Dazzling Smashes By Third Carve Up Reich

Pattonmen Near Dresden, Now 90 Miles From Reds

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Saturday, April 14.—The U. S. Third Army severed all direct roads and railways between Berlin and southern Germany yesterday with a dazzling 32-mile eastward drive that all but split the Reich in half.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton jr., struck with all his wonted fury, cutting the Munich-Berlin superhighway and two railways and driving a wedge of steel within 90 miles of the Russian lines and 38 miles of the Saxon capital of Dresden.

Outflanking Berlin

The Third Army was outflanking both Berlin and the Czechoslovakian munitions city of Pilsen, and driving hard against the last lines of retreat over which the Germans were reported streaming southward for Bavaria and the final big battle of the war.

Patton's columns, their exact positions masked in secrecy, were believed already 30 miles east of the western tip of Czechoslovakia and racing unopposed across the waist of Germany about 32 miles north of that Balkan democracy's northern frontier.

Rocketing eastward almost unopposed, the Fourth Armored division hurdler the Mulde river 10 miles northwest of the big communications center of Chemnitz.

Reach Mulde River

Farther north, his Sixth armored division was outflanking Berlin itself, reaching the Mulde river southeast of embattled Leipzig and about 85 miles due south of Berlin.

German positions in the west were disintegrating fast.

The U. S. Ninth Army rolled up to the Elbe river on a 100-mile front—thrust within 45 miles of Berlin — and fought a roaring battle on the east bank.

It was disclosed for the first time at supreme headquarters that the Second Armored division's crossing of the Elbe in the Magdeburg area Wednesday was made in assault boats and that resistance on the east bank of the river was moderate, coming mainly from small arms fire.

Battle Of Leipzig

The U. S. First Army opened the battle of Leipzig, now bypassed by the Third Army, and charged eight miles through its stiff defenses to within seven miles of the city, where an estimated 1,000,000 persons, many of them bombed out refugees from Berlin, cowered in air raid shelters and basements.

The U. S. Ninth Army was about

Prayers Of Nation Asked By Truman

By HOWARD FLIEGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 13. — With a tearful plea—"pray for me!"—Harry S. Truman gathered up the presidential reins of a nation at war today as millions the world over mourned the passing of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The new President went quickly to work, conferring with the heads of the state and military departments of government.

He arranged to outline his foreign policies to a joint session of Congress at 12 noon (cwt) Monday and address the armed forces by radio Tuesday night.

Confers With Leaders

But the emotional weight of his new responsibilities came down upon him at noon as he returned to the capitol to confer with congressional leaders.

Tears welled in his eyes when he saw the familiar faces of capitol newsmen. He reverted to the language of his Missouri farm youth to describe the crushing weight of his new job.

"I don't know if any of you fellows ever had a load of hay or a bull fall on him," he said. "But last night the whole weight of the moon and stars fell on me. I feel a tremendous responsibility.

"Please pray for me! I mean that!"

Day Of Mourning

Mr. Truman's first executive proclamation was a paper setting aside tomorrow as a day of national mourning for Mr. Roosevelt, stricken yesterday at "the Little White House" in Warm Springs, Ga.

The proclamation called upon the nation:

"To pay out of full hearts their homage of love and reverence to the memory of the great and good man whose death they mourn."

At about the time the President was writing the proclama-

Truman Not To Attend Parley

WASHINGTON, April 13. (AP) — President Truman decided today that he probably cannot attend the San Francisco conference, but he emphasized anew that he will follow the Roosevelt foreign policies.

The late President Roosevelt had planned to address the Golden Gate conference, called to draft a plan for a world organization. It became known that Mr. Truman does not expect to attend.

The decision was attributed to the tremendous new duties so suddenly thrust upon him, rather than to any lack of enthuiasm for the work of the conference.

Foreign Policy Views

A statement reflecting the President's foreign policy views was issued by Secretary of State Stettinius upon authority of Mr. Truman. It emphasized the chief executive's support for the plan to organize a world system aimed at keeping the peace as well as his determination to maintain in force the other basic foreign policies of his predecessor.

"There will be no change of purpose or break of continuity in the foreign policy of the United States government," the statement said. It evidently was intended to end uncertainty among foreign diplomats and leaders who knew little about Mr. Truman.

The President will expand on the brief, general statement Monday when he outlines his international policies to Congress —and to the world by radio.

No Faltering In Aim

Stettinius said there would be no faltering in the accomplishment of victory and peace ends "for which Franklin D. Roosevelt gave his life."

"We shall press forward with the other United Nations toward a victory whose terms will deprive Germany and Japan of the means with which to commit aggression ever again, and toward the establishment of a world organization endowed with strength to keep the peace for generations and to give security and wider opportunity to all men."

DEWEY TO ATTEND SERVICE

NEW YORK, April 13. (AP) — Governor Dewey will attend funeral services for President Roosevelt tomorrow at the White House.

Allies Bring Week's Plane Toll To 1,393

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 13.—At least 321 German planes were destroyed by American fighters today in another disasterous blow to the luftwaffe, raising the toll of enemy planes wrecked within a week to at least 1,393.

Most of the German planes destroyed today were machine gunned on the ground by 350 U. S. Eighth Air force fighters which escorted 200 American heavy bombers in an attack on the freight yards at Neumuenster and other targets on the Danish peninsula.

13 U. S. Planes Missing

Six bombers and seven fighters are missing.

Mosquito bombers, which have made nine attacks on Berlin in three nights, were again reported nearing the capital and the Germans also reported a bomber formation, probably RAF heavies, over western Germany.

The Eighth Air force fighters, scarcely needed as escorts, dropped down to strafe a series of airfields, splintering 266 enemy aircraft, including four seaplanes found on a lake.

Thunderbolts Get 95

Pilots of the 56th Thunderbolt group accounted for 95 of the parked planes and ten of these went to one man, Lt. Randel Murphy, jr., of Houston, Tex., setting an all-time record for Eighth Air force pilots.

The previous individual record of eight on the ground was posted by Lt. Col. John Landers of Joshua, Tex., last Tuesday in the Berlin area.

Pilots of the U. S. Ninth Air force, operating from bases on the continent, destroyed at least 49 planes on the ground and six others in the air.

Fleeing To Munich

The weather was good, no interceptors were encountered, flak was meager and officers said the results were "highly satisfactory."

Pilots reported that the remnants of the withered Nazi air force were being pulled out of the Berlin area, most of them being sent south to the Munich region.

The German Air force now has lost perhaps 60 per cent of its fields, many of them jet bases with long strips necessary for these types of planes.

Okinawa Attack By Nips Repulsed And Losses Heavy

By MARLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Saturday, April 14. — Japanese forces hurled a heavy counterattack against U. S. troops Friday in southern Okinawa, but Yanks threw them back, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

More than 100 enemy suicide planes were shot down in addition to the 118 reported yesterday, the communique said.

Total Reaches 1,277

Between March 18 and April 12, Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's fast carrier task force planes and ships' gunners downed 1,277 Japanese planes. Of these, 841 were shot out of the air by carrier pilots, 73 by ships' gunners and 363 were destroyed on the ground.

Marine forces in the northern section of Okinawa swept ahead against ineffectual resistance while 24th corps infantrymen in the south held to their front a short distance north of Naha.

The Japanese counterattack — one of the heaviest of the Pacific war—was in regiment strength.

Jap Losses Heavy

Although the Japanese were using the heaviest explosive charges of the war against the U. S. lines before the suicidal attack, they were repulsed with heavy losses. Navy gunfire joined with Army and Marine artillery to hurl the Japanese back.

In addition to the 100 enemy planes shot down in the Ryukyu area, eight more were destroyed on the ground for a two-day total of 226. Fuel dumps and warehouses were damaged or set on fire at Tokuna and Kikai islands.

At Formosa, 365 miles southwest, British carrier-borne Hellcats attacked airfields while naval guns fired on coastal targets.

Reds Take Vienna; Nazi Hideout Next

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, April 14.—The Red Army captured Vienna yesterday after a week's siege, clearing the way for Russian drives to Prague and the Nazis' "mountain redoubt" in southern Germany after taking more than 130,000 Nazi prisoners in the battle for the second city of Adolf Hitler's Greater Reich.

Vienna fell to the combined Second and Third Ukrainian armies under Marshals Rodion Y. Malinovsky and Feodor I. Tolbukhin. It was the 10th European capital occupied by the Red Army and the 18th liberated or dominated by the Allies.

Eleven German tank divisions were smashed between March 15 and April 13, Moscow said, while the Soviet radio proclaimed that the Viennese had 'saved the honor of the Austrian nation" by assisting in the liberation of the city.

Vienna, classic bulwark of the invasion routes to Bavaria, fell to the co-conquerors of the Balkans after they all but encircled the city. It was the culmination of a 1,500-mile sweep since last fall by the two armies from the Dnestr river on the Russian frontier. The drive carried through Bucharest, Sofia, Belgrade and Budapest, knocking three Axis satellites out of the war and partially liberating Yugoslavia.

