Good Evening!
Of earthly goods, the best is a good wife; a bad, the bitterest curse of human life.

PANHANDLE'S OIL ALLOWABLE RAISED

QUACK SOUGHT IN JEWEL ROBBERY

'Twas a fine October day in New York, so Mrs. Marion Whitehead Pierce, right, ex-wife to both a beverage millionaire and to an heir of a woolens fortune, took a stroll in Central Park and fed peanuts to the ducks. All of a sudden—even quicker than that—one ingrate of a quicker snapped at her hand, and when she looked down a $10,000 black pearl was gone from the ring, shown on her hand. Mrs. Pierce pierced the air with her cries, which brought park guards, police, finally reporters, to the scene. A number of duck suspects, pictured at left, were arrested and held under observation for some evidence of guilt, as it were. Incidentally—Mrs. Pierce is opening on Broadway soon in both a night-club and a motion picture.

Movie Actor Plays Real Hero's Role In Rescuing Guest

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 25 (AP)—Lyle Talbot played a real life hero's role today as he dragged his house guest to safety in a fire that destroyed his $50,000 residence, but the movie actor's bravery ended his career before the cameras.

Talbot was burned about the hands, face and head, and his hair was burned from his scalp.

Trapped by flames on the second floor of his house with his guest, Franklin D. Parker, an actor, Talbot, although groggy from smoke and fumes, dragged the unconscious Parker from a bedroom to a narrow ledge, from which firemen later rescued him. Talbot leaped 20 feet to the ground after flames cut off his escape from the second floor.

Witnesses said Talbot's pajamas were in flames as he leaped from a window of the nine-room house. Parker, suffocating in his bed from smoke, was unconscious as Talbot ripped away his pajama coat and dragged him from the bedroom. the beds of both men were burned to the floor.

Parker suffered severe burns on his back. Both men were taken to a receiving hospital and later removed to the cedars of Lebanon hospital, where doctors said their condition was critical.

Police said they learned a party had been in progress at Talbot's home until early this morning and that the fire started after all the guests had departed except Parker, who was asked to spend the night as Talbot's guest. The flames started on the first floor, probably from a cigarette.

Murfee Now Executor Of Worley Will

J. E. Murfee Jr., by order of County Judge Sherman White, qualified as an independent executor and trustee of the will of Phebe A. Worley yesterday.

Albert Combs, who had previously qualified as independent executor and trustee, was continued as such.

John Roby, one of the original executors and trustees, died here Oct. 6 which necessitated appointment of Mr. Murfee who had been named as alternate executor by Mrs. Worley in her will.

The executors will file an inventory of the property of the estate soon.

Health Cards Vital, Social Worker Says

AUSTIN, Oct. 25, (AP) — R. F. Voyer, general director of the Texas Social Hygiene Association, asserted today thousands of Texas workers have jeopardized their right to benefits under the workmen's compensation act by failure to obtain health certificates.

He based his statement on a recent opinion of the Fort Worth court of civil appeals which set aside judgment of $7,398 awarded a bakery employe. The appellate court reversed a trial court's award because the worker had failed to provide himself with a health card.

"The opinion directly affects 350,000 Texans employed in hotels and food handling establishments who must forfeit their rights to benefits due them under the compensation act unless they have certificates based upon actual physical and laboratory tests," Voyer Said.

U. S. To End Case Against Karpis Gang

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 25 (AP)—Prosecutor Fred A. Isgrig indicated the government would complete voluminous testimony today through which it seeks to convict seven Hot Springs residents of conspiring to harbor former Public enemy, Alvin Karpis.

Defense attorneys prepared for an expected three days of testimony as the prosecution neared the end of efforts to link the accused with Karpis' movements while he was sought for the Edward Bremer kidnaping at St. Paul in 1934.

Fire Department Rescues Cat From Light Pole Top

The Pampa fire department turned Pampa Humane Society hounds this morning about 7:30 o'clock when they rescued a cat from the peak of a light pole near the Orange Courts in southeast Pampa.

Someone's cat-chasing-dog chased the cat up the pole last night and puss apparently couldn't get down. One of the firemen climbed the pole and rescued the cat which left for parts unknown as soon as it got close enough to the ground to jump.

He Begged For Food But Wives Gave Him Drinks

SHARON HILL, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—Richard McHenry, 67, had begged for food all afternoon, he told Justice of the Peace Charles Robinson, but kindly housewives gave him drinks instead. Robinson assured McHenry he'd eat for 10 days —prison fare.

Late News

TOKYO, Oct. 25. (AP)—Japan's capital tonight received the announcement of the fall of Hankow with an utter lack of excitement. Japanese leaders indicated a huge lantern parade would be organized tomorrow to celebrate the victory, but there was no evidence the celebration would be spontaneous.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—The National Citrus Conference adopted today a surplus disposal program for the season's record grapefruit crop, and prepared to adjourn after a nine-day session. The program, similar to one adopted last night for oranges contemplated government purchase of 5,000,000 boxes of grapefruit for distribution to needy persons. ...

Texans Cooperation With Wage Law Asked

AUSTIN, Oct. 25 (AP)—Gov. James V. Allred expressed hope today all citizens of Texas would cooperate in making operation of the new wages and hours laws a success.

"Possibly some defects will be found in it," he said, "but certainly its objectives are most commendable.

"I think it would be fine if all cities, counties and subdivisions of the government would put it into effect. I believe the state agencies already have in effect working conditions equal to or better than those sought by the law."

AND SO: THE 'MODEL MATE' GOES FREE IN SLAYING

"I feel swell," gasped happy "model husband" Rudolph Sikora, pictured after a Chicago jury acquitted him of a charge that he murdered Edward Solomon, the man who stole the love of his young wife with pretty words and suave manner. Equally jubilant was Sikora's mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Boehme, who rushed to kiss the man of whom the jury foreman said: "He acted in a way that should protect the sanctity of the American home." She sided with Sikora throughout the trial. But her daughter, Sikora's pretty 22-year-old wife Margaret, was not so pleased. "I ex- pected it," said she. refusing to comment on the possibility of a reconciliation with the husband who calmly shot her lover dead on a Chicago street last summer.

Chiang Kai Shek And Army Flee As Jap Forces Capture Hankow

By C. YATES McDANIEL.

HANKOW, Oct. 25 (AP)—Great fires were burning tonight in this former Chinese provincial capital, abandoned by the Chinese army to approaching Japanese. Japanese were said to have entered Hankow's environs, but where still far distant from the heart of the city.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 25 (AP)—The Japanese army and navy commands tonight announced that their forces had entered Hankow, China's provisional capital, abandoned by its defenders.

Altrough details were lacking, Japanese officers said units of both services had participated in the capture of the great city on the middle Yangtze river, major goal of the Japanese conquest since Nanking fell nearly 11 months ago.

The first detachment to enter apparently was an infantry column which previously had captured Hwangpei, 20 miles to the north, and then driven rapidly down the Peiping-Hankow railway.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, military and civil leader of the Chinese nation, was reported to have left Hankow by plane during the night, accompanied by his foremost aide, his American-educated wife.

Announcement of the Japanese entry into Hankow was made in a joint communique from China headquarters for the Japanese army and navy.

Naval officers said they believed Japanese warships had reached the great inland port 585 miles up the Yangtze, although exact positions of the vessels was not disclosed. Since Nanking's fall the navy has cooperated with the army in blasting a pathway up the river.

Units Cut Off

The last stages of the Japanese advances were made with such rapidity—overland from the northeast, along both banks of the Yangtze and up the river itself—that large units of Chinese were cut off.

The rapidly driving Japanese columns were said to have left several divisions in pockets to be cleaned up later, as motorized vanguards

Rumrich Certain He Could Obtain Passport Blanks

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—In spite of the uproar over the Robinson-Ruben passport affair, Guenther Gustav Rumrich, German secret agent, was confident he could procure passport blanks for Nazi spies, he testified today in federal court.

Rumrich made the statement under cross-examination by Benjamin Matthews, counsel for Erich Glaser, one of the three defendants on trial before Judge John C. Knox and a jury on espionage charges.

An attempt last February to get the passport blanks by telephoning the state department office here, requesting they be sent to a hotel, led to Rumrich's arrest and the seizure later of Glaser, Johanna Hofman and Otto Hermann Voss, co-defendants in the trial.

The Robinson-Ruben passport matter involved two Americans, traveling in Russia on passports containing false information.

"Had you read the newspapers on the Robinson-Ruben passport story?" demanded Matthews.

Rumrich said he had.

"You knew then that there was nothing more dangerous than trying to get passport blanks?"

Oil Production In Last Week Drops

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 25 (AP)—A decrease of 28,261 barrels daily in the nation's production of crude oil brought the daily average for the week ending Oct. 22 down to 3,246,507 barrels daily, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

Oklahoma showed a decline of 6,375 barrels daily and an average of 450,775. East Texas was up 101 barrels daily to 369 850 and the total state of Texas had a drop of 1,601 barrels daily to an average of 1,247,094.

Louisiana's production dropped 1,753 barrels daily to 266,598. California showed a decrease of 13,600 barrels daily to 688,900 and Kansas was off 1,525 barrels daily for an average of 153,750.

WPA Work Program Will Be Discussed

George Lider and Cliford Davis of the Amarillo WPA offices are scheduled to meet with Gray county commissioners and city commissioners tomorrow afternoon to discuss the county and city work program for the winter months.

The number of persons on WPA work or eligible for WPA jobs at the close of this month will be considered the winter load and none will be added, according to information received today by City Manager W. T. Williamson.

At the present time WPA projects include the McClellan Lake, citywide street paving, demolition of the grandstand at Fairground park, the sewing room, etc.

Oil Fire Under Santa Fe Engine Extinguished

Oil under a Santa Fe engine caught fire at 9:30 o'clock this morning necessitating a run by the Pampa fire department. The oil, Santa Fe officials told Fire Chief Ben White, had spilled yesterday afternoon and when an engine stopped at the same spot this morning the oil ignited.

The blaze shot up one side of the engine, partially burning one of the curtains in the cab. The engineer moved the engine as soon as the fire was discovered and firemen smothered the blaze with water.

Housekeepers Go To School In WPA Project

A dozen Pampa women are learning how to improve themselves as housekeepers and to put this knowledge to practical humanitarian use at the WPA housekeeping project recently opened at a house located one-half block east of the Five Points.

The house, a five-room structure, purchased by the Salvation Army, was moved into Pampa and the dwelling is being remodeled and beautified. The county rents the house from the Salvation Army for a nine-months period. Under the WPA plan, it was necessary that the county provide a center for the project.

Purpose of the project is the employment of persons who need work, and training them in housekeeping, cleaning, nursing and other practical household duties.

The women are taught how to prepare menus at low cost, make up well balanced menus, do laun-

Plans Finished To Widen Cuyler Bridge

City engineers have finished plans and specifications for widening of the bridge on North Cuyler street leading to the Cook addition, City Manager W. T. Williamson announced today.

The plans will be submitted to the WPA office in San Antonio for final approval soon.

Plans call for a 34-foot wide bridge plus pedestrian lanes.

Do You Want To Rent This House?

This story may read like a commercial announcement because it concerns a house that is for rent, but it is more of an act of mercy and kindness.

Maybe you want to rent a house—a nice three-room house with bath, on a street that is soon to be paved, in a nice neighborhood. If you do want to rent such a house call for The Roving Reporter at The News.

Here's why the house has got to be rented. It is owned by a boy who should be in school but isn't. If he can rent the house the money will enable him to go to school. Meanwhile, the boy isn't getting along so hot just doing nothing. Anyway, the house is a bargain. Renters will have to put up the utilities deposits.

Five Suits Filed On Texas Chain Stores

AUSTIN, Oct. 25 (AP)—The comptroller's department has started cracking down on firms accused of attempting to evade the chain store tax law.

The department said today five suits had been filed in county court at Houston. One of the alleged delinquent taxpayers pleaded guilty and the other four cases have been set for trial in early November.

In addition to the $4.50 tax, the person pleading guilty was required to pay a penalty of $25, the minimum under the law, and court costs of $23.40, the comptroller said.

Chain store tax collections for the three years since the law was enacted aggregate $2,150,000 or about $700,000 annually.

Shutdowns In Fields Will Be Continued

Holidays Will Be Lifted Entirely At First Of New Year

AUSTIN, Oct. 25 (AP)—The State Railroad Commission today ordered the Saturday and Sunday shutdowns of Texas oil fields continued through November.

The basic allowable for the new month was set about 4,000 barrels higher daily than in the previous 30-day period. Considering deductions for the two-day weekly closings, it was 1,279,653 for November, compared with 1,275,122 for October.

The Federal Bureau of Mines had estimated Texas' share of the national market demand in November was 1,371,000 barrels daily. The basic allowable was 91,347 barrels under the bureau's estimate.

The closings on Sundays had been in effect since last January and those on Saturdays for several months but recently agitation for their lifting had been growing.

The commissioner said the holidays would be reduced to one day a week in December and be lifted entirely in January.

Closings of at least one day a week have been effective in Texas since January 15. There were two day hplidays through most of May, June, September and October.

At a statewide hearing two weeks ago the Railroad Commission, which administers oil and gas conservation laws in Texas, heard arguments on the desirability on continuing or removing the restrictions.

Texas Labor Chief To Confer On Law

AUSTIN, Oct. 25 (AP)—State Labor Commissioner Fred E. Nichols has been called to a three-day conference, Nov. 14-16, with U. S. Wage-Hour Administrator Elmer Andrews in Washington.

Nichols said he would discuss plans and recommendations for federal-state cooperation in the newly effective wage-hour legislation.

Nichols said he had not been informed whether the state labor department would be asked to help administer the new law in Texas or whether the national administration would set up an independent office but expected to learn more details at the conference.

He added it was probable there would be a discussion of uniform state statutes to supplement the federal legislation.

Bishop Says Birth Control Dangerous

BILOXI, Miss., Oct. 25 (AP)—Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel of New Orleans, told the National Council of Catholic Women today the "diabolical philosophy of birth control is suicide to the nation."

He warned his listeners to "watch the new tactics of the birth control'ers, especially the maternity guilds." Birth control, he asserted, is morally and patriotically dangerous.

"It is what President Theodore Roosevelt called 'race suicide'." The archbishop said. "I am afraid we have been calling it by all sorts of fancy names, but this diabolical philosophy of birth control is suicide to the nation."

146 Collisions Due To Right-Of-Way Violations

AUSTIN, Oct. 25 (AP)—State police today blamed 146 of September's 1,173 traffic collisions on drivers who did not observe right-of-way regulations.

In an analysis of accident causes they discovered 129 more involved drinking drivers while 122 additional resulted when observers drove too close to the center of highways and streets. Seventy-seven were blamed on speed and 50 on improper passing of other vehicles.

