweet spirit of fellowship and service for all his benefits toward us. If we serve the Lord with gladness, think of what the service may mean to others, think of what it may mean to you in your personal life, on your attitude and in developing your character and in depositing treasure in heaven.

The Outreach Prayer Breakfast

Members of the Outreach Prayer Breakfast met in the lovely home of Sister Hattie Whitfield. Members of the Outreach Prayer Breakfast met last Saturday morning at 9 a. m. in the lovely home of Sister Hattie Henry with Sister Chris Burleson, president, presiding. Opening scripture was John 14:12-15 by Sister Mary Ward. A dedication was done by Sister Jay, entitled "Walk With Me Lord."

The morning scripture lesson was taught by Sister Henry. Her scripture was John 3:3-8, with the theme "You must be born again."

Jesus answered and said unto him, 'Verily, verily I say unto thee except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.'

This speaker said, "When you accept Jesus as Lord and Saviour of your life. You become a new creature. He wants the whole man, not just part. You will have to come and get the full message."

Sister Henry was super on last Saturday. We sure do love this Sister!

Thought for the week: "We are to have compassion for people in all kinds of sin. God did." Think about it.

Breakfast was prepared and served buffet style. Come and eat with friends.

To our guest, we thank you for coming our way. Please come again.

Our sick and shut-in include: Brother & Sister Bennie Whitfield, Sister Blevands, Sister McCarty, Sister Sadler, and all others out there with the flu and other ills. God really

"Lord, I'm A Christian; Why Am I Suffering???"

Part 2

Job 13:3, 22 -- Surely I would speak to the Almighty, and I desire to reason (argue) with God. Then call thou, and I will answer; or let me speak, and answer thou me.

Lord, I've praised your name, and preached your good news, but now I've been stricken with cancer. I feel I've been used.

Lord, I've been a good Christian, and my friends will say the same. O' but my body is burning. I can't stand this pain.  Lord, Why?????

Job 38:1-4 -- Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said, 'Who is this that darkeneth counsel by words without knowledge? Grid up now thy loins like a man; for I will demand of thee, and answer thou me. Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? Declare, if thou hast understanding.'

Genesis 1:1 -- In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.

Psalm 103:19 -- The Lord hath prepared his throne in the heavens; and his commandment to do them.

Job 38:8a-11 -- The Lord said, who shut up the sea with doors, when it brake forth, and said hitherto shalt thou come, but no further, and here shall thy proud waves be stayed?

Genesis 1:9 -- God said, Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear; and it was so.

Job 38:12 -- The Lord said, hast thou commanded the morning since thy days; and caused the day spring to know his place?

God is not through with us yet. Let's pray for one another always.

Genesis 1:3-4 -- God said, let there be light; and there was light, and God saw the light. That it was good, and God divided the light from the darkness.

Job 38:22 -- God said, hast thou entered into the treasures of the snow? Or hast thou seen the treasures of the hail?

Psalm 18:13 -- The Lord also thundered in the heavens, and the highest gave his voice; hail stones and coals of the hail?

Psalm 18:13 -- The Lord also thundered in the heavens, and the highest gave his voice; hail stones and coals of fire.

Job 38:36 -- The Lord said, who hath put wisdom in the inward parts? Or who hath given understanding to the heart?

Ecclesiastes 2:26a -- God giveth to man that is good in his sight wisdom, and knowledge, and joy.

Job 38:39 -- The Lord said, wilt thou hunt the prey for the lion? Or fill the appetite of the young lions?

Psalm 104:21 -- The young lions roar after their prey, and seek their meat from God.

Job 38:41 -- The Lord said, who provideth for the raven his food? When his young ones cry unto God... They wander for lack of meat.

Luke 12:24a -- Jesus said, consider the ravens, for they neither sow nor reap; which neither have store house or barn; and God feedeth them.

Job 40:1 -- The Lord said, shall he that contendeth with the Almighty instruct him? He that reproveth God, let him answer.

 (a) Gen. 3:1-6, 24. "When the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her; and he did eat. So he (the Lord God) drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the Garden of Eden cherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life."

 (b) Rom. 5:12. "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned."

Rom. 5:19. "By one man's disobedience many were made sinners."

 (c) Rom. 3:10-19. "As it is written, There is none righteous, no, not one, There is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God. They are all gone out of the way, they are together become unprofitable; there is none that doeth good, no, not one, Their throat is an open sepulchre; with their tongues they have used deceit; the poison of asps is under their lips: whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness: Their feet are swift to shed blood; destruction and misery are in their ways; and the way of peace have they not known: There is no fear of God before their eyes. Now we know that what things soever the law saith, it saith to them who are under the law: that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become guilty before God."

Eph. 2:1,3. "And you hath he quickened, who were dead in trespasses and sins; Among whom also we all had our conversation in times past in the lusts of the flesh, fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind; and were by nature the children of wrath, even as others."

Rom. 1:18. "For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the truth in unrighteousness."

Ezek. 18:19-20. "Yet ye say, Why? doth not the son bear the iniquity of the father? The soul that sinneth, it shall die. The son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither shall the father bear the iniquity of the son: the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon him, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon him."

 (d) Rom. 1:32. "Knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them."

Rom. 1:20. "So... they are without excuse."

Rom. 1:28. "They did not like to retain God in their knowledge."