Simultaneous with the fall of Vienna, Malinovsky's troops northeast of the capital captured the Moravia war center of Hodonin in a surge across a 14-mile stretch of the Morava river that carried them within 32 miles of the Czechoslovak arsenal city of Bruenn (Brno) and into Moravia on a 25-mile front.

Before Berlin, the Red Army's greatest objective, Russian artillery hammered German defensive positions along the Oder river and Nazi aerial reconnaissance indicated zero-hour was approaching for Russia's 'final heave," but immense Russian ground forces were not yet reported on the move.

Even as burned and tortured Vienna fell, Tolbukhin's tanks were rolling back the German Army across Austria between the Danube and the Drava rivers on a 170-mile front toward Hitler's

Great Fires And Explosions Sear War Plant Areas

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Saturday, April 14. — Great waves of B-29s, possibly totaling 400, poured thousands of tons of incendiary bombs on Tokyo war industries today, creating huge fires and explosions audible more than 100 miles away.

Returning crewmen said they must have hit many of their prime targets—arsenals, chemical plants and factories producing explosives.

Smoke Tops Planes

Great clouds of smoke rising higher than their planes, which probably went in at 5,000 to 7,000 feet, were reported.

The Marianas-based sky giants —perhaps as many as 400—hit the inflammable Tokyo arsenal at 12:30 a. m. (Japan time—10:30 a. m. Friday U. S. cwt) in the second Superfort assault on the city in 38 hours.

Tokyo radio said fires continued to rage in the city several hours after the B-29s in the low level attack blasted the five-mile square target area containing three main arsenal buildings and more than 30 specific targets of the attack.

30 Forts Said Downed

Civilian fire brigades are "fighting hard," the broadcast said, and the flames "are gradually being put under control."

Tokyo claimed 30 of the big raiders had been shot down by interceptors and anti-aircraft fire.

(While the number of planes participating in the attack was not stated, the 20th Air force announcement at Washington said the blow was delivered in "very great strength," indicating possibly 400 B-29s. If this number did participate, it would be the largest force yet to attack Japan).

Arsenal In Target Area

The Itabashi arsenal is situated in the target area, which also has a population of 30,000 to 80,000 persons per square miles.

It was the second raid on Tokyo in 38 hours, the B-29s with an escort of fighters from Iwo Jima having hit the capital at 11 a. m. Thursday (Japan time).

The area under attack early today contains plants for the manufacture of shells and powder, and is five miles northwest of the thirteen and one-half square miles burned out in the big incendiary raid March 10.

Commissions Hear Memorial Proposal

Construction of a comfort station estimated to cost approximately $50,000 on the courthouse square, over which will rise a memorial to World wars I and II dead, was proposed to members of the City commission Thursday afternoon in a joint meeting with members of the county commissioners' court.

A committee representing the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, with Chas. A. Guy, J. A. Fortenberry and W. T. Strange as spokesmen, presented the proposal in the joint session. M. D. Fanning, c. of c. staff member, was another committeeman attending.

Further Study Planned

After hearing the recommendations, the two commissioner groups agreed to give futher study to the proposal by visiting San Antonio, where two of the projects have been in operation for several years, sometime within the next week or ten days.

Consideration of a proposed health ordinance code covering the handling of food products for the city of Lubbock; hearing arguments by a member of the First Baptist church and a group of opposing property owners concerning the request for the closure of an alley in the eastern half of the 2200-block on Broadway, where a $500,000 church plant is

Trio Charged In Burglaries Here

Three men were charged Friday in connection with two burglaries committed here Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Bill Mabray, chief of city detectives, listed the trio as Dale Hall, 23, a former convict, Doyle James, 24, and Weldon (Curly) Webb, 20, all of Lubbock. Hall was named in two burglary complaints, Webb in one and James in a complaint charging him as an accessory in one of the breakins.

Roofing Company Job

Hall and Webb are accused of the burglary Wednesday night of Lubbock Sheet Metal and Roofing company, at 2902 Texas Ave., and Hall also is charged with the burglary Thursday night of Wilkerson's Cold storage, at 809 Twenty-third. James was charged specifically with helping dispose of merchandise taken from the metal and roofing firm. Officers said James was dishonorably discharged by the Army several months ago.

Hall served two sentences in the penitentiary for burglary from Lynn county, officials said. They added that both he and James have long misdemeanor records here.

Girl Faces Charge

A girl, 16, probably will be charged in juvenile court today as a delinquent. Mabray said she admitted in a signed statement that she had been in association with Hall and Webb on the night the Texas Avenue concern was broken into.

The complaints were filed in the office of Justice of Peace W. D. Robertson after investigation by police, the sheriff's department, Texas Rangers and District Attorney Burton S. Burks.

The men were in jail last night awaiting arraignment.

A safe was taken from Lubbock Sheet Metal and Roofing company, hauled to Lubbock cemetery and broken open with picks and crowbars. War bonds totaling $500 and several checks were taken from the safe and burned. Other loot was listed as approximately $15 and gasoline coupons good for more than 2,500 gallons of gasoline. Other property taken from the place were a typewriter, a check detector, a radio and the control box of an inter-office communications set.

Mabray said that the typewriter,

Twister's Toll Mounts To 105

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 13. (AP) — Tornado-lashed Oklahoma, Arkansas and Missouri tonight counted at least 105 dead, hundreds injured and untold property damage following a series of violent twisters which struck with sudden fury late yesterday and last night.

Oklahoma, hardest hit, had reports of 80 deaths, most of them at Antlers in the southeastern corner of the state where, the Oklahoma highway patrol said, 58 lives were taken. Latest information from Arkansas put that state's toll at 20, with five other persons unaccounted for, while five were reported killed in Missouri's Ozarks.

Eleven Die At Muskogee

Eleven persons were dead at Muskogee, Okla., four at Oklahoma City, three at Hulbert, Okla., and one each at four other places. The 20 persons killed in Arkansas resided at various communities in a four-county area of the northwestern section.

In several places heavy rains accompanying the twisters temporarily blocked highways and railroads.

Less than half the dead at Antlers had been identified. Antlers has only one funeral home and two of its employes were killed in the storm.

Many of the 600 soldiers who came in from Camp Maxey, Texas, to do medical work, aid in police duty and provide food from field kitchens were being withdrawn.

Britons Stunned As Speculation On Early Big Three Meet Grows

By ALEX H. SINGLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 13.—Grieved at the death of his "dear and cherished" friend, Prime Minister Churchill reluctantly stuck to his post tonight in expectation of imminent military developments and turned over to Foreign Secretary Eden the solemn assignment of representing Britain at President Roosevelt's funeral.

The prime minister, who had appeared tired and worn earlier in the day as he briefly eulogized, "this great departed statesman" before a hushed House of Commons, was reported to have decided against flying to Washington only after becoming convinced that the military situation required his hour by hour presence here.

Big Three Meet Seen

There was speculation that it would be necessary for Churchill and Premier Stalin of Russia to meet soon with President Truman to acquaint the new American leader with the Big Three's plans for liberated Europe. It was felt that Truman would want to establish as quickly as possible the intimate association with Churchill and Stalin that Roosevelt had developed.

All Britain and thousands of Americans here on military duty shared the shock and sorrow of the President's death.

Flags on all British government buildings throughout the world will be flown at half-staff tomorrow. Next Tuesday was set aside for tributes to the President by the leaders of all parties in Parliament.

Commons Adjourns

Commons adjourned five minutes after it had convened, after hearing Churchill say it was "not fitting that we should continue our work this day" and then ask for an adjournment out of respect.

Speaking with emotion, he said: "The House will have learned with deepest sorrow the grievous news which has come to us from across the Atlantic and which conveys to us the loss of a famous President of the United States, whose friendship for the cause of freedom and for the causes of the weak and poor have won him immortal renown. . . ."

Churchill Still Up

Churchill had not retired when the word of the President's death was given to him shortly after midnight. He immediately dispatched the following message to Mrs. Roosevelt:

"I send my most profound sympathy in your grievous loss. It is also the loss of the British nation and of the cause of freedom in every land.

"I feel so deeply for you all. As for myself, I have lost a dear friendship which was forged in the fire of war. I trust you may find consolation in the glory of his name and the magnitude of his work."

SAN ANGELO, April 13. (AP)—Tony Garrivado, 21, and Robert Lee Powell, 31, negro, both of San Angelo, were killed late yesterday when a shearing machine truck overturned 12 miles north of Garden City. The men were members of a sheep shearing crew. Four other shearers were uninjured.

Fire Damage Halts Traffic On Bridge

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13. (AP) —Fire swept the lower deck of the $77,000,000 San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge late today, stopping interurban train and bus traffic during the home going rush hour.