Talley Sells 18 Head Of Herefords To Oklahoman

MIAMI, Oct. 25—Eighteen heads of registered Herefords have been sold to Pat Hamilton of Oklahoma City by Mrs. B. F. Talley of Miami. The cattle were shipped to market in Oklahoma today. Mr. Hamilton also bought 113 cattle from Mrs. Talley in 1936 and sold them two weeks ago as two-year-olds at his Oklahoma ranch.

150 Tickets Must Be Sold To Assure Train

In order to secure a special train game in Amarillo Saturday, 150 tickets must be sold at $1.10 each. To date not more than a dozen ducats have been sold and fans are urged to secure theirs immediately so that the train can be assured.

Tickets are available at the Santa Fe Railroad ticket office and at the office of the school business manager in the city hall.

School officials have announced that the band and pep squad will make the trip by bus.

The train will leave at 12:35 p. m., arriving on the siding adjacent to Butler Field at 1:45 p. m, which will allow 45 minutes for fans to secure their accommodations in the grandstand. The departure would be at 5:45 p. m.

Witness Charges Communist Plot On Agriculture

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP) — House investigators of un-American activties heard testimony today California's agricultural industry had been a "major focal point" for Communist party attack the last five years.

Harper Knowles of Oakland and Ray Nimmo of Los Angeles, representing the radical research committee of the California American Legion, told the Dies committee this branch of Communists' activity was "a forerunner of their intention to overthrow the government of the United States."

One of the significant features, Knowles said, had been "the great assistance given to the agitators in the agricultural field by the International Longshoremen's Association of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific.

"We charge," he said, "that it has been done with the deliberate attempt and purpose of tying up the movement of foodstuffs from rural

Hutchins Criticizes Educational System

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, today criticized the modern educational system as "a large scale housing venture" which fails to develop freedom of thought.

To this lack of freedom he ascribed the major ills of the modern world.

Dr. Hutchins' address, "The Free Mind," was delivered to the first session of the New York Herald Tribune 1938 forum on current problems.

The opening address was delivered by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who spoke to the forum by radio from Cincinnati on "Youth's Contribution In Keeping the Mind of the Nation Young."

Mrs. Roosevelt, in her address, said: "If we are going to keep ourselves ready to face the world of tomorrow, we must listen to young people. We will not always agree with them and they will not always be right, but the majority among them will help us to approach new ideas with an inquiring mind."

Soviets Urge United Front Against Japan

MOSCOW, Oct. 25 (AP)—Le Journal de Moscou which frequently voices the views of competent Soviet circles, printed a front-page appeal today to peaceful nations of the world to unite for collective action against aggressors.

Under the caption "The Hour of Reckoning Strikes," the newspaper pointed out that Japan quickly took advantage of the four-power Munich settlement Oct. 1 to move ruthlessly into China regardless of British interests.

Jail Elevator Goes Out And Deputies Hoof It

For the first time since the present sheriff's officers can remember, it was "boots, boots, boots" all the way up from the first floor of the courthouse to the jail, located on the fourth floor, when a strand of safety cable of the courthouse elevator was warped and twisted this morning.

The elevator could be operated but it was a halting, bumpy process, so repairmen were called about 8:30 o'clock and worked for an hour and a half repairing the damage. A new cable will probably be installed soon, the sheriff's office said.

Adjustment To Be Made By Shellers

HOUSTON, Oct. 25 (AP)—Fred F. Dexter Jr., president of the Pecan Shellers' Cooperative of Houston, said today shelling plants in Texas will remain closed until some adjustment in the new wage and hour law can be made.

He said his plant, which formerly has employed 300 to 500 women and girls each season, will not be opened this season, and said that plants at Dallas and Seguin were shut down yesterday. The workers are paid an average of 15 cents an hour.

The new federal law, he explained, would force the price of pecans up to about 75 cents a pound, prohibitin competition with walnuts, brazil nuts, almonds and cashews, which normally sell for not over 40 cents a pound.

Even Dogs Lost As Fog Covers London

LONDON, Oct. 25 (AP)—Londoners groped their way to work today in fog so thick that even dogs got lost.

Road, rail, sea and air traffic was slowed to a crawl or stopped in grimy darkness that blanketed a 40-mile circle around the capital.

Six greyhounds racing at the North London track lost their way on a far curve and kennel boys had to go out to find them.

Local Telegraph Companies Say They'll Comply With Wage Law

The local office of the Western Union Telegraph company has been notified to comply in every way with the Wages and Hours act, Manager Bob Watson reported today. Mrs. James Jackson, manager of the Postal Telegraph company, received the same instructions from her company.

Western Union placed an extra operator on the staff yesterday, reduced the hours of all employes, including the manager, and increased the pay of messenger boys to meet the standard set by law. The amount of the increase was not contained in the message.

Until final adjustment can be made, the local office of the Postal Telegraph will be open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. or closing three hours earlier than usual. Hours of boys will be reduced and salaries raised to comply, according to the message.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—The Postal Telegraph company today continued its plan to lay off 1,000 messengers as the American Communications Association (CIO) pressed its orders for a "slow down" of work in an effort to obtain a 44-hour week from the company under the new Wage and Hour Act.

C. B. Alsopp, vice-president in charge of commercial departments of postal, announced the lay-off last night, saying the company found it necessary to "protect its financial position."

Recently the company petitioned Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour anministrator, for permission to pay its messengers less than the 25-cents an-hour minimum required under the act. Alsop said the layoff decision was reached without consultation with the Western Union Telegraph company which had also asked exemption.

Leaders of the American Communications association claimed its "slow down" order had retarded the handling of messages from 50 to 60 per cent. The company, it was said, maintains a work week of slightly more than 46 hours.

The labor leaders claimed 13,000 of the company's 17,000 employes were involved in the "slow down."

Three Boys Released From Jail After Slipping Into Local Show

Three boys who were arrested and jailed Sunday night for slipping into a local movie theater through the back door, were released this morning. Two of the boys each of whom was 15 years old were released from jail yesterday noon, and the third boy, 17 years old, was released this morning.

The three boys, their parents and guardians appeared before County Attorney Joe Gordon who was empowered by County Judge Sherman White to act in the disposition of the case. The two lads who were released from jail yesterday were required to return this morning with their parents and guardians for final disposition of their cases.

The legal right of the county to incarcerate the two 15-year-old boys was challenged by two persons present this morning. The visit of Mrs. Violet Greenhill, chief of the division of child welfare, Austin, to Pampa several years ago was recalled. At that time Mrs. Greenhill insisted that juveniles under 17 years of age could not be jailed, and after she had read the supreme court's interpretation of the statute she secured the release of two boys under 17 who were being held in jail at the time.

MODERN MENUS

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

Cookies must be invited to every informal party. So let's toss up a batch for Hallowe'en and make them something to wonder at.

Skull and Crossbone Cookies.

DOUGH: One cup butter, 2 cups granulated sugar, 2 eggs, ½ cup thick cooked pumpkin, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 6 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons mace.

FILLING: One and one-half cups cocked prunes, 1 cup cubed orange, 1 cup liquid in which prunes were cooked,1 cup chopped nut meats, 6 tablespoons butter, 6 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons cinnamon.

DOUGH: Cream butter, add sugar and cream thoroughly. Add beaten eggs, pumpkin and flavoring and beat. Add flour sifted with salt, soda and spice and mix. Divide into pieces of convenient size to handle, place on floured board, add sufficient flour to make rolling easy, and roll out thin. Cut with floured cookie cutter into rather large rounds.

From one-half of rounds, cut small round holes for eyes, a slit for a nose and a gash for a mouth. Place on cookie sheet. Pull "mouth" down in "face" rounds to give an open mouth appearance.

Bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) 12 to 14 minutes. Roll crossbones from thin lengths of cookie dough, making ends thick and rounded, and bake.

FILLING: Pit prunes and cut into small pieces. Combine all ingredients in a saucepan and stir until well blended. Bring to a boil and cook and stir until very thick (about 5 minutes); cool.

Spread plain cookie rounds with prune filling and cover with "face" rounds. Frost with pale butter and sugar icing, frosting around eyes, nose and mouth. Frost ends of crossbones and place under each "skull" on serving plate.

Keep the menu simple yet sturdy. Have one large center dish of a hot food, such as highly flavored baked beans, spaghetti and ham in casserole or a platter with stacks of steaming frankfurters piled on it.

Salad is always welcome, but celery, olives, radishes, carrot strips, can take its place and require less service. Assorted breads, sliced and buttered, or small hot biscuits, buttered, cookies, doughnuts, individual pumpkin pies, bowls of autumn fruits, especially apples, yellow candies, popcorn, unlimited supplies of hot coffee, fresh cider or ginger ale will complete the hearty feast for the witches, black cats and spooks who have a way of eating like hungry human beings on Hallowe'en.

Layman Leader To Be Guest Speaker At Banquet Tonight

R. A. Springer, state layman leader of Texas, will be the principal speaker at the banquet for officers and teachers of the First Baptist Church this evening at 7 o'clock.

A male quartet from the First Baptist Church at Borger will bring a musical program of special numbers.

Department recognitions will be one of the features of the evening with Mrs. O. A. Davis being the only one recognized having the gold seal.

Members of the Young Business Girls class will serve the banquet.

WET BLADES CUT NEATLY

When preparing marshmallows for use in salads, cakes or puddings, wet the blades before dicing the marshmallows with scissors to prevent sticking and ragged edges.

Health Chairman Gives Report For Panhandle P-TA

PANHANDLE, Oct. 25.—A total of 215 pupils of the third, fifth, and seventh grades in the Panhandle schools have been given physical examinations, had weight, eyes, nose, throat, and teeth checked, it was reported at the regular monthly meeting of the Panhandle Parent-Teacher association held last week in the high school auditorium.

Mrs. J. B Howe, health chairman, reported that 35 children had been immunized against diphtheria and 50 against smallpox at the free clinic, sponsored by the P.-T. A., with Dr. O. York and Miss Fay Lockhart, county health nurse, contributing their services.

Announcements were made of the winners in three contests: Miss Ida Lee Cope's first grade, for securing the most members; Miss Helen Rahlf's sixth grade, $1 attendance award. Miss Bonnie Gierhart's fourth gade, for having the most fathers of pupils present at meetings.

Mrs. J. S. Sparks, membership chairman, announced 200 members had been secured through the membership drive.

Refreshments of pumpkin pie, whipped cream, and coffee were served to the 125 attending the monthly meeting by the seventh grade mothers.

Czechs Will Draft Answer To Hungary

PRAGUE, Oct. 25 (AP)—The three governments of Czechoslovakia—national, Slovak and Ruthenian—assembled in joint session today to decide on the republic's reply to Hungarian territorial demands.

The meeting was directed by the premier, Gen. Jan Syrovy, with the assistance of Slovak Premier Joseph Tiso and Ruthenian Premier Andrew Brody.

Informed political sources said Czechoslovakia's response to the Hungarian demands already had been outlined in general terms. The purpose of today's meeting, these sources said, was to determine definitely which areas Czechoslovakia might cede and which she would insist on keeping. The premiers were accompanied to the meeting by their ministers.

The Czechoslovak general staff in its first bulletin in three days reported the resumption of Hungarian terrorist skirmishes in Ruthenia. A communique said one Czechoslovak gendarme was killed and seven injured during fighting at Svalava, near the Hungarian border.

The attacking Hungarians were said to have been led by regular army officers and to have been armed with rifles and machine guns. The general staff also reported the Hungarians had bombed a bridge near the commune of Poplazy, causing heavy damage.

The communique said a Hungarian radio broadcast had disclosed that war veterans were being organized as the "order of heroes" and that veterans joining the order were being promised free land in regions which Hungary is given by Czechoslovakia.

Japan Apologizes For Bombing Ship

LONDON, Oct. 25. (AP)—An official source said today that Japan's vice-minister for foreign affairs had expressed "deep regret" for the bombing of the British river gunboat Sandpiper by Japanese warplanes.

The Japanese regrets were conveyed to Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, British ambassador at Tokyo. The vice-minister promised a full inquiry into the affair.

The Sandpiper, bombed Sunday at Changsha, 200 miles southwest of Hankow, suffered damage to her superstructure but there were no casualties.

Grapefruit Surplus Problem Faces New Obstacles At Meet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—A dispute over Florida's proposed marketing agreement and a demand for federal diversion subsidies stood in the way of adoption of a program today to tackle the acute grapefruit surplus.

As the National Citrus Conference entered its ninth day, a determined Florida group argued the program which the AAA indicated willingness to approve would not solve the problem.

This plan, similar to that adopted yesterday for oranges, contemplated government purchases of grapefruit for relief distribution and an agreement by the industry to keep low grade fruit off the market.

The AAA refused to subsidize the diversion of low grade grapefruit into non-competitive manufactures, such as fertilized and livestock feeds. Officials declared this was the duty of the industry.

Market Briefs

LEAD WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Profit takers shoved stocks around somewhat roughly in today's market but leading issues managed to hold on to sizable proportions of early gains running to 2 or more points.

Steels, lagging during the greater part of the proceedings, came up for a while in late dealing, but failed to get very far. Some listless motors of the forenoon developed a little strength. A few rubbers advanced at the last. Aircrafts and utilities were favored throughout.

The list got off ot a fast start, with the ticker tape behind for a brief interval as overnight buying orders taxed the facilities of brokerage offices. Selling soon halted the advance and best marks were chipped down. The pace was comparatively slow during the remainder of the session. Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares.

Convicts To Be Shipped To Dread Guiana Islands

PARIS, Oct. 25 (AP)—The newspaper Paris Midi said today Premier Edouard Daladier's government had decided to revive the practice of shipping French convicts to the dreaded French Guinea Islands.

It reported the practice, banned by Leon Blum when he became premier in June, 1936, would be resumed Nov. 20, when the prison ship La Martiniere will transport prisoners from St. Lazaire in its iron cages to the three notorious islands, including Devil's Island, off South America.

Few Workers Lost Jobs In Texas Plants

(By The Associated Press)

Relatively few workers found themselves without jobs today as Texas industries adjusted themselves to limits imposed by the wage-hour law.

San Antonio reported approximately 15,000 persons were at least temporarily out of work. Of these, 12,000 were in the pecan shelling industry and between 2,500 and 3,000 in garment manufacture. A representative of the pecan processors was in Washington seeking an adjustment.

Sherman, a milling center, reported the new law shortened hours at two plants from 48 to 44 and put from six to eight persons back on the payrolls at five factories. Most manufacturing plants there already had conformed.

At Abilene, the Southwestern Peanut company was virtually shut down as 38 women and 10 men were laid off. One clothing factory let out 10 women and another 14, but these were still operating on a piece work basis.

Charles Robertson, Fort Worth pecan processor said it would be "absolutely impossible" for that industry to conform. He predicted collapse of the pecan market and the continued unemployment of 1,000 workers. Similar difficulties were seen at Dallas, Tyler, and other centers.

The Lions club Troop 16 met Monday night in the First Methodist church for their October Board of Review. The board was composed of F. E. Leech, Howard Neath, and V. L. Boyles and Rayburn Thompson, of Troop 80.

Winfred Bowerman, Darrell Hogset, LeRoy Hogue and Billy Evans passed requirements for second class Scouts.

Billy Erwin passed requirements for first class.

Merit badges were passed by the following: R. L. Hall, first aid to animals, carpentry; N. L. Cummings, pathfinding, first aid to animals; Ross Buzzard, hiking, cycling. Scoutmaster Wilmer Postma, hiking, cycling; Royce Cupp, first aid.

Attending the meeting were Ross Buzzard, Royce Cupp, Belton Bearden, N. L. Cummings, Winfred Bowerman, Tommy Joe Bowerman, Darrell Hogsett, Billy Evans, Ernest Miller, J. S. Butler, Junior Comstock, R. L. Hall, Billy Hudgins, Calvin Kennedy, LeRoy Hogue, Walter Willson, Robert Willson, Billy Erwin, Duane Hogsett and 8 visitors.

The Rattlesnake patrol led in attendance with the Blackhawks next and the Flaming Arrow third. The Lions tail was in last place.

Missing from the meeting were Robert Huff, Richard Huff, Allen Mann, Buddy Wilson, Wilber Paronto, Bob Smith, all life scouts; Eddie Riley, star; Harold Smith, eagle; Junior Henson, second class.

Scoutmaster Postma and Junior Scoutmaster Ben Horn were in charge. Next meeting will be next Monday night and an invitation is extended to members and boys interested in Scouting to attend.

Here's An Opportunity For Straight Thinking

The world is governed more and more by emotion, and less and less by thought. That is the greatest danger of our day.

If any sanity and decency is to be kept in the world, people must think more. That means all people, not just the leaders.

That is harder than just to shout "Hooray!" or "Boo!" But it must be done.

Let's take a laboratory example, the latest Lindbergh affair. Chances are that one either considers Lindbergh a nasty Fascist spy who intrigued against the Soviet Union, or a wise observer who served peace and the world by telling the truth about the Russian air force, in quarters where that knowledge was badly needed.

Yet how far is one justified in drawing either conclusion? Let's re-survey the facts, and see whether opinion is conditioned by feelings toward Russia, the Soviets, Hitler, Chamberlain, or by known facts.

Lindbergh went to Russia. He was entertained by Russian airmen with the usual courtesies, and shown as much of Russian air strength as the Russians cared to show.

He returned to England. Several magazines there printed a rumor that Lindbergh had made certain comments uncomplimentary to the Russian air force at a social event and to persons of influence in the British government.

His Russian host-aviators immediatly came out with a violent statement condemning Lindbergh as a paid liar and a Fascist spy. The world promptly took sides. Lindbergh himself remained silent.

Beyond the published rumor, how much actual proof has been shown that Lindbergh said the things attributed to him. Very little. The central fact of the whole affair remains unverified.

Assuming, however, that Lindberg said the things attributed to him, were they true? Obviously the effectiveness of any air force before actual test in war is a matter of opinion. It is not a matter on which to use terms like "liar." There can be no proof.

Now the third accusation: that Lindbergh was a paid spy for Fascism, and made such a report on Russian aviation purely to influence Britain against opposing Hitler. That is a nasty accusation. It ought not to have been made without the strongest evidence. But is there any evidence? None at all. It is a plausible-sounding hypothesis, but of proof there is not an iota.

There belief-hurdles have been quickly leaped by many people in this affair. They concluded: 1. Lindbergh said or did not say what he was reported to have said. 2. It was or was not true. 3. It was or was not said with the worst kind of ulterior motive. Yet all three conclusions rest on assumptions not proved.

All these things were reported in some detail by the newspapers, and properly so, because they were news. But if ever there was a case for suspended judgement on the part of the reader, this is it. The whole thing is a question of fact, and the fact is by no means established.

This is the kind of testing and searching which Americans must apply to all news, especially foreign news, these days if we are to choose a course that is wise and just, and not merely be blown on winds of passion and demagoguery.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—New York has a two-price system. Boston has another. In each city milk is sold to poor people at much less than the regular retail price.

Both systems are based on recognition of the fact that families with very low incomes cannot buy the minimum amount of milk required for good health—plus the fact that surplusages of milk are an ever-present problem for farmers.

The Boston plan, under which WPA families buy milk at two cents a quart while most Boston families pay 12 or 13 cents a quart, operates on a substantial federal subsidy. The New York plan involves no subsidy except the municipal contribution of supervision, which in effect is a protection for retail stores against the possibility that others than the very poor might be able to buy milk at eight cents a quart at the city milk depots.

Although neither plan can be said to be a model on which the Department of Agriculture is sure to base a two-price system for any specific farm product, both are usually mentioned in any discussion of the two-price idea by the two-price thinkers. Each is separate from plans under which municipalities give free milk to destitute families.

TWO CENTS IN BOSTON

In Boston the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, which ordinarily only buys surplus commodities from farmers to give them away through state and local agencies to those on direct relief, buys milk at the Class 1 price—which means most of it at 7½ cents a quart—and gives it to the city. The city pays two cents a quart to commercial milk companies for pasteurizing and bottling, whereupon the milk is available—to WPA families only—at two cents. Behind all this is a federal effort to hold up the Class 1 fluid milk price for New England farmers. Milk classed under federal order as "surplus"—the same kind of milk—is sold at less than three cents a quart. Theoretically this milk might be bought at such a price and sold to the poor at that price plus a possible three cents for processing and distribution cost.

In New York the formal delivered price for milk is 13 3-4 cents a quart and the store price runs between 11 and 13 cents, usually settling at 12. But if you have a certain blue identification card, you can go to one of the 110 city milk depots and buy practically the same quart—a shade less butterfat—at eight cents. This also is Class 1 fluid milk. Farmers get 5.3 cents a quart for it, which means 6.25 or 6.5 cents delivered in the city. Milk distributing corporations buy it and deliver it to the depots for sale at eight cents to the blue card holders.

To get a card, the head of a family must sign a statement that he is unable to buy milk at the regular store price, state the number of people in his family and the number on welfare or home relief. The way it works out, most of the depot customers are persons on direct relief or WPA. Cards must be renewed every three months.

DEPOTS OPEN TWO HOURS

Depots open at 6:30 a. m. and remain open until 8:30. A truck drives up and unloads trays of milk bottles. An attendant passes out the milk to people standing in line. Another checks milk cards to see how much each customer is entitled to. Cards are punched. The man who sells the milk works for the company. The man who checks and punches cards usually is a WPA worker provided by the city. Depots usually are vacant stores or baby health centers. Thus the city incurs no extra cost for handling, refrigeration, rent and so on. Presumably the milk companies lose no money on the deal. They dispatch one truck only to a given spot, sell in very little time without solicitation, suffer no bottle losses because customers must present empties.

Inconvenience to the customer is at least partial guarantee against "chiseling" by those able to afford higher priced milk. An average of more than 45,000 quarts a day is sold thus to about 15,000 families—perhaps 75,000 persons. The biggest day sold 82,000 quarts. In one way or another it may be illuminating to note that persons standing in the eight-cent milk line, never well-dressed, often hide their heads at the approach of a photographer. The New York system now has been operated for four years.

EFFECTS OF PUBLIC EDUCATION ON SOCIAL WELL-BEING

As the writer has had considerable to say on the kind of education taught in public schools and colleges and its effect on lowering the real wages of the workers and throwing millions of people out of work, a statement made by Gustave LeBon, the great French scientist and educator, is very much to the point. This quotation was reprinted by William J. Baxter in his recent book published in August of this year, under the name of "America Faces a Complete Breakdown of Government and Business." Mr. Baxter is attempting to show that the spending of money of the United States government is not nearly as serious as the habits the people of the country have adopted. He names six of them that he believes will have to be corrected before we can return to a strong, productive nation. The first of the six he mentions is "Public education as a breeding ground for Leftists." He says that LeBon wrote many years ago, on this same subject, as follows:

"Foremost among the dominant ideas of the present epoch is to be found the notion that education is capable of considerably changing men, and has for its unfailing consequences to improve them and even to make them equal.

"On this point, however, as on many other, democratic ideas are in profound disagreement with the results of psychology and experience. Many eminent philosophers, among them, Herbert Spencer, have had no difficulty in showing that education neither renders a man more moral nor happier.

"I have myself shown in a book published some time ago that the French system of education transforms the majority of those who have undergone it into enemies of society and recruits numerous disciples for the worst forms of socialism. The primary danger of this system of education consists in the fact that it is based on the fundamental psychological error that the intelligence is developed by the learning by heart of text books. Adopting this view the endeavor has been made to enforce a knowledge of as many handbooks as possible—but this system represents a far more serious danger. It gives those who have been submitted to it a violent dislike to the state of life in which they were born, and an intense desire to escape from it. The working man no longer wishes to remain a working man, or the peasant to continue a peasant, while the most humble members of the middle class admit of no possible career for their sons except that of state paid functionaries. * *

"The acquisition of knowledge for which no use can be found is a sure method of driving a man to revolt."

Mr. Baxter concludes by saying: "As regards this new 'habit' of excessive education, I believe that under our system of democracy (which in practice consists of the organization of certain selfish groups) not only is there little chance of this situation being corrected, but the disease will become more aggravated with time."

The next time a public educator tells you that practical democracy can be saved by public education, ask him to give some evidence to substantiate his claim.

"BETTER REIGN IN HELL THAN SERVE IN HEAVEN"

As one hears the short cuts to Utopias, advocated by the candidates seeking office, that seem too absurd to be believed by the candidates, one is reminded of the supreme selfishness of these candidates.

Harry Fosdick, in his "Meaning of Service," quotes Milton's Satan as saying, "It is better to reign in Hell than serve in Heaven."

These candidates are perfectly willing to make a Hell on earth by throwing millions of people out of work and lowering the real wages of millions of people, if they can be prominent with a good salary and a position of supposed-to-be prestige.

They would much rather do this, as the quotation says, than hold a position of real service and sacrifice in our country by fulfilling the tasks that nature qualified them to fulfill.

The next time you hear a candidate or public educator offering short cuts to Utopia, consider whether he believes it is better to "reign in Hell than serve in Heaven."

When a preacher, a public professor, a newspaper writer or a politician refuses to explain how he would bring about the desired objectives he advocates, you can put it down as a logical conclusion that he is not really unselfish, not really interested in serving humanity, but only interested in having and holding his job, whether or not it makes a Hell out of our country.

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Whitney Bourne is one of those people you hear about, and practically everything you hear sounds like an act.

She dresses startlingly (you hear) with a happy disregard for fashion, yet manages to look chickie (as we don't say in Paris) and grab attention wherever she goes.

She favors evening gowns and slacks, with nothing in wardrobe for in-between occasions. Faced with such an apparel crisis, she'll merely "adapt" one or another of her favorite costumes.

You hear she moved from a $150 apartment in Hollywood to a big-time house in Brentwood with big lawns front and back and more shrubbery than you can count. Economy measure, she said. Then she spent a small fortune redecorating, repainting, rebuilding, reshrubbing.

She drives like the wind, has wrapped her car around a tree at least once — herself escaping scratchless—and she's a creature of mad impulses, wild enthusiasms, reckless generosity, and whimsical fancies. She is, in other words, a Personality.

..That's what you hear—so I went to see.

You get sick and tired of acts after a few years in Hollywood. You suffer slight nausea every time you hear the name of Garbo, which may be unfair of you. You wish K. Hepburn would decide which role she's playing and stick to it. You wish all the big fry and the small fry would be themselves.

Well, Whitney Bourne may be an act but I think not. At any rate, she's a very interesting one.

The day I called she was in the throes. Breathless, Telephones and doorbells ringing. Her maid Marie housecleaning too. All that hardware on her arm, jangling like the boss's buzzer on a morning after, showed it. She'd been cleaning out dresser drawers and couldn't find any place to put those bracelets. So she wore them.

..She wore, too, flowered lounging pajamas, straw slippers, and her hair in its usual long, waveless, pale golden bob. She is blue-eyed, fair-complexioned, and very tall.

Amid all the confusion—she has a rather flattering way of including callers in it—I gathered a few items about Miss B., to wit:

She isn't really a "mad" person as she's pictured—in fact she dislikes "mad" people. She dresses as she does because she likes to dress as she does—and its fun.

She likes fun. She's having a lot of fun even if not much of a movie career. She's practically hopeless on the movie score now. Her option comes up in January and she knows there isn't a contract-extending role in sight. She knows because she has read all the scripts.

She's afraid it's going to be embarrassing, going back to New York without having done more in pictures than she has. ("Flight From Glory," "Love in a Basement," "Double Danger," "Blind Alibi," a small part in "The Mad Miss Manton," etc.)

Her grandfather invented a famous sewing machine, but sold out before the fortune came. Her parents sent her to school in Paris. The itch to act made her run away at 15. She applied to the Comedie Francaise, but she did her acting—and starving—at a little Parisian experimental theater. Gilbert Miller saw her there, invited her to New York, and she clicked. Made the movie, "Crime Without Passion," also, and eventually Hollywood.

She walked out on her own debut party.

She isn't exactly—er—practical. But she is herself—and not an act.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

There are some people who never talk about themselves, or tell what they do or can do, so it is always one pleasant surprise after another when one discovers their virtues one by one. So it was with Lambert Marks, the high school Spanish and Latin teacher. The other day the subject was brought up and he mentioned casually that he had a flute, but he said deprecatingly that he couldn't play it very well, but we knew he was good at under-statement so we dragged him to a piano and got an accompanist for him. He got out his flute—a sterling silver instrument that his mother gave him when he was about 12, and played . . . "Lo, lo, the Gentle Lark," "The Wren." And to this one the music sounded as fine as that of the last flute-player we heard — Galli-Curci's accompanist. Anyway, it sounded very good. Under severe questioning he finally admitted that he got his "best practice" while playing in a Los Angeles symphony . . . Marks is an interesting fellow otherwise. He reads more books in Spanish than he does in English. He passes for a native in Mexico where he taught for a year. His mastery of the Mexican language makes the Mexicans forget his light skin and blue eyes. He has a large library of books by Mexican writers. He has lived in Los Angeles all his life but has never tried to see the movie stars—he has seen some by accident. He remarked dryly that he has heard so much about Hollywood he's thinking of seeing the sights when he gets back! Mr. Marks has a Master of Arts degree from the University of Southern California. Last year he taught in a private school for boys. He has about 150 in his Spanish and Latin classes. . . . Oh, yes, Mr. Marks also has two piccolos, one for band and one for orchestra, and he can play them, but doesn't.

RATS, MICE AND MEN

Rats and mice have always been unwelcome guests in man's household. They have lived, multiplied, and thrived on the foods of his larder. There is, therefore, some poetic justice in the use which man has made of rats and mice in medical research.