Two miles of creosote-impregnated railway ties were still burning an hour after being set afire at 5:25 p.m. Eight pieces of fire equipment and two San Francisco fire boats were fighting the smoldering flames.

The ties were set blazing when the bottom of a crowded eastbound Key system express train caught fire from a shorted third rail just as it entered the Yerba Buena island tunnel. The train spread flames along the track from the island to the incline on the Oakland side of the bridge.

Oakland and highway patrol fire trucks quickly extinguished the train fire. No passengers were injured.

Rioting Of Civilians In Berlin Reported

KOELLEDA, Germany, April 13. (AP)—A German woman who left Berlin a few days ago said today that 9,000 civilians rioted in the German capital March 9 and were wiped out by SS troops and police after a heavy street battle among government buildings.

She told American intelligence officers of the First Army of the revolt. The woman is an intelligent young actress and her story apparently is trustworthy.

Youth Badly Hurt In Car-Bike Collision

Jack Hawkins, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hawkins of 1825 Texas Ave., was reported in critical condition at West Texas hospital late Friday night after his bicycle was in collision with an automobile about 4:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Eighteenth and Ave. H.

Police said he received a concussion and skull fracture.

They said the driver of the car was O. W. McInroe, 49, of Tahoka route 4.

Police investigation disclosed that Hawkins was pedaling north on Ave. H and that McInroe was making a "U" turn back when the accident occurred. The youngster, they said, apparently did not notice the car.

Young Hawkins is a student at George Hunt school.

Advisers' Slate Facing Shakeup

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 13. — A shift in presidential advisers seemed in the making today as President Truman completed his first busy day at the White House and capitol.

Gone permanently from the scene is Harry Hopkins, who began with President Roosevelt in 1932 and climbed the ladder from WPA administrator to the point where he became the late President's closest adviser.

Friends said the ailing Hopkins, flying here tomorrow for his chief's funeral services in the White House, has no inclination to continue under President Truman the role he filled under his predecessor.

Fulton Seen As Successor

In his stead, a 36-year-old New York and Washington attorney, Hugh Fulton, appeared at this point most likely to be in the innermost circle of presidential advisers.

Significantly, Fulton was closeted with President Truman for an hour today. The husky, blond, attorney went away from the White House saying that he was seeking no official post, but would be glad to help in any way he could.

The Truman-Fulton association began back in the days when Harry S. Truman, then a relatively obscure senator from Missouri, was looking around for a counsel for the Senate Defense Investigating committee of which he surpris-

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

(This column of news notes is prepared for you to send to a man or woman in service.)
April 13, 1945

DEAR: - - -

Since the first moment Lubbock learned the sad news of the death of the president, conversation has been of little else except the life and works of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and what the future may hold for us.

As someone said this afternoon, President Roosevelt will be greater in death than he was in life. Since he is here no longer in physical form, already he is being compared with Washington and Lincoln as one whose ideals and principals are etched deeply in our country's monument.

A memorial service for the late president has been set for 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the First Methodist church. This is in keeping with President Truman's recommendation that the day be observed in mourning and prayer.

But even as we listen to programs and read stories extolling the greatness of Franklin Roosevelt, we would not forget that the new president, Harry S. Truman, visited here last April where he was given an indifferent reception. Of course at that time no one had any way of knowing he was missing an opportunity to hear the future head of the nation when he joined the thousands who stayed away. The few hundred who went of course are glad they had an opportunity to hear the affable and dynamic, yet modest and unassuming man, who spoke at Senior High school. At that time, of course, he was "just a senator from Missouri" who had gained a reputation for the success of the Truman investigation committee.

Texas Tech ex-students took the first step toward revival and reorganization of their organization which will lead to the employment of a paid secretary when they met Tuesday night in a rally at Hotel Lubbock. E. E. McQuillen, secretary of the Association of Former Students of A. and M. college, explained the workings of his organization and L. M. Hargrave, president of the Lubbock county chapter, appointed a committee to confer with Dr. W. M. Whyburn, Tech president.

The committee, after conferring with Dr. Whyburn, will present the alumni's case to the college board of directors in their spring meeting here in May. Plans for the May 26 banquet of the association were discussed briefly and the following officers were elected: Jason O. Gordon, president; Arch Lamb, secretary; Miss Ruth Craig, secretary-treasurer.

In a little more than three years of operation, Lubbock Army Air field has graduated a total of 7,008 pilots for the mightiest aerial force the world has ever known—the USAAF—it was announced this week from Lt. Gen. Barton K. Yount's AAF Training command headquarters in Fort Worth. The first class was graduated April 27, 1942.

The first of four major golf tournaments for the year is in session this week end at the Lubbock Country club. J. R. Farmer, Big Spring, former Lubbockite, scored a hole in one last week end at the course there.

Members of the Lubbock Lions club voted 62 to 28 against formation of a new Lions club in Lubbock as proposed by their board of directors in balloting at their club luncheon this week.

Dr. Suzanne Silvercruys, noted author, sculptress and lecturer, gave her philosophy of life and appreciation of beauty to Knife and Fork club members and their guests at a Monday night program at Hotel Lubbock. She said our only true possessions are those our hearts create and that in these days when life itself is of so little value there should be more than ever the relief of a few minutes of dreams, minutes devoted to the discovery of beauty and things beautiful all around us, things which we had forgotten to look at, or hear or feel, in the tedious humdrum and turmoil of everyday existence.

George Mahon, congressman from this district, certainly is in the news of late. He introduced legislation last week proposing that the United States keep as permanent bases vital Pacific islands wrested from the Japanese which are designated by chiefs of staff as "necessary for the maintenance of world peace."

He also was quoted as saying it's impossible to buy a cotton shirt size 16-35 in Washington, D. C., a scarcity that seems foolish when one considers there are millions of bales of surplus cotton that should be put to use if possible.

You may remember "Little Gust" Delis, the hustling, friendly, ambitious little Greek boy who was known to hundreds of Lubbock cafe patrons in the late 1920' and 1930's and was Tech college's first graduate of European birth. He is alive and well after living through the rigors of the German and Italian occupation of Greece.

He has written his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Kallas, that how his people are living today is a mystery since "the barbarians (the Germans and Italians) burned our homes, killed our people and forced us to starvation."

1st Lt. James Huffman is visiting friends and relatives here after a year with the signal corps, assigned to the Army Air Corps, and seeing service in New Guinea, Netherlands East Indies and Philippine islands.

That's all this week.

Good bye and good luck.

Three-Way Track Show Opens Today

Chapman field will become the track center of West Texas today in a track and field carnival that will feature three track meets in one, and should see many records shattered in all the three divisions, but the heaviest assualt on records will come from the Class AA boys.

One record that is due to get an early tumble will be the Class AA area meet pole vault record, set last year by Johnny Davis of Lubbock when he went 11 feet to win the first area meet. The regional mark, held by Schultz of Tell is expected to also topple. Schultz set a mark of 11 feet, 6 inches, and that record has stood up for eleven years.

HONORS FOR FDR

Because of the press of time in running off the area meets in Class AA, Class A and Class B, it was impossible to postpone today's meet at Chapman field, but at the hour of the President's funeral in Washington, there will be a minute of silence with bared heads, and the blowing of taps in honor of the man the nation mourns today, it was announced Friday night by E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey.

Cliff Dean has done 12 feet many times this year, and last week in a practice jump, cleared the ball at 12 feet, 6 inches, just a foot beyond the Tell vaulter's record.

Several events last season in the first area meet were won with low marks, and are almost certain to be raised today, unless weather conditions take a drastic change.

A number of Class A records are also threatened today in the running of the Class A district meet along with the Class AA area meet. The Class B finals will also be run off at the same time. Final events will start at 1:30 o'clock.

Only three teams are entered in the Class AA area meet. They are Lubbock, Plainview and Lamesa.

Other records on the slate for both area, Class A and regional are:

High hurdles — Area: Roy Grimes, Lubbock, 16.1. Regional: Compton, Mobeetie, 15.1 in 1935. Class A: Roody, Andrews, 16.

Low hurdles — Area: Buddy Boles, Lubbock, 24. Regional: Heiskell, Pampa, 23.9 in 1941. Class A: Roody, Andrews, 24.7.

220-yard dash—Area: Martyn, Lubbock, 23.3. Regional: Jones, Hedley, 21.5 in 1936. Class A: Murphey, Levelland, 23.1.

440-yard dash—Area: Burl Gene Moore, Lubbock, 50.3. Regional: Kirkland, Dumas, 51.2 in 1935. Class A: Harrison, Denver City, 52.1.

Ann Curtis Adds New Swim Title

CHICAGO, April 13. (AP)—Ann Curtis, America's 220 and 440-yard free style champion, tonight added the 100-yard event to her swimming titles and records as she upset Brenda Helser of Hollywood, in the finals of the National AAU women's swimming championship here.

Miss Curtis, only woman ever to win the Sullivan Memorial trophy, forged ahead in the last ten yards to beat the defending champion by 18 inches in one minute, one and 9/10 seconds.