To be just to the facts, we must observe that the laboratory rat and mouse are seldom of the wild types but rather are especially bred in controlled environments.

Rats have been particularly useful in the study of normal and the deficient diets. The life cycle of the rat is well known. Its anatomy and physiology have been studied as throughly as the anatomy of man.

The rat, like man, is an omnivorous animal. There is a definite ratio between the rate of its aging process and that of man. The white rat grows 30 times as fast as man.

In many ways, therefore, the life cycle of the rat represents a condensation of man's life.

By employing the white rat in our experiments we may gather in a few months the data which if studied in man would require decades to collect.

Rats and mice have been bred under strict mating control. Some members in these colonies have an ancestral history of more known progenitors than the most ancient of human families.

The breeding experiments have thrown much light upon the transmission of hereditary characteristics and upon the so-called hereditary factor in a number of disease conditions, particularly in the case of cancer.

However, extreme caution must be exerted in drawing conclusions concerning man, from the study of rats. The rat, for example, is able to produce vitamin C within its own body, while man must secure the vitamin from outside sources.

Rats have been employed not only in bacteriologic experiments but also in psychologic studies where they have rendered notable service in illuminating certain phases of the functions of the nervous system. A fascinating book written by the neurologist, C. Judson Herrick, is appropriately entitled "The Brains of Rats and Men."

Rats and mice have also been employed in the study of the manner in which diseases are spread within a community. A recent study of this nature will be discussed in our next column.

Tex's Topics . . .

By Tex DeWeese

We have been in the dog-house the past couple of days insofar as the Sudeten Oklahomans here in the Panhandle are concerned. . . . Having been warned before going to the Oklahoma-Nebraska game at Norman, Okla., last Saturday, life has been pretty miserable on account of that 14 to 0 Oklahoma victory. . . . There are several of them around the office, even, and they are miffed because it is our personal opinion that Nebraska should have defeated Oklahoma by at least two touchdowns, not taking into consideration all the breaks of the game.

* * *

Sitting in the big middle of the Nebraska rooting section, we could discreetly do nothing but join in the cheering for the sophomores from Lincoln. . . . Made up of nine sophomores, one senior, and a junior—the Nebraska team looks mighty good for 1939, anyway. . . . And, we cheered so lustily for the Cornhuskers that it really was disheartening, personally, that they came out on the short end of the deal. . . . However, it was a lot of fun—even if the coffee at the Town Tavern in Norman, where all the college boys and gals meet before and after the game—was a bit on the muddy side of the river.

* * *

However, to compensate for the roughing we took at the Town Tavern, Sid Patterson, of KPDN, whose home-town is Norman, invited us out to his house, and we had coffee with his pa and ma, his very charming sister, his brother and other Dad's Day visitors who were coming and going with the Patterson domicile as a sort of headquarters for all the folks Sid knew who happened to be in Norman Saturday. . . . It was all very dandy including the sweet young thing in Sec. WG, Row 25, Seat 21 who bothered the single young man in our party more than Mr. Brock of the Nebraska front line bothered the Oklahoma backfield.

* * *

Saturday was the biggest day in history for the college town of Norman and all the undergraduates and old grads combined. . . . They established a new stadium attendance record, and scalpers were getting as high as eight bucks a copy for $2 ducats just a few minutes before game time. . . . Pampa was well represented in the stands and around the hotels in Oklahoma City Saturday night where the boys and girls met to play the game over in evening clothes. . . . It was first down and every man for himself far into the morning, they tell me. . . . The police called few offside penalties.

I always thought they were joking about those Indians in Oklahoma, but one of the interesting sights was the colorful Indians who dotted the stands and seemed to get as much of a kick out of the game as the college students. . . . I finally edged up to one who looked like he was a chief of the tribe. . . . "Well," I said, "how did you like the game, chief?"

* * *

He turned around and gave me one of those below-zero looks and this: . . . "Please, don't bother me—I'm on my way over to mix with the Tri-Delts for a dinner date and dance tonight. It's fellows like you who make fellows like me late for their engagements." . . . Ugh, heap much fun.

The Capital Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, Oct. 25 (AP)—Texas will have a new lieutenant governor in January before it has a new governor.

Coke Stevenson will take the oath as lieutenant governor a few minutes before W. Lee O'Daniel is sworn in as governor January 17.

The interval between the administration of these oaths will be approximately the length of the lieutenant governor's address. After his induction he will make a few remarks, then the governor will take the oath.

The appropriation to pay expense of publication and holding the election in November on the constitutional amendment to abolish the duelling section of the official oath was $5,000, considerably less than appropriations for several other recent constitution alterations.

For the amendment authorizing a discount system of paying taxes, adopted last year, the appropriation was $8,000, and that for the amendment permitting aid to needy blind was $9,000. Five thousand dollars was appropriated to put the amendment authorizing assistance to dependent children before the people.

The varying amounts are due to the expense of publishing and the length of the amendments. Under the law proposed changes in the constitution must be published in each of Texas 254 counties four consecutive weeks. Publishing costs depend on the number of words.

While the writer was prowling through the state archives in the basement of the capitol recently, Miss Harriet Smither, archivist, pointed to an interesting fact about Texas republic law.

Under the constitution of the republic, she said, a minister of the gospel could not serve as a member of the Congress.

Nevertheless, a leading Baptist of East Texas was elected to the Congress. His seat was contested and he was not accepted. In the argument one member made this statement:

"He is a Baptist minister. He admits it."

A sign of the coming general session of the legislature:

Bob Barker, veteran secretary of the Senate, has received from the penitentiary printing plant the first batch of forms for roll calls in the upper legislative branch.

Barker will use a lot of the forms for he will call the roll many, many times. In fact, he will sound out the list of 31 Senators approximately 5,000 times.

He will begin with "Aikin" and go right on down the list until he reaches "Winfield." Senator A. M. Aikin, Jr., of Paris and Senator H. L. Winfield of Fort Stockton lead off and end the call as they did in the previous legislature.

There will be two "Stones" in the Senate this year so Barker will have to call "Stone of Washington" and "Stone of Galveston," meaning Senator Albert Stone of Brenham and Senator William E. Stone of Galveston. The last replaces a noted veteran, T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, Senate dean.

In calling the roll 5,000 times, if Barker makes an error it probably will be the first time. He has a reputation for unfailing accuracy—and calling the Senate roll during a tight parliamentary situation involving important legislation is no simple matter.

Substitutes for Barker occasionally have become confused while calling the roll, or, in any event errors in their report have been detected and promptly challenged. But not Barker. His report invariably sticks. In fact, it is seldom questioned.

The secretary must be elected by each new Senate but as far as the first forms for the roll call are concerned the election is over. Barker's name appears at the top as secretary, along with that of Coke R. Stevenson as lieutenant-governor.

Difficulties of Britain

By ERNEST MINOR PATTERSON

President, American Academy of Political and Social Science

There was a curious reaction in the United States to the recent acute crisis in Europe. We have two important laws designed to isolate us from foreign troubles. One is the Johnson Act which forbids the floating of new loans here by countries which are in default to our government on old obligations. The other is the Neutrality Act whose provisions are designed to stop trade in war supplies with belligerents and to put other trade with them on a "cash-and-carry" basis.

These laws are an expression of an intense desire on the part of many Americans to avoid involvement in troubles abroad. Yet as the European crisis developed misgivings were heard, and if war had started there probably would have been an effort to repeal one or both of these laws. There could not have been a better illustration of the extent to which we are actually involved in what happens anywhere on the globe and of the probability that we shall be drawn into the next great war as we were in 1917.

When war was averted, the first reaction was very naturally one of relief that the world was saved from the slaughter and destruction that was so near. Within a few days, however, sober second thought has led to many speculations. Among them has been a wonder over the reasons for what seems to be a profound change in British policy.

Of course the writer does not pretend to know all of the reasons. There were political and military as well as economic considerations involved and they are highly involved as well as interrelated. But one may easily list a few economic facts that must have weighed heavily.

Many do not realize that for nearly seventy years Great Britain's economic prestige has been diminishing. At first it was merely relative. Germany and the United States and later Japan advanced more rapidly. After 1900 there gradually appeared evidence that the British losses were becoming absolute, not merely relative. Foreign goods began to compete with British goods even within Great Britain and there arose an agitation for "tariff reform" especially sponsored by Joseph Chamberlain, the father of Neville Chamberlain who is now Prime Minister. This was a demand for a protective tariff for a country that had long been committed to the principle of free trade.

After the war ended in 1918 other signs of distress appeared. One was the intense difficulty of selling British goods abroad, especially after 1920. Coal markets were lost and were hard to regain. Textile markets, too, suffered. During and just after the war, for example, cotton spindles had rapidly increased in numbers in China, Japan, India, the United States, Latin America and even on the continent of Europe. Exports of cotton piece goods from Great Britain sharply declined. Shipbuilding, too, went into a slump.

As a result of these difficulties there has been a persistent amount of unemployment and there have been important sections of the country so hard hit that they were called "distressed areas." The government budget has been kept in balance most of the time, but an American is apt to point out that this was assisted by a default on the amounts due the United States government on the "war debt" for some years past. Exports from Great Britain lag, although imports have risen enough to be a cause of some concern.

How significant these economic strains were in connection with the recent settlement at Munich it is not possible to say. They must have played an important part.

Damage Suit Trial Under Way In Court

With the re-setting of the case of State of Texas vs. Jim Hodges until the next term of 31st district court here in January, the criminal docket for the week was finished in district court and the court turned its attention to civil suits.

Testimony was being heard for the second day in district court at noon today in the case of W. H. Kelley et ux vs. F. W. Dye et al. The suit is based on the allegation of damages caused to plaintiff's property by defendant, in drilling a well on property of the plaintiff.

Jurors hearing the case are. G. G. Frashier, Horace McBee, E. L. Goad, H. P. Sharp, W. B. Hash, Paul Hugg, C. E. Loyeless, C. W. Fulks, C. P. Coufs, W. E. Ginn, O. R. Wasson, and S. A. Hurst.

Walter E. Rogers represents the plaintiff and John and Aaron Sturgeon the defendant.

No judgments had been recorded up to noon today in district court. In the case of J. Tom Bowers vs. Aubra Bowers, the ruling was that plaintiff take nothing. Cause of action was for damages, based on plaintiff's allegations that defendant committed assault and battery upon plaintiff on August 20, 1934.

Members of the grand jury reconvened this morning but up to early this afternoon had made no indictments.

mission, as well as of the Interstate Oil and Gas Compact Commission, asked refineries to reduce runs to stills 15 per cent. He said some "business statesmanship" among refiners would be heartening.

"In the old days of the kerosene lamp it was the demand for kerosene that made the crude oil demand," Thompson said. "The controlling factor in crude oil is the demand for gasoline.

While crude oil stocks in storage above ground are at 278,000,000 barrels, and this figure is the low for 16 years and five months, still we must keep in mind the fact that gasoline stocks control crude demand largely.

"Gasoline and fuel oil stocks are high.

"Gasoline stocks stood on October 15 at 68,426,000 barrels, which is four per cent above last year same date.

"Fuel oil stocks same date stood 152,648,000 which was 28 per cent above October 15 last year, and is also the all-time high or peak in fuel oil stocks.

"This situation is working itself out. It would help greatly if refiners would cut their runs to stills 15 per cent and work off gasoline and fuel oil stocks, or rather work them down by drawing on stocks instead of continually refining more and more unneeded gasoline. This can easily be done during the fall and winter months.

"A little showing of business statesmanship at this time among the refiners would be most heartening."

Panhandle Allowable

Comparative allowable by districts for October 1, October 15, and November 1, respectively, not counting the holidays, follow:

East Texas, 517,816, 518,601 and 519,985; Panhandle, including Moore county and Osborne area, 83,292, 83,741 and 83,900; North Texas, including Foard county K. M. A. and Gant, 89,926, 85,149, and 85,149; West Central, 80,961, 82,070 and 81,700; West Texas, 236,484, 242,257 and 244,866; East Central, 112,993, 113,935 and 113,198; Southwest Texas, 301,607, 309,816 and 305,164; Gulf Coast, 264,815, 273,235 and 275,310.

The basic allowable for K. M. A. was boosted from 22,344 barrels daily October 1 to 23,603 November 1. Changes in most field allowables were slight, consisting chiefly in minor adjustments.

Dunigan objected to the "apparent attempt to connect this case with that one."

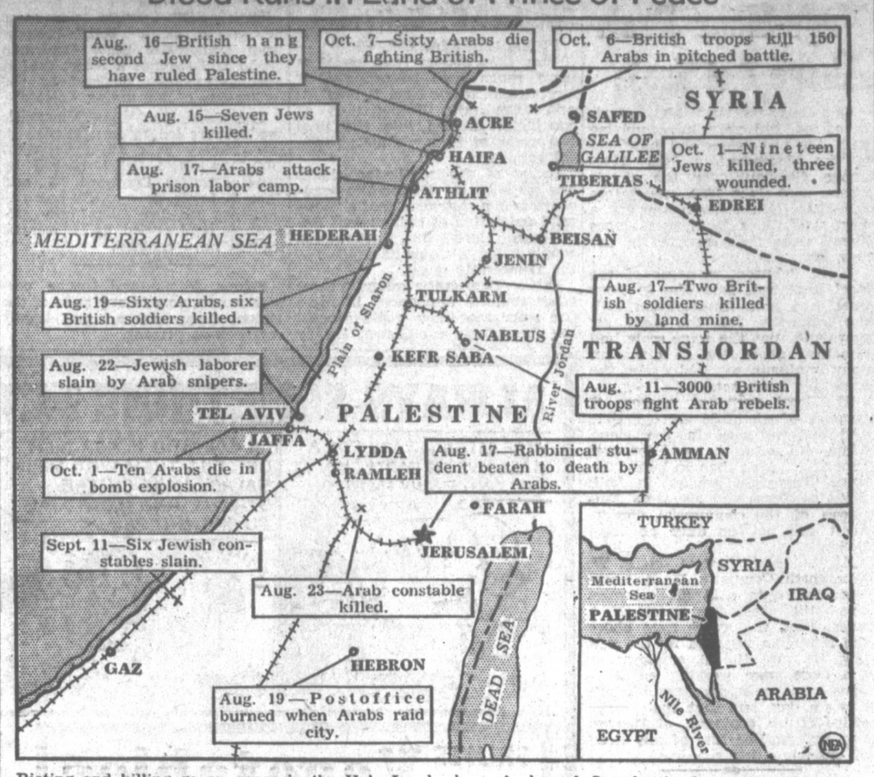

"I have no intention of doing so," Matthews retorted.

Judge Knox intervened to ask:

"Why did you go ahead in the face of all that publicity and try to get the passport blanks?"

Rumrich replied he thought he could carry out the law.

State Demos Name Sypert Secretary

DALLAS, Oct. 25 (AP)—E. B. Germany, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, announced today W. S. Sypert of Hallsville will succeed Van M. Kennedy of Austin as secretary of the committee.

Kennedy has served as committee secretary during the four years of the Allred administration. Germany said Kennedy offered his resignation as soon as the new committee was selected at the Beaumont convention, but continued at Germany's request pending selection of a successor.

Germany said the committee would hold its first meeting at Mineral Wells Monday, Nov. 7.

CHINESE

with tanks sped toward the doomed Chinese capital.

Hankow (which, with its sister Wuhan cities of Wuchang and Hanyang, had a pre-war population of about 1,700,000) was the sixth great Chinese city to fall to the invaders.

Peiping and Tientsin were taken in the first weeks of the war that began July 7, 1937; Shanghai fell Nov. 9 and Nanking—Hankow's predecessor as Chinese capital—Dec. 13. Canton, metropolis of the south, fell last Friday.

Only lesser cities, mostly for in the interior, remain in Chinese hands.

City Spared Bloodshed

Whether Japan would be content to rest on her present conquests, thus opening a period of undeclared peace, remained a subject for conjecture tonight.

Withdrawal of the Chinese defenders "for strategic reasons" apparently spared Hankow the bloodshed which marked the capture of Nanking. There was no need for a final grand assault such as that by which the Mikado's armies blasted their way into the walls of Nanking.

The greater part of the Chinese armies managed to retreat to the westward, their commands explaining this was in accordance with a decision to prolong resistance and not risk annihilation of their best units in defense of the Wuhan area.

According to the latest estimates approximately 400,000 persons, including some 1,000 foreigners, remained in the three Wuhan cities when the Japanese arrived, less than a quarter of the normal population.

Buildings Burning

Neutral advice reaching Shanghai said retreating Chinese troops demolished several buildings. Large fires were reported in Hankow and adjoining cities of Wuchang and Hanyang. The city was without water, but a foreign-owned power company which was permitted to take over the waterworks was attempting to resume service.

Patrols of British Bluejackets cooperated with Chinese police in keeping order before the entry of the Japanese.

Temporary Peace Likely

Another vital question involved future co-operation between the government and communists. Some observers believe communists would become a dominant influence and assume a major part of interior defense, resorting gradually to guerilla warfare instead of facing frontal assaults of better-equipped Japanese forces.

The decision against defending Hankow also meant the Chinese lines would be thrown back a considerable distance and the Japanese might not push farther inland but first consolidate their gains around Hankow. This development would mean at least a momentary and undeclared peace.

How Pincer Works

The Japanese columns converging on Hankow in a gigantic sharp-pointed pincer were:

Advancing southward from the northwest along the Peiping-Hankow line, after capturing Yingshan in attempts to sever connections and block escape in that direction;

Pushing down the railway in a series of outflanking maneuvers against Siaokan, 30 miles northwest of Hankow;

Moving up the Yangtze north bank from Twanfeng against Yanglo 15 miles northeast of Hankow, site of the only remaining defenses in that sector;

Mopping up areas within a few miles southwest of the tri-cities of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang;

Advancing against Tunkshan mountains 140 miles south of Hankow, and key point of defenses in northwestern Kiangsi province.

Warship escorts of troop transports attacked Kokiatien and prepared to land troops to attack the tri-cities from the west.

Silver Left Behind

The Dollar Liner President Coolidge sailed today for Kobe, Japan, without a $4,000,000 cargo of silver intended for the United States. Japanese officials had refused to clear the American ship until the cargo was unloaded. They apparently considered the treasure the property of the Japanese-sponsored Shanghai government. Diplomatic negotiations were expected to determine its ownership. The silver was returned to the Shankhai office of the Chase National bank. An undetermined amount of silver taken on at Hongkong was not touched.

73 Charged In Conspiracy And Graft Of WPA

ALBUQUERQUE, Oct. 25 (AP)—Before a courtroom packed to capacity, a mass arraignment was held today for 73 persons charged with graft and political conspiracy through manipulation and organization of the New Mexico WPA.

Only four pleas were received, all of them pleas of innocent.

In virtually all other cases, the defendants were given until September 5 to file objections to the validity of the indictments handed down last Thursday by the federal grand jury. Many of the defendants, not represented by counsel, were ordered to return later on call of the court.

Judge Neblett directed that no further pleas would be received by the court until the vadility of the indictments, prepared with the assistance of the Department of Justice, was definitely established.

U. S. Attorney Everett Grantham expressed belief this would delay trials until mid-November, and possibly later.

Pleas of innocent were entered by Salamon Chavez, cousin of U. S. Senator Dennis Chavez; Vernon Baker and Max Robertson, WPA foreman from Estancia; and Arthur J. Daniel of Albuquerque.

Stanley W. P. Miller, who was relieved as assistant U. S. district attorney, stood with a slight smile before Judge Colin Neblett when his name was called.

Knowles and Nimmo presented evidence yesterday to show the maritime organizations were Communist-controlled and led by Harry Bridges, whom they labeled an alien Communist. Bridges is a West Coast leader of the C. I. O.

California agriculture was selected for Communist activities, Knowles said, because the perishable nature of most of the crops makes the industry highly vulnerable.

Taking up the presentation of evidence, Nimmo said the United Cannery, Agricultural, Packing and Allied Workers of America held its first convention in Denver in July, 1937, and set out with the backing of C. I. O. leaders to organize California's canning and agricultural industry.

Donald Henderson, described by Nimmo as a Communist ousted from a Columbia university professorship for radical activities, was elected international president, the witness said.

He named certain delegates as Communists and said greetings were sent to the convention by the "radical Congressmen Jerry J. O'Connell, (D-Mont.), John T. Bernard (F-L, Minn.), and Maury Maverick (D-Tex.)"

THE MISERY OF HIS COLD BEGINS TO GO

When you just do this:

Massage VapoRub on the throat, chest, and back. Then spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. (No dosing, no stomach upsets.)

VapoRub's poultice-and-vapor action goes right to work—direct through the skin like a poultice, while its medicated vapors released by the body warmth are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This two-way action (inhalation and stimulation) loosens phlegm—clears the air-passages—checks tendency to cough—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves local congestion—and he soon feels comfortable again.

Long after he relaxes into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working. And often by morning the worst of his cold is over. No wonder 3 out of 5 mothers put faith in VapoRub whenever anyone in the family has a cold!

THEY'D LIKE TO DIP $300,000 OUT OF WISHING WELL

Walt Disney, cartoon king of the movies, seems to be acquiring a fine wardrobe of suits, what with two of them filed against his organization for alleged music piracy in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and now two more filed by the singers who warbled for "Snow White" and the Prince. Adriana Caselotti (left), the voice of Snow White, and Harry Stockwell (right) the voice of the Prince, demanded $300,000 in New York Supreme Court. They claimed millions of phonograph records were made from the sound track of the film in violation of their contracts which, they say, restricted their voices to the movie alone. The dark-haired Adriana, who reportedly received less than $1000 for her work, seeks $200,000, and Stockwell, whose pay check was said to be under $500, wants $100,000. The film (a love scene between the Prince and Snow White is shown in center) is reported to be grossing around $10,000,000.

The Board of Deacons will present the name of Mr. Miner's successor at this special meeting Wednesday.

Japs Say Shelling Of Boat Accidental

TOKYO, Oct. 25 (AP)—Japanese imperial headquarters indicated today that the British gunboat, Sandpiper, damaged by Japanese bombs at Changsha yesterday had failed to give her correct location.

"According to a British communication received just prior to departure of Japanese planes, the Sandpiper was moored about 500 meters (1,640 feet) downstream from the Hankow custom house instead of at Changsha," said a communique.

The communique said shell fragments presumably hit the Sandpiper accidentally.

'Phone Company Wage-Hour Basis Above Act Scale

One business that has experienced no difficulty in complying with the new wage and hour act is the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, for the simple reason that since 1932, even before the NRA, this concern was on a wage and hour basis even more liberal than that specified in the new law.

L. H. Johnson, manager of the local exchange, said the 40 hour week had been in operation with the company for the past six years and that the wage scale had remained above the 25 cents an hour minimum required under the wage and hour act.

The local exchange employs 47 persons, of whom 36 are operators and six are used in the plant. Time and a half is paid for over time and double time on legal holidays. This rule applies to both plant employes and operators. Employes of the commercial department are not on duty on legal holidays.

At the local store of the F. W. Woolworth Company, D. C. Hartman, manager, said his company was still operating under NRA rules, that the wages were above the minimum required by the new law. He said the 21 employes of the store were working on a 48 hour week basis, six days at eight hours a day, and that the district office of his company, at Denver, had not notified him of any need of changing this schedule.

Reserve Officers Will Meet Tonight

The second fall meeting of the Pampa Reserve Officers Troop school will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the county agent's office on the second floor of the court house. First Lieut. E. S. Vicars, assistant instructor, will be in charge.

Officers will study the battle of Yalu in the Russo-Japanese war. The course this fall deals with the war of 1904 and 1905. Causes of the war and resources of the nations involved were studied at the opening meeting last week. All reserve officers in this section are invited to attend the meeting. Civilians also will be welcomed.

Major K. S. Whittemore of Oklahoma City, chief instructor, will visit the school next month.

Both Democrats And Republicans Claim Support Of Bolters

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25 (AP) — Claims that bolters from opposing party ranks were bolstering their forces came today from Republican and Democratic headquarters as candidates pitched into the final two weeks of Pennsylvania's political campaign.

Latest of the conflicting claims was made by the Democratic headquarters in a statement that a "powerful federation of independent Republican clubs" in Lackawanna county voted to throw its support to the Democratic ticket.

Earlier, Democratic groups in three other counties announced in rapid fire order that they would support the Republican candidates, led by Judge Arthur H. James for governor and the veteran Republican Senator, James J. Davis, up for re-election.

Their action, referred to by some newspapers as a "bolt," brought from Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence a retort that it was "propaganda inspired by the realization of impending defeat."

The fact that the Democratic groups were led by men aligned in the primary with an unsuccessful CIO-Democratic ticket backed by Senator Guffey, Democrat, Pa., and John L. Lewis, gave rise to speculation over whether all primary differences were settled, as Democratic leaders have claimed.

Cold Figures Make Sandies Game Favorites

All Sandies In Perfect Condition; Ab Curtis, Holton, Medley Will Officiate

Cold figures and past performances give the Amarillo Golden Sandies the edge over the Pampa Harvesters when the two teams meet on Butler field Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock before an estimated crowd of 15,000 Panhandle football fans.

The only direct comparison available shows the Harvesters the underdogs by two touchdowns. Pampa tied Lamesa in a scoreless battle while the Sandies downed the Tornadoes 20 to 7. Indirect comparison shows different results but all the same—the Harvesters are the underdogs.

Further delving into cold facts, Amarillo will have a wide advantage in substitutes and a team is as strong as its reserves, 'tis said. Another thing, the game is being played on Butler field where never a Texas team has defeated the Sandies.

Word was received from Amarillo this morning that the Sandies will be in perfect condition for the game. Mauldin, big center who is the power on defense from his position backing the line, was not injured seriously in the Lamesa game. He reported for practice yesterday. Bullet Bill Thompson also reported in fine shape after an attack of influenza. Andrews, giant halfback, was also in uniform and reported that his injured ankle felt much better.

Harvesters Work Hard

Out at Harvester Field Coaches Odus Mitchell and J. C. Prejean and their boys are preparing for just another game. The tension that has always been apparent in the past before an Amarillo game is missing. The boys chatter as they work and run plays with the enthusiasm of early season training.

Practice sessions are behind locked gates as the Harvesters prepare to meet the stutter-footed rushes of Thompson, the passes from Thompson to elongated ends, especially Humphreys who stands several inches over six feet, and a method of getting through the huge Sandie line and past Mauldin who ranges all over the field making tackles like Noblitt, Pinnell, Poe and other former greats of the Harvesters.

Injuries may handicap the Harvesters. Welby Parish, guard, is still limping around with a bad hip and Glen Nichols has not definitely recovered from an attack of appendicitis. Herbert Maynard and James Carlile were both missing from yesterday's practice because of illness. Maynard has been in bed for five days. Both are reserves.

Some of the outstanding officials in the entire southwest will call the game. Ab Curtis, considered one of the best in the nation, will be referee. Two years ago Curtis was one of the officials in the Rose Bowl classic. He had turned down an offer to call a college game in order to work the Pampa-Amarillo tussle.

Umpire for the game will be Barry Holton, another well known official. Both Curtis and Holton have called the Pampa-Amarillo game for at least five years.

Coach R. M. Medley of McMurry College will be the headlinesman.

Monroe Sweeney, well known official, will be field judge.

PROBABLE STARTING BACKFIELD

J. W. GRAHAM.

BOB KARR.

PETE DUNAWAY.

ALBERT KEMP.

On the shoulders of the lightweight quartet above will rest the burden of toting the mail, passing and punting for the Harvesters when they invade Amarillo Saturday afternoon. Captain J. W. Graham calls signals from a halfback position. Karr blocks, and sometimes carries the ball, from the fullback slot. Pete Dunaway holds down the halfback assignment across from Graham while Kemp is the short man.

Rockets May Battle Bucks In Title Tilt

WHEELER, Oct. 25.—(Special)—It was a hectic week-end in district 3B circles last week.

The top-heavy favorites the cop the crown, the Wellington Skyrockets, came through with a lopsided win over the Clarendon Bronchos, 59-0. In the northern half the strong McLean Tigers, rated to win the northern half, was eked out, 14-13, by a fighting White Deer eleven. The White Deer squad has a team this season that many a rabid fan has proclaimed that is as great as the Wellington Skyrockets.

At present it looks favorable for the two machines to clash. White Deer is favored to oust the twice-time regional champions, the Panhandle Panthers, while Wellington looks like a sure cinch in district 3. Should the two teams meet it will be the deceptiveness and trickery of the 'Rockets vs. the power of the Bucks.

The Shamrock Irishmen, members of the northern half, drubbed a swirling Cyclone from Memphis, members of the southern half, 26-6, in an inter-district game.

The Wheeler Mustangs, once again hitting after an off-week, downed the Groom Tigers, 12-2, in Wheeler. One Mustang touchdown was made on a dazzling 70-yard run by Emler, Mustang halfback.

The Mobeetie Hornets hit high-tide again in downing the Phillips Blackhawks, 27-6, in another inter-district game.

The LeFors Pirates, in the northern half, and the Lakeview Eagles in the southern half, had open dates.

The clash between the fighting Shamrock Irishmen and the bulky McLean Tigers in Shamrock takes the highlight in the district this week with McLean given a slight edge to win.

Should McLean beat Shamrock and Wheeler lick McLean the northern half of the district would be thrown into a three-way deadlock with the squads with one loss to their credit.