Miss Marie Corridon of the Women's Swimming association, New York, finished in third place, a yard behind Miss Helser.

Miss Helser's unexpected defeat—and loss of her championship—came after a hectic afternoon in which she failed to swim in the semi-finals, and then swam a race herself against time, before she could swim against the field to finally qualify for tonight's finals.

Relaxing just before the starter's gun sounded in the semi-final heat, Miss Helser was left standing as Miss Curtis won the heat in one minute, three and eight tenths seconds.

After an hour's discussion among officials, Miss Helser was allowed to swim against time and was clocked in 1:01.5, three tenths of a second faster than her opening heat.

With less than 15 minutes rest, she was required to swim a third heat against the four slowest semi-finalists and won in 1:02.5.

Others who qualified for tonight's 100-yard championship race were Marillyn Sahner, a crystal plunge (San Francisco) teammate of Miss Curtis, Betty Lachock of the Akron (Ohio) Firestone club, and Marie Corridon of the New York Women's Swimming association.

L. D. MEYER DISCHARGED

FORT WORTH, April 13. (AP) — Lt. L. D. Meyer, former TCU football and baseball star who played second base for the Detroit Tigers in the American League until he entered the Army Air forces, has been placed on an inactive status by the AAF because of an old leg injury and will report to the Tigers early next week.

Class B Tennis Champs Crowned

Tennis champions in Class B were named Friday afternoon, with Sundown winning two divisions of the meet, while Meadow and Shallowater took the other championships. The winners will enter the regional meet at Canyon next week.

One returning veteran came out of the firing for tennis honors in Class B, but teamed with a new pardner. Last year, Meadow's Jean Finley and Dorothy Freeman were district champions. At the regional meet, they beat Claude and Amarillo to go to the finals, where they lost to O'Donnell's returning champions.

Finley Back Again

This year, Finley teamed with Freda Walker to again win the district championship, and will go back to the regional meet at Canyon to try again to get past those finals.

Camille Fite of Sundown won the girls singles championship, and the boys doubles from Sundown, Matlock and Kirby, took the top honors in the boys doubles. Galey of Shallowater was the Class B boys singles champion.

The events were run off at Texas Tech courts.

McWilliams and Jones of McAdoo opened the play in the boys doubles with wins over Abernathy, 6-1, 11-9. Sundown's champion combination opened play by winning a bitterly fought match with Shallowater, 6-4, 6-8, 6-3. Spring Lake's Hoberer and Angelen staged a comeback to eliminate McAdoo, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3. Sundown then won the finals over Spring Lake, 6-0, 6-1.

Galey Comes Through

In the boys singles, Galey defeated Discus of Sundown, 6-0, 6-2, in the opening round, while Eddington of McAdoo won over Dent of Spring Lake, 6-0, 6-1. Galey then won a hard fought final match, 6-3, 7-5, 7-5.

In the girls doubles playoff, Fox and Potts of McAdoo eliminated Coffman and Hall of Anton, 6-3, 6-1, in the first round. Corley and Giles of Shallowater then eliminated McAdoo's team, 6-3, 6-8, 7-5. Walker and Finley opened the championship drive with a 7-5, 6-1 win over Burnam and Bunsworth of Union, then continued the attack with a 6-4, 7-5, win over Shallowater in the finals.

In the girls singles, Barton of Abernathy defeated Burnam of Union 6-1, 6-3, in the first round, then Fite defeated Barton, 6-3, 6-2, to go into the finals. Motl of Anton moved into the finals on a forfeit from Robertson, but fell before Fite, 6-3, 6-2 in the finals.

Anton won the girls volleyball championship, defeating Meadow in the finals. Meadow won over Jayton in the first round, and Anton defeated Idalou.

Sports World Mourns Loss Of Number One Fan In FDR

WASHINGTON, April 13. (AP)—The athletic world mourns the death of President Roosevelt. They called him the nation's No. 1 sports fan and recalled his own athletic past and his recent help with wartime sports problems.

Mr. Roosevelt himself said he was "No. 1 night baseball fan" last month when Clark Griffith visited him at the White House to deliver the President's annual big-league pass.

Twice during this war, Mr. Roosevelt came to pinch hit for baseball. The first occasion was early in 1942 when grave doubts hung over the start of that season.

Mr. Roosevelt replied to a letter from the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis by stating that the game should carry on.

In many other respects, the President showed deep interest in sports.

He was himself a swimming enthusiast.

Griffith recalled that in Mr. Roosevelt's school days at Groton and Harvard he was "quite an athlete" in boxing, tennis, track, rowing and so on.

Sports Events Halt During Funeral Hour

NEW YORK, April 13. (AP) — Sportsdom paid its respect to Franklin Delano Roosevelt today by announcing a virtual cessation of activity until after his funeral tomorrow.

Only the Pacific Coast baseball league, where all games were postponed last night; the Women's National AAU swimming championships in Chicago and the Stanley Cup hockey playoffs in Toronto planned to carry on.

In Chicago, AAU Executive Lyman J. Bingham said that inability of contestants to change their train reservations for the return home made it impossible to delay the meet. However, tomorrow afternoon's events were shifted to the forenoon, leaving the funeral hours devoid of athletic action.

The national dinghy races, to be held at the Larchmont, N. Y., Yacht club of which the late President was an honorary member, were set over to April 21 and 22.

Ford Frick, president of the National League, asked his club owners to cancel all their exhibitions for tomorrow, the day designated by President Truman as a day of national mourning. All games for today except two were wiped out by independent actions of the owners.

Promoter Mike Jacobs postponed tonight's New York fight card, topped by a 10-round bout between Jake Lamotta and Vic Dellicurti, for one week.

Bob Feller To Have Chance To Hurl Again

CHICAGO, April 13. (AP) — Chief Specialist Bob Feller this season will bear down on the mound for the first time since he left the Cleveland Indians after the 1941 season to enlist in the Navy.

The former Tribe fast-baller will be allowed to pitch for the Great Lakes (Ill.) baseball team he recently was appointed to manage, it was learned reliably today.

Great Lakes' officials are said to have reversed an earlier decision to limit Feller's activities to the coaching line, a restriction that had applied to Feller's predecessor, Lt. Cmdr. Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, former catcher and manager of the Detroit Tigers.

Shortstop Hurls No Hitter Over Ponies

HOUSTON, April 13 . (AP) — Ed Murphey, who until two weeks ago was a shortstop, tossed a no-hit, no-run game at the SMU Mustangs today as Coach Jess Neely's Rice Owls scored an 11 to 0 victory and somewhat eased the pain for the double defeat suffered at the hands of the Ponies in Dallas last week.

Murphey walked but three men and only 31 batters walked up to the dish during the afternoon. The fourth man to reach base gained life when Jake Simpson's throw to first was in the dirt. That was the only miscue of the afternoon for the Owls who turned in a sensational fielding performance.

Boys Club Sees Show And Honors Cagers

More than 300 turned out at the Lubbock Boys club last night to see the pictures of the 1944 World Series, and the film "Inside Baseball" and also witness the presentation of awards for the Boys club basketball stars.

J. A. Fortenberry of the American Business club made the awards.

There were 284 boys registered at the club during the evening with about 20 adults attending the program.

The club also announced four fight nights, coming on the next four Friday nights at the club.

MUSTANG NETTERS WIN

DALLAS, April 13. (AP) — Displaying a brand of tennis that bordered on the best perwar caliber in the Southwest Conference, the Southern Methodist university Mustangs won a dual meet with the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs, four matches to two today on the locals' courts.

The Texas-TCU baseball game scheduled here for tomorrow has been postponed with new date yet to be selected.

No classes will meet at the university Saturday and all its officees will be closed, Acting President T. S. Painter said.

No Division Of Loyalty

FDR Would Say: "Back Truman!"

AMERICANS with a sense of propriety, and a belief in the tenets of loyalty and gratefulness, have always viewed wtih disdain the European custom of shouting, "the king is dead, long live the king!" whenever fate has decreed a change in heads of government.

Especially on this day, when the mortal remains of Franklin Delano Roosevelt are being returned to the White House in which he so long labored, none could be so crass as to suggest subtracting from the memory of the former President one whit of his deserved respect, even when transferring loyalty to his successor, President Harry S. Truman.

There is plenty of room in the great hearts of the all American people for respectful recollection—in many millions of cases for the sincerest sort of fondness and affection—for former President Roosevelt and, at the same time, loyalty to President Truman. While it is most essential that the nation rally around its new leader who has taken up the duties of the nation't highest office at direction of the Constitution, it is incumbent upon us all, also, to salute the career and the efforts of the man who regularly has been chosen to continue in command upon each national election day since November of 1932.

If Mr. Roosevelt today could get a message through to the people of this nation, we are sure that message would urge support of President Truman in the most difficult job, under the most difficult conditions, it has ever been an American's lot to assume. This undoubtedly being true, Americans individually and collectively will be loyal to the memory of Mr. Roosevelt as they pledge themselves to help uphold the hand of the man who follows him.