Wheeler meets McLean in an Armistice Day game in Wheeler.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Duke's showing against Wake Forest wasn't so hot, but it didn't surprise a lot of people who had an idea what Wake Forest had . . . Anyway, Mr. Ted Mann, the crack Duke publicist, had an answer for it . . . He said: "Gents, remember we still are unbeaten, unscored-on and unembarrassed" . . . Nice going, mister. (We believe right along with you that Duke will be the Pitt of the South by the middle of next month.)

The Texas Christian Horned Frogs got a laugh out of a line in a Philadelphia paper which called them "the pride of the Panhandle"—which is only 1,700 from home . . . Haw! . . . It seems the prize boner this corner has made this season was to pick Notre Dame to lose four or five games . . . Well, we got the info from a former assistant coach out there who is supposed to know the dope . . . We apologize to all the Irish fans and alumni . . . 1939 Tulane opponents might paste this in their reference book: 19 of the 23 players used to beat Rice will be back next season.

The press agents of the National Football League naturally are not broadcasting the fact that two of its crack teams recently were spilled by the Cincinnati Bengals, a team composed largely of small college players and cast-offs . . . The teams dumped were the Chicago Bears (17 to 14) and the Pittsburgh Pirates (27-0) . . . Gregory Mangin, the tennis star, married Clayton Sullivan, the Southern heiress whose name was often linked with Don Budge's.

Henry F. Vorak of Grand Rapids, Mich., would like to bet a "C" note that Fritz Crisler's Wolverines can take any team in the Southwest conference . . . Fordham is set for Pitt and may surprise all of you . . . There is a question in pro grid circles as to who is the best passer—Sammy Baugh of Washington or Ed Danowski of the Giants . . . Take the case of the Norwalk, Conn., high school football team. It has won five games and will go South for a post-season tussle, if it finishes unbeaten.

'Big Train' And Johnson Down Kopecky

It took the combined efforts of Gust Johnson and Ray "Big Train" Clements, making his first local appearance as referee in many months, to topple Joe Kopecky from the undefeated list in local wrestling circles last night at the Pampa Athletic arena.

The end came after each had won a fall. After about 18 minutes of furious grappling in the third session Kopecky had Johnson in a bad way. Out to win, Johnson went to the ropes to break a drop toe hold, the first time he ever went to the ropes here. He came back and grabbed Kopecky in a headlock but the Bohemian backed Johnson to the ropes and then grabbed the top rope in both hands. Referee Clements ordered Kopecky to break, but he wouldn't. Clements then got between Johnson and the ropes and tore Kopecky's hands loose. When his grip was lost, Kopecky went to the mat with a thud, Johnson on top of him. Clements then counted Kopecky out.

Kopecky took the first fall in 24 minutes with one of his famous drop for the first few minutes with Kopecky turning wild at the five-minute gong.

Johnson opened the second fall by taking a headlock which he held for nearly eight minutes. Then he switched to a hammerlock and Kopecky patted the mat in 12 minutes. It marked the first time that a mauler had given up on a hammerlock.

Tex Watkins returned to the local wars rougher and tougher than ever before and lasted only 11 minutes before he was disqualified for eye-gouging and choking. Scotty Williams was no match for the ruffian.

Sheik MarAllah and Blacksmith Pedigo went to a draw in the preliminary.

Mack May Give His Athletics Paid Vacations

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25 (AP)—Connie Mack, who's seeking some way to lift the Athletics out of the American league cellar, may try granting vacations with pay instead of suspensions next season as a cure for the baseball player's slump.

"Too much baseball," he said today, "is like too much candy—even a youngster gets tired of it."

Mack's about convinced that night baseball would speed the clicking of the turnstiles at Shibe park next year, and now he's mulling over the problem of player morale.

"Too much baseball," he explained, "was the reason Sam Chapman, the Athletics' leftfielder, blew up after a promising season."

"Mack's idea is to "keep them away from the park. Pack them off to the mountains, or even get them a job doing something else for a few days. Anything to keep their minds off baseball."

The 76-year-old Mack, dean of the American league managers, has experience to back up his vacation talk.

"That's what I used to do with Rube Waddell," he said.

Of course, a player would have to show signs of too much baseball and prospects of a cure before they would get a trip to the mountains or a few days at the shore at Cornelius McGillicuddy's expense.

Cotton Bowl Game Will Be Planned

DALLAS, Oct. 25 (AP)—Dan D. Rogers, Dallas banker and temporary chairman of the board of directors of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association, has called a special meeting for Thursday at which time definite plans for staging an annual intersectional football game here New Year's Day will be discussed.

The board, consisting of three representatives from each Southwest conference school, together with several Dallas business men, is expected to appoint an executive committee to enter into an agreement with J. Curtis Sanford who has promoted the game for three years.

A definite arrangement is planned to fill requirements of the Southwest conference, in which event the conference may become officially active as a participant.

Six of the seven members of the Southwest conference are reported favoring the game, to the extent of permitting conference teams to participate at their option. The other member is not committed.

The fan is regarded as an emblem of life in Japan.

Young John L. Lewis Of Football Fired By LSU For Efforts To Form Players' Union

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

Young Bussey, a real good halfback, blames his dismissal from the Louisiana State team upon his efforts to form a football players' union.

It seems that young Mr. Bussey is practically a John L. Lewis of the moleskins. Starting at an early age, he led a pigskin strike at his Houston high school.

It is about time that intercollegiate football had a Mr. Bussey, and what in the world was wrong with his organizing the pigskin paraders of Louisiana State or those of any other school? If it is true that most of the noble athletes are being paid, as many of the better minds agree, then they certainly should be organized.

It is understood that Mr. Bussey stood for strict limitation of number of minutes of play and time-and-a-half for overtime.

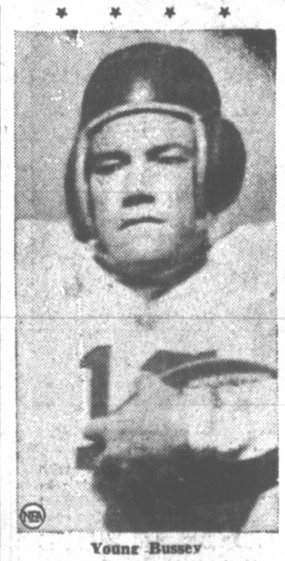

He demanded severance pay . . . four years of it regardless of what happened.

Guards who pull out of the line to run interference would have become skilled journeymen entitled to nearly as much salary as a Marshall Goldberg.

FOOTBALL IS NOW ON A CASH AND CARRY BASIS

Inasmuch as a lot of colleges in the south and elsewhere have placed football on a cash and carry basis, Mr. Bussey reached the very logical conclusion that some sort of a schedule based on a player's value to his outfit should be worked out.

A first-class ball carrier himself, it is said that he demanded that the lads be paid so much a year . . . with a bonus for first downs in midfield and a more generous reward for first downs inside the 20-yard line.

Young Bussey

Pay for touchdowns could be prorated according to the opposition . . . against nonconference foes, $3; against conference rivals, $4; against Pittsburgh, Dartmouth and the more robust babies, $5, and against Not Quite Normal and the softer touches, 39 cents.

Another idea would be a set sum and full credit in all courses for blocks and tackles . . . with fines for misses in proportion to the worth of the blocks on the other side.

Receipts from this source could go into a pool to buy bench cushions for substitutes. The latter, by the way, might be paid 50 cents an hour, competing on a piecework basis, of course, when in play. That would beat flagpole and other types of sitting all hollow.

PLAN WOULD GIVE BOYS TIME TO GET EDUCATION

Everybody else being organized, including pickets, Mr. Bussey could not understand why prosperous football stadiums unfair to organized players shouldn't be picketed when the institutions were not in line.

He argued there would be no confusion . . . that a coach who could not immediately recognize an apprentice guard from a skilled journeyman, etc., wasn't worthy of the name.

Mr. Bussey explained that his main idea was to see that the boys had sufficient time to get an education.

He felt certain that the overtime clause would attend to that, and his constituents waived the one appertaining to a blond after every winning game.

Mr. Bussey may be kicked off the Louisiana State squad now, but young men of his type will bounce back like an Akron check.

This thing is going to spread.

If they want big league football, let 'em pay for it.

Floyd Hamilton To Plead Not Guilty

MONTAGUE, Oct. 25 (AP)—Trial of Floyd Hamilton, Dallas desperado, on a charge of automobile theft, began here today with his attorneys announcing he would plead not guilty.

Hamilton and his companion, Ted Walters, who were sought through the Southwest until captured at Dallas, were brought here to face trial at the place where they broke jail last April.

Hamilton's attorneys sought a change of venue yesterday, on grounds residents of Montague county were prejudiced, but 23 of 27 witnesses called to testify said they thought Hamilton could get a fair trial.

17 Men Teachers Refuse To Serve As Ticket-Takers

SAUGUS, Mass., Oct. 25 (AP)—Seventeen men teachers at Saugus High school, who refused yesterday to serve as ticket-takers at home football games, withdrew their objections today after the school committee announced they could either agree or resign.

"We'll carry out our assignments and take tickets," said a spokesman, "but we'll have no more arguments with those righteous tax payers. If they insist they have a right to enter the stadium as taxpayers, they are welcome to do so. They can walk right in, as far as we're concerned."

The 17 told the committee, in their petition for permission to withdraw, that spectators walked past them without paying the 25-cent general admission. The teachers also claimed the right to a Saturday off.

The school committee countered by explaining only six men were needed each week, so each teacher would have to serve only every fourth week.

Ruppert Goes To Hospital

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees who was unable to see his team beat the Chicago Cubs in the World Series because of illness, has entered a hospital for a physical examination. The Yankees' offices explained that Ruppert had recovered and had entered the hospital merely for a checkup before taking his annual vacation trip to French Lick Springs, Ind.

Bowling Season Plans To Be Made Tomorrow Night

Final plans for opening of the bowling season here will be made at a meeting of captains and sponsors of teams in the Schneider hotel at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening.

Play will begin one week from tomorrow night with all teams in one group. After about two months of play, the teams will be divided into leagues and play for prizes begun.

Work on the new alleys being installed by Joe Berry was nearing completion today and play may be possible Thursday night.

Alex Schneider, temporary chairman of the Pampa Bowling Association, urges everyone planning to enter a team in any league to attend the meeting tomorrow night.

Luigi Pirandello, Italian playwright, never wrote a play until he was over 50, and won the $50,000 Nobel Prize for literature after he had passed 75.

Baylor Handicapped By Injuries But Not TCU

(By The Associated Press)

Southwest conference football squads dug in today for the second half of this season's campaign.

One intersectional game is on the schedule; Rice clashing with Auburn in a tilt on Texas soil. The other six conference members were preparing for traditional battles, calculated to better clarify the conference race.

The Texas Christian Horned Frogs, who play unbeaten Baylor in the conference headliner at Fort Worth Saturday, returned after their successful battering of Marquette, without a single squad member nursing an injury of consequence.

Baylor, however, had Hoyt Wilkinson, sophomore first-string pivot man, and Bob Foster, reserve fullback, out with injuries, and several others handicapped by less serious hurts from the Texas A. and M. tie.

There were few injuries at Southern Methodist, now driving for a battle at Austin with Texas.

The Mustangs came out of their game with Pittsburgh with only a few bruises and a twisted knee for Bob Collins, reserve end.

The Texas Longhorns will be captained by Bill Forney, 190-pound Valparaiso, Ind., quarterback, Coach Dana Bible announced. Bible was pleased with the scrap put up by his Longhorns against the Rice Owls.

Coach Homer Norton concentrated on power plays for his Aggies who tackle Arkansas at College Station. Success of the Cadets with this offense against Baylor last week led Norton to devise plays along this line. There were no injuries in the Cadet camp.

Coach Jimmie Kitts at Rice, where the Owls finally won a game last week in taking Texas, had his gridders working behind locked gates and promised another secret session tomorrow.

How to See Football

THE SAFETY MAN

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports writer

There are jobs in football harder to handle, or more important, than that of the safety man, who nearly always is on his own.

The safety man must be an exceptionally fine tackler and a fast runner. Often he is the last man between the ball carrier and the goal line and should he miss his tackle, or allow himself to be outmaneuvered and then outraced to the goal, a game may be lost.

Safety men should be sure handlers of punts. In a tight game coaches prefer a man who can expertly follow a wildly bouncing ball, to a back who, although fast and elusive, may not be as glue-fingered.

Returning a punt is all-important.

A team that is forced to start its offense deep within its own territory is handicapped.

If the safety man can grab a punt and break away to midfield . . . or better . . . the signal-caller is in position to use everything at his command.

J. P. Mathews Leads Rice To 3-0 Win Over Texas Yearlings

Pampa's J. P. Mathews, former Harvester football guard, continues to be rated as one of the great of Rice Insitute football prospects, according to stories appearing in Houston papers. Mathews led the Rice Slimes to a 3 to 0 victory over the Texas University freshmen squad Friday afternoon.

The story in the Houston Dispatch carried the head "Mathews' Fine Play Halts Yearling Scoring Threats."

Mentioning Mathews, the story stated, "The Texas Yearlings threatened to tally several times but a battling Slime forward wall, paced by J. P. Mathews, fierce tackling guard from Pampa, turned them back. Mathews' brilliant line play brought rounds of applause from the 2,000 attending the game. He partly blocked a Texas punt early in the opening quarter and before the University first year men had recovered from this, the Owls had three points. And later he was the hero in several goal-line stands.

"Don Weedon and Joe Schwarting played great line games for the Yearlings but the best lineman on the field was Mathews, who is short of build and weighs 170 pounds. But how he does knife through to snare the ball carrier."

One of Mathews' victims was 'Wild Horse' Mayes, 195-pound Texas back from Amarillo, now a freshman at Texas University.

Writing in his column "Looking 'Em Over" Lloyd Gregory of the Houston Dispatch said, "A 170-pound guard, the fleet J. P. Mathews of Pampa, had most to do with the Slime victory. Mathews repeatedly sliced through the line to toss ball carriers for substantial losses. He had much to do with stopping several promising drives."

Probe Of College Football On Pacific Coast Half Completed

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25 (AP)—The sweeping survey of college football in the Pacific Coast conference is better than half completed, and the man in charge thinks that any skeptic who dubted the sincerity of the probe is due for a surprise.

The man is Edwin N. Atherton of San Francisco, who has spent some twenty years in the business of investigating everything from a foreign spy plot to that great American mystery of who threw the overalls in Mrs. So-and-So's chowder—well, almost.

There may have been investigations of college athletes in the past, of accusations of proselyting and general abuse of amateur standards, but never one as big or searching as this one, said Atherton today.

Engaged last January to conduct the survey, Atherton—whose last public work before taking this assignment was to help clean up a vice scandal in San Francisco—has interviewed about 500 varsity and freshmen football players.

"Some of the boys may be a little indifferent, but I can safely say that the great majority, perhaps 98 per cent, has given truthful answers to everything I ask.