As Americans show confidence in President Truman they shall, we think, be doing what Mr. Roosevelt would have them do under the circumstances.

As Americans give President Truman every opportunity to succeed, we think that is exactly what Mr. Roosevelt would ask of them were he able so to do.

This is no case of "the king is dead, long live the king!" in the base tradition of the Old World.

Instead, it is the case of carrying on, forging ahead, with a new leader at what we may be sure would be at the behest of the one who is gone.

Progress In Carver Heights

ALLEN BROTHERS post of the American Legion here, largely through the untiring efforts of former Mayor Harlie D. Woods, has been doing a good work in sponsoring and supporting the organization and operation of a Legion post for negro veterans of Lubbock. Considerable interest continues to be displayed in the project by local negro ex-service men, and the organization gives the colored community still another outlet for added civic responsibility.

It is of interest to the white population, as well as to the negroes among us, that the colored Legionnaires recently have acquired a plot of ground in the Carver Heights section upon which they plan eventually to place permanent quarters. In this project, the negro ex-service men deserve the support of the white community as a whole, as well as that they already are receiving from white Legionnaires.

Little by little, the colored population of Lubbock is moving forward and the efforts of the ex-service men's organization is only one of many examples of the fact.

We are interested in those forward movements in Carver Heights not only because they will encourage better citizenship there, but also because it will contribute to the overall improvement of life in Lubbock.

That Human Equasion

THE human equasion enters into the thinking of us all, but we rarely recognize the fact unless someone, in a pithy statement, impresses it upon us.

Such a pithy statement was uttered the other day by Sen. George D. Aiken, of Vermont.

Quipped he:

"If one of your friends looks ahead, he is far-sighter. But if you don't like the man who is looking ahead, he's a visionary!"

Wiser words are rarely spoken; clearer thoughts rarely expressed.

A person loose in this world never knows when danger is imminent. A man was walking down a street in Dunkirk, N. Y., the other evening when a wild duck flew into him, the impact knocking him off the sidewalk and leaving him in an unconscious condition for several hours.

"When were twin beds invented?" some one asks. Probably in the summer time.

The One Minute Sermon

No man, when he hath lighted a candle, covereth it with a vessel, or putteth it under a bed; but setteth it on a candlestick, that they which enter it may see the light.

For nothin is secret, that shall not be made manifest; neither any thing hid, that shall not be known and come abroad.—St. Luke 8:16-17.

THE RUSE

Josef Elsner swallowed hard. He knew the music. He knew it well. He swallowed again, then again. He pushed his way into the crowded music room.

"Sh—Liszt is playing."

"—Yes, Liszt! But what is he playing? He is playing the music of Frederic Chopin!"

Deeper and deeper into the crowd he went, with no apologies for his pushing.

"Quiet, Liszt is playing."

The waltz was concluded and people were applauding and Josef Elsner stopped to join in the handclapping.

"Superb!" called out the critic Kalkbrenner. "But whose music is it? I never heard it."

Josef Elsner peered through the dark. "You never heard it! It is a waltz, my dear friend—by my pupil—Chopin!"

"Your pupil!"

"Yes, my dear friend; my pupil."

"Proves what I've always said," replied the sarcastic Kalkbrenner; "anything sounds good—when played by Liszt!"

There were called for quiet, The piano sounded again; another Chopin composition, the Butterfly Etude. The guests were in for an evening of Chopin by Liszt.

"—Good, eh?" Jozef Elsner pulled at Kalkbrenner's arm. "Also by my pupil—"

"—And played by Liszt," Kalkbrenner muttered.

A bar of light, at first only a streak, fell across the room, then the streak widened as a door to the rear from whence the light came quietly opened.

"—Sh—"

But there was a scraping of chairs, a shuffling of feet and a stretching of necks as the audience sought to determine the cause of the disturbance.

Madame Sand was in the doorway. In her hands was a lighted candelabrum. She came into the room, down the center aisle.

"—Sh—"

The playing continued. But all eyes were on Madame Sand as she made her way to the piano platform—quietly, silently, slowly, the candelabrum lighting her way.

As she approached the dais it was apparent that two persons not one, were on the stage—and the person standing alongside the piano, not touching it, was—Franz Liszt. Chopin was playing.

Frederic finished the Etude with a great flourish.

Silence. The final note brought no applause, not a sound.

But the silence was brief. The audience, recovering from its astonishment, rose as one person—roared, shouted, clapped,, yelled and clambered, and Jozef Elsner cried "Bravo! Bravo!"

The critic Kalkbrenner was speechless. Louis Pleyel was speechless. They exchanged glances, they stared, and, yes, they gulped, Kalkbrenner and Louis Pleyel together.

Frederic, pleased, eager, confident, shook hands with Liszt, bowed, to Madame Sand, while the audience continued to roar its approval.

Alfred de Musset, taking no part in the applause, buried his face in his hands.

Franz Liszt waited for the applause to subside. "Ladies and gentlemen—" They were still clapping. "Ladies and gentlemen—"

"Sh—Liszt is speaking."

"—Ladies and gentlemen, permit me—Fredric Chopin—"

Louis Pleyel sought out Jozef Elsner.

"—My dear Professor Elsner—"

"Yes, Louis?"

"—There is a matter—a little matter—"

"—A business matter, Louis? Please, my dear Louis—business—at this time. Isn't that— No, Louis—"

Jozef Elsner strutted away. But Louis Pleyel was at his heels.

They went out of the music room into the ballroom, into the great hall, into the foyer, up the stairs, Louis Pleyel outlining a proposed contract.

"—Very interesting, Louis—"

"I should say it is, Jozef! Do you think my contract with Liszt is any better?"

"—Humph. Why should it be?"

"Josef, I am only saying."

"—Yes, Louis, and I am only asking."

"Of course, Jozef, it goes without saying I will publish his music—yes, as soon as possible—"

"—My dear Louis, please—I do not rush into things— Let me think it over—"

"Who will give you better terms? Is that what you are thinking of?"

"—I think of this, Louis; and I think of that. How can I think of everything at once? Do I act on an impulse? No, Louis. Jozef Elsner never acts hastily. For 15 years I thought about coming to Paris—and now in 15 minutes—"

"How long will you need?"

"Louis, my dear Louis, how can I answer that? I will sleep on it, Louis—I will sleep on it. That much I will promise you—"

They had their hats, their coats.

"—Where's Frederic? I can't leave without Frederic."

"You won't have to worry, Jozef. He is in good hands."

"No, I must have Frederic."

"Would you take him from Liszt and from Madame Sand?"

"—Humph."

"—Jozef, may I drop you off at your home in my carriage?"

"—Eh?"

"My carriage, Jozef," Louis Pleyel said solicitously.

"Why, yes, thank you, Louis. Thank you very much."

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

WHEN, in 1903, a $25-a-week, coal salesman by the name of James Couzens, ran into his father's house in Chatham, Ont., and asked him for a loan of $100 to add to his $900 so that he "could take a buggy ride with Henry Ford," the old man pretty nearly chased him out of the house for even thinking of having anything to do with these newfangled get-rich-quick gasoline buggy companies.

But his sister Rosetta, who died in Palo Alto, Calif., the other day, took pity on her brother and lent him the hundred dollars.

BRANDEIS

Well, you all know that James Couzens became a multi-millionaire and a U. S. Senator, and Rosetta Hauss got more than a half-million back for her hundred dollars.

I just got through reading "Some of These Days," Sophie Tucker's autobiography.

She didn't even have a hundred dollars when she came over here from Russia with her family.

But she had a priceless asset, called "Personality."

With that asset, a "fog horn voice" and unflagging ambition she became the famous "Red Hot Mamma"—and I wouldn't be a bit surprised if some day the papers will tell that she left as much money as Rosetta Hauss who invested $100 in Henry Ford.

(Although I hope that it will be a long, long time before the papers have to talk about the 'late' Sophie Tucker.)

There is so much talk these days about America not offering opportunities any longer.

That's why I was interested in Rosetta Hauss and Sophie Tucker, both children of Opportunity, yet both successes of entirely different kind.

I can't believe that there are no more opportunities in America.

There will be Sophies and there will be Rosettas, always.

There will always be talent and foresight and ambition and hard work, and there will always be glorious success for those who possess and exercise these qualities.

But the concept of Success is changing.

It won't be enough just to make a lot of money and to have more homes and more diamonds and more mink coats and more automobiles than the next fellow.

That sort of opportunity, I am sure, is gone. And I, for one, am glad of it.

But the other kind of opportunity — the kind that Sophie Tucker grasped—that kind of opportunity will always be part of America.

MAYBE you won't be able to make as much money as Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller and E. H. Harriman. Maybe you'll be able to have only one little aeroplane of your own.

Taxes and unions and common sense will take care of that.