Atherton, who will give a preliminary report to the governing faculty committee of the conference and a complete, detailed report at the spring session, hinted at several points which may come out.

One was that rumors regarding phony jobs and high wages paid to get and keep one lone played-star often serve to exaggerate the subsidizing picture of the whole school in question. Thus the percentage, when boiled down to facts, is not nearly so ugly as rumor would have it.

90 Out Of 100 Writers Place Pittsburgh First

By DREW MIDDLETON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—The Panthers of Pittsburgh are just as good in the ballot box as they are on the field.

Ninety of the 100 sports writers who participated in the season's second Associated Press poll, today chose Pittsburgh as the best football team in the land, nine others picked them for second place and one for third. Pitt got 989 points, only 11 from a perfect score, to top the first ten for the second straight week.

Minnesota, 308 points behind the Panthers, stayed ahead of California in the race for second. Texas Christian climbed from seventh to fourth and Santa Clara from sixth to fifth. Dartmouth, greatly harassed by Harvard's defense last Saturday, lost caste and fell from fourth to sixth.

Notre Dame dropped from fifth to seventh after its single touchdown win over Carnegie Tech and Tennessee retained 8th position. Fordham and Oklahoma displaced Duke and Syracuse as the ninth and tenth teams.

All are undefeated and untied save Fordham, tied by Purdue.

Second ten: Duke, Northwestern, Michigan, Holy Cross, Villanova, Carnegie Tech, Cornell, Alabama, Southern California, Ohio State.

Others mentioned: Louisiana State, Texas A. & M., Baylor, Colgate, and Tulane.

Southwest Writers To Meet Nov. 4-5

STILLWATER, Okla., Oct. 25 — writers of the Southwest will hear this section presented as a region providing abundant writing material at the second annual writers conference on the Oklahoma A & M. College campus, November 4 and 5. The article, fiction, drama and poetry will be discussed by authorities.

Headliners on the program include Philip S. Rose, editor of the Country Gentleman; Thomas H. Uzzell, nationally known author and critic; Alfred G. Arnold, who has attracted nation wide attention for development of the rural drama in North Dakota; Kenneth Kaufman, writing authority and professor of languages at the University of Oklahoma A & M College, writer and editor of technical articles.

Among the odd names of streets in London are "Bread and Rolls Street," "Cook and his Stock Street," Cold Bath Street," and "Pickle-Herring Street."

Relief Money Given Spies, Says Witness

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—A spy-turned-informer, who testified that Germany financed espionage activities in the United States by "borrowing" from the German winter relief funds, resumed in federal court today a bizarre tale of plot and counterplot.

This disclosure was the latest of many startling "revelations" by the government's star witness, Guenther Gustave Rumrich, 32, in week-long testimony intended to implicate a woman and two men now on trial as agents of an international Nazi spy network.

Rumrich, who has confessed abortive attempts to obtain vital U. S. military defense secrets for sale to Germany, said yesterday that Karl Schleuter, alleged "contact" man for the ring, had told him of the Nazi government's "borrowings" to finance its spying.

He admitted under cross-examination that this was just one of the things Schlueter told him which he considered "rather unusual for a German to mention."

Earlier in the trial Rumrich testified that Schlueter, who fled to Germany during the federal investigation in which he and 17 other persons, including three high officials of the German war ministry, were indicted, had boasted of rifling U. S. mail pouches aboard the German liner, Europa.

Revenge Motive Claimed.

Responsible German quarters, although making no mention of the current spy trial, denied the allegation last night.

Cross examined by Defense Attorney Benjamin Matthews, Rumrich acknowledged that most of the plots were hatched in the bierstubes of East Side New York's "Little Germany" over "five or six pitchers" of beer—extra strong "spiked" beer—and sometimes whiskey.

The moody witness struck a new high note by describing a fantastic "20-years-after" scheme to avenge Germany for America's entry into the World war.

He said that his former friend, Erich Glaser, 28, one of the three on trial, agreed to join the spy plot because it would be "a fine chance to get even."

Defense Attorney Matthews let him finish, and then turned on the witness with a roar:

"Don't you know," he snapped, "that you have just told a complete lie?"

"It's not a lie," Rumrich said doggedly. "It's the truth."

FDR Seeks Funds To Pay Defense Costs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt took up today the problem of paring 1939 departmental expenditures to help make room for an anticipated increase in defense costs.

The President, who returned last night from his home at Hyde Park, summoned Daniel W. Bell, acting budget director, to begin making budget estimates for submission to Congress in January. Much preliminary work has been done in a series of conferences during the last few weeks.

Besides the departmental requirements, Mr. Roosevelt must take into consideration the probable effect of the business trend of anticipated revenues, possible new sources of income, and the extent of savings that might be effected in such items as relief.

Actual relief estimates for the year beginning next July 1 and for the last four months of the current fiscal year will not be made until about Dec. 15.

The President has disclosed that an increase in military expenditures is likely to result from a current survey of defense needs.

Last July he estimated the gross deficit for the present fiscal year would be $4,084,887,600, compared with $1,524,713,050 for 1937-38. At that time he estimated 1938-39 expenditures at more than $9,000,000,000.

Baptist Brotherhood Has Meeting Monday

Central Baptist Laymen met Monday evening at the church with Homer Johnson, president, in charge.

T. M. Gillham led in the singing of "Since Jesus Came Into My Heart" and "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go."

Short talks were made by Ray Riley and T. M. Gillham on "Missions" in which it was pointed out that the welfare of others was the most important things that confronts us as Christian workers. We should not be satisfied with our local situation only, but according to the scripture "go into the uttermost parts of the earth," they pointed out.

Ray Riley and Walton Dempster were appointed group captains for the organization.

A banquet will be arranged in connection with the next regular meeting, November 7. Walton Dempster and his group will have charge of the meeting.

Hitler Orders Hungarians To Pare Demands

BUDAPEST, Oct. 25. (AP)—Diplomatic circles said today that pressure by Germany, Italy and Poland inspired the moderation of Hungarian demands in a new offer to Czechoslovakia to compromise their territorial quarrel.

The Hungarian government cut its territorial demands by about 30 per cent in a note which the Prague government was requested to answer by tomorrow.

Premier Bela Imredi in a press statement termed the proposals "really conciliatory."

This friendlier attitude developed, diplomatic informants understood, upon the strong advice of the three governments to avoid pressing demands upon Czechoslovakia that would endanger peace.

Informed persons here tonight thought it likely Prague would reject even the compromise note. In that event, Premier Imredi said Hungary would "enforce its justice by all means available to the nation."

A half million soldiers remained at the Czechoslovak border today while the Hungarian government awaited the answer from Prague. (The cabinet was convened in Prague to draft a decision today.)

The offer, seventh to be advanced from Budapest, deals with four points:

1. Hungarian troops without delay would occupy Czechoslovak areas over which there now is no dispute. This would be about 3,860 square miles.
2. Plebiscites would be held in disputed districts by Dec. 1.
3. Ruthenians, Slovaks (now autonomous parts of Czechoslovakia) and other nationalities of Czechoslovakia would be given the right of "self-determination."
4. If Czechoslovakia cannot accept these points, a German-Polish-Italian commission would arbitrate the dispute.

Hitler's Colonial Demands Up Next

LONDON, Oct. 25 (AP)—Oswald Pirow, Union of South Africa defense minister, disclosed today he would visit Berlin in the near future to discuss Germany's colonial demands in Africa.

Pirow made known his plans at Marseilles, France, as he stopped en route to Lisbon where he said he would talk with the Portuguese government on Nazi colonial demands. He will then fly to London.

His statement came as Prime Minister Chamberlain met members of the inner cabinet to discuss how he could reach real friendship with Adolf Hitler and bring into effect his Easter accord with Benito Mussolini.

The Union of South Africa is vitally affected by Germany's colonial demands, since southwest Africa, which is under her mandate, is one of the former German colonies likely to be involved in any settlement with Germany.

Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, hurried back from Edinburgh to attend the 10 Downing Street meeting after a speech last night in which he told of Chamberlain's fervent search for permanent settlement with Germany. Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary, also attended the meeting.

One-Fourth Of All Syphilitics Eventually Overcome Disease

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 25 (AP)—Approximately one-fourth of all persons who acquire syphilis develop a natural resistance to the disease and overcome it, Dr. Robert A. Vonderlehr of the U. S. Public Health Service said today.

This acquired immunity to the disease does not make it any less of a national health problem, since infected persons can still transmit it for several years, the assistant surgeon general of the service declared in an interview at the opening meeting of the American Public Health Association here.

"Neither does it mean that a person with the disease can ignore it," Dr. Vonderlehr, who is in charge of the service's venereal disease control work, declared.

"It also does not mean that individual physicians, public health authorities, or the state and national governments can relax their vigilance in the present nation-wide drive to control syphilis," he added, since every infected person is the source of a potential epidemic.

Discovery of this acquired immunity, in which the system builds up antibodies to resist the spirochete germ, resulted from the suspicions of a physician in Sweden, the country which has done a thorough job of controlling syphilis, the assistant surgeon general said.

An anti-syphilis circuit rider from the deep south demonstrated his streamlined clinic to members of the association today.

Dr. L. E. Burney, assistant surgeon of the Public Health Service, showed with pride the huge automobile trailer which he has driven thousands of miles over rural Georgia roads to carry syphilis treatment regularly to approximately 4,000 sufferers.

More than 500 victims of the disease are treated each week in the traveling doctor's office.

Inauguration of additoinal traveling clinics is contemplated by the Public Health Service, Dr. Vonderlehr declared, with the hope the various states and counties throughout the country will adopt the plan as one essential method in syphilis control.

She Wants Love Before Riches

Love and happiness come before riches in the plans of 26-year-old Janet White, above, who sticks to her $30-a-week job in a Rochester, N. Y., department store, demonstrating sewing machines in preference to marrying Leonard Marler, 35, son of Sir Herbert Marler, Canadian minister to the United States. Miss White publicly renounced her love for Leonard, who now is suing his father for $300,000, charging illegal confinement in a mental hospital.

'Rehearsal' Of Carnival To Be Held

Pampa Lions will be put through their paces as showmen, when a practice performance is held at the Lions club carnival tent, located on the Santa Fe right-of-way on West Atchison street, on Wednesday night.

The "dress rehearsal" to be given tomorrow climaxes three weeks of preparation for the Lions club show, which opens Thursday evening for a three-day run.

Proceeds of the carnival will be used by the Lions club for the benefit of their fund for underprivileged children.

Monday night, 25 members of the local club met at the carnival tent and conferred with the building committee concerning the location of the stands. Construction of the stands will be made today.

Some of the lights for the carnival have already been strung and more are due to be installed before the carnival opens Thursday.

A preliminary arrangement of the stands within the tent places the duck pond, hoop game, and cat rack on the south side of the tent, clothes pin stand, and bottle rack on the north side, souvenir stand and tickets and change booth on the east. The chunk the monkey stand will be located on the west side of the tent. The two monkeys the Lions club will use in this stand arrived in Pampa last night.

More Barter Trade With Nazis Planned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP) — Government officials, studying reports that Germany wants a triangular trade arrangement with Great Britain and the United States on the basis of barter and "blocked marks," have found that a large share of German-American commerce already is conducted on such a system.

In 1937 Germany bought $124,166,000 worth of merchandise from the United States and sold it $92,644,000—a total trade of more than $200,000,000.

One official estimated that nearly all the American cotton sold to Germany—655,894 bales in the year ending last July—has been sold either on a barter or "blocked mark" arrangement.

(Blocked marks are German funds owned by Americans and other foreigners in bank deposits in Germany. They can be used only for certain limited purposes permitted by the government and can not be removed from the country.)

A dozen firms in New York, informed persons said, engage in barter trade with Germany. They act as brokers for the sale of American products.

In exchange for these products they take German merchandise which they sell in the United States. They then pay the American exporter with the dollars they get from the sale here of the German products.

MURDER TO MUSIC

BY NARD JONES

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

MYRNA DOMBEY—heroine. Wife of the sensational swing band leader.

ROBERT TAIT—hero. Newspaper photographer—detective.

ANNE LESTER—Myrna's closest friend.

DANNIE FEELEY—officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

* * *

Yesterday: No trace is found of the missing musician. The prosecuting attorney seeks to tighten his case against Myrna.

CHAPTER XX

DISCONSOLATELY Bob Tait sat in his apartment, tearing the wrapper from a photo magazine. It was one to which he had mailed, some weeks before, a set of pictures snapped with his miniature camera in the Golden Bowl on the night that Ludden Dombey was murdered.

Now as he tore the wrapper from the magazine he was startled to see a printed ribbon across the face of the cover, and on this red strip were black letters proclaiming: ON THE SPOT PICTURES OF THE MURDER OF A SWING KING!

With nervous fingers, Tait turned to the pages. He gazed at them now with a feeling of bitter loathing. But it was too late for regret. The inexorable world of printers' ink and presses and deadlines had put those pictures there—out of reach of regrets. Almost against his will Tait gazed at the three prints reproduced on the large facing pages of the magazine. One was of the Golden Bowl early in the evening Ludden Dombey had been murdered. The "tom of the swing cats" was on the platform, very much alive and in characteristic form. Between him and the camera were swaying figures, the jitterbugs and the ickies and the whackies, lost in the rhythms woven by The Swingateers. The second picture was a shot in the Golden Bowl just after Ludden Dombey had been killed. It was a picture of confusion, of momentary chaos, of men and women in that awful moment when tragedy is dawning on their befuddled minds. The third picture had been snapped a few moments later—showing one mob rushing toward the exits, and another mob, morbidly curious, pressing its bulk toward the body of Ludden Dombey.

* * *

THOSE pictures were, as the magazine's caption writer had pointed out, masterpieces of candid photography.

But as Tait looked at them now they seemed nothing more to him than a tangible evidence of his betrayal—his betrayal of lovely Myrna Dombey. He knew, with the sure instinct of those who work in the world of newsprint, how effective those photographs might be against Myrna Dombey.

In a trance of preoccupation he began studying the picture he had taken just after the fatal shooting of Ludden Dombey. Suddenly he noticed something that he had not seen in the print itself, something that in the "blowing up" necessary for the magazine reproduction stood out in startling relief. It was a slender, wisp-like pillar of smoke. Tait held the page nearer to his eyes. He went to his desk and took out an engraver's magnifying glass, studied the reproduction again. That snake-like wraith was not, he discovered, from a cigaret or a cigar. In the first place, its character was not that of a spray of smoke from tobacco. In the second, the photograph showed quite clearly that nobody directly beneath that wisp of smoke was engaged in smoking tobacco in any form whatsoever.