But there will never be a tax on worthwhile achievement, and there will never be a tax on the esteem of your fellow-men, and there will never be a tax on the service you can render to your people or the love in which they will hold you.

I said maybe Sophie Tucker, too, will leave a half a million. Maybe she won't leave a penny.

But Sophie Tucker will have been a success just the same.

Always remember this: History is written not in bank books but in the boks of achievement

And you may live a century after Henry Morgenthau is forgotten!

The National Whirligig

Morgenthau's Position Clarified

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

HENRY MORGENTHAU, jr. will not permit his Alcohol and Income Tax agents and lawyers to snoop on the average American citizen in the too enthusiastically publicized campaign against black market profiteers who take a dishonest night off in New York, Miami or Palm Springs hot spots. Indeed, the Secretary of the Treasury is deeply disturbed by the unfortunate presentation of and reaction to his clean-up plans.

TUCKER

Mr. Morgenthau is opposed to perverting the revenue laws — unpopular enough as they are — to enforce other statutes. He will restrict himself to the taxation field over which he has been given jurisdiction by Congress.

It is the task of the Office of Price Administration to unearth and prosecute violators of its regulations on ceilings and prices, not the Treasury's. But Washington has learned of large operators in illegal food channels who have not made returns on their profits to Mr. Whiskers, just as the big bootleggers failed to render unto Uncle Sam during prohibition days.

The details of the Treasury's plan of operations obviously cannot be revealed. But they will probably parallel the method by which Al Capone was jailed after detectives checked on his nefarious sources of income and his tax delinquencies.

HUNTING: Fact is that the amiable farmer from the Hudson Valley was not responsible for the news reports that he intended to drive all the joy out of night life in the United States. An examination of the record discloses that certain headline-seeking newshawks ballooned his announcement far beyond its original proportions.

It seems that the Secretary of the Treasury hinted at a forthcoming story which had as its source one of his recent visits to New York. He begged off from divulging the details of the yarn prematurely, but the correspondents pressed him a little too hard. Here is a transcript of the exchange which inspired the general belief that he was going to set up shop as a Mabel Walker Willebrandt or a Wayne B. Wheeler:

"Mister Secretary," asked a reporter, "is there any way that you could corral money that is being made in tips, say, by waiters, taxicab drivers and so forth? I understand that some of the hotel waiters make about $15 a day and declare about a buck of it."

"Well," replied the financial officer, "I should like to go after some of the little bit bigger guys."

"Just as an example—who?"

"In the old bootlegging days we spent most of the time going after fellows with five-gallon stills, and the other fellows — we let them get away with it. I am interested in the fellow with the suite of big rooms and the lush boys. We want to get after them first."

This does not mean that the "little fellows" will go scot-free if the federals can obtain evidence against them. But it does signify that Mr. Morgenthau is after bigger game, and the results of his hunting will soon become evident in several sections of the country.

CLASH: Japanese tactics in recent engagements with American forces convinces experts here that the war and navy parties in Tokyo are locked in a furious clash that will tend to shorten the Pacific conflict. Although such a disagreement in time of crisis seems incredible, the only other logical explanation appears to be the existence of a panic state of mind among trained and disciplined fighters.

The Jap military has been complaining for a long time that the navy has not given it proper support in the archipelago stage of the battling. Ground units have not received the necessary supplies because we command the surrounding waters.

Under pressure of this criticism, apparently, the navy decided to unveil a portion of its fleet, including the great and sacred battleship Yamato. But, for some reason, that dreadnaught was sent to sea without any plane protection, and became an easy target for our flyers. It seems unbelievable that any coordinated defense ministry could make such a mistake.

SCHEMES: Meanwhile, most of the fighting in the skies has been done by Japanese army groups, who have had the advantage of land bases ever since Pearl Harbor. They have suffered severely in engagements with our better trained and equipped aviators, but it is not believed that they have been destroyed utterly. So, the question that arises is whether they refused to provide cover for the Yamato and her escorting warships!

The Jap navy's execrable showing may also affect diplomatic and cabinet maneuvering behind the Tokyo scenes. In prewar days the generals were the moderates; it was the admirals who expressed confidence that Tokyo could defeat the United States. It may be that, as ultimate defeat approaches from the water and air, the military bigwigs are scheming to save their skins and survive in any domestic reorganization by sacrificing the sea dogs.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

A COMBINED food and health crisis is developing in India which may handicap the activities of United States troops in all of Asia, especially as the monsoon is scheduled for late May.

The emergency is an aftermath of the 1943 famine, one of history's worst catastrophes, in which more than a million starved to death. The Bengal population is weakened from malnutrition. As a result, the malaria rate has doubled. Latest medical reports show that cholera and typhus are spreading at an alarming pace.

The situation affects us because most of the American outfits in India are quartered in Bengal. They operate air bases, hospitals, weather stations and veterinary outposts, unload ships and move supplies to our men in Burma and China and to the Chinese government depots.

U. S. Army doctors and American philanthropic societies are doing all they can to check the epidemics, thereby to lessen the chance of infection for our GI's.

"The presence of large numbers of our own forces," declares William Phillips, recently resigned special United States representative to India, "especially in Assam and Bengal, has contributed to diminishing the limited food supply of the native population."

Yank quartermasters buy up the fresh vegetables and eggs in areas where provisions always have been scarce. We also monopolize the transportation system that carries our goods to Chungking by way of the Ledo Road and the Hump. Hence some local Indian politicians blame us for current stringencies, and the result is a certain amount of bad blood.

The United States—already pinched for meat, sugar, etc.—cannot hope to feed the hungry masses of India, and the Australian grain belt has been hit by drouth. But we are distributing vitamin tablets and sulfa drugs in the undernourished regions.

Various missions and private institutions in the USA have organized a central agency to coordinate aid—American Relief for India—with headquarters in New York City.

DIET: The situation is further complicated by war emergencies. Rice is the staple diet of 90 per cent of the nation. The bulk of the people in Bengal lives on the waterways that irrigate and move the crop.

The second most important item is fish. But when a Japanese invasion seemed imminent a couple of years ago, New Delhi officials withdrew more than three-quarters of the fishing boats lest they fall into the hands of the enemy. Laid up in a tropical climate the vessels soon rotted. Replacements are not yet sufficient for needs.

Alas, so many who have political bees in their bonnets also have bats in their belfries.

Army In Italy Tries To Save U. S. Funds

Salvage Unit Runs Big Business

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

ROME—Col. William D. (Bill) Ela, who used to work in a bank but who has been in the Quartermaster corps for 12 years, was ordered, soon after the landing in North Africa, to set up a salvage unit to save, repair and put back into service whatever was possible of all those things used by soldierr.

"I didn't even have a clerk," he said. "I had to start from scratch. It was trial and error, and no mistake."

This trial and error has developed into a big business for Colonel Ela. He is now operating the 220th Salvage and Repair company, and the 819th Sterilization company at Leghorn, headquarters of the Peninsular base section of the Army Service Forces.

STOKES

He started in North Africa, then moved with the Army into Naples and set up a salvage unit which still operates there.

The slightly built officer, who comes from Portland, Me., is one of those wiry, enthusiastic fellows who can plan, organize, and sell his ideas and his enthusiasm to others. He showed me around his unit where hundreds of women were repairing clothes for soldiers; where skilled Italians, working under enlisted men, were repairing shoes, canteens and mess kits, field stoves and ovens, typewriters, snowshoes, and all sorts of other things for re-issue to the front-line troops; where others worked in machine shops making tools for their jobs.

IT'S BIG BUSINESS

He insisted on showing me the big laundry at Pisa, a few miles away, which handled 55,000,000 pounds of laundry for the Fifth Army last year, a $5,000,000 business. It gives 48-hour service to men in the frontlines in the mountains. This service, operated at cost, is paid for by officers and men.

There I talked with Lt. Frederick B. Youngblood, of Detroit, who is the third generation in Youngblood cleaners and Dyers Co. He told of the education he has got in helping to run this huge laundry, the new practices he expects to take back home.

I SINGLED out Colonel Ela's operation because it is one of the latest I have seen and it is fresh in mind, but it is just one of many in the armies in Europe.

He is just one of the enthusiastic men in this vast business, and it is a vast business. I have followed them through salvage depots until I got dizzy with it all.

It is very impressive for various reasons. One is the zest of the Army officers who run what looks like a very undramatic piece of the war. They want to show you everything, explain everything. They are proud of the new methods they have devised, of what they have accomplished in savings. They run into many millions of dollars.

MOBILE UNITS SET UP

The office at Florence of Brig. Gen. Joseph P. Sullivan, quartermaster for the Fifth Army has compiled figures of salvage operations at its big Florence depot showing savings of over $35,000,000 from November, 1943 to February of this year. Incidentally, this salvage operation which is separate from that of the Peninsular base section has developed a new idea—a salvage unit connected directly with the Army, independent of the Supply organization. It sends out mobile units to collect stuff for repair, taking the initiative. Comparable savings are being made in other salvage operations with the various armies on all fronts.

WAR is a costly business, but it perhaps is good news to the taxpayers that the Army is doing its part to cut down this cost by fitting for re-use whatever it can, which in turn is passed back, requiring fewer of many things, saving space on ships, arilways and trucks and the costs connected with them.

American business too might learn from some of the things the Army is doing in this direction.

Stock Exchange, Curb Market Close Today

NEW YORK, April 13 (U.P.)—The New York stock exchange and the New York cub market will be closed tomorrow out of respect for the late Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the exchanges announced today.

Trading went on as usual on both markets today, each devoting two minutes to silent prayer at the opening.

The big board governors issued a statement announcing the Saturday closing, pointing out that "the president himself more than once expressed great satisfaction that the New York stock exchange had been able to maintain an open market for securities in spite of the terrible shock of war.

"We believe we should meet this new tragedy in the same spirit.

"Our country is financially sound, strong in arms and courage, and strong in determination to carry this war to a victorious conclusion."

PAINTING DRAPED

AUSTIN, April 13. (AP) — The large oil painting of Franklin D. Roosevelt which thousands of capitol visitors have admired in the Senate chamber, was placed near the rostrum today and appropriately draped.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

Cooperation Urged In Care Of Alleys

Special effort is being made by the city to keep accumulation out of alleys and cooperation of residents in aiding collection of grass clippings and tree limbs is requested, it was said this morning in the health department.

"We would appreciate very much the cooperation of property owners in placing grass clippings in garbage cans or containers of some type so that clippings can be loaded easily into garbage trucks," said a representative of the health department. "We also would appreciate it if individuals will cut the weeds at the back of their property and help in keeping the alleys clean."

Patience was asked in the project to collect all tree limbs which have been trimmed. Garbage trucks are collecting limbs as fast as possible and hopes are held facilities may be obtained later to get all tree limbs. Property owners may aid in the collection but cutting limbs into lengths that can be loaded easily, it was announced.

Teen-Agers Invited To Program Tonight

A box supper, kid party and dancing tonight at the Corral, Sixteenth street and Avenue J, will be open to all 'teen-agers who wish to attend, it was reminded Friday afternoon.

The event will open at 8 o'clock.

Proceeds from the supper will go into the fund to purchase permanent recreation equipment at the Corral, as decisions are made by 'teen-agers to make purchases.

A meeting is to be conducted at the box supper and the group is to decide whether it wants to reorganize and elect committee members for the next six months and decide its program.

Sponsors to be present are Mrs. E. J. Lowrey, Mrs. G. W. Parkhill, Mrs. Joe Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Luker.

Annual Ceremonial Of Shrine Delayed

Spring ceremonial for Khiva Temple, Ancient and Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine will not be held today in Amarillo, as was previously announced, Fred Galle, assistant recorder, advised the Avalanche-Journal by telephone Friday.

Reason for the postponement was the death of former President Franklin Roosevelt, a member of the Shrine, and the fact that his funeral is set for the day on which the ceremonial was originally planned.

Galle said the ceremonial would be held later.

The word "telegraph" dates to 300 B.C. and is a Greek word meaning "to write far off."

Commissions Air Memorial Plans planned and action on routine matters occupied the time of the commission in its four-hour session.

Health Ordinance

After City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley had declared that the proposed health ordinance was "unfeasible so far as enforcement is concerned," the commission agreed to attempt elimination of unnecessary requirements and present a revised ordinance for consideration at the next meeting.

During discussion of the ordinance, Bradley declared: "I can't represent the city like it ought to be represented," and later said, "I'm trying to get you fellows to fire me."

His remarks were occasioned by his previous statement that he didn't have the time to prepare ordinances as they should be. He said he was "60 days behind in my own practice."

Property Owners Protest

Property owners in the 2200-block on Broadway, where the new Baptist church is planned, vigorously objected to the city's closing of the alley, claiming that "we have too many churches in our area already . . . and we'll simply be over-run with parking and there won't be a bit of privacy about our homes."

Mrs. A. B. Conley, who owns a major portion of the property fronting on Broadway, her daughter, Miss Frances Conley; T. F. Wiesen, who resides across the street on Broadway and Mrs. J. I. Kilpatrick, who resides on Thirteenth street, were the protesting parties to the Baptist proposal. J. A. Fortenberry, R. L. Durham and John Spikes, presented the church's case with Fortenberry as spokesman.

Church's Proposal

Under the church proposal, the property would extend west from Avenue V, 315 feet on the Broadway side and 291 feet on the Thirteenth side. If the alley is closed for the church structure, the church would open a 50-foot street on the west side of the property, about midway in the present block, the church paying all costs for moving and changing of utilities and sewer lines and the curbing and paving of the street.

"We'll never consent to closing of this alley," Mrs. Conley said, after pointing out resultant losses in property values, the parking difficulty and other problems contingent to erection of the church.

The two groups had been previously informed by Mayor O. W. Ribble that no action would be taken on the proposal, due to the absence of two commissioners.

Other Commission Action

Other action by the commission included:

Re-appointment of K. N. Clapp to the park commission for a five-year term.

Passage of a typhus control and rat-proofing ordinance at second and final reading and the establishing of a $3,000 revolving fund to pay for its costs.

Approval of an ordinance annexing property in the East Ave. K area in southwest Lubbock to the city limits.

Passage of an ordinance appropriating $258,326 for payment of a new light plant engine and generator unit.

Approval of general contractor's bonds for H. E. Webb and Roy Dow Martin and bonds for moving a building for Elgin Hull and G. M. Scott.

Hospital Bills Allowed

Agreeing to paying $494.69 in hospital bills for Walter Whorton, former city motorcycle officer, permanently injured in an accident several months ago.

Sale of two lots in block 61, McCrummen second addition, to Clem Boverie was approved.

Elliott Taylor's low bid of 67½ cents per cubic yard for excavating a basement for the city's new power plant building was also accepted.

Besides Mayor Ribble, Bradley and City Manager Marlin Smith, others attending the meeting were J. Ray Dickey and Hub Jones, commissioners.

PRICES ADVANCE

NEW YORK, April 13. (AP)—Financial communities today mourned the passing of the President but maintenance of investment confidence was reflected in generally rising prices for stocks and bonds.

Business in the share division got under way after two minutes of silent prayer on the floor of the exchange. Principal marts will recess tomorrow.

Leaders dipped at a fast opening but demand for utilities soon changed the direction and, while some rails were a bit indifferent, gains at the best ran to 2 points or more.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .6 of a point at 62.4 and on the week was ahead 1.7 points.

Touching peaks for 1945 were North American, Consolidated Edison, American Water Works, Electric Power & Light, Santa Fe and Distillers Corp. Small declines were posted for Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Texas Co., Kennecott, United Aircraft and Deere. Philip Morris dropped 4 points.

Congratulations To:

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Willis of Levelland on birth of a son weighing 5 pounds 15 ounces at 11:15 o'clock Friday morning in West Texas hospital. Willis is a driller.

Truman Advisers

ingly had been named chairman.

Mr. Truman picked Fulton.

Now Fulton is in private practice. Whether he eventually is named attorney general, as rumored, or remains a private citizen, he will be in the inner circle of Truman advisers.

In that circle also is likely to be private citizen James F. Byrnes, as the former war mobilizer dubbed himself after he came out of a conference with the new chief executive today.

Byrnes might have been President today if Mr. Roosevelt had not acceded to the demands of organized labor at the 1944 Chicago convention and asked his "assistant president" to withdraw.

Admirer Of Baruch

But Byrnes seems likely to be the only one of the inner White House circle of the Roosevelt regime whose influence will be felt with the new President. A possible exception is Bernard M. Baruch, againg financier, whom Mr. Truman admires.

There seems little doubt that Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, long an adviser to President Roosevelt, will soon return to private life. Dimmed also will be the influence of Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter of the Supreme court.

Politically, President Truman appears to lean on the advice of Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, who is a long time friend.

Reich Carved Up By Third Army

95 miles from the Russians, and the First Army was 115 miles away.

Patton's troops were believed to be cutting straight across Germany 32 miles north of the Czechoslovak border, and 115 miles above the big Skoda munitions town of Pilsen.

Pilots reported Germans on the north German plain in retreat eastward from as far away as Luebeck, 135 miles northwest of Berlin.

Elbe Bridgehead

The Elbe bridgehead, 57 miles from the capital, was being built up swiftly as the Germans turned and rained blows on the American positions, trying to drive them back into the river. A field dispatch said despite the resistance, the Berlin drive would be resumed shortly.

Back of racing Third Army tank columns, historic Jena, where Napoleon won one of his greatest victories, fell after a short, fierce skirmish.

The Third Army seemed to be racing with the U. S. Seventh Army for the last Munich-Berlin superhighway, life line between north and south German. One of the big six-lane highways already had been severed in the sweep across the Mulde.