Excitedly Tait tore out that page and shoved it in his pocket. An hour later he was at the Golden Bowl in the Pacific-Plaza Hotel. The early crowd of swing fans was just drifting in. Tait had no need to refer to the crumpled photo in his pocket. His mind's eye, through long practice, was his camera's eye. In the photograph, that wisp of smoke had been just in front of a palm which flanked the band's platform. Unerringly Tait found the spot, and found, too, the position from which the picture had been taken. He saw that the smoke had been at a point not more than two tables away from the one at which he had sat with Myrna and Anne and Harris Rogers. But his memory did not tell him the appearance of the occupants of that neighboring table.

* * *

HE signaled to one of the Golden Bowl's head waiters and the man hurried forward smiling. "Good evening, Mr. Tait. You're early."

"Yes. I'll sit right here if it's not reserved, Fred."

"There is no reservation until 9 o'clock, Mr. Tait."

Bob nodded. "Do you suppose, Fred, you could find out who occupied that table over there on the night Lud Dombey was killed?"

The waiter looked disturbed. Tait could see that there had been instructions from the management that the murder of Dombey was not to be discussed, and Tait's question had come as a sort of shock.

"Table 24? Perhaps I can, Mr. Tait. Of course, sometimes there are no reservations. The tables are simply occupied early and the party stays through until we close. Then often the table will be reserved under one name for a number of people. Occasionally," Fred smiled diplomatically, "occasionally the name will be a fictitious one."

"I understand."

Tait waited, listening idly to The Swingateers. There was no question about it, the band was as good as always. "Torchy" Stephens was all right. Perhaps he did not have quite the glamor of Ludden Dombey—but that would come later, after "Torchy" was surer of himself. At any rate, the jitterbugs who were here tonight seemed to be enjoying themselves quite as much as though Lud Dombey were up there waving the baton or piping into his clarinet.

Tait turned from the band and saw Fred weaving his way toward him. "I'll have to disappoint you, Mr. Tait. There was no reservation on that night for Table 24."

"Thanks, Fred. I was afraid there wouldn't be." Tait sighed. "You see—"

* * *

TAIT stopped. His face went a little pale and he turned quickly in his chair. Unmistakably he had caught a trace of faint perfume—the perfume of the girl in the entrance to the Claremont. The perfume that drifted on the black night down in Millbay when someone had tried to kill him! His startled eyes picked out a small, slender blond dancing beyond his table. Her hair, honey colored and perfectly done, shown from beneath a hat that would have been absurd on any other type of girl. Her eyes were half closed. She seemed unaware even of her partner, was lost in the magic of swing.

"Who is that blond?" Tait asked, trying to keep his voice steady.

Fred looked. "Oh, that's Nelda Starr."

"Nelda Starr? Any relation to Aaron Starr?"

"Yes. They say he's worth millions. That's his daughter. She comes to the Golden Bowl almost every night. She—she used to be crazy about Mr. Dombey and for a while she tried to get a job singing in his band."

"Do you know the fellow with her?"

Fred shook his head. "Sometimes she comes alone and just sits listening to the music unless someone she knows asks her to dance."

Tait was silent a moment. "I've got to meet her," he thought. His eyes began searching the big room. At a far table he spotted Archie Mackey, the syndicate gossip columnist. If anyone knew her, Archie would—and he'd introduce Tait.

80,000 Lose Jobs Because Of Wage Act

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP)—The wage-hour administration may ask Congress for broader authority in applying the new labor standards law to specific industries.

This prediction came today from high-ranking officials, who were swamped with inquiries from employers as to whether the statute regulates minimum wages and maximum hours for their particular businesses.

Now that the wage-hour program actually has gone into effect, Administrator Elmer F. Andrews and his staff are giving most of their attention to these appeals for assistance.

Their opinions will be only advisory, however, for the courts must determine finally whether an individual industry is in interstate commerce and therefore subject to the federal law.

There is also the possibility that business men will request clarifying amendments to the act and possible extension of the classes of exempted workers. Some employers, on the other hand, argue that the courts should pass on the law as it now stands before making any changes in its provisions.

After the first day of the act's operation, Andrews reported last night that most branches of industry were complying fully with the new standards, even though many companies were not certain whether it applied to all their employes.

Unofficial estimates indicated that more than 80,000 persons were thrown out of work by shutdowns of scattered plants. Most of the layoffs occurred in the South, particularly in pecan-shelling plants, lumber mills, and tobacco stemming factories.

50,000 Workers Involved.

The pecan-shelling industry presented the first major problem for the wage-hour administration. J. Seligman of San Antonio, Texas, president of the American Pecan Shellers of America, told Andrews that all plants in the South had been closed because of the law and that 50,000 workers were involved.

Some representatives of the industry contended their employes should be exempted from the law because they were in the area of agricultural production—a region which Congress placed outside the act. Others expressed the opinion the minimum wage provisions should apply to their work.

Seligman estimated that workers in the industry received from 10 cents to 15 cents an hour, at least 10 cents lower than the statutory minimum.

Andrews and Calvert Magruder, general counsel, will have to decide first whether the industry is in interstate commerce, and then whether a majority of the workers are in the production area. Andrews expressed the hope that layoffs in all industries would be only temporary.

Complaint Alleges Pensioners Donate Funds To Candidate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—Chairman Sheppard (D., Texas) asked the Senate campaign expenditures committee today to decide whether recipients of federal old age pensions can contribute legally to senatorial campaigns.

Sheppard said an investigation had been made of a complaint that old age pensioners in California had given funds to candidates favoring increased pensions. The complaint, Sheppard said, named Sheridan Downey, Democratic senatorial nominee, as one of these candidates.

Downey has advocated a "$30-every-Thursday" state pension system.

The Senate committee has contended it is illegal for any person receiving compensation from the federal treasury to contribute to the campaign fund of a congressional candidate.

Sheppard said the California investigation was based on this contention, despite a ruling by the comptroller general that old age pension funds cease to be federal money as soon as they are apportioned among the states.

Besides hearing its California investigators at today's session, the committee called for reports on campaigns in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, Georgia, Ohio and other states.

Decide Maid's Quit Because They're Lonely

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP)—In spite of continued unemployment, there is a shortage of girls to work as domestics, and social service agencies here think they know why. They cite long hours and low wages, but especially lonliness, as the reason girls are turning to other employment.

Four social service agencies have been working to provide recreation for domestics and to do what they can to regulate hours and wages.

XIT Cowboys' Reunion Now Incorporated

DALHART, Oct. 25—Incorporation of the annual XIT reunion in Dalhart has finally been completed, it was learned today from John Colquitt, chairman of the XIT committee that staged the reunion here in August and that will continue in office till another governing body is selected.

Name of the new organization is the XIT Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo. It is non-profit sharing, all profits to go back into the reunion in the way of improvements, facilities and a reserve sufficient for each next annual event. A directorate of not less than three nor more than seven members shall govern.

The reunion is to honor the cowboys, and their wives and families, who once rode for the three-million acre Panhandle spread with which Texas in the 1880's paid for its Austin capitol, built by two Chicago financiers, George V. and Charles B. Farwell.

The noted old ranch is now mostly cut up into smaller ranches and farms but the No. 1 division headquarters is still intact, 32 miles north of Dalhart, and still belongs to the Farwell heirs.

Fort Worth originated the reunion in 1936. Former XIT hands at that time formed the XIT association, voted to come to Dalhart in 1937 and that year voted Dalhart the permanent reunion home.

Tentative plans are already being made for the fourth annual event next August.

Staffs Selected For White Deer Yearbook, Paper

WHITE DEER, Oct. 25—Selection of the staffs of the school publications has been announced by Misses Odessie Howell and Gladys Holley, sponsors of the yearbook, "The Antler;" and Miss Clauda Everly, sponsor of "The Bucks' Tale," the school section of the local paper.

Editor-in-chief of "The Bucks' Tale" was selected by the members of the journalism class last spring, and other members of the staff were chosen after a six weeks try-out period. They are Ruth Eakin, editor-in-chief; Gilbert Tubb, managing editor; J. A. Roberts, sports editor; and Dorothy Hester, feature editor.

All members of the journalism class serve as reporters.

The staff of the high school section of "The Antler" is composed of Charlotte Buchanan, editor-in-chief; Virgil Moore and Merle Johnson, business managers; Dorothy Colgrove, classes; Martha Jo Freeman, organizations; Dorothy Bowsher, snapshots; Jack Dacus, athletics; Jewel Beighle and Herbert Rapstine, art; Vern McCreary, features.

R. Madox, Margaret Ann Eckel, Gellene Pennington, Margie Seiple, Vivian Stull, Juniors were John Eckels, Delores Bailey, Laverene Carter, Hildred Hopper, Virginia McSpadden, Lillian Stull and Marcella Umphries. Seniors are Stanley Atwood, Dorothy Beavers, Judith Clements, Pauline Hinkle, Ann Reno, Beth Rosenberger and Marie Smith.

The student body of the Philips High school is almost equally divided with 138 boys and 128 girls.

Box Car Donated For Skelly Library

SKELLYTOWN, Oct. 25—The Santa Fe Railway company has donated an old box car to the Carson county library. A 50x70 foot lot has been bought at Skellytown and the box car will be moved to this lot.

The box car will be remodeled and decorated in Spanish style and will be used as a library at Skellytown. Grass will be planted on the lawn by one of the clubs of Skellytown as soon as the library is completed.

The new location of the library will be across the street from the post office. Mrs. Broyles is librarian.

Panhandle BTU Elects Officers

PANHANDLE, Oct. 25— Donald Anderson was elected president of the Baptist Training union, at a meeting of the Baptist Young People held at the church last week.

Other oficers elected were Ford Herring, vice-president, Mary Sue Boyles, recording secretary, Juanita Ewing, corresponding secretary. Group captains are Ora Lee Ramey, and Alice Witt. Anne Hooper was named chorister and Joann Skaggs, pianist.

Cagey Farmer Traps Wheat Thieves

DUFRESNE, Man. (AP)—Troubled by grain thefts, Leon Laurin had an idea. He concealed chicken feathers and leaves torn from mail order catalogue in all his wheat.

After the next theft, Laurin and officers traced some suspects and found them hauling 70 bushels. The two men claimed the wheat came from their own farm, but Laurin plunged an arm into it and pulled out his "markers." Result: the two were arrested.

Where Raging Forest Fires Brought Death and Ruin

This airview of the fire-swept area about Fort Frances, Ont., shows one of the many forest fires that raged along the Minnesota-Ontario border region. Seventeen persons, mostly women and children, were trapped and burned to death in Dance township, Ontario. Families were evacuated along a 50-mile front as fire-fighters worked to check the flames.

Thousands Greet Cardinal at Congress

With the whole city of New Orleans shaken by the noise of cheering crowds, screeching sirens, factory and steamboat whistles and the clangor of the great bells of St. Louis Cathedral, George Cardinal Mundelein, of Chicago, was welcomed to the Eighth National Eucharistic Congress of the Catholic Church. In the photo above, the Cardinal and his suite are shown as, escorted by Congress officials and visiting church notables, they walked through Jackson Square to the Cathedral. There he was ceremoniously invested as Legate of Pope Pius XI.

West Texan Cited As Pioneer In Substratosphere Research

CANYON, Oct. 22—Another West Texas State college graduate who ranks near the top in his profession—Dr. John E. Younger, professor of engineering at the University of Maryland—was cited as one of the principals in research and development work on the first substratosphere pressure airplane to be flown anywhere in the world.

This plane won the Collier's Magazine trophy given under the auspices of the National Aeronautics Association recently.

Younger, former aeronautical engineer at Wright field at Dayton, Ohio, finished at West Texas State under the old plan, as also did his wife, the former Brunette Francis. He was called into consultation by Major Carl F. Greene, developer of many innovations in aviation, while he was at the University of California. The two had worked together years before in designing shell-like cabins.

By the spring of 1937 they had solved the problem of pumping air under pressure into sealed cabins of airplanes to offset the dropping of air pressure at high levels. In tests, the plane was flown easily at 28,000 feet with no exygen necessary. Later the figure was increased, and on last February 3 the XC-35 made its first passenger flight. The Air Corps pronounced the strato-liner a success.

Capt. Albert H. Johnson of Wright Field also was associated in the development of the plane.

Where Munich "Peace" Didn't Apply

He's Taking A Cruise In Collapsible Boat

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—John Canson, of this city is off on a water trip that will land him at Havana. Starting at Bismarck, N. D., his course follows western waterways into the Mississippi, thence to New Orleans, then down the Gulf coast to Key West.

From there, if he still thinks his collapsible boat seaworthy, he will cross the Caribbean to the Cuban capital.

'All Americans Safe' Canton Consul Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—"All Americans safe!"

This dispatch was sent from burning Canton by Irving N. Linnell, American consul-general, who received praise today from state department officials.

Linnell arranged points of refuge for Americans and also acted on behalf of a local committee to obtain safety zones for the Chinese population.

Before the Japanese advance into China there were about 450 American citizens in the Canton area. Now there are about 150 or less, of whom 80 are Chinese-Americans.

It has been estimated that there are 1,500 dining cars in use on the various American railway systems. They represent an investment of approximately $85,000,000.

There are about 400 deer in Richmond Park, London. Badgers, fox, hares and rabbits, and more than 100 species of birds also make their homes there.

White Deer Uses Ten Million Gallons Of Water In 3 Months

WHITE DEER, Oct. 25—Reports of H. H. Banzet, city water superintendent, for the last quarter July, August, September, show that 10,197,160 gallons of water have been pumped from the city well during 1133 pumping hours, or 110,838 gallons and 12 pumping hours per day.

212 meters are served at the monthly rate of $2.50 for 4,000 gallons, and water has been supplied for four drilling contracts near town.

The last water analysis was made Sept. 12 and showed the following mineral content: Total solids, 247 parts per million cubic feet; chlorides, 14; sulphates, 18; iron, .3; calcium, 44; magnesium, 25; sodium, 27; carbonates, 0; bicarbonates, 275; fluorides, 6; and pH, 7.4.

No purification treatment is necessary and there is no source of pollution in the system. The storage tank was cleaned and repainted inside in June and the mains are flushed every 60 days.

Summarized reports to the state health department are made by Mr. Banzet each month and a complete report yearly.

Duncans To Head Pampa W. T. S. C. Exes To Reunion

CANYON, Oct. 25— Judge and Mrs. Ivey E. Duncan will head a large delegation of Pampa citizens—ex-students and friends of ex-students—to the Homecoming celebration at West Texas State college November 5.

This group, which largely will be made up of Pampans who relish oldtime dancing, directed floor activities of the western room of the Homecoming carnival last year, and there has been a demand for its return. This year the western room has been designated as Tascosa bar.

W. T. Jesse and his string orchestra from Pampa will furnish music for the oldtime dances. Many of the dancers will be in western constumes.

Modern ballroom dancing will be enjoyed in "Monterey," where a Spanish motif and Spanish games will be used. Raillard's 8-piece swing orchestra will play for this room, which will be the main reception room of Cousins hall.

An hour's broadcast of music and hilarity from these and other rooms will be put on the air by KGNC, from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m.