Air Opposition Vanishes

Air opposition to Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's onrushing forces suddenly vanished, bolstering reports on that front that the German Air force had revolted and that hundreds of its pilots had been slaughtered by SS (Elite) troopers.

From the First Army front came a story of an abortive revolt in Berlin early in March, a German woman refugee from the capital saying 5,000 volkssturm troops had turned their newly-issued weapons on their masters and had been mowed down.

Everywhere, signs of German collapse were multiplying.

Duisburg Captured

Duisburg, city of 431,000 in the Ruhr and Germany's greatest river port, fell as the U. S. First and Ninth armies methodically caved in the sides of the Ruhr trap, from which 84,585 prisoners of an estimated force of 150,000 already have been flushed.

Even on the stout British-Canadian front there were portents of weakness where there had been plenty of strength before.

The Canadian First Army drove six miles beyond the Issel river and battled into the center of Arnhem.

The British Second Army found a soft spot on the north German plain beyond the Weser river and drove 10 miles northeast to a point 45 miles from the Elbe river southeast of Hamburg.

Sealing Off Denmark

Thus the British Second and the U. S. Ninth armies were sealing off Denmark and the north German ports.

The Elbe river line was clearly buckling.

The Fifth Armored division in its record-breaking 60-mile dash reached the river at Tangermunde, 30 miles northeast of Magdeburg and 45 miles west of the outskirts of Greater Berlin.

Other elements of the division reached the Elbe at Seerhausen, five miles farther north.

On the north flank, the Third Armored division wheeled around the eastern end of the Harz mountains and captured Sangerhausen, 72 miles southwest of Berlin.

PLANT SEIZURE ASKED

LAKE CHARLES, La., April 13. (AP)—Governor James H. Davis formally requested the government today to take over control of the Cities Service refinery here to insure its operation during a work stoppage that has been under way since Monday night.

The fundamental idea of the Red Cross was first set forth in a booklet by Henri Dunant at Geneva in 1862.

Specialist Praises Roosevelt As Patient

Former President Franklin Roosevelt was characterized Friday as "one of the most co-operative patients I ever had," by Dr. Robert T. Canon of the staff of West Texas hospital, currently on leave from the U. S. Navy.

Dr. Canon, a captain in the Navy's medical branch, was eye, ear, nose and throat consultant to the President and other members of the White House family for a period of slightly more than two years. Dr. Canon at that time was head of the eye, ear, nose and throat section of the National Navy hospital at Bethesda, Md., a suburb of Washington.

Last time Dr. Canon attended the former President professionally was in December of 1944 and at that time "Mr. Roosevelt appeared to be in as fine physical condition as any man of his years could be." The Lubbock physician treated Mr. Roosevelt on numerous occasions, at the hospital and in the White House, usually for irritating but not serious sinusitis.

Bavarian fortress.

The capture of the historic Austrian capital of Vienna—once a Roman frontier outpost against barbaric Germanic tribes—was announced by Premier Stalin in an order of the day which ordered a salute of 24 salvos from 324 Moscow guns.

Hodonin was liberated after Malinovsky's troops plunged across the Slovak-Moravian border and threatened to sweep across the Moravian plateaus to engulf the last war production areas supplying Hitler's collapsing wehrmacht.

Hitler had ordered Vienna defended to the last man, captives told the Red Army, but Tolbukhin's troops overnight wiped out the last defenders of the nine-mile-long holdout island of resistance between the Danube and the Danube canal.

Berlin Awaits Blow

Meanwhile there was no indication that the Red Army had opened its Berlin offensive. Associated Press Moscow dispatches said there was no basis for published reports that the Moscow radio had reported fighting west of the Oder east of Berlin.

While German commentators continued to speak of the imminence of a Soviet offensive, the German high command communique—as it has done for more than a week — said: "No noteworthy fighting activity is reported along the front as far as the Pomeranian bay."

The official Nazi war bulletin—usually the first to exploit reports of Russian activity—added: "The enemy continues his offensive preparations in Silesia and on the lower Oder river."

Wider Use Of Beets And Carrots Urged

Despite heavy drains war is placing on the food supply, local meal planners are urged to buy and serve more carrots and beets, Dan Li Boyd, district representative, War Food administration's office of supply, has announced.

Both vegetables are plentiful and economically priced and within easy reach of meal planners' pocketbooks, he said. Besides adding variety to wartime meals, increased use now will help make the most of foods which must be consumed soon after they appear on consumer markets.

tion the body of Mr. Roosevelt was leaving Warm Springs for Washington funeral services tomorrow and burial at Hyde Park, N. Y., Sunday.

The body of the dead President was taken to the ten-car funeral train on a motor-hauled Army caisson.

Grief and mourning were worldwide.

Commons Pays Tribute

In London a hushed House of Commons adjourned out of respect to Mr. Roosevelt's memory. Prime Minister Churchill, his shoulders slumped by emotion, told commons of the passing of "this great departed statesman" x x x a "dear and cherished" friend.

Messages of condolences streamed in from every quarter of the globe.

The battle flags flew at half-mast over Okinawa.

In Washington, congressional leaders abondoned routine business and conferred instead of arranging a memorial service to the dead President. It probably will be next week.

The House stood in recess. The Senate, previously committed to a session, transacted no business.

Speeches Awaited

Mr. Truman's speeches to Congress and the fighting forces will be awaited impatiently by a world that knew intimately President Roosevelt — confident of world leaders—but knows little of his quiet-spoken, bespectacled successor.

Mr. Truman's first day at the White House followed the pattern he set for himself last night upon assuming the presidency: To follow the Roosevelt policies and press the war on all fronts.

The new President motored to th White House at 9 a. m., today to start his career as chief executive.

He was accompanied only by two old friends—Lt. Col. A. F. Holland of the office of inter-American affairs, and Ernest B. Vaccaro, the Associated Press reporter who covered his vice presidential campaign.

Meets War Chief

He went into immediate conference with white-haired Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, jr. Minutes later Mr. Truman closeted himself in a 48-minute conference with these war leaders:

Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy who was Mr. Roosevelt's chief of staff; Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of the Navy; General George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff; Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles of the Army Air forces and Secretaries Stimson of the War department and Forrestal of the Navy.

After the war conference Mr. Truman drove to capitol hill for a luncheon conference with his former congressional colleagues.

The White House announced that the new President will attend burial services for Mr. Roosevelt in Hyde Park Sunday. The White House services tomorrow will be a simple funeral rite in the East room of the mansion at 3 p. m., cwt. It will not be broadcast.

only Wednesday.

Clarkson's 33rd doughboys, who have battled fiercely defending Japanese in northern Luzon more than three months, captured Mt. Calugon and Asin town north of Baguio in Benguet province, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported in today's communique.

Japs Promise Big Doings

Baguio was the stronghold to which Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, Japanese commander of the Philippines, fled after American landings on Luzon Jan. 9. However, the general probably was evacuated weeks ago to be given another important command as MacArthur increased pressure on his hideout.

Tokyo radio, however, on Friday quoted a correspondent of the newspaper, Yomiuri-Hochi, "just returned from the Philippine front," as saying that "the full display" of Yamashita's strategy in the islands "is yet to come."

NEW YORK, April 13. (AP) — Mayor F. H. LaGuardia announced today that the War Production Board had asked him as president of the United States conference of mayors to petition mayors of all cities not to drape buildings in mourning because of the cotton shortage.

The mayor said the Washington office of the mayor's conference had requested all mayors to place President Roosevelt's name at the head of honor rolls listing deceased veterans.

Woman Confesses To 'Shipping' Baby

DALLAS, April 13. (AP)—A decision may be made tomorrow on whether to present to the Dallas county grand jury the case of a 30-year-old Dallas woman who said she sent her newborn baby through the mails to Palo Alto, Calif.

The woman was in the county jail after she calmly told Chief Deputy Sheriff Bill Decker and Chief of Detectives Will Fritz the child was born when she was alone in her Euclid street room. She carefully wrapped the baby and mailed it, she related.

The woman, a former Mississippi school teacher, made a two-page written statement and at first refused to name the father of the child.

Decker said the decision on whether to present the case to the grand jury or to file charges would be made after another conference with Dist. Atty. Dean Gauldin tomorrow.

The baby died of suffocation, an autopsy at Palo Alto revealed.

Memorial Service Set At Floydada

FLOYDADA, April 13. (Special)—Mayor Frank C. Herman today called on all business establishments to close tomorrow afternoon for a special open-air memorial service, honoring President Roosevelt, which is to be held at 3 o'clock on the courthouse lawn.

The service will consist of groups singing of patriotic selections, as well as speeches by local ministers and civic leaders.

Meanwhile, many residents of the town and numerous business houses brought out flags and raised them to half-mast position. All day little groups could be seen on the streets and in shops, soberly discussing the unexpected turn of events and the probable results of the change in leaders.
